DRY autumn weather has prevailed during the past few weeks, giving the farming community an excellent opportunity to fill silos, gather fruit, secure the root crops and perform other fall work which at times are performed under disagreeable conditions. TECUMSEH CHAPTER, Daughters of the Empire, will meet at the home of Mrs. T. G. Mitchell, Mrs. Chester Howden assisting hostess, on Thursday, Oct. 29th, at 3 p.m. Mrs. Wm. A PARTY of fifty prominent officials of the Grand Trunk Railway passed through Watford on Saturday in the official special train, on the way to Chicago in the course of an inspection of the entire Grand Trunk System. The inspection is being made not merely by a number of the higher officials as in the past but by the men doing the work on all parts of the road, by general and divisional superintendents and supervisors and by engineers, by track superintendents and by representatives of other ranks of the service drawn from the various districts. The line is being carefully examined by the men whose business is track construction and maintenance.

MUNICIPALITIES can now legally contribute to the Patriotic Funds. All doubts upon this point are set at rest by the following statement issued by the Ontario Government. Inquiries have been made of the Government on behalf of the Canadian Patriotic Fund as to whether it will favor legislation confirming grants of money by municipalities to the fund. In reply the Government has decided to announce that it is its intention, when the Legislature meets it to ask it to validate any gift that may be made to any patriotic fund by any municipality in Ontario. The effect of this announcement will be to remove any doubts as to the power of municipalities to take action in regard to making the contributions towards any of the patriotic funds."

TWO protests entered in the heavy draft coat class at the East Lambton fair were settled on Saturday. On fair day the Society's judge, Mr. John Coursey, of Lucan, awarded the prize to Arch. Monroe, of Brooke. Brandon Bros. of Warwick, who also exhibited a coat, entered protest, and Messrs. Tait and Moore, of Sarnia, were selected to rejudge the entries. They decided that Brandon Bros.' animal was the best of the three shown, which decision brought another protest from Mr. Monroe. To settle the matter the directors obtained the services of Mr. John Garhouse, an expert judge in the employ of the Ontario government, who was here Saturday, and the coats were brought here for his inspection. Both the animals are fine specimens of heavy draft coat. Mr. Guardhouse went into the matter exhaustively, explaining each point of the animals from head to tail, and then gave his decision in favor of the Brandon coat. Quite a number of interested spectators assembled in the Roche House yards to hear Mr. Guardhouse's explanations, and his remarks were interesting and profitable to his hearers. The Society is to be commended for going to the expense they did in order to give satisfaction to the exhibitors, and thus retain the confidence not only of the Society's members, but also of the public generally.

Watford High School Field Day

The annual field day of the W. H. S. was held on the afternoon of the 14th and 15th inst. On the morning of each day the weather conditions were so very unfavorable that postponement seemed unavoidable. However, on Wednesday p. m., the students gathered ready for the fray and each event was vigorously contested, yes, altogether too vigorously, for on the following day when the Stratroy boys appeared on the scene some of our best athletes were nearly hors de combat.

The events of the second half day were even more interesting and exciting than those of the first. The presence of a goodly number of the citizens would have been greatly appreciated by the students. Benefits arising from a good physical condition cannot be over-estimated. The poet Juvenal, who some 1800 years ago wrote "mens sana in corpore sano" ("a sound mind in a sound body") was wide awake with respect to this matter.

Some of our new pupils, it is pleasing to note, gave evidence of possessing agility, grit, and endurance, which next year will be more in evidence. But the bright and shining star that is now looming above the horizon is Clarence Cook, a Jr. who won with ease nearly every event in which he entered.

Watford H. S. baseball team won from Alvinston, although the latter put up a plucky fight. In the relay race the Watford girls easily disposed of the Stratroy runners and our swift and skillful basketball team completely out-classed the Collegians.

STUDENTS' SOCIAL FUNCTION

This year after careful consideration it was decided to have a social evening and those present were to be confined purely to W. H. S. students and contestants from outside teams, and the members of the Board of Education. In the evening the ministers at the games were invited.

At six p.m. the Armory, which Lieut. Col. Kelly so kindly placed at the disposal of the students, was nearly filled with a jolly yet orderly crowd of students who with the visitors greatly enjoyed the splendid supper prepared for them, after which an interesting program was rendered. Principal Potter, who presided, on behalf of the W. H. S., welcomed the students from Stratroy and Alvinston, and all others present. Instrumentals were given by Miss Jean Cameron and Master Valore Dodds, also instrumental duet by Mrs. Connolly and Miss Smith, all of which were well rendered. Miss McCaw's humorous reading and Miss Elleda Moody's recitation were much appreciated, as were vocal solos by Rev. Mr. Mead and Miss Olive Pentland. Rev. Mr. Forster and Col. Kenward gave brief addresses. The former emphasized the necessity of the citizens being loyal to the High School and advocated the giving of medals and prizes to deserving students. Col. Kenward strongly urged that the students in all their contests should be true sportsmen. To take no unfair advantage of an opponent but win only on the square. Rev. Mr. Connolly, by special request, sang the now famous song, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," the entire audience heartily joining in the chorus. As an encore he sang in the native tongue a Japanese song, which aroused much interest and created considerable amusement. The proceedings closed by singing the National Anthem.

On motion of Mr. Campbell, Pres. of S. C. I. Lit. Society, seconded by a class mate, that a vote of thanks be tendered to the W. H. S. for their great kindness, motion was enthusiastically carried.

The Field Day Committee of the W. H. S. unanimously decided to tender a vote of thanks to Lieut.-Col. Kelly for placing the armory at the disposal of the High School students. A vote of thanks was also tendered unanimously to all those who in any way helped to make the field day and social evening a success. Also the sum of two dollars was voted towards payment of Armory piano.

County Fruit Show

Every fruit and vegetable grower in Lambton County should arrange to exhibit the first annual fruit, vegetable, flower and honey exhibition, to be held in the Arena, Sarnia, October 28, 29, 30. This will be the largest event of its kind ever held in Ontario, outside the city of Toronto. The Exhibition Committee expects a display of 1500 boxes of the choicest apples Lambton County can produce. There will also be a large display of barrelled apples. Plate exhibits of fruit will also be a feature of the display.

In the vegetable section two associations have signified their intention of each exhibiting 100 crates of vegetables. The Lambton County Beekeepers' Association will have a large display of honey. The floral section of this exhibition has been taken over by the ladies of Sarnia, who, it is certain, will do credit to an event of this nature.

In connection with the exhibition will be a large display of products manufactured in Lambton County. This, in itself, should make an exhibition well worth seeing.

The Executive of the Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association has been very fortunate in securing some of the best experts in the Dominion to address their Convention. Next week should be a banner week for Lambton County Fruit Growers.

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich. — "I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said, 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong." — Mrs. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Not Well Enough to Work. In these words is hidden the tragedy of many a woman, housekeeper or wage earner who supports herself and is often helping to support a family, on meagre wages. Whether in house, office, factory, shop, store or kitchen, woman should remember that there is one tried and true remedy for the ills to which all women are prone, and that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It promotes that vigor which makes work easy. The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Speaking of noisy railway travel what must it be in Europe at the present time with sharpshooters and artillerymen exercising their arms as a train speeds by.

Socialists are at all times condemning the usefulness of the European aristocracy, but since the war commenced it has fully justified its existence, its members, on the field of battle, having shown themselves real men of blood and iron.

Machine shops in Toronto, Hamilton, Dundas, Galt and other places have secured contracts for the manufacture of 18-pound shrapnel shells during the last few weeks and some are already at work.

The attitude taken by Canadian banks since the declaration of war, in practically withdrawing all loans and overdrafts is having its effects on business men. Wholesale houses have to be paid, and their line of credit is greatly curtailed.

The "bulls" and "bears" of Wall street who were accustomed to closing stock deals and cementing friendship with a bird and a cold bottle are now patronizing quick lunches and drinking beer.

assist in retarding advance in prices and rejoice the hearts of merchants who are finding difficulty in financing their business.—Aylmer Express.

That there will be an enormous rush of immigrants to Canada from Great Britain and Europe when the war is over is the opinion of W. W. Cory, Deputy Minister of Interior, who has returned to Ottawa from England. Mr. Cory went to Great Britain on department business and to inspect the immigration agencies, and was in London when war broke out. It is expected that a great many Belgian refugees will come to Canada, arrangements for whom are already being made.

Walkerton newspapers complain of the publication of the list of prize-winners at their fall fair, the Herald saying it is about as interesting to the majority of readers as an old horse card. And that is about the truth. What right has an editor to worry his readers with such a muddle of names, especially when the same name will appear as often as twenty times.

Last year the Times adopted the plan of giving a summary of the chief prize takers, and this plan is the one generally adopted in Ontario—Port Elgin Times.

No Reason For Pessimism

In this war whose extent and character have no precedent in history, ups and downs are bound to happen. Hitherto the allies have stood mainly on the defensive, the only real exception being the outflanking movement on the left of the long battle line.

They have been employing on land substantially the same tactics followed by the Germans in the North Sea, and in the circumstances it is probably the wiser policy. The enemy is still strong on land, his European army of invasion is yet unbroken and remains a formidable fighting force.

It is far from its base and, expert opinion holds, occupies a front that may easily turn a defeat into an irretrievable disaster. Successes at outlying points that do not change the situation on the main battle line are to that extent unimportant.

No reason exists for taking a pessimistic view of the future of the war. Time is on the side of the allies and every day that passes without material gain to the enemy strengthens the reinforcements now being prepared in Britain.

In fact, the Germans must before long make a supreme effort to break the chain that holds them in northern France. The fall of Antwerp has liberated the investing army, and it is quite likely an attempt will be made for the double purpose of seizing the channel seaports of France and menacing the allied left.

For that Generals Joffre and French have no doubt prepared and are evidently awaiting the movement in a spirit of quiet but none the less resolute confidence. That little is given out should breed no undue anxiety.

Dad's Dope

Instead of being hosts to the German visitors the Belgian burgomasters are acting as hostages.

There will be no "French" champagne famine as long as there is a grape left in the California vineyards.

While the Canadian boys are attending to their duties as soldiers the Canadian girls are attending to their knitting.

Improved moratoriums, "back in ten days," "call again," and other payment delaying signs greet the collectors of the German war levy in Belgium.

When the Dominion government decided to take measures to stimulate the demand for Canadian-grown apples they adopted advertising as a matter of course.

The "bulls" and "bears" of Wall street who were accustomed to closing stock deals and cementing friendship with a bird and a cold bottle are now patronizing quick lunches and drinking beer.

Eat Our Own Canadian Apples

With the export trade cut off owing to the war, it is up to the Canadians to eat their own apples this season and the department of trade and commerce has done wisely in inaugurating a Dominion-wide educational advertising campaign with a view to increasing the home consumption of apples and thereby aiding the apple producers of the country whose outlook for disposing of their crop has been anything but encouraging of late.

Were apples not so extensively grown in Canada or for example entirely imported, they would be considered more of a luxury and Canadians would not begrudge paying a similar price to that paid for the oranges. For this reason it seems sense that the government should endeavor to awaken the public to a greater appreciation of the home product, incidentally calling attention to the many desirable ways in which the apple can be served.

At any rate there is no necessity this year of any family being without a good winter's supply of apples and with food prices high, apple pie, apple dumpling, baked apple, apple salad, apple sauce, etc., should prove quite acceptable eating.

The Stay-at-Homes

Today thirty thousand Canadian troops are on their way to the battle-front to fight for Great Britain. We consider these men heroes, and rightly so, for it is to them we look to give us the victory.

But we cannot all go to war. It remains for some to stay at home and carry on the business of the country. For these there is as great an opportunity for the display of patriotism and loyalty as the men who fill the firing line.

By going about our ordinary tasks with the thoroughness we would in times of peace, by showing our confidence in the ultimate success of the Allies' cause, and thereby inspiring confidence in others, we can do much to maintain the commercial stability of the Empire and thus keep it able to withstand the financial demands which will be made upon its purse.

In this connection a pamphlet has been issued in London entitled "Carry on Your Duty in War-time." In it is included this timely advice: "We are all in together, but we cannot pick up a rifle and march off to fight the Germans. Those who must remain behind should keep these points before them:—

1.—If you have any business you should go about it quietly and confidently.

2.—If your business must be suspended, look around for useful occupation. Better go as an amateur harvester that loaf about buying a newspaper every hour. Consider all the openings—special police work, guarding railways, voluntary service in administering relief funds.

3.—You should regard this as a time in which to avoid waste; but not necessarily to stop spending.

4.—It is better for all that you should help to keep your poorer neighbors employed than have to support them by subscriptions or taxation.

5.—If you are protecting something, producing something or distributing something, then you are on our side. If you are only idling and gossiping you are on the side of the Germans.

Corn cannot exist when Holloway's Corn Cure is applied to them, because it goes to the root and kills the growth.

Paris, Oct. 13.—German aerial raiders again flew over Paris to-day in a fog, but before they could drop any bombs several French machines, which had been in the lookout, took the air and gave chase, routing the invaders.

The shades of night are falling faster and earlier and Old Sol is losing his domain almost as rapidly as the Kaiser.

Sarnia, Oct. 15.—Dr. A. W. Henderson, one of the most prominent medical men of the city, offers his services to the country in whatever capacity they may be needed. The Doctor, who is a member of the city council and a member of the fire and light committee, is aware of what he is sacrificing, but is determined to go to the front when called.

An Echo Through All Time

Across the ocean, they are expecting with some interest our fellows from Valcartier. "England," says the latest Times, "longs to welcome the Canadian troops when they reach these shores, and, since their enlistment is known to all, we trust the opportunity will not be denied her at the proper time. The Canadian forces must march through the streets of London, and will receive such a greeting as will echo throughout the Dominion."

Whether they march through London or not, there will be more to it than an echo through this country. There will be an echo through all time. These men in England will turn a new page in history. They will represent something which has not been seen before, to say nothing of the scale of it. In the Boer war, 8,000 Canadians, nearly as many New Zealanders and twice as many Australians fought for the flag; but they did so under British pay. They went, as the Ottawa Journal points out, from patriotism and affection, as our men go now also; but they went on a basis partly skin to that of mercenaries. This time, they go as the men of sister nations. The lion's whelps are full-grown. The new thing is come of volunteer armies from the ends of the earth to aid a motherland without money and without price. Well may they march through the metropolis of the English-speaking world, this army of 32,000 Canadian volunteers with their 7,000 horses and 70 guns, to be followed by like armies from Australia and New Zealand, bound for battle in Europe for the British flag. They will mark an epoch in the history of the earth. Publicity? Surely.

VITAL FORCE

Disease germs are on every hand. They are in the very air we breathe. A system "run down" is a prey for them. One must have vital force to withstand them. Vital force depends on digestion—on whether or not food nourishes—on the quality of blood coursing through the body.

DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery

Strengthens the weak stomach. Gives good digestion. Enlivens the sluggish liver. Feeds the starved nerves. Again full health and strength return. A general upbuilding enables the heart to pump like an engine running in oil. The vital force is once more established to full power. Year in and year out for over forty years this great health-restoring remedy has been spreading throughout the entire world—because of its ability to make the sick well and the weak strong. Don't despair of "being your old self again." Give this vegetable remedy a trial—Today—Now. You will soon feel "like new again." BUILDING UP THE HERDS.

Community Bull a Good Idea if Handled Right.

From bulletin of Ohio experiment station.

In communities where the herds are small and the individual dairyman does not feel that he can afford to purchase a pure bred bull for his own use, it is a good plan for two or more men to own one in partnership. An entire community may own one or more bulls and co-operate in their use. In such cases it will be necessary for the community, or at least the persons co-operating, to select and advance the interests of one breed—that is, bulls of one breed should be used, whether on grade or pure bred cows.

This plan would make it possible to shift the bulls from one herd to another without the bad effects of breeding the offspring of a bull of one breed to a bull of another breed, and the necessity of disposing of a valuable bull rather than use him on his own property.

A COMMUNITY MAY OWN ONE OR MORE BULLS.

Where more than one bull is used an association should be formed and the business conducted by honest, competent officers. This association could cover a large territory and handle a large number of bulls. In this way the grade cattle of a section can be improved rapidly without great cost to any one individual. The association may be confined to pure breeds or to grades or it may include both. Such organizations are being operated in many states and are meeting the expectations of their members.

NEW VEGETABLE FROM JAPAN.

Experiments With Udo Indicate It is a Welcome Addition to the Table.

[Prepared by the United States department of agriculture.]

For persons who like novelty in their food and in their gardens an interesting field for experiment is offered by the new Japanese vegetable, udo. Nurserymen have grown the udo under the name of Aralia cordata for ornamental purposes for twenty years or more, but as a vegetable it is still comparatively unknown. On rich soil it grows to a height of ten feet or more, producing a very ornamental mass of large green leaves and, in the late summer, long, loose flower clusters, sometimes three feet in length. In appearance it is much like a large variety of the spikenard or petty morel, a native of our woodlands.

The blanching shoots of the udo have a characteristic flavor. Properly prepared they are delicious, or so the author of bulletin 84, just published by the United States department of agriculture under the title of "Experiments With Udo, the New Japanese Vegetable," has found them. The plant requires little care and with the same space devoted to it yields approximately the same amount of food for the table as asparagus and is ready for use at about the same time in the spring. After the first frost it dies down each autumn to come up again in the spring, much as asparagus and rhubarb do. A patch of it can be forced each spring for at least six years and probably much longer.

Udo growing is not yet sufficiently general in this country for the most inexpensive methods of cultivating to have been worked out, and conditions in America are so different from those in Japan that little benefit can be derived from the experience of oriental growers. It is, however, reasonable to assume that the cultivation of the udo presents few difficulties. It is adapted to a wide range of climate, as is shown by the fact that it grows all over Japan, but no part of Japan suffers from drought. In this country the udo has done best in moist regions, in particular in New England, the Atlantic states as far south as the Carolinas, in the rainy region of Puget sound and in the trucking sections of California.

In the cooking of udo there is still abundant room for innovators. In all experiments, however, one thing must be remembered. When raw the stems contain a resinous substance which gives them a decided and to many persons unpleasant taste of pine. It is, however, easy to eliminate this by soaking thin slices of the stems in ice cold water for an hour or two or by boiling them in two or three waters, as is often done with strong flavored vegetables.

The Disappearing Coin.

To make a quarter disappear from a glass of water after hearing it drop is a very puzzling trick. The articles necessary to perform this trick are a glass of water, a handkerchief, a quarter and a piece of clear glass the exact size of a quarter.

To perform the trick advance with the piece of glass hidden between the second and third fingers of the left hand and holding the quarter in plain sight between the thumb and first finger of the same hand and the handkerchief in the right hand. Throw the handkerchief over the left hand and gather up the glass piece in the fold of the cloth, allowing the coin to drop into the palm of the left hand while covered. Remove the left hand and hold out the piece of glass with the handkerchief drawn tightly around it. Any one can touch the cloth covered glass, but it cannot be distinguished from the quarter. While this is being shown slip the quarter into a pocket. Spread the handkerchief over the glass of water and allow the glass disk to drop. A distinct click will be heard when it strikes the bottom. Raise the handkerchief, and nothing will be seen, as the glass will not be visible in the water.

There is a distinctive style in Swifts' ordered clothing.

One of the most successful sales of the season was that of Walter Wilson's, when J. F. Elliot sold on Thursday his entire stock of cattle and hogs, amounting to $2,730, in two hours and twenty minutes. Cows sold for $22.00 a head and yearlings brought over $50.00. It pays to keep the good stuff and have the right man sell it for you.

The monthly meeting of the Warwick Women's Institute was held in the Foresters' hall. Papers were read on the three I's—Life, Love and Laughter, the three essentials of the human race. The subject of Life was beautifully defined by Miss Gavigan. Self-control, optimism, and sympathy were the three keywords of the paper. Quoting from Browning, the speaker said:— One who never turns his back, But marched breast forward, Never doubted clouds would break, Never dreamed, though right were worsted, Wrong would triumph, Held—we fall to rise—arc' baffled to fight better, Sleep to wake.

Miss Annie Thomson spoke of love:— Still we are saying, teach us how to pray, O, teach us how to love, and then our prayer, Through other lives will find its upward way, As plants together seek and find sweet life and all.

Laughter, we were told by Miss Anna Auld is necessary to the health and happiness of both body and mind. Let us serve God and be cheerful for his honor and glory.

Trenouth's Chopping Mill Burned

About 10.20 Wednesday night fire was discovered in Trenouth & Co.'s chopping mill. The alarm was rung and the firemen were promptly on the spot, but as the fire had made considerable headway before discovered, they had a stubborn fight in extinguishing the blaze. The building, being covered with sheet iron, while confining the fire made it somewhat difficult to get at. After an hour's work the blaze was extinguished, but the building and contents were a complete loss with the exception of the gasoline engine, which was in a lean-to and is not much damaged. The night was remarkably calm, not a breath of wind to blow sparks, and there was not at any time much danger of the fire spreading. The building was owned by Wm. Doan and was not insured. His loss will be about $400. The contents, consisting of a large quantity of oats, chop, shorts, etc., belonged to Mr. Trenouth. He places his loss at $2000, with $1000 insurance. The origin of the fire is not known.

Davies—Acton

The bride looked charming in a gown of white nylon and shadow lace, with Juliette cap, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. The wedding march was played by a cousin of the bride, Miss Jennie Osborne, of Delaware.

After the ceremony, the guests to the number of thirty, repaired to the dining-room where a dainty luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Davies left for London and other eastern points the same evening. The bride's travelling suit was of green broadcloth with hat to match.

War Summary

Local matter has again crowded out our summary of the war. The chief features of the conflict since our last issue are as follows:—The British cruiser Hawke was sunk by a German submarine. The Russian troops have retaken all the ground lost in Austria. The British navy sunk four German destroyers. In the north the Allies have driven the enemy back more than thirty miles. The Allies recaptured Ostend. Everywhere the German attacks have been repulsed. An engagement is said to be in progress in the Baltic Sea.

The Canadian Patriotic Fund

THE Rexall Stores of Canada, 400 of the leading Drug Stores in Canada, have unanimously agreed to contribute to the Canadian Patriotic Fund FIVE PER CENT. of their total purchases of all Rexall Toilet Goods, Rexall Remedies and other merchandise manufactured or sold by the United Drug Company, Limited, Toronto, from October 15th to December 31st, 1914.

This action of the Rexall Drug Stores of Canada has been undertaken co-operatively, because, as a co-operative organization, they realize how much more can be done unitedly than individually, and it has been taken for two reasons—to fulfill a humane duty in raising a fund for the relief work of the Canadian Patriotic Organization, and a patriotic duty in an endeavor to keep a large staff of Canadian employees busy.

The 400 Rexall Stores of Canada make an appeal to your sympathy and support in their doubly worthy cause for increasing the funds of the Canadian Patriotic Organization and for the support of Canadian workmen, because—

The fund that would be raised on the basis of last year's business can be tremendously increased if every man and woman in Canada will help, a little by the simple process of purchasing Rexall Goods at the Rexall Stores.

No need to give space in this announcement to emphasize the high quality of Rexall Toilet and Medicinal Goods. Sufficient to say that 7,000 of the leading Drug Stores in Canada, Great Britain, and the United States place their personal and collective reputations behind them; that the public in these countries endorse them to the extent of several million dollars worth of purchases a year.

Better goods are not made, and you take no risk in buying, for every Rexall store will return you your money if any Rexall Product is not entirely satisfactory, and do it, too, without the slightest objection.

There's a full list of Rexall products waiting for you at the Rexall Store in your town.

Ask for it—kindly pass the word along to your friends. It is the collective purchases of all that will make this Rexall Store Fund for the Canadian Patriotic Organization work a big one.

The Fund will be collected from each Rexall Store in Canada by the United Drug Company, Limited, Toronto, and will be paid by them direct to the officers of the Canadian Patriotic Organization, and the amount so collected will be published in this paper when paid over.

John Cairns, aged 66, died very unexpectedly at his home in Aberarder Friday afternoon after a brief illness with pneumonia and blood poisoning. It is believed that his illness started from a small sore on the wrist, which he neglected.

As a result of the unfavorable weather, which considerably reduced the receipts at the late fair, the Strathroy Agricultural Society will have a deficit of $200, counting the amount that is expected to come from the provincial department as wet weather insurance.

The ladies of the Brooke Women's Institute held an "At Home" on Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Minnie Willoughby. The members of the Watford branch were present, also guests from Napier, Thedford, Forest and Warwick. At three o'clock Mrs. M. J. Campbell the president of the branch, took the chair and in a few well chosen words on behalf of the hostess and the branch, kindly welcomed the guests, and introduced a varied and interesting program. Addresses were given by the district president and secretary viz: Mrs. Dawes, of Thedford, and Miss Pettipiece, of Forest. They spoke very encouragingly, and complimented the branches represented on the success of their work. Mrs. Lorie, of Thedford, and Mrs. Humphries, Pres. of the Watford branch were also called on and very ably responded. Some fine and educative papers were given. One on "Thanksgiving" by Mrs. Brown, of Watford, Miss Eva Watson gave one on "Books we should read" and Miss Ada McGugan an one on "Value of Cheerfulness." This part of the program was interspersed with music and song. The violin selections by Mrs. Shugg and instrumental solo by Miss Watson were very much enjoyed. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. McGregor who sang very sweetly, and Mrs. Shugg and Miss A. McGugan, sang the duet "Waiting 'neath the Blossoms." Mrs. Kingston, of Watford, gave a splendid reading, and a dialogue given by members of the Watford branch was much enjoyed. The National Anthem was sang and this part of the program brought to a close. A social hour was then spent and a very fine luncheon served after which the gathering dispersed, all feeling that they had indeed spent a most profitable afternoon.

MARKETS

Toronto, Oct. 20.—Receipts at the Union stockyards to-day were 75 cars, containing 801 cattle, 206 calves, 1,828 hogs and 1,443 sheep and lambs. There was very little life to the trade to-day and prices seemed to be on the point of tumbling.

Probably one good result of the present lull in the market will be the forced sending back to the country of many loads of cattle for feeding up purposes. Some buyers, in fact, are taking advantage of the lower prices and are buying cattle to feed for the winter. The distillery men, too, are getting a few loads of good feeders and short-keep cattle at favorable prices, some good short-keep going at $7 and some real choice at $7.25. One buyer was in the market for a few loads of small cattle to send west. These should come back east next year as well as fed cattle. The butcher trade was very dull and only a few choice heavy-weight are in demand. Cows and canners are easier. Lambs are steady. Hogs declined 15c.

THE TERRORS OF INDIGESTION

Disappear When the Blood is Made Rich, Red and Pure

The mistaken idea that laxatives or drastic purgatives provide a short cut to the cure of indigestion is largely responsible for the prevalence of dyspepsia and other stomach disorders. Indigestion calls for more than a makeshift. Your stomach needs tone it cannot absorb nourishment from the food you eat. To give new strength to your stomach so that it may perform the work of digestion without pain or distress, you must enrich the blood. This is the tonic method for strengthening weak stomachs. In cases of this kind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best medicine known. Every dose makes new, rich blood, which not only strengthens the stomach but builds up every part of the body as well. Here is an illustration of what this medicine can do: Mrs. I. N. Brown, Downville, N. B., says: "For three years I was a sufferer from chronic indigestion. I was hungry all the time, yet could take very little food, and what I did take was followed by great distress and nausea. My sleep at night was broken, and I often had profuse night sweats. The suffocating feeling which often followed eating would cause my heart to palpitate violently. At times my hands and face would become the color of clay and I would be completely prostrated. I was under the care of a good doctor who finally told me the trouble was incurable and that the most I could hope for was temporary relief. I was in these straits when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so, and used the pills steadily for two months when I was again a well woman, and have since had no return of the trouble." You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Yellow Flash It Served Their Purpose

By CLARISSA MACKIE Scott Perry stared at the old Indian tracker with widening eyes. Did Daga Bendrib really expect him to believe that there was a tiger—a man eating tiger—at large in the Waunder district? Daga Bendrib bumped his turbaned head on the floor of the veranda and protested vigorously. "Ah, Sahib Perry, it is the greatest beast India has ever known! My son-in-law glimpsed it as it sped through the village, and he swore that it went like a flash of yellow lightning. Its lips dripped blood, and its eyes blazed like balls of fire. If the presence would condescend to leave his study of the birds and butterflies his servant would show him the mangled bull and the track of the great man-eating tiger!" Again Daga Bendrib saluted.

ER WAS RATHER TAKEN WITH THE TRACKER'S PLEA. of a flimsy platform which they had hastily constructed between four palm trees within twenty feet of the dead bull. A bower of branches and shrubs concealed them from the ground, and it was from this vantage point that Perry hoped to kill the tiger with one shot from his rifle. He had killed tigers before, and the fine skins that graced the walls and floors of his bungalow bore testimony to his skill as a marksman. The platform was ten feet above the ground, and provided Perry could get good sight of the great cat, he would have no difficulty in adding another royal skin to his collection. Suddenly Daga Bendrib hissed sharply through his teeth. "Ah, sahib! Ishnie!" whispered the tracker. "Ah, the tiger!" repeated Perry, moving cautiously beneath his bower of branches. There came a snuffing growl from nearby thicket. Then followed silence. Daga Bendrib breathed shortly. Perry felt his own heart beating to quick time. "Something moved in the thicket behind them."

"Trot" hissed the tracker. Perry began to feel uneasy. The platform was a flimsy structure at best. If one or more tigers should attack it there was no doubt that the platform would tumble to pieces. Again came the growl from the left hand thicket and again a responsive movement from the thicket behind the platform. Perry had his gun sighted and pointed the barrel toward the dark bulk of the dead bull on the grass below. While Perry listened for a repetition of the soul chilling growl from the left hand thicket, there suddenly came a horrifying interruption from the rear. A wild, panther-like scream split the air; there was a rush of wind overhead, and the two hunters were suddenly struck flat to the platform by the falling of a heavy body upon them. The platform shook, tottered and fell, crashing with its burden of two men and a full grown panther. As the platform fell Daga Bendrib's gun went off, scattering a double charge of buckshot. The panther screamed savagely and thudded heavily to the ground, rolling over in agony. The double charge of buckshot had entered its eyes and, so far as the hunters were concerned, had put the panther out of business for that occasion at least. But the excitement was not yet over. As Perry and his tracker clambered up to the remains of the fallen platform and each found a perch on the supports which still clung to the four trees the moon found an opening among the trees and sent a broad shaft of silver light into the jungle where the dead bull lay, with the stiffening panther near by.

From the left hand thicket was a repetition of that low, deep, ominous growl, ending in an ugly snarl; there was a sudden rush of misplaced air as something long and yellow and black striped streaked across the vision to fall upon the body of the panther. There were the rending of flesh and the crunching of bones. The two men in the trees shivered and changed their positions. The tiger ceased his feasting, and a rigid line ran along his lithe form. His back was toward the platform, and his left shoulder presented a splendid mark for a bullet. Perry lifted his rifled shotgun to his shoulder and fired. Bang! The tiger whirled about, screamed with pain and rage and was about to charge the hunters in the tree when there came another interruption from the thicket. This time it was a full grown tigress, and she leaped straight toward the broken platform. A bullet from Perry's gun crashed through her brain, and she fell staggering at the very foot of the platform supports. At the same instant Daga Bendrib's gun scattered buckshot in the eyes of the wounded tiger, and while the beast pawed blindly at them another bullet from Perry's weapon stretched him beside his dead mate in the parched grass. Perry drew a long breath and wiped the cold sweat from his brow. All around them were myriad sounds from the startled denizens of the jungle. Aroused by the double killing and attracted toward the spot by the dead bull came jackals, hyenas and others of their tribes. Perry was anxious to protect the skins he had won at the risk of his life, so his gun answered the cries of the jungle beasts while Daga Bendrib sped toward the village to bring help. In half an hour the two tigers and the panther were lashed at the heels of an ox team and the dead bodies were dragged to a deserted hut on the outskirts of the village where Daga Bendrib and his son-in-law and his two brothers and their son-in-laws set to work to skin the three animals for the great sahib. Perry went back to the tree in order to guard the village from a surprise visit from the panther's mate or from other beasts, if the smell of blood should attract them into the village. The body of the bull had entirely disappeared now, and from distant thickets Perry could hear the jackals snarling over the fragments they were storing.

He was tired and happy. The night's excitement had been a pleasant relaxation after the dullness of bug hunting at this season, and he was grateful indeed for the information which Daga Bendrib had brought him concerning the depredations of the tiger which had killed the bull. Perry nodded in the crotch of the tree. The sun was slanting in his eyes when he was awakened by the sound of voices at the foot of the tree. He looked down and saw several men standing there. They were neighbors of Daga Bendrib. They were speaking of the triple killing made by the white sahib. "That Daga Bendrib, he is a clever man," said one enviously. "Who but Daga Bendrib and his son-in-law would have dreamed of killing his best bull—the finest in the village—and then running ten miles to the bungalow of the white sahib and telling him that a tiger had been seen in the village and had carried off a bull?" "Who indeed?" echoed his companions. "And, lo, when the white sahib returns with Daga Bendrib and with the promise of many rupees if a tiger is shot, waits for the wicked beast—why, the tiger comes, and the tiger's mate, and, as if these were not rupees enough in crafty Daga Bendrib's pocket, there also comes a panther! All attracted by the smell of the dead bull's blood, when we all know that the jungle has been cleared of these beasts for many years! Whence came these blood hunters? From the distant mountains?" "Clever Daga Bendrib" muttered his companions as the three returned to the village. Perry grinned to himself as he thought over this revelation of Daga Bendrib's device to earn a few rupees. His reward would be ample and the sacrifice of the fine bull would be well justified in the eyes of Daga Bendrib's neighbors, Daga Bendrib's sons-in-law and his brothers and their sons-in-law. As for Perry himself, he calculated what the tiger skins were worth to him when he could return to America and dispose of them, and he was well satisfied with the craft of Daga Bendrib and with the opportune arrival of the "yellow flash."

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of: J. C. Watson. Caring For the Piano. One of those popular fellows who can sit down at a piano and play accompaniments to songs, even when the "music" is not forthcoming, happened to be in a little village recently when a concert was almost struck through the pianist disappointing at the last minute. Our friend, says the Glasgow News, came to the rescue and got the company out of its difficulty, but inwardly he applied to the instrument adjectives which would shock even George Bernard Shaw. After the performance the caretaker (a "lady") was covering up for the night, and the player mentioned to her that the piano was very much in need of attention, but she scouted the idea. "Why," said she, "I went over it myself this morning and scrubbed every part of it, keys and all!" Her Clandestine Courtship. The servant was discussing her latest love affair with a mistress, who was humane enough to be interested. "Well," said the mistress, "since you've been going out with him for months, I think it's quite time he took you to see his parents." "I've been telling him so, ma'am. Only last Sunday I said to him, 'Herbert, I'm not going to be courted in this clandestine way any longer.'" It was some time, says the Manchester Guardian, before the mistress' puzzled brain understood that "clandestine" and "clandestine" were synonymous.

An Always Ready Pill.—To those of a regular habit medicine is of little concern, but the great majority of men are not of regular habit. The worry and the irregularity of life comes dyspepsia, indigestion, liver and kidney troubles as a prelude. The run-down system demands a corrective and there is none better than Parke's Vegetable Compound. They are simple in their composition and can be taken by the most delicately constituted.

Re-Opening Services, Arkona Methodist Church

Sunday, Oct. 11th, 1914, Thanksgiving Sunday, was observed by Arkona Methodists in the re-opening for divine service, of their commodious and up-to-date church edifice, and the Pastor and his people are to be congratulated on the happy results of their efforts.

The work of remodeling the church was undertaken in the spring of 1913, when it was thought best to complete and equip the basement and Sunday school rooms that season and have the use of them, while the main building was being overhauled during the present summer 1914 and this program has been duly carried out.

The new basement is of cement blocks of superior quality and finish, the interior being planned in the modern ideas that are being carried out for effective Sunday School work. A large kitchen fully equipped has been provided for and its capacity was tested to the limit on the Monday evening following. The heating arrangement is done by furnace. The body of the church is veneered with one brick of good quality and a neat brick porch has been erected in the front. In the auditorium, the old plastered ceiling has been replaced by a handsome coffered ceiling of southern pine laid out in diamonds and diagonal work. A new wainscoting of southern pine has also been added and the interior of front porch is of same material and oak. The lighting system consists of a set of electric light fixtures of the indirect ray type. The walls are finished in the rough and the tinting is in ivory which blends nicely with the wainscoting and ceiling.

The committee in charge of the project are to be congratulated on the success of the enterprise, and they are receiving what they deserve, the unstinted praise and thanks of the people whose liberal contributions have made the project possible. They have now an exceptionally neat, tastefully and conveniently appointed church building which the Methodists of Arkona can now call their own. The ladies of the church too are deserving of more than "honorable mention" merely, as they have contributed much to the comfort and beauty of the whole by their gifts of cork linoleum for the aisles, new Brussels carpets for choir gallery and platform, new pulpit furniture and books, also eleven of the sixteen beautiful leaded glass windows that adorn the building. The other five windows are memorials of our one-time useful and honored members of the church now gone to their reward.

The front window on the south side was donated by Mr. and Mrs. J. Hodder, of Roleau, Sask., in memory of his parents, and of two centre south windows one is in memory of Miss Lela Willoughby donated by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Willoughby, Adelaide, and the gift of Mr. Robt. Fitzsimmons in memory of his wife. On the north side the two centre windows bear the names of Mr. and Mrs. T. Tremble and Mr. and Mrs. A. Bartram, the gifts respectively

Baby's Own Tablets cure all the minor ills of little ones such as colic, colds, constipation and indigestion, etc. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
