SAY MINISTERS IN OPPOSITION TO DEMOCRACY

Laymen Roundly Condemn Behavior of Some Preachers in Conference.

FAVOR VOTE FOR WOMEN

Equal Suffrage in Methodist Church Almost Unanimously Indorsed.

[By Staff Reporter.]

St. Marys, June 3.—During a discussion of the powers held by Sunday school superintendents in the Methodist Church, laymen at their special meeting this morning took occasion to make some rather harsh statements in reference to the ministers in the various churches comprising the London district.

"There is a fight against democracy in our church today," stated F. B. Holtby, of St. Thomas, who gave an address to the laymen on the financial and other work in the church. "I am ashamed of our ministers," he said. "At the last general conference, the members of that body voted on and carried the motion to have Sunday school superintendents elected by ballot vote and not by nomination. This took certain powers from out of the ministers' hands, and when they awoke to this fact they fought vigorously against all other democratic measures brought forward at the general conference. They took snap votes on matters of importance when our ranks were thinned."

More Recrimination.

"The motion which carried in reference to the election of superintendents went through before the clergymen became wise to the fact of just what was doing," said Mr. Morton, of Wingham, another layman delegate. "When they saw the laymen were fighting for other democratic principles, they banded themselves together, and, getting the ear of some of the laymen, turned them to their own viewpoint and killed these other measures."

It was the general opinion of the laymen that members of boards other than the official church board should be allowed to help in the distribution of wine and bread at communion. The new plan of remitting missionary moneys every month to the general board found favor in the eyes of the laymen, as did also the fact that superannuated ministers now receive $12 equal for each year they had been in active work in the church.

Votes For Women.

Votes for women in church councils were favored by the laymen, who were almost unanimous in their upholding of equal suffrage in the Methodist Church. "Outside of the Toronto Conference," stated one laymen, "conference members were solidly for the ladies. They are now members of the official board, and they do not bother us there. I do not see why they could not be appointed conference delegates and be given the same rights as men. If they had equal rights they would not make themselves nuisances.

"It is because they have not the same privilege as we that we hear so much from them. I think suffrage will easily carry at the next general conference. I sincerely hope it does." That the other laymen were in accord with his views was apparent from the hearty response his words called forth.

Equalize Expenses.

Expenses incurred by the delegates to annual and general conferences should be equalized, thought the laymen. The fact that some expense accounts were much larger than others should not be. Only by definite action of the conference bodies could this be remedied, was well received.

Legislation looking to more sanitary conditions in Methodist parsonages and the making of the ministers' home life more comfortable generally had been passed, stated Mr. Holtby, and this fact was well received.

LABYRINTH FATAL TO GERMAN ARMY

French Continue To Make Progress and Capture Many Prisoners.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, June 3—2:40 p.m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out the following report on the progress of hostilities:

"In the region to the north of Arras artillery fighting was continued during last night. There was also some very violent infantry fighting to the east of Notre Dame de Lorette, but the positions here on neither one side nor the other have undergone any change. There was also infantry fighting in the region of 'The Labyrinth,' where we made some progress.

"We have made a total of 800 prisoners since the 31st of May in 'The Labyrinth.' Of these nine are officers and about fifty under-officers. Here we also captured two machine guns.

"On the rest of the front there has been nothing to report."

CANADIANS SAID TO HAVE DRIVEN ENEMY BACK FOR FIVE MILES

Recently Have Captured 800 Yards of Trenches With the Bayonet Where British Have Been At a Standstill Since October.

(Special Cable to The Advertiser.)

London, June 3.—News received here today says that the Canadians recently captured 800 yards of trenches at the point of the bayonet on a position where the British troops had met with no success since October.

The Bavarian guards made a counter-attack, which was repulsed, but with serious losses to the Canadians.

The Canadians have driven the enemy back nearly five miles.

ASSASSINS STOLE MONEY AND DIARY

Husband of Murdered Woman Says $1,700 Taken From House.

FIENDISH CRUELTY SHOWN

After Setting Mrs. Coderre On Fire, Men Prevented Her Reaching Water.

[Canadian Press.]

St. Hyacinthe, Que., June 3.—An inquest into the death of Mrs. P. Coderre who, in an ante-mortem statement, said two masked men threw kerosene over her and then set fire to her clothing, was begun here yesterday by Dr. J. A. Viger, coroner for this district.

Pierre Coderre, husband of the dead woman, said they had recently returned from the States, where they made $3,000. They paid $1,300 for a farm and kept the balance of the money in the house. Both the money and a diary in which Mrs. Coderre had recorded threats made to her by neighbors were missing.

In the ante-mortem statement made by Mrs. Coderre, she said she did not recognize her assailants, and thought they had been hired to do the murder.

They prevented her, after her clothes had been fired, from getting to a brook to put the flames out. The woman ran nearly three miles before she could attract attention, and by that time her clothes had all been burned.

When examined by a doctor Mrs. Coderre was frightfully burned, but was conscious almost till the last.

The inquest was adjourned sine die and the Government at Quebec was asked to instruct a provincial detective to investigate the case.

WOUNDED IN FRANCE, IS NOW RECOVERING

Hugh McCrimmon Writes Home of His Fine Treatment.

Writing from the American Women's War Relief Hospital, Oldway, Paignton, Devon, Pte. Hugh McCrimmon, who is confined there with a wound he received in a battle over a month ago, says he is rapidly recovering from his injuries, according to a letter received by his mother.

In his letter, which was a brief one, Pte. McCrimmon states that he has recovered sufficiently to occupy a wheel-chair instead of continually being kept in bed. He says that the treatment accorded the wounded "couldn't be beaten."

Pte. McCrimmon was taking a message while the Canadians were making a charge, and it was while in the act of doing this he was struck in the leg with a piece of shrapnel.

DOORS OF GERMAN CHURCH CLOSED

One Member Says Article in The Advertiser Was Responsible.

MINISTER HAS DEPARTED

Left City Some Months Ago and Students Have Taken Services.

St. Paul's Evangelical Church, at Wellington and Grey streets, where Sunday morning services have been conducted in German and attended by many of London's residents of German descent, was closed last Sunday.

"The people were afraid to go to church after what was printed in The Advertiser about German celebrations in London a couple of weeks ago," said one of the church's members in explanation.

Conducted by Students.

Since the pastor, Rev. N. Noehren, vacated the pulpit of St. Paul's last July, the services had been taken by students of the Waterloo Seminary. The doors of the church were closed and locked last Sunday evening to remain that way until the alleged feeling against German-born residents and persons of German nationality cools off. The congregation of the church, according to members, had been dwindling since the announcement in the papers that some Germans had been indiscreet in applauding acts of war on the part of Germany.

In Both Languages.

Services had been held in the church on Sundays, morning and evening. The evening service was in the English language.

GERARD ARRANGES FOR SAFE CONDUCT

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Amsterdam, June 3.—American Ambassador Gerard already has taken steps to safeguard Americans in Berlin in case of war.

This was learned today from an authoritative source. The American ambassador asked the German foreign office for assurance that the embassy staff and their families, American Red Cross workers and Polish relief commissioners and American newspaper correspondents be permitted to leave Berlin on a special embassy train in the event of any breach between the two countries. Secretary Von Jagow gave full assurance of every protection.

NEW COALITION PARLIAMENT IN SESSION TODAY

Premier Asquith, Law and Balfour Not Able To Take Part.

SOME BILLS INTRODUCED

Provisions To Enable the New Ministers To Avoid Re-election To Be Made.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 3.—The first assembly of the new coalition British Parliament today had no features striking to the eye. Premier Asquith was absent and Reginald McKenna, chancellor of the exchequer, was at Nice conferring with the Italian financial authorities, while A. Bonar Law, secretary for the colonies, and Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, and other members of the new cabinet from the Unionist side, could not take their places on the front benches until the passage of a bill permitting them to take office without re-election to membership in the House.

Members Sociable.

Several junior members of the new Government on taking cabinet seats, were cheered, while members of the privy council and prominent Unionists outside the cabinet occupied the front Opposition seats. The Irish Nationalist contingent took the usual seats they had held for many years.

Sir John A. Simon, secretary of state for home affairs, announced early in the sitting that he would introduce a bill which would be passed through all its stages today to make temporary provision for rendering unnecessary the election of members on accepting office.

Harmony and cheerfulness appeared to pervade the House. All members rising, even for minor business, were applauded.

Premier On Business.

The home secretary said he regretted the absence of Premier Asquith, who was "on urgent public business," and declared that the Premier hoped to be in his place on Monday, when he would make a statement regarding the position of Italy and the war. A bill for the establishment of a ministry of munitions, he added, also would be in-

BITTER ATTACK ON PREMIER ASQUITH

Ginnell, Nationalist, Calls Him Always "a Tory at Bottom."

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 3.—In introducing the suspensory bill in the Commons today, the Home Secretary explained it was purely a temporary emergency measure, and said he hoped it would be promptly passed through all its stages. The bill was seconded by Sir Robert B. Finlay, Unionist. Richard D. Holt, Radical, inquired if there would be an opportunity for the members to discuss the new ministry. This drew cries of "No, no!" from the Unionists, but Mr. Holt continued, and said that if this opportunity were not given, it would be necessary to discuss the bill.

Attacks Premier.

Laurence Ginnell, the Nationalist, bitterly opposed the bill. He said the new members of the Government were not now members of the House or, as he expressed it, "they have not character." Mr. Ginnell then launched into an attack upon Premier Asquith. "All his life," the Nationalist member said, "the Premier has been a speaker of political platitudes. All his life he has been a Tory at bottom."

The Speaker warned Mr. Ginnell three times to desist from attacking the Prime Minister, and finally he was compelled to ask him to take his seat.

ROUMANIA WANTS RUSSIAN TERRITORY

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

Lonlon, June 3.—Roumania has made territorial demands upon Russia in payment for her entrance into war on the side of the Allies.

Reports reached here from Rome today that not only does Roumania want assurances from the Allies that she can retain all Transylvanian territory her troops occupy, but that she wants Russia to cede to her at least part of Russian Bessarabia.

King Victor Emmanuel, Rome dispatches said, has offered to mediate between Russia and Roumania in an effort to reach an amicable understanding.

Diplomatic circles here received reports with general surprise. Bucharest dispatches for several days have intimated that Roumania was satisfied with the Allies guarantees that if she marched against Austria she would be allowed to retain all territory she occupied.

The Rome dispatches indicated new development in negotiations that may at least delay Roumania's entry.

Bessarabia is one of the richest of Russian southwestern provinces, and separates Roumania from Russia.

Its population is 50 per cent Roumanian, and for several years Roumania diplomats have cast longing eyes upon Bessarabia.

AUSTRIANS CLAIM PRZEMYSL TAKEN

At Terrible Cost, Fortress Is Reported Recaptured From Russian Forces.

GALICIA NOT LOST YET

If Muskovites Hold Lemberg, No Great Harm May Be Anticipated.

[Canadian Press.]

Vienna, June 3.—Via London, June 3.—Przemysl is again in Austrian hands, according to official announcement made here today.

The great Austro-Hungarian fortress of Przemysl, situated between Lemberg and Cracow, in the province of Galicia, was captured by the Russians on March 22 last, after one of the longest sieges of modern warfare. In the eight weeks which have elapsed since that time, however, the Austrians and Germans have made every effort to retake the fortress, large forces being diverted from the other great fortress to the west, Cracow.

MAY NOT BE SERIOUS.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, Eng., June 3.—Recapture of Przemysl alone does not mean the inevitable loss of Galicia by the Russians. If the Slavs have been able to entrench themselves in the terrain to the north, south and east of the fortress, Przemysl's loss will have no serious consequences, unless the Austro-Germans can capture Lemberg as well.

LONDON SURPRISED.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 3.—After a siege of three weeks the fortress of Przemysl, in Galicia, has fallen to the Austrians. The Russians were in possession a little over 70 days.

This news was received in London with a certain degree of surprise. While it had been well known that the Russian position at Przemysl was precarious, to say the least, and that the artillery fire of the Germanic forces was daily becoming more terrific, the announcement from Vienna of a Austrian victory was not expected so quickly. Particularly in view of the official statement from Petrograd of last Monday saying the Austro-German grip before Przemysl had been broken and that the offensive in the great Galician struggle had passed to the Russians.

Artillery Succeeded.

The Austrians entered Przemysl at half past 3 o'clock this morning, after a hammering with heavy guns that lasted more than twenty days. The capitulation of Przemysl must be ascribed to the effectiveness of this artillery onslaught. The occupation of the fortress by the Austrians will remove the danger of the Russian threat against Cracow.

When the Russians starved out the Austrian garrison at Przemysl, an operation which brought them into the fortress on March 22, they did it slowly and systematically, conserving the lives of their men as much as possible. The method which the Austro-Germans have been employing recently to accomplish the same end has been entirely different. Their expenditure in men and ammunition has perhaps outdone anything in this war, not even excepting the German rushes for Calais and the terrible struggle along the Yser River.

New Attack in Warsaw.

Another feature of the fighting in eastern front is, the new attack on Warsaw. Neither the Russian nor the British newspaper are able to say whether the renewed battering of the Russian lines between the Pilica and the Vistula is a serious effort to break through to the Polish capital or a move timed to prevent the Russians from rushing reinforcements to their hard-pressed troops in Galicia. But whatever the motive, the assault has been violent and in force along a front of about 25 miles, the hardest pressure being brought to bear on the Russians along the Bzura and the Rawka Rivers.

Today is the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of King George, but because of the war no especial celebrations are being held.

The new Government meets parliament for the first time today. Aside from the formality of passing the bill to obviate the ministers in the new cabinet from seeking re-election, chief interest centred in the promised speech of Premier Asquith in the House of Commons on the new coalition government and the entry of Italy into the war.

First German Helmet To Be Sent Home By London Man

Advertiser Illustrations.

This trophy of the war was recovered from a trench captured by the Canadians by Pte. Francis Lewin, of the 1st Battalion. It is now on exhibition in The Advertiser window. A picture of Pte. Lewin is printed below.

KEEPS PROMISE TO SEND WIFE FOE'S HELMET

Pte. Francis Lewin Sends Home German's Military Headgear Found in Trench —Also Forwards Fragment of "Man Killer" That Pierced Clothing During Heavy Fighting.

Mrs. F. Lewin, wife of Pte. Francis L. Lewin, who left this city with the 1st Contingent, has received from her husband the first German helmet to arrive here from the scene of the present European conflict. It is on exhibition in The Advertiser window for a few days.

When the Canadian troops left Salisbury Plains for the front, Pte. Lewin, like hundreds of other soldiers, promised his wife, who was leaving Portsmouth for this city, that he would some day send her a German helmet, and now this promise has been fulfilled after many months of fighting.

Wife Was in England.

Mrs. Lewin, who had left here for a trip to the Old Country, was there when Britain declared war on Germany, and receiving word from her husband that he had enlisted she awaited the arrival of the 1st Contingent, and stopped over with her husband for the months until he left for the scene of action.

The helmet is a relic of the battle of Ypres, and was secured by Pte. Lewin in a German trench after the enemy had been routed by a Canadian charge. According to the soldier it was evidently left there by a German in his haste to get out of range of Canuck bullets. Very few details are given in the letter accompanying it.

Clothing Torn by Shell.

In this battle, Pte. Lewin, who was engaged in keeping a line of communication open, missed death by a fraction of an inch. A German coal box burst near where he was on duty and a fragment of it pierced his clothing, also breaking his water bottle. He picked up this strip of "man killer" and forwarded it along with the helmet to his wife. He also sent home a crucifix found in the ruins of one of the Belgian cathedrals and some lace from a city in Belgium.

At the outbreak of the war, Pte. Lewin was a lieutenant in the 1st Hussars. He held this rank for six years, but resigned to leave in the 1st Contingent. He is a Western University man.

WHAT IF MR. GRAY HAD "PROMOTED" L. & P. S. R. "WILDCAT"

Recently in a committee of the Legislature at Toronto Sir Adam Beck, M. P. P., was pleased to describe as a "wildcat" scheme a radial railway in the eastern counties in which William Gray, M. P., was interested.

At the present time it may be opportune to ask what Sir Adam would have called Mr. Gray and his railway if Mr. Gray had been the promoter of the electrification of the London and Port Stanley. It would likely have been beyond Sir Adam to describe them. It would have been a "wildcat" with the rabies.

If Mr. Gray had done the promoting in Sir Adam's favorite rose garden, and Sir Adam had been "after" Mr. Gray, as he is now, the London and Port Stanley would have been regarded as the most noxious case of gulling the people that was ever recorded.

Mr. Gray would be held up as a breaker of pledges and a weaver of dreams.

Just think what would happen if Mr. Gray's name had been on the "prospectus" that was issued during the electrification campaign by Sir Adam Beck. In view of the developments and their effect upon Sir Adam's promises, the people would now be crying out:

"WE DIDN'T RAISE OUR ROAD TO BE A JUNK HEAP."

And if Mr. Gray had talked of bringing the Grand Trunk to his knees, he would have been reminded that the city of London once went to the Grand Trunk with its hat in its hand and offered the London and Port Stanley Railway to the steam road for ONE CENT A YEAR. And the Grand Trunk refused to take it.

LONDON, June 2.—Fifteen Canadians are mentioned in the list of honors conferred on the occasion of the King's birthday, which was issued this evening. As has been expected, in view of the war, the list is an unusually long one.

The list is headed by the names of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, secretary of state for war, who received the Knighthood of the Garter, and Sir Francis Bertie, ambassador to France, and Sir Kenneth Muir McKenzie, clerk of the Crown. The latter two are the only servants of the Crown who were raised to the peerage, each having been made a baron.

Recognize Canadian Gallantry.

Gallantry in saving life and coolness under heavy fire of the enemy's guns on the part of the Canadian troops has been recognized. Pte. R. H. Drake, of the 14th Canadian Battalion, has been awarded the distinguished conduct medal for "conspicuous gallantry and devotional duty" near Rue de Bois, March 26th, when he went out under a withering fire to give assistance to wounded comrades. He was almost immediately wounded, but succeeded in dragging one man to safety, then rendering first aid to him and saving his life.

Pte. S. Hacking and Pte. J. M. Robinson, of the Princess Pats, will be decorated for "conspicuous gallantry," at St. Eloi, February 28, when both assisted in bringing wounded comrades under most difficult and dangerous circumstances.

Decorated For Bravery.

Sergt. S. V. Patterson, of the Princess Pats, will be honored for the dashing charge he led his platoon against a German trench, driving out the enemy.

For carrying important messages on two occasions safely to British outposts at St. Eloi while exposed to the enemy's heavy fire, and subsequently conducting stretcher bearers in the darkness to the rescue of wounded, Corp. J. L. Wolstenholme will also be decorated.

Order Of Bath.

Following is a long list of officers of the army and navy who receive promotion in, or appointment to the Order of the Bath, chiefly for services in connection with the organization of various departments, such as recruiting and training of the territorials and the new armies, naval construction, equipment and transport, which have demanded special attention since the outbreak of the war.

It is mentioned in the communication making the list public, that a further list of honors conferred in recognition of meritorious services during the war will be announced later, which probably means that the men in the field who are not included in the present list, will then come in for their share of honors.

Few Political Honors.

The list contains very few political honors. Half a dozen members of the House of Commons, both Liberal and Unionists, are appointed privy councillors and an equal number receive baronetcys. Among the latter are Sir Gilbert Parker, the novelist, and Sir Henry Norman, Liberal member of Parliament.

Twenty persons are given knighthoods, among them E. L. Fletcher, one of the managers of the White Star Line, for services in connection with the transport of troops; Charles Edward Foyer, the fisheries expert; Leo G. C. Money, Liberal member of Parliament; Edgar Bowring, Newfoundland, chief railway commissioner, and a number of officials in the civil service.

CLIMBS FROM TRENCH OVER 250 DEAD, IS WATFORD BOY'S TALE

WATFORD, June 2.—Tecumseh chapter of the I.O.D.E. met at the home of Mrs. T. Woods, 6th line, Brooke. The members left town in automobiles at 2:45. Thirty members and visitors were present.

The quotations were on "Heroism" and some of the members responded to the roll call by reading parts of letters they had received from boys at the front. Mrs. Brown read one from her son, G. Howrd Brown, dated at No. 2 Canadian Stationary Hospital, Boulogne.

"I managed to stop a chunk of steel" he said, "I didn't want to do it. I was always boasting they couldn't hit me so it serves me right. I was hit five or six days ago. Rather a rough trip down country but at present I feel fine. I'm under a real roof with real Canadian nurses and doctors and a real bed—the first in five months. Going under x-ray tomorrow. I got rather a bad one in the chest and several minor ones hither and yon. Got hit by a shell when parading the remains of the company to come back for reforming. Regiment was cut to pieces. I was left senior in the company. No officers or N. C. O's. left in it! It was a veritable hell. I climbed over 250 dead getting out of the trenches. There wasn't a murmur, every man died a soldier. They finished us, but we held—the old story of 'the thin red line.' England soon, I think. Don't worry, etc., etc. G. HOWARD BROWN."

BECK MAY RUIN WHOLESALES OF CITY OF LONDON

Michigan Central Arranging to Send Business Via Woodstock.

ONE MAN IS ALARMED

Believes Power Minister Would "Smash Him" If He Could.

It was stated in railway circles this morning that M. C. R. officials are arranging with the C. P. R. to handle the business that formerly went over the L. and P. S. R. via Woodstock and thence to St. Thomas.

Wholesalers Alarmed.

Wholesalers in London are much concerned over the impending change whereby the M. C. R. will discontinue operations over the local road. So far the Michigan Central has made no change in its decision, and all its tariffs have been altered so far as they relate to the London and Port Stanley line, and sent to the various offices. These tariffs state that the railway is discontinuing its use of the L. and P. S. R., and that it will not in future be able to take goods or receive goods over this line.

Moved From City.

Any M. C. R. men who have to do with operation of trains in this city have been notified to move from London and take other runs. Wholesalers are seriously agitated at the prospect of having the connections with the hundreds of points served by what is practically an express service endangered. They say Sir Adam Beck has ruthlessly jeopardized their interests.

"Beck would smash me if he could, and care nothing," said one wholesaler. "I will have to make arrangements to take care of my business, and it may be serious for London."

CHIEF ENGINEER GOES TO SCENE

R. Safford, of Montreal, to Inspect L., H. and B. Tracks.

R. Safford, of Montreal, Grand Trunk chief engineer, arrived in the city today and was taken to Ilderton in his private car to look over the scene of Monday's Huron and Bruce accident.

Engineer Safford is expected to return to the city late this afternoon and report on the accident, and the repairs required, and to give his idea of what caused the run-off.

Railway men from Stratford stated that Harry Rapp, of that city, who was most seriously injured in the wreck, is slowly recovering.

At Victoria Hospital the authorities say that the two passengers taken there are rapidly improving, and that they will likely to taken home in a few days.

Miss Annie Bryan, taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, is reported as being in about the same condition as when she was taken there. She is suffering from a severe nervous shock.

LONDON HAS NOT LOST GLAUBITZ, OFFICIAL SAYS

Powers That Be Ready to Provide Ex-G. M. With a Position.

HAS "PUSH" BEHIND HIM

Many Places in Gift of Sir Adam and the Hydro Commission.

It is stated on good authority that London and Ontario are not through with former Manager Glaubitz of the utilities commission, who leaves today for a vacation in the Berkshire Hills.

Will Be Cared For.

There have been vague whisperings about the city hall for some time that those who supported Mr. Glaubitz, including Sir Adam Beck, who signed the petition circulated in the general manager's interest, would see that Mr. Glaubitz would be taken care of.

There are many positions in the gift of Sir Adam and the hydro commission, of which he is head, that would suit Mr. Glaubitz, and it is said that he will be given one "When the air has cleared," as one city hall official expressed it today.

Not Gone Yet.

"London hasn't lost Glaubitz yet," said this official. "He will be back, and he will be in a public position if the people will stand for it. He has the whole 'push' at his back, and the 'push' is not going to allow anyone to gainsay him. He never does."

NEW COALITION

troduced, and it would go to the later stages on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Sir John Simon announced that a tribunal for dealing with alien enemies had been appointed, consisting of Justices Sankey and Younger, of the high court, and Amelius R. Lockwood, Donald MacLean, Stanley Baldwin and John J. Mooney, members of Parliament.

To Protect Banks.

Sir Albert Spicer, Liberal member for the Central Division of Hackney, asked whether the Government would protect banks against risks from aircraft or goods in warehouses pending settlement of some former insurance or special indemnity. He said that the banks holding bills against goods in warehouses were demanding insurance policies or refunding amounts advanced, while the merchants were unable to cover full risks even at prohibitive prices.

The Home Secretary said the matter would be considered as soon as possible.

Would Ask Questi[illegible]

William O'Brien, Natio[illegible] asked Sir John A. Simon, home secretary, whether the House would have an opportunity for discussing "an event of vital importance to Ireland, namely, the disappearance of a home rule ministry, which cannot be allowed to pass without some comment."

The Home Secretary suggested that Mr. O'Brien repeat this question on Monday.

Jos. Albert Pease made a statement, explaining his resignation from the ministry of education in the old Cabinet. He said there had been no difference of opinion regarding policies between himself and his colleagues. The Premier had sent circulars to the members of the Cabinet, asking for their resignations. "I cannot allude to the reasons which induced the Premier to take that step," Mr. Pease continued, "because I am not fully apprised of them. But I realize there should be no criticism of the coalition, and all our attention and thoughts should be directed solely to prosecuting the war."

WHAN ALLEGES FALSE ARREST

Former C. P. R. Brakeman Was Accused of Stealing Checks.

Harvey Whan, formerly a C. P. R. brakeman, filed a writ at the county court house yesterday for damages against the C. P. R. and Joseph Holding, one of the railroad's detectives.

Whan asks unstated damages from the defendants, alleging false imprisonment and malicious prosecution as reasons. Whan now gives his address as Belle Ewart, Ont. He lived formerly in this city, and was arrested in Toronto shortly after Christmas by Joseph Holding, and prosecuted on a charge of stealing two checks from the East End C. P. WILSON HAS OPINION STRIPPING GERMANY OF VITAL CONTENTIONS

President Will Narrow Issues To Original American Position.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Washington, D. C., June 3.—President Wilson will have before him within a few hours legal opinion disposing of Germany's latest contentions in the Lusitania case.

The opinion will state positively that question raised by Germany concerning the alleged presence of arms and Canadian troops on the ship is irrelevant.

It will strip the German reply of its most vital contention, and will narrow the issues involved to the original American position.

The affidavit filed with the state department, purporting to show that guns were mounted on the Lusitania, and that there were hidden explosives, chiefly guncotton, on board, will be considered.

The carrying of small arms and ammunition, it will be stated, was in accordance with law, and the exact statute will be cited to prove this.

The charge that the manifest was falsified to conceal the alleged fact that hidden explosives were carried, the opinion will say, amounts, even if true, only to a case of fraud or conspiracy against the Government of the United States.

PROMINENT OFFICES FOR LONDON LAYMEN

Several To Occupy Important Posts in the Methodist Association.

[By Staff Reporter.]

St. Marys, June 3.—The fact that the Methodist conference took upon itself the powers of dropping in silence a minister who entered the wedded state without the consent of conference members came in for some adverse criticism and no few witty sallies at the expense of the ministers.

The fact that churches which raised $100,000 or over during the year should be permitted to lay aside a certain percentage of money received above this sum for any particular purpose tends to class legislation in the Methodist Church; this is giving to the rich churches special privileges which will not make for any good.

The yearly man-to-man canvass for financial purposes was thought a splendid idea and one which brought the individual member into closer union with the church as a whole.

A. M. Hunt, secretary of the fair board, London, was present at the laymen's meeting this morning and took part in the discussion.

New members of the Laymen's Association in the London conference were elected this morning. These were: Honorary president, C. A. Austin, Chatham; president, William Gibson, London; vice-president, J. Ferguson, Sarnia. Mr. Ferguson was also elected secretary-treasurer.

The new executive committee consists of the following: F. B. Holtby, St. Thomas; H. C. White, St. Marys; J. W. Humphrey, Chatham, and Wm. Heaman, London.

J. H. Carlin, of the Windsor district, was received on probation by the conference members without passing his examination and was allowed his year, as he is serving his country at the front. When the members passed the resolution relative to Mr. Carlin, a wave of patriotism swept over the assemblage, and, standing, "God Save the King" was sung.

Election of officers will take place this afternoon. As previously stated in these columns, it is generally conceded that Rev. Dr. Manning, of Stratford, will be elected president.

Butler, of 159 Cheapside street, became the bride of Ernest Frederick Waller, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Waller, of Toronto. Rev. Canon Craig, the rector, performed the ceremony. James Gilmore presided at the organ. Miss Isabel Coles, daughter of Major Coles, sang "Until."

Lieut. Chester Butler, who is at the front, cabled congratulations to the happy couple, his message arriving as the ceremony was about to begin.

The bride wore a travelling suit of Saxon blue and a hat trimmed with black and white. She carried a corsage bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley. On their return from a honeymoon trip to western points Mr. and Mrs. Waller will reside in London.

M'CLARY'S BUILDING IN CHATHAM BURNED

London Man Owner of Classic Theatre and Store Gutted.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, June 3.—At 6:30 o'clock this morning the fire, which had been raging in the Classic Theatre and McDonald's furniture store for some hours was extinguished by the almost superhuman efforts of the firemen, and Malcolmson's grocery store, earlier reported gutted, was saved from any serious damage. The blaze was confined to the theatre and furniture store buildings, owned by John McClary, of London, and these were completely gutted.

The loss on buildings is between eight and ten thousand dollars, covered by insurance, and McDonald's loss on stock, which was particularly large at present, is fully covered.

IN BUSINESS SECTION.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CHATHAM, June 3.—A disastrous fire broke out early this morning about half past 1 o'clock in the Classic Theatre, on King street. The flames gained considerable headway before the firemen were notified and the damage will amount to many thousands of dollars.

The block is situated in the main business section of Chatham, opposite the Garner House.

The Classic Theatre, which was gutted in half an hour after the firemen arrived on the scene, was formerly operated by Mrs. Watson, of Stratford. It was quite recently taken over by Mr. Lewis, of the same city.

Once more the fire equipment of Chatham is coming in for some strong criticism, the absence of sufficient ladders is hampering the brigade in their strenuous efforts to check the blaze. Every possible line of hose is in use, and while the water pressure is excellent the flames still continue to creep towards the other buildings in the block.

PRESBYTERIANS GET DOWN TO BUSINESS

Question of Union Likely To Be Referred to Presbyteries.

[Canadian Press.]

Kingston, Ont., June 3.—The first business session of the Presbyterian General Assembly was held in Grant Hall, Queen's University, this morning. Immediately following the devotional services, Dr. J. Brice, of Winnipeg, drew the attention of the delegates to the honor conferred by the King today on knighting the president of Queen's, Sir Daniel Gordon.

It is expected that the question of church union will be referred to the Presbyteries, under the Barrier act.

CHARGE FOR STAND ON LADIES' DAYS AND AID RED CROSS

Baseball Directors Decide to Secure Patriotic Revenue.

Friday will be Ladies' Day at the ball park throughout the season. The directors have decided to allow all women to enter Tecumseh Park without charge on Fridays. An admission of ten cents will be charged to the covered stand, and the proceeds will go towards the Red Cross fund. The directors hope in this way to raise quite a sum towards helping wounded soldiers.

FRANCE REQUIRES ANOTHER BILLION

Bill Introduced to Cover Cost of Third Quarter of Year.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, June 3.—Alexandre F. Ribot, the French minister of finance, today introduced a bill in the Chamber of Deputies, providing for the appropriation of 5,600,000,000 francs ($1,120,000,000) provisionally for the requirements in the third quarter of the present year.

Huge Totals.

M. Ribot presented with the bill memoranda showing that the extraordinary appropriations since the war began and including the estimates for the third quarter of 1915 would amount to 22,000,000,000 francs ($4,400,000,000). If one included the appropriations already made when the war began, for the last five months of 1914, the total, the finance minister said, would rise to 24,000,000,000 francs ($4,800,000,000), for the fourteen months ending September 3.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Rev. W. H. A. Claris, pastor of the Southern Congregational Church, will conduct services.

OVERSIGHT NOT TO HAVE SERVICE HONORING KING

Canon Tucker Believes There Should Have Been Day of Prayer.

FLAGS IN CITY CHAMBER

Banners of Allied Nations Are Draped in Council's Quarters.

Neither the municipal authorities, the military, the churches, or the patriotic societies held any celebration today in honor of the King's birthday, His Majesty having specially requested that the usual observances should be suspended this year in view of the fact that the Empire is at war. At the divisional militia headquarters the flag was run up to the head of the pole, and in a few other cases flags were displayed, but otherwise the day was not observed in any special manner.

At the city hall a group of flags of the nations allied with Britain in the struggle against Prussian militarism was put up on the wall in the council chamber, but this was decided upon some time ago, and the fact that the flags arrived on June 3 was a coincidence only.

Unfortunate Oversight.

Rev. Canon Tucker, rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, stated that the nonobservance of the King's birthday by the church was, in his opinion, an oversight, and an unfortunate one. While it was true that the King had asked that no celebrations should be held, he thought a religious service would have been appropriate, especially at this time. He believed more prayer was needed, and this would have been a good occasion for a service of praise.

"We have more cause to be thankful for our monarch than any other country in the world," he said. "Both the King and Queen are models of the highest type of character and are worthy successors to Queen Victoria and King Edward, whose ideals they are doing much to perpetuate."

BERLIN BANDMASTER OUT OF LEADERSHIP; BAND LOYAL BRITISH

Had Been Warned by Militia Officials Regarding His Tendencies.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BERLIN, June 2.—Prof. Paul Fritz, until this morning leader of the Waterloo Brass Band, has tendered his resignation to take effect at once, and at an emergency meeting of the Waterloo Musical Society tonight, it was accepted.

It is alleged that his actions at the tattoo at Galt last night warranted this action.

It was necessary at the outbreak of the war last August to send a couple of militia officers to warn him to desist from his pro-German tendencies and this outcome will remove the stigma from an otherwise loyal band.

TRUCK HE SITS ON ROCKED BY SHELLS WHILE HE WRITES

Gordon Thompson Describes Some Miraculous Escapes of Londoners.

POSTOFFICE DEMOLISHED

MacPherson, of Postal Corps, Had Just Got Into the Cellar.

Gordon Thompson, son of Dr. Ainley Thompson, of Elmwood avenue, wrote a letter, dated May 18, sitting in a motor truck, which, he says, was literally rocking on its springs and rattling from the concussion of the air caused by terrific cannonading close by. On May 16, when the letter was written, it was pouring rain, owing to the heavy cannonading of the previous day.

Expect to Take Lille.

"By the time you receive this letter, I think Lille will be in our hands, or if not, we will have a grip on it," says the writer. Lille has not yet been taken, nor has it figured particularly in the news recently, but the statement of the writer signifies that some big movement of the British troops is likely. Pte. Thompson speaks of having been shifted from Belgium to France again. He is in the Mechanical Transport Division of the A. S. C.

Londoners Injured.

Roy Clinger, whose name was received in casualty lists recently, is in the hospital, and doing well, the writer says. Bert Boast and William Chivers, two more Londoners, are in English hospitals. Boast has been at Shorncliffe for six weeks, and is not yet able to walk.

"The baseballs and gloves are much appreciated by all of the boys. We don't get much mail now, but it is just as well, as we have no time to bother with it.

Ypres the Worst.

"The battle of Neuve Chapelle," the writer says, "was not in the same class at all, as the enemy's attempt to break through our lines at Ypres. As far as I can learn, there were over 6,000 casualties. We handled more ammunition there than was used in the entire South African war."

Pte. Thompson has had many escapes himself. He tells of happenings to others. "A man named McPherson, from London, was sitting in the field postoffice in Belgium. The Germans were shelling the position, and according to orders, 'Mac' went into the cellar. Just as he stepped down, a shell blew off the top of the house. Another London boy was chatting to a Frenchman. A shrapnel burst over them; it knocked down the Londoner, but did not injure him. The Frenchman was killed instantly."

Ahead of Salisbury.

"This active service is a picnic compared to our training at Salisbury," Pte. Thompson says, although he mentions in another place that nine months have passed since he has slept in a bed. "We are exposed to shell fire from time to time, but that is all part of the game. We get so used to it we don't even bother to duck when we hear them coming. We can tell pretty well where they are likely to strike by the noise they make."

SEE FRENCH COAST

Pte. Winters Writes of Ideal Conditions at Shorncliffe.

Pte. M. R. Winters, of Windsor, who trained here with No. 3 Stationary Hospital Corps, writing from Shorncliffe, states that the unit is located in Moore Barracks, overlooking the English Channel.

On clear days he says the coast of France can be seen. The hospital quarters are 70 miles from the firing line.

He declares that no better place for wounded to be cared for or convalesences could be secured.

SAY SON IS SAFE

Authorities Report Pte. Groshow To Be With Regiment.

Mrs. Janet B. Groshow, superintendent of the Victoria Home for Incurables, received a telegram from the Ottawa military authorities today, stating that so far as they knew her son was safe and still fighting with his regiment.

The telegram in part said: "So far as we know, your son is at present fighting with his regiment. His name is not on any of the casualty lists of date."

For many days it was believed that Pte. W. I. Groshow had been killed or was a prisoner, as the result of a letter a man at the front had sent to a friend here, stating that the local private was among those missing.

Pte. Groshow is a member of the 48th Highlanders.

DENIES ITALIAN STATEMENT.

VIENNA, via London, June 2—7:55 p.m.—An official announcement issued here today says:

"The result of the bombardment of Pola by Italian airships is incorrectly stated in the communication by the Italian Admiralty. Four bombs were exploded, but the damage done was very slight. No fire broke out. In the bombardment of Monfalcone one civilian was slightly wounded by splinters of stone."

SAYS GIALITTI FLED.

COPENHAGEN, June 2.—via London.—The Kreuse Zeitung of Berlin is authority for the statement that Giovanni Giolitti, former prime minister of Italy who led the Pacifists in the crisis which preceded the Italian declaration of war upon Austrian-Hungary, has fled from Italy. He was fearful of being murdered, the paper said. An attempt on his life has been planned.

CUPID'S CASUALTIES.—So numerous have been the "casualties" of Cupid among the fair members of the First Methodist Church choir that it has been suggested that a call for recruits will be necessary. It is said that half a dozen of the girl singers will be married this month, as well as a number of the male members. Three of the girls in one row are soon to be counted "missing." Hymen plays hob with choirs.

DEPARTS SUDDENLY.—John Collins, the man, not the drink of that name, who had taken a number of drinks of many names, was given one hour by Police Magistrate J. C. In fact, this year the total, $35,465.55, was $88.16 in excess of May, 1914, when it was $35,377.50, but this year there was an addition of $1,506.68 for war tax stamps, which helped to swell the total. C. Judd to County Magistrate Chittick. Magistrate Chittick will try both cases, and John Smith and James Wilson, frequenters, caught in the house by the police, will also appear before him. The forepart of the week the Warren woman was convicted by the magistrate and fined $5 and costs, and promised then that she would live straight in future.

MILAN, via Paris, June 2.—4:45p.m.—The Milan Secolo, in its issue of today urges the Italian authorities to take drastic measures against, and even to shoot, those persons who are found guilty of speculating with contraband in favor of Germany and Austria. Such men are smugglers, the paper says, but at this time smugglers are no better than traitors and spies.

The Secolo calls attention to the fact that as there is at present no state of war between Italy and Germany, certain products may still be exported from Italy into Germany, which means Austria. It urges that these conditions be changed.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS BEAT OUTSIDERS ON NEW DURHAM SCHOOL

Fine Building Will Be Now Rushed to Completion.

WILL COST ABOUT $14,000

Ministers and Farmers Catch Auto Fever—Concert Aids Red Cross Funds.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

DURHAM, June 2.—The building of the new high school will be proceeded with at once. After many delays, chiefly owing to the methods of the education department, to whom plans have been submitted three times, authorization came on Saturday last, and last evening the board met and opened tenders. Several were very close, but the lowest came from townsmen: Messrs. Hugh McDonald, for brick work and masonry; Ed Kress, for carpenter work, and J. H. Harding for the plumbing, and were accepted. Excavation will commence this week, and the building will be completed before winter sets in. It will be an imposing structure, costing in the neighborhood of $14,000, and when erected and the grounds laid out, will be an object of civic pride.

Preachers and Farmers Buy Cars.

Farmers and clergymen are rapidly purchasing motor cars in this district. Buyers this last week are: Rev. T. W. Mills, Dornoch; Rev. J. A. Matheson, Priceville; Wm. McGowan, Durham; Wm. Hazlett, Allan Park, R. J. Wilson, Boothville; D. P. Coleridge and S. Smith, Holstein.

Concert in Red Cross Aid.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church, the Welsh Ladies' Choir delighted a large audience in the church last evening. The net proceeds of the concert will be devoted to Red Cross purposes, amounting to $35.

MANY EAGER TO ENLIST.

ROME, June 2, via Paris, 4:50 p.m.—Enthusiasm to enlist and get to the front runs high among the men of Rome. Those who were born in 1882, 1883, and 1884, who are now between 31 and 33 years old, are eager to be called out. They have served in the army for three years and are well qualified to fight, they insist. But the Government replies it needs no more men at the present time. Aplications from several hundred thousand volunteers already have been received but none have as yet been accepted.

15,000 PIECES OF MAIL WEEKLY CAMP AVERAGE

Records of Postal Corps Indicate Tremendous Flow of Letters, Etc., To and From Soldiers Encamped Here.

Already mention has been made of the tremendous flow of mail to and from the mobilization camp on Carling's Heights, but a report made by Lieut. F. D. Sharman, in command of No. 1 Detachment of the Canadian Postal Corps in charge of the local field postoffice, indicates its magnitude. Last week strict account was taken of all mail—both inwards and outwards—and the result of the count embodied in a report and sent to the headquarters of the local division and to headquarters of the Postal Corps. This report shows that 15,478 pieces of mail were handled by the field postoffice in one week.

In this total there appears no record of daily or weekly newspapers or periodicals. Several thousands of these are handled each week in addition to the other pieces of mail matter.

However, the following tabulation will give some idea of the way the soldiers write and receive letters, etc. As will be noted, both outgoing and incoming mail is shown.

	Inwards	Outwards	Total
Letters	6,937	7,280	14,217
Postcards	352	647	999
Parcels	97	165	262

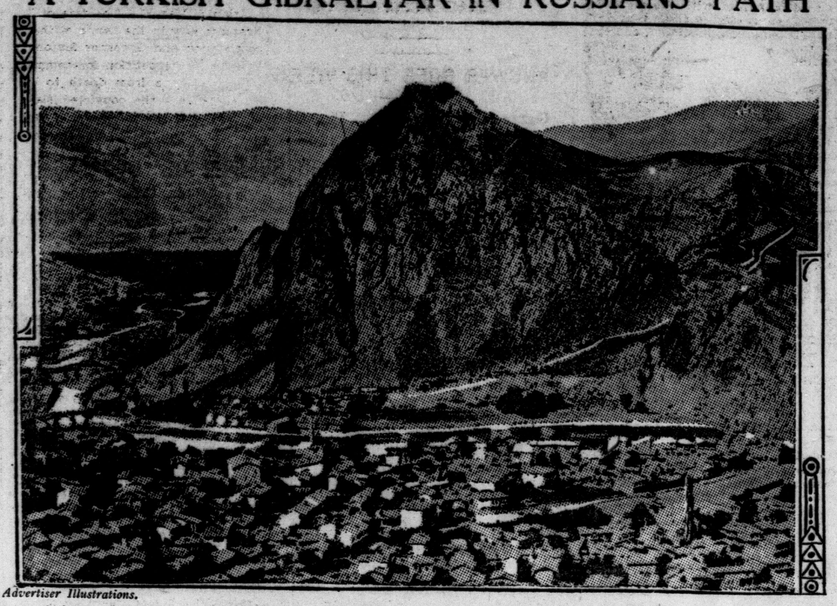

This table would seem to indicate that the soldiers sent out more letters than they received. However, the separation checks mailed to the wives of the soldiers each month helps to swell the outgoing total. This, however, would not reduce the relative standing of the outwards and inwards mail, for while the mail for the 7th C. M. R. at Queen's Park comes through the field postoffice, that from the mounted rifles goes into the regular city delivery boxes, since the field postoffice was moved to Carling Heights.

The fact that there are almost twice as many postcards and parcels sent out as received would bear out the statement that the boys in khaki are more prolific correspondents than their friends. It must be taken into consideration that many letters from soldiers are mailed outside the camp area when they are on pass.

However, be that as it may, the fact remains that each man in camp averages the receipt of more than two letters weekly, which is an exceptionally high average.

In addition to the tabulation of the week's business, Lieut. Sharman has prepared a statement showing the business transacted for the quarter ending May 31. This statement shows that the postage stamp sales during that time totalled $744, that $2,037.45 worth of postal notes, payable in Canada, were issued; that $1,468.11 of money orders, payable in United States and England, were sold, and that 1,217 registered letters were handled.

GETTING READY TO OPEN FIELD AMBULANCE DEPOT

Tent Hospital Will Be in Full Swing, It Is Expected, By Tomorrow.

Preparations are being made for the opening of the hospital tents of "C" Section, No. 2, Field Ambulance Corps, and it is expected that the hospital will be in full swing by tomorrow.

The tent hospital is a most complete one, and the handling of the minor cases of the camp will be invaluable training for the "rookies" of "C" section.

However the general health of the mobilization camp has been such that it is anticipated that some of the A. M. C. men will have to play sick in order to afford an opportunity of training their comrades.

NO MORE MEASLES

One Case Only Among Infantry Brigade, and No Signs of Any Epidemic.

No further outbreaks of measles have been reported from the infantry brigade, and the one isolated case detected in the line of the 33rd, is the only contagious disease case in the whole camp. The private of the 33rd who is suffering from the attack is reported to be progressing favorably.

Medical officers of the camp are expressing the opinion that there will be no further cases, as there is absolutely no sign of any epidemic.

RAIN MATTERS LITTLE

Does Not Interfere With Training of Soldiers at All, Lectures Being Given.

Rain has no effect on the training of the troops of the expeditionary forces. Instead of turning out on parade for drill this morning, the battalions were given lectures by the officers and sergeants in the mess tents, and as soon as the ground was sufficiently dry some of the companies were ordered out to drill.

Carling's Heights dries rapidly, and as soon as the rain was over it was possible to start manoeuvring again.

GUISEPPE'S REGIMENT IS NOW AT BATTLE FRONT

And Young Italian Wants to Go Back to Fight for Country.

The enthusiasm of Italians in Canada generally for the cause in which their country now has taken up arms as an ally of Britain and her allies was demonstrated fairly well by the crowd which paraded the streets of the city on the Sunday when war was declared against Austria.

Now that the call has been sent out for reservists of the Italian army to hold themselves in readiness to rejoin their regiments at a moment's notice, the enthusiasm will be demonstrated in a more practical manner, and already Italians in London are exhibiting an ardent desire for the call to come soon.

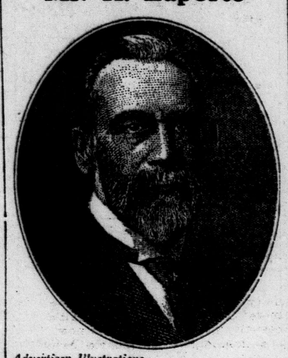

One man, Guiseppe Montreon, of Bathurst street, is particularly keen to be back with the regiment of which he is a reservist, and which, he says, is now on the battlefront, and he is very anxious also that his countrymen here shall be made aware that a call is imminent.

Wants Appeal Seen.

Today when he noticed the proclamation issued by the Italian authorities warning Italians to be ready displayed in The Advertiser window, he came into the office and begged that the bill be placed in a more conspicuous place, which was done.

Guiseppe is a fine specimen of the best type of Italian. Straight as a dart, clear olive skin and eyes bright and humorous. He knows the Allies are going to win, and he wants almost more than anything else an opportunity to have a part in the victory which will among other things restore to his country the provinces wrested from her by the Austrians. He will not need any urging to fight for Italy. When the call comes it will find him waiting and ready to respond to it.

ANXIOUSLY AWAIT THEIR APPOINTMENT

Subalterns in Line For Attachment To 33rd Eager For Orders.

Subalterns who are in line for appointment to the 33rd Battalion for service as supernumeraries are anxiously awaiting orders to join. The orders of yesterday that ordered the absorption of four supernumerary officers into the strength of the battalion to replace those who will leave with the special reinforcement company, meant the appointment of four new supernumeraries, and the consequence is that there is great eagerness amongst those officers who are in line for a place, for the training on the 33rd.

No announcement has yet been made for the absorption of any of the 34th supernumeraries to replace the detached company officers.

MAKING GOOD SCORES IN RIFLE SHOOTING

Detached Company Men of Both Battalions Show Up Well in Their Musketry.

While the rifle shooting at the cove ranges is being practically confined to the special detached companies of the 33rd and 34th and to the Mounted Rifles and Divisional Cavalry, some good scores are being rolled up there, and there is no fear that the boys of the third contingent need be ashamed of their shooting ability.

In both battalions there are some crack shots, and a sprinkling of Bisley team men, who will be able to do some fancy sniping when the trenches are reached. The officers of the 34th are considered uniformly good shots, and are setting a great pace for their men.

CORPS EXPECTING TO LEAVE FOR FRANCE

Sergt. Miller and Others of Medical Unit Attending Wounded.

On a card from Shorncliffe, dated May 16, Sergt. Roy Miller, writing to Ernie Heard, stated that the Medical Corps of the 18th Battalion expect to leave for France any day.

At time of writing, Sergt. Miller, with other members of the 18th, was stationed at Shorncliffe attending the wounded Canadians who were conveyed to that hospital.

McGill Medical Corps and 1,600 men of the 21st Battalion arrived safely on May 15, and are all anxious to get to the front.

Sergt. Miller, who enlisted here as a private, was promoted shortly after his arrival in England. For a number of years he was employed by Bruce Wallace, druggist. Later he went to Windsor, from which city he came to enlist.

Want Time Extended

A number of replies have been received in The Advertiser's prize "Why I Enlisted" essay competition, for which $10 in cash was offered. However, some of the men in training in this city have made application for an extension of time in order that half-finished manuscripts might be submitted, and it has been decided to extend the time limit until next Monday. All manuscripts received subsequently to the original time of closing, however, will be handicapped.

The prizes offered were $5, $3 and $2 for first, second and third prizes, respectively. The competition is limited to men in training in this city for overseas service, and The Advertiser reserves the right to print all or any manuscripts submitted, whether a prize winner or not.

Kindly write on one side of the paper only.

STRENUOUS WORKOUT

Plans for Manoeuvres of Detached Company Tonight Involve Hard Work.

Plans for the manoeuvres of the Detached Company of the 33rd this evening include a strenuous workout for all ranks in outpost duty as outlined in The Advertiser yesterday. The detached companies are being put through their paces in a manner that is whipping them into line very speedily, and the men seem eager to absorb every bit of training possible in order that they may get to the front that much quicker.

Daily applications are being made to transfer to the detached companies, and the men are literally fighting for places oh the units that will go to the front first.

MILITARY GOSSIP

Capt. H. D. Peacock, chaplain of the 33rd, has returned to the camp after having been away on leave.

Major J. D. McCrimmon, 33rd, was field officer of the day today.

Capt. David Smith, of No. 2 Field Ambulance Depot, is doing his first duty as medical officer of the day today.

Leave of absence has been granted to the following officers of the camp: Lieut. D. Northcombe, 34th, from June 5 to June 7; Capt. C. F. Dowding, 33rd, from the 2nd to the 4th; Capt. M. A. G. Willoughby, 33rd, from June 5 to June 8.

Lieut. McIntosh, of the 34th, who was home on leave, has returned to duty.

MEN EAGER TO GET TO THE FIRING LINE

Many Volunteer For the Engineers' Draft in Hope of Getting Away.

The eagerness of the soldiers of the 33rd and 34th to get to the firing line is well illustrated by the response made to the call for volunteers to fill the special draft for the divisional engineers of the second contingent. Ten men only were asked for—five drivers and five sappers—but double the number were secured from both the 33rd and 34th without a regimental or company call having been made.

The men learned of the call and applied to their officers to be allowed to go. In ten minutes more than twenty volunteers had been secured, and this morning the regimental sergeant-majors of both Battalions have been besieged with inquiries to get away.

No selections have yet been made, and the men who volunteered yesterday will be given a special test by Capt. R. W. Bishop, divisional engineer officer, this afternoon. Those who will form the draft will be selected after this examination.

It is expected that the newly-secured engineers will leave on Saturday.

ITALIAN CONSULS ISSUE INSTRUCTIONS TO MANY RESERVISTS

Proclamations Posted in London Telling All To Be Ready.

I. Moretti, of 114 Mill street, today received printed instructions from the Italian consul at Welland, advising all classes of reservists to hold themselves in readiness to leave at any time. Mr. Moretti has placed copies of the proclamation in several prominent places. He himself is a reservist, having been a member of the bersaglieri.

Twenty to Leave Soon.

Mr. Moretti stated to The Advertiser today that there are about twenty of his countrymen in London who expect to leave to take part in the fighting shortly.

He expects to receive word shortly where the men will report.

One of the proclamations was posted in The Advertiser, where it was read by many Italians.

MANY SOLDIER ENTRIES

There will be a good representation of the boys in khaki in the manufacturers' field day sports to be held on June 19, according to Physical Director C. S. Alexander of the Military Y. M. C. A. There is a great number of well-known athletes in both infantry battalions, and these men will uphold their regiments' dignity in the sports.

The physical director has already given out a number of entry blanks, and at least 15 soldiers will contest the various open events, with good chances of bringing home the bacon to the camp.

DESPERATE FIGHT FOR BECKER'S LIFE

Wife Says Every Possible Effort Will Be Made for Him.

SURE OF HIS INNOCENCE

She Denies Stories of Prisoner's Bitterness Shown in Prison Cell.

New York, June 3.—Mrs. Charles Becker, asserting her belief that her husband is guiltless of having instigated the murder of Herman Rosenthal, announced last night that every effort will be made to save him from the electric chair.

"We will carry the case to the United States supreme court," Mrs. Becker said to a reporter, after she had talked with John B. Johnston, who is associated with Martin T. Manton, counsel for Becker.

"I believe Charlie is absolutely innocent," Mrs. Becker continued, "and not a stone will be left unturned to save his life. He has been unjustly accused, not only of the murder, but of having been blasphemous in the shadow of death.

Has Faith in Outcome.

"Mr. Manton and Mr. Johnston will conduct the appeal to the United States supreme court. They will do everything the laws of this country allow to save Charlie, and my faith is absolute in the outcome of their efforts."

"Has it been decided on what grounds an appeal will be taken to the United States supreme court?" Mrs. Becker was asked.

"Mr. Manton and Mr. Johnston will determine that when they have received a certified copy of the decision of the court of appeals."

"Do you intend to ask Gov. Whitman for clemency?"

"I have resolved to do everything that can be done to save my husband. I will not overlook the slightest opportunity that might be of aid in restoring him to me.

"There is not a vestige of truth in these so-called death house descriptions of Charlie," Mrs. Becker continued. "On Sunday I talked with him several hours. Monday I was with him again, and he never uttered a word which could be taken as an indication of btterness. He neither spoke disrespectfully of his Maker nor did he attack Gov. Whitman.

"Charlie does not bear malice toward anyone. No one knows better than I how forbearing he has been through the worst moments of his life. Charlie had hopes and up to the last moment the worst was told to him he thought he would have another chance to fight before a jury and urge proof of his innocence."

Mrs. Becker, as she referred to the published statements that Becker had renounced his religion, stifled a sob. She insisted he had not discussed with her any plan for making as a basis of a barter for life an expose of graft conditions when he headed the strong-arm squad.

Gave House for Defence.

When Mrs. Becker was asked whence the money came to conduct the last trial she said it was obtained by the transfer of her home on Olinville avenue, Bronx.

"More than a year ago the house was deeded to Mr. Manton as part payment for his services," she said. "I have staked all my hope in Mr. Manton's efforts, and he has assured me that he will continue to the last to act in Charlie's behalf."

Mrs. Becker returned yesterday to her duties as a teacher in public school No. 90.

Mr. Manton, reading newspaper publications of the court of appeals decision, did not find many convincing points for an appeal, but Becker, after studying a certified copy of the decision, underlined paragraphs which will be submitted to his lawyer.

Becker, in the death house, was glad when Father Cashin, the Roman Catholic chaplain, stopped at his cell more than an hour, and offered spiritual consolation. He assured visitors they need have no fear of any attempt by him to commit suicide.

"I cannot believe any human being, no matter how hardened, would see an innocent man sacrificed to such a death as I am facing," Becker said to a confidant. "Justice, I am sure, will prevail in the end."

WORK OF ENGINEERS REALLY WON CARENCY

Enemy's Burrows and Wire Fortifications Blown Up By Explosives.

[Canadian Press.]

PARIS, June 2. — 6 p.m. — The part played by engineering corps in the fighting in the region of Arras is described in a narrative from an official observer attached to the French army, given out here tonight.

"In the vicinity of Carency the battle has been conducted by use of mines since January," the observer writes. "The calm courage shown by our men in the face of great dangers is especially worthy of mention. In this region the galleries and subterranean connecting trenches are more than a mile and a half in length, and the quantity of explosives used from March 6 until May 1 was more than 28 tons.

"On May 9 an attack was begun on Carency. Early in the morning the attack was prepared by artillery, and simultaneously by the explosion of seventeen mine fields, which destroyed completely a majority of the enemy's barbed wire fortifications and breastworks, and demolished the enemy's subterranean passages. German sappers and miners were killed outright, only 70 being captured.

Gives Infantry Courage.

"This gave great courage to the French infantry in charging, owing to the knowledge that the ground beneath them was not mined, and that they need not fear that any minute they might be blown up.

"Many other places also were captured, owing to the splendid work and long preparation of the engineers. Their work was particularly valuable at Lorette and Decauville. The work of the sappers, in the construction of trenches, bomb proofs, platforms for guns and superimposed galleries, also has been excellent. As son as ground has been gained engineers are brought up to organize it against counter-attack.

"A letter taken from the body of a German says: 'French engineers cause us to lead a life of infernal damnation.'" SEAFORTH, June 2.—"Sincerely regret to inform you 24558, Lance-Sergt. John Leslie Reid, 13th Battalion, officially reported wounded, between 22nd to 24th April. Further particulars when received will be sent you.

"ADJUTANT-GENERAL."

The above message, received by John Reid today, tells of the wounding of the eldest son of the manager of the Canadian Furniture Company. Leslie was attached to No. 1 company, 5th Royal Highlanders, Montreal, first contingent. His company was next to the French in the Langemarck battle which occurred in latter part of April, and no word has been received from him until today. Much anxiety has been felt by his parents and many friends. The continued silence was ominous. Leslie is a splendid type of young manhood, and was formerly assistant secretary of the Y.M.C.A., London, Ont., and afterward connected with the Y.M.C.A. at Haverhill, Mass. He was a traveler for the Canada Furniture Company with headquarters at Montreal, when he enlisted. He has a brother in a bank at Goderich, also a brother in another bank at Guelph.

WAR PROFITS TAX TO BE LEVIED AT BREMEN

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 3.—According to German newspapers received here, Bremen has taken the lead among the German cities in a plan for a tax on war profits, to be levied on firms or individuals in receipt of an income of more than $3,000 annually. If the income of such firms or individuals in 1914 proves to be larger than in the previous year, this increase will be taxed at the rate of 10 per cent.

After winning the coveted decoration he visited the orphanage where he lived as a child, and in the picture he is shown surrounded by the little hero-worshippers of the cottage homes at Countesthorpe.

ITALY'S PREMIER EXPOSES AUSTRO-GERMAN INTRIGUE

Murder of Archduke Exploited as Excuse for War, and Mediation Declared Useless—No Betrayal of Teutons on Part of Italy.

Rome, via Paris, June 3.—"We entered this, the greatest war in history, to safeguard the highest and most ancient aspirations, the most vital interests of our country," was the declaration of Premier Salandra in an adddress at the meeting held here today to make plans for the relief of persons in civil life who may be made needy as the result of the war.

"Italians of all classes must not only have spontaneous and profound feeling, but a reasoned conviction of the justice of our cause, and the sanctity of our war."

No Betrayal.

Premier Salandra then viewed the diplomatic events leading up to the conflict from the time of the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand. Italy's former allies, he declared, had no right to say Italy betrayed them, for she never disguised her views on Austrian aggression on Servia and its consequences. In support of his argument he read a dispatch to the Duke of Avarna, ambassador to Austria, sent him on July 25, 1914, by the Marquis San Giuliano, the late minister of foreign affairs, detailing an interview he had with Signor Salandra and Hans Von Flotow, then German ambassador to Italy.

Were Clearly Told.

During this interview, the speaker declared, he and Marquis San Giuliano pointed out to Herr Von Flotow that Austria, by the terms of the triple alliance treaty, had no right to take the step she had taken at Belgrade without previously coming to an agreement with her allies, and that Austria's action clearly showed she desired to provoke war. The Italian statesman therefore informed the German ambassador, the Premier said, that under the circumstances Italy was not obliged to help Austria, if the latter nation found herself at war with Russia in consequence of an act of aggression.

Premier Salandra asserted that on July 27 and 28, 1914, the Italian Government raised in clear terms the question of the cession to Italy of the so-called Italian provinces held by Austria, both at Vienna and Berlin.

Mediation No Use.

"We declared," said he, "that if Italy did not obtain adequate compensation, the triple alliance would be irreparably broken. Impartial history will say that Austria, having found in July and in October, 1913, that Italy was hostile to aggressive intentions against Servia, arranged with Germany to take Europe by surprise by confronting it with an accomplished fact. The horrible crime at Serajevo was exploited as a pretext a month after it occurred. Foreign Minister Von Berchtold told the Duke of Avarna on July 31 last that even if mediation were employed it would not stop hostilities with Servia.

Austria Lying.

It was not true, as Count Tisza has pretended, that Austria engaged herself to respect the integrity of Servian territory. Kajetan Merny Von Kapos-Mere, then the Austrian ambassador, told Marquis San Guiliano July 20 that Austria could not give such an engagement because she could not foresee that, during the war she would not be forced against her will to retain Servian territory. In addition, Count Von Berchtold declared to the Duke of Avarna on August 28 last that he was not disposed to give any undertaking relative to the eventual action of Austria in case of a conflict with Servia."

STORAGE BUILDING FOR CANNON SHELLS WAS BROKEN INTO

Sarnia Concern Wants Military Guard—Local Police Criticised.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

SARNIA, June 2.—A large shed owned by the Lougheed Machinery Company, on the river front near Front street, which is used to store shells in before they are worked up by the company was broken into on Monday night, after a new shipment of shells had been placed in it. Nothing was taken, but it is feared that it is the work of someone who is gathering information for the German or Austrian Governments.

The company wishes to have a military guard placed on the works, but it is contended that it is the place of the civil authorities to protect private enterprises such as these, even if they are manufacturing war material.

COL. T. CANTLEY BELIEVES THE WAR IS ONLY STARTED

Not Likely to End for 18 Months—Artillery Is Needed.

MONTREAL, June 2.—Col. T. Cantley, president of the Eastern Car Company, New Glasgow, N. S., was in Montreal tonight, having just returned from a tour of the scenes around Ypres, where the Canadian are fighting. As a member of the Canadian shell commission, he was sent to the front under special orders of the British war office and as a result of his trips he believes the war is not nearly over.

"My present conviction," he said tonight, in an interview at the Windsor hotel, "is that as yet the war has only well started. If it can be brought to a satisfactory end within fifteen or eighteen months, it is about as much as I look for."

Colonel Cantley says there is a great need of more artillery and more shells for the British forces. He met Lord Kitchener, who not only spoke highly of the Canadian troops, but declared that the Canadian shells were the best of any that had been furnished outside of the regular British armament firms.

PRESIDENT WRITES NOTE TO GERMANY

Will Insist That Neutrals Be Treated According to Laws.

ANSWER GOES THIS WEEK

German Embassy Hopeful That Better Understanding May Be Result.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, June 3.—President Wilson, following his conference with Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, was going ahead today with the preparations of the American Government's response to the German Government's reply to the last American note concerning the sinking of the Lusitania. The communication is being penned by the President himself, and it will go forward before the end of the week. Interest in the conference was heightened today as further details were coming to light. One important result, it has been stated upon high authority, is that there will be no alteration in the administration's plan to ascertain whether the German Government will abide by international law or follow its own rules of maritime warfare. The conference was cordial and of a friendly nature.

Insists on Demands.

The intensity of feeling in the United States over the Lusitania incident and other violations of American rights on the high seas was emphasized by the President. He also impressed upon the ambassador that the United States would insist that Germany adhere to the accepted principles of international law as they affect neutrals.

The President, it is believed, informed the ambassador that the United States would not object to the German submarine warfare provided it could be conducted in such a way as not to jeopardize life and property of neutrals. He is also said to have explained that the exercise of the right of visit and search would be insisted upon when submarines encounter unarmed merchantmen or vessels which do not resist capture.

May Be Beneficial.

Speculation continued today as to the effect of the conference. It was believed by some officials and diplomats that it would be beneficial and draw from Germany a conciliatory reply to the American note.

A feeling of hopefulness pervaded the German embassy, where the conference was regarded as satisfactory. The ambassador himself expressed the belief that the communication which he had sent to his Government, conveying the viewpoint of the President himself, would enlighten the German foreign office accurately as to the American Government's viewpoint and pave the way to a better understanding.

BRITAIN DEALS WITH SEVERAL SEIZED SHIPS

Some Cargoes Condemned, as Meant For the Enemy.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 3.—The American steamer Neches, whose cargo of 3,000 tons of cotton was detained by the British authorities, has been released on the promise that the Netherlands Overseas Trust would take charge of the consignment.

The greater part of the general cargo of the liner Lapland, seized on April 10 and thrown into the prize court at Barrow, has been discharged.

From the Norwegian ship Pythia, bound from American ports for Sweden, 293 tons of cotton has been taken for disposition by the prize court.

The Athenia, a Greek ship, from American to Grecian ports, seized at Gibraltar, has been permitted to proceed after discharging 400 bales of cotton and 1,200 reels of barbed wire. These goods had been placed before the prize court, it being charged that they were destined for an enemy of Great Britain.

GERMAN SOLDIERS DOWN ON AMERICANS

Treatment of Newspaper Correspondents Shows Trend of Opinion.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 3.—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant's correspondent with the German forces on the French front says:

"The ill-feeling of the German soldiers toward the United States is shown by the changed treatment of American newspaper representatives visiting the German lines. For example, I visited a battery of howitzers, and, as was my custom, passed around a handful of cigars to the artillerymen. To my astonishment every man refused them. This was a thing unheard of before, but I put it down to shyness, until I learned a few hours later that they had mistaken me for an American.

"At headquarters were several American newspapermen. The corps commander invited us all to dinner. One of the Americans sat next a major, with whom he discussed the war throughout the dinner. When they arose from the table, the major said he wished to give the American a small souvenir of their meeting. Thereupon he carefully took from his pocket two splinters of an American shell, which he presented to the correspondent without comment."

HALF MILLION PAID ON LUSITANIA VICTIMS

English Insurance Firms Expect Many More Claims to Come.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 3.—English insurance companies have already paid claims amounting to $500,000 in connection with the loss of life by the sinking of the Lusitania. This represents the sum payable on the loss of 350 lives, and many more claims are expected to be filed. The American claims will probably reach thrice this amount, according to the estimates here, as some of the American passengers were heavily insured. No English company has so far confirmed the report that Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt carried heavy insurance on his life.

GERMAN PRINCELET'S COURAGE IS RETURNING

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, via London, June 3.—Prince August William of Hohenzollern, fourth son of Emperor William, who was badly injured in an automobile accident on the western battlefront during the winter, has so far recovered that he was able to start today to rejoin the staff of the army to which he is attached. The prince, however, is still suffering from the consequences of the accident, and it will be some time before he has fully recovered.

THOUSANDS PLEAD FOR MERCY ON BEHALF OF LEO M. FRANK

Prison Commission of Four Closes Clemency Hearing and Will Render Decision in Few Days—Savannah Judge Calls His Trial Unfair.

Atlanta, May 31.—The fate of Leo M. Frank is now in the hands of the prison commission and Governor Slaton. The hearing in the petition for commutation of his sentence from death to life imprisonment as the convicted slayer of Mary Phagan came to a close late this afternoon, and the commission of three took the case under advisement. Announcement was made that a recommendation would be made to the governor within the next ten days, probably this week.

The outstanding features of today's hearing for the life of the condemned man were the letter of the late Judge L. S. Roan, written practically on his deathbed, in which he emphasized his doubt of Frank's guilt and pleaded for clemency for the prisoner; the statement of Mrs. Leo M. Frank, the accused man's wife; the statement from Dr. J. T. Roan, the brother of the dead judge, in which he told of his brother's impressions of the trial, and the large number of prominent Georgians and representatives of many other states present to plead for Frank's life.

On Judge Roan's letter, which was written to attorneys for Frank some time before his death, and which he gave his permission to have used in the event he was unable to appear when the plea for clemency was heard, the defence mainly bases its hope of success.

"The execution of any person whose guilt has not been satisfactorily proven is too horrible to contemplate," was one of Judge Roan's striking sentences.

Mrs. Frank's own statement was a strong defence of the prisoner as an ideal husband, and made a distinct impression.

Mrs. Frank's Statement.

Mrs. Frank's statement follows:

"I am a Georgia girl, having been born and reared in Atlanta, and have lived in Atlanta all my life. My mother, likewise is, having been born in Dalton, Ga., and has lived all of her life in Georgia. All of the relations of my generation, boys and girls, were born in Georgia, and from my association with them I was accustomed to the deference and courteous treatment which is characteristic of the southerner in general, and the Georgian in particular.

"With the ideals I had, and which had been inculcated in me from girlhood, I expected in my husband nothing less than that to which I had been accustomed, and to which every woman looks forward, and which I fully realized in my husband.

"When not occupied with his business, the only time he spent away from me was when he was occupied with his charitable work, which took him away from home about once or twice a month.

"Married Life Unclouded."

"Our married life had been exceedingly happy and never had been marred by the slightest cloud. He was regarded and loved by my parents as a son, and was always courteous, gentle and most respectful in his relations with them, and our families have always been on intimate terms.

"When my husband was arrested on this charge and was detained at police headquarters on Tuesday, April 29, 1913, I hurried to the police barracks, accompanied by my father and brother-in-law. I was not allowed to go up to see my husband, and remained in the office of the probation officer, from whence my friends prevailed on me to return home.

"Being assured that my husband would be released at any moment, I remained at home, but as soon as it became apparent that he would be detained indefinitely I went to him immediately and have been going to him every day since, and spend most of the day with him in jail.

"On the 26th day of April, 1913 (the day of the murder) my mother and I had tickets for a matinee of grand opera, and in order to get there on time we sat at table at 1.10 p.m., before my husband came home to dinner, and at about 1:15 father came in and sat down at dinner with us. About 1:30 mother and I left the house, and my husband and father were left at the table eating. Returning home from the opera at 6:30 I found my husband already there. There was nothing unusual in his manner or appearance to attract my attention.

Frank Spent Evening Reading.

"That evening after supper a number of friends of my mother and father came over to the house to play cards. My husband and I did not play, but he sat in the hall reading. I watched the game for a while in the dining-room and then would go into the hall and talk to my husband, and would then go back again to watch the game.

"My husband read in the hall until some time after 10 o'clock, when he went upstairs to take a bath. I followed him a few minutes later, and we retired about 10:30. We were awakened about 6:45 by the telephone ringing. My husband got out of bed, put on his bathrobe and went down to answer the phone.

"When he came back again, I asked him who it was and he said some detectives had telephoned him to come right down to the factory; that there had been a tragedy down there, and that they were sending an automobile for him. My husband began to dress right away, and while he was dressing the front door bell rang, and I slipped on a bathrobe and went downstairs to answer the door.

"When I opened the door both Rogers and John Black (policemen) were there. Of course, at that time I did not know who they were. I asked them what was the matter and they said someone had been killed in the factory, and they then told me what they knew about it.

Her Talk With the Police.

"After a minute or two my husband came down and joined us at the front door. They asked him if he knew Mary Phagan and he told them he did not. Then they asked him if a little girl had not come to the office to get her money the preceding day, and he said that he did remember such a girl, but that he did not know her name.

"They then said they wanted him to come with them right away to the factory. I wanted them to let him have his breakfast first, but they refused. I then asked if they would let him have at least a cup of coffee, but they refused that also. It was I and not he that asked for the coffee.

"In the affidavit reputed to have been made by Mineola McKnight, the statement that I ever told my mother that my husband did not rest good that night, that he was drunk and that he made me sleep on the floor, and all the rest of it, is absolutely false in every particular."

Many Plead for Frank.

Among the speakers this afternoon were ex-Governor Eugene Foss, of Massachusetts; W. N. Bauer, of Chicago; Mrs. Mary Delany Fisher, of Chicago; T. N. Higginbotham, of Chicago; Dr. J. W. Coughlan, former mayor of Fall River, Mass.; Mayor W. F. Dorsey, of Athens, Ga.; Judge Joseph O'Connor, chief justice of the criminal court of Chicago; Paul Donehoe, coroner, who bound Frank over, and who sent a letter asking for mercy.

In the morning there were numerous Atlanta businessmen and lawyers present to ask for the prisoner's life. There were also delegations from a number of Georgia cities. Among the prominent Atlantans who emphasized the doubt of Frank's guilt was a delegation headed by R. T. Cooney, insurance man.

William M. Howard, who was formerly a Georgia congressman, was the leading lawyer for Frank and Harry Alexander assisted him. After commenting on the documentary evidence, Mr. Howard turned his attention to the commission, urging a commutation for Frank.

Mr. Howard devoted his efforts largely to showing that the State of Georgia itself was now overwhelmingly against hanging Frank.

The letters he read included pleas from Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens, stressing the doubt of Frank's guilt; from Major Joseph B. Cumming, of Augusta, commenting on the atmosphere of the trial, and from Rev. M. Ashby Jones, pastor First Baptist Church of Augusta; H. M. McIntosh, editor of the Albany Georgia Herald; Judge A. L. Miller, of Macon, and Attorney Alexander C. King, of Atlanta. Mr. Howard read one written by Jack J. Spalding, an Atlanta attorney, who said he was in Atlanta during the trial, and under the circumstances it was humanly impossible to have given Frank a fair trial.

Mr. Howard then read letters from John D. Mell, Judge Spencer R. Atkinson, Attorney Robert C. Alston, Attorney Reuben R. Arnold and Attorney Hollins N. Randolph, of Atlanta.

Trial Unfair, Says Attorney.

Here Mr. Howard suspended to permit the hearing of a delegation from Savannah, headed by Judge Samuel B. Adams, as spokesman.

"The trial judge is now dead," said Judge Adams. "I would not impugn his honesty or good faith if he were living, and certainly I will not do so now. But I do say that under his own views, expressed by him on the bench, Leo M. Frank was entitled to a new trial. The atmosphere of the trial was inimical to a fair consideration of the case. We are here because we believe Frank did not have the sort of a trial to which every man, be he white or black, rich or poor, humble or influential, is entitled."

The plea of the Savannah delegation was followed by one from Brunswick, Ga., delivered by Col. John E. Dubignon, a prominent citizen of that city. Colonel Dubignon presented a large batch of letters to the commission written by prominent Brunswick business and professional men.

After the Brunswick delegation came Samuel Maddox, a prominent attorney of Dalton, Ga., who filed a petition signed by a large number of citizens of that town. Dr. L. R. Christy, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Columbus, Ga., filed a petition signed by a large number of people in Columbus and vicinity and accompanied the petition with a very earnest address in Frank's behalf.

In closing the Frank hearing, Mr. Howard said:

Howard's Final Appeal.

"You are not asked to set aside any law. You are asked simply to change a verdict which itself might have been rendered by the jury. We are asking you simply to exercise a function which the jury could have exercised.

"We believe the evidence we have submitted will at least cause a doubt in your mind as to the guilt of this man, who, we say and believe, is innocent. At the trial such a doubt, under the law, would have acquitted him.

"If that doubt is on your mind, we ask you simply to change the sentence. We ask it in the name of mercy based on the doubt inherent in this case.

"Conley has been believed as against us. We as against him have been disbelieved. Let this white man be pictured before you by the life he has led and the stainless character he has borne. Let Conley be pictured before you in all the depravity of heart and soul revealed by the record of his testimony. Conley's depravity has ruined us, has taken our character. Do not let him take our life.

"We ask you this, which is less than our right: Give us this right to live and then we shall trust that ultimately the intervention of Divine Providence will strike away the shackles that bind us."

Judge Who Tried Leo Frank Aids His Plea From the Grave

Atlanta, Ga., May 31.—Himself sitting in the shadow of death, Judge Leonard S. Roan, who presided at Leo M. Frank's trial, wrote a letter which, when laid before the State Prison Commission today, proved to be one of Frank's strongest arguments for commutation of sentence. It was written in December, 1914, to Frank's trial counsel. Judge Roan died of cancer in New York last March. The letter said:

"After considering your communication asking that I recommend clemency in the punishment of Leo M. Frank, I wish to say that at the proper time I shall ask the prison commission to recommend and the governor to commute Frank's sentence to life imprisonment. * *

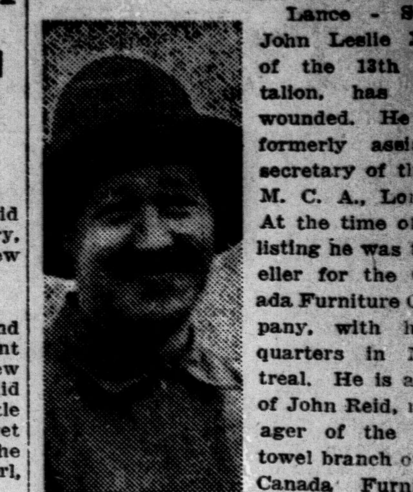

"It is possible that I showed undue deference to the opinion of the jury in this case when I allowed their verdict to stand. They said by their verdict that they had found the truth. I was still in a state of uncertainty, and so expressed myself. My search for the truth, though diligent and earnest, had not been so successful. In the exercise of judicial discretion, restricted and limited, according to my interpretation of the decisions of the reviewing court, I allowed the jury's verdict to remain undisturbed. I had no way of knowing it was erroneous.

"After many months of continued deliberation I am still uncertain of Frank's guilt. This state of uncertainty is largely due to the character of the negro Conley's testimony, by which the verdict was evidently reached.

"Therefore, I consider this a case in which the chief magistrate of the state should exert every effort in ascertaining the truth. The execution of any person whose guilt has not been satisfactorily proven to the constituted authorities is too horrible to contemplate. I do not believe that a person should meet with the extreme penalty of the law until the court, jury and governor all shall have been satisfied of that person's guilt. Hence, at the proper time, I shall express and enlarge upon these views directly to the governor and the prison commission.

"However, if for any cause I am prevented from doing this, you are at liberty to use this letter at the hearing."

CHICAGO WOMAN IS ARRESTED IN ITALY; SPY'S ACCOMPLICE

Alleged to Have Aided Bavarian Officer—Poses as An Italian.

MILAN, Via Paris, June 2.—8 p.m.—Isabelle Wade, aged 37, of Chicago, was arrested here today on the charge of being an accomplice of a Bavarian officer who is accused of espionage.

A few days ago the police arrested a Bavarian officer named Martin Schehammer on suspicion of espionage. He had made several visits to the provinces of Brescia and Verona, in the war zone.

Bore Italian Name.

It was learned that Schehammer had lived in several Italian towns, Milan and Rome included, and had many addresses. His close acquaintance with Isabelle Wade, of Chicago, a singer, was discovered, and the police found the woman living in an apartment here under the name of Margherita Martello. Search of her apartment revealed a large package of correspondence in cipher, military maps of important strategic value in the provinces of Alessandria, Udine, Verona and Bassano. These were contained in a large valise, in which also were field glasses and a revolver. From another package of German correspondence it would appear that Isabelle Wade had had dealings with the police of Berlin.

The woman at first maintained that she was Margherita Martello, and had found the valise in the street, but after spending a short time in prison, she admitted her real identity and declared that Schehammer had placed the valise in her hands, saying that he was shadowed by the police and feared he would be arrested at any moment, and that it was necessary to hide the documents.

GERMAN FIRMS IN WEST DRIVEN FROM BUSINESS

One Alvensleben Company Has Lost $800,000—Another Wound Up.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 2.—Many German companies are going out of business, after suffering huge losses. One of the Alvensleben concerns, which had two years ago paid eight hundred thousand dollars in cash on a timber deal, which, in all, was to amount to two and a half millions has gone out of business and defaulted in payments, so that the lands will revert to the original Canadian owners.

Today the Hardy Bay Lands Company, another Alvensleben concern, was wound up. Serious complaint that it had defrauded the public was made. It sold lands at Hardy Bay, on Vancouver Island, at thirty dollars an acre, which were purchased from the Government at five dollars and even this was never paid, so that many purchasers from the company are now unable to get title. Elvo Von Alvensleben, who is in Seattle, is a German baron.

TEACHERS ARE PAID

Government Advances Money for Ottawa Salaries.

TORONTO, June 2.—With reference to the Ottawa school situation, the deputy minister of education today made the following statement:

"The Government has not yet appointed any commission to administer the affairs of the Ottawa separate schools. It has, however, advanced the money necessary to pay the qualified teachers in the English-speaking schools. The money was paid direct to the teachers and not to the board. The salaries were six months overdue, and the Government, on representations being made that the schools would have to close, came to the rescue of those who have accepted Circular 17, and are obeying the law."

AUSTRIAN HYDRO-AEROPLANE FOUND.

BRINDISI, Italy, June 2. — An Austrian hydro-aeroplane has been found floating in the sea near here. It is evident that the aviators who manned it have been drowned. This machine is supposed to be the same one which flew over Brindisi yesterday morning, throwing down bombs.

A examination of the aircraft indicated that it had been built in Germany. There were found on it certain writings and drawings which showed that the aviators on board had been inspecting the Italian coast and taking notes, evidently with the idea of a possible landing of troops.

RESERVISTS LEAVE NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Between 600 and 700 reservists, the first extensive shipment since Italy's declaration of war, sailed for Naples today on the steamer Principe Di Udine to enlist for service. The men were a hardy looking lot and their enthusiasm for their country and their mission was apparently whole hearted.

ANCIENT AND MODERN.

THERE have been some gloomy prophets of late years who have drawn the parallel between Rome and Carthage in ancient history and Britain and Germany today. Carthage the rich, the luxurious and corrupt, the commercial, the employer of a mercenary army, the mighty naval power was, they say, the ancient Britain. Rome, then still the land of simple living, hard work, primitive rudeness, austerity, farmer-statesmen and conscript citizen soldiers, making beginnings of commerce and a navy but still a state self-supported by its agriculture, has been made to stand for Germany. Carthage was destroyed.

But the parallel can be at least as easily worked out the opposite way. Germany, like Carthage, is a land of business organization and has been, since the days of the semi-piratical Hanseatic League, specialist in a none too scrupulous foreign commerce. Business first is the motto of Carthage and Germany. Neither state is distinguished as particularly inventive or original, except in the way of philosophy and music in Germany's case, and perhaps in industrial chemistry, the Tyrian purple being an early counterpart of aniline dyes. Like the Carthaginian, the German is lacking in the artistic instinct. The calculated cruelties practised at times by the ancient Carthaginians, the hectic fury of their hate, for instance the swearing of young Hannibal to everlasting hatred of Rome, the rigid oligarchy of a military caste, the "Punic faith" which became a Roman byword for Carthaginian treachery and perjury are all suggestive of the nation that violated the Belgian treaty and the Hague conventions, outraged Belgium and Poland with hideously scientific barbarism and raves in mad-dog hatred of England. Carthage was more humane it is true. It is indecent to compare for a minute Hannibal at least with the German general staff. There was no such thing as this Herod Kaiser dancing in divine right boots on old Carthage. But the insolent military caste was there as in Germany.

Great Britain on the other hand has often been more correctly compared to Rome. In their splendid calm, steadiness and self-control, their habit of justice and compromise, their temperate democracy and respect for law, their capacity for self-government and for engineering, their avoidance of purely commercial ethics, their moral strictness, their love of "bread and games," the British are the modern Romans. Alike they are deficient in artistic impulse or skill, though less so than the men of Carthage and Germany. Alike they have risen on occasion to a sublimity of patriotism and voluntary service for home and country not to be matched in mercenary Carthage or conscript Germany. Rome and Britain are the world's twin imperial names, and the last is greater because Christian, because more democratic than Rome at its best, and because of such men as Shakespeare. Like Rome, Britain is strong and masterful and tenacious, a lawmaker and ruler. But like Athens, Britain has also her poets, such men today as Rupert Brooke, who died in Lemnos for his country. Britain is the greater Rome. The meaner, dirtier Carthage is to be destroyed.

IN THE GRIP OF THE SPOILER.

MANITOBA and British Columbia are the two provinces which appear to have been closely held in the grasp of the spoilsman and the grafter. And that with the connivance of or by the neglect of the men who had been entrusted with the oversight of public affairs by the people themselves. In Manitoba they looted the public funds in the guise of contracts for public works. In British Columbia the resources of the province have been commandeered by real estate agents and speculators. In Manitoba the delinquent government, faced with exposure, surrendered their trust, and a new government will try to rectify the errors of their predecessors. In British Columbia the offending government still clings to power.

Charges made against a government by political opponents are liable to be biased and exaggerated; at all events, even if true, they will be discounted as the testimony of an enemy. But in British Columbia the charges of mismanagement are not made by opponents alone. A non-political association, composed largely of clergymen, has been investigating public records and archives, and has declared that "about 90 per cent of the available land of British Columbia has been alienated." And it looks as though they were correct in their estimate. Lands have been sold by the Government at low prices, and it is said in some cases at only nominal figures. Yet, though the prices were low, there were about $15,000,000 of arrears due the Government in January of this year, according to a statement of the Premier himself. There are, also, arrears of taxes, though to what extent we have no means of knowing. And to make it still easier for the speculating landholder, the Government has passed what is practically a moratorium act, taking to itself power to postpone the payment of moneys due the Crown.

Sir Richard McBride does not seem disposed to follow the example of his friend in Manitoba and resign. Nothing, therefore, can be done to relieve the situation until Parliament is dissolved and the people have an opportunity to vote. But the time will be well spent while waiting for a general election. Political opponents, as well as nonpartisan citizens, will busy themselves in making public the record of the Government in its alienation of public lands and in the transfer of provincial resources to the hands of the speculator. There are great possibilities in British Columbia. Its mines, its fisheries, its forest and its arable land can provide immense wealth for its people. It should be a rich and populous section of the Dominion, and the men who are striving to keep it out of the grip of the grafter are doing a patriotic work. The remedy rests with the people themselves. If, at the first opportunity, they fail to turn out the unjust stewards who have mismanaged their affairs, and opened the doors to the spoiler, then they deserve what they will certainly get. They will be accessories to the crimes by which they will suffer. They will be the willing accomplices of the robbers who will grow rich at their expense.

FOILING THE SUBMARINES.

SOME there are who are plunged into gloom unless General French is making a spectacular advance, or Admiral Jellicoe's fleet is having a victorious brush with a baby-killing squadron from the Kiel Canal. Especially are they impatient over what they call the inactivity of the North Sea armada, which they even construe as a German success. They point to the fact that the German fleet is still intact, and that the submarine has not been curbed. They believe that the British ships have been driven to shelter unable to combat the Kaiser's underseas flotilla. Nothing, however, could be further from the facts. The "inactivity" of the British North Sea fleet is a masterful one. So effective is it that not a warship of the Germans dare poke its nose outside for any distance. If we desire to know what the British fleet is accomplishing we have simply to sum up what the German fleet is not accomplishing. It cannot get out to raid the commerce or coasts of the Allies, it cannot afford protection to its own merchantmen interned in neutral ports, it dare not run the risks of tackling the British fleet in an attempt to break the blockade, it is unable to attack the scores of transports and supply ships that daily cross between England and the Continent.

And we know right well that the fleet is "on the job." Three times have the Germans come out in force and on two of the occasions were driven back with heavy losses, friendly mists and a margin of a few minutes saving them in the other sortie. It is worth noting, too, that Jellicoe and his captains have solved the problem of foiling the submarine. Probably for months now the great dreadnoughts have been scattered amongst the east coast naval ports ready to dash out for the big fight, but countless cruisers and destroyers are keeping up the patrol day and night, and since the loss of the Hawke and the Cressy not a warship, big or little, has fallen to the German subs. The Kaiser's whittling down program has failed.

To be sure, it is exasperating to see the pirates daily getting their victim, but the vessels they manage to bring down continue to be the smaller and slower ones. The great trans-Atlantic liners, the vessels that are carrying the rich cargoes of war material and foodstuffs to the United Kingdom, these continue to escape destruction, showing their heels to the subs. They, too, like the warships are able to foil the submarines and make ridiculous the German boast of achieving a blockade.

THE ZEPPELINS.

IS THE latest raid of the Zeppelins on London preliminary to a grand assault of the Kaiser's aerial armada on the British capital? In midwinter a noted American aeronaut predicted that this attack would take place in May because of the favorable weather conditions. This has not occurred as promised, but every few days Zeppelins have bombed villages and coast towns in the vicinity of London, drawing nearer to the metropolis on each occasion. This month may see the grand invasion.

There will be some anxiety to see just how deadly would be an attack in force of the big dirigibles. So far, they have not done better than kill a half dozen persons and inflict trifling property damage. Apparently the object of the raids has been an attempt to spread panic amongst the English rather than to secure any military advantage. British and French airmen have repeatedly raided Germany, inflicting heavy losses on ammunition depots, factories, fortifications and shipyards, while the Zeppelins appear to have made no attempt to attack any of the great arsenals or war material plants of the British Isles, the destruction or even the partial destruction of which would be a heavy blow. But if the Germans imagine that this particular branch of the frightfulness will scare the British populace into subjection they altogether misunderstand the British character. The Britisher does not fly into a panic when exposed to Prussian ferocity. He sets his teeth the harder and the fury of his fighting rises at once. The Zeppelin raids will no more weaken the British determination to crush Germany than have the submarine atrocities or the gassing in Flanders.

And we may be sure that Kitchener has prepared for an attack of the Zeppelins in force. While no information has been given out, it is understood that a fleet of aeroplanes, numbering hundreds, has been concentrated near London. That these will give a good account of themselves is assured by their former daring raids on Cuxhaven and Zeebrugge. If the Germans come during the daylight hours they will hardly get away without marks of the conflict, and if they choose the night as they have in the past, they are not likely to create much trouble. The Zeppelins may have possibilities of destruction of which the world has not been informed, but on their past performances, and meeting an alert and resourceful enemy, they will not be the terrors of the air the Germans claim.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mexico has been getting neither square deal nor square meal for a long time.

Two notable exceptions that prove the rule that the innocent bystander gets hurt, are Holland and Switzerland.

Private Michael O'Leary, V.C., reported killed, writes that it is not so. That makes another sensational "comeback."

Just now the great Galician fortress seems to be in the balance as to whether it will be "Przemysl" or "Permysl."

A German professor proudly boasts that Germany only knows how to truly hate. That is what the rest of the world inferred from the "frightfulness."

For the first time in many years, London is without a "season" this spring. To the society-mad folk this will be a greater horror than the war which caused it.

An agricultural expert declares that the popular belief of a mysterious connection between the crops and the moon is a fallacy. But there is nothing fallacious about the mysterious connection between Cupid and the moon.

Germany hopes by her great drive against the Russians to scare the Balkans into remaining neutral. That might have worked earlier in the struggle, but Roumania, Bulgaria and the rest now know that Germany must be crushed if they are to retain their independence. Every German success drives the Balkan nations closer to the Allies.

THE SEA IS HIS.
[R. E. Vernede, in London Evening Star.]

The Sea is His: He made it,
Black gulf and sunlit shoal
From barriered bight to where the long
Leagues of Atlantic roll;
Small strait and ceaseless acean
He bade each one to be,
The Sea is His: He made it—
And England keeps it free.

By pain and stress and striving
Beyond the nation's ken,
By vigils stern when others slept,
By many lives of men;
Through nights of storm, through dawnings
Blacker than midnights be—
This Sea that God created,
England has kept it free.

Count me the splendid captains
Who sailed with courage high
To chart the perilous ways unknown—
Tell me where these men lie!
Tell me a path for ships to come
They moored at Dead Man's Quay;
The Sea is God's: He made it—
And these men kept it free.

O little land of England,
O mother of hearts too brave,
Men say this trust shall pass from thee
Who guardest Nelson's grave.
Ay, but these braggarts yet shall learn
Who'd hold the world in fee,
The Sea is God's—and England,
England shall keep it free.

THE STREET OF THE WHISPERING SHADOWS

By C. E. Van Loan.

I never knew his name, but the Chinatown loafers called him "Charlie the Chink." The tourist guides found a more picturesque name for him, pointing him out to their staring flocks as "the white Chinaman." At first Charlie was inclined to resent this, but when he found that it brought him a slender harvest of small silver pieces he courted rather than shunned the distinction. If he ever had any pride it was long years behind him, before the opium pipe claimed him body and soul.

Whatever he was, or may have been, opium was his downfall. His descent was rapid, and his end was certain. He must have had a wonderful physique to begin with, for he lasted years beyond the white men who began with him; and there were times when he recalled their names and boasted of the fact that he had seen most of them die. Charlie coughed his life out in a little tin shack at the end of Fish Alley. Before he died he told a remarkable story.

Somewhere in his opium-sodden brain there was an idea that his statement would clear up the mysterious disappearance of a white boy whom he knew as "Curly" or the "Kid."

"You can write it," he wheezed. "By the time it gets into print I'll be where I won't care."

This is his story, told as nearly as possible in his own words:

"What did that doctor say when he went out? Oh, don't lie about it. I ain't afraid. Yes, that's more like it. A week, eh? I don't know much about white doctors, but I guess this one knows his business. He said I could have as much hop as I could get. Yee Ching, that's the Chinese doctor, was in here the other day, and he told me I wouldn't see the lilies in bloom this New Year. They're budding now. And Yee Ching knows.

"There was something I wanted to tell you. Wait a minute and it will come to me. Oh, yes, about the Kid. You never knew him, did you? He might have been alive now if he hadn't been a born gambler. That's how he came to be down here in this part of town. That's how most of 'em start coming to a place like this. Some of us never get away—never want to, you might say.

"I'll tell it to you, and you can do anything that seems right, only don't go to the police with it. They wouldn't believe you. Do you remember when Kelly and some of the rest of his men found Wing Kee down at the end of Martin Alley, shot all to pieces? They arrested three Bow Tsoo tong men. If the police knew anything at all they'd know that there was no blood feud on now between the Bow Tsoos and the Sing Yicks, and Wing Kee was a Sing Yick man. A bad one. The police don't know anything about Chinatown—not the real inside, anyway. They never get the right man unless they stumble on a high-binder with a hot gun under his blouse.

"This Bow Tsoo business just goes to show how little the police know, and when I'm through you will know more than they will ever find out about the man who killed Wing Kee and why he did it. I'll tell it to you, if you think it's worth a couple of dollars to you.

"I never knew his name, but we always called him the Kid. That was because he was so young-looking, and so smooth and fresh and clean. He had brown eyes and his hair curled a little—19, or maybe 20.

"It was that four - five - six game that got him down here, and he never played anywhere but at Fong's. You could find him there every night. He was a sport. I've sen him win a couple of hundred dollars in a night—or maybe he'd lose as much—but he was always just the same, always smiling, always game. A Chinaman's a pretty good loser—he never says anything—but the Kid—well, I liked him. I guess we all did—all but Wing Kee.

"You don't know where Fong's place is, do you? Well, don't try to find out. It might not be healthy for you. There's a red string and a green string hanging out two holes in the door. The men who go there know the signal. There used to be a knock, but the police got on to it. Old Lem is on watch inside the door, and he never lets a man in unless he knows him.

"It was down at Fong's that the Kid first saw Little Mary. All Chinese women are called Mary. There's Google-Eye Mary, Bald Mary, Fat Mary, Big-Foot Mary, and a dozen more; but this one wasn't that kind at all. We never called her anything but Little Mary, and she grew up down in this part of the town. She was only about 16 and small for her age, and as pretty as a picture. Oh, I know what you mean! I tell you this one was different somehow. She was as nice a little thing as ever you saw, and just as good as she was pretty. They say Fong was her uncle, and it may have been true. He used to give her money to get into the game once in a while.

"Of course she gambled. All Chinese women gamble, and most of them are gamer than the men. I've seen 'em 'ace up' for a pile of silver dollars and laugh over it.

"All the old-timers around the joint knew Little Mary, and lots of them would never lay a bet against her money even when she was in hard luck. One of those men was Wing Kee, and if you knew him you'd wonder that there was that much sentiment in the man, for Wing Kee was bad.

"I remember the first time the Kid saw Little Mary. He was holding the dice and waiting for the bets, his hand over the bowl. Little Mary came tapping down the stairs, and worked her way through to the table. She laid down half a dollar. Then she looked up at him and smiled.

"'You shoot!' she said.

"The Kid laughed and nodded at her.

"'Shoot, boy,' she said. 'Shott!' And then she laughed again.

"The Kid picked up her money and tossed it into the pan with his own.

"'Not against your money,' says he. 'We're partners, see?'

"Then the Kid made seven passes and filled that pan with money. He divided it even with Little Mary, because he said she brought him good luck. Well, that was the beginning.

"Some of the other white men tried to have fun with the Kid about the girl. One night one of them went a little too far. Quick as a flash the Kid had the heavy bowl in both hands, ready to throw.

"'You're twice as big as I am,' he said, 'but another crack like that and I brain you!!'

"Then we knew the Kid was game and that he would fight. If that girl had been his own sister he couldn't have been any squarer with her. It was just a case of two children liking each other from the very start. All the talk they ever had was at that gambling-table—I am sure the boy never saw her anywhere else. He couldn't.

"It was that hound of a Wing that started all the trouble. He watched the Kid and Mary like a cat, and when she was smiling up at the boy there was a black devil in Wing's eyes. He was bad all through. Remember the hunchback they found stabbed to death in front of the joss-house? Wing did that. He got the credit for the Hop Lee shooting, and I wouldn't put it past him—Hop was shot in the back.

"Little Mary didn't like Wing—she seemed to be afraid of him. If it had been a case of buy. I think Wing would have gone broke to get that girl; but Fong wouldn't listen to that sort of thing. In his way, the old man was really fond of the girl. Wing was always edging in and trying to get between the Kid and the girl. Then he would make little side remarks to her in Chinese—good thing that the Kid didn't understand the language.

"One night Fong sent me upstairs to get him a bowl of bean-soup. There was a big game going, and he had been in the chair for several hours. I used to do little things like that for Fong because he was good to me, and many's the shell of hop he has staked me to.

"Upstairs the passageway was dark as a pocket, but there was one little oil-lamp at the other end. As I passed a doorway, leading into one of the rooms, I got a flash of a man with his arm raised. It was Wing. He dropped his arm to his side and laughed, and said he had been reaching for the electric light switch. I knew there wasn't any switch in that room, and so did he. He tomine spoke ...ETAOINII If I had been smart enough to put two and two together—but it didn't seem reasonable that Wing could be after another Tong man—right there in the house of his friend. No, he wouldn't do that. I took the soup down to Fong, and I didn't say anything. This part of town is an unhealthy place for a meddler. I've seen a lot of men die just because they couldn't mind their own business. And I didn't look into any doorways when I carried that soup down to Fong.

"Soon after that, Little Mary, who had been playing with the Kid as a partner, quit the game. The Kid was a big loser; he had his coat off and was talking to the dice. He never did that except they had him in the hole. As Little Mary passed me on the way to the stairs, she said in Chinese:

"'When the luck is bad it is time to sleep.'

"Her little shoes went clicking up the stairs, and then we heard them in the passageway; and just then—at that minute, when it was too late to do anything—it came to me that Wing was waiting for some on to come up from the cellar—waiting there in the dark—then, before I could move, the footsteps stopped, there came the sound of a scuffle, and then a scream—I hear it yet.

"I was first to reach the head of the stairs, and I was in time to see a man in a blouse run through the entry into the store. On the floor of the passageway there was a little heap. Somebody passed me, and when Lem brought the lamp the Kid was kneeling on the floor with his arms around Little Mary. I couldn't see where she had been hurt, but I knew when I saw her face that it was only a matter of minutes. The Kid looked up at me, and I shook my head. His face was as white as paper.

"She never spoke to him, but once she held up her hands as if feeling for his face. I think that she knew him before she went. The Kid kissed her hands and drew them around his neck, and that is the way Little Mary died. It was silent and decent and Christian, in a way, although nobody was thinking about that just then. There were other things to think about, and the boy on his knees in the dark—he knew what they were. But he never told.

"I waited in the street for some time. When the Kid came out he looked a thousand years old.

"Fong buried Little Mary in a place that no white man knows anything about. She had been stabbed twice—a heavy, two-bladed knife that cut like a razor. What could the police have done? Fong offered a reward for Wing's life—everybody knew that, but nobody knew where he had gone. Half a dozen Tong men were out to earn that blood-money.

"The Kid dropped out of sight also. He never went near Fong's place, and I thought he had gone away altogether. One night I was going home—early in the morning it was—and I saw a white man standing in a doorway—in the Street of the Shadows. It was the Kid, but he didn't speak or nod. Maybe he didn't know me.

"A month after Little Mary was killed some of us were down in Fong's cellar, and the game was running. It wasn't much of a game. It had never been the same place since what happened. We heard the street door close, and then the sound of a step along the passageway overhead. Fong knows the step of every man who comes to the place. I've heard him call them time after time, and I've often wondered how he did it. Fong raised his hand.

"'Who's there?' he asked.

"I could hear the men breathing all around the table; it was as if a chill had gone over the room. And before I saw his face I knew who it was. Yes, and Fong knew, too.

"The Kid came down the stairs and into the light, and we saw how changed he was. His cheeks were hollow and his face was gray, but his eyes were alive like the coals in a fire-pot. The worst was the smile that never touched him anywhere but on the lips. It was the grin of a man dead and damned.

"The Kid pulled his hand out of his coat-pocket and reached it out to Fong. There was a pistol in his fingers. Then he spoke.

"'Old man,' he said, 'I've saved you that blood-money. He's out there at the end of the alley.

"The Kid spun the cylinder and examined it carefully.

"'This is a good gun, Fong,' he said. 'It shoots six times. Five of these shells are empty—but that won't bring the little girl back, will it?'

"On the stairs he turned and looked back at us.

"'It took me a long time,' he said. 'I don't know when I've had a good night's rest, but I'm going to have one to-night. Good night, boys!'

"We heard him going up the passageway. He walked very slowly, and twice he stopped as if searching for something. The second time seemed an eternity. I can see it now; Fong stretched out over the table with one yellow, wrinkled hand resting on the edge of the bowl; the faces of the players, listening, listening!

"Then we knew why the Kid had saved the sixth cartridge.

"Fong buried him where he buried Little Mary. I don't know how he managed it: that's his business; and, anyhow, the Kid saved him the blood-money. Now, if you think you could use a story like that—of course you won't print it till after I'm gone. Who knows? I may see the Kid and Little Mary—somewhere—and they'll tell me all about it. Who knows?"

Eluded Germans Nine Months

[London Daily News.]

Belgian Frontier.—I have just met a party of six men, who, after being cut off from their regiment in Mons in the retreat last August, have for nine months eluded the Germans in Belgium and have at last crawled through the barbed wire into Holland. For five months they lived in dug-outs, actually in the midst of the German army. They passed the whole winter mostly underground, constantly hunted, and with little food.

For one month they lived in a hole in a field, with German farriers shoeing horses on the other side of the fence. On two occasions they were led through a screen of searching Germans by the scouting genius of one of their number, Pte. Jamieson. Their one desire is to reach France and get "their own back."

James Garringhan, one of the men, whose memory was aided at points by his comrade Jenkins, told me the history of their adventures.

A Plucky Old Woman.

"There were seven men with me," he said. "We were absolutely surrounded, but we managed to hide in a ditch, where we stayed all night. This was August 26. Next morning we found ourselves in a little paddock only two fields away from the Germans in the very middle of their lines. So we lay low all day. Then eight Frenchmen crawled up to us. We hid most of the time in orchards and lived on pears for ten days. By then we were a party of 21—eleven English and ten French.

"We were desperate for want of food, and we decided to make for a village and fight to the last man if we met any Germans. Twelve Germans caught two of our French comrades and bayoneted them without mercy. We made our way along a railway line through a forest into a village where we hid in a barn. A dear old woman, the best soul we ever met, brought us milk three times a day. Then the Germans reappeared. One day they discovered the woman washing our army shirts. For three days they threatened the woman and her two daughters, aged 16 and 19.

"Bless them, they never gave us away. But it got too hot for us. We took to the fields. The Germans searching for us were in a horseshoe shape round the village and closing in on us. Jamieson took command. He got us out under the noses of twelve Uhlans.

"We got into a field and stayed there for a month with the Germans shoeing horses in the next field and many more only six fields away. We dug a sort of trench alongside the fence to hide in. A farmer gave us civilian clothes, and we worked for him for three weeks under the noses of the Germans.

Divided Into Three.

"We had to clear again, so we divided into three parties. My little party of eight got into a field, where we made a dug-out. We lived in this for a month, stealing out at night to get food from people in the village close by. A Frenchman brought us a notice which had been stuck up by the Germans. This said that Englishmen were hiding in the district, and that if they did not give themselves up they would be shot when they were caught. We moved on again.

"This time we lived in a dug-out in a field for two months. It was terrible weather, raining nearly all the time. We had to keep bailing the place out nearly all night. We were pretty nearly starving. We decided to change quarters and live above ground. We made another trek and lived for nearly a month in a hut we built in a corner of a field. Then a Belgian guided us to a village."

What happened to the fugitives after this I must not disclose. It might implicate many good friends who helped them through Belgium and ultimately to escape across the frontier. They frequently travelled openly, passing German sentries and even using railways. They made three attempts to cross the frontier before succeeding. Jenkins bears the scratches on his face and rents in his clothes as the result of creeping through barbed wire into Holland. For the first six months the six daring fugitives wore their uniforms under civilian clothes.

Said Garrighan: "We were determined to stick to our khaki, and for a long time we had our rifles handy. We made up our minds that we would never be taken prisoners, but would die fighting. We had seen too much of their work to want to fall into their hands."

Bravest Are Conscious of Fear.

[Toronto Mail.]

"I am afraid of one thing—am afraid that I might be afraid!" The man who said these words was just off for the front, as gallant a fellow as could be found today under Sir John French's command. He is an amateur scientist of repute, whom the writer has seen pass through his hand an electric current powerful enough to stagger humanity, a man who has had all sorts of hair-breadth escapes on dark roads at night with a paralyzing car of his own remaking, and motorcycled on mountain tracks with both brakes out of order. An utterly fearless man, yet he fears, or did fear—for that stage is past—feared that he might be afraid under fire. Well, the man is typical of thousands at the front who are writing British military history in characters whose lustre will not fade.

Men are not cowards because they realize their danger; they are the greatest heroes in that they master their fear. A man afraid of fear will march breast forward to the foe, and he will sit unmoved in the dentist's chair while a villainous tooth is drawn. Our greatest warriors all experience emotion in battle. There is not a more daring man in the British army than Sir Ian Hamilton. He was enthusiastically recommended during the South African war both by Sir John French and Sir George White for the Victoria Cross for incomparable bravery in action, but was denied the distinction as being too high in rank for the honor. He has been in all the fighting of his time, and has been smashed up again and again by wounds, to come up smiling and indomitable as ever.

Every Man Feels It.

Yet Sir Ian once declared to friends at his club: "I have always been in a blue funk at the beginning of an action, and wondering how on earth I should get through, and I don't believe that the man has been born who felt much different." That may seem a casual smoke-room jest, but read what he has set down in his book on one of the thrilling pictures that he witnessed in the Manchurian war: "10:30 p.m.—I returned to Kanhuantun at 9, but have been on the roof of my house for the last half-hour. For at about a quarter to 10, just as the moon rose, the firing broke out again on Manjuyama even more furiously than at sunset. The mountains and the river bank and the house re-echo to the continuous angry, growling sound of musketry. The most bitter fighting is illuminating the slopes of the hillock, and I could see its shape outlined by innumerable little dazzling speks, showing the thousands of rounds which were being fired. . . . I feel very much afraid, and I wish I had someone by me to hold me by the hand." Yet we know that that man would lead a forlorn hope into the very mouths of the enemy's guns.

Think of the military heroes of our own time, and ask yourself who was the paragon of physical and moral valor. You will probably decide that Gen. Gordon was that man—Chinese Gordon, leader of the ever-victorious army, heroic defender of Khartoum. Had he no nerves, no qualms? One would say that he could not have had, this man who at the head of little forces of men charged armies numbering hundreds of thousands. Yet read what he wrote in his Khartoum diary, when he was gazing clear-eyed and unafraid at the death that he knew was coming: "During our blockade we have been discussing the question of being frightened, which, in the world's view, a man should never be. For my own part, I am always frightened, and very much so. I fear the future of all engagements. It is not the fear of death; that is past, thank God; but I fear defeat and its consequences. I do not believe a bit in the calm, unmoved man. I think it is only that he does not show it outwardly."

Yet this man, who confesses thus to fear, was found by Gen. Nicholson, fast asleep, with 50,000 pounds of gunpowder under him, with the lights about of the sappers who were about to lay and explode a mine.

French a Calm Soldier.

Does Gordon's calm, unmoved man exist? If such there be, Sir John French is that man. When the fighting was hottest during the terrible fighting retreat from Mons, he strode through our lines smoking a cigarette as brisk as a bee and with as mellow a hum. Our men noted the cigarette, they noted the demeanor of the smoker, and the two effects were as good to those hard-pressed warriors as a reinforcement of an army corps. That cigarette has already become historic. It matches Moltke's cigar at Konig-gratz. The frightful battle seemed to hang on the balance—nay, to Bismarck it seemed lost. He grew afraid, yet not so afraid as to betray his fear nor to lose command of his habitual cunning. He tested Moltke; pulled out his case, offered him a cigar, and closely watched him. The silent warrior critically examined, smelt, selected the best—and Bismarck knew that all was well.

There is an historic lemon, too, which served to stay the nerves of "Stonewall" Jackson on a very bloody field. His staff were falling on all sides around him. "Stonewall" sucked away at his lemon in silence, then, withdrawing the bitter fruit from his lips for a moment, said with a shudder of ecstacy: "Pleasant excitement, isn't it?" Sir John French adds his cigarette to a mutton chop, which has earned its shred of fame. During the Boer war, while he was sitting with officers of his staff at lunch, there came a scared and breathless galloper to report that Boer shells had begun to fall around the cavalry. French's answer was to call loudly for another chop!

But in that same field bad news came to a tent where were men of a different nerve calibre. Junior officers were at mess, when they were suddenly ordered to horse upon a hazardous ride. The men raised their glasses in haste to drink a toast to the success of their foray. One of their number turned deadly pale, and his hand shook so that his wine was spilt. He walked out of the tent with every nerve dancing. But the same nervous young officer, half an hour later, had gloriously won the Victoria Cross.

Bennet Burleigh's Daring.

They tell of a fine, fat old general in the French army who goes into the firing line with a camp stool and sits amidst the bullets smoking. "Eh bien, mes enfants," he will say if his men show signs of wavering. "I am very comfortable here; I do not wish to move." And they stay! Probably few people know it, but Bennet Burleigh the greatest war correspondent of our era, now unhappily no more, was another such a man as this. He saved a British army by his extraordinary coolness and infectious bravery. It was during the Soudan expedition when the fuzzy wuzzies broke our lines at Tamai. Our small force dropped unexpectedly into a nullah which proved to be simply crawling with Dervishes. They leaped up from everywhere. The British force was staggered, surprised, outnumbered. Suddenly a voice was heard, a cheery, confident voice: "Give it to them, boys! Hurrah! Now, my lads, give it to them. Hip, hip, hurrah!" It was Bennet Burleigh, fighting like a fiend, and chanting a battle anthem composed upon the spot, and by example, no less than by voice, putting new heart into our men. They caught up the cry, re-echoed it, and scattered the enemy which just previously had seemed destined to annihilate them. Rare Bennet Burleigh!

There was a youthful edition of Bennet Burleigh in the trenches the other week, the youngest of his company. When the others cowered after the death of their last officer, they took the command from their baby, as they called him, took the command to "Fix bayonets and charge." And there were two mad, delightful Irishmen who, each to test the other's valor, got up together and ran a hundred yards' sprint in full sight of the enemy, and under fire, returning unscathed to their trench, only sighing to repeat the wild adventure. Yet every one of such men has trembled at the first thunder of the guns and wished that the earth would open to admit them.

There are very many men who have this aching fear of being afraid. Counting the risks beforehand, he may some time add two and two and make the answer five. But he will end up, like his commander-in-chief, with his cigarette in the firing line, or by running a foot race between the enemy's trenches and his own.

Heart Culture Finest Education ---Religion and Arts Also Should Be Included

Mrs. Knox Black in Charming Address Advocates Love, Religion and Study of "the Best."

That education in the highest sense—cultural education—means, first of all, culture of the heart, true religion, a love of the beautiful in the fine arts, and a study of nature, was the theme of a most charming and inspiring address given before members of the Women's Canadian Club in the Normal School yesterday, by Mrs. Agnes Knox Black, professor of oratory in Boston University. In introducing the speaker, Mrs. Donald McLean, the president, stated the pleasure of the club in having Mrs. Knox Black address the members, and also how proud the women present were to know that the speaker was a Canadian.

Mrs. Black's subject was "Imagination in Cultural Education." First of all, however, she said, it was necessary to know what the term "cultural education" signified. The whole trend of education within the past 25 years has been toward specialization, or what is called research work, the speaker stated.

"Mr. Black is constantly fighting against this element in education. He believes that all education that has not a spiritual value is of no value. A great many of the themes which are submitted for examination, and from which students get a high degree, are just so much wasted effort in the great scheme of education.

Sweetness and Refinement.

"Cultural education means training the whole mind, body and soul of the man or woman. But it means more than that. Many people connect the term "cultural" with what is known as the "smart set." A great deal of my teaching is to bring students to a realization that sweetness and refinement—what we call real culture, is a thing that can be had in its most exquisite form in a log hut in a backwoods, or as Stevenson says, in "a frame house sweating in its newness on a Western prairie."

"Cultural education, like most of the other great things in life, is a stern battle of spiritual things against material things," continued Mrs. Black. We must realize that these material things are part and parcel of this cultural education, but it is the use we make of them and the value we set upon them that defines our position in regard to cultural education.

Heart Culture.

"Culture does not consist in wealth, or in having traveled. I have met people who have spent much time in Europe and visited the Oriental world, yet their talk was absolutely common and vulgar. The very first thing is clearly culture of the heart—that exquisite power of sympathy that makes itself felt in all the outward relations of life. There are people—excellent people—good people, who would bore me to death if I had to live with them. There are people whom I would bore to death. We need an exquisite realization that that man, or that woman has his or her place in life just as necessary as ours. I must realize that everybody is just as good as I am. I must speak to all people, in all countries, under all circumstances, and in all ways, with the same absolute realization that they are just as good as I am. You may call it democracy. But it is the basis of cultural education.

Religion Greatest Thing.

"Now, having formed your basis, what follows? People must be religious to have culture. So many people have got away from that. And we must remember that going to church is not religion. Carlyle struck it when he said "A man's religion is the greatest thing about him,' but religion isn't reciting creeds or attending services; it is his life. If I take money from a sweatshop, it does not matter a bit if I leave a million to a church. The day will come when that sort of thing will be laid bare." Many people of the present time loved to dabble with Oriental beliefs and strange philosophies, but Mrs. Black urged that for the highest, a belief in God and in Christ were necessary.

"Then I believe everybody should try to learn what they can of the fine arts—beautiful painting, music and literature. It is a time to get away from frivolous things during this awful war struggle which so many believe to be a fight between the God-spirit and the earth-spirit—an Armageddon. Of all the arts, perhaps music expresses best the longings and feeling of the human heart, but literature has the widest appeal of all." Mrs. Black urged the women present to read less fiction-of-the-hour, and study the world's masters more. Milton's "Paradise Lost" and Shakespeare's plays were especially mentioned. "If you cannot read "Paradise Lost'—find it too tedious—then you are in bad shape. You are a mental dyspeptic." A closer study of nature's beauties was also emphasized by the speaker as a necessary step to the finest in education.

As to the place of the imagination in cultural education, Mrs. Black explained how she endeavored in her teaching to develop the imagination of her students. She believed it was necessary to help them to a realization of the merging of this life into eternity. A study of symbolic writings helped greatly in this. To illustrate, Mrs. Black read, in her own inimitable way, a prose poem entitled "The Garden,' by May Preston Slosson.

Mrs. Black was tendered quite an ovation at the close of her address, the appreciation of the club being expressed capably by Mrs. McLean. The members present then adjourned upstairs for tea, where many availed themselves of the opportunity to meet Mrs. Black.

It is comforting to reflect that the quality of Salada Tea can never vary. Twenty-three years ago it was determined that, come what may, the quality of this famous tea must never fluctuate with market conditions. Now that the markets have risen beyond all records, the company, in order to support this rule is bound to advance the price of Salada to the consumer, but it is still the finest tea procurable.

MATRON OF HONOR NOT TO BE OUTSHONE BY BRIDE

The June bride may be the centre of the picture on her wedding day but the maids of honor and the matron of honor "lend enchantment to the view" with their pretty gowns and picturesque hats—and these gowns for the bride's attendants are receiving as much attention from dressmakers this season as the bridal gown itself.

I saw a stunning gown the other day—designed by Mme. Marguerite of the Fashion Art League of America—and it's to be worn at one of the late June weddings. Orchid satin is used in its development, and it's trimmed with crystals, a crystal decoration outlining the tunic which is shorter in the front than in the back. The waist is crystal-trimmed, and crystals trim the little tab at the back.

OLD SONGS and POEMS

ALLOW ME TO MOVE A VOTE OF THANKS.

(Sent by "Bill.")

Once there was held a big picnic,
—Allow me to move a vote of thanks.
Way down beside old Brandy Creek;
I did not go to that picnic,
And all who went returned home sick.
They walked about, a dreary set,
And stood upon the banks;
And then it rained and all got wet,
—Allow me to move a vote of thanks.

Chorus:
—Allow me to move a vote of thanks.
Then pass the thanks along this way;
They've stood the wear and tear,
Of many hundred years, they say,
And none the worse for wear.

One day the Scott act came in force
—Allow me to move a vote of thanks.
The anti-Scotts went dry, of course;
And now who happens to get hoarse
Must cure it from some other source.
So now they've built the waterworks
And put in water tanks.
The anti-Scotts don't like such quirks,
—Allow me to move a vote of thanks.

Once on a time a man once said:
Allow me to move a vote of thanks.
Another time that same man said:
That man went crazy in the head;
And I've heard since that he was dead.
They say when he was laid to rest,
Among the other cranks,
His ghost said at its level best,
"Allow me to move a vote of thanks."

I once was asked to entertain,
—Allow me to move a vote of thanks.
A great big crowd at Lunder's Lane.
I had to go there in the rain;
It kind of went against the grain.
I sang and made my banjo buzz,
And played them all my pranks;
And all I got for that trip was,
"Allow me to move a vote of thanks."

Repeat words "Allow me to move a vote of thanks" after each of the first four lines.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letter can be answered privately.]

Cigarette Flags on Hand.

"Genevieve Le Clare" has not yet sent me her address for the cigarette flags which "Soldier's Wife" mailed us some time ago. Would "Genevieve" let me know her address so I may forward her the flags?

"Bill's" Scrap Book.

Friend Cynthia,—You have been such a patient encyclopedia for The Advertiser readers you surely deserve a medal. I think everyone appreciates the page, and the good hints.

I am making a scrap book of all the recipes and various household hints. It may prove very useful some day.

Am sending the song "Middlesex Reader" asked for, but am sorry I did not see her first request.

Poor "Star!" I missed her letter, but can judge the contents by the replies. Her hopes are great, as are those of the rest of us "young hopefuls." May these poor abused married women profit by one another's woes! You did not get your husbands to tell us their disappointments. No doubt some of you had good reasons. There are always two sides to the story, and the men need lots of sympathy!

Best wishes for a happy summer, Miss Grey. Sincerely, BILL.

Ans.—Well, "Bill," judging by the latter part of your letter, one might indeed deem you a man, yet if you are, why in the name of all that's feminine, are you keeping a scrap book of household hints? Thanks for sending the song anyway. I am sure that "Middlesex Reader" will be very pleased, as she was so anxious to get it. —Same to you, "Bill."

Perhaps It Was a Man.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my first visit to your department, so I will try and be brief. I saw several hints about ants in your column, but as I did not have any then I did not pay much attention to it. Would it be too much trouble to publish some again? I am very much interested in the questions and answers you get and give. I hope they soon get "Star That Guides" settled. Who knows, perhaps it was a man wrote that just to get the women going, and won't he be laughing up his sleeve if it was, for they certainly have picked it to pieces. I wish there would be more hints about bread-making from some of those women instead of so much clash about their husbands. Hoping I have not taken up too much space. May I come again when I get a new pen?

BUSY HOUSEWIFE.

Ans.—Very glad you turned to the Mail Box for help, and hope you may get rid of the ants. A reader wrote us some time ago as follows:

"About six years ago my pantry and kitchen were just alive with those large, black ants. They would get into everything. I tried three or four different things, but did not do any good. At last I took camphor gum and broke it up in small pieces and put it all around on the shelves, and on the floor, any place where they were. I did that one day, and the next day they had all disappeared, and they have never come back."

Another method which I know to be effective is this: "Remove all food from the shelves for a time and scald them thoroughly with hot water containing a teaspoon of carbolic to every quart of water. When the shelves are dry place a saucer containing carbolic and water inside the cupboard. The ants will not bother you much more for a while at least. If you can find where they gain entrance to the house it might be well to place a saucer of the carbolic and water there, or else a sponge well saturated.

If, as you suggest, more hints about breadmaking are sent in, I shall be glad to publish.

Yes, by all means, or even before if you need some help sooner!

Betty's Buffalo Moths.

Dear Miss Grey,—Hoping this finds you fully recovered to health again. I am sure all the readers of your column say the same, for they surely have missed your help so kindly given and so freely in our interests. I am coming again to you to answer some more questions for me, hoping to see them in print soon.

1. Can you or any of your readers tell me how to get permanently rid of the buffalo moth? In taking up my spare-bedroom carpet I found them around the edges, and had riddled the carpet where it was turned under badly. I have tried several things to get rid of them, but still find them there.

2. My neck seems so scraggy and thin, and such a hollow in front. Can you tell me what to do to fill it out, and so look plump?

3. Can you give me a good recipe how to can pineapple alone, also pineapple and rhubarb together?

Will close with a recipe or two—one is for caramel pie and is delicious, and the other graham gems.

BETTY CARR.

Ans.—Thank you, Betty Carr, for your kind remarks; they are appreciated, I assure you.

1. No doubt readers will be glad to contribute help for destroying these pests. Benzine and gasoline are considered the most effective means, I think, and persevering vigilance is necessary to destroy young moths as they appear. June, July and August are considered the worst time for this moth. Would advise you to keep the carpet up for a month, and to daily apply gasoline around the edges of the floor, and in any crevices under the baseboard. Would also be well to apply it to the carpet itself in order to kill any eggs. One housewife went all around the edges of her carpet pressing with a hot iron and wet cloths, the steam thus raised was most effective.

2. It is pretty difficult to obtain a plump neck when one is not naturally gifted with one. However, massage and deep breathing are the remedies. Beauty specialists, advocating deep breathing, never fail to point out the fine throats possessed by most singers. Patting in skin food every night after bathing, is considered good, too. As to exercise, a good developing exercise for the neck is to let the head lie back as far as possible on the shouledrs, then roll slowly from one shoulder to the other. Some day soon I shall print a list of massage directions given by a very famous "beauty" doctor.

3.—Pineapple and Rhubarb: Cut the pineapple into thick slices, remove husk and eyes, and cut into small pieces. Place in kettle over night with half a bowlful of granulated sugar to one of fruit. In the morning place over the fire to boil until clear; have the rhubarb ready and cut into tiny pieces, add this to the pineapple, boil a few minutes longer, then seal into jars. The proportions of pineapple and rhubarb may be as desired. Four pounds of rhubarb to one good-sized pine is an average proportion.

To can pineapple alone, follow same method, only allow but one-third bowlful granulated sugar to one of pineapple. Some prefer to cook the pineapple until clear, in plain water (without having it stand overnight), then make a boiling syrup, add the fruit, and cook for ten or fifteen minutes before pouring into jars.

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE.

Daughters of the Empire, arise! arise!
Your country now is looking unto you
To arouse with words of inspiration,
Husbands, sons, and brothers of our nation.
Be they high or lowly in their station,
To go forth with brave hearts to "dare and do!"

CHORUS—
Daughters of the Empire, arise! arise!
And show the world that we are patriots, too.
With banner raised on high, this be our cry:
Daughters of the Empire, arise! arise

Daughters of the Empire, arise! arise!
The Empire needs the help that you can give;
Uphold her honor and the British flag,
Stand up for her, through good report or bad,
Cheer on our gallant boys in khaki clad,
To die, if need be, or for her to live!

Daughters of the Empire, arise! arise!
God is our leader, unto Him we pray,
To guard our King, and guide our Empire dear,
And through the strife of nations safely steer
Into the port of peace, with naught to fear,
And hearts attuned to greet "the perfect day."

BAND CONCERT FOR SURGICAL SUPPLIES

I. O. D. E. Working Hard to Make It a Success—Field Kitchen Committee Appointed—Four and a Half Tons of Jam Sent Overseas.

Members of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, in London are very enthusiastic about the sacred band concert to be held in aid of Soldiers' Comforts on Sunday evening in Victoria Park. The Marconi band will render selections, patriotic and sacred, and the program opens at 8:45, not interfering in any way with the church services. A number of ladies present reported that their husbands would act as gatekeepers for the occasion. The acting regent, Mrs. Whitwam, and the regents of the primary chapters formed a committee to complete arrangements. The members feel that in view of the tremendous need for surgical and hospital supplies in overseas hospitals, and as contributions large and small will be gladly received, it is an opportunity for citizens to lend aid. All the money taken at the gates will be devoted for the purchase of hospital supplies, such as bandages, dressings, towels, sponges, sheets, etc.

Great Need.

An idea of the great need existing since the terrible battle of Langemarck is apparent from the following excerpt from a letter received in London from a member of the staff of No. 3 Stationary Hospital stationed at Moore Barracks, Shorncliffe camp: "We came here May 4th, and since that time we have been worked night and day preparing the permanent barracks here for the reception of patients who started arriving May 7th, before we were half ready. We now have some 250 on hand and more coming daily, but, though we have rooms for 1,000, are running out of beds, blankets and pillows. The supplies we brought from the London I. O. D. E. are splendid and have helped wonderfully. The surgical supplies were especially appreciated."

Field Kitchen Not Decided.

In regard to the field kitchen for the 33rd Battalion, a subject which was broached at a meeting of the Lord Robert's Chapter on Monday, Mrs. Whitwam read a letter received from Col. Wigle in which he spoke enthusiastically of the kitchen which had been supplied to the 18th Battalion. It was most convenient and adaptable, he wrote, and he had seen none to equal that "made-in-London." Upon motion of Mrs. Burke, seconded by Mrs. Hunt, it was decided that a committee be formed to interview the commanding officer of the 33rd today to ascertain official information regarding the need of a kitchen and of its being acceptable to the battalion. The following were appointed: Acting Regent Mrs. Whitwam, Mrs. T. H. Smallman, Mrs. W. A. McCrimmon, Mrs. Ernest Smith and the secretary.

Four and a Half Tons of Jam.

The "jam shower" convener's report was given, showing a splendid result of four and a half tons, or 9,000 pounds, of jam, marmalade, jelly and plum cake sent overseas last week. Eleven dollars in cash remains in the fund after all expenses were paid. A warm vote of thanks was passed the convener, Mrs. A. A. Campbell, and the committee in charge and also to all who had so generously contributed.

Miss Priddis, president of the Abigail Becker Club, appealed to the members to take up the work of sending dried apples to men at the front and needy Belgians or Serviars. Eleven barrels had been sent last fall, she reported, by the Abigail Becker Club, and if the I. O. D. E. would take the matter up, splendid results should be insured. As this was a special meeting of the order, however, no action could be taken. At the close of the meeting two members of the Lord Roberts Chapter, Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Edge, served tea. They were assisted by Mrs. Puddicombe, Mrs. Charlie Hune and Mrs. Frank McCormick.

Members of the Sir John Carling Chapter are hoping for a fine afternoon on Saturday, when from 3 to 6 a garden party in aid of soldiers' comforts will be held on the grounds of Dr. and Mrs. Robinson, at the asylum. Home-made candies and ice cream will be sold by members of the chapter, and tennis tournaments are being arranged for. Members of the order in London and any interested in patriotic work are invited to attend.

The work that the Princess Patricia Chapter has been doing for Stationary Hospital No. 3 will be displayed in the window of Strong's Drug Store on Friday and should form a most interesting exhibit. Owing to the letter received by a member of the chapter from an officer of the stationary hospital presenting the needs there, special efforts will be made to gather a large number of surgical and hospital supplies. Citizens may help by purchasing at any of the down-town drug stores, bandages, which will be turned over to the Princess Patricia Chapter by the drug stores making the sales.

Stand Correctly and Breathe Deeply and You Will Avoid Many Ills

POSITION IS EVERYTHING.

The position in which a person stands has a great deal more to do with health than most people realize. Stand correctly and you are in a fair way to escape many of the minor ills which afflict daily life, such as fatigue, indigestion, headache, constipation and nervous disorders

Keep Well

Persist in standing incorrectly and life, so far as general health is concerned, is apt to prove pretty much a burden.

The correct poise of the body is shown in Figure 1. The head is held erect and the shoulders fall into the proper position because the chest is thrust out. This also leaves the lungs with plenty of room to do their work properly and the abdomen is held in.

Fig. 1—The Right Way to Stand.

With the spine held straight the weight of the body falls on the heels as it should. The arms hang gracefully at the side and the knees are straight.

The wrong way and the common way of standing is shown in figure 2. Because the shoulders are allowed to sag forward, the persons look years older than they should. This caves in the chest and prevents the lungs from getting their full volume of fresh air. The abdomen is too prominent and the organs in the pelvic cavity are cramped and thrown out of kilter. Because the spine is doubled over it cannot support the back as it should.

Fig. 2—The Wrong Way to Stand.

The head is allowed to drop forward and the appearance indicates the ill-health and dejection the person must feel.

Sometime when at a concert, notice how erect the singers stand, and how easily and graceful. This is because as vocal pupils they had to learn to stand with the proper poise, otherwise they could not breathe properly, and consequently could not learn to sing.

In all things throughout the world, the men who look for the crooked will see the crooked, and the men who look for the straight will see the straight.—John Ruskin.

Do not pray for easy lives; pray to be stronger men.

Let us live for God and humanity; then eternal realities will loom up, vast and grand, and the petty playthings of society and worldly business and pleasure will only occupy their proper place.

THE BACKYARD GARDEN

Technical Terms Simplified

[By Prof. Spade.]

Any person who takes up backyard gardening undoubtedly will do much reading about it or come in contact with many technical terms in discussions with other gardeners. There are a few terms whose meanings are not readily suggested by their names.

Hybrid is one of them. A hybrid plant is the offspring of plants of different species. In the first instance it is an artificial existence, and is formed by crossing the varieties. Many of the new roses are hybrids, obtained by mating the species to obtain the best characteristics of each.

Plants according to their manner of growth are said to be herbaceous, deciduous or evergreen.

Herbaceous plants have but a small amount of hard woody fibre; they have an annual stem on a perennial root, and this stem dies at the approach of winter.

Deciduous means a falling off, and is applied to plants which lose their leaves during winter.

Evergreen is that group of plants which hold their leaves during winter.

Mulch is a word used for the protection of plants from freezing in winter and the hot sun in summer. Leaves, evergreen boughs, manure, straw or any coarse material serve this purpose for winter.

Earth mulch is created by cultivation, by raking or hoeing the surface soil to help the soil retain its moisture for plant food under the hot sun of summer.

Loam means a soft or mellow, rich soil that contains humus or vegetable mold, and does not bake. Clay loam means that the soil has a basis of clay. It is formed from hard clay soil by the addition of much manure and plowing. Sandy loam is formed from sandy soils by the addition of the same humus.

Friable loam is soil that crumbles or pulverizes easily.

Fertilizers are any substance that promotes plant growth. The term is often used interchangeably with plant food or manure.

SENATORS WON IN TENTH AFTER LONDON TOOK LEAD

"Cuz" Hammond Loses Pitching Battle After It Looked Safe for London—Whitcraft Plays a Star Game—Smykal's Hit Wins It.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TTAWA, June 2.—Ottawa secured an even break on the series with London today snatching the decision in a sensational ten-inning fracas that was crowded with thrills, 5 to 4. Pitcher "Cuz" Hammond suffered his second defeat of the season after a battle with Sam Ross, the Chattanooga southpaw. Both twirlers displayed good form and, while there were plenty of hits, outside of one or two innings they were fairly well scattered. Ross fanned ten London batters, while Hammond went through the afternoon without issuing a base on balls.

Ottawa tied the score in the seventh and from then till the extra frame neither side came close to scoring. In London's tenth Whitcraft drove a hard one at Ross which the pitcher deflected. Fuller scooped it up and threw the ball low to Rooney, the ball going to the score board, and Whitty romped to second. Schaffer's out at first sent him to third, then Lamy dumped down a perfect bunt and squeezed him over.

How Ottawa Did It.

This run looked as big as the Chateau Laurier, with Hammond going so well. In Ottawa's half, Frankie Fuller opened with a slashing single through second. Bullock laid down a bunt, on which Hammond fell down attempting to field, and all hands were safe. Rooney dumped one down the first base line, and Hoch made a perfect play, fielding the ball to third, but Schaffer failed to cover in time, and Fuller slid in safe, filling the bases, with none out. Powers forced Fuller at the plate, Schaffer to Danford. Shag, however, raised a long fly to Reidy, on which Bullock rambled home, tieing the score. Smykal then hit to deep centre, a wallop that would have easily been good for two bases, bringing Rooney in from second with the winning run.

Whitcraft Triples.

The battle was a see-saw throughout. Each side broke in with a run in the inaugural. London's counter coming from Whitcraft's triple to centre, with one out, and Schaffer's single. Lamy followed with a safe one, but Fuller started a fast double-play that retired the side.

Fuller opened Ottawa's first with a clean drive to centre, stole second, and counted on Bullock's safety to right. The champions leaped in front in their fourth, when Powers singled with one out, and went to second on Shag's smash to right. Whitcraft got balled up on Smykal's drive, and Powers scored on Kubat's single. Lage hit to Hammond, who forced Shaughnessy at the plate, and Danford doubled Lage at first.

London Goes Ahead.

London tied it up and went ahead in the fifth on two hits and a sacrifice fly. Myers opened with a single back of second, and went to second on a passed ball. Whitcraft hit to left, and Powers' heave to the plate got away from Ross and Lage, Myers scoring and Whitcraft going to third, where he counted on Schaffer's fly to Kubat.

Ottawa chose the lucky seventh in which to tie it up. Artie Lage, who has been hitting in tough luck of late, started it with a three-bagger to centre, after one was out. He counted on Ross' Texas leaguer back of short.

Whitcraft Stars.

The climax, as described above, was highly exciting. Whitcraft, who has played a good game at short throughout the series, again showed to the front, handling five hard chances with one slip. He scored three of London's total and secured two blows. One of the star plays of the day came in the third, when Fuller ran back of second and cut off Myers' drive, getting his man at first. Frank Smykal had a big day at second.

Strong on Double-Plays.

The Senators again contributed a pair of double-killings, making eight in all they have pulled against London in this series. Powers was Ottawa's big clubber, with three safe ones in five. A shoestring catch by Shaughnessy off Lamy's fly in the fifth was one of the bright features of the contest.

BROOKLYN WON A PAIR

Defeated Phillies Twice—St. Louis Beat Cardinals in Close Game.

BOSTON, June 2. — New York and Boston played ten innings to a 5 to 5 tie in shivering weather today. The game was called because of darkness. Six New York runners actually crossed the home plate, but one run was lost in an unusual manner. Burns, from third base, had raced for home when Moran caught Doyle's fly. The Boston outfielder threw the ball toward the home plate, but Capt. Doyle, of the Giants, intercepted it at first base. It was his contention that the ball was too late to catch Burns at home. The umpires ruled that his interference retired the base-runner, and the score was lost.

Stewards at Dorval Track Had Busy Time Yesterday.

FOUR FAVORITES IN FRONT

Jockey Acton Suspended for Cutting in Front of His Field Causing Spill.

MONTREAL, June 2.—Suspended for the remaining days of the Dorval race meeting, with a recommendation to the Canadian Racing Association to increase the suspension, was the punishment meted out to Jockey Acton for his rough riding in the third race today, when he cut across his field, causing Filly Delphia to go down, injuring his rider. To add to the busy session of the stewards, three owners were fined $25 each for the inconsistent changing of the equipment on their horses. In the first race, Trainer William Martin was fined for sending Mimico to the post with blinkers, without asking permission to do so. In the fourth race, Trainer Casey was fined for sending Beaumont Belle to the post without blinkers, without obtaining permission to take them off. In the second race, T. Maguire was fined for the same offence.

Schuttinger, who had the mount on Gerard in the fourth race, was censured for his weak effort. He allowed the horse to drop out of the running in the stretch, after being in a contending position.

Four of the seven choices finished in front. The track was in splendid condition.

LEACH CROSS OUTFOUGHT EX-CHAMP AD WOLGAST

NEW YORK, June 2.—Leach Cross, of New York, outfought Ad Wolgast, former world's champion lightweight, in a ten-round bout here tonight. Cross had a decided advantage in every round but the fourth when Wolgast showed a little of his old time form and used a left to the body effectively. Cross weighed 136 and Wolgast 137 pounds.

RAIN PREVENTS BOWLERS HOLDING MATINEE GAMES

Rain yesterday afternoon prevented the regular Wednesday afternoon matches at the three local bowling clubs. The rain fell heavily in the afternoon and the greens were too wet for play. The events were postponed until next Wednesday.

JIMMY ARCHER IS BACK IN THE GAME FOR THE CUBS WITH ALL HIS OLD-TIME SPEED

JIMMY ARCHER, of the Chicago Cubs, called by most experts the greatest catcher in the game, is back after being out all spring with an injured foot, and is shooting 'em down to second with the old-time speed.

PIE FOR PIEH.

Cy Pieh was pitching for New York and the Chicago crowd was having fun with his name.

"Mince is pitching," yelled one joker.

"Lemon Pieh," howled a bleacherite.

"He's our huckleberry," shouted a third.

Pieh stopped to object to a decision on a ball.

"He's cussed hard," howled a punster.

"Awful crust he has, trying to beat the Sox."

"Don't mince matters," screamed another.

"Three strikes," howled the umps.

"Got his desserts," yelled a New York fan, and the horror was over.

ST. THOMAS BEAT OTTAWA IN MORNING CONTEST, 7-3

Ottawa, June 3.—St. Thomas made its first appearance here this season by trimming the Senators this morning by the score of 11 to 6. Howick pitched good ball for the visitors, and was never in danger. Peterson was clouted hard by the Saints, and was given poor support. The score:

Ottawa .....0 1 0 1 1 0 0 0 0—3 6 4

Major Leagues Are Knocking The Dope Silly This Season

Weak Clubs Are Up Near Top, While Strong Ones Are Just Getting Started—Detroit and Chicago Look Good in American.

The major league baseball season is a long time getting settled. The dope is turning flip-flops, batters who never could hit are way up, teams that are notoriously weak at bat are near the top, strong base running teams are far down the list, weak fielding teams are among the leaders in fielding.

There is Pat Moran's Phillies, who have been leading practically all year, last in fielding, and next to last in batting and base running; which shows pretty conclusively that pitching alone has kept them up in the race.

The Chicago White Sox, the alleged "hitless wonders." second in batting, and Washington, which we feared lacked the fielding steadiness to win, leading the American League in fielding, and the Yankees, who looked good in fielding, in base running and in pitching, hitting within a few points of the alleged slugging clubs, and the Athletics, supposed to be crippled in batting strength, ranking third.

Imagine Pittsburg's Federals leading their league in fielding! And the Orioles, down in last place and still third in batting strength!

From the dope of the first month and a half of the season it is evident there are going to be some startling changes in the standing of the clubs if the weather ever settles down to business. The clubs are not going on form as yet. Chicago's Cubs have surprised themselves. The team is hitting some 15 points above its real gait, and the pitchers are going stronger than they will later.

New York is just starting, and is showing a lot of improvement, which ought to continue when the cripples get back into the line-up.

The Boston Braves have suffered a lot through the absence of Evers. With Evers there the team probably would even now be out in front.

In the American League Detroit's bid seems to be real. The team is playing a lot of baseball, and getting fair pitching. While the White Sox now are regarded as the Boston Red Sox's most dangerous competitor, the Chicago bunch has been winning on wonderful pitching rather than on good ball playing, and if this continues Detroit's hitting power will tell.

The Red Sox are awakening to the fact that they will have to hustle to get by with the pennant. The team has been very slow getting going and all has not been harmonious. Gardner's illness has been a heavy handicap.

The Yankees have kept hustling, but have revealed weak spots in fielding, and evidently still lack the hitting punch to carry them to the top.

"Red" Aitcheson Leaves London For Queen City

Popular Manager of Local Lacrosse Club Is Transferred by Firm He Works For.

Local lacrosse and other sport circles will learn with regret the announcement that Manager Dave Aitcheson, of the lacrosse club, leaves London today for Toronto, where he has been transferred by the Excelsior Life Company. No more popular lacrosse player or official ever participated in the game in this city, and his departure will be a distinct loss to London. "Red," as he is familiarly called by those closely acquainted with him, has played on the London lacrosse team for the past two seasons, and has been one of the stars. His home is in Weston, Ont. This season he was appointed manager of the team and was whipping the players into shape when he received word of his transfer. Much of the success of the game here has been due to him.

Last winter, "Red" was elected treasurer of the Western University Hockey Club, and he took an active interest in the game. He is an ardent fan and a lover of clean sport. He has a host of friends in this city who, while regretting his departure, wish him the success that is bound to be his in his new position in Toronto. His place in local lacrosse circles will be hard to fill.

RAIN AT BRANTFORD.

BRANTFORD, June 2.—After waiting for the weather to clear up today the Brantford game was postponed and a double header will be played next time. Hamilton visits the Agricultural Park, which is in July.

Prexy Fitzgerald Did Not See Game Because of Rain

Canadian League Head Went to St. Thomas, But Teams Could Not Play.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. THOMAS, June 2.—Rain prevented the first Wednesday half holiday game, which was scheduled at Pinafore Park, this afternoon, with Knotty Lee's Guelph club. President Fitzgerald came down from Toronto to witness the contest. He returned at 4:30 p.m. The league president stated that while the weather had interfered with the attendance at the games considerably, he believed the Canadian League was in a better position than any of the other minor leagues. He was enthusiastic over the first two weeks' business all over the circuit, considering the cold and wet weather. It was the general opinion that when the various teams got into condition a faster brand of ball would be furnished the patrons than had yet been witnessed in the begin.

SEAFORTH TOURNEY POSTPONED.

SEAFORTH, June 2.—The Seaforth bowling tournament has been postponed from July 1st and 2nd to the 7th and 8th July on account of the Seaforth race meeting.

Newark must be one of the strangest places in the world. They have laid out a baseball field where the sun does not interfere with any fielder. We judged that the Federal League has taken control of the sun and regulates it to fit ball fields.

London Club Returns Today After Week's Trip On Road

Team Wins 3 Out of 8 Games While Away — An Even Break at Ottawa—Pitching Staff Needs Strengthening — "Doc" May Work Today.

(BY BERT PERRY.)

Manager "Doc" Reisling and the London Canadian League Club arrive back from Ottawa today and engage Knotty Lee's Guelph Leafs this afternoon at Tecumseh Park in the first game of a four-game series. The Tecumsehs have been on the road a week, and only for the crippled condition of the pitching staff, would have got more than an even break in the games played. As it was, the team won three out of eight games, three straight defeats at Guelph being the hardest blow. In Ottawa, the hardest city in the league to win in, the locals got an even break in four games. Two of these were extra inning contests and two were decided by 2 to 1 scores. The team has been hitting well, and with the next seven games on the home lot, should be up at the top within a few days. The Guelph team will play here until the end of the week, the series winding up on Saturday with a double-header.

Fans Will Meet Two New Ones.

Two new players will arrive with the team today, in Dillinger and Tharre. Both appeared in games at Ottawa. Dillinger getting off to a fine start. It is likely they will both appear in games during the Guelph series here.

May Get New Twirler.

Reisling is not yet satisfied with his team, and it is likely the pitching staff will be further strengthened. La Bate and Morgan have not shown anything in recent games, and one or both of them may be released shortly. In the field, the team is playing nice ball. The outfield is as strong as any in the league, if not the strongest, and the infield is hard to improve on. Hoch is playing a strong game on the initial corner and appears to have cinched the job. His hitting is also good.

Cut Down on June 10.

The Canadian League clubs have until June 10 to cut down, and it is likely that the London club will carry a couple of extra men until then. At present, Reisling is carrying three catchers and four pitchers. "Doc" will take a regular turn in the box himself and may work in today's game against Guelph.

London's Two Best Pitchers Are Laid Up With Bad Arms

Hammond and Dillinger May Not Be Able To Pitch For Several Days.

London's two best pitchers are nursing sore arms at present. Hammond, who has been worked hard since the season opened, has a bad arm, and may not pitch again for several days. Dillinger is also laid up with a bad wing. He had not pitched for over a week until London worked him at Ottawa on Tuesday, and as a consequence is stiffened up. A couple of boils on his arm are not helping to alleviate the soreness any, either.

Labate, Morgan and Reisling are practically the only twirlers who are in working condition. One of them will pitch today.

According to the players, the game in Ottawa yesterday should never have gone ten innings. London appeared to have it sewed up several times, but the hardest kind of luck robbed them of it.

TY COBB CAUSED CHICAGO'S DEFEAT

Got Joe Benz Up in the Air in Seventh.

BROWNS BEAT INDIANS

Boston Red Sox Made It Two Straight Over Donovan's Yankees.

CHICAGO, June 2. — Tyrus Cobb was responsible for Chicago's defeat today in the second game of the series, Detroit winning over Chicago 4 to 1. Benz pitched a good game until the seventh, when Cobb singled. He worried Benz until the latter became unsteady, and Crawford, Kavanaugh and Young bunched hits, forcing Benz to retire. Score:

WARHOP AND PIEH EASY FOR CARRIGAN'S BATTERS

EARL HAMILTON SHOWED FORM AGAINST INDIANS

CLEVELAND, June 2. — With Hamilton pitching brilliantly, St. Louis defeated Cleveland 4 to 0 today, the game being stopped by rain at the start of the seventh inning. Score:

ENGLAND MAY LIFT RACING EMBARGO

Many Protests Being Made Against Decisoin of Government To Abandon All Meetings.

London, June 3.—The first Wednesday in June has been devoted for generations to London's racing carnival, the Derby at Epsom, and its omission this year brought home to the citizens of the British capital with peculiar emphasis the serious crisis through which the nation is passing. Derby Day has been the most popular sporting event of the year. The race was witnessed by the late King Edward every year from 1863 until 1909, except when he was kept away by mourning.

The decision of the Government to abandon all race meetings during the war, except that at Newmarket, does not meet by any means with universal approval. Quite apart from persons interested in racing, because it is their occupation or means of livelihood, large numbers are of opinion that such a drastic closing down of race meetings not only is needless, but inimical to horse-breeding. They point to the fact that racing is going on as usual in Germany, and contend that its prohibition in England probably will be regarded by her enemies as a signal of weakness and nervousness.

Considers Protests.

Great pressure has been brought to bear on the Jockey Club to obtain some amelioration of present conditions in the interest of the large number of persons dependent upon the turf for their livelihood. The Jockey Club held a meeting yesterday afternoon at Derby House to consider the situation. Those present included Lords Derby, Lonsdale and Durham. The session was executive, but some announcement of what was decided upon is expected today. According to unofficial reports, however, the Stewards' Club decided to maintain the present embargo.

There is strong sentiment in favor of at least transferring the Derby, which has been run without intermission every year since 1780, together with the Oaks and Home Ascot races, to Newmarket. Should the Jockey Club's decision be adverse to such a step, the agitation, it is expected, will be continued.

Point To Allies.

A meeting of protest called by the National Sporting League, held in a Holborn restaurant last night, was presided over by Horatio W. Bottomley, widely known as an owner of race horses. Resolutions were adopted deprecating the Government's prohibition and urging reconsideration. Speakers denounced the Jockey Club for yielding to governmental pressure, and pointed out that both Germany and Russia are continued racing, while France and Belgium have given special permission for French and Belgian horses to come over for the English races.

McCaffery Put One Over On Sammy By Calling Game Off

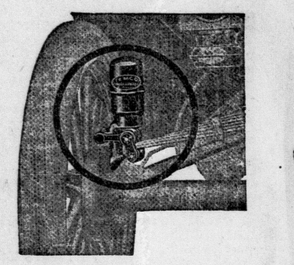

Toronto Magnate Calls Off Game Despite Objection of Montreal Owner.

TORONTO, June 2. — President McCaffery, of the Toronto club, has won another argument against Sammy Lichenstein, Montreal's stormy petrel of the baseball world. When the Leaf leader decided some time ago that Toronto fans would welcome an opportunity to see the world's champions at work, he naturally thought that the owner of the Royals would fall in with his plans.

It is customary around the circuit for visiting clubs to make certain concessions when exhibition games are planned, but Sammy is different. He demanded his share of the gate, and President McCaffery immediately called the regular scheduled game off.

Mr. Lichenstein at once appealed to President Barrow, and this morning the head of the International League notified the Montreal man that the Toronto club was well within its rights in postponing the league fixture.

We hope the crop of June brides make good in greater proportion than did the March baseball recruits.

KINGSTON PASTOR NEW MODERATOR

Dr. McGillivray Unanimously Elected by General Assembly—Union Big Issue.

KINGSTON, June 2.—At the meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, which convened for the fourth time in Kingston tonight, Rev. Dr. Malcolm MacGillivray, of Chalmers Church, Kingston, was unanimously elected moderator. Four other names were presented, namely, Rev. Dr. John Neil, Toronto; Rev. Dr. D. D. McLeod, Barrie, Professor Baird, of Winnipeg, and Rev. Dr. John Scrimger, Montreal.

In his sermon Rev. Dr. Herridge, the retiring moderator, elicited several outbreaks of applause, notably when, referring to the war, he said: "We must drive into oblivion these who prosper upon the wrongs of others. We can't all serve in the trenches, but we can all serve in the ranks of national truth and honesty," and also referring to the drink problem, he said: "We do not believe that prohibition will bring the millenium, but what Russia has done with her vodka, what France has done with absinthe, surely we can do with the saloons."

Fight Over Union.

There is likely to be a hard fight over the question of church union, the unionists declaring that they are going to fight the attacks of the minority to the end. So far the committee has not decided on the form of resolutions to be presented to the assembly. There will be no compromise. The question is expected to come up this week.

The report on finances which was presented tonight stated that while some congregations had reached, and in some cases exceeded, their increased allocations for 1915, the average rate of giving was lower than it should be. The board recommended that a budget of $1,500,000 be accepted for next year. The total receipts for 1914 are $887,678, as compared with $879,572 the previous year. The deficiency on the budget of 1915 is $612,322.

POUR OIL ON WOMAN AND SET CLOTHES AFIRE

ST. EYACINTHE, Que., June 2. — Mrs. Coderre died last night in St. Denis hospital from burns she claimed in an ante mortem statement were caused by two masked men pouring kerosene over her clothes and lighting them.

Mrs. Coderre resides near St. Denis, and was seen by two farmers running through the fields with her clothes ablaze. They took her to the hospital where she stated that people residing near her had threatened to take her life. After the masked men had ignited the kerosene they made off and when found, Mrs. Coderre said she was making for a brook.

Dr. J. A. Viger, coroner of this district, will hold an inquest.

TUG AND SANDSUCKER SEIZED OFF BRIDGEBURG

BRIDGEBURG, June 2.—Custom officials here have seized the tug Major Symonds and sandsucker Pennsylvania, owned by the Niagara Sand Corporation of Buffalo. The sandsucker was loading sand opposite Strawberry Island on the Canadian side of the Niagara River and the tug was standing by. The boats were taken to this port and the crews allowed to go. The craft are valued at $50,000.

The seizure was made under a Canadian war regulation providing that foreign-owned boats shall report to custom officials when they arrive in Canadian waters. The penalty for violation is seizure and confiscation. Collector of customs, James Lawson, will hold a hearing on the case later.

Doctor Said Only Hope Was in an Operation

Was Skeptical When He Began the Use of Dr. Chase's Ointment —Relief Came Quickly.

Here is a plain, honest statement in regard to Dr. Chase's Ointment. Between the lines of this letter you can read the gratitude which its writer feels. One does not suffer from annoying, distressing piles for ten years without appreciating a cure when it is obtained.

Almost every mail brings the report of someone who has been cured of piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Such statements are never used without the permission of the writer, and until we are satisfied that the cure is genuine and the writer a person of responsibility.

You may believe in operations for piles, and think there is no other cure. Write to Mr. Ingles, inclosing stamp, and he will gladly verify his statement. He will tell you that the pain, the expense, the risk of an operation are quite unnecessary. That relief and cure come with the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Ernest W. Ingles, Penticton, B. C., writes: "I suffered from piles for ten years, and though I tried all kinds of ointments and injections I really had no permanent relief until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. When I began this treatment I had absolutely no faith in it, for I had been examined by a well-known physician in Vancouver, and he said that an operation was the only thing that would benefit me. It was surprising the relief I obtained from the very first box, and now after using four boxes I am practically cured. My case was so exceptionally bad that I received no relief day or night, and for this reason the results are wonderful."

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Ointment from any dealer at 60 cents a box. If you do not want to risk this much send a two-cent stamp to pay postage, and mention this paper, and we shall send you a sample box free. We are so certain that any sufferer from piles will obtain relief by using this ointment that we do not hesitate to make you this offer. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

CHATEAU TAKEN AT POINT OF BAYONET

British Capture Position Near Zonnebeke, After Long Fighting.

[Canadian Press.]

PARIS, June 2.—10:45 p.m.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"In Belgium the British troops have carried at the point of the bayonet the Chateau Hooge, near Zonnebeke.

"To the southeast of Neuville St. Vaast the Germans have delivered a counter-attack in the 'Labyrinth'; we have repulsed them and have made new progress, taking some prisoners.

"It is interesting to note that between May 9 and June 1 the French division which took Carency, Ablain St. Nazaire, the Malon Mill and the sugar refinery at Souchez, have made 3,100 prisoners, of whom 64 are officers and buried 2,600 Germans, and have themselves lost in killed, wounded, or missing 3,200 men, of which total two-thirds are slightly wounded.

"In Champagne the Germans attempted a night attack near Beausejour, but were immediately thrown back into their trenches.

"In the outskirts of Le Pretre Forest we repulsed two violent attacks."

AUSTRIA GATHERS FORCES TO HOLD THE DRAVE VALLEY

Attempt to Prevent Invasion of Carma Region—Concentrate in Pass.

UDINE, Italy, June 2.—via Paris, 4:55 p.m.—To check the Italian forces which are attempting to invade Austria in the Carnia region on the border northeast of Trent, the Austrians are concentrating troops behind Montecrose Pass. This pass lies an open door between the Zellonkofel and Coglian Mountains, 8,500 feet high on the west and the Palpiccolo Mountains about 6,000 feet high on the east.

From the pass issues a road leading to the valley of the River Drave.

AUSTRIAN DEPUTY JOINS ITALY.

BRESCIA, Italy, June 2.—12:45 p.m. —via Paris, 4:40 p.m.—Dr. Cesare Battisti, of Trent, a member of the Austrian Chamber of Deputies, has been condemned to death by the Austrian authorities, though absent. Dr. Battisti enlisted in the Italian army and asked permission to serve as a scout with the Alpine troops on account of his intimate knowledge of the topography of the province of Trent.

MACKENSEN IN DANGER OF SUFFERING UTTER DISASTER

His Army of One Million Holds Narrow Neck of Land on Which Russians Are Closing From Two Sides.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, June 3.—2:55 a.m.—The situation of the Germans across the San River is such that the alternatives are either a brilliant success or utter disaster, says the Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post.

The correspondent explains that Gen. Mackensen has at this point a million men dependent upon a narrow neck of territory, not seven miles wide, on the San for their only communication with their base. Their front is within eight miles of Mosciska, which is their immediate objective, a station on the main line of the railway to Lemberg.

Both flanks, the correspondent continues, are being attacked by the Russians, who are gradually closing in on the narrow neck of land running from Jaroslau to the River Lubaczowka, which alone is available for communication with the German rear.

"Gen. Mackensen," the correspondent concludes, "has dashed in to gain at any cost a point on the railway line behind Przemysl and join hands with the Germans operating on the front from Przemysl to the great Dniester marshes, and either a remarkable temporary success of the extremely daring manoeuvre or a crushing disaster must follow within a brief period. The Germans are fighting on three fronts, north, east and south, with their communications to the west seriously threatened. We do not yet know whether the German attempt to save the situation by a frontal attack on Przemysl to relieve the pressure on the main German forces across the San will be successful."

STRONG ATTACKS, SAY AUSTRIANS.

VIENNA, via London, June 2.—10 p. m.—The official statement issued by the Austrian war office tonight reads as follows:

"The Russians have renewed their strong attacks against the allied troops on the eastern bank of the San. Desperate attacks everywhere have been repulsed with heavy Russian losses.

"On the northern front of Przemysl two additional fortifications have been stormed and we have maintained the conquered ground.

"South of the Dniester our attacks are successfully progressing. Hostile positions between Stry and Drohobycz were stormed yesterday.

"Strong Russian forces which yesterday attacked our position near Solotwina in south Galicia, suffered severe losses. They retreated, and, at some points, took to flight.

"Besides the booty mentioned in the German communication as having been captured during the month of May from the Russians, we took 189 ammunition wagons and a quantity of other war material, such as 8,500 rounds of artillery ammunition, 5,500,000 cartridges and 32,000 rifles.

"In the Italian war theatre all the undertaking of the enemy have been unsuccessful. The bombardment of the plateau of Lavaronne, Folgaria and the Carinthian barriers, with a great expenditure of ammunition, has caused no material damage to our fortifications. No important fighting has taken place on the frontiers of Tyrol or Carinthia. On the coastal frontier an enemy attack on the ridge was repulsed with heavy Italian losses."

Says Germans In America Are Ready To Rise

Calgary Farmer Arrested on Charge of Sedition Makes Statement.

CALGARY, June 2.—Thousands of Germans in Canada and hundreds of thousands in the States are but waiting the word to rise and help in the final crushing of British about the end of July, or the beginning of August, according to confidences unsuspecting made to a German-speaking Scotchman by a naturalized German farmer of the Calgary district, Raynold Hordan, who was arrested tonight by the city police on a charge of sedition.

HYDRO OFFICIAL THREATEN G. T. R.

Ready For War as Result of Business Lost to L. and P. S.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, June 2.—There may be a clash shortly between the hydro electric and the Grand Trunk. The trouble arises out of the Port Stanley-London line which is being electrified. Several men prominent in hydro matters were in Toronto yesterday, and said that the hydro would not take the initiative in starting a fight with the Grand Trunk, but that the hydro was prepared to "hit back" if the G. T.R. started something. It has been threatened to take the coal business from the Port Stanley line, and run it over the Rondeau-Chatham line. The hydro men here today claimed that the line would pay without the coal traffic.

Sir Adam Beck refused to talk at all about the matter. "I am not worrying," he stated. Hydro men will say very little, but they are watching the next move of the G.T.R.

In addition, it is reported that hydro-radials will be at once undertaken with a view to better serve the territory surrounding Stratford, and giving competitive access to the business of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Michigan Central and the Pere Marquette.

RUSSIAN SEAPORT OPEN

Archangel is Ready Again For Navigation.

LONDON, June 2.—10:07 p.m.—Archangel, the only large seaport on the north coast of the Russian empire, is officially declared open to navigation, according to a dispatch to Lloyds.

SIR JOHN FRENCH ASKED FOR MORE CANADIAN TROOPS

Begged That Second Division Be Sent as Soon as Possible.

[Canadian Press.]

MONTREAL, June 2.—How anxious Field Marshal Sir John French was to get more Canadians after the great showing of the first expeditionary force at Langemarck is told in a letter from Lieut.-Col. J. J. Garrick, M.P., intelligence officer with the contingent. Col. Garrick also mentions that the Patricias are now a part of the Canadian force. Hitherto they were part of a British division.

The colonel says:

"Sir John French, after the Langemarck battle, expressed the greatest anxiety to secure any further Canadian troops that were available and at once cabled to Lord Kitchener that he was sending me over to see him about this matter and urging that no efforts should be spared to get our second division over. I found Lord Kitchener equally enthusiastic, and after my first interview with him he took the matter up personally with the admiralty and pressed it with such energy that in a very few days all arrangements were complete."

Col. Carrick says the losses in the Patricias were made good at the expense of the Canadian division and on the recommendation of Prince Arthur of Connaught and Gen. Lambton this unit was placed under the command of Gen. Alderson.

LONDON TIMES BARRED

Excluded From St. Catharines Public Library.

ST. CATHARINES, June 2.—Owing to its anti-Kitchener attitude, the London Times has been excluded from the reading room of the public library. "Injudicious, if not unfair" was the criticism of W. J. Robertson, chairman of the committee, who introduced the resolution. Another member of the committee stated that a substitute would be recommended at the next meeting, but "not one of the Nortcliffe publications."

GEN. CHETWODE WOUNDED IN FIGHTING IN BELGIUM

First Officer Mentioned By French For Distinguished Service.

LONDON, June 3.—2:09 a.m.—The latest casualty list made public here includes among the wounded the name of Brigadier-General Sir Philip Chetwode. General Chetwode was the first officer to be mentioned for distinguished service in the dispatches of Field Marshal Sir John French in the present war.

WIFE MAY FREE DOCTOR M'GREGOR

Governor of Michigan at Last Takes Up Case of Londoner.

APPEALS TO JURORS

Many Facts Brought to His Attention Tend to Prove Innocence.

LANSING, Mich., June 2—After many weary months of waiting, Dr. Robert A. McGregor, formerly of London, Ont., now serving a life sentence in the Michigan State Prison at Jackson, in connection with the Sparling poisoning case at Ubly, has been accorded a glimpse of freedom.

Today, acting under instructions from Governor Ferris, who has interested himself in the case, Executive Clerk Austin sent out letters to each of the jurors who served at the time of McGregor's conviction asking their present views as to the guilt or innocence of the imprisoned physician.

Renewed interest in the case has been awakened largely through the untiring efforts of Mrs. McGregor, wife of the former Londoner. For months she has written and traveled to various parts of the state where she believed evidence was to be had which might clear her husband's name. Following her visits, petitions containing scores of names, many of them of men prominent in political affairs, have come to the governor's office here, all asking that the chief executive interest himself in the case.

Before leaving on a short trip east today, Governor Ferris announced that while it is yet too soon to predict favorable action in the case, many facts have been brought to his attention which would tend to establish Dr. McGregor's innocence. However, upon his return he will take up the matter again and those in close touch with the executive believe that a parole will be granted, shortly.

Since 1912 Dr. McGregor has been an inmate of Jackson prison. He has been a model convict, according to Warden Simpson, and in his position as surgeon-in-chief of the prison hospital has done much to earn the respect of the Jackson prison officials.

MAJOR J. C. MASSIE CALLED TO SERVICE

A Popular Stratford Officer and South African Veteran.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

STRATFORD, June 2.—Another Stratford officer has been called to service. Major J. C. Massie, senior major of the 27th Lambton Regiment, has been detailed as one of five officers to accompany the special reinforcement company of the 33rd Battalion overseas when it leaves to act as a draft for the second contingent of the Canadian expeditionary force.

Major Massie is a thorough soldier, having been connected with the Canadian militia for upwards of twenty years in various capacities. His first experience was with the old 79th Regiment, long since disbanded, at La Prairie near Montreal.

Veteran of South Africa.

When the 13th Dragoons were organized, he transferred to them, and also held a commission in the 6th Hussars at Montreal. He is a veteran of the South African war, having seen service in most of the important engagements with the Canadian Mounted Rifles. On coming to Ontario, some four years ago, he became affiliated with the 27th Lambton Regiment, and later was made senior major, which rank he now holds.

Active in Relief Work.

Since coming to Stratford Mr. Massie has been prominent in military matters, interesting himself particularly in the collegiate cadets. In his capacity of secretary of the Belgian fund and of the County Patriotic Association he rendered service which cannot be estimated. He is a prominent member of the Masonic order, and at present is manager of the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

AUSTRIANS DRIVEN FROM MONTE NERO; ALTITUDE 7,000 FEET

UDINE, Via Paris, June 3.—3:13 a.m.—The occupation by the Italians of Monte Nero, which is at an altitude of 7,000 feet and lies northeast of Caporetta and six miles to the northwest of Tolmino, is taken by military men here to indicate a continuation of the Italian plan to press on the Austrians north of Gorizia, on the left bank of the Isonzo River, and threaten them in the rear with a view to finding less resistance at Gorizia.

It is believed that the Austrians understood their danger, as it is asserted they did all that was possible to repulse the Italians from Monte Nero, but were compelled to retire after sustaining heavy losses.

ADVANCE BEYOND STORO.

ROME (via London), June 2. — 11:25 p.m.—The following official communication issued by the Italian war office:

"On the Tyrol-Trent frontier no fighting of any importance has been reported. Our troops advanced in the valley of the Guidicaria and occupied Storo, and pushed on until they were near Condino, linking up with the strong Alpine detachments, which had made a descent upon the Chiez River from the rugged valley of Caffaro, to Valcamonica.

"On the Carnia frontier from the head of the Raccolana Valley we harassed by an efficacious long distance fire attempts of the enemy to build a bridge over an Alpine torrent beyond the frontier, on the northern slope of the Predil. The enemy's artillery replied, without result. As an outcome of offensive reconnaissances extending beyond the head of the Val Dogna, we captured some enemy stores. The bad weather which prevailed throughout the whole of the day prevented more extensive operations.

"On the Friule frontier we have solidly occupied the ridge of Monte Nero, on the left bank of the Isonzo, and about ten kilometres (six miles) to the northwest of Tolmino. On the afternoon of the 31st the enemy tried to dislodge us from the occupied localities by means of violent counter-attacks, but was everywhere repulsed."

ITALIAN FLEET SPENDS DAY TRYING TO FIND AUSTRIANS

While Away the Time Destroying Newly Installed Semaphore and Wireless Station Along Enemy's Shores.

ROME, June 2.—Announcement was made at the ministry of marine today that the Italian fleet spent all of yesterday in cruising off the Austrian coast, without sighting the Austrian fleet. The statement follows:

"Yesterday our fleet cruised the entire day near the Dalmatian archipelago, without sighting the enemy. While waiing, our ships destroyed a newly installed semaphore and wireless station on the island of Lissa, which had been re-established after the bombardment by the French fleet last November.

"Our ships also destroyed the observalon station north of the island of Curzola.

"(Signed) THAON DI REVEL."
(Chiefe of naval staff).

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Rome, June 2.—The following statement was issued today at the headquarters of the general staff of the Italian army:

"A series of engagements fought on May 30 in Carniola, west of Montecroce defile, ended in the defeat of the enemy, who left 30 dead and numerous wounded in front of our lines.

"During the 31st there were small actions all along the frontier as the result of a new disposition of our advanced troops. The bad weather, which continues to create serious dificulties, has not had the slightest effect on the spirits or health of our soldiers.

"Ancona authorities state that the damage to the railroad bridge over the Maresoa, near Rimini, on May 24, was not caused by enemy warships, but by an Austrian dirigible, which was flying the Italian flag.

BOMBED MOLFETTA, TOO.

Rome, June 2.—An oficial communication issued last night says: "The Austrian aeroplane which threw bombs on Bari this morning afterward went to Molfetta (a short distance northwest of Bari), where it dropped more bombs. One workman was killed."

TWO FOREIGNERS HELD MAY HAVE BEARING ON WINDSOR CRIME

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, June 2.—That Felix Maline, whose body was found Monday morning near Ford City, was robbed and murdered and the bloody corpse afterwards placed by the roadside, where it was found, has been practically determined by the police.

Movements of Maline from the time he left his home Monday night until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning have been traced. He crossed the river to Detroit and returned to Windsor on the last boat and as late as 2 a.m. was seen in conversation in Ford City with a man whose identity at present is unknown.

With the clotted blood of the victim still upon it, a heavy piece of timber was picked up by detectives today. It fits in with the autopsy which showed that the fatal blow had been inflicted with a heavy, blunt instrument.

Late this afternoon two foreigners, living above Walkerville, were taken into custody, suspected in connection with the crime. Friday an inquest will be held.

YOUNG MAN KILLED OWING TO HASTE TO REJOIN HIS FAMILY

Clinton Keech Meets Tragic Death at Thamesville—Jumps Off Moving Train.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

THAMESVILLE, June 2.—Coming from Chatham to spend an afternoon with his wife and eleven-months-old child, Clinton Keech, aged 23, met a tragic death at the station here this afternoon.

The young husband and father had been working for Everett & Pickard on the cement bridge at Chatham, but owing to the rain today was off for the afternoon. He boarded the mixed Wabash-Grand Trunk train to visit his young family, and, when the train reached the Thamesville station at 2 o'clock attempted to leave it before it stopped.

Owing to the slippery ground he went under the wheels. His left leg was taken off between the ankle and knee and his right leg was broken above the ankle.

Died Under Operation.

Dr. Fraser, who was quickly summoned, had the young man removed to his home and called Dr. Kelly, of Florence. The physicians started an amputation operation, but the unfortunate man died before the operation could be completed. He was conscious to the last.

Besides his wife and child, he is survived by his father and mother, four brothers and five sisters, living at Kent Bridge. A coroner's jury viewed the remains tonight and adjourned the inquest. The body was taken to Henry Bros.' undertaking parlors.

Over Eagerness Responsible?

It is believed that Keech's death was due to his great haste to reach his family as quickly as possible. The train on which he came home passed the station, and after proceeding about a mile, backs up on a switch to allow the passengers to dismount. Instead of waiting for this he attempted to leave the coach while it was moving.

WAS MAN CRUCIFIED EITHER SERGT. ELLIOTT OR PTE. WILLIAMS?

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, June 2. — So far as can be ascertained in the city, the supposed Brantford medical man who, according to the story of Pte. Barrie, of the 13th Royal Highlanders, was crucified by the 2nd Prussian Guards, is either Sergt. Tom Elliott or Pte. James Williamson. Both were members of the Medical Service Corps, and neither has been heard from for some time, and as neither has been officially notified as killed or wounded, it is suspected that either one or the other has been the victim of this German outrage.

Pte. James Williamson resided with his parents at 140 Cayuga street, and his people have not heard from him since April 15, when a service card was sent from France.

Sergt. Elliott was a member of the Royal Army Medical Corps, and until the war broke out, a member of the Brantford hospital staff. He has not been heard of since the first news of crucifixion by the Germans was made public. His relatives have awaited word from him in vain, and his mother, on Lyons avenue, has not been notified of any casualty, and knows nothing whatever of his whereabouts. Elliott was a Scot by birth and had served two years in the old country before coming to Brantford. This latest story has put a pessimistic tone to the fact that his friends have heard nothing since early in April.

DOOR IS WIDE OPEN FOR BERNHARD DERNBURG

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—The British, French and Russian Embassies here have assured the state department they will give safe conduct to Dr. Bernhard Dernberg, former colonial secretary of Germany, when he leaves the United States.

It has been known that Dr. Dernburg is about to leave the country, and it is reported he will go to Norway some time this month.

A few weeks ago when Dr. Dernburg, as a climax to a series of speeches which aroused the resentment of the Washington Government, justified the sinking of the Lusitania in a public address there were broad intimations that through the German Embassy he might be invited to leave the country.

WAS TROUBLED WITH CHOKING SPELLS AND SHORTNESS OF BREATH

When the heart becomes affected, there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, and dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

Many men and women drag along with weary step, and become worn out and haggard, when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first signs of heart or nerve trouble. On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be given a fair trial and you will find that they will soon correct both these organs.

Mr. James Leard, Tryon, P. E. I., writes: "Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I had choking spells, and was troubled with weakness of the heart and shortness of breath. I tried three doctors but they all failed. A neighbor recommended me to try your pills, so I got a box and they helped me so much I have taken six boxes. I highly recommend them to all who are troubled with their heart and nerves. I was not able to do any work for over two years; now I can do quite a bit."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DON'T WASH YOUR HAIR WITH SOAP

When you wash your hair, don't use soap. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well-Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Grey Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home-Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her grey hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their grey hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a grey haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair." A8,J3

Vienna Thinks Czar's Forces Must Soon Lose Possession of Fortress.

[Canadian Press.]

Petrograd, via London, June 3.—An official statement issued last night at the headquarters of the Russian general staff was as follows:

"In the Shavli region on Monday we repulsed successfully several attacks and captured a redoubt east of the village of Trawliany.

"On the Narew front on the left bank of the Vistula the enemy on Tuesday delivered several attacks, which we repulsed.

"In Galicia on Monday, between the Vistula and Przemysl, stubborn fighting developed, our troops gaining somewhat important successes on the left bank of the lower San, taking several villages, some with the bayonet. On the right bank of the San River we were successful near the village of Kalukouvo, taking a base south of the village, capturing 1,200 prisoners, including 22 officers and eight quickfirers.

Finished Battered Forts.

"Przemysl was bombarded with heavy guns up to 16-inch calibre and the enemy delivered his principal attack against the north front in the region of Forts 10 and 11, which the Austrians had almost completely demolished before the surrender of the fortress.

"When we repulsed these attacks, the enemy succeeded in taking several of our guns, which had bombarded the enemy's columns until the latter were close to the muzzles and the last shell was spent. According to supplementary information we took 200 more prisoners and eight quickfirers.

Some Enemy Success.

"There has been no change between Przemysl and the great marsh of the Dniester.

"Between Lysmenitza and Stry the enemy, who had concentrated his heavy artillery and reinforcements, achieved some successes in the course of the night by stubborn attacks with large forces. The fighting continued on Tuesday morning.

"On the right bank of the Bystroa we took part of the enemy's position and made 150 prisoners."

VIENNA'S VIEW.

Vienna, via London, June 3.—The days of Przemysl as a Russian fortress apparently are numbered, according to dispatches from the front. The action to capture the five forts on the north front have been mentioned in official dispatches. Austrian 12-inch mortars and German 10-inch mortars are now pounding away at the forts hastily improvised on the west and south fronts of the fortress. The besiegers already are within storming distance of the works on the south.

The capture of the five forts in the northern sector brings the besiegers before the intermediate girdle of field fortifications which the Austrians erected in the interval between the first and second sieges, and which the Russians since then have strengthened further. This girdle makes skillful use of all the inequalities of the rolling, hilly terrain, but it is believed here will be able to offer only a brief resistance.

Still More Defences.

There still is a third line of defence—the inner girdle of redoubts, provided with guns, machine guns, wire entanglements and concrete bomb-proofs—but Austrians are confident it will be incapable of withstanding a bombardment by heavy artillery.

The reports of military aviators indicate that the Russians themselves are of two minds regarding the defence of Przemysl. While the archduke's forces were approaching the San River, and even after the campaign against the fortress began, the Russians poured a stream of trains with reinforcements, ammunition and supplies into Przemysl along the double track railroad from Lemberg. When the besiegers approached within artillery range of the railroad and highway, the movement in this direction ceased and the Russians began an equally hurried rush of men and supplies away from the fortress.

Other Rumors.

There are said to be other indications that the Russians have become reconciled to the probable fall of Przemysl, and the possible abandonment of Lemberg is seen in the transfer of military headquarters from that city to Brody, on the Russian frontier; while the civil administration has been shifted to Zloczow, 40 miles east. Work on the fortifications around Lemberg has been discontinued, and aviators report that long trains of freight cars are leaving in the direction of the frontier. They do not show the Red Cross, and the inference is drawn from this fact that they are not transports of wounded, but are carrying to a place of safety supplies from the Lemberg magazine.

LONDON WOMEN PRAISED BECAUSE OF WORK DONE FOR CANADIAN HOSPITAL

Secretary Hopes That Further Contributions of Jam and Sweets Will Be Made—Canadians Wounded Have a "Swee t Tooth."

The regent of the Lord Roberts Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, is in receipt of a significant letter from the secretary of the Canadian War Contingent Association in London, Eng., who writes under date of May 19. The letter refers to the splendid work that the I. O. D. E in London has been doing in sending hospital supplies to the C. W. C. A. for the Queen's Canadian Military Hospital. The secretary further writes:

"The residences of Sir Arthur Martin, who fitted it up with a splendid operating-room, and installed an X-ray plant, and made many other additions, has been turned from a beautiful country house into a thoroughly-equipped hospital. All this he did out of his own pocketbook, and turned over the building to this association to be used as a hospital for the Canadians. In the early days of the war, before any Canadians were wounded, the hospital was filled with Belgians, then came the British wounded, and now our own. The hospital being only four miles from Folkestone makes it a very splendid place for men badly wounded—who still come very much under the heading of 'stretcher-cases'. The less badly wounded men go further afield to the hospitals in and about London.

More Funds Required.

"At the request of the war office we are adding two large wings which will increase our capacity by about a hundred beds, and for this money and equipment, as you can well imagine, are urgently needed.

"The London (Ontario) Branch of the C. W. C. A. has been extremely helpful to us, and sent not only large quantities of comforts, but some very fine hospital supplies. I would suggest that perhaps the most practical way to help us now, would be by starting a fund for jam, maple sugar and maple syrup. We would be extraordinarily grateful for maple syrup and maple sugar. One cannot buy these excepting at a great cost in London.

"Would also suggest that boxes of home-made sweets, such as fudge, etc., might be sent over. It may seem strange to ask for such things when the shops are all about us where they can be bought. But there are two reasons for the request—first, the sentimental one—the Canadians would really love these things if they came from home—second, the financial one. To buy enough sweets, maple sugar, etc., for 150 to 200 patients might seem a small matter, but when you consider the heavy expenses in connection with a hospital of the kind you can understand that even little extras must be counted.

Hunt Seen by Men.

"Sir Arthur and Lady Martin have left their beautiful furniture practically intact in the rooms, and the beautiful grounds are such a source of pleasure to the poor men. I think I wrote the London branch not long ago, how the hunt finished with a "kill" on the lawn in front of the hospital. It was quite an excitement, and an amusement for the wounded men who were on the lawn. Poor fellows, one would think they had had enough of killing.

"One reason why I suggest the jam campaign is that people leaving the city for the summer could still arrange for contributions of this sort to be sent to your headquarters. Address everything, no matter what it is, to the ladies' committee, C. W. C. A., Westminster Palace Hotel, Victoria street, S. W., London, England. We have an excellent motor van by which things from here are dispatched to the hospital. . . . ."

JUNE MONTH OF GREAT MEMORIES TO BRITISH FOLK

Seven Hundred Years Ago King John Signed Magna Charta.

WATERLOO WAGED IN JUNE

St. George's Society Suggests Recalling of These Great Events.

This present month, June, is a momentous one in the matter of historic associations for Britain. Just seven hundred years ago on June 15, King John was forced into signing Magna Charta, which gave to the people of England the liberty and freedom of which the Union Jack has continued to be the emblem through the centuries since that time.

The memory of the signing of Magna Charta and all that it meant for the people of the "right little, tight little" island kingdom should be particularly vivid in this year of crisis, for it marked the beginning of the era of that brand of freedom for which Britain has been famous throughout the world and which Britons are fighting today to maintain.

Waterloo's Centenary.

Another event which occurred in June, and which stands out in history was the Battle of Waterloo, on June 18, 1815, just a century ago. There Napoleon, the prototype of the present Kaiser of Germany in that he sought to make himself the war lord of Europe, went down to defeat as the Prussian war lord certainly is going down to defeat one hundred years later.

The St. George's Society of St. John, N. B., has suggested that the anniversary of these two historic events should be celebrated in Canada by the display of flags on public and private buildings and special lessons bearing on the events for the children in the schools. The matter has not been taken up by the local educational authorities as yet, but it is altogether probable that the suggestion will be followed.

St. John Takes Step.

The following letter has been received:

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I am requested by the president, officers and members of the St. George's Society of this city, to call the attention of the press and the public to two important anniversaries which occur next month, viz., on the 15th of June, the seven hundredth anniversary of the signing of Magna Charta in 1215, and on the 18th of June, the centenary of the Battle of Waterloo, fought in 1815, the former established the liberty and freedom of our great English race, while the latter was of the highest importance not only to the British nation, but to the whole world.

The St. George's Society are of the opinion that on account of the war, in which this nation is now engaged with our gallant allies, the French, it is not expedient to hold any public gatherings in celebration of these events, but it is suggested that the days named should be marked throughout Canada by special articles in the newspapers descriptive of such historical matters, and the display of flags on public and private buildings, and also that the children in all our schools should have their attention directed to those mighty events.

Hoping that you will kindly assist in carrying out the ideas of our society. Yours truly,

REGINALD. G. SCHOFIELD, Secretary.

'PLANES CARRYING BOMBS

William Haley Writes to His Mother in Sarnia From Shorncliffe.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

SARNIA, June 3.—Mrs. Haley, of this city, has received the following letter from her son William, who is with No. 3 stationary hospital, Army Medical Corps, in England.

It is dated from Moore Barracks, Shorncliffe, May 14:

"Dear Mother—Just thought that I would write to you to put in the time. It's raining today and there is not much to do. Am feeling fine. We have all got good quarters now. We are in a big garrison. I am a batman for two officers and stay at Moore barracks. Art Elliott and I have a room together. We each have a bed and mattress, and a stove and cupboard, hot and cold water, a table, three chairs and gas. I met Major Bentley the other day, and he knew me right away, and asked how you all were. He looks good.

"He told me that 'Wireless' Smith was injured and in the hospital, but did not know where.

"I get up early now, between 5 and 6, and without being called. I slept in until 7 this morning and had to buy my breakfast. All the boys are divided up now, some orderlies in the hospitals some on ambulance work, some on fatigue and some on guard. I don't have to do any of that work. We have to be in by 9 p.m. I see lots of Belgian soldiers around here. A big force of infantry went away to the front yesterday. I can hear the sound of the big guns now.

"We have all kinds of guards around us, destroyers, airships, submarines, cannon and soldiers. I haven't seen a submarine, but they say that they are around us. The aeroplanes fly high and low. I could see the bombs hanging on one of the French planes.

"I go down to Folkestone quite often and, believe me, that your corns make themselves known going up and down the mountains. The streets are very crooked. Some of the boys have got their leave. I think that we are here for good. We are looking after the sick and have not received any wounded as yet."

AUSTRIANS DON'T MIX WELL WITH RUSSIANS ON DRAINAGE CONTRACT

Alvinston Contractor Has Trouble With Six Men Imported From London.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ALVINSTON, June 2.—Six men (supposedly Austrians), were brought up before Magistrate Newcomb on a charge of disturbing the peace. The charge was laid by Mr. Stein, a drain contractor, who hired these men in London to come here and work for him. As they had no money, he paid their fare here on condition that if, when they arrived here, they did not like the job they were to refund the money paid by him. There were some Russians working on the same job, and it is supposed this was the main reason for the trouble, but they commenced by threatening the plaintiff, complaining that the food was poor and their lodging not good.

Mr. Stein, becoming alarmed, laid in the above charge. When they appeared before the magistrate they were defiant, but Mr. Newcomb advised them to be cool, and gave them the chance of paying back the money or going to the Sarnia jail.

They did not have money and promised as soon as they reached London they would refund the money to the magistrate if they were allowed their freedom.

They were allowed out on this condition.

IS FROZEN MEAT FIT FOR MEN IN SERVICE UNITS?

Ottawa Now Considering Evidence Taken at Local Inquiry.

TAKEN FROM LONDON

City Contractor Did Not Have Chance to Put in Tender.

William Gray, M. P., is awaiting a report from the militia department on the recent inquiry into the meat furnished to the soldiers in camp. The whole of the evidence taken is now in the hands of the militia department, and it is said that Gen. Hughes, the military chief, will give the matter his personal attention.

Some of the evidence will indicate that portions of the meat furnished by the Toronto company were not fit for consumption, while another point will be whether frozen meat is the right kind of food for soldiers.

Quoted by Wire.

A local firm, which failed to get its tender in to Ottawa in time, not having been notified to put in a tender, sent a telegram quoting prices, but it was received too late, according to Ottawa. Whether the Toronto firm had a bigger pull remains to be seen. Mr. Gray says the contract should be given in London and will do his best to secure it.

It is said that many object to anything but fresh meat for the soldiers, and that there was no reason why the contract should have been changed.

Not a Complaint.

Frank Jackson, who had the contract until it was given to Toronto, refuses to discuss the matter, further than to say there were no complaints about his meat while he supplied the soldiers.

Mr. Gray stated today that he would make the report public as soon as he received it.

GLASS MISSED HIM; SHE IS SORRY FOR IT

Girl Wishes Missile Had Struck Tony Lusghaius.

"I wish that the glass I threw at him had found its mark," said Gertrude Jenkins as Police Magistrate J. C. Judd suspended sentence on Tony Lusghaius, whom she charged with assaulting her. Gertrude said that she went to draw her week's wages, and Lusghaius told her the boss was out, and ordered her to get out of the place. When she refused he took and put her out, after she hurled the glass at him.

HAD TO SWALLOW CHUNK OF LEAD

For This Reason Lance-Corp. Smith Is Not Feeling Comfortable.

Mrs. Walter Smith has received the following letter from her son, Lance-Corp. Charles W. Smith, who is in Warde Military Hospital at Bagthorpe, Nottingham, Eng.:

Dear Mother,—Just a few lines, to let you know I am a lot better than when I wrote last time. I am still troubled with my throat and teeth. I can't expect anything else after swallowing a chunk of lead. There is one other Canadian in my ward. He is from Toronto. The rest are English Tommies, and we certainly have a good time. I suppose I will be sent back to Canada when better. I cannot write many letters, as I lost everything on the battlefield, even my cap. I could not carry anything, so I threw all my equipment away.

Lance-Corp. Smith suffered the loss of an eye, and had other wounds from the Langemarck fight.

FOUR WOMEN IN COURT

Maintain That They Were Trying to Keep Man From House.

Police Magistrate J. C. Judd today adjourned until Monday a disorderly case against Lily Gordon, Mary A. Haines, Muriel Lee and Ethel Foy, who were brought to court following a disturbance at No. 2 Dundas street late last night.

William Marsh, arrested by Patrolman Fulcher as he was attempting to gain an entrance to the house, pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge, and paid a $3 fine.

Asked by the magistrate why he was going into the house Marsh stated, "That the whiskey he had drunk had made him foolish."

The women, who were defended by J. M. McEvoy, denied that there was any disorderly conduct on their part, and that they were merely trying to keep Marsh out of the house.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Woodstock, June 3.—The following letter was received in this city by Thomas Hildred from his son Warren, of the Princess Patricias, who was reported wounded in the recent fighting in Flanders:

"Dear Mother,—Just a line to let you know that I am all right, though wounded. My wounds are only slight, but one is a disfigurement. My left eye is gone. But I don't complain, as there are hundreds the same as I, and we all did our duty. I am unfit for further service, so you will see me in a month or two. Warren."

No news has been received from the other son, John Walker Hildred, who was officially reported missing.

EXTREME DISORDER IN JAPANESE DIET

Lack of Confidence Resolution Voted Down by Big Majority.

CHARGES OF OPPOSITION

Members Say Agression in China Has Made Japan Isolated.

[Canadian Press.]

Tokio, June 3.—The resolution introduced in the House of Representatives yesterday by the Opposition, expressing lack of confidence in the present administration, was today rejected by a vote of 133 to 232.

Extreme disorder marked the session today. All the members of teh cabinet were in their seats. While Premier Okuma and Foreign Minister Kato defended the recent negotiations with China, K. Hara, M. Inukai and H. Ogawa attacked them. The resolution as introduced yesterday charged the cabinet with having failed in the negotiations with China from the beginning; with having aroused the suspicions of foreign powers, and with having harmed the prestige of the empire.

Ovation For Premier.

Hoots, jeers and wordy altercations punctuated the speeches delivered today, but the ovations for Premier Okuma and Minister Kato smothered the cries of the Opposition.

K. Hara advanced the claim that Japan's aggression in China during the war in Europe had aroused misunderstandings, destroyed the friendship of the powers, and placed Japan in a position of isolation, while H. Ogawa made the declaration that concessions had been granted the Hanyehping Company because China had been backed by the United States.

In Interests of Peace.

Minister Kato denied that the powers had urged the abandonment of the fifth group of Japanese demands. "We abandoned these in the interests of peace," he said. "No power compelled us to do so. I am convinced that the intellectual classes of the world will understand and commend the course of Japan."

Great interest has attached to the announcements of Premier Okuma and Minister of War Oka in the Diet that the army is to be increased by two divisions. This is the first step to the eventual creation of an army of 25 divisions.

SERIOUS DISTURBANCES.

London, June 3—9:59 p.m.—The holding of an anti-Government mass meeting in Tokio this evening resulted in serious disturbances. The situation outside the building where the meeting was being held was the most serious. Many arrests were made, and the manifestos issued by the organizers of the meeting were confiscated. Reinforcements of police were sent everywhere throughout the city.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, June 2.—The break which started a few days ago in wheat and flax prices was continued today, when wheat opened 4c to 2⅝c lower for July and October, respectively. The weakness was reflected on oats to some extent. Conditions generally are reported good and with the export business off in the meantime, lower prices resulted. Prices were 1c higher for flax. The cash demand for wheat was keener than it has been for some time, Nos. 2 and 3 grades of wheat being most in request. A fair demand exists for low-grade oats, all grades of barley and for flax, the crushers being on the market for cash flax. The price at 1:30 had rallied around 10c from the low point. Offerings of all grains were light. Receipts are falling off, inspections on Tuesday being 151 cars. In sight for today was only 90 cars.

Wheat futures closed 3½c to 3⅞c lower; oats, 2¼c lower; flax, 1c higher.

Cash grain—Wheat, No. 1 northern, $1.37½; No. 2 northern, $1.35½; No. 3 northern, $1.31½; No. 4, $1.27½; No. 5, $1.21½; No. 6, $1.16½.

Oats—No. 2 Canadian western, 58¼c; No. 3, 56¾c; extra No. 1 feed, 56¾c.

Barley—No. 2, 72c; No. 4, 66c; feed, 64c.

Flax—No. 1, N. W. C., $1.57; No. 2, $1.54.

Chicago, June 3.—Pressure from the new crop, with virtually no export demand, had a bearish effect today on the price of wheat. Besides, cable quotations were lower, and the weather here fine. A rally, which resulted from active buying on the part of one large concern, proved not to be of a lasting sort. The market, after opening ⅝c to 1⅛c lower, recovered to above yesterday's final figures, but again underwent a sharp decline.

LIVE STOCK.

East Buffalo, N.Y., June 3.—Cattle—Receipts, 150; steady. Veals—Receipts, 100; active, $4 50 to $10.

Hogs—Receipts, 2,600; fairly active; heavy, $7 75 to $7 80; mixed, $7 80 to $8; yorkers, $7 90 to $8 15; pigs, $7 75 to $8; roughs, $6 50 to $6 75; stags, $5 to $5 50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 800; sheep slow, lambs active; lambs, $7 to $12; yearlings, $5 to $10 25; wethers, $7 to $7 25; ewes, $3 to $6 25; sheep, mixed, $6 50 to $6 75.

Toronto, June 3.—Under the influence of a light run and good demand, cattle trade at the Union stockyards today was steady, with prices firm. Practically all supplies were cleaned up. Sheep, calves and lambs were steady. There was a firmer feeling in the hog market and in some cases prices were higher. Receipts, 256 cattle, 77 calves, 1,813 hogs and 118 sheep.

WALL STREET.

New York, June 3—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—War shares and metal stocks were again the prominent features of today's early market, advances in these issues ranging from 1 to over 2 points. United States Steel also gave promise of assuming its former leadership, opening with a sale of 2,000 shares at a substantial fractional advance, which it soon increased to over a point. Standard railways, including St. Paul, Reading, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific and Union Pacific, made similar gains, although these stocks were irregular on the London market.

Noon.—The vigorous advance of the opening was maintained throughout the first hour, which was the most active of any similar period for a fortnight. All parts of the list participated, but coppers and United States Steel contributed more than their usual quota. Improvement in metal shares was generally ascribed to latest developments in the Mexican situation, which are likely to redound to the benefit of the many copper companies operating in that country. Activity abated and prices shaded moderately towards noon on news that the Austro-German armies had recaptured an important position on the eastern frontier. Bonds were steady.

King's Birthday To Be Observed Quietly Here

With Empire at War, Monarch Wishes All Demonstrations Cancelled.

Today, June 3, is the anniversary of the birth of King George the fifth and, as such, has been recognized since His Majesty's accession to the throne as an occasion to be celebrated publicly. Although not a public holiday universally in Candaa it is a statutory holiday and banks and similar institutions close their doors for the day.

Ordinarily, also, the occasion is marked by demonstrations of a public nature and of various characters, but this year the King himself, feeling that at a time of such crisis as that through which the empire is passing, the celebration of the birthday of any individual by public rejoicing would be inappropriate, and has made the request that the usual celebrations be suspended. The flying of a few flags, therefore, probably will be the only way in which the King's birthday will be recognized in Canada today.

During the reign of the late King Edward, because of the fact that his birthday occurred in a winter month, November, a time of year unsuitable for open-air celebrations, the monarch suggested that the anniversary of Queen Victoria, his mother, should be made the occasion for the usual observances instead of that on which his own birthday occurred. This suggestion was adopted and May 24, Victoria Day, continued to be celebrated as the "King's birthday."

The annual custom of observing publicly the birthday of the reigning monarch was initiated in the reign of Queen Victoria, Victoria the Good, and it seems unlikely that Britishers will cease to celebrate Victoria Day at least for many years to come. In England the birthday was not made the occasion for a holiday but was celebrated usually in London by the military parade and march past, known as trooping the colors. This is considered one of the finest military displays to be seen anywhere. The royal salute, a salute of twenty-one guns, also was fired in one of the great public parks adjoining the parade ground of the Horse Guards.

RELAY MOTORCYCLE RACE WILL START ON SATURDAY

The military motorcycle relay race from Windsor to Ottawa, under the auspices of the Toronto Motorcycle Club, will be held on Saturday, June 5. It is planned to do the distance, 541 miles, in a little over fifteen hours. The riders will have to average a speed of 36 miles an hour.

The race will be run in relays, the first relay being from Windsor to London, a distance of 142 miles by the road. Three riders will start from Windsor at 4 a.m. Saturday morning. The riders are Herbert Kipp and Harry Wilson, of Toronto, and Fred Kerr, of this city. Each will have messages from the mayor of Windsor to the mayor of Ottawa, and military dispatches will also be carried.

The second relay is from London to Toronto, 127 miles. Three riders will be waiting here for the men from Windsor. They are scheduled to arrive here about 7:55 a.m. The riders who will start from here on the second relay are Walter Andrews, Ernie McIntosh and Thomas Smith. The third relay of the race will be from Toronto to Trenton, the fourth from Trenton to Kingston, and the fifth from Kingston to Ottawa. The last relay of riders is due to arrive at Ottawa at 7:18 p.m.

WOULD SPEED UP CARS ON DOWNTOWN STREETS

The finance committee last night called for more speed on London street cars in the business district. The present speed limit is six miles per hour in the business section and fifteen miles per hour on the outskirts. A recommendation was made to the council to have cars speeded up down town.

Upon the advice of the city engineer, the proposed route changes on city car lines will not be put into effect.

The committee was a minority meeting, Alds. Haney and Tancock being absent.

STOP RENDERING LARD

Practice Must Cease in Market House Says Council.

The fire and light committee of the city council last night decided that the practice of rendering lard and similar practices in the stalls in the basement of the public market house must cease or the offenders forfeit their leases. This action was taken in view of the complaint of a citizen, who declared that the odor from the rendering process permeated the upper buildings and tainted butter and other foodstuffs. He declared that he had purchased butter in the market which was distinctly tainted in this way. The market clerk reported that he had frequently advised the butchers that they must comply with the regulations.

The committee sent to the board of control a recommendation that the market rest house be open every weekday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., except on Saturdays, when the closing hour was put at 9 p.m., and that the women's room be closed on Sunday.

Fruit-growers will find John Sharman, representative of E. D. Smith, nursery stock, etc., at Darch & Hunter Seed Company, Market entrance, Thursdays and Saturdays. ywt

DRINK EVIL WORSE THAN GERMAN GAS

N. W. Rowell in Vigorous Patriotic Address Thrills Conference.

A PLEA FOR MANHOOD

Fight Against Prussianism and Fight Against Liquor Must Be Won.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. MARYS, June 2.—"So long as a man is left able to fight against the foreign despot; in memory of the brave Canadian boys who have given their lives at the front, for the flag, for democracy, for human liberty, for Christian civilization, we will give, and give, and give until victory is achieved."

With a splendid patriotic outburst, N. W. Rowell, K. C., Liberal leader in the Ontario Legislature, concluded a magnificent address to members of the London Methodist conference in the First Methodist Church tonight. The large building was filled to capacity and when Mr. Rowell rose to speak, a hearty greeting was accorded him. That those present were in sympathy with the speaker and what he had to say, was apparent immediately after his first words had been uttered.

"It is the greatest privilege, and this means the added responsibility," said the speaker, "to be alive at this critical hour in the world's history, and none but the most superficial cannot realize that the best in all of us is demanded.

"The present conflict in Europe is a conflict of ideals. In Germany, the people exist for the state. In the British Empire, the direct antithesis obtains. What our forefathers and friends died and bled for in the gone days is not to be lost now to the country whose whole teaching means a reputation of the Gospel of the Prince of Peace and Christianity.

Good Citizenship or Prussianism.

"We Canadians have the feeling deep-rooted in our beings that Prussianism and the empire which began it is doomed, but do you all realize that only insofar as we severally live the proper life of good citizenship can the German idea of the government of a state be utterly disallowed in our country? If Prussianism ruled in this country, our children and our children's children would be doomed to eternal servitude. The home demands great men and great women. Are we equal to the task confronting us; to the responsibility that lives in the home? If ever a time was when work of the church was needed, it is now. Faith, hope and courage must be preached, and the duties and responsibilities of citizenship urged and driven home.

"Democracy only succeed, when its capacity to hold to its purity and integrity in our national civilization is maintained. Our Government is a great corporative institution and the perils of democracy lie in the indifference of citizens.

"All have a measure of responsibility, for partial corporation in a country. To barter one's, vote for money or else in treason; treason of the foulest kind. It is not essential that any one political party be in power at any one time, but it is absolutely necessary that the standard of purity should be set up if we are to keep the soul of Canada alive. Let every minister express his God-given convictions on any matter affecting the life and welfare of the people."

Mr. Rowell made a stirring appeal for temperance. He briefly laid out the wonderful results Russia had experienced since the sale of vodka had been stopped by Ukase and those to France since absinthe was no longer permitted to be sold."

Intemperance Worse Than Gas.

"We are horrified, he said, when we read of the terrible results the use of gas bombs has caused in Europe, but the destructive power of these gases, weapons of war, of infantry and cavalry charge, of aeroplane and Zeppelins, of submarines and other battleships is not in the least comparable to the dreadful havoc wrought by the sale of intoxicant liquors.

"If we intern Germans and Austrians, in our midst, many of them quite inoffensive, what about drink which is impairing our fight for freedom?

"Fight on in this great cause of temperance," urged the speaker in a splendid outburst of feeling, "for you are on the winning side, the time will surely come, when the open bar will as greatly shock the citizens of Canada as German barbarities now do.

The Cause Is Winning.

"We are making progress in this work, look at the maritime provinces if you wish proof of my words, cast your eyes to Manitoba or Saskatchewan, to Alberta, where the spirit of temperance is abroad and clamoring and is being heard. The spirit is moving the people of Canada as they have never been moved. Not in the history of our Dominion has so much progress towards a sure end been made in any endeavor of any kind, or as has been witnessed in Canada in the strides temperances has made during the past year."

Mr. Rowell paid glorious tribute to the stupendous heroism of Canadian soldiers at the front. "We feel honored when we read of how the Canadians have bled and died on European battlefields," he said. "Are we worthy of them? They surely are of us."

The sturdy Methodist Church building shook in unison to the prolonged cheering which broke forth, and continued as the speaker concluded.

Rev. T. A. Moore Speaks.

Rev. T. Albert Moore, secretary of the social service department, and the temperance work of the Methodist Church, also addressed the meeting. Both speakers made the main points in their addresses with reference to the work of service. Mr. Moore told of the great good these departments were doing in Canada. Of the reclamation of wayward girls, of the fight to kill the demon drink and of other splendid endeavors. He paid high tribute to the W.C.T.U. of Canada for the unflagging zeal its members displayed.

C. A. Austin, of Chatham, acted in the capacity of chairman at the night meeting, and introduced the speakers.

The choir sang beautifully, and when the immense pipe organ swelled into the greatest martial song ever written, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the old church was filled with a volume of sound and spirit and radiant glory.

Much good is coming to the conference members. There is a spirit of good will and general benignity apparent. Petty bickering and useless controversy is done away with. The president, Rev. Geo. N. Hazen, smoothes over the hard places when they are come to with unusual tact and generalship.

All in all, they are having a mighty fine time in St. Marys. The meeting tonight was under the auspices of the Laymen's Association.

Election of officers is the main business scheduled for Thursday.

The war, missions, the liquor traffic, church union and the member taking up the new provincial liquor license commission, formed the matter of the pastoral address as given by Rev. Dr. H. S. Dougall, St. Thomas, at this afternoon's session of the conference.

The war was referred to at length and the stand of the British empire, against Prussianism and all the military tenets of Germany are responsible for brought forth the rousing words:

"As a man would fight a dog that is mad, so fight we."

Real and thorough support for the temperance commissioners was urged by Dr. Dougall in his address and that the confidence of the people at large throughout Ontario would be theirs he was sure.

War Unites Empire.

The mingled blood and unshrinkable purpose of the different units in the British Empire was welding each separate part into one consolidated whole and this was chiefly due to the war. The British nation was proving more and more that its policy of service to humanity was appreciated and that when grave danger faced the empire each separate country in the vast whole was ready and willing to fight in a common cause. Neither lust of conquest, of more territory or glory had occasioned Britain to take up arms.

During his words in reference to the war the speaker said "while fighting the Prussians may we not be Prussianized; while crushing militarism may we not be militarized; while destroying brutes; may we not be brutalized."

War should cease in the world, he said, and when the present conflict had finished it was necessary that all the nations bind themselves together for peace and not war.

Increase of 1,026 Members.

Completed compilations of the statistical committee showed a total membership in the conference of 53,001, an increase of 1,026. Four new churches had been erected during the year, at a total cost of $67,000. London, Wheatley, Sarnia and Craingorm were the centres where the new churches had been built. Missionary receipts were $90,981. This was an increase of 7,817. The entire sum received for all purposes was $663,353, an increase over 1914 of $8,218.

Transfer of Probationers.

Work in connection with the transferring of ministers and probationers to and from the London conference was dealt with this morning. Those transferred into the London conference are: R. A. Brock, probationer from Newfoundland conference; I. U. Gould, Alberta conference; C. W. Marshall, Toronto conference; T. E. Matthews, Alberta conference; N. D. Drew, Hamilton conference, and J. W. Hedley, British Columbia conference.

Those transferred out of the London conference are: F. E. Mallot, to Toronto and H. D. Tyler to Hamilton conference.

The transfer of Probationer R. A. Brock took place at once and that of I. U. Gould will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow.

The transfer of the ministers in the active work will take place on the morning of the opening of the general session of the annual conference, which is tomorrow.

Interim transfers into this conference were announced as follows this morning: S. N. Nann, A. R. Johnston, H. B. Parnaby, F. J. Rutherford and W. N. Shoup.

This afternoon the pastoral address was read.

LAY TRACKS ON BATHURST

Ald. James Donnelly Named Vice-President of L. and P. S. R. Board.

At a meeting of the London and Port Stanley Railway Board last evening an application made by the commission regarding track-laying on Bathurst street was validated. Ald. Wilson objected to the extension on the ground that it would interfere with the proposed Ridout street subway. He was assured, however, that this would not be the case.

Ald. Ashplant brought up the point that it would be well to protect the city so that the G. T. R. as a shareholder in the road would not receive benefits for which the city is paying all the cost at the end of the 99-years lease. This will be done. Ald. James Donnelly was elected vice-president of the board, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Ald. Neil Cooper.

MAYOR OF ST. THOMAS DRASTIC WITH L. & P. S. R.

Has Policemen Prevent Stringing of High Tension Wire.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. THOMAS, June 2.—Mayor M. B. Johnson posted three special policemen at the London and Port Stanley Talbot street crossing at midnight Tuesday, where they were stationed until early Wednesday morning. This drastic measure was the result of an intimation received by his worship early in the evening that the L. and P. S. officials were planning to string a wire over the Talbot street crossing after 12 o'clock, when the local street railway wire was dead. The policemen, however, prevented the carrying out of any such arrangement. It seems the city council is opposed to the method in which the company intended to string the wire, and the L. and P. S. officials believed they could "slip one over." It was feared by the mayor that the manner in which they desired to place the high-tension wire would deaden the local street railway power line. Later today, Engineer Trimble, of the L. and P. S., assured the mayor that the work would be done as he desired, and upon this assurance permission was granted to go ahead.

FALLS AGAINST STOVE AND BURNS HER ARM

Mrs. Sneath, of Wingham, Hurt—Husband Was in Train Wreck.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINGHAM, June 2.—Mrs. W. Sneath, wife of Baggageman Sneath, who was in the wreck of the London, Huron and Bruce train, had her share of trouble the same day at her home. She was in the act of protecting her little child toddling near the stove when she tripped and fell with her arm on the stove, burning it badly.

Mr. Sneath states that apart from a shaking-up, some straining of the muscles of ris back and a bruised leg, he is none the worse for the accident, but his mate, J. Rodgers (brakeman), is hurt rather badly, as he was thrown across the seat while chatting with a friend in the smoking car. The conductor was also hurt on the leg and arm.

John Cloakey, who was on a trip to San Diego on Monday, and S. Young, brother, were on the wrecked train and both escaped without a scratch.

Visitors to the town who decided to wait for the afternoon train out of here are now congratulating themselves for their hesitation.

HONEY AND FRUIT "SHY"

Turn Up Bad Pastures and Meadows and Produce Hay Substitute.

A. C. Atwood, of the Evergreen Fruit and Bee Farm, Vanneck, writes opportunely to The Advertiser of the fruit and honey prospect this year and predicting a shortage in hay, gives some advice that may be found practical. Likewise, he advises planting potatoes to the usual extent, with the prophecy that good prices will reward the planters' effort this fall.

His interesting letter follows:

"Dear Editor,—From 60 years' experience in growing crops on the farm, I have observed that if we go by the rule of contrary we will usually hit a market to an advantage. Now potatoes were a drug, and is yet; the result will be that very few potatoes will be planted this spring, which will affect the supply next fall; so take an old man's advice and plant, at any rate, your usual amount, and blame me if you are not able to sell at a paying price next fall or winter.

"What do you say, friend Peter McArthur?

To Overcome Hay Shortage.

"In addition to other things, the frost and dry weather has very materially affected the pasture and meadows, and as there will be no old hay to fall back upon, the chances are that hay feed next winter will be short. That being the prospect, I advise farmers to take time by the forelock and plow up a certain amount of their bad meadows and pastures and sow Hungarian, which makes a very good substitute for hay.

"Hungarian at best is a slow seed to start, and the way it is usually sown, some of it never starts. When sown by a drill or broadcast seeder the seed falls and trundles down among dry clods and lumps and unless followed by rain remains and does not germinate, or even if it does, the tiny roots have nothing to catch hold of, and die. My advice is to get the land well worked up, then roll with a good heavy roller, which will crush the lumps on top and also compact the lumps below, which will prevent the seed trundling down. Then sow the seed on top and harrow it in. Be sure to harrow. The same advice will hold equally good in sowing grass seed. I believe a cause of failure in many cases is that the seed trundles down and finds nothing to catch onto. The rolling forms a nice mulch on top, just what is wanted.

Fruit and Honey Shortage.

"Fruit of all kind this fall will be at a premium. The same will likely be said of honey, this cold, backward spring and the frost having kept the bees from developing, and the frost and dry weather has almost destroyed the white clover, and I fear that the frost has also destroyed the blossom buds of the basswood trees, from which we get the best honey. The question is asked, 'Why is there so little or no bloom this year?' Well, all posted fruit men know the bud which produces the bloom is developed in the tree the fall before, in case the vitality of the tree has not been lowered as it was in many cases last year by an extremely heavy load of fruit. There was not a sufficient amount of vitality left in the tree to produce the blossom buds; hence, no bloom this year."

(Mr. Atwood would like the Farmer's Advocate to repeat his letter.)
