Public Meeting.

London, Oct. 28, 1898.

To His Worship Mayor Wilson, of the City of We, the undersigned ratepayers, of this city, request that you issue a proclamation calling a mass meeting of the citizens, for this evening, to discuss the difficulties existing between the London Street Railway and the undersigned: JOHN STEVENSON, E. FITZGERALD, J. WESTBROOK, J. A. FREZELL,
J. G. PATERSON, D. McKERICHER, ELI DAY.

In compliance with the above requisition, I hereby declare a public meeting will be held this (Friday) evening, at 8 o'clock, in the PRINCESS RINK, Queen's avenue, for the above purpose.

DOHN D. WILSON, Mayor.

As They Left the British Foreign Office.

Said to Have Decided on a Pro-tectorate for Egypt

THERE IS WHOLE WHEAT BREAD AND Their Countenances Gave No Sign of Fears for the Future.

> Danger of Fricton Removed-Sir Ed. ward Grey in Line With the Other Leaders.

Lendon, Oct. 28 .- A cabinet council was held at the foreign office yesterday. All the members of the cabinet were present, and the meeting lasted two hours. When the ministers left the foreign office they were smiling, and did not give any indication of serious apprehension as to the future. The French ambassador, Baron de Courcel, saw the Marquis of Salisbury immediately after the conclusion of the cabinet meeting. It is reported in Paris that the British cabinet decided to proclaim the protectorate of Great Britain over Egypt. The absence of anti-French feeling among Englishmen was demonstrated at the Empire Theater in Birmingham. The orchestra played "The Marseillaise," whereupon a great majority of the audience threw up their hands and cheered loudly, completely drowning the few hisses which the music elicited from the minority. NO FEAR OF FRICTION.

Although nothing has transpired regarding the deliberations of the cabinet council, the Times says it may be taken for granted that the decisions reached are in full agreement with the policy formulated in the re-cently published blue book. The Daily Mail understands that an arrangement has been arrived at which removes all danger of friction with France.

Speaking at Huddersfield, Sir Edward Grey, Liberal M. P. for Berwick-on-I weed, who was under secretary of state for foreign affairs in the cabinet of Lord Rosebery, in 1895, and announced in the House of Commons the policy of the Rosebery Government regarding Egypt, strongly indorsed the policy of the present government regarding the Fashoda question.

Experiences of Hamilton Men Who Came Here and Then Joined in the Strike-Mayor Wilson's Advice-The Company's Representatives Have Nothing to Say.

The trouble between the street railway employes and the company, which has been brewing for some time, came to a head yesterday, with the result that a general tie-up of the entire system took place. Whisperings were heard on all sides during the day that the matter was fast reaching an acute stage, and the climax came at about 4:30 p.m. The

TIME FOR ACTION HAD ARRIVED, and the union sent a number of spare men to all the respective lines to give those on duty the signal to take their cars into the barns.

It was the intention of the union in the first place to call the men from the cars, and leave them at whatever point return the cars to the barns. The first tinues brisk. return the cars to the barns. The first All members of trades unions in don men went out, as they knew there car to be run in was No. 76, of the the city will refrain from rid- would be trouble, and they would not tersburg line. The cars were soon mustling on the way to their destina- settled. tion, and it was not long till the greater portion of them had been housed. inscription: The cars in the northern section were taken in via Central avenue and Adelaide street, to avoid going through the central part of the city, and the South London and Hamilton road cars, via Hamilton road and Rectory streets. The news of the strike spread rapidly, and soon there had gathered at the car barns an immense crowd of peowho cheered, waved their hats, and demonstrated their sympathy with as each car arrived, THE CARS HOUSED At 5:10 all the cars, with the exception of two, had arrived, and the rumor was circulated that the men on these cars had refused to vacate their posts. Finally, Wm. Crawford and Ed Tolhurst, two union men, were sent down to the city, and the headlight of about 5:35. It contained four passengers, two ladies and two gentlemen. The cheers that resounded when the car arrived at Elizabeth street were deafening.

A HITCH. for No. 96, of the belt line. The delay was occasioned by Motorman Break refusing to run his car in. Mr. Westby tried to talk him into it, but Break would not listen to him. Westby, accompanied by two other union men, finally set Mr. Break down on the roadside and started the car for the barns. Motorman Taylor and Conductor Avery brought it in. The people were wildly enthusiastic, and cheer after cheer was given.

A STARTLER!

The tie-up, though not altogether unexpected, came as a big surprise to the company, who had received no word of the men's intention to quit their cars at the hour appointed. The major portion of the cars were on their way to the barns before the company realized that the strike was actually on. When they did realize it, they were helpless. The tie-up was most effective, and the large crowd that usually take the cars at six o'clock had to foot it home. Citizens came from all directions, as was customary, their usual starting place, but soon heard of the existing strike, and traveled homeward on foot.

MAYOR WILSON ON THE SCENE. At about 5:30 Mayor Wilson drove out to the car barns, and was given three hearty cheers and a tiger by the strikerts and the large crowd present. The mayor, in acknowledgment, said was deeply grateful to them for their kind expression of goodwill. He called upon them to show their confidence in him by doing what was for the best interests of the city. It was a trying time for the men, and they had is deep sympathy "When any one man tries to coerce an intelligent lot of men like we have on our street railway. said the mayor, "I think it is a

that will not be tolerated by the citizens of London. Mr. Carr is going altogether beyond his power. You have the citizens with you. Let all your actions be in accordance with the lawas I am sure they will be-and the people will stay with you. Every member of the council, including myself, is

A Systematic, Orderly and stand by you in your trouble until the end." (Prolonged cheering.) A number of other citizens also voiced in a few words their sympathy

> OFF FOR LABOR HALL. At about 6:35 the men formed in line and started for Labor Hall, Dufferin avenue, where they had been instructed to gather. They were cheered by crowds of sympathizing citizens at every corner. "Well done, boys," and "You're made of good grit," were the cries all along the route of march.

MANAGER CARR INTERVIEWED. An Advertiser reporter visited Manager Carr at his office at the barns. When asked whether the company would attempt to run the cars, he stated not that night, but they had an organized force ready to take the cars out in the morning.

"Will the company accede to the demands of the men? "I cannot say anything as to that," said Mr. Carr, "until after I have been in conference with the directors tonight.'

Mr. Carr would say nothing as to the company's plans, in case the trouble were not immediately settled. Supt. Potter was non-commital in the matter.

MR. SMALLMAN'S VIEWS. Mr. Thomas Smallman, a director of the company, when asked his opinion in the matter, said he thought the strike would end as most strikes generally ended-doing the men a great deal more harm than good. He then went into the explanation of how the cars ran 17 hours a day, and one man got ten hours while the others only got seven. The company wanted to equalize matters, and were trying to do so when the present trouble arose. He was informed that a number of the employes had asked that the above change be made. He could not say as to how the matter would end.

THE WHITE BADGE.

Citizens on all sides were heard to express their determination not to ride on the cars while the strike lasted. Some 2,000 white silk badges have been issued by the union and they will adorn the coats of sympathizers. They were conspicuously worn last night by a large number of citizens, including many ladies, most of whom contributed from a nickle upwards to the funds of the strikers to obtain the coveted they were when the hour for striking badge. A few were also given away, had come, but it was finally decided to

PROTECT LABOR.

In the evening another large and enthusiastic crowd of citizens gathered the men in the most hearty fashion, at the barns, thinking that an attempt would be made to take out the cars, but no such attempt was made. Sergeant-Major Adams and P. C.'s McDonald and Monahan were on hand, but their services were not needed. Meeting of the Men.

The striking street railway employes went en masse to Labor Hall, on Dufthe Springbank car hove in view at ferin avenue, where a most enthusiastic meeting was held. Mr. Rezin MR. GIBSON IN THE MANAGER'S Orr, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated International Association of Street Railway Employes of America, who is here, and organized the union, Then there was another long wait occupied the chair. In his address to the men, he said the committee had waited a reasonable length of time to see the company and urge upon them the request of the men, but the company had refused to listen to them. The committee at once saw that their efforts were futile and that there was no other course to pursue than for the men to quit work. He was glad to see that the employes had responded in the manner they did to the cail of tne committee. He had the utmost confidence that they would carry out the fight in as honorable a way as they had acted since it began, and in which they had all joined nobly. He urged them to be careful and not to do any harm to the company's property, and conduct themselves as good and law-abiding citizens would. Mr. Orr advised them, when they left the hall at any time, to go to their homes and not stand around the street corners. If they were found in a crowd, and any violence or trouble ensued, the company would accuse them of it. He preferred that the men should remain in the hall all night in session.

They might go to supper, and then report back. His object in coming there was to have them all understand the situation. "I want to caution you," he continued, "about the necessity of being guided by your committee. They will not ask you to do anything you should not do. In that way you will always have an understanding with each other, and you will retain the support of the citizens, which you have had up to the present."

A STRIKER TELLS HIS STORY. Mr. Thomas English, of Hamilton, asked the indulgence of the meeting to make clear the circumstances under which Hamilton men were brought here. A smooth-tongued individual from London had gone to Hamilton, and represented to the speaker and some of his friends last week that he wanted fifteen experienced men to go to London, as there were a number of men in that city dissatisfied with their hours; they wanted to work day-work and they would be discharged, and their places filled as soon as the company could secure the men. There were not many men at the meeting, he said, who would not have come to heartily in sympathy with your cause, London under similar circumstances. and thinks that you have been treated yery unfairly in this matter. We will himself that if work in London was going begging he might as well have it as anybody else. The man from London promised the speaker $8 50 per week for a start, with a raise in sight. Mr. English said he asked if there was a strike on, and the man said "No." Mr. English replied that he never had been in a strike, and never wanted to be. He had spent $5-$1 to come here and go back, and $3 for a week's board -which he might better have given to his wife and family to buy bread. He had made up his mind to work until the men decided on what action they would take, and then go with them. (Cheers.) He had done so, and did it as a matter of principle, and was quite content to go back to Hamilton.

(Cheers.)

MR. MARKS' SUGGESTION. Mr. Joseph Marks, president of the Trades and Labor Council, at this juncture moved that the names of the three Hamilton men who had come to London and gone out with the men, be forwarded to the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council, with a request that all possible consideration and support be accorded them.

HAMILTON MEN SPEAK. In speaking of the motion, Mr. David Gibson, another Hamilton man, said the boys from the Ambitious City had been brought to London by a smoothtongued man under gross misresentation and false pretenses. He could not speak for the rest of the boys, but for himself, he said, he was very sorry he had come to London, and he was going book to Hamilton. "I went down last night, (Cheers.) and told Mr. Carr," said the speaker, "that I was going to leave the company. I have never been a 'scab,' and I'm not going to be one now." He then proposed that all the names of the Hamilton men be attached to the resolution to be forwarded to Hamilton. (Applause.) There were some who had gone back to Hamilton before the London men went out, as they knew there stand in the way of a better condition of things for the London men. The following names were read, and culated by the committee, bearing the at the request of Mr. Marks, the suggestion took the form of a motion, which was unanimously passed: Thos. English. D. R. Gibson, Charles Priest, James Lamagan, Matthew Job, Alf.

Tomkins and Edward Smith. Mr. Edward Smith said he came from Hamilton of his own free will and accord on Sunday night, not knowing there was going to be a strike. When he got here he soon found how matters stood, and when the trouble came, ha resolved to stay with the boys. The name of the man who had gone to Hamilton was called for loudly by many. Mr. Gibson thought it would be better to treat him with eilent contempt than say anything to hurt him. It was a case of "murder will out." A voice - I know the fellow. He works at the power house-Norris. Here the whole assemblage shouted the name, with such comments as He's a beauty," etc.

OFFICE. Mr. D. R. Gibson was asked to tell the story of how Manager Carr received him when he placed his resignation in that gentleman's hands. Mr. Gibson said that after going into the office, and informing the manager, he came out and walked towards the station. Mr. Potter, the superintendent, followed Mr. Gibson to the station, and asked: "Have you been influenced by these men?" Mr. Gibson said his reply was: "No, but I have been influenced by my own conscience." (Cheers.) The speaker had told Mr. Potter that he had prospects of a job in Hamilton at $1.75 per day, and was going back, but he would see Mr. Carr again before he (Mr. Gibson) went away. Mr. Potter said he was very sorry that Mr. Gibson was leaving, and said there would be no strike. When Mr. Gibson went to the office for his money, Mr. Carr said he could do nothing for him, as he had broken the contract he signed. Mr. Gibson retorted that Mr. Carr had broken his portion of the agreement

Lands Elected by a Big Majority.

Dr. Coughlin Barely Carried His Own Township.

· Mount Forest, Oct. 28.-The Liberals of Mount Forest are rejoicing over the splendid victory that has been won in East Wellington. The truth of the old saying that "nothing is so uncertain as a horse race, a cock-fight or an election," has been felt here during the past week, for though the Liberals felt pretty certain of victory, there were many Conservatives who seemed to geois, minister of public instruction. consider the return of Dr. Coughlin more than a possibility, and their hopes gave an impetus to the party workers. If the riding had been the closest one in the province, neither side could have worked harder than they did, and on this account the Liberals are the more pleased with the victory. The cry that Mr.Gibson was an outsider and an outcast from Hamilton had no particular effect. In Arthur township, near which Dr. Coughlin resided, the Conservatives counted on a majority of 150 through the use of these and other cries, but were rewarded with only 11.

Mr. Gibson's pleasing personality impreseed itself very favorably upon the electors as he went through the rid-ing, and this fact contributed largely to the satisfactory result achieved. Fast Wellington Liberals are feeling extremely pleased that they have been able, by returning Col. Gibson, to render a service to the party at large, to the government, and to the province. THE DREYFUS CASE

Opening of the Inquiry-Speculation as

Paris. Oct. 28.-The court of cassation, which is to decide upon the question of reopening the case of Alfred Dreyfus, the prisoner of Devil's Island, who is alleged to have been falsely convicted of selling important military plans to agents of a foreign power, opened at noon yesterday. The hall was very full of people, but there was no demonstration around the palace of justice.

Reporter Bard opened the proceedings by referring to the excitement and scandals caused by the case, even before the appeal for a revision of the trial was lodged. He then reviewed the history of the chase from the arrest of Dreyfus. M. Bard added that the appeal for revision was decided upon in consequence of the late Lieut.-Col. Henry's confession that he had forged a document in the case, but Bard said this forgery was committed in 1896, and could not be alone regarded as ground for a revision or for an annulment of the judgment rendered in 1894. Nevertheless, M. Bard then said, Lieut,-Col. Henry had committed for-

M. Bard concluded with expressing the belief that if the bordereau was the principal factor in the condemnation of Dreyfus on the testimony of experts his condemnation ought to be revoked.

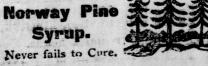

The belief is general that the court of cassation will pronounce neither for revision nor for annulment of the decision in the Dreyfus case, as either course would entail awkward consequences. To avoid these, it is expected the court will decide that, as the affair now presents itself, there has been no treason, and that therefore the condemnation pronounced upon Captain Dreyfus by the court-martial cannot be

It is thought that the new cabinet will be composed as follows: M. Dupuy, premier and minister of the interior; M. de Freycinet, minister of war; M. Constans, minister of justice; M. Del-casse, minister of foreign affairs; M. Ribot, minister of finance; M. Bour-

THE WHY. The Paris correspondent of the Daily News says: The Brisson cabinet was overturned ostensibly because it failed to protect the army from slander. The real facts are that the ministers, constantly but vainly, urged the slandered staff officers to take proceedings against their slanderers. Gen. Chanoine's resignation was timed to prevent the civil power getting hold of the Dreyfus dossier. It was calculated that if he went out, slamming the door, the government would be beaten by a parliament afraid of having the army and people against it. The coup was fixed for Thursday, but M. de Roulede's sting provoked Chanoine to precipitate the matter. However, the desired object has been accomplished.

M. Brisson was unable during the suspension of the sitting of the chamber on Tuesday to obtain M. Faure's signature for the nomination of a new minister of war. Had he succeeded, the secret dossier would now be before the court of cassation; but M. Lockroy. as an ad interim war minister, cannot take the initiative. The custodians of the dossier can refuse to let him see it. CABINET-MAKING.

Paper Read at Buffalo by Mr. Archibald Blue.

Steps to Develop Deposits-The Value of the Metal.

Following is a summary of the paper on "Corundum in Ontario," read by Mr. Archibald Blue, director of the Provincial Burea of Mines, at the meeting of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, held in Buffalo: Just 100 years ago in a paper read before the Royal Society of London, and published in its transactions, Rt. Hon. Charles Greville established and named the mineral species corundum, greeting. The police had to save him and we have it on the authority of forcibly from the attentions of enthuforcibly from the attentions of enthusiastic guardsmen who desired to carry him on their shoulders through the throng. All attempts to clear a passage was futile. The sidar was forced to retire, and was finally smuggled out of the station through a distant corner of the huilding.

In the western part of Asia Minor, and in some islands of the Grecian Archipelago, the crystalline limestone which is interbedded with the schists and gneisses carries a blue corundum mixed with magnetite, which is the emery of commerce. The corundum occurs in smaller quantities as a constituent of granite and gneiss in Silesia, Auvergne and elsewhere in Europe; in a compact felspar rock in Piedmont; in dolomite with tourmaline at St. Gothard; and in crystalline limestone along with numerous other minerals in Orange county, New York, and Sussex county, New Jersey. In Burmah, which became a British province in 1886, ruby mines have been worked for a very long period. There the country rock is chiefly gneiss, with bands of crystalline limestone of varying thickness and many miles in length. The explorations of Barrington Brown appear to have satisfactorily established that in Burmah the only rock in which rubies are found in place is crystalline limestone. Among other minerals found in the corundi-Clara Barton writes the president ferous limestone are pyrrhotite, hemasuggesting that if the government intends caring for the suffering in Cuba. Minor. In the United States corundum is confined almost wholly to the region of the Appalachian Mountains, along a belt extending from New Jersey to Alabama. In the form of emery it is found in Chester, Mass., in a chlorite belt about twenty feet wide, that lies formations of hornblende between schist and tale, and that traverses the mountains about four miles. This is the only productive emery mine in the United States. North Carolina has furnished nearly all the corundum of commerce for the United States, but the statistics of the mines and works have never been published. For abrasive use it is very important that the corundum should be free from particles of rock or mineral softer than itself: and for an ore of aluminum it should be free from all impurities, to make extraction practicable by present methods. FIRST DISCOVERY IN CANADA.

Corundum was first discovered in Ontario by the late Sterry Hunt about large, easy of access, and favorably 51 years ago, in crystalline limestone, situated for mining. on the second lot of the ninth range of the township of Burgess, in the county of Lanark. In the rock specimens collected by Dr. Hunt were afterwards discovered a great number of crystalline grains of a transparent mineral, varying in color from a light rose-red to a deep sapphire blue, which he identified as corundum, and from their colors referable to the varieties known as the oriental ruby and sapphire, He deemed it probable that further examinations might develop large and more valuable specimens of those rare and costly gems. No subsequent attention appears to have been given to this locality, and the mineral was practically rediscovered there a year ago by Prof. Miller, of the Kingston School of

The largest known deposit of corundum in the province was discovered 22 years ago on the farm of Henry Robillard, in the township of Raglan. Renfrew county, but at the time it was believed by the discoverers to be apatite or phosphate of lime, and twenty years elapsed before the mineral was corectly identified. Twenty years ago Coleman, now of the School of Practical Science at Toronto, picked up some boulders of nepheline syenite in the vicinity of Cobourg, on the shore of Lake Ontario, which held corundum. A fortnight ago the writer showed Dr. Coleman sspecimens of nepheline syenite rich in corundum taken from a large deposit in the township of Dungannon, and he at once pronounced them to be identical with his own. Twelve years ago, in 1886, Nesbitt T. Armstrong, a farmer and mill owner in Carlow, discovered mineral on lot 14, in the fourteenth concession of that township, but did not know its name, and did not suspect it possessed any value. Some crystals labeled "pyroxene from south part of Carlow," came into the possession of Mr. W. F. Perrier, of the Geological Survey at Ottawa, and in 1896 he found upon examining them that they were corundum. He took steps at once to ascertain the precise locality from whence they came. In October, 1896, guided by Armstrong, he found the corundum in place upon the lot on which Armstrong's discovery was made ten years before. Then for the first time the fact was established on OAK HALL

RECENT INVESTIGATIONS. report on the field. Last year he traced the corundum-bearing rocks doch, to the shores of Clear Lake, near the eastern line of Sebastopol, a length about 30 miles. This year Prof. Miller has proven the syenite band to run continuously through a length of about 75 miles, from the township of Glamorgan, in Haliburton, to the township of Sebastopol in Renfrew, be sides tracing it to a considerably greater width over the region expose last year. Corundum was found at a number of places in the western part of the belt, and a large and apparently rich deposit in a ridge of nepheline syenite near the middle of it in the township of Dungannon. The total area of the band is about 300 square miles, and as it lies in a free grant district, it is safe to say that the tract. Corundum has also been found in the township of Methuen, in Peterboro county. The last week of September, Mr. Blue said, he had spent with Prof. Miller in going over the more northerly band from its eastern end to the village of Bancroft, on the Hastings road, on the line between Dungannon and Faraday. Only a few of the principal properties were visited, including the Block location in Brudesnell, the Robillard location in Raglan, the Armstrong location in Carlow, and a re cent discovery ni Dungannon, not far from the York River. All these are crown hold for disposal the minerals in at least 90 per cent of the whole

Makers of aluminum assert that because of the presence of iron and other impurities, corundum is unsuited for the production of that metal. But, Mr. Blue contended, it is safer to keep on open mind on problems of this nature. The processes of manufacture have already been so much improved that the price of aluminum has been reduced within 40 years from its weight in gold to 30 cents per pound or less, and one ought not therefore to assume that it is impossible to find a method of producing pure corundum at low cost, if not a process to make aluminum out of an impure ore. It will certainly add greatly to the value of the corundum deposits of Ontario if they can be used in producing aluminum as well as the material for abrasives. None of the discoveries made in Ontario encourage the hope that the gem varieties are to be found, though it is not impossible that further search for these in the crystalline limestones may be rewarded with success.

TO DEVELOP DEPOSITS. In view of the extent and apparent richness of the corundum fields in the province, the government has taken steps aimed at developing the de-posits and establishing a home industry. Regulations have been drawn up under which the mineral rights in lands lying within the two corundiferous belts have been withdrawn from sale or lease, and hereafter the mineral and mining rights in such lands can be acquired only under the leasehold system, the rental for the first year being 60 cents, and for subsequent years 15 cents per acre. Instead of allowing speculators to take up and hold lands with a view to sell out their interests to miners and capitalists at a large profit, it is proposed that the advantage of acquiring lands

WHEEL. BIKED 30,000 MILES.

New York, Oct. 28 .- H. Darwin Mc-Ilrath and his wife, of Chicago, arrived here yesterday from Southampton, England, on the American Line steamship Pennland. The McIlraths started on a wheeling tour on Oct. 10, 1895, from Chicago. They crossed the Rockles, and on June 1 arrived in San Francisco. There they took the steamer for China. The couple rode through that country, and then proceeded through Japan. Their route was afterwards through Burmah, India, Persia, Russia, Austro-Hungary, many, France, and Great Britain. The McIlraths had ridden nearly 30,000 miles when they boarded the Penniand for New York. They had some exciting experiences in Asia and India. The McIlraths intend to ride from this city to Chicago, and the start will be made In a day or two. Under the auspices of the Century Road Club of America, of which the couple are members, relays of riders will accompany them on the last 1,000 miles of their long journey. The trip, it is expected, will take twenty days. Receptions will be given them at Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland and other places.

The Street Railway Tie-Up. The London electric street car system is tied up. No cars are running. People who have been accustomed to ride to and from business, or on pleasure intent, must foot it, or find other means of carriage. Not only personal convenience, but business is seriously interfered with in such case, so that a tie-up is by no means a matter of public indifference.

The Advertiser does not propose to constitute itself an absolute judge in any such case; but it does propose to possible, from the standpoint of the question What is right? and also, if possible, to make clear some general principles and considerations applicable to all similar disputes.

The motormen and conductors of the street railway have, through the press, directed attention to certain grievances. What may be called the regular staff, as distinguished from occasionals, and relief men, assert that the manner in which the hours are adjusted practically works out in such way as to constitute a reduction of wages; and that they are not receiving, in view of their responsibilities and the necessities of their families, a "living wage." There are other points of grievance, into which it is not now necessary to We have said enough to indicate, on general lines, the nature of the grievances complained of by the

The men, having these grievances, formed themselves into a union, in connection with the Amalgamated International Association of Street Railway Employes. They then appointed a committee, through whom they sought a conference with the management of the company, with a view to the discussion of the differences. They also expressed a willingness to submit all differences to arbitration.

ane management of the company, however, declined to meet any committee of the union, though expressing willingness to talk with any of the men Individually, but on condition of their abandoning the union. The company also declined to listen to arbitration, taking the ground that there was nothing to arbitrate about

After repeated attempts to obtain an interview, the men went out. The main reason given by the employes for quitting work at this time is not that their demands are refused-as those demands they were willing to leave to arbitration -but the refusal to grant them a conference in which to state their griev-

The company, on their part, take the broad ground that their dealings with the men is their own affair, with which neither the union, the city council, nor the public, have anything to do,

In the foregoing, we have endeavored to state fairly, though not in minute detail, the general trend of the positions taken respectively by the men and the company.

Now, as to some of the general principles involved. We cannot admit the view that public opinion has no legitimate right to make itself heard in the case of a company possessing a very valuable street railway franchise in a prosperous and growing city. Of course, London should today properly be itself running its street railway system, as it runs its wats works. But the present absurd franchise-which reflects no credit on the city council of the day that conceded it for so long a term-has over a quarter of a century yet to run, so there is no use in discussing it further at this time. There is this, however, to say, that the goodwill of a friendly public opinion is an appreciable factor in the success of any public enterprise of this kind, particularly in the case of a company nine-tenths owned in the United States, and making enormous profits.

As to whether the remuneration rereived by the men, taking one week with the other, averages a "living wage," we would not venture offhand to say. But we do wish to say, that here s no advantage whatever to a community, in any general screwing-down of wages to the lowest obtainable soint. How much does the average worker save of his weekly wage? In giving his family decent food, clothing, helter, and a fair quantum of educational advantages to fit for the struggle of life, it is very seldom that the dollars to lay by for the proverbial oca, let her say in whose name she rainy day.

The company decline to discuss grievances with any committee of the union, through professing willingness to talk with the men individually. The men say, in reply, this means that the more active spirits who seek amelioration would be dismissed, one by one, and new and less courageous men trained as rapidly as possible to take their places. We do not know that the men are correct in this view; but, to speak frankly, it looks like ft.

The company practically take the ground, it will be observed, that they are opposed to dealing with the men as a union; that is to say, they object to the men acting together. Different people may take different views about discuss the pros and cons, as fairly as the right of men to combine to obtain the advantage which concerted action alone can give. The Advertiser has good reason to know that such differences of view exist. In fact, it has itself been more than once boycotted by certain merchants in this very city on the accusation of being too friendly to the cause of labor. But there is no possible way in which capital can be prevented from combination; and why, then, in common justice, should not these whose capital is their labor be permitted to combine also? The Advertiser has never been the flatterer either of capital or of labor, and it does not propose to become so now. Labor has not always been in the right, any more than capital. Partaking of the general imperfections of the human nature of which it is composed, it has sometimes lacked in moderation, and in acknowledgment that there is often more than one point of view. But while acknowledging this, we make bold to assert, and in so dong we take our stand by the side of the great thinkers of the world-that unionism, or combination, has, on the and the self-respect, of workingmen, alike in Great Britain, the United States, and Canada, and has thus elevated, by so much, the position of selfrespect of the particular community > and of mankind. At this moment, we cannot say how of moderation. They occupy a strong prima facie position in their ofer to submit all grievances, or alleged company, in their refusal even to meet the men in conference,

A Good Time to Keep Coon.

One of the Paris journals, Eclair, explains to its readers the cause and motives of Lord Salisbury's present 'aggressive attitude towards France." Of these, it seems to have an intimate knowledge, and can explain them very clearly. According to this authority, he has been moved by "electional motives." He wishes to make up for loss of prestige on account of the diplomatic defeats he has received from Russia. He has in a cowardly manner chosen the time when "the French Government is hypnotized by the disastrous an expansion of about 80 per cent. The Dreyfus affair, and paralyzed by threat of a general strike." He has succeeded in gaining unanimous applause from the English press, but his conduct has provoked quite a different feeling in France. The French people are tired of always being England's dupe. They are weary of being the humble servants of the British Cabinet. "We are at Fashoda, and we ought to remain there, notwithstanding the threats of the British Cabinet." The writer then trade per head of the population in raises the question of Britain's right Manitoba was about $24 for the fiscal to be there ut all, and of any real year ending June, 1897, it was about partnership between England and $40 per head for the fiscal year, end-Egypt. average employe of any kind has many to command Marchand to leave Fashspeaks. If she speaks in the name of Egypt, let her produce the titles in virtue of which she represents those who have the right to treat in the name of Egypt," and so on.

This kind of thing suggests a number of reflections: First, it is very good newspaper bluff, but if this is the tone of "those who have a right to treat in the name of France," then war would be a possible outcome of the situation, which we decline to believe. Second, it is rather late in the day, when French bondholders have reaped the benefit so long, to inquire into the right of England to be in Egypt. Third. what would be the reply, if some power demanded to see the "title deeds" of France's various foreign possessions? And, fourth, there seems to be a blissful ignorance of the fact that the whole argument can be reversed; and that the inquiry is both reasonable and pertinent, what are Marchand and his men doing at Fashoda hoisting flags? Why are they not on the boulevards of Paris, where they could show just title for their presence? Fortunately, the settlement of the question is not with extreme journal-

A remarkable discovery has recently heen made in Canadian military circles which throws a flood of light on official doings immediately prior to the outbreak of the Northwest rebellion, in 1885. Lieut.-Col. Houghton, D.A.G., commanding military district No. 10, reported to the adjutant-general at Ottawa, on the 28th of July, 1884, a year before the outbreak, that there were in the vicinity of Prince Albert and St. Laurent between 700 and of the discontented half-breed element, under the leadership of Louis Riel, the greater portion of whom participated in the rebellion of 1870. 'These men," continued the deputy adjutant-general, "claim, with what amount of justice I am not prepared to 'say, to have serious grievances whole, greatly elevated the position, against the Government, which, even if removed, would not, in all probability, put an end to their agitation, as they have come to regard themselves in the light of an important power in that country, and to whom, having little or nothing to lose, everything must be gain. When the bare possibility of even a prospect of a hostile rising of both Indians and halfbreeds combined suggests itself, would tween the Street Railway Company it not be well at once to look the matter straight in the face, and speculate and the employes may terminate, but upon the almost incalculable injury we would strongly advise the men that would occur to the country gennot to depart from the present path erally, not to speak of the dreaded scenes of murder and devastation that would naturally follow in the wake of such a movement? Such a process is very far from the chimerical, grievances, to arbitration. We regret unless some decided steps are immedithat we cannot say the same for the ately taken to guard against such a calamity."

This prophetic warning the Government of the day took no heed of. The Indians and half-breeds at that time had no votes, and they were allowed The result of the East Wellington to nurse their grievances concerning the administration of their affairs until the crisis came that ended in rebellion and bloodshed. The Government at Ottawa ignored the wellfounded as well as the ill-founded grievances of these children of the plains with a criminal callousness. They let the rebellious spirits of which they were so plainly warned by Col. rect the hectoring spirit and windy Houghton, foment into the terrible outbreak twelve months later. Then, after the blood of many sons of Can-East Wellington to elect Hon. J. M. ada had been spilt, and the country riding has risen above local prejudice suffering all the evils which Col. interests. A Battle Over the Border.

Our American consins are in the throes of another political contest, which if the Democrats make decided gains, may change the complexion of both the Senate and the House of Representatives. Thirty ninety Senators fifteen are eleven Republicans, four Populists and Silver Republicans. The present standing in the Senate is: Republicans 43, Democrats 34, Populists 5, Silver Republicans 4, Pure Silverites 4 and Independents 1. In the House of Representatives there are 202 Republicans and 130 Democrats. The Democrats claim that they will have 167 members in the House supported by 26 Fusionists. The Republicans, on the other hand, say they will hold their own. The most interesting and eventful feature of the campaign is the battle for the governorship of New York State. The Tammany machine, with Croker at the throttle, is working desperately for its candidate, Augustus Van Wyck, brother of the Tammany mayor of Greater New York, Robert Van Wyck. The two Van Wycks are the creatures of Croker - Croker's Twins, they have been dubbed. Augustus. Van Wyck was an obscure judge when Boss Croker picked him out for the Democratic nomination. The party knew little or nothing of the man, nor did he desire the candidacy; but both the party and Van Wyck bowed meekly to the will of the Boss. Croker desires to have this pliant tool in power at Albany, because the two Van Wycks, mayor and governor, would stick with brotherly closeness to the interests of their political lord and master. Republican control at Albany prevents the full exercise of Tammany's power in Greater New York, as the governor can veto many city ordinances.

The most alarming assertion of Croker's despotism in the present campaign is his attack on the independence of the judiciary. Croker has refused to renominate Joseph F. Daly. who for 28 years has been a judge of the Supreme Court, on the ground that he (Justice Daly) has not been subservient to Tammany Hall. Daly has been an able and upright judge, and although a Democratic appointee, he has been indorsed by the Republicans. Croker's decree that judges must recognize their obligations to Tammany Hall is a foul blow at the integrity of the bench, and is indignantly resented by the respectable element of the bar in New York. Despite all this it is probable that the well-drilled cohorts of Tammany will march to victory in Greater New York though it is more be removed even momentarily

In the interests of clean government date, Theodore Roosevelt, is desirable. Any other result would be a sad reflection on the public morality of the Empire State. It is already sufficient reproach that a man of Croker's stamp, ignorant, ill-bred, unprincipled -who began his early manhood as a prize fighter and who achieved his first notoriety by killing a fellow bruiser-should become the controlling force of a great party and dominate the second greatest city in the world. The evolution of the Boss is a hideous anomaly in the political institutions of the Republic.

This has been a great year for Canadian shipping interests. More steamers run out of Montreal for Great Britain than run out of New York. When the canal improvement are finished Montreal's share will increase at a rate that cannot be calculated now.

The imperial policy is developing some curious trade problems for our neighbors. City manufacturers fear that if the Philippines are annexed, the American market will be flooded with cheap Manilla cigars, selling at "two-for-five." Florida cigar makers want Cuban raw tobacco imported free because it will increase the manufacture of Havana cigars in Florida.

In Cuba the tobacco interests object to free trade in tobacco and cigars between the United States and Cuba on the ground that cheap American tobacco will be sent to the island to be mixed with the native article in making 'pure Havana' cigars. The Government will have a pleasant task trying to reconcile their differences.

General Kitchener tells a French newspaper that he hopes the present trouble will be settled peaceably and that his own efforts may conduce to that end. General Kitchener's shining success has not blinded him to the horrors of war. By these words of peace he has added to his fame.

When the wards are abolished and the number of aldermen reduced the City Council should consider other reforms, such as the two-year term, the frontage tax for street improvements, and the separation of the legislative and executive functions of the Council. Meanwhile let us attempt one thing at a time. Ward abolition will be a good start.

We don't believe there is any good reason to suppose that many of our French fellow-subjects would sympathize with France in the event of war. Why should we suspect them? Live Stock Markets.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 .- Too many cattle are coming on the market, and prices are sliding downward at a rapid rate, the general demand being unusus ally poor; today's trade was extremely dull at an average decline of 10c; prime steers, $5 25 to $5 65; medium, $4 65 to $4 85; beef steers, $3 90 to $4 60; stockers and feeders, $2 75 to $4 50; bulls, $2 25 to $4 10; cows and heifers, $3 50 to $4 25; calves, $3 25 to $7; western rangers, $2 65 to $4 60; western fed steers, $3 90 to $5 35; Texas grass steers, $3 15 to $4 15. There was a greatly diminished demand for hogs from eastern shippers, and as outside competition was therefore reduced to a minimum the local packers were in a position to dictate terms: sales were rather slow at a decline of 5c; fair to choice, $3 60 to $3 75; packing lots, $3 25 to $3 57½; butchers', $3 40 to $3 75; mixed, $3 35 to $3 70; light, $3 35 to $3 75; pigs, $2 70 to $3 60. There was a good demand for sheep at steady prices, both killers and feeders taking hold freely; inferior to choice sheep, $2 25 to $4 50; rangers, $2 50 to $4 60; lambs, $4 to $5 65; western range lambs, $5 65, and feeders, $4 85 to $5 05. Receipts-Cattle, 12,000; hogs, 38,000; sheep, 14,000.

Cattle-The ized to engage the men. offerings were only one load, and with a light demand the feeling was weak and a shade lower; calves were in light supply, fair demand, and sold a little stronger; choice to extra were quotable at $6 75 to $7 25; good to choice, $6 to $6 75. Sheep and lambs-The market was again in dull and lower position; 22 loads on sale, including 9 loads left over, and 9 loads of Canada lambs, part of which arrived late; there was almost an entire absence of demand, eastern buyers being without orders. and reports of liberal accumulation at New York; choice to extra lambs were quotable at $1 25 to $5 40; good to choice, $5 to $5 40; common to fair, $4 50 to $4 75; sheep, choice to extra, $4 40 to $4 60; good to choice, $4 to $4 40; common to fair, $3 to $3 75. Hogs -The market was in improved condition, with moderate offerings, 28 loads: Yorkers were quotable at $3 65 to $3 75; plgs, $3 50 to $3 55; medium, $3 70 to $3 80, there being only a small proportion of mediums; good mixed, $3 70 to $3 75; light mixed, $3 60 to $3 70; all offerings were sold, and the close was steady at the best figures of the day. MONTREAL, Oct. 27. - About 700

head of butchers' cattle, 40 calves and 700 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the east end abattoir today.

The butchers were out in large numbers, but cold rains and high winds, and yards made things rather uncomfortable to man and beast. Trade was tendency. The best cattle sold about 4c per lb, but none of them were fancy beasts. Pretty good animals sold at 3c to 3%c. and the common dry cows and thrifty young stock, 24c to 2%c per 1b, while some of the leaner beasts probable that a considerable number of the cattle will not be sold today. Calves sold at $2 to $8, or 3c to 5c per lb. Shippers were paying only 3c per lb for sheep today. Lambs sold at 3%c to 4½c per lb. Fat hogs are plentiful, and sell about 4½c per lb for hogs just off the cars.

Decisions of the British Cabinet.

Withdrawal of the French From Fashoda Demanded.

Before Any Conditions Are Discussed -France Left to Adopt Decisive Measures, Which May or May Not Lead to a Conflict-Dupuy Accepts the Post of Premier-Action of the American Peace Commissioners.

London, Oct. 28 .- The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon summarizes the result of the meeting of the British Cabinet yesterday as follows:

1. Marchand must be withdrawn unconditionally, and no undertaking or promise can be given to discuss questions raised by France in regard to access to the Nile, and such like.

2. When Marchand is withdrawn, it will be determined whether the questions raised admit of discussion, and under what conditions the discussion can be proceeded with.

3. Every possible facility will be atforded to assist in Marchand's withdrawal by whichever route selected.

4. If Marchand is not withdrawn, there will be no interference with his remaining at Fashoda, nor date fixed for his withdrawal; necessarily, reinforcements will not be permitted to reach him. He will be treated courteously, as a foreign visitor, and will be regarded in no other light.

5. Therefore, it is left to France to adopt any active measures to precipitate a conflict.

The Pall Mall Gazette adds that it has good reason to believe that while Russia was counseled France to tide over the difficulty and avoid war, she has promised to throw her weight into the scale at no distant date, for the purpose of bringing the whole Egyptiar, question and the British occupation of Egypt to the front for settlement.

THE PEACE COMMISSION. Paris, Oct. 28.—The American peace commissioners at their sessions today will draw up a memorandum on the subject of the Philippine Islands, which, it is expected, they will place before the Spanish commissioners at the joint session which is to take place on Monday next.

Friday's Proceedings.

When the court adjourned yesterday 2fternoon, 30 witnesses in the Toohey case had been heard. The preliminary trial has grown rather monotonous, even to those immediately connected with it, but a curious crowd continues to gather at the police court.

THOMAS NULTY.

Thomas Nulty, who resides at the corner of York and Adelaide streets, was called this morning. He had gone to the gate of his front yard on the evening of June 24, to call his little boy, and saw somebody lying on the track Mr. Stokes was near him at the time, and witness called out to ascertain what the trouble was, and asked if someone had fatlen off the train. Mr. Stokes replied, "No," that the watchman had been struck by a tramp. Witness saw a one-legged man about 100 yards away, but could not say who he was. Witness sent his little bove to Mr. Willis' place to telephone for the

A number of formal resolutions were then passed, and the convention was brought to a close.

JOHN BLOW'S TESTIMONY

Says Dodd's Kidney Pills Saved His Life Recently.

Toronto, Oct. 24 .- The many Torontonians who know Mr. John Blow, 67 Princess street, have been in a state of amazement for some time past, because Mr. Blow, who for years was a great sufferer from Diabetes, has fully recovered, and is now as well as ever, though his case was said to be helpless. "I was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills," said Mr. Blow, "the only medicine on earth that can cure this terrible dis-

So it goes. Dodd's Kidney Pills are keeping up their grand work for human health and happiness unceasingly.

A London cable says: It is said foreigners are withdrawing immense amounts of capital from Paris and transferring them to London. Russia is prominent in this movement.

DISASTROUS FIRE IN TORONTO

Old Upper Canada College Building Burned.

Loss About $25,000 - 140 Persons Thrown Out of Employment.

[G. N. W. Special to Advertiser.] Toronto, Oct. 28 .- Fire broke out in the old Upper Canada College building on King street west about 4 o'clock this morning. The blaze lasted until nearly 8 o'clock, in spite of the efforts of the firemen, and did about $25,000 damage. The building has been occupied for some time past by the Macdonald Tinware Company, of which W. T. Tassie is president and principal owner. The company had $80,000 worth of stock in the building, with an insurance of $14,-000. The stock was damaged to the extent of $20,000.

The building was badly gutted, about $5,000 damage being done. The firm employed 140 hands, who will be temporarily thrown out of employment.

APPIN. Appin, Oct. 27.—The first anniversary of the new Methodist Church at Appin was held on Sunday and Monday, Oct. 23 and 24. Rev. James Livingstone, of Windsor, preached eloquently at 11 a. m. and 7 p.m., and the Rev. Mr. Ross, of Glencoe, gave an able exposition of Psalm xxxvi. at 3 p.m. On Monday evening, after an excellent repast had been served by the ladies in the basement of the church, the audience withdrew to listen to a fine programme of music and addresses. Rev. Messrs. Livingstone, of Wincsor, Henderson, of Appin, and Willoughby, of Alvinston, delighted the audience with their witty and wise words. The pastor, Rev. C. Barltrop, ably filled the chair. The Rev. Thomas will be: Mayor Wilson, Col. Leys, M.P.P., J. W. Little, Rev. Mr. Flood, T. D. Hodgens, M.P.P., Rev. Ira Smith, Mr. E. T. Essery, Wilson, D. Amalga. Barltrop, ably filled the chair. The Hill Street Quartet Club and a mixed quartet club of London rendered wellselected numbers. Miss Etta Smith, of Mount Brydges, sang very sweetly. Mrs. Anna Beckett, of Detroit, with her finely cultivated voice, gave the people of Appin a musical treat that will not be soon forgotten, eliciting applause and hearty encores. Mrs. Kinder, of to seek its faithful employes. Strathroy, presided at the organ with good taste. This is one of the most successful anniversaries ever held at the village of Appin. Proceeds, $115.

A CITY OF ZINC.

[London Tablet.] "A City of Zinc" is the name which may appropriately be given to the mushroom city of Portugese East Af-All the houses, all the rica, Beira. hotels and public buildings, says a Natal Catholic contemporary, barracks and warehouses, are built of zinc. So great has been the speculation in build-ing, and so urgent the need for supplying the inhabitants with cheap and speedily erected dwellings, that a city has been built up in six months. Thousands of tons of zinc from France, England and America supplied the material. The unpleasant impression produced by the aspect of this zinc town is heightened by the thought that men have to dwell in these houses under a tropical Everything in this strange city is under the dominion of the metal. Even when a person falls ill he is carried on a zine stretcher to a hospital, which is also, of course, made of zinc. And if he dies he is laid to rest in zinc coffin.

An appreciative audience listened to Dr. McCallum's lecture on "The Phy- And Breaks Car Windows With the escort may be formed. siological Bases of Mind," at the Froebel Society, on Tuesday. In beginning. the lecturer said that while many other studies throw light upon psychology, it is to physiology we must look for the greatest help in solving its prob-lems. Charts of the brain were shown, locating the different brain-tracts, and it was stated that the thumb-center of the brain is the receptacle of more incoming impulses than any other portion of the brain; which goes to show the importance of the thumb as indicating character. The nervous system was described as an aggregate of cells, each one of which was an independent anatomical unit, and the structure and action of the nerve cells were explained. Among other points touched upon were habit, reflex and voluntary actions, consciousness, inhibition as the foundation of will, memory and invironment. The points had many apt illustrations. Miss Brenton moved a vote of thanks, which was heartily assented to by all present. MORE BOOKS.

Not until 2 o'clock this afternoon did the street car company take any cars out of the barns, where the strikers left them yesterday evening when the strike was declared.

All morning there was every appearance of a complete tie-up. Nothing occurred to disturb the unusual quiet which the absence of the buzzing trolley has caused upon the streets. The strikers remained for the most part congregated in the Labor Hall, and maintained commendable order. The general sympathy of the citizens is indicated by the numberless "We Walk" badges worn. Four of the ninety odd badges worn. Four of the ninety odd Bond, of St. Thomas; McLellan, of motormen and conductors remained loyal to the company, and reported for Mr. T. H. Smallman was asked this loyal to the company, and reported for siders were also on hand-three from St. Thomas, one from Detroit, and one from Windsor. These, together with five or six local men, constituted the staff the company had at their command this morning. All were itained for an immediate call to duty.

THE FIRST CAR. Shortly after noon Manager Carr, Director T. H. Smallman and Solicitor I. F. Hellmuth went to the barns, and about 2 o'clock the first car was taken out by Motorman Elliott, of this city, and started west on Dundas street. Messrs. Carr and Hellmuth were on board. A double crew was in charge, three of the men being strangers in the city. No resistance was offered by the strikers, although several watched the proceedings at the barns. The car's appearance caused a great deal of excitement, and it had not proceeded far before a general cry of "SCAB!" was taken up. At the Globe casket works the employes at work in the front of the building hissed and hooted the car crew vigorously, and all along the line the most pronounced antipathy was shown by the crowd. Similar treatment was received by the three other cars, which followed immediately. None had any passengers.

EXCITING INCIDENTS. When car 76, of the Dundas and Pottersburg line arrived at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets for the second time, a rig stood across the track, and the trolley car, bearing Manager Carr and Mr. Hellmuth, the company's solicitor, came to a standstill. The crowd refused to allow the rig to be moved, and surged around the car. The conductor of the car was soon grabbed by the throng and given many jabs. Manager Carr and Mr. Hellmuth, held on to the badly frightened youth, and used their canes on the heads of the crowd. The po-lice finally got the crowd back and put the conductor on board. The rig was then removed and the car pro ceeded on its way. Manager Carr and ROTTEN-EGGED. At 2:25 a West London car, in charge of Conductor Griffith, passed the cor-ner of Dundas and Richmond streets with difficulty. It carried the "V. R." sign at the head, and County Constable Spicknell stood on duty at the side door. Before the car reached the corner it had a window smashed. When in it. Eggs made their appearance in profuse quantities, and as the car reached the corner there was a fusillade of the hen fruit, and every window in the car was smashed. The car was in a filthy state, and the crowd stood round and yelled "Scab!" Manager Carr placed himself under the protection of Detectives Rider and Nickle, who escorted him to the street railway office. Before reaching that haven of safety his hat was knocked off his head by a large-sized egg. He went into the office. SMASHED THE WINDOWS. Car 72, of the West London line, on its return to the corner of Richmond and Dundas streets, going toward the barns, was greeted by a volley stones, ancient eggs, and every missile that was at hand. Every window in the car was broken inside of a few minutes, and the conductor literally covered with broken eggs. The jeering and hissing was deafening. The motorman was struck with a lump of coal, which was thrown through the front window. The crowd tried to board the car, but the con-

picked it up, shook the egg off, and trolley pole was repeatedly pulled off. CARS ORDERED IN. Orders were issued by the company at 2:45 to send the four cars to the barns. This was done as promptly as

A belt line car was met by a mob on Horton street near Richmond street and deluged with rotten eggs. Stones were thrown at it also, and every window was broke. The men in charge of the car cleared out, leaving it standing on the track. It was rumored that the conductor before leaving asked a bystander for one of the badges worn by the strikers, and sympathizers, saying he "was one of them."

His worship consented, and arrangements were completed for the meeting to be held in the Princess Rink. Mr. R. Mahone, to attend, and Mr. Mahone replied that he would be here. Several other speakers will be present, and the vexed question will be fully discussed. The street railway employes will march to the rink in a body from Labor Hall, Dufferin avenue, accompanied by a band. No musical organization has been secured, but the assistance and sympathy of any local musicians is requested whereby

NOTES.

Placards with the inscription "We Walk to Protect Labor" were distrib-uted about the city this morning by some of the strikers, and the committee having the matter in hand reported that in only two places had the privilege of putting up the cards been refused. The proprietors of these two stores said they were in sympathy with the men, but they did not wish to take any decided stand.

Four of the Hamilton men who were said to have been brought to the city by the street railway company returned home last night, and three others left this morning. The men who entered the car barns this morning to get work were not interfered with by the strikers, other than approached and requested to see eye to eye with the men. The conductors and motormen who refused to strike are Messrs, Addison, Dave Break, Richard Griffith and Andrew Elliott. The imported men are Joseph Conwell, H. Harlow and Fred

UNEXPECTED HONOR.

The Amusing Predicament of a Southwestern Railroad Official.

They were talking about having a boom at Hardy, Ark., one fall during the administration of President Harrison. The town is situated on the beautiful Spring river and has the Memphis road. The idea of the boomers was to make a resort of the place, either for summer or winter pleasure seekers. About the time the boom was being planned the announcement was made that Russell Harrison, the president's son, was coming west and would pass through Hardy on his way to Kansas City. It was accordingly arranged that speeches should be made while the train stopped, not to speak of an ovation of anvils and fireworks. For some reason the Harrison party did not pass through Hardy as arranged, but it happened, remarkably enough, that a private coach full of the Memphis road's officials was fastened to the north bound train that reached Hardy about half past 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The youngest member of the party was Mr. B. L. Winchell, the assistant general passenger agent of the road. He was then past 30, but every railroad man in the country who knew Ben Winchell would have said that he did not look more than 20.

Mr. Winchell was standing on the broad vestibule at the rear of the private car as the train rolled into Hardy, when a deafening noise ahead caused him to wonder if the engine had blown up. He leaned over the rail and looked forward. A great crowd was gathered and anvils and cannons were being fired by the dozen. The train stopped so that the crowd was placed at the end of the private car. Cheers were proposed and given with a will, and shouts of "There he is!" "Hurrah for the president's son!" and "How young!" were heard on every side. Then the cannons and anvils were touched of again and some of the skyrockets and Roman candles were fired off in the face of the glaring afternoon sun. Mr. Winchell was dazed. He did not understand the meaning of it all. He thought that they were advertising the town, but he could not understand the meaning of the shouts and exclamations. Then it struck him that there might be some important personage in a forward car, and he at once went to look. The train started on before he got through, when one of the officials who had got the hang of the situation met Winchell and rushed him back. "Hang it, Ben," he shouted, "go back on the platform and bow, make a speech -do something, for heaven's sake! You're the president's son."

Winchell dldn't understand anything about it, but he went back on the platform and bowed and smiled until he felt like an automaton. Then it was explained to him. The people of Hardy were shocked to learn next day that they had not seen the president's son, and they at once de sared all boom proceedings off .- Detroit Free Press.

She signed to the woman to lead the way, and looked haughtily surprised on perceiving that she hesitated.

"Pardon, mademoiselle, but are you sure you are prepared to proceed? It is true that for one we love we are often willing to make great sacrifices, but the hour is late, mademoiselle is young, very young, perhaps inexperienced, although it is plain that the ladies of her country are reared differently to ours.

"I am sixteen, and accustomed to act for myself," she was proudly told. "But sixteen!" the woman ejaculated, with a pitying glance at the delicately-chiseled features of the English 'Is mademoiselle quite certain that this monsieur is worthy of the great confidence she reposes in him when she resolves to visit him at his apartment? It is true that I am ignorant of English customs; but in this, our country, such an act would be considered-may I say it?-very indis-

In spite of the darkness she could see the hot blood rush into the cheeks of the young lady, as she angrily demanded:

"Of what are you dreaming? It is my brother, my only brother, whom I seek. Do you suppose I would be here unless it were for his sake?"

"The English monsieur is called Himer or Hamer," said the woman, who prudently evaded either replying or apologizing, "and is believed to be an artist, but lives in great retirement. In fact those who have told me this much assert that he has not been seen for some days, and his landlord, who is a man always coarse and brutal, has frowned and blustered when questioned concerning him."

"What do you infer from this-that Mr. Hamer, as you can my brother, is in his debt?"

The woman nodded.

"How could Aymer sink so low?" the young lady began to soliloquize, but checked herself on remembering that she was not alone. "Lead me to my brother," she said to her companion. "I come prepared to settle all claims upon him. He did not know that his friends were still in Paris, or

In some confusion she left the explanation unfinished. She scarcely knew herself why Aymer, the young Earl of Esselyn, was at Paris when he was supposed to be climbing the Alps with the tutor who had accompanied him abroad. She had been as much astonished as alarmed when the note, to which she had made allusion as having been secretly delivered to her was quitting the picture gallery of the Louvre, acquainted her with the fact. But more bewildering still was the fact that in it her brother warned her, in somewhat incoherent terms, not to betray his presence in the French capital to their step-mother, and finished by asking her to endeavor to obtain for him a certain sum of money, for which he would send at the first opportunity. This money she had with much difficulty procured; but weeks elapsed, and Aymer neither came for it nor sent. The tidings of the rapid approach of the German army had warned the English residents to fly from Paris, and Lady Esselyn would have been amongst the first to depart but for the, to her, inexplicable obstinacy of her step-daughter. Had she been a kind-hearted, sensible woman, the young girl night not have hesitated to say to her: "Aymer is here: it is for his sake I The foolish, impetuous boy has

Let us seek him and ricate him from his difficulties." ut Lady Esselyn had a cold, selfish art, and a bitter tongue; she prided erself on strictly doing her duty by he brother and sister left to her guardianship, and they were too proud to confide to anyone how her sneers, her exactions, her carefully-veiled taunts and sarcasms, aroused their worst passions, and not only made them obstinate and defiant, but hurried them into many an act of which, in calmer moments, they were ashamed. Esselyn's sister might have loved him so passionately if she had not regarded him as a fellow-sufferer, whose errors must be hidden from the woman who would exaggerate and harp upon them till she drove him almost to madness. A few months and he would be of age, and free himself from the yoke; till then my lady's malevolence must be evaded. "Lead me to my brother," she said, resolutely; but still the French bouque-tiere hesitated. Neither poverty nor frequent contact with the hardened and vicious had blunted her good feelings, and the rashness of this young creature, who evidently knew not how much she was risking, rendered her uneasy.

"Would it not be more prudent for mademoiselle to content herself with sending a message to her relative? Will he be pleased for his sister to penetrate to such a quarter as he resides in?" "I will not turn back," was the impetuous reply. "I cannot relinquish the hope of seeing, of imploring him to put an end to this strange concealment. Indeed, my good woman, I must see my she added, still more positbrother," "He has no one to care for him, poor boy, but myself! I have obstinately refused to quit Paris; I have braved mamma's reproaches, and endured everything, rather than go away while he is here, beset with mysterious difficulties. Shall I, then, let any personal consideration influence me now that I am so near, so very near, that in five minutes I may be in his arms?"

She had been talking to herself more than to the shivering woman who patiently awaited her decision; but now, in firmer tones, she said to her:

"It is in kindness you raise these objections, but you forget that as soon as I am with my brother I am safe; and that the more promptly you lead me to him the more quickly shall I be shielded from the annoyances at which you hint. How far did you say that we have to go?"

"If mademoiselle will not be gainsaid she must keep close to my side, and not carry her head so erect, or walk so like an Englishman," the woman warned her. "And she must take off those rings that sparkle on her fingers. Who in their senses would assume the dress of a grisette and wear such ornaments as those? or a gold necklet such as I now see glittering above your

The young lady bit her lips, but hurriedly transferred the trinkets to her pocket, and making a tolerably successful attempt to imitate the gait of her companion, closely followed, as quitting the porch that had sheltered them while they conversed, she plunged into a network of courts and alleys so dark, so ill-paved, that it was only by clutching the sleeve of the bouquetiere's doublet that she was able to find her way.

CHAPTER III.

There are moments when the excited brain draws mental pictures with astonishing rapidity, and in the few minutes that elapsed before the woman to whom she clung told her the welcome news that they had reached their destination, the Lady Vivien St. Orme's thoughts had flown to many scenes. She saw herself once more a happy child, sporting at the knees of her indulgent father: again she was galloping across the breezy downs of her native country, a bright, fearless girl, side by side with her only brother, or taking her first peep at society from Lady Esselyn's opera box, laughing and blushing as she saw opera glasses leveled at her fair young face, or heard her opening loveliness commented on, and some sage bachelor predict that in the course of a few years she would be the Queen of the Season.

What if the countess discovered her absence? or. worse still, what if others learned that she had been absent; in the night, too and wandering in one of the worst quarters of Paris? When Vivlen first resolved to seek her brother, it seemed the easiest, simplest thing in the world to do so, and she had smiled at herself when she stood before her glass in the robe of the nun, which she had contrived to abstract while the weary sister snatched a few hours' repose. But now that she stood in the darksome night with tall, grim houses frowning down upon her, with figures slouching past ever and anon, whose evil faces made her shudder, and without a creature at hand save the flower-seller who could protect her from them, her heart grew cold with dread. The delicatelynurtured, carefully-tended patrician comprehended at length how rash she had been, and could only mutely pray that she might be saved from the perils she had too heedlessly dared

A Telling Speech by the Minister of Education.

Bluff Is Not Statesmanship and Rant Is Not Eloquence.'

Mr. Whitney's Hysterics-Col. Matheson's Figures-Reckless Misrepresentation by the Opposition.

The following is the text of Mr. Ross' admirable speech at Mount Forest in support of Hon. Mr. Gibson's candidature in East Wellington:

There are two or three features of this campaign which are worthy of attention. Perhaps the most noticeable, and therefore the first in order of significance, if not of importance, is the hysterical wrath of the leader of the opposition. You have read his speeches in the newspapers, and some of you may have heard him in this hall. Now, his manner, I am bound to say, is most alarming, for I have learned by experience that his fiery declamation and violent gestures are far more disturbing than his arguments, and I would remind him, if he would condescend to listen to any words of mine, that bluff is not statesmanship, and that rant is not eloquence.

If the government is corrupt and incapable, as Mr. Whitney and his col-leagues allege, why has he withheld his proof so long? Why has he not invoked the machinery of parliament, and either through the standing committees of the house or by a special committee asked for an investigation of our misdoings? Why has he not the courage himself or why does he not persuade some of his followers to make a speci-fic charge against the government of dishonesty or corrupt conduct, as was done by the Liberals at Ottawa when they were in opposition, and let this corrupt and dishonest government be exposed and driven from office as speedily as possible? That course is open to Mr. Whitney. It is the manly and parliamentary course for him to take, but I tell you beforehand he will not take it, as he dare not risk the consequences. His discomfiture would be too complete and he knows it.

COL. MATHESON'S FIGURES. I observe, also, that wherever Mr. Whitney goes he is accompanied by that skillful accountant and expert in finance, Col. Matheson, of South Lan-Col. Matheson insists that our public accounts are not properly audited: that we are running behind, and that direct taxation is in sight, with a variety of other consequences, moral and financial, too serious to contemplate without emotion. Now we say, and we point to an act of parliament passed by the Liberal party to that end, which you will find on page 333 of the Revised Statutes of 1897, that there is the most ample provision for the audit of the public accounts, that the audit is as full and complete and searching as the audit of the public accounts at Ottawa, and that in every essential respect the provincial auditor of Why did these visions perplex her which Col. Matheson is a member, and which consisted last year of the leading that the public accounts committee, of to every paper and document affecting > the very bottom. Now, if Mr. Whitney is not satisfied with this mode of auditing the public accounts, let him make the charge that he believes the public accounts are framed to conceal and not to disclose the public business, or that there is some irregularity in the form in which the public accounts are presented, or the government has directly or indirectly profited by any transaction affecting the public interest, and I tell Mr. Whitney here that he can have a committee of the house, and can call in the best accountants in the land to examine our mode of keeping the public accounts, and can examine all other proper places in the House. persons that can be reached by a subpoena of the house, and the government will stand or fall by the consequences of that investigation. If Mr. Whitney or Col. Matheson thinks that the government, for a sinister purpose, is attempting to conceal any public transaction, let them say so in parliament on their responsibility as members, and the government will place at their disposal all the machinery of parliament to collect the necessary evidence to the public accounts of the province, with a right to examine witnesses under oath, and probe every transaction to make their charges good. We have nothing to fear, for there is nothing corrupt or irregular to disclose. Mr. Whitney must not make the mistake of regarding us as the successors of the Tuppers and the Langevins and the Haggarts whom he has been accustomed to follow and whom he follows still. We are the successors of a different class of politicians, as our record during the last 25 years has shown. There is no stain on our financial record, and it does not lie within the power of our opponents to discredit that record by any disclosures they can make themselves or that can be made by any person on their behalf. CHARGES OF CENTRALIZATION.

Again, Mr. Whitney charges the Liberal party with centralization. I admit that centralization is a somewhat disturbing word to most people, but when heard by an audience with the strong emphasis which it usually receives from Mr. Whitney, or in the solemn manner in which it is used by Col. Matheson, it is a very disturbing word indeed. There is nothing that people dread so much under free institutions as the curtailment of the so-called sovereignty of the people. Now, in what respect have we centralized power? You see, I am going to admit the charge for the sake of argument, and ask you to consider its enormity. First, we have taken control of the appointment of bailiffs and division court clerks. Formerly these officers were appointed by the county judges; now they are appointed by the government. Does Mr. Whitney pro-pose to restore these appointments to the county judges? If so, I ask you this question: Which would you pre-fer, centralization in the hands of a government that is responsible to public opinion and amenable to criticism in the public press and on the platform, or centralization in the hands of judges who are not responsible to public opinion, in the ordinary sense of the term, and usually not amenable to criticism in the public press? I like power to be in the hands of men I can get at, and not in the hands of men beyond the reach of my vote and my protest. Then, as further proof of centralization, he says we have taken the ssuing of tavern licenses into our hands. Formerly, as you know, licenses were issued by authority of municipal councils; now they are issued by au-

thorty of the governmene. Well, what of it? Can Mr. Whitney or any of his followers say that the public interests ntended to be served by license laws have ever been better served than they are under the present license law? Charges of political partisanship have sometimes been made against commis-sioners and against inspectors, but these charges, when investigated, have amounted to very little; usually, to nothing at all. Is Mr. Whitney prepared to say that any other board of commisioners trat could be appointed would have no political or other bias? We are not asked to change the present system of issuing tavern licenses, because, in the opinion of our opponents, it does not promote public morality, but we are asked to change it because of a suspicion that it is not entirely free from politics, and yet we are not furnished with a tittle of evidence that the system which Mr. Whitney proposes would be less free from politics. It is therefore a question, taking him on his own grounds, between centralization by the Government, which is only objectionable on the score of its possible political bias, and a decentralization which, by past experience, has been found to be far more objectionable. And this, with many a forcible and violent adjective, we are asked to accept as the statesmanship of the Opposition-the remedy for fanciful injuries to the liberty of the people.

MR. WHITNEY INCONSISTENT. These are the two respects in which for the moment it occurs to me that we guilty of centralization, and neither of them has it been shown that harm has come to the public, but, on tion of the Dominion Government, when, under the McCarthy act, it took the control of the license laws of the Dominion, until it was told by the Privy Council that it had no right to interfere with matters of purely provincial jurisdiction? I have never yet heard that Mr. Whitney denounced either Sir John Macdonald Charles Tupper because of their invasion on provincial rights in this instance. Again, we had a Dominion franchise act, by which the right to prepare voters' lists for every constituency in Ontario was vested in the in latest styles, white collar; former Dominion Government, to the exclu- price was $1 75, Saturday and Monsion of the lists prepared by the local day $1 25. municipalities. Here was an extraor-dinary act of centralization, which at the very foundations of representative government, but, so far as I can remember not a word of complaint was uttered either by Mr. Whitney or Mr. Matheson in opposition to this mode of centralization. Then we had the Dominion gerrymander act of 1882, the avowed principle of which, as Sir John Macdonald said, was "to hive the Grits," that is, to centralize them, regardless of county lines or any other consideration whatsoever except one the political advantage to be gained. And yet not a word against this centralization by our modern exponents of popular rights, Messrs. Whitney and Matheson. And what has been the cause of the various contests, between the Local Government and the Dominion Government with respect to license laws and escheats, and our rights to the control of the timber and minerals on crown lands, but a fight against the centralization of a Government that Mr. Whitney practically supported all his life, and supported to the great loss in many respects of the Province of Ontario, which he now seeks to con-

Ontario has the same power as the Do-minion auditor. We say, moreover, Again, it is said that the Education Again, it is said that the Education department has centralized in itself greater powers than it formerly pos-sessed. Mr. Carscallen has gone so far astosay that my only object in retain-ing office was to centralize in myself the control of the school system of the country. Now, I am under the painful necessity of telling this gentleman that any allegation that the Education department exercises more power now than it did in Dr. Ryerson's time is untrue, as a matter of fact, and if Mr. Carscallen is not aware of this he ought to be. In regard to examinations and the appointment of examiners, and the regulations respecting courses of study, text-books, etc., etc., indeed, in almost every particular, the Education department is less centralized than it was 25 years ago. The details of this I am prepared to discuss down to the minutest item of administration when I meet this gentleman and his leader in their accustomed and

RECKLESS MISREPRESENTATION. In answering this charge of central-Ization you will allow me to express my astonishment that men occupying the prominent positions of leaders of public opinion should so constantly engage in the most reckless misrepresentation of their opponents. I never engaged in a campaign since I entered public life, 26 years ago, in which there seemed such a premeditated and malicious determination to misrepresent and to understate or overstate, whichever serves the purpose best, wellknown facts bearing upon the case under consideration. When the answer which we make to the charges cannot be demolished, suspicions are raised that all the evidence has not been forthcoming. When we point to the success of our administration it is hinted that if the truth were known our record would not be so good. When we say we have paid our way, and have generously aided in the development of the country, we are confronted with imaginary liabilities and Mathesonian deficits, and if anybody is disposed to pause in his attack upon the Government or its policy, then the leader of the Opposition calls for the big drum, and immediately the air is filled with noise, and there are gatherings of committees, and fiery appeals to passion, and a terrible distortion of the truth, until it is hard for one to identify himself amidst it all, so general has been the malodorous fusillade. THE AUGUST SESSION.

I notice that Mr. Whitney at Arthur

the other night wanted to know why we called Parliament together in August. I am surprised a this question. I think that during the three weeks Parliament was in session it was made very plain to him why Parliament was called. It is not an unusual thing for a man who has wantonly caused a fire to ask why the fire bell is ringing. Mr. Whitney and his party attempted to get possession of the Government benches by questioning the right of constables to vote although for fifty years their rights in this respect had remained unchallenged, and when he was caught in the very act of storming the treasury benches indirectly through the courts we met him on his own terms, and we called Parliament, and we author-ized the courts to say once and for all what were the rights of constables under the law. We went further, too, as we were bound to go. We proposed to protect men who had won their seats under the conditions on which their predecessors had held seats in Parliament on both sides of the House since the union act of 1841. We did this openly, with the approval of the majority of the people of Ontario, and we say we would be unworthy custodians of the trust committed to our care, and we would be unworthy representatives of the great Liberal party, if we did not repel any and every attack upon the integrity of the franchise, no matter whether it came through the election courts or from a discomfred opposition. I am sorry Mr. Whitney has not yet discovered why Parliament met. I think we could find a newsboy on the streets of Toronto who could tell him all about it. It is astonishing how long it takes some men to find out what is going on even in this land of newspapers

PLACE-HESLOP.

A quiet and very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Heslop, of Albion street, West London, when their daughter Annie was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Place, of St. Thomas. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. B. Sage, rector of St. George's Church. The bride, who was given away by Mr. Heslop, looked very charming in a dress of soft cream cloth, trimmed with white satin and crystals. Miss Lydia Place, as bridesmaid, looked exceedingly well, attired in azure blue cloth, tastefully trimmed. Miss Grace Heslop was very pretty in white as maid of honor. Mr. Robert Riddle, of this city, acted as best man. An excellent supper was prepared, and after a few pleasant hours were spent, the happy couple left by evening train on a trip east, amidst the best wishes of their many friends. The presents were numerous, costly and useful.

CHURCH DEDICATION. The dedication services of the new Methodist Church at St. Johns were held on Sunday, Oct. 23, and were very highly successful. Rev. George Jackson, chairman of the district, preached at 10:30; Rev. Dr. Smith, of the First Methodist Church, London, at 2:30, and Rev. Richard Hobbs, of Askin Street, at 7. The sermons were clear and beautiful expositions of divine truth, and were listened to by large congregations with deep interest. On Monday the basement of the church by the ladies of the congregation, which was heartily enjoyed by the large number present. This was immediately followed by a concert in the auditorium. Mr. George C. Gibbons, Q.C., of London, was the chairman of the evening. After devotional exercises, the programme, which throughout was one of very high merit, was proceeded with. Mr. W. H. Hewlett, in his rendering of several piano solos, fully sustained his repu-tation for musical ability. The singing of Miss Roblyn and Mr. Skinner was greatly appreciated by the audience, as evidenced by repeated encores. Miss Steele, who was unable to be present, sent a substitute in the person of Mr. Percy, who filled the place very credit-

A PRESENTATION

To Superintendent Bayley of the Adelaide Street Baptist Sunday School -Leaving the City to Reside in Winnipeg.

Last evening was made the occasion of a pleasant event, when some 50 officers, teachers and their friends, of the Adelaide Street Baptist Sunday school gathered at the residence of their superintendent, Mr. Geo. Bayley. and presented him with a large-sized photo group of the officers and teachers. Mr. Bayley has sold out his business in this city, and will shortly leave for Winnipeg, where he will enter business. A kindly-worded ad-dress was also read by Mr. A. C. Clark, expressing regret at Mr. Bay-ley's departure. Mr. F. J. Reid presided, and Mr. T. S. Johnson and Mr. Charles G. Moorhead made brief remarks. Games, refreshments and social conversation made a very enjoyable evening. Following is the address:

London, Oct. 27, 1898. To Mr. George Bayley, Superintendent of the Adelaide Street Baptist Sunday School:

Dear Brother George,-We, the officers and teachers of the Adelaide Street Baptist Sunday school, have heard with deep regret of your de-parture from among us, and feel that we are sustaining a great loss, both as an officer of the school and as a sincere friend. During the time you have filled the position of superintendent of the school we have experienced much benefit and help from your labors, and feel, indeed, that while our loss will doubtless be others' gain, your departure will be keenly felt by all who have been associated with you in the Master's work. We know that God has blessed you in your work in the school, and that at all times you have considered the school's interests prior to any personal claims. During the summer and Christmas seasons you have attended promptly to things which have afforded the scholars great pleasure, having to neglect your business many times to do so. While God has been prospering you in your business you have not forgotten to share with the school the financial benefits derived therefrom, and in many ways you have attested your love for the work and your co-workers in it.

As you go to your new home, and meet with many strange faces, we feel that you will most appreciate being able to look at the familiar faces of those with whom you have spent, we trust, many happy years, and we therefore ask your acceptance of this photograph of your fellow-workers. Our prayer and hope is that God may prosper and lead you in your new field of work, and that you may long be spared to work in his vineyard, and be the means of leading many precious souls to Him who died that we might have eternal life. A. C. CLARKE. (Signed

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Noted Men Speak Before the Provincial Conference at Peterboro-Interesting Questions Discussed.

Peterboro, Oct. 28 .- The last of the delegates to the Provincial Sunday School Convention has arrived, and the town now entertains about 400 outsiders. The general executive report, among other things, deplored an adverse balance of $270, especially when there was $576 of unpaid pledges. It referred to the excellent work of G. M. Lee in normal work, which had shown satisfactory progress. One hundred and twenty-four candidates tried the normal examinations, and 31 were granted diplomas Organization has progressed satisfactorily; the counties of Leeds, Lanark and Victoria, the city of Kingston, and also 21 townships were organized. Two primary unions had been established. The home class was a new department, but the report showed 4,590 Methodist home departments in Ontario. The work of the staff officers was also commended. The convention then divided into sections. The pastors, superintendents, and Bible class teachers held a conference in St. Paul's Church, Mr. Frank | Miss Thompson and Mr. Spurgeon Yeigh, of Toronto, Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, of Port Hope, and Mr. Marion Lawrence leading the discussions in this conference.

A conference on primary work was conducted by Mrs. Meldrum, of Toronto, at the George Street Church. At this conference Miss Jessie Munro, secretary of the Ontario primary district, presented her report, showing out of sixteen unions organized four had ceased to work. The home department conference was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Dr. Harrison presided, and several speakers told of work being done in their localities. Reports of visitors to the newer and sparsely settled districts of the province were made by Rev. T. A. Moore, Rev. Robert Burns, Rev. J. Campbell Tibb. and the general secretary. These showed encouraging work done in Manitoulin Island, Parry Sound and Nip-issing districts. Mr. Marion Lawrence gave an address on "The Big Boy Problem." An appeal was also made for financial pledges, and the response was ahead of last year, the total being about $2,000 in cash and pledges.

The evening meeting was addressed by Professor Hamill, of Chicago, on "Some Points in Teaching," and by Hon. G. W. Ross, whose subject was "The Sunday School as an Educator."

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill. makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consump-tion; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use, and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she was. Sold by all druggists: large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

The nests of the termites, or white ants, are, proportioned to the size and weight of the builders, the greatest structures in the world. No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly, and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the 1854.—It is imposible to write down all young and old, rich and poor, and is that occurred this morning. I can only rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc.,

Underwear That Will Wear Well

You want underwear, and you might as well have good, warm, healthy underwear—the kind of underwear that will wear well. That's the kind Kingsmill's keep—and the prices we ask are lower than the small stores ask for the poor, unhealthy, unsatisfactory kind.

MR. SPURGEON'S LOVE-MAKING

The Passionate Devotion of Husband and Wife.

The Proposal at Crystal Palace-Spurgeon's Loving Letters Before and After Marriage.

Mr. Spurgeon's autobiography is being published in England, the second volume having just appeared. It is personal point of view at least, than the first volume, on account of the reminiscences which Mrs. Spurgeon | till heaven, and then contributes to it on the courtship of the great preacher and their resulting marriage. In giving an excuse for revealing this part of her husband's life, Mrs. Spurgeon says that her husband once said to her: "You may write my life across the sky; I have nothing to con-So she could not, she says, ceal." "withhold the testimony which hitherto sealed pages of his history bear to his singularly holy and blameless character." Mrs. Spurgeon, formerly Miss Thompson, first met her future husband at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Olney. In 1854 he presented her with a copy of "The Pilgrim's Progress." although she does not think he had any other thought than "to help a struggling soul heavenward." Later, formed members of a party which were present at the opening of the Crystal Palace. Mr. Spurgeon then found his opportunity. We quote from Mrs. Spurgeon's account as reproduced in The Westminster Gazette: "As we sat there talking and amusing ourselves as best we could while waiting for the procession to pass by, Mr. Spurgeon handed me a book into which he had been occasionally dipping, and, pointing to some particular lines, said: 'What do you think of the poet's suggestion in those verses?' The volume was Martin Tupper's Proverbial Philosophy, then recently published. . . . The pointing finger guided my eyes to the chapter on 'Marriage,' of which the opening sentences ran thus:

'Seek a good wife of thy God, for she is the best of His Providence, Yet ask not in bold confidence that which he has not promised.

. If thou art to have a wife of thy youth, she is now living on the earth: Therefore think of her, and pray for her weal.'

"'Do you pray for him who is to be your husband?' said a soft, low voice in my ear—so soft that no one else heard the whisper. I do not remember that the question received any vocal answer; but my fast-beating heart, which sent a tell-tale flush to my cheeks, and my downcast eyes, which feared to reveal the light which at once dawned in them, may have spoken a language which love understood."

When the formalities of the opening were over. Mr. Spurgeon asked Miss Thompson to take a walk round the palace with him, and "during that walk on that memorable day in June believe God himself united our hearts in indissoluble bonds of true affection." Two months after the betrothal was openly revealed. Miss Thompson wrote: "Loving looks and tender tones and clasping hands had all told the 'old, old story,' and yet when the verbal confession of it came how wonderful it was! Was there ever quite so much bliss on earth before? * * With a great awe in my heart I left my be loved, and, hastening to the house, and to an upper room, I knelt before God and praised and thanked him with happy tears for his great mercy in giving me the love of so good a man.

* * In the diary I then kept I find this brief but joyful entry: 'August 2, adore in silence the mercy of my God and praise him for all his benefits." A number of letters are given which were recived by Miss Thompson after her engagement. One which may be given as a sample was written before the marriage from Colchester, to which Mr. Spurgeon had gone to spend Christmas with his parents:

"Sweet one, how I love you! I long to see you; and yet it is but half an hour since I left you. Comfort yourself in my absence by the thought that my heart is with you. My own gracious God bless you in all things-in heart, in feeling, in life, in death, in heaven! May your virtues be perfected, your prospects realized, your zeal continued, your love to him increased, and your knowledge deeper, higher, broader-in fact, may more than even my heart can wish or my hope anticipate be yours forever. May we be mutual pronounced more interesting, from a blessings-wherein I shall err you shall pardon, and wherein you may mistake I will more than ever overlook. Yours

The marriage took place on January 9, 1856. The honeymoon was spent in Paris, and on their return housekeeping was begun on a very modest scale. Mrs. Spurgeon recalls "a special time of need supplied by great and unexpected mercy:" "Some demand came in for payment I think it must have been a tax or rate, for I never had bills owing to tradesmen-and we had nothing wherewith to meet it. What a distressing condition of excitement seized us! 'Wifey,' said my beloved, 'what can we do? I must give up hiring the horse and walk to New Park street every time I preach!' 'Impossible,' I replied, 'with so many services you simply could not do it.' Long and anxiously we pondered over ways and means, and laid our burden before the Lord, entreating him to come to our aid. And, of course, he heard and answered, for he is a faithful God. That night or the next day, I am not sure which, a letter was received containing £20 for our own use, and we never knew who sent it, save that it came in answer to prayer." Such eventful passages were, we are told, "graciously multiplied and even excelled. Two notes which the preacher wrote to his wife sixteen years after their marriage showed that reward was bestowed on her "for merely doing what it was her duty to do":

"My.Own Dear One,—None know how grateful I am to Pod for you. Do you remember a Miss Thompson who collected for the enlargement of New Park Street Chapel as much £100? Bless her dear heart! Think o the love which gave me that dear lady for a wife and made her such a wife! to me the ideal wife, and as I believe without exaggeration or love flourishing, the precise form in which God would make a woman for such a man as I am if he designed her to be the greatest of all earthly blessings to him; and in some sense a spiritual blessing, too, for in that also am I nobly provided by you, though you would not believe it. I will leave this 'good matter' ere the paper is covered, but not till I have sent you as many kisses as there are waves in the sea.'
