Nissouri Farmer Lodged in Jail Pend

ing Trial.

Wesley Scott, a farmer living on lot 13, con. 6, of West Nissouri, was brought in last night by Constable Bedggood and lodged in jail to await trial on a charge of theft, preferred by John Johnson, a farmer in the same neighborhood. Johnson's son, Alonzo, claims to have caught Scott in the act of carrying a bag of peas away from the Johnson granary. The commitment was made by Squires Garner and Wheaton, of Thorndale, before whom the case was heard yesterday. Scott was arraigned before Judge Elliott this morning, and, wishing further time to elect trial, was remanded until Saturday.

PROF WELLS' FUNERAL.

The Remains Interred at Woodstock-The Pall-Bearers.

Woodstock, Ont., Sept. 22 .- The remains of the late Prof. J. E. Wells, formerly of Woodstock College, arrived in Woodstock, per G. T. R. yesterday morning and were met at the station by a large number of Woodstock friends, including many of the deacons and officials of the First Baptist Church. The body was taken direct to the Baptist Cemetery, where interment took place. At the grave Rev. R. R. McKay, assisted by Rev. Dr. Dempsey, of Ingersoll, conducted a brief but impressive service. The following were the pall-bearers: Principal McCrimmon, D.W. Karn, R. H. Burtch, Professors Clarke and McKechnie, and R. P. Sawtell. Among the ministers in attendance were: Revs. W. H. Porter, of Brantford; W.H. Cline, of Paris; W. J. Mackay, of Stratford; D. Mihell, of St. George; W. M. Walker, of London; James Grant and Dr. Dempsey, of Ingersoll; Rev. Joshua Roberts and Rev. Mr. Dowling, of Woodstock. The dead professor's four sons from Toronto, and a brother from New York accompanied the remains to Woodstock.

FASHODA UNDER EGYPT'S FLAG. London, Sept. 22.-It is reported in government circles that news has been received that the Egyptian flag is flying over Fashoda. The fact, however, has not yet been officially announced. Sir E. J. Monson, British ambassador, in the course of an interview with M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affaire, casually referred to reports that Major Marchand, at the head of a French expedition, was at Fashoda on the Nile. M. Delcasse assured the ambassador in the most friendly manner that the government was absolutely ignorant of Major Marchand's whereabouts. He added that if the expedition was in the neighborhood of the Nile, its object was geographical rather than offensive, but he begged the ambassador not to regard this as an official communication on behalf of the government. M. Delcasse was minister of the col-onies when the Marchand expedition was equipped, and made a motion in the Chamber of Deputies that the sum of $400,000 be appropriated for the expenses. It is consequently presumable that he is aware of the objects of the expedition PARIS PRESS COMMENTS.

L'Eclair (Paris) says it is in a posi-tion to fully confirm the falsity of the report that Major Marchand has been recalled. Le Gaulois does not believe that any trouble will grow out of the Fashoda affair.

The Depeche Coloniale says that the possession of the place would be of no practical utility to France, and it is ridiculous to suppose that holding it would lead to a settlement of the Egyptian question.

MURDER BY A GERMAN OFFICER. London, Sept. 22 .- A dispatch to the Daily News from Berlin says that at the recent army maneuvers in Alsace-Lorraine, Capt. Count Stolberg-Wernigerode reprimanded Sergt. Scheinhardt for bad cooking. The sergeant is alleged to have answered rudely, whereupon the count boxed his ears. The sergeant turned sharply when he was hit, and the count drew his sword and pierced his subordinate's neck, killing him. The count was arrested.

DISARMING THE MOSLEMS. Candia, Sept. 22.-About 1,000 firearms have thus far been surrendered by the Mussulmans, in response to the demand of the British admiral. The most credible reports place the number of rifles in possession of the Mussulmans at about 25,000, exclusive of 5,000 Martinis, which are the property of the Turkish Government. Sir A. Billiotti, the British consul, has visited the Christian chiefs, and warned them that any attack on the Moslems would be regarded as an attack on the British. The chiefs promised to abstain from attacking the Moslems. PRETTY INCIDENT.

London, Sept. 22.-The inhabitants of the Thames village of Bourne End. Buckinghamshire, royally welcomed Mr. R. C. Lehman, the English oarsman, who coached the Harvard crew for two seasons, and his bride, formerly Miss Alice Marle Davis, of Worcester, Mass., on their home-coming. Outside the railroad station was a handsome arch, with the mottoes "Welcome" and "Welcome to the Bride," topped by a rowing shell and four pairs of oars, or sculls, painted with the Harvard, Oxford, Cambridge and Leander colors. Mr. and Mrs. Lehman were presented with an address of welcome, signed by Lord Curzon and other prominent oarsmen, particularly welcoming the bride, as "representing that great nation to which we are united by so many ties of kinship and af-fection." to her English home. COUNT ESTERHAZY

Interviewed by Old London Reporters -Going to Write a History of the Dreyfus Case.

London, Sept. 22.-The Daily News this morning says that Comte Esterhazy has been sojourning in London in the guise of an Italian count. He speaks Italian fluently. A representa-tive of the Daily Mail caught him at Charing Cross as he was about to start for France. In the course of the interview, Comte Esterhazy said he had constantly passed the detectives detailed to watch him while in Paris in his present disguise, and that nobody had recognized him.

"But," he added, "I mistrust even this. I told Gen. Pellieux after the suicide of Col. Henry that it would be impossible to stop things, and that the movement would be formidable. The generals lost their heads. I wrote to M. Cavaignac a long letter, tros docu-mente, acquainting him with the salient points of the affair. He refused to see me. My ruin had been determined upon; I was thrown overboard, and have nothing left but to go away and await developments." Comte Ester-hazy then told that he had vainly tried to convince Gen. Pellieux that the Henry document was a forgery, but that Gen. Pellieux had declined to listen to him. "There were," said Comte Esterhazy, "but three persons who knew the truth of the matter—Sandherr, Henry and myself. The first two are dead, and I alone hold the secret.' Comte Esterhazy complained bitterly of the treatment of himself and Mme. Pays, who is in prison in Paris. He declared that the juge d'instruction had Mme. Pays brought from the St. Lazare prison, and offered her her liberty il she would reveal all she knew about the generals. After references to other phases of the affair, Comte Esterhazy said: "I intend to publish a book that will throw light upon the unhappy Dreyfus story. Cavaignac made a mistake in pursuing me, because he struck at the same time his relation, Col. du Patay de Clam. I may mention that I had already declined a pension, offered me by the general billet." As he was taking the train, he said in a sharp, nervous tone, without pausing for breath: "I don't know whether I shall make use of the documents in my possession. It will be dependent upon the march of

Col. Picquart Hints at Foul Play-Ex pects to Meet a Tragic Fate.

Paris, Sept. 22.-The trial of Col. Picquart and M. Loblois, a lawyer, on the charge of revealing documents concerning the national defense, commenced before the correctional tribunal, but the public prosecution asked for an adjournment, on the ground that the prosecution of Col. Picquart on the charge of forgery and using forged documents had been ordered by the minister of war. M. Laborie, who was counsel for M. Zola during the latter's famous trial, indignantly opposed the adjournment, which, he said, was an attempt to hand over Col Picquart into the clutches of the military author-

Col. Picquart rose and said: "This is, perhaps, the last that I shall speak in public. I shall sleep, perhaps, in the military prison of Cherche Midi. Therefore, I wish to declare that if I am found there with the strangling cord of Lemercier Picard, or the razor of Col. Henry, it will be murder, for I have no idea of committing suicide." The audience was intensely moved and shouted "Vive Picquart." The judges, however, decided to indefinitely adjourn the case. Lemercier Picard, the man referred to by Col. Picquart, was a detective, understood to have been employed in the Dreyfus affair, who was found hanged in his lodgings about a year ago, under circumstances which not indicate that it was certain that he had committed suicide.

LOADED WITH INSULT

Rough Treatment of Gen. Toral-Cervera's Complaint-200 Cases of Sickness on a Transport Steamer.

Madrid, Sept. 22.—When the train conveying Gen. Toral arrived at the station at Bojar, a crowd which had gathered insisted that the general should show himself. Upon doing so, the gathering loaded him with insults. Gen. Toral, who is ill with fever, uttered a few excuses, and beat a retreat in order to avoid being struck. Admiral Cervera, while at Satander, in thanking the authorities for coming on board the steamer to receive him, dwelt with bitterness upon the situ-ation of the marines, who upon returning after doing their duty quietly, find such an unjust atmosphere of public opinion. "KILLED BY ORDERS"

The Vote on the Divorcee Marriage Question in the Anglican Synod.

Montreal, Sept. 22 .- Following is the resolution introduced in the Provincial Synod by Rev. Dr. Langtry, Toronto, on divorce: "In answer to the memorial of the Diocese of Toronto, that while this Provincial Synod does not feel itself competent to undertake any new legislation on the subject, it yet authoritatively calls the attention of the people of the Church of England to the fact that the present law of the Church of England is that marriage is indissoluble except by death, and until such law shall have been changed by competent authority this synod directs the clergy within its jurisdiction not to solemnize any marriage in which either of the parties have been divorced; and this synod further entreats all members of the church who may be the unfortunate subjects of a divorce to abstain from seeking re-marriage during the life of a former partner.

[The discussion on this resolution is referred to in another column.]

Dean Partridge, moved in amendment "that no clergyman of this ecclesiastical province shall solemnize marriage between persons who have been divorced while the husband or wife of either person is still living; that this resolution be communicated to the upper house for its concurrence and thereafter be added to the canon on prohibited degrees as clause 4." Judge Fitzgerald moved a second amendment—"That this Provincial Synod deems it unnecessary to make any declaration on the subject, preferring to leave to the members of the church the liberties and rights they now enjoy." He believed that if a declaration was necessary it should be made not by a resolution such as this, but by a canon most carefully drawn. After a long debate the vote on the question, at the request of certain delegates was taken by orders. Judge the subject, was lost on the following division: Yeas-Clergy, 14; lay, 11; total, 25. Nays-Clergy, 28; lay, 4; total. 32. Dean Partridge's amendment was also lost on the following vote: Yeas Clergy, 18; lay, 11; total, 29. On Dr. Langtry's motion the vote was: Yeas -Clergy, 30; lay, 4; total, 34. Nays-Clergy, 12; lay, 11; total, 23. The mo-tion was therefore lost, as it requires, according to the rules, a majorita of both orders. "Killed by orders," re-

FALL ASSIZES

Three Months Imprisonment for Killing a Tramp.

Frank Osier a Shopbreaker Gets Four Years and a Half-Verdict for $8,-750 Against the G. T. R.

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 22.-At the fall assizes, which opened here before Mr. Justice Falconbridge, Wm. Pear was found guilty of manslaughter for killing J. K. Scribner, and sentenced to three months in jail.

About 11 o'clock on the night of Nov. 1 last the Pear family, who live in North Augusta, were awakened by a goise at the front door, as if someone were trying to force an entrance. Wm. Pear went down to the door, and asked who was there, but got no answer, and the party outside began to kick. Pear got his rifle, and called out that unless the man outside gave his name he would shoot. The kicking continued, and he fired a shot through the door. The noise instantly stopped, and Pear, thinking the intruder had been frightened away, went back to bed. On opening the door in the morning a dead body was on the threshold. An investigation was held, and the body was identified as that of a deaf peddler who sold spring beds through the country. He had evidently been seeking shelter for the night, and, being deaf, did not hear Pear's demands to give his name. ELGIN ASSIZES.

St. Thomas, Ont., Sept. 22.-The trial of Frank Osier was concluded yesterlay. Osier was extradited from the United States. There were two inlictments of shoppreaking against the accused, to both of which he pleaded not guilty. On Oct. 7, 1897, Osier is charged with having robbed the store of Mistele Bros. & Co. at Rodney. Some days after the prisoner was arrested at Port Huron on a charge of smuggling goods into the United States. goods Messrs. Mistele Bros. & Co. say were their property. Osier was found Osier is charged with having broken into Martin's stores on the same night as in the previous case and stealing three breech-loading shotguns, six dozen knives, several razors and other articles. After the first witness had been called in the second charge, Osier, on the advice of his counsel, withdrew his plea of not guilty, and entered one of guilty. In passing sentence his lord-ship said: 'Taking into consideration the fact that you have already been imprisoned, the sentence of the court is that you be imprisoned for a term of four years and six months on each charge, to run concurrently."

VERDICT FOR $3,750 DAMAGES. Woodstock, Ont., Sept. 22.-Yesterday the jury in the case of Jones vs. G. T. R. at the assizes returned a verdict of $3,750 damages and costs for plaintiff, Charles W. Jones, of Woodstock, who was struck by the engine of a freight train at a crossing in St. Marys a year ago last month. It was claimed that neither the whistle nor the bell were sounded by the trainmen, and Jones could not see the approaching train owing to a fence near the track and a field of high corn. The jury was out for one hour and a quarter. Mr. Riddell asked for immediate judgment, but Mr. Osler secured a stay of proceedings for 30 days.

Nearly all serious illnesses begin with some stomach or liver trouble, or with a costive condition of the bowels. These functions have got to be put in good condition before there can be any recovery from any disease no matter what its name or na-ture, and it is because Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts directly upon the liver and digestive organs that it has such a marvelous effect upon all diseases of mal-

Mrs. Ella Howell, of Derby, Perry Co., Ind., writes: "In the year of 1894 I was taken with stomach trouble—nervous dyspepsia. There was a coldness in my stomach, and a weight which seemed like a rock. Everything that I ate gave me great pain; I had a bearing down sensation; was swelled across my stomach; had a ridge around my right side, and in a short time I was bloated. I was treated by three of our best physicians but got no relief. Then Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended to me and I got it, and commenced the use of it. I began to see a change for the better. I was so weak I could not walk across the room without assistance. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and his 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I began to improve very fast after the use of a few bottles. The physicians who attended me said my disease was leading into consumption. I had quite a cough, and the home physician gave me up to die. I thank God that my cure is permanent."

Sovereign Grand Lodge Meets in Detroit Next Year.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 22.-Amid the plaudits of thousands of spectators, and under skies without a cloud, the great parade of the I. O. O. F., in connection with the annual session of the sovereign grand lodge of the order, was held here yesterday. For hours before the time at which the line was scheduled to move, visitors from the various towns and cities of Massachusetts and nearby places, poured into Boston, and the streets were crowded. All of the principal houses, hotels, theaters and municipal buildings along the route of the parade were handsomely decorated. The procession was made up of five di-visions, aggregating about 20,000 men, and passed over a route about five miles long. The line was reviewed offi-cially by the members of the covereign grand lodge, Mayor Quincy, and members of both branches of the city government, and Gov. Wolcott.

STARTLING STATEMENTS

Made at the Sessions of the Provincial Synod in Montreal Regarding the Divorce Question.

Montreal, Sept. 22.—Some startling statements were made by Rev. Dr. Langtry, of St. Luke's Church, Toronto, in the Church of England Synod yesterday morning, in moving a resolu-tion with regard to the re-marriage of divorced persons. He ridiculed the idea that such marriages should be allowed as a matter of justice to the innocent parties, declaring that there was very seldom an innocent party. On the authority of Judge Macdonald, a well-known county court judge of Ontario, and a member of the synod, Dr. Langtry asserted that very often the divorces obtained in Canada were got by collusion between the two parties, in order to free themselves of the marriage bond. Rich men not infrequently suborned witnesses to prove their wives guilty, and then masqueraded as the innocent ones. In other cases the husband forgot his vows, and when tired of his neglect and deser-tion, the wife broke hers, he sued for a divorce. Dr. Langtry foresaw a train of evils following from easy and general divorce, which far outweighed any which might be caused by forbidding really innocent persons from marrying again. On behalf of the clergy, too, he asked that they should be protected from the importunities of those who wished such marriages performed, and the temptation of large fees such as he was once offered.

The question was warmly discussed, the debate occupying the whole day, a good many delegates strongly op-posing Dr. Langtry's proposal that the marriage of either party to the divorce should not be allowed, and claiming that the innocent party should be allowed to re-marry.

ROUGH RIDERS AT WHITE HOUSE

They Let Loose a "Wah-Wahoo" Cheer When Talking to the President.

Washington, Sept. 22.-Eleven members of Roosevelt's rough riders awoke the White House from its dignified quiet on Monday. They were Sergt. Frank Hill, Sergt. Thomas O'Neil, Corporal Frank Briggs, Quartermaster-Sergeant J. S. Mohler and Privates William Woods, Ben Slaughter, J. S. Moore and Elvin C. Ash of Troop G. and Sergt. F. G. Devore, Wagoner C S. Ryan and Private C. E. Marshall of Troop K. Some of them have been at the hospital for convalescents established at Washington Barracks, and others are on their way home from Montauk and stopped over in Washington to see the sights. They reached the White House after regular visiting hours, but the doorkeepers were lenient and permitted them to enter. But the rough riders wanted to see President McKinley, and because they were from Roosevelt's regiment one of the White House employes took their request to the president. It is unusual for Mr. McKinley to receive unofficial visitors outside of the regular reception hours, except by special arrangement, but he responded cheerfully to the request, and went down into the east room to see the picturesque group. He shook hands with all of them, made inquiries about their health, and put the eleven men very much at their ease. Then he ask them if they would enlist again if their services were needed. The answer came in a manner unexpected by the presi-

"Will we?" yelled the rough riders in chorus. "Well, wah wahoo."

CHAMBERLAIN'S NEW PHRASES

America's Destiny Abroad and the Friendly Sentiments of England.

Boston, Sept. 22.-The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, who is now the guest of his wife's family in Danvers, has put some of his new ideas into phrases in an interview just printed. He is quoted as saying:

Your country is growing. You can't resist its development. It is not sup-posable that Washington would have maintained the same attitude if conditions had essentially altered, as they must have altered in a hundred years. Your constitution does not forbid growth or expansion. You position in the Philippines is almost parallel with the one we faced in Egypt. Lord Herschell said: 'Why not get out?' But I said: 'How can we get out?' ' Cuba, Mr. Chamberlain said, was entirely different. The people there had some idea of government. He did not believe in a protectorate.

"Do the job thoroughly," he said.

Asked if he thought the regard for America which he held extended to all classes in England, he said: "Yes, from the man with the dinner pail to the lord in the banquet hall. But," he added, "the recent change is all on your part. It is not a new growth with us. You have only recognized it

Relations Between Britain and the United States Comfortable and Satisfactory.

New York, Sept. 22 .- The White Star liner Teutonic arrived yesterday from Liverpool, having on board many notables, including the new secretary of state of the United States, Col. John Hay, former ambassador to the court of St. James. "Is there any formal understanding between the United States and Great Britain?" Col. Hay was asked. "Not that I know of," he answered. "But the relations existing between the two countries are comfortable and satisfactory. There is no alliance, and I don't think anything of the kind is contemplated.'

Unveiling of the Monument to the Founder of Quebec.

Quebec, Sept. 22.-Quebec yesterday celebrated the memorable event of inaugurating an artistic monument to the memory of its founder, Samuel De Champlain. It was a civic holiday by proclamation of the mayor. The most important streets were gaily decorated with flags and maple trees. The procession of the French-Canadian national societies was the grandest and largest ever witnessed in Quebec. During the evening an address was presented to the governor-general at the Parliament House.
At 2 p.m. Earl and Countess Aberdeen, escorted by the Q. O. C. H., arrived, and took their seats, the bands playing the "National Anthem." Hon. Judge Chauveau, president of the monument committee, read an eloquent address, and the monument was unveiled, amid the cheering of the as-

MONTREAL TO VANCOUVER

Opening of the C. P. R. Company's New Trans-Continental Tele-

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 21.—At 5 o'clock last night the first message over the C. P. R. Company's new trans-continental copper telegraph wire was flashed from Montreal to Vancouver. The line passes via Vaudreuil and the short line to Ottawa, and thence by the main line to the coast. The last work was done on the section between Swift Current and Winnipeg. This was completed yesterday, and at 5 p.m. the first message over the new wire was received. The actual distance covered is about 2,900 miles, constituting probably the longest direct land line circuit for daily work in the world. To pass across this immense distance signals only occupy one-fifth of a second. Canada now only needs the Pacific cable to make her telegraphic com-munication one of the foremost in the world. Speaking on this subject yesterday, Lord Brassey stated that he had no recent advice with respect to the cable. "I may say that the Australian colonies are anxious to improve their postal and telegraphic communications and are not unprepared to contribute. I think that a great desire exists in Australia for an interchange of traffic, and I am glad to know that an efficient steamship line has been established between Vancouver and the colonies. It will be a source of satisfaction to our people to know that the C. P. R. has identified itself more prominently with the line. In the hands of this railway company, and with the large resources at its command, I have no doubt that the line will be developed, as better boats or more boats are required."

of conspiracy" talk is a nightmare The St. Thomas club management has done the only and all the dirty work of the year. They deliberately ran away from their engagement in Ham-Mton on Sept. 6 for fear of being licked, and they sneaked a fake judgment in St. Thomas on Sept. 14, when the Hamilton club was delayed by a late train, and could not reach the grounds in time. Yesterday they tried to run away from an engagement with London, and would likely have succeeded had not the London management nad not the London management promptly obtained a ruling from the league president. On the principle that people who live in glass houses should not throw stones, the St. Thomas baseball people should not say a word about "dirty conspiracy." Inother point the Saints would do well to remember is that if they should succeed in having two victories by Hamilton thrown out Hamilton will still be ahead. The percentages would, in that event, be: Hamilton, .603, St. Thomas .600. Poor old Saints! "The rag is surely ours," said the St.

He demonstrated it, using three poles at Hamilton Park, and afterwards went to New York, where he showed it on the old Capitoline grounds, I believe they were called. At anyrate, Yale beat everything, and some professionals in the bargain and one of the latter, Cincinnati, I think, offered him a big salary to join the club. Family reasons kept him from accepting, and soon after the professionals began using the curve. I learned it at New Haven, and used the ball in the famous Lynn tournament in 1874. I do not believe Cummings used the ball before I did, and I am sure any '73 men from Yale will agree with me that Prof. Avery pitched the first curve about which anything was written.'

TRADES CONGRESS

Held a Most Successful Session -Dominion Platform.

No Cut in Railway Men's Wages-Agitation in Pittsburg.

Winnipeg, Sept. 22.-The Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, just closed, was the most successful session in its hostory. The following planks were adopted as the Dominion platform: 1. Free compulsory education and free text-books. 2. Legal working day of eight hours and six days a week.

3. Government inspection of indus-

4. Abolition of the contract system on all public works. 5. A minimum living wage, based on local conditions.

6. Public ownership of all franchises, such as railways, telegraphs, waterworks, lighting, etc. 7. Reform by lessening taxation on industry and increasing it on land values. 8. Abolition of the Dominion Senate.

9. Exclusion of Chinese. 10. The union label on all manufactured goods and on all government and municipal supplies. 11. Abolition of child labor by children under 14 years of age, and the abolition of female labor in all branches of industrial life, such as mines, workshops, factories, etc., where it is brought in direct competition with manual labor.

12. Abolition of property qualification for all public offices. 13. Compulsory arbitration of labor 14. Proportional electoral representation. 15. The prohibition of the sale of prison-made goods and supplies.

NO CUT IN WAGES. The statement of a Hamilton evening paper that a cut of ten per cent in wages was about to be made by the T., H. and B. Railway management, is branded by Supt. Fisher as entirely false, nor is a change in the management of the road probable. It was fur-ther stated at the T., H. and B. offices that the road's freight and passenger business showed a steady increase every month.

CONDUCTORS AND BRAKEMEN. The Pittsburg Post says that for some time past rumors of a big railroad strike have been circulated, but nothing definte could be learned until yesterday, when it developed that the conductors and brakemen of the roads entering Pittsburg want to be placed on an equality with their brethren in other parts of the country. The two branches of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen presented to the officials of all railroads entering Pittsburg a scale of wages. An answer is requested within 30 days. The demand calls for a ten-hour day, with extra for ev-ery hour put in beyond that.

Toronto, Sept. 22.-The Brotherhood of Locomotive firemen decided to retain the limit of the insurance as its present figure of $1,500. Mr. F. P. Sargent, grand president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, was asked if the firemen would take action regarding the projected strike of the conductors and brakemen on the Pittsburg road, as reported in a dispatch from Pittsburg. Mr. Sargent said the order had no intimation of the Pittsburg men's action. and did not contemplate any move being taken.

JAPAN MISSIONS

Dealt With by the Methodist General Conference.

Rev. John Scott To Be President-Members of the Board Elected.

Toronto, Sept. 22.-The Methodist general conference resumed its consideration of the missions in Japan yesterday. It was decided that the superintendent to be appointed in any foreign mission field should supervise the entire evangelistic and educational work, and should also officiate as treasurer and corresponding secretary in that foreign field. The duties of the superintendent were defined that in general he should lead and direct the work of the mission so as to build up the annual conference and work under its care. As it was considered possible that the powers thus given the superintendent might lead to a conflict of authority between him and the president of the annual conference, a clause stating the superior authority of the latter was adopted. The constitution of the mission conference in the foreign field shall not in any way interfere with the administration of the general board of missions, only when authorized so to do by the general board. The limit for the location of a native pastor in Japan was placed at seven years, the last two years of which would be an extension carried by a three-fourths vote of the station-ing committee. Respecting the Woman's Missionary Society, its mission council shall meet in joint session with the council of the General Missionary Society at least once in a year for consultation on matters of common interest. When a missionary, transferred to a mission conference in a foreign field, returns permanently to the home work, he shall be received and stationed by the conference from which he was sent unless the general superintendent decides otherwise.

Rev. John Scott, principal of the Methodist college at Tokio, Japan, was unanimously appointed superintendent of the Japan mission. The following members of the missionary board were elected by ballot, the rest of the board being ex-officio members: Revs. T. G. Williams, S. F. Huestis, Dr. Ryckman, Dr. Briggs, Dr. Wakefield, Leo Gaetz and Messrs. J. J. MacLaren, G. A. Cox, W. F. Hall, J. A. M. Aikens, A. Shaw and John T. Moore.

Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent, was elected delegate to the ecumenical council, which meets in England in 1901. Before conference adjourned last night, Rev. F. W. Wilson, of Hamilton, presented Rev. F. W. Betts, of New Westminster, B. C., with a purse of $500, contributed by members of the conference and others, on account of his personal losses in the recent disastrous fire.

London, Thursday, Sept. 22, 1898.

The Quebec Conference. Will the Quebec Conference have good results? We think so.

The mutual feeling seems to be satisfactory, to begin with. The friendliness cemented by Great Britain's course throughout the war waged by the United States against Spain, left sediment of incidental American friendliness to Canada. This feeling has been added to by the graceful hospitalities extended at Quebec to the Visiting Commissioners.

So far, good. Nothing but desirable results can flow from intelligent and good-hearted people getting well acquainted and under agreeable circumstances.

We think that useful practical results, also, will follow, in the adjustment of various matters hitherto unadjusted.

As to any great immediate improvement in trade relations, we are not so sure, though hopeful. There are so many sectional interests to be touched gingerly that the largest national considerations are often shoved to one

Well! Canada's position, as that of a friendly yet thoroughly self-reliant neighbor, is plain. She is willing to trade, or able to paddle her own canoe commercially, according as circumstances decide.

Would Disarmament Be an Injury?

Some foreign newspapers advance the argument that disarmament would work disaster to the nations having large standing armies, by throwing vast numbers of men into civil pursuits already crowded. It is a foolish contention, but quite in keeping with the economic notions which govern most of the European countries. The nonproducing millions who compose the standing armies live off the labor of their fellow-countrymen. To say they must not live off their own labor because they would compete with the labor of those who support them is an amazing proposition. It is equivalent to saying that the best way to get rid of surplus labor is to pension it. That would certainly reduce competition. It is true, however, that if these millions of men were suddenly sent adrift there would be great disturbance of the labor market, and much privation and distress. This would be only temporary. The enormous sums of money which went maintain the military establishments would be diverted to the channels of commerce, and industry, relieved of a heavy burden, would become more buoyant. Production would be stimulated, and the soldiers out of a the producing classes. To avoid the temporary hardships which would follow wholesale disarmament, would be better to make the process gradual. It has been suggested that large numbers could from time to time be detached from the army to fill vacancies in the civil service. The British Government keeps many of these berths open for soldiers who have served their terms. By these and similar methods the armies could melt into the mass of the population without serious derangement of industrial conditions.

job would eventually be absorbed into

The position of the standing army is somewhat analogous to that of a highly protected or bounty fed interest. It would be to the general good to withdraw that protection or bounty, but to do so at one stroke might be hurtful to those whose livelihood was bound up with the concern. Even Adam Smith, in such a case, has recommended gradual withdrawal of the artificial support, in order that the industry might have time to adjust itself to the change, or that the capital invested in it might be applied to a more profitable line. The same economic folly that would oppose the removal of a tax like this is behind the idea that a general disarmament would be a calamity.

Castelar on Bismarck.

Some men fail, or seem to fail, completely in life's undertaking. All fail in part. It is not given to any man, however great, to attain complete success in every particular. Those who have the greatest admiration for Cromwell admit that while he succeeded as an agitator, and as a soldier, he failed as a statesman. It may be that the difficulties of the position were unconquerable, but at any rate he did not solve them. Emilio Castelar recognizes that Bismarck was one of the strongest and ablest men that ever lived, and that his unswerving pursuit of a great object in spite of tremendoue difficulties is a splendid illustration of the power of a tenacious will. "Having induced Austria to associate herself with him in his design for the seizure of the Danish Indies, he assumed a feigned humility towards that Times.

In at present we lavishly and most impress Catholicism by a coup d'etat, and the latter into the sea." ten years later has to declare that the state is powerless to oppose ideas. In allowing a few generals to override his better judgment in retaining the French provinces, he left the seeds of future war, and prepared the way for the Franco-Russian Alliance.

> Castelar seems to have a grim pleasure in dwelling upon the irony of the great man's fate. "To the youthful Emperor was reserved the task of solving the great Chancellor's many contradictions, by simply suppressing, as a useless cipher, the contradictor himself, and sending him into retirement." The great preacher of the divine right of kings had himself to bow before the power for which he professed such reverence. "He championed the old principle of the imperial wil as the basis of the State, and as the foundation of the law, regarding the legislature as simply a consulting body. He made the Kaiser's his gods, and he flattered them to such an extent that he was able to induce them to seize the crown from the altar and place it upon their own heads as though by divine right. But there came a day when imperial power, in order to assert its assumed divinity and omnipotence, sacrificed upon its altars no less a victim than the Chancellor himself."

The Emperor of China having declared for western civilization, the first step will probably be the strengthening of his army and navy.

Golf has become the rage in the United States, like most things British and aristocratic. It has added a great many "links" to the Anglo-American chain of fraternity.

When care the heart has wrung, Oh, listen, listen, lass and lad, Unto the song that's sung!

When smiles have turned to tears and when hands you clasped are cold, And those whose love has been a prize, Are weary, worn and old,

If one dear gift, the rest above, Still by your side be found, 'Tis then you know, indeed, 'tis love That makes the world go round. -London Mail.

San Francisco, Sept. 22.-George Mulligan, a miner recently returned the Klondike, lost a purse containing $61,000 on a street car a few days ago. It has been found and returned by John Donahue, the gripman of the car. With exception of $40 in currency, the amount was in checks, one of which was a draft for $57,000.

MUSKOKA AND HAY FEVER

A Very Annoying and Persistent Ailment.

Muskoka Air One of the Best Alleviators Known.

[Correspondence of The Advertiser.] Bala, Muskoka, Sept. 22, 1898.-Much has been written about the beauties of Muskoka; its lakes and islands, rivers and waterfalls; its medicinal waters and invigorating atmosphere, bringing health to the sick and rest to the weary. Those who come recommend it to their friends. So each years, as its beauties and advantages become known, the stream of visitors increases. Little, however, has been said of it as a hay fever resort, and thousands of sufferers are unaware that there is entire immunity from it here. One of the many queer things about hay fever is that so many people look on it as a joke, and the unfortunate victim receives little or no sympathy, except from his fellow sufferers. It may, however be interesting to some to know just what hay fever is.

The symptoms are those of a severe cold in the head. The eyes and nose are in a constant state of eruption, accompanied by violent sneezing. During this stage the suffering is intense. The inflamed eyes and nostrils are painful to behold, while the strain upon the system is remarkable. The appetite is lost, and all through the body runs a languid, tired feeling that makes activity difficult.

In the second stage, the membrane becomes swollen, and there is a consequent stoppage of the nasal passages that diverts the torture to another channel. To breathe is exceedingly difficult, and at night sleep is prac ticably impossible. The third and last stage is the worst of all. By this time, the disease is located in the throat, and what is practically bronchitis sets in. The coughease departs, which it usually does with the advent of frost, the suffering is great. From the 10th to the 15th of August is the usual time for it to commence, and its duration is about two

As with all other diseases, there are innumerable remedies, but none of them have been successful in my own case; nor have I ever met a genuine, well-developed case of hay fever that had been cured. A change of climate is recommended by physicians where golden-rod, ragweed and honeysuckle do not grow, as these and many other flowers and grasses aggravate the disease. The northern part of Michigan, and various points along the shores of Lake Huron and the Georgian Bay are recommended, but in all these places the results are dependent on the direction of the wind; as, should the wind happen to be blowing off shore, as it frequently does, there is no relief. Here at Bala, however, the direction of the wind is immaterial. There are no cultivated fields, and no golden-rod. etc. In this respect, I speak particularly of the Bala district. Other parts of Muskoka may be equally as good, but my experience is confined to this

This year I tried a trip down the St. Lawrence, by boat, without any relief, and arrived at Gravenhurst suffering intensely. Before reaching Bala by boat, the worst symptoms had subsided, and in a few days I was feeling entirely, well.

There are a few general rules which all sufferers staying here in September could follow to advantage. 1. Wear winter flannels and warm. thick-soled boots.

2. Take moderate exercise, but avoid over-heating.
3. Don't go browsing about the woods. Keep to the beaten paths. There are dried mosses from which a powder arises that is irritating, Go fishing. Enjoy yourself. Eat the best you can get, and grow fat. There are a number of hay fever sufferers here this year from Pennsylvania, New York, and Southern States, and from many of the cities and towns of Canada. A Hay-Fever Association is spoken of, and a convention is among the possibilities of next year. D. A. McDERMID.

SHED SKIN 20 TIMES

Little Boy's Terrible Eczema. Mass Kunning Sores From Head to Foot.

Not an Inch of Body Unaffected. Skin Came off With The Bandages.

Screams Were Heart-Breaking. Four Doctors and Medical Institute No Avail.

Improvement After the Second Application of Cuticura, Now Completely Cured.

My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse, until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did not do any good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura Remedies, he was so bad that I had to cut his hair all off, and put the Curi-CURA (ointment) on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores, and the stench from him was frightful. The bandages used to stick to his skin, and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of CUTICURA (cintment) L began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment, used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT for his blead and now I can say that he is entirely cured, a stronger and healthier boy you never saw the is to day.

You can use this testimonial in whatever you please, and if any proof outside of my is needed I will refer to any of our neighbor ROBERT WATTAM, Dec. 13, 1897. 4728 Cook St., Chicago, Ill.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—There has been no important phase in the local export live stock circles during the past few days. The exports are steadily decreasing, which may be due to the scarcity of suitable cattle, or to the unsatisfactory condition of the markets abroad. The offerings of live stock at the east end abattoir market today were 600 cattle, 300 sheep, 400 lambs, 50 calves and 75 store hogs. The supply of cattle was somewhat smaller than last Thursday, the feeling was steadier, but prices show no material change. feature of the market was the scarcity of really choice stock. There was a good demand, and trade throughout was fairly active, all the offerings being well cleaned up at an early hour. The best cattle cold at 44c per lb, but more than this would have been paid for choice beeves, Good cattle brought 8½c to 4c, and lower grades sold down to 2½c per lb, live weight. Sheep met with a fair sale, and prices ruled steady at 3%c to 3%c per lb, for good to choice, and lambs sold readily at 4%c to 4%c per lb, live weight The demand for calves was good, which were scarce, and prices ruled high Choice sold at $14 to $16, good at $10 to $13, fair at $5 to $8, and lower grades at $2 50 to $4 each. Store hogs brought $6 to $9 each, as to size and quality. At the Point St. Charles stock yards there were 400 hogs offered, which met with a good demand at 4%c per lb.

OLD COUNTRY PRICES. London, Sept. 19.-Trade in cattle was firmer, in consequence the undertone to the market was stronger, and prices for Canadian stock show an advance of 1/2c since this day week Choice States cattle sold at 12c; choice Canadian at 11c; ranchers at 10c; Argentines at 10%c. Canadian sheep sold at 101/20 and Argentine at 11c.

Against the Decision of the Canadian League Association

In Awarding the Pennant to Hamilton -The Part London Played in the Unsatisfactory Finish Severely Criticized.

The pennant has been awarded to Hamilton. But, stripped of the honor that a fair, clean, indisputable victory would give, the rag is hardly worth the trouble Hamilton has taken, off the diamond, to secure it. In view of the facts, so far as they have been made public, many unprejudiced lovers of baseball will continue, despite the decision of the Canadian League Association, to look up St. Thomas as claimants of equal right with Hamilton. No notification was received by the London papers that a meeting of the league was to be held in the city last evening, and the climax of the season's unsatisfactory finish was brought about with closed doors.

When local newspaper representatives went to the Tecumseh House they found the following registered from Hamilton: Cal. Davis, Wm. Stroud, Charles Collins and Mr. Passmore, of the Herald; also E. A. Smith and H. W. Anderson, of Chatham; C. L. Robertson, of St. Thomas, and W. J. Reid and Bert Sheere, of London. None of the London reporters were admitted to the meeting. The privileges seemed more favorable to the Hamilton papers, but it was given out that the Herald representative was a director.

Some lively discussions occurred. St. Thomas' sole delegate was alone in his arguments, Chatham and London backing up Hamilton in all its deals. It is stated that Mr. W. J. Reid severely overhauled Mr. Robertson for a letter received from St. Thomas claiming that crooked work was going on between London and Hamilton, and that Mr. Reid was also called to time in the course of his speech.

The decisions were interesting. Hamilton's absurd claim of a postponed game which St. Thomas refused to play the day following Labor Day, was, of course, thrown out. It was on this occasion that the Hamilton players, knowing that the St. Thomas team had left for home the previous night, took their positions at Dundurn Park, and Mr. Davey, of Hamilton, acting as umpire for his first and last time, awarded them the game. This farce was considered in the balance as an offset to the decision against St. Thomas as to the game given them by Umpire Lyndon on Sept. 17, because the Hamilton players were not on the grounds. Umpire Lyndon is a protege of President Davis, and it seems strange that he would go out of his way to go against Hamilton. Ha must way to go against Hamilton. He must have had an idea the Hamilton men were not attending strictly to the rules of the club. The part that London played last Saturday was the feature of the meeting, however. It was shown that when the Londons left for Hamilton time the gerater part of the previous night. Three games to be played in a little over four hours was a big con-tract, and the action of the Londons in allowing themselves to be made tools of by Hamilton rankles with their best friends. The guarantee money second game must be nine innings, in order to count. In consequence the meeting threw it out, but counted the third game which was also only six innings. It is therefore on the strength the league of the suspension of D. J. Lowney for desertion. Mr. Robertson, of St. Thomas, will appeal from the decision of the board of directors to Nick Young, sending to him a full statement of the transactions of the wind-up. Many have spoken with reasonable doubt as to whether the action of the board will be upheld, and if Mr. Young decides contrary to the board it will jeopardize the chances for a Canadian league hereafter. It has been given out that the St. Thomas management, owing to the actions of Hamilton and London, under no circumstances will join such a league that that of 1898 next season, and it is also understood that Hamilton and London are anxious to have St. Thomas out of the league. LOHMAN SIGNED HIS CONTRACT. In accordance with the announce-ment made exclusively by The Ad-vertiser of Wednesday, arrangements were completed yesterday whereby Pete Lohman signed an agreement to assume control of the London club (if any is formed) for the season of 1899. The slight information caused many to speak in great glee over this settlement of part of next season's affairs.

When Lohman joined the Londons, his careful, judicious work in the field stamped him as a man capable of managing a ball team with good judgment. His career previous to coming to London has been a most favorable one. In several places he has acted as manager and captain, and the clubs he has managed have always been successful. His work here this season was tha best that any catcher has done in recent years. Always a strong favorite, he has never allowed the popularity to turn his head, but pursued a course of steady, strong and efficient playing. It was suggest-His career previous to coming

Her Remains Fully Indentified-Arrest of the Supposed Murderer.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 22.—Chief of Police Birmingham said today: "There is no reason to doubt any further that the mystery of the Yellow Pond has been solved. The victim was, beyond the shadow of a doubt Emma Gill, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gill, of Southington. Her mother we expect will be here today to see the head and strengthen the identification. So will the dentist who looked after the girl's teeth. Outside of this, however, the identification is complete." Walter C. H. Foster has been arrested for complicity in the girl's death. Miss Gill was 24 years old, and had been employed as a domestic in the family of James H. Pratt, of Southington. Her brother, who identified the remains, told how his sister started on a vacation, which she said was to be of two weeks, and was to be spent, according to her story, at Lighthouse Point, New Haven. At the end of the two weeks she returned home, but announced to Mr. Pratt that she was ill and unable to work, and was going away again, but wanted him to save her place. To her parents she stated that her suitor, Walter Foster, of Hartford, had a sister living in Stratford, and that he had invited her to go there and spend a week with them. Mr. Gill stated that two letters were received from his sister while she was away, and the first one stated that she was not feeling well, and could not return as soon as expected. letters that the parents sent to their daughter were answered, but the third one, with directions on the outside to the postmaster to return within three days if not called for, was returned unopened. It has also been learned from the postmaster that a letter addressed to Miss Emma Gill has been in the office uncalled for for more than a

He may have known something about it, but not enough upon which we can hold him for anything. This day will probably see the end of the mystery. As to Foster, I have no doubt in the world but that he knows all about the manner in which the girl came to her death. I think I can safely say that we can secure the person who cut up the body any time we want to make the arrest. Whether or not it is a man or woman, I decline to say at this

Judge Mackey, Who Left London on Sept. 2, Locked Up at Philadelphia.

A letter has been received by The Advertiser from the Windsor Hotel, Philadelphia, from Mrs. Judge Mackey, the handsome young lady who came to London with an aged husband, an alleged bigamist, and caused somewhat of a sensation. She requested that an Advertiser of Sept. 3, which contained an interview with the couple, be mailed to her.

The following dispatch was received this morning from Philadelphia:
"Thomas J. Mackey, who is said to be an ex-judge of the circuit court of South Carolina, was arrested in this city today on the charge of bigamy.
According to Mackey's story he is the victim of persecution. He has nearly, reached the four-score mark, and the woman whom he claims to be his legal wife is but 25 years of age. Her name was Bertha Porterfield, and until her marriage with the judge she lived with tion trial, but those who are financially her parents, who are said to be prominterested in the petition are strenuousher parents, who are said to be prom-inent people at Charleston, W. Va. For time he pacified fears of by declaring that he would have the first marriage annuled, as it had never been legal. But the status of affairs toon reached the ears of the girl's parents, and a warrant was at once issued for Mackey's arrest. He was arraigned before Magistrate Jermon yesterday, but the hearing was post-poned until further investigation."

A WOMAN'S HEART

Will Find Delight in a Visit to This Hall of Enchantment.

It was a spacious, well-lighted room on the second floor. Beautiful palms were disposed gracefully here and there, heightening the air of tasteful elegance produced by the richly up-holstered, reposeful-looking chairs and sofas which occupied convenient nooks and corners. On the walls were immense plate-glass mirrors, multiplying the great assembly of beautiful shapes and colors which filled the room. The quiet observer was dazzled at first, and sank into one of the inviting chairs to collect his powers of observation. He began to realize that all these rich velvets, shimmering satins, silvery gleaming breasts of birds, luminous ospreys, gorgeous wings, and gracefully sweeping plumes represented so many distinct and beautiful shapes of feminine head gear. What first attracted his attention was a large black hat, with flaring front, ruffled edging, prettily draped velvet crown, trimmed with a profusion of genuine French ostrich tips, and ornamented with brilliant buckles and sequins. Mr. Bayley said it was a Parisian importation, and the quiet observer felt that his taste had been commended. Then there was a large cerise velvet hat, with a crown of embroidered hatting silk, and large aigrettes of very fine fibred osprey. It had a wide front, and would be worn well off the face.

There was an endless variety of smart little sailors, in all colors. The Dewey, the Oregon and the Knox seemed to have the call. And there was a whole table full of toques, prettily draped and smartly and effectively trimmed with wings.

The young lady from Buffalo, who has charge of this fairy land, said every hat in the place had been made and trimmed with a view to becomingness, and every style of face had been considered. Quite as much attention seems to have been given to hats for the young-sters as to those of their fashionable mothers. The prevailing fall millinery colors seem to be black and white, but mili-

quite a vogue. All these things, and many more, you may see for yourself at Bayley's millinery opening, 172 Dundas street.

McCADDEN-WRIGHT. A very pretty event took place on Tuesday morning, Sept. 20, at 165 Albert street, this city, it being the mar-riage of Miss Janet Wright, of this city, to Mr. James A. McCadden, of Dundas, Minnesota. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Dann, of St. Paul's Cathedral. The bride looked charming in her traveling dress of green lady's cloth, trimmed with green velvet and white satin. The bridesmaids were Miss Maggie Brown, of this city, and Miss Hattie Campbell, of Cornwall, Ont. The groomsman was Mr. Charles H. Major, of this city, the bride being given away by Mr. Hilbourne. The bridal party and friends partook of an elegant breakfast, at which happy speeches were made by Rev. Canon Dann and others, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held. After the repast the bridal couple drove to the G. T. R. to take the 11:40 train for their home in Dundas, Minn., via Ionia, Mich., amid the many congratulations and hearty good wishes of their friends for their future happiness. The presents were valuable and numerous.

On Monday next the London fall assizes will open at the court house before Chief Justice Sir William Ralph Meredith. The criminal docket has been materially reduced, as four of the prisoners who elected trial by jury have reconsidered their pleas, and will be tried by the county court judges.

The Emerson manslaughter case will be one of interest.

Louis F. Heyd, of Toronto, will conduct the cases for the crown.

Actions have been entered against the London Street Railway Company to the extent of $38,000. Of this amount $25,000 is claimed by Miss Dawson, but owing to circumstances this case will

THE CRIMINAL DOCKET. Queen vs. W. Emerson-Manslaughter. This will be an interesting case, and the facts connected with it are well known to Advertiser readers. On April 1, W. H. Emerson shot and killed James Tuttle at the Music Hall, where the two are alleged to have had an altercation over the wages of the people playing with the Wesley Stock Com-pany, of which defendant was a member. Emerson was arrested on the charge of murder, but on the finding of the coroner's jury, "that Emerson fired the fatal shot while acting in self-defense, and while under great provocation, and in a passion," the crown modified the charge, making it manslaughter. Emerson was to have gone for trial before the county judge, but a conflict of statutes caused him to be kept in jail until this assize court. Ed Flock and E. F. B. WOMEN NOT ADMITTED Conference today overwhelmingly voted down a motion to put women on an equal footing with men in the councils of the church.

It is not generally known that a former citizen of Owensboro, Ky., brought across the ocean the first old. phant that was ever in America. The name of the gentleman was Moses Smith. Mr. Smith was in Paris with his brother, and had "more money than he knew what to do with." He told his brother that he intended taking something to America that the people had never seen. "You had better buy an elephant," said the jocular brother and that was what Mercular brother, and that was what Moses did. He picked out the biggest animal he could find, and paid an enormous

He brought it to New York, where it was a nine days' wonder, but the owner soon found that he had something worse than the proverbial white elephant on his hands. He tried to sell it, but could find no buyer, and at last undertook to give it away, in which he was equally unsuccessful. Finally he found a man who agreed estate of the London street railway, to pay him $100 for it, and this in-dividual put it on exhibition. He was so successful that he went into the show business on a larger scale, and made a fortune out of Mr. Smith's folly.

Rich and Rare Attractions for London's Pretty Women.

When the ladies of London want to form an accurate opinion of Dame Fashion's caprices in millinery matters for an approaching season, they attend the "opening" at Messrs. Smallman & Ingram's. They have long since learned that in no other way can they become so quickly and so well posted as to the colors and shapes just entering upon a new reign-the popular fancles of Paris and New York. It was not strange, therefore, that the spacious show rooms on the second floor of Smallman & Ingram's establishment were crowded continually yesterday, the opening day. It must be a general desire among the ladies of London to feel Fashion's pulse, for they came in great numbers, and taxed the energies of the large staff of assistants to show the new goods. The show room, by the way, has been changed recently, so as to increase the space for the accommodation of visi-tors. The light is perfect, and there is lots of display. A striking feature is a large case devoted to the display of the new military blues. They are so beautiful that it is not surprising blue has a decided inning this fall. The arrangement of the general display speaks volumes for the taste and artistic ability of those who had the matter in hand.

Many of the hats shown deserve special mention, but space will not permit more than a brief description of one or two. One is a large picture hat made of military blue velvet with edging of sequin, soft crown, faced with white satin, caught with Rhinestone buckles and pearls; darts trimmed with five large black Prince of Wales tips and soft rosettes. Another beauty is the Nilssohn hat, of brown mirror velvet, with accordion white taffeta silk and full crown, draped high at the back, caught with large steel buckles, trimmed with pheasants' breast feathers and polka-dot ospreys, crushed bows of velvet faced with white silk and a steel dart.

A large case of mourning goods attracts much attention, and includes some very fine turbans. The immense stock of mantles which occupies all the front of the second floor was also a source of delight to the visitors. A leading style is one made of the best black beaver, lined with heavy twill silk, having a large storm collar, new reveres and fly front. The collar, sleeves, front and back, are handsomely trimmed with the best black silk braid. This style is sold at only $25. There is also a complete stock of children's mantles, silk and satin waists, and ladies' walking skirts. The ladies should not fail, also, to call on Miss Kennedy, who will be in this department of the store days, to demonstrate the advantages of the "Artist Model" corset over every other.

NOT LOVED,

"Why this secrecy, my love? Why, you tell me I musn't even let your hame be known here. It all seems so very, very strange. Can't you trust me?"

There was a moisture in the bright, dark eyes, and a sadness in the soft, treble voice. Maria was touched, and could no resist the appeal.

"Trust you," she exclaimed, "why should I not? Dear Miss Pyefinch, L hesitated from no mistrust, only because my secret is scarcely my It concerns others; but I know I may confide in you."

"You may, my dear." So Maria, glad on her side, to un-burden herself, told her tale. When she concluded, Miss Pyefinch, rising, clasped her hands in hers.

"My love!" she ejeculated, "whatever Lord Carisford may be, I know not, but of this I am certain-had he married you it would have been no mesalliance. A man is exalted, not lowered, by wedding a brave, high-souled roman, though she be poor. Heaven bless you, my dear."

"Ah. Miss Pyefinch, your opinion would not be the world's," laughed.

"The world's." with an irate thrust upward of the cap. "Then the world is as far from common-sense as some people's Christianity is from the pure, charitable precepts of its founder. We all want to go to heaven, I suppose? We all regard it as sospel truth that there is 'no marriage or giving in marriage; that God is no respector of persons.' Yet in this atom in space, we set up an idol called Caste, and all down and worship it."

Miss Pyefinch was quite in a frenzy of pecks, during which her cap underwent many changes of position. "My dear Miss Pyefinch, for shame, you are a Radical, a Communist," laughed Maria. My dear child, I am no such thing. Liberty, equality, fraternity! It's all nonsense, because it's impossible, un-less you cast every man's intellect in the same mold, and a pretty lively world it would be then. No: divide the world between Tom and Harry today, and before the year's out Harry would have the lot, and Tom be working for him as usual. I say let the real barrier be between education and ance-the innate gentleman and the innate brute; for, my love, they are to be found in all classes. But as I can't alter the world, it must remain in its darkness. So tell me this," and tak-ing Maria's hands in hers, she regard-"There ed her kindly: thing that can make nobler the course you have taken. This Lord Carisford Child, do you love him?" A moment Maria was silent; her lips trembled; she bowed her head on the good-natured little woman's shoulder, and burst into tears. "Oh! dear Miss Pyefinch, with my whole soul," she exclaimed, "Why should I hide it from one who I know will give me her friendliest sympathy. When I saw Lord Cecil I felt I beheld my fate. I can never love another; I can love but him."

"I guessed as much. I repeat, my brave girl," said Miss Pyefinch, clasping Maria affectionately "Heaven bless and reward you." Maria affectionately to her. after all, I know not whether it isn't, on the whole, happier in the long run to be worthy golden opinions than to possess golden joys."

The ice once broken, Maria and her friend talked long over the affair; then half-past ten striking the Italian prepared to start to try her fortune in Chester Square.

What was she to She must leave it to chance, for already the door had opened, and a stately footman was superciliously waiting her to state her business, while he reflected: "If this's hanother lady's maid, I pass my word she'll do."

Maria having shown James' supposition was correct, that gentleman, bending from his stately dignity to an affable condescension, encouragingly remarked as he conducted her across hall and upstairs to the boudoir: "You are the sixth a'ready. don't think, miss, none of 'em sooted Humphi nervous or huppish?" he added, sotto voce, when his companion only slightly inclined her head.

As they had traversed the hall, Mahearing a door open, had perceived emerging from it an exceedingly pleasant-looking young man, with a pleasant-looking young man, with a men throughout the political atmos-

"By Jove! who is that?" inquired the young man of the young lady, who was hiding her face to conceal her laughter. "Who? Oh, Hector, if Honoria had seen you bowing thus, as to a duchs!" and she cleverly mimiced him.

"Well, Cassie, why shouldn't I?"

'And I believe that, too," said Hector, mimicking his sister, who had darted upstairs. "That woman a lady's maid!" he added, leaving the house. "What superb eyes! I wonder if mother will engage her." Meanwhile Maria had been ushered into the presence of Mrs. Mannering and Honoria, the former of whom was a little awed, the latter mightly impressed, by the Italian's appearance. Such a lady's maid must give style to her employers. Consequently Maria's statement of her capabilities was exceedingly well received, especially the names of the high families where she had been employed.

Mrs. Mannering tried to look as if titles were "household words," but she began to feel a little frightened. Maria seemed so grand, and such a lady. But Honoria had already decided; and when that was so, the affair was finished. The titles had determined her, while the climax was reached on hearing Maria was an Italian.

After a hurried whispered conversa-Mrs. Mannering, smoothing her dressing-gown with her jeweled hands,

"Should I," smiled Hector, yet coloring slightly. "Now, pussy, it's my turn. If mamma heard you! Does Miss Langdon make you her confidente, pray?"

"True, my love. P'r'aps, signora, the letters will be enough."

They were duly examined. As the mother and daughter read their eyes wandered furtively to the stamped coronet and the crest. Fruth must lurk therein; the words of their owners could not possibly be doubted; so the matter, to Maria's secret relief, was settled without any reference to Lucille, and she departed promising to return in a few hours.

"They seem very good people," she said, in answer to a query from Miss Pyefinch. "I like the mother, and one thing much contents me; I do not think it probable I shall encounter in their circle any of Lady Westbrook's

Left alone, Maria turned down the lamp, and, taking her old position on the rug before the fire, fell into revetie. Her thoughts fled back to Lucille. She could not help comparing her present engagement with her last, until her lashes were heavy with tears that did not fall, when she was startled by a pleasant voice addressing her:

"Pardon my intruding upon your solitude, signora," it said; "but I imagined you might feel lonely here the first night." Maria looked up, beheld a tall, gentle, graceful woman smilingly gazing down

Woman Suffrage in South Africa The fact that women are entitled to vote is now viewed with general satisfaction in South Australia, and no one would advocate a return to the old system. Former opponents, you will often find, eventually become your warmest supporters. Once overcome this vis inertiae of existing conditions, and those who were once hostile will come forward to congratulate you, and will even, in some cases, declare that they have all along been quietly on your side. What as to the result of the emancipation of women? The influence of women has, we have found, quietly pervaded the realm of politics. All the great forces of nature are gentle in their operation. The change that has taken place is a very great one; it is nothing less than doubling the power of the franchise; yet this peaceful revolution has been effected withommon sense and good judgmen of the women have influenced the opinion of their husbands as often as the other way. But, as a rule, thusbands and wives vote together. But, as a rule, the

One result of the women's vote has been greater attention to social, sanitary, domestic and industrial legislation. We have observed that the cause of temperance has received an accession of strength, for women are naturally anxious that as few snares as possible should be set for the feet those who are near and dear to them. Anything that affects the general health of the community now receives great attention. The influence women in politics has thus been in the direction of moral and physical soundness for the whole people. A greater stress has also been laid on questions of inheritance; for our laws in this respect are not yet quite fair to women. Industrial questions, such as factory legislation, have received increased attention. Nothing sudden phere.-Woman's Journal.

Table Decorations.

Table centers are no longer the newest things, certainly, but they are still much used, and are made of all kinds of materials. The soft cream silk, fluffed into billows, edged and crossed with trails of smilax, with sprays of roses, either all of one color-though varying in shade—or harmonizing in tint, laid on it, would 'ook exquisite with the silver lamps, especially if you had a rather high basket filled with roses loosely arranged as if falling out of it, a trail being wreathed around the handle, and kept in place with a deftly tied bow of satin ribbon for the center piece. Decorations appear to vary now between extreme height and extreme lowness, so that guests may eithersee each other uninterruptedly over or under the decorations. The epergne, if a really handsome one, might very well be used if artistically decorated either with fruit or trails of roses and smilax. The fact is, there is not any very definite fashion in table decorations just now, but everyone uses what seems best and most artistic in their own eyes and most convenient for

How Best to Cook Sweet Potatoes.

With sweet potatoes now approaching their season of perfection, at least in our northern markets, a word as to their cooking is timely. Only southern cooks apparently can bring out the real flavor of these eubers, as those who have eaten them in the south can testify. A baked sweet potato, after it has left the supervision of an old plantation cook, is a thing to remember. Its heart, tender and mealy, er ased in a crisp brown shell, from i lich oozes the "candy," as the sch sweet cry-stallized juice is called, makes as toothsome a morsel as is often partaken of. Another way, and this is the southern style of the cook books, serves them in a sort of stew. The Boston cooking school gives the following as the procedure in such preparation: Into a large flat-bottomed saucepan or cooking pot, put two tablespoonfuls of butter and one of sugar. When hot lay in enough raw sweet potatoes (pared, cut in two lengthwise, and seasoned with salt and pepper), to closely cover the bottom, and another layer, not close, on the top. Pour on enough water to half cover the lower layer, cover the vessel tightly, and place where the heat gentle, that the cooking may be slow. When the lower tayers are brown change them to the top, letting the others brown. By the time both are done, the water will have evaporated, leaving a very little butter sauce to pour over the potatoes in serving.

Ringlets Can Be Had by Giving Proper Attention.

Hairdressing has become such an art that women use it to emphasize their 'good points." A clever woman knows that a pompadour arrangement of the hair will emphasize her Roman nose, so unless he is in a severe mood, she does not dress her hair a la pompadour, but actually parts it softly from her face, and gathers it loosely and gracefully at the crown of her head. The woman with a little "pug" nose and round chin parts her front hair in the middle, bringing it down over the ears, with the slightest wave, and coils it in the nap of her neck in a out the slightest disturbance. As a most bewitching manner. No matter rule, families vote together. Not that the women vote under the dictation be naturally straight she does not pin of the men of the family. I think that it in two little curls that are so much in vogue now. The young woman with a saucy nose is observant, and has studied these little curls pinned in the coiffures of straight-haired women, sitting in front of her in the trolley cars. If her hair happens to be the least bit wavy she can pin in the two little curls, or, better still, curls the ends of her own front hair and be happy. There is really nothing that so pre-disposes a woman to contentment as the knowledge that her hair is dressed becomingly. When she knows that her forehead is well developed, or well formed, she will always comb her hair softly back from her face, and either arrange it in soft coils on the top of her head or just below the crown. This arrangement is the sweetest and most natural way.

The first case before Judge Rose of the Waterloo assizes Wednesday was that of Gross vs. Brodrecht. The plaintiff is a maiden lady, Miss Gross, of New Hamburg, who claims $1,000 damages for an alleged assault in 1896 by Henry Brodrecht of the same town. This case has been on the go for three years. At the last trial a verdict was brought in favor of the plaintiff, which was appealed against and a new trial ordered. The result today is the reverse, the jury bringing in a verdict favorable to the defense, setting aside the action with costs. Wenger vs. Umbaih, an action for trespass. Judgment for plaintiff.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

LOCAL BUDGET HE'D KILL THEM ALL

That Was Arthur Castle's Threat Against the Family of John Williams.

A startling act in life's drama was played on the homestead of John Williams, con. 10, London township, yesterday, in which Arthur Castle, a farm laborer, aged 22, took the role of heavy villain and Detective Ward that of rescuer. Several months ago Castle was engaged by Mr. Williams, and for a time worked well. For the past few weeks, however, Castle's conduct has caused Mr. Williams and his wife many misgivings. On several occasions he threatened, as he said, "to do up the whole Williams breed, seed and generation," but the climax was reached yesterday when Castle threatened to kill each member of the family.

Detective Ward was summoned, and arrested Castle. When they reached the city, Castle did considerable shouting. He told Detective Ward, that in Old London, his home, nobody thought anything of killing a man and burying him under the flagstones. He is bent upon shooting Williams. Squire Lacey believes Castle is insane, and remanded him until Saturday.

Sheriff Demorest secured information which led him to believe that Smith, who is a telegraph operator and station agent, was the man wanted, and followed him here. Smith is 24 years of age, and came here with his wife on Saturday last and registered at the Grigg House. She is heart-broken over the affair. Smith pleaded ignorance of the whole affair, and consented to return to Michigan without extradition proceedings. They went west on the afternoon train. Smith, for some time previous to his marriage, had been out of employment.

Fits One for Work.

A trial of a good article establishes its goodness. With a poor article the reverse is the case. The Canadian Pharmaceutical Journal has this to say of Abbey's Effervescent Salt: "We have tried Abbey's Effervescent Salt, and find it an excellent compound. It was most favorably commented upon by the medical profession at the recent meeting in Montreal of the British Medical Association. The company was not afraid of submitting it to the criticism of medical men. All were invited to sample and pass judgment on it. This was invariably favorable, some expressing the opinion that it was superior in point to any other on the market. A morning draught of this stimulating preparation will send a man to his daily occupation invigorated and ready for any task."

The daily use of Abbey's Effervescent Salt will keep you in good health.

LONDON LEADS IN EDUCATION

Her Kindergartens Are the Finest on the Continent.

Eight Thousand Pupils in the Schools -Children of Mechanics and Farmers Are in the Majority in the Collegiate.

In the search for causes for the easy triumph of American arms on land and sea over the armies and fleets of Spain, no reason has been advanced more prominently than the great superiority of the American soldiers and sailors in point of intelligence and education. This probably did not apply to the officers, but was strikingly true of the rank and file. And so it came that the nation of traditional fighters was beaten down like straw before the nation of traders. The hope and glory of a nation have been their roots in the public schools. What is true of nations is true of cites, and the demonstrated fact that London's school system is unequaled anywhere else on the continent may, therefore, well be cause for gratification and pride. Nowher : else in Canada or the United States has he kindergarten been brought to such perfection. Many of the largest American cities are a whole decade behind London in this respect. The London Collegiate Institute, too, is easily the best in equipment and scholarship in the Dominion. Those who fear that the Collegiate Institute 1. T. Lashbrook; 2, H. Wooster; 3, G. Gardiner; 4, R. Flynn; 5, J. Alston.

learned professions, 99. The total number of pupils in the kindergarten and public schools and the Collegiate Institute during the year 1897 was 7,990. With a normal rate of increase, the enrollment for 1898 will considerably exceed 8,000. Last year's figures were divided as follows: Kindergartens 1,139. public schools 5,836, Collegiate Institute 1,015. In the Collegiate there were 64 more boys than girls, and in the public schools £24 more bove than girls. The value of the school property in the city is placed at $291,500. There are 103 public school teachers, 33 kindergarten directors and assistants, and 22 Collegiate Institute teachers. In teachers' salaries, the city spends $81.471 21 a year. Other items swell the total annual expenditure to over $100,000 a year, the figures last year being $108,178 46.

AMUSEMENTS

"A BACHELOR'S HONEYMOON." The huge laughing success "A Bachelor's Honeymoon," will appear in this city on Thursday, Oct. 6. A company of metropolitan artists will be constituted in this cast. This is a sterling comedy, replete with laughs successive. It enjoyed many week's at Hoyt's Theater, New York, beginning last September. Afterward it was presented in many of the metropolitan cities which covered a season of 28 weeks. This year it buds out afresh with some of the old favorites in the company, many of whom are well known in the theatrical mart as being thoroughly in sympathy with the capabilities as artists. It can be assured that an excellent performance will be given, as the names here evidence that fact. The leading and most conspicuous members are Mr. George F. Nash, who is a young actor of excellent methods, he having been prominent as leading man with Joseph Jefferson, Rokand Reed, Miss Olga Nethersole and the late Frank Mayo. His famous performance of Mr. Paul in "Chimmey Fadden," (known universally as Small Bottles) a light comedy creation which embodied many touches of very strong comedy, is well known. The character in which he will be seen here is a leading comedy part, known as Mr. Benjamin Bachelor, in which he achieved distinguished renown last season in the considerable cities. Another important member of the cast is Mr. William Winter Jefferson, youngest son of Mr. Joseph Jefferson, who will play Howston, in which he figured prominently last season. The leading comedy woman is Vella McLeod, of London. A very strong character role will be enacted by Mr. Geoffrey Stein. Mr. Ludwig Schwartz is the character, a German. Mr. Stein is known as a "man of many nationalities," for his previous good work in the companies of Miss Marie Wainwright and Mr. Augustus Pitou. The other important members are combined in the names of Mr. T. J. Hartman, Miss Jessie Burnett, Miss Irma La Pier, R. M. Thomas and others of prominence.

Twenty Spanish vessels at Manila, including 12 steamers, have completed their transfer to the American flag, and a majority of them have proceeded on coasting voyages.
