BETTER THAN HARD COAL

Soft coal so free from soot that it does not make whiskeys on stove covers or pipe and does not mat or cake when burning, is far better than Hard Coal for general household use. Quicker to light, takes less to make a fire, cheaper in price and can also be used for open fires and small heating stoves. Such a coal is Broad Cove soft coal. The main thing to insist on getting the genuine article. No other soft coal burns just like Broad Cove. You will know it by the above characteristic.

Preferred By Food Experts

The thousands of good cooks from Nova Scotia to Quebec who have tried Robinson's Butter-Nut Bread and liked it better have been proved right.

Twice in the past three weeks food experts have visited St. John. By invitation they visited Robinson's Kitchens and watched the methods by which Butter-Nut is made.

Each time the verdict was in favor of Robinson's Bread as being the best—the same verdict you and your whole family will render when you taste Butter-Nut Bread.

Paris, April 17.—(By mail.)—A vine-growers' dispute has just had its merits judged in a practical way by the Civil Court of Beauvais.

THE SENATORIAL VISIT

Any public event which would bring together Lieut. Governor Pugsley, Sir Douglas Haas, Sir James Loughheed, Hon. James A. Calder and the group of senators who were the guests of Senator Thorne last week, could not be other than interesting, and the public would naturally expect a series of interesting addresses. The Board of Trade luncheon on Saturday brought these distinguished gentlemen together in a social way, and the brief speeches were of a very pleasing nature. The keynote was struck by President W. P. Burditt when he referred to the desirability of the people of different parts of this broad Dominion getting together to the end that there may be a wider knowledge and better mutual understanding. The speakers from the west heartily endorsed this view, and referred to the gain to themselves as Canadians from what they had learned on the spot about the national port and about the people and their viewpoint on national as well as local affairs. Naturally a good deal was said about national ports and their relation to the trade of the country. It was fortunate that two of the speakers were Hon. William Pugsley, who inaugurated a policy of national development of this port, and Sir Douglas Haas, who in the succeeding government pursued the same policy. None could be better qualified than they to discuss the subject or to make an impression on the minds of the distinguished visitors. Since the latter are members of a branch of parliament which does not initiate expenditures they would naturally be somewhat reserved in discussing a question involving large national outlays. They did, however, express their appreciation of the national character of the work of port development, and of the great possibilities for such development at St. John. Sir James Loughheed and Hon. James A. Calder put special stress upon the necessity of doing what has been described as beating a path to Ottawa, pointing out that in a democratic country such as ours those who seek results in regard to local improvements must be definitely, vigorously and continuously on the job. The force of this contention is the more obvious at a time when there is no Hon. William Pugsley or Sir Douglas Haas in the government at Ottawa to present the claims of this national port.

Of course, in the matter of port development at St. John, the first necessity is to find out what plans the Canadian National Railways have in regard to the use of this port. It is much more important to get that information than to discuss harbor commission in advance of that knowledge. The visitors impressed upon the Board of Trade the importance of putting its back into the work of getting full recognition of the national claims of St. John. It will not do, however, to overlook the fact that the city council is the official spokesman in such matters, and the first step must necessarily be toward complete co-operation, in such a manner as would make any presentation of the case at Ottawa an united expression of the views of the people. It should not be difficult to learn what the views of the C. N. R. authorities are in relation to St. John, and that is surely the first step. There are two C. N. R. lines reaching down to this port. These are a fleet of national steamships. If these government enterprises are to be employed to develop Canadian trade through Canadian channels, the departments interested must have a policy in relation to the port of St. John. The City Council and Board of Trade should first learn what that policy is. Senator Thorne vigorously defended the principle of sectionalism in so far as it does not cut across national necessities, pointing out that each section of the country is fully justified in standing up for and making good the strongest possible presentation of its case. The obvious outcome of such a policy in St. John would be a vigorous and united effort to find out what plans the C. N. R. has for the use of this port. The get-together policy which Saturday's speakers advocated in regard to the different sections of Canada is quite as essential in a local way if the people of St. John are to make an impression at Ottawa. The genesis of the existing harbor commission act and what followed is perhaps the most striking evidence that the people should be kept fully informed, and the policy so developed that they would act as a unit when action became necessary.

The visit of the senators to St. John, Senator Watson observed, will not do St. John any harm. What he meant was that these members of parliament, especially those from the west, having inspected the port and gained knowledge at first hand, will have no prejudices when they are called upon to consider any legislation respecting this national port. For this the citizens are indebted to Senator Thorne, to whom his colleagues referred in terms so complimentary on Saturday. The whole tenor of the brief speeches at the luncheon was broadly Canadian, and President Burditt's announcement that a business men's tour of the west was in contemplation was heartily applauded by the western men. It is obvious to every maritime province man that both central and western Canada must be made more fully acquainted with the position these provinces occupy in the confederation, and the necessity of doing more than has been done from a national standpoint to put into effect the spirit of the act of union.

The visiting senators referred to the need of development of a national spirit. It can only be done when each part of the country feels that it is receiving fair treatment. Reference was made by some speakers to the Progressive movement. Why is there such a movement? Simply because the farmers found that their interests were disregarded. If the interests of the maritime provinces continue to be disregarded, there will be no healthy growth of national spirit, but a growing restlessness under unfair treatment. But they will themselves be partly to blame if they fail to unite their efforts to make the justice of their claims known from coast to coast.

THE ROYAL VISIT

The visit of King George and Queen Mary to Belgium serves to recall the noble part played by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium in the great war. They shared in the fullest degree the perils to which their people were exposed, and devoted themselves with spirit and self-denial to the welfare of the Belgian soldiers and their dependents. King Albert never hesitated to go where his soldiers went, and his example was a constant inspiration. Now, in happier times, although the danger to Europe is not yet over, they and their people will give a royal welcome to the representatives of the nation that stood as Belgium did for national honor when Germany decided to treat a solemn treaty as a "scrap of paper." Many said that the visit of King George and Queen Mary to Belgium will be associated with this visit—memories of Edith Cavell and other British subjects foully done to death on Belgian soil by the Hun. The Belgian battlefields and the vast cemeteries where heroes lie at rest will be solemn reminders of sorrow and loss; and yet they will also tell the story of sublime courage and unselfish devotion. Belgium suffered the first stroke when the German blow was struck that was aimed at the heart of France. When the crisis perpetuated in the drive through Belgium were proclaimed to the world a feeling of universal horror prevailed; and the true nature of the country which sought world-dominion stood out in a light as lurid as fire. When the crisis was universal exertion. All that is of the past, but is not forgotten, and it is colors to some extent the feelings of those who have met in Genoa, the result is not unnatural. Today, however, all Belgium will join in the heartfelt welcome to the English King and Queen.

IN HISTORIC TRINITY.

Trinity church has become the repository of a number of flags which serve as memorials of the heroism of soldiers from New Brunswick. No flag speaks of nobler devotion and service than that of the 28th Battalion, which was placed upon the altar of Trinity yesterday. The men of that battalion, which suffered such heavy loss and had so often to be reinforced, fought in many battles, and always with the greatest distinction. It is fitting that the colors of the battalion should rest in historic Trinity, and that they should be placed there with solemn ceremony to commemorate not only the heroes who fell, but those who survived and are still with us. Canadians will never tire of telling how the young men from the farm, the factory, the store and the office, without previous military training, rushed to the colors in the most terrible war of all times covered themselves with glory in battle against the soldiers of the greatest military nation in the world, whose troops had been trained from their youth for the great struggle which was to have made Germany the dictator of the world. Many men who marched bravely in foreign soil, but their fame is imperishable, as is that of all the gallant sons of Canada who participated in the conflict which saved democracy. True, the danger is not wholly past, but who that remembers the record of the war period can doubt that those who survive will find the way to lasting peace?

The negotiations at Genoa in regard to Russia have reached a critical stage, but there is a feeling that even if an agreement is not reached the conference will not dissolve, but adjourn for a period to give time for Russia to consider more carefully the result of her refusal to treat on terms acceptable to the powers from whom she expects aid.

The defeat of the armies of Northern China appears to have been decisive. The victor, General Wu Pei Fu, declares that his only object was the unification of China, and the formation of a representative parliament. He could have no more laudable or patriotic ambition, for under no other conditions can China hope for peace and progress.

Tomorrow the city council will take the second step toward securing for the people of St. John the full benefit of hydro development at Musquash.

THE MAY QUEEN.

The peachy checked girl with the violet eyes
And the ringlets of shimmering brown
And white satin pumps and a necklace
And a delicate organdie gown,
And garlands of roses and ribbons of blue,
And a wonderful lace frilled bouffant,
And a feathery fan, that a fairy might wave—
She is not the Queen of the May.

But a tired little woman with soot on her nose
And hair twisted up in a knot,
In a faded blue gingham all tattered and torn,
And shoes that the ragman forgot,
At carpets and curtains and cushions and rugs
And couch covers beating away
In the annual orgy of house cleaning time,
Lo! she is the Queen of the May.
Mina Irving, in New York Herald.

LIGHTER VEIN.

They're Growing Bolder.
General Cornelius Vanderbilt, at a dinner on his yacht Romola, told a war story. "What was true of the World War some day," he began. "In a hotel smoking-room back in the '90's a number of veterans got into a dispute over a certain battle. The veterans—all men of high rank—argued very turbulently. One of them spoke up and said: 'Gentlemen, I happened to be there at that engagement, and I think I can settle the point. I dream of it and settle it. The hotel proprietor, much impressed, said to him when he got through: "I couldn't dream of settling your rank in the army." I was a private, sir, a full private," was the calm reply. A short time afterwards the full private asked for his bill, as he was about to depart, but the proprietor said to him: "Not a penny! Not a penny! May I owe me nothing." "Why, how is that?" the other demanded in bewilderment. "I couldn't dream of charging you, sir," said the proprietor, warmly. "You are the first private I have ever met."—The Argonaut (San Francisco).

Times Have Changed.

"Do you remember the old stories about the boy who went to the great city and came back home just in time to see the mortgage of his farm sold?" "Yes," replied Farmer Corstoult. "It's different now. When a boy leaves the farm the mortgage is sold to the bank, and he is ready to go to town and help him out with his rent and his grocery bill."—Washington Evening Star.

RE HEALTH CENTRES.

To the Editor of The Times:
Sir,—I read your interesting editorial on what New Zealand is doing in public health.

Why not start at the beginning and teach the school children how to prevent tuberculosis by teaching them first aid, and thereby teaching them the construction of the body and the different organs and how to take care of them. I am a winner of four first aid certificates—two St. John first aid and two L. C. C. (London County Council schools, England). While attending the L. C. C. the doctor gave us lectures on different diseases and how to prevent them. I think this could be taught in the schools here, and we would not have to build sanatoriums. Ages from twelve to fourteen years would not be too soon to teach first aid in the schools; also physical exercises, and in a few years we could show a health report second to none. I was talking to a local nurse and she told me that if the public had been taught the same as I was the doctors and nurses would have little to do.

Yours truly,
BETTER HEALTH.

TRAINS MEN FOR THE INDUSTRIES

Part-time and Evening Classes Give Jersey Workmen Opportunity for Advancement—Unions in Co-operation.

New Jersey, with its diversified industries extending throughout the state, was one of the pioneers in establishing vocational training schools to provide trained men for its enterprises. The first step in this direction was taken by the state in 1913 with a law guaranteeing reimbursements from state school funds to those districts organizing vocational schools. In 1914, when the federal act providing for vocational education, known as the Smith-Hughes act, was passed, New Jersey's vocational school system was well organized and was one of the first to qualify for reimbursement from the federal funds.

During the past years since the passage of the State Vocational School act fourteen all-day vocational schools have been organized and has grown rapidly. Part-time classes have been established and evening industrial classes have developed into vocational training institutes in nearly all of the larger industrial communities. The training given in industrial education is not confined to pupils between the ages of fourteen and nineteen years, the usual school ages of these grades, but extends to high school graduates, but in some of the activities men sixty to sixty-five years of age participate in the instruction offered.

The all-day schools are equipped with a variety of shops, each having full-sized equipment necessary to carry on operations of various trades on a trade basis. These schools are intended for the boy who is fourteen years of age and who has completed the fifth grade, but of late years the greater number of applications for admission to the all-day vocational school comes from the boy who has completed his grammar school education, and in many cases from the boy who after one or two years of high school training has availed to the fact that there are opportunities awaiting the trained mechanic who can do and who can think while doing.

The second type of work is known as the part-time plan. This plan of industrial education permits the boy to earn while he learns. He leaves work in industry as an employee of the industrial plant, where he learns the trade practice and is amenable to all rules and regulations of that plant. At the completion of his week in the shop, he returns to the high school, where his partner, who alternates with him in the shop, takes his place in the shop. During the week in the shop, the boy is given instruction in drawing, mathematics and science that is directly related to the work he has performed in the industry, and in addition he is given as much of a general high school training as will permit.

Another type of part-time instruction conducted in this state is styled the voluntary continuation training, and the pupils in such classes are above the compulsory continuation school age. Through the co-operation of employers, groups of the junior workers in plants are given one-half day each week for instruction in industrial education, and technical subjects. In some instances, where instruction is given to laboratory assistants from plants in the vicinity, pupils from several plants assemble at the school and use the school laboratory under the guidance and instruction of the chemistry instructor of the school. In other cases pupils assemble at their plants and the school is conducted by school boards in the industry, and in addition he is given as much of a general high school training as will permit.

The success of these part-time continuation school classes has resulted in industrial plants in the state for an extension of the work, so that, while it is temporary at a standstill because of the industrial depression, the training is expected to be extended as soon as conditions become normal.

The evening industrial classes in which the instruction is given in trade occupations and trade mathematics and drawing are limited to the workers over sixteen years of age and who is actively engaged in the trade for which he seeks instruction. Good progress has been made in the organization of this work, particularly in the building trades, in co-operation with representatives of the trade unions and master contractors. In Newark a request from the local union of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for instruction for their apprentices and helpers resulted in a joint conference of representatives of the local unions, master contractors and school officials, who plans and courses of study were formulated and the work established in three centres in Essex County. The union of one of its meetings passed a resolution compelling the apprentices to attend evening school during the period of their apprenticeship and withdrawing the cards of several apprentices who were not interested in the training offered.

In Atlantic City the work in the evening schools organized in co-operation with the journeymen and contractors of the carpenter, sheet metal, plumbing, steam fitting and electrical trades has developed so rapidly and has been met with so much enthusiasm on the part of the workers that serious consideration must be given to plans for handling an increased demand next season.

The foreman in industry, the important link between the management and the workers, is not forgotten in this scheme of industrial training. Foremen conferences are held in the industrial plants. The foremen discuss and determine their responsibilities, the cost factors involved in the neglect of these responsibilities, and then devise remedies to prevent a further occurrence of the cases. These conferences are conducted by conference leaders, who in some cases are trained for the work in the teacher-training section of the Department of Public Instruction of the State of New Jersey.

The effectiveness of this training for industry cannot be given a dollar or cents value. It produces a more intelligent worker, and a better citizen, a better or more intelligent citizen, both of which are decided assets to the community. It keeps the young boy in school longer and brings the older boys and men back to school under the influence of school life, where much in the way of citizenship and an understanding of the relation of the craftsman to the community in general can be given.

The effectiveness of this type of training has been proved, however, by the progress made by the graduates of the all-day vocational schools, by the enthusiasm of the union officials and mat-

FAMOUS INVENTIONS LONG IN THE MAKING

Originators of Nationally-Known Devices Tell of Struggles to Win Perfection—Fight New Patent Bill.

Interesting stories of the birth of great inventions and quotations from Thomas Edison and other famous inventors are embodied in a brief prepared by the American Patent Law Association against the Stanley bill, under which inventions not commercialized within five years might be appropriated by non-owners of patents on payment of royalties fixed by courts.

The history of a number of great inventions is offered to show that the inventions could have been taken away from the inventors or owners, if there had been a law then compelling the commercial use of the product within five years. The development period of carpet sweepers, printing presses, sewing machines and innumerable devices were shown to have been far more than five years. As to the argument that some concerns deliberately suppress important inventions, Thomas A. Edison is quoted as follows:

"I have heard and read numerous statements that many corporations buy valuable inventions to suppress them but no one cites specific cases. I myself do not know of a single case. There may be cases where a firm or corporation has bought up an invention, introduced it and afterward bought up an improvement and ceased using the first patent," expressed it, in fact. Why should that be done? It is for the benefit of the public that it should get the latest improvement.

Asks Instances of Injustice.
"I cannot see why the public should be asked to change the patent law to enable a competitor to get hold of the disused patent so that he could have a basis on which to enter into competition with the pioneer of the invention who has introduced an improved machine. Before any changes in the law are made, let the objectors cite instances where injustice has been worked on the public by the alleged suppression of patents for other reasons than those which were due to improvements."

The difficulty of introducing even so great an invention as the rotary multicolor press, by which the printing in several colors at one impression was achieved, was told as follows in a question from Edgar H. Cottrell:

"Experimenting began on this machine in 1890 and continued ten years without cessation before the first perfected machine was in practical daily use in a purchaser's plant."

"We had long built rotary presses printing in four colors, but only for special work of a rough character. In 1900 we began to consider means for printing this rough-color printing press for line work. This meant deep investment along entirely new lines. The problem of a self-printing plate was solved successfully in 1901 and immediate application for a patent was made. For three years the patient, expensive, heart-breaking experimenting went on."

"A special hydraulic press had to be built, and other special machinery. Then it was found that the press was not strong enough, so an entirely new one had to be designed and built."

New Difficulties Overcome.
"When the process of treating the plates was satisfactory and the new press was running properly, then it was found that the idea of printing one color upon another while still wet was impracticable with any printing inks then on the market. New ones had to be evolved. Then, having the process, the press, and the inks, the result was still not en-lively satisfactory. It was finally discovered that the arrangement of the printing cylinders was at fault. Another press was therefore designed, then the results were satisfactory in all respects.

"No time was lost, and yet for ten years we poured money, money, money into this idea, before we could sell the first rotary multicolor press. Without patent protection the risk would have been too great to justify the course we took. Any license to a competing manufacturer, or to anybody else, at any price would be fatal to our enterprise."

In discussing the early history of various other inventions, William W. Dodge said:
"I asked Mr. Ingersoll of the Ingersoll Watch Company how long it took after his first patent was granted to get a watch on the market, and he said from five to six years. I asked what it cost to do it, and he said about $20,000 before they were able to sell their first watch."

"The little Bickensderfer typewriter, with which the public is familiar, involved an outlay of over $400,000 before the machine was ready for the market and consumed years of the term of the first patent before it was placed on the market."

Federal Assistance for Development of the Port Depends on the Citizens

Initiative and Energy Must Be Used in Urging Upon the Government the Claims of St. John, is Advice of Visiting Senators—No Selfish Motives Behind City's Request, Declares Lieut.-Gov. Pugsley.

That any federal assistance for the development of this port must depend largely on the initiative and energy of the citizens of St. John themselves is the message which was delivered in a long and interesting address by the lieutenant-governor at a luncheon at the Union Club on Saturday afternoon. "It is entirely just that it is the government's duty to give proper attention to your claims, yet primarily, the responsibility lies upon the people of St. John," declared Sir James Loughheed in the course of an able address. The gist of his remarks on this point was agreed in principle by the three other speakers of the party, Senator James H. Calder, Senator Robert Watson, of Manitoba, and Senator Richard Blain, of Ontario. In addition to the speeches of the distinguished guests, eloquent addresses were delivered by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Pugsley and Chief Justice Sir Douglas Hazen, both of whom impressed on the visitors that there was no selfish motive behind the demands for better harbor equipment for this port, but rather that the people of St. John were sincere in their stand that the assistance given this port from the federal government would benefit all sections of the Dominion of Canada. "We want nothing for St. John but what will be given to the rest of Canada, and if this port is developed then a great national idea is developed, namely that trade should flow east and west. We are willing to bear our burdens and our share, and all we ask is that you regard our aspirations as being wholly inspired for the good of Canada," declared Lieut.-Governor Pugsley, concluding a brilliant address, amid rounds of applause. W. F. Burditt, president of the board of trade, was in the chair and opened the speaking by giving a thoughtful address. About seventy were present. Afterwards the party motored out to view the dry dock construction at Courtenay Bay and on their return called at the residence of Sir Douglas Hazen. On Saturday morning they motored around the city and out to Rothesay avenue. On the return trip the party called on Lieut.-Governor Pugsley and were entertained by him at his residence at Rothesay. The visitors expressed themselves as being charmed with the wonderful scenery. The whole party, with the exception of Senator A. H. Macdonell, C. M. G., D. S. O., left for Ottawa on Saturday evening over the Canadian National line. The dinner at Mr. Lambert was placed at their disposal. Chairman's Address. W. F. Burditt, who acted as chairman, set before the senators the reasons why federal assistance should be granted. He preferred his remarks by saying that all must realize the benefit that accrued from the personal contact. The senators own ports; otherwise there might be repetition of conditions of fifty years ago when all trade went through southern channels. St. John's people had spent a great deal of money on their port and their policy in this wise had aroused the admiration of the people of Canada. There was no more loyal people in all Canada than those who lived in the maritime provinces, declared the governor, amid sustained applause. Continuing, he declared that when the time of trial came, they had responded nobly to the call of duty and had borne their share of the burden. "All I ask is that you regard our aspirations as being wholly inspired by the good of Canada," (Loud applause.) In conclusion he again welcomed the senators and expressing the hope that they had enjoyed their brief visit. Sir Douglas Hazen. Chief Justice Hazen, on rising, said he was not prepared for any address as he was a surprise to him to be called on by the chairman. He felt he could add but little to what had been so finely expressed by the lieutenant-governor and the chairman. He said that Senator Pugsley had struck a happy chord, and he could appreciate the man who speaks for having arranged the visit. Senator Thorne. Senator Thorne spoke briefly in proposing the toast to the guests. As president of the Board of Trade, he had enjoyed themselves thoroughly. AIR TAXI SERVICE You May Order a Plane to Meet Ship when She Docks in England.

A passenger arriving in Great Britain from overseas, who wishes to reach his destination with the least possible delay, may now order an air taxi, which will be waiting for him at his liner berths. This service, which it was announced a short time ago would be run this year, to consist of connections with the arrival and departure of liners at Southampton and Liverpool, is known as the Air Taxi Service, from its resemblance to present methods of meeting trains at railroad terminals. These airplanes may be ordered while the liner is still far out at sea, the wireless orders being picked up direct by the wireless operators at the London air station and put into the hands of the pilots within a minute or two of being dispatched from the liner. In this way the passenger may be sure there is an air taxi waiting for him when his ship docks. New air taxis, to cope with the expected increased demand this year, are now being built, according to a report on commercial aviation in a British Trade Department bulletin just received in this country. They include two, three, and four-seaters and fares are expected to be as low as 10s. per mile per passenger.

Our Portrait is of Mr. E. F. WHEELER, of 22, Regent Street, Baby, Doncaster, England, who writes:—

About two years ago I had a nasty wound break out in my leg. I had it attended to for about three months, but during that time it had spread to all the toes, with the result that I could not undergo an operation, but with no avail. Then, after another operation, as it did not get any better, I thought I would give your "Clarke's Blood Mixture" a trial. After taking the first three bottles I could walk better, and now after having nine bottles the wound has quite healed, and I am pleased to say I have not seen any sign of it breaking out since. Sufferers (Glanders?) Swelling, Ulcers, Eczema, Pimples, Itching, Chafing, Burns, Scalds, and other troubles, the blood must be completely renewed. Clarke's Blood Mixture is the only medicine that will do this. It is a simple, safe, and reliable remedy, and is sold by all druggists. Price 1/6 per bottle. Write for free literature.

At a conference recently held by the British Air Ministry, the Under-Secretary of State for Air, the Right Honorable Lord Gorell, made the announcement that it was proposed by the Air Ministry to set up an Advisory Council, to consist of representatives of the Dominions and other interests concerned, in order to consider what steps might be taken to strengthen the various parts of the Empire. The fact that Australia had consented to support an Imperial aerial air route was noted with satisfaction. Since the conference, the Advisory Council has been constituted, and the terms of reference indicate that it will be a permanent body for the purpose of advising the Secretary of State on all air routes. representation of the Post Office, Air League, Association of British Chambers of Commerce, Federation of British Industries, Lloyd's, Royal Aeronautical Society, and the Society of British Aircraft Constructors, insuring that the point of view of manufacturers, designers, and users will be considered. The first topic on which the council was asked to make recommendations is the question of the cost and practicality of an Imperial Air Service. In order to have messages delivered from London to Paris by air, in the shortest possible time, it was shown at the conference that the establishment of night flying services in the near future was essential, the greater part of the correspondence posted in London being collected by the authorities in the evening. The present mid-day air service from London is considered convenient for the dispatch of letters posted overnight in the provinces and received in London during the early morning. With a night flying service between London and Paris, London mail would reach Paris well in advance of the normal service mail, but at present, says the report, owing to a necessary delay of twelve to fifteen hours, this is not the case unless letters are posted in London in the morning. "The projected night flying service involves more accurate direction flying and a system of light signals, so that there should be no risk of the machines straying off their proper route," says the report. "Another development which has been projected and which may shortly take effect is the linking up of existing routes with provincial centres such as Glasgow, Liverpool, Newcastle &c. In this way airplanes would start from various provincial centres at times enabling them to land at the Groudon Aerodrome, so as to connect up with the present cross-channel services. On the continent, equally, there is a desire to extend the present cross-channel services to the south and east."

That was the reason, he said, that the citizens of St. John were responsible. He instanced, as an example, what had been accomplished by the people of Canada during the war. It was the government of Canada, he said, but the people. In the Board of Trade, he said, there was material for pushing and projecting a successful conclusion. He urged that the board undertake a campaign of education along this line, and concluded by trusting that the time would not be far distant when the port of St. John would not be dented but filled with the commerce-carriers of the world. Senator Wilson. Senator Wilson, of Manitoba, expressed his thanks for the splendid reception accorded him and his conferees. He referred to former years in the house of commons, when said he witnessed some of the fiercest political battles between Lieut.-Governor Pugsley and Chief Justice Hazen on political matters, yet when it came to a question of St. John and New Brunswick, they were one. (Applause.) It was a splendid idea to arrange their visit and he could say that no harm would come of it. All sections had their demands to make, but they must all realize that the common good was paramount. Senator Richard Blain. That it was a great privilege to him to be present at Ontario's representative was the opening remark of Senator Blain. He desired to thank the Board of Trade for their hospitality. Questions that troubled down east were also troubling in Ontario. There they had their freight rates and other vexed questions. The one right way to settle these difficulties was by a united effort. (Applause.) Canadian could well afford to develop their ports to build up their country as part of the British empire. Cooperation was the keynote, he said. Senator J. H. Calder. Senator Calder said that all would agree with him that the object of the visit had been accomplished. The speaking had been ended and real work lay ahead. It was not his first visit to St. John, said Senator Calder. He had been here twice before. He thoroughly agreed with the sentiment expressed by Senator Loughheed. He was not intimating that St. John had been derelict in this duty when he advocated greater effort. "Put your backs into the job and keep them there all the time," was his advice. There was need, he said, for a national sentiment which did not exist at the present time. He suggested that, if possible, a party of Progressive members of the house of commons be brought down here, so that they could form some impression of the needs and the importance of the harbor. He thought great good would result from such an undertaking. He concluded by thanking the board for their kind hospitality. The National Anthem was then sung. The Party at Moncton. ## Jury In Paris Trial Disagrees

After Nine and a Half Hours Stood seven for Conviction and five for Acquittal—New Trial at June Circuit.

The third trial of John Paris, charged with the murder of nine-year-old Sadie McAuley, resulted in a disagreement of the jury, seven being for conviction and five for acquittal. The jury which retired at 11.33 on Saturday morning returned to the court room for the third and last time at nine o'clock in the evening. H. P. Dunn, foreman, announced that they could not agree and that there seemed to be no possibility of their agreeing. His honor Mr. Justice J. H. Barry before whom the case was tried then discharged the jury and remanded the prisoner to jail.

Hon. J. P. Byrne, attorney-general of New Brunswick, who, assisted by Dr. W. B. Wallace, K.C., conducted the case for the crown, announced at the conclusion of the trial that the crown would again place Paris on trial. The case would be heard at the June circuit, Hon. Mr. Byrne said last evening, and the judge would probably be Chief Justice H. A. McKeown.

It was 9.01 o'clock when the jury re- turned for the last time. Paris had at- ready been brought from the jail. He appeared quite unperturbed. He looked

$135,000 IN GEMS SEIZED ON PIER

Customs Men Say That Mrs. Stromberg Failed to Declare the Jewels— Attempt to Smuggle Denied.

(New York Post)

Nineteen articles, including three diamond rings, a diamond brooch in the shape of a dagger, and two pearl necklaces, all said to be valued at $135,000, were held today by the Collector of the Port, George G. Cairns, pending investigation by agents of the Treasury Department. The jewelry is said to belong to Mrs. Henrietta Stromberg, a wealthy widow, of New Brunswick, N. J., who arrived here on the Aquitania Friday night.

Some of the jewelry, according to Customs and Treasury Department agents, was not declared and it was not until pressure was brought to bear by the customs inspectors that the jewelry was found. Some of it was found in the lining of clothing, according to customs authorities, and it was also said that Mrs. Stromberg attempted to hide a handbag containing some of the jewelry. A gold enamelled watch, said to belong to Mrs. Stromberg, was passed to a friend on the pier, the inspectors said.

Abram J. Rose of 118 Broadway, former Assistant U. S. Attorney, who was retained by Mrs. Stromberg, was arrested at noon with H. C. Stuart, Deputy Collector of the Port, and Edward Barnes of the legal department of the Customs House. Following the confiscation of the jewelry, Mrs. Rose said that it was not a case of smuggling and that the jewelry was purchased here several years ago. The two necklaces, Mr. Price said, did not exceed a value of $75,000. Five Department of Treasury agents left the Customs House shortly after with close interest as the foreman announced that the jury was still disagreed and that it was felt that all available argument had been exhausted and that there would be no use in further consideration. The judge retired for a few moments with the attorney-general and when he returned he discharged the jury after thanking them warmly for the care, time and consideration they had given the case.

The court was adjourned until May 18, when all the jurors on the original panel are required to be in attendance. The result of the first trial in September, at which Judge Barry also presided, was seven for conviction and five for acquittal. The second trial, in late November and early December, at which His Honor Judge W. B. Chandler presided, resulted in a verdict of guilty. On application of G. H. Vernon, of Truro, who has acted as counsel for Paris on all three trials, a retrial was allowed and a new trial granted.

RECOVER RICH FURS; THREE MEN TAKEN

Seizure in Old Barn by Detectives—Loot from Holyoke Burglary.

New York, May 8.—Furs and women's clothing valued at $40,000 were recovered when Brooklyn detectives made their way to an old barn in Flatbush in pursuit of three men in an automobile who had aroused their suspicions. Caught while sorting the furs, the men were taken to police headquarters, Brooklyn, charged with plundering the shop of Harry Dranbox, in Holyoke, Mass., early last Monday morning.

The prisoners said they were Joseph Serenka, twenty-eight, of Desbrosses street, Manhattan; Arthur Greenlozy, twenty-six, 11 Thirty-second street, Brooklyn; and Cosmo Barbone, twenty-five, chauffeur, 155 Hickory street, Springfield, Mass.

While patrolling in a police automobile Detectives McGowan, Dwyer, Quinn and Fox of the Fifth Avenue station, Brooklyn, came upon the men in a high-powered car at Fourth avenue and Third street. Suspicious because of the contrast between the men's rough clothes and the expensive automobile, the detectives followed them. The trail led to a ramshackle barn at 527 Maple street, Flatbush, which the men under suspicion entered.

Half an hour later, holding their revolvers ready for use, the detectives entered the building and found the men sorting a heap of furs and women's clothing. The detectives put them and the loot into the police automobile and drove to headquarters.

Questioned for six hours, none of the men would tell under what circumstances the furs were taken to the barn. Carbone, who said he was the owner of the automobile, told the police that he when leaving Springfield, Mass., at one o'clock yesterday morning, had been stopped by seven men who promised to pay him $50 to take them to Brooklyn. He agreed, he said, and left them near the point where the police pursuit began.

Fur merchants in Manhattan who heard of the arrests hurried to Brooklyn to examine the recovered loot. One wholesaler identified some of the furs as those he had sold to the Holyoke dealer. Captain of Detectives John McCloskey immediately telegraphed the Holyoke authorities and an hour later received a reply giving particulars of the burglary there on Monday. A search of the prisoners' automobile disclosed a pistol in a side pocket. An additional charge of pistol carrying was lodged against Carbone. Through fingerprints the police learned that Serenka had been arrested in Yonkers for attempted burglary and that Carbone had been arrested in Springfield for carrying a gun.

London, April 14.—(By mail).—A bill to abolish private property in land to transfer all lands in Great Britain which is not already the property of the crown or of any public authority to a newly-created ministry of lands has been introduced into the House of Commons.

WILL NOT APPROVE WHARF EXTENSION

Indiantown Matter Disposed of by Council—Application for Gasoline Station Installation Draws Some Comments.

At a committee meeting of the common council this morning, Commissioner Bullock presented a resolution in which he said that he could not recommend the approval of a plan of D. J. Purdy & Co. for the extension of their wharf at Indiantown twenty-five feet outwards toward the harbor line. The resolution was adopted.

Mayor McLellan presided and all the commissioners were present except Mr. Wigmore, who is absent from the city. Several matters of routine business were disposed of.

An application from Miss Nellie McIntyre for permission to remove an electric sign from 9 Sydney street to 19 Sydney street was referred to the commissioner of public works, the city engineer and the city electrician with power to act.

On motion of Commissioner Bullock, it was decided to lease lots in Lancaster for garden privileges to the following: J. M. Thompson, three lots, 86; Leonard Trafton, one lot, 82.20.

The application of D. J. Purdy & Co. for permission to extend a wharf at Indiantown was again referred to Commissioner Bullock. The commissioner said that in view of the very vigorous protests he could not recommend approval of the plan as suggested by the city solicitor. The solicitor's suggestion was that the city approve the plan so far as it was legally possible. The other members concurred in Commissioner Bullock's view.

Thos. E. Dean, Jr. applied for permission to install a gasoline filling station in City Road, near Wall street. The matter was referred to Commissioners Thornton and Prink for report.

Commissioner Prink said if the city was going to allow gasoline pumps installed on the curb, the streets would be dotted with them.

The mayor observed that great care was necessary. He did not see why the insurance men did not interest themselves in this connection.

Commissioner Thornton asked for permission to sell by auction three or four horses unfit for the city's fire service. He said three had been replaced and he expected to replace the fourth. The permission was granted, the sale to take place on next Saturday.

Commissioner Thornton reported that about $2,000 was left from $12,000 received from the militia department for repairs to the exhibition buildings. He said the roof needed repairs and agreed to bring a further report.

Commissioner Prink reported the death of Patrick McFale after thirty years of service and on his recommendation it was decided to grant one month's pay to his widow.

Applications Always Exceed Accommodation—Reports at Annual Business Meeting in Connection with Protestant Orphans Homes.

The annual business meeting in connection with the Protestant Orphans Homes is being held this afternoon in the Board of Trade rooms, with the president, D. C. Clark, in the chair. The society obtained the right to the name "New Brunswick" at the last session of the legislature; it had previously been "St. John."

The first business of the afternoon was the reading of reports of the officers. All submitted were comprehensive and showed that the homes had experienced a successful year.

The president's report, in part, referred to the absence of business in both the Britain street and West St. John homes, and expressed thanks to Doctors Kennedy of the West side and Bentley, for the Britain street home, for their attendance whenever necessary, free of charge. He thanked Dr. Chipman and Dr. Sangster for their help with throat trouble and dentistry. Reference was also made to the new school in the West St. John building, under the capable guidance of Miss Coster, which was found to be a great improvement and convenience.

Reference was made at some length to a plea for aid that was presented by the president to the Baptist convention at Fredericton in October, and which resulted in a collection being taken at Christmas Day and Christmas trees, gifts and special dinners were provided. On August 16 a picnic was given at Rockwood Park by J. D. O'Connell, and on August 27 Charles P. Tilley entertained the children at Seaside Park. The president thanked both these gentlemen for their philanthropic work.

Reference was made at some length to a plea for aid that was presented by the president to the Baptist convention at Fredericton in October, and which resulted in a collection being taken at Christmas Day and Christmas trees, gifts and special dinners were provided. On August 16 a picnic was given at Rockwood Park by J. D. O'Connell, and on August 27 Charles P. Tilley entertained the children at Seaside Park. The president thanked both these gentlemen for their philanthropic work.

The report of the secretary, Dr. W. S. Morrison, was very comprehensive and contained the following statistics:—Britain street—Admitted during year, eight; dismissed during year, eleven; adopted, two; at present in the home, forty-one children, composed of twenty-two girls and nineteen boys.

West St. John Home—Admitted, twenty-six; adopted, seven; dismissed, seven; deaths, five; at present in the home, sixty-five children; larger children, forty-seven, and infants eighteen. The total number in the homes at the present time is thus 106 children. The secretary also reported that there were no vacancies, and that the number of applications at all times exceeded the accommodation.

The treasurer, H. C. Rankine, briefly reviewed the financial situation of the Homes, but as his report was not completed, did not present a detailed statement. He announced that he would have his detailed financial report printed and distributed soon.

After the reading of the reports, the election of a board of directors was to take place.

TOY RAILWAY WRECK

A serious accident, in which many holiday-makers were injured, occurred recently on the Eskdale Miniature Railway near Ravensglass in Cumberland, England. The railway is probably the smallest in the world. It runs from Ravensglass, on the coast, to the Boon, in the Eskdale valley, a distance of only seven miles. An idea of the size of the train may be had by comparing the engine with the man standing behind the tender.

NEW IRISH STAMPS.
Free State Will Soon Have Set With Distinct Design.

It is understood that the English stamps printed with an inscription in Gaelic for use in the Irish Free State will soon be superseded by a series bearing a distinctive Irish design. To many collectors the admittance of Ireland into the philatelic album is one of the important features of the present year, and, indeed, to many collectors, it will be regarded as the most important factor of postage stamp interest. Outside of the interest in the Irish stamps, the year 1922 promises to be productive of many changes which will add a considerable number of new issues. The Washington Conference on the Limitation of Armament and the discussion of Far Eastern questions will exert a decided influence upon the postal issues of many lands, it is said.

One result, according to Kent B. Stiles, who discusses the conference and its prospective result upon philately in Scott's Monthly Journal, will be the withdrawal of many stamps now in current use. He also admits that the introduction of many issues seem probable. One of the important changes looked for will be in China. That country, after January 1, 1923, will take entire charge of the mail service within her boundaries. Japan has agreed to withdraw her influence over postal affairs, closing all Japanese post offices. The same will be done by Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States.

"All these countries," says Mr. Stiles, "have special stamps for use on mail sent to their nationals located in China."

He took first place in the final of the breast stroke; second place in the final of the 100 yards dash, which was won by Marshall, of Halifax; and third place in the final of the back stroke. His showing is excellent in view of the fact that he is but eighteen years of age. Halifax Y. M. C. A. won the club championship.

French Pilot Overslept in London and Feared Papers Would be Late.

London, May 8.—Paul Drennells, a French pilot, flew from London to Paris clad only in pyjamas.

Drennells overslept at the aerodrome hotel. His machine was loaded with copies of the London morning newspapers, which were to be delivered on the Paris boulevards by breakfast time. So the pilot did not waste the minutes that would be necessary to dress and started in his pyjamas.

WHEN THE CHILD WON'T EAT
Do Not Force Him, But Drive Out the Food, Says Specialist.

If a child refuses to eat, do not try to force it to do so, but drive out the food with apparent reluctance, and make believe that on no account must it eat too much, was the advice given recently by Dr. Hector Charles Cameron in a lecture on "Appetite in Childhood," before the Institute of Hygiene in London.

In some cases, he said, children suffered from "negativism," an apparently invincible determination in the child to go contrary to the wishes of its parents. Such conduct was only found in children who were directed and controlled too much, and upon whom their elders exercised a too constant and obvious yet ineffective care. "The parents keep pulling in one direction," said the doctor, "so the child pulls in the other."

In some cases refusal of food by a child could be traced to unwise suggestions by grown-ups, while other cases were attributed to the child's desire to gratify its self-importance. The Liverpool Post writes: "In general," the doctor remarked, "the child is very conscious of the stir which his refusal to eat occasions, and he knows that by refusal he can dominate nurses and mother and make all his little world revolve around him. In such cases, the only remedy is to assume an air of complete indifference, not an easy matter, especially for a mother. On the other hand, when the child begins to eat in the interest of the whole household in his increasing appetite must be made plain to him. When

A UNIQUE GIFT.

This little statue (about ten inches high) of H. R. H. Prince of Wales, taken from life when he was a sailor boy, was made for his father and mother to take with them on their voyage around the world when they were Duke and Duchess of Devonshire. It has just been given by the prince to the South African training ship "General Botha."

The child is timid he should be taught to know flavors by dipping the fingers in egg, bacon fat and fruit juice. The instinct to explore will do the rest."

FUTURE AIRPLANE TO WEIGH 40 TONS

Cabins and Saloons Encased in Wings More Than Six Feet Thick.

London, April 7.—(By mail)—M. Louis Breguet, a distinguished French builder of aeroplanes, read a paper before the Royal Aeronautical Society yesterday, at the Royal Society of Arts, on "Aerodynamical Efficiency and the Reduction of Air Transport Costs."

The bulk of his address was highly technical, but he predicted that there would come about an important reduction in air freights through the longer life of aeroplanes and engines and through improved flying powers of machines. By these improvements the London-Paris fare would be brought down to £2. When that time came the aerial transport companies would be flourishing, paying concerns, and no more subsidies would be required from the state, for the time saved in traveling by air from Paris to London, for instance, was certainly worth a fare of say £2.

It was not, he pointed out, the cost of fuel or crew which now made aeroplanes expensive machines, but only their short life. They must hope and expect to see large and strong aeroplanes of the future, as safe as motor-cars, steamships, and railways, and having an average life of twenty-five years. The aeroplanes of the future would weigh from twenty to forty tons and have engines of 1,000 to 4,000 horse-power. They would have wings more than six feet thick, within which there would be cabins and saloons. It was practically certain that the aeroplanes of the future would not burn petrol, but rather heavy oils or other cheap fuels, the cost price of which should be about one-fifth that of petrol today. The future price of aerial transport would be of the same order as the present first-class railway fares in France.

RATIFIES TREATIES

Washington, May 7.—The Chinese government has ratified the Washington conference treaties to which China was signatory and the Shanghai treaty negotiated during the conference with Japan, in the Washington conference.

MOTHERS' DAY IN THE CHURCHES

Mother's day was honored in several of the city churches yesterday, when services were of a special and appropriate character. Flowers were worn by those who observed the day.

Rev. E. Val Tilton, pastor of the Central Methodist church in Moncton, exchanged pulpits with Rev. R. G. Fulton of Centenary church, and Mr. Tilton delivered the anniversary educational sermon in Centenary church and the annual collection for the educational funds was taken.

Rev. W. Alvin Robbins, of Yarmouth, conducted the services in the Ludlow street Baptist church.

A Church Parade.

At Knox Presbyterian church the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides paraded to the morning service. There was a full turnout of both organizations and the Girl Guides made their first appearance in their new uniforms. The procession left the school room headed by the drums of the scouts with the guide following, carrying the Union Jack, and the scouts bringing up the rear and carrying their scout flags. Harold Wetmore is scoutmaster and there are twenty-eight boys in his troop. Miss Marion Terry is an average of the guides and has fourteen in her troop. Rev. R. Moorhead Legate, the minister, gave an address to the scouts and guides emphasizing the importance of faithfulness and trustworthiness.

Reviewed Pastorate.

Rev. F. H. Bone in an anniversary sermon yesterday reviewing the two years of his pastorate, thanked the various component bodies of the Central Baptist church for their support and co-operation. Eighty-six members had been added to the church roll in that period, sixty-one of whom were members of the Sunday school and young people's organizations of the church. The church had increased its financial standing by fifty per cent and was in a sound and most encouraging position. Aside from the distinctly church funds, the various working bodies of the church had added $1,234 in improvements and cash. Among these improvements was the fitting up of a recreational centre in the former Leinster street school section of the church property.

Special Services.

The services in the Carleton Methodist church were of a special nature. In the morning and at the Sunday school sessions the afternoon there were special services, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. Heaney, and in the evening there was a reception of new members and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered in the evening at the close of the service. In the morning the soloist was Mrs. J. Shonyé, and the special music in the evening included a solo by Miss Frances Murdoch, a duet by Mrs. Murdoch and F. J. Punter, and a quartet by Mr. and Mrs. George Barrett, Mrs. Brunstrom and Mr. Punter.

Confirmation.

His Lordship Bishop Richardson administered the rite of confirmation in three churches yesterday. In the morning Rev. R. P. McKim, the rector, presented twenty-one candidates in St. Mary's church, and in the evening Rev. R. Taylor McKim presented thirty-two candidates in St. Mary's church. In the afternoon His Lordship administered the rite of confirmation in St. Bartholomew's church and the candidates were presented by Rev. J. P. Haslam, curate of St. Mary's church.

Thirteen New Members.

At the Communion service last evening in the Fairville Baptist church thirteen new members received the right-hand of fellowship, which was extended to them by Rev. C. T. Clark, pastor of the church. A Communion tray was presented to the church last evening by Mrs. Walter Ross, in memory of her mother, and it was received and dedicated by the pastor of the church.

The services in the Waterloo street Baptist church yesterday were well attended, with an exceptionally large attendance at the Sunday school. Great interest was shown yesterday in the "trip to Palestine" series in the Bible class work, and many new members were enrolled. At the evening service the pastor delivered an interesting address on "The man who made trouble for his family," taking the choice that Lot made as the basis for his remarks.

WILL SUCCEED
LATE DR. MEAHAN

Rev. Joseph McDermott, parish priest at Sussex, had been appointed to succeed the late Rev. Dr. A. W. Meahan as pastor of St. John the Baptist church. It was announced in that church yesterday. Father McDermott will assume charge of his new parish next Sunday. He is a native of St. John and has held parishes in different parts of the diocese.

Their First Masses.

Rev. Father Francis Cronin and Rev. Father Robert J. Nugent, two of the three priests who were ordained by His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc on Monday last at the Cathedral, celebrated their first high masses yesterday. Father Cronin celebrated the high mass at ten o'clock in Holy Trinity Church in the parish in which his family now resides. Right Rev. J. J. Walsh, V. G., D. P., pastor of Holy Trinity preached the sermon on the priesthood. Father Nugent was the celebrant at the solemn high mass in the Cathedral at 11:30 o'clock. Rev. A. P. Allen was deacon and Rev. H. A. Ramsay, sub-deacon. Rev. Simon Oram was in charge of the choir. Rev. W. Duke, rector of the Cathedral, preached the sermon.

DEATH DOUBLY SURE.

Tailor's Cutter Shot Himself Before On-coming Train.

Toronto, May 8.—Said to have been suffering from a nervous breakdown, Albert Prosser, aged twenty-nine years, a cutter in a ladies' tailoring establishment, residing at 65 Eaton avenue, Toronto, ended his life in a most determined manner near here. Kneeling on the railway tracks in the Don Valley, Prosser placed a revolver to his forehead and fired a bullet through his brain. His body fell across the rails and was cut to pieces by an express train. He leaves his wife and a four-month-old baby. His widow stated that he had been feeling depressed, but had not given any intimation of his rash act.

Ten M. A., ninety-seven B. A., five B. Com., three doctor and one pedagogy degrees were announced at Queen's University, Kingston (Ont.) on Saturday. The degree of B. A. was conferred on R. M. Keswick, St. John. The degree of B. Com. was conferred on Albert Lander Moore, Cyril D. Ward Etcheford and George Marshall Sutherland, all of Amherst (N. S.).

All The Clothes
Out By 9 a.m.

Monday morning just started and your washing all done! You think it sounds impossible, but just use Rinso and see. Really, the clothes soak themselves clean in the Rinso suds and the dirt runs away freely in the rinsing. Why? Because Rinso is the new modern method for the family wash and it is absolutely different from every other soap or washing powder you ever used.

Do not pour the Rinso granules direct from the package into the wash. Use this way as it guarantees the best results: Dissolve half a package of Rinso in just enough cool water to make it like thick cream. Add two quarts of boiling water and stir. When the froth subsides you will have a clear, amber coloured liquid—the famous, scientific, Rinso solution. Pour it into your tub of cool or lukewarm water, then put in the clothes and let them soak one hour, two hours, overnight or as long as convenient.

Then give them a thorough rinsing and they are clean without any hard rubbing—without boiling.

If You Use a Washing Machine:

Soak your clothes for the usual time, then add more Rinso solution and work the machine. Rinse and dry—you will have a clean, sweet, snow-white wash.

Certainly Not a Washing Powder:

The fine granules of Rinso may look like a washing powder but just make this test. Dissolve a heaping teaspoonful of Rinso in a little hot water. In another cup dissolve a heaping teaspoonful of washing powder in boiling water. When they cool, see what happens:

WASHING POWDER

"C.C.M. Bicycle prices have been fixed for this season and they are right down to bed rock."

The 1922 C.C.M. Standard Adult Models are: $15 Below "Peak" Prices $10 Less than Last Summer

"This certainly gives us Canadian riders a generous reduction and a square deal. I'm told that bicycles of equal quality cost more in the United States than C.C.M. Bicycles do in Canada."

"Remember, C.C.M. prices didn't advance anywhere nearly so much as most products, so they hadn't as far to come down."

"And C.C.M. Bicycles are even better now than before the war."

"You know, the best steels and materials were reserved for war purposes, and the best mechanics put on war orders. Now, the best steels and materials are again obtainable, including English Seamless Tubing for C.C.M. Frames. The best mechanics are on the job again with their skill improved as a result of the accuracy demanded in their delicate time fuse work."
