OFFICE:..... MACDONNELL STREET. TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 12.

Local News.

TO ADVERTISERS.—Advertisements should reach the office of publication, Macdonnell street, East of the Golden Lion, not later than noon on Wednesday, in order to secure publication in that week's issue.

MASONIC.—The regular monthly meeting of Speed Lodge, No. 180, will be held in the Lodge room, old Post Office Block, this (Tuesday) evening at half-past 7 o'clock.

ARTS' EXHIBITION.—Continued success attends this enterprise of the Mechanics' Institute. There was a very fair attendance last night. The music, vocal and instrumental, was very pleasing. An entertaining programme has been arranged for to-night, and we hope that we shall be able to-morrow, to announce not only no decrease, but a large increase of patronage.

FIRE AT WATERLOO.—At 1.30 p. m. on Sunday last, a fire broke out in the foundry of Mr. Morningstar, of Waterloo, completely destroying the buildings and their consumable contents. The loss is estimated at $7,000, and there was insurance on the property in the Gore Mutual to the amount of $1,500. The origin of the fire is not known. Mr. Randall's mills and distillery narrowly escaped destruction in the conflagration.

THE OIL INJECTOR.—The inventors of this valuable apparatus are going energetically to work to have it brought into use not only in Canada but abroad. Last week Mr. John McCrea, who has taken a third part interest in the apparatus, started for England with a model for the purpose of securing a patent, and bringing it under the notice of engineers and others interested in the subject. The Oil Injector is also beginning to attract considerable attention in Canada, and not a few will ere long have the apparatus fitted on their boilers. One of them is now being manufactured for Mr. David Allan, which is to supply fuel for the boiler in his mill. Last week a deputation of the Great Western Railway officers came up from Hamilton to Guelph to examine it, and it is expected the General Manager will have a locomotive fitted with the Injector forthwith for trial.

ORANGEVILLE TRAMWAY COMPANY.—The first general meeting of the above Company was held in Orangeville on the 4th inst., Richard Church, Esq., presiding. The chairman stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of electing a new Board of Directors, and that the Provisional Board had deposited in the Royal Canadian Bank at Brampton over $2000, which could only be withdrawn for the purpose of constructing the road, of which a considerable portion had already been graded at a cost of nearly $500 a mile. He trusted the new Board would prosecute the work with energy and vigor, as the importance of the undertaking to the country could not easily be over-estimated. A new Board of Directors was appointed, who afterwards met, and elected Thomas Jull, Esq., Reeve of Orangeville, President; and J. Ketchum, Esq., Vice-President. Mr. Jno. Foley was appointed Secretary. A further call of ten per cent was made on the subscribed stock of the Company, and a committee appointed to superintend the construction of the line.

RUNAWAY.—Yesterday afternoon a horse took fright some place in the neighborhood of the Red Mill, and quickly detaching himself from the vehicle he was drawing galloped furiously along the Waterloo Road, passing the South Ward school in his wild career. Some of the children were on the road, and a little boy, son of P. Gow, Esq., Mayor, attempted to run across when he saw the horse coming. This he might have been able to accomplish, but some of the other children shouted at him to go back again, and in his attempt to do so the frightened horse came upon him. He was thrown down, received a cut on his head behind the ear, and rendered for some time insensible, but whether the horse ran over him, or whether he was struck by one of the shafts of the buggy which still remained attached to the harness is not known. Another boy, whose name we could not learn, was a participant in the misfortune. He sustained a fracture of one or two of the bones of one hand. Dr. Howitt attended to the injuries of both the little fellows, and we are glad to learn that their wounds, though painful enough are not of a serious character. It is reported that a third boy was hurt, but we have not learned the fact on reliable authority.

THE QUEENS OF ENGLAND.—We have received a copy of the above work in its abridged form from Messrs. Tunis & Co., Clifton. It gives a sketch of the lives of all the Queens of England, whether they have been queens-consort or queens-regnant, since England was invaded by the Normans. The volume is neatly bound, and we are sure will prove very interesting and acceptable to juvenile students of history. For sale at Day's bookstore.

STONE EDGE is the title of a new novel published by the Harpers, a copy of which we have received from Tunis & Co. It is apparently by a young author, or else by a modest one, who is too doubtful of the reception likely to be accorded to his work to give his name. So far as we have read it, it is well written. For sale at Day's bookstore.

CONFIDENCE RESTORED.—The Montreal correspondence of the Globe telegraphs:—'Nearly all of the bank stocks have advanced, and accommodation is more easily obtained.'

That door has blown open again—how very annoying this cold weather. 'Tis no wonder we take cold! To prevent it send for one of Horsman's Door Springs.

Board of School Trustees.

The Board met last night. Present, H. W. Peterson, Esq., in the chair; Messrs. Pirie, Fraser, Newton, Knowles, Bruce, Watson, Herod, Howard, McNeil and Innes.

The Secretary read a communication from the Canada Company in answer to his letter of enquiry, which stated that the lease rent of lot on which the girls' school stands, and which is due in February, is $17.75.

An account was presented from Mr. Alexr. Bruce, amounting to $75.37, for building a woodshed at the Grammar School, and for making sundry repairs in the other schools in town.—Referred to Finance Committee.

Dr. Herod presented the report of the School Property Committee. In reference to the account of Mrs. Foley, for $6, for cleaning the schools, the committee cannot recommend the payment of it, as at the close of her engagement with the Board she refused to renew it unless she got $10 advance for the work. The chairman refused to give this, and engaged another person to do the work at the old rate of $5 a year.—The report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Pirie, Wm. James, John and Samuel Craig were admitted free scholars in East Ward school. The Board then adjourned.

SUPPOSED INCENDIARISM IN HAMILTON.—There have been four fires in Hamilton since Saturday morning last, and they have all had about them the marks of incendiarism. On Saturday evening an attempt was made to fire the engine house on Napier-st. A quantity of coal oil was thrown upon the floor, and a number of newspapers saturated with the inflammable fluid were lighted and thrown in. The flames were gaining a hold on the wood work when discovered by a resident near by, who was enabled to extinguish the fire without making a general alarm. A second fire occurred about one o'clock on Sunday morning. It was in a brick building, owned by Mr. Campbell, and used by him as an ice house. The firemen extinguished the flames before much damage had been done. An hour after a stable in another part of the city was found to be burning. The incendiary had collected a quantity of straw and rubbish against the building and then applied the match. Timely observation, and the efforts of two constables, and some other parties in the locality saved it also. The fourth fire of the incendiary series broke out at about half-past 10 on Sunday night, in a stable owned by Mrs. Rosewarne, on Augusta street, west of John street. The building was filled with hay and straw, and was speedily consumed. The firemen were timely at the scene to prevent the destruction of adjacent property.

New Publications.

FOHNEY'S LETTERS.—On Saturday November 16, T. B. Peterson & Brothers, 306 Chesnut street will issue Colonel J. W. Fohney's Letters from Europe, in one volume duodecimo, 408 pages. As our readers are aware, these letters, now collected and carefully revised, were written literally "on the wing," while their author was making a rapid four months' tour in Europe and originally appeared in the Press. Colonel Fohney trusted largely to his own observation, and very little to guide-books and hand-books of travel, and put his impressions upon paper as they arose. Hence came that freshness of thought and ease of expression, which nearly as much as the large amount of information which they communicate, renders them a popularity for these letters, which, we believe, will be increased and made permanent by their appearance in book-form. Colonel Fohney, not looking merely at the surface, inquired into causes and effects, and collected valuable statistics of several subjects, particularly illustrative of the operation of Free Trade in Europe, and its injurious action upon labor and wages. The course of his travel was as follows: From New York to Liverpool, Mr. George Peabody being a fellow-voyager; some days at Liverpool, thence through the manufacturing districts of the North of England to Sir Francis Crossley's great carpet factory at Halifax, Yorkshire; some weeks' residence in London, during which he visited and graphically described the Houses of Parliament, the Peadody buildings, Mr. Spurgeon's chapel and preaching, the Langham Hotel, the Crystal Palace, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, the Tower of London, and the Thames Tunnel. In England he also described Windsor Castle, and Eaton Hall, the Provincial Palace of the Marquis of Westminster, the wealthiest man in Europe. Besides these, he gives passing and incidental sketches of eminent public men. He carried the same searching observation into Paris, which has rarely been seen so graphically depicted, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium, and Holland. The result is a readable and very reliable book, the key to which is an unusually full alphabetical index, in double columns, covering eight pages. A good portrait of Col. Fohney, engraved by Mr. Sartain, from a photograph by Gutekunst, is given as a frontispiece, and the volume is got up in a very handsome manner.

Parliament of Canada.

SENATE CHAMBER, Ottawa, Nov. 11th.

Senator Allan moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne; the address being, as usual, an echo of the speech. He congratulated the House on the completion of Confederation. While fully appreciating the power of the adjoining Republic, he felt that Canada could maintain her independence, and at the same time embrace under the government all the Provinces in America acknowledging the away of our Sovereign.

Hon. Mr. McCully (N. B.) seconded the address, referring to the negotiations preceding Confederation. (They were here now to arrange details, and he trusted shortly to make the Act of Confederation all that could be desired. That we had all the elements of a great nation no one could doubt. Nothing was wanted but a sentiment of kindness among the people.)

Hon. Mr. Campbell in reply to an enquiry explained why Mr. Galt and Mr. Archibald had resigned. The address was adopted as a whole.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. J. S. McDonald presented a petition protesting against the election and return of the Hon. J. C. Abbott for the County of Argenteuil.

On motion of Sir John A. Macdonald, the House resumed the order of the day for the consideration of the address in reply to His Excellency's Speech from the Throne.

Hon. Mr. Howe stated that he thought it right to explain, that as the House would have a full opportunity of discussing the various clauses of the address, and every member who chose could state his views on them, he would not move an amendment to the address as he intended to have done.

Mr. Blake resumed the debate, and made an able speech of an hour's length, which was very effective and well received. He reviewed the political history of the country for some time prior to the formation of the coalition, and the purpose for which the two parties had been brought together, namely the solution of our constitutional difficulties. It was not supposed—it was not contemplated—it was not suggested, at any rate publicly, whatsoever were the views privately held by the parties to that compact—that either of the two parties should lose its distinctive character, or that we would find ourselves upon the carrying out of that Confederation in a position which would require no reorganization of parties, as questions might arise leading to a difference of opinion in men's minds. The best proof that the alliance was not to dissolve parties was to be found in the facts connected with two elections which took place soon after its formation, and when appeals on behalf of the two parties were made to the constituents interested.

Yet after Confederation was accomplished—after the present Coalition was formed—they were told by an honorable gentleman who had formerly represented their party, (Mr. McDougall), that they were no longer to regard the past, that party distinctions were to be buried in oblivion, and that with the inauguration of the new Dominion, we would all commence anew with clean slate. It was told that this was the best course for the interests of the Reform party itself; for otherwise, it would be in a minority in the Councils of the country, and the Minister of Justice would form a Government of Conservatives exclusively, and leave Reformers in opposition. They were told that partyism was a mistake, that the country was tired of political contention, and had enough of it, and that there should now be conciliation, peace and harmony on both sides. This doctrine was laid down that the best men should be selected irrespective of party, and that to be a party man was something discreditable. Everyone who professed to adhere to strong party views was denounced as an extreme man, but, at the same time, a most strenuous and unscrupulous fight was carried on by the advocates of harmony, peace and conciliation. Those who opposed the Coalition were set down as most unreasonable men. There was something in the Government that was said to suit every taste—if it was a taste that could be pleased by a composition of that description. (Hear.) He then went on to describe how the elections were managed by the Government. In the western part of the Dominion, when the Minister of Justice, Sir John A. Macdonald, was perambulating he was not alone. He was accompanied by a shadow, tall and thin—as a shadow ought to be—which followed his every footstep, echoed his every word, applauded his every sentiment. The two men who for twenty years had sat on opposite sides of the House—whose opposition had not ceased even during the temporary truce while Confederation was in progress—were now allied. The long feud of the clan McDonald had come to an end. The premier of Ontario had submitted to the chief premier of Canada, and an alliance offensive and defensive had been formed between the major and minor potentates to sweep the elections in Ontario for the benefit of the big and the little coalitions. One of the first fruits of that alliance was the conversion of the Hon. member for South Brant, which was followed by others. As the result of these strange proceedings witnessed during the late elections, we saw a good deal of confusion now in this House. It had been customary to see the chief benches on his side of the House reserved for the Opposition; but on this occasion, we found the members for Cornwall and South Brant sitting among those to whom they had been opposed at the election. It was difficult under these circumstances to know who was Ministerial or who Opposition. He hoped to learn from the lips of these gentlemen themselves what was their position—that he and his hon. friends near him might know whether they were surrounded by friends or foes. But the government met the House under different circumstances from those under which the elections took place. Two of its members had resigned.—He referred to the cause of Mr. Galt's resignation, and said that though he had been offered up as an expiatory sacrifice by the Government in the hope that it would propitiate the country, still every member of it would be held equally responsible with him for the policy in regard to the finances. Mr. Blake went on to show the injurious nature of the Bank of Issue scheme of last session. He proceeded to point out that the Government had a good opportunity of showing a system of prodigality and extravagance, by reducing the number of Cabinet officers from 13 to 11. He then referred to the promise of a measure as to elections. He trusted it would contain a provision that the elections should be held on one day throughout the Dominion. The militia scheme, he hoped, would be well considered. The House should not vote large sums of money, for a system of defence without being where to it tended and where to it would grow. An exhaustive investigation of the whole subject should precede legislation, so that we might adopt as complete a system of defence as the circumstances of the country would admit.

Mr. Cartwright and Mr. Morris followed, and then the debate passed into the hands of the Lower Province members. One of the Nova Scotia anti-Unionists announced his acceptance of "the situation," and some others held almost a similar tone. Mr. Howe wound up the debate in a lengthy reply to Dr. Tupper's speech of last Friday, and the House adjourned at 12:15.

Terrible Colliery Accident in Wales

200 LIVES LOST LATEST FROM ITALY.

GARIBALDI TO BE TRIED AT FLORENCE.

Today's Despatches.

Paris, Nov. 8th, evening.—Garibaldi's friends state that at the recent battle near Monte Rotondo he had only 4,000 men. The Standard, a semi-official journal of this city, says that the sons of Garibaldi have not been captured, but are still at large, though concealed.

Florence, Nov. 8.—General Garibaldi is to be tried at Florence.

Falmouth, Nov. 8, evening.—Steamer Fulton from New York, Oct. 26, arrived this p. m., and sailed for Havre.

Southampton, Nov. 10.—Steamer Borussia from New York, Oct. 26, arrived this a. m., and sailed for Hamburg.

London, Nov. 10.—Additional particulars have been received of the terrible calamity in Glamorgan, Wales. Few of the miners escaped from the burning pit at Feardale. It is not known how many lives were lost.

The Lord Mayor's banquet took place yesterday. All the members of the Derby-Diarsell ministry were present except Lord Derby. Mr. Diarsell made a speech in the course of which he alluded to the controversy which had arisen between England and the United States, but he said a better feeling had arisen in America since last year, and he had every reason to hope for the maintenance of those relations of warm friendship by the material interest and by every moral feeling that could unite the two nations.

Florence, Nov. 10th.—The Italia says King Victor Emmanuel having fulfilled all the obligations imposed upon Italy by the September Convention, now demands of the Emperor Napoleon the departure of the French troops from Italian soil and the recall of the French fleet from the Italian coast. The Italia also says that the King, in his communication to the French Emperor, firmly protests against a European Conference composed only of Catholic powers, for the settlement of the Roman question.

Paris, Sunday, 10th.—Napoleon is at Lyons, where he met with a cordial reception from the people. An address of welcome and congratulation was made by the Mayor, to which the Emperor responded.

Gen. Itally, the commander of French expeditionary forces to Rome, reports that the French in the fight at Monte Rotundo, lost 40 killed and wounded. The Peppi troops lost only twelve men. The loss of Garibaldi's was 600 killed, and as many wounded, while 2,200 were taken prisoners. The credit of the great slaughter of the rebels is due to the Chassepot rifle. The rebels were only half armed.

Florence, Nov. 10.—King Victor Emmanuel has extended aid to the families of the Garibaldians who were killed and wounded in the recent engagements.—There is much discontent in Italy, and a state of siege is threatened in every large town.

London, Nov. 10.—The latest accounts from Wales state that 200 lives were lost in the Ferndale mine. The London Times thinks that the American nativity of the Fenian Gen. Nagie will save him from conviction.

Paris, Nov. 10th.—France is seeking to raise a loan of twenty-eight million francs which it is represented the government wants for peace uses. The Patrie says the assembling of a general European Convention is uncertain, as the views of the great powers on the subject are as yet separate.

Southampton, Nov. 10.—The steamer Union, Capt. Von Sauten, which left New York on the 30th Oct., has arrived here on her way for Bremen.

American Despatches.

Havana, Nov. 11th.—Another cargo of coals has been landed on the southern coast of Porto Rico. The steamer Barcelona, from Vera Cruz, Nov. 6, has arrived bringing dates from City of Mexico to the 5th inst. The remains of Maximilian were to be delivered to Admiral Tegethoff on the 6th. The citizens of Matanzas are suffering from the effects of the recent inundations. Gen. Banks, who accompanied Minister Romero on his visit to Mexico, had arrived at the capital and been received by President Juarez.

San Francisco, Nov. 11.—Advices from Yokohama state that the U. S. Consul at Hakodadi, with the English Marshal, visited the wreck of the whale ship Canton Packet, accompanied by the survivors at the Kadoi, where the first officer says they were treated like beasts, and fared no better after being transferred from Yokohama. At the latter place sympathizing American residents provided them with the most naked counterpane.

CARDS & BILL-HEADS.

Having just received a large stock of splendid BILL-HEAD PAPER and all sizes and colours of CARDS, the Proprietors of the EVENING MERCURY are prepared to execute orders for the same, as well as all kinds of Job Work, on the shortest possible notice.

POLITICAL.

It is said that Mr. Rose has declined to accept a position in the Privy Council. Rumor now connects Mr. Howland's name with the office of finance minister, and also says that Mr. Ferrier is likely to be offered a seat in the cabinet.

The following enquiries have been made at the Government by members: By Dr. Parker, address for copies of any representations addressed to His Excellency by members of this House respecting the marks of royal favour that Her Majesty had been pleased to confer upon them, and of all despatches on the same subject or from Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for the Colonies.

It is said that the Government policy on the militia question is to drill one hundred thousand men annually, twenty-five days. This makes the militia expenditure about $3,000,000 every year.

Self-Devotion.

Nearly every reader of a newspaper will recollect that a short time ago, a fearful fire occurred at Youngstar, a small town of Saxony, during which 300 houses were consumed. Many, too, have read Mrs. Hemans' touching poem "Casabianca," which celebrates the filial obedience of the boy who "stood on the burning deck, whence all but him had fled," and stood until he perished, but the self-devotion in this case is not more wonderful than that recorded of the two little bell-ringers and the idiot boy of Saxony.

Yesterday (Sunday) the consecration of the Rev. John Welsh, lately nominated to the Roman Catholic See of Sandwich, took place in St. Michael's Cathedral in Toronto. The event was marked by all the display that usually centres around the red letter days of the Roman Catholic Calendar.

SEAT FOR MR. RICHARDS.—Mr. Robertson having resigned his seat for Niagara, in the Ontario Legislature, in favor of Hon. Stephen Richards, the election will come off in about ten days.

HOW LONG, O LORD!

It is within a month of 16 years since Louis Napoleon struck Liberty an assassin's blow and laid her dead upon the soil of France. He stole upon her in the night while she watched with faithful eyes the land she had redeemed, and her mortal blow came from the hand of him whom she had set to guard the gates against the foe.

In one sense it may be allowed that, if the French people like this sort of government, it is no one's business but their own. It is only when "this vice of kings" this pick-purse of the empire and the rule," steps out of his own kingdom and undertakes to set straight the affairs of other nations as he has done those of his own, that we have a right to complain.

And so completely has his will dominated over the rest of Europe, that until Prussia rose and confronted him there was no power to say him nay, or that even dared him displeasure at his acts. Austria, whose simple-minded heroism and their own, that he does not send his armies to crush it, if possible, at the very least to hinder it, by every cruel, desperate and insulting means.

And so completely has his will dominated over the rest of Europe, that until Prussia rose and confronted him there was no power to say him nay, or that even dared him displeasure at his acts. Austria, whose simple-minded heroism and their own, that he does not send his armies to crush it, if possible, at the very least to hinder it, by every cruel, desperate and insulting means.

It is said that the Government policy on the militia question is to drill one hundred thousand men annually, twenty-five days. This makes the militia expenditure about $3,000,000 every year.

THE ABYSSINIAN EXPEDITION.—The latest information respecting this affair is that a brigade of mules has arrived at Madras and Calcutta, because all the troops for the expedition are to be taken from Bombay. The officers are crazy to have a shy at King Theodore. Sir H. Rawlinson gave a lecture on the expedition a few nights ago at Froun. He said all the stories about the difficulties and dangers were mere moonshine.

NORAH CUSHALEEN
HAUNTED CASTLE.

For a minute they stood straining each other with passionate fervour to their bosoms, all else forgotten in the exquisite joy of the meeting. The events that had taken place since last they held each other in their arms were for the time cast into oblivion. She remembered not that she was the wife of another—he remembered not that he was the leader of a fierce and savage band of robbers.

"Oh Henry!" she exclaimed, being the first to be able to speak; you here also in the power of these cruel men?"

"Oh, God!" he cried, starting as if he had been stung, while he cast towards Hargreave a look of horror; "I forgot the awful abyss into which we are both plunged."

"We shall die together," she murmured, clinging closely to him.

"Amelia," he cried, casting her away, "in me behold the execrated outlaw who goes by the name of Captain Jack."

"You, Henry!" she exclaimed in amazement.

"Ay—me," he answered, and a shadow of bitterness returned to his tone. "Goaded to madness by your supposed perfidy, I fled to the mountains, swearing an oath of vengeance on all mankind. How fearfully I have kept my oath till now, let the plundered and murdered testify—no, not the murdered, thank God; this hand is not stained by human blood, nor does the guilt of a life destroyed lie upon my soul. When I was but a member of the gang I saved when I could. When the real Captain Jack died, I got his place and took his name, and not one murder has been perpetrated since; but the captures have been frequent and the ransoms heavy, and by these have I kept the oath I swore on the day I heard you had gone to the altar with the hoary-headed slave of Mammon."

"Oh Henry," sighed Amelia, "if you knew all."

"I do know all," he responded. "I heard you tell your story even now, and know that your love for me has never changed."

"Never—I swear it!" she answered, lifting her right hand, and raising her streaming eyes to heaven.

"Oh, that this knowledge had come to me sooner!" he groaned. "The past misery would have been averted, the present despair unknown. Now you—oh, you will be a victim to the fatal ignorance."

"I, Henry?" she sadly asked. "Is there then no escape?"

"Surely there is," said Hargreave, who had been a deeply interested witness of the thrilling scene.

"Impossible," groaned the Captain, gnashing his teeth. "I am as powerless to avert her fate as you are."

"Then she shall indeed be saved," cried Hargreave, with sincerity. "Return with me to the other chamber, and I will tell you how. After this exciting interview the lady needs repose, and time to recover from her agitation. Pray be seated, madam," he added, gently placing Amelia in a chair. "You will now be saved—do not fear. Come, Captain, come."

Taking the bewildered Captain by the arm, he led him quickly from the chamber, and into that in which he himself had been confined and where Andrew and Terry still were—they having listened at the corner where the aperture was to the whole of the exciting conversation.

"Oh, I shall go mad," said the Captain in awful excitement, as he struck his brow violently with his hand.

"Calm yourself," urged Hargreave. "You have reason to be thankful that you have learned the truth in time to prevent the danger."

"Prevent it! how often have I told you that I cannot prevent it?" echoed the Captain, in an agony of impatience. "She loves me still—has ever loved me—and I it was who brought this down upon her!"

"And you it is who can avert it," persisted the other. "Nay do not thus turn upon me with angry incredulity, but let us reason the matter for a little. Now, answer me this: Did you join this gang, and eventually head it, from a love of cruelty and crime?"

"No," he emphatically answered. "It was for revenge alone. My soul has often sickened with loathing at the life I led, but the vengeance of my heart kept me firm to my purpose."

"And to-day you have found that you had no cause for such a feeling at all.—You warred on society because you deemed the girl you loved had proved false and fickle. You find now that she has been true, though compelled by what she considered a sacred duty to marry another; so the cause of your warfare having exploded, the warfare itself with its hideous compacts and oaths, most cease likewise; therefore you are not bound; you are free—and you must free the lady likewise."

"Your logic is indisputable," said the Captain; "but my men don't understand or care for logic. Were I to propose the liberation of Amelia, it would but hasten her doom. You don't understand that the compacts of crime are the most inexorable of all."

Hargreave mused for some moments, and gave a side glance at his companions. Then he glanced at the captain as if hesitating, but suddenly his mind was made up and he again spoke.

"Captain," he said, "I need not ask you if you desire the lady's liberation."

"I would sacrifice myself to effect it," he unhesitatingly replied.

"Enough," returned the youth. "I can show you how it can be done without any such risk—that is if my two companions are willing that I should make the revelation."

He looked to Terry and Andrew, who understood him, and readily consented to the captain being taken into their confidence.

Hargreave went to the entrance to assure himself that there were no listeners, then he returned and said to the surprised outlaw:

"Sir, I have every confidence in you;

to request that you will give me your word that you will not make the slightest use of it detrimental to our interests—that, in short, so far as we are concerned, it will be the same as if you had never known it.

"I solemnly promise," said the Captain, still quite mystified.

ROBT. RUTHERFORD

Diplomacy.
The New York Times says: We would all like to see Rome the capital of Italy—firstly because it would be an extension of civil liberty, and secondly, because it would give that unity to the new Kingdom without which it must continue to have a precarious existence. We leave out the religious aspect of the matter, because we really fail to see that it would necessarily have any very tremendous effect upon the interests of the Catholic faith. There are two or three extreme views, or points of view, on this part of the business. There are Protestants who imagine that the taking of Rome from the Pope would shatter the entire Catholic system, and that it would be the beginning of the destruction of the "Man of Sin" foretold in revelation. On the other extreme, there are Ultramontane Catholics who entertain views that really amount to very much the same thing. They believe that the destruction of the Temporal Power would not only be a blow at the authority and independence of the Head of the Church, but that it would be an undermining of the Church itself. In fact, with them the doctrine of the Temporal Power partakes of the nature of a fundamental religious dogma, and if it be invalidated or overturned the entire fabric of faith is shaken. There is, however, another party in the Catholic Church, embracing a number of Liberal Prelates and Priests, and all the Liberal Lay adherents of Catholicity, who look on the Temporal Power as something necessary neither to the Pope nor the Church, and who would very willingly see His Holiness existing, not as a Sovereign of Rome, but as spiritual Pontiff of the Catholic world. They claim that a form of faith which they claim to have existed long before the Bishops of Rome were Sovereigns of Rome, would be adversely affected if the Sovereign were again reduced to his primitive condition of Bishop. They deny that the sway which the great moving ideas of Catholicity have over the minds of hundreds of millions of the human race, would be destroyed or even weakened by an incident of such trivial import as that of depriving the Pope of the government of a city and a few circumjacent leagues of land.
