Murder Trial Theatricals. Theatrical managers in New York are getting alarmed at the rivalry of the enacted in the trials of New York murderers are no longer possible that they can be counterfeited so as to please the public. A property man and stage manager have become even more important members of the defence than the counsel who rudely browbeat the witnesses for the prosecution. The scene Flour. Groceries & Liquors, is carefully set every day, the variations being slight but artful. The most important figure is that of the murderer's wife, mother or sister, as the case may be, who is dressed in black, closely veiled, and placed where the jury cannot help having a good view of her. ally the golden-haired little girl, are

Then the beautiful little children, especinext in importance. As a background for these and supports for the central figure, the decrepid and whiteheaded father and mother are brought on, When the scene is thus properly set the by-play begins, and, as each day's per-THE President and Directors of the above hearsal, this is usually done with skill. The lifting of the pretty young wife's worthy of the purposes for which it was intended, as a formance is preceded by a careful reand tearful, the full-eyed look of mingled confidence, supplication and sorrow she gives the jury, the side glance of scorn and detestation she throws on the vile wretches swearing to the murderer's guilt, the linger-MAY 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th, 1873. ing gaze of trust and love she bestows on the prisoner at the bar, the seeming suddenness with which she is recalled to the awful situation by the plucking of her child at her gown, the quickness with which she draws her depicted on her face, the passionate ardor with which she clasps the child to 1,000 her breast and almost inaudibly moans 1,000 over ft; the artless infant's prattle about "dear papa," "good papa," "kind papa;" the swaying to and fro of the 250 bent forms of the gray-haired sire and matron; the fainting of women in the audience who were hired for the express 1,000 purpose of fainting when the counsel 1,000 for the defence painted the agony 6,000 of a family bereaved by the gallows of its brightest ornament, the staff on which his parents leaned. the

To render the Concerts superior to any yet given in St. John, the BEST TALENT on the Continent will be procured if possible. It is built of wood and roof covered with gravel. The ground floor is occupied and known as the sole leather room. Here half a dozen men and boys are busy at work cutting the leather and passing it through the machines of the most improved kind which will sew or nail a sole on a boot while one could say "Jack Robinson," and a heel (not a head) can be put on a shoe, old or new, just as rapidly. There is one machine on this flat worthy of particular mention. It is used for nailing the sole to the upper in imitation of sewed work and the patent on fomer mechines used for this purpose is that a spiral screw punctures the holes for the nails and hence it is claimed its work will neither rip nor tear, as that of some others are apt to do.

Senator York then proceeded to detail three alleged interviews between who spends his whole time at the factory. It who spends his whole time at the factory. The main building is three stories in front with a wing of two stories extending in rear of same, or rather the upper storics agreed upon by himself and others promineither rip nor tear, as that of some others are apt to do.

Passing up to the second floor we found it filled with different kinds of machines required for completing the boot and putting it in a saleable state. About a dozen hands were diligently passing the work through the various processes of finishing.

Mounting to the third floor we arrive at the most extensive branch of the factory Here Mr. Francis precides, giving and receiving the work in its different stages of manufacture. Most of the work is cut out and arranged on this flat. There are perhaps a score of girls running as many sewing machines, and others preparing the work (chiefly for women's wear), to be more real value to mankind than this effoctual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vasst treal of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that Cherry Peroparal will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Congle, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without if. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, Cherry Pectonal is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound, and health-restoring sleep. No COMMENCINGION: THE Splendid Sea Going Steamer "New York," E. B.
