Three Nicaraguan Gunboats Attack Salvador Cruiser-May End in Mexican Interference.

MEXICO CITY, March 13 .- A private despatch received here absolutely confirms a reported naval engagement between the ships of Nicaragua and Sal-

Three Nicaraguan gunboats, led by the Momotombo Tuesday attacked the Salvadorean gunboat Presidente. The latter by a lucky shot put the Momotombo out of action almost at the beginning of the engagement. The three Nicaraguans then withdrew. Later the Momotombo was repaired and went in pursuit of the Presidente. The gunboat Presidente left the port of Acajutla under sealed orders and proceeded to cruise along the Nicaragua coast. President Zelays of Nicaragua, getting wind of this, ordered the Momotombo and two other ships to intercept the Salvadorean vessel and engage her in battle. THE UBLIC SIDE

For over a week now the whole country about Hamilton has been more or less terrified over the idea that Ethel Kinrade was shot by a tramp; in consequence thousands of women have been in terror that any moment a similar experience might be theirs; in consequence, also, the unfortunate men who make up the class of tramps have been treated, if not as wild animals, at least as dangerous, and chased

The public has a right to protection, to a clearance of this unhappy state of affairs: The World has not any doubt that there are people in Hamilton who know who committed the crime, and that the veil should be lifted and what looks to be an effort, a useless effort, to shield a case of some kind of murderous dementia should be abandoned.

Extent to Which Airships

LONDON, March 13.-Whilst so much attention is being given to the invasion of England by the naval forces of an enemy, we must not in our scheme of defences omit to provide for the possibilities of attack from aerial fleets also, writes R. P. Hearne in The Sphere. Just now French writers have taken up the theme with true Gallic enthusfasm and have pushed the subject in several instances almost to the point of absurdity. At the same time one or two French writers have thrown valuable light on the matter, and their conclusions are developed with admirable lucidity and with no small amount of lucidity and with no small amount of expert knowledge.

That airships will play an important part in any raid on or invasion of England is being gradually admitted, even by that section of the British public which has only just begun to accept the airship as a fact. In France and Germany, on the other hand, the idea has been long entertained, tho it has been generally felt that the over-sea passage would set up special conditions which so far have not been carefully studied.

which so far have not been carefully studied.

No dirigible balloon or aeroplane has yet crossed the channel, and save the Zeppelin no airship is specially fitted for work over water. But the distance equivalent to that separating England from France has already been covered many times by dirigibles and flying machines, whilst the bee-line distance from Germany to England has been traversed by French and German dirigibles. It is worthy of note that England has never had an airship which could be relied upon to journey even from London to the south or east coast.

For the nonce we must dismiss the aeroplane as a practicable instrument of invasion since no nation has a sufficiency of machines or men for the task even if all ofher conditions were favorable. The aeroplane as we know if to-day can at most only carry two people, and nothing in the way of provisions, stores and ammunition. To convey 10,000 armed men to our shores 10,000 machines would be heeded, as only one soldier could be taken on each machine and the aviators would not only one soldier could be taken on each machine and the aviators would not machine and the aviators would not be avallable for fighting, as their time would be fully occupied in attending to their machines.

in Gow Ganda. He was delighted with the quaint little stories told about the two young Scotchmen who discovered the Bartlett, and how a lucky strike lifted them in a day from prospectors to men who had money to spend.

Dick Gilpin likes to listen to a good story and tells a few himself that makes one incredulous.

No one wishes success to Gow Ganda more than Dick Gilpin. Therefore he tells a story, in his inimitable style, about the resurrection of the first Chinaman who went to Gow Ganda. "We were coming back to Elk City from Gow Ganda," said Mr. Gilpin. "The weather was 40 below zero and still a'dropping. In the caravan there naman who was poorly clad

At this point Mr. Gilpin's voice quivers and the sobbing intonation seems to call soft music from the orchestra.

"The Chinaman was cold and grew says Dick. "Gradually his yelow hide turned blue and he stiffened out slowly right there among us in the caravan. He was frozen stiff." Here again Dick's voice broke with pathos, and it was a full minute be-pathos, and it was a tin minde of fore he could continue.

"We got to wigwam that night," he said, "and left the Chinaman out in the snow, as it is not good form to bring a corpse into a roadhouse where men have to eat and sleep.

"Next day we lifted the Chinaman, who we stiff as a plank and shoved who was stiff as a plank, and shoved him feet first into the caravan, Then

Woodgreen Champions.

Woodgreen Champions.

In the final game for the championship of the M.Y.M.A. Hockey League, in the sentor series, at the T.A.A.C. Rink the Woodgreens defeated the Centennials by the score of 7-5; score at half-time, 3-2 in favor of Woodgreen. This gives the Woodgreens the cup for the second time, they having won it last year, and have not as yet suffered a defeat. The winners lined up as follows:

ISITUATION AT PRESENT WITH THE COAL MINERS

May Be a Strike in the Anthracite Districts When Agreements-Expire on April 1.

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.-The nembers of three anthracite district executive boards of the Miners Union held a long session in Central Labor Union Hall here to-day and decided to hold a tri-district convention of the miners at Scranton on March 23. This convention will adopt plans for making further efforts to obtain from the coal companies a new agreement to take the place of the present arrangement, which expires on March 31. Following the convention there will be another conference with the opera-National President Lewis will go to Indianapolis to-day and will return east in time for the Scranton meeting Several of the board members of the union expressed the opinion to-day that the coal companies will shut down on April 1. It is understood that all collieries will work full time during the remainder of this month, in order to store up as much coal as possible fore the present agreement expires.

What Men Asked.

Before going to the meeting of the executive boards to-day, Mr. Lewis gave out the following statement: "It is to be regretted that the conference of the operators and United Mine Workers' representatives of the anthracite coal regions adjourned with-but reaching an understanding that could be made the basis of a wage con-

of Toronto.

There was not one minute's delay in the sale from the time it started until it ended.

Mr. George W. Kennedy of the Spruce

Mr. George W. Kennedy of the Spruce Hill Stock Farm was well pleased with the results, altho he considered the prices in some cases were not so large as desired, but was more than pleased with the way they were handled, and was satisfied that on the whole they brought fully as much as he expected. Mr. W. A. Lawrason's consignment of standard breds from Preston brought good prices, and the bidding was very brisk. His horses were in excellent shape, and were fast and good actors. WE ANNOUNCE A MATTER OF THE GREATEST IMPORTANCE.

We have just secured from a well-known manufacturer a limited number of fine new "SCHUBERT" Cabinet Grand Upright Pianos, full sized, in handsome walnut and mahogany cases, which for financial reasons he was obliged to sacrifice quickly.

Here is the plan;

While we could readily sell these excellent instruments at a considerable profit we have found a better use for

We offer them as an easy stepping-stone to the possession of the famous Gerhard Heintzman. We will give you full advantage of the lowest possible price, and agree to take them back any time within six years, if desired, on the purchase of a new Gerhard Heintzman, allowing credit for the full price paid, less a nominal yearly charge of 5 per cent. for wear and tear.

Furthermore, we offer these pianos at the exceedingly low price of $200 cash, or on the following reasonable terms: $10 cash and $6 per month, with interest at 6 per cent. We will ship anywhere on approval, and if you are not satisfied we will pay the return freight.

Here is an unexpected chance to not only secure an unheard-of value, but to make easy the final purchase of the highest grade piano manufactured-the celebrated GERHARD HEINTŹMAN.

> Special "price offerings" are no novelty, and a "price offering" may mean little or nothing. But a real piano offering which combines such a low price with such excellent quality is rare indeed. These pianos are ful-ly guaranteed by their maker and by this Company, who, as makers of the GERHARD HEINTZMAN Piano, could not under any circumstances have their name associated with a questionable instrument.

If you are not ready at this time to purchase a piano of the highest grade, but desire a splendid new instrument for your own use, for the use of the children, for students or beginners, here is a chance of the greatest value.

Do not delay in taking advantage of this offering. Our supply of these instruments is limited, and they are sure to go quickly.

Call or write us at once.

RAILWAYS TO HUDSON BAY

THE FALLS OF NIAGARA FLOWING 39,000 YEARS

That is the Estimate of Scientists -Some Very Interesting Facts About the Past,

Prof. Henry Montgomery of the Unimany of your readers to know some of the results of the recent investigations concerning the history and age of the Falls of Niagara, especially since this question has been mentioned in the question has been mentioned in the theological discussion regarding the world's chronology. The latest and most reliable estimate of the age of the falls is that of Dr. J. W. Spencer, who, in his monograph published by the Canadian Geological Survey, gives 39,000 years as his careful determination. In a previous work in 1894, Dr. Spencer had given 31,000 years; but, new facts were obtained in the mean-time which considerably affected the results. The rate of erosion of the rocks depends upon the volume of water as well as upon its velocity, and upon the character of the rocks. Many years ago, when Sir Charles Lyell made a guess of 35 000 years it was supposed ago, when Sir Charles Lyell made a guess of 35,000 years, it was supposed that the volume of water passing over the falls had never varied greatly. But, it is now known that for a very long period of time, about three-fourths of the outer and of the falls the water. the entire age of the falls, the waters of the upper lakes flowed thru the Nipissing and Ottawa Valley, and not into Lake Erie. That is, Lake Erie was but a very small body of water during that long period and the volume of water passing over the falls was only 15 per cent. of that of the present time. Consequently the rate of erosion of the rocks was very small, being only about six inches yearly. This period of time is represented by the distance between the Foster's Flats and the mouth of the gorge, and was of long duration, namely 35,500 years. From Foster's Flats to the present falls represents Admiral Uryu, the man who started the 3500 years, making a total of 39,000. war with Russia, is expected from

Other channels of ancient rivers, which at one time formed outlets for which at one time formed outlets for Lake Erie, have been discovered west of the present Niagara River. By the examination and study of these ancient outlets, as well as of the land uplift and the old Huron beaches, near Lake Nipissing, in northern Ontario, very valuable data have been obtained. If Lyell's guess of the rate of annual erosion as about a foot had been correct, his estimate of 35,000 years would have been about correct. But, that Japan shortly on his way to the natural napolis, Md, his Alma Mater.

But, that rate of erosion was not correct. the present time the Canadian falls' erosion is about four feet yearly, and that of the American falls is about England lately. It is the estate of the late Sir Henry Page of Bothwell, England, and is said to be worth $750,000,000. Sir Henry died in 1820 and since then many claims have been filed for a share of his enormous wealth and many acres.

Edgar Page of this city claims to be addressed a direct descendant of Sir Henry Page, and thinks if his claim were established, and he is confident it could be the decision of the right of the Protection of the right of the American falls is about four feet yearly, and that of the American falls is about four feet yearly, and that of the American falls is about four feet yearly. Haughton Lennox and other oppositionists last night talked about the bill of the Prince Albert and Hudson Bay. Hailway.

Mr. Lennox doubted the wisdom of encouraging private corporations to the proposed government road, and he asked the minister to lay down a policy in that regard.

The minister pointed out that this company did not propose to follow the route laid out for the government road. Anyway, it was not wise to hinder the huildings of railways to Hudson Bay. "For," he added, "I'm a bit sceptical about the number of railways that will be built to Hudson Bay."

Dr. Chisholm was not so sceptical.

CHANGE IN SOCIETY AT WASHINGTON

New Mistress of White House Overhauling Mansion-Interesting Facts Regarding Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, March 13 .- Next in mportance, to the administrative change that took place on March 4 are the changes in Washington society that accompanied the departure of Roosevelt and the advent of Taft. These are the things that Washington itself sees most clearly, but to a greater or less degree the whole country sees them, too, and more and more as time goes on the social relations of the rulers of the country are coming to have an effect upon the adninistration itself. This has long been recognized in English politics to have recognized in English politics to have a far-reaching effect upon the conduct of the government.

Both the president and Mrs. Taft have had more than a peep behind the scenes in the play of life which has the White House for its main setting. During his father's service as secretary of war in the Grant administration the president took some part in one of the most brilliant periods of the old regime. As daughter of the late partner of President Hayes, Mrs. Taft as a young girl was a frequent guest in the historic home where for the next four years she will preside as mistress.

guest in the historic home where lot the next four years she will preside as mistress.

For five years past, as the wife of a cabinet officer, Mrs. Taft has been a ruling member in the immediate entourage of the White House, where previously, as the wife of the governor-general of the Philippines, she filled a role scarcely less exacting officially than the one she will have as first lady of the land.

Mrs. Taft Begins Changes.

Two liveried footmen are on duty at the main door of the White House, and stand out as the first of a series of important changes to be made by Mrs. Taft, wife of the president, in the manner of the conduct of the household and of the executive mansion, Mrs. Taft, like all orderly housewives, began at the front door of her home, and will go istraight thru the White House, effecting any number of changes in the personnel of of the staff of servants and methods of housekeeping until she gets everything just where she wants it.

In order that the greater number of these revisions may be effected as soon as possible, Mrs. Taft has brought over a housekeeper from New York, and henceforth the affairs of the inner home life of the chief executive and his family will be entirely in feminine hands.

Mrs. Taft has been known thruout his family will be entirely in reminine hands.

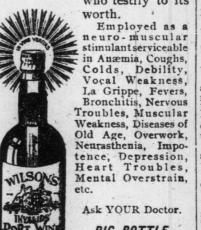

Mrs. Taft has been known thruout the official career of her husband as a practical housekeeper. She knows all about how to cook and how to clean house, but she does not actually do the work herself, as many fanciful writers would have the public believe. As in her former home in K-street, where everything was spick and span and run on a solid system, she is going in endless variety. There is no more authoritative display of ladies' wearing apparel in the country than "here." Why do the most fastidious and well-dressed people of Toronto select their costumes from Brown's? Simply because every garment, being exclusive and coming direct from New York, must be correct. Never before have we had such a grand display of NEW YORK COSTUMES as this season. Our buyer has made frequent trips to this centre of fashion and searched the finest and most exclusive houses for up-to-date, "chic" models. Every known fabric for this season's wants is to be found here. Every new shade, including ashes of roses, pain-brule, wistaria, bois-de-rose, taupe, etc., is shown in our salon, and at most reasonable prices. We invite you to come—look at the costumes—compare the values—wander around in the finest showrooms in America, and when fatigued sit down and listen to the orchestra. You are under no obligation to buy—just come and enjoy yourselves.

Our many other floors are generously stocked with elegant, well-made, comfort-giving furniture, and you can pass an interesting, educative, and beneficial time. We have brought together a truly wonderful assortment of superb designs and tasteful home furnishings. It has not been done without strenuous endeavor, but we know that the discerning people of Toronto will promptly show their appreciation, and so recompense us for our money-saving efforts.

ENTHUSIASM AND FAT

These two, like oil and water, mix poorly. This does not imply fat men and women never get enthusiastic. They do down deep inside. But what does it comount to? Their fat doesn't get excited. They can't trainsmute their enthusiasm into energetic action, so they might as well keep calm.

Thus it is that fat people generate much steam for life's work, only to find the load too much for the horse-power, and as a result thousands of both, sexes get just so far and no further. "Much they care," says the uninitiated slim one. But they do care. They care keenly for financial, mental, social, business, fall-hunting, straight-front and comfort reasons, and that is why Marmola Prescription Tablets have been so heartlly welcomed by the overweight clayses, The renson is not far to seek. Marmola Prescription Tablets take off about a pound a day, in most cases, without interfering in any way with the taker's table tendencies or his love of ease. To some possibly, their absolute economy appeals. Thus one large case coating seventy-five cents at any drug store or of the makers. If the day is exceptionally warm Prince is taken for a short walk around the yard of the Snow estate. If the coachman deems the weather too severe, Prince is merely allowed to thrust his nose thru an opening in the window of the barn and refresh his dungs with the fresh air for a few minutes. Then he is tenderly'led back to his stall and left until dinner time. At noon his food consists of large quantities of milk and cream carefully mixed and a small bundle of English hay, but partly because the horse thru age has lost most of his grinders, the larger part of the hay remains uneaten. New York Leaders Have a Difficult Problem on Hand-Speculation Consols, account Light at Toro

World Office, Saturday Evening, March 13. Shorn of much of the usual mani-pulation New York stocks have had the most inactive week for more than year. Point fluctuations each day, and even less, were about the limit of the active shares, while greater changes only occurred in oddities such as Hocking Iron in an upward direction, or as in Erie in the opposite way. The lead-ing interests have brought about this deadlock for the purpose of shaping up a new movement and the period of inactivity will not be broken until they desire it. That another bull movemen is contemplated cannot be doubted, but it will depend upon the present state of the outstanding speculation whether a preliminary dip will not precede the

If any rally had been under way du ing the week, two incidents would have noved advantageous as stimulants. These were the decision against a two-cent rate in Missouri and the other that revoking the huge fine imposed upon the Standard Oil Co. As it was, neither of these had a special effect upon prices. The same might be said of the gold shipments, which are still intermittent and may run into quite a sum before completed. The important factor ahead of the market, however, is the tariff revision. "Myriads of individual insects and hundreds of different species, with the cultural Society. Among other things he said:

"Myriads of individual insects and hundreds of different species, with the most diverse structure and habits, infest our gardens. Many appear but sporadically, while others are with us always. Some are more injurious in particular localities, and others only under peculiar climatic conditions.

"In our warfare with insect pests we are coming more and more to seek methods of prevention rather than of remedy. The entomologist is giving more and more study to the relation of insect pests to their surroundings, so that he may better advise methods of culture which will eliminate as far as

Dividend declarations of 15 per cent. for the quarter on Crown Reserve, and three per cent. on the City of Cobalt, has not been of much benefit to the market owing to the irregularity in the prices of the general list, but both of these are satisfactory from the standpoint of holders and will later prove of interest.

Holders of speculative shares appear to be well satisfied with the state of the market and are not liquidating to any great extent. This has given the chief strength to quotations, but in a few instances reactions have followed where any attempt has been made to dispose of stocks. One of the weak issues has been Twin City. The annual statement of this company has accounted for the selling of the stock, as counted for the selling of the stock, as the surplus for the year, despite a respectable increase in net earnings, was below that of 1907. This was due to an increase in fixed charges, most of which were incurred from new bond

The most satisfactory part of recent operations has been the steady demand for the investment securities. This is all the more marked because of the letup in the demand for bonds. Consumers' Gas, Bell Telephone and the banks and trust and loan companies' shares have been substantially supported, purchases when made having usually shown small advances on previous transactions. In a speculative way this market still relies upon New York for its incentive and any improvement in the larger market will naturally be followed to some extent on this ex-

PROPERTIES WITH REAL MERIT

The present opportunities for investing in real mining properties at real values have never been surpassed in the history of the great silver camp. This is but natural under present conditions-every day bringing forth new and valuable discoveries in the great silverhand. Our business is to secure these properties direct from the prospectors and men in the field, and our representa-tives on the ground have enabled us to secure some of these on very favorable terms and at reasonable prices. We have a splendid list of properties' ranging in value from $500 per claim to $250,000. The former are usually claims staked during the winter on which calcite leads 'are found in the diabase around Obuskong, Spawning and Hanging Stone Lakes. These properties are practically undeveloped, and when the snow leaves and real prospecting takes place, may produce some of the wonders in the camp. The higher-priced properties show mineral in place, and range in value according to silver in evidence, location, etc. We endeavor to secure an engineer's report on all silver properties, as well as owners' statement. We also insist on reasonable terms and conditions.

If advertised list does not contain what you want, write or wire usstating amount you desire to invest, and we will endeavor to satisfy your

and we will endeavor to satisfy your requirements.

We have the latest maps of Gowganda and Silver Lake districts, as well as all township maps.

We do not confine our efforts to Gowganda and Elk Lake district, but have properties for sale in Coleman, Bucke, South Lorraine, etc.

REAL MINING PROPERTIES

We have been successful in securing several of the best mining properties in the heart of the rich diabase ridge on which the famous mines of Gowganda are situated. These are not snow-staked claims -secured in winter-but properties located last fall when formation and other conditions that mark valuable mining properties were visible to prospectors and mining engineers. Development has proven the merits of these properties, and native silver in quantity is visible to the naked eye. Some of these properties are still in the original owner's hands, and these are claims we believe offer the greatest opportunities to shrewd investors. If you want to buy a real mine at a fair price, we can deliver the same.

The above statements apply with equal force to Silver Lake, James, South Lorrain and other portions of the great silver camp, and real buyers will find it to their interest to consult us before looking

Aside from these properties we have a line of medium-priced claims properties that show mineral in place some of which are worthy of more than passing attention. We direct the buyer's special attention to these. All our properties are offered subject to inspection in the field.

Among the list of properties offered we have four forty-acre claims adjoining Townsite of Smyth, the surface rights for residential purposes being worth more than we are asking for the whole

MAPS

Our new map of the Montreal River district contains nine townships, with the names and locations carefully marked. It is the best yet issued and was specially prepared for our customers. Sent postpaid on receipt of $1.25.

Every prospector, owner and broker should have one of our latest Gowganda maps. They are complete and will be mailed upon receipt of $1.25.

PROSPECTORS

We have unexcelled facilities for handling mining properties, and have an extensive clientele, in Canada, the United States and Great Britain: This clientele is daily increasing, and we are desirous that it should. In order, however, to maintain the position of leadership we have established for sale of mining properties, we believe it advisable to state openly so that all claim-holders may understand, the information we have forwarded to many prospectors who have written us to sell their claims.

1-We must have an owner's state-ment clearly setting forth forma-tion of claim, description and number of veins showing values. 2-Send particulars as to title, giving number of claim and stating number of days' work actually performed. Also if surveyed.

3-Do not have your propositions loaded two or three times their ac-loaded two or three times their actual value by middlemen and others. We do not and will not offer properties this way.

4—We do not accept for sale all properties offered, and do not demand an option until we have real buyers in sight.

5—We believe you would make more money out of well-located and undeveloped claims by placing the same under working options. These properties at present sell from $500 to $5000. Suppose you place same with real operators who will accept an interest in your property and proceed with continuous development, you reserving an unassessable interest. If it proves to be a mine, you will have an independent fortune—if otherwise, you are only out of pocket cost of staking and recording. We have placed several properties this way, which we consider fair to all parties interested.

few observations concerning my trip, although found on our claims. Of these, owing to the it is impossible for me, in this limited space, to deep snow, I have only been able to inspect relate in detail all that I saw and learned.

In short, I can only say that GOWGANDA our offices. is the centre of a vast and richly mineralized silver area, extending for many miles north, south, east and west. Development only is required to make this the most renowned silver mining district in the world.

One must see with one's own eyes to appreciate the fabulous riches which nature has placed right on the surface of this extensive territory.

As far as area is concerned, Cobalt is already beaten, and when surface indications are considered, there is no room for doubt but that this new western country will equal Cobalt's most sensational discoveries. That in a few years the many mines, in a radius of fifty miles, with GOWGANDA as centre, will be producing many times the ore coming from Cobalt is a prediction which, I dare say, no one who has ever been on the ground in person would contradict.

Think of this - "GOWGANDA was only discovered in August last, and already within a few weeks a carload of ore, from the Boydis a record that stands by itself!

Sept. 30, Dec. 31.

Total issue £300,000. The only bonded debt. Coupon Bonds in denominations of £10, £50 and £100 each. Principal payable in Gold. Interest payable quarterly. A £10 Bond pays a net income of $3.68, a £50 Bond $18.43, and a £100 Bond $36.86 per annum.

Lima is the capital of Peru. It has a population of about 150,000 people, payed streets, magnificent buildings, modern improvements and is indeed a modern city. Lima Bonds are protected. The only protecting force we can urge against them is the strong wind which usually prevails over the channel. This is generally more powerful than that against which the present French of German vessels could make progress in, and as long as a stiff 30.

A eulogy on the sun by F. I. Sabine.

The Truth Must Triumph

Naturally, the public will be deeply interested in the report which will be made as to whether Bible teaching is carried on in Toronto University and as to whether, as Hon. S. H. Blake charges, it made its entrance thru a back door. Also in the result of the animated controversy which merrily continues between the Jackson and the Carman factions of the Methodist Church. One cannot suppress the feeling that it is good to have an electric storm occasionally for the sake of clearing the air.

As The Sunday World is said to have been somewhat responsible for agitating opinion in favor of advanced thought and for supporting Dr. Jackson in his outspoken attitude on Old Testament history, it is only fair, in view of the heat of the debate, to state more fully the views put forward two or three weeks ago.

It is obvious that the whole conflict, when considered impartially, represents two entirely opposite schools of thought. One is the old, which adheres to everything, no matter what the accuracy or inaccuracy of the history contained in the first eleven chapters of the Bible, the other believes in accepting these chapters for their religious significance, but not attributing to them absolute correctness in historical data. The chasm between the two classes of scholars is as wide as between two political parties. and as unlikely to be bridged.

F. I. Sabine.

But, however sound the convictions of each, a man is always admired for believing what he says and saying what he thinks. What we said before and what we say now is that if Mr. Jackson conscientiously believes what he is quoted as having spoken, then he should stick to his guns. If he is teaching what is contrary to the discipline of the Methodist Church and he is a pastor under the conference of that church, then he should step out, but stand true to his belief.

Second, if Bible teaching goes on in University College and it is ultra vires and contrary to the constitution governing the university, then the constitution should be either so amended as to permit of the teaching, or it should be discontinued.

Third, no amount of clerical invective will ever stop the progress of thought. If a truth is a truth it must be eternal and should be accepted. Beliefs that have no foundation and no significance die a natural death in

In so far as Mr. Blake argues that Bible teaching is ultra vires, those who have followed his legal summary of things will agree that he is right, providing the charges he makes are true, but scholars and thinkers everywhere will not all submit to his dictum that the Christian faith is being shaken by the expression of views such as those of Dr. Jackson.

Why should the Christian church fear open discussion on any point?

If there is only one way of interpreting the Old Testament, then there should, on the same basis of argument, be only one denomination. But there are scores of denominations, and why not two opinions as to the historical accuracy of certain chapters?

If to say that those eleven chapters are not to be taken as literal fact is to rob the world of Christianity and happiness, then by all means the discussion should be speedily suppressed. When, however, it does not remove man's belief in God or deaden his sincerity in things Divine, then why not permit the fullest investigation and the freest speech in order to

In all ages reformers and advanced thinkers have been ridiculed. derided and condemned, yet the men who had the strength of their convictions remained firm to what they believed, no matter what calumny was heaped upon them.

So it should be now. A man should be honest with himself and with the people he teaches, even tho he has to resign from any office he holds. If he is wrong and the enlightened public will have none of him, then he will go down in his turn and time, but if what he teaches is TRUTH, then he will stand, and later generations will pay tribute to his fearlessness.

This discussion may prove yet to be one of the best things that could befall the church and University inasmuch as it may strengthen the RIGHT by bringing it more clearly to the light of the present day.

Strange How It Happens

It is an ill-wind that does not blow good for someone, but Punch is not far astray when it pictures John Bull regarding all the cheap noise created over a fanciful invasion of England as of little practical value to him. However, the masses have to be aroused to a sense of patriotic responsibility in some way and where orators are unable to do it, writers must. Mr. Haldane should be very pleased, indeed, over the success of the sensational drama which has brought out thousands of recruits to swellhis territorial army scheme, but no doubt he sometimes reflects, when alone in his library, on two things: one, that he is personally incapable of awakening much loyal enthusiasm in the breasts of his countrymen; and, two. that a mediocre melodrama has more effect on Britain's millions than tons of government blue books. These facts should impress upon governments the necessity of printing their annual books in more attractive form or of getting ministers of war who can deliver red-hot speeches. Of course, there is no need for anything of the kind until someone has a dream that Germany proposes to build another warship, or that Emperor William intends to get up an hour earlier in the morning.

Ignoble Gain From Notoriety

Those who have sincere regard for moral decency will appreciate the motives that actuated Jack Binns, the heroic "wireless" operator on the Atlantic liner that was in a recent collision, in refusing an offer to appear in musical halls for "big" money. He did his duty as a man and did not care to be put up before an ignorant but sensation-craving public as a curiosity-satisfying little tin god. It is sad to think that so many managers of variety theatres and music halls in United States and Europe find it lucrative to engage cranks. notorious women and "discovered" men at hundreds of dollars a week to earn thousands for the box office. The whole thing savors of a traveling circus where monstrosities are exhibited for ten cents a peek. Men and monkeys are often very much alike for more reasons than Darwin has stated,

Love of Pomp and Display

There were great doings the other day when William H. Taft was installed as president of the United States. It is estimated that the inauguration cost more than $5,000,000; that there were some 200,000 visitors in Washington who spent $3,000,000 in railway fares and $1,600,000 in hotels. There was a grand ball for which the trifle of $50,000 was allowed and a paltry $10,000 was set down as the estimate for "refreshments for musicians."

In view of the fact that the United States prides itself on being a democratic country and the spirit of the nation cries out against monarchical pomp and display it is hard for the outside world to ignore the humor of the situation. Certainly the eagle is privileged to flap his wings to the tune of $5,000,000 if he wishes, but his democratic feathers might appear more real and beautiful if he did not screech about them so much.

Officiousness at the Border

experienced recently by Canadians on account of overzealousness of United States immigration officers at the border makes the discussion of the subject in parliament quite opportune and pertinent. Two or three incidents have been brought to public attention within the last few weeks in which it would appear that the officers far exceeded the purpose of the law and certainly overstepped the line of good judgment.

One case in particular was brought to public attention by this paper and it shows what an injustice may be done to a person who is unfairly prevented from entering the

A young man who was engaged as electrician for a theatrical company which appeared at a theatre in this city was held up at the Niagara frontier when he went to cross with the troupe. He offered to pay the poll tax, but the officious man in uniform not only refused, but detained him several hours, and the young man was obliged to return to Toronto, to sacrifice his position which was earning him his living, and to submit to the delay which an investigation into the case will cause.

Were the law constantly enforced against theatrical persons crossing and re-crossing the border there would be crimination is necessary should be removed from office.

ey that have been an explanation of this singular affair, but the same young man says that he has traveled the States before and has crossed the border when necessary without being submitted to any such indignities

Further, theatrical companies are coming into Can ada every week from the United States, including electricians and other such employes. Canadian officers do not hold them up and force them to lose their jobs even the we have an alien law as well as has United States.

Men also from Canada have crossed the border else where under similar circumstances to those recited about the electrician, but nothing has ever been said, because it is well understood that, despite what the alien law may be, it not, and could not, be reasonably enforced against theatrical people who cross and re-cross regularly.

If immigration officers of the neighboring republic are permitted to act in such a high-handed and contemptuous a manner the Canadian Government would be entirely justified in retaliating.

It cannot be conceived, however, that the proper authorities of the United States will tolerate such officiousness when their attention is called to the facts, and the mar who has not sufficient judgment to discriminate where dis-

There is a certain fascination in the woods in speculating upon who has been there before you. You examine any bit of evidence left behind and set your wits to work at making deductions. A scrap of paper lying on th ground is often an invaluable clue in such explorations it may give you a name or even an address, and from you may learn whether your predecessors on the lonely trail have been just men or men and women together. An exploded cartridge, a little heap of feathers, even an empty omato can or a cracker box may piece out the story.

Well, it is much the same when you follow the track of a previous reader thru a book. A note on the margin, perhaps nothing more than a line drawn around a sentence or two, will show you where some one else has pitched the tent of meditation and interrupted his journey.

And think how overwhelming the effect must be when person encounters upon the printed page the simple word 'Bosh!" and knows that it expresses the opinion of Thomas Carlyle as to what he himself has just been reading. If it were a printed, impersonal footnote, even the it were by Mr. Carlyle, it wouldn't be so terrible, but to see the actual written scrawl and to realize that his hand put it there, why it's as the Carlyle himself had bellowed that "Bosh" into your own ears and you sat mute and guilty under the spell of his awful frown. It would take some courage to believe any bit of composition which had been thus excommunicated by the glowering T. C. or by Mr. Gladstone's frigid and final X.

Chairs of Transportation

It is only just to admit that universities in Canada and the United States are meeting-slowly indeed—the demands of this practical age for practical curricula.

In several universities there are schools of journalism, courses in the theory of business enterprise and methods, and in at least two of the state universities of the United States there are courses in the principles of business publicity, or, in shorter phrase, advertising.

But there is one class of persons whom the universities still neglect, namely, clerks in railway offices.

Nowadays, it happens that a clerk may, and will, spend a lifetime in a big railway office and never see a locomotive or know more about railroading when he dies than when he began; and what is vital in the matter, lack of such experience outside of the office totally prevents promotion and increase of salary.

Now, all this might be easily remedied, if our universities established chairs of railroading in as many departments as possible, and at any rate courses in transportation.

After instruction under a professor of transportation, who, of course, would have to be a practical but cultured railroad expert, a young man would enter a railroad office capable of taking a position in which he could apply knowledge in a practical and valuable way.

And not only this, thus equipped and thus capable of using judgment and insight, a clerk so trained would be valued for his brains and the attitude he naturally would take towards increasing the efficiency of the railroad which employed him. And this would inevitably secure for him promotion and better salary.

Poor intellectual equipment always means a poor start in any line of higher endeavor, and a poor start is almost always fatal to progress

We "put it up" to our universities. There is a crying need in Canada for chairs of transportation. Let us have them

Really An Unkind Suggestion

The suffragettes in the old country must certainly be admired for their ingenious methods of attracting attention. So novel are their schemes and so fearlessly are they carried out, that it is a subject of wonder that large firms do not engage them as advertising agents. One of the latest of their undertakings for awakening the calloused public conscience was tried out the other day when the British Parliament opened. That it fizzled out does not rob the idea of originality and a pinch of humor. A young militant suffragette got into an airship intending to make a wonderfully spectacular descent in Palace Yard, so that the gaping crowds would see her and King Edward would be reduced in his sovereign pomp. Fate turned its wheel against her, however, and she came down onto a prickly hedge, from which position she was rescued by a farm laborer. When 3000 feet up she threw out 56 pounds of literature advocating the cause of the voteless sex,

Fancy the unkindness of some people! They have even suggested that she was trying to show the Asquith Government how to drop bills

How to Teach a Moral

It is always well, whenever possible, to pick a moral lesson off the bushes around you and hand it to your neighbor. The receiver is enriched and the giver wins fame as a public benefactor. Therefore, it is well for you to read the following story :

As the flashily dressed young man came out of the club, puffing vigorously at a cigaret, he was met by a venerable looking old gentleman who thought it his duty to give the young dude a bit of indirect advice. He consequently asked the young man how many of those horrid injurious things (meaning cigarets) he smoked each day.

"Oh, about three boxes," was the smoker's reply. "And how much do they cost a box?" asked the old gentleman.

"That is forty-five cents a day?" he continued.

"Let me see, that is over three dollars a week and more than a hundred and sixty dollars a year?" "Yes, sir."

"Well, my good young friend, did you ever stop to think that if you would discontinue smoking and save your money until you are sixty years old you could own that fine row of apartment houses over there,

"No, I never thought of that," replied the young man, and turning to the old man he asked.

"Say, sir, do you smoke?"

"My gracious sakes, no!"

"Do you own those fine apartment houses?"

"No, I don't," responded the aged one.

"Well, sir, I do," and the young man walked away. Moral-When giving away this kind of advice, make the property so enormous in value and extent that the young man cannot possibly own it.

YOUR NEW SPRING HATS. LADIES!

And the way they become you There is an all-important question. And your hair and the way in which it frames your face and fills in the space around your hat, without leaving gaps and sagging down just where it should stay up. That is another important matter.

THE CURE

For flat hair, when the hat is on or off is in wearing one of Pember's Spring Pompadour Bangs. With them the hair is always full and fluffy and they adapt themselves to hat any face. When the shape of hat and face. When the hat is removed they at once resume the shape they were before it was put on. Dainty, becoming, beautifully made and with no trace of artificiality, they are the perfect hair aid to wear for fine appearance,

There was a great deal of competition in the bidding. The sale commenced with the standard-bred horses, the Spruce Hill Standard-bred horses, the Spruce Hill Stock Farm, headed by "Lord of the Manor." They all sold for good prices, and they were a handsome lot; good-mannered and well-gaited, and showed in their harness to capital ad-vantage. All the registered horses consigned were hitched and driven by such competent men as Mr. Montgomery of Dufferin Track, John Fleming and Mr. Pearson of Montreal; and ridden by Ed. Lewis of Toronto. There was not a minute's delay from the time the sale started until it ended. George W. Kennedy of the Spruce Hill Stock Farm was well pleased with the Stock Farm was well pleased with the results, altho he considered the prices in some cases were not so large as desired, but he was more than pleased with the way the horses were handled, and was satisfied that on the whole they brought fully as much as could be expected. W. A. Lawrason's consignment of standard-breds from Preston brought good prices, and the bidding was brisk. His horses were in excellent shape, and were fast and good actors. Some of the green pacers sould step halves in 1.10. There was excitement when the Hackneys, con-signed by the Oak Park Stock Farm Co. of Brantford, were brought into the ring. "Crayke Mikado" headed the list. This horse won at the first Na-tional Horse Show in New York, and was first in the class and championship at the Chicago Exposition, and in 1907 he won in the 3-year-old class at the Toronto Stallion Show, and won first at the Chicago International Exposition, 1907. There was spirited bidding on this horse. He started at $300, and was finally sold to Mr. Weatherall for Miss K. L. Wilks of Galt for $825. "Warwick Albert" was sold for $435 to W. J. PROGRESS OF BREEDING.

Great Strides Made in Recent Years in England. The progress of the scientific breeding of live stock has been remarkable, and no more striking illustration of what has been accomplished can be found than at the English breed shows, several of which will be held during the next few weeks. Practice and science in this case are found closely allied, and what has made the Shire Horse Society so powerful a body in English breed whether the part of the London van-Horse Parade Society, the sixth annual parade of which will be held annual parade of which will be held on the coming Easter Monday, in the inner circle, Regents Park, London, and the names of the Duke of Portland, the Earl of Radmor and Lord Clinton have been added to the list of vice-presidents. On the expenditures of the department of militia and defence there has been very little hostile criticism on the part of the opposition in the house, and when Sir Frederick Borden on Tuesday made his annual statement of the expenditures what followed was not in the way of destructive criticism, but more in the nature of supporting the hands of the minister. The chief military critic on that occasion was not Col. Sam Hughes, between whom and the minister there is no great gulf fixed, but Col. Worthington of Sherbrook. Col. Hughes promises to have more to say later. He has, however, on more than one occasion expressed. on more than one occasion expressed the opinion that the question of guaranteed stocks of any company which has paid regular dividends for a football of the politicians, and the house agrees with him that both parties should work together for the common cause of strengthening the military position of this arm of the British of another interesting debate in the commons on Wednesday. It will be remembered that the D'Israeli wharf, in the county of Richmond and Wolf, Que., was one of the contentions of a that the municipality of D'Israeli wanted a bridge across a stream to connect two portions of the town, and wanted somebody else to build it. The Federal Government, however, does not build bridges; it does build wharves if there is any traffic, and sometimes it builds wharves where there is no water and consequently no traffic by boats. So, according to the opposition theory, the town fathers conceived the idea of inducing the government to build a wharf on either side of the stream, and bridging the few feet of chasm with some kind of a superstructure that would answer for a bridge. The "wharf" was built and the bridge followed, and it is said that the structure came at a most opportune time, for toold bridge across the creek was rott and has since been torn away. This Mr. Emerson got on with his Inter-colonial branch lines resolution on Mon-day avaning speaking population bound when Mr. Blain, the alert Peel man, discovered a strong resemblance between the D'Israeli affair and a plan of the public works department for the benefit of the town of Annapolis, Nova They need a bridge there too. but the river is wider than the stream at D'Israell, and so the government has been asked to build in the river a number of piers with sharp noses to break the ice when it begains to run in the spring, thus saving the banks the river from disfigurement. Formation of Canons There is really no need for the faithful to be at all disturbed by modern Biblical criticism; two further matters of fact will easily show this. First It is high time that all laymen were properly informed about the formation of the canons of the Old and New Testaments; that is, how and the several books included in the Bible were definitively made up and authorized as the properly accepted list of sacred writings

The formation of the canon of the Old Testament was distinctly and solely a human process. The first effectual fix an authorized list of sacred writings was undertaken about 450 B. C., when Ezra and Nehemiah read before the assembled people in Jerusalem scriptures which they note as the law of Moses, and which with some later additions corresponds to our Pentateuch. About two centuries later the existing prophetical writing of the Hebrews were gathered together, redacted and revised, and read before the people as accepted sacred literature. These books embrace Joshua, Judges, First and Second Samuel, First and Second Kings, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and the minor prophets. A century and a half later a third collection is made and sterotyped as sacred writings to be read before the people; namely, Psalms, Proverbs, Job, Song of Solomon, Ruth, Lamentations, Eclesiastes, Esther, Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, First and Second Chronicles Thus the formation of the Old Testament canon covered a period of four hundred and fifty years. But it must be added that up to the time of Christ the Mosaic Law was held in highest reverence and up to the second century A. D. Christians thought that there were no other genuine sacred writings, except those of the Old Testament, the canon of which, as we saw, was relatively fixed only about

If the making of the Canon of the Bible was a very human affair, and if, as is the fact, the knowledge that it is human and fallible, has not at all disturbed the progress of Christianity or destroyed faith in God and Christ, why should the similar phenomenon of the present day "Higher Criticism" be feared? THE AUTOMOBILE CLUB OF AMERICA WILL ARRANGE FOR THEIR BIG RACE THIS SPRING-RACE OPEN TO THE WORLD

In all parts of the country where automobiles are manufactured close study is being made these days of the conditions that will confront the driver of the country, and those who have conditions that will confront the driver who attempts to take an automobile across country from New York to Seattle, says the New York Herald. The proposed contest between the two cities has aroused interest in all parts of the country, and its progress in May and June is likely to be followed more closely than was any previous race in the history of the newest of sports.

Many previous trips have been made from ocean to ocean. Seattle and Newport were the points between which L. L. Whitman and C. S. Carris drove a Franklin car three years ago. They claimed for this run a record of fifteen days, two hours and twelve minutes.

CANADIAN COMPOSERS

The Men and Their Music. By Dr. J. D. Logan.

1-A. S. Vogt, Mus. D.

The Sunday World's series of short articles on Canadian Composers has been preprired to give our people the essen-tial facts about those men who are maktial facts about those men who are making musical history in the Dominion; to the bare facts are added appreciations of the beauties in their compositions. Scrious students of music are advised to clip these popular sketches and to preserve them for future reference.

The outstanding name amongst Canadian composers is that of Dr. A. S. Vogt, conductor of the famous Mendelssohn Choir, and considered by all com-petent critics on the American Continent to be the greatest choral conductor in the world to-day. He is also a noted teacher and a distinguished composer.

A native of Oxford County, Ontario, Dr Vogt lived with his parents in El-

The Bible teaches that God made the world; but skeptics, not being well acquair ted with the business of worldmaking, say they cannot see how at was done. Probably crickets and butterflies have the same difficulty in understanding how oak trees grow. Well, as these gentlemen cannot un-derstand how God made the world, they conclude, first, that God never made it: second, that it never was made, and, third that, if it was made, it made itself! This mends the matter mightily, and makes it very plain. Or course it is easier to understand Or course it is easier to understand how a world could make itself, and equally easy to see how a world could exist that never was made.

Pray More---Preach Less

Five hundred ministers from all over ew England sat at the feet of Dr. hapman in Bromfield-street Church, coston, recently, and listened to his olds of inspiration and help, just as the great audiences of laymen in Tremont Temple have listened. And they listened, those men from pulpits those business it is to tell others, as New England sat at the feet of Dr. Chapman in Bromfield-street Church, poids of inspiration and help, just as the great audiences of laymen in Tre-mont Temple have listened. And they all listened, those men from pulpits whose business it is to tell others, as he told them, how they should live, how they should preach, how they should work to carry on the work of revival after the evangelists have gone, and the meeting closed with the preachers kneeling about the altar, in the aisles and in the pews, solemnly consecrating themselves anew to the work to which they have already been onsecrated. It was one of the most deeply impressive moments of the entire religious campaign, and many of the minister were visibly moved.

"Let us now," said the evangelist softly, "solemnly consecrate ourselves anew to the mission for which God has chosen us. Let us make it a day which we shall never forget. As we are kneeling let us ask God to help us, lives and why we have made mistakes. Every man of you who will say, 'I'll put out of my life that which has dimmed my vision and crippled my work,' say, 'I will.'"

Consecrate Lives Anew.

A murmured "I will" spread over the entire kneeling body of men.
"Everyone of whom who will say, "I will go out and work as never before, say 'I will.'

Again came the unanimous response deep, convincing.

"Everyone of you who will say 'I the story of Jesus."

Religious Interest Far-Spread.

For the third time came the fervid response. One preacher broke the stillness with a realigious campaign has spread the religious campaign has spread those who are busying themselves with response. Catholic Layman's Answers

Dear Sir: Your courtesy to Catholics, as sufficiently shown during recent issues of your Special Sunday Section. leads me to write you on the question because they were in invincible ignorof what the Catholic Church teaches and also in regard to the division of church teaches there is no salvation. the decalogue.

After reading "Protestant's" letter, it is clear to me that I have to deal ber that the symbolism attaches to with a different attitude of mind to-wards the church, and one which I fear would not be eliminated by newspaper controversy, however well-in-

Lest "Protestant" should take silence to signify inability to reply to his ex-traordinary assertions and time-worn question, I will answer them as briefly

I assume, of course, that his ques tions are asked in good faith (tho it s hard to think this, as if he numbers Catholic priest and "many Catholics" among his close friends, he could have long ago found the answers to all of them), for if the letter is written in any other spirit no Catholic would desire to discuss the matter. A regards the first part of his letter, there is really no answer needed. If wishes to think the Church of Rome is referred to in the Apocalypse as 'wearing the mauk of the beast," which 'shall be thrust into hell," who can revent him? No Catholic will bear im any resentment, anyway. It is truly wonderful that any moderately intelligent man can place on record such a statement. What a Christian spirit he displays! What charity!

Referring to my original letter, I cannot see that I said anything that would make my statement in regard to the salvation of Protestants con-flict with the teachings of the Catholic Catechism quoted by "Protestant." This catechism is for children of the faith. It is not an apology for Protestant consumption. It teaches that outside of the church there is no salvation. It could not be otherwise Jesus Christ instituted a visible church with plenary power on earth, and made St. Peter His vicar. Listen to the Scriptures: "Thou are Peter and on this Rock will I build My church, When thou are converted confirm they brethren." "Simon son of Jonas, lovest thou Me? Feed My sheep." These words were addressed to St. Peter alone, and are the most significant words ever addressed by our Lord to any one man.

To all of His disciples, and thru them to the whole world He addressed They cannot believe that man is a fallen creature to-day, for that is inconsistent with goodness and reason; but they can believe that he was originally smade, or made himself, so low, so mean, and so vile, that it has taker so mean, and so vile, that it has taker him countless ages to improve up to this present condition, tho the race is this present condition, tho the race is the man is a fallen creature to-day, for that is inconsistent with goodness and reason; but they can believe that he was originally smade, or made himself, so low, so mean, and so vile, that it has taker bear of the construction of the construct world understand that whospever any way separate themselves from the unity of the faith, or from the society of Peter, such can neither be absolved from the bond of their sins, nor ente the thre shold of the heavenly king-

Hence the church's teaching is logical and plain. She distinguishes, how ever betwien Protestantism and indi-vidual Protestants. She does not six n judgment on the individual Pro testant who has been taught errors about her faith from his infancy. It in the mercy of God Protestants will be saved, as I believe every Catholik in the world wishes and prays for, it will be because interiorly and un-consciously of themselves they become finally of the soul of the church. they are truly baptized by water and cover.

the Spirit, and live in perfect innocence, or be perfectly contrite for their sins, they will, in God's mercy, he saved in spite of their religion,, and It has no power to save, because it is opposed to the direct commands Christ. Prayers to the Saints.

The Catholic Church certainly teaches that it is right to pray to the saints and to the Virgin Mary. So does the Greek Church; so do many nowadays in the Church of England (an ever-increasing number). So did Martin Luther, who recommended the dying

"not to omit to call upon the Blessed Virgin and the angels and saints, that they may intercede with God for them at that instant." Why should transition from this world to the more beau-tiful and sanctified life beyond the grave make it any less reasonable and right to ask the saints of God and the martyrs whose blood is the seed the church to pray for us? Are they less near us? Protestants ask their friends in this world to pray for them, and, nominally, they believe in the communion of saints, yet, after death, communion of saints, yet, after death, they believe that the prayers of the saints of God are of no avail. A strange doctrine! Out of about 500,000,000 Christians, over 350,000,000 pray to our Lady and the saints.

Calling the Priest "Father."

There is no law of the Church of Rome, "Thou shalt call the priest Father." "Protestant" is drawing on his imagination—a faculty too often used by Protestants generally in deal-used by Protestants generally in dealing with the Church of Rome. According to his interpretation of the passage he quotes, he could not logically call his immediate forbear by that title. The reason for calling the priest "Father" is good. In baptism he is the spiritual father, who brings as an heir of the kingdom of heaven. In the sacrament of penance he abselves from sin, "in the name of the Father, and of the Son and the Holy Ghost." He is, therefore, in the spiritual domain a father to his flock as Ghost." He is, therefore, in the spiritual domain a father to his flock, as one earthly father is to each one of us in the natural sphere. The title comes so naturally that many Protestant clergyman in these days are addressed as "Father" by their parishioners—some, I believe, in this city.

Marriage of Priests.

In regard to the marriage of priests. In regard to the marriage of priests,

In regard to the marriage of priests, I would remind "Protestant" that when St. Paul uttered the words he quotes the choice of men for the office of bishop was of necessity limited to a great extent to married men. The celibacy of the clergy is a matter of discipline, and has abundant justification. The life of separation from earthly ties and affections which the true priest should lead, makes celibrated in the results of the company of the clergy is a matter of discipline, and has abundant justification. The life of separation from earthly ties and affections which the true priest should lead, makes celibrated in the word to Johan and there proclaims In that vast city, sixty miles around. This awful message, to awake! astound: "Yet forty days," is all the time I give! Repent, reform, amend your ways and live.

For if you do not so, let it be known. The King of Kings this word to Johan. true priest should lead, makes cell-bacy essential. The success of Catholic missionary endeavor in all parts of the heathen world is due in no small measure to her self-denying clergy and the life of poverty, chastity and the life of poverty, chastity and obedience which they live. As a mat-ter of fact, the priests of some of the ter of fact, the priests of some of the eastern rites in communion with Rome do marry by special dispensation. In holy orders the priest is bound by the claims of self-sacrifice to the Master whom he serves, and to have other but a celibate life is to unloose those chains every day and descend to the common life of man, which he has renounced to embrace the service of the Great High Priest and to imitate as closely as possible His perfect ideal.

Ionah-The Runaway

We have been asked to print in this ection the address given last Sunday night in the Grand Opera House on "Jonah and the whale—Is it a legend or a historical fact? As space will not allow it this week we present our readers instead with the first section of a remarkable poem presented by Robert Ridgway, a newspaper man of more than three score years and ten, who writes a remarkably clear hand.— Editor.

It has always been a puzzle to me, why men should carp and cavil over the book of Jonah, unless from mere pride of opinion; and thus disturb the minds of others somewhat "weak in faith." Even admitting that the book is not fully or divinely inspired; what then? The lesson it teaches is sufficiently inspired to be a comfort and a pleasure, and is "profitable for in-struction in righteousness." Why! Jonah and Job are examples of patience, repentance and faith, and as generations.

The following lines are the introduction to a paraphrase on the book, written in 1889, and the whole contains 140 lines:

Away back in the sixties, when this Canada of ours was in the wild state. and the flourishing towns upon her face were nothing more than little grey blotches of civilization, there existed a small body of dramatic artists called The Barn Stormers. The Barn Stormers were a troupe on the trail and the flourishing.

They made a playhouse of any convenient building, with a preference to the wide log barns of that day. They carried no scenery; they made all the scenery they required from the corn-stalks in the barn-mow. People did not hunger for scenery in those days, there was enough of the real to satisfy them. Those pioneers would have gibed at painted trees and manufactured sunsets. They wanted enacted stories that thrilled, and these the barn-stormers gave them with an ardor that satisfied. and Henry Miller are the stars of this present century' no doubt, but it is doubtful if they would have satisfied the pioneers of early Canada. Perhaps one of the foremost actors of a past day was one Chrisopher Burr. He had a genius for creating as well as for acting. He believed in giving a play plenty of action; plot was a secondary consideration with him. Burr was a tall man with long black hair and prominent Teatures. It is said that there was a great deal of personal magnetism about the man and that he put a little too much feeling into the love scenes in which he played a part, a fact which would show that he might have proven a success in he might have proven a success in this age also. Undoubtedly Burr possessed plenty of temperament. There was a cast of nine characters in Burr's mersholm her Royal Alexandra Theatre for the week of March 15. The entire play is direct. There is no complexity or hidden meaning. Nell which the woman whom he has loved all his life has found impossible, is a striking sermon in itself, a sermon of log barns of the early settlers.

at no time is there a preponderating ement of gloom. The author of "Sal-tion Nell" intended a study in optinism; and the lighter side of slum life is effectually brought in with deft uches to heighten the effect of this cheerful undertone. The Manhattan's cast has been augnented by men and women secured directly from the district about which the story is built; and Harrison Grey Fiske took considerable pains to find the exact types necessary to convey the kind of life the portrayed sections produce. Holbrook Blinn is Mrs. Fiske's leading man this year, and has won unqualified praise for his sympa-thetic handling of the role of Jim Platt, the tough. Hope Latham as a woman belonging to an unnameable walk of life and Mary Madison as Hallelujah Maggie, a Salvation Army woman, help to round out the picture.

AT THE PRINCESS.

"The Witching Hour," which is the attraction at the Princess Theatre all this week, beginning Monday night, is said to be a play of unusual and strikingly significant power, forcibly presented by an admirable company.

It is in the second act that Mrz. Fiske might again show herself mistress of psychological complexity. Instead, she prefers simplicity of portrayal. In this act Nell faces the most critical period of her existence. Jim Platt, the brutalized father of her child, seeks her out after his prison term. Nell finds that she cannot brush him aside; her love for him is reawakened. The battle she fights with herself is won rather with the individuality she has slowly created for herself, than because of any direct outward influence. AT THE GRAND.

Perhaps the keynote of the success of "Th' Top O' Th' World" is the fact that it is full of surprises. Effort was made by the producing manager to escape the stereotyped form of en ment, common in musical productions, and it is said that he has succeeded. There are constant surprises in the way of novel stage effects, and a company of famous artists who had their training in the hardest school of all, vaudeville, who meet every emergency, and, it is said, keep up a roar of fun from the first to the final curtain. The company include Bailey and Austin, Kathleen Clifford, Arthur Hill, Alice Hageman, George Majeroni, Florence Smith, William Quirk and a host of others. There is a big chorus of beautiful girls, who swing thru the delightful numbers, which are many. The collie ballet is a feature that is novel in the extreme. Six girls and six white collie dogs perform a unique dance that is regarded everywhere as remarkable.

The collie ballet formed the principal number at a big entertainment given at Sherry's, in New York, by Robert Collier, to an ultra-fashionable crowd, headed by Mrs. Astor. The piece is in two acts, with three scenes, namely Christmas Land, the Palace of Queen Aurora Borealis and the Plaza in the City of Illusia. Among the laughter-producing effects noted are the adjustable taxicab, the sea-going hack and others. There are 24 songs of clinging melody and a continuous action calculated to amuse both adult and juvenile, and a notable lack of horseplay in all the fooling. The book horseplay in all the fooling. The book is by Mark E. Swan, lyrics by James O'Dea, music by Manuel Klein and Anna Caldwell; the dances by William Hock and Luigi Alberteni, and the production was staged by Frank Smithson. It comes here with the entire original production and cost tire original production and cast, exactly as seen on Broadway for six months, and in the Studebaker Theatre. Chicago, for five months. "Th Top O' Th' World" is the offering at the Grand this week, opening with a special matinee Monday.

Now, since the Pharises originate very little that has not been put into their minds by the Scribes, it is possible that men of letters writing about men of letters have themselves to thank in some measure for this unkind judgment. Every man in trouble naturally cries that there is no sorrow like his sorrow, but not all men, not all men's friends, nor all men's enemies can draw the world's attention to that complaint. Writers have been their own interpreters in this respect—not always to their own advantage. It does not square with experience that any class of men has pre-eminence over any other class in the zeal and perseverance with which its members go about to compose their own ruin.

Most of us have seen a woman climb a gate, and smiled. Mr. Fitch knew that we would smile at it in the play. These are but a few of the little touches of realism and familiarity with the fair sex that the playwright has introduced in the comedy of "Girls." All these acts are said to sparkle and glisten with many more, and it is just these little touches that endeared the play to the New York public for 225 performances, and which is bound to catch the theatregoers of Toronto on its return visit.

A Spring Display

Women's Costumes Tailored Suits

A beautiful fashion exhibit of all the newest creations direct from Paris and New York. It is by far the largest and most interesting assemblage of women's apparel ever presented by this store. Foremost in the gathering is a charming group of Spring and Summer Costumes in Chiffons, Broadcloths, New Silks, Nets, and trimmed with combinations of Laces, Velvets and Silks; some in Princess and Empire Models.

The collection of Tailor-Made Suits is equally fascinating. Fabrics are fresh and Spring-like, the models are distinctly original and beautifully tailored. The variety is as great as you would expect at the height of the season.

SUFFRAGETTES WHO WERE POSTED.

One of the latest devices of the Suffragettes is to "post" a couple of their representatives to the prime minister, sending them to Downing-street in charge of two postoffice messengers. The point of this procedure is apparently that during transit all postoffice "packages" are technically crown property, and must not be tampered with. Our photograph shows the scene at Downingstreet on the delivery of the "packages," which, by the way, were rejected.

Did you ever hear the skirl of the bagpipes, for instance? You can hear it perfectly on an Edison Phonograph. The point is to have an Edison Phonograph, the great household entertainer, which brings into the home just the sort of music or other entertainment that you like.

There is a dealer near you who will take pleasure in demonstrating the Phonograph to you, and in selling it to you, either direct or on the easy-payment pian. In any case the cost is small compared with the enjoyment it affords.

David Willson, the founder of this society, was born of Irish parentage in Dutchess County, New York, June 7, 1778. His father died when he was very young, so that the period of his education was limited. While in his minority, he, with his brother, the late John J. Willson, was engaged on a vessel sailing between New York and the West Indian Islands. Shortly after in the following summer, both given in in the following summer, both given in the meeting house, which was filled with a large and appreciative audience. In the winter of 1818, a school was organized, known as the Girls' House." Young ladies of about twelve years of age were placed there to be taught wool and flax spinning, sewing, knitting and cooking in all its branches. The first building utilized for this purpose was a log house that stood near where the residence of the late Hugh D. Willson now stands. As the number of applicants increased, it was necessary to build a new house for the purpose.

to build a new house for the purpose. It was situated where the residence of Mr. John Wesley now is, nearly opposite the Sharon Methodist Church. This was in full operation for a number of years, until most of the young people married, and left for homes of their own.

The society rapidly increased in numbers, but educational facilities were in a very crude state. They erected a storey is a music hall, where in the society is a music hall, where in the storey is to let the people.

The Symbolism of the Temple.

Mr. Willson had a symbolic meaning attached to every part of the temple. Quoting from his own words, this is given as follows:

"My meaning for the three storeys who have seen it. It is a three-storey wh in the centre on each of the four sides is to let the people from the east north, west and south come in on the same footing. The equal number of windows on each side of every door is to let the light of the Gospel be equally the same on all people herein assembled.' The four pillars at each corner of the altar with the words Faith, Hope, Love and Charity in-scribed on them are the four cardinal virtues, which are the foundation, in other words, the principle, on which other words, the principle, on whith it is built. The golden ball on the top storey with the word 'Peace' inscribed on it means peace to the world."

each September the temple was from inated for divine worship, and presented a very beautiful appearance, there being 2952 panes of glass in the windows and spires. The fillumination of the building was intended to represent Christianity enlightening the darkened understanding of the mind.

The following day, the feast of the "first fruits" was celebrated. During the afternoon the band gave an openair concert on the green in front of the meeting house. The members also held a feast the first Saturday in June, at first in honor of David Willson's birthday, but afterwards it was celebrated as the Passover Feast.

The building was intended to be used 15 times during the year, tho never for Sunday worship. Regular service was

Sunday worship. Regular service was held on the last Saturday of each month, when the members made concided in 1834 to build it more commodious church for Sunday worship, which resulted in the building of the meeting house, a structure 100 feet long by 50 feet wide, surrounded by a colonnade of pillars. This building, which is still standing has a large which is still standing, has a large room upstairs for Sabbath schools and band rehearsals. The main part of the building, which was used for service, centains a pipe organ, also built by Mr. Richard Coates. In this building vorship was held every Sunday.
Service was also held on Christmas morning at five a.m., when the meeting house was lighted by a candle at each window. This service was followed by a free breakfast; service again at 11 a.m., and this followed by a Christmas offertory and dinner. The 5 a.m. service was in commemoration of the Saviour's birth at that time, in the morning.

In this building all the feasts were held; prior to its erection they were held in the open air in the temple field. This church was commenced in 1834 and finished and dedicated in the summer of 1842.

MEN WHO PLAY ANIMALS.

Almost without exception, the men who play animal parts on the stage are Englishmen. Most of them have been acrobats. All of them have eyes that laugh and limbs that instinctively do comic things. So here, at least, is a class of Englishmen who have the sense of humor.

"How does it happen that we 'animals' are all Englishmen?" laughed Arthur Hill, who plays the friendly bear in "The Top o' Th' World," "Why, because there is so much of that sort of work in English pantomime. That's the way we get started, and, once started, and successful, we sort of hang on to the 'beastly' parts. The every sense of humor. on to the 'beastly' parts. Tho every one seems to enjoy seeing a man enact the role of an animal, few realize the nature of the work. In the first place, we animal actors all create our own parts. There is very little written for us to do. We are expected to make up as the rehearsals progress toward the opening of the play. This is hard, for
