Love in a Flour Mill,

OR,

The Romance of Two Loyal Hearts!

CHAPTER VI.

Presently he stepped out and glanced at the small window of the girl's room; it was dark—she had distinguished the light. He looked and barred the door carefully, crossed the floor of the mill, and unlocked a small door in an angle of it.

The place he had opened seemed to be a kind of cupboard, and nearly filled with bits of old machinery, tag ends of rope, and old mill sails. Going on one knee he cleared some of this rubbish away from the floor, scraped away the earth with a piece of iron, and, thrusting his hand into a hole, seemed to feel for something.

As if he had found what he had been seeking, he gave a little grunt of relief and satisfaction, covered up the hole, and piled some of the rubbish on the top of the replaced earth. Then he relocked the door and went to his own room, if room it could be called. Setting the lantern on a chair, he raised the lid of a ship's box and took out a revolver; examining it, he charged two of the chambers which had been empty, and placed the weapon under his rough pillow.

CHAPTER VII.

Extremely uncomfortable, both in mind and body, Ronald, after leaving the mill, made his way across the moor. There is nothing so wetting as a mist, Scotch or English; his light overcoat was not waterproof, and he felt damp and chilly.

After walking for a mile or two, he struck upon the track again, and, quickening his pace, left the moor, and entered the little town towards which he had journeyed by so devious and eventual a way. The train he had hoped to catch had gone an hour ago; but while he was standing on the platform, wondering whether he should look out for a bed or continue his tramp, a goods train came lumbering into the station.

"Where are you going?" he asked the guard, as the man stepped out and stretched himself.

He replied, "London," and looked somewhat surprised when Ronald, in his free and easy way, proposed to go with him. The guard hesitated for a moment or two; but most men found it difficult to refuse Ronald Desborough anything, and with an "Oh, well, sir!" he jerked his head towards the van.

Ronald took the hint and got in; there were some empty sacks in the

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about 85¢ as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup. Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough, and also heals the inflamed membrane. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes. The effect of pine on the membrane is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with gualacol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

corner, and he sank on to them, and, after a short chat with the guard, fell asleep. He slept so soundly that he was scarcely conscious of the various shuntings and stoppings of the train; but presently he was aware, in a dim fashion, that there was another person in the van beside himself and the guard; he did not open his eyes, but, with a little shiver, for he was feeling cold, turned over, and fell more soundly asleep. He was awakened by the sunlight streaming through the window full on his face, and, sitting up, saw that some one had covered him with a coat; he looked round, and met the gaze of a man who, was seated with his back to the side of the van.

He was a young man, with a shrewd face and blue eyes, which twinkled with a sense of humour, toned by the intense gravity with which he regarded Ronald. The man was not dressed as a labourer, he was evidently not a navy on the line, and there was something about his appearance which made it difficult for Ronald to place him; he would have looked like a clerk out of a berth—for he wore a dark lounge jacket—but, in place of a collar, was a dingy blue scarf with white spots; and no clerk, even in the last extremity, would be minus a collar of some sort; both the coat and the trousers were old and frayed, and the soles of his boots, presented unashamedly to Ronald's gaze, were in holes. Ronald knew that the seedy overcoat, which had slipped from him when he rose, belonged to the man, who still continued to regard him with quizzing gravity, and Ronald said:

"This is your coat? It was awfully kind of you to put it over me."

"Don't mention it, sir," said the man, with a strong Cockney accent, and shifting his extremely short clay cutty to the corner of his mouth.

"You look cold, as the man said when he put the oyster in the oven; so I just chucked it over you, sir."

Ronald threw him the coat, with a repeated thanks, and, stretching himself, looked out of the window.

"Are we near London, guard?" he asked.

"Pretty nigh, sir," replied the guard; close on Nine Elms. I shall pull up on a siding there, and I'm afraid I'll have to ask you two gentlemen to step out when I do; for I might get into trouble for taking passengers. You understand?"

"Quite so," said Ronald promptly.

"I'm very much obliged to you, guard; I particularly wanted to reach London to-day."

"Same 'ere," remarked his fellow-passenger.

The guard glanced at him with a smile.

"Well, you've worked your passage, so to speak," he said. "Gave us a hand at one of the shuntings, sir," he explained to Ronald; "made himself very useful, for we were short-handed; said he wanted to go to London, so I chanced it, and gave him a lift; in for a penny, in for a pound."

"That's what the cove said when he 'it the second p'liceman on the 'ead," commented the man, with intense gravity.

Ronald paid the tribute of a laugh to this witticism, and took out his pipe; but the guard shook his head, and Ronald put the unlit pipe in his mouth in imitation of his fellow passenger, who nodded approvingly, and remarked:

"An empty pipe's better than no smoke; and it don't burn the tongue. My old mudder, bless 'er 'eart, used to say, 'If ever you're 'ungry, Chorley, try and pretend as you've 'ad a good blow-out; it's wonderful 'ow filling it is.'"

Ronald laughed again.

"There's something in that, Mr. Chorley," he said.

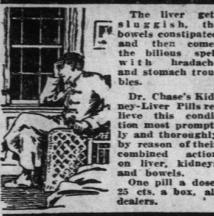

"That's just what the man said when he blew 'is 'air off with a gun as he thought wasn't loaded," observed the man. "But you ain't got my name quite right, sir. 'Chorley's the name I was christened by; the other one is 'Smivers.'"

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Smithers," said Ronald, making a guess at the proper pronunciation.

"That's it, sir," said Smithers, with a nod. "You've got it the first time, though you give it the fancy pronunciation, which is a bit too hard for general use."

Ronald was attracted by the man, by his simple yet shrewd face, his cheerful philosophy, and his quaint

Bilious Headache

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

way of expressing it, and, to carry on the conversation, said:

"You've been down the line?"

"Yes, sir," replied Smithers. "Been looking for work. That's a pretty hard job in itself, like 'unting for a pin in a straw-yard.'"

"What kind of work are you looking for?"

"Any kind; though I should 'ave preferred something soft, as the man said when they arst 'im what he'd 'ave for dinner, after he'd been to the dentist; but, soft or 'ard, it's all the same; work's as scarce in the country as it is in Lunnon."

"What can you do?" asked Ronald, with a vague idea of being able to help the amusing fellow.

"There ain't no time to tell you, sir," replied Smithers, glancing at the window, past which the houses in the outskirts of London were flashing rapidly. "I've tried me 'and at most things, but nothing seems to stand by me, as the gentleman observed when he was crossing the Channel. I started as an errand boy, but was too fond o' marbles; then I was a two-legged camel."

"What on earth is that?" asked Ronald, with a laugh.

"Porter, sir; but I was only like a camel about the face; I wasn't strong enough. Then I was cook at one o' them cabby and poultice shops—"

"I'm afraid you'll have to explain again," said Ronald.

"Horse-flesh sausage and mashed potato," explained Smithers gravely. "Arter that I was a tout at a cheap photographer's; you stand outside the door with a photograph, nicely framed, in your 'and, and politely arst the people to step inside and 'ave their likeness took. I kept that place for quite a little time; but the photographer was a poor 'and at the game, and one day a middle-aged female, bein' dissatisfied with 'er photograph set to bangin' me with 'er umbrella, with a big crowd laughin' and cheerin' 'er on. That wasn't what you'd call exactly good enough; for, not bein' a married man, I wasn't used to it; so I threw up the situation and went in for the cheap-jack line."

"I think that ought to have suited you," said Ronald.

Take "Cascarets" If Headachy, Bilious And Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, had breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache. Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you up by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

TOO MANY CHURCHES

In Pumpkinnville the fourteen churches have no support that's strong and stout; and all the time the village searches its clothes for coins to help them out. The pastors go upon their uppers, they're hungry-looking men and lean, as they arrange for chicken suppers, to pay for coal and kerosene. They can't put much into a sermon, not much of eloquence or vim, with each so poor he can't determine just when the poor farm will get him. The churchyards all are rank and weedy, for none will pay to mow the grass; the churches all look frayed and seedy, they're needing paint and window glass. In Pumpkinnville one church might flourish, and be a prosperous concern, and there'd be wealth its work to nourish, while yet the lamps hold out to burn. And it could hire a pair of dingers of clergymen, in turn to preach, and can the bunch of hayseed singers, engaging some who've learned to screech. But Pumpkinnville has fourteen churches, and each is poorer than the rest, and evermore the village searches for pennies for them, in its vest.

CHASE & SANBORN, MONTREAL.

"Yes, sir; you mean I'm such a modest, retiring sort 'o cove, as the periwinkle said to the pin? Well, I got a stand at the corner of the Old Kent Road, and sold knives that you could ride to Romford on, and purses with 'arf a crown in 'em, for a shillin' apiece. Of course, the 'arf-crown was up me sleeve. I could show yer 'ow to do it, if I 'ad a purse and the coin—"

Ronald, with a laughing "Here you are!" tossed him half a crown; and Smithers, pretending to throw it into a purse, passed it cleverly up his sleeve, then offered to restore it to his owner; but Ronald shook his head.

"Oh, keep it," he said; "you've earned it fairly. You do it well."

"That's what the police said; too well," observed Mr. Smithers, touching his cap. "Thank you, sir." He looked at the coin affectionately.

"That's the first 'arf-crown I've seen for a precious long time. I'd 'ave it framed if I could afford it. Where was I? Oh, ah! After the cheap-jack business came to a sudden end, I went into the coster business; but my voice wasn't strong enough for k. People don't believe yer things is any good unless you can holler loud enough to deafen 'em; and it's my belief that most of the time the women is exasperated into buyin', just to stop yer row for a minute. When my voice broke down, I took on a lamp-lighter's job; but I'm a poor shot, and I allus poked the stick through the glass, so I chucked it and engaged myself to an undertaker as a mute—one o' them covs as stands afore the door when there's a funeral, with a sash round 'is 'at and a stick with a bit o' crape on top o' it in 'is 'and; but I got the sack afore the week was out; the gov'nor said as I was too cheerful lookin'—'nough to make the corpse rise up and laugh."

"What made you go into the country?" asked Ronald.

"Well, I 'eard a good deal about 'goin' back to the old land,' sir," said Smithers, with cheerful gravity; "and so I thought I'd give it a try; but it seems as 'ow you couldn't get back to a thing you'd never been at, and, if you try it on, you'll make a mess o' it. Did you ever notice what a slippery thing a cabbage is, sir?"

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Nov. 22. The Governor, Newfoundland: Dardanelles.—Two British aeroplanes successfully attacked the railway station near Enos. One pilot, brought down by the enemy's fire, was rescued and brought away safely by the other pilot. In the Anzac zone we succeeded on the 20th in occupying part of the enemy's underground workings.

France.—Artillery duels. Russia.—The Germans have been forced back west of Dvinsk. Near the Syr the Russians have recaptured Martorysk.

Italy.—Important successes are reported on the Isonzo front, especially northwest of Gorizia. About six hundred prisoners have been captured. Serbia.—Novibazar has fallen. The enemy armies claim many prisoners. BONAR LAW.

BRITISH AVIATORS.

LONDON, Nov. 22. Two British aeroplanes successfully attacked a railway station at Terejik, near Enos, on Nov. 19th. One machine was brought down by enemy fire, but the pilot managed to land safely in the marshes opposite a river, where he burned his machine. Meanwhile the pilot of the second machine, who was alone, seeing his friend's mishap, landed beside him and succeeded in bringing him away just in time to escape capture by the enemy, who was running towards Terejik. It is in Southern Bulgaria, near the Turkish border and across the Gulf of Saros, from the Gallipoli Peninsula. It marks the junction of Adrianople-Dedagatch and the Dedagatch-Salonika railroads, and the attack was made by the aviators from the Peninsula to interrupt railway communication with the Bulgarians. At Russell's Top, near Anzac zone, on the western side of the Gallipoli Peninsula, where the Turks recently fired a mine, we succeeded in occupying on Nov. 20th part of the enemy's underground workings. The attack occurred at night, and two Turks were shot by an officer and several others killed by bombs.

PIERCE FIGHTING.

GENEVA, Nov. 22. That there was unbridled fury in the battle for the possession of Gorizia, and that heavy loss of life was occasioned thereby, was emphasized by advices received in Switzerland from Alibach, Austria. It is said that thousands of dead and wounded men are lying between the Austrian and Italian lines, having fallen in an endless succession of attacks and counter-attacks. The battle proceeds without rest on the exhausted soldiers. Red Cross workers are overwhelmed by the great numbers of wounded.

VICTORY OVER BULGARIANS.

PARIS, Nov. 22. The report that the Serbians have won an important victory over the Bulgarians near Leskovate, on the Nish-Salonika railroad, 25 miles south of Nish, is corroborated in a despatch received to-day from the Serbian Minister at Athens. The message says that after a battle of several days, in which the Bulgarians sustained enormous losses, the remnants of their army fled in disorder to the eastern bank of the Morava river.

BLOCKADE OF GREECE.

LONDON, Nov. 22. Information of the commercial blockade of Greece is described as the first installment of the only medicine which can cure King Constantine's affliction, by the Pall Mall Gazette, which adds that the one argument with Constantine is amenable is the demonstration that the Allies are armed with more than amiability, and are ready and able to punish those who play tricks with them. We have seen enough to convince us we can rely upon good faith in that quarter, only by exhibiting the punishment which awaits guilt. The blockade is already the beginning of that process to which supplements should be forthcoming without delay.

WAR ZONE AROUND GREECE.

SALONIKA, Nov. 22. It is rumored here that the Entente Allies have decided to carry the commercial blockade to the extent of establishing a war zone around Greece, and cutting of all supplies. Greece expresses the hope that no such drastic action will be taken. The Associated Press says definitely, however, that the French authorities have unofficially made the strongest representations to the throne respecting the necessity that the Greeks give assurance of more active co-operation with the Allies. Denys Cochin, the French Minister, who has been conferring with the Greek officials, has gone to the front.

TURKISH TRANSPORT SUNK.

LONDON, Nov. 22. Sinking of a Turkish transport, which was carrying 5,000 soldiers across the Sea of Marmora, is reported in a message from Seurich. The message says that the transport struck a mine, and that nearly all on board were drowned.

FRENCH AND BRITISH FORCES CAPTURE CITY OF TIBATE.

PARIS, Nov. 22. An official announcement was made to-day of the capture of the city of Tibate, a German colony in the Kameruns, Western Africa, by French and British forces, as the result of a surprise attack. The statement follows: A French column, operating in the Kameruns, surprised the German forces on Nov. 3rd. The Germans, who were entrenched in the heights in the region of Tibate, were defeated and retreated in great disorder. The Germans were expecting an attack from the north, whereas the French, by a detour, made the attack from the south. On the next day the British column joined with the French in the occupation of Tibate, the great native city whose Sultan and population welcomed the French and British force as saving them from oppressive German rule. Advices received here from Cape Town show that with the opening of the dry season there has been a renewal of activity on the part of the forces operating against the Germans in the Kameruns. Great difficulties have been encountered during the wet season, although it is reported the Germans are being hemmed in gradually from all sides. The German headquarters are at Gaunde, where the Governor-General is with a strong force with abundant artillery, and formidable entrenchments. The northern end of Kamerun has been cleared of Germans with the exception of Mora. From the east, the French under General Cantier, have been pursuing a vigorous offensive. From the west, important British movements are recorded. From the Nigerian border the International Army under General Dohell, is advancing eastward in the direction of Jaunde. As the Germans fell back, they virtually cleared the country of supplies, and it is reported that large numbers of natives are destitute and that some areas have been almost depopulated. The aim of the Allied forces has been to occupy the important road centres, and thus cut off the German retreat.

proposes to issue war loan bonds of one pound, and multiples thereof, bearing five per cent. interest. In making this announcement to-day in the Commons, Reginald McKenna, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said that subscriptions to the war loan on the plans previously adopted to attract small subscriptions, had proved disappointing. These subscriptions aggregated only five million pounds. The working classes, he said, evidently preferred two and one-half per cent. from savings bank investment than the loan, which was liable to fluctuate. The Chancellor emphasized strongly and urgently the necessity, in the interest of both themselves and the State, that persons now enjoying exceptional wages should save. Excessive expenditure by any class cannot be tolerated, he continued. At this moment economy in expenditure is vitally necessary. The nation must be made to understand that a suitable instrument must be devised by means whereof we may avail ourselves of the nation's earnings. McKenna said it was on this account that the Government intended to issue bonds of small denominations, which will be convertible into cash at face value on demand. A strong committee will be appointed to popularize these bonds among workers.

LORD ROBERT CECIL'S REPLY.

LONDON, Nov. 22. Replying in the Commons to-day to a question regarding China's response to the joint representations of the Entente Powers on the contemplated change of the Chinese form of Government, and as to the possibility of taking further steps, Lord Robert Cecil, Parliamentary Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said that China had received the advice in the friendly spirit which it was offered, and that there was no necessity for further action.

FORTRESSES CAPTURED BY THE ENEMY.

BERLIN, Nov. 22. Forty fortresses have been captured by the armies of the Central Powers to date, according to a compilation made by the Overseas News Agency. Five of these fortresses were in Serbia. Among the citadels captured were some like those of Antwerp and Brest Litovsk, some of which had been counted the strongest in the world.

Good "Bad Boys."

Heroes From the Reformatory.

(Daily Mail, Oct. 30.)

Bad boys make good soldiers.

That is the inference to be drawn from the report issued last night of the Chief Inspector of Reformatory and Industrial Schools, Mr. C. E. B. Russell. He is evidently a believer in boys, for he has come to the conclusion that boys are not bad by nature, a theory which the war has done much to prove. In eight months 1,457 boys from industrial and reformatory schools entered the Army and the Navy, and 2,684 boys enlisted while under supervision. Here is their roll of honor:

Killed	530
Died of wounds	49
Wounded	1,530

This is the list of honor won by them: Victoria Cross 3
D.C.M. 25
Mentioned in despatches 20
Given Commissions 8

"Opportunity has been given by the war," states Mr. Russell, "to show the innate sterling qualities of thousands of boys too lightly termed bad or even 'criminal' by those who have little real knowledge of boy nature and understand not at all that really evil intent and viciousness is foreign to boy nature in general. In these lads the schools have had the making of some of the finest soldiers of our time."

Mr. Russell's understanding is akin to that of fiction writers who have always seen the good in the bad boy. They have sent him flubustering about the world to return—a man. The bad boy's badness is generally misdirected energy.

Not the least admirable feature of our reformatory heroes is a sense of loyalty to their schools. "I will do my best to bring credit to the school by doing my utmost and not acting cowardly," wrote one. That boy had the public-school spirit; he was a gentleman.

St. Barbe Count.

It is probable that with favorable weather the returns from St. Barbe will be made known by Thursday night next.

The S.S. Home left Cook's Harbor at 4 p.m. yesterday, coming south. As Cook's Harbor is the terminal point of the route of the Earl of Devon it is presumed that the ballot boxes from the east side of St. Barbe district collected by the latter ship are now on board the Home which is due at Bonne Bay about Thursday morning. The Home is making all her usual ports of call on the way South, and will collect the remaining ballot boxes and bring them to Bonne Bay where the count takes place.

For Acid Stomachs Use Magnesia.

The almost universal use of magnesia by physicians and specialists in the treatment of stomach troubles, is due to the fact that it stops food fermentation and neutralizes the acid—the direct cause of nearly all stomach troubles. Of the many forms of magnesia such as oxides, citrates, carbonates, sulphates, etc., the most suitable and efficient and the one prescribed by leading specialists is bisurated magnesia, a teaspoonful of which in a little warm water immediately after eating will instantly neutralize the acid, stop fermentation, and thus ensure painless normal digestion. Care should be taken to get bisurated magnesia, as its action is infinitely more effective. It is also, by the way, usually stocked by druggists in convenient compressed tablets as well as in the ordinary powder form. Stomach sufferers and dyspeptics who follow this plan and avoid the use of pepsin, charcoal, soda mints, drugs and medicines are invariably astonished to find that the stomach, relieved of its irritant acid and gas, soon regains its normal tone, and can do its work alone without the doubtful aid of artificial digestants.

Private Cooper Recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, of Brennan Street, are in receipt of letters stating that their son, Private James Cooper of the Newfoundland Regiment, who had been ill of dysentery, is now at Wandsworth Hospital, and is doing well. The young soldier wrote a few lines under date Oct. 22nd while on the way to England on H.M.S. Aquitania. Owing to his weak condition part of the letter was written by Surgeon-Major Macpherson, who said that he hoped the young soldier would make a complete and good recovery. Other letters from Mrs. G. J. Stabb, who visited him in hospital, and Mr. Henry Reeves, Hon. Secretary of the Newfoundland War Contingent Association, stating that Private Cooper is progressing favorably and that everything possible was being done for his comfort.

Good Autumn Fishery.

The codfishery on the local grounds is being continued yet and with success. Whenever conditions are any way favourable to allow motor boats from the Battery getting out, good catches are secured. The autumn voyage has been unprecedentedly good for St. John's fishermen and we are informed that several parties of the Battery and South Side settlements have done so well this season that they have doubled the catches of any previous year.

Miss Furlong and staff and the young lady volunteers and boy scouts were kept continually busy, the latter delivering the goods purchased. Pacific Blockade of Greece.

The embargo which was laid on the exportation of certain articles from Entente territories to Greece, is apparently being followed up by a Pacific Blockade of the Greek coasts. The object of the Embargo on exports was to prevent Greece obtaining articles for warlike purposes and building up national stores of supplies. So far there is no official news here of any Proclamation of the Pacific blockade of Greece. The earliest precedent for a Pacific blockade occurred in connection with the Near East. In 1827, Great Britain, France and Russia blockaded all the coasts of Greece occupied by Turkish forces. Since that date a course of this kind has been followed by Great Britain, France and Germany to exert pressure on states with whom difficulties have arisen. The course followed usually, is to institute a blockade along a certain coast, and at the same time issue a proclamation declaring that a state of peace is maintained. Hence the name, Pacific Blockade. In 1897 there was an insurrection in Crete against Turkey and the Great Powers instituted a Pacific blockade, to prevent supplies reaching the insurgents and to prevent Greece sending troops to the aid of the Greek insurgents. Thirteen years ago Great Britain and Germany instituted a Pacific blockade of Venezuela. It will be seen from these cases, that there are abundant precedents for this action. Exports from Greece are fruits such as olives, oranges, lemons, figs, almonds, citron, pomegranate and currant-grape, dried currants particularly. Her imports are cotton and other manufactures, corn, timber, cattle, hides, sugar, salt fish and coal. It will be seen from this list of imports that a Pacific Blockade of Greece will seriously hamper the Greek people.

Obituary.

EDWARD KENNEDY.

With regret we record the passing of Mr. Edward Kennedy, of Avondale, whose death occurred at that place yesterday morning. The deceased was one of the most successful planters of Conception Bay and was well known for his enterprise and industry in connection with the Labrador fishery. He was most successful in his business undertakings, and was very generous with the profits derived from his avocations. An instance of this was his generous contribution of $1,000 to the Patriotic Fund about a year ago. He is survived by a widow, four daughters, two of whom are nuns, and three sons, the eldest of whom Mr. George Kennedy is M.H.A. for the district of Harbor Main. To these and the other relatives of the deceased the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

LORD DERBY ON RECRUITING.

LONDON, To-day.

The country is bound and it is determined to see this war through to the end, said Earl Derby, talking to American correspondents yesterday, regarding the British recruiting campaign of which he is in charge. People are as determined to carry on the war as they were in August last year and we will win it. That much, Lord Derby said, he was willing to affirm as a result of the canvass of the country he has been managing. More definite information he was obliged to withhold, until the formal announcement of the results of the canvass which would be made December 11th. In accordance with that policy, he declined to answer whether the responses had exceeded his expectations or otherwise, or to indicate whether the number of recruits obtained meet the War Office requirements. Lord Derby said it would be a great achievement if the nation carried on the war successfully without compulsion. He attributed the previous failure of many to come forward largely to the fact that the necessities of the case had not been realized. The fact that Britain primarily was a naval power with the largest navy in the world, and that the navy was doing all that had been expected of it, also, he thought, had its effect on recruiting. He attached very little importance to the few persons trying to discourage enlistments. He repeated with emphasis his conclusion that the spirit of the people is sound and that Britain and her Allies will win the war.

MORE HUN FALSEHOODS.

LONDON, To-day.

The categorical denial was given by the British Admiralty last night to the German statements that British hospital ships were being used for other than hospital purposes. The announcement says there are 42 and not 70 hospital ships plying to and from the Mediterranean; that they carry only sick or wounded soldiers, nurses, members of the medical staff, and medical stores. The announcement concludes that previous experience suggests this series of falsehoods foreshadows attacks on British hospital ships by German submarines.

CASUALTIES AMONG OFFICERS.

LONDON, To-day.

The officers' casualty lists for the fortnight ending October 25th, show the British army in all the theatres of war lost 474 officers killed, 827 wounded, 147 missing, a total of 1,458 which bring the casualties since the beginning of the war to 19,668, of these 6,033 were killed or died of wounds, 11,952 wounded, and 1,683 reported as missing.

OBJECTS TO PUBLICATION.

WASHINGTON, To-day.

It develops that the British Government gave out for publication the contents of a report made by Ambassador Gerard at Berlin, regarding alleged cruel treatment of British war prisoners in German prison camps, the United States may determine that such publication is embarrassing and make representations to prevent publication of any similar reports. The State Department feels that a report of such a nature, made by an American diplomat, acting for Britain, should not be given out for publication.

GERMAN RESERVISTS & CANADA.

LONDON, To-day.

The Evening World this afternoon publishes the following—Washington 22nd, Cleveland, Buffalo, Toledo and Detroit and other great State cities have been specified in the prospectus of the British Embassy from which attack on Canada was to be launched by German reservists. The British Embassy said to-day so far however, nothing has been discovered to warrant a protest to this Government.

SUPPOSED EFFECT OF SERBIAN VICTORY.

PETROGRAD, To-day.

Advice received by Serbian Legation to-day concerning the defeat of the Bulgarians near Nish last Saturday, said the Serbs victory is expected to delay indefinitely the re-opening of the railway to Constantinople.

READY IN A FEW DAYS.

SOPIA, To-day.

Premier Radosloff in an interview to-day announced that express trains would be running from Sofia to Budapest in a few days, as soon as the work repairs on the Sofia-Belgrade stretch of line is completed.

HEAVY BOMBARDMENT GOING ON.

LONDON, To-day.

The following British official statement has been issued—"Our artillery has during the past four days carried out an organized bombardment of many portions of the hostile lines with great effect. In the evenings the artillery has been active north of Loos, East of Armentieres and East of Ypres and German aeroplanes landed within our lines southwest of Ypres, Nov. 19th, the pilot observer, who stated they had lost their way, were captured. The machine was not damaged. The statements in a German report of the 21st regarding our front are incorrect in every particular. The report says a large mine was successfully exploded in a section of Ypres on the Sonnebek railway. The mine in question exploded well in front of our trenches. It caused no damage and no casualties. We have occupied the ground on the tiber side of the crater. The enemy made air raids on Poperinghe on November 18 and 20, no damage whatever was done to the railway or any building. In the first raid two soldiers were wounded, and 4 cows killed. In the second raid one bomb caused casualties to 8 men. None of the other had any effect. With regard to the enemy's estimate of his losses in killed on Oct. 25th. He apparently is attempting to deceive by referring only to one small portion of the battle field, while my report referred to the whole attack. On the 25th of October the enemy attacked not only southwest of Loos but also southeast and northeast of that place. All other information obtained, including this report, as to the casualties southwest of Loos, is confirmed in my original estimate."

BETTER NEWS FROM SERBIA.

LONDON, To-day.

No definite news has been received here as to Greece's reply to the Entente Allies' demands for guarantees to the safety of Anglo-French troops landed at Saloniki for that of Serbians who might be forced over the Greek frontier. One despatch from Athens, however, says the Greek Cabinet is disposed to accept the conditions laid down by the Entente Powers, except the condition requiring Greece to participate in the war, and that a solution of the whole difficulty may be expected immediately. Meantime the blockade of Greek commerce has commenced. Italy, it is reported, is participating in the measures of restraint decided upon. That with the news that the Serbs have won a victory over Bulgarians north east of Pristina, that the Bulgarians delayed their march to Monastir, that the Austro-Germans are laboring under difficulties as a result of wintry weather have created a more hopeful feeling in the capitals of the Entente Allies. British and French forces are daily being strengthened by men and guns landed at Saloniki. In part reinforcements are being sent to Monastir where the Serbs also are reported to be concentrating and threatening the Bulgarians at Prilep. Roumania finds herself in much the same position as Greece with both the Entente Allies and the Central Powers bringing pressure to bear upon her. The Germans it is said, are asking Roumania to give assurance of her continued neutrality and also offering concessions if she intervenes in the war on the side of the Entente Allies. With a big Russian army at Bessarabia, however, it is believed, in military circles here, it is hardly likely that Roumania will accept the second alternative. On the whole it is expected here that the firm attitude of the Entente Powers towards Greece will clear the Balkan situation before very long. There is little news of importance from any other fronts. The Italians by their continued offensive are strengthening their positions around Govezza, which it is believed cannot hold out much longer. On the Western front the British and French artillery have become more active in Flanders and Champagne, which on previous occasions has been the signal for offensive movements. The Russians since they regained the ground they lost along the Sty River have been inactive except for minor attacks at Dvinsk.

EXECUTION OF EGYPTIANS.

WASHINGTON, To-day.

The execution at Boirnt of eleven members of an Egyptian secret society, which it is claimed, had for its object the dismemberment of Turkey and the creation of an independent Arabian state, under the protection of Britain, was announced to-day by the Turkish Embassy. Members of the society, the Embassy alleges, planned to assassinate high officials and many other prominent people.

MEAGRE INDEMNITIES OFFERED FOR LUSITANIA VICTIMS.

WASHINGTON, To-day.

Secretary of State Lansing and Ambassador Von Bernstorff agreed to make public any information relating to their conversations over the reparations to be made by Germany for American lives lost on the Lusitania. Secretary Lansing let this be known to-day, declining to comment on reports that Germany through the Ambassador, had proposed to pay an indemnity of five thousand dollars each for Americans. That offer had been declined.

HUN BOMBAST.

BALTIMORE, MD., To-day.

Otto Buelow, suspected as a deserter from the converted cruiser Prinz Eitel, now interned at Norfolk, declared that in six months' time there will not be a munitions plant in operation in the United States, according to Detective Robert Porter, who took the man to Norfolk last Friday night. Porter said Buelow seemed to know the location of all munitions plants in the country. He told the officer he had been arrested just one day too soon and that he knew a whole lot but would die before telling it.

WILL VISIT CONSTANTINE.

LONDON, To-day.

A despatch from Athens says Deneys Cochin, member of the French Cabinet, has returned to the capital for a three days' visit and that he again will be received by King Constantine.

GREEK MINISTER ANGRY.

LONDON, To-day.

The only thing we want is peace and you are trying to force us to make war, said D. G. Rhallis, Greek Minister of Justice and guiding spirit in the Cabinet, in an interview with the Daily Mail's correspondent at Athens. The British Government and British press, continued M. Rhallis, are taking a disgraceful and infamous attitude toward us. You are starving us. Only today two more wheat vessels have been stopped by you, your Government having piled fault on fault and delay on delay with only a few thousand troops to help us, wants to force us to step in and die. You want us to succor you when no English soldiers have shed their blood in Serbia and when scarcely an English rifle has been fired. We do not wish to be another Belgium or another Serbia. We love Serbia, but before attempting to rescue a drowning friend one should be sure his efforts are not merely useless sacrifice.

SERBS TAKE BULGARS IN REAR.

LONDON, To-day.

The Times' Voden-Greece correspondent, telegraphing Thursday, says Bulgarian forces halting 6 miles east of Prilep, are reported to have been taken in the rear by the Serbs advancing from the Katchanak frontier.

A DESPATCH RECEIVED HERE FROM A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE BRITISH ARMY AT SALONIKA, DATED SUNDAY, SAYS THE ONLY TROOPS OF THE ENTENTE ALLIED FORCES WHICH HAVE THIS FAR BEEN IN ACTION IN THIS WAR THEATRE ARE THE FRENCH, GENERAL SADI, COMMANDER OF THE FRENCH FORCES, ON ARRIVING AT THE SCENE OF OPERATIONS TOOK UP THE TASK WITH GREAT ENERGY. WITHOUT WAITING FOR THE WHOLE FORCE TO BE TRANSPORTED UP COUNTRY, HE BOLDLY ATTACKED THE ENEMY WITH THE PURPOSE OF EFFECTING A JUNCTION WITH THE SERBS, HOLDING THE BABANA PASS. AT ONE MOMENT THIS JUNCTION WAS WITHIN 10 MILES OF BEING MADE. THE SERBS ARMY FELL BACK BEFORE SUPERIOR NUMBERS AND WITHDREW OUT OF THE REACH OF THE FRENCH.

A despatch received here from a representative of the British Army at Salonika, dated Sunday, says the only troops of the Entente Allied forces which have thus far been in action in this war theatre are the French, General Sadi, Commander of the French forces, on arriving at the scene of operations took up the task with great energy. Without waiting for the whole force to be transported up country, he boldly attacked the enemy with the purpose of effecting a junction with the Serbs, holding the Babana Pass. At one moment this junction was within 10 miles of being made. The Serbs army fell back before superior numbers and withdrew out of the reach of the French.

SERBIANS REOCCUPY LINE.

LONDON, To-day.

At Athens it is announced officially that Serbian soldiers have re-occupied the front on Velez-Prilep line and are advancing towards Babuna to reinforce troops defending the Pass. The general situation of the Serbians, though unsatisfactory, does not exclude the possibility of a safe retreat to the south and the maintenance of communication with the French and British.

I Don't Believe It.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I don't believe it." That is what a friend of mine frequently says afterwards when she has heard any one make a statement which seems improbable to her. Whenever I hear her say that, I think of a decision I made when I was a very small girl. I decided a little cousin of mine didn't tell the truth.

You see she had told me two things that no one could believe. One was that she had twice sat up until half-past eleven. Now the latest I had ever sat up was ten o'clock, and that only once a year, and I didn't believe any child would ever be permitted to sit up later than that. It certainly stood to reason that if my mother, whom I recognized to be rather indulgent, didn't let me sit up after ten, Rosie's mother, who was distinctly strict, would never have let her sit up until half-past eleven.

I knew it couldn't have happened. The other lie was this. Once upon a time, said Rosie, her mother had been a man who had taken hold of an electric wire and in some way had been caught by that electricity and she couldn't let go of the wire, and it hurt him dreadfully. So much of the story I accepted, the rest I considered incredible. When another man tried to pull the first man away (according to Rosie), the electricity caught him too and he couldn't get away either, and then another man caught hold of him, and finally there was a whole string of men, who couldn't let go of each other.

I didn't tell Rosie that I didn't believe the story. We were too good friends for that. I didn't stop loving her either, but I sadly set her down in my mind as a person with a habit of taking liberties with the truth, and discounted many of her subsequent statements accordingly.

Poor, misjudged Rosie! Afterwards, when my experience and knowledge of the world broadened sufficiently for me to know I had misjudged her, it was too late to tell her.

Very Few People Tell Downright Lies. However, I have learned a lesson. All is not incredible that sounds so. One's experience is just as apt to be telling the lie as one's friend. A great many people exaggerate or smooth things off; comparatively few tell downright lies.

When anyone says a thing which seems incredible to you, it may be that your experience is too limited for you to understand it. Or it may be that circumstances which appear to contradict the statements are false. Appearances are deceitful, and even figures, which should be the most exact and coldblooded things in the world, are said to lie. Don't be too quick to set your neighbor down as a liar by saying, "I don't believe it." Remember, if he is telling the truth you are a slanderer. Give him and yourself the benefit of the doubt.

With My Letter Friends.

Question—Don't you believe that most people have true love mates and that they generally meet sooner or later, and when they do meet, if marriage should be the result, would not that be the happiest union ever? And don't you believe that where true love exists, there is scarcely a sacrifice too great for either one to make for the other or a fault too bad for one to overlook in the other?

Answer—Personally I don't believe that there is only one true mate for each individual, but rather one type with which each type will be happiest. As to faults, love does help a lot; but remember that some people aren't big enough even under the influence of the greatest love they are capable of to overcome their own faults or bear patiently with the faults of others. However, I don't mean to discourage you. Don't mind me.

Rules Are Given for the Sending of Foreign Mail.

The Post Office Department at Ottawa has issued the following statement regarding the packing of parcels for soldiers at the front.

"The public is urged to exercise every care in packing parcels for the troops as careful packing is absolutely essential to ensure delivery of the parcels in good order. 'Parcels sent abroad requires a higher standard of packing than is necessary in the Canadian Parcel Post and this applies with even greater force to parcels for the troops. Those which are inadequately packed run great risk of damage or loss of contents.

"Thin cardboard boxes, such as shoe boxes, and thin wooden boxes, should not be used; nor does a single sheet of ordinary brown paper afford sufficient protection. The following forms of packing are recommended.

- THE RIGHT BOX.
- (1) Strong double cardboard boxes, preferably those made of corrugated cardboard, and having lids which completely enclose the sides of the boxes.
 - (2) Strong wooden boxes.
 - (3) Several folds of stout packing paper.
 - (4) Additional security is offered by an outer covering of linen, calico or canvas, which should be securely sewn up.
- The address of the parcel should be written in ink on the cover, preferably in two places.

The address of the sender of the parcel should also be stated in order that it may be returned if undeliverable. The contents of the parcel should be stated in writing on the cover.

Parcels sent to the Mediterranean Force, should be very strongly packed. They should be as nearly round as possible, and well padded with shavings, crumpled paper, or similar protective material. The outer covering should consist of strong linen, calico or canvas, and should be securely sewn up.

Open Hall.

The weather has been very disagreeable for a while back which have detained many people from doing their work they have to do properly, not only that but it has caused some people a deal of loss through it. During the gale of wind which raged on Wednesday past did a small share of damage here as in many other places. I regret to say the Majestic, which was lying at anchor here, was driven from her moorings and became a total wreck, she was a schooner of 25 tons, owned by James Gould, but she was fully covered by insurance. The auctioneer's sale of the hull and spars took place to-day, and was sold at the low price of $4.00. Mr. John Butt acted as auctioneer-man. The rigging of the schooner is to be conveyed to Greenspond. There was also a schr. driven ashore at Plate Cove and likewise became a total wreck. Mr. John Lane who was returning from St. John's in his schooner, was driven off by the gale until picked up by the S.S. Dundee; he had a share of his canvas carried away; all of his crew are well. His relations and friends at Tickle Cove and elsewhere are proud to hear of his safety. Also another such a case in which Mr. Aubrey Brown of King's Cove was picked up near Cape Broyle and towed to safety in St. John's.

A letter recently received from Private A. Andrews of Upper Gullies to a friend, states that "AH" is well and in good spirits. He is with the Canadians somewhere in France. T. Hanrahan, M.A., Superintendent of R. C. Schools, has paid his annual visit to the school here. Letters recently received from Private Warren, of this place, states that he has a skin disease. His friends and relatives are anxiously awaiting to hear of his recovery.

RAMBLING NOTES for 1915.

(I. C. MORRIS.)

CHAPTER III.

But the old tool-chest which lay in the corner of the stable was not the only object of interest that we found so near us; nor was the tradesman the only class of man that helped to build up Newfoundland. It took all classes of men to do it, learned and illiterate, professional and lay; but foremost among them were clergymen and school-masters.

And so in the churchyard, and not far from the grave of our centenarian we saw a monument erected to the memory of an aged divine of the Church of England; and as we read down the inscription, we found that it suggested sufficient data for a chapter in our 1915 notes. The name was that of the Rev. Benjamin Fleet, who for nearly forty years laboured along the South Shore, and who for an equal space of time has slept in peace "far from the maddening strife."

Benjamin Fleet was an English lad of London, and was highly educated, and came out to Newfoundland almost a century ago, and taught school at Trinity. When a boy, he sang in the choir of Westminster Abbey, and sang there at the funeral obsequies of Nelson. His life in Newfoundland was one of austerity and self-denial. As a reader of Scripture he was admitted to be one of the best that ever stood at a lectern. He had the gift and habit of personifying the character of whom he read. Had he chosen to work in some larger or more popular mission, he would perhaps have been better known; and had he espoused the latitude in preaching and reading, which nonconformity admits of, he would at least be known as one of the evangelists of the eighteenth century. But he chose differently and led a life akin to that of the recluse, but at the same time devoting full care to the spiritual wants of his flock.

In his day there were not any railroads, and his position was much more isolated than it would be at the present time. He did not have a real parsonage nor a rectory in which to live but he made it a choice to live plainly; and with the assistance of a young man, as page, he performed all his duties. Relatives, he seemed to have none, and when his estate was divided, there was much dissatisfaction and no little surprise. The late Rev. Dr. Pilot stated in the columns of the Christian Tribune, about seven years ago, that the estate was valued at the sum of forty thousand dollars. It was never really known what became of it, or how it was distributed. The page, Mr. John Butler, of Middle Bright, was always given to understand that he would be remembered, and as most of the state consisted of cash, and was kept in cartridges in the room where the old clergyman slept, the page felt sure that he would be all right for his portion. But matters took a strange and unexpected turn—they generally do, and it is the unexpected that usually happens, and Mr. Butler failed to establish his claim. It has always been held that the error was not chargeable to Mr. Fleet, but that some other sources blundered, and were fortunate enough to blunder in their own behalf. It is all past history now, and the good man sleeps among the people to whose benefit he devoted his life-work, and the marble monument marks his resting place.

As I have already stated all classes of men mingled in the colonization of Newfoundland, but we must all agree that the greatest agencies for moral character, and the men who stood for the highest ideals, were those who broke the Bread of Life to the multitude. We of the present day cannot well comprehend what they endured, but we know, that like the Apostles, they were "in perils often," and that they "endured hardness as good soldiers of their Master." Let not their work be forgotten; but let their memory live, and their names be revered. Theirs was the day of simple faith. They were not imbued with the doubts of the modern New Theology nor were they disciples of "Higher Criticism," as the poet Cowper says, "They knew their Bible, and knew it true." With the expansion of Empire they followed in its march, and wherever men of enterprise went to trade, and men of industry went to work for "the bread that perisheth," they followed and freely gave of "the Bread of Life."

The Diphtheria Outbreak.

Advice by Dr. Brehm, Public Health Officer.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The prevalence and persistence of diphtheria in the City are due to the fact that there have been many cases of sore throat which, though apparently not serious enough to require medical attendance, have really been mild cases of diphtheria, and of course highly infectious. Such cases, when not properly treated and when no precautions are taken, are the means by which the disease is spread.

The public are urged to call in a doctor in every case of sore throat—whether in child or adult—however trifling the illness may seem. Every case of diphtheria can be cured if treated in time, but in every untreated case there is danger, and a delay of even a few hours may be fatal.

Those who are unable to pay a doctor should report at the Public Health Office, Customs Building, any cases of sore throat which occur in their families. In such cases the necessary visits and examinations will be made by the Health Officer, without charge.

Yours very truly,
R. A. BREHM, M.D.,
Medical Health Officer.

Crew of Schr. "Annie" Safe.

Regarding the schooner Annie, which left here yesterday week with supplies for the home port, the following message was received last night from Mr. W. J. Walsh, M.H.A., at Placentia.—

"Just received message from Capt. McCarthy of boat Annie, of Red Island, announcing arrival at Fermeuse at 4.30 p.m. after being taken off boat, 30 miles off Cape Race, by steamer Monadnock."

Messrs. Crosbie and Devereaux also received messages stating that the Cabot was at Fermeuse with the crew of the Annie aboard.

As already noted the Annie was picked up and taken in tow off the Southern Shore in the early part of last week by the Canadian steamer Seniac. The hawser broke three different times and the idea of towing was then abandoned. A few days after the Annie was reported off there by the Light Keeper at Fermeuse and subsequently by the Operator at Ferryland, the latter on Thursday night reporting that she was heading in under small canvas.

The schooner Blanche M. Rose, Clements Master, is yet unheard of. She left Groasis Islands for St. John's, fish laden, a fortnight ago yesterday. The opinion is expressed that the vessel will turn up all right and sea-faring men believe that it was the Blanche M. Rose that the Florizel sighted on Saturday on the northern edge of the Green Banks, bound westward, but showing no distress signals.

Mr. Masterman States Specifically,

WHAT THE ALLIES ARE FIGHTING FOR.

London, Nov. 15.—The Right Hon. C. F. G. Masterman, in an article entitled "The Only Peace Terms," published in the Daily Chronicle, and believed to represent the Government's view, proceeds:

"Belgium will be restored to independence, with indemnity adequate for rebuilding her cities and industries, and compensation for her disabled and her dead.

"France will receive Alsace and Lorraine, indemnity for all the damage done in the present conquered provinces; but also a neutral boundary which would render Germany's attack forever unrepeatable alike upon Belgium and France, is the boundary of the Rhine. Let Germany remain there, for the Rhine is its natural boundary.

"Denmark shall receive Schleswig, which is purely Danish.

"German, Austria and Russian Poland shall be united under the Czar or a king appointed by him.

"Italy would receive the Trentino and the whole of Italy Irredent.

"The Turkish empire would be torn to fragments, and Armenia, Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia and Thrace divided among those who would develop and revive these once fair places now desolate under alien rule. The Turks would generally be penned up in Central Anatolia.

"Serbia will be restored, with heavy indemnity, from Austro-Hungary to repair the vast damage done. She will receive Bosnia and Herzegovina, full and adequate access to the Adriatic and all of Austria that is Serb.

"A united Roumania, a united Greece, is possible, if the nations can rise to the height of their opportunity. If Greece or Roumania considers Greece, Ionia or Transylvania not worth fighting for, they will never receive them.

"The German fleet should be surrendered and either sunk or divided up among the allies. All Zeppelin or Zepplin hanzars should be burnt. German colonies, worthless in themselves, must remain as trophies for the nations who conquer them—South Africa, India, Australia and New Zealand."

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

German Editor Would Force Allies to Seek an Early Peace

By Starving Inhabitants of the Territory Won.

Rome, Nov. 18.—All previous suggestions by adherents of the Central Empire to compass the defeat of their foes are surpassed by the scheme credited to Rudolf Keller, editor of the Prager Tageblatt. He is said to have made the serious proposal that the Entente Allies be forced to sue for peace by deliberately starving the population of Belgium, France, Poland, Russia and Serbia under Teuton domination.

Such a proposal, it is held here, is a clear indication that the Central Empire are getting near the end and that their forces ardently desire peace. It is stated here that such a project be attempted it would not force the Allies in any way, but would only be the worst crime, for which the Central Empire would have to pay heavily when the day of reckoning came.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE.

"Should a young man, when riding with a lady in a street car, get up and give his seat to another lady?" queried Jack.

"Of course, it is proper for a man to get up and offer his seat to a lady whether or not he is with another lady," answered his father.

Who Are the Turks?

The statement of a Turkish Pasha that all aliens are to be cleared out of his country, and that after the war Turkey will be for the Turks only, prompts the question. Who are the Turks? Of the dozen or so different races, speaking different languages, the real Turks (if the Osmanlis may be so styled) form quite a small part of the population of European Turkey. If the Pasha had his way, it would give rise to an interesting social problem, since in the eyes of the Sultan, all Osmanlis are equal. Thus there are no class barriers to prevent an Ottoman Turk of humble birth reaching the Divan, and even marrying into the royal family itself. Pashas and Pasha have the same dignified bearing, and all alike are contemptuous of the subject races they govern—sent apparently by Allah to do the dirty work.—London Chronicle.

The Acme of Brutality.

(From the Providence Journal)

Whether the Ancona was or was not warned, whether she attempted, or did not attempt to escape, the submarine attack on this peaceful steamship, bound westward and of course carrying no munitions, was inconceivably brutal. If the lifeboats containing women and children were not deliberately fired upon, they were so surrounded and overwhelmed by a fusillade of shells that a condition of panic was immediately and inevitably created. It makes little difference whether the submarine's gunners aimed their shots directly at the boats or simply intended to produce a characteristic tonic state of "frightfulness." The result of their incredible savagery was to prevent the orderly saving of human lives. They ran amuck on the sea, and they have once more covered their sponsors, the Teutonic peoples, with deepest shame.

The more the incident is studied the more clearly it is seen to be a hideous example of German barbarism and frightfulness. It bears all the earmarks of the savagery that desolated Belgium, that sank the helpless men and women on the Lusitania, that has laughed to scorn all professions of humanity and mercy since the war began. And it is not only a crime but a blunder, for the civilized world will be more than ever determined that the Teutonic monster shall not be permitted to spread its shameful sway over the nations of the earth.

HATS AS AN ATTRIBUTE TO BEAUTY.

The wearing of a hat is a gift and there are many women who know by instinct the exact angle that a hat should be tilted. They know the precise line of hat and hair to give the best effect. But there are very many other women who have not studied the art of choosing and wearing her headgear effectively.

To choose a hat successfully, consider your imperfections, then buy a hat to lessen rather than to aggravate them. If your face is long you should not wear a hat that is high, especially in front. Neither should you have your hat trimmed with upstanding feathers and flowers. You need a hat that is soft and low to the head, something that gives width to your face, trimmed so that the lines run upward, not outward. If your face is broad you should not wear a small, closely fitting hat, for it emphasizes the size of your face.

Tall women, as a rule, should avoid tiny hats, even if they are extremely fashionable. The general trouble lies in the fact that most women refuse to see the need for slight alteration and insist on having actual copies of any style they think is being worn.

Be wise enough not to wear a tiny hat if you are tall or a picture hat if you are tiny. Get something that hits the happy medium and wear it at the correct angle to suit your face.

There is something dowdy and unsmart in any hat worn perfectly straight. Even the simplest sailor gains smartness if it is tilted just the least little bit and worn over the eyes at a correct angle.

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to a childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to some derangement of the feminine system, often curable by the proper remedies.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

In 1873 the steamer Ville de Havre collided with the steamer Lough Erne on British coast; former sank, 226 lives lost.

Private Frampton on Furlough.

Mrs. Charles Frampton is in receipt of a letter from her husband, Private Charles Frampton, of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, saying that he had arrived at Quebec on Sunday, Nov. 14th, and that he would be coming home on a short furlough to spend Christmas with his wife and little boy, who live on Boncloddy Street. In a previous letter received by the last English mail he told of his discharge from hospital and of the kindness of the doctors and nurses. Private Frampton went through several of the heavy battles in which the Canadians won such glory last spring and was wounded on May 2nd. Since then he has been in hospital in England.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

All changes in a child's diet should be made very carefully and when any new food is introduced it should be given in small quantities.

Baked potatoes is one of the easily digested vegetables and seems particularly adapted for a child's food. A little milk is best to use on it at first with a bit of salt, then butter may be added. After a child has become accustomed to potato a teaspoonful of finely mashed, seasoned beans may be given, carrot, spinach, string beans, and any vegetable not too woody.

Fruit juices may be given very early, especially prune and orange juice. Give the juice between feedings so that there may be no cause for a sour stomach. Scraped fruits, such as apples, pears, peaches and plums may be used in small quantities if great care is taken at first that the fruit is neither too ripe or under-ripe.

By combining a contrasting color with the little girl's last-year coat you can easily gain the fashionable flare. Cut the skirt of the coat of to a high-waisted line, set the new material on full and with a heading at the top, make a deep collar and cuffs of the new material and the effect will be a very pretty little coat.

"The White Mask" is the title of the great three-reel royal feature the Crescent Picture Palace is showing to-day. This great masterpiece has been shown in big New York theatres to crowded houses at prices ranging from 20 to 50c. You'll see it at the Crescent for 5c. "Rose O' the Shore" is a one-reel biograph feature, Mary Malatesta plays the principal role in this drama. "Come Round and take that Elephant away" is a unique comedy by the Selig Company, the Selig trained elephants are featured in this picture. It's a fine patriotic song that Mr. Delmar sings to-day, "I'm Proud to be the Mother of a Boy like You." A great show for little money.

GRAND PICTURES AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

Very large audiences attended the Nickel Theatre yesterday and all were charmed by the excellent programme. The Nickel shows nothing but the best in motion pictures and that is why the attendances are always large. Yesterday's bill was made up of the best pictures obtainable. The artists were all well known and the best in their profession. "The Closing of the Circuit," by the Vitagraph Co. is a very clever subject and we advise all our readers to see it. The Pathe News and "Conspiracy at the Chateau" were also excellent. The whole programme will be repeated this evening and it is certain to draw crowded houses.

A REMARKABLY CLEVER ACT.

The comedy act at Rossleys last night by Carroll and Ellor had the crowd laughing all the time. It is a very fine act and one that will surely drive away the blues, who could look at Carroll and feel dull. He is a great favourite with young and old. His gowns were beautiful. Miss Glone Ellor also wore some very beautiful wardrobe. The pictures last night were the finest ever shown. Mr. Rossley has a great surprise in store for patrons. The Rossley Orchestra is a pleasure always, with such a leader as Professor Roche, whose overture alone is well worth the price of admission.

BRITISH THEATRE.

Next Monday and Tuesday will be shown the famous four-reel feature "Richelleu," featuring Murdock MacQuarrie and Pauline Bush. This historic film cannot be surpassed, showing as it does how the illustrious Cardinal forsook the military life, and went in for ecclesiastical, rising to the highest offices in the church. As Cardinal he wielded a tremendous influence in France, especially when he accepted the appointment of Secretary of War and foreign affairs. His administration forms an epoch in the history of France. The settings of this film are magnificent and to see how the Cardinal preserved his life amid all the intrigues of the French Court is truly marvellous. Such a film as this should positively be seen by everybody.

Mapleton's Peanut Butter is made in England. When you buy it you will know its value. When the children get it on their bread they know its quality. Cheap nourishment these strenuous times. The proof of the pudding is the eating of it.

Wedding Bells.

KIERVAN—TOBIN.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Raymond's Church, Indian Hr., on Monday, Nov. 16th, when Mr. James Kiervan and Miss Annie Tobin were united in matrimony by Rev. Francis Cacciola, P.P., Bar Haven, the ceremony being witnessed by a large gathering of friends. The bride, who was attired in a gown of Belgian blue silk was attended by Miss May Bruce and the groom was supported by Mr. Austin Pomeroy. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, a large number of guests being present. The ushers at the wedding were Messrs. Richard Wyse, William Bennett, John Murray and Patrick Tobin. To Mr. and Mrs. Kiervan, who have taken up residence at Indian Harbor, the Telegram extends congratulations.

GRIFFIN—DAVIS.

The church of St. Raymond was the scene of another pretty wedding on Monday, Nov. 16th, when Mr. Thos. Griffin, of Iona, led to the altar Miss Elizabeth Davis, of Indian Harbor. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis Cacciola, P.P., Bar Haven, in the presence of a large circle of relatives and friends. The bride was attired in a suit of white paillette silk with nimon overdress, lace trimmings and veil, and was attended by her sister, while Mr. John Griffin supported the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride. The ushers were Messrs. Philip Rogers, John Davis, James Viscount and Joseph Barnett. The newly married couple have taken up residence at Iona and to them the Telegram offers congratulations.

Battleships

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash." Battleships are the doubled fists of the nations. Unfortunately, as soon as a nation doubles its fists, another nation redoubles and it then becomes necessary to double back.

Battleships are built by nations in order to awe other nations into peace. A 25,000-ton battleship with guns that throw steel shells as large as hogsheads ought to awe any nation and would if it were not for the fact that the other nations are busy building larger ton battleships with guns that could load up a steam boiler and shoot it forty miles with a favorable wind. The nations are so busy raising each other's bets that by the time a brand new Dreadnaught of record-breaking size has been completed, it has become a Scarenought and must be completely overhauled. It is necessary nowadays to work twenty-four hours a day on new battleships to get them into the water before they are entirely obsolete.

Battleships are built of steel and have sixteen-inch impenetrable sides like U. S. Senators who have bought in. They have multitudes of twelve-inch guns and could blow off the top of a tolerable size mountain with one mighty broadside. They travel thirty miles an hour and a battleship ten years old could blaze away at them all day without disturbing the Captain's dinner. In fact, they would be entirely invulnerable if it were not for sandbars, matches, mud-scows, sparks, crossed wires, careless mechanics and spontaneous combustion. Because of these things, battleships are more fragile than sick babies and a naval officer has to study forty years before he is considered competent to take one of them ten miles out to sea and shoot a few rounds at a floating whale.

Battleships are extremely fatal in the same directions in which cheap shotguns are fatal. The mortality caused by a battleship is about equal on both sides. Living on one of them is like riding over a corduroy road on a load of nitro-glycerine. It may or may not explode. We have little knowledge of what a fleet of Dreadnaughts would do to each other, but we know distressingly well what they can do to themselves; and in the present war, for instance, the best plan would be for the quarrelling nations to retain crews, but exchange battleships. The two fleets could then be kept separated and yet the carnage inflicted on the enemy would in time be sufficiently terrible to satisfy the most bloodthirsty people.

Missing Schooners.

Concerning the schooners Annie and Blanche M. Rose as referred to elsewhere, Minister of Marine Piccott, received the accompanying message last night:—

"Arrived at Fermeuse at 4.30 p.m., took Annie's crew, from Red Island, of steamer Monadrock, bound for London, 35 miles south east of Cape Race; crew all well; wind south, very thick fog; will proceed in search of Blanche M. Rose." (Sgd.) JACOB KEAN, S.S. Cabot.

THE BLANCHE M. ROSE.

Additional information about the schr. Blanche M. Rose, now missing, was learned from the crew of Furlong's schooner, of Groais Island, which have just arrived with her season's voyage on board. She left fishing station a fortnight ago yesterday in company with the Blanche M. Rose. Both schooners put into Catalina and left again practically together a week ago yesterday. When the storm came on that evening they both ran for shelter to Carbonar. Furlong's schooner got right into the harbor but the Blanche M. Rose did not and anchored just outside at Western Point. That was the last those on board of Furlong's schooner saw of her, as when the latter left to come on here, there was no sign of the Blanche M. Young and the theory is that in the violent gale of Tuesday she must have dragged her anchors and drove off to sea. However, there is yet strong hopes of the craft turning up alright, as she had 25 casks of oil on deck and the use of this liquid would be of great assistance toward quietening rough seas, so sea-faring men say.

Enlisted at Edmonton.

Word has been received in the city that Mr. Alex. Sturrock, late foreman at Knowling's East End Grocery, has enlisted. Mr. Sturrock resigned his position here in June last, and left by the Carthaginian for Glasgow on a visit to his mother before proceeding to Western Canada, where he intended to engage at farming. He had barely started his new work when he became fired with the desire to enlist and accordingly proceeded to Edmonton where he is now undergoing training.

We Know Just How You Feel!

You need an engine for your boat and you are worried almost to death trying to decide which is the best one to buy. One fellow tells you to buy his machine because it is cheaper than others. Another firm advises you that they have been in the engine business longer than anyone else and therefore their machines are the best. Then along comes another chap with an engine which he claims is entirely new and better than anything else on the market.

NOW LISTEN.

DON'T buy an engine or any other piece of machinery because it is cheap; probably it has been made cheap.

DON'T experiment with new designs, let the other fellow do that.

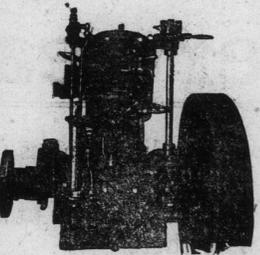

DON'T depend too much on what any manufacturer says about his own product. Ask someone who has used it.

We would like to give you names of parties using FERRO Engines.

Why We Live Longer.

"When Goodyear discovered the vulcanizing process of treating rubber he added immeasurably to the world's health. About fifty million pairs of rubber boots and shoes are made, sold and worn in the United States every year. When you reflect that the most fruitful cause of colds—and all the dangerous and fatal diseases that colds lead to—is a pair of wet feet, it is easy to see that this enormous use of rubber footwear must have a very marked influence on the general standard of health. When Goodyear discovered how to make rubber human longevity took a great bound forward."—Popular Science.

Gas and Hospitality.

The sound of motor wheels heralding the arrival of unexpected guests has no terrors for the housewife whose menage is run on up-to-date lines. While the visitors are removing the traces of travel, with the hot water which a gas water-heater keeps always "on tap," a match to the gas fire makes the drawing room a place of warmth and pleasantness for their reception; and the children love to "help mother" by toasting the crumpets before the clear and smokeless glow.

The gas cooker (or the modern gas trivet by the drawing room gas fire) boils a kettle of water in no time, and within a quarter of an hour after their arrival the guests are enjoying a cosy chat over the cup that cheers. Should they be persuaded to stay, the invaluable cooker makes it possible, even at such short notice, for the experienced housewife, after a raid upon her emergency store cupboard, to set before them a dainty dinner of which no hostess need be ashamed. Gas means ever-ready hospitality.
