STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER I.

Once more he panted, unable to speak. The Squire looked up at the beautiful, colorless face.

"What do you say, Dolores?" he asked.

"I do not know what to say, papa; I am bewildered," she answered.

"I have been too abrupt!" cried Lord Rhyworth. "Dolores, I wish I could pray to you; my prayers should be so eloquent that you could never refuse them. I will make you happy, and will live only for you. No younger man could give you the love, the care, the tenderness, the devotion that I shall lavish on you. Dolores, you will be truly happy with me, I am sure, if you will but risk the trial."

"You are very good," she answered. But he saw that her lips were pale, and that the words came with difficulty.

"I meant to be kind," he said, regretfully; "but I fear I have been cruel. I have been too abrupt. Dolores, you must think the matter over. I will take no answer yet—neither 'Yes nor No.' Think over it, Squire, will you do the same? And then, after a few days, you will write to me, Dolores. I do not wish to press my suit unduly, my dear, but always remember that your words will bring me either life or death."

"Whatever happens, Lord Rhyworth," observed the Squire, "I shall never forget your goodness to me."

"Never forget my love for your daughter," was the reply. "Use your influence for me, Squire, and you shall be the happiest man in the world. Dolores, if your heart says one word in my favor, listen to it. I must go now; and when you have an answer for me perhaps you will write."

"Yes," she returned faintly, "I will."

He took her white, cold hand in his, raised it to his lips, and kissed it with passionate tenderness. Then he whispered a few words to the Squire and retired.

Father and daughter sat for some few minutes after his departure as though they were turned to stone. Then, drawing her to him gently, the old man said:

"What do you think of his lordship's proposal, Dolores? Is it a favor from Heaven?"

"I cannot tell," she replied.

"He is very good, very noble; and, oh, child, from my heart I dread poverty and the workhouse! He is generous and wealthy. He said I should be a rich man. What will you do, Dolores! Can you give me some idea, something to rest my heart upon something to think of and hope for?"

"I will consider the proposal, papa," she answered. "I cannot decide at once. I must have time."

"You would be mistress of Deeping Hurst—a place the like of which is not in England—Lady Rhyworth."

of Deeping Hurst, and I shall be a rich man. You love me—do you not, Dolores?" he asked, with almost childish eagerness.

She kissed his forehead tenderly. "I love you so well," she replied, "that I would give my life for you, papa."

"And you will weigh his lordship's offer. I shall try to be satisfied with those words, Dolores. I feel better now. Get me a bottle of the Burgundy with the yellow seal—there is enough to last until I am a rich man, and you are Lady Rhyworth. Then I will go to sleep. My brain is tired; it aches with terrible misgivings. Sometimes, when I was a young man, I passed the aims-houses at Deeping. I should not like to live there, Dolores. You must not let the last of the Clifdens go there."

"I will think about what we had better do," she said; and, though his eyes followed her wistfully, she would say no more.

She brought him a pillow and lowered the blinds, making him comfortable as only such loving hands could, and then left him.

It was piteous to see how old and worn his face seemed to grow when he was left alone. He slept, and in his sleep he went back to the dreams of his youth, for he murmured continually the one name that seemed to be engraved upon his heart. "Dolores"; while his daughter went to her room, knowing that she held the issue of their lives in her hands. She had promised to think of Lord Rhyworth's proposal, to see what she could do; but her reasoning power seemed to have left her all at once, and she could not collect her thoughts.

CHAPTER XL.

"Left 'em at the station," he said. Then he added in a graver tone, "I wanted to walk. Come along; we'll all go together."

But Irene lingered behind and sat for quite five minutes before the fire, looking into the glowing wood. He had come back at last—she had known his step. He had come back. Well, it was time for her to go; to-morrow she would leave the Towers to pay one of the many long-promised visits, and—and stay away a long, long time. It was a quiet but a very happy dinner. Royce did all the talking, the two women scarcely taking their eyes off his bronzed face, the butler and footmen listening with all their ears, and, for the first time in the records of Monk Towers, passing the wrong things, and otherwise neglecting their duties.

After dinner they went into the servants' hall, and a cheer rose as the butler trotted to the table, and filling his glass, bid them all fill theirs.

"His lordship's health!" he cried, crimson in the face, and lifting his glass high.

A cheer rose—not the cheer that is bought with money and grudgingly rendered, but the spontaneous shout of affectionate welcome.

Royce looked round and pressed the countess's hand, for she was crying.

"I'm bad at speechifying," he said; "but I thank you all with all my heart. It's good to know that so many friends are glad to see me; and I can tell you that, if you've thought of me once or twice during the last two years, I've often thought of all of you. I've come back to stay with you."

"Thank God! Hurrah!" rose the hearty response.

"And I hope we shall still be friends as well as master and servants. Here's your health, one and all of you, big and small, short and tall. We'll have a dance some evening later on—oh, mother!"

He made Irene and the countess drink some of the wine, and shook hands with the butler and the coachman, and then took the two ladies away.

"Thank God, he's back!" exclaimed John, the coachman. "That sort's too good to be wasted in Africa. We want 'em at home—oh, friends!"

"The excitement had tired the countess, and very soon Royce gave her his arm upstairs.

"I'll come in any good-night presently, mother," he said at the door.

Then he went down-stairs, two steps at a time, and caught Irene as she was coming up.

"Going without saying 'good-night'!" he said in a low voice and with a rather grave smile.

"I—I was going to the countess," she said. "But I'll say good-night now, aff—and good-by."

"Good-by!" he echoed, his eyes fixed on her face.

"Yes," she said, hurriedly and with downcast eyes. "I—I have promised to go to the Balfarres, oh, ever so long ago; and—and I shall start to-morrow quite early."

"Wouldn't it do if I went back to Africa, Irene?" he said. She looked up at him.

"Yes, because you are running away from me," he said. "I know that."

He took her hand and drew her gently to the fire.

"Do you think I could stay if you went?" he said in a low voice that thrilled her. "Do you know why I decided to come back all in a minute? Shall I tell you? Because I could not keep away from you any longer, because the vision of your face that came to me every night grew at last into a torture of longing. Irene"—he stopped and looked at her; the fire-light cast a warmer glow on the lovely face, the long lashes swept her cheek, the beautiful lips were tremulous; the vision had changed to reality, and a great longing to take her in his arms welled up in his heart—"Irene, dearest, have you forgotten? Ah! she knew whether my heart would turn. Irene, I love you dearest. I have come back to ask you to be my wife."

See stood a moment, then she raised her eyes, and he took her in his arms.

As her head fell on his breast her cheeks rested on a white flower. She touched it as his lips met hers.

"Yes," she said, simply, as if answering her question, "I went there as I came home, and I found your flowers lying there. It was like a message from you, from her. I brought one away to remind you, lest you should have forgotten. For you are doubly mine, dearest, by your own gift, and—hers."

It was a solemn betrothal. The spirit of Madge seemed to be hovering over them and to consecrate their love, but there was no sadness in their joy, and no shadow of doubt, for as he took her hands there flashed upon him the memory of that day he had come from Camberleigh Fair, and had held her hands as he held them now.

Radio Program Heard In Tunnel Below River

Huddled in a dripping tunnel, 90 feet below the surface of the Hudson River and 1,600 feet from an exit, a group of transit officials, electrical experts, and newspapermen recently tuned in on radio concerts broadcast from Westinghouse Station KDKA, Pittsburgh, Pa., U.S.A., and a half dozen nearer stations.

The experiment was conducted at the farthest end of the uncompleted Jersey-Manhattan tube of the dual vehicular tunnel by technicians of the Radio Corporation of America, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and the New York and New Jersey Bridge and Tunnel Commissions.

The radio programmes were heard distinctly, both by ear phone and loud speaker. The fact that the ether vibration carried into the tunnel, penetrating 30 feet of water, 60 feet of earth and several inches of steel, demonstrated, said those in charge of the experiment, that the radio could be used as a life line of communication by entombed miners or deep-sea divers.

This convinces us that the future will enable our divers and caisson workers, whose lives often are imperilled when the telephone lines, they communicate with, are swept away, to carry small portable radio transmitting and receiving sets which will make them independent of all other means of communication," said M. M. Frolich, secretary of the New York State Bridge and Tunnel

Commission, who instituted the tests. G. Y. Allen, radio technician for the Westinghouse Company, predicted the experiments demonstrated the practicability of a miniature radio outfit that already had been designed for the protection of the miner.

"The telephone is now the deep mine worker's only means of communicating with those above ground," said Mr. Allen. "If there's an explosion or slide which cuts off his escape, the telephone lines usually are disabled also. The entombed miner is unable to tell his rescuers where he is, what has happened, what gas hazards there may be, what has been the fate of his companions, or to direct those burrowing to his aid.

"The radio should take most of the hazards out of mine rescue work." The test—called the first successful underground reception of radio, was conducted with standard stock apparatus. The programmes heard were the regular afternoon concerts of broadcasting stations in Pittsburgh and New York.

The Pittsburgh music came clearly and with normal intensity over the headphones, but less distinctly from the loud speaker. The local concerts, however, came so loudly over the amplifier that they were heard 200 feet away.

Giving Britain
"The Once Over"

"WHEN AMERICA CALLS, 'Lobster palace'—swagger restaurant.

"Rubberneck wagon"—charabanc. "Tuxedo"—evening dress.

"Table Talker"—wireless loud speaker. People in this country who grow accustomed to these and other similar expressions when the American delegates begin to arrive for the International Advertising Convention, which is to be held in the Conference Halls of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, next July.

There will be about two thousand of them, and to prevent any unnecessary misunderstanding, each visitor is being provided with a glossary of Anglo-American slang.

The idea originated with a half-facetious suggestion at a luncheon-party, that although the American who was present chanced to overhear it. Within a few weeks the glossary had become an accepted fact all over the United States, and thousands of applications came pouring in to the Convention offices in London from intending visitors.

"This little guide," says the preface, "is not intended to be comprehensive, but perhaps slightly instructive to both English and Americans. An Englishman rarely says, 'Fancy that!' although he frequently reiterates 'Really,' punctuated by an occasional, 'quite.'"

"Don't tell an Englishman you will buy him a drink. Ask him if he would care to have one. In either case he will probably say 'Yes.' If you are addressing a Scotsman, don't trouble to thank."

A glance at the glossary affords some idea of the conversational pitfalls that the American some to "give London the once-over" will have to face.

He may, for instance, find some little difficulty in convincing the British waiter that when he asks for a "high-ball," he really means a whiskey and soda and one can picture the mild flutter of astonishment of the Englishman on being told to "shoot"—get on with what he has to say—or to hear the guests at his tea-party described as "lounge-lizards."

"Cop," "Candy," "gay," "cracker," are all already familiar terms over here, but there is trouble in store for the first daring individual who refers to an Englishman as a "jane."

Some of the bright gems of the collection are: "Rant"—small-sized person. "Pull down"—earn. "Handout"—charitable gift. "Derby"—bowler hat. "Hobo"—tramp. "Jeans"—trousers. "Smooth guy"—plausible fellow.

Hotel life will present by far the greatest difficulties for the American guest. "Maitre d'hotels are always referred to as 'captains' in the States, a term that may at first be slightly resented over here. When an American wants pancakes he asks for "Flip-jacks," and "crackers" for biscuits.

The first visitor to ask the "bell-hop" (page-boy to show him the "shoe-shine parlour" is likely, in his own words, to get the "frozen mitt."

Roman Camp
Kitchen Found by English Excavators

London, May 17. (A.P.)—A camp house where probably in olden times the unwelcome Roman legions once feasted, has been found among a group of newly discovered Roman remains at Folkestone, on the English Channel, where the first Romans are said to have landed. The remains consist of two buildings, in each of which are about seven hearths, which leads to the belief that they were used as the cook houses and dining halls of early Roman camps.

The base of a watch-tower also has been found, built in a wall which evidently surrounded the camp. Several burial urns and Roman glass have been dug up, all in perfect condition.

The excavations are being made under the supervision of experts from the British Museum, to which institution the relics will be given.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

June 9th—Up betimes and abroad, wearing my great coat, the weather grown cold again. So to Water St., and meeting Mr. Moore to discourse with him of the St. Barbe election, and the difference between the roasts polled and the roasts counted, which he says is but to his mind a mistake in the first counting of them. I learn to-day how the House will meet soon for the despatch of business, being necessary to pass Supply before the end of the month, and the bye-elections will be held at the shortest notice. It is said by some how Sir W. Coaker or Mr. Abbott is like to contest Bonavista, against Captain Winsor, and it is reported also that Sir R. Squires will go to Harbour Grace, but I put little faith in this. Miss McKay tells me to-day how pleased she is with my journal, seeing how it do give her all the news in little compass, and is the greatest possible delight for me that I should merit so much praise. My wife asks me for new clothes for the summer, which she says I may quite easily pay for since I did win so many wagers on the Election, but when I tell her that I am not paid the most of them yet, she declares I can give her the clothes, and if I am not paid, she will have me spend less on her dresses for the autumn. News of Sir W. Lloyd, he again Registrar of the Supreme Court, and was reappointed by the Hickman Government. Indeed, a most excellent man for his position, being an energetic one, albeit a great mistake on his part to leave it.

FRANCE GROWING IN JAPAN.

TOKIO, June 9. French aviator, landed in the army flying field at Tokorawa, 15 miles northwest of here, at 11.40 this morning. He was given an enthusiastic reception by throngs of several thousand spectators. Except for an accident at Shanghai, which necessitated the use of a new plane from there to Tokorawa, D'Oisy's long hop was remarkably successful. His flight from Paris to Tokio in 45 days shattered by many weeks the previous flight record made by an Italian flyer in 1920. Capt. D'Oisy is expected in Tokio this afternoon, where an elaborate programme of entertainment has been arranged for him.

CATERPILLARS STOP TRAINS.

EDMONTON, June 9. Edmonton and surrounding district is threatened with a plague of caterpillars. Millions are in some parts of the district and have stripped trees bare of leaves. They have covered railway tracks and caused engine wheels to slip, stopping the engines temporarily. The pests even invade the houses and make them uncomfortable. Farmers say they have not attacked the crops as yet.

CANADA'S WEALTH IN 1921.

OTTAWA, June 9. Canada's national wealth in 1921 was $22,195,000,000, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which has included a survey of the tangible wealth of the Dominion in that year by inventory method. In the tabulation, agricultural wealth comes first with $7,982,871,126, nearly 35 per cent. of the total, and about $908 per head of population. Of the Provinces Ontario comes first with estimated aggregated wealth of $7,358,000,000, which is thirty-three per cent. of the total. Prince Edward Island has $119,912,000. Value of mints was estimated at $559,514,000.

weight capacity house. Majestic feature and artists win rounds of applause. A fine show, a big show, one of the best for some time, is the verdict of every large audience that attended the Majestic Theatre last evening. The picture, Peter B. Kyne's "The Pride of Palomar," won the commendation of all. The story, which unfolds in many thrilling situations, demands the interest of every spectator from the beginning of the first reel to the end of the eighth reel. A love story which will certainly meet with the wishes of the most critical. See the realistic horse race upon which depends so much. "The Pride of Palomar" is without exception Kyne's best production, and those who read the book last year will appreciate this as it is exhibited by the Paramount Corporation. The Majestic artists sprung another delightful programme last night. Opening with a contralto violin obligato "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," Misses McShane and Habel won the crowd. The violin renditions and the snappy finale only increased the desire to hear more. Their programme was a bright and classy one, and despite the fact that they are now commencing their fifth week at the Majestic it is quite evident that the patrons by their applause and attendance rightly wish them to continue uninterrupted their successful engagement. To-night the bill will be repeated also to-morrow afternoon and night. It will be of interest to readers to learn that the Majestic management have succeeded in securing the super special photoplay, "The Valley of Silent Men," which will in all probability arrive here in a few days when more facts will be announced.

Commotion Caused On Public Street

Last evening a large number of people were attracted to view an unusual sight on Duckworth Street. For a time it was difficult to ascertain exactly what the matter was. On the arrival of the authorities it was discovered that two small boys came to blows over an argument as to whether the "Dark Horse" would beat Linegar and O'Toole at St. Mary's Garden Party, to-morrow. After a short time the crowd dispersed with a unanimous decision to attend the Garden Party and see for themselves.

Dancing was indulged in to the music furnished by the C. C. C. Orchestra. At the conclusion the affair was voted a great success.

The Battalion's Band rendered a select programme of music throughout, which was greatly appreciated and highly spoken of. During the evening the lady friends of the Mess served supper. The arrangements were perfect in every detail, and the management are deserving of every congratulation for their efforts.

REASONS FOR GOING FISHING.
Some go fishing just for fish—
That is sport for market-men,
Let them have it, if they wish,
Bait their hooks and cast again.
I'm a fisherman who goes
Out upon the lake or stream
Seeking fish, but goodness knows!
Glad to catch a passing dream.

I can glory in the day
Whether big ones bite or not.
Steal my bait or get away.
Let me find a lonely spot
Where the sunbeams race and dance
And the birds of summer sing,
And I'll give my soul a chance
High above the world to swing.

I can lie out there and dream,
Glad if I can catch a thought
Of the wise Creator's scheme
And the marvels He has wrought.
Fish, of course, it's sport to net,
But there is so much to see
That I never sigh nor fret
When good luck won't favor me.

Some go fishing just for fish—
To go fishing, if you please,
Glad to hear the willows sigh
And the murmur of the breeze;
I go out to hear the streams
Laughing as they race along,
Giving up my soul to dreams,
Touched with beauty and with song.

Big Canadian Film Coming to St. John's

SEEN AT PRIVATE SHOWING AT MAJESTIC YESTERDAY.

Yesterday afternoon we had the pleasure of witnessing the private exhibition of a big Canadian photoplay at the Majestic Theatre. The film is entitled "The Stranger of the North," and is made by the Canadian Maritime Motion Picture Company of Sydney, N.S., a producing company in which a number of our citizens are shareholders. Speaking critically we may say that the production contains an entertainment that will appeal to all lovers of good drama, as there is a beautiful love appeal closely entwined together with a big punch and a number of startling climaxes with an excellent finish.

An unusually interesting feature of this production is the handling of the triangle of two men and a woman—how they work out and solve their difficulties in the Canadian North woods are cleverly portrayed by Richard Travers, Ruth Dwyer and Pat Hardigan. From intensely interesting love drama the scene suddenly shifts to one of the fiercest and most hard fought battles perhaps ever thrown on a local screen.

We understand the management of the Majestic has booked this feature and will screen it on Monday next.

Try this recipe for NUT BREAD: 4 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup English walnuts, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add the chopped nuts. Add milk and well beaten eggs. Put in two buttered pans and let stand 20 minutes. Set your oven heat regulator at 375 degrees and bake for 20 minutes. The Monroe Ministry Takes Office

Following the resignation of the Hon. A. E. Hickman at noon yesterday, His Excellency the Governor called upon Mr. W. S. Monroe to form a Government.

Hon. W. S. Monroe, Prime Minister and Acting Minister of Education.

Hon. J. R. Bennett, Acting Colonial Secretary.

Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C., Acting Minister of Finance.

Hon. John C. Crosbie, K.B.E., Acting Minister of Posts and Telegraphs.

William J. Walsh, Esq., Acting Minister of Agriculture and Mines.

Capt. W. C. Winsor, Acting Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Charles E. Russell, Esq., J.P., Acting Minister of Public Works.

This morning a Royal Gazette Extraordinary was issued, containing the official announcement of the above.

As announced by the Prime Minister at the meeting held in the Casino Theatre on Friday last, Mr. Monroe has decided to undertake the duties of Minister of Education but without salary.

It is expected that the Legislature will be called together as soon as possible for the purpose of passing supplies, and that the bye-elections necessitated by the departmental appointments will take place at an early date.

The work ahead of the Government is onerous in the extreme, but backed by the solid support of the country, and undertaken by a body of men possessing the talent and enthusiasm necessary for the accomplishment of such a task, they are in a position to proceed with their programme with confidence and to restore order out of the chaos caused by the series of upheavals which have made our public affairs the cynosure of the eyes of the world.

The Prime Minister's Appreciation

"Mr. W. S. Monroe, finding it quite impossible at present to personally acknowledge the many hundreds of telegrams of congratulations which he has received in the last few days, desires to publicly express his gratitude to his many friends in all parts of the Island for these tokens of confidence and loyal support."

International Magna Charta Day Association

The Newfoundland Committee of this Association is this week making its annual appeal to the Churches, the Press, and to teachers to bring before our people on or before Magna Charta Day (June 15th) the importance of friendship between the British Empire and the United States.

Magna Charta is the common heritage of the Empire and the States, and the love of true freedom is one of the most striking characteristics of both peoples. Their ideals are the same and they should be able to work together for the common good.

The Newfoundland Committee consists of His Excellency the Governor, the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland, Rev. L. Curtis, D.D., Hon. Mr. Justice Johnson, Sir Richard Squires, K.C.M.G., J. Alexander Robinson, Esq., D.C.L., and V. P. Burke, Esq., LL.D.

Feildian Meeting Largely Attended

COLLEGE TO BE PROVIDED WITH ATHLETIC GROUNDS.

Last night a large number of Feildians gathered in the College Hall to make arrangements for a drive to provide Bishop Feild College with suitable athletic grounds.

The President, Mr. C. E. A. Jeffery, having called the meeting to order, requested Mr. P. E. Outerbridge, the Chairman of the Organizing Committee, to outline the scheme of operations arranged, and with few alterations it was enthusiastically adopted.

Briefly stated the plan is to conduct a canvass of all Feildian supporters to obtain subscriptions in the form of a lump sum, or to spread the contribution over a period of a year by means of the envelope system.

The following were appointed team captains: Messrs. B. Stafford, D. Cook, L. J. Harnum, C. Carter and E. Colingwood.

The names of the teams will be announced later. The work will begin almost immediately, and judging from the keen enthusiasm shown last night it is safe to assert that the objective of $10,000 will quickly be obtained. The campaign will be extended to the outports as well, where the Old Boys of the School can be depended upon to respond to the appeal with a will. It has been decided to purchase the Tannery Grounds, practically the only unoccupied space near the city. Its situation lends itself admirably to the purpose and when the work has been completed according to plan it will not only add considerably to the appearance of the neighborhood, but it is hoped that the grounds will prove a considerable source of revenue to the College.

DOMESTIC REGULAR DIVIDENDS MAY EARNINGS HIGHER.

TORONTO, June 4.—Directors of Dome Mines, meeting for dividend action this morning, declared the regular 50 cents a share, payable July 21, to stock record of June 26.

To settle any doubts, Alex. Fasken, secretary of the Company, was asked whether this dividend was being paid out of earnings or dividend reserve.

"Most decidedly out of earnings," was his answer.

Dome May earnings, issued to-day, showed a gain as anticipated, the total being $271,055, as compared with $68,511 in April, $355,645 in March, and $355,633 in May a year ago.

This is an increase of $12,214 over the previous month and $15,522 over May of last year.

The directors' meeting was a somewhat lengthy one, but apart from the dividend announcement, no further statement was issued.

The regular quarterly operating report will go forward with dividend cheques. No additional statement was available in connection with the reported excellent developments and indications encountered below the 16,000 foot level.

THE VOGUE OF BLACK.

Obviousness Versus Sophistication.

Once upon a time it followed, as the night the day, that if you were buying furniture for a porch you bought green and white. To-day green and white. To-day green is considered too obvious by those who want smartness as well as durability from their furniture. Other colors will do, natural grass furniture is permitted, but black is the ultimate touch of sophistication. And it certainly is stunning. I have seldom smashed the tenth commandment more utterly than when I stood in a furniture store where I was making some modest purchase and gazed at a lavish set of porch furniture, chaise longue and deep lounging chairs and divan and table, done in black with orange decorations and upholstered in black and orange cretonne. The set cost as much as the bride of ten years ago would have put into all her furnishings. And it was just for a sun porch. Do you remember in your childhood how porches were furnished with green wooden rockers with rush seats? How the tempo has quickened in these last two decades! Black For Young, White For the Old. Black dress goods in the old days were chiefly utilized by middle aged and elderly women (meaning anyone over 30). To-day it seems as if the young were more likely to wear black than the old. And I think they can better afford it. Black, unrelieved, belongs to the young, who can set it off by their own youth and color. It is smart on them; it is a challenge. On the middle aged it is a handicap. They need the softer colors, soft grey and white and lavender. When they wear black it should always be generously relieved.

Whenever a fashion started by the 400 is taken up by the four million it is soon abandoned by the 400 and then progressively by the four million. I wonder how long it will take this to happen in the vogue of black?

Our Dormant Resources

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—May I claim a few lines in your valuable paper to give publicity to a few observations I have made during a brief time in St. John's. I would remind Newfoundlanders that this island possesses such an enormous amount of untapped wealth that under careful administration and development of her natural resources could make her a young England. The fishing industry is as yet an untouched gold mine, and calls for more rapid development and enterprise. The establishment of up-to-date canneries and chemical plant to deal with fish offal and its conversion into artificial manures. The salmon itself is of exquisite flavour and superior to the much boomed British Columbia sockeye. A strenuous endeavour should be made to increase the export of canned fish and cod liver oil to England. Newfoundland oil is quite equal in quality to the Norwegian variety. The dormant energy lying in the lakes and rivers calls for conversion into Hydro-electric power, and I would urge upon Newfoundlanders the necessity of giving more publicity to this form of motive power to the outside world and attract capital for its development. Given a sufficient and cheap supply of hydro-electricity the vast forests of lumber, other than that used for pulp and paper making, can be used for dry distillation and conversion into tar, alcohol, methyl alcohol and other products for which there is an enormous demand throughout the world in the paint and varnish making industries. The land thus cleared would become of extreme agricultural value and products hitherto imported could be home grown. On my way here from Port aux Basques I observed large quantities of saw-just lying rotten and useless to waste. The apparent useless article is of great value. By chemical process it is used in the manufacture of calcic acid and other bleaching chemicals used in laundries and brass and copper works. The development of hydro-electric power would give to Newfoundland a valuable alkali industry, carbide and acetylene gas, used in steel welding.

THE BALD SPOT.

I wash my head with patient soap until the scalp is sore, inspired by faint and flimsy hope of having hair once more. I've tried out every kind of dope that's sold at Dingbat's Store. I once had rippling raven locks that fluttered in the gale; then I observed, with sundry shocks, that baldness would prevail, and barbers, pharmacists and docs began to get my kale. I rubbed my head with scented grease, I rubbed it good and hard, and every day I had my niece anoint my dome, with lard, for there's no comfort, bliss or peace for a bald-headed bard. I bought restorers by the vat and found them all a snare; I wore a doodie in my hat to irrigate my hair; the more I used of this and that, the more my scalp was bare. The well known follicles are dead as yonder blasted tree; all desolate my scalp is spread, it's like a barren sea; the open spaces on my head are terrible to see. And yet I'm always buying dope to make the ringlets grow; along the druggists' shelves I grope, mid nostrums in a row; eternal in my bosom burn burns on with steady glow. Some day I'll find a magic balm to make the tresses shoot, so let no catfist fear or quail my sacred trust uproot; oh, throbbing heart of mine, be calm, my soul, be resolute!

Pure, clean wholesome Crisco adds to the taste of French fried fish.—adv.

Up-to-Date is "Singed Wings"

AT STAR MOVIE TO-DAY.

There's an up-to-date picture! One of the most artistic and picturesque sets ever made for a motion picture is the home of Bonita and Don Jose della Guardia, a Spanish dancer and her aged grandfather in "Singed Wings," a Foxwyn Stanlaw's current Paramount production. Bonita is played by Bebe Daniels, who is featured with Conrad Nagel in the picture, while Robert Brower portrays the character of Don Jose.

Black walls, grey with dirt and age, rise above a barren floor made ugly by great gaping cracks. Dismal, ghostly shadows cast their ominous figures into weird, meaningless shapes. The little sun that penetrates through the windows with broken panes casts a ghostly light upon everything within the rooms.

Rain spots stain the ceiling and side walls, leaving marks not unlike giant icicles. Here and there a big chunk of plaster had been torn from the walls. Evil smelling holes in the corner tell the story of dirty rodents.

Challenge Dance at the Crescent To-Night

DAVID MANSFIELD vs. MARTIN DAY FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

An extra special attraction will be run at the Crescent Theatre to-night in the form of a Challenge Dance between Martin Day, our local champion dancer and David Mansfield of Conception Harbour. This promises to be a close contest at both are capable dancers, and we hear that Mr. Mansfield is going to give Mr. Day a hard push. Anyway to-night will decide the better dancer and an exciting contest is looked for.

Of course the above event is a special added feature, as the regular programme of films will be shown. Last night's audience thoroughly enjoyed the bill, especially the Mack Sennett comedy "Where is My Wandering Boy This Evening?" They roared with laughter at Ben Turpin, who plays the hero role with satisfaction.

Every kind of speed—on a sidewalk scooter, on horseback, in fast motor cars on land, in faster planes in the air—is used to illustrate the theme

The Grace Maternity Hospital

The Grace Maternity Hospital has been open for about seven months and has met with the warmest approval of both doctors and patients. This Maternity Hospital is under the supervision of the Salvation Army and a representative Board of Management composed of the following:—

Mr. R. G. Winter,
Mr. Arthur Mews, C.M.G.,
Col. Clond, S.A.,
Staff Major Tilley, S.A.,
Dr. Roberts,
Dr. Modell,
Dr. V. P. Burke,
Mr. L. E. Emerson.

The invitation of the original committee of the Drive to raise money for the hospital was accepted by the Association as representative of the denominations and charitable organizations, and it is strongly hoped that many members will join. This Association was formed primarily to be responsible for the training of nurses apart from the work of the hospital and to assist where necessary in the equipment of the hospital and the raising of funds.

The original Executive Committee was as follows:—
President—Lady Allardyce.
President—Lady Winter.
Presidents—Wife of Prime Minister ex-officio,
Wife of Mayor ex-officio,
Mrs. H. A. Outerbridge.
Secretary—Mrs. H. M. Winter.
Treasurer—Mrs. Arthur Hiscock.
Clerk—Miss Cave.
Lady Winter was unanimously elected as President as an expression of gratitude for the interest she had taken in the establishing of the hospital, and her sincere and sympathetic interest in the work will be missed.

In order to make the work of the Executive Committee as simple as possible two sub-committees were formed:—

One for nurses—Mrs. C. E. Hunt, Chairwoman,
Mrs. H. M. Winter, Hon. Secretary,
Miss Southcott,
Mrs. J. Ayre,
Mrs. T. Anderson,
Miss Furlong, M. B.E.

The second for equipment:—
Mrs. F. C. Alderdice, Convener,
Mrs. Bennett,
Mrs. Tasker Cook,
Mrs. Dove,
Mrs. W. W. Halfyard,
Mrs. G. F. Grimes,
Mrs. Staff Capt. Tilley.

The Association will meet quarterly. The Executive Committee meets on the second Monday of each month. The standard aimed at in training for probationers and nurses will be that of the Central Midwives Board (C.M.B.) of London, and the following Doctors have kindly consented to act as Examiners:—
Dr. T. Mitchell,
Dr. C. Macpherson,
Dr. Roberts,
Dr. Carnell.

Newfoundland Poultry Association

The June conference of the Poultry Association was held in the Board of Trade rooms last evening. The President, welcomed Mr. Alfred Martin, of Hamilton Avenue, who joined the Association. A circular was approved of to send to outport folk showing the advantages of joining the organization. Records of May 28th were read showing the results of the egg laying competition at Truro, N.S., where White Leghorns leading in laying the largest number of eggs, Rhode Island Reds coming second. Secretary McCarter is enquiring about freight rate from England on live poultry, which at present is prohibitive—the present rate being more than the cost of the birds. The Association approved of the new regulations regarding the annual show, exhibitors yearly who make exhibits for the first time. All competitors who import birds must have them when here sixty days before the show in order to enter them for points. A resolution of regret was passed to Judge Tom Lynch, who has left for Boston. Judge Lynch has been an active member of the Club and the members are sorry to lose his services. Seven poultry club members reported their flocks had laid 3,490 eggs for May month. Secretary McCarter reports that Mrs. T. McCarty of Renews advised him of an extra large egg from one of her flocks weighing five ounces. Greater interest is being taken in poultry culture than for many years. A large number of hatching eggs have been distributed to the following places: St. John's and suburbs, Topsail, Bay Roberts, Heart's Content, Bell Island, Goulds, Dunville, Placentia, Grand Falls, Bonavista, Carnarville, Musgrave Harbor, Coley's Point, Belleoram, Conception Harbor, Upper Gullies, Lamaline, Botwood, Little Bay Islands, etc. The Association estimates that the members have distributed about three thousand eggs for hatching to date this season, of which about a thousand were White Leghorns, which breed is rapidly increasing in popularity in Newfoundland by reason of its early maturity in laying its eggs at five and a half months old and being a small consumer of grain.

Thrills and Romances in "The Last Moment"

GOLDWYN PHOTOPLAY DELIGHTS HUGE AUDIENCE.

Napoleon once said that a soldier in fear of his life who pressed steadily forward despite his trepidation was a braver man, and infinitely more heroic, than the fellow who never knew fear.

And in "The Last Moment," the photoplay which was shown at the Nickel Theatre last night, there is a stirring idea.

At the title would indicate, a youth with a sheltered and bookish background is unexpectedly plunged into a terrifying situation, but for the girl he loves he rises to heights of the finest heroism. The action takes place on a schooner mastered by a delightful brute of a man who enforces his whims with two brawny fists, his boots or with a belaying pin.

But the feature about "The Last Moment," which makes the picture one of the most thrilling ever screened, is "The Thing," a nightmare of horror, which suddenly confronts the nice young folks. What "The Thing" is, we won't tell you, because that would destroy the suspense if you saw the film.

There is some splendid acting, with Henry Hull, leading man of the Broadway stage hit, "The Cat and the Canary," playing the title role. Doris Kenyon, stage and screen star, was who made "The Hairy Ape" so successfully as the girl, Louis Wolheim, central on Broadway, is the cruel sea captain. The picture is a J. Parker Road Jr. production, presented by Goldwyn.

Strange Birds That Bray

Nature's oddities seem to be without number. An expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, searching for rare bird specimens in South America, found penguins in the jungle. This was remarkable enough for penguins always were associated with the ice wastes of the Antarctic. But these tropical penguins bray like jackasses.

Another queer find was called by Dr. Frank M. Chapman, leader of the expedition, "a case of evolution in progress while the species is still in existence." This consisted of two specimens of the steamer duck, one from inland and one from the coast. The coast specimen lives on crustacea and other small life. It has no enemies and does not have to search for food, so it has forgotten how to fly! It uses its wings merely to aid it in swimming.

Yard trimmings are being used around the skirts rather than up and down.

Placentia Send Greetings to Mr. W. S. Monroe

Dear Sir—Please allow me space in the People's Paper to congratulate our new Premier, Mr. W. S. Monroe, on his wonderful victory in Bonavista and to his candidature in every other district of the Dominion on the many way in which they fought the campaign.

During the last five years this District has been shamefully neglected just because we were in the Opposition, and this, Sir, coupled with the hand of Coaker has nearly brought us to the last stages of ruin. We backed Messrs. Sullivan, Walsh and Sinnott in 1919, 1922 and again this year, knowing that they were out to do the right thing. Placentia and St. Mary's did not listen to any catchcry, because we knew that Mr. Monroe would give a square deal to all hands, and it is just that, Sir, that we want. This loyal old district needs attention, and we hope that our representatives will look after us and see that we get a square deal, which has been denied us for a long while now.

I am, Sir,
Yours truly,
A REAL LIBERAL,

Radio Through 120 Feet of Solid Rock

Radio waves can leap through 120 feet of solid rock about as swiftly as through free air. This was demonstrated recently at Rocky River, Ohio, when a receiving set placed that distance underground in a mine shaft picked up concerts from local and distant stations.

The set was used with a highly directional loop. Because the tunnel at no point was higher than 5 1/2 feet and averaged four feet in width, the sides and roof exerted a marked ground capacity. This was overcome by swinging the loop parallel with the mine shaft, proving that the radio waves heard were penetrating the rock, not entering the mouth of the tunnel.

A loudspeaker was used. Local stations came in very loud, and many distant stations were heard faintly.

Kerosene Spray Designed to Clean Auto Engine

A kerosene vapor spray device for cleaning grease, oil, and dust from automobile engines and other machinery recently has been developed. It consists of a nozzle with a double jet, one of which is attached to the compressed-air line and the other to a kerosene can.

As the air is released from the air-line, passing through the hose and out of the jet, it sucks up kerosene through the hose connected with the can. The cleaner is operated on the injector principle and a powerful spray of kerosene and air is thrown against the motor, quickly cleaning off dirt and grease. The flow of kerosene can be regulated at will.

After the engine surface is cleaned, the kerosene is shut off and the motor is dried with the air.

Photographing Electricity Without Light.

The remarkable discovery that electrical disturbances lasting twenty billionths of a second can be made to record themselves on a photographic plate, without light, has been made by Mr. J. P. Peters, electrical engineer, Westinghouse Electrical & Manufacturing Company.

Photographs made in such infinitesimal time are most remarkable. To gain an idea of this most unbelievable speed it is only necessary to point out that light could travel around the earth seven times in one second and in twenty billionths of a second it can travel only twenty feet. The projectile of the monster cannon used by the Germans to bombard Paris would have gone in this length of time approximately five thousandths of an inch—not enough movement to be visible.

The instrument used by Mr. Peters to obtain his photographs is termed a Klydonograph. It consists of a suitable plate holder for receiving ordinary photographic plates, and is provided with suitable electric connections so that electrical disturbances may be brought into contact with the sensitized side of the plate.

When surges occur in the transmission line they photograph themselves. The surges may last two-billionths of a second, or longer, so that the photographic plate must register them in that minute space of time. Mr. Peters states that he has never yet detected visible light in the camera while photographing a surge and that therefore the impulses must contain some property in themselves that affect the plate. The prints obtained from such plate exposures show many geometrical figures of beautiful shapes and also take on certain definite forms according to the character of the voltage at the time the surge or impulse occurred. It is possible to observe from the developed plate whether the voltage at the time of the surge was positive or negative, whether it was alternating or unidirectional and the direction the surge was travelling, and its intensity.

Mr. Peters states that the photographs obtained by the Klydonograph are of immense importance to transmission engineers. The instrument for taking the photographs is the only practical device yet invented and made for obtaining data in regard to that type of line disturbance, known as surges. Heretofore, engineers have only known that surges occur but where they occur and their nature has been largely guesswork. The photographic plate now gives the characteristics of surges, thus giving the engineers data with which to devise line protection.

The instrument, Mr. Peters states, will do much to enable the engineering profession to increase the reliability and continuity of service on existing power lines. The device is applicable to transmission lines of all kinds and is connected to them by means of an electrostatic potentiometer.

In early tests Mr. Peters used a condenser discharge to simulate the condition that occurs during the period of a surge. From these discharges were obtained his first photographs of electrical impulses. Later, tests were made with the Klydonograph connected directly on a transmission line.

Mr. Peters is a native of Franklin County, Pennsylvania, U.S.A., and joined the Westinghouse Company in 1905, working first in the shop, but soon being transferred to the Engineering Department. His first engineering work was in the Transformer Engineering Department and he has remained in that department since. In the last few years, Mr. Peters has interested himself greatly in high voltage phenomena and did a great deal of work in connection with the 1,000,000 volt transformer at the Westinghouse High Voltage Laboratory that has created a sensation in the engineering world. While on this work, he was directed to develop some device for recording surges that occur on transmission lines. The Klydonograph is the result of his investigation.

Flying Autos in 20 Years

AN EXPERT'S VISIONARY PICTURE OF MOTOR TRAVEL IN THE FUTURE.

By E. V. RICKENBACKER.

Ace of Aces in the World War. Within the next two decades autos will be made with folding wings so that when on a straight stretch of road they can be spread and the machine will take to the air. The present day tendency to lighten the construction of automobiles through the extensive use of aluminum alloys, without sacrificing the safety factor, and the great progress made in airplane construction as the result of recent experiments with motorless gliders, as well as motor gliders, are the two factors that will make this probable.

This combination automobile-airplane will have a body shaped similar to the present hydroplane hull, making it both a water and land machine. The wheels will protrude sufficiently to permit the machine to be driven on the highway after the wings have been collapsed, propeller disengaged and the automobile control mechanism applied, which in reality will give a three-in-one conveyance.

Imagine the convenience of being able to drive around in the city, as is done nowadays, and then when you start for some other town and get on a straight of way or enter a near-by pasture, to unfold the wings on the machine and take to the air! It will mean quicker transportation for the suburbanite, for people living at a distance from a large city, and for the traveling salesman who now uses the motor car and highways to cover his territory.

Recent glider trials held throughout Europe have shown ways of increasing the lifting power, while reducing the spread of airplane wings. Further, it has been demonstrated that with properly constructed wings and properly designed motors it is possible to fly almost any type of fuselage.

The development of automatic safety devices to control flight will decrease the liability of accident. Today, flying is no more dangerous than motoring on the streets and highways—sometimes I think not as dangerous. However, people have a fear of flying that will have to be overcome just as they had to overcome their fear of traveling 20 miles an hour in the horseless carriage of 20 years ago.

Save in time of war, there is no need for stunt flying, and that is the only really dangerous part in flying. It is a good bit like driving through heavy traffic at 60 miles an hour—every one doesn't have the skill to do it.

Rigid rules will be laid down for flying, much the same as there are rules for vehicular traffic today.

In the combined automobile-airplane I see a machine, that is not greatly different from the present-day motor car, except in its decreased size. The body will be narrower and shorter, to reduce weight, and will be of a modified streamline design. The engine will be made lighter and smaller, but with about the same horsepower as is used today through the use of a supercharger.

The wings will fold back against the sides of the car when driving along the street and will have sufficient span to lift the car off the ground at a moderate "take-off" speed. The 23-foot span that it is possible to build on the present-day motor-car—12½-foot wings on each side—will be sufficient to lift the lighter and more efficiently built machine of 1940.

Consider what such a machine will mean to the man who works in the city. He could live several miles farther away from the heart of the city and spend less time getting to and from work. By flying, more speed could be made with a greater degree of safety than now possible on the streets and highways.

It would not take a great stretch of imagination to foresee municipalities regulating the height of buildings to uniformity, the streets to be bridged, in order to form one vast landing-field in the center of each city for flying machines. The landing-field or tops of the buildings could be connected with the street level by elevators so that a machine alighting could descend to the street and be driven about as an automobile. At the end of the business day it would be driven on back to the elevator and lifted to the roof to take off for the homeward flight.

Such a forecast is more than pure fancy. It is founded on present progress in automobile and airplane design.

210 Miles of Jointless Pipe

TO CART-NATURAL-GAS SUPPLY.

KIRBYVILLE, TEX.—C.P.—A continuous steel tube 210 miles long, without a coupling or a screw-thread connection will be laid this summer between the Texas-Louisiana natural gas fields near Shreveport, La., and Beaumont, Tex.

When completed, the longest 16-in. diameter pipe line in the world will cross two rivers, innumerable creeks and run underground through four countries to carry the natural gas to Beaumont. Oxygen-free welding will seal every joint, replacing the old method of screw couplings, thus reducing the upkeep of the line to the vanishing point, and conserving a great quantity of gas from the leakage which has always been unavoidable with threaded joints.

Jumped into the Sea to Save Balloon

A French balloon, one of eleven which started from St. Cloud, Paris, in competition for the Aumont Thierville Cup, landed at Broughton, Hampshire, with only the pilot aboard, his companion, M. Boitard, having jumped into the sea when the balloon was caught in a Channel storm.

During the night the balloonists lost their bearings, and while over Solent they found the sea was escaping from the bag. They threw out all the ballast, but the balloon continued to sink and was in danger of falling into the sea, when Boitard adopted the daring expedient of jumping overboard.

He was seen by a man on the cliffs swimming about two miles out to sea. Coast-guards put out in a boat and effected a rescue, Boitard was suffering from exhaustion from his half-mile swim and taken to a hospital. Meanwhile the balloon, relieved of Boitard's weight, rose again and the pilot was able to effect a safe landing at Broughton.

Produce and Provisions.

Codfish—Not much can now be written as to codfish. The St. John's market is practically denuded, except for the late caught fish of last fall, which after all is comparatively small. The outlook for the future is bright, and with a good catch of fish well cured, we are certain to market most of our catch of both Shore and Labrador at prices that will rebound to the country's benefit. Cod is making its appearance already in many places and the fishery will soon be in full swing, and we must hope for the desired success. The Norwegian fishery now promises to be a record one of nearly so, this year's total to date being 62 millions as against 46 millions for last year, but no doubt most of this will have been disposed of in the European markets before our new fish comes into competition with it. The exports for the week were 2,547 quintals for the West Indies, and 350 quintals to Italy, while the schr. Jordon T. Tibbo sailed for Oporto from Grand Bank with 4,761 quintals.

Flour—As far as trade in flour goes the market has taken on the activity usually evident at this more or less busy season, and much business was done during the week. Much of the goods is being handled in connection with the supplying for the fishery in addition to the current consumption all over the country. To date the imports we will up to the average of other years, and it would not be surprising if imports this year were not in excess of some of the more prosperous of previous periods, as the article is now perhaps cheaper than it has been for many years past. The remission of the duty and the cutting of the freight one half has largely contributed to this. The market all the week has been strong, and there was an advance of 20 cents per barrel. The imports for the week were 4,534 bbls. by the Winona from Montreal, 1,987 by the Essex from New York, and 840 by S.S. Heika. The prices, wholesale, locally, vary from $4.80 to $7.25 and $7.30 per barrel, according to the quality required.

Rural Tragedy in Spain Brings Death to Four
Madrid, May 12. (A.P.)—Three persons were killed and one burned to death recently as a result of an attempted burglary of a lodge occupied by a woman and her family at a remote railway crossing near Monzon.

A gypsy woman armed with a revolver broke into the lodge with the object of robbing it. The crossing-keeper overpowered her, locked her in one of the rooms and then sent her son to fetch his father. The gypsy woman's husband, who had been keeping watch outside, realizing that his wife was a prisoner, caught the son, killed him, and himself got into the lodge to release his wife.

The gatekeeper succeeded in locking him in another room where a big stock of wood was kept and then set fire to it. The man was burned to death.

Meanwhile two policemen, attracted by the cries of the tortured gypsy arrived on the scene. As they entered the room in which the gypsy woman was locked, she fired and killed one of them and was herself shot dead by the other.

Bible Text Used as Ballot
Berlin, May 19. (A.P.)—When the tellers in one of the outgoing Berlin districts counted the votes in the recent Reichstag election, they found one ballot marked "John 4:24."

From the Bible the tellers learned what the voter thought of the 188 candidates running in the district: "Behold, ye are of nothing, and your work of naught; an abomination is he that chooseth you."

California to Produce Silk
OHIOVILLE, Cal., June 4. (A.P.)—A silk farm near here has commenced operations of incubating more than 2,000,000 eggs of silk worms for the commercial production of silk. The eggs were imported from France and Italy. The farm has more than 25,000 mulberry trees planted for feeding the worms and furnishing the material from which silk is made.

somehow higher while the present dearth of the article prevails, but those in trade, competent to speak on the matter, do not believe the advance, if any, will be excessive. The reports for the week were: 300 bbls. by the Rosalind from New York; 100 bbls. by the Winona from Montreal; 200 bbls. by C.S. Spas from Halifax, and 100 bbls. by S.S. Schem from Boston. The local prices, wholesale, are: Best Flank, $24.50 per bbl.; Extra Family, $23; Best Packet, $23; Family Special, $20; Best Ham, $17.50; Afternoon, Boneless, $20.25; Boneless N.Y., $26.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was so run-down, and could barely do my housework and washing I just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do everything that comes along, and we all have your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAUBER, 944 23rd Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been praised by women.

year, but not much so. Had the duty remained on the goods, however, it would have been much heavier. During the week two cargoes of molasses arrived here. The schr. Catherine Moulton discharged 300 puns, 30 tiers, and 150 bbls., and the schr. Little Stephen, 267 puns, 25 barrels and 147 half barrels—for factory (new) 90 cents the gallon, and choice (new) 80 cents.

Tea—Like most other lines, the market in tea has been active of late, and a good deal of business is being done. In England the duty on this article has been lowered considerably, and quite a rush demand has ensued there as a result, so that some of the more prominent importers say that in some of the exporting countries an advance has been noted of about one penny or nearly two cents per lb., and no doubt there will be a sympathetic advance in this market. Up to date, however, nothing like this has been noticed, and prices rule the same as last week. The weeks imports were 100 packages by the Rosalind from New York; 335 by the Digby from Liverpool; and 100 by the Schem. Figures locally, wholesale, vary from 34 to 80 cents per pun, according to quality.

Hay & Oats—There is not much doing in hay and oats at present, nor will there be for some months to come. Of the latter there were imported during the week 3,056 sacks by S.S. Winona from Montreal, and the figures quoted locally are: P.E.I. Black Oats, $3.50 per sack of four bushels; White 2 feed, $3.35; Mixed, $3.30. Hay is quoted at $36 per ton.

Miscellaneous—Amongst the miscellaneous imports for the week were 2,347 sacks potatoes, 268 packages of butter, 88 packages of cheese, 300 crates cabbage, 8,000 fire clay bricks, 750 packages cement, 800 sacks corn, 100 bags rice, 437 sacks peas, 780 boxes soap, 350 bags salt, 600 pieces of spruce deals, 100 bbls. prunes, 325 packages soap powder, 300 tubs lard, 150 pieces pipe, 205 packages shoes, 50 cases canned goods, 92 pcs. maple flooring, 98 packages rubber boots, 103 packages slippers, 155 packages paper, and 75 cases oranges.

His Business is Collecting Spider Webs

Spiders usually are considered little more than a nuisance, but to George Hannes of Toledo, Ohio, they have been the backbone of an unusual business for the past 35 years.

Hannes is a spider expert who collects spider webs for use in collecting instruments. The fine strands are the strongest and the finest obtainable. Since they are only about five ten-thousandths of an inch thick they are said to serve better than any other substance for the cross hairs on the surveyor's telescopes or for field glasses.

The web is taken from the insects by allowing them to drop from a loom. As fast as they drop, the web, left behind, is wound on spools and placed in storage. A certain species known as the Michigan gray and brown spotted spider is raised for the purpose.

London Fire Department HAS 85-FOOT LADDER.

An 85-foot extension ladder that serves either as a fire-escape or a water-tower, is the last word in equipment of the London, England, fire department. It is carried on a 65-horse-power motor-truck chassis.

The hydraulic pressure for raising, extending, and revolving the ladder on its turntable is provided by a three-throw pump at the rear of the truck, driven from the engine shaft. The ladder can be extended to its full height, it is said, in less than a minute.
