LOCAL MATTERS. Don't forget Judge Botsford's lecture next Monday evening.

Auction of household furniture at Crane's Corner next Saturday.

A new bell, weighing 1,140 pounds, was placed in the new Presbyterian Church at Spring Hill last week.

Mr. Timothy Hicks has sold his fine lot of beef cattle to Falser Bros., Halifax. Four head were shipped last night.

Messrs. Hall & Fairweather, the well-known flour dealers and importers of St. John, have issued a very neat calendar for 1886.

The annual festival in connection with St. Paul's Sunday School was held in the school house on Tuesday evening, and was a very successful affair.

New Year's Gift. - Rev. Mr. Weddall was made the recipient, on New Year's eve, of a most beautiful sleigh robe - the gift of a prominent member of his congregation.

Kicked by a Horse. - Mr. George W. Towse, of Aboosagan Road, was severely kicked in the face last Sunday by a horse which he was harnessing to drive to Church.

ROCKFORD. - New Year's day passed off quietly. A large amount of calling and sleigh-driving was done, and a leading feature in the amusements of the day was a goose shooting, in which the winners were Warner Maxwell and Joseph Towser.

Botsford Royal Arch Chapter of Freemasons, at Moncton, which has lain dormant some six years, was reconstituted on Monday. The officers of the Chapter were duly installed by visiting brethren from St. John, and degrees were conferred upon eighteen new candidates.

HAY is hay at present. It is worth about $14 at Halifax and advancing. Messrs. Filgett & Gunn have specialized for a time, and have it, it is said, 6,000 tons. Mr. J. A. McQueen has several hundred tons. The surplus hay here has been nearly all sold. It is now held at $9.00.

Dr. P. R. Moore was the victim of a very painful accident on Monday. He was carrying an unopened bottle of carbolic acid from one room to another when he had the misfortune to slip and fall. A quantity of the acid was dashed into his face and on his neck, burning him severely.

DORCHESTER. - Mr. Andrew N. Palmer, well-known in connection with the lumber industry of the Parish, died at his residence, Upper Dorchester, last week, and was buried on the 1st inst. The deposits in the Dorchester Branch of the Government Savings Bank, from July 1, 1885, to Dec. 31, 1885, were $19,955. The withdrawals for the same period were $4,228.08.

PERSONAL. - Dr. O. J. McCully, who has lately returned from London, is in Sackville on Tuesday. - Mr. John Wallace, M. P. for Albert Co., was in town on Monday. - Prof. A. D. Smith was visiting friends in Truro last week. - Mr. S. D. Scott, editor of the St. John Star, has been making a brief visit to old friends in Sackville. He looks upon the worst for the sharp political conflicts in which he has been engaged since he took up his abode in the commercial capital.

Sabbath Desecration. DEAR MR. EDITOR. - Allow me to say for the benefit of those young men who were horse-racing on Mr. Morice's mill pond on Sunday last (whose names I refrain from mentioning) that if there is a repetition of the offence I will endeavor to see that the law is brought down upon them. A LOOKER ON.

Plan of Methodist services for Sabbath, Jan. 10th. - The pastor will preach at Sackville in the morning, and at Upper Sackville in the afternoon. Rev. Prof. Barwash will preach at Middle Sackville in the evening at 7 o'clock.

WALTER CAHILL, Sackville, Dec. 3rd, 1885.

Commissioners' Court.

(Before Justice Cahill.) The celebrated Tuttle ditch case came to an end on 31st December, when Justice Cahill delivered judgment in favor of the plaintiff, Silas Estabrook, for $5 and costs. The suit, it will be remembered, was brought against two servants of the Commissioners of Sewers, viz: Gilbert Wheaton and Johnston Patterson, who commenced opening a ditch on plaintiff's land. They justified their act as being done under order of the Commissioners. This brought up the question as to the regularity of the proceedings of the Commissioners and their jurisdiction. It appeared in evidence that the Commissioners met the proper requisites of a legal body and they agreed that the Commissioners should open the ditch in question. Under the direction of the Board, one of the Commissioners undertook the work. The evidence showed that the requisition on which the order purported to have been made was not put in writing until after the work commenced, and that the work done extended beyond the terms of the requisition. A great deal of interest has been manifested in the hearing of this case. It is in trial, and the judgment will likely be appealed from.

Clifford Maxwell vs. A. & W. Ogden, an action of account, was commenced on 4th, involving nearly $500. It is now on for trial. It will be taken up on Monday next. Mr. Kinneer for plaintiff; Mr. Powell for defendants.

The Sackville Temperance League is about recommending prosecutions against violators of the Act.

On 26th ult., Justice Cahill fined Anson Outhouse for maliciously shooting a dog belonging to Dr. Moore. The Justice awarded $20 to the Doctor for damage done him and $100 for the dog, which was worth $12, or three months in jail.

Salem S. S. Anniversary. Pursuant to notice the anniversary exercises of Salem Baptist Sabbath School were successfully carried through on the evening of the 1st inst. At a given signal the scholars, who had assembled in the church, rose in company with their teachers and superintendent to the manse, where they were arranged in marching order, two abreast, each pair supplied with small banners of neat design, and marched to the church, singing "Marching Along."

A "Happy Evening." Prayer by the pastor, Rev. Wm. E. Hall. Each of the seven classes participating in the exercises, gave a Scriptural reading on "Death and the Resurrection," after which the pastor read the readings were carefully selected and evinced good training. Classes No. 4, 5 and 6, composed of 18 small children, seem to attract the most attention, who sang after each of their recitations. They are little children and Grand little ones.

The report of Superintendent T. A. Kinneer, Esq., was certainly encouraging. February of 1883, the school was placed under its present management. There were then 4 classes with 140 scholars, and now are 175 enrolled in 16 classes, making an average at the close of the present year of 107.

The Treasurer showed the finances to be in a healthy condition.

N. B. & P. E. Ey. Mr. Boxall, C. E., has completed his survey from Leans' Corner to near George Dobson's, hence at an angle of 81 degrees towards the proposed site of pier. This line is 36 miles long from Sackville Station and is the most northerly one. The nearest point is about three quarters of a mile from the station. Mr. Boxall ran another line, one more direct from Leans', with easier curvature and equal gradients, which is 35 1/2 miles long.

Trains run daily on the line, leaving Sackville at 8 p. m., and returning to Port Elgin at 8 a. m. Messrs. Wood and Black went to Fredericton on Tuesday to lay before the Government the plans, &c. of the various lines from Leans' to Cape Tormentine. It is now for the Government to fix upon the route of the railway to the Cape, unless it adopts Mr. Hanington's view that the Dominion Government committed a blunder in locating the pier at Cape Tormentine, and that the proper site of the pier is Cape Point. This view, in the case, however, we think the Local Government will scarcely assume the responsibility of adopting.

New Year's Sports on Morice's Pond. As usual there was a large gathering of trotters on the Mill Pond on New Year's day, and although the ice was not first class, the sport was very good. Perhaps the first trotter of fame to show up was St. John, Jr., who was at one pace to work on his fifteen or twenty miles of preliminary warming up, and before the close of the afternoon gave all the go by. Mr. Wm. Barnes, of Westcoast, was a hand with his first trotter, Mr. Burton Black, with a fine goer, Mr. T. W. Bell was among them with General Walker. Mr. Boxall, Kinnear, as had also Mr. H. R. Fawcett, Mr. Patterson and several others. It would be hard to say who had the fastest, but St. John, Jr. is sufficient to baffle the crowd in the make or quality of his horses.

Religious Services. Plan of Methodist services for Sabbath, Jan. 10th. - The pastor will preach at Sackville in the morning, and at Upper Sackville in the afternoon. Rev. Prof. Barwash will preach at Middle Sackville in the evening at 7 o'clock.

WALTER CAHILL, Sackville, Dec. 3rd, 1885.

Bate Verte.

A daily train is now running between Sackville and this place, and persons of open weather commenced at Port Elgin on Monday evening and here on Tuesday evening. May much good be the result.

Several of Mr. Botsford Turner's family are down with the typhoid fever; it is said to be of a mild type. The disease was contracted from a child.

New Year's day passed off quietly, though a little of the principal pleasure indulged in was trotting horses on the roads and ice. Judging from conversations and some little loud-boasting, it is hard to determine who is actually the happier owner of the second apple to "Maund S." Had "Toby" been to the front there would be no difficulty in deciding the matter.

The Grand Literary and Musical Entertainment which took place at the Temperance Hall on New Year's evening was, as anticipated, a most interesting and rich treat indeed, heartily enjoyed and thoroughly appreciated by all lovers of chaste literature, as well as select music, who had the pleasure of attending the evening concert.

New Year's was the entire absence of drunkenness and rioting. The best of good feeling obtained all through, and eighteen eighty-six opens with good feeling.

The good feature of Christmas was the absence of drunkenness and rioting. The best of good feeling obtained all through, and eighteen eighty-six opens with good feeling.

Parrsboro.

The harbor is still open and prospects indicate a continuance of open weather.

Presbyterians and Baptists have joined during the week of prayer, but for how long after is still to be known.

The Judge, John B. Gough, the two fat men, and Lazarous have entered into an agreement to last until Lent is over.

The C. Ry. & Co. have an engine under repair here and it is said the work can be done cheaper than at Carleton Place.

New Year's day was dirty and wet, but with a great many calls were made. Sociability is on the increase in Parrsboro.

Business quiet. Monk N. G., although Mr. John H. Gillespie has been taking every precaution to have it in good condition.

At present writing (Tuesday) the going is simply terrible. Neither sleighing nor wheeling, and pedestrianism is outside altogether.

The Parrsboro correspondent of the Sentinel objects to the Baptist people taking Mr. Jones' money. Perhaps he wanted to pay the debt himself.

In Advance.

(Century "Brie-a-Brac.") Now Winter is fighting his battles With many a vicious lance, He writes a gentle poem "In Advance" Which the editors wish "in advance."

It is full, as usual, of "violetts." It alludes to the "robin's first peep," Though a bilizard's a daily occurrence And the snow-drifts are seven feet deep.

But the editors—singular creatures, To whom I am bound hand and foot—Grasp at Father Time's typical forelock, Till nearly pulled out by the root.

For they get 'way ahead of the season, In a manner most witty and arch; So that while you are reading December They finish the number for March.

And he who would hope for acceptance Must strike up besides with his tune, And sing Harvest Home in Mid-Winter And jingle his sleigh-bells in June.

So when my spring poem is finished, Not at all do my readers get; I must write a review of a novel Which isn't itself written yet!

David Chandler.

DAVID AND HANNAH.

"Come, Hannah, I hear the cocks crowing!"

"Yes, David, but I do feel awful bad!"

"Pooh! Probably laid on your back and had the night mare."

"You hurry up the breakfast while I go to feed these horses."

It was not yet daylight. Farmer Sloan pulled on his clothes as if the house was on fire, lighted a pipe, and hurried off to the barn to give the half-fed horses their morning feed.

When he had gone, the wife got out of bed with a great effort. Her throat was parched, her head throbbing, as she tried to dress herself, she had to clutch a chair to keep on her feet. When she had finally donned her apparel she staggered out to the kitchen and began to prepare the morning meal.

David Sloan was a driver. He made a good horse out of her, but it was not natural that he was disgusted with any one else who was. He was a Hercules in build, a gruff, unfeeling man in sentiment, and the horse which faltered under his weight expected the lash sooner than a kind word.

Mrs. Sloan was also a driver. She had to be. In her case she had to drive herself from daylight till far into evening to accomplish the amount of work set out for her. Here was a man's life, but she had neither murmur nor complaint. David's gruff and unfeeling ways had completely humbled her. It was work! work! work!—never a rest—never a hope that the night would have a quiet rest for her. She had to get up and look after the table with him, she could not touch food. He noticed it and said: "Gittin' sleepy, eh?"

"I've a terrible headache, David."

"Probably ate too much supper last night, folks don't know what they're eatin'."

"I—I—" She was going to say she feared that a fever had got hold of her, but he looked up so sharply that she dared not finish.

"Don't make any more noise, he said as he helped himself to a third slice of fat pork."

"Yes."

Nothing more was said until he was ready to go out, and then he remarked:

"Don't beats all the doctor's remedies. If you have any left over save it for me, I don't need it in pertickler, but there's no use in wasting anything. Don't put in much sugar, the last I got was seven cents before the great white throne of God! What defense can you make there?"

David was silent.

"At that throne," whispered the apparition, as the finger was again extended, "I will to you accuser! I will charge you with stealing a woman's life by your indifference, parsimony, avarice! You demanded more than she could give. You over-burdened and overtaxed her. In your eyes she was a slave—not a wife. Even as she lay dead you enticed her presence to exhibit your selfish and unmanly spirit!"

"I—I—"

"You have no defense!" said the voice, as he choked on his words "Go! Go out into the blackness of night—into the boundless space of earth—away from the presence of the sacred dead—away from those who know and accuse you! Go wander like some evil spirit that cannot rest! At the Great Day I will be at the judgment seat to accuse you!"

With bowed head—without a look behind him—with such feelings in his breast, David Sloan passed from the chamber dead—out of the house.

It was in the gloom of night, and men saw him no more. Years after, the grass had grown upon his grave and the farm had passed to strangers. A tangled snarl yielded up a skeleton one day. Men came and looked at it and whispered to each other:

"These are the bones of David Sloan!"

The editor of a newspaper of Ohio thus appeals to his delinquent subscribers:—"To all those who are in arrears one year or more who will come forward and pay up arrears and for one year in advance, we will give a first-class obituary notice gratis in case it kills them."
