LONDON BOY WAS DROWNED
IN NORTH BRANCH OF THAMESWill Davis, of 555 Central Ave., Swept Away
By Current.TWO BROTHERS
SAW HIM DROWNBut Were Unable To Save Him
—An Attempt at Rescue By Another Lad Failed.

Willie Davis, the 14-year-old son of Mr. Harry Davis, a C. P. R. engineer, of 555 Central avenue, was drowned while paddling in the north branch of the Thames, near Adelaide street bridge yesterday afternoon.

After dinner the little fellow, with several companions, started out for the north branch to bathe. They played around for a while, chasing frogs and paddling in the water.

After the heavy rains of the past few days the river was high and the current swift, but the boys had paddled around in the shallow parts.

Carried Away by Current.

Willie was in the water and had gone in several feet, when his younger brother Fred called to him to swim. He became excited and tripped.

The current carried him down, and although he made desperate efforts to save himself, he was swept into deep water.

His two brothers, Louis and Fred, and another young lad, Leonard Bridge, of St. James street, were with him at the time of the accident.

They cried for help repeatedly before a farmer named Henry, who was working across the river, heard them. He ran up with his son, about fourteen years of age.

Attempt at Rescue.

The boy is a good swimmer, and jumping in, swam across the river, but the strong current held him back, and before he reached the point where the Davis lad was last seen, he had disappeared.

The water was very muddy and young Henry was unable to see under the surface. He, therefore, returned home, while one of the other boys telephoned to High Constable Hughes from the residence of Mr. Henderson.

The constable was quickly on the scene, but it was impossible to do anything until a boat or grappling irons could be procured.

Mother Hears the News.

When The Advertiser reporter reached the little fellow's home, his mother was seated on the veranda unconscious of the drowning of her eldest son.

Several boys were playing baseball on the corner and when told of the accident spoke with the deepest regret of the death of the playmate.

One little fellow, Thomas Patterson, who has been his chum for years, cried bitterly.

Mrs. Davis guessed that something had happened, and running in told her mother-in-law, Mrs. S. Davis, that she was sure something had happened to one of the boys.

The elder lady was then informed by The Advertiser that the boy was drowned.

Mr. Harry Davis, the lad's father, was sleeping at the time, he being a railroader. He speedily dressed and started for the scene of the drowning.

Drove to the Scene.

Realizing the distance he came back and procured a horse and buggy from McGuffin's coal yard.

Mr. McGuffin drove the grief-stricken father to where the accident occurred, about three city blocks west of the Adelaide street bridge.

The body was recovered about 6:30 p.m. by Mr. Wm. J. Worrall, of 812 Colborne street, who touched against it while swimming around.

It was in an upright position, and was submerged in several feet of water.

Mr. Davis managed to keep up until he had left his wife, but while he was waiting for the horse to be harnessed, he wept like a child.

Brother's Story.

Louis and Fred, the two little brothers, did not return home at once, fearing to break the news to their mother.

They said that Willie Davis was walking out into the current, and that when he noticed that it was taking him off his feet, he called to those on shore to come and save him. They could do nothing, however, and he was carried away and drowned.

Willie Davis was a great favorite with all the boys, and they all spoke very highly of him.

A Narrow Escape.

According to the story of Leonard Bridge, Fred Davis had a very narrow escape from a similar fate at the same spot a few days ago.

He was bathing in the water and

MR. GEORGE F. DRISCOLL,
Who Has Been Appointed Manager of Bennett's Theatre.

Mr. Geo. Driscoll Is Coming Back
Will Manage Bennett's in London

The Popular Manager Will Take Charge of Theatre Here in September.

It was announced today that Mr. George F. Driscoll, who last year managed Bennett's Vaudeville Theatre in Hamilton, will next season assume charge of Bennett's in this city.

Mr. Driscoll was in London for several months two years ago, and he was placed at the head of the different picture theatres controlled by the Bennett people.

When the vaudeville war opened in Hamilton, Mr. Driscoll was at once chosen to lead the Bennett forces, and that he did his work well even his opponents will admit.

Now that the vaudeville situation in Hamilton has been cleared up, and that by arrangement, Mr. John Applton, of the Savoy Theatre, is to manage both the Savoy and Bennett's, Mr. Driscoll has been asked by the syndicate to assume the management of the London theatre, and he will shortly take up his residence in this city.

Mr. Driscoll is one of the most popular theatrical men who ever made the acquaintance of Londoners. He is an Ottawa boy, but has spent much of his life across the line.

The house opens for the season the first week in September.

PRESENTATION TO WM. BOWMAN

AGED CHURCHMAN HONORED

Members of Dundas Street Centre Methodist Church Trustee Board

Give Him an Address—Long Life of Good Deeds Is Not Forgotten—The Address.

Yesterday afternoon a deputation from the Dundas Street Centre Methodist Church trustee board waited upon Mr. William Bowman, the veteran churchman, in his summer home at Port Stanley, and on behalf of the congregation, and as a token of the esteem in which Mr. Bowman is held for the work he has performed for Methodism in London, presented him with an address.

It was read by Mr. Beal, and was presented by Mr. D. A. McDermid.

Later, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Lancelley, made a feeling reference to the life-long good works of Mr. Bowman, eulogizing his many good qualities and unselfish labors in the cause of Christianity.

Mr. Bowman made a brief reply in which he heartily thanked one and all for their expressions of goodwill and modesty, referring to his labors in the past as merely his duty.

Light refreshments were then served by the ladies of the house.

The Address.

"Dear Mr. Bowman—Your associates upon the trustee board of Dundas Street Centre Church are taking advantage of this opportunity of showing their esteem for you, upon your passing the 88th milestone of your earthly pilgrimage.

"In asking you to accept our congratulations upon being the senior member of the Methodist fraternity, we are glad to remember that the growth of Methodism in this city has been interwoven very closely with the history of your own life.

"Coming to the city over half a century ago, it must be a source of great joy to you to mark the steady and wonderful progress of Methodism here, as it is a source of gratification to us to know that your energy and consecration have been dominant factors in bringing about that progress, as class leader, local preacher and Sunday school superintendent, and always with a strong force in temperance and all kindred moral reform movements, your labors of former days are yielding the blessed fruitage which is our heritage today.

"The days of our years are three score years and ten, and if by reason of strength they be four score years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow; but when those years are spent as yours have been, the ultimate is not labor and sorrow, but restfulness and joy. In the natural course of events we realize that you cannot be with us many more years; but while you are with us, we want you to know that you abide in our affection and regard.

"As you approach the western boundary of life's journey, and the pathway narrows till we come to the shore of the shoreless sea, may the glittering glory of the new day's dawning through its splendor over the less deep.

"We present you with this album, containing, as it does, the faces of your friends, both clerical and lay, with whom you have been associated, and your beloved church, with the prayer that when age and infirmity have put us back to mother earth, we shall see each other face to face in the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

"E. B. LANCELEY, Pastor,
"C. J. BEAL, Secretary-Treasurer."

Fourteen Die in a Bridge Collapse

Cologne, July 9.—The new bridge under construction over the Rhine at Cologne fell today, and a number of workmen engaged on the structure lost their lives. Up to noon fourteen bodies have been recovered, and nine men have been taken from the water seriously injured. It is impossible to tell now exactly how many were killed. The scaffolding supporting the powerful crane used in the erection of the central span of the bridge collapsed and carried with it several other spans. Many of the workmen who were thrown into the river are still underneath the scaffolding, and there is no hope for their lives. Immediately after the accident a number of boats put out for the scene and began the work of rescue. About a score of struggling men were quickly picked up.

J. B. McKillop Favorite for D.G.M.

Among the candidates being prominently mentioned for deputy grand master at the meeting of the grand lodge of Canada at Niagara Falls next Wednesday and Thursday, is Mr. J. B. McKillop, of this city, crown attorney of Middlesex County.

Mr. McKillop's friends are strongly advocating his candidacy, and he is said to have an excellent chance of winning the office if he will consent to become a candidate.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST FARMERS

Alleged They Tied Tin Cans to Neighbor's Horse's Tail.

Charged with having tied a boiler and an old oil can to a neighbor's horse recently, Messrs. Jabez Metcalfe and George Metcalfe, London Township farmers, were summoned to appear before Squire Chittick on Saturday next.

It appears from the statement of the plaintiff, Mr. James Morris, that his horse had wandered into the defendants' field, and that they took the method described of getting rid of the animal.

In its mad flight the horse is alleged to have run into a barbed wire fence, which, although it gave way, inflicted a number of severe, painful cuts upon the animal's body.

LONDONER CARRIED EDWARD
WHEN HE WAS LITTLE PRINCE

Pretty Story Told of Mr. William Bowman, the Veteran Railway Man—His Majesty Sends a Letter in Regard To the Matter.

An interesting story of Mr. William Bowman, who was yesterday presented with an address by members of the congregation of Dundas Street Methodist Church, is told.

Mr. Bowman, as is well known, is a veteran railway man. In England on one occasion he had charge of the train upon which were riding the later Queen Victoria and her son, the Prince of Wales, now King.

The journey was being made from Windsor to Portsmouth, and at the latter place a special depot, which had been erected, was found to be too small for the private car of the royal party.

It was found necessary for the Queen to walk some distance from the coach to her carriage, and Mr. Bowman carried the prince in his arms.

The story was related to Rev. E. B. Lancelley, who became interested, and at once wrote to King Edward informing him that Mr. Bowman was still alive.

Within a short time a letter was received from his majesty's secretary, Knollys, stating that his majesty was deeply touched to hear of the incident, and requesting that the King's best wishes be conveyed to Mr. Bowman.

The latter is now in the latter's possession, and is greatly treasured.

Big Cut Made in the Military Bands

To Be Taken To the Tercentenary

Both Brass and Bugle Bands
Reduced—The Trip of the Seventh.

Col. Reid, of the Seventh Regiment, has been notified that regiments attending the tercentenary celebration in Quebec will not be allowed to take more than one bugler for each company. This means that instead of taking along its splendid bugle band, the Seventh will be compelled to get along with eight trumpeters, unless some way can be found out of the difficulty.

It may be that the men will be taken to Quebec, where they will be utilized as trumpeters.

The brass bands have also been reduced to less than 20, whereas London intended taking a band of not less than 40 pieces.

Strict orders have also been received that none but military men can occupy the berths or seats in the military trains, and at Quebec none but military men will be allowed within the lines.

It is understood that the Seventh will be placed in one of the parks of the city, in the heart of the business district, where they will be allowed to put up their tents and dig trenches to carry away the water.

The Seventh will go to Quebec about 300 strong.

They will leave via the C. P. R. at an early hour on Sunday morning, July 19, and will reach Quebec 22 hours later.

Returning, they will leave Quebec on Sunday morning, and will arrive home in time for work on Monday morning.

MR. DEARNESS' IMPRESSIONS OF BIG TEACHERS' CONVENTION

The National Association Meets at Cleveland—An Audience of Nearly Six Thousand Teachers Hears Discussion on

Ethical Improvements of the Schools.

Mr. John Dearness, vice-principal of the London Normal School, has just returned from the convention of the National Teachers' Association, held this year in Cleveland.

Mr. Dearness, who was asked by The Advertiser to give his impression of the big gathering, said that the local committee had provided accommodation for 75,000 visitors, but the actual enrollment fell much short of that number, the supposed causes of the shortage being general financial depression, and the refusal of the railways to attach membership coupons to the traveling tickets. The convention, even in point of numbers was a success. At the Wednesday afternoon meeting in the Hippodrome 5,500 were admitted by membership badges, and hundreds of others with badges were kept out by the fire-warden and police. Over 100,000 teachers and their friends attended the reception at Wade Park.

"How does such a large assembly manage to transact business?" he was asked.

"The association has a few general meetings, but it does its work proper in nineteen departments. These send their decisions to a large national council composed of representatives from every state in the union.

The discussions this year grouped around three problems: 1st, er from the dominance of the teaching; 2nd, the education and nationalizing of the immigrant child; 3rd, raising hand and heart, as well as head. Supt. Maxwell led the demand for the recognition of the individuality of the teacher. In many of the U. S. cities, teachers and pupils, too, are reduced to the rank of cogs in the wheels of a big machine, and the schools seem to exist for the sake of the organization rather than the organization for the schools.

"In the foreign quarters of some of the cities," Mr. Dearness added, "English has to be taught as a foreign language. Adult immigrants from Southern Europe contribute to the criminal class a smaller ratio to their total than the adult native born, but the immigrant youth just out of school is a much greater ratio than the native American. The liberty taught in the women—Sarah Louise Arnold, Jane Addams and Ella Flagg Young—dis-

BLUECOATS VS. BUTCHERS

Men Who Wield the Baton Can Easily Find the Ball.

The Butchers more than met their match at Springfield yesterday afternoon when they essayed to teach the policemen how to play ball. The bluecoats proved the victors by a score of 8 to 3.

Black and Pritchard acted as battery for the policemen while Edwards and Russell did the honors for the butchers.

Mr. Hotham made a very acceptable umpire.

TOOK ON SUPPLIES.

New Bedford, Mass., July 8.—Commander Pear's ship Roosevelt arrived in the harbor early this morning, and the dropped anchor off Clark's Point. She came to take on whale boats, whaling supplies, and a quantity of supplies for the medicine chest.

FIVE PEOPLE WERE INJURED
IN COLLISION ON THE G. T. R.COMMONS TALKS
ALL-RED ROUTE

Premier Laurier's Resolution
Brought Before the House.

Ottawa, July 10.—The Commons this morning took up the all-red route resolution of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, asking Parliament to endorse the project as formulated at the imperial conference last summer, and urging that prompt action be taken by the Governments of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand to agree upon a definite plan, said plan to be then submitted to imperial and colonial parliaments for ratification.

Sir Wilfrid, in introducing the resolution, did not go into the detailed advantages which would result to Canada from the proposed imperial fast service transportation line between Great Britain and the Orient. Public opinion on the project, as reflected in the press, and in expressions from the leading men of the country, had universally approved the scheme.

INLAND REVENUE MEN WILL GET INCREASE

And Have Asked To Be Placed Under Civil Service Commission.

Ottawa, July 9.—A deputation from the outside departments of the inland revenue this morning waited upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Mr. Templeman and asked for increased pay and to be placed under the civil service commission. Sir Wilfrid Laurier told the delegation that he recognized the justice of the demand for increased pay. In the absence of the Finance Minister and the Minister of Agriculture, he could make no definite statement, but thought the Government could be trusted to act fairly with it. There had been no provision for salary in the civil service bill, because there had not been time, but the question of salary revision was now being studied by the Government.

City Asked a Truce.

Hostilities in the Westby vs. the city of London suit re the West London breakwater, have been suspended for a few days. The city needed gravel so badly that it was compelled to ask a truce in order to get what it wanted for the city streets. It used to be said that there was nothing like gravel. Now the people of West London say there is nothing like gravel.

Yard Engine in the Way.

It is usual for a yard engine to wait on the second track until No. 22 pulls in, when it takes several of the cars off and places them on No. 2, the fast express for the east, which comes in at 4:25 from Port Huron.

The yard engine was waiting as usual, but it seems that the switchman, after opening the switch to let the yard engine in on the second track, forgot to throw it back.

No. 22 was coming in at a fair rate of speed, and as soon as Engineer Crouch got near the switch he saw it was open, and applied the air.

The train stopped very quickly, but not before it had struck the yard engine with sufficient force to damage the rear end of the cab and tear away the footboards.

The pilot was also torn off Engine 444.

Fireman Hurt.

Fireman Lackey, when he saw that a collision was going to occur, jumped and fell on his shoulder with such force that his collar bone was broken. Engineer Walton was uninjured.

Many of the passengers were standing up in their seats preparatory to leaving the train, and the sudden shock when the air was thrown on threw them against the seats.

No one was very seriously injured, although Fireman Lackey and Mrs. Fralick were taken at once to Victoria Hospital, where they were attended by Drs. Seaborne and Becher.

Mrs. Fralick suffered greatly from the shock and fainted shortly after leaving the train.

All the injured are doing well, and no serious results are anticipated.

Prisoners Abroad.

In one of the rear cars a party of nine prisoners from Windsor en route to the Central Prison, were chained together, and when the emergency brake was applied they were all thrown to the floor. None of them was injured.

The yard engine and the passenger engine were taken to the roundhouse, where they will be repaired.

THE INJURED.

Mrs. George Fralick, 468 Hill street, London, suffering from hysteria.

Mrs. Oppensider, Hanover, face bruised and suffering from shock.

F. F. Dewan, 374 York street, London, injuries about head.

Express No. 22, from Windsor, drawn by engine No. 444, in charge of Engineer Harry Crouch, of this city, crashed into yard engine, No. 30, in charge of Engineer Walton, at the switch just west of the Grand Trunk platform at Richmond street, yesterday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock, and injured those mentioned above, besides severely shaking up a number of other passengers on the express.

The accident was caused by switch being left open, and that more serious injury was done is to the prompt action of Engineer Crouch, who applied the emergency brakes immediately.

BEHIND WITH THE FEES

Toronto, July 8.—The names of 189 physicians have been stricken off the register of physicians by the Ontario Medical Council, which is in session this week at its building on University avenue.

These 189 physicians are three or more years behind with payments of the annual fee of $2. They decline on principle to pay the fee, holding that once they become fully qualified physicians they should not be compelled to part with an annual fee. It is stated that those whose names have been stricken off cannot legally collect fees for practice, nor give expert testimony in a court of law while their names are off the register. It is said that the registrar is acting according to Government legislation in striking off the names.

At this morning's session of the council a committee was promised to consider and report on the advisability of securing reciprocity between the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario and the general medical council of Great Britain and provided for in the medical act of 1907.

BOSTON HARBOR IS FIRE SWEEP

Quarter of a Mile Wiped Out at a Loss of Millions.

BRITISH SHIPS WERE BURNED

Three Warehouses, Four Piers, Loaded Cars and 30,000 Bushels of Grain Gone.

Boston, July 8.—Fanned by a brisk north wind, a fire believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, or a locomotive spark, swept nearly a quarter of a mile of the harbor front of East Boston today, causing a property loss estimated at nearly $1,500,000. Much of the loss falls upon the Boston and Albany Railroad. Two persons were reported missing, and it is thought that many perished in the flames. They are:

Daniel Sullivan, a watchman at the Cunard line pier.

Miss Sadie Arnold, a clerk employed by the Cunard line.

Today's fire was the most destructive that has occurred along the harbor front in many years. The flames spread with remarkable rapidity, and by the time the first fire fighting apparatus arrived the fire was beyond control and leaping from pier to pier.

Great Destruction.

Within half an hour after the first burst of flames was discovered four piers, three warehouses, a grain elevator containing 30,000 bushels of grain, and many loaded freight cars had been destroyed.

Several vessels and lighters narrowly escaped destruction. The big Leyland line steamer Devonian was moored at one of the piers which was destroyed, but the craft was warped out into the stream without sustaining any damage. Less fortunate were the British bark Belmont, of Yarmouth, N. S., The Belmont was moored by the pier where the fire started. By the time the vessel was moved to a place of safety her superstructure and rigging had been practically destroyed. The five-masted schooner Paul Palmer and the four-masted schooner O. H. Brown were considerably damaged.

The burned area includes piers 1, 2 and 6, of the Grand Junction docks, and the pier on which stood the big grain elevator, all owned by the Boston and Albany Railroad Company. The piers destroyed were each about 800 feet long, and from 200 to 300 feet wide. Pier 1, 2 and 6 were covered each by a large warehouse extending over the entire length and breadth of the pier. Between piers 2 and 6 was the wharve upon which the elevator stood.

THE INLAND FISHERIES

The International Commission Meets Today at Eastport, Me.

Washington, July 8.—On Thursday at Eastport, Me., there will be a meeting of the Canadian and American commissioners appointed to investigate conditions and report on a uniform code of statutes governing the inland fisheries between Canada and the United States.

This commission was appointed in conformity with a treaty between Great Britain and the United States ratified at the last session of the Senate, and its personnel is made up of S. T. Basterdo, the Canadian commissioner from Ottawa, and David Starr Jordan of California. Mr. Jordan will be assisted by two experts from the American Fisheries Bureau, B. W. Evermann and A. B. Alexander, while the Canadian commissioner also will have the assistance of experts.

From the Bay of Fundy to Cape Flattery, Washington, the commissioners will prosecute their work, investigating local conditions, listening to grievances and examining and reporting on the laws of both Canada and the United States governing the fishing industry.

QUEBEC'S SURPLUS OVER A MILLION

Treasurer Weil's Estimate of a Million Dollars Largely Exceeded.

Montreal, July 8.—Some time ago Hon. W. A. Weil, provincial treasurer, predicted a surplus of $1,000,000 for this year. The fiscal year ended June 30. After paying all ordinary and extraordinary expenditures for the past year, including items that are sometimes charged to capital account, and after paying $50,000 of $100,000 voted for the Quebec Tercentenary, the whole of which could legitimately have been held over to the following year, and after settling up a number of back obligations, which have been left in suspense from previous years, there still remains a sum of several thousands in excess of the round million, with some further collections yet to be made.

WANTS 1,500 MEN.

Ottawa, July 8.—The G. T. Pacific want 1,500 men to go on construction work west of Winnipeg. They are asking the Government if in case they cannot get them in Canada, they may go to the United States for help in contravention of the alien labor law.

OLYMPIC SHOOTING.

Blaisy, July 8.—Dull weather, with a threatening wind, threatened early this morning to interfere with the opening of the Olympic rifle shooting contests. By noon, however, the weather had improved, and some good scoring was recorded in the 300-metre team competition, and in the individual single and double shot matches, with running deer as a target.

BANNER CHEER FOR BILL BRYAN

Twelve Thousand in an Ovation Which Lasted One Hour and Twenty Minutes.

Denver, Colo., July 8.—The Democratic national convention is marking time, so far as the nomination of candidates and the adoption of a platform are concerned, and is passing through the stages of organization and the throes of frenzied demonstrations. Today has been marked chiefly by turbulent enthusiasm and the bitter strife of party leaders, the essential developments of the day being these:

Two sessions of the convention were held, the first at noon, producing a Bryan demonstration breaking all records in duration; the second at 8 o'clock, being the culmination of the struggle over the credentials of the Pennsylvania delegations and the supremacy of the Pennsylvania leader, Colonel Guffy, who has been denounced by Mr. Bryan. Outside of the convention, the committees have proceeded with the serious work of preparing the way for convention action. The credentials committee unseated eight of Colonel Guffy's anti-Bryan Pennsylvania delegates, thus reversing the complexion of the Pennsylvania delegation from anti-Bryan to Bryan, and precipitating the intense controversy which is being fought out before the night session of the convention.

Platform Making.
The platform is still in an incomplete condition, and will not be presented until tomorrow, but its essential features are agreed upon and little remains but the details of phrasing.

Exploded an Ovation.
The early meeting of the convention today was productive of little practical progress, as the principal committees were not ready to report. But it had the effect of exploding the long pent-up Bryan enthusiasm, which took the signal from Senator Gore's eloquent reference to the Nebraska leader, and burst into a whirlwind of enthusiasm lasting one hour and nineteen minutes with seven minutes more of the expiring echoes of clamor, establishing the convention record of an hour and twenty-six minutes, or full 39 minutes in excess of Roosevelt's demonstration at Chicago, which held the record until today. It was a decisive exhibition of the overwhelming strength of the Bryan column, and one of the most dramatic convention pictures ever presented, as the standards of the states were torn from their moorings, and borne through the hall until they stood together on the platform, like an army of banners, proclaiming their united allegiance to Bryan.

Amid the roar of Bryan demonstration the six standards of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Georgia, Minnesota and Connecticut stood rooted in their places, and rallying points of little groups unmoved by the frenzied scenes about them. Throughout the hour and nineteen minutes, the deafening uproar continued, ebbs and flows in enthusiasm. Women joined with the men in bearing down the Bryan standard, while the whole assemblage of 12,000 persons joined in the tumultuous demonstration.

The early session lasted three hours, men worn out with excitement, and lacking the material to proceed, the convention recessed until tonight.

C. P. R. BOAT WON EXCITING RACE

Steamer Assiniboia Defeated the Huronic in Race to Soo From Fort William.

Soo, Ont., July 8.—The result of the race between the Huronic of the Northern Navigation Company, and the Assiniboia of the C. P. R. fleet, was a victory for the Assiniboia, which arrived at the head of the locks at 5.25 this morning, about ten minutes earlier than the Huronic.

The trip down Lake Superior was a most exciting one. The Huronic was three minutes later than the C. P. R. boat in starting, leaving Fort William at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and soon caught up. Neither boat had any advantage until six o'clock, when the Assiniboia took the lead and held it right to the Soo. It is seldom that a race of 270 miles lasting over seventeen hours, results in such a close finish. This morning at the Government dock Commodore Anderson of the Assiniboia, was presented by Mayor Thompson on behalf of the citizens of the town, with a handsome chair. His worship also read an address to which Capt. Anderson responded suitably. The town band headed a procession of citizens to the dock, where, for a short time, high carnival was held.

The Water Problem.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

It is admitted on all hands that there is necessity for action in the matter of the water supply of the city. The vote just taken has shown rather conclusively that the citizens refuse to drink river water, and also that the ratepayers in general are not in favor of paying for a high pressure system, and hence the water to be raised by the favored few. I would be one of the favored few, myself, in case such a scheme carried, but as the total saving is expected to be greater than the total expense, I think it would only be fair that those who save should pay all the cost. The scheme recently defeated would doubtless have had a greater majority recorded against it if the voters had understood that the spring water from the north branch was coming to the city in the same pipe as the river water. I have never quite understood by what kind of magic it was intended that the citizens should be able to draw a glass of pure spring water for drinking, or a can-full of river water for the garden, out of the same tap.

It seems to me that the great need at present is to submit a scheme which the people will accept, and after the defeat of two complete but costly schemes, it seems that a spring water addition, of small cost, is the only thing that can be carried at present. The strength of the spring water sentiment of London hardly needs comment. In spite of the united efforts of three newspapers and advertisements privately paid for, it defeated the recent scheme because that it was not purely a spring water scheme, and the same sentiment almost carried the Komoka scheme, in spite of the united opposition of the forces mentioned above.

The commission has this year a cash surplus of something like ten or twenty thousand dollars. The Kilworth addition will necessitate an annual expense of about eight thousand dollars, and will provide at the least calculation 500,000 gallons. If past history repeats itself, the product of the Kilworth addition may run to the neighborhood of a million gallons. A half a million gallons when sold will yield a revenue of thirteen thousand dollars, so that if this scheme is offered to the people, one strong argument in its favor will be that the money is on hand to pay for it; another one will be that when it is used up we will have several thousands added to our annual net profits. These facts would strengthen the scheme in the eyes of the public, to such an extent that it would probably carry, and the present situation would to that extent be relieved. If the water yielded were found to be very much in excess of the amount estimated, it might not be necessary to take any further step for a few years. Perhaps the greatest argument in favor of the submission of a scheme whose cost is small is the recent defeat of two comprehensive, but expensive, schemes, either of which would have provided sufficient water for many years.

LONDON, THURSDAY, JULY 9.

CANADA, THE WHEAT-EXPORTING COUNTRY OF THE FUTURE.

United States wheat exports continue to show a marked decline. During the period 1897-1901, inclusive, exports of wheat from that country to Great Britain averaged 70,000,000 bushels per year, and flour shipments close on 10,000,000 barrels. During the succeeding five years the average wheat shipment dropped to 33,500,000 bushels, or over one-half, and the average flour shipments to 7,000,000 barrels. Last year the shipments to the United Kingdom were only 26,000,000 bushels and of flour 5,350,000 barrels. The reason given for this heavy decline is the increased domestic consumption. This is demonstrated by the following figures for five-year periods:

	Bushels.	Bushels.
Average crop.....	1897-1901.	1902-1906.
Domestic consumption.....	343,000,000	520,000,000
Surplus for export.....	197,000,000	140,000,000

It is further explained that in 1875 the United States, with a population of 44,000,000, consumed about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, and that with an increase of about 100 per cent in population there has come an increase of 160 per cent in consumption. Meanwhile, the country's wheat production has about kept pace with the increase of population.

Canada's position in this respect is different. Instead of a rapidly-diminishing surplus of wheat for export there is a steadily increasing surplus which goes hand in hand with an increasing population. In 1895 our exports of wheat amounted to 5,350,000 bushels; in 1906 they reached 23,658,000 bushels. This year with a largely increased area under cultivation and the splendid growing weather with which the country has been blessed, there is reason to look for a surplus and an export that will far surpass all records.

Evidently the United States, as a wheat-exporting country, has seen its best days. It is not to be expected that the increase in wheat production will much longer keep pace with the population increase. It looks as though before many years, Uncle Sam will himself be obliged to import wheat and that Canada will have a monopoly of wheat-exporting from this continent. Each year sees a large increase in the area devoted to wheat-growing, and in a very short time the Dominion will likely be shipping abroad thousands of bushels where she is now sending hundreds.

The world's per capita consumption of wheat and flour is rapidly growing, that of Great Britain being from 280 to 290 pounds, as compared with 226 pounds in 1897. And the many millions of the Orient are just beginning to be wheat consumers.

CRIMINAL APPEAL IN ENGLAND.

The recently established English court of criminal appeal has been but a short time at work, but already it has proved that no revolution is intended. When the court refuses to interfere, as is the rule, it orders that the sentence shall begin from the day the appeal is decided, instead of the day on which it was passed, and culpable realize that unless they have a real grievance an appeal simply means a lengthening of sentence.

The court has power to increase a sentence, and recently it exercised that power for the first time. The original sentence was fifteen months with hard labor. Appeal to the second division resulted in a remission of the hard labor. The case was then taken to the new court on the alleged ground that the length of the sentence was too severe. Instead of granting a reduction, the judges of the criminal appeal court declared they were unable to see why the sentence had been reduced, and re-stated the hard labor.

Results thus far have served to reassure the public that substantial justice is served out in the lower courts. A few sentences have been quashed, but in such cases there have been technicalities which would have had the same result in the old court of crown cases reserved or under representations as to weight of evidence which would have caused the home office to interfere. Thus far there has not been a single upsetting of the verdict of the lower court in which the old machinery would not have been equally adequate to effect the prisoners' discharge.

Those who feared that the establishment of this court would mean the inroduction of American methods, whereby it would be made easy for the guilty to escape justice, or to keep a case before the courts for an inordinately long time, must by this time be pretty well convinced that their apprehensions were groundless.

REJOICING OVER A THEFT.

Dr. C. N. Anderson, of Leamington, paid a flying visit to London on Saturday, on his way from the east. During his stay he was in receipt of numerous compliments regarding his notable political triumph in re-deeming South Essex for the party led by Premier Whitney.

That fine old riding was the stronghold of the Liberals for some twenty-five years. It was held by Messrs. Balfour and Auld from 1890 to 1901 majority. Dr. Anderson was an unsuccessful candidate four years ago, but, not disheartened, he stuck to his guns, and last June won out by 78 majority over the most formidable opponent that could be brought out.—London Free Press.

There is a shamelessness in this paragraph, corresponding with the legislation which stole the seat for Dr. Anderson.

In the Provincial election of 1905, South Essex gave Mr. Auld a majority of 140, of which the township of North Tilbury contributed 129. The Whitney Government wiped out Mr. Auld's majority by shifting this Liberal township from South Essex to North Essex. But for this special provision, Dr. Anderson would not be a member of the Legislature today.

The population of the north riding was 30,360, and of the south riding 27,975, according to the Federal census of 1901, upon which the Whitney Government based its calculations. North Tilbury, with a population of 2,191, was taken from the lesser and added to the greater riding. In defiance of the principle of equalizing the population which Mr. Whitney declared was one of the motives of the redistribution.

Dr. Anderson's victory is not one which a public man or a public journal with a sense of honor would gloat over. Mr. Auld was not beaten in a fair fight; he was waylaid by political highwaymen. The case of South Essex was one of the worst features of a disgraceful gerrymander.

The key to Canada's material development is Transportation with a capital T.

The Federal Government's boundary legislation will make Manitoba three times its present size. But the Roblin Government will probably find a grievance all the same.

Ex-Mayor Coatsworth, of Toronto, continues to demand exact figures of the cost of Niagara power. He doesn't appear to realize that the municipalities have taken the scheme on faith, not figures.

The Democratic convention yesterday cheered Bryan for 1 hour and 26 minutes. This may be one way of raising the wind, but the treasurer of the Republican national committee may have a better one.

"Plenty of water, but very low pressure," is the description of the local situation by an official of the waterworks department. Exactly. With a high-pressure service to protect the district in which fire would be a danger, the city would not be so badly off, even if it had no more water for domestic use.

PREACHING IT REPEATEDLY.

[Yonkers Statesman.]
"You know, Sam, it is no disgrace to have to work for a living."
"No, sah; I knows it, sah. Dat's wat I salls tells my wife, sah!"

COMPLIMENTARY.

[Harper's Weekly.]
Judge—Was there any particular mark by which you would be able to identify the dog which you say this man stole?
The Plaintiff—Yes, yer honor; he had a red nose, just like yer honor's.

FILLING UP FAST.

[Everybody's.]
A Mormon's wife, coming downstairs one morning, met the physician who was attending her husband.
"Is he very ill?" she asked, anxiously.
"He is," replied the physician. "I fear the end is not far off."
"Do you think," she asked, hesitatingly, "do you think it proper that I should be at his bedside during his last moments?"
"Yes," said the physician, "but I advise you to hurry, madam. The best places are already being taken."

CANADIANS ALL.

[Montreal Herald.]
People from many countries, come of many races, speaking many tongues, professing many faiths, are here thrown together for good. There is but one tie to bind each with the other and all together, one inspiration, one sentiment, one interest. Canada is the one thing all Canadians have in common. And this becomes more and more the case with every year of growth. Need it be wondered, therefore, that Canadians celebrate the national birthday, in this 30th year, with every feeling of hope, and confidence, and national pride?

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD.

[Tit-Bits.]
A minister having walked through a village churchyard and observed the indiscriminate praise bestowed upon the dead, wrote upon the gatepost the following:
"Here lie the dead, and here the living lie."

NO FAT CANADIAN STATESMEN.

[Imports in Canadian Courier.]
Has Canada ever had a fat statesman whom we took seriously? I cannot recall one. Sir John Macdonald was tall and thin and wiry. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is tall and thin and dignified. Sir Oliver Mowat was none of these things, but he was not fat. Whitney and Gouin are "comfortable," but they are not in the "saft" Taft class. Alexander Mackenzie, Sir Charles Tupper, Edward Blake, Sir George Carter, George Brown—none of these men were fat. Alonzo Wright—"the King of the Gatineau"—was fat; but he had a fat man's reputation. He was not strenuous, but jolly, the soul of good nature and the prince of hospitality. "Mina Host" should always be fat; but then Taft is not going to keep hotel at the White House. When Aldermen were thought of chiefly as the eaters of big official dinners, it was deemed proper that they should be fat; but since the Frank Spence-Hocken style of aldermen came in, they are not usually encountered with an aldermanic girth. Taft will certainly find that he is "carrying weight" in the coming race.

NOW'S THE TIME.

[Atlanta Constitution.]
Now's the time for thinkin' of the cool old country ranch—
Warm enough for wadin' in the rippled, runnin' branch;
Fer thinkin' of the meadows—the lazy daisy bells—
To rest up in the shadows, in the hearin' of the bells!

Cattle bells that tinkle
'Cross meadows, clover-deep,
Sing-song like, until you dream
An' hear 'em in your sleep!

Hot enough for shippin' from the city's dust an' heat,
To feel the dew-drenched grass blades a-ticklin' of your feet,
An' tilt the mossy buckets of shady country wells,
Where the watermelon's coolin'—in the hearin' of the bells!

Cattle bells that tinkle
'Cross meadows, clover-deep,
Sing-song like, until you dream
An' hear 'em in your sleep!

A MEAN CROWD.

[Catholic Standard and Times.]
Tommy—What's de matter, Chummy?
Chummy—Sere I'm sore. I got up early yesterday mornin' an' anchored meself alongside o' dat big knothole in de fence at de baseball grove's. I was a game begins de overflow crowd lines up in front o' me knothole.

WORKS BOTH WAYS.

[Chicago News.]
"Edmund is the smartest child I ever saw," boasted the fond mother. He is as keen as a razor."
"Yes, spoke up grumpy grandpa, "and he reminds me of a razor."
"In what way?"
"Why, he needs strappping."

CAN YOU GET THIS?

[Chicago Tribune.]
"I notice she bowed to you. Is she an old acquaintance?"
"Yes, we're slightly acquainted. In fact, she's a sort of distant relation. She was the first wife of my second wife's first husband."

HIS MERIT CARD.

[Hebrew Standard.]
Mother (surprised)—Why, Johnny, how did you happen to get the merit card for good behavior at school this week?
Johnny—It was like this, mamma. Harry Jones won it, and I told him if he didn't give it to me I'd punch him.

THE CHANGE.

[Montreal Gossip.]
Reddy (putting down a gold piece)—Tickets for Del Monte.
Ticket Clerk—Change at Castroville if you take this train.
Reddy—I'll wait, then, for I want my change right here.

UNCLE REMUS.

[New York Post.]
Brer Fox, perhaps, might be able to explain why the great classics of the world's light literature should have been produced by men of serious interests, on the whole. Defoe's ardent pamphleteering could scarcely have been aware of what "Robinson Crusoe" would become to all of the future of English-speaking boys and men. That Lewis Carroll, mathematician and author of "Symbolic Logic" and "Principles of Parliamentary Representation," should also have written the history of Alice; that men of such a serious and comparably serious occupation as German philology should have been the authors of those delightful Grimm "Fairy Tales" which hold their own with the tales of that other grave person, Hans Christian Andersen; that a secretary of the French Academy should have given to the world "Mother Goose," "Cinderella," and "The Sleeping Beauty," is argument in favor of the amateur as against the professional when it comes to the fashioning of elemental but lasting literature. Such perpetual delights for the world's simpler appetites in reading, like some of the greatest achievements in the art of cookery, have been stumbled upon almost by accident, and most often not by the professional when it comes to the fashioning of elemental but lasting literature.

A MORE ADVANTAGEOUS TIME.

[Puck.]
"Why do people always say 'Kiss and make up'? I thought people usually were friends before they kissed?"
"Well, you see, it's a good deal more satisfactory to kiss before the make-up is put on."

TERRIBLE BREATHING DIFFICULTY.

"For ten years," states Capt. McDonald, of Kingston, Ont., "I have been a terrible sufferer from bronchitic asthma, and often it was so bad that for nights at a time I could not sleep. I spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicines, but one dollar outfit of Catarrhoxone cured me." Four months later Capt. McDonald writes, "I am still perfectly well and have no bother from my old trouble."

The reason Catarrhoxone is so successful is because its healing balsams and vapors get at the root of the bronchial irritation—right where the disease is. Other remedies work through the blood or the stomach—Catarrhoxone works directly on the diseased membranes and always does cure asthma, bronchitis and catarrh. At all dealers 25c, 50c and $1 sizes—the latter is guaranteed.

BLUE WOMEN

Women should understand that melancholia, commonly called "the blues," is in nine times out of ten a sure symptom of some serious female organic derangement and should have immediate attention.

Women whose spirits are depressed, and who are ailing and miserable, should rely upon LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND as is evidenced by following letters.

Mrs. R. Gentleman, 1093 St. James Street, Montreal, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:
"I suffered from a severe female weakness, and extreme nervousness, and was blue and utterly discouraged. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking several bottles, I am not only cured, but am an entirely different woman, and on the whole a healthier woman than before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Mary J. Williams, of Bridgeport, Ill., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:
"I have been suffering from a female trouble, backache and headaches, and was blue that I was simply in despair. I feel it my duty to tell you that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me. The change in my appearance is wonderful, and I wish every suffering woman would try it."

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Looseness of The Bowels.

It is very seldom during the summer months that most people are not troubled with "looseness of the bowels." Sometimes it only goes that far, but generally it develops into Diarrhoea, Dysentery or Summer Complaint and has a tendency to weaken the whole system.

When the bowels get loosened up in this way and you wish to check the unpleasant discharge without bringing on constipation, there is only one remedy to use, and that one is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. This remedy is not an experiment as it has been used in thousands of families during the past sixty-three years.

When you ask for Dr. Fowler's be sure you get it, as many unprincipled druggists will try to palm off a cheap substitute on you.

The Arncliffe Puzzle

By GORDON HOLMES, Author "A Mysterious Disappearance."

Mr. Angier rose to his feet with well-simulated indignation. "Surely, sir," he protested, "it is not extraordinary that Lord Arncliffe should give so paltry a sum as three hundred pounds to the lady he had chosen to inherit his vast wealth?"

"Not at all, Mr. Angier," returned the coroner. "Nevertheless, we must remember that he took pains to prevent Miss Holt from anticipating any such conclusion. I presume, Miss Holt, Lord Arncliffe was not in the habit of giving you such amounts of money?"

"No." "Nor anything approaching such an amount?"

"No. I had my salary, sixty pounds a year, and Lord Arncliffe occasionally gave me a check for ten or fifteen pounds. I had to entertain such guests as visited him, and it was his wish that I should dress suitably. The three hundred pounds were given at my earnest request. I required the money urgently, and Lord Arncliffe was the only person to whom I could turn."

"Very well. I have here a canceled check of Lord Arncliffe's for three hundred pounds, dated six weeks before he died. Would this represent the payment to you?"

A more skilled hand than the coroner's revealed itself. Detective-Inspector Hobson was beginning to move.

"Yes." "You collected the amount personally from the Alnwick branch of the Great Northern Bank?"

"Yes." "All in gold?"

"Yes. I required it in gold." She was all spirit now. Those myosotis blue eyes had a glint of steel in them.

A rather cumbersome method, I should imagine," commented the coroner. He had been friendly disposed hitherto, but he began to feel nettled by the haughty indifference which had taken the place of maiden timidity.

"If you are suggesting that I asked for gold so that the money could not be traced," she said disdainfully, "I can only say that each attendant at the bank is acquainted with me."

The weathered sympathies of the crowd instantly veered towards Edith. The coroner, rather at a loss, pretended to busy himself with his papers, and a murmur of comment relieved the tension of the audience.

"She has a reason for the forty thousand-a-year manner," was the common thought.

Yet each complacent critic asked: "Why did she, then a poor girl, want so much money?"

Edith's examination might have reached an abrupt conclusion, had not the watchful Hobson sent the coroner another note. The official tones became ominous again.

"Pray do not misunderstand me, Miss Holt. I mentioned the matter because I understand that on another occasion you cashed a check of Lord Arncliffe's for two hundred and fifty pounds, which was also paid in gold."

"Yes. It was distributed by Lord Arncliffe to relieve the winter distress in the district, and I fetched the money because Mr. Warren, the agent, was suffering from a riding accident."

"So the bank officials would not think this second application for a large sum of gold in any way strange?"

"I have not considered the possibility of the bank people presuming to comment upon any act of mine."

"No doubt. The signature to the check is presumably that of Lord Arncliffe; but the amount was filled in by yourself, was it not?"

Steel was striking flint now, and the sparks were flying.

"Angier had thought it wise that Edith should avoid the least appearance of concealment; but he thought it high time to protest."

"If your object is to prove that the check for three hundred pounds was improperly obtained by Miss Holt," he said severely, "I shall strongly advise her not to answer any of my questions. You must be perfectly aware, sir, that such a line of cross-examination as you have pursued should have been preceded by a caution."

The coroner felt the injury inflicted by so public a rebuke. Much as he would have liked to assert the dignity of the court, policy dictated an attitude of conciliation. The lawyer was a mighty power in the county and could make things extremely unpleasant if he so listed.

"I fear I have expressed myself badly. If I have caused any unfortunate impression," said the coroner, "I am sorry. I will not trouble Miss Holt further; and I trust she will pardon me if in the performance of a public duty I have caused her any pain."

Edith bowed, and returned to her seat by Mrs. Angier. In a sense the ordeal was a tonic. The scornful indignation excited by the coroner's masked battery of innuendo was a far healthier emotion than the chilling fear which had possessed her before. Her indignation was nothing, however, to that of Lester, who had more than once endeavored to estimate what would be the penalty of throwing the King's representative out of the window.

The remaining evidence was of little importance. After Mrs. Warren and Angier had indorsed the statements of previous witnesses, the coroner proceeded to sum up.

"You will have judged from the SEA AND CAR SICKNESS QUICKLY CURED.

evidence, gentlemen," he said, "that this is either a very simple or a very mysterious case. The most extraordinary feature is undoubtedly Lord Arncliffe's assertion that he was being poisoned. No doubt you will give that point full consideration. If his mental condition was normal when he made that statement, then it is clear that he has been the victim of foul play; but, on the other hand, if his mind was impaired by his long illness, we should be justified in assuming that he knew he was being poisoned for the very good reason that the poison was self-administered. In this connection I should like to remind you that two of the highest authorities are unable to say what form of arsenic was used; so it is evident the poisoner was no ordinary person. Here again, one cannot but recall Lord Arncliffe's intimate knowledge of poisons. However, I do not think there is sufficient evidence to justify us in assuming the deceased to have been insane, and without that assumption, we cannot entertain the idea of suicide."

"If we consider the possibility that murder has been committed, the question of motive—naturally suggests itself. The members of the household seem to have been devoted to their master, and, indeed, they had every reason to be. Mrs. Warren, Simpson, Mr. Harry Warren, Miss Holt—"

Another note from Inspector Hobson found its way unobtrusively to the coroner's desk. He paused to read it. Then he looked up at the jury.

"There is a quite unexpected development, gentlemen," he said. "A fresh witness has just arrived from New York, and I am informed that his evidence is of the highest importance."

CHAPTER VIII.

The coroner's announcement naturally centered attention on the witness from New York. Only two people among the occupants of the crowded court knew that Edith had fainted where she sat. Those two were the detective and Lester. They watched the girl from widely different motives. Each, in his own way, was conscious of a mutual distrust. Lester's first instinct—whether the instinct of a lover or of a medical man, he did not seek to discover—was to rush to her assistance. But he realized that Edith's overwrought condition was due to something more than the mere ordeal she had undergone. And the suspicion came to him with a chilling shock that people were even now prone to regard this bright and charming young woman not only as Lord Arncliffe's heiress but as his murderer.

So he sat there, watching in an agony of apprehension for the dropped head to rise again from its resting-place on Mrs. Angier's ample shoulder. Only in the last resort would he draw the attention of the eager crowd already gorged with excitement to this fresh evidence of agitation on her part. In a moment, nature asserted itself, for Edith was normally as healthy a girl as ever breathed. The blue eyes opened slowly and rested on the new witness with something of amazed inquiry. Then the color came back to the blanched cheeks with a rush, and Edith took a deep breath or two, scarcely conscious of her momentary lapse, but much awake to the astounding incidents which were taking place.

For the stranger had repeated the quaint formula of the oath administered on such occasions. He would tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth—"So help me, God!"

The witness glanced with some disfavor at the book, its soiled cover reeking of contact with the lips of many liars, which the coroner's officer handed to him. Then he raised his hand and the Scottish fashion.

"Go ahead, judge," he said.

The coroner darted a frowning glance at the lean-faced, alert young man who addressed him thus curtly, but seeing nothing of studied disrespect in the cool inference which met his scrutiny, checked the impending rebuke.

"What is your name?"

"William Lincoln Bradshaw."

"Understand you are able to give certain material evidence regarding Lord Arncliffe's death?"

"I don't know anything about Lord Arncliffe's death, beyond what I have read in the newspapers," rejoined Bradshaw. "Indeed, I am on the lookout for some information in that direction myself."

"Yes, yes!" cried the coroner, impatiently. "But the object of this inquiry is to elicit information, not to impart it. You hear the same familiar name as the late Lord Arncliffe. Am I to understand that you are a relative?"

"Yes, sir. Lord Arncliffe was my uncle."

"What Angier sprang up promptly. Hobson had prepared him for this staggering statement, but he felt that a legal veto must be registered forthwith."

"That I enjoyed Lord Arncliffe's confidence for the last twenty-five years, and during that time he told me repeatedly that he had no relatives in existence, with the exception of the most distant cousins. Indeed, he has often deplored the fact."

"The New Yorker shrugged his shoulders. "I guess I am here," he pointed out.

"What are the facts, Mr. Bradshaw?" demanded the coroner. "Have you never made yourself known to Lord Arncliffe?"

"Why, yes—and that is what is puzzling me. I wrote Lord Arncliffe from New York nearly two months ago, introducing myself, but received no reply. I wrote again ten days ago, saying that I was coming to Europe and would call on him. It appeared to me," added the witness, dryly, "that as I neither wanted nor asked for any favor, beyond a mere acquaintance, Lord Arncliffe might be reasonably glad to meet the son of his only brother."

The coroner bent his brows in a legal frown; the inquiry had reached bounds he had never foreseen.

"I suppose, Mr. Bradshaw," he said, "you are prepared to substantiate your claim to be Lord Arncliffe's nephew?"

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Insure Them Good Health.

Ninety per cent of children, under twelve years of age, are being poisoned and parents don't realize it.

Irregular bowels are the chief cause. You parents know that your bowels should move every day. You know you must be as regular as clock-work, or the blood will become tainted.

Don't you realize that the children must be as orderly in getting rid of the waste matter of their system?

Then, if you find that any of the little ones go two or three days without action of the bowels, don't run to castor oil, senna tea, calomel, cascara or harsh "liver pills." These simply purge the child—strain the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the ideal medicine for children. They are fruit juices and tonics in the form of a pleasant-tasting tablet. "Fruit-a-tives" stimulate the liver, causing more bile to flow. It is the bile, given up by the liver, which moves the bowels. "Fruit-a-tives" regulate the liver and bowels, and thus completely cure constipation. They sweeten the stomach, and the finest tonic in the world to build up the system and make children plump and rosy. 50¢ a box—six for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not handle them. "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

EXPLOSION STARTS
A FIERCE FIRE

A $75,000 Conflagration in the Mercantile Section of Toronto.

Toronto, July 8.—With the sudden roar of an explosion fire burst out at 7:40 this morning in the basement of a four-story brick building at 18-20 Sheppard street, owned by Jones Bros. & Co., and occupied by Smith & D'Entremont, comb manufacturers, in the basement and first floor; P. T. Corcoran, builders' contractor, in the second floor, and Jones Bros. & Co. on the top flat. In almost less time than it takes to write it the whole building was a roaring furnace.

Had the fire occurred an hour later when all the hands were at work there can be little doubt that there would have been fatalities to deplore, but fortunately although several men had narrow escapes nobody was seriously hurt.

ASK POLICE TO COME ON

Douks Covered Inspector With Their Rifles Yesterday.

Sinclair, Man, July 8.—The fanatics intent moving north tomorrow, were delayed by the lameness of a solitary horse. Inspector Tucker, R. N. W. M. P., visited the invaders today. While conversing with them Constable King, who, with Constable Turner, had been in continuous touch, was seen riding in the direction of a farm, where one of the invaders was getting supplies.

King David suspected treachery, and the seizure of his follower, and immediately the entire outfit pointed its guns at the inspector, and the pseudo-Christ told him he would be shot if the man did not turn up. The inspector was kept in this uncomfortable plight for some time, until the man disappeared. The leader Christ claims two of the band deserters.

They issued a challenge to the police today to come and have it out, as they wanted the struggle over. Chief Rooke of the Manitoba police withdrew, deeming this an affair for federal force.

BY THE LAKESIDE
AT PORT STANLEY

Groundless Alarm Caused By a Chorus of Steam Whistles Saluting a Launch.

Port Stanley, July 8.—Great alarm was caused in the village on Tuesday afternoon when suddenly all the boats in the harbor began to sound their whistles. People ran hurriedly to the water front expecting to see some craft or building in a mass of flames, for when the boats whistle in such a manner it is generally the signal of fire. But this time the people were greatly relieved to learn that all the noise was being made over the launching of the steamer Gordon Brown, which has been in dry dock for the last couple of months undergoing some extensive repairs and being completely overhauled. The little steamer is now in readiness to run her regular daily excursions on the lake, and all lovers of the water are happy.

Miss Mildred Ead, of St. Thomas, is visiting Miss Jean Campbell at Broadview Cottage, Orchard Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds, of St. Thomas, are the guests of Mr. Robert McLachlin, at Cottage Frontenac, Hill Crest.

Miss Edna Pulver, of the Clifton Cottage, Hill Crest, has returned home after visiting her friend, Miss Minnie Mara, in London.

Mrs. (Dr.) Bell and Miss Eva Bell, of Merlin, and Mrs. McGarvin, of Chatham, have returned to their homes after spending the last two weeks at Broadview Cottage, Orchard Beach, the guests of Mrs. J. Campbell.

Mr. A. Byrne, of Hamilton, is spending a week with his family at the Clifton Cottage, Hill Crest.

The hearing of the case against the Pere Marquette, for breaking the Lord's Day act by unloading the car ferry on Sunday, has been deferred until July 28. Meanwhile the Pere Marquette continue in their alleged law-breaking.

The dance at Hill Crest tonight was largely attended.

The steamer City of Ottawa is late in arriving this week owing to the break in the Cornwall Canal.

A new foot bridge has been erected across Moore's Creek on New Orchard Beach.

MAULED BY A BEAR

Hunter Shot Cub and Was Terribly Punished by the Mother.

Victoria, B. C., July 8.—Details of a thrilling encounter between a man and a bear, far from human assistance, in a densely wooded part of Vancouver Island, have just leaked out here with the release of Lieut. Kingscott, R. N., from a hospital, where he has been for a month past suffering from wounds inflicted by the monster. Lieut. Kingscott had been out shooting and in preparing to return was taking a last look round for game. Suddenly a black bear emerged, and at first sight of the animal the sportsman took a flying shot. The beast was frightened and moved away. Following in her tracks he came across a young cub, at which he fired with fatal effect. The little animal uttered a painful howl. Immediately the mother came rushing back growling with rage. As she emerged he fired point blank, hitting her in the chest when she was scarcely fifteen yards distant. She staggered and he loaded and again fired as she was almost upon him. The second shot took effect, serving to allow the man time to draw his sheath knife. The bear carried past him in the mad rush, wheeled and threw herself on the lieutenant, burying her teeth in his shoulders and tearing his face with her claws. He plunged his knife into the animal's heart.

SCHOONER ACACIA LOST

Driven Ashore in Big Gale at Sackett's Harbor, New York.

Watertown, N. Y., July 8.—The three-masted schooner Acacia, owned and captained by Williams Simmons, of Kingston, went ashore on Bull Rock Point, near Sackett's Harbor, today, and late today the crew was rescued by Sam Spencer Goble, of Sackett's Harbor, who, after a struggle of several hours, managed to reach the stranded craft in a small boat. The eight persons on board included two women.

The Acacia was of 380 tons burden and left Oswego late last night for Kingston, Ont., with a cargo of coal. Early this morning a heavy gale carried away part of her rigging. While trying to make Sackett's Harbor she grounded and was rapidly being pounded to pieces.

When the Acacia grounded and the waves dashed over it those on board never expected to reach land and spent the night in prayer. The boat will probably be a total loss.

FIRE CHIEF HOWARD IS "MAKING GOOD"

Is Getting Things Down Fine in Peterboro—Writes to a London Friend.

Fire Chief W. A. Howard, of Peterboro, formerly a member of the London Fire Brigade, writes a friend in this city as follows:

"No doubt it will be interesting to you to know that everything is well with me here. I have the work of re-organization of the permanent fire department, well in hand. We have splendid quarters here. It is a brand new fire station, just built last year. We have a Seagrave truck, and a hose wagon, on the left hand side of the hall. My office is in the centre on the ground floor, and to the right is the fire chief's buggy, steam fire engine, and then the chemical combination, something similar to the ones you have at home. The building is magnificently furnished throughout, and beautifully illuminated by night. I am beginning to feel very much at home."

DRESDEN GIRL
TRIES SUICIDE

Said To Have Been Infatuated With Young Man Who Did Not Reciprocate.

Detroit, July 8.—The News says: Miss Hattie McDonnell, 19 years old, whose parents live in Dresden, Ont., now lies in a semi-conscious condition on a cot in St. Mary's Hospital, continually calling for "Hart Bentley" who, she asserts, is her sweetheart.

Miss McDonnell is believed to be suffering from the effects of several morphine tablets, which she is supposed to have taken late yesterday afternoon to alleviate pain.

The young woman walked into the Hotel Normandie about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and fell unconscious to the floor before reaching the clerk's desk. Later she was removed to the hospital.

In the young woman's purse was found a letter, written by her to a young man, in which she expressed her undying love for him, and intimated that there was some trouble between them. One sentence in the letter read: "I love you so much that I could not give up."

The young woman during her hysterical moments made some statements that when reported to Capt. James McDonnell, resulted in his telling Detective James Cotter to investigate. On the statements of the hospital physicians, made after examining the girl, the police discontinued their investigation.

"I'll wager that the girl hasn't taken poison of any sort, or any drugs," said the uncle of Arthur, or "Hart" Bentley, last night, discussing the melodramatic affair in which his nephew's name plays an important part. "It isn't the first time that the girl has made a bluff at suicide. She is a girl of excellent family, but she seems to be infatuated with the boy, and she was the means of driving him away from his home town. The two used to sing together in the church choir at Dresden, Ontario, where the parents of both live, and it was at that time that the romance began. Just how far the love affair went, I do not know, but Hart, I know, finally came to Detroit to get away from her, and he has now gone to Chicago for the same reason."

"Yesterday he got a letter from her, asking him to meet her, and today she telephoned to him. Shortly afterward he left for Chicago, and then I received word that the girl was in the hospital. But they will find out that she is just bluffing, as she has done before. She is a pretty girl and has wealthy relatives and I cannot explain her actions."

The Old and New Way

Some Important Facts Which May Prove Helpful.

Thirty years ago old-fashioned cod liver oil had to be forced down a patient's throat. Invalids couldn't take it, and children wouldn't. But the doctors prescribed it, and it had to be taken by force. Yet it cured people where coughs and valuable remedies, containing in a concentrated form all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, out by an extractive and concentrating process it is made without oil or grease, and it is as delicious to the taste as a fresh orange.

Vinol does not upset the stomach like old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions; its strengthening and healing properties are remarkable, and both doctors and patients are delighted with its action.

Many wonderful cures right here in London have been effected by its use, and we ask all of our customers to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money, every time it fails to make rich, red blood, increase the appetite, cure stomach troubles, give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, run-down, tired and debilitated, or cure chronic colds, hacking coughs or bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria, 25¢ Dundas street, first store west of Wellington street. SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

QUOITING, BOXING,
FOOTBALL, GOLF, CRICKETLOCALS TAKE DOUBLE-HEADER
FROM HAMILTON STUDENTSLatter Put Up a Listless Game Before Small Crowd at Tecumseh
Park, and Londons Hammer Their Pitchers To All Points of the Compass.

Before a crowd that in size marked the closing chapters of professional baseball in the Forest City, the Orphans yesterday took a double-header from the Tigers in a manner that reminded one of the baby and the candy table.

In the first contest the visitors managed to get over one run; in the second they did better, getting two. London both times scored an even ten.

Parkins' Inevitable.

The Tigers could do nothing with Cy Parkins in the opening game, and apparently they realized the fact shortly after hostilities opened. Muir, on the other hand, was tapped here, there and all over for a total of 14 bingles. But one Tiger reached first after the initial inning, and he got no further.

Doubles by Curtis and Brennan gave the crowd from Blufftown their lone tally at the going. After that suspension, buttons and collar buttons were twisted, bent and torn by the Tigers in trying to massacre Parkins' offerings. The veteran from the coal regions was never in better trim, and a better assortment of buttons have never been offered at Tecumseh Park.

Sharp breaks that caused the batsman to miss by a foot, slow drops that almost straight down when near the plate—these and other like twists kept the Hamilton players tearing morsels out of the atmosphere with their bats.

The London team played almost perfect ball, and it was not until the final inning that an error was made by a local player.

In two innings only did more than three visiting batsmen come to the plate, and then but four faced the venerable Silas.

Heavy Hitting.

To begin to describe the London end of the batting argument would require an entire page.

Suffice it to say, that with the exception of the sixth and eighth innings, the locals scored from one to three runs per inning. Errors played no small part in the run-getting, but timely hitting was chiefly responsible. Ward, at short, for the Tigers, twice robbed "Toots" Jeffries of his sensational running catches of liners. Jack McHugh performed nicely in right, and Keenan was at his best, which means that he played Al baseball all the way.

SECOND GAME.

There was little difference between the wind-up and the curtain-raiser, with the exception that Dumond took things a trifle easier than Parkins did, and allowed the visitors six hits and two runs.

Two singles, an error by Bird, and a stolen base gave the Tigers two runs in the third, after which they never had the semblance of a look-in at the run column, although Bradford started the fourth by rapping out a two-bagger near the left-field flag.

"Nig" Jeffries and Jack McHugh collided while going after a fly-off O'Meara's stick in that round, but neither was injured, McHugh getting the ball.

The Orphans, for their part, had a regular derby day at bat, and kept the Tigers busy trying to produce a slabster who had "something."

Long, who is usually effective, was first offered for sacrifice. After he was given his quietus Brennan was sent in for a drubbing, and after London averages had soared skyward the veteran Bradford, late of New Orleans, Toronto and other places, was trotted out. Brad got away fairly well, and succeeded in fanning two of the aspiring locals.

The game was called in the seventh, and nobody wept because of its termination.

The London players worked hard at all times, but the Tigers put up the rawest kind of an exhibition, apparently being too much interested in the small-sized crowd to bother about such a trifling thing as baseball.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

"Where are you coaches?" shouted a youngster to a Hamilton player in the third.

"Where's your crowd?" was the retort.

Delaney again proved himself a nice hitter by laying down two double plays, a single and a sacrifice, besides reaching first on an error.

Evidently the Hamilton twirlers had heard of Jack McHugh's prowess with the stick in the East End League, for he walked twice in succession. Jack was batting at a 456—or was it 654?—clap at last accounts.

Loudy Kerr was there, too, but the best he drew was an assist in holding down the bench. That wasn't his fault, though. He was there to work if given an opportunity.

Popular Charlie Bird had a bad day in the field, but connected for three singles and a walk, in addition to stealing a sack.

The veterans won't down. Abbie Johnson got single a three-sacrificed twice, and got around like a 2-year-old in the field.

No, "Nig" Jeffries didn't make a homerun, but he managed to rap out four singles during the afternoon.

Jo Jo Keenan was "there" with a vengeance, as a glance at the scores will show, both in and out.

"A good old wagon," remarked one of the fans in describing Maxey's excellent work.

Cy Parkins didn't issue a pass, while Dumond only allowed two walks.

"Toots" Jeffries reached his base five times, three times on singles, once on a fielder's choice, and again by being hit.

The Tigers, judging by yesterday's game, have missed their calling; they should be in the acrobatic business. For a ripe exhibition of "How to act before fumbling the ball," commend us to the Tigers.

Some Good Going at the Matinee

Good fields and excellent going were the order of the day at the Queen's Park track yesterday, and the matinee races were voted the best of the season.

Class I contained but two starters, both horses belonging to Mr. George McCormick, but the race which resulted was about as pretty a contest as could be asked for.

W. E. Robinson drove Charley K., while Mr. McCormick handled Wilksteel, and although the latter won it was not before Charley K. had annexed the second heat.

The other events were also splendidly contested, although the heats, with the exception of Class V, were won consecutively by the winners of the races.

IN MEMORY

Sporting Scribes in the cities formerly comprising the International League never had so much fun in their careers as they are having at present. Take a peep at some of these offerings:

No Wreath.
[Hamilton Herald.]

The International League is a dead one and there is not even a Wreath to mark the spot where it fell.

Down at the bay they use a net to catch suckers. Fred Palge did not need one to make his big haul.

If the International League goes out of business London will only be heard of once a year, when the lawn bowling tournament is on.

A Back Number.
[Hamilton Spectator.]

The International League is now a back number. Simply another good thing gone to the dogs.

And the downfall of the league can be laid with the club owners, who lacked sadly many of the requisites to make their clubs a success, and if the clubs failed to make good, the league could hardly make good.

Professional baseball will hardly be tried in these parts again for some time to come. Some people will be delighted.

Addie Richardson.
[Hamilton Times.]

Among the visitors to the Times sporting sanctum this morning was Addie L. Richardson, known among the old fans as "the Father Oldwick of Canada."

The office boy went when he saw the effect the few short weeks of active work in the International had had on the great little shortstop of twenty years ago.

He has aged, aged faster than native wine in wood, and he says his six weeks' employment in the International has shortened his life by many years. His troubles are many, and he runs the day he met Promoter Palge, signed up as road manager of the Hamilton team, and obtained the custom privileges at the ballparks in Barton street east.

He found the road rough and hard, and the cushion game not worth a row of pins.

The league is too strenuous, and too short, even if it has a long haul. Mr. Richardson will spend the next few days preparing an obituary for the Sporting Life, after which he will take a well-earned rest.

To the International League president: "So Long!"

No More Baseball.
[St. Thomas Journal.]

As far as another team being started in this city this season, it is unlikely that such a step will be taken. For one thing the season is too short, and then the players would be strangers, which is a serious drawback. Had Manager Murray been able to hold his team together until Wednesday afternoon games were played, it is reasonably supposed he would have been able to place his team on a proper financial basis, as the fans were beginning to become acquainted with the players, and interest was growing daily.

However, as far as the fans are concerned, the league has died with the team, and a revival would be a difficult matter this year. The hope is expressed that next year a club will be organized here at the beginning of the season, and there is very little doubt that that will be a financial success.

The Good Die Young.
[Guelph Herald.]

The International League has gone up another illustration of the old saying that the good die young.

The expected has happened. Old baseballers in this city, who with the ball came to this city, expressed their opinion that it would not go in Guelph, and the opinion was justified. The Guelph Schiel, transferred to St. Thomas, and the Ball Road City has done no better than Guelph. The players took hold of the team, but in spite of the splendid reports of the attendance sent to the cities, the number of paid admissions gradually diminished, and finally the team fell.

[Guelph Mercury.]

Now that the International League has gone to its long rest, the "I-told-you-so" man can come forth from retirement again.

[Niagara Falls Gazette.]

If Bill Murray had done less kicking and had paid more attention to baseball than box office receipts, the game might have gone here.

Playgrounds Concert Comes High Local People Didn't Understand It

People Behind Scheme Got 50
Per Cent of the Gross
Receipts.

According to complaints registered with Mayor Stevely today, there is much dissatisfaction with the manner in which the concert in aid of the children's playground is being conducted. It appears that some time ago representatives from Hamilton called upon the playgrounds authorities and asked official sanction to put on a concert. The agreement was that tickets should be sold for $1 each, and that the Hamilton people should keep the first $50 collected, and that then they should have 50 per cent of the gross proceeds of the concert. They were to pay the cost of the concert.

At once a bevy of ladies, none of them from London, began to canvass the city.

Citizens appeared to believe that they were making donations to the children's playgrounds alone.

No Duty On Theatrical Attractions

[Special to The Advertiser.]
New York, July 9.—The following notice from the department of customs, Ottawa, Canada, has sent out to the collectors of customs in the Dominion of Canada:

On and after July 1, 1908 theatrical scenes brought in by managers of theatrical exhibitions and used by them abroad, when to be used by them in Canada for such exhibitions, and not for any other person or for sale, may be admitted, as in the case of the tourist outfit, upon deposit of the amount equal to the duty with the customs officer at the port of entry, subject to a refund of such deposit if the scenery be exported within six months.

Recently the National Association of Theatrical Producing Managers met in New York City and voted that after May 1, 1909, no companies should be sent into Canada unless certain improvements in the copyright law and protection against piracy were put into effect, and specific mention was also made of the injustice of the customs exactions. This notice from the Canadian Government is the first direct outcome of the protest entered into by the New York managers, and may be considered an achievement of the National Association of Theatrical Producing Managers wishing to tour Canada will merely have to put their scenery under bond to be taken out of the country again within a specified time, the money then to be refunded. In a like manner scenery is bonded when brought from a foreign country into the United States. The action was obtained through the Canadian Theatre Managers' Association, of which A. J. Small is president. In sending notice of the results just obtained to Hollis E. Cooley, secretary of the National Association, Mr. Small assured the operation of the Canadian managers on the copyright matters, which is the remaining drawback to the exploration of the Canadian field by managers in this country.

It is also expected that a movement will be put on foot to reduce or abolish the present high duties on lithographic printing used by touring companies.

No London Doctors in Tabooed List

So far as can be learned there are no London physicians among the 189 whose names have been stricken off the register by the Ontario Medical Council, in session this week in Toronto, for non-payment of the annual fee of $2. The physicians whose names have been struck off are said to be disqualified from legally collecting fees for practice and giving expert evidence in a law trial.

He was arrested on the lawn of a well-known physician on Queen's avenue last night, when he was found loitering, and where he had attracted the attention of passersby.

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC OF CENTENNIAL SCHOOL

Had Pleasant Day at Springbank—List of Winners in Games.

The most successful picnic in the history of the Sunday school of Centennial Methodist Church was held yesterday afternoon at Springbank. Two special cars were chartered to carry the picnicers down. They were taken charge of by Messrs. S. Lancaster and H. Martyn, who acted as conductors. The children were transported free of charge and were given tickets for ice cream after the games.

The lady teachers of the school had charge of the refreshments. The transportation committee, composed of James Page and L. H. Martyn, did its work perfectly.

Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Welsh and S. Lancaster made up the sports committee.

The two special cars left at 1:30 and 2 o'clock, but other older members kept coming all afternoon, and when evening arrived the Centennial was the biggest on the grounds.

Rev. G. N. Hazen and Mrs. Hazen were on the grounds and spent the afternoon in becoming acquainted with the members.

A special conveyed the provisions to the park under the able direction of Mr. Clarence Wright.

DELIVERY HORSE STRUCK BY CAR

While Being Driven Across Dundas Street on Talbot Street.

While going across Dundas street, on Talbot, this morning, a horse belonging to A. M. Hamilton, the flour and feed man, was struck by a West London car going west and slightly injured.

The driver of the rig, Arthur Oliver, was thrown from his seat clear over the horse's back to the street, alighting beneath the animal's feet. Fortunately the driver escaped with a few bruises.

Retired for Three Weeks.
In lieu of $10, which he was fined yesterday by a Lucas magistrate for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, Thomas McCann will spend the next 21 days shingling the roofs of the county jail.

Stole the Junk.
A sneak thief last night broke the window of Mr. Joseph Graham's junk shop on Wellington street, and stole a number of brass candlesticks and several old pewter pots. The police are working on the case.

An Important Meeting.
A meeting of the Daughters of the Empire will be held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Public Library Building. All the members are urgently requested to be present, as business of great importance will come up.

Death of Mrs. Green.
The death occurred in Detroit on Monday of Mrs. Margaret J. Green. Mrs. Green was 71 years of age, and was very well known in this city. She had lived for many years. She is survived by one son and two daughters, Mr. W. J. Green, of this city; Mrs. John Taylor, of Yarmley, of Detroit. The funeral will be held on Saturday at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Death of Mrs. Burgess.
The death occurred at Victoria Hospital this morning of Mrs. Elizabeth Burgess, wife of Mr. Benjamin Burgess. Mrs. Burgess was 50 years old, and had been ill for some time. She came here from Victoria, and is survived by her husband, two sons and three daughters, Mrs. Sheen, of Oregon; Benjamin and Albert, of this city, and William, of Detroit. The funeral will be held on Saturday at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Inspector Sanders Acting.
Inspector Sanders, of the Humane Society, is pushing the action against the Messrs. J. and G. Metcalfe, of London Township, who are charged with having tied tin cans to a horse's tail, maddening the brute so that it terribly injured itself by running against a barbed wire fence. When it struck the wires, the horse, a blooded animal, knocked over eight posts and aroused the whole neighborhood. If the charge is proven the penalty is a heavy one.

Off to Snake Island.
The first Snake Island fishing party left this afternoon for the Stratford train. The fishermen will go to Waterloo, and then drive Friday over to the shore line, where Skipper Frank Beilmore, Southampton, will be waiting for the party with boats and take them to the island. Among those who will make the trip are: Ex-Alt. Ph. Gilean, Frank Adams, of The Advertiser; W. H. Skinner, W. Ward, J. W. Jones, Harry Jones, Jos. Nolan, John W. Scandrett, W. Treble, J. H. Fowler and J. W. McInnis. Frank Smith has been engaged as chef. They will be gone about two weeks.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Chauffeur's Presence of Mind Saved a Boy From Serious Accident.

The presence of mind of the chauffeur of Mr. George Wignie's automobile alone saved an unknown 11 or 12-year-old boy from serious injury and possibly death last night on King street, near the corner of Richmond. The automobile was going in an easterly direction on King street, and the boy was just ahead of it on the rear-end of a wagon. Just as the driver of the auto turned out to go around the wagon the boy jumped off directly in the path of the speeding auto.

Quite a flash the chauffeur threw over the wheel of the machine and crashed into a watercraft being driven by Charles McMillan, thereby saving the boy from being run over. The auto was considerably damaged, but was able to run to a nearby garage for repairs. The watering care sustained nothing worse than a broken wagon wheel spoke.

The King has presented a handsome diamond and ruby pin, engraved with the crown and "E. 7," to Mr. J. W. Green, late superintendent at Victoria station.

TEN WORKMEN KILLED.
St. Petersburg, July 9.—The roof of a house being constructed near the Duna Building collapsed this morning and crashed down through the partly-finished floors. Ten workmen busy on the structure were killed outright and forty others were injured.

The game of football is gaining a steady foothold in Venezuela and bids fair to become a popular form of outdoor amusement.

Elephant Saves

New York, July 9.—A special to the Times from Worcester, Mass., says: Clarence Macomber, with 2,000 other spectators, was watching the swimming antics of a troupe of elephants in Lake Quinsigamond yesterday afternoon. The Macomber lad was standing on the taff rail when he lost his balance and tumbled into ninety feet of water. Jennie, the largest of the elephants, seemed to divine his danger, and as he was sinking for the third time, caught him by the arm with her trunk and thrashed toward shore, holding him up in the air, until a policeman lifted him safely to the float.

ATTWOOD BOUND OVER TO KEEP THE PEACE

In the police court this morning, Fred Attwood, charged with assault by John Oakes, was bound over in the sum of $200 to keep the peace.

Oakes, a Canadian, was recently, and went to stay with Attwood. He made remarks criticising him for not getting him work, and Attwood followed him out of the house and struck him in the eye, knocking him down.

LONDON BOY DROWNED

suddenly began to go down. He clutched frantically at a boy who was standing beside him, and with the assistance of the others was carried to shore.

Willie was a bright pupil at the Collegiate Institute, and it was the intention of his father to send him back for another year.

Mr. Harry Davis was to take the C. P. R. local out last evening, but it was necessary to secure another engineer on account of the accident.

An Accomplished Boy.
Willie Davis was a most accomplished musician for a boy of his age, and played several instruments.

Yesterday arrangements had been completed by which he was to work during the holidays in the offices of Superintendent Whittaker of the freight department.

Mrs. Davis, it is said, had been very uneasy for several days, and had had a premonition that something was about to happen.

She had not been in very good health lately and the sad news of her oldest boy's death has completely prostrated her.

Body Found.
While High Constable Hughes, who was notified as soon as possible after the accident was securing boats and grappling irons, the body was found by Nicholas Worrall, a young man who was diving.

I had been carried down about fifty feet from where the boy was last seen by his little brother.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, 555 Central avenue, on Friday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery. The services will be conducted by Rev. A. K. Birks.

WANT TO GO BACK
Roaming Cree Indians Decide Canada Is Best After All.

Helena, Montana, July 9.—Governor Norris yesterday addressed a letter to the commissioner of Indian affairs at Ottawa, relative to the deportation of a large band of Cree Indians, who, while Canadian charges, have for years been roaming throughout this state. The Indians participated in the Riel rebellion, and with its suppression, came to Montana. The state department arranged with Canada for their return, but soon afterward, dissatisfied with conditions in the north, they returned to this state, and are now at the point of starvation. Hence the letter to learn if the original allotments are still available. A number of Indians have agreed to return.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Trial of Maurice Guthro and D. J. McKinnon at Sydney.

Halifax, July 8.—The trial of Maurice Guthro and Daniel J. McKinnon, charged with the murder of Clifford Murphy on the night of Feb. 29, was begun at Sydney this morning at 10 o'clock and the evidence completed at about 8 o'clock tonight. Justice Lawrence, in charging the jury, said that there was no evidence adduced on behalf of the two men connecting them with the crime. He dwelt at some length on the testimony of the 9-year-old girl, Nellie Guthro, who deposed to seeing two dead bodies in the cellar of the house of Mrs. West. Her testimony had not been satisfactorily disposed of, but there was no connecting link between this gruesome find and the two young men who were charged with the murder of Clifford Murphy. The jury, after about fifteen minutes' deliberation, returned a verdict of not guilty. There was a demonstration in the court house at the announcement of the verdict, and the judge gave one of the culprits a severe lecture.

Many friends will be pleased to know that the old favorite vocalist, Mrs. C. G. Wilson, formerly Miss Louise M. Hodgins, is in London again, and will take part with the old choir singers during the great reunion, and has also been nominated as Queen of the Mardi Gras. Mrs. Wilson will be remembered as one of London's sweet singers, having been leading soprano in St. James' Episcopal Church, South London, for five years. She was also a favorite singer with the Free Masons and Oddfellows of this city.

A Springbank Picnic.

One of the most delightful picnics of the season was that given last night at Springbank by "The Two O's."

Sixty-five young people went down to the Park in the evening and were entertained in a splendid manner by the two charming young ladies. A dainty supper was served and the evening was brought to a close by a dance given in the pavilion. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. John Dyer and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Evans.

St. Paul's Picnic.

About 80 of the members of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church picnicked at Springbank yesterday afternoon.

The picnic was a most successful one, and many of those present had a splendid outing, fishing and boating. Others played games of various kinds, and spent a most enjoyable time. Supper was served, and the party broke up early in the evening.

Pythian Delegates.

The annual convention of the Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias commences in Hamilton on Tuesday next, and a number of members from the local lodges will be present.

Myrtle Lodge, No. 2, will send as delegates E. B. Galpin, D. G. Charles Tinsley and James Dean, while Prospect Lodge, No. 10, will be represented by Amos Blackwell and James E. Reid.

A Concert.

On Monday evening, July 13, a concert will be given in aid of the Horton Street Baptist Church, under the auspices of the Southern Congregational Church. Some of the best talent in the city will take part, and the programme will be sure to please everybody. As the concert is being given for a very worthy object, it should be largely patronized. The admission is nominal, only 15 cents.

The Congregational Picnic a Success

The Sunday school of the Southern Congregational Church held their annual picnic at Springbank on Tuesday. It was well attended, and, despite the rain and wind, the children had a very enjoyable time.

A most exciting game of baseball between the boys of the First and Southern Churches, the former winning, a good programme of sports was held as follows:

Boys—1 Stephen Bucheridge, 2 Dick Wise, 3 Willie Wise.

The Mardi Gras sports and procession committees will be called together next week to prepare estimates.

Many tickets have been sold, and everything looks decidedly rosy for the big event in August.

Ways and Means for the Old Boys

The ways and means committee of the Old Boys held an enthusiastic meeting last night, Chairman Graham presiding. It was decided that all holders of books should make returns as soon as possible to the treasurer, Mr. Thomas Gillean.

A finance committee, consisting of Messrs. Graham, City Clerk Baker and W. T. Strong, were appointed to prepare the estimates. Mr. Frank Jewell, city auditor, and J. W. Jones, ex-water commissioner, were appointed auditors.

Secretary McCann, who was present, reported that in all branches of the Old Boys the greatest enthusiasm prevails, and that this year's reunion will be sure to eclipse all others.

The Mardi Gras sports and procession committees will be called together next week to prepare estimates.

Many tickets have been sold, and everything looks decidedly rosy for the big event in August.

London Poultry Men Swept All Prizes at the Calgary Exhibition

Forest City Birds Know No Equals on the Continent.

London poultry fanciers have once more demonstrated that they stand second to none on the continent, by sweeping the prize lists at the Dominion Exhibition in Calgary.

The London exhibit is in charge of Mr. Richard Oke, the well-known judge and fancier, and he took with him 220 birds owned and shown by a number of this city's best known breeders of prize poultry.

Mr. Oke was a large exhibitor himself, and was most successful. He showed a number of the birds that have won prizes for him in many of the large American poultry exhibits, and as usual captured all the firsts, besides a number of other prizes.

Mr. Oke is the heaviest winner at the exhibition.

Messrs. William McNeil and T. A. Faulds are also large winners.

The Black Minorcas, shown by Mr. Faulds, won first place, and his cockerels and pullets swept the list.

Mr. William McNeil, with an exhibit of silver, golden and white Poland birds, was a heavy winner, and captured all the prizes in this class.

A Few of Them.

Among the prizes won by Londoners were the following:

L. C. Sage received nine prizes for Bantams, in all classes.

Dolge and McNeil captured 5 prizes for bantams.

H. R. K. Tozer, 6 prizes in Cochins black cocks and hens, and game black cock and hen.

Thomas Sherlock captured 12 prizes in the bantam class.

F. A. Andrew, Plymouth Rock white cock, second.

Wm. Monahan, Wyandotte cock and hen, first and second.

T. A. Faulds captured 10 prizes in Minorca cockerels and pullets, nearly cleaning out everything.

W. J. Slessor, Wyandotte white cock third, and 7 prizes in bantams.

Jamieson, Wyandotte silver-laced cock, first.

Charles Hockin, Plymouth Rock barred cock, third and fourth, Plymouth Rock barred hen, first and second.

Hugh Wyatt, Cochins Buff cock, second.

W. A. Gurney, Leghorn S. C. Brown, cock and hen, all prizes.

W. McNeil, Poland Silver cock and hen and Poland Golden Back, all prizes; Poland White-crested cock and hen, second; Poland White cock and hen, Poland Bearded cock and hen, golden-bearded cock and hen, and Poland Buff-laced, and any other variety of Poland, Mr. McNeil captured all prizes.

A. H. Treblecock, 3 prizes in bantams; Brown hen, first and third, and Fyle hen second.

Richard Oke cleaned out nearly everything, taking 37 prizes in bantams. After the Londoners had taken their prizes in this class hardly anything was left for the other exhibitors.

Won All the Prizes.

In Cochins Partridge cock and hen, Creve Coeur cock and hen, La Fleche cock and hen, Java black cock and hen, and any other colors, Leghorn R. C. white cock and hen, Hamburg black cock and hen, and Golden and Silver Pencilled, Golden and Silver Spangled cock and hen, Mr. Oke won all the prizes. He also won all prizes in Java cocks and pullets, first and second.

Standard Poland cock and hen, all prizes.

In the whole show Mr. Oke was the heaviest winner, taking over two-thirds of the prizes.

The London fanciers also won the following special prizes:

Best hen in show, R. Oke.

Best display of not less than eight birds, in variety, won by T. A. Faulds, with Black Minorcas.

Best bird in classes other than Asiatic, American, or Mediterranean, won by R. Oke, Black Hamburg hen.

Best Bantam in show, R. Oke, black rose-comb bantam cock.

Best bird in American class, won by L. Sage, Partridge Wyandotte cock.

R. C. White, best shaped male, best colored male, best shaped female, and best colored female, all to R. Oke.

S. C. Brown, best shaped male, best colored male, best shaped female, and best colored female, all to W. Gurney.

Mr. Oke intends showing at the Winnipeg Fair.

A number of prizes were also won by N. Cornwall, of Thamesville; H. Cadham, St. Thomas; W. Ferguson, Brantford; W. M. Smith, Scotland, Ont., and F. Wales, Milton.

Ontario cattle breeders were also successful, several valuable prizes being won by James Watt, of Sault Ste. Marie, and Robert Hunter & Sons, of Maxville.

What They Say.

The Calgary Herald says: The entry of R. Oke, of London, Ont., created a great deal of enthusiasm, and his winnings will amount to a goodly sum. A number of his birds, namely of the Hamburgs and Oriental Bantams, won the ribbon in Boston and New York. It was the Black Hamburg hen of this breeder that obtained the championship in the hen class. She displayed great color and shape and was full feathered.

T. A. Faulds, of London, obtained first prize for his display of not less than eight in one variety. He entered his single comb Black Minorcas in this class and the old birds are especially worthy of notice, being true to type and were exceptionally well shown.

The four young birds that had nearly matured, were a very interesting feature of the entry.
