WOLFVILLE, N. S., OCT. 29, 1886

town—all the burness portion—was consumed. The reason the fire made such a feed away was on account of the lack of appliances and water to cope with such a conflagration. This state of things was known long before the fire made a reality of it, but the people were indifferent as to their town's requirements in this respect, and the fire made a reality of it, but the people were indifferent as to their town's requirements in this respect, and the result is that in the end they are much more out of pocket than they would have been had they taken the precautions to have their town well provided with a sufficient fire department and the conflock is full of good cheer—with with a sufficient fire department and apparatus. We have spoken time and again about just how Wolfville is situated in regard to this grave matter. We have nothing with which to cope with a small fire, let alone one that has got considerable headway. There have been many fires in Wolfville, but with the exception of the headway. There have been many fires in wolf-ville, but with the exception of the headway come now attention of the sum was collected in Nova Scotia. This year the expectations are that a larger sum will be received. At the ville, but with the exception of the burning of the College and a row of business places on Main street, our fires, perhaps, have been a source of comfort, as they have taken away places that had been a discredit to any place, and consequent y made the place look better than it really did because of the mornings have grow cool and we feel like sleeping a little later; when the woods have changed place look better than it really did before. But we are straying away from the main subject. What we want here is a fire company with a proper fire and dyed their leaves; when the days ple of Avonport, and in the evening we sparstus and everything else necessary to cope with fire. We have the ary to cope with fire. We have the young men, and plenty of them, who wou'd gladly form themselves into a company provided an engine were procured ond other requisites looked after.

Kentville has a volunteer fire company eured and other requisites looked after.
Kentville has a volunteer fire company and will soon have a steam fire-engine.
Why cannot the people of Wolfville generally, the insurance companies doing business here, and the College authorities who have so much valuable property at stake, call a public meeting, discuss the subject, and finally, without any hundurging go to the by nature with minerals of almost every kind, but these are undeveloped. Like wise there are portions of the country which are fit for agricultural purposes, but as the colony is so isolated, the inhibitants have very little encourage ment to go into this kind of work as they have no markets for any of their surplus productions. The fish is their money; they can sell all they can catch at good prices, and in good seasons can aprocure the wherewithal to purchase supplies for all their wants; but in case of a failure in this, their now only means of gaining a livelihood, the result is want and distress, as is the case this year. Of course the Newfoundland government will, as they have done in past years, send supplies for their support, but for all this the out lock for Newfoundland's poor toilers of the sea for the next five months is very black. By the Seashore.

Oh, grand it is by the seashore To sit on a summer day, And to watch the praucing billows In their wild and restless play. And to listen to the swellings Of their matchless harmonic For the harp of mother ocean Plays wonderful melodies.

And to see the great ships passing Like swift coursers to and fro, Their sails outspread to the heavens, And as white as the driven snow.

And to feel the wind's soft kisses, And smell the odorous brine That acts on the weary spirit Like a healing anodyne. And so when my heart is heavy
And I want to steal away
From the bustle, and the noises,
And the cares that crowd the day,

And the cares that e.c.

I go and sit by the ocean
And list to the song she' sings,
And each billow seems like an angel
With healing in its wings.

It may be so, but after a hard day's work I often feel as if a walk in the fresh air, or a visit to a neighbor's would be a real blessing. I said to him the other voice of the rough baggage-man quivered as he whispered:

"Move it gently, Jim! It's a woman."

"Move it gently, Jim! It's a woman."

"Move it gently, Jim! It's a woman."

"Lonely!" was the answer. "How can you be lonely with the children ?" "But they are abed. And recollect, I like treatin' women tender like. see nobody, day in and day out. Can't vou do it—to please me—for this once?"

Harry did not mean to be unkind; he seene of beauty, comfort, taste, luxury was only thoughtless. But why had I and wealth. All came from rum. Silks was only thoughtless. But why had I lest my complexion? Can a woman live forever in rooms heated by hot air, never going out except on some errand, and then hurrying home as soon as the errand is done, without losing her complexion? Is it the climate or her mode of lite that makes her old before her time? It was on my tongue to say these things, but I refrained. I have learned that "silence is golden."

As I parted from the sad wife on my doorstep, I looked beyond, and close by the laughing seastoodahandsomeocottage.

"The fact is," he replied, "I'm dead beat with working all day, and must go out to get brightened up a little. You women never make allowances for a man." And he went out quite crossly.

Never make allowances! If the husband is worried with business, and I do not doubt it, is not a wife worried with housekeeping? Are servants and child.

The grounds were laid out expensively and with great taste. Over the broad piazza hung lazily an eastern hammock, while all around were richly painted the contributions must be in the office not later than Wednesday.
