MOSTLY EMIGRANTS ON BOARD

Several Boatloads Got! Safely Away-Captain Stood On the Bridge Till Vessel Went Down.

London, July 3.—Over seven hundred Danish and Norwegian emigrants, bound for New York, are believed to have been drowned in the North Atlantic. Out of nearly eight hundred souls on board the Danish steamer North, which left Copenhagen June 22, only twenty-seven are known to be alive, and for the rest no hope is held out. When last seen, the Norge was sinking when she struck on the of Rockall, whose isolated peak rises itself from a deadly Atlantic reef, some 290 miles off the west coast of Scot-

Two boatloads got safely away from the side of the sinking ship, and the emigrants who were left on board, seizing life-belts, threw themselves in to the sea and were drowned. Captain Gundel, so say the survivors, stood on the bridge of the doomed vessel until it could be seen no more. The Norge foundered suddenly, and some terrified emigrants were thrown into the water and drawn down with the sinking ship. Those who could swim tried to reach the boats, but these were already too full, and their occupants beat off the drowning wretches with oars. The boats kept together for some hours. Practically all of their occupants were passengers and were not used to handling such craft. They were dashed against the side of the Norge and their helpless inmates were caught up by the heavy seas. The boat occupied by the survivors landed at Grimsby was a life-

Japan and Christianity.

The missionary secretary of Methodist Church in Canada is desirous of giving the widest publicity to an interview with Count Katsura, the Japanese Prime Minister, obtained by Rev. William Imbrie, a missionary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, who has been in Tokio for many years. Mr. Imbrie's version of the interview was submitted to Count Katsura, who pronounced it correct and authorized its publication in the Japan Mail on May 27 last. The topic of conversation was the "Yellow Peril," the apprehension that Japanese influence, if dominant in Eastern Asia. might be exercised in a way injurious to the rightful interests of western nations, and in particular to the extension of the Christian religion.

Count Katsura emphatically protests against the theory that the present war is a war of race against race or religion against religion. He claims that Japan stands for religious freedom, a principle embodied in her constitution. In Japar a man may be a Christian, a Buddhist or a Jew without suffering for it. There are Christian churches in every large city, and in almost every town in Japan; and they all have complete freedom to teach and worship in accordance with their own convictions. These churches send out men to extend the influence of Christianity from one end of the country to the other. There are numerous Christian newspapers and magazines. Christian schools. some of them conducted by foreigners and some by Japanese, are found everywhere; and recently an ordinance has been issued by the department of under which Christian schools of a certain grade are able to obtain all the privileges granted to Government schools of the same grade. In many cases associations composed of foreign missionarles permanently residing in Japan have been incorporated by the department of home affairs. These associations are allowed to "own and manage tand, buildings and other property; for the extension of Christianity, the carrying on of Christian Japanese Christians are not confined National Diet, the judges in the courts, the professors in the universities, the editors of leading secular papers, and the officers of the army and navy. Christian literature has entrance into the military and naval hospitals; and a relatively large number of the trained nurses employed in them are Christian women. Recently arrangements have been made by which six American and British missionaries and six Japanese Christian ministers tre to accompany the armies in Man-huria. Count Katsura asks if the same liberty is allowed all religions in Russia as in Japan. He points to the constitution of Japan through which the will of the people finds expression: to her primary and secondary schools and her colleges and the fact that education is compulsory; and to her criminal and civil laws, modeled upon the highest western standards. He gives Russia a home thrust when he says the Japanese code does not permit man to be imprisoned and transported for life with little or no process of law. "Whether or not it is the destiny of Japan to be the leader of the east remains to be unfolded," adds Count Katsura. "But if ever that respon-sibility shall be bers, of one thing the world may be sure. She will not willingly retrace her own steps; and she will at least endeavor to persuade the east to do what she has done herself, and what she is trying to do more perfectly."

The "Fourth" and Its Dangers "Glorious Fourth" brings a harvest of death to young America. As a result of last year's cel ebration 406 young persons died of tetanus, better known as lockjaw, since the jaw and neck muscles are the first affected by the poison owing to their closeness to the central nervous system. The press throughout the country has appealed for a more rational celebration of the day, and has declared war on the toy pistol and the cannon firecracker, the chief instrumenth of death. In Chicago some leadand appealed to the public for funds in Fourth," but the project fell through. It has been shown that no tetanus cases resulted from wounds inflicted by Roman candles, torpedoes, paper caps, small firecrackers and display pieces. Seven-eighths of the wounds developed the deadly malady were inflicted by blank cartridges, and the remainder by giant firecrackers. Parents have been warned to keep these children's hands.

The tetanus bacillus, the New York Sun remarks, is very common on the streets of large cities, and is sure to be on the hands of persons who have been engaged for some time in celebrating the Fourth of July outdoors. Any wound then is likely to be contaminated by the bacillus, which, however, give opportunity for the retention of the bacillus deep in the tissues out of contact with the air. Under these circumstances it grows luxuriously. When six a quark is a quark is a loss of the dectrician. Six Edward Fry, the famous ex-judge of the appeal court, and his brother the M. The only assurance in the treatment of such cases s a thorough cleansing of all portions of the wounded tissues, and then packing with gauze so as to admit the ir freely, and at the same time give eady exit to the secretions. There seems no doubt, too, that another important prophylactic measure, as pointed out by the Journal of American Medical Association, is the njection of tetanus antitoxin. This ias now been used in hundreds of thouands of cases without any bad results, and while it will not cure etanus once the nervous system has become involved, it will prevent the levelopment of the disease. No wounds due to fireworks are ever to be considered as trivial. They should be ooked upon from the beginning as langerous and treated accordingly.

One of the most delicate of the duties that fall to British officialdom is the "jollying" of dusky potentates, who come from all parts of the earth to honor the King. The Alake of Abeokuta, who has a large sway in the Niger region, has been the guest of the nation for some weeks, and has proved a voracious sightseer. At Aberdeen University he was received upoariously by the students. When the Alake took his seat in the carriage to drive away one of them jumped on the back of the vehicle and placed his straw hat on the head of the visitor. The Alake resented this, and, although was explained to him that it was a mark of goodwill and honor, he did not appear to accept this explanation. His crowning work of art-this perfecand at the residence of the lord provest, where he was driven to luncheon, he declined to have any food. BREAKING BEE IN KANSAS. [Minneapolis Messenger.]

The breaking bee of Thomas McLean near Meredith, Cloud County, which was noticed in the Delphos items last week, was, we are informed, an occasion of considerable note in that section. There were engaged in it 144 horses, 22 mules, 27 yoke of oxen and 88 plows. Eighty acres were broken before noon. The Delphos item stated than an ox was killed; it was also cooked, with many other good things, for dinner. Fifteen more acres were broken in a short time after dinner and twelve teams, on their way home broke about the same amount for a widow who lives near there.

The two clouds had long been objects of careful study on account of the extra-ordinary physical conditions which pre-vail in them, but heretofore they have not been known as regions in which variable stars are numerous. After the discovery of a large number of such stars in the small cloud, Miss Leavitt was led to make an examination of the large one.

The variability of all of these stars and of those announced as variable in circulars, have been confirmed either by Mrs.

PUT A TAX ON CATS

English Proposal to Elevate Their Social Standing.

London, July 4.—Just as the returns for the quarter ended June 30, showing a decrease in British revenue of over £2,500,-000, were issued, a large meeting held in London, under the presidency of a dignitary of the Church of England, pointed out to the Chancellor of the Exchequer a new source of revenue. The meeting decided that it would be advisable to tax cats half a crown a head.

This, it was estimated, would produce £500,000 yearly, and, while reducing the number of cats in England, would elevate their social standing by removing the stigma of cheapness.

Proposal to Lay Bitulithic On Mr. Kingsley Evans Suffers Queen's Avenue Appears To Be Knocked Out.

It looks as though the proposal to lay bitulithic pavement on Queen's avenue is already dead, and buried. It is expected that at tonight's council meeting a petition for a tar macadam pavement, to be laid by the civic plant will be presented, fully signed. Charles Mockridge, a nephew of the bride, was groomsman. The bride's tar macadam petition are in most cases traveling dress was of gray canvas, signatories to the petition for a bitu-effectively trimmed with Oriental embroidery, a white silk blouse and white and black Napoleon hat, strapped in front with geranium-tinted velvet held a foot, whereas they are now told it understood it could be laid for 23 cents

The property owners also claim they are satisfied that if properly laid, a tar macadam pavement will last on Queen's will cost, they allege, twice as much per Lowry. 250 Canfield avenue west.

It is further claimed that if the tar it can be put down for $1 a yard, as Queen's avenue needs no grading, and the tar macadam can be laid on the six inches of gravel which now forms the foundation for the cedar blocks. This, it is said, will mean a saving of not less than 25 gents a square yard. One of the property owners told a reporter today that a resident of Queen's avenue had offered to contribute 100 to a fund to fight the laying ute $100 to a fund to fight the laying of a bitulithic pavement if the city attempted to put one down. It is hardly likely the city will make any such move, however, unless it is found from Buffalo. reaching home about that the petition for bitulithic is not invalidated by the withdrawals which there. His loss will probably be $500. The damage to the Evans homestead have been lodged against it.

It is understood, too, that the mayor will be from $2,000 to $2,500." has given his consent to the putting down of a tar macadam pavement on the avenue, and it is more than likely that the city will use its tar macadam that the city will use its tar macadam plant for the first time on Queen's avenue. If the work is gone on with, the pavement will be laid before Sept. 1 and the expert who laid the tar macad am pavements in Hamilton will be brought to London to superintend the work here.

Mayor Beck, however, made a very important statement this afternoon regarding the proposed tar macadam payement, which may have an important bearing on the matter on Queen's avenue. It appears that the price quoted to the Queen's avenue people, namely $1 25 a square yard, does not cover the cost of the curb and gutter or the interest on the debentures, and it is now said that the pavement will cost not less than $1.75 pavement hopes in this city.

PROMOTE PUPILS ON CLASS RECORDS

During July and August Diamond Plan May Be Adopted in Place of the Collegiate Institute Entrance Examinations.

examinations, and it being probable that the privilege will be extended to London also next year, local educationalists are beginning to devote much attention to the new scheme. It would certainly be a radical innovation to promote pupils to the inon the recommendations of principals, and the fear is expressed in some quarters here that the scheme would result in the flooding of the Collegiate Institute with an undesirable class of students, who might be unloaded onto it by principals who had found it impossible to do anything with them in the public schools. Of course, it is pointed out that the class records now kept by the teacher, and of the World will dedicate a new hall summaries of which are sent to parents of pupils every two months, would be a check on principals recommend-ing pupils not qualified for promotion. In the opinion of one member of the board of education the scheme would. however, result in a greater opportunity for favoritism than at present. If a teacher had a favorite pupil the records could be so doctored as to make it appear that the pupil had made greater progress than was in reality

It might be, too, that if a pupil, or his or her relatives, incurred the displeasure of the principal, the pupil would not be recommended for promotion, and to safeguard the interests of the scholar there would have to be a
