This Afternoon's Report Continues Cheerful—Bad Weather, Though, on the Somme—Russians Win on 30 Miles of Riga Front

London, July 24—British troops have captured a large part of the village of Pozieres, says the official British statement issued this afternoon. They also gained some ground near Highwood in the direction of Guillemont.

BAD WEATHER ALONG SOMME

Paris, July 24—(noon)—Bad weather prevails along the Somme front in northern France, and last night passed quietly, with the French troops there, says the war office today.

In a raid near Vailly, north of the Aisne, German trenches were penetrated and some prisoners taken.

RUSSIAN VICTORY NEAR THE COAST

London, July 24—Progress for the Russians is continuing in the Gulf of Riga to Uxkull, a distance of more than thirty miles. The greatest advance was along the coast line.

TRIBUTE TO AUSTRALIANS

London, July 24—General Sir Douglas Haig today sent the following telegram to the Australian government: "Part of the first Australian division made a very gallant, skilful and successful attack on Pozieres village, a very strong point in the enemy's line and captured two guns and some prisoners with slight loss."

Russians in Far East

Tetograd, July 24—Forces of Emperor Nicholas advancing in Turkish Armenia are steadily operating upon the fortified town of Erzinga from the north and south, says a Russian official statement.

Two Britishers Sunk

London, July 24—Lloyd's announced that the British steamer Llogwen, 4,088 tons, and Knutsford, 3,422 tons, have been sunk. The crews of both vessels were saved.

AMERICAN OFFICERS VISIT VALCARTIER

Quebec, July 24—Several American officers visited Valcartier Camp yesterday afternoon and were entertained by General Wilson and his staff. The party included Lieut. Col. Murray, commanding officer of the camp at Plattsburg; Lieut. Col. Ketchum, in command of the U. S. artillery on the Atlantic coast, and Major Lawton, Q. M. G. at Plattsburg.

The Royal Mail Steam Packet liner Tyne is aground on Old Proprietor ledge, about twenty miles south of Grand Manan. She ran aground yesterday morning about 8.30 o'clock during a dense fog. The steamer was deal laden for a trans-Atlantic port, and was outward bound. She had sailed from Farnborough Roads.

MAJOR F. C. JONES NOW SECOND IN COMMAND

Capt. Thompson Steps Up

Is Advanced to Be Major and Commands A Company—Lieut. Rennie of A. S. C. Becomes Captain—The Field Ambulance Train

Some promotions in the 118th Battalion were announced today. Major F. C. Jones has been promoted from command of "B" Company and made second in command of the regiment. He is succeeded by Capt. A. R. Springer, formerly adjutant, with major's rank. Capt. Stevens has been appointed from the 180th to the post of adjutant. Captain (now major) W. G. Thompson has been appointed to the command of "A" company.

That the promotions are well merited is shown by the record of the officers. Major Jones is a South African veteran who served with distinction through the entire campaign and, since joining the 118th, has shown his ability as an officer. Major Springer was formerly an officer in the imperial service, and has seen campaigns in India and other parts of the empire. His previous experience helped in making him a most efficient adjutant. Before joining the 118th he was a member of the government engineering staff and his last big job was the supervision of the construction of the new highway bridge at the falls. Major Thompson was accountant in the Union Bank here until he entered the service. As no overseas appointment was available at the time he qualified he entered the home service and proved a valuable officer while in command of the detention company at the Maine border.

Lieut. Rennie Promoted

Lieut. Andrew Gordon Rennie, who went to England with No. 5 Co. C.A.S.C., has been made captain and paymaster of the 4th Divisional Train and will soon proceed to France.

Field Ambulance Train

Patrons of the Opera House were treated to an unexpected feature on the programme on Saturday evening when Sergeant-Major E. G. Westall of the Field Ambulance train appeared on the stage and addressed the large gathering at both performances. His object was to recall that three years ago when the tug Helena left for the scene this morning, and the Neptune went down the bay this afternoon.

It will be recalled that three years ago this fall the Cobecque, which was owned by the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, which is of Southampton, Eng., was wrecked across the bay from where the Tyne is aground.

This is the first accident which has occurred in the bay since the beginning of the war, despite the exceptionally heavy steamship traffic. The weather conditions yesterday were very bad.

BRITISH CASUALTIES

London, July 14—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Casualty lists issued by the war office show that during June the British army lost 428 officers killed, 1,022 wounded and 64 missing, a total of 1,519.

These figures bring the aggregate losses to date to 23,424 of which number 8,997 have been killed or died and 18,466 wounded and 1,971 missing.

IRISH BILL MUST AWAIT AGREEMENT

London, July 24—Premier Asquith today told John Redmond in the House of Commons that the British government did not propose to introduce an Irish bill in regard to which there did not appear to be the prospect of a substantial agreement by all political parties.

WILL NOT ALLOW CASEMENT TO APPEAL TO THE LORDS

London, July 24—The Guardian says that a certificate to allow Sir Roger Casement to appeal to the House of Lords against his sentence of death by hanging has been refused.

London, July 24—Sir Frederick E. Smith, attorney general, has informed Sir Roger Casement's solicitors that he is unable to grant his father, who would enable him to take to the Lords his appeal against the sentence for high treason in connection with the Dublin riots.

NOT THE SAME NOW AS IT WAS IN AUGUST, 1914

Anxious Tone in Writings of German Correspondents

FEELING ALLIES' POWER

One Writer Tries to Keep His People Buoyed Up With Hope That the Allies Cannot Break Through

Rotterdam, July 23—(Toronto Globe cable)—Max Oshers, in a despatch to the Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, from western headquarters, says: "We are shaken by burning pain as new streams of German blood are flowing and we recognize our powerlessness over what cannot be changed."

"After two years of war, the angel of destruction is passing through the ranks as mercilessly as if the battles had only just begun, whilst our enemies suffer fearful losses, we do not blind our eyes to the new mourning to come to us, nor over the seriousness of the fate of this decisive battle raging on all fronts. We should be unworried of the stupendous task, we have to fulfill, and the almost incomprehensible sacrifices our heroes make, if we were not able to understand the whole fury and burden of these weeks."

"We feel the raging storm of the united power of the enemy. It is now a question of everything for the life or death of our nation. We stand differently now, from what we did in August 1914. The concluding points have to be reached and everything is in the balance."

Describing Thursday's fighting, the correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt writes as follows from western headquarters: "The enemy seems unable to believe he is faced by an opponent with contempt for death. He appears not to understand that the German infantry is not to be overcome by the terror of these conditions. It has given us absolute conviction that the German infantry is able to break through the German wall."

Berlin, July 24—The correspondent of the London Evening Standard, writing from the front, describes the fighting of July 19-20, saying: "Even the powerful force of the enemy's attacks in the first days of July is greatly surpassed by the rage, exactness and swiftness of the German counter-attacks. No matter how often the enemy is repulsed, they return again and again, in fresh waves of assault. As if their army were inexhaustible they try to storm our positions against our hammering machine guns and cracking rifle fire."

NEWS OF A LOT OF ST. JOHN BOYS IN WORLD WAR

Writing from Farm Camp, Woodcote Park, Epsom, Surrey, England, on July 11, Lance Corporal E. A. Belding says: "This place is full of St. John boys. There are McElhenney, Swetka, Sergt. Ryan, Sergt. Major Richardson of the 26th; Sergt. Hicks of Sackville, Lemont and Holt of St. John and myself of the old 6th C. M. R.; Shanks of Douglas Barton of Queen street, brother of Dr. Barton, came yesterday. He joined the 48th Highlanders in Winnipeg. Cecil Hughes of Sackville had a bad wound, but he is game."

Lt. Corp. Belding was still waiting to have some straps removed from his face and leg, but expected before long to be drafted back to the front.

WILL BE VISCOUNT GRAY.

London, July 23—For "personal and family reasons," Sir Edward Grey, British foreign secretary, who recently was created an earl, has received the royal permission to take the title of viscount instead of earl, under the style of Viscount Grey of Falloden. The inference is that the foreign secretary took the lower dignity to avoid the risk of being confused with Earl Grey, formerly Governor General of Canada.

Frenchman Makes Flight Over Berlin

Paris, July 24—"On June 20, at 9.30 o'clock in the evening Sub-Lieut. Marchal of the French aviation corps," says an official report, "ascended at Nancy on board a Nieuport monoplane of a special type, taking with him a supply of food sufficient to last fourteen hours. His mission was to cross Germany at a low altitude, in order to drop proclamations on the capital, Berlin, and then to descend in Russia."

"This audacious flight was accomplished point by point, and after flying all night, Lieut. Marchal was compelled to descend at 8.30 o'clock in the morning of June 21, near Cholm, Russian Poland, at least 100 kilometres (sixty-two miles) from the Russian lines. He was made a prisoner."

"The proclamation which Lieut. Marchal dropped on Berlin began with the words 'We could bombard the open town of Berlin and thus kill the women and innocent children, but we are content to throw only the following proclamation.'"

"England Raised To Rank Of a Great Military Power"

Venizelos Refers Also to Russian Re-organization and Flatly Challenges Greek King's Assertion of Draw in War

Athens, via London, July 24—Former premier Venizelos openly challenges King Constantine's belief that Germany cannot be defeated, in an article which appears in today's Herald. Venizelos quotes an interview given by the king to an American Press representative, last January, in which the monarch declared that the war would result in a draw.

"Who is now so blinded by prejudices," asked the statesman, "that he still believes in German victory? Who today, after the reorganization of the Russian army, and the organization of King Constantine's army, by which England is raised to the rank of a great military power, still imagines that the war can be ended by a bastard peace, in which there will be neither victor nor vanquished?"

GALLANT WORK BY CANADIANS

Ottawa, July 24—The Canadian eye-witness today says: "There was no cessation to the activities of our front line battalions as day by day our artillery frequently silenced the enemy's batteries, destroyed his earthworks, cut his wire entanglements and dispersed his working parties."

"In daily duels with this class of weapons, our trench guns maintained their ascendancy. There was very little hostile sniping, owing to the superiority of our sharpshooters. It was noticeable that German observation balloons were pulled down quickly upon the approach of our aeroplanes."

"Incessant labor by our men affected great improvement in our defenses and communications. Enemy working parties were repeatedly dispersed. Our patrols, both offensive and defensive, continued to dominate the situation. Almost every night small raids or patrol encounters took place."

"In front of a Nova Scotia battalion a patrol of five men, under Lieut. Gale and Corporal Canning went out and, as they approached the German wire, observed two parties of the enemy, each about to escape. Our party returned without loss. Another light patrol under Lieut. Sapit of the Royal Canadian Regiment, engaged an enemy patrol with bombs. Six casualties were inflicted upon the Germans."

"One night about eleven o'clock an enemy patrol was observed trying to escape and a party went out attempting to cut off their retreat. Our patrol once attacked the hostile party on the right. Bombs were thrown and Private McLean shot one of the enemy, who fell to the ground. The remaining Germans ran away."

"Although under fire and in full view of the hostile trenches, Corporal Canning and Private McDougall carried the wounded German back to our lines, where he died."

Paris, July 24—"On June 20, at 9.30 o'clock in the evening Sub-Lieut. Marchal of the French aviation corps," says an official report, "ascended at Nancy on board a Nieuport monoplane of a special type, taking with him a supply of food sufficient to last fourteen hours. Six German Torpedo Boats Are Put To Flight

ARE HIT, BUT MAKE COAST

Turn Tail as Light British Force Sights Them and Make For Belgium—Only One Britisher Hit and Two Men Wounded

London, July 24—Six German torpedo boat destroyers were engaged in a running fight by British light forces off Schouwen bank yesterday, says an official statement, issued by the British Admiralty this afternoon. The German vessels were repeatedly hit, but they succeeded in reaching the Belgian coast.

"At midnight of July 23, while near the North Hinder light vessel, some of our light forces sighted three enemy destroyers who retired before damage could be inflicted on them. Subsequently, off Schouwen Bank, six enemy destroyers were engaged and a running fight ensued, during which the enemy was repeatedly hit, but succeeded in reaching the Belgian coast. One of our vessels was hit once, and one officer and one man were slightly wounded. There was no other damage or casualty."

Heavy firing was heard off the Dutch coast all day Sunday, says a despatch from the Hague by the Exchange Telegraph. The destroyers were observed returning toward Zebruggen. Two of them had a heavy list.

RESTRICTIONS AND GLOOM IN BERLIN

American Recruits Experiences in Capital of Germany

Athens, July 23—(Despatch to the London Daily News)—An American with business interests in Constantinople, arrived here today with a story of experiences in Germany. He was told to get to Turkey quickly by the Daily Express. In spite of influence in diplomatic quarters in Berlin, difficulties were put in his way, and he eventually was informed that permission for civilians to travel by the train was refused.

At the Hotel Bristol, where he stayed in Berlin, prices were as usual, but the quality of the food had deteriorated, just as the mark had done in neutral exchanges. Though the American was there five days, he was not favored with meat any day, yet there were supposed to be two meat days in a week.

English newspapers were not available, except on certain days, when they were withheld because they contained accounts of allied successes.

The people were depressed and no longer talked of a crushing victory, although a majority believe that Germany will not be beaten.

They profess to have invented a new bomb, which they will use as a last resort in the hope that its destructiveness will turn the tide by wrecking London, among other things.

Twenty Drowned in The River Near Berlin

Copenhagen, July 24—Twenty persons were drowned in two ferry boats collided with each other on the Spree, near Berlin, on Sunday, according to the Politiken. One of the boats was sunk.

Taking Even the Partially Recovered Wounded and Bringing Soldiers From Italian Fronts—Serious Internal Disorders, as Well

London, July 24—(New York Times cable)—A despatch to the London Daily Telegraph from Milan says: "Information from Lindau, Switzerland, states that the Austrian frontier is again closed to passengers. The reason is believed to be a general levy en masse in Austria, the calling out of the last reserves, including only half recovered invalids, and wounded from the barracks, the withdrawal of a large part of the troops from the Italian front, and the transportation of all troops in Serbia."

"Austria thus is collecting whatever remains of her forces, and sending them to the Russian front. It is said that already 100,000 Austrian troops, mostly territorialists, who formed the army of occupation in Serbia, have been sent to Galicia. The maximum of reserves that can thus be collected is estimated at about 400,000 men, and if this reserve army also is defeated by the Russians, Austria will have used up her very last resources in human material."

"There is also another reason for closing the frontiers, which is to prevent news getting to the allies about the grave situation in the Austro-Hungarian empire. Owing to panic, created by the Russian victories, disorders have broken out in so many towns that the rigorous state of siege had to be continued. News that at Salzburg on last Saturday, an immense mob of women and soldiers marched through the town and demonstrated in front of the governor's palace, demanding with loud cries the conclusion of the siege, has been received. A Swiss correspondent says there was a big demonstration in Budapest on last Sunday night, in front of the residence of Count Tisza. The crowd even shouted 'Hurrah for Russia!'"

Premier Tisza appeared on the balcony, and spoke to the threatening mob, saying they must have confidence, that Hungary was undoubtedly passing through great dangers, but that they must be worthy of their heroes at the front. The mob, however, howled in response to the prime minister's words, and proceeded noisily to various newspaper offices, protesting against the attitude of the press, which, they cried, was concealing the truth from the public.

May Have Machine Gun School Here

New Officer for New Brunswick Headquarters; News of the Soldiers at Home and Abroad.

A rumor is current in military circles that a machine-gun school is to be started here within a month or so.

Major McWilliams of the 8th Royal Regiment, Quebec, who went overseas with the 12th, and was later on transferred to the 40th, has been invalided home and will shortly come to the New Brunswick command and will be attached to the headquarters here as an instructor.

On Saturday night a draft of one hundred men from the 66th battery, being mobilized at Woodstock, passed through the city for Halifax.

The 131st Overseas Heavy Siege Battery, formerly known as the 4th Siege Battery, are, according to information received in the province, at present in France.

The casualty list issued on Saturday, contains the names of the following New Brunswick men: Infantry—Wounded, G. F. Dunlop, St. John; B. Thibault, Milltown, N. B. Mounted Rifles—Officially reported previously as missing, now unofficially reported prisoner of war, Sergt. Westley Carson, Campbell, N. B.; Walter Conley, 85 St. Patrick (officially reported as a prisoner of war) and Corp. Thomas J. Bovard, Moncton.

The midnight list is as follows:—Infantry—Wounded, Capt. George Keefe, St. John; prisoner of war, officially announced, John T. Saunders, St. Marys, N. B.; acting Corp. Harry Roberts, 871 Main Street, Moncton; Lance Corp. J. D. L. Montgomery, 13 DeMonts street, St. John.

Flying Corps—Wounded, Lieutenant Burpee McLeod Hay, Woodstock, N. B. Artillery—Wounded, Sergt. John A. Ingram, Newmarket, N. B.

The long list of casualties that have come in over the week-end indicates that the Canadians are again in the thick of the fighting. Word has been received in Apohaqui that Corp. R. N. Secord, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Secord, has paid the supreme sacrifice and has laid down his life for his country.

Clyde E. Newcomb, of Hopewell Hill, has met a similar glorious end, and has died a soldier's death. Word has also been received in Fredericton that Gunner William Lawson has been admitted to No. 80 General Hospital, Calais, slightly wounded.

Alexander Ingraham, of Newcastle, a nephew of Charles Robinson, Sydney street, has also been wounded. That Sergt. Robert Parker Randall, Moncton, has been wounded is made known in a telegram received by his cousin, Levi Randall, of Moncton.

Mr. Newcomb, of Hopewell Hill, was the eldest son of Mrs. Ella Newcomb. He was in the 29th, under Colonel McAvity. He was twenty-four years of age, and was a fine character.

Corp. Ralph N. Secord was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Secord, and was a fine type of young manhood. He was twenty-two years of age.

The F.H.S. brother, John B. Dawson, ticket agent in the Union Station, has enlisted in the field ambulance train. He is a son of C. M. Dawson, I. C. R. ticket agent in Truro, and has four brothers at the front.

At least six persons were killed and more than forty were injured by the explosion of a time bomb in the midst of a throng viewing a preparatory parade in San Francisco. The bomb was concealed in a suit case, packed with cartridges and junk, which was left on the sidewalk. Frank Josephson, a lodger in a sailor's boarding house, has been arrested on suspicion, but the police have little evidence to work on.

Willis Priest, aged twenty years, of Milo, Me., has been arrested, charged with the murder of George Herbert, an aged recluse, at Five Islands, Me., on March 19. It is said that the prisoner has admitted taking $200 from the shack after the murder, but has not confessed to the killing.

A closer watch is being kept along the Maine and New Brunswick border by the United States customs authorities and even the hand baggage of passengers over the St. Stephen-Calais bridge is being searched.

SERIOUS CHATHAM FIRE Chatham, July 22.—The lighting system of the town of Chatham was put out of commission this morning by fire which broke out at 2 o'clock. The building was almost completely destroyed, only the walls are standing while the equipment it is thought will be a total loss.

The origin of the fire is not known at present, but the flames burst out close to the large drum and in an instant the whole building was a seething mass of flames. The firemen worked like demons but were unable to save the building. At 3 o'clock the whole town was in total darkness excepting for the glare of the fire. The loss is estimated at $80,000, partially covered by insurance, as a result the town will be without light for some time.

OPPOSITION CONVENTION. The opposition party in Kings county will hold its convention in the court house at Hampton, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when three candidates will be chosen, who will be nominated when the general elections are called on. A large attendance is expected.

One of the surprising things of today (says the modern star) is the number of home made frocks that don't look like home-made frocks. Either girls must be much more clever with their needles than I suppose, or dressmaking must be an easier job than I imagined, else it would be a simple matter to pick out the home-made frocks. But it certainly isn't, except in a few cases.

THE MODERN WAY TO FURNISH HOMES

In these days of Pullman sleepers, no one would think of using a prairie schooner to cross the country. With modern plumbing facilities, nobody takes clothes down to the river to do washing. The old way of doing things gives place to the new. It is the same way with furnishing a home. No one thinks of doing without furniture in the home. We make it possible to have not only the necessities, but what is modern and in good taste, at Amland Bros.' low prices.

THE WAR NEWS The week begins with cheering news from all fronts. The continued Russian advance is perhaps the most important feature of the news, for that advance threatens to outflank German armies in the north and sweep into the plains of Hungary in the south.

The Stairway of The Alps

(By Sidney Low, in The Times, London.)

In the following despatch from the Italian Army Headquarters, Sidney Low, special representative of the British Press, gives an appreciation of the magnitude of Italy's task in the war.

There is no prospect on earth quite so grim as the prospect of a mountain range that is thrown north on the north, as it unrolls itself from the plains of Lombardy and Venetia.

How often has he gazed at it in sheer delight over its bewildering wealth of contrasting color and fantastic form, its effects of light and shade, and its measureless space.

But now, for these many months past, his eyes have been bent upon it, eyes not of the artist or the poet, but those of the soldier.

It was such a pair of military eyes that I had beside me a day or two ago as I stood upon the top of a certain high tower, in a certain little town in northern Italy, where much history has been made of late, and since the owner of a well-ordered mind and a gift of lucid exposition, I found myself obliged to grasp the main elements of the extraordinarily complex problem with which the chiefs of the Italian army have to grapple.

As I looked and listened I felt that the chapter which Italy is contributing to the record of the greatest war of all time is one of which she will have every reason to be proud when she has at length brought it to its victorious conclusion.

Length of the Line. There are few such view-points as this. In the luminous stillness of a perfect morning of the Italian summer I could look north, and east, and west, upon more than a third of the battle line, that goes snaking across the mountains from near the Swiss frontier to the Adriatic.

And what a length of line it is! In England some people seem to think this is a little war that Italy has on hand, little in comparison with the campaigns in France and Russia. But it is not small weighed even in that exacting balance.

The front measures out at over 400 miles, which is not very far short of the length of that ribbon of thread and earthwork that is drawn across Western Europe.

Here, as there, every yard is held and guarded. It is true there is not a continuous row of sentries; for on the Austro-Italian front there are places where the natural barriers are impassable even for the Alpine troops who will climb to the eyes of the eagles.

But wherever nature has not barred the way against both sides alike the trenches and fortifications stretch across the saddle between two inaccessible peaks, ringing round the shoulder of a mountain dipping into the valley, and then rising again to the very summit, or passing over it.

There are guns everywhere—machine-guns, mountain guns, field guns, huge guns of position, 6 in., 10 in., 12 in., which have been dragged or carried up all their mountings, their equipment, their tools and ammunitions, up to their stations, it may be 4,000, 4,000, 6,000 feet above the level.

And at those heights are the ladders of shell which must always be kept full so that they may come down when the hour of the single day in which, at any point, an attack may develop.

Such is the long Italian battle line. When you know what it is you are not surprised that here and there, and now and again it should bend and give a little before an enemy better supplied with heavy artillery and much favored by the topographical conditions; for he has the higher mountain masses behind him instead of in front, and coming down the great Alpine stairway while the Italians are going up.

That, of course, is the salient feature of the campaign. The Italians are going up, the Austrians coming, or trying to come down. On the lofty uplands, range beyond range, in enemy territory, the Austrians before the war had their forts and fortified posts, and their strategic roads; and almost everywhere along the front they have observing stations which overlook at greater or less distance, the Italian lines. Thus the Italians have had to make their advance, and build their trenches and place their guns in the face of an enemy who lies generally much above them, sometimes so much above them that he can watch them from his nests of earth and rock as though he were riding in an aeroplane.

It is a great achievement in strategy and military engineering that the Italians are attempting. But it is also something more. It is the reversal of a historic process that has gone on at intervals for over fifteen centuries. Down that mountain stairway to the fertile fields and wealthy cities of the plain have the invaders of Italy tramped. Hun and Goth and Lombard, Frank, German, Austrian, flung themselves from the heights upon that low-lying delectable land of sunshine and verdure.

What invasion would have meant. As it was before, so it might have been again. It is commonly expected outside Italy, and I believe by most people in Italy itself, that the story of the former campaigns would be repeated. The Austrian armies, with all their advantages of position accentuated by their superiority in heavy artillery, would have forced their way down the valleys of the Brenta and the Adige, and the Italians would have been compelled to retire behind the Lombard fortresses, and then, since fortresses in modern warfare, they might have had to effect a further withdrawal beyond the Po. The retirement might have been retrieved when the full strength of Italy developed in a victorious advance. But even though the invasion of Italy had ended

'PAPA' JOFFRE STILL ON THE JOB

Other generals may come and go, but General Joffre directs operations of what is probably the greatest army ever generalised by one man—the allies on the western front. He is seen in the picture inspecting a Russian brigade in France, accompanied by Generals Gouraud and Lovitsky.

The One Peace Condition

(Sir E. Goschen, in the Neue Zürcher Zeitung.)

(The following letter from Sir Edward Goschen, who was British ambassador in Berlin from 1908 until the outbreak of war, to an English journalist in Switzerland, was published a few days ago by the Neue Zürcher Zeitung. It has appeared throughout the German press. The letter is dated June 10.)

I have noticed that during the last few months statements have been constantly appearing in the Swiss press to the effect that Germany is victorious on land and sea, that she is ready to make terms, and that France and Russia are ready to treat with her, but are prevented from doing so by Great Britain.

Although I have retired from public affairs since the beginning of the war and have no official position, I have followed the trend of public opinion very closely; and as I have had the advantage of frequent intercourse with prominent British statesmen and other leaders of public opinion in England, I think I may claim to be conversant with the feelings of the British people and their leaders with regard to the course of events in the war and their attitude towards the peace proposals in Switzerland, the United States of America, and other neutral countries. I therefore venture to lay before you a few remarks with the object of making this attitude clear.

The revival of the peace propaganda in question has not passed unnoticed in Great Britain. But it has excited much less interest in this country than it has done in neutral countries, or for that matter in Germany, for the simple reason that Great Britain is at this moment not thinking of peace. That small section of the British people which is in favour of peace is no larger than it was a year ago; it is almost unrepresented in parliament, and for all practical purposes of government it may be said to be negligible.

The rock on which all such overtures as are now being made must inevitably split is the knowledge, which the British people have, that the objects for which Great Britain entered the war have not yet been attained, and may be taken as certain that until there is a prospect of their attainment the British people will never tolerate peace, and that the British government who so much as ventured to discuss it would stand for a moment.

The German press campaign in neutral countries represents Great Britain the obstinate partner in a consoling sighing for peace. That is a charge which France and Russia may be left to answer—should they think fit to do so.

Conquerors and Conquered.

I would, moreover, call your attention to the fact that the German chancellor has never formulated the peace terms which Germany would be prepared to accept. He appears to think that the entente powers, having failed as yet to be the conquerors, are accordingly the conquered. The answer to this claim is ludicrously simple. It is this—The entente powers do not accept the view that they are conquered.

That their armies are not at Magde-burg or Breslau, that Belgium and Serbia and considerable portions of France and Russia are in the hands of the enemy is, of course, true. But if territorial acquisitions are, as the German chancellor still maintains, to be the standard of comparison between the belligerents, it is open to the entente to point out that, while the Central Powers have occupied 110,000 square miles of territory, the Entente Powers have occupied 676,000 square miles of territory. The entente governments have, however, never accepted and will never accept such a standard of comparison. With every month that goes by another, and a larger, standard will automatically force itself on German, and neutral, consideration.

Those who think that reverses weaken British resolution, singularly misjudge the British people. Consider the position in which Great Britain stood rather more than a century ago, in 1811. The power which was then attempting to incorporate the continent of Europe under its rule was the French empire, which had then attempted to impose upon Europe a military hegemony had to all outward appearance attained its end. Its armies had overrun not two or three provinces of hostile territory, but the whole of Central Europe, together with the Italian peninsula. It had incorporated within its boundaries, under its 'ogis,' Western Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Illyria, Spain, Russia was under French influence. Only Portugal and Turkey on the European continent were independent of the French emperor's will, and that merely because it was not his desire at the moment to attack them.

'Nolesse Pressure' of Sea Power.

In England there was outspoken criticism of ministers, criticism far more weighty than any which is now being voiced. The Walcheren expedition had proved a failure, costly both in treasure and in lives. Yet in the words of the historian of sea power, Mahan—

Amid all the tramping to and fro over Europe of the French armies and their auxiliary legions there went on unceasingly that noiseless pressure on the vitals of France, that compulsion whose effects were brought home to the German people and their rulers, as it will be, they will perhaps be ready to suggest terms, which the powers of the entente can accept. Those terms must include reparations in kind, and in money, and the provision of means to reconstruct the wreckage of the German empire.

Do Germans, do neutrals suppose that the British people have such short memories that they can forget the story of the last attempt to dominate Europe was brought by their efforts, by their sea pressure, by their subsidies to an end under French influence. Only Portugal and Turkey on the European continent were independent of the French emperor's will, and that merely because it was not his desire at the moment to attack them.

When the consciousness of these things has been brought home to the German people and their rulers, as it will be, they will perhaps be ready to suggest terms, which the powers of the entente can accept. Those terms must include reparations in kind, and in money, and the provision of means to reconstruct the wreckage of the German empire.

WONDERFUL RECOVERY OF THE SERBIAN ARMY

(G. Ward Price in London Times.)

The way in which the Serbian army reconstituted is one of the miracles of the war. Six months ago it could hardly have been said to exist. It was worn out with fighting against enormous odds, and the retreat through Albania had reduced it to a disordered mass of famishing and dispirited men, without a chance, one would have said, of ever pulling themselves together and taking the field again.

Yet today, when General Sarrail and General Milne were the guests at a festival of one of the most famous Serbian regiments, the burly, vigorous men that marched past them with even, swinging step, and afterwards sang their songs and danced their national dances were splendid examples of the present soldier at his best.

Their discipline was excellent, their high spirits undeniable, and these were the very men who came through Albania last winter leaving thousands of their comrades dying of sheer exhaustion by way. You need to see them now, full of heart and courage again and new-equipped and accounted from bayonet to bootsole, to realise fully the wonder that has been wrought.

The credit of it falls chiefly to the courage and resiliency of the Serbian character, but without the help brought by the French and British missions it would have been impossible for the Serbian army to come into existence again as such. Now that this great effort has been brought to full success it is well to recall some of the difficulties that have been overcome.

The first and most imperative necessity when the invasion of their own territory into rocky, foodless and hostile mountains Albania was to meet the Serbians with food and save them from absolute starvation. These supplies of food had to be gathered at Brindisi and run the gauntlet of the Austrian fleet in the Adriatic before they even reached Albania. And then there remained the hard task of getting them inland over the roads so bad that nothing in the United Kingdom but the roughest tracks in the Highlands can be compared with them.

Officers and men of our Army Service Corps were sent to Medua, Durazzo and Avlona to organize this service along the line of the Serbians' retreat, from Skutari to the neighborhood of Avlona.

So exhausted and dispirited were they that it was necessary to place food depots at intervals along the coast so as to enable them to continue their journey. Between 60,000 and 80,000 men had struggled through from Serbia to Skutari. Day after day they had marched by goat-tracks over precipitous mountains in heavy rain and were often literally with no food for days together. Every few yards a man would sink down in the snow to die, and only the strongest came through. The men were also exposed to attacks by Albanian brigands who laid wait in the mountain defiles. One Albanian priest was even treacherous enough to betray a number of Serbian officers by inviting them to a meal to give him time to gather in ambush.

An Englishwoman Sergeant

Amidst all these grim happenings was an Englishwoman. She had come out to Serbia at first as a Red Cross worker but later became a soldier, wore man's clothes and was promoted to the rank of sergeant. In the hospital here at Salonika, while recovering from the effects of the privation she had endured, she would tell in a matter-of-fact way the whole story of her life since she had spent behind a rock with her rifle, returning to the front of British officers was sent out at the end of November and of these an advance party pushed on to meet the Serbian general staff at Skutari, while the rest established their headquarters at Home and a base for food supplies at Brindisi. But for their endeavors it is difficult to see how the Serbians could have done anything but collapse and die of sheer hunger at Skutari. Bread cost ten to sixteen shillings a loaf. Some of the men went six days without tasting food at all. In vivid contrast with those night-mare days is the present happy time of abundance. As I look out of my window as I write this I see two burly Serbian soldiers ladling out soup from a big pot over their fire into pannikins for little Greek girls who come to claim their hospitality every mealtime.

At considerable risk from mines the Italian navy ensured the transport of food to Medua, but it was not possible to embark the Serbians there, as the Austrian fleet lay at Cattaro close by and might at any moment make a sortie. So the weary Serbians had to be roused again for another heart-breaking march southwards to Durazzo through dangerous marshes and in constant apprehension of an Albanian or a Bulgarian attack. It was another fearful journey, during which hundreds died of dysentery. At Durazzo only part of the army could be taken on board ship, and the rest had yet another seven days' march to Avlona. And along all this bitter way the officials and men of the British Mission stood by their sorely tried Allies.

The Arrival in Corfu.

From Avlona the French, who had now taken in hand the direction of the re-organization, quickly shipped the Serbians to Corfu. But even at Corfu their troubles were not over. The 80,000 troops who had marched from Skutari had been increased by 30,000 who had come straight from Albanian to Avlona, and the difficulties of feeding and lodging such an army in the island, where no previous conveniences existed, were very great. The landing of troops began in wretched weather, and the men were still so feeble that they went on dying of dysentery and exhaustion for weeks afterwards. But the French and English officers worked hard, while the Serbians devoted themselves to the task of reforming their broken-down divisions into fresh units. Roads and jetties had to be built, chiefly by English engineers; clothing had to come from France and England; rifles were shipped to Corfu, and horses and machine-guns. And so gradually order developed from chaos and the confused multitude of men who had struggled across Albania became an army again.

Then the Serbians were transported to Salonika through seas where they were awaited by submarines which were even sighted from shore by the Serbian troops at drill. The French were responsible for organizing this shipment, and they did it extremely well. The first shipload arrived here on April 15, the last had been discharged by noon on May 20, and not a man was lost on the way. Now they are all here—hard-bitten, war-seasoned veterans, both young and old. What strikes one about them chiefly is their good humor and simplicity—brave 1st men with the heart and spirits of a child. Their uniforms are a most literal expression of their alliance with the Entente, for some wear English tunics and other coats of French horizon blue. Only the Royal Guard have kept their old full-dress kit—blue coat and red trousers trimmed with gold braid.

Finishing Touches.

The Serbian camps, of which generals visited one today, stretch for miles in a beautiful setting on a green plain flanked by a black mountain and shining sea. Here they are putting the last touches to their training, though they need little, for all are veterans. One regiment we saw today has lost more than a thousand killed and 8,000 wounded, out of an original strength of 4,000, since this war began, and there has not been a single year in the last five in which they have not been engaged in some war or other.

It is not only an army you see when you visit them, but a nation. That is the one melancholy thing about this Serbian force—that it should be all that is left of the manhood and vigor, bodily and intellectual, of so gallant a people. But none of the things they have undergone can damp their ardour or quell their buoyant spirit. After a day's work in the field they will join hands to dance the solo, officers and men together, and sometimes, to guests from the Allied armies.

Sir John Jellicoe

Describing a meeting with Sir John Jellicoe, a writer in the London Daily News says: His manner was as simple and sage as that of any sailor who knows from long experience what troubles the sea is likely to show him and who can meet such problems without adding one

GIRLS' CLUB CAMP Through the kindness of J. A. Little, the members of the Girls' Club of the Playgrounds Association, enjoyed a very pleasant sail up the Kennebecasis on Saturday afternoon. Returning, the party headed at "Wo-he-to-Camp," where supper was served on the beach. The evening was spent in playing games, and a stroll through the woods for fern roots and flowers.

The delightful woods and excellent facilities for boating and bathing make this camp an ideal place for a pleasant outing. A tent has been fitted up with sleeping accommodation for those who wish to remain over night, and the girls own a good-sized boat. There is no charge made for these privileges. Parties in charge of a chaperone leave for the camp every Saturday afternoon. The camp will be kept open until October 1. Any business or employed girl desiring further information can obtain it at the Girls' Club rooms, 92 Princess Street, open every afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bullock, 187 Germain Street, have very generously given permission to the Girls' Club to use the spacious grounds at the rear of their residence for basket ball and physical culture. Owing to the unfavorable weather they have been unable to use these grounds on Tuesday, the regular gymnasium night. The girls are asked to take notice that the basket ball team will meet as usual at the club room on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The grounds will be used on the first fine evening this week, providing Tuesday is not fine enough for outdoor sports. All girls are cordially invited.

MATRIMONY MADE AN ALLY BY THE GERMAN RULERS

(Ignatius Phayre in Weekly Scotsman.) There are no courts these tragic days, but only warring camps, with kings and princes roughing it in the field with the rest. And a glance at all this dashing royalty reveals many strange and dramatic situations. The Duchess of Albany, for instance, is one of ourselves, with a Civil List pension and a prominent place on relief societies, whilst her son, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, is fighting fiercely against us as a staff officer of the Berlin Kriegsakademie! Bismarck was a great believer in matrimonial alliances as a source of German strength. It is notorious he could never get on with the Kaiser's English mother, who had no passion for Deutchtum, and was, therefore, in constant collision with his devotees. Today we see Teuton spouses set upon European thrones, all the way from Stockholm to Sofia, where Ferdinand the Coburgs hides ingloriously from the horrors of war. "What can you do?" asked his disgusted chief of staff, "with a man who shudders at the sound of the word 'war'?" "I will never go near a hospital!" Pushing Marriage Policy Now why do German Royalties pervade the European courts in this way? Firstly because there are so many of them; secondly, because of the pushful policy behind the marriages they make. Then the Greek Crown Prince--who is now perplexed King "Tino," bonded with a warning telegram from Berlin, or Grosse Hauptquartier of the German army--was long ago marked out as a husband for the Kaiser's favorite sister, Sophia.

For several years young Constantine served as an officer in the Second Foot Guards of Berlin. Here the prince studied the strategy of great Moltke, and the "Schrecklichkeit" or terror-cult of Clausewitz, that apostle of ruthless war. King Tino today makes no secret of his knowledge "as a soldier," "I say frankly that I view with alarm the prospect of attacking Germany. Not because I happen to be the Kaiser's brother-in-law, but simply because Germany has proven herself all-powerful."

I have hinted there are very many German Royalties. Do you realize that the aggressive empire contains four kingdoms, seven principalities, six grand duchies, and five duchies? The ruler of all these has large families. So the destiny of Teuton princelings seems to permeate foreign courts and form dynastic ties which it would be folly to ignore when reckoning the assets of Deutchtum, or Germanism, which we know to our cost is served with a patient devotion worthy of nobler aims.

Well far-seeing vision and unvarying success these royalties have invaded Europe's thrones. Take Denmark here, the male line died out over half a century ago, when Frederick VII died, and the Great Powers proceeded to elect a new king. Of course the crown fell to Germany's nominee--Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg. And the present ruler of Denmark married Princess Alexandra of Mecklenburg.

The Camp Shave MENNEN'S is especially advantageous when shaving under difficulties. In camp or while travelling you may not always be near hot water--or soft water. But Mennen's is independent of water conditions--hot or cold--hard or soft water--instantly produces a rich abundant lather that softens the beard, and makes even a dull razor rebound. There's no free caustic in Mennen's and there's no "rubbing in" required. Mennen saves you time and texture, and turns the business of shaving into the most enjoyable pleasure that shaving can ever hope to be. Be sure your kit contains Mennen's.

Princess of Hesse-Darmstadt, shares the Kaiser's throne. But German influence in the opulent Russian Court is now known for a crafty and mischievous force. That it had gained power--quite incredible power--Russia was to learn to her cost when war broke out.

King George's Daily Plug CHEWING TOBACCO

Is Absolutely Good It is made from leaf tobacco that has enough elasticity against the teeth to keep it together, instead of granulating in the mouth as most plug tobaccos do. It has a delicious non-irritating, palate-tickling sweet taste--because medical authorities agree that the ordinary "strong", unsweetened plugs are injurious. It is not affected by artificial heat or old age--does not get hard--because it is protected by a highly glossed tobacco leaf envelope.

THE UNEQUALLED RUSSIAN CAVALRY

In the early part of the war we read a lot about the efficiency of the German Uhlans (cavalry), but their glory has faded before the recent sweep of the Russians, led by their fine regular cavalry. Picture shows a reserve squadron riding across an open plain in the recently captured country of Bukovina.

SUNDAY WAR NEWS FROM ALL FRONTS FAVORABLE

London, July 23.—A despatch to Reuters Telegram Company from Petrograd says: "A Russian advance of five miles is reported on the left wing of the Riga sector. General Von Linsingen's recent losses on the Styr and Lipa rivers are computed at least 50,000 men out of the three corps engaged." "The Russians are on the point of entering the northeast corner of Galicia, General Boehm-Ermoli and General Count Von Bothmer being out-flanked, both on the north and south.

FARM HOME CONVENIENCES

Much Needed Improvements to Make The Rural Home Attractive

At the last annual meeting of the Commission of Conservation a report of a survey conducted on 400 farms during 1915 was presented. Some interesting data was secured respecting conditions in many rural homes. Keeping the rural people on the farm is one of Canada's national problems. Many causes have been suggested for the exodus from the city. The conveniences of the city home constitute one of the chief attractions. Notwithstanding this, however, very few farmers have introduced these conveniences into their homes.

The British captured the German outer works near Pozieres by assault, and carried the fighting into the Langueval was also the scene of a desperate struggle. The official statement, which was issued at 2.25 o'clock this afternoon, says: "The battle has been resumed today all along the German front from Pozieres to Guillemont, and reached a stage of intense violence. The new French lines south of Soyecourt on the Somme front have held against a German counter-attack, the war office announced this afternoon. The German attempt, made last night, broke down the French line. The artillery battle along this front continues." "London, July 23, 7.50 p.m.—A new advance of Turkish forces on the Sinai peninsula to within about thirty miles of the Suez Canal has been reported to some five miles east of Katia (a distance of about sixty miles, along the Mediterranean coast), where it is entrenching. CHANCELLOR OF EXCHEQUER DID NOT SAY SHIPPING COMPANIES TO BE TAXED

London, July 23.—Examination of the full text of the announcement made in the House of Commons Wednesday by the chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. McKenna, shows that he did not state, as reported, that new taxes would be imposed on excess profits of shipping companies. The question was raised in the House of Commons by Robert Out-ward, who suggested the government ought to take a larger share of the profits. Mr. McKenna replied by explaining that the government, through the income tax and the excess profits tax, already was taking 77 per cent of those profits, which he considered rather a large share. It did not allow the companies to add much to their reserve funds.

Sir William Osler Finds Nerves Are Chief Problem in This War

Typhoid Virtually Conquered Through Lessons Learned in Other Great Conflicts; Awful Strain is Telling on Men

London, June 15.—Sir William Osler, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, today, at Oxford, gave an insight into the potent effect of medical science as applied to the war. Sir William laid stress on these two outstanding points: "That typhoid fever, which in nearly every great war has been an enemy as formidable as the bullet, has in this war been so combated as to be a negligible factor. That the opposing armies, because of the terrific nature of fighting with heavy artillery, find themselves confronted with a grave problem in the breakdown of soldiers from shattered nerves. As an infectious enemy which in former great wars sapped the strength of the medical phase of the war, not alone in the use of preventive serum against infection, but in applying every precaution to keep the camps and trenches clear of germs." "As to the treatment of nervousness cases developing from incessant strain under the nose and havoc of never-ending combat, Sir William said the leading scientists of England, France and Germany are devoting themselves actively to finding the most accurate methods of effecting cures that may be permanent." "In England, today, in France and Germany, huge hospitals in the most advantageous environment have been established—scores of them—where soldiers are put under expert handling in the effort to restore shattered nerves. Already effective results have been obtained in England and France. But, says Sir William, the most important work of the hospitals, where the "nerves" cases are treated, personally supervising hundreds of patients in the hospital. Dr. Osler in this activity is Sir James McKenzie of Oxford, Sir Clifford Albutt, Regius Professor of Medicine at Cambridge, and Dr. Morley Fletcher, another prominent British scientist.

It is no longer the deadly first-rank enemy.

Treatment of Nerve Cases. "Turning to the tragedy, as he called it, of nerve attacks of soldiers in the present war, Sir William said it was something that assumed a "great" problem for the nations at conflict." Sir William is personally devoting himself to the hospital maintained by Mrs. Williams Waldorf Astor at Cliveden and at the Singer home at Paignton, both of which are ideal. In these, many hundreds of soldiers broken in health have been, since the war began, gradually brought back to control of shattered nerve power. Many have been sent from the hospital completely restored, others are still under treatment for what, to the scientists, is one of the most difficult things medical science has to combat. "In this war it is likely that many of us are a bit jumpy," said Sir William. "Nerve is a special trait of the Briton, who has always shown a remarkable capacity to hold on. But in our war we are undergoing a change of gear. Untouched of levels of energy being tapped to meet the strain upon us." "The soldiers in the field are undergoing a strain such as was never experienced in any other world war, at least upon such a gigantic scale; they are under the strain of shell fire, the noise of shell, day and night. It is but natural that strong-willed men who never knew what "nerves" were before the war should be affected. A limit some time has to be reached in man's endurance. It is not alone the British soldier who is affected by the terrible uproar of the battlefield, but the men of all the armies." "Dr. Oppenheimer, a German scientist, writes in German medical publications of the breakdown of German troops from shattered nerves. A natural consequence of modern day warfare." "I don't mean to say that the British or Allies are breaking down at any alarming rate from the wear and tear of the war. That is not so. But I am thinking of the cases of the many hundreds of men we get in our hospitals and what the future holds for them. By careful painstaking treatment we are able to bring a man out of a condition of pitiful nervousness and put him so he is able to master his nerve forces once again." "But when the war is over we will have to consider that many of these men are no longer as rugged as they once were, and for them some adjustment must be made in the scheme of life-work. What is it to be? How is the British nation to handle it? How are all the warring nations to meet it? That is a giant problem to come when the war is done."

R. K. Y. C. SERVICE AT CRYSTAL BEACH

The annual service of the Royal Kennebec Yacht Club was held yesterday morning at Crystal Beach. There were about 1,600 people present. The members of the St. John Power Boat Club were in attendance with their complete fleet of sailing craft and the members of the two clubs, with their friends, made up an unusually large gathering. Threatening weather with a slight rain-fall and a little fog, did not interfere greatly with the event. The service this year was of an interesting nature. The service was conducted by the chaplain of the club, Rev. Dr. G. M. Campbell, assisted by Rev. Craig Nichols, rector at Westfield. The order of service followed that of previous years opening with the hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers," followed by the exhortation, the general confession, the collect, the Lord's Prayer, the psalter. The fact that the service was one of interest caused the adding of additional features. These extra features included a prayer for the duration of the war, a prayer for the times, a prayer for victory, and a prayer for the king. These were followed by the scripture reading and a prayer for members of the club, composed by the reverend chaplain. The service was concluded with the benediction. A special orchestra was in attendance under the direction of Morton Harrison. Mr. Holder led the chorus work and Dr. Barton presided at the organ.

INDIGESTION, LOSS OF SLEEP, HEART PALPITATION

A Case that Proves Prompt Action is Wise When Health is Poor.

"At night I would wake up with vague feelings of fear and uneasiness in my hands and other parts of the body," writes Mr. E. Q. Smeaton, of St. Johns. "I had grown thin and pale, and at night I was difficult to get enough warmth in my feet to get asleep. My digestion was poor, and appetite very uncertain. The form of nervousness that worried me most was starting at every little thing, which resulted in much violent heart action as sometimes frightened at. Finally I had to give up my work, which was inside office work, so languid, nervous and weak that I had become. Through the intervention of a friend I was induced to use Ferronose. My appetite improved at once, circulation also improved and Ferronose accomplished the renewal of my blood and natural warmth seemed to come back to my limbs. At the same time Ferronose built up my constitution. I became quite strong and resumed my occupation. In brief, I am well." "Ferronose is the only remedy of its kind in the world—it makes you feel better at once; when you are tired and fatigued—when you feel that there is nothing in life for you, that the time to take Ferronose." "What a change Ferronose makes! Your blood sings through your veins, carrying nourishment to every nook and corner of the body, you feel the exultant thrill of abundant nerve force, you learn the luxury and delight of being at your best—in perfect good health." "Just try Ferronose and see how much better you feel. It's the one remedy all the world that will get you bracing health at once. Sold everywhere, 50¢ per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers."

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness. President of New York Club Pays Tribute to Matty

President Harry Hempstead of the New York Giants made the following statement in releasing Mathewson:

"I wish to announce the release of Christy Mathewson to the Cincinnati club. My good wishes for his success are mingled with many regrets that he will leave the New York Baseball Club.

For so many years the New York public have enjoyed the games in which he has participated, and have given him their unqualified respect, good will and respect.

The New York fans hold Mathewson with the highest regard, but not more so than I or the entire management of the Giants. His faithful service, his high regard for the organization, have placed him in our hearts as well as in our minds, and there was no thought of relinquishing his services under any circumstances until the Cincinnati Baseball Club requested permission to trade for him to act as their manager.

Mathewson expressly requested this privilege, and feeling that it was due him for his past services, under these conditions I most reluctantly consented. I certainly wish him well in his new line of endeavor and trust that his name will stand as high as a manager as it has as a ball player and as a citizen of the United States."

road engineer and the mayor then suggested that another resolution, rescinding the last arrangement might be in order.

Commissioner Fisher suggested that it might be better to let the matter of this grade lie over until the duties of the engineer were defined and this suggestion was adopted.

Market Square Plans

The improvements for Market square were then taken up by Com. Fisher, who moved that the plans previously submitted be adopted. The only question at issue was the advisability of closing the section between the street car tracks and the north side of the flower bed, and reserving it for a safety station. Com. Fisher favored leaving it open, but remarked that he did not know that he would have a second.

Commissioner McLellan said that he did not think it necessary to raise questions about support and seconders; he was satisfied that each commissioner was anxious to do his duty and pass on each matter according to his best judgment and the public interest. He explained the danger of allowing this narrow space to be used by both pedestrians and vehicles.

Com. Fisher said he was not convinced on this matter, but he could not conscientiously recommend anything else. It was suggested that the matter be brought up again in council for action, and this was agreed to. Co. Fisher meanwhile asking for suggestions regarding the proposed enclosure.

Conflicting Authority

The by-law relating to sidewalk obstructions, which had been referred back, was brought up by Com. Fisher, who reported that he found no necessity for any change in its wording. The matter at issue was the right given to the commissioner of public works to grant permits for obstructions without reference to the commissioner of public safety.

Com. Wignore asked what would be the good of the commissioner granting a permit for a gasoline stand on the sidewalk if the department of public safety would not grant a permit for a tank. Com. McLellan said that, while it was the duty of the department of public

MANY BEST FRIENDS GONE

Explains in Letter How His Cable Home Came to Be Dated in England—Resting in Quiet Village

E. S. Carter, of Fair Vale, received a letter from his son, Lieut. Arthur Carter, of the York and Lancaster Regiment, dated July 7, in France, in which he explains why his cable of July 12 was dated from England. He had sent it by mail to a friend there to forward. His letter, if not wealthy in detail, is interesting. He writes:

"I am having a wire sent you by _____, to say I am quite safe and resting after a most strenuous time in the trenches. We attacked as you have read, and as is invariably the case, our losses were considerable, how considerable I may not say. I was in the trenches with a section of machine guns for five and a half days of our bombardment and in our second line doing overhead fire during the actual attack. The shell fire was heavy and everyone who came out of the scrap in whatever capacity he may have acted, was exceedingly fortunate.

I have lost many of my best friends, but the honor of their loss has as yet failed to come home to us, except at rare moments. The chief effect is a settled depression; the result of distressing sights, loss of sleep—five hours in three nights—and the reaction.

I can say little more as secrecy is all important.

We are resting in a little country village, where it is as quiet and peaceful as Fair Vale, a most delightful and refreshing change after our experiences of a few days ago.

I am due for leave shortly—July 22—but leave is not certain.

We shall be resting for some time, I think, so do not worry about me for a long while now.

NO PASSPORTS NECESSARY

A Hartford, Conn., gentleman with a German name, but who says he is a native born American, has written the St. John Board of Trade for information as to the need of passports. He is desirous of spending a few weeks in New Brunswick with his wife, who has friends here, but he has been informed by the British vice-consul that a passport will be required of him.

The secretary has written him that no passports are necessary. Secretary W. D. Scott, of the Department of Interior, Ottawa, has issued a circular which is very specific on this point.

For general information the following extracts from this circular are appended:

"Passports are entirely unnecessary; they have never been called for in the past, are not now, and are not likely to be so, as far as travel between the United States and Canada is concerned."

"All United States citizens, whether by birth or naturalization, are accorded the same treatment. Persons born in Germany, Austro-Hungary, Bulgaria or Turkey, and who still remain citizens of one or other of these countries, should not visit Canada at this time. Persons born in one or other of the countries named, but who have been naturalized in the United States, may visit Canada if they so desire, but they should carry their United States naturalization papers as a means of identification. Persons who are citizens of friendly or neutral countries may visit Canada with the same freedom accorded to United States citizens."

PTE. KUHRING HAS VERY CLOSE CALL

Three Times Buried By Shells During Hot Fire

ESCAPE MIRACULOUS

Shells Falling Every Ten Seconds—Re-assuring Letter to Mother Comes From Miss Margaret Hare, Nurse at Clearing Station

Word has just reached Mrs. G. A. Kuhring, wife of Rev. (Capt.) Kuhring, that her son, Pte. Gustave Kuhring, who is a member of a well-known artillery unit, escaped miraculously at the front under heavy fire, on June 10. The unit, with which he was serving, was under a very heavy shell fire, shells falling at the rate of one every ten seconds. One exploded near where Pte. Kuhring was standing, burying him completely, except for his head. With presence of mind he had held himself rigid at the shock came and so was in such a position that he could breathe. The officers and men set to work like Trojans to dig him out. He was just about free from his perilous position when another shell burst near him and again he was buried. Again he was dug out, only to suffer for a third time a like experience. He was removed to No. 9 Clearing Hospital, where he was looked after by a St. John nurse, Miss Margaret Hare. It was found that as a result of his awful experience he fortunately suffered only bruises and abrasions and was rendered lame. He was forwarded to a base hospital.

It is worthy of note that the nurses at the front must be busy indeed during days of heavy fighting, and this time in the midst of their trying and arduous labors to write to parents of their sons who are in the front, to assure them as to the state of their injuries.

FINE OF $150

Illegal Liquor Keeping and Selling Case in Police Court

As a result of a raid on premises kept by John Wells, or Charles Welsh, yesterday afternoon, the police feel certain that they have done away with a place where in men have been securing liquor after hours, and they intimate also that drunkenness in the vicinity of Smythe street, which has been seen about here and vicinity so often of late can all be traced back to these premises.

The raid was made by Detective Barrett and Policeman Armstrong. This morning the proprietor was brought before the court and charged with selling liquor after hours, and further, without having the necessary license. He was fined $150 and the more serious charge was dropped so far as the police are concerned.

Evidence of this was produced by Detective Barrett, who confiscated the material along with the implements used in the process. A fine of $150 was imposed for selling and keeping, and the more serious charge was dropped so far as the police are concerned.

THE SOARING PRICES OF THE THINGS WE EAT

The prices of commodities have steadily climbed since the first of the year and are continuing to do so. Canned beef and sugar have taken the lead, beef having advanced in price to the wholesaler one dollar a dozen. Last year canned beef was being bought by the wholesaler at $2.50 now it costs $4.50, thus costing the consumer about forty cents a pound. Sugar, which cost at the beginning of the year $6.70 a hundred, now costs $9.25. Beans, which have been doing airplane stunts, have now struck $6.25 a bushel, an increase of $2.25 since the beginning of the year, and in some cases they cannot be produced any price. Canned corn has followed suit and have kept advancing until they have reached the $1.75 a dozen mark to the wholesaler, and the consumer in the vicinity of twenty cents a can. Jams are also on the climb and have jumped from $1.15 a case to $1.85. Marmalades are gradually coming and have finally reached an advance of fifty cents a case to the wholesaler. Other lines of canned goods including tomatoes, corn and peas have advanced from $2.10 a case to $2.75. Pickles are not being left behind as they have also advanced from $2 a case to $2.85.

Canned milk, which has been stationary for several years, has advanced from $5.60 a case to $6. All lines of teas have advanced ten cents a pound and thirty cent teas have been taken off the market.

ELEVEN MONTHS IN JAIL

Last evening Detective Barrett found Edith Belding in the vicinity of St. Patrick street and brought her to central station, where she spent the night. This morning she was arraigned before the court on charge of lying and luring. This woman was just allowed out of jail a few weeks ago with the understanding that she would leave the city. When asked why she did not go, she replied that she was waiting for her children and she got on as she could get them. She was sentenced to eleven months in jail. Her husband is at the front, and her three children are at present in the care of the Children's Aid Society.
