TEN CENT MILK—AND THEN?

Where are we going to start our investigation of the rising price of daily necessities? Ten cent milk, announced for December 1, is but one more blow for the consumer of small means.

General complaints, general accusations, are useless. There is no sense in pounding dealers in this or in that unless it is demonstrated that they are unjustly exploiting their fellow-citizens.

To what extent would wise and courageous Federal action bring relief? Those entrusted with the duty of protecting the citizens' interests should not hesitate to seek an answer to that question.

The Board of Trade does well in making an early start to bring about more general adoption of daylight saving next summer. The time is coming when it will be practically universal.

The renewal of shipbuilding in St. John would indeed be welcome. A launching, common in olden days, would now be a sight that would attract thousands.

Two hospital ships sunk within three days is a black enough record even for the German slayers of women and babies.

London is anxious over the reports from Roumania, although the real situation is not known.

There should be no counsel of despair in these matters, no tame assumption that nothing can be done and that no one has any official responsibility in the premises.

And, in such circumstances, the community has a right to expect that its representatives, civic and Federal, are both alert and informed, are, in fact, up and dressed, not only professing willingness to serve but showing it.

And, in such circumstances, the community has a right to expect that its representatives, civic and Federal, are both alert and informed, are, in fact, up and dressed, not only professing willingness to serve but showing it.

When, a year ago, the German military authorities issued an order for forced labor of the unemployed in Belgium for the benefit of the oppressors of their country, the civilized world condemned the action as cruel and contrary to all the rules of modern warfare.

With characteristic fearlessness, Cardinal Mercier, whose merciless condemnation of the cruelty and unfaithfulness of the Huns has done so much to increase the number of Germany's enemies, has protested bitterly against this latest outrage upon Belgium. He declares that more cowardly treatment of innocent people has never been known.

unemployment without any fault of their own, "tearing youth from father, husband from wife, father from children, barring the door against mothers and wives taking leave of sons and husbands and carrying them by thousands into slavery."

The German military authorities have repeatedly threatened Cardinal Mercier with imprisonment, or, worse, if he should persist in his criticism of them. But he is not afraid. He has protested again and again against the inhuman actions of the Huns and has denounced them in the strongest possible language.

With every day it must be more surely borne in upon the Germans that their attempts to stir up settlement that will bring peace soon must fail. The Allies do not mean to stop fighting until Germany and her dupes are soundly beaten.

And He Got It

"Just a moment," interrupted the man, patiently, "I may have no objection to testing this article you are trying to substitute, all other things being equal—but are they? For example, what can be used internally for coughs, colds, sore throat, cramps, chills, etc., as well as externally for sprains, strains, muscular rheumatism, various other aches, pains and almost any soreness anywhere. Now can you guarantee me this double value of internal and external use? Can you also guarantee that yours is the favorite prescription of an old family physician? Do you also guarantee that it has a wonderful record of over 100 years of splendid success? Do you also guarantee—"

"Oh, of course," interposed the now embarrassed store-keeper, "I can't guarantee all that, but—"

"Then," said the man, wearily, "give me my bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, and let me be on my way."

A lawyer noted for his laconic style of expression sent the following terse and witty note to a refractory client, who paid no attention to reiterated demands for the payment of his bill.

A humane society has secured a downtown show window and filled it with attractive pictures of wild animals in their native haunts.

O, yes, it was a thrilling wild west film, and the audience in the picture palace followed the adventures of the frail looking heroine with cheers and tears.

There is hope for all.

(Toronto Star)

The government, it seems, manages to get potatoes for the insane at cheap prices. There is a gleam of hope in this news for everybody. All that people, who are driven half-mad already by the high cost of living, have to do is to go crazy and the government will see that they get cheap potatoes.

And that isn't all. The public may remember how, on one occasion, Hon. W. J. Hanna went out and fought the fish trust. It was a great bout. He made a speech at Guelph in which he showed how to deal with any conscience combine. If the fresh water fish of Ontario were being monopolized and shipped out of the province he would demand that so many tons of fish be sold each week at a reasonable price for the use of patients in the asylums and inmates of the prisons—or—he would put the monopoly right out of business.

The monopoly yielded. Right triumphed over might. The insane got fish.

Taking it altogether the insane in this province and country are probably pleased with the kind of government they are getting. The silly and foolish, too, although their interests get very slight consideration, put up with it very well also.

Provincial Men in Casualty List

John Hyslop, Who Enlisted Here, Killed in Action; Others Wounded

In the midnight casualty list the names of two New Brunswick men appear: Dangerously ill, R. K. Norman, Campbellton; wounded, William Bertin, Bathurst.

Killed in Action Word reached friends in the city yesterday that Pte. John Hyslop, formerly of Glasgow, Scotland, but for several years a resident of this city, had been killed in action on August 24 last. Pte. Hyslop with the true spirit of the imperialist, enlisted in a New Brunswick battalion when it was mobilized in this city. At that time he was engaged as cook at the King Edward buffet but gave up his civilian duties to take on the responsibilities of an empire defender. He was very well known in St. John and passed through all the heavy fighting with his battalion without being injured, until finally he was mortally wounded on August 24. His next of kin, George Hyslop, lives at Glasgow, Scotland, and that is the reason for the delay in the receipt of the sad tidings in this city.

Lieut. W. G. Foster Killed. Relatives in Dartmouth (N. S.) have received the news that Lieut. W. G. Foster has been killed in action. He was the only son of the Judge of probate in Halifax, W. R. Foster, and has many friends in the province of Nova Scotia who mourn his death. He went overseas with the 112th Battalion, mobilized at Windsor (N. S.), and was in England but a short time when he was called to reinforce an imperial unit and went to the trenches almost immediately upon his arrival in the old land. He was recalled to England but returned to the firing line in October last and on the 10th of that month was killed. He was a member of the Nova Scotia bar and for some years had been superintendent of Indian affairs for the province. He was thirty-two years of age and leaves a widow, who resides in Dartmouth, and one sister, residing in New York.

Time For New Unit. A year has passed since New Brunswick has had a new unit exclusively for this province authorized. The military authorities are of the opinion that the time has come for at least a reserve battalion. Young men who qualify as lieutenants are not given a chance to proceed overseas. It is understood that the next unit authorized will be a reserve battalion for the 20th.

Three Recruits. Three men were secured for overseas service yesterday afternoon in the city: J. S. Crockett, St. John; 9th Siege Battery; J. B. Adams, Fredericton, 9th Siege Battery, and George Lewis, St. John, Naval service.

Naval Concert. A week from tomorrow a concert will be given in the Imperial room. This concert will not be for the object of securing recruits for the navy, but to show what the navy is doing and to awaken interest in the call for the recruits.

"CONSTRUCTIVE MURDER" OF RAPPANNOCK CREW

London, Nov. 24, 4.35 p. m.—The British steamship Rappannock, long overdue at Halifax, from England, has been given up for lost, according to an official statement issued here today.

The following official statement was issued today: "The Furness Withy liner Rappannock left England for Halifax on Oct. 17. Nothing has been heard of her since. A Berlin official announcement of Nov. 3 stated that the ship had been sunk.

"Unless any of the officers and crew, who numbered 37, were taken on board a submarine or transferred to another vessel—neither of which courses was followed, as far as known—there is no longer any hope for their safety. If the crew were forced to take to their boats it is clear that it must have occurred so far from land, or in such wastelike conditions, that there is no probability of their reaching shore.

"The German pledge not to sink vessels without availing themselves of their lives has thus once more been disregarded, and another of their submarines has been guilty of constructive murder on the high seas.

Later the admiralty said the Rappannock was on her way from Halifax to England, instead of the reverse.

OLD-STANDING COUGHS

Cured by VENO'S LIGHTNING COUGH CURE

Veno's Lightning Cough Cure is just as quick to relieve the coughs and bronchial troubles of the old, as it is those of the young. Veno's cures all ages and its wonderfully soothing and healing effect is never more strikingly shown than in the treatment of those old-standing coughs and wheezings, after asthmatic breathlessness from which so many old folks suffer. All coughs yield to Veno's Lightning Cough Cure. Price: 30 cents and 60 cents, from druggists and stores throughout Canada.

URGE DAYLIGHT PLAN FOR WHOLE DOMINION

St. John is again taking the first place in the maritime provinces in the matter of daylight saving. Yesterday there was a meeting of the council of the board of trade at which the matter was taken up.

It was the consensus of opinion that efforts should be made to cause the more universal adoption of the scheme, if not throughout the dominion, in the maritime provinces. It was pointed out during the discussion that the scheme had been tested in the Old Country with excellent results as well as on continental Europe since that its trial in St. John during the present year made no enemies and many friends.

It was finally decided by the council of the board that the matter be taken up with the different boards of trade throughout the dominion to see how these organizations would look upon a scheme to make the application of daylight saving next summer dominion-wide in its scope. The views of all these organizations will be secured, after which it will be possible to form some idea of the general consensus of opinion on the matter throughout Canada.

During the session the general points of excellence embodied in the daylight saving scheme were discussed, and it is the prevailing opinion of the board that, before next summer, a well developed movement will be underway tending to the universal adoption of the scheme in Canada. The matter of the Yarmouth-St. John steamship service, as proposed by the board and sanctioned by the department of trade and commerce, was also discussed.

Sir James Watson's Opinion Considered Most Valuable

He says that the commonest of all disorders, is Catarrh. Sir James firmly believes in local treatment, which is best supplied by "Catarrhosone." No case of Catarrh can exist where Catarrhosone is used; it is a miracle-worker, relieves almost instantly and cures after other remedies fail. Other treatments can't reach the diseased parts like Catarrhosone because it goes to the source of the trouble along with the air you breathe. Catarrhosone is free from poisons, it leaves no bad after-effects, it is simply nature's own cure.

Beware of dangerous substitutes offered under misleading names and means to deceive you for genuine Catarrhosone which is sold everywhere, large size containing two months' treatment costs $2.00, small size, 50c, trial size, 25c.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

R. V. Arnold, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, St. George, has been transferred to Toronto and will leave in a few days for his new field of labor.

George Bishop, a son of Samuel Bishop, of Upper Kent, married the daughter of Claude Cameron of Andover during the latter's absence in the states. When the father returned he heard of the wedding and started for the Bishop house on the other side of the river. The daughter was being taken home by her father and Sheriff Armstrong and were aboard the ferry when the young husband gave pursuit. Finding that the ferry had left the shore, he and his brother secured rifles and fired upon the party in the ferry. One bullet struck the horse and another came in contact with the wagon. Legal proceedings are now under way, it is understood.

John F. Stanley, superintendent of the Auburn fish hatchery, Maine, is dead as a result of being attacked by a buck deer. The injuries received and the shock sustained resulted in his death. He was seventy-six years of age. His wife was severely injured when she attempted to help her husband. The deer had under his care some four years and he had gone into the enclosure to feed him and his mate, when he was attacked.

OTHER CRIMES OF THE ENEMY AT SEA Regarding the disaster to the Britannic and the Bremer Castle and other hospital ships, three vessels bearing relief to Belgium, and one bearing Belgian refugees had been struck. Several transports incidentally carrying wounded have also been sunk. Among these were the Royal Edward, sunk in the Aegean Sea on Aug. 14, 1915, and going down with nearly 800 lives; the Marquette, also sunk in the Aegean on Oct. 26, 1915, with a loss of 150, and the Mercal, in the Mediterranean, on Nov. 10, 1915, with a loss of 100. All of these were British ships. An attack was made upon the French transport Transylvania on Sept. 21, 1915, carrying wounded, but she managed to escape.

The hospital ships previously sunk were both Russian, the Portugal and the Vperode. The Portugal, a 5,538 ton craft belonging to the Messageries Maritimes of Marseilles, happened to be in the Black Sea at the beginning of the war, but at the disposition of the Russian government and converted into a hospital ship, being entered at Odessa as a Red Cross ship and attached to the army of the Caucasus. While at anchor near Shatie on March 30, 1916, she was twice torpedoed by a German or Turkish submarine. There were no wounded on board, but among the 116 who went down with the ship were fifteen Red Cross nurses and several members of the Russian medical corps.

The Turkish government accepted the blame for the sinking and said that in the uncertain morning light the Portugal was mistaken for a transport. On July 9, 1916, the Russian hospital ship Vperode was sunk in the same sea. According to the Petrograd official report, an enemy submarine, without warning, sank the hospital ship Vperode, which carried all the distinguishing signs. Seven men lost their lives. The others were saved. On Jan. 31, 1916, the British ship Tokomaru, bearing a cargo from New Zealand for the relief of Belgian refugees, was torpedoed without warning off

STEEL WORKERS GET AN INCREASE IN THEIR WAGES To meet the increased cost of living the United States Steel Corporation decided on last Tuesday to increase the wages of its employees 10 per cent, with a proportionate advance in cost of living in the mines and transportation companies. This is the third increase made this year for a total of 38 per cent over the wages in force Jan. 1. After the weekly meeting of the Finance Committee, Chairman E. H. Gary issued this statement:

Ordinarily the question of wages would not come up for consideration or decision at this time of the year, but in consequence of the abnormal conditions now existing it has been decided to increase the wages rates of our iron and steel companies about 10 per cent, to take effect Dec. 15. As our departments increases will be equitably proportioned.

The clerical forces in the various offices of subsidiary companies are expected to share in the uplift. All told about 300,000 men are employed by the corporation, and the average monthly wage when the increase is in application, will be nearly $9. The increase in dollars will approximate $9 a month, based on calculations on the official wage records of the corporation which showed the average monthly pay of the men to be close to $90 when the second advance of the year became effective on May 1. If the increase amounts to 10 per cent, in case of all the men, the corporation's payroll will be increased by the latest advance about $28,000,000 a year.

It is estimated that 175,000 laborers are employed at the blast furnaces and steel mills, whose average wage last January was $9 a day. After Dec. 15 they will get $2.54 a day. Figuring 200 working days to the year, the corporation will pay to the day laborers on its payroll in the neighborhood of $141,000,000 a year on the new basis, compared with $300,000,000 being distributed annually at the January rate to the 100,000 laborers then employed.

In this table is presented the monthly record of employees and payroll for the first half of this year and the average number of employees and total payroll in the five preceding years:

Table with columns: Month, Employees, Payroll. Rows: 1916 (Jan-Jun), 1915, 1914, 1913, 1912, 1911. Total wages for 6 months $174,789,298.

of the Steel Corporation when the other increases were voted last January and April. While wages have advanced 38 per cent, the prices for steel products have risen this year from 220 to 600 per cent. Forward orders on the books seem to assure the companies of capacity operation for at least a year, which means that the workers may look ahead to steady employment for many months. In voting the two previous wage increases, the Finance Committee of the Steel Corporation considered as one factor the rising cost of living throughout the country. Presumably the same item had influence in yesterday's action. If the findings of statisticians who have looked into food prices are correct, as made public on Monday, the cost of major foodstuffs has advanced nearly 80 per cent in the last year. The 38 per cent wage increase, therefore, leaves the employees of the corporation 3 per cent ahead of their position a year ago when they meet their grocery and butcher's bills.

Freyberg Name Of Naval Hero

Officer Who Rallied Battalion Which Captured Beaucourt Has Been Identified by London Press.

London, Nov. 24.-The commander of the British naval battalion which captured Beaucourt, north of the Ancre, in a daring dash on Nov. 13, as recently related in despatches from the front, was Bernard Cecil Freyberg, lieutenant-commander in the royal navy, according to the Evening Standard today.

Lieutenant-Commander Freyberg, who is twenty-seven years of age, had served with distinction on the Gallipoli peninsula, where he was wounded and won the Distinguished Service Order. He was four times wounded during the Beaucourt engagement. This officer's exploit at Beaucourt was graphically described in a special cable dispatch in yesterday's Telegraph, as follows: "At nightfall the position of the division was somewhat confused, but a battalion officer with a contingent, although wounded fourteen hours before, determined to storm the village at dawn with what composite naval troops could be assembled in the darkness and among the craters and temporary shelters of the ground newly won. "He managed to concentrate a striking force during the night which he dashed into Beaucourt at dawn, bombing and bayoneting the Germans. For ten minutes the Germans fought and then surrendered en masse to the officer, who had received three additional wounds during the capture of the village." The naval division took 2,000 German prisoners at Beaucourt.

THE PALE BLOODLESS YOUNG GIRL

Easily Noticed by Her Bleached Cheeks, Bloodless Lips and Dull Eyes

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength. Her beauty fades because her vitality is steadily decreasing. Dark circles appear under the eyes which become listless and dull. Her spirits droop for no girl can be contented and happy in such a condition. This may be quickly corrected by taking Ferronine. It supplies what is lacking in the blood, purifies and strengthens it and keeps it in perfect order. Ferronine makes plenty of red blood corpuscles that manifest themselves in a healthy, ruddy complexion. It aids the stomach to do its work and creates a natural, healthy relish for food. Every organ of the body is benefited by Ferronine. It rebuilds the entire system, makes new tissue strengthens weak, flabby muscles, makes thin people fat and creates a natural, healthy relish for food.

No case of Anemia is too chronic for Ferronine. It may take time, but if persistently used will cure in the end. It will give you a well developed form, clear complexion, pure breath and will restore the blood to faded cheeks and color to the lips more quickly than any other remedy. Every woman who desires a vigorous constitution and the good looks that come with good health should take Ferronine after each meal regularly. It is a wonderful tonic for the brain, the nerves, and the blood, and acts also as an efficient but harmless regulator of the menstrual flow. In fact for the diseases peculiar to women and growing girls Ferronine has no equal as your druggist can tell you. Three weeks' treatment costs 60c, or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere.

CATHOLIC MORALITY. E. COMYNS DURNFORD (PAR-Loe & Sons, publishers, 10 Warwick Lane, London, E.C. 4, N.E.) Oxford Chronicles. The selected apothegms certainly establish the fact that the inculcation of the present morality is not the monopoly of any single religious system. Springfield Republican, Mass.; A singular little booklet. One will surely find in "Catholic Morality" a shilling's worth of excellent moral maxims, and an equally full shilling's worth of subjects (for moral) discussion. Birkenhead News: To the thoughtful the book will be an interesting and probably fruitful one. Times, London; Seems to be well meaning. Sunday School Times: A dainty little book. It contains brief accounts of the great religious systems of the world, and quotes wise sayings from many sources. Erratum: p. 15: "pre-ferred" read to the child brought up by unworthy, careless, parents. 50688-11-16-25

SHIPPING MERGER NEXT

Plans are reported under way for the merger of the William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Company, of Philadelphia and another large shipbuilding company located on the eastern seaboard. It is understood that Chandler Brothers and Company are conducting the negotiations in behalf of large stockholders in the Cramp Company. The name of the other concern could not be obtained today. The Sun Shipbuilding Company, organized last year by DuPont Brothers and capitalists interested in the Sun Oil Company was mentioned in Wall Street gossip, but no information was obtained. In circles close to the management of the Cramp it was said that a statement giving details would be issued in a week. Chandler Brothers announced that they had secured a large block of Cramp stock.

GENERAL WAGE ADVANCE

Independent steel companies are following the action of the United States Steel Corporation and increasing wages of their men proportionately. Ten per cent wage advances were announced by the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, Republic Iron & Steel Company, Bethlehem Steel Company, Struthers Furnace Company, and Ohio Iron & Steel Company. Nearly 35,000 iron and steel workers in and about Youngstown, Ohio, benefit from the wage advances announced by local independents and the United States Steel Corporation.

WALL STREET PAYS THE ELECTION BETS Total Involved Between Three and Five Millions—Business Carried Upon Books Like Stock Deals

New York, Nov. 25.—Wall Street paid its election bets on the strength of Mr. Hughes' telegram of congratulations. The settlement was made not so much in handing over of real money as with bookkeeping entries, adjustment of accounts and exchange of checks for debit balances. The betting business was carried by brokers in book accounts. Like stock deals, with Hughes and Wilson entered the same as so many shares of United States Steel or Utah Copper. As there was no clearing house for election bets, it has not been possible to figure the total amount of money wagered in the financial region involved in today's settlement. E. L. Sisson, chief market commissioner, who handled much of the Wilson money, estimates that the total amount involved in brokerage houses and curb bets was between $5,000,000 and $8,000,000. The best estimate of the day was that Wall Street paid in actual cash settlements somewhere between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 after all balances had been struck.

Canada and the Nickel in The Deutschland Cargo

(Toronto Globe.) Evasive generalities to the effect that the cargoes leaving American ports to the Germany or the Deutschland or is reaching the enemy through other channels will no longer satisfy the Canadian people. They know that all the nickel produced on this continent elsewhere than at Sudbury is insufficient to account for the requirements of the German people. They have read the statement of The Providence Journal, which has special facilities for the examination of German plans and methods, respecting the shipment of Canadian nickel on the Deutschland. That statement was of the most specific and detailed character. The Journal made the charge that: "All the nickel aboard the Deutschland is part of a large consignment which was purchased in November, 1914, from the International Nickel Company at Communipaw, N. J. The Journal discovers that this consignment was taken by the purchasers, ostensibly German-Americans, but really men acting for Albert Heiser, fiscal agent of the German government in this country, and transported to the storehouses of the Nassau Smelting and Refining Company at the foot of West Twenty-ninth street, North River, New York.

ARE YOU PAYING WAR PRICES FOR YOUR SHOES?

With the leather market topsy-turvy, and indications pointing to unprecedented high prices for all kinds of Footwear, we continue to sell many lines of shoes at practically the same prices as we asked before the war. Our many fine styles of Women's Button and Laced Boots in Vied Kid, Gun Metal Calf and Patent Colt were brought and paid for just before shoe prices got fairly started on their wild race for altitude. Our warehouse is full to the point of overflowing. We have thousands of pairs of good reliable shoes that we will continue to sell at the old prices as long as these goods last. Goodness of quality and cheapness of price makes this store a busy one, all day and every day, and a mighty good store for satisfaction seekers.

FRENCH LOANS OVERSUBSCRIBED

New York reports that participation in the syndicate underwriting the $60,000,000, three-year six per cent. bonds of the French cities of Bordeaux, Lyons and Marseilles, has been heavily oversubscribed. Allotments will be less than 50 per cent. of the applications, which cover both the firm and optional parts of the loan.

A WAGE INCREASE

It is estimated that the last three advances granted by the U. S. Steel Corporation represent a total increase in wages of something like $50,000,000. In normal years this would be regarded as unusually large, but taking into consideration the advancing tendency of steel prices and earnings, $50,000,000 is not a large sum to reckon with when recent abnormal profits are considered. The Steel Corporation is today earning the rate of between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 a year, compared with earnings in normal years of around $125,000,000.

WABASH IN SEPTEMBER

The Wabash Railroad reports for September: Gross earnings, $3,309,717, increase $488,920; maintenance way and structure, $868,185, increase $876; maintaining equipment, $467,128, increase $25,892; transportation, $1,078,789, increase $105,796; net after taxes, $1,180,978, increase $280,628. For three months ended September, gross earnings, $9,584,664, increase, $1,478,023; maintaining way and structure, $2,611,081, decrease $1,821; maintaining equipment, $1,481,988, increase $225,287; transportation, $3,215,288, increase $338,604; net after taxes, $3,074,422, increase $974,246.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL McLEAN HOME

Brigadier-General H. H. McLean, G. O. C. of the New Brunswick command, returned home this morning from Winnipeg, where he was in the interest of the 28th Kiltie Battalion. The general on his homeward trip spent a little time in Toronto.

He had nothing to say, but it is understood that he was making arrangements for the opening of recruiting campaign through the west, as Lieut.-Col. Guthrie, O. C. of the battalion, has authorization to recruit in any province in the Dominion.

Recruiting for the unit in the Province of Quebec will start, it is understood, in a short time, or as soon as the Queen's Own, a battalion which is now being recruited there, with headquarters in Montreal, is at full strength.

General McLean, on his last trip to upper Canada, was very much pleased with the reception that he received and was of the opinion that a little brigade could be very easily recruited in Ontario.

The Man In The Street

Who said winter had arrived?
A little Indian summer would fit in here very nicely.

By the way, can any one suggest a new cure for a cold? Our collection of sure-fire remedies, suggested by kindly friends, now numbers sixty-seven, but we are willing to listen to a few more.

Since the water was shut off a week ago for pipe-cleaning, residents of City road have been wondering what they have had to do to get enough water to wash their faces—but there have been no complaints on this score from the small boys of the district.

Did you see the aeroplane? Or do you not think that kind of stuff?

An optimist is a man who tells you all about the great prosperity Canada is enjoying—and then tries to borrow a two-spot.

Of course, Canada is prosperous in spite of the war, and of course times are better in St. John than ever before, but there still are a whole lot of pay envelopes you cannot prove it by.

When the first public meeting for consideration of the assessment report was announced, the Man in the Street asked if the meeting would draw as many citizens as a Charlie Chaplin picture. It didn't. Perhaps it might be worth while to try a combination of both attractions for the next meeting.

Austria-Hungary may be getting a good monarch in the new emperor, but if he has his pictures libel him.

Fashion notes tell us that ladies' skirts are to be worn longer. Is this another plot to boost the cost of living?

Under the circumstances, it is probable that men's overcoats will be worn longer—about a season longer—by the men who pay the bills.

Cheer up! Tomorrow is Sunday and the bill collectors take a holiday.

Some time now since the editor of the Standard has penned a eulogy of Sir Sam Hughes or of Hon. J. K. Flemming.

The brave skippers of the German submarines must have been getting jealous of the baby-killing reputation won by the Zepplins. By the time they have sunk a few more hospital ships they may hope to equal that reputation.

Almost looks as if the United States election is decided at last; Mr. Hughes has admitted defeat. Hopes are entertained that the size of the majority may be known by next March.

Ten cent milk is not so much an indication of the high cost of production as of the high cost of distribution. If it costs as much to deliver a bottle of milk as it does to produce the milk the business must afford a grand field for efficiency experts. Perhaps the fact that sixteen different delivery wagons are required to supply the people in one city block may suggest where the extra money goes.

Some Rumors

Of course, you heard the story. It is a state secret and no one is supposed to know anything about it, and possibly nobody did, but there was a man who had heard it from another man who had heard it from another man who had heard it from another man who is in close touch with a person who ought to know. We cannot say here what it was, but it is not necessary. You, like every one else heard about the interesting arrival in the city, and, like every one else, breathed a wish that you could cop a share of it. And you know what was done about it, and the amount involved, and everything else about it, and you murmured that it seemed a shame to see so much of it passing through the city and none of it staying here. All the details of the shipment were common property and every soul in the city was a chap who is in close touch with a person who is in close touch with a person who is in close touch with a person who would know, the man whose eye, yes or no should be absolutely conclusive, solemnly and with every evidence of good faith gave definite assurance that there was not a word of truth to the whole yarn. You are quite at liberty to take your choice.

FROM ST. JOHN TO BRITISH COLUMBIA VIA PANAMA CANAL

At Least it Should Be St. John—Government Line of Steamships to Be Operated

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—A state owned line of steamships is to be operated between Atlantic and Pacific ports of Canada by way of the Panama Canal. The official announcement was made this morning by Hon. Dr. Reid, minister of customs. Contracting have been authorized for the construction of two vessels for this trade and tenders will be called for by the railways department.

For some time British Columbia people have been agitating for an agreement whereby all water communication between Atlantic and British Columbia ports might be via the Panama Canal. It was found impossible to charter vessels for this service and so the minister of customs, who on a recent visit to British Columbia received urgent representations on the subject, has succeeded in having the order-in-council passed for the construction of two ships. They will be built in British Columbia.

LOCAL NEWS

NOVEMBER PLOUGHING

Though most people have been complaining of the early winter weather, it would seem as though, after all, conditions were not so bad when a farmer could plough a large field yesterday without any difficulty. This happened in Fairville on a farm close to the village for this time of year and after the cold snap is regarded as unusual.

HELD TEMPERANCE MEETING

Members of the Senior Epworth League of Portland Methodist Church held a temperance meeting last evening in their rooms in Portland street. Addresses were given by President Frank W. Merrill and Glad Cunningham, and readings by Stanley Irvine and Chester Brown. The Junior Epworth League, which has an excellent enrollment of sixty-one, also met and spent a social evening.

SAMUEL J. ORR.

The death of Samuel J. Orr occurred this morning at the General Public Hospital, where he was taken yesterday morning suffering from pneumonia. Mr. Orr was a native of Ireland and came to St. John as a child with his parents. He had made his home here ever since for many years and was engaged in business as a teamster. He is survived by one son, John Orr, of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. F. W. Emms of Fredericton and Mrs. J. Dallas of this city. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of his son, 12 St. Andrews street.

MRS. ELIZABETH MACLEAN

Mrs. Elizabeth MacLean, widow of the sudden death of Elizabeth, widow of Charles MacLean, which occurred this morning at her residence, 98 MacKenzie street, in this city, was in her usual good health until yesterday. A slight attack of acute indigestion caused no fears, but her heart becoming affected, she simply passed away this morning at eight o'clock. She leaves two sons—Fred W. and John S., many years with Manchester Robertson Limited, new manufacturers' agents in this city, and three daughters—Miss Elizabeth, head milliner in the retail department of M. R. A. Limited, and Miss Annabel and Miss Margaret. Mrs. MacLean was for many years a member of St. John Presbyterian church, and was much beloved by a wide circle of friends; for her cheerful and kindly disposition.

LORD SHAUGHNESSY TAKES HIS PLACE IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS

The Ceremonial as C. P. R. Head Takes Oath and is Welcomed

Montreal, Nov. 25.—The following special cable was received at the C. P. R. headquarters at Montreal yesterday: "London, Nov. 25.—It is at once evident that the first step towards a re-constructive policy of the empire had been taken this afternoon when in the hallowed precincts of the House of Lords, the bonds of union were cemented in a truly striking manner, and in the presence of an august assembly of the bluest blood in Great Britain, Canada's son of the empire, Lord Shaughnessy, formally took his seat.

Lord Shaughnessy, absolutely self-possessed, with head erect, eyes keenly observant, walked between his supporters, Lord Northcliffe and Lord McDonnell, former Under Secretary of State in Ireland, all dressed in the picturesque ceremonial robes, and followed the bar-headed Garter King of Arms, who was attired in his tabard, and held in his hands the patent and the writ of summons to the House.

Lord Shaughnessy followed the Garter King to Lord Chancellor Buckmaster, and made his obeisance. The chancellor ordered Lord Shaughnessy's credentials to be read, after which the oaths were administered and the writ handed over for keeping by the clerk of the House.

Then in a stately manner, Lord Shaughnessy was conducted to his seat by the sponsors, Lords Northcliffe and McDonnell, immediately after which all rose and bowed three times to Chancellor Buckmaster, at the same time doffing their black peaked hats. The chancellor turned the bows. Rising from their seats all thrice bowed again, and then proceeded to the centre of the House of Lords, where the chancellor, sitting on the woolsack, shook hands with Baron Shaughnessy and congratulated him.

Immediately afterwards Lord Shaughnessy proceeded to the lobby, where he was surrounded and cordially greeted by his brother peers and many other friends who had visited the house to witness the ceremony. Among the guests present in the strangers' gallery were Sir Thomas Skinner, Sir Montague and Lady Allan, Mr. and Mrs. McLaren Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Allan, the Hon. Mrs. A. T. Shaughnessy, James Redmond and Miss Redmond, Mr. and Mrs. Orr Lewis, Major Campbell Stuart, Mrs. Joli de Lotbiniere, Lady Holt and Major McLeod Kerley, while among the Canadian members of parliament were Hamar Greenwood and Donald MacMaster.

TOOK LETTER NEARLY A YEAR TO ARRIVE

Washington, Nov. 25.—A letter came to Rear-Admiral Robert S. Peary here last night from Villajalmir Stefansson, who for three years has been in the far north, at the head of his Canadian Arctic expedition. The letter, which had been on the way from Near-Hay Point, Victoria Island, since December 17, 1915, and part of it was written more than two months before.

NAVAL OFFICERS AND MEN TO SEE ARMY-NAVY GAME

New York, Nov. 24.—A formidable fleet of American warships is in port to permit its officers to attend the army and navy football game here on Saturday. The fleet includes one Dreadnought, seven battleships, five cruisers, a torpedo boat and two destroyers. It is expected that between 10,000 and 12,000 men will be granted shore liberty.

Hundreds of active and retired officers of the army and navy thronged the hotels and with the congestion caused by an abnormal number of civilians, visitors nearly every prominent hotel in the city was reported filled to capacity.

TO NEW QUARTERS

The boys of the 165th Battalion, who have been quartered in the army since their arrival in the city, changed this morning to 151st battalion quarters in the exhibition building. Their new quarters are much more comfortable and are thoroughly heated. The army will be kept ready for troops should they come this way.

PRIZE WINNERS

OAK HALL - FURNITURE as Christmas Gifts

This winter weather sends our thoughts ahead to the holiday season, and the old question arises: "What shall I give for Christmas? The common-sense answer is Furniture!

There never was a time in the history of Canada, when wastefulness was in such disfavor as at present, and the natural tendency at the Christmas season will be to make gifts of a practical nature.

For members of your household and your intimate friends, there are sure to be articles of Furniture which will make acceptable gifts and serve as lasting mementos for years to come, while, if you wish to remember your less fortunate neighbors, you will easily find something, usually classed as a necessity, which they lack and which will be received with joy at the season of Good Will.

Our large stock contains every conceivable article to meet every requirement, and you will do well to look it over early.

Man's Condition in Death. Some people still believe in a place of torment or suffering to which non-Christians must go at death.

But this mode of burial is becoming much less common. Military Funerals. The army has been quick to realize the desirability of burying its dead in the nearest of the 30 or more recognized cemeteries behind the line.

At Villers-aux-Bois the French buried 2,600 of those who were killed in winning the Vimy Ridge.

In all the cemeteries the Graves Registration Units keep the graves, British and French, in repair; they sow grass and plant flowers and shrubs, under the advice of the headquarters of British gardening in France. A few of these places are already bright with autumn flowers in full bloom.

Outside the cemeteries themselves an immense amount of work is done.

SCIENCE HOLDS TWO ON MURDER CHARGE. Indictments for Strangling Girl Based on Microscopic Examination. (New York Sun.) Solely on the testimony of chemists and experts, who conducted a microscopic examination of the effects of the victim, Giuseppe Matteolon, of Monroe street, and Vincenzo de Stefano, 88 Monroe street, were indicted yesterday on the charge of strangling to death eleven-year-old Tillie Brocker, of 2 Ridge street, in the cellar of the tenement house at 184 Monroe street, October 10. The indictment was brought in the face of steadfast denials of their guilt on the part of the prisoners, and was said to be the first instance in the history of the New York police department in which an analytical examination of this nature, unsupported by substantial corroborative evidence, had resulted in holding the persons accused. By direction of Inspectors Faurot and Gray no third degree methods were used on the men. After they had made their formal statements to the police they were lodged in the Jefferson Market prison and were not questioned further by detectives. Instead, a force of experts from the Standard Testing Laboratory and the official city chemists went over every inch of the cellar, rubbish, and other material. The clothing of the dead girl and the clothing of the prisoners were subjected to microscopic examination. The leather strap about the girl's throat, with which she had been choked to death, had been recently cut. The pocket knives of the men were examined for adhering particles of leather. In addition, strands of hair found in the small room in the cellar occupied by the prisoners, who conducted a fruit stand in front of the house were examined. Berte—"What did she say when you turned out the light and kissed her?" Algy—"Said she felt as if she never wanted to see my face again." London Opinion.

Germany's Spies at Close Range

Facts Learned by Ten Months Stay of Writer in Kaiser's Land—Spying an Essential Ingredient of the Prussian Character—Now at Work in the United States

(By D. Thomas Curtis in London Times)

A comprehensive account of the German system of espionage would need something resembling the dimensions of a general encyclopedia. For the present I must endeavor to summarize the subject in the course of an article followed by one or two others, which I will publish after I have dealt with the more important aspects of espionage and some other topics awaiting treatment.

Let me premise this initial essay by stating that spying is just as essential an ingredient of Prussian character as conceit, indifference to the feelings of others, jealousy, envy, self-satisfaction, industry, inquisitiveness, fidelity, veneration for officialdom, imitativeness, materialism, and the other national attributes that will occur to those who know Prussia, as distinct from the other German states.

Prussian men and women hardly know the meaning of the word "private," and, as they have Prussianized to a great or less degree all the other states of the empire, they have inured the German to publicity from childhood upwards.

Here, in a land of individualists, like Great Britain, the partners in any business are not over-zealous in regard to the methods of their competitors. Here, as with us in the United States, a man's business, fortune, and family affairs, though they may be discussed, are not, at any rate in the great centres of population, systemically prised into the hands of neighbors. The British and American boy and college student who spies and sneaks is not popular and apt to receive from his fellows the which he deserves.

The Prying Hausfrau. In Germany, where an entirely different moral code prevails, I pointed out after one of my previous visits to Germany that the Feuerspiegel (projecting window mirrors) from which the German Housewife watches the movements of her neighbors in the street, is very typical of the spy aspect of the German character.

Typical, too, is the annual tax return presented at every apartment house or block of flats. This return is a voluminous document, which is placed in charge of the porter, or janitor, as we call him. It goes round of the whole of the flats, and each succeeding sign has the privilege of reading the previous entries, and finding out exactly what amount his neighbor pays upon. With these elements in their character, it is natural that the Germans should be past masters in the art of espionage. It does not follow that they are equally successful in the deductions formed from their investigations in foreign matters, but they are so expert and so literal, so fond of making reports, so fond of seeing things only from their own point of view, that while they may be successful in obtaining possession by spying, purchase, or theft of the plans, say, of a new battleship, they are not able to form an accurate estimate of the character and intentions of the people among whom they may be spying.

Their military spying is believed to be as perfect as such work can be, and, on occasions, they are contemptible for their other nations in military matters. I presume that there is not much difference in the systems of various nations, except that the German military spying is probably more thorough.

members of the press, especially the first and the last in this category, Count Bernstorff in the United States is doing exactly today what Prince Lichnowsky did here before the war, and, if I may say so, doing it a great deal more successfully, though it is the plea of the prince's defenders that he succeeded in making very powerful and permanent connections in Great Britain.

Our American ambassadors, on the other hand, confine their attentions to strictly ambassadorial work, and do not provide in almost every important case, and communicate with their government on matters vital to American interests.

The excellent German consular system, which has done so much to help German trade invaders in foreign countries, is openly a spy bureau, and is teeming with its own secret service fund. Attached to it are spies and semi-spies, hotelkeepers, hairdressers, tutors, governesses and employes in government establishments, such as shipbuilding yards and armament factories. It is a mistake to suppose that all these are Germans.

Some, I regret to say, are natives of the land in which the Germans are spying, mostly people who have got into the trouble and with whom the German agents have made contact. Such men, especially those who have suffered imprisonment, have often a grudge against their own country and are easily caught in the spy net.

Part of the system in England before the war was a commercial information bureau resembling our Bradstreet and your Stubbins, by which, on payment of a small sum, the commercial standing of any firm or individual can be obtained. This bureau, which had its branches also in France and Belgium, closed its doors immediately prior to the war, the whole of the card-indexes being removed to Berlin.

A Boast and an Error. 'Tis the German boast, and I believe a legitimate one, that they know England better than the English themselves. At the outset of the war, when the Germans were winning, Herr Albert Ulrich, of the Deutsche Bank, and chief of their operations in London, speaking in perfect English, told me in a rather heated altercation we had in regard to my country, that he knew the United States better than the English very thoroughly indeed, and boasted that the American submarines, building at Fore River, of which the Germans had secured the designs, would be of little value in the case of hostilities between Germany and the United States, which he then thought imminent.

It is typical of German mentality that when I met him recently in Berlin 15 months later, he had completely altered his tune as to the war, and his tone was, "When is this dreadful war going to end?" This, however, is by the way. Here Ulrich is only an instance of the solidarity of Pan-Germanism. An English or American banker visiting a foreign country attempts to be friendly and helpful. A German in a similar position

There are, as a rule, three schools of German espionage in other countries—the embassy, the consulate, and the individual spies, who have no connection with either and who forward their reports direct to Germany.

There is a fourth class of fairly well-paid professional spies, men and women, of all classes, who visit foreign countries with letters of introduction, who attend working-men's conventions, scientific, military, and other industrial congresses, receive from 240 to 3100 monthly by way of pay. The case of Lory, whom you caught and executed, was a type of the patriotic officer spy. But his execution caused no real regret in Germany, for he was regarded as a clumsy fellow, who roused the vigilance of your authorities, with the result, I was informed in Germany, of the arrest and execution of several others, mostly, it is said, Dutch, South American, and other neutrals.

THE CHIEF CHARM OF LOVELY WOMAN

Soft, Clear, Smooth Skin Comes With The Use of "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

NORAH WATSON, 86 Drayton Ave., Toronto, Nov. 10th, 1916.

A beautiful complexion is a handsome woman's chief glory and the envy of her less fortunate rivals. Yet a soft, clear skin-glowing with health—is only the natural result of pure blood.

"I was troubled for a considerable time with a very unpleasant, disfiguring rash, which covered my face and for which I used applications and remedies without relief. After using 'Fruit-a-tives' for one week, the rash is completely gone. I am deeply thankful for the relief and in the future, I will not be without 'Fruit-a-tives.'" is a sort of human ferret. An hotel with us or with you is a place of residence for transient strangers. The Hotel Aldon and others in Berlin are excellent hotels as such, but mixed up with spying upon strangers; Herr Adlon, senior, a friend of the Kaiser's, assists the German spies when any important or suspicious visitor registers. The hotel telephones or any other telephones are systematically tapped. German soldiers are granted special leave for hotel service—that is to say, hotel spying.

When Belgium and France were invaded, German officers led their men through particular districts to particular houses with certainty, with knowledge gained by previous residence and spying. An officer with von Kink's army received the iron cross, first class, for special information he had given to von Kluck which facilitated his progress through Belgium.

Agents in Neutral States

Any German spies who may be working in England today have no great difficulty in communicating with Germany, though communication is slow and expensive. They can do so by many routes and many means. As it is impossible to isolate Great Britain from Europe, it is equally difficult to prevent the conveyance of information to the enemy with more or less rapidity.

Judging by the impatience manifested in certain quarters in Berlin at delay in getting news of Zeppelin raids, for example, I believe that the steps taken to delay communication between England and Germany have been effective, and delay in spy work is very often fatal to its efficiency. The various tentacles of the German spy system, its checks and counter-checks, whereby one spy watched another; whereby the naval military spy system, and the political spy system, greatly marred its utility.

Take one great question—the question that was all-important to Germany as to whether Great Britain would or would not enter the war in the event of an invasion of Belgium or declaration of war against France.

I was informed on good Berlin authority that from every part of Great Britain and Ireland came different reports. So far as London was concerned, Prince Lichnowsky said "No."

Baron von Kuhlmann was non-committal. As a result Lichnowsky was disgraced and von Kuhlmann continued in favor.

It is common knowledge in Berlin, and may be here, that the most surprised person in Germany at Great Britain's action was the Kaiser, whose violent and continual denunciations of Great Britain's government, of King Edward, and King George are repeated from mouth to mouth in official circles with a sameness that indicates accuracy. All this ignorance of Great Britain's intentions in 1914 is to me the best proof that the German minute system of working does not always produce the result desired.

Mistakes About Ireland

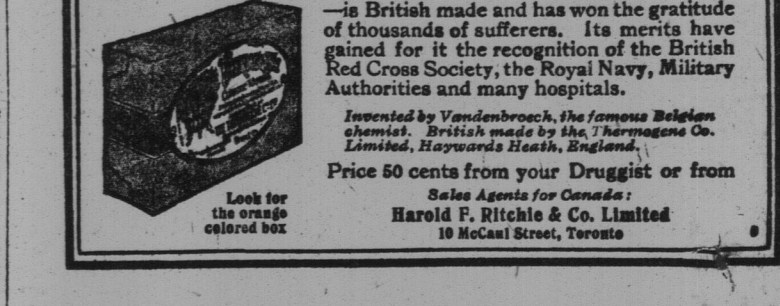

As one with Irish blood in my veins, a fact by which I never fail to profit in meeting German officials, I found that Germany's Irish spy system (largely conducted by hotel waiters and active for more than five and twenty years) had resulted in hopeless misunderstanding of Irish affairs and Irish character, north and south.

German spies are, as a rule, badly paid. The semi-spies, such as waiters, were usually "helped" by the German government through waiters' friendly societies. It was the duty of these men

It is common knowledge in Berlin, and may be here, that the most surprised person in Germany at Great Britain's action was the Kaiser, whose violent and continual denunciations of Great Britain's government, of King Edward, and King George are repeated from mouth to mouth in official circles with a sameness that indicates accuracy.

As one with Irish blood in my veins, a fact by which I never fail to profit in meeting German officials, I found that Germany's Irish spy system (largely conducted by hotel waiters and active for more than five and twenty years) had resulted in hopeless misunderstanding of Irish affairs and Irish character, north and south.

German spies are, as a rule, badly paid. The semi-spies, such as waiters, were usually "helped" by the German government through waiters' friendly societies. It was the duty of these men

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians in such a great variety of cases, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians both in Europe and America.

Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron.

Therefore, if you wish to preserve your youthful vim and vigor to a ripe old age, you must supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron, just as you would use salt when your food has not enough salt.

Nuxated Iron to Make New Age of Beautiful Women and Vigorous Iron Men

Say Physicians—Quickly Puts Roses Into the Checks of Women and Most Astonishing Youthful Power Into the Veins of Men—It Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Nervous, "Run-Down" Folks 200 Per Cent. in Two Weeks' Time.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY WHICH PROMISES TO MARK A NEW ERA IN MEDICAL SCIENCE

New York, N. Y.—Since the remarkable discovery of organic iron, Nuxated Iron or "Fer Nuxate" as the French call it, has taken the country by storm. It is conservatively estimated that over five million persons daily are taking it in this country alone.

Dr. King, a New York physician and author, who interviewed on the subject, said: "There can be no vigorous iron men without iron. Pallor means anemia. Anemia means iron deficiency. The skin of anemic men and women is pale. The flesh flabby. The muscles lack tone; the brain fags and the memory fails and often becomes morose and melancholy. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks."

In the most common foods of America, the starches, sugars, table syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soda crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farina, degenerated cornmeal, no longer is iron to be found. Refining processes have removed the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and silly methods of home cooking, by throwing down the waste pipe the water in which our vegetables are cooked, are responsible for another grave iron loss.

Therefore, if you wish to preserve your youthful vim and vigor to a ripe old age, you must supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron, just as you would use salt when your food has not enough salt.

Dr. Sauer, who has studied abroad in great European medical institutions, said: "As I have said a hundred times over, organic iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney liver, heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their disease was nothing more nor less than a weakness brought on by a lack of iron in the blood."

HARD WORKING WOMEN

Will Find New Strength Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

It is useless to tell a hard working woman to take life easily and not to worry. Every woman at the head of a home; every girl in offices, shops and factories is subjected to more or less worry. These cannot be avoided. But it is the duty of every woman and every girl to save her strength, as much as possible, and to build up her system to meet unusual demands. Her future health depends upon it. To guard against a breakdown in health the blood must be kept rich, red and pure. To keep the blood in this condition nothing can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They strengthen the nerves, restore the appetite, bring the glow of health to pallid cheeks, and renewed energy to listless people. Women cannot always rest when they should, but they can keep up their strength and keep away disease by the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. N. E. Tompsett, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "For several years I suffered terribly from nervous debility and was scarcely able to do a thing. During that time I consulted several doctors, and many medicines without getting any help, and I began to think that I would never get better. One day I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised and thought I would try them. After taking four boxes I was much better, but I continued using the pills for several months when I was again in the best of health. When I began taking the pills I weighed only 100 pounds. While under their use with my renewed health I now weigh 140. I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every one whom I know to be ailing."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

than the spy waiter in Belfast who told the authorities that if Germany went to war many Irishmen would join England. Ireland, I admit, is very difficult and puzzling ground for spy work, but it was ground very thoroughly covered by the Germans according to their methods.

The military party in Germany, who are flaying von Bethmann Hollweg for his ignorance of the intentions of your dominions and of Ireland, had millions of pounds (not marks) at his back to make the necessary investigations, and that he failed. That, and his lack of the use of ruthlessness, his alleged three days delay to mobilize in 1914, are the principal charges against him—charges which, in my opinion, will eventually result in his downfall. The great mob of semi-spies do not derive their whole income from Germany, nor are I believe, all actually paid at regular intervals. The struggling German shopkeeper in England was helped, and I have no doubt is still helped, by occasional sums received for business development—sums nominally in the nature of donations or loans from other Germans. The army of German clerks, who came to England and worked without salary from 1875 and 1900, received, as a rule, their travelling money and an allowance paid direct from Germany, or when in urgent need, from the Consul in London or elsewhere. Their spying was largely commercial, although many of them traced connections here which became valuable as Germany began to prepare directly for war with England. They also helped to spread the knowledge of the English language which has enabled Germany to analyze your country by means of your books, blue-books, statistical publications, and newspapers. They also brought back with them geographical and local knowledge that supplemented the military spy work later achieved by the German officers who came to live here for spying purposes, and the great army of trained spy waiters, who are not to be confused with the semi-spies in hotels, who draw small sums from Consul.

British Tolerance. The tolerance of the people in this country with regard to the Germans now resident here amazes and amuses the Wilhelmstrasse. The fact that a German is a professor or scientist here seems to blind the people as to his position as a spy. One of the finest pieces of spy work achieved by Germany was the obtaining by a German professor of a unique set of photographs of the whole of the Scottish coast, from north to south. These photographs, showing every inlet and harbor, are now at the Reichs-Marine-Amt (Admiralty) in the Leipsigsplatz. They have been reproduced for the use of the navy. I do not know how they were obtained. I know they are in existence. It is possible that some Scottish reader of these lines may be able to explain the mystery, and I should be glad to receive further information on this subject. That the photographs, which were, I believe, taken for geological purposes, exist in Germany is beyond dispute.

Thousands of documents from your government departments were not always successfully accomplished by German agents. I was told. Some of the more important of these are alleged, especially by the naval department, to have laid traps and supplied the spies with purposely misleading designs and codes. Assiduous fishing in the troubled waters around the Wilhelmstrasse—waters that will become more and more troubled as the German spy system grows—renders the gathering of information not so difficult as it might appear.

By sympathizing with the critics of the German Foreign Office, and its attacks upon the government by the non-official Social Democrats, a sympathetic listener can learn a great deal. One thing I learned, and beyond question, is that the German spy system, in that misty period called "after the war," will be very completely revised. The huge sums of money mentioned in the Reichstag as having been expended on secret service have so far as England is concerned, proved of no political value and the topographical and personal knowledge gained would only be of service in case of actual invasion and the consequent exactions of ransoms from individuals, cities and districts.

In one of my subsequent articles on the spy system I propose giving as much as I have been able to obtain of the story of a spy well known in London literary and theatrical circles—Hermann Scherfner. He was a contributor to many English publications and the actual producer of a play in London in 1914. He is now in Germany under the name of

CHILD GETS SICK
CROSS, FEVERISH,
OR STOMACH PAIN
IN FIVE MINUTES

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, or bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time to play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour. Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is often the key to many ailments. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Orchelle. While claiming to be an American, he is at the present time employed by the German government in working against the United States. He is a typical specimen of the smooth, artful spy so largely employed by the Germans in recent years.

SAVING THE WOUNDED
THE WORLD'S GREATEST WAR
The Journey From the Battlefield to Hospital—Disposition of Various Kinds of Cases

(By Searle Hendee, in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine.) When a soldier is wounded, unless he is rendered unconscious or entirely helpless, he makes use of his first-aid outfit. If he is unable to act for himself, a comrade usually comes to his assistance. The wound is sterilized with iodine and bandaged. In case, during an attack, he happens to fall on "No Man's Land"—that bullet-swept area between the firing lines—he must either crawl back to the first aid trench or make the best of his situation until reached by regimental stretcher bearers during a lull in the fighting or after darkness has come. First-aid, or dressing, stations are maintained along the third-line trenches, but in the midst of severe fighting the danger is often too great for one of these to be reached. In such cases a wounded man either walks or is carried by Red Cross members of his regiment to "refuges" or dugouts in the second line. Usually an assistant surgeon and a couple of stretcher bearers are at these points, so that at times a man may be attended there or even at the spot where he has fallen. Eventually he reaches the first-aid post, guided by arrows set in the trench walls if he walks the distance. Such a station is commonly an excavation sheltered from rifle and light artillery fire, in charge of a major or of medical corps. The first separation of patients occurs here. The wounds of a soldier are dressed, and, if they are of slight, the man is sent back to his unit. Those who require further attention, but can walk, are directed ahead to the first-line ambulance, while others who are helpless are taken in charge by the division stretcher bearers. Most often the "first ambulance" is situated in a village or on a farm at the rear, often out of the range of the enemy's guns. The journey to it, however, is not always easy, for the intervening zone is under fire. The first ambulance is more than the name possibly indicates. At a competent surgical staff, supervised by a chief surgeon, is maintained. Men who arrive there without having had previous attention are located after a brief diagnosis of his case. When it is particularly urgent, an operation is performed. While he is here a hard bearing a hurried diagnosis of his case is pinned to each soldier. The color of this slip indicates in what manner the patient should be transported, whether sitting or reclining, how many miles at a time. If he is not wounded, but sick, the color discloses the fact. At this point everything is made ready for conveying the wounded to the clearing hospital situated from 6 to 12 miles back of the trenches. The means of transportation varies according to localities. Motor ambulances are generally employed, but occasionally there are light, temporary railways on which small stretcher cars drawn by a dromedary engine are operated. The hospital is located adjacent to a standard railway station. Expert surgical service is always maintained, so that emergency cases that have not been attended to previously can be handled without further delay. Those who are in a dangerous condition, or who suffered seriously as a result of the journey from the front, are held until they are sufficiently improved to continue the trip. Soldiers who are not badly hurt remain only long enough to recover from fatigue and board trains departing for the distributing stations, the latter being a general destination that is reached just as quickly as conditions will permit, and in the dividing line between the army zone and the rear. As a train pulls in with several hundred wounded men, the real diagnosis and disposition of the patients is accomplished by those in charge of the hospitals of the distributing station. At short distances there are special institutions for the care of different types of cases. Soldiers afflicted with contagious diseases are immediately conveyed to isolation hospitals and not allowed to get farther to the rear. Men with wounds affecting the eyes, ears, nose or throat receive the attention of experts. But at these hospitals within the army zone, patients can remain only briefly. As quickly as they have been properly treated and can safely be moved, they are carried on to the rear. The exceptions to this rule are the soldiers with fever or other contagious maladies, and those who will be ready to return to the trenches within a week or less.

CHINA'S NEW PRESIDENT

(By Edwin J. Dingle, in the "Daily Chronicle," London.) Peking.—In the removal of Yuan Shih Kai from the scene at Peking, China has admittedly lost her strongest man and her ablest ruler. This seems generally to be granted by a very serious student of Chinese affairs, by all except the short-sighted Chinese journalist and the young political firebrand of the new school. And, despite the internal quarrels and the serious attempt to re-visit a monarchy, with Yuan Shih Kai as emperor, caused in several provinces, there is no doubt that the late president's indomitable personality and his sound knowledge of the Chinese people will be sorely missed as time goes on. For Yuan accomplished many more practical than the average person gave him credit for.

CHINA'S NEW PRESIDENT

China had for some time been looking out upon a darkening horizon. Yuan's monarchical ideas had caused widespread discontent. Several provinces had taken a seriously uncompromising attitude. Even after the monarchy was rescinded and Yuan had by mandate proclaimed his desire to again take back the reins of government, the army declared that Yuan must resign. Yuan's decision, with the army's backing, was that the late president's indomitable personality and his sound knowledge of the Chinese people will be sorely missed as time goes on. For Yuan accomplished many more practical than the average person gave him credit for.

With the advent, however, of the new president, Li Yuan Hung, the general situation has greatly improved. It says much for the good sense of the Chinese, quite a natural recuperative trait, that all the provinces declaring their independence under the Yuan regime have, with surprising public spirit, now handed in cancellation of their secessions from the central government and swear fealty to the new Li regime. The rebellious factions are laying down their arms. From all parts of the country congratulations and messages of untiring loyalty are reaching the new president. Trade which had dropped into a sorry state, has suddenly taken an upward turn. The general outlook brightens, and the national thermometer rises. There is almost a complete restoration of confidence. The Salt Gabelle surplus, which it will be remembered was recently withheld owing to the unrest following the monarchical episode, is now understood to be released. The moratorium is to be cancelled. A fresh start is to be made under what appears at first sight to be the most auspicious conditions.

And Li Yuan Hung, what of him? Apart from the role he was forced to adopt at the time of the revolution in 1911, Li is practically unknown. I have been more or less intimate with him for the last few years, and have always been impressed by the courtesy of manner, his enthusiasm for his country and his dreams of seeing China rise to one leap to the highly exalted position he should occupy in the world—quite laudable, but a dream all the same. Li is a good soldier, has had a career unspiced (so far as can be ascertained) by official corruption and dishonesty, has been a hard worker in his own limited sphere, and certainly during the revolution was looked upon as the savior of his country. His power at Wuchang, the capital city of Hupeh, where the revolution broke out and of which province Li is a native, has remained unquestioned during the changes of the past few years, and his popularity throughout the country, both whilst he was at Wuchang and afterwards as vice-president at Peking, has not waned for a moment. Foreign writers called Li the "King Edward of China," a name which is not noticeably brilliant in any particular direction, a man of good cheer, open and frank, honestly proud of his own abilities, and a sound knowledge of men. The Chinese regard his judgment as sound. I do not think Li would attempt what he could not successfully put through, and on the other hand, could probably achieve much more than he would be willing to attempt. He is childishly modest regarding his own abilities, cannot be said to be a political leader of great capacity, and has an aptness for depreciating his own power of initiative. Practically his first message to his colleagues of Peking was that he wished to remain president only so long as it took to restore peace, after which he desired to retire into private life, preferring that another should be elected, as his own opinion was that he had not sufficient administrative experience for the presidency. Such, then, is the new president of China. A good man rather than a strong man, lacking vision in a political sense, if reliable, capable person in the everyday affairs of life.

Will He Be Strong Enough? The question naturally arises, "Will he be strong enough?" Personally, having due regard for Li's many excellent qualities and the fact that he is one of the most charming Chinese gentlemen I have had any experience to meet, I shall be greatly surprised if he proves himself strong enough to harness together into one working team the many fractious elements he will be expected to drive. And yet, again, I do not think it is so imperative that he should be strong in the sense of forcing his will upon others. It is not a question whether Li can successfully set his back against the multitude of aspirants for power, bigger political stakes so much as whether he can succeed in persistently controlling the different parties. One might, of course, state his opinion that Li's period will be short, and that he will not be a success—China is so full of inconsistencies that the reverse might happen. Li may turn out to be the proverbially righteous ruler whose right-of-ruler rule makes prosperous the lives of his subjects. For it must in fairness be said that, with all his inconsistencies, the Chinese do admire, if only in an abstract sense, the integrity of character of those in authority over them. They will not be a man whose heart beats for "the people," and this one fact may work wonders.

A prominent Chinese this morning told me that the people realize Li has his limitations, but, with one hand on his heart, he dramatically exclaimed that the ruler's heart was good he could secure many tens of men who had good stomachs—the seat of the brain, in Chinese opinion. So all may turn out well yet.

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

Instant Relief for Sick Headache Nausea and Heartburn

You cannot have sick headache when your liver is right. Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief sets it right, and that is why it cures sick headache and other bilious troubles so quickly, so surely, so thoroughly. It is not violent, like so many preparations, and you don't need to keep taking it. It just helps your liver to regain its power, and thus natural action and natural cure follow at once.

"Science Magazine," a prominent English scientific journal, says (April 15, 1916): "Providence has given us the means to devise means to compensate Nature for our ill-treatment of her. . . . The means at hand come from natural sources, and we have them embodied in such scientific combinations as Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief."

Take Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief for constipation, biliousness, torpid liver, sick headache, dizziness, aching before the eyes, faintness and dizzy spasms, aching, heartburn, indigestion, that dull, heavy feeling which is a sure indication of liver trouble.

striking relates to Canadian shipping. In the annual report of the Marine Department, Deputy Minister Alex. Johnston says that in former years it was the custom to value shipping on the Canadian register at $90 a net ton. This figure was, of course, an arbitrary one, but having regard to average tonnage approximated real values. At the present time values are abnormal and actual sales are common at prices ranging from $75 a ton dead weight capacity to upwards of $100. Freight rates have continuously increased during the past year due to the great number of ships diverted for use as transports.

Throughout the year there has been much discussion as to the development of a Canadian mercantile marine. Mr. Johnston hopes that in the development of any scheme that may be adopted, so far at least as foreign trade is concerned, it may be taken for granted that the day of the small carrier has gone by and that ships of less than 3,000 tons will be discouraged.

For general information, details are given of the character of aid given by the principal countries of the world towards their shipping. The total number of vessels on the Canadian register at the end of the year was 8,851, measuring 1,215,021 gross tons. This is a decrease of 126 as regards the number of ships, but an increase of nearly 800,000 in tonnage.

High Blood Pressure

When your case becomes complicated and medicines fail, the doctor makes a test of the blood pressure, fearing that there may be something wrong with the condition of the kidneys and the action of the heart. He realizes that when the kidneys fail to filter the poisons from the blood that there will be a hardening of the arteries, and when the pressure of blood comes on they will snap like so much deteriorated rubber-tubing—the result is a clot of blood on the heart, or wherever the weak point may be. But why allow this condition to be reached when you can so readily regulate the action of the liver and kidneys by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Trouble of this nature have their beginning when, from over-eating or lack of exercise, the liver goes wrong, and throws an undue burden on the kidneys. Headaches, biliousness, constipation and indigestion give due warning, and by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills there need be no further trouble. The liver is awakened to action, the bowels regulated, and the kidneys strengthened in their all-important work by purifying the blood and thereby preventing pain and serious disease. This is the greatest of family medicines, because of the host of ills that are relieved and prevented by keeping the liver, kidneys and bowels healthy and active. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home. Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that according to the latest scientific reports, you may have your eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after using it: "I was almost blind and my eyes did not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully, and they had been all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The pain between my eyes went away without glasses, but after using this prescription for seven days everything seems clear. I can now read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of wearing glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be cured by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Don-Opto tablets. Drop one Don-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear perceptibly right from the start and in a few days you will be able to do your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time. Note: Another prominent physician to whom the above recipe was submitted, says: "I have used this remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent authorities. It is perfectly safe and effective. The results guarantee it to strengthen weak eyes 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances and to reduce the same. It is obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations that should be kept on hand for rescue in case of almost every family." Watson Drug Co., Seattle, Wash.

COMMITTEEMEN OF Y. M. C. A. AT SUPPER

Forty members of committees in charge of the activities of the St. John Y. M. C. A. gathered at the festive board, last evening in the association building, for their eighth annual banquet. The banquet of the committees is now being made an annual affair. It brought together on a social basis the workers for the advancement of the local organization, and as occasion for good fellowship, co-operation, and exchange of ideas, it stands out as one of the distinct functions of the year. Tables were set in the banquet hall on the second floor, and the younger boys of the association donned the waiters' garb, and rendered service that would have filled the bill even in Rector's.

After the final course, chairs were pushed back for the feast of wit and wisdom. William C. Cross served as toastmaster. After a few brief introductory remarks, he proposed the toast: Our King and Empire. H. O. Bonk, athletic director, sang "Summers, Good Bye," and for the encore that was stoutly demanded another pleasing ballad. Toasts to the boys' division were made by F. A. Willet and A. M. Gregg. John Jordan, told of Canadian Standard Efficiency Test work, and Paul Cross of the religious work of the boys. Frank L. Smith, general secretary, added much to the programme by his clever and forceful remarks.

The toast, Our Guest, was proposed by Murray Nixon, who also extended general words of welcome. To the ladies, who have been active workers in the interests of the association, Percy proposed a toast, and C. E. Upham replied very fittingly.

During the month of November 102 members have been added to the membership of the association, making the total 698. This is the greatest number to be added to the membership roll one month in the last ten years. The membership committee under the direction of E. V. Morrow is making a great effort to swell the total to the 1,000 mark. Personal solicitations are being made, and followed later by literature bearing on the association and its work.

RECENT DEATHS

Albert Brewer.
Woodstock, N. B., Nov. 24.—(Special)—Albert Brewer, an old and respected resident, passed away tonight after an illness extending over some months. He was in his 76th year. Mr. Brewer was twice married, his first wife being Miss Esther Boone, of York county, who died in 1889. He is survived by his second wife, who was Miss Hannah Hopkins, of Aroostook Junction (N. B.), and three sons, A. A., of New York; C. C., of Ashland (Me.), and H. H., of St. John; two daughters, Mrs. J. F. Tilley, of Woodstock, and Mrs. J. W. Loane, of Washburn (Me.), and one sister, Mrs. Solomon Perley, of Upper Woodstock.

Mr. Brewer entered the contracting business when a young man, his first work being on the old New Brunswick Railway when he had charge of the construction of the old bridge between Woodstock and Grafton. Among other bridges over the St. John river, he built the old Upper Woodstock railway bridge, and bridges at Hartland, Florenceville and Andover, besides other bridges in different parts of the province. He, also with Solomon Perley and John Hopkins, did considerable railway grading work in this province and Maine. Mr. Brewer was held in high esteem and his death will be regretted by many friends in different parts of the country.

CROPS BADLY DAMAGED BY RECENT COLD WAVE

South and Western States, Especially California, Suffered Severely—Truck Farms Practically Ruined

Washington, Nov. 21.—Widespread and severe damage to crops in the West and South was done by the record-breaking cold wave of November 10 to 17, according to a bulletin issued today by the weather bureau. Practically no harm to fall-sown grain was reported, and the damage to cotton was slight, but in California tomatoes were a total loss and truck suffered except in a few sections. The cold wave spread southward from Alaska, November 10, driving temperatures in the Rocky Mountain states down to new low marks and, during the week following, causing freezing weather and frosts all the way south and east to Southern Florida.

While a large part of the sweet potato yield has been harvested in Mississippi, says the bulletin, "there was much injury to the unharvested, and injured cane remains usable for syrup. In Louisiana the seed cane was mostly saved through weanings, but other cane, though generally windrowed, suffered some harm. Sorghum was mostly killed and sugar cane damaged in Texas, and the uncut cane in Mississippi was much damaged."

"Truck in northern South Carolina was killed and most tender truck in northern and western Florida, Louisiana, Texas and other Southern States was killed, while in California tomatoes were an entire loss. Beans and lettuce were somewhat damaged in the coastal plain portion of South Carolina and Georgia.

"Cabbage, turnips and dollards escaped injury in most of Georgia and Alabama, but in Louisiana young cabbage plants, beets and lettuce will be a 50 per cent loss, while hardy vegetables in Texas suffered as far south as Corpus Christi. In California severe injury to truck occurred in all save a few sections, but celery, in the delta districts, was mostly unharmed. In Georgia, Louisiana and other States seed beds and much truck in fields were saved through timely weanings.

"There seems to have been but little damage to fruit in the South. Citrus fruit in Texas stood the freeze well, save in a few more northern sections, where about half the crop was lost. Setsums orange trees were hurt in Mississippi but practically unharmed in Alabama. In Florida the cold weather was rather beneficial to citrus fruit, improving color and shipping qualities.

"In California, citrus fruit in Tulare County was somewhat damaged, and half the young trees near Davis were ruined; but in other parts of the state the damage to citrus fruit was negligible. Table grapes in California are practically an entire loss, as unripened olives were much hurt, but can still be used for oil."

MY FOUR LITTLE ONES USED BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. Albert Nie, St. Brieux, Sask., writes: "I have been using Baby's Own Tablets for the past seven years and they have done my four little ones a great deal of good." The Tablets always do good—they cannot possibly do harm—being guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely free from injurious ingredients. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALFRED WINSOR.

Alfred Winsor, one of the charter members of the Union Club, Boston, also prominent as a director of the West End Street Railway Company, and formerly president of the Boston Tow Boat Company and of the Boston & Philadelphia Steamship Company, known as the Winsor Line, died on Thursday morning in his home, 204 Walnut street, Brookline.

Mr. Winsor was born in the West End, Boston, Feb. 4, 1838, the son of Alfred Winsor, and Anne Maria Burt. In 1860 his father moved to a house in Brookline, near which Mr. Winsor lived throughout his life. At the age of fifteen he entered the office of his father and later became a partner in the firm of Alfred Winsor & Son, an old-time counting house, which still has offices in State street.

At the beginning of the Civil War Mr. Winsor enlisted in the 40th Massachusetts Volunteers as a second lieutenant and served at Fort Warren and later in several engagements. Toward the close of his enlistment he was promoted to a first lieutenant.

For several years he was treasurer of the Boston Sugar Refining Company. Besides his business connections already noted, he was a director of the New England Cotton Yarn Company, the Rockland and Rockport Line Company, and the Gould Mills. He also held membership in the County and the Exchange Clubs.

On June 3, 1875, Mr. Winsor married Miss Linda Kennard, daughter of Martin Parry Kennard of the original firm of Bigelow, Kennard & Co. Four sons and daughters survive him. Mrs. Charles

TENNIS STARS TO COMPETE IN BIG ICE TOURNEY

New York, Nov. 23—If the plans of Fred B. Alexander, Davis Cup veteran and lawn tennis player of international reputation, are successful, some of the most prominent tennis players in the East will be playing for the "ice tennis" championship within the next year.

The idea of ice tennis itself is not a new one. Five or six years ago Alexander conceived the scheme, and a match was played on the ice, Benny Phillips, Karl Behr, Alexander and other tennis players taking part. Now the new sport will be taken up again, and it is Alexander's intention to put on a doubles match at the Ice Skating Palace, 131st street and St. Nicholas avenue, about the middle of December. The exact date and the players who will take part in the exhibition doubles match will be announced later.

Ice tennis, when played by such experts as Alexander and Phillips, is one of the most sensational sports in the world. Not only must the competitor be the most skilled of skaters to make the quick starts and stops necessary, but he must also be a tennis player of the first quality.

The court will be of the regulation kind, with the lines marked out on the ice in black paint. Alexander hopes this special match may lead to a nice tennis tournament this winter, and he and M. H. Greenbaum, manager of the rink, are working along these lines.

An Interesting Baseball Story of The Long Ago
The Battle of The National and The Players League — A. G. Spalding's Manly Action

(By Joe Page.)
Base ball stories of the long ago have more or less interest to the present generation of baseball enthusiasts. Also they bring back to the old timer many recollections of by-gone days. From various sources during the last few weeks have come stories of a third major league. Several newspaper wires find in the suggested new league the reason for the late Baltimore Federal League owners dropping their suit against the major league organizations, which, it is said, they would drop, provided such a league was formed and Baltimore was to be admitted as a member of the third major organization. But this as it may be.

However, it brings to the writer's mind a story of the old brotherhood days of 1890-1, after the Players' League was decisively beaten by the National League. The very first conference talk that took place between two Chicago magnates, Messrs. A. G. Spalding and John Addison, representing the Chicago National League club, and the Chicago Players' League club respectively, early in December, 1890, Spalding told Addison in Chicago he had him just where he wanted him, and intended to throw him down just as hard as possible. Mr. Addison and his lawyer took the next train for New York, where he was met by J. B. Hart, of Boston. They talked over the situation one whole afternoon. The tears rolled down Addison's cheeks as he reported his meeting with A. G. "I think I got the best of Spalding," said he, as I rang in my lawyer and had a witness. I tell you, gentlemen, that I will put my horse on the turf before I ever enter into negotiations with this man Spalding again. I have taken his measure and I will now fight him to the bitter end.

This is what really happened. Less than a month later—to be exact—on December 29, 1890—President John Addison, acting for the stockholders of the Players' Club, turned over to President A. G. Spalding and the Chicago National Club the lease of the Thirty-fifth street grounds, the contracts of the players, and all right and title to the same, receiving in return therefor the Chicago club's check for $15,000.

The amount of unpaid salaries due the players was $5,925.18, divided as follows: Comiskey, $1,840.95; King, $504.69; Satchin, $220.15; Boyle, $402.71; Williamson, $368.62; O'Neil, $293.79; Durig, $256.90; Shugart, $248.78; Dwyer, $258.06; Ryan, $487.80; Duff, $307.29; Farrell, $544.62; Baldwin, $249.46.

Thus were the men who had played under Comiskey the season before paid their salaries in full, the owner who invested their money in a losing fight against the National League saved an absolute and serious loss, and thus was baseball established upon a solid foundation once again.

It would be contrary to all human characteristics, were the ball players in question other than deeply appreciated and freely sensible of the service rendered them by President Spalding in this transaction. Had the Chicago club decided not to treat with the Players' League stockholders at all—to let these gentlemen get out as best they could—it is dollars to cents that Comiskey's men and Comiskey himself would never have seen a dollar of their unpaid salaries. Further, had President Spalding so desired, he could have compromised matters with Addison at the first meeting by consenting to assume all possible law suits by players and to split the difference on payment money between $15,000 and $25,000. In this case the boys would have had to whistle for their money or enter suit for it against the Chicago League club as purchasers of the Players' League club property—a thing few of them would have been likely to do.

Mr. Spalding, however, argued that right was right, and that provision for paying the unpaid salaries must be made before negotiations could be concluded. Mr. Addison, on the other hand, contended that the players had agreed to look to the receipts for their salaries, and that they should consequently stand their loss. Spalding, however, held the whip hand, and Mr. Addison was compelled to come to A. G.'s way of thinking, which it took him a very short time to do. The result was a $7,000 Christmas present to the players, who, six months before, were doing their level best to down the man who made the present.

Today the bitter animosities of the wind-up of the brotherhood war of more than a quarter of a century ago are but the memories of a long and all but forgotten past. The players, the writer is pleased to say, acknowledged defeat in a straight forward, manly way. As an instance to show the general feeling of the players over the settlement: The day following, while President Spalding was seated in his office, the door opened and Fred Pfeffer entered. The young baseman (and there was none better), shook hands with his old club president, said he was more than willing to let bygones be bygones, and that he would do his best professionally and in every other way to make the future of the game a successful one. Mr. Spalding met his visitor cordially, and in his pleasant, easy way, made Pfeffer feel thoroughly at home and glad that he had called. The call was a manly act on Pfeffer's part, the more so as he brought the will and wishes and promise of best efforts for the future from his fellow players.

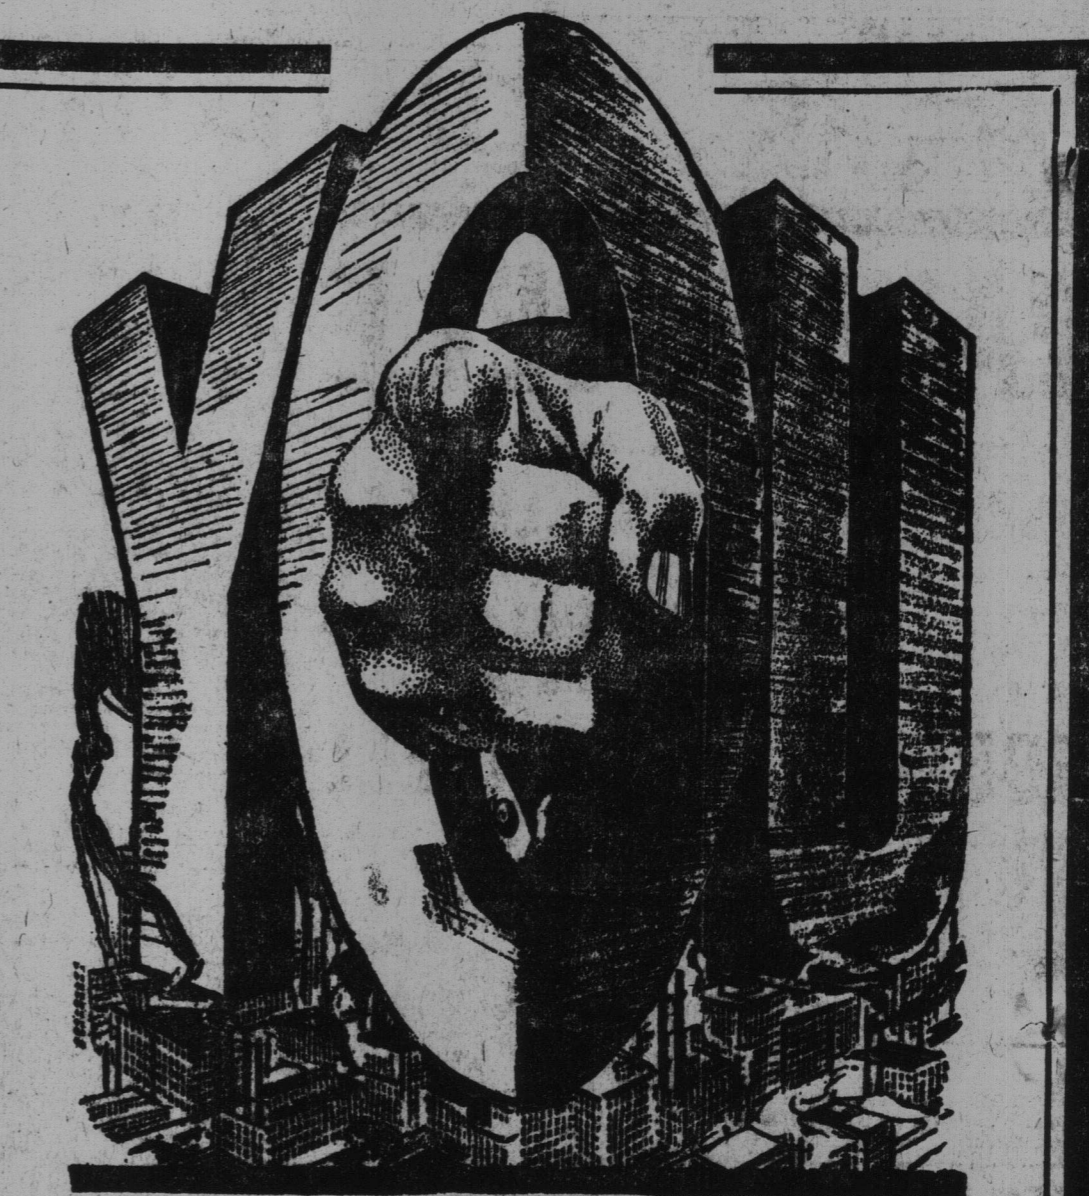

Another act at this moment stood Pfeffer in good stead in years after. He refused to put in a claim against the Players' League club for his unpaid salary, saying that the backers of the enterprise had lost heavily enough as it was, and that his claim need not be considered in the negotiations between Messrs. Spalding and Addison. This was all the more generous in view of the fact that Pfeffer had himself been a heavy loser outside of his unpaid salary.

Even Old Billy, the ground-keeper, who deserted the National League club and went over to the Wentworth avenue grounds, received his unpaid salary and, if memory serves right got his old situation back again. Spalding, Williamson, O'Neil and Farrell have passed to the great beyond. Possibly others, but those living know the late A. G. Spalding and what he has done for the game.

Organized Ball Ready to Fight

Owners of Clubs Say Players Have No Grievances of Importance
Following the action of the minor leagues in refusing to consider several demands filed with them by the Players' Fraternity, comes the hint that there will be a general strike by the men who draw salaries for displaying their skill on the diamond. While it is hard to believe that the players will resort to such tactics, says an exchange, it can be said without fear of contradiction that the leaders of organized ball are prepared to meet such an issue with a fight to a finish.
The major league magnates insist that the players have no grievance of vital importance. The minor league owners insist their players have been well treated.
Organized baseball, as a unit, is determined to put an end to the Fraternity's demands and threats for all time.
In with many of the demands made by the Fraternity were absolutely out of reason. For instance, the Fraternity's demand that the minors pay the transportation of the players from their homes to the training camps in the spring and to their homes again after the season is ended is out of the question. It would put the small leagues out of business to be burdened with this expense.
If the players decide to go on a strike, a big baseball man in New York is quoted as saying, "we will not try to stop them. The ball park would be kept closed in the spring if a majority of the players did not sign contracts. We can stand a battle as long as the Fraternity but we do not believe that the average player, after a long winter, will care to remain idle, with no salary, for any length of time.
The club owners in the majors and minors have had no money since the Federal League invasion three years ago. The players helped the Feds kill popular interest in the sport. They either jumped to the opposition or held other clubs up for exorbitant salaries. We have lived up to the terms of all signed contracts regardless of the financial losses we have suffered, and it is about time to have the break in our favor.

Baseball received a black eye last season because of the behavior of some of the big league players. The disorderly conduct of the Braves, for instance, hurt the sport considerably. The indifference of some of the Giants in the final series with Brooklyn was another hard knock.
If there is a fight, the club owners will fight the players to a finish.
Ban Johnson sticks to first principles. When the Fraternity threatened to call a strike two years ago, and also last July, the head of the American League announced that his ball parks would be closed, but a strike was prevented by Charley Ebbets of Brooklyn.
Johnson, who is bitterly opposed to the Players' Union, is going to stick to his National Commission, which will adopt a new form of players' contract some time next week. Johnson, Tener and Herrmann believe that this new contract will demonstrate the club owners' desire to aid the welfare of the so-called "baseball slaves." For that reason Johnson will assume the leadership in fighting any hostile move by the Fraternity.
He will see to it that the American League does not recede an inch from its present position, and there seems to be no doubt that the National League will follow suit.
But, as said before, it is extremely doubtful if the players, when they realize what will happen, will see fit to forfeit fat salaries in a hopeless battle with their employers.

SPORT NEWS OF THE DAY HOME AND ABROAD

RING
Notes of Interest.
Seattle, Wash., Nov. 23—Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, gained the decision over Sid Mitchell, of Australia, in a four round bout here tonight. The former champion had to extend himself against his tough, strong opponent, but at no-time was the result in doubt. Ritchie's clever left jab and well-timed right crosses kept the Australian on the defensive throughout the bout.
New York, Nov. 23—Harry Pollock, manager of Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion, has announced that Johnny Dundee will be Welsh's next opponent and that the bout will be a ten-round, no decision, affair to be staged in Madison Square Garden a week from tonight, Thanksgiving day. This will be the opening attraction of the Madison National Show Corporation, if it is granted a license by the State Boxing Commission.

Champion Is Not Overweight
Jess Willard is not the fat individual he has been reported. He weighs 268 pounds. The authority for this statement is the champion's wife, who has just returned to Chicago to put their home in order, as in a few weeks Willard will end his circus contract and return home.
He does not weigh as much as he did a year ago. He has been very careful of his diet, has worked every day, keeps up a system of cold baths and is fit right now to begin training for the hardest fight.
As to the plans of the champion or his manager for fights, Mrs. Willard professed ignorance, except to say that her husband wanted to take anything that was offered him, irrespective of who his opponent might be.

Wallace Outpoints Welsh.
Montreal, Nov. 24—Eddie Wallace, of Brooklyn (N. Y.), featherweight, gained a victory on points in a ten-round bout with Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, at Sobieski Park, this city, tonight, though no decision was given, it being against the law in Quebec province to hold prize fights.

BASEBALL
Favor Third League.
Chicago, Nov. 23—The presidents and a majority of the club owners in the National and American Leagues favor the formation of a new major league circuit.
They favor Kansas City, Toledo, Milwaukee and the Twin Cities in the west, and Baltimore, Newark, Buffalo and Toronto in the east.
Mathewson May Be President.
The New York Sun has declared that Christy Mathewson, now manager of the Cincinnati National League Club, may be made president of that club, to succeed Guy Herrmann. Herrmann, it was said, is expected to retire in order to become a neutral chairman of the National Commission.

Diamond Sparkles
Pres. Dunn and "Bob" McCoy propose to do everything possible to strengthen the Cleveland club, and declare themselves ready to trade or purchase if they are shown that they can thereby add strength to the Indians. They are a pretty lively pair—and wise.
It appears that Fielder Jones would be willing to let Eddie Plank go to the Highlanders in exchange for Fritz Masiel, but it is not apparent that the New Yorkers are willing to let Masiel get away from them. They are fairly well provided with southpaw pitchers, and Masiel is a great ball player, who is only just starting on his career in that line of endeavor.

FOOTBALL
Even Money on Big Game.
New York, Nov. 23—Captain Clyde Black has returned to the Yale eleven and today will go into the last big practice before the meeting Saturday in New Haven with Harvard. Quarterback Beaver Smith also is back for duty and will work out with the first string squad.
These two developments have had the effect of holding off ten to nine, and to eight bets that have been made with Harvard on the long end, and it now seems that Yale will go into the game on even money chance. There is very little Harvard money to be found at odds which are being quoted.

The Harvard team went through its last practice yesterday in Cambridge and today will reach New Haven where the men will be given a brief drill in the Bowl and then will be taken to New London, where they will stay until Saturday.
Army and Navy also have gone through the final preparations for their big conflict. Today only the most simple of signal drills will be given the men. The Navy backfield will take the field much as it has lined up all season, with Perry, Roberts, Ingram and Welch ready for duty.
Westpoint isn't so sure of itself. Lient Daly has tried several backfield combinations and was still experimenting today.
77,453 Tickets Out
New Haven, Conn., Nov. 23—A total of 77,453 tickets have been sent out for the Yale-Harvard football game here on Saturday, of which number 28,171 have been taken by Harvard. The total also includes 244 press and 300 side-line tickets.

Tennis
Will Give Challenger Title
Philadelphia, Nov. 23—Jay Gould, holder of the world's amateur crown and world's open championship, will not defend the latter title next year, word to this effect having been received at the Racquet Club yesterday.
Gould won the open title from George F. Covey in two special matches played here in 1914, and was scheduled to defend it in England next year. Owing to the war and the resultant hazards of ocean travel, Gould has decided to relinquish his title rather than risk his life, and the championship now is Covey's whenever he desires to claim it.
Jay Gould first came into prominence as a court tennis player at the age of 18, when he won the American amateur championship by defeating C. E. Sands in the final round by three set to none. In the same year he visited England and competed in the English championship which he also won.
He won the American championship in 1907 by defeating Joshua Crance by three sets to one.

MANY CUBANS FOR BIG BASEBALL TEAMS
New York, Nov. 23—Cuban ball players by dozens may be expected to join American baseball teams within the next few years, if the present rate of development in the island republic is continued. There are many of the brown-skinned exponents of the American national game who will be given tryouts this year. Several Cubans already have won fame as big leaguers.
There is Armando Marsans, who now is performing for the St. Louis Browns, and Miguel Gonzales, who is back-stopping for the Cardinals. These two men have made their marks as big leaguers. Another Cuban, Acosta, outfielder, appears to be ready to hold down a regular berth with Washington, and Angel Aragon and Jose Rodriguez, the former with the Yankees and the latter with the Giants, appear to be real big league stock.

Manuel Cueto already has been signed to a big league contract, but they're hiving so much fun over it that it isn't at all certain whether he will draw his pay check next season.
Juicita Calvo, an outfielder, has been grabbed up by Detroit from the Northwestern league and will be given his first trial in first company next spring.
Adolfo Luque and Emilio Palmero, both pitchers, are former big leaguers who now are doing duty in the American Association, and another will join them when Pedro Dibut, a right hand flinger joins the Milwaukee club next spring.
Rafael Almeida probably will get a chance next season with the International League. He played third base for the Scranton New York State league club, and did it so well that Montreal exercised its option.
Oscar Tuero, a right hand pitcher, is with the Eastern League, and Frank Munoz is in the North Carolina League.
These Cubans probably will be joined by others of their country after John McGraw and several other prominent baseball men get through looking them over this winter. Several journeys to Cuba are under contemplation by baseball managers.

YANKEES TO HAVE GREATEST BASE BALL PARK IN WORLD
News that the New York Yankees had laid plans to have the greatest baseball park in the country, with a double-decked grandstand to hold 28,000 and bleachers and pavilions to make a total capacity of 50,000 persons, was given out on Thursday night in Chicago by Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League. He had just returned from French Lick, Ind., where the plans were fully gone over with Jacob Ruppert and Captain Huston, and announced that virtually the only unsettled business was to get the grounds. The arrangements contemplated, it is said, will exceed the capacity of the Boston Braves' park by about 8,000.
It is not expected that the new park will be ready for occupancy until the year after next, but the club will not be homeless, as it has an option on the Polo grounds. The new venture will mean an outlay of more than a million dollars.

A Sudden Stop
A lady entered a railroad car and took a seat in front of a newly married couple. She was hardly seated before they began making remarks about her.
Her last year's bonnet and coat were fully criticized with more or less giggling on the bride's part and there is no telling what might come next if the lady had not put a sudden stop to the conversation by a bit of strategy.
She turned her head, noticed that the bride was considerably older than the groom and in the smoothest of tones said:
"Madam, will you please ask your son to close the window."
The "son" closed his mouth and the bride no longer giggled.
