Attempts by the enemy to counter-attack were promptly disposed of by our artillery. At 1.30 p.m. several hundred Germans came out from the village of Pys and, deploying in the open, advanced with the evident intention of attacking. ROUMANIANS TAKE MOUNT

Bucharest, Oct. 26.—(via London)—The capture by the Roumanians of Mount Kerekharas, on the Transylvanian front south of Biazac, was announced today by the war office. In the Orava valley fighting continues beyond the Roumanian frontier. The Austro-German forces have now been driven everywhere beyond the western frontier of Moldavia, the northern province of Roumania, the statement says. The losses were very heavy.

PERCY MARTIN ACQUITTED BY JURY FROM CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Decision Was Quickly Reached Last Night, Following Lengthy Trial—Strong Case For the Defence Was Made by Mr. Brewster K.C.

Shortly after seven o'clock last evening Percy Martin, Indian, walking from the dock a free man, honorably exonerated by the verdict of twelve good men and true from the charge laid against him, that of having done to his death James Powless, killed in the course of an Indian brawl some months ago.

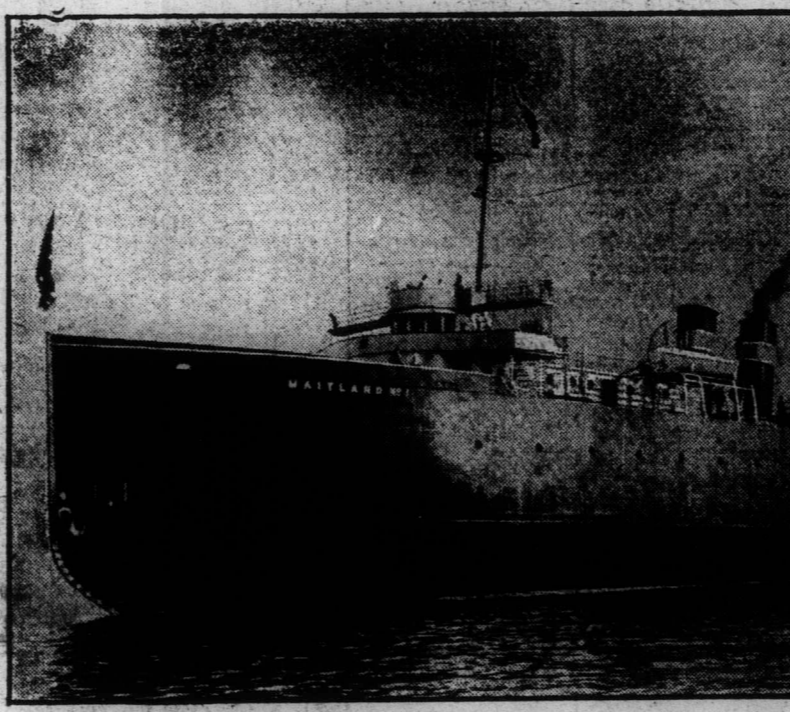

The verdict, coming as it did after an all day trial, was reached by the jury in remarkably short order after retiring from the court room and was looked for by all. The evidence offered by the Crown for the prosecution was to the effect that Martin had struck Powless at least one blow with a club, and presumably a second time, one of the two causing his death. The witnesses, however, gave their testimony in such a hesitant and uncertain manner, and became so confused before the cross-questioning of the defence counsel, that a had impression could not be made by them upon the jury. The defence, on the contrary, conducted most ably by W. S. Brewster, K.C., told a strong and straight-forward story throughout, to the effect that Martin had taken no part in the fray, not striking a single blow, although in self-defence he might have been justified in such a course of action. When the jury returned to the court room at 6.20, a verdict of "Not Guilty" was looked for by the majority of those present, and a murmur of general approbation swept the round of the room upon the reading of the verdict. The touching scene was witnessed in the reunion of Martin and his family following the prisoner's discharge. The trial had been one of anxiety and suspense for all of them, and the verdict brought about is as tender a scene as pen has ever depicted.

SERIOUS FIRE AT WATERFORD

Blaze Occurred Shortly After Midnight and Could Not Be Checked. Fire which broke out from an unknown cause, at the hour of 2 o'clock this morning in the general store of H. A. Sanderson at Waterford, wrought an unknown amount of damage to the business portion of the town, which was badly gutted by the flames. The principal sufferers were Mr. H. A. Sanderson, whose store and stock were entirely destroyed; Mr. Robertson, whose jewellery establishment suffered a similar fate, and Col. L. E. York, owner of the block. The damage is partially covered by insurance, and the exact amount of loss cannot be ascertained as yet. The entire block, situated on Ellis street, was destroyed, and damage was even done to the opposite side of the street, from the flames and smoke. The blaze had gained considerable headway before they were discovered, and in the high wind that was blowing but little could be done to extinguish the flames until they jumped themselves out this morning. As a result of the conflagration, a number of the telephone and hydro wires connecting the town with outside points were this morning out of commission. No persons were injured in the fire.

MISS DORIS RYER, SAN FRANCISCO BEAUTY AND HOESSES, IS TO MARRY STANHOPE W. NIXON, SON OF LEWIS NIXON, SHIPBUILDER AND FORMER HEAD OF TAMMANY HALL.

The afternoon session of the court opened at 1.45, with a much smaller attendance than in the morning. The accused man entered the dock once more, his demeanor was noticeably calmer than before, he having apparently recovered from the nervousness and excitement of the early stages of the trial.

T. H. & B. CAR FERRY MAITLAND

A car ferry route has been established across Lake Erie between the ports of Port Maitland and Ashabula, on the south shore of Lake Erie, by the T. H. & B. Navigation Co. In 1914 the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railway built into Dunnville, and this summer the line has been extended to Port Maitland, on the north shore of Lake Erie, at the mouth of the Grand River. It is one of the finest harbors on Lake Erie, and has been greatly improved by the erection of large slip docks for the accommodation of the car ferry, yard terminals for handling the cars, and the harbor has been dredged to allow boats of greatest draught to dock.

The initial trip of the car ferry was made Oct. 21st with a full load for Hamilton and other points. The officials of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Navigation Company are: J. N. Beckley, president, Rochester, N.Y.; F. F. Backus, vice-president, Hamilton; G. C. Martin, general traffic manager, Hamilton; A. E. Lock, supt. car service, Hamilton; G. W. Holmes, purchasing agent, Hamilton; F. O. Waldo, auditor, Detroit; H. J. Van'Veek, assistant auditor, Detroit; W. R. Beckley, secretary, Rochester; W. E. Hackett, treasurer, Detroit; W. E. Richards, auditor of disbursements, Detroit; S. Dutton, auditor of freight accounts, Detroit; J. M. Bedson, freight claim agent, Hamilton.

French military writers declare that the position of Fort Vaux is such that its capture by the French is momentarily expected. In Macedonia new Entente advances are announced. French cavalry has occupied the villages of Gotsbrda and Laisitsa in the vicinity of the Greco-Albanian border, while the Serbians have driven the Bulgarians and Germans further back in the region of the Cerna River, southeast of Monastir, according to Paris. The British are carrying out successful naval aeroplane attacks on the railway stations at Buk and Drama, on the Constantinople-Saloniki railway.

Witness did not know at what time the first disturbance of the gathering, he did not see him there until the close of the festivities. Lincoln Porter saw no part of the second row, but witnessed the first disturbance of the evening. He saw Percy Martin there, with a quart bottle of Tom gin in his possession, from which witness had a drink, as did Martin, also, between the hours of nine and ten. Defence The evidence of the last witness completed the case for the prosecution, and W. S. Brewster took the floor for the defence, calling as his first witness.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Lieut.-General Sir Sam Hughes has received the following report from the Canadian War Records Office: Canadian Corps Headquarters in France, Oct. 22, via London, Oct. 25. "The mystery of the Regina trench is solved. The resistance of the Germans at this point has been finally broken and the British are now in possession of a line to which the enemy attached considerable tactical importance. Three times the Canadians had attacked this position. Each time they had successfully broken into the trenches and had inflicted heavy losses upon the enemy, but each time strong hostile counter-attacks had driven them out again.

The German trenches had indeed been so organized that almost an air of mystery and of sinister hidden danger had come to be attached to the Regina trench. It was known to be strongly built, with many deep dugouts and to be protected by heavy wire entanglements, but the line ran for the greater part below the crest of the intervening ground, and could be recognized only by slight mounds. Wounded men who returned claimed that the enemy rifle and machine-gun fire came from behind the trench and that in counter-attacking the Germans appeared to spring from a concealed position immediately in the rear.

In the big advance of October 21st, which carried the British line forward on a frontage of 5,000 yards and to an average depth of 500 yards the Canadians, with other troops advanced to the attack on Regina trench. They were successful. Profiting by the former experience, their artillery maintained a continuous bombardment of their objectives until the wire entanglements were all completely blown away and no longer presented an obstruction to the infantry advance.

In the general assault the task of the Canadians was a minor but very important one. Their actual objective was only a length of 600 yards of the Regina trench, immediately to the north of the village of Courcellette. But this formed the right flank of the attack, and the Canadian troops were obliged not only to secure their proper objective, but also to connect the right of the captured position with their original line in such a manner as to make a defensive flank to the east.

For this purpose troops from Western Canada and Montreal were also played. An Ontario battalion was added to advance in close support. Had Important Task During the night of Oct. 20-21 the assaulting troops took up their position. The trenches, dug in heavy soil, were half filled with mud and water, for there had been much rain during the previous days. The ground about was in a difficult condition, churned and beaten into a sticky pulp by the long bombardment. The morning sun could do little to dry the water-soaked earth.

Enemy Opened Fire Shortly before noon the enemy, suspecting perhaps the imminence of an attack, began a heavy artillery fire upon our front lines. About noon our own guns opened with the

Lt. Fenton, 84th Killed

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 26.—Word has been received that Lieut. Hubert J. Fenton, a well known young Methodist minister has been killed in action. He was a graduate of Victoria University and had been engaged in missionary work in the north when war broke out. He qualified for the rank of Major, but went overseas as a lieutenant with the 84th. For some years he was supervisor of Hamilton's playgrounds.

CAPTURE OF FORT VAUX BY FRENCH EXPECTED VERY SOON

Entente Forces Make Gains in Roumania, While Serb Forces Repulse Bulgars and Germans in Macedonia. London, Oct. 26.—The situation of the Russo-Roumanians in Dobruja appears slightly less critical in the light of to-day's official report from Petrograd, which describes the pressure of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's armies as somewhat weakened. Despatches from Berlin report that the Entente forces were split into two parts with the fall of Tcheranavoda, some of the troops escaping over the great bridge across the Danube, while the others fled northward in Dobruja. Apparently the sections remaining in the Black Sea province have finally been able to make something of a stand against the onrush of the Bulgarians, Germans and Turks, north of Constantza-Tcheranavoda line. Petrograd asserts that the Teutonic pressure has been arrested in the Transylvania border regions. Further north in the Carpathians, near Capul mountain, the Russians report the repulse of a Teutonic attack. On the western front, the Germans are reported by Paris to have ceased their counter-attacks at Verdun, following the French success in Tuesday's drive which resulted in the recapture of Fort Douaumont and the advance of the French lines along a wide front in this sector. The new French positions which are declared to have been held intact are still under German artillery fire, however.

French Take Two Villages

Paris, Oct. 26.—noon.—French cavalry on the Macedonian front, supported by infantry occupied two villages southwest of Lake Doiran yesterday, the war office announced to-day. The Serbians threw back German and Bulgarian forces in the region of the Cerna River. The villages occupied by the French are Golobrida and Laisitsa. The French also took the bridges at Zvezda. Laisitsa is on the boundary between Greece and Albania, Golobrida and Zvezda are in Albania. Extension of the allies' Macedonian front westward, was indicated by the official announcement yesterday that a junction had been made with Italian cavalry advancing eastward from Avlona. # Nine Nurses Graduate at the Local Hospital

A Notable Event and Large Attendance—Eloquent Address is Delivered by Dr. Bier.

Graduating Class, Brantford General Hospital, 1916
Florence Sloc, Adaline Dolly Westbrook,
Jessie McEellan, Margaret McCulloch,
Elizabeth Thomson Tink, Ada Stephens,
Ida Mae Crabb, Cora Pearl Irene Robinson,
Marguerite Crawford Kerr.

By far the most impressive ceremonies which have ever taken place in connection with the graduation of nurses at the hospital occurred yesterday afternoon.

There was an exceedingly large attendance, including ministers, medical men, hospital governors, aldermen, members of the Women's Hospital Aid Association, friends of the nurses and so on. In fact, the crowd was so big that it was impossible for all to enter the large parlour in the Nurses' Home where the event took place, and many had to content themselves with standing in the passage way. The room was most prettily decorated with roses and Autumn leaves.

Mr. C. H. Waterous, President of the hospital board occupied the chair and to the right of him, headed by Miss Forde, the superintendent, sat the graduating class, other nurses sitting to the left. They all presented a charming appearance in their neat uniforms.

After the singing of the National Anthem, Rev. Mr. Woodside led in prayer.

A letter of regret for inability to be present was read from Mr. J. H. Fisher, M.P.

Mr. Waterous, in an apt speech, dwelt upon hospital matters, and the amount of earnest work and study which were necessary to the granting of a graduating certificate.

Miss Forde, in an apt speech, dwelt upon hospital matters, and the amount of earnest work and study which were necessary to the granting of a graduating certificate.

Superintendent, read a most interesting report. She dwelt on the fact that "a well equipped hospital is one of the greatest assets of a community" and that "the only difference in the treatment for the man of wealth and the free patient should be one of luxuries only."

The important problem facing them was more rooms for nurses—not only sleeping rooms, but dining rooms, kitchen and sitting rooms.

"We have outgrown them in 18 months occupancy. Last year we reported a school of 29—an increase of 8 over the year preceding—and a staff of 4. This year we have 33 nurses in training and have added one to our staff. We have been told the Women's Hospital Aid were severely criticised for planning such an unnecessary large Nurses Home, that it would not be filled for the next fifty years, and behold us now! In our hospital report for the year ending Oct. 1st, 1916, we find that whereas in 1914-15, the hospital cared for 380 patients, in 1915-16 we jumped to 1,725.

Miss Forde returned hearty thanks to the Governors for their "loyal support," to the doctors who had proved "unfailing friends," to the Women's Hospital Aid and Junior Aid who "never faltered" in their "unfailing generosity" and to Mrs. Willets of Paris for a cheque of $100 for the Nurses Home.

The graduating class that day was the largest that had ever gone out from the hospital and they were the one of the broadest of professions. There is almost no phase of human nature with which a nurse may not be called in contact. Your sympathies and understanding of life in the largest sense must be equal to many occasions. If you would fulfill all the requirements and possibilities which lie before you, so in the care of your body, of your mind and of your heart, you must always be alert, watchful, unselfish and charitable.

Nursing is a profession in which things move rapidly. The surgical and medical treatment of a year or two ago may have become obsolete to-day. If you would grow and develop and keep abreast with the progress of your day and generation you must occasionally get out into other fields and see what other people are doing. Hence you should visit other hospitals, give the benefit of your experience to others and when you can afford it, spend some time in post graduate work. You will there acquire fresh enthusiasms and new ideas which will make your work much easier and much more interesting. In this day, when, in the parlance of the street—"Money Talks" we are apt to be carried away with the craze that to make money is the chief end of all things.

Not long ago a prominent doctor said—"Deliver me from a nurse whose God is her salary, who can see dirt outside the sick-room and not lift her hand to obliterate it, who would not stoop from her professional vantage to lift a crying child, or relieve a tired mother."

You, as pupils, came from well regulated Christian homes. You were literally thrown into the cold routine stream of hospital work, and you are apt to forget the essentials that really make for greatness—right living, high thinking, interest in others' welfare, sympathy, unselfishness and love in the true sense.

The real joy that you have gained is in knowing more of the whys of things rather than the whys-nots. As you have come to the end of your hospital course, curiosity to know the reason for treatment is commendable. It is becoming more and more a matter of skillful management on the part of the nurse, who is entitled to know the reasons for what she is doing.

"The best nurse knows the whys," but never despises the doctor. Therefore urge on you a cooperative interest with the physician in the condition of the patient, in order to be of the highest service to the doctor and mankind.

Your instructors have endeavored with honor, dignity and enthusiasm to train you to use your hands, to teach you to use your heads and inspired you, I trust, to use your hearts.

Several lines of service are open to you. There is institutional work, which will have attraction for some of you, though it has disadvantages. Institutional life is very apt to get a person into a groove, which gets deeper and deeper until he cannot see over the edge of it. Still it is a life of great interest.

The life of a private nurse has many more attractions. It is much more varied, much more trying, but it gives a person, who is interested in men and women, the advantages of an experience that can be obtained in no other way. No other people in the world see men and women as the private nurse does. For a student of human nature and you will know a great deal more in a few years than you do now.

The work of the district nurse I hope will attract some of you. The need is very great, and therefore much to be accomplished by the trained hand, eye and heart going in and out amongst the poor. To a district nurse belongs the highest privileges a nurse can claim—to nurse the sick back to health, to cheer and brighten the homes of the poor, to comfort the fatherless and the widow, to ease the dying and to perform the last nursing duties required by the dead—but it is not so easy to summarize the sympathy and love which render the visit of the nurse the brightest spot in the day, not only for the patient but the patient's friends.

And then in the special nursing of tuberculosis, mental disease, etc. there is another field just opening.

I would here remind you of the noble band of women who have gone overseas to help in the fight for freedom whose faithfulness to the duty assigned to them is the admiration of all who have had occasion to come in contact with them. To fight and die for one's country is noble and heroic, but to live and work in the battle's wreck is the highest form of sacrifice, the noblest test of patriotism, since it is some none of the emotions and glory of conflict, neither the blare of trumpets nor the roar of drums since it is done amid the silence and pathos of the hospital where few come save the beaten and bereaved.

So the choice for each one of you is a wide one and whichever field you pick, the opportunities are great for the development of your virtues, which, as Dr. Osler aptly says, are seven, the mystic seven—Tact, Tidiness, Taciturnity, Sympathy, Gentleness and Cheerfulness, all linked together by Charity.

Tact is the saving virtue, without which no woman can be a success in anyway, as a nurse or not. She may have all the others but without tact she is a failure. It is the virtue which enables her to do the right thing at the right moment.

Tidiness—neatness is the very essence of her work—neatness is the asepis of clothes.

Taciturnity (silence)—it is the gift I should like you all to cultivate. It is so much needed. I know how you will be tempted by your patients who talk to you, who gossip and expect to be told all sorts of things by the nurse. If you have heard anything let it die with you.

Sympathy—You must have that in full measure, but pour it out with discretion, learn to give where needed and withhold where not needed.

Gentleness is your birthright as a nurse. It is expressed by words, by hand and in motion.

Cheerfulness is to preach happiness by example. It is expressed in the face and in the way you go about your work. There is no such blessing in the world as cheerfulness. It is not always easy to obtain. There is so much sorrow and so much suffering that only the bright and cheerful fulfil the law of bearing one another's burdens.

Of the last nursing virtue—Charity—I need scarcely speak; gently to scan your brother man, still more gently your sister woman, to judge no one harshly, to live as closely as possible to the counsels of the Sermon on the Mount may enable you to live in the true spirit of nursing.

In conclusion I again congratulate you and wish you great success in your future work and let me quote Oliver Wendell Holmes' lines to the physician, which seem to be equally applicable to the nurse—

"And last, not least, in each perplexing case
Learn the sweet magic of a cheerful face.
Not always smiling, but at least serene,
When grief and anguish cloud the anxious scene,
Each look, each movement, every word and tone
Should tell the sufferer you are all his own."
Not the mere hireling, purchased to attend,
But the warm, ready, self-supporting friend
Whose genial presence, in itself
The best of tonics, cordials, and nectars.

Mr. C. H. Waterous handed the diplomas to the members of the graduating class, and Mayor Bowly presented each with a hospital pin. Both gentlemen made happy speeches in so doing.

Mrs. R. S. Schell, President of the W. H. A. conveyed hearty greetings from that association. Thermometers had been ordered for each nurse, but unfortunately had not arrived in time. They would be distributed as soon as received.

The graduates, at the close of proceedings, were showered with individual congratulations, and all were the recipients of handsome bouquets.

All of the speakers paid hearty tributes to Miss Forde, the doctors and the Women's Hospital Aid.

At the close, dainty refreshments were served in the nurses' dining room in the basement. Mrs. Cummings Nelles and Mrs. A. K. Bunnell poured tea and coffee, and those who waited on the guests were members of the Junior Hospital Aid—Misses Kippax, Palmer, Kitchen, Chalcraft and Whitaker.

Governor Major, of Kansas, renewed the reward offered by the state of $300 for the arrest and conviction of Robert Rogers, accused of having killed Hazel Hardesty in Kansas City, Sept. 5, 1911.

Hard Colds—People whose blood is pure are not nearly so likely to take hard colds as others. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure, and this great medicine recovers the system after a cold as no other medicine does. Take Hood's.

Now Everybody Can Help Without Sacrifice

The Red Cross branch of the Women's Patriotic League have arranged with the Brantford Iron and Metal Co., for a systematic collection of rags, metals, papers, rubbers, bottles, etc. from the homes and business places in the city. Save your junk. Don't throw it away. Don't let anyone have it, unless he can show you his Red Cross Card. It will mean a great help to our soldier boys, and no expense to yourself. Don't forget: you want to do your duty—and you don't want the junk. But we appeal to you, again, on behalf of the soldier boys. Everybody can help.—business men, manufacturers, householders. Call Bell Phone 797 when you want a man to call. Should a Red Cross Collector call for your junk, don't let him get away without something.

WON CERTIFICATE.
Word was received that Pte. Horn Davis, A Co. of the 125th Brant Batt., won his cross, gun and certificate of marksmanship at Lamour Ranges before leaving for active service in France.

BUILDING PERMITS.
Permits were issued this morning at the office of the City Engineer, to Mr. A. G. Ludlow for the erection of three houses at 8, 10 and 12 St. Paul's Avenue, to cost in all, $3,000. Mr. Ludlow states that at present there is a decided scarcity of house accommodation in this district of the city. If weather conditions are at all favourable, it is expected that they will be completed and ready for occupation by the middle of January.

SOLDIERS' WIVES.
An interesting and amusing experience social was held in Marlboro street church Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. A splendid program consisting of vocal and instrumental selections, interspersed with the experiences encountered by the ladies while earning the dollar which they each contributed to the funds. A great deal of genius was displayed in contriving ways and means to complete the necessary amount, and the stories when told, aroused a great deal of mirth among those present. In all, a sum of $23 was realized.

POLICE COURT.
At the police court this morning a case of alleged seduction was adjourned until to-morrow.

ONE RECRUIT.
One recruit was attested yesterday and reported to the 215th battalion for duty this morning. He is Jack Murray, an American of French parentage, 23 years old and single. He was secured by Pte. Humble.

COAL GOING UP.
It was stated by a local coal dealer to the Courier this morning that anthracite coal had advanced two dollars a ton in Buffalo yesterday. As a result he is asking nine dollars a ton to-day and expects to increase the price to ten dollars to-morrow.

APPRECIATED.
Mr. C. H. Waterous, President of the Golf Club, sent a letter to Chief Lewis of the Fire Department expressing great appreciation for the work done by the department in saving the golf club house and enclosing cheque for $25.

ATTEND CONVENTION.
Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Sauder and son Ralph, have left for Toronto, where the doctor will attend the Sixteenth annual convention of the Ontario Association of Osteopathy at the Carls-Ritz Hotel on Friday.

TWO NIGHTS.
It has been decided to extend the privileges of the men of the 215th battalion in the matter of sleeping away from the barracks. In the orders issued this morning it was announced that all married men residing in the city would be allowed to spend two nights a week at home instead of one night.

DIRECTOR OF MEDICAL SERVICE.
An appointment in military circles announced this week is that of Lt.-Col. Chas. A. Peters of Montreal, formerly commanding the 5th Field Ambulance Corps at the front, to be assistant director of the Medical Service at London. Lt.-Col. Peters, who is a native of Newfoundland and a graduate of McGill University, is a brother of Rev. J. E. Peters of Marlboro street church.

COURT OF REVISION.
The Court of Revision which will meet on Friday, Nov. 3rd, will have only eleven appeals against the property assessment throughout the city. The total amount involved is less than $5,000, while the increase in assessment over last year was $365,000. This would indicate that the new system of valuation now employed by the assessors has met with the general approbation of the people of the city.

Mrs. Woodley
Yesterday afternoon witnessed the passing of the lamented Mrs. Lyman Woodley, whose body was laid to rest in Mt. Hope cemetery, amid every token of genuine grief and profound respect. The family residence was overcrowded. People thronged to pay their respect to the life of an earnest, sincere and kind Christian woman, who for more than a generation has gone about like her Master, doing good. She filled a large place in this district and will be greatly missed. Rev. G. H. North spoke a few words of comfort to the bereaved family. The Rev. David Alexander delivered a brief address on the apt words, "She hath done what she could." She leaves behind her a sorrowing husband and four sons and four daughters. The four sons and two brothers acted as pallbearers, the brothers being Mr. Sydney Smith, Buffalo, N. Y., Mr. Ruben Smith, Brantford, Friends from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Hartley, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Donald Sharpe, Welland; Mr. James Smith, another brother from Flint, Michigan, and many others from Simcoe and district.

Complaints Of Non-Delivery

Under ordinary circumstances the distribution of a Daily Newspaper is a big task, even with an organization trained for the purpose. When great numbers of new subscribers come all together, the difficulties become greater. The rush during the Great Prize Contest now on is an illustration.

At this time it will probably be impossible to avoid all mishaps and mistakes, although every precaution will be taken by the publishers to ensure the delivery of each number of the paper.

The publishers are determined not only to remedy any such mishaps and mistakes, and to reduce them to the lowest degree, but to spare no trouble or expense to prevent them in future.

With this end in view the publishers request subscribers to communicate every complaint regarding late or non-deliveries by letter, card or Phone 139.

THE BRANTFORD COURIER.

PERCY MARTIN

Cooke; regarded the accused as a regular gentleman, bearing a good reputation in the neighborhood.
Mr. Ferris,
farmer, also of Oakland, was also well acquainted with Percy Martin for eight or ten years, believing him to be quiet and well behaved. Had never heard of his being addicted to liquor. He had not known Jas. Powless.

Mr. Ernest Seord
also an Oakland farmer, corroborated the testimony of the two last witnesses, stating Percy Martin to bear a very good reputation. He had however, known Martin to drink occasionally, but always to be well behaved.

Percy Martin
the accused man, was next called to the box.

He was 28 years of age, a married man with two children. For practically all his life he resided in Oakland, working for Mr. Geo. Cooke. He only visited the Reserve occasionally. He was present at the garden party, arriving about nine o'clock with his wife and children, witnessing the row created by Sam Hill, who was drunk and gave a drink of liquor to both witness and one Abe Hill. Witness took only half a glass. During the past two days he had been working on the farm of Mr. Lawrence Davis, and had no opportunity of obtaining liquor. Witness had been fined in the police court on the same liquor charges as was Sam Hill.

The first Martin saw of the disturbance was George Loft rising from the ground, having been apparently knocked down. Witness aided Loft in requesting Sam Hill to be quiet, leading him to the road, although Sam was desirous of fighting the Lofts. Witness took no part in that encounter save as a peacemaker, Sam Hill being a friend of his. Martin was dancing at the time of the outbreak of the second tumult with his wife as a partner. Witness playing the fiddle and Geo. Loft the organ. At the end of the first set, Sam Hill re-entered the grounds and demanded his supper, then uttering a warwhoop, whereupon a crowd of men rushed in headed by Jack Hill. The invaders numbered some 10 or 15, were armed with clubs and tore down the fence in entering the grounds. From the platform Martin witnessed the disturbance, and at the request of his wife, accompanied her into the house. He took no part in the fight, did not have a club in his hand; did not strike Powless; did not even see him at the time of the second disturbance.

The band of invaders destroyed all the movable property in the yard, and then, singing "We'll Sew the Old Flag Full," took their departure. Among them he identified Gus Hill, Sam Hill and Richard Martin.

Witness had no liquor during the evening save what he obtained from Sam Hill. He did not see Lincoln Porter receive any. When the trouble broke out, Martin saw neither of the Lofts taking part in the disturbance, although he had admitted to him having thrown bottles. The men who rushed in were armed with clubs, some of them torch holders and others fence boards with nails inserted in the end. Witness did not know who aided the Lofts in the fight. There were some 25 men on the grounds, probably 15 of them being the Hill faction. He saw neither Hardy Martin nor James Powless. At the outbreak of the riot, witness was standing at the west end of the platform. He saw a chair swung in the air, but did not know who wielded it or who was struck. Witness did not know to which party Powless belonged, but himself, sided with neither, desiring to keep out of trouble and going accordingly almost immediately into the house.

Mrs. Percy Martin,
wife of the accused, followed her husband into the witness box. She witnessed the return of Sam Hill to the grounds, and the subsequent melee, Hill attacking Bill Loft. The witness urged her husband to go into the house, and they went together, Percy Martin taking no part in the fray. Witness recognized only George Hill among those fighting.

Mrs. Lily Hill
sister of the accused, witnessed the early disturbance of the evening, when Sam Hill, intoxicated, became disorderly upon the platform and was ordered to behave himself by Geo. Loft, and jerked the latter from the organ stool to the floor. After a slight struggle, Sam Hill was ejected from the grounds, only to return shortly after midnight when he demanded his supper from Wm. Loft. Sam Hill uttered two whoops, and a band of men rushed in demanding to find Bill Loft. Four of them attacked the latter, who was finally rescued. Witness saw James Powless in the fight, armed with a club, also Hardy Martin, who was under the influence of liquor. She never knew Percy Martin to drink. Percy took no part in the fight. She did not see Powless struck down, although she had seen him in the fight and using a club.

George Loft
was next called upon for the defence. Sam Hill, he stated, to have come to the grounds drunk, and to have become disorderly, so that he was ordered by the witness to desist. Hill became profane and abusive, and was ejected from the grounds, threatening revenge. Sam returned, and asked for his supper, but refused when it was offered him. Upon his uttering the warwhoop, a party of men rushed in. Among those in the subsequent fight, witness recognized Jas. Powless, armed with a club. He saw Percy Martin taking no part in the fight. Witness admitted having struck Sam Hill in the first fight, having given him a blow in the eye after being sworn at by him. Upon the latter's return, no attempt was made to prevent him from entering the grounds.

Sophia Martin
also a sister of Percy Martin, witnessed the second disturbance of the evening, caused by the return of Sam Hill to the grounds. So far as she saw, Percy Martin took no part in the fight. Witness saw Jas. Powless with a club, but did not see him struck.

Summing Up of Defence
This evidence concluded the case for the defence, which was then summarized by Mr. Brewster to the jury, reasoning that the blame for the fracas rested upon the Hill faction, who had already been found guilty before Judge and Magistrate. While the evidence of the physicians called as witnesses testified that Powless had received at least three blows. No evidence could be produced that more than one blow had been struck by Percy Martin. Who, then, could fix the responsibility for Powless' death upon Martin? The evidence of Hardy Martin and others would appear to indicate that Percy's blow had been delivered upon the top of Powless' head, whereas it was that upon the left side which had caused death. Mr. Brewster pointed out the hesitation evinced by several witnesses for the Crown, and the manner in which they had contradicted themselves. Powless was at least proven to have risen and continued in the fighting after being struck by Martin, which would be preposterous in the case of a man who had received a fatal blow. The unshaken evidence of Martin and his friends was to the effect that he did not strike a blow during the evening.

The accused man entered the court innocent in the eyes of the law. It was not for him to prove his innocence, the onus of establishing his guilt rested with the Crown, and if it failed definitely to do this, the prisoner must be acquitted of the charge against him.

Summary of Prosecution
A great deal, admitted Crown Counsel Conroyville had been instructed in the present case. The responsibility for the fracas had no place in the present case, which was to deal with the death of James Powless. The jury must take into consideration the interest of the majority of the defence witnesses, relatives of Martin, in the case.

By the evidence of the defence, Powless had been proven to be on the side of the Hill faction in the fracas, hence a motive for an attack by Percy Martin was established. Martin was the one man who could tell truly whether it was his hand which had struck Powless; yet he could not be expected to admit this. The very inability of the Crown's witnesses to swear that Martin struck the second blow, was proof that their story was not one hatched up expressly to convict the accused. Were this the case, it would be the natural thing to expect them to want to have seen both blows struck by Martin. Could the crown witnesses have any object in composing a story of their own? Rather, Mr. Conroyville considered that their testimony bore the hall marks of truth.

The very frankness with which the Hills had admitted their share in the disturbance, their punishment in the police court, should serve to impress the jury as to the reliability of the witnesses.

Addressed the Jury.
In his address to the jury, Mr. Justice Sutherland emphasized the necessity for the apprehension and punishment of crime, in order to protect law and order within the community. The minds of the jury must be cleared from any consideration as to the responsibility of the Hill party in the fracas, and the side taken in the fray by Percy Martin, except in such measure as might supply a reason for the death. In this measure only must such ulterior circumstances be taken into consideration. Drunkenness might be at the bottom of the present case; yet drunkenness, voluntarily contracted, did not free a person from responsibility for his deeds while in that state.

Definite belief in the guilt of the accused must be reached before a verdict could be rendered. The benefits of any of the juries must be given to the accused man. The nationality of the man accused must not be allowed to influence anyone in either direction.

THE REPORT.
Majority of Establishments Visited Are in Good Condition.

The following report of the Grand Jury, S. P. Pitcher, foreman, was submitted at yesterday's afternoon session of the Assizes:—
The Honourable Mr. Justice Sutherland.

Presiding Judge at the Court of Assize and General Gaol Delivery for the County of Brant. May it please your Lordship.—We, the Grand Jurors at the Fall Assizes for the County of Brant, beg to report as follows:

We first visited the gaol, which contains eight inmates at the present time, and we are pleased to report that we found the same clean and sanitary.

We regret the recent incident of two prisoners having escaped from the gaol, and would respectfully suggest that those in authority see that the necessary steps be taken to prevent a similar occurrence.

We next visited the Registry Office which, as has been pointed out before, is entirely inadequate for the demands upon it. It is with regret that we cannot report favorably upon the tidiness of the interior of the building, and we also suggest that the necessary repairs be gone on with to keep the building in shape until a new structure is erected.

The next place we visited was the Ontario School for the Blind, and are very pleased to report that everything indicates efficiency and progress, and that the officials take a great interest in the work of educating and caring for the pupils, of whom there are 115 at present. The buildings are in a good state of repair and are kept in excellent condition. It was also very pleasing to see that the new Principal, Mr. James, is extending the scope of the work, and we hope that he will be given every encouragement to bring his plans to a further state of perfection.

We next visited the House of Refuge and are glad to report that the general conditions of the institution seem to be above criticism. The inmates appear to be very comfortable and contented. There are forty-six inmates in this institution, and one of these is a girl, Helen Holmes, seventeen years of age, who in our opinion, should be in another institution. We however, would strongly urge that the sewerage disposal system be given immediate attention, as we consider that the cess pool system is unhealthy and a nuisance because it is overflowing. This can be taken care of by connecting up with the city sewerage system, which is only two blocks away. We also wish this matter called to the attention of the County and Provincial Board of Health.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
Signed on behalf of the Grand Jury.

King George, General Haig and David Lloyd George Praise "Somme" Battle Pictures.

ON THE EVENING OF SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2nd, the official War Office film, "The Battle of the Somme," was by royal command exhibited at Windsor Castle. There were present besides His Majesty, Her Majesty the Queen, the party from the royal household and others. Captain J. C. Fairthorpe, of the General Headquarters and Lieutenant E. Distin Maddick, representing the War Office, were in charge of the film. The King expressed to them his unqualified approval of the "Battle of the Somme" pictures, and advised the British public and that of the Empire at large, to see them. Both officers in charge of the film had the honor of being presented to their majesties and receiving royal congratulations.

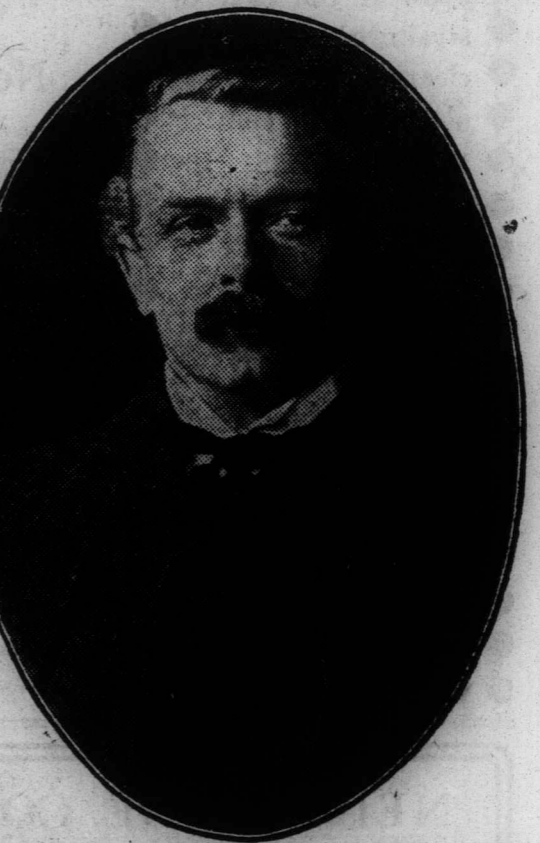

The King's Advice:

"The public should see these pictures that they may have some idea of what the army is doing and what war means."

—THE KING

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG, Commander-in-Chief of the British Forces at the Front.

HON. DAVID LLOYD-GEORGE.

Edited by General Haig

These wonderful pictures comprise the first war film to be allowed out of England without coming before the British censor. They were released for public exhibition as a tribute to the heroism of the British army, including the expeditionary forces of the British Dominions beyond the seas. And the sub-titles and explanatory notes were edited by Sir Douglas Haig himself. As the film stands it is official, and must not be tampered with. If it shows something of the horror of war, it shows more of British heroism.

"THIS IS YOUR DUTY. THIS IS YOUR MISSION."
"I am convinced that when you have seen this wonderful picture, every heart will beat higher in sympathy with its cause and purpose, which is no other than that every one of us at home and those abroad shall see what our men at the front are doing and suffering for us, and how their achievements have been made possible by the sacrifices at home."
"Be up and doing also! See that this picture, which is in itself an epic of self-sacrifice and gallantry, reaches everyone. Herald the deeds of our brave men to the ends of the earth. This is your duty."
"Ladies, I feel that no word is necessary to urge upon you the importance of throwing in the whole ardor and strength of your invaluable aid. Mothers, wives, sisters affianced ones—your hearts will beat, your voices speak, in honor and glory of the living and the dead. You are great and powerful. This is your mission." —David Lloyd-George.

Copies of this film have reached Canada and will be presented for public exhibition in the best theatres, under the auspices of the leading Canadian newspapers in the chief cities from coast to coast. In Brantford this wonderful record of British heroism and of British victory will be shown under the auspices of The Brantford Courier, at the Colonial Theatre, November 2, 3, 4. In order that as many people as possible may see this wonderful picture, a popular price will be charged for every seat in the house, 25c. Matinees daily.

SOMME PICTURES ARE NOT HORRIBLE

London Press Unanimous That They Should be Presented Unchanged.

London newspapers were practically unanimous in declaring "The Battle of the Somme" official motion pictures should not be tampered with when they were presented to English audiences. The chief question—aside from military considerations, however, was whether the actual portrayal of war was too grim for realism. All the journals asserted that nothing should be done to the pictures to destroy any part of their realistic presentation.

It has been decided by censorship boards in Ontario that the pictures notwithstanding the scenes of bloodshed are not too horrible to be witnessed by the people of this province. As a result the films will be shown at the Colonial Theatre for three days, beginning Thursday, November 2, under the auspices of the Brantford Daily Courier.

When General Sherman said that war was hell, he spoke what was a truism to every soldier and a world which knew that side of war which is concerned with broken hearts and ruined homes, agreed with him.

But the world did not know war at first hand; the question was, should it be enlightened so far as the moving picture could accomplish that feat. Should those who worked or waited, or most of all, those who were not giving the maximum of effort in support of those actually fighting, be shown in a more intimate and nearer way than ever before. Something—but not by all means all—of what these last were suffering in the cause of justice and of freedom.

The judgement of authority was given in favor of this revelation and the nation has endorsed it. It was no question of making a show of death or suffering for the recreation of pleasure-seekers, nor have the pictures so widely shown ever been accepted in that spirit. They are to the vast mass of the nation a sacred thing for they show something of the greatest sacrifice that man can make—the giving up of life itself, and all that it holds dear in a noble cause.

But then came sinister rumors of an attempt, by means of subtle influence, such as we have learned to know well in this war, to get certain scenes removed from the films that are being shown. These scenes, it was understood, are not those which deal with the charges of our troops under fire and in which men are seen to fall, perchance to rise no more; there are the scenes which might be considered offensive to German or pro-German sentiment. It was asked whether an unseen hand was at work once through the medium of our sentimentalists and whether this underground agitation was another phase of the "Don't humiliate Germany movement" that was so sternly repressed by public opinion at the opening of the conflict.

The English public, however, would stand no tampering with the films which are to be shown in Brantford. They have already been carefully edited, they contain absolutely nothing which it is unfit that the nation should see and as they are now, so they must remain. The beginning of the terrible combat on the Somme, an actual battle in progress, artillery action, mine explosions and charges into the enemy trenches is shown in the official pictures.

The films include five sections dealing with the preparatory action from June 25, to June 30, and at attack on June 31 and July 1, and every phase of the action is marvelously depicted.

The Battle of the Somme in motion pictures is the greatest production of its kind the world has ever known and it rivets the attention of audiences wherever shown. The film will be presented to Brantford audiences for the first time on Thursday, November 2, when the Brantford Courier will display the film

Paris, Oct. 26.—The French troops at Verdun are following up as fast as they can the advantage gained by their sudden forward sweep on Tuesday and according to the latest information, have closed in to within less than five hundred yards of Vaux fort. Announcement of the capture is momentarily expected here thus completely restoring the French line held on February 25.

The German forces at Verdun are reacting so slowly and with such apparent lack of strength that in the opinion of French military men they no longer possess a general reserve, but are obliged to withdraw men from one section of the front to reinforce another section in case of need.

Reports of the casualties which are now in hand show the French losses were very light indeed, considerably less than the number of prisoners taken and a large proportion of them was of cases in which the men were slightly wounded. Considerable material was captured. The Germans had massed guns of all calibres in the ravine of death, all of which fell into the hands of the French.

The three lieutenant-generals who, under the command of General Mangin, led the attacking divisions were all lieutenant-colonels at the outbreak of the war and had been singled out by General Joffre for promotion on account of their technical ability, energy and initiative.

SISTERS THREE

"Gipsy is the one who makes people laugh," said Allardyce. "Oh, there she is on the rocks waiting for us, and Keeper with her! I don't think Keeper ever lets her out of his sight except when we go to church, and when he bows all the time till she comes back. When he is properly trained to wait he can sit outside with Captain; but he would be sure to knock poor old Trevanna down and come stalking in if we tried now, or else drawing all the service with his wails."

Gipsy asked no questions when they drew ashore, but Allardyce gave her a signal that all was right. There was a greater elasticity in Miss Willoughby's step as she mounted the rocky stair to the house. As the girls chatted to her of their new life while at breakfast together her face had a brightness that was new to it, and from time to time at some sally of Gipsy's her long-curled hair would suddenly ring out.

"Come and see our farm," cried Gipsy when the meal was ended, "and don't make merry at our expense because we have not the prize beasts of Clumbermere! Remember, please, that we are only just beginning, and that every month when I balance the books I find that we have a nice little balance on the credit side!"

"I wish I could say the same!" said Miss Willoughby, with another laugh. "By all means let me learn from you how to make farmings pay!"

Chapter XXIX.

"We are together at Langham Hotel. Return in about ten days. Make known good news to our friends.—Kildare."

Allardyce's hands trembled as she held the flimsy pink paper. The orange envelope fluttered to her feet unheeded. With a flush on her face and a great light in her eyes she ran up the stairs to the room which was hers, except when she vacated it of her own free will, and knocked lightly at the door.

"Miss Willoughby, may I come in?"

The lady was writing at the inlaid Davenport, and as she caught sight of the girl she rose quickly to her feet.

"Child, you have had news!"

"He is free! He is free. Oh, Miss Willoughby, read that! And you have done it!"

Scarcely knowing what she did, she flung her arms round Miss Willoughby's neck. The message was read by both as they stood side by side, and Allardyce felt the little thrill which ran through the fall frame she held so tightly.

"This is free! This is free!" she repeated between deep breaths; and she heard a whisper from the deep voice, like one she had heard before—

"Harold, am I forgiven? I have done it at last!"

With her hands pressed against Miss Willoughby's shoulders, Allardyce gazed into her moved, almost stern face.

"I think he knows! Oh, indeed, I can never believe that they do not know—just a little—about those they have loved and left! He loved you; Jim was his friend. Oh, I am sure that he is very glad! Are you not happy yourself?"

"Child, I have known more of peace in these last few days than for the two years which had gone before. The iron had entered into my soul. Now, though the scar always remain, the pain of the wound is assuaged."

Allardyce kissed her again and again.

"I must go and tell the others! Doctor Kingscott must be told, and the Lebertons—Audrey and Gipsy will do that—and everybody who cared for him in the past. Oh, what joy there will be! And they need only know that the truth has come out—nothing more. It has not got into the papers; we should have seen it if it had. We have been watching every day. Oh, I must run and tell them!"

Mrs. Gosling was the first to meet Allardyce as she was running down the corridor with shining eyes.

"My lamb, what is the good news?" she asked; and Allardyce threw her arms about the good old woman's neck and whispered the wonderful tidings, adding at the end, with a little lilt of laughter—

"Oh, Goosey, dear, what am I to call him when we meet? I don't seem to know him by any name except just—Jim!"

The old nurse looked fondly after her as she ran lightly down the stairs. Never had she seen this youngest of her nurslings so moved and aroused as she had been during these last days. The sisters had no secrets from their faithful old servant, who was their truest friend, and who never betrayed a trust by the smallest indiscretion. She had heard the whole story from first to last in its smallest details, and with a knowing shake of her wise old head she murmured to herself—

"Bless her pretty face and tender heart! If men be not greatly changed from what they were when I was young, it won't be long before she will be calling him 'Jim' to the end of the chapter!"

The other sisters heard the news with eager excitement and delight. Audrey's eyes lighted from within, while Gipsy danced round the room in a fashion that set Keeper capering to the imminent peril of many cherished possessions.

Mr. Donald McIsaac is quite ill at present. We hope for his speedy recovery.

Mr. Kendrick of Brantford, was through here on business one day last week.

A number from this way attended Mr. Elba Johnston's auction sale on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Poole, of Norwich, were calling on friends in this section a few days ago.

The sick ones in this vicinity are all slowly recovering at the time of writing.

The potato crop, we understand, is very poor indeed, in this locality. The majority of the farmers will not have enough for their own use.

We are very sorry to report the serious illness of Mr. David Secord's

SIDE TALKS

By Ruth Cameron

Two friends of mine took up the game of checkers a year or two ago, and have been having a kind of running tournament together ever since.

The other day, I asked one of them how the tournament was coming on.

"We've stopped," he said. "His class too far ahead. I'm not in his class now!"

"Why do you let him beat you like that?" I asked.

"Too Much Like Work"

He held out his hands in a movement of helplessness. "Couldn't help it. He plays so many moves ahead; I won't do that. Too much like work—what's the use?"

I don't suppose there is any particular use. Games are a sort of mental gymnastics that do not accomplish anything except to train the muscles of the mind. If you cease enjoying them, it is time to seek some other exercise.

But the philosophy of playing a game so many moves ahead I like. Children Always Play a Move at a Time.

When children first play checkers, they play just one move at a time. By and by, one of them begins to plan a move ahead. At once he starts to win, and keeps on winning until his opponent also learns to play a move ahead.

One move ahead soon becomes two or three, and two or three soon become more.

The real checker player plays for the end of the game at the very beginning. Anyone who plays only a few moves ahead is wax in his hands. "The world stands aside for anyone who knows where he is going," says David Starr Jordan.

"For anyone who plays several moves ahead," is another way of putting that.

Playing The Game of Life Several Moves Ahead.

One man who is going to buy a home studies the growth of the town, forecasts the development of the neighborhood, looks thoroughly into transportation facilities, and buys a home that grows in value and that fits into his own future.

One young man permits himself to drift into any business that offers an opening with reasonable pay. Another studies himself, the field, and tries to find where he will fit best, and have the greatest ultimate opportunity.

"Do you play the game of life one move at a time, or as many moves ahead as you can play it wisely? Do you ever have quarrels in your mind? A woman said to me once that she found she was "wasting much energy carrying on imaginary arguments and quarrels."

This is the sort of thing she meant. She would have a certain favor she rather dreaded to ask of someone. She would be thinking about this matter and she would anticipate a refusal. Then she would become indignant at the very thought, and plan what she would say in such case. Next, she would supply the other party's answer, and her own to that, and so on.

All That Bitterness For Nothing.

"Sometimes," she said, "I would find I had been quarreling away in my imagination for ten minutes or so, and I would be really quite worked up and bitter about it all. And then, when I came to ask the favor, there would be no difficulty about it at all. And I would have had all that indignation and bitterness for nothing."

"It is a ridiculous habit," she continued, "I'm simply determined to cast it out of my mind. It's bad enough to get angry over the things that happen, but over the things that never come, why, it's perfect nonsense."

Is She Unique Or Not?

Now, perhaps, this woman's mental processes are unique.

If they are, I am wasting words. She should be described in a pathological report, not in a column which is dedicated to everyday human nature.

But somehow I don't feel she is unique.

There is something disturbingly familiar about the habit of forecasting opposition, and then fighting with these ghosts of your own creation.

Anger Dries Up The Fountain Of Youth.

Everyone knows it is unhealthy for mind and body and soul to get angry. Anger poisons the system, interferes with digestion, makes wrinkles, and dries up the fountain of youth in one's heart.

Of course, this imaginary anger isn't as poignant and painful as the real.

But it's quite bad enough and it is utterly futile. One can usually think up enough sharp retorts on the spot without planning them in advance.

TWO MORE DAYS
OF LARGE VOTES Offered You

This Week's Big Vote Offer Affords a Grand Opportunity for New Entries

There are a great many people who would like the Daily Courier and would gladly give a 6 months' subscription to some good live energetic candidate if they would get out and see them. The reason why we say this is because every day there are new subscribers coming into the office with their subscriptions, and were not aware of the fact that there was a contest on until they saw the paper. It is up to you candidates to get out on the Rural Routes and see every one.

The contest is fast nearing an end. Are the judges going to read your name as a winner of the Grand Prize Dodge Bros. Touring Car, or are you going to be counted as a winner of some small prize? Results will tell. Success will crown your effort. The slogan this week, "Get Busy." Keep busy and get results. Success and failure both have the same number of letters. Which is to be yours?

The Great Vote Offer Ends 8 p.m. Get Busy Stay Busy
Sharp, Saturday Night!

Several of the candidates are over confident. This is a big contest and is going to take many times as many votes as some think. The candidates who think they are in the land of plenty of votes are going to lose—Why? Because the real live, energetic candidates are getting the results. Wake up—it is results this week or lose. Get busy.

if they are in need of glasses, should be correctly fitted or your troubles will merely begin. Better be without glasses than wear the kind that do not suit your vision. This is often the cause of total blindness. Our business is to study the human eye in all its different phases. We measure every patient to get the exact lenses to fit the sight, then your eye troubles will be over — you will see as clearly as you ever did.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat and Take Salts for Backache or Bladder Trouble—Neutralizes Acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps in lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush out the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.
