Lord Somerton's Ally.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"The Blairwood Park carriage!"

Landlord Bingley announced, "and there's Miss Sterne and her maid in it. Stretton, the gamekeeper, is going to marry Annette Moffatt, the maid, and everybody knows the butler was sweet on her. Now he's going to land Stretton money to furnish it with, only to get him into trouble. Ha! sir! I see that you're looking at Miss Elsie. Isn't she a sweet and beautiful young lady, and as good as she is beautiful! She's had a slight trouble lately, sir—what with Sir John's illness, and his sudden determination to rush off to India again. Poor gentleman! I do hear that he had a sunstroke out there, and the doctor thinks he'll never live to come back."

Mr. Castlemon did not pay much attention to Bingley's gossip, but stared at Miss Sterne like one fascinated. As the carriage rolled by she turned her eyes upon him for a brief moment, and he shrank back with a groan, exclaiming: "Heavens! How like—how like! It might be her spirit!"

"How ill she looks, poor girl!" Bingley commented, "I'll kill her if anything happens to Sir John. It is said that Lord Somerton wants to marry her, but there's some talk of a handsome young fellow from London being the favored one."

"Ah!" exclaimed Mr. Castlemon, thoughtfully. "Here comes my boy at last," the landlord continued. "And ain't he hurrying! There, sir, I'll leave you to your business, and bless you a thousand times for what you have promised to do for me and mine. I haven't had a wink of sleep for a week, but let Mr. Kemp show up again with his sauce!"

He walked away as his son laid Lord Somerton's reply in Mr. Castlemon's hand. "This is it: Rather surprised and annoyed, but I suppose that I must humor you. Will call at the Blairwood Arms" at three o'clock to-day.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Three o'clock! I am much obliged to you, my lord. Annoyed, are you? You mean that you are afraid!" James Castlemon smiled grimly, and then called the landlord to him. "Mr. Bingley," he said, "the Earl of Somerton will honor me with a visit this afternoon, and as I have a good deal to say to him, I shall be obliged if you will grant me the exclusive use of your parlor until my business with him is concluded."

"Of course, sir," replied the delighted Bingley, "and it won't be the first time that the nobility have met under my roof. It shall be cleaned up and dusted, and a bit of fire put in the grate to make it look cheerful."

"I would like to take possession in an hour, Bingley, as I have some writing to do, and it is quite possible that I shall want you to witness something. His lordship has owed me a big debt for services rendered until I can wait no longer. You see these rich men are careless of us poor ones."

He laughed a little, and laid twenty-pound notes on the table, adding: "Now you can settle with Mr. Kemp, the gentlemanly butler, and never think of repayment until you have made your fortune!"

"Oh, sir!" There were tears in Landlord Bingley's eyes, and his heart jumped into his throat. "I am your debtor forever! If I can do anything for you, sir, even to risking my life, only let me know. Kemp is coming again to-day. He swore that he was going for his lawyer to get possession of my house and goods."

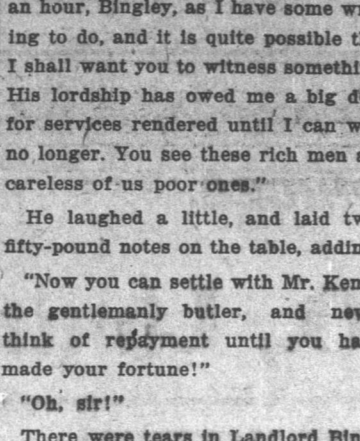

"Let him come," said Castlemon. "You are safe from him now."

We waved his hand in an imperious manner. The landlord had not seen this action before, and he muttered: "I know he's a gentleman, if he is shabbily dressed. He's been used to command and to being obeyed, too. It's queer that Lord Somerton owes him so much money."

The private parlor was soon ready for Mr. Castlemon, with a supply of liquors and cigars on a convenient table, and he bustled himself with writing materials until luncheon was announced at one o'clock.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to clean the liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

cigars with you. Our relations are strictly of a business nature, and upon that basis must remain.

"Exactly," replied Castlemon. "Now this is coming to the point at once. My documents are ready, and all I need is your signature, accompanied by a check for two thousand, five hundred."

My lord smiled wickedly. "I have not come here to fence with you, Mr. Castlemon, but I am not so mad as to put my hand to any document until it has been approved by my legal adviser, I am not to be led to the slaughter like a lamb. I require one week to say yea or nay. Surely that will not be too long?"

Castlemon paced the floor for a minute; then he replied: "I have turned matters well over in my mind, Lord Somerton, and while I am willing to wait one week for the approval of the draft I made, I refuse to wait one day for the balance of the hush money agreed upon between us. If you will sit still, I will briefly outline my position, and satisfy you concerning what you are pleased to term my antecedents."

He refreshed himself from a decanter containing his favorite beverage, while his lordship idly tapped one of the heels of his patent-leather shoes with a walking cane, watching his companion the while from the corners of his snaky eyes.

Castlemon lighted a cigar, and disposed himself comfortably in an easy-chair. "My lord," he began, "we are both striving for a prize, and if I did not believe that your intentions were strictly honorable toward Miss Sterne, my efforts should be directed into another channel, though the chances of success are infinitesimal! You may sneer at me as you will; but I am not best to all sense of feeling. I am a human creature, perhaps, but there is less of the vulture in me since I have seen the sweet face of Miss Elsie Sterne."

Somerton glanced at him a swift, inquiring glance. "I knew Miss Sterne's mother," the man went on, "and I loved her with a passion equal to that which you feel for her child. This mad, hopeless love of mine was my undoing—was the ruin of a brother officer, Harry Campbell, the man who afterward married the sister of Sir John Sterne out of mere spite."

He laughed bitterly, and gazed at the end of his cigar. "I see that you are interested, my lord, and I am telling you what no man has ever heard from my lips before. Yes, Jack Sterne, Harry Campbell and I passionately adored beautiful Elsie Mervin, the daughter of our colonel. We were a trio of good-looking fellows, but Campbell was a reckless soldier of fortune, whose reputation as a gambler and rogue increased by leaps and bounds when society knew that he was in the race for the favors of Elsie Mervin."

"Though loving Miss Mervin, as only young men whose veins are full of fire can love, I early dropped out of the race, because I had not the faintest chance of winning her. The colonel was dead against me, and his daughter only pitied me. In a moment of pique, I married a clergyman's daughter, and deserted her six months afterward. I have only recently discovered that my injured wife still lives, and that she gave birth to a child a few months after I was gone. (To be continued.)"

The Pursuit of Happiness

Dorothy Dix Discusses an Ever-Lasting Question.

Throughout life the unending search of humanity is for happiness. Few find it but we all go on searching for it, looking, looking, looking for the joy in life, the peace, the rest, the contentment that we seldom discover.

Whence comes this blessing that money cannot buy? Once I had a talk with a famous actress who had retired from the stage at the zenith of her professional career. I said to her: "You are the happiest woman I know. What is the secret of happiness?"

"The secret of happiness," she replied, "consists in finding out what you want and then having the courage to take it. Most people have no idea of what they really desire in life. They are like children in a toy shop, who clutch first at one thing and then drop it for another with brighter and more alluring colours, and throw that away for something else until, at last, they come empty-handed out of the shop."

"You see this illustrated in the restless people who have a thousand fads. They are crazy on motoring one season and live on the golf links the next. They fall from profession to profession, and even change old husbands and wives for new."

"Such people are never satisfied, never happy, because they do not know what they want. They have no idea of the shape and form of the thing they seek, and they would pass it by if they stumbled over it."

"The first secret of happiness is to find out what you want. The next is to have the courage to take what you want. This is not easy to do. It is so much simpler to follow the line of least resistance and to do the thing that is customary to do, and that you are in the habit of doing, instead of breaking away and doing the thing that you want to do yourself."

"I have been happy because I knew what I wanted and that I had the courage to resist all the money temptations that have been offered me to go back to it."

I asked another woman, a woman who has had, as we say, a hard life, yet who wears the smile that never comes off, what was the secret of happiness.

"The determination to be happy," she replied. "The fierce determination that you won't let fate beat you and crush you; that you won't grope in your own fears, but that, somehow, you will fight out of the shadow into the sunshine."

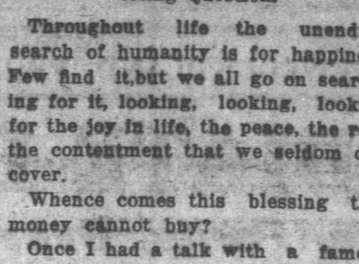

"I have known the heartbreak of an unhappy marriage. I have known poverty and sickness and struggle and anxiety, but through it all I never wavered in my determination to be happy. I never let myself get morbid or better or suspicious."

"I made a cult of happiness. I looked for it everywhere and found it everywhere. I made a game of poverty that had more thrills in it than many a millionaire finds in a palace. I made up my mind that I was going to take the things I had, and so I had the things I liked."

"There are a lot of things in life"

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

"Hair-Groom" Keeps Hair Combed—Well-Groomed

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair!—Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly. Bluenose Loses Race By Violating a Rule.

Defender Demonstrates Her Superiority— Race on Saturday.

COLUMBIA AWARDED RACE.

HALIFAX, Nov. 1. United States challenger, Columbia, was to-night awarded to-day's International Schooner Race by the Sailing Committee, on the ground that the Canadian defender, Bluenose, passed the lighthouse bank buoy in the early part of the race to landwards and thus violated the special rule made after Monday's race that navigation buoys not otherwise specified, must be passed to seaward. The series for the championship now stands Bluenose one; Columbia one. Owing to the Bluenose having sprung her main tops to-day the deciding race will be sailed on Saturday, Nov. 3rd. It was generally admitted here to-night that Capt. Walter's action in passing the buoy as he did had absolutely no bearing on the result of the race. On the other hand popular opinion is that any violation of the race rules should be penalized.

BLUENOSE DEMONSTRATED HER SUPERIORITY.

On Board Lady Laurier of Race Course, Nov. 1.—The Bluenose, the big bodied Canadian fisherman, today demonstrated her superiority over the Columbia of Gloucester, the American challenger for the International Fishermen's Trophy, in a rip-snorting notehunter, that caused both skippers to shorten sail and shower their decks with spray with every plunge. By to-day's win the Bluenose retains the trophy won two years ago from the Elele, and retained last year of Gloucester in competition with the Henry Ford. Time at the finish: Bluenose, 2:36:03; Columbia 2:38:45.

BLUENOSE FLEETEST FISHERMAN

HALIFAX, Nov. 1. The Bluenose of Lunenburg, N.S., Capt. Angus Walters, is the fleetest

schooner engaged in the North Atlantic fisheries. She demonstrated this conclusively to-day when, in fisherman's weather, she defeated for the second time the Columbia of Gloucester, Capt. Ben Pine. It was a real race from start to finish, and until the schooners had turned the outer mark and settled down for the long stretch to the final line the issue was in doubt. The Columbia did not fulfil the expectations of her supporters in the matter of windward work, but she gave the defender all she wanted all the way. The challenger was markedly quicker in stays than her rival; but the act that lost by only one minute and twenty-seven seconds on the seven mile beat to windward from the Sambreos gas buoy to the finish line speaks eloquently of her capabilities as a muzzler, the real test of schooner racing. The defender won the honors at the start, and was never headed. At the first mark she established a lead of one minute and forty-nine seconds. She did this as the result of a broad reach of six miles in comparatively smooth water. The Bluenose lost twenty seconds in the second leg, a close reach of six miles in a moderate sea, and lost nine seconds on the third leg, a run down the wind of nine miles. In the same weather she bettered this lead of one minute and twenty seconds by one minute and thirty-five seconds in the thirty knot breeze and head sea to the finish. Both skippers sailed consistently good races. They got away to a start that might well be envied by experienced yachtsmen, and showed good judgment in clewing up their topsails against the risk of losing a stick in the weather of the day. The Bluenose seemed to make better weather of the whole than did the Columbia, but against this is an impressive showing made by the challenger on the beat home.

"North of the Rio Grande"

A RHYMED REVIEW
(By ALBERT DEANE)

Down there in Arizona there's a great fine land,
It's boundless—and it's North of the Rio Grande;
A land of golden chances and real men it breeds,
The kind of men who know just how to meet their needs.
The man who's in this story is a real he-man;
Red-blooded, swift and built along the proper plan;
A man all made for action, with a cold-steel nerve,
A man who is the very truest thing in nerve.
The girl who's in the story has a heart that's true,
The blood it pumps is red, although it could've been blue;
Her horse-manship would bring one many miles to sea,
Her beauty is exquisite, but her heart is free.
And then there are two others that must not be missed,
Twin horses both so speedy, they would pass by . . . whist-t-t.
Sometimes they went so swiftly that smart folks would find,
Their shadows off were trailing fifty yards behind.
One day a wayward hand set all four of these adrift,
And bitter were their hardships ere Love patched the rift;
But last they came together and all four took stand,
To live forever—North there of the Rio Grande.
See it to-night at the Star Movie.

Amazing Rescue

Nine Days Ordeal in Flooded Pit.
Few more thrilling stories have ever been told than that of the rescue of five of the miners entombed in the flooded coal pit at Redding, in Shropshire. Topped by the rushing water, the men wandered about in it waist-deep until they found a dry patch in their underground prison, and on this they crouched for days in the darkness, crawling up and down to keep themselves warm. Their only food was half a slice of bread, which they shared between them, and they drank the flood water to keep themselves alive.
Yet they kept up their spirits heroically. When the rescuers reached them, supplies of hot kvril, blankets and hot water bottles were rushed down the mine to the spot. The men drank the kvril with hearty expressions of approval, but rejected the blankets and hot water bottles, and they insisted on crawling unaided a long distance to the foot of the shaft by which they were raised to the pit-head. Having crawled so many days, they said, they might as well complete the job and "keep on crawling."

The Doings on the Humber

(Western Star.)
A marvelous amount of work has been done to date by the different companies engaged at the Humber operations. The dam across Junction Brook is progressing. Some nine miles of canal has been cut from Glide Brook to Junction Brook. The power house is being erected at Deer Lake. Several quarries are in operation at South Brook and Corner

Brook, and others are about to be opened to supply material for the various constructional works. At Corner Brook the whole face of that place is being transformed. Hundreds of thousands of tons of sand and earth have been moved from the high flat at the inner side of the main line of railway and deposited upon the lower flat on the outer side, thus forming a plain extending from the old mill wharf eastward almost to Farnell's place. Considerable filling in at the west side of Corner Brook has also been done. Thousands of concrete piles temporary electric light plant, and the Power and Paper company is installing a similar plant at the town site.

Steamers and sailing vessels are arriving with various material and gangs of men are in the woods at different parts of the country cutting timber for the piers and other structures. These works are affording employment to thousands of people from all over the country and many have been thereby relieved from actual distress.

Armstrong people have installed a

Chameleon's Colours

It has always been a popular superstition that a chameleon can change colour of its skin to suit any background. As a matter of fact, it is not the colour of its skin that changes but its eyes. The machinery in his eyes is such that the actions of sunlight and shadow, heat and cold, or of any strong excitement are all that is required for colour-changing process, provided creature's eyes are exposed to the light. If its head were hidden away in a hole, and fierce contrasts of colour were thrown on to the body only, change would be visible. Great heat will cause a chameleon to turn a brilliant green, while cold affects him adversely, until he becomes a slate grey. At night time he turns a delicate shade of cream. The chameleon's tongue is clubbed at the tip, with a roll of muscle on it that makes it bell-shaped. At the centre the tongue is thinner and is ribbed with muscles that are as elastic as rubber. These enable the tongue to be extended to a length equal to that of the animal's body. The inner surface of the tongue is covered with a sticky substance. The movement of the organ is so rapid that we would see an unfortunate or delectable grub that comes within six inches of its range.

The Children Love It

It is very amusing to see the little ones bathing with Ivory soap. Even the smallest child finds a real, new delight with the pure, floating Ivory soap. Its soothing effect on the skin appeals to every mother and now all children know how nice it is to wash in Ivory. You can get Ivory soap in three sizes at any grocery store.

What Does Quarantine Mean?

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir--It is gratifying to note that with a well advanced epidemic of Scarlet Fever in our midst, certain Rules and Regulations for the prevention of the disease are being published!

But, Mr. Editor, many citizens are wondering just what quarantine means in St. John's at present. All over the city are houses marked with a yellow placard indicating that within its dwellings there is infectious disease.

Now, while people naturally hesitate to enter such houses, are the authorities aware that persons from within are continually going into the city streets, stores and other public places and thereby coming into contact with their fellows?

If there be infection (as we are told) can we expect any abatement of the disease while this practice is permitted, and as long as citizens, whose homes are infected, display such little consideration for others?

Some day when this Scarlet Fever assumes a virulent form, there will be a general howl throughout the city and we shall be busy blaming one another!

Meanwhile will someone, who knows, please explain what quarantine means, for assuredly there's a great deal of misunderstanding about it!

Yours,
ANXIETY.

Funny Stories About Boxers

(By Eugene Corri, The Popular Referee.)

Boxing, or fighting, is a grim business, but it does not always follow that the fighters are very grim persons outside the ring. On the contrary, it is my experience that boxers are, as a general rule, high-spirited fellows, full of the fun of life. But for the most part--my collection of humorous stories of the ring belongs to the chapter of unconscious humour.

Our heavyweight champion, Joe Beckett, is an unconscious humorist. He is one of the exceptions to the rule quoted above, inasmuch as he is as grim outside the ring as he is inside it.

A Caricature Comedy.

When Tom Webster, the sporting cartoonist, first drew pictures of Beckett in grotesque attitudes, the heavyweight champion was said to have been exceedingly wrathful. It took Jim Driscoll, one of the brattiest of our champions and a happy-go-lucky practical joker, quite a long time to persuade Beckett that he ought to be pleased with such work, which was everything but disparaging to him.

"That might be as you say," answered Beckett, "but why does he draw me with such ugly faces?"

On other occasions Beckett was startled when a dear old man to whom he was introduced asked innocently, "I suppose now you have won the championship your next fight will be with Jimmy Wilde?" Obviously, the old fellow knew nothing about boxing.

Among the funniest fellows connected with the ring is the trainer of boxers, Jack Goodwin, a living example of the truth of the axiom which tells you to laugh and grow fat. Goodwin is a genuine comedian, whose sense of humour enables him to see the funny side of everything.

Among his stories is one concerning a fighter of a few years ago, who never went beyond the usual preliminary stage. This boxer from Spitalfields was taken away to be trained. He was a terrific eater, and, as Goodwin says, "an easy first in the packing-away stakes."

On the first day he had eaten tremendously of each course at dinner, and when the cheese came along the waitress placed nearly a complete Sueton before him. He gazed at the cheese. Then he called to the waitress and said, in a very apologetic manner, "I say, miss, I really couldn't eat all this."

The Fighter's Mistake.

Goodwin has acted as trainer to Jack Bloomfield in most of the latter's matches, and he was with him when he trained for his contest for the Lonsdale light-heavyweight belt. Bloomfield won this contest at the National Sporting Club, and after the fight Lord Lonsdale, the donor of the championship belt bearing his name, sent for the winner for the purpose of congratulating him. Shaking hands with him, Lord Lonsdale said, "You put up a very good fight and I am glad you have won the belt. I hope you will hold it for quite a long time." "Thank you, your worship," answered Bloomfield. "Hi, steady on Jack," put in Goodwin, who was standing by. "You're not in the police-court now, you know."

Mrs. H. Outerbridge will be Auctioneer at the Sale of Papers at The Old Colony Club Rooms on Saturday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock. Tea will be served by the Committee.--Nov. 21
KIRARD'S LIVERY FOR SALE EVERYWHERE.

A LITTLE SLEEP.

When day is done and in the west the sun has sunk from sight, how grateful is the toiler's rest, through all the hours of night! His sweat-stained garb we see him shed, he doffs his pipe and shoes, and in a cheap but useful bed he stretches out to snore. Against his sleep the rumbling roar of cities can't prevail; we hear the music of his snore, like sawing through a nail. The cats may yowl, the dogs may bark, the bughouse hules may bray, but on his mattress in the dark he'll sleep till break of day. The band may play and trees explode outside his donjon keep, but all the racket of the road can't break the toiler's sleep. The elements may take a whack, tornadoes large or small may lift the roof-tree from his shack--he'll slumber through it all. I envy much this worthy man, but dreamless slumbers best, and I admire the toilsome plan that yields unbroken rest. When to my couch my way I take, at quarter after nine, I know that I shall lie awake, no childlike sleep is mine. I do not push the gleaming plow or wield the rattling flail, I hire a man to milk my cow, and so I'm fat and stale. My days I uselessly employ in pastimes vain and cheap; I am too lazy to enjoy the boon of tranquil sleep.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

MAN AND HIS WORK.

Oh, man must set him forth to work and fare upon his way. And he must bear the cares of life that little one may play; And he must do the heavy tasks and brave the blows of strife That neither want nor bitterness shall fall upon his wife.

Oh, it is hard to trudge the road and hard to bow to care, And sad is it when children small have heavy loads to bear; And sad is it when wives must toil and wear the yoke of debt, But when the man is not a man, the home is sadder yet.

Oh, grumble not that you must work and fare the heat of day; Be glad your wife may sing at home, "be glad your children play! Be glad the pain is yours to bear--for if you fall them all, The hurt which now you whimper at on those you love must fall.

Oh, when the man is not a man, the wife must bear the load, 'Tis she must take the burden up, 'tis she must trudge the road; The children cease to romp in play, and pale their faces grow, And all the hurt that he should bear the ones he loves must know.

Oh, do not grumble at your tasks, nor fear to face the rain, Be glad the load is yours to bear, and yours the ache and pain; Be glad while you are sorely pressed and troubled through the day, At home your wife looks out and sees your children at their play.

peculiarly and peculiarly Cared For"

From the Evening Telegram.

On October 20th I left Halifax for St. John's. On the same day the Daily Mail, the editor of the Main by-election, was making a virulent and personal attack on me.

He mentioned me by name, and inferences and innuendoes left no doubt in the minds of his readers who was meant. Of this attack I was ignorant until Mr. John drew my attention to it.

The political tenor of the article was not concerned, further, it was hitting below the belt, and endeavor to compass Mr. John's defeat by adding him to my disagreement with, and against my former political opponent, Mr. Squires.

It is not known whether the article was employed contributed to Mr. John's defeat, or otherwise, but I believe that it would militate against him and inversely assist Mr. Hawco, or he would not resort to such low down tactics and unfairly connect Mr. St. John's name with 'one of the chief' in the political drama which drew the Squires' administration.

It is to be said that Mr. St. John had in the remotest degree any part or participation in the developments which culminated in the downfall of Sir Richard Squires last July. Neither is Mr. John a business associate of mine, nor an associate—yes, but as soon as Mr. St. John or myself finds that a man disreputable there is no reason upon either of us to connect him with my political activities when Messrs. Mr. St. John and myself are to the best of our ability to keep him out of the picture.

Mr. St. John has now forced upon me the necessity of reviewing the article by which Sir Richard Squires and particularly, cared for me. I accept the challenge and with the permission of Mr. Editor, I address myself to the issues raised by the Daily Mail as promptly and continuously as business press upon my time will permit.

I shall aim at avoiding vindictive attacks, and shall rebuke persons as far as possible, and I shall trench upon any matters that come within the purview of the Commission. J. T. MEANEY, St. John's, Nov. 1st.

Scientific Farming

THE BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION AND AGRICULTURE. The Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries is co-operating with the National Farmers' Union and the National Milk Producers' Council to put before the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, next year, a display that will convey an adequate picture of the history, progress and possibilities of land cultivation in the various countries.

The Ministry, which has been allocated space in the British Government building, is making it its business to show the State has helped and is helping agriculture by, stated our take advantage of the results of scientific research. There is to be a 240 feet range of show cases containing experimental subjects and samples of home products of the soil.

Various phases of agricultural activity will be displayed on the cinematograph and some of the country's leading authorities on scientific agriculture will be at Wembley to explain the world's authority on wheat, and will give lectures from time to time.

There is endless cause for wonder at the application of electricity to the growing of grain. This is a field of great achievement as well as of vast possibilities. This, among other things, will be made easy for laymen to understand at the British Empire Exhibition.

The Farmers' Union and Milk Producers' Council are making themselves responsible for a completely equipped exhibition of dairy farming. They are erecting a dairy, 100 feet by 70 feet, and a cowshed, 30 feet by 70 feet, in which 40 cows of the finest breeds will be housed and the most modern methods of milking will be shown. Visitors to the dairy will see how from there comes butter, many varieties of cheese, dried milk, condensed milk, milk sugar and dried casin.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that casin is the basic milk-product from which umbrella handles, electric light bowls, buttons, hair combs and decorative charms are made. The methods of making these things will be shown.

It is hoped through the Exhibition to educate the public to an increased consumption of milk. America drinks three times more milk per head of the population per day than Great Britain. It is wise enough to recognize the great food value.

The El Kahira Case

(Stern and Shipping.)
BOARD OF TRADE FINDINGS.
The finding in El Kahira case is one which is by no means pleasant. It may be remembered that the vessel sailed from the Thames as far back as July 7 of last year, with a cargo of sugar for Mediterranean ports. She failed to arrive at her destination, and the presumption is that she was lost with all on board in the heavy weather of the night of the 8th or the morning of July 9, but there was no evidence to indicate the cause of the loss. The Board of Trade thought that the circumstances necessitated investigation, and hence an official inquiry was held. The facts of the case are somewhat disquieting. The ship was purchased from the Khedivial Mail Steamship Company towards the end of 1919 for about £45,000, but shortly before her loss she was transferred to the Trading and Coaling Company, Limited, by the Hydra Steamship Company, for £25,200. She was built in 1912, and was of 2,034 tons gross, and her actual value at the time of her latest transfer was probably about £7,000, at which sum the Trading and Coaling Company, Limited, were prepared to sell her. The insurances against total loss only, which amounted to £8,000 were ef-fectured by the owners on the hull and machinery, no policies being taken out on either freight or disbursements. The insurances were held by the Hydra Steamship Company, Limited, as security of the payment of the purchase money of £25,200, the greater part of which was unpaid, though the sum was guaranteed by Mr. Ernest Oliver, who was responsible for the management of the vessel. It appears that the ship was originally classed with the Bureau Veritas, but her certificate had expired and the vessel had been laid up in the River Thames from August, 1920, until the early part of July, 1922, the transfer of the ship to the Trading and Coaling Company, Limited, being made in May of that year. The finding of the court as to the condition of the vessel when she sailed is very drastic. It states that as regards hull and machinery there was no positive evidence that El Kahira was in an actually unseaworthy condition, but there was evidence that the boilers were defective, while the bath and soil pipe openings in the ship's side, which were below the load water line, would be a serious danger to the ship in bad weather. The boats' fall were such that the boats could not be readily launched or safely handled, while the vessel was without a wireless installation.

Under these circumstances, the question will naturally be raised, how was it that the ship was allowed to sail in such a condition? It is generally assumed that the Board of Trade have the requisite organization to prevent any ship from leaving a home port in such a state that she jeopardises the safety of her crew. We are informed, however, that she was duly examined and granted a Board of Trade certificate and consequently was allowed to proceed to sea. The report of the investigation states with regard to the contravention of the Merchant Shipping (Wireless Telegraph) Act, 1919, that the ship was not fitted as required because the owners deliberately neglected to provide it in order to save expense, and that she was eventually allowed to proceed to sea without a wireless installation owing to the negligence of a deputy superintendent of the Board of Trade who issued the "A.A." certificate without first communicating with the proper authorities, thus enabling the owners to obtain her clearance of the Custom house. This seems to us a very serious condition of things, and one which does not reflect very creditably upon Board of Trade methods. We would not suggest that the provision of a wireless installation would have saved the lives of the unfortunate crew, but still, when the ship was overtaken by bad weather, it would certainly have afforded her an opportunity of appealing for help. It is hardly reassuring, too, to know that a vessel whose boats' falls were inefficient had not been held back on account of that deficiency in her equipment. The finding of the court that blame for the loss of the ship attaches to Mr. Ernest Oliver, whom the court found to be primarily responsible for sending the ship to sea in an unsafe condition, and to the marine superintendent

Vulcanite Roofing costs $4.50 per roll, complete with nails and cement.

Roofs covered with Vulcanite pay less for Fire Insurance than roofs covered with ordinary felt.

A roll of Vulcanite Roofing weighs about 50 pounds, contains 108 square feet of roofing and will cover 100 square feet of roof surface.

ent for assuming responsibility and failing to take adequate measures to ensure that the vessel was properly prepared for sea, will be of small comfort to the dependents of those who lost their lives in this ill-fated ship. The censure on Mr. Oliver was accompanied by the following pronouncement: "Regarding Mr. Ernest Oliver as primarily responsible for all the circumstances which made this investigation necessary and for the consequent expenditure of public money, the court orders him to pay the sum of 200 guineas towards the expense of the investigation." It is the end of the matter we can only say that it is an extremely considerable sentence, especially when it is remembered that the failure of the Board of Trade to stop an unseaworthy ship from proceeding to sea, is calculated to discount very materially in public opinion the efficacy of the work of the Board of Trade surveys in general.

BOXING AND WRESTLING TOURNAMENT

The big boxing and wrestling tournament, which is advertised to take place in the C.L.B. Armoury on 11th, promises to eclipse last year's battle royal, by a big margin. The bouts will be run off by the A.A.A. deals, which ensures all competitors a square deal. We understand the names of entrants are coming in fast at Percie Johnson's, and competitors are notified that the entries will close on November 10th, at 5 p.m.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN

When you were in the ring, John, you didn't see and have had a chance to swing, John. All some opponent's law, didn't count them coming in, the thing you cared about, giving referees a chance to count them going out, and he beneath the ban, John. Today for you I fear, were just a fighting man, John. And not a financier.

FIRPO GET A SQUARE DEAL!

From the lurid haze of the packed arena where eighty-five thousand spectators struggled for a glimpse of the fiercest fight in ring history, Jack Dempsey emerged once more as Champion of the World. But that championship crown which he wore so jauntily into the ring was battered and dented by great fists and held none too steadily on the champion's dizzy brow at the finish. The victory remained with Dempsey, but was far from a clean-cut victory.

Luis Firpo entered the ring that evening with the vast majority of that host of spectators against him. He was a stranger in a strange land. He did not know the language, and his seconds could help him little for they were as strange as he. He was anxious to satisfy the American public, cautious against violating any of the boxing regulations which were explained to him through his interpreter. He entered the ring reluctantly, with a confidence in his courage and ability. He fought because he had agreed to fight. And his fight was a clean, honorable battle, violating no letter of the law of boxing as it was explained to him.

Can we say as much in fairness for Dempsey? Can we say as much for the referee? Can we take any great pride or satisfaction in American sportsmanship as it was revealed on that memorable night when this picturesque stranger from a new Continent battled crudely but heroically with the greatest champion of modern times and came within a hair's breadth of wresting the title from him? In short, can we claim that Firpo received what he so fully gave, a square deal?

We have no specific criticism to make of Jack Dempsey. His conduct on that night well illustrated what has become typical, all too typical, of American sportsmanship. To be tricky, resourceful, aggressive, to take all the law allows, and a little bit more, if you can get away with it, is considered "smart" by altogether too many people to whom the words "good sportsmanship" are a meaningless phrase. Generosity, fairness, the score to take a mean advantage, are these things so common as we would like to have them in American sport? Turn to the late Dempsey-Firpo contest for a melancholy example of their absence.

Even in those fateful two rounds moved with lightning rapidity, that the spectators were scarce less dazed than the contestants. In the minds of most of those who witnessed that encounter there was a confused blur of flying fists and falling bodies. Even the newspapermen who saw with the clearest, most experienced vision, could not agree about what happened. They differed in the number of knock-downs, in the precise blows delivered, in various essential details. But fortunately there was one dispassionate witness to this affair which did not get rattled. That was the morning picture camera and the pictures of that fight are crystal clear in the indictment of the affair as a violation of the fundamental laws of good sportsmanship.

Before the fight the referee warned both Dempsey and Firpo that in case either were knocked down, the other must retire to a neutral corner until the fallen gladiator had time to regain his fallen feet. Firpo followed these instructions. Dempsey did not. Twice he stood by and struck Firpo down. In one particular fragrant instance he fairly stood over him and knocked him down before he could struggle to an upright position. Dempsey is an experienced ring man. He is Champion of the World. He has fought for years in this country. He was familiar with referee's rules. Did he obey them? And if we excuse him on the ground that he was trying to get away with all the law allowed and a little more, what shall we say of the referee? He laid down the rules. Why did he not enforce them?

The newspapermen all agree that after the bell sounded for the end of the first round, Dempsey struck Firpo at least one or two blows which were entirely illegal. Was anything done about that? Not that we noticed and we were there.

After the gamut recovery from a savage beating that anyone present ever witnessed, Firpo battered Dempsey through the ropes. Friendly hands helped him back into the arena. Would Dempsey have regained his place in the ring so quickly had it not been for this help? Suppose those hands had not been friendly? Suppose spectators outside the ring had hung on to Dempsey in his battered, almost helpless condition and tried to prevent him from re-entering the ring. What would have happened? If Dempsey were knocked on his back on the floor of the ring spectators could not pick him up and set him on his feet, could they? Wherein was the essential difference? Mind we are not criticizing Dempsey specifically. He made a great fight, proved himself a great champion. We are not accusing the referee of premeditated unfairness. He merely showed that the situation was beyond him. He was plainly rattled and his blunders reacted against Firpo. We are not criticizing the spectators who helped Dempsey regain his position in the ring. They, doubtless, acted instinctively, without reflection, on the spur of the moment. But we do claim that the four minutes of furious fighting which stretched Firpo on his back and gave Dempsey the decision, brief as they were, were long enough to witness several incidents that had better never have occurred.

Firpo got decidedly the worst of it from Dempsey, from the referee and from the spectators. A rigid and liberal enforcement of the rules might possibly have disqualified Dempsey. In any case, the affair has left a tarnish on the shield of American fair play and good sportsmanship, and glory in American achievement as well as the next man, but we like to see records won without the taint of unimportant advantage at the expense of an unskilled, inexperienced stranger from another land who was a guest in this country, a dependent upon our hospitality and certainly entitled to all the consideration which good sportsmanship dictates.

SENECA, CURLEW AND CRAFT FROM HALIFAX WILL TRY TO BRING DERELICT TO PORT.

With the Government steamer Seneca at sea from St. John's, Newfoundland, the Curlew out from Sydney, and a steamer to reinforce the Seneca being made ready at Halifax, the final chapter of the tragedy of the lost Governor Parr, abandoned at sea two weeks ago after her captain and a seaman had been washed overboard and the vessel dismasted, will feature an ocean race with a hundred thousand dollar salvage job as the prize, according to information given out by Mr. Harvey, local agent for the Marine and Fisheries Department, this morning. The last position of the Parr, given out to-day, was lat. 42.43 north, long. 54.27 west. That would place the derelict two hundred miles south of Cape Race; three hundred and forty miles southwest of Sydney, and four hundred and twenty miles from Halifax.—Halifax Chronicle.

Annual Meeting

B.L.S. LADIES AUXILIARY.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the B.L.S. Society held their annual meeting in the club rooms last night. A large attendance of members were present. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer for the past year were read and adopted. Regret was expressed over the resignations of President Mrs. W. J. Higgins, and Vice-President Mrs. E. F. Moore. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers for their services during the past year. The election of officers for the coming year was held and resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. McKay.
Vice-President—Mrs. C. O'Keefe.
Treasurer—Mrs. Channing.
Secretary—Mrs. A. Doyle.

The ladies are now making preparations for the season's work, a programme for which was outlined before the meeting concluded last night.

Popular Official Resigns

Mr. H. B. Curtis, who for the past twenty years has been Superintendent of the Newfoundland Express Company, severed his connections with the Company on Wednesday last, and left for Cleveland, his former home, by yesterday's express, where he intends to reside in future. Mr. Curtis came to this country in the year 1901, when he organized the Express Department for the Reid Newfoundland Company. During his tenure of office the business of the company was always carried on with effectiveness and despatch, and his retirement from the service will be regretted by many.

Heroes of the Coal Mines

BRAVERY BELOW GROUND WHICH MERITED V.C.S.

Few more stirring instances of heroism have come to light than those revealed in the reports of the recent disaster at Redding Colliery, near Falkirk, in which a number of miners were entombed as a result of a sudden rush of water. The catastrophe, which was one of the worst in Scotland's mining history, was marked by many examples of self-sacrifice, involving courage of the highest order.

The tragedy recalls the heroic efforts made to assist three miners who were trapped in the Wyndham Colliery, South Wales, at the beginning of the year. A fine spirit of comradeship was displayed by the doomed men's fellow-workers, who again and again penetrated the most dangerous part of the mine in attempts at rescue, unhappily without avail.

In any volume dealing with heroism the exploits of our miners would occupy many chapters. Courage, indeed, seems to be the miner's dominant characteristic.

Take the case of the Wemyss Colliery disaster, in which two men were overcome by fumes. Two other men, named Morris and Scott, walked unhesitatingly into the very jaws of death in an effort to save the victims, while immediately following this supreme example of self-sacrifice over a dozen volunteers came forward to engage in the hazardous task. Time and again the valiant little band went below, until finally its numbers were so diminished that the attempt had to be abandoned.

The terrible Donibristle disaster yielded numerous other examples of this kind. There was a great fall of earth in an outlying part of the mine, as a result of which four men were buried. Half a dozen would be rescuers went in search of the missing men, and they, too, were lost.

At once scores of men offered to continue the search, as if it entailed no risk whatever. Day and night the rescue shifts worked, until at last the unfortunate men were found—dead.

The Senhennydd explosion ranks as one of the worst pit disasters in the history of the South Wales mines. The force of the upheaval was so great that one man was actually killed at the pit-head, far from the scene of the outbreak. Below, 438 men and boys lost their lives.

Within a few minutes of the explosion a rescue party was descending a neighbouring shaft. Poisonous fumes, welling up from the inferno below, threatened to drive them back at almost every step, but without flinching the party pushed forward. They reached the affected workings and plunged into the flames in the hope of succouring those who were not past help.

Splendid courage was shown in the disaster at the Haig pit at Whitehaven, in which there was a death-roll involving forty men. One of the rescuers, a deputy named Mackenzie, saved thirty-eight lives by his courage in fighting his way to the dangerous zone. His heroism recalls that of John Wesley, the miner who deliberately sacrificed his life at the tragic Hamstead mine disaster in a fruitless endeavor to save others.

In the Danger Zone.

It is not too much to say that V.C.s are earned almost every day in coal mines. The casualty list is extremely high, reaching the appalling yearly average of 160,000 killed and injured. But for the indomitable courage of the pit-workers generally, there is no doubt that the figure would be a good deal higher.

The Brick's Ordeal of Fire

BUILDINGS RAISED FROM COMMON CLAY.

Brickmaking was one of man's earliest pursuits. Babylon was acquainted with the art; and it is recorded that the Israelites baked bricks from clay mixed with chopped straw.

Nowadays, for ordinary building purposes, red bricks are in greatest demand. These are produced from many kinds of clay.

In the first place, the rough clay is sent from the "pit" to the top of the plant. Here it is ground to powder, and passes through a fine sieve to the floor below. The powdered clay is then fed into the kick-press, where it is watered as a workable plasticity, emerging eventually pressed to a perfectly formed, solid brick.

Dried by Hot Air.

The colour is now dark grey. Not until after heating does the brick become red. Redness is due to the presence of iron compounds in the clay, which when burned transform to free ferric oxide.

The bricks are placed in the kiln chamber, which is then built up. Hot air is allowed to enter so that a thorough drying is effected. After drying, the hot air is withdrawn.

Fire is next introduced. Burning usually takes a week. During that time firing is maintained day and night through feed-holes in the kiln top.

Usual Admission Prices: Nights, 20c.; Matinees 10 and 15c.

COMING:—"QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER," Metro's big Super-Special, and HAROLD LLOYD in his wonder comedy drama "SAFETY LAST"—7 Wonder Reels.

Not all materials, however, can be treated in this simple fashion. Highly plastic clays require moulding, and many elaborate preparations are necessary. Among these are "weathering," and the addition of non-plastic matter to reduce shrinkage. Crushing, grinding, and puging are also essential preliminaries.

When finished, a perfect brick should measure about 9 in. in length, 4 1/4 in. in breadth, and 2 1/4 in. in thickness. Its quality should be such that it will not succumb to the vagaries of our climate. The faces will be free from the slightest crack, and the edges square.

Poets and Prize-Fighters

The ridiculous prize-fight between M. Carpenter and Mr. Joseph Beckett, which lasted twenty seconds, emphasizes Sir William Watson's plaint that the modern world provides fortunes for fusticuffs and poverty for poetry.

I am told that nearly £70,000 was paid by the public for admission to the farcical Carpenter-Beckett entertainment, of which the loser received £4,500. Most of us would agree to let Carpenter punch us hard for the same money. The correspondence that has followed Sir William Watson's article shows that Browning was very grateful to his publisher when he received £200 a year for his poetry. I know at least two modern poets who own motor-cars, and I do not think it can be contended that they are better poets than Browning. It would seem, indeed, that it is financially better to be a minor poet in 1923 than a major poet in 1870.

In this connection Mark Hambourg reminded me the other day of an incident in the life of Beethoven. The great composer was obliged himself to pay for the first performance of his great Ninth Symphony. It cost him £80, practically all the money that he had at the time. The performance was an immense success. At its conclusion, Beethoven's manager, with tears in his eyes, congratulated him on his triumph. "But," said Beethoven, "I want to know about the money." "Maestro," said the manager, "you have lost £20!"

The Modern Bride

Refusal at Altar to Say "I Will"— Astonished Fiance Walks Out of the Church.

Clergymen: Will you have this man to be thy wedded husband?

Bride: No.

(An awkward pause.)

Clergymen (rather more loudly): Will you have this man to be thy wedded husband?

Bride (emphatically): No.

(Another pause.)

Clergymen: Would you like to take a seat till the other parties are married?

BRIDE: Yes.

This was the amazing incident which occurred at St. Luke's Church, Derby. The bride and bridegroom are fellow-workers in a local hosiery factory, and it is stated that the girl relented of her promise to marry as soon as the bans had been proclaimed. She was persuaded to allow the proceedings to go on, and on the eve of the wedding her scruples were once more overcome through her friends' influence.

When the astonished clergyman failed to obtain her acquiescence to the question he suggested that she should sit down while a second ceremony took place—that of her brother who had arranged to be married at the same time. This she did, but meantime the disappointed bridegroom took up his abode in the church. There was an interesting sequel to the interrupted wedding. The bride's fellow-worker, the factory delivered, what was to an ultimatum to the firm the shape of an intimation that she would not continue to work as a bride. She was, therefore, married for the time being. The girl, the day at home, and was as declining to be interviewed, was in objecting to proceed marriage service, nor would she any explanation through a third party. Relatives declared that she neither discussed the marriage, them nor enlightened them as reasons for withdrawing at the moment.

Another large audience attended the Casino last evening to see the second performance of "The Players" gave a faithful picture of their different parts and specialties were up to the usual standard. To-night the play was "Jolie Wives," which should be worth seeing. To-morrow the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be on for the kiddies, while at night "Wives" will be repeated as a performance.

Why they call it— "The milk that good cooks use"

"How can I make these things I cook richer, more tasty, and yet keep down the cost?"

Because, like other home cooks, you have asked yourself that question time after time, we know you'll be interested in the milk that thousands of women have singled out as the very best kind for cooking use—the milk that in many localities is generally spoken of among housewives and grocers as "the milk that good cooks use."

Particularly since you can get it now at a nearby grocery store.

7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat in every can

It's a canned milk, yes. But it's Libby's—and there are 7 1/2 teaspoons of pure butter fat in every 16 oz. can of it!

Butter fat, as you know, is what makes cream and butter such great enrichers.

It's that same enriching substance—7 1/2 teaspoons of it in every can—that has made Libby's Milk the favorite of good cooks everywhere.

"That would make things richer and finer-flavored," you say. "But how can a milk be so rich in butter fat?"

"From famous pasture lands"

Certain sections of this country, as you know, are famous for their dairy products. And it's true of these sections, as you've heard, that dairy-men there are constantly competing with one another to see who can raise the finest herds, produce the richest milk.

The cows, of course, are given the best of feed, in summer and winter, are milked in model barns—and only those are kept that give large quantities of rich and wholesome milk.

It is in the heart of these fine dairy sections that Libby's condenseries are placed.

Receiving this milk daily, we test it ourselves and then evaporate, removing more than half the moisture, to make it double rich. Nothing is added to it. It is sealed and sterilized in air-tight cans—for only thus can it be brought safely to you who live, perhaps, many hundreds of miles away.

Try it tonight and see what a difference it makes

Get a can of this milk today. Try it in place of ordinary milk in some favorite recipe tonight—in a soup or sauce or dessert.

See what wholly new richness it gives, and what fine flavor. You will know at once why Libby's is called "the milk that good cooks use."

Write for free recipe folder.

We'd like to send you free a folder we've had printed that contains a number of the best recipes sent us by good cooks who use Libby's Milk.

Report

OF THE BOARD BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION (1924) INCORPORATED FROM SEPTEMBER 1ST TO SEPTEMBER 30TH.

To His Grace the Duke of Devonshire, K. G., Chairman, and The Members of The Executive Council of The British Empire Exhibition.

I.—GENERAL PROGRESS.

1. The Exhibition is due to open in April next. It is satisfactory to report that, with six months to complete, Wembley Park is now definitely taking shape. As has been noted by Press correspondents who have visited the site recently, it appears now no longer a jumble of excavations and half-completed buildings, but shows evidence of its coherent plan.

2. The admission prices to the Exhibition have been fixed at 1s. 6d. as the normal rate, with half-price for children under-12, and with a proviso that on special days the admission price may be changed.

3. Building work has proceeded on the whole satisfactorily, though there has been some delay owing to a full supply of steel-work not being available. It has been found necessary to continue night shifts. It is hoped that by the close of this year all the chief construction work will have been completed and the way cleared for decorative work and for the assemblage of exhibits. The Gardens at the North Entrance, around the lakes and in the Central Avenue are well on the way to completion.

4. The Board have decided that all material provided by contractors and sub-contractors for the Exhibition shall be, as far as possible, supplied by exhibitors or guarantors to the Exhibition.

5. Part of the programme of the Exhibition is a series of conferences on subjects of Imperial interest. The arrangements already completed and those pending promise that these conferences will discuss some of the most important problems of education, social welfare and industry.

6. It has been arranged to equip the three conference halls of the Exhibition with cinema apparatus for the showing of films illustrating the Imperial life and industry.

7. Alterations to the Baling Road have been approved and the work will be set in hand shortly. This will link up the Exhibition roads with Ealing and Chiswick suburbs.

8. A special organization has been set up to promote in the industrial centres excursion clubs so as to attract visitors to the Exhibition.

II.—DOMINIONS, COLONIES AND PROTECTORATES.

9. Satisfactory progress has been made on the whole with the pavilions of the Dominions and Colonies. Some buildings have been delayed a little for the want of steel-work. Supplies are promised for the beginning of October.

10. The design for the Newfoundland building has been accepted by the Acting High Commissioner.

11. The foundation stone of the West African building was laid on September 3rd.

12. The foundation stone of the Malta building was laid on September 8th.

13. The Deputy-Chairman had a meeting on the 12th September with the representatives of the Colonies, when the terms of the Agreement were generally approved.

14. Suitable sites have now been allotted for Newfoundland, Fiji, and for the accommodation of Colonial staffs to be brought over for the Exhibition. Work on these sites will be as soon as detailed plans have been considered.

15. Rhodesia contemplates an expenditure of about £10,000 on her participation in the Exhibition.

In addition the arrangements summarized above the Report deals with the stupendous plans made for the United Kingdom exhibition. In this are included a Palace of Engineers, a Palace of Industry, a Colonies of Shops, a Horticultural Section, a Dairy Exhibit, an Art Gallery. What will prove to be a great attraction is a Stadium, in which athletic contests, an Imperial Pageant, massed band and choir concerts and a host of other spectacular events will be held.

MAKING THE HEART BEHAVE.

Isn't it queer foolish, "I can see in my mind," she says, "how exaggerated and unnecessary they are, but isn't it queer I think out quite can't help fearing them in my heart?"

Sometimes I try to reason things out clearly in one's mind, and still make myself more sensible, and not feel about them I wonder what the use is when the mind says one should feel.

It Does Help.

I have a friend who is prone to worry unduly about the health of those whom she loves. She admits that a great many of her fears are True, it doesn't help in the immediate and satisfactory way one would think it would help. One can see with perfect clarity how one ought to feel and yet not feel that way at all.

But I do believe this. If you use your mind on your problems and keep on using it, the cumulative effect will be to modify your feelings in the right direction.

Golf and Goffs.

A man I know has recently taken up the most maddening and fascinating of games, golf. At first he took it very seriously and was down in the dumps whenever he was off his game.

And then one day he read a story about a goof—a goof being a man who takes his golf seriously.

But it did mean that he made an effort to pull himself up out of them, that he is gradually more sensible about it; and that eventually he may cure himself and enjoy golf without being a goof. Which is something to be devoutly thankful for, as many thousands of non-combatants can testify.

More Serious Than Golf.

So don't be discouraged when you don't get immediate results from trying to see things sanely. Perhaps with you it's something more serious than golf. Perhaps it's insomnia, or jealousy, or a habit of unreasonable fears. You know how foolish you are to be jealous, for instance, how little reason you have and how little good it does—and yet, even while your mind is calling you a fool, your heart is blaspheming with that most unendurable of tortures.

But it will help you if you will keep on trying to see things sanely. Never

Yankton Damaged

(Daily News.)
 Boston Oct. 26—Steamer Yankton, Captain George Braithwaite, of the Boston, Halifax and Newfoundland Steamship Company, arrived several hours later on the run from Halifax, and was severely buffeted by the storm. She left Halifax Monday afternoon with seven passengers and 400 tons of cargo and was struck by a storm when passing outside Halifax Harbor. The storm increased as the craft continued, and the high waves broke over the bow and tons of water washed into the cabin ways. During the height of the storm the figurehead at the bow of the vessel was broken from its bolts and thrown on the deck. It was made fast during a lull and is to be replaced in position. The figurehead has been in the bow of the steamer for more than 20 years.

We are informed by Messrs. Hickman & Co., that they have been advised that minor damages only were sustained, that the cargo was intact, and that the repairs necessary would in no way interfere with the regular schedule.

Officers' Mess Inaugurated

MAJOR MARCH M.C., C.M.G., PRESIDENT.

A meeting of the officers of His Majesty's and Allied forces in the city, was held at the West End Restaurant at 1 p.m. yesterday for the purpose of inaugurating an Officers' Mess. In all 53 officers were present. The Covenor, Lieut.-Col. Nangle, C.F., outlined the reasons for convening the meeting, and emphasized the necessity of forming an Officers' Mess, so that arrangements may be made to welcome Earl Haig and party when they arrive next July. The gathering was unanimous that a Mess be formed, and officers were then elected as follows:—

President—Major March, M.C. O. de G.
 Vice-Pres.—Lt. Com. Howley, R.N.
 Sec.-Treas.—Capt. G. J. Whitty, M.C.
 Executive Committee—Capt. G. G. Byrne, M.C., Capt. C. S. Frost, M.C., Lieut.-Col. T. Nangle, C.F., Lieut.-Col. C. Macpherson.

It was decided to hold another meeting at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 8th, when the reports of the Executive Committee will be tabled, showing what form the Mess will take and the constitution governing it. Great enthusiasm was displayed by the officers present, all pledging their support to the Mess. Yesterday's was the first officers' function for about four years.

Llewellyn Club

ANNUAL MEETING—OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Llewellyn Club annual meeting took place at Canon Wood Hall last night, and in spite of the rain, an enthusiastic gathering was present. At 8.15 the meeting opened with the singing of the hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past," and prayer. After a brief address by the Rector, the minutes of the last annual meeting were read and confirmed. The Secretary's report was then read and adopted, unanimously. The Treasurer's report, showing a credit balance of over eighty dollars was also adopted. A vote of thanks was given to the retiring officers. The election of officers then took place, and resulted as follows:—

President—The Lord Bishop.
 Pres.—Rev. E. C. Barr.
 1st Vice-Pres.—C. E. Hunt, M. H. A.
 2nd Vice-Pres.—Llewellyn Colley.
 Secretary—L. Cullen.
 Treasurer—A. G. Carnell.
 Committee—Messrs. F. R. Clarke, F. R. Warren, R. W. Jeans, R. W. Calnes, R. R. Wood, George Cook, F. M. Stirling.

All the officers were re-elected on mass; two more members, however, were added, viz: H. J. Burrell and J. W. Dewling. The President outlined a splendid programme which will be published later, when all arrangements will be finalized. It was moved and heartily acclaimed, that a message of greeting be sent to the Very Rev. Dr. Jones, Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, Cincinnati, Ohio, on the celebration of the eighth year of the Club's existence. Dr. Jones founded the Club in November, 1915, and will always be remembered with love and respect by its members. The meeting closed at 10.20 with the singing of the National Anthem.

Obituary

JOSEPH WILLIAMS.

"(Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!)"

It is our sad duty to record the death of one of our oldest and most respected inhabitants in the person of Joseph Williams of H. M. Customs, who passed suddenly away to his eternal reward on the 25th inst. in the 73rd year of his age. The deceased possessed many sterling qualities. Being alive of an honorable and upright disposition, with a quiet and unpretentious manner, he made many friends. Besides he was an exemplary Catholic, and we feel sure that he has gone to receive the reward of a life well spent. That he was popular and universally esteemed was testified by the large gathering that attended his funeral. Besides his widow there are left to mourn two sons, John and Albert, and three daughters, Mrs. Wilfrid Coady and Mrs. John Hearn of New York, and Mrs. Patrick Nagle, two brothers and one sister in Bay Bulls, to whom we extend our deepest sympathy, while we fervently say "Requiescat in pace." Amen.

WHERE THE SKIPPER'S KNIFE WAS FOUND AFTER TWELVE MONTHS.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

After I had written an account of how the ring, belonging to one of the passengers of the ill-fated Anglo Saxon was found, and restored to the family, through the exertions of the late Mr. James H. Watson, owing to the four letters that were engraved thereon, I thought of a similar case, as told me by the late Capt. Patrick Delaney of the S.S. Bruce, some years ago. I have every reason to believe that the story told me by Capt. Delaney was true. Few men were better known in Newfoundland than was Capt. Patrick Delaney, who, for years, commanded the first "Bruce" in her battles with the ice-floes across the Gulf. As has been truly said, Capt. Delaney had the best qualities of a Newfoundland seaman: Brave, persevering, modest, fearless, and with a thorough knowledge of his profession, through snow and sleet, ice and fog, he crossed and recrossed the Cabot Strait with as much regularity as the Mauretania crosses the Atlantic.

Capt. Delaney told me that when his father was a young man, one day he was fishing out of Bay Roberts in a small boat, and through some cause he lost his pocket knife, which disappeared in the waters of the bay. Of course the future famous seal-killer, planter and Labrador pilot (Capt. Mark Delaney) gave up his knife as lost, and upon his return to Bay Roberts from the fishing ground, he purchased another. In a few weeks he forgot all about the lost knife, and the next year, he went fishing out of Tilton Harbor, Fogo. One day he was out in his boat with his partner, and the fish were very plentiful, and of large size. When he returned with his boat load of fish, his partner and himself commenced operations to split their catch, and in doing so to one of large dimensions, he felt that there was something unusual and hard inside. He investigated, and, incredible as it may appear, he drew forth the knife he had lost the previous year on the fishing ground off Bay Roberts. There was no mistake at all about it, as his name was cut on the handle of the knife, which he valued very much, and was delighted to have it once more in his possession.

I have often heard of such wonderful finds when I was a boy, but as I grew up I thought the old-timers, who related such events were really taking a lift out of me, but in this instance, with regard to Capt. Delaney's knife, there is not the shadow of a doubt about it, and I am not endeavoring to take a lift out of any of the readers of the Telegram.

Capt. Mark Delaney became one of the most successful seal-killers, more especially as a hunter of old seals. He commanded several sailing vessels during his long career, but I can only remember a few of them at the moment, viz: the brig E.S.C., Antelope, Orator and Breadalbane. He was also successful in steamers, and commanded the S.S. Walrus and Ranger out of the great firm of J. & W. Stewart for many years, and was successful, particularly, as I stated above, with "old fat." It may be that the hardy old veteran found his luck by the unexpected recovery of his pocket knife, after being carried around for over twelve months by the codfish; through the voracious maw, it found a safe receptacle, until recovered by the owner, many miles away from the place he lost it.

I noticed an article in the Telegram a few days ago about several things, such as jewelry, buttons, etc., being found inside sharks, and other species of fish, and it brought to my mind the story of the skipper's knife, as related to me by his son, the late Capt. Patrick Delaney.

Boys no Longer Used

TO CARRY WALL ST. MILLIONS.

New York, Oct. 9.—Stories of the theft of stocks and bonds by immature youths, which a few years ago vied for frontpage positions, appear only infrequently now.

The answer is found in the almost universal absence of boys and young men in the roles of runners and messengers for the investment houses of lower Broadway, Wall and Broad Streets. The small hatchets and portfolios containing valuable securities which constantly are being exchanged between investment houses no longer are entrusted to beardless boys. Instead husky men, the majority veterans of the New York police and fire department, have been employed as messengers.

A canvass of financial institutions in New York discloses that nearly 1,000 former policemen and firemen now are on the payrolls of these houses. Many of them have been retired on pensions by the municipal departments.

Before the war great care was exercised in the employment of runners. Such employees usually were youngsters and the pay was small. So careful, however, were employers in their selection that only occasionally would one of them run away with the securities entrusted to their care, or return empty-handed to report a fake hold-up.

With the war, conditions were changed. It became more and more difficult to obtain boys for the positions of messenger. Activities brought on by the war paid larger wages and quickly attracted much of the boy supply. Investment houses had to take what they could get.

Then came an epidemic of messenger-thefts, some of them involving securities valued at more than $1,000,000. Stock and bond houses sought some way to stop their heavy losses and gradually employed older men for the places. To-day, except in the case of a few small houses or in emergencies when the regular staff of runners is insufficient, no boys are employed for these responsible, though comparatively small paying jobs.

Motor Truck Causes Damage

This morning a motor truck owned by the Direct Agencies, but now in the service of Messrs. A. E. Hickman, jumped the curb opposite Chaplin's tailor store and demolished a part of the doorway leading to the office of A. S. Rendell & Co. The truck driven by a man named Thistle was proceeding west and became unmanageable owing to a nut on the steering wheel breaking loose. Fortunately no one was near when the car shot in on the sidewalk. The driver received a few slight scratches, and the car was undamaged. It is estimated that it will cost $50 to effect repairs.

Wisps of Wisdom

Don't wait for another opportunity, take the one that comes.

The greatest things are sometimes the result of the merest accident. That is what you may meet round the next corner.

Who you become is nothing; what you become is everything.

Two heads may be better than one, but two fools don't make a wise man.

It is not the effort but the sustained effort which counts and costs so much.

Never put off making up a quarrel.

Sinister Hand Seen in Run on Dominion Bank

BANK STANDS FIRM.

(Financial Post.)

While there were stories that the run on the Dominion Bank this week was the result of the misunderstanding of a foreigner who was told that there was "no money" in a money N.S.F. cheque or that the bank "had closed" at three o'clock, there is a more sinister aspect given to the situation by the intimation of Premier Ferguson that there is reason to believe that the run was the result of a deliberate campaign "to shake public confidence. Certainly the proportions of the brief run were such as to emphasize the feeling of public apprehension, but fortunately the bank, one of the strongest, was able to meet the situation in a manner which quickly restored confidence. The reaction should have a favorable effect in emphasizing the strength of the banks, but the need for definitely reassuring depositors in all the banks is apparent. Evidence that the condition of affairs in the Home Bank was brought to the attention of Ottawa some years ago has not helped the situation. Publicity-seeking lawyers are encouraging the depositors to make all sorts of impossible demands on the Government and depositors in other banks are naturally disturbed.

Premier Ferguson has made a public statement that the provincial government, after careful inquiry through proper channels is satisfied that there is "evidence of a concerted plan of some evilly disposed people who desire to destroy the stability of finance in the country." He promised that thorough investigation would be made and that the criminal code would be exercised against the authors of the "insidious and damnable" attacks if they can be discovered. There is a penalty of one year for those who publish false news resulting in injury or mischief to any public interest.

Bank Stood Strong.

The confidence of the province in the Dominion Bank was concretely shown by the action of the government in making a deposit of $1,500,000, on Tuesday morning after the run reached its height on Monday. This was one of the factors in reassuring the public, with the result that, after the hysterical rush of Monday, there was a stream of customers on Tuesday putting their money back again. Statements by the president of the bank, Sir Edmund Oates, and the general manager, C. A. Hogart, and by Sir Frederick Williams Taylor, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, promising the support of the other big banks as well as public assurances of co-operation from other financial institutions and individuals, including the National City Bank of New York, had their effect in clearing the air.

Starting on Saturday in a rush of depositors on the Dundas street branch, the run assumed alarming proportions on Monday morning when branches in all parts of the city became involved. Crowds of depositors jammed the various offices and waited for hours for their turn to get their money. No one seemed to have any definite reason, but all had one purpose. It was an obvious case of hysteria. To mix in the crowds revealed that most of the withdrawals were of modest sums, and that many of those taking their money were women. Each seemed to want his or her money simply because "the others wanted it."

Not until the increasing proportions of the run as the day wore on became really alarming, did the officials of the bank take definite steps to meet the panic. The afternoon papers carried reassuring statements which had an almost immediate effect and by Tuesday the news that the run had been checked was spread throughout the country in time to prevent the panic spreading to other cities. As soon as the people found they could get their money and that there was no doubt of the ability of the bank to meet all demands with the co-operation of the government and other banks, the run ceased. Had official information as to the bank's ability to meet their situation been available sooner no doubt confidence would have been more quickly restored. Something in the way of placarded statements would have been sufficient to satisfy many in the Monday crowds, who found nothing whatever to counteract the air of panic and hysteria which pervaded the various offices.

During the run the crowds at the Dominion Branches were only slightly larger than those at the Ontario Savings offices, where deposits were being made. It was thus that the government was able to readily make a deposit of $1,500,000 with the Dominion Bank on Tuesday. After the run on the Dominion had subsided, it was noted, however, that the savings offices were still busy and there is undoubtedly a definite trend of bank deposits in that direction which is likely to continue until confidence in the banks is definitely restored.

After Influenza—SCOTT'S EMULSION to build you up

Amateur Contest at the Crescent To-Night

List Contains Some Interesting New Comers.

The big entertainment to-night is at the Crescent Theatre where patrons will witness one of the best all round shows seen in a long while. The extra attraction is the bumper Amateur Contest which will be under the direction of Dan Delmar, who during the past week has received many names of new contestants as well as some of the older and more familiar performers. A good night's amusement is promised all who take in this big show to-night. A last entrant is Mr. Joe Wheeler, the local ventriloquist.

At last night's show, despite the inclement weather, there was a very good audience present and the programme was greatly enjoyed. The selections by Robert Shields were well received, whilst the picture entitled "Main Street" was a distinct triumph. It is a long time since the screen has seen anything like the ensemble of actors assembled in "Main Street"—a distinguished cast that gives dash and life to the action. Think of these players all being in one picture: Florence Vidor, Monte Blue, Harry Myers, Noah Beery, Louise Fazenda, Robert Cor-den, Gordon Griffith, Gus Harlin and Alan Hale. The story has a world-wide reputation. The film should be seen by everyone, for Main Street is a little world, and the world is composed of nothing but Main Street. Don't miss this bill at the Crescent to-night.

Municipal Council.

APPRECIATIVE REFERENCES TO THE LATE J. J. MULLALLY.

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon. The Mayor presided and Councillors Martin, Osterbridge, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

Following the reading of the Minutes, Councillor Collier, referring to the death of the late J. J. Mullally, moved the following Resolution:

RESOLVED: That the Council extend its sincerest sympathy on the sudden passing of Mr. J. J. Mullally, who for many years, as Councillor, Commissioner, Deputy Mayor, was closely identified with the Municipality.

In speaking to the Resolution, Councillor Collier referred to the sterling worth of the deceased, who was first elected to the Municipal Board in 1910, and served the city as elected Councillor and Government appointed Commissioner until 1921, when owing to ill-health he was compelled to tender his resignation to the Government.

"He was a man of strong convictions, unwavering in the path of duty. He dealt fairly with his fellow-men, and sought for him—as for himself—'square deal.' I feel sure the Council regrets his demise, and in extending sympathy to his widow and other relatives, I cannot but feel that his death is not alone a private loss but a loss to the community."

Councillor Ryan, a life-long friend and fellow Councillor of the deceased during the years 1910-14, also spoke in support of the Resolution. In his opinion ex-Councillor Mullally was a manly man, one who never shirked the issue, whose integrity was unquestioned, and who always did the right thing despite all influence to the contrary, seeing only in all his actions the safe-guarding of the city's interests.

The other Councillors present joined with the mover and seconder in the Resolution of Condolence, which being put by the Mayor was passed in silence in a standing vote.

The regular business of the meeting was then transacted.

A. Harvey and Company informed the Board they had purchased a stable of Devon Row, Duckworth Street, and found the present access to same most inconvenient. They stated if the Council would grant them the use of the public right of way, they were prepared to put and maintain same in a condition that would be satisfactory to all concerned. The place is at present in a very bad state, and is unsafe for pedestrians and traffic generally. The proposition made by the Company was considered very fair, and it was therefore decided that their request be acceded to.

Mr. Wm. White, on behalf of the residents of Lamberton Road, congratulated the Council on its decision re the placing of snow fences on Buckmaster's Field, to prevent snow blockade on this much frequented thoroughfare. He also referred to the necessity of having attention given to the sidewalks, particularly that running west from the junction of Cookstown Road, which if properly graded he thought would divert pedestrian traffic from the main thoroughfare. This matter was referred to the City Engineer, who will give it every consideration.

Mr. P. O'Mara applied for permission to construct a concrete sidewalk along the main side of his premises, now under construction, Water St. West, under the conditions named in the City Charter, i.e. he being prepared to pay half cost. He also asked if it would be possible to have the gully or grating at the foot of Breuney Street moved to a line north of the sidewalk. The City Engineer was instructed to give estimate of cost for next meeting.

Some sixteen residents of Duckworth Street, from Prescott to Holloway, asked that a proper drain be placed in their locality, as after every rainstorm conditions were such as to be an annoyance to the residents, detrimental to business, and a general inconvenience to the public, who were forced to use the main portion of the street during the winter months. The Council whilst not now in a position to carry out the wishes of the petitioners, is prepared next season to place a concrete curb and gutter along the sidewalk if they are willing to pay proportion of cost, according to frontage, for this improvement.

Mr. Jonas Barter, Chief Agent, S. P.A., wrote re the necessity of having a water trough erected in a suitable location in the East End of the city for the benefit of cab and truck horses. Owing to the proposed removal of the trough from the King's Beach, where the War Memorial is to be erected, another site will have to be provided. It was therefore ordered that the City Engineer make inquiries, and report as to a location that would be suitable to the persons most interested.

C. J. Howlett applied for permission to use retaining wall, McBride's Hill, and other places, for bill posting purposes, undertaking to illuminate the place with electric light, which in addition to improving the advertisements would also improve the thoroughfare. The matter was left in the hands of a committee of Council.

W. T. Cianci applied for position, which he understood was vacant, as Swimming Inspector, Long Pond. The Council is not aware that Mr. Hickey who has occupied this position for the past few years to the satisfaction of the Council and the public generally, has resigned. In the meantime, the application was ordered filed, and should any vacancy occur during the summer season, 1924, same will be given consideration.

Mr. Andrew Gobbie complained of negligence of Sanitary employees in not moving garbage, etc. from dwellings, Hamilton Ave. This was left in the hands of the Sanitary Supervisor for inquiry.

Mr. F. H. Balfour submitted report and plan of survey made in connection with the Mobile Watershed. The report showed that the Council's rights in connection with the waters of Pierre's Brook were not in any way interfered with. The Council intends, under its Charter, to protect the rights of the City in this respect, and further inquiries will be made at a later date.

A lengthy report was read from Architect Barter on the progress of work at the new Sanitary Stables, Hayward Avenue. It was ordered that tenders be called for the necessary plumbing, according to specifications.

The Medical Officer of Health reported 19 new cases of Scarlet Fever in the city during the past week, one of which was fatal. In Hospital at the present time, there are 54 cases of Scarlet Fever, and 12 Diphtheria. Under treatment at home, 67 Scarlet Fever and 4 Typhoid.

As will have been noticed, the Health Officer has published in the daily papers the Regulations governing infectious diseases, and the Council is co-operating with the Department with a view of enforcing the resolutions.

The contract for supply of hay and oats for the Sanitary Department was awarded Messrs. Geo. Neal, Ltd., and that of repairs to retaining wall, St. John's Lane, was awarded Mr. Jas. J. Spratt.

Attention was called to unsanitary condition of Angel Place, and it was ordered that the surface drains in this locality be immediately attended to.

The matter of City Tax collections was subject of considerable discussion, and the Secretary was instructed to take immediate proceedings against all persons in arrears, as also those who up to the present have failed to comply with the Poll Tax Regulations. As regards the latter, it may be stated there are a number of young men who, enjoying all the privileges of citizenship, do not appear to realize their responsibilities, and the Council is determined that the law in this respect will be carried out. Summonses will be immediately issued against defaulters.

The reports of the City Engineer, Sanitary Supervisor, Plumbing Inspector, etc. were tabled, and the accounts for work ordered, paid.

The meeting then adjourned.

SOLVED AT LAST!
 There has been a great deal of dissatisfaction and complaints about flavourings since the Prohibition Act has come in force, but there is no longer any need for comment. The Flavouring Problem is Solved at Last. Christy's Flavourings and Spices in tubes can do the trick. We have been establishing this line in this city since January 8th, 1923, and have done business on 120 streets in this city. Ladies are very high in their praise re the Christy Line, claiming it to be the purest, strongest, most satisfactory and cheapest in the end. Hundreds of orders have been solicited through ladies recommending it to their friends. There is no doubt about it, Christy's Flavourings are absolutely the best. That is what the ladies say, and what the ladies say is right every time.
 I am taking the liberty to inform the grocers of this city that we are now open to do business with them, and Mr. S. Kendrick will be calling on you in the near future. On receipt of the grocers' orders, a special ad. will follow to their advantage.
