

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes—
"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."
(Mr. J. W. Vinco, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Martha Hooper's face went whiter, if that was possible, and her lips trembled, and at last she came to the word:

"Dead!"

"Dead, eh?" he said. "Well, 'tho' the gods love die 'young,' 'tho' the Latin. So the kid's dead, is he? Well, he is off your hands, anyhow. You haven't got him to keep as well as yourself. And how are you living, eh? What made you choose this dead-and-alive spot?" He looked round. "It's a wonder you haven't been murdered in your bed, old woman!"

Martha Hooper shuddered. "Perhaps it would have been better," she murmured, almost to herself.

"Eh?" he said. "What are you muttering at? Why don't you answer my question?"

"She moistened her lips. "I—I saved a little money, and—I do a little needle-work," she said, faintly.

He looked at her for a moment through his half-closed eyes—a look of savage amusement.

"My dear," he said, "you were always a poor hand at lying, and, if anything, you're worse now. There, I know all about it. You've got a friend among the nob, Martha—a friend who put you in this snug little cottage and made you comfortable for the rest of your life."

She opened her lips as if to contradict him, but no word came, and, watching her with the same sinister smile, he went on:

"And very nice it is to have a friend—very nice. I wish I'd got one like it; and such a mob, too—a real countess!"

Martha Hooper sunk into the chair, her pale eyes fixed on his, as if waiting for some blow.

He laughed.

"You see, I know a little about it. But doesn't it strike you as curious, considering all things—I say, considering all things—that her ladyship should take you, Martha Hooper, in hand?"

She looked from right to left, like a driven animal seeking some outlet for escape from his persistency, then hung her head.

"I—I was an old servant," she faltered.

He laughed and knocked the ashes out of his pipe on the clean floor.

"Stuff and humbug! The Countess of Landon doesn't pension off her old servants. Why should she you?"

"Surprised that I know who it is,

Martha Hooper started as he pronounced the title, and he nodded and sneered at her.

"What do you take me for? I've been here two days, my dear, and I've learned a great deal in that time. For instance, I've learned that the countess not only finds you in house, and grub, and fuel, my dear, but that she sneaks out at night to pay you visits."

Martha Hooper half rose, then sunk down again.

"Don't you deny it, because it isn't any use," he said, knowingly. "I followed her here last night."

"Last night?" she echoed faintly.

He nodded.

"Give me a light!"

She got up with some hesitancy, and lighted a screw of paper at the fire.

"Hold it," he said, and thrust his head forward, with his pipe in his lips.

She tried to obey, but the flame dabbled against his nose and burned it, and he snatched the paper from her trembling hand.

"Bah!" he growled. "You haven't the pluck of a mouse—no never had, Martha. There you sit shivering and shaking like an underdone jelly; and that's how you shiver and shake when she comes to see you, I suppose. You haven't an ounce of pluck or you'd get up and order me out. It's your cottage, you know. Why don't you do it?"

The wretched woman looked at him fearfully, and he laughed with keen enjoyment of her helplessness.

"I'll tell you why you don't, my dear," he said, puffing out the smoke defiantly, innocently. "Because you're afraid. You've got a bad conscience, madame, that's what it is. 'Conscience makes cowards of us all.' Hamlet, Shakespeare, you know. You've been up to some tricks, Martha. Come, give an account of yourself to your faithful husband! What have you been doing since you built with the kid, deserted the best husband that ever woman had?"

She leaned her head on her hand.

"When—when you struck me—"

"Which you deserved, my dear," he put in, blandly.

"—And—and I left you—I went to Australia. Then, when the child died—"

—she put her hand to her throat as if unable to speak for a moment—

"then I—I came back to England, and madame took pity on me and kept me out of charity."

He folded his arms on the table and fixed his eyes on her.

"Out of charity?" he said, with a sneer. "I never heard of such charity. Why, she ought to have hated you more than any woman on earth; and you know why."

Martha put her hand to her lip.

"—she does not hate me," she said, almost inaudibly—"she pitied me."

"Pitied you, eh? Why, my dear?"

A woman will turn if trodden on too hard and too frequently. It seemed as if the timid, nervous woman was at last about to turn. She rose and looked down at him, her face white, her lips set firmly for once.

"Because I was your wife!" she said in a low voice of wrought-up indignation and loathing. "Because she knew what you were—a ruffian and a bully, a scoundrel and a coward. She knew—as I came to know—that under your fine clothes and play-acting airs, you were the vilest wretch that ever deceived and ill-treated a woman."

She stopped for lack of breath, and leaned sideways against the table, panting heavily.

Jake did not move, but sat puffing at his pipe and leaning up at her keenly.

"Bravo, old woman!" he said. "You've plucked up a bit of spirit at last."

"Yes," she breathed—"at last! You—you asked me why I did not turn you out of the house? I do—go!" She tried to point to the door, but her hand fell feebly. "You can get nothing by staying here. I am poor. The pityance she allows me out of the goodness of her heart she would not let me share with you, even if I would—and I won't!"

"She wouldn't, eh?" he said, as if considering deeply. "She'd stop your allowance, eh, Martha?—turn you out of the cottage?"

"Yes," she panted; "and I should deserve it if I harbored you, Jake Hooper!"

He sprang to his feet and limped toward her.

"I don't think she would," he said, with his head on one side, an evil smile on his lips. "No, I don't think so. Shall I tell you why, my dear?"

She looked at him fearfully and shrunk back.

"Shall I tell you?" he repeated, limping a step forward. He caught her by the arm and dragged her to him and whispered huskily in her ear.

"She uttered a cry, a terrible cry, and dragging herself away from him, shrunk back against the wall, her hands pressed over her breast, her eyes dilating and fixed upon him."

CHAPTER XXVII.

Jake seated himself on the table and aving his leg, eyed her with a malicious smile of triumph.

"It's—it's a lie!" came at last from the white lips.

He laughed, and pointed his pipe at her.

"No, it's the truth—the solemn, beautiful truth!" he retorted. "Why, I can see it in your face. It struck me like a flash of lightning just about ten minutes ago. What'll you turn me out of the house, will you?" He made a movement as if he were going to approach her. "She'll stop the allowance, will she?"

He laughed with a savage derision and exultation.

There was silence for a moment, broken only by the short, angry puffings at his pipe and the hard, painful breathings of a woman. Then, with an oath and a vicious kick at the chair, he exclaimed:

"And to think that I should have been roughing it all this time, living like a dog—yes, like a dog!—when I might have been rolling in money! It's enough to make a man knock his own head off. But I never guessed it, I'm clever, I know, but I never even guessed it. I was a fool! But—with fierce contempt—"not half such a fool as you, for you knew the little game, and yet you went on living in this poky hole, on ten or twelve shillings a week, I dare say, while she—"

Fah! Martha, you must be an idiot!" He looked round the room scornfully.

"A miserable bit of a cottage, a mere hovel on a confounded moor, a pig-sty of a place! Living on cold chops, while she is rolling in luxury up at that big place on the hill! Martha, you are a bigger fool than ever I took you for!"

He got up and limped to and fro in a state of suppressed excitement, then stopped in front of her.

"But I'll change all that, my dear! It's my turn now, and I mean to have a good time. No poky cottage for me, my dear; and something more than ten or twelve shillings a week. Lord! when I think of it!"—he burst out laughing—"It makes me—ah!"

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take some thing to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take it. I had been in bed for some years and had lost a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one. Mrs. J. J. Rogers, 2339 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn."

Find a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be found to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 2277 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had terrible weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

Storming Earth's Highest Citadel

MOUNT EVEREST'S DESOLATE SUMMIT A CHALLENGE TO MAN'S ENDURANCE.

(By RAYMOND J. BROWN.)

Somewhere on the Tibetan plains a band of a dozen explorers is pushing forward on the first leg of a most tremendous adventure. They are preparing to storm the loftiest citadel Nature has reared on earth—Mount Everest, whose snow-capped peak rises 29,141 feet above the sea, dwarfing the surrounding mountains of the mighty Himalayas. Preparations for the actual ascent were completed early this year.

The expedition is under the auspices of the Mount Everest Committee of London, England, and is the third attempt to scale the mountain. All its members are veteran climbers. One of them, George Leigh Mallory, took part in both the previous assaults on this desolate spire of the earth. Another, Capt. Geoffrey Bruce, brother of Brig-Gen. C. G. Bruce, commander of the expedition, shares with Capt. George I. Finch the distinction of having ascended in the last attempt in 1922 to a height of 27,442 feet. This is the greatest altitude ever reached by man, except in an airplane.

As a result of the two previous expeditions—a reconnaissance in 1921 and the actual attempt to reach the summit in 1922—every aid that science and ingenuity can contribute has been summoned to insure the success of the present venture and to guard against accident.

The approaches to the mountain and the paths to be traversed by the expedition in its climb have been mapped and charted. Supply camps have been located at points most advantageous to the climber. The equipment includes everything that will contribute to comfort and safety and conservation of strength during the tortuous ascent.

Oxygen, for example, is to be carried to the climbers in tanks to compensate for the deficiency of this life-giving gas in the rarefied air enveloping the upper portions of the mountain. The members of the expedition know that they can climb to within about two miles of the top with relatively little difficulty. They are reasonably certain, after the spectacular feat of Captains Bruce and Finch two years ago, that the most hardy of them can ascend a mile and a half farther. But the last half-mile—can they conquer that? Nobody knows.

Nature controls the situation through the physical capacities with which she has invested man. Can a man at a height greater than 27,000 feet, develop the energy to walk or drag himself higher?

In scaling a precipitous mountain-side, covered with ice and snow, possibly under the necessity of cutting a foothold for himself with every step he takes, a man uses up a tremendous amount of energy. He literally is burning up the tissues of his body. A feat that can be made up only by the oxygen he breathes. The atmosphere near the summit of Everest, containing less than half as much oxygen as the atmosphere at sea level, cannot supply the loss. Consequently, the normal functioning of the body is interfered with seriously.

The principal factor, then, in the assault on the heights of Mount Everest is the physical ability of the members of the expedition. Natural obstacles of course are there in plenty. The sheer slopes of a mountain more than five miles high would present almost overwhelming difficulties to the climber even if the atmospheric conditions did not deprive their peculiar hazards, as in this case.

Snowfields and land slides cause the topography to undergo extraordinary changes. One tremendous snowfall in the last expedition took the lives of several native guides. Fierce gales of almost unbelievable velocity sweep about the upper portions of the mountain, where the snow is dry and soft as sand. But the greatest difficulties of all are those that arise from the natural requirements of the human body.

Take the matter of food alone. The climbers are limited in the kind of food they can take, not so much because of the difficulties of transportation as because of the difficulty of cooking it. The boiling-point of water drops one degree for each 500 feet the water is carried above sea level. At sea level the boiling-point is 212° F. At 15,000 feet it is only 184 degrees, and near the summit of Mount Everest it drops to approximately 168 degrees.

So it is that vegetables and other foods that the members of the expedition are accustomed to eating boiled cannot be boiled when at an altitude above 8000 feet. The water will boil away without becoming hot enough to cook the vegetables. This makes it necessary for the members of the expedition to eat food to which they are unaccustomed, a factor that is bound to exert an effect on their physical powers.

The low boiling-point of water at high altitudes also makes it impossible for the climbers to foster their fattening strength by the stimulating effect of hot drinks.

Then there is a condition called "mountain sickness" to which even the most experienced climbers are subject. None escapes it. It is said, once an altitude of 20,000 feet or so has been attained. This malady undoubtedly is related closely to the breathing of rarefied air and the consequent reception of too little oxygen. Its symptoms are extreme lassitude, weakness, mental fog, depressed spirits, and physical exhaustion after even the slightest efforts. Though the climber is constantly weak, tired, and sleepy, he cannot sleep except brokenly.

The terrible cold—between 20 degrees and 30 degrees below zero is the average temperature near the summit of Everest—adds the climber's waiting strength. His hands and feet are likely to be frostbitten. And yet, anomalous though it may seem, the rays of the sun are beating down on him with terrific ferocity. He is perpetually in danger of collapsing from sunstroke. From the great expanse of glistening snow the rays of the sun are reflected into the climber's eyes. He wears smoked glasses, his cheeks and forehead are smeared with lamp-black; yet there is always the danger of snow blindness.

Nature, in a way, has supplied a compensation for the lack of oxygen in the atmosphere by causing the red corpuscles to multiply in the blood. These red corpuscles are the carriers of oxygen, and as they increase in number, of course, the oxygen supply of the body increases correspondingly. However, no man ever has been able to stay in extremely high altitudes sufficiently long to determine whether the multiplication of red corpuscles can progress to a stage that would make him immune to the debilitating effects of insufficient oxygen.

Physical suffering is the principal impediment to remaining near the peak. Besides this, conditions in the Himalayas are such that weather suitable for mountain climbing is not likely to last more than three or four days at a stretch.

Toward the end of the last climb, Bruce and Finch were progressing only 500 feet an hour. At that rate a little more than five hours would have been sufficient to enable them to negotiate the 1700 feet that stretched between their last stopping place and the top. Yet they were unable to make it. Physical man apparently had reached his limit.

But now Bruce and a dozen others are making another desperate attempt. Science has solved their difficulties as far as present-day knowledge can. The climb has been planned as carefully as a military campaign. Compressed oxygen in small, light tanks has been supplied to serve them in the thin air near the mountain top. Their food supply has been selected scientifically to furnish strength and energy when they have reached the limit of their courage and stamina.

Will they succeed? They will if they can conquer Nature. Not Nature as represented by the towering majesty of Mt. Everest, Titan of the earth's peaks, but Nature as exemplified in the indomitable spirit of man—Popular Science.

The Earliest Pen

Among the discoveries at Edfu, a great treasure in the shape of the oldest known pen. Says the Baghdad correspondent.

Professor Langdon, the director of the Wedd-Blundell and Field Museum, Archaeological Expedition, who is delighted at finding this bone pen for writing cuneiform, says that scholars had vainly tried to reconstruct the instrument. This represents a triumph of simplicity. It is a pen six inches long, with a triangular cross-section and pared ends. After little practice Professor Langdon is able to make cuneiform. Professor Langdon considers that the instrument identified as the site of the city of Edfu.

"Edfu" was the capital of a dynasty which ruled over a great part of Babylonia after that of Ur from about 2450 B.C. to about 2000 B.C.

House of Commons Rejected P. R.—Japan is Building a Giant Submersible on German Plans—Conservatives are Preparing for the Next Fight.

P. R. REJECTED.
LONDON, May 2. The House of Commons this afternoon rejected by a vote of 238 to 144 a proportional Representation Bill introduced by the Liberals.

GERMAN PLANS FOR SUBMERSIBLE.
LONDON, May 2. The Japanese Admiralty recently received from the German Naval Department Professor Fraasman, his plans for a gigantic submersible cruiser, according to a report quoted by the Atlantic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. The writer adds that the vessel is believed already to have been built and that one of these is displacing 4500 tons.

COAL BUSINESS NORMAL.
BERLIN, May 2. The pre-war production level has been reached in almost all branches of the German coal industry. Coking plants are slightly up on the pre-war figure, but production of lignite coal, upon which the full weight of German mining energy has been thrown since the Ruhr occupation, shows an increase of more than 50 per cent. In March the total production of lignite and coal throughout Germany, exclusive of the Saar basin, was 260,000,000 tons, against 22,600,000 for March, 1914. Coincident with the picking up of the coal industry many other industries, including machinery, metals, locomotive building and manufacture report improvement in orders and sales, but there is a complaint of scarcity of credit facilities.

SEARCHING FOR AMERICAN AIRMEN.
BREMERTON, Wash., May 2. Search for Major Frederick L. Martin, Commander of the United States Army Round the World flight and his mechanic, Sergt. Alva Harvey, missing since their departure in the air-cruiser Seattle from Chignik, Alaska, on Wednesday morning, was resumed with fresh vigor at dawn to-day. Coast guard cutters and all available canyery vessels between Chignik and Dutch Harbour, Unalaska, joined in the search.

AIR MAIL STRIKE SETTLED.
CROYDON, May 2. The strike of pilots and mechanics employed by the combine which handles British mails was settled to-day and the men will resume work Monday. The strike began on March 31st.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL IN GERMANY.
BERLIN, May 2. Atheism is on the decrease in Berlin, according to Professor Schmidt of the Protestant High Church Council. In 1922, he said, 20,000 persons who had surrendered membership and became Atheists were received back into the Church. The outlook is exceedingly bright. Clergymen of all sects report wide revival of religious activities in Berlin with larger attendances at services.

CONSERVATIVE LEADERS OP- TIMISTIC.
LONDON, May 2. In the course of a speech at a great gathering of the Primrose League Conservative Organisation, Marquis Curzon, former Secretary for Foreign Affairs, gave his first views of the Labour Government and incidentally predicted that the Conservative banner would before long be again flying high in the sky. He declared the Conservative Party was preparing itself with all the energy in their power for the renewed struggle that cannot long be delayed. Regarding the Labour movement, Lord Curzon said there is a Government in power which has only conformed to its title, insofar as it is labouring in very deep water. The Socialists' Government was going to give us the pure milk of socialism, but so far the cow hasn't provided the beverage. In foreign affairs the only thing the Government has done has been to sit in friendly conference with representatives of the most cruel and bloody Government that Europe has known since the French Revolution. Former Premier Baldwin's outlining the policy of the Conservatives said the party was ready to enter into any conference to consider the Limitation of Armaments, but we cannot allow any weakening of our defence forces. Regarding the tariff, Mr. Baldwin said, "We accept the verdict of the country and do not propose to put forward a general tariff, but we propose when we return to power, to deal with industry suffering unfair competition, by some means analogous to the safeguarding of industries act."

$100,000 IN SETTLEMENT OF BEAUTY CLAIM.
NEW YORK, May 2. The $500,000 damage suit brought by Helene Jesmer, former Follies beauty, against Philip Morgan Plant, wealthy stepson of Federal Attorney Hayward, for alleged injuries which ruined her beauty, which she suffered in a motor car accident, to-day was settled out of court at a figure understood to be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

THE CANADIAN POSTAL TROUBLE.
OTTAWA, May 2. The recommendation of the civil service commission to the Government as to revised salary schedules for postal employees of Canada will not be accepted, by the employees, says the Citizen this morning. Definite statement to this effect was made by G. R. Jackson, Toronto, President of the Dominion Federation of Postal Employees last night, according to the paper.

ANOTHER ESTIMATE.
ATLANTA, May 2. A revised check on the regions stricken in seven Southeastern States by the violent windstorms, placed the total of known dead at 109. More than 500 were injured, scores homeless and estimated property damage of more than $10,000,000.

STORIES OF VIOLATION OF BATTLEFIELD AROUSES FRENCH PEOPLE.
PARIS, May 2. Reports that human bones have been collected by wholesale in Moret Du Homme and Verdun battlefield districts with a view to being ground up for industrial use have moved public opinion to such a degree that official investigation has been completed by the Sub-Prefect of Verdun. He submitted two reports to the Prefect of Meuse Department, and later issued a decree that no search for bones, human or animal might be made on a battlefield except by the officials of the Graves Service.

Mr. Geddes Will Not Appear

To-night as he is leaving by the Silvia this afternoon

Baguio Honors Woodrow Wilson

BAGUIO, Philippine Islands.—(A.P.)—The late Woodrow Wilson's name is to be perpetuated by the local town council, which has just adopted a resolution changing the name of Kiasad Road, one of the principal thoroughfares of Baguio, to "Wilson Road."

He is Quite Strong Now

So Says Mr. N. David After Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills. Manitoba farmer suffered from backache and rheumatism, and found relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills. Erickson, Man., May 2.—(Special). "Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me a lot of good. I had suffered for about a year with rheumatism, backache and headaches. After taking two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I felt much better. I continued taking them and now I am quite well and strong again."

Mr. N. David, who lives here, makes the above statement. He feels he owes it to other sufferers to tell them how he got relief from his suffering. He is always ready to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Other sufferers from rheumatism tell of pains relieved and health restored through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Popular Vocalist Bade Farewell Last Night

CAMERON GEDDES SPRINGS A BIG SURPRISE. The large audience at the Majestic Theatre last night applauded enthusiastically the songs of Mr. Cameron Geddes, who terminated a successful eight weeks' engagement at the Majestic and considering it was during the latter season it is indeed a fair admission that the theatrical people of this city were highly pleased with his offerings. He left to-day for Halifax where he will continue his Keith Circuit at the Orpheus Theatre and from there to Boston. The Majestic management in bidding goodbye to Mr. Geddes only confirm the good wishes of his many admirers in wishing him continued success and earnestly hope that it will be possible for him to return at some future date to again delight the thousands who were favoured with his talent during the past two months. Seldom if ever have we had the opportunity to have a Basso Profundo of Mr. Geddes' calibre and should he return, a warm welcome greets him. The picture programme at the Majestic to-day is a particularly good one in as much as that Wallace Reid and Wanda Hawley furnish an excellent combination in a first class comedy drama. The two reel comedy and the news items were all that could be desired and those who were at the Majestic on Thursday and Friday speak well of the entire show. The Majestic will make another announcement of importance next week.

City Moves Cemeteries to Make Way for Living

San Francisco, April 28 (A.P.)—San Francisco, growing rapidly and somewhat crowded on its bottle-neck of a peninsula, will move the bodies of 50,000 of its dead from four cemeteries to make more room for the living.

The Board of Supervisors has just passed an ordinance for the removal of all the bodies from four cemeteries, and it is said to be a foregone conclusion that the other two cemeteries also will be abandoned.

Once the cemeteries were far removed from San Francisco's business and residential quarters. Now they are in the heart of some of the city's finest residential districts and their areas are badly needed. The campaign for their removal, bitterly fought, lasted five years and included a state legislative act declaring unconstitutional by the supreme court.

Proponents of cemetery removal built their campaign on the idea that "the dead have rights, but the living have superior rights." Opponents contended that the removal was fostered by "land grabbers in collusion with certain cemetery officials, booting the dead from their resting places to make profits for the living." They also declared "these dead are historic" and maintained that removal would bring a pestilence. Proponents responded that the old, untended cemeteries were "eyesores and not fit places for historic dead and denied any danger from removal operations.

The total land to be reclaimed amounts to about 70 city blocks, or 214 acres. The territory will be subdivided into lots. The cemeteries date from the gold rush days of 1849.

In hotels, on trains, aboard steamers, in travellers' bags you will find Ivory Soap, for now, everyone realizes that they can get just as much satisfaction from Ivory as from the most expensive soaps.

THE SECRET OF BETTER HEALTH

The example illustrated here is typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast.

There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low so that skin, stomach, and general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results.

Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—invigorating the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active.

Dissolve one cake in a glass of water (just hot enough to drink)

—before breakfast and at bedtime. Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation. Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day—spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain. Write us for further information to give you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Address: Fleischmann Company; 201, Duckworth Street.

"I did not eat six cakes of Yeast and feel myself improving immediately. In fact for one month I used 3 cakes a day without any visible improvement. But by the middle of August, 1921, my chronic constipation commenced again. I again consulted our family physician, who told me to use no other remedies but Fleischmann's Yeast. To my stomach troubles have become ancient dust—thanks to the remarkable effects of Fleischmann's Yeast."

(A letter from Miss Ruth Rollhand, of Utica, N.Y.)

Fleischmann's Yeast comes only in the tin-foil package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it to-day! A few days' supply will keep fresh in your ice box as well as in the grocery's.

New Blood Wanted

In a speech recently delivered by Sir Campbell Stuart, before the St. George's Society of Montreal, a stirring appeal was made for practical patriotism, and his remarks were addressed for the most part to young Canadians.

We quote the address in part because the sentiments expressed and the practical advice which was given are as applicable to our case to-day as they are to the young element in the Dominion of Canada.

What is necessary in the forthcoming election is the infusion of new blood, in order to give tone to the political institution and to revive the public conscience. This in a great measure can be secured by pressing into service the young men of the community. There are hundreds of them who either through diffidence, false modesty, or by failing to realize the privileges which have come to them by virtue of their having attained man's estate, never take politics seriously, and even fail to register their votes on election day.

Now that you are men, take your place in the line, and play the part of citizens.

Read what Sir Campbell Stuart says to you:

The task of government and administration to-day is one that requires keenness and intellect and a business-like mind. It requires sympathy, vision and imagination as well. Above all it requires courage. In short, it is a young man's job.

This is being recognized more and more in the old country, and the best of her young men are still gravitating into the political arena. Admirable as is the moderation of the present Labor Government it is realized by all that there are forces behind it which one day may push it further than its present leaders may desire to go. It is to combat these forces that the young men of Britain are enrolling themselves, from the public schools and from the universities.

It is on the platform and in the polling booth that these balloons are blown and won. There are dragons along England's path to-day—dragons of debt and the dragon of unemployment to slay and more exotic animals—let beware, me the young St. George's has girded on his armour.

Is it too much to hope that our young men will follow his example? In a new country the goal often seems to be personal rather than national—the opportunity to be for the individual rather than for the people. Yet the young men of Canada showed in the dark days of war that their love of country was as sincere, as fine, as self-sacrificing as that of the older nations across the Atlantic.

Why should their services have been met with the signing of peace? Their and great problems face Canada to-day and she has need of her young men. There is something very beautiful in the thought of dedicating one's life and one's service to one's country whether the service be in peace or in war. To-day our young men are busy about their own affairs, but having their own business, they should be thinking of the country.

men is because they can come to the polling booth with their minds uninfluenced by the personal element, and prompted mainly by an earnest desire to see that the fight is clean, that the rules are observed, and that the best man wins.

Now then 21, see that your name is on the Voters' List, and on Polling Day enjoy the satisfaction of having taken for the first time in your life a real part in the public affairs of your country.

Newfoundland has great need of her young men to-day; an even greater need in a way than she had in 1914. Our Parliament wants you, our public service wants you, our politics want you. What about a Young Newfoundland Movement from coast to coast, "pledged to service and fired with the great idea of uniting our mingled elements" in a common cause?

Editorial comment Saturday, May 3rd.

"We never had a very exalted opinion of Canadian statesmanship, and the experience of the past few years has furnished us with no reasonable excuse to change our mind. The British Columbia Railway blunder, the Letellier affair, the pew tariff, etc., supply us with evidence of incapacity unparalleled even in the politics of our own day where we are obliged to admit things have not been prudently managed for some time past. Our blunders, however, we regret, and hope to be in a position ere long to rectify some of them at least."

"History repeats itself! But have our vicious intentions taken so long to materialize?"

Engagement Announced

The engagement is announced of Dr. Martin Cashin, third son of Sir Michael and Lady Cashin, to Miss Grace Bender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bender of Montreal. Dr. Cashin, who graduated at McGill University last year is now assistant surgeon to Dr. Martin, the celebrated physician at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and is, we understand, meeting with much success in his chosen profession.

Viking Reports

Capt. Bartlett of the Viking reported to Messrs. Bowring Bros. at 11 o'clock this morning, stating that the ship was steaming in open water and was 30 miles N.W. of St. Paul's at 6 o'clock last evening. Heavy fog was reported on the inside, the weather thick and foggy, never steering in an E.S.E. direction. The Viking is not expected to arrive before Monday night.

Warren Administration Announced

We are informed by the Prime Minister that the names of his Cabinet were submitted to his Excellency the Governor this afternoon. The personnel is as follows:—Hon. W. R. Warren, Prime Minister, and Minister of Justice; Hon. M. E. Hawco, Posts, and Telegraphs; W. J. Higgins, Colonial Secretary; J. R. Bennett, Finance and Customs, and Messrs. W. Monroe, M. Sullivan, C. P. Ayre, Dr. J. Alex. Robinson and Dr. W. Roberts are Ministers at present without port, follow Mr. W. J. Walsh, becomes Minister of Agriculture, Mines, and Capt. W. Winsor, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The line-up of the party has not yet been announced.

Opposition to be Led by Mr. A. E. Hickman

We learn that at a meeting of the Opposition Committee yesterday it was suggested by Dr. Barnes that Mr. A. E. Hickman should be appointed leader of the party. As this met with general assent Mr. Hickman agreed to assume command. It is stated that neither Sir Richard Squires nor Sir Wm. Coaker will take the field in person, but that Mr. Hickman will have the blessing of the former, and that the Fishermen's Protective Union will give him full support. Several of those who were Union members and held executive seats in the late administration, are, it is understood, prospective candidates for the same Ministerial offices.

Magistrates Court

A drunk was discharged. A city chauffeur for failing to stop his motor, while a passenger was alighting from a street car, was convicted and fined $5.00 and costs with the option of ten days imprisonment. A motorist for driving his car without sufficient lights was fined $10.00 or in default 10 days imprisonment. Now that the motor season has again made an appearance, Judge Morris considered it timely to speak very strongly in connection with breaches of the Traffic Act. He issued a warning from the bench that any motorist committing a breach of this act in the future, will be severely punished, either by heavy fine or imprisonment. He intends to protect the life and limb of the citizens, and all drivers of motor cars are asked to govern themselves accordingly.

Fire on Bond Street

Shortly after noon to-day the Central and East End Fire Companies were called to Bond Street, where a blaze was discovered in the residence of Mr. George P. Cook. Quite a lot of damage was caused one of the rooms and Mr. Cook and his mother were somewhat burned about the arms. The blaze was started by the explosion of a kerosene oil stove used to heat a bedroom. In endeavouring to extinguish the flames, Mr. Cook had his arm badly blistered. The firemen used the chemical engine with good effect and twenty minutes after the alarm, the all-out sounded.

Drowning Enquiry Commences

The magistrat enquiry into the drowning of the three men belonging to the Terra Nova commenced in the Magistrate's Court at 10 o'clock last evening before Mr. McCarthy, J.P. Four witnesses were examined until 11 p.m., when adjournment was taken until this afternoon.

MINARD'S LIMENT FOR DISTEMPERS.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

ACCEPTANCE OF OFFER NOT YET DETERMINED.

OTTAWA, May 3. Fifteen per cent. average increase in scheduled salaries of postal employees as proposed by the Civil Service Commission to the Government only represents about half what was asked by the Dominion Postal Workers' Federation, it was learned by citizens to-day. Whether the grant of half the demand is made, would nullify the strike, yet already given by postal employees, but whose putting into effect has from April 14th was held over pending a definite decision by the Cabinet, cannot be determined yet.

THE IRISH OLYMPIC.

DUBLIN, May 3. The Postmaster General of the Irish Free State announced to-night that the passenger accommodation booked from New York for persons desirous of attending the Irish Olympic games in August aggregates 25,000. Elaborate plans for decorating Dublin during the games has been decided upon.

ANOTHER INFLECTION IN NOMENCLATURE.

OTTAWA, May 3. Notification has been received from the Postal Administration at Moscow that the official name of their country is now "L'Union Des Republics Sovietics Les Socialistes," abbreviation Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and this address instead of Russia should be used on correspondence.

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN POSTAL CIRCLES.

Considerable dissatisfaction exists among postal employees that no official information is yet forthcoming from Ottawa regarding the reported offer of salary increase. The letter carriers had a meeting last night, but it was announced that nothing definite would be known until after the Federation Executive had interviewed the Dominion Cabinet to-day. Feeling ranked so high that a vote of want of confidence in E. V. Browning and J. Archer, representatives of the men on the Federation, was carried by practically unanimous vote. The general impression is that there will be no strike.

STIKO ON SHIPMENT OF ARMS KILLS REBELLION.

HAVANA, Cuba, May 3. The action of President Coolidge in forbidding a shipment of arms and ammunition to Cuba except such as may be authorized for sale to the Cuban Government was described by President Zayas as a great aid in breaking up the rebellion movement in Santa Clara Province, and he predicted an end of the movement within three or four days. He then referred to President Coolidge's action as "evidence of friendship for the Cuban Government which is deeply appreciated."

LABOUR SECTION HIT BACK BY DEFEATING P. R.

LONDON, May 3. Members of the Liberal Party to-day made no effort to conceal their modification and anger over the rejection in the House of Commons yesterday of proportional representation electoral bill, which they declared "was due to the vindictive action of about 80 Liberals. These members of the government party were declared by the liberals to have opposed the bill in resentment against what they regarded as an attempt of Mr. Asquith, liberal leader, to dictate to their party through his recent "Ultimatum" to Premier MacDonald. The liberals made no secret of this resentment, and were quoted by the liberal lobbyists as saying they did hot vote on the merits of bill but for the purpose of "hitting back" at the liberals.

NEW MONTREAL-ST JOHN'S FREIGHT SERVICE.

Establishment of a new freight service between Montreal and St. John's Nfld. is announced here. The first sailing from Montreal will take place about May 15th; it was stated. St. John's will be the only port of call, but others will be added when inducements offer.

SECRETARY OF W.S.S.A. DEAD.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 3. Major Lawrence Field, Secretary of the World's Sunday School Association, died this morning at Portland, Oregon, aged 74 years.

PROTEST AGAINST MAKING CHURCH UNION A POLITICAL QUESTION.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 3. Rev. T. Albert Moore D. D. Secretary of the general conference of the Methodist church has received a letter from Rev. Father L. Minahan, the Parish priest of St. Vincent de Paul church making an emphatic protest against any attempt to make Church Union a political question. Church and State have each a well-defined and independent sphere of activity, he said, "and it is not supposed to make the former nor cabinets the latter." In conclusion he says, "as one who realizes something of the right of religious liberty, I wish to register my emphatic protest against any attempt to make Church Union a political question."

ARRESTED AS A MATERIAL WITNESS IN ONTARIO SCANDAL.

AN announcement was made to-day by Hon. W. F. Nickle, the Attorney General of Ontario, that Harry Popoff, Manager of the Amalgamated Bond firm of Toronto, had been taken into custody as a material witness in the charges against Peter Smith, the former Provincial Treasurer of conspiracy to defraud the Government. Mr. Popoff, it was stated, had been admitted to $9,999 bail.

Fire Near Torbay Road

A dwelling house at Brennan's Lane off the Torbay Road owned by Ralph Murrin and occupied by Anthony Ryan, a farm laborer, was totally destroyed by fire at 2.30 this morning and Ryan with his wife and 9-year-old daughter barely escaped with their lives. Ryan awoke and found his bedroom full of smoke and going to the kitchen he found the whole place ablaze. Rushing back he aroused his wife and child. The family had no time to dress and were obliged to seek shelter at the home of Mr. John Brierton. Ryan has lost all his belongings and was obliged to get the loan of some clothing to come to town to-day. He is a deserving case and any assistance given would be gladly welcomed.

"You Can Add 20 Years to Life"

SCIENCE, THE PHYSICAL AUDI-TORE CAN TELL YOU WHERE TO FIND THEM.

(By JAMES A. TOBEY)
Administrative Secretary of the National Health Council.

How would you like to add 20 years to your life? This may sound like an advertisement for a new kind of gland transplantation, but it is not. At the present time the average length of life among Americans is only 68 years, whereas it ought to be 78. Moreover, medical science knows exactly why those 20 years are missing and how you may find them and add them to your life.

Only a few weeks ago, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of the American Medical Association and of Leland Stanford University, asserted at a medical convention at Des Moines, Ia., that if doctors were permitted to apply all they know to all the people, not only would life be prolonged and human happiness increased, but the whole aspect and order of life would be altered.

What he meant was that people continue to die young because they fail to make full use of the knowledge and skill that medical science possesses, particularly in the field of preventive medicine.

People get a good start in life these days. Doctors have learned to bring them into the world in safety and to guard them against the diseases of infancy that once destroyed vast numbers of babies. Medical inspection in schools protects them against the diseases of childhood. But, once they are out of school and on their own, the subject of their health becomes overshadowed in importance by other things in their minds.

I received a postal card a few days ago from a friend of mine, a chemist, who for two years has been at Saranac Lake, N.Y., fighting tuberculosis. The message said he was cured and was preparing to start for home.

Naturally I was glad to receive that message, and yet I can't help but feel that quite unnecessarily that man has let two years slip from his life. He used to be fond of motoring, and was a crank about keeping his automobile in repair. The tiniest body squeak, the smallest rattle of the motor would send him scurrying off to a service station to have his car looked over. Yet that same man paid not the slightest attention to a cold that hung on and on. At last he was forced to quit his job and go to the woods to struggle for life.

A prominent breeder of fancy cattle died last fall from heart trouble. He was only a little past 40. An acquaintance of his supplied me with a few illuminating sidelights on this man. Many, many times, his friend told me, he had gone without sleep to nurse a stork cow. His cattle were housed in the most modern barns and their lives were regulated by the clock and scale. They were, in fact, better cared for than their owner; for he, suffering from a dangerous heart ailment for years, never had consulted a physician. Yet, in spite of cases such as these, which probably are typical of the health carelessness of a majority of the population, modern medical science has succeeded in removing many of the obstacles to longevity. Especially is this true in the control of communicable diseases, such as malaria, diphtheria, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, typhoid, and a host of others.

Modern medicine is getting the best of them. Smallpox, which once was classed as a violent scourge, has pretty well subsided. Typhoid has almost disappeared, due to the activities of sanitary engineers in cleaning up municipal water supplies. Diphtheria is on the wane, thanks to the use of antitoxin and the Schick test. So it is with many other germ diseases. Tuberculosis has been reduced 50 per cent since 1900, and yellow fever has been eliminated in North America.

It happens, however, that there is another class of diseases which science cannot control by such methods as supplying people with pure water to drink, or by eliminating germ carriers. Once these diseases have been permitted to develop, curing them is difficult and at times impossible. They are known as organic, or degenerative diseases, not communicable. They arise within individuals from physical reasons peculiar to the victim.

Included in this class are cancer, heart trouble, apoplexy, Bright's disease, and other kidney affections. Other medical scientists call "dis-eases of metabolism," such as diabetes, due to faulty chemical processes in the body. These are generally diseases of adult life after middle age.

Dr. Harvey Wiley once said that it is better to die of cancer at 80 than of typhoid at 30. But modern medical science is rather of the opinion that it is better not to die of either, but of old age, which happens to be the rarest cause of death to-day.

The worst feature of these degenerative diseases is that they frequently develop before one suspects their existence. Experience has shown definitely that many persons living perfectly complacent lives actually are suffering from some incipient malady. They are entirely unaware that anything is wrong. Of more than 250,000 persons examined by the Life Extension Institute since 1914, according to Dr. E. L. Fisk, its medical director, nearly all were found to have physical impairments.

The secret of preventing the encroachment of organic diseases lies in early diagnosis. In other words, get to it at the start—before the harm is done. This is more or less a new idea in preventive medicine. The old-time doctor would look at a patient aghast if he should walk into his office and say, "Doc, I'm feeling fine, but I want you to look me over thoroughly and tell me whether I am all right in every respect."

The doctor probably would reply with some agitation, "If you're all right, what are you here for?" All that is changed nowadays. The modern physician considers it part of his duty to keep his patient well.

Samuel M. Vauclair, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, had the right idea when, as told recently in Popular Science Monthly, he arranged with his physician to keep him well or lose money by failing to do so. The best attorney is the one who keeps his client out of court and out of trouble. The same theory applies to a doctor. A good doctor is one who keeps his patient healthy and never has to cure him.

The first thing for any man who wants to add 20 years to his life is to start in a businesslike way to take a human inventory. Have the human machine thoroughly inspected by a competent physician. Most intelligent persons now have the laudable habit of going every six months or so to the dentist, whether they think anything is wrong with their teeth or not. The same practice can be applied profitably for the rest of the body. Physical inspection at least once a year will save doctor's bills. Expose your defects and disabilities while they are still young and more or less innocuous, and so ward off possible future suffering, trouble, and even an early death. This is prevention with a vengeance.

I knew a legislator who took great pride in his physical condition and boasted that he never had to go to a doctor. He worked unusually hard, attended many banquets, took practically no exercise and was afflicted with numerous worries.

One afternoon he saw an acquaintance at the top of a long flight of granite stairs in front of a public building. He particularly wanted to speak to this man on an important matter, so he rushed up the steps. When nearly at the top, he suddenly collapsed, and when bystanders reached him he was past assistance. The death certificate indicated as the cause, "acute cardiac dilatation," which translated into plain English, means heart disease.

UNION PACIFIC.
Gross and Operating Income Set New Highs—Operating Ratio 71%, Lowest Since the Year 1919.
N.Y.—Though Union Pacific's March gross of $15,975,000 declined $138,000 from a year ago and net operating income of $3,147,000 was $11,000 less, the month's report was better than the management had expected and brought net operating income for first quarter over $8,704,000, about $100,000 better than estimated.

slower movement of grain and lumber toward end of March had been expected to hold gross revenues to near the February gross of $15,287,000, than to last year's gross of $16,109,000 but freight traffic held up well, exceeding that of any month since last November. Passenger travel was the weak spot. Receipts of $2,809,000 were only 2% under last year, but the decline was the first in Union Pacific's passenger receipts since October, 1922.

As Carl E. Gray, president, expected, operating expenses were under a year ago, the total of $11,346,000 being $537,000 or 4% under March, 1923. Maintenance and transportation expenses alike were between 5% and 6% under a year ago.

Taxes were $1,235,000, up 13%, and equipment rental was constituted a debit of $139,000, against an $56,000 credit last year. Had these two items been the same as a year ago, net operating income would have been some $400,000 higher than it was.

First quarter results were the best in the company's history, gross revenues of $46,336,000 being $1,196,000 ahead of a year ago and net operating income of $8,704,000, $1,514,000, or 21% ahead. Proportionately greater net operating income was the result of reduction of expenses. Operating ratio for first three months of this year was 71.74%, against 76.61% the first quarter of 1923. If this ratio can be maintained through 1924 it will give the lowest ratio since the average of 69.14% in 1919.

ADVERTISE IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

--Buick is the Standard of Comparison

For the sixth consecutive year, Buick has been awarded First Place at the American Automobile Shows during 1924, for having done the largest volume of business during the preceding year.

During 1923 Buick produced and sold 218,286 high grade motor cars for which the public paid $302,752,950—the production of the next leading make was 145,167 cars—therefore Buick beat its closest competitor by over Seventy Thousand cars.

Public opinion as indicated in the above figures of sales, is absolute proof that—Buick is the best value in the world.

In designing Four-Wheel brakes on all its models, Buick has added greater safety to a car already recognized for its sturdiness, high grade construction, power, beauty, comfort and efficiency—these Brakes were given an exhaustive road test of 150,000 miles, before being perfected by the Buick engineers.

Being the largest distributors of cars in the city, we own and operate an up-to-date Garage, to give Buick owners every up-to-date Service—we also keep on hand a complete stock of spare parts.

Before buying a car call and see the latest Buick models on display at our Show Room. Phone us and we will gladly send a 1924 Buick to your address for inspection and demonstration—Let us prove to you why Buick is a safer car to drive.

SPECIAL BRANCH REDUCED IN STRENGTH. Curtailed Activities.

To all intents and purposes the Special Branch, or Secret Service, is being disbanded, for the simple reason that the work it has to do hardly justifies the existence of a separate staff. The stringent Home Office regulations now in force concerning the admission of aliens have proved so effective that much of the work originally done by the Special Branch is now unnecessary. We have never been fond of political police such as are to be found in many foreign countries. Before the war quite a number of anarchists of various nationalities and other individuals of a disreputable turn of mind used to come to London, but in recent years, owing to the laws restrictions, it has been our good fortune to be free of such undesirable elements. Since 1914 there has been, of course, the complex problem arising out of the state of affairs in Ireland, which necessitated the employment of a large number of Special Branch men in guarding eminent persons and tracking down dangerous suspects in England and Scotland. But when the Free State came into existence the greater part of this work was handed over to the Free State's police in Dublin, and, except that one or two officers are engaged in guarding certain ex-Ministers, that particular section of the Special Branch duties has now become unnecessary. The result is that the Special Branch has now become a very small department for the naturalization of aliens, and it is more than doubtful if it will ever be increased to its old strength while the present position remains. The present Chief of the Special Branch is Col. Carter, who during the war was engaged with Col. Sir Vernon Kell in the contra-espionage section of the directorate of Special Intelligence. When the war ended, Sir Basil Thompson, who held the post of Director of Intelligence at Scotland Yard, took Col. Carter in with him as his deputy. Sir Basil Thompson, as stated, resigned in October, 1921, and Col. Carter entered upon his work on the understanding that

The Activities of the Department were to be curtailed as much as possible. Since then much of the work has gradually been absorbed into the ordinary duties of the Criminal Investigation Department. There is a long and romantic history behind the Special Branch, and if the full story is ever told it will reveal many strange incidents. The Branch was originally created for the purpose of dealing with the outrages of the Irish Fenians in the early 'eighties. At that time the lives of a number of prominent men were being threatened by dynamiters. In 1883 there was passed through both Houses of Parliament an Explosives Act, making it a criminal offence for anyone to be found in possession of dynamite or any other dangerous explosive. The newly-formed Special Branch did its work so successfully that the trouble in Great Britain was speedily stamped out. For over 20 years the Special Branch went on quietly, keeping a check on the movements of foreign anarchists and international criminals, and gradually getting in hand the numerous alien population of London, which increased by leaps and bounds towards the end of the 19th century. But the busiest time the Special Branch ever had was when the Suffragettes, led by Mrs. Pankhurst and her two daughters, Christabel and Sylvia, together with Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, and other well-known women, began their widespread agitation for the right for women to vote. What some of the Suffragettes did, and the damage they led the Special Branch detectives, is one of the most amusing chapters in our history. If they did not actually take to bombing our Cabinet Ministers, at all events they made their lives a misery to them by throwing all sorts of missiles and burning down valuable buildings. They blew up the Coronation Chair in Westminster Abbey, damaged many valuable pictures in the National Gallery, set light to public buildings, and generally played havoc with public property. In the end, female persistency had its reward, and with the enfranchisement of women the Suffragette trouble came to an end. But by the time this had taken place the war was in full swing, and with it had come the great problem of dealing with the German spy organizations which were known to exist in this country. Side by side with this trouble there was the terrible dangerous problem of dealing with aliens in time of war. One requires no imagination to visualize the Dangers of Enemy Espionage which must necessarily result to any country in the throes of a great war. Nobly did the Special Branch rise to the occasion. The nucleus of an organization for controlling the movements of all aliens already existed in the Special Branch, and it was put into operation. Throughout the war Scotland Yard rendered conspicuous service in keeping the alien menace in check. The officers of the Special Branch were considerably reinforced, and, with the assistance of a big clerical staff, undertook the onerous duties of investigating the bona fides and keeping track of the movements of practically every alien who came here from 1914 to 1918. The moment any one was suspected of being an agent of the German Secret Service, Scotland Yard came into play. Officers from the Special Branch were detailed to shadow the suspect and keep a close watch upon him until such time when it was definitely decided whether or not he, or she, should be arrested. When the spy was taken into custody it was the usual practice to remove him to Cannon-row Police-station, alongside Scotland Yard itself, where he would be kept until such time as Sir Basil Thompson and other high officials interrogated him. There have been many strange dramas played in Sir Basil Thompson's room at the Special Branch in which German spies have been the leading figures, tense scenes which have ultimately ended in the Tower of London at dawn with a firing party of Scots Guards. Many notable visitors have been in that room. There was Sir Roger Casement, captured in Ireland in 1916 at the time of the Dublin rebellion, the man whom the Germans betrayed in order that they might be rid of him. Casement, a tall, dignified figure, was brought in, and, without so much as asking permission, seated himself on the corner of Sir Basil Thompson's desk and inquired in careless fashion what was going to be done with him. There were women spies, notably the notorious Madame Popovitch, the Serbian lady of a somewhat bristly turn of mind, who picked up an inkstand and threw it at Sir Basil in proof of her annoyance. Other ladies adopted different methods. There was Madame Eva Bourneville, who tried cajolery instead of violence; but was no more successful than Madame Popovitch. Many spies confessed in that room, some defiantly, others pleading for mercy and offering to become what is known as an agent double. By 1917 the spy menace had been effectively overcome but it did not signify that the work of the Special Branch had ended. In March, 1917, there broke out the Russian Revolution, and from then until 1921 the Special Branch went through an extremely anxious time with political agitators. Then there came the trouble in Ireland, and upon the Special Branch fell the duty of rooting out the powerful organization established in this country to further the cause of an Irish Republic. With the exception of the Irish trouble, which has almost completely abated since the inception of the Free State, the Special Branch has found itself with very little to do in the last 18 months, with the result that it has now been decided to maintain nothing, but a skeleton organization, which can be expanded should the necessity arise. Supt. J. W. McBrien, who succeeded Sir Patrick Quinn, still remains at the Special Branch with Col. Carter, but the majority of the old officers have left on well-earned pensions.—News of the World.

Mice Flourish Amid Desolation

Salt Lake City, April 27. (A.P.)—Carrington Island, a small piece of land on the Great Salt Lake on which there is an abundant supply of roofing slate, is infested with mice, according to Eli P. Taylor of the United States land office here. A recent visit to the island by Mr. Taylor for survey purposes brought out the tale of the rodents.

There is no fresh water and no other sign of life on the island except the mice, and how they manage to survive is a mystery.

GENERATIONS OF HOGARTHS. The names associated with the days of permanent residence...

Isaac Hogarth, who brought the name to Trinity, was born in the Church Parish, Hant's County, England, in the year 1784.

James Morley and his wife Mary, were in very comfortable circumstances, and Isaac was privileged to make their home his lodging place for days at a time.

Isaac Hogarth, of Christ Church Parish, Hant's County, England, and Dorothy Blanchard, daughter-in-law to James and Mary Morley, North Side.

Patience Hogarth died in 1840, aged 50 years. In 1848 William Hogarth was married again to Elizabeth Jones.

Some of the family in the second generation lived and died in Ireland's Bay and British Harbor. Today, however, the name Hogarth has died out in those places...

Thus we have the sixth generation from Isaac and Dorothy Hogarth in 1874, and the male issue will probably perpetuate the name for many generations to come.

Knockouts, thrills, slam bang boxing and tricky mat work featured the N.A.A.A. Championships at the Prince's Rink last night before 1,800 spectators. Thrills aplenty were provided, but it remained to C. James and J. Bishop, of the flyweight boxing to provide the best bout of the night. So evenly matched were the boys, an extra round had to be ordered to decide a winner. It was a typical slogging match, with James landing better blows than his opponent, and the shade that he had on Bishop was that the latter boy covered up once too often. Bishop was willing to take a few blows in order to get one in himself. With the crowd in an uproar these two flyweights stood off and battered each other with rights and lefts and the judges disagreed at the end of the third round and the referee ordered the extra. The judges decided in favor of James who landed cleaner in the latter part of the round. It took La Fosse one second short of a half minute to stop the ruggid boy Rogers, in the Bantamweight class. At the start both boys landed several hard swings, but a left hook by La Fosse, landed square on his opponent's right jaw, and he fell dazed to the floor, after 29 seconds of actual fighting, having failed to rise on the final count of ten. Rogers was carried to his corner by the seconds, and did not revive until some minutes later. La Fosse's victory was a clean-cut, decisive one and his cleverness as a boxer should not be overlooked.

There was no contest in the Featherweight class. "Charlie" Brocklehurst being the only entrant. He was awarded the title. In the 125 pound class, the Grand Falls boxer, J. Hannaford, was pitted against J. Phelan, a local boy. This bout was particularly interesting while it lasted and it was a big surprise to the many in attendance that a knockout by Phelan had been delivered so quickly. Both boxers entered the mat at even weights, with no noticeable advantage in stature dividing them. From the opening the exhibition proved very lively and a thrilling bout was being looked forward to. Hannaford, in the early moments fighting landed several telling lefts and rights on Phelan's jaw, and inside of a minute of boxing he landed a terrific hook that sent Phelan to the floor. Phelan quickly sprang to his feet and followed up a sensational attack by landing three hard rights to Hannaford's jaw from over the ropes which apparently weakened him, and although the Grand Falls lad retaliated quickly, Phelan availed of an opening and landed a deadly left on his chin, and the distressed Hannaford was sent sprawling to the floor. He took the count of seven while on his hands and knees and fell flat to the canvas at the count of ten. Time 2 min. 11 sec. Both boxers received a big ovation as they left the ring. The Welterweight contest between the two rival boxers, Stamp and Burridge, which proved to be a real sensation last fall, ended rather disappointingly. In the first round the contest was only of a friendly nature. The blows landed were very feeble and neither one or the other had any inclination of using their gloves with the telling effect which was so characteristic in the former bouts. Midway in the round Referee Cullen stopped the bout and called for snappier action, while the crowd were also yelling for heavier money worth. The round ended very tame. During the interval the referee again cautioned both contestants that they were compelled to show more fight if the match continued, and, acting on instructions and with the clang of the gong, the signal for the second, Stamp made a furious attack on his opponent and rushed him to the ropes. Then they settled down in a real earnest, and after exchanging furious lefts and rights to the face and body, for a period of one minute and thirty-three seconds, with Stamp having the advantage, his opponent decided to discontinue, claiming that he entered the contest slightly indisposed. Stamp was awarded the decision. There were no bouts in the Middleweight division. Parsons, from Mount Pearl, failed to put in an appearance to try conclusions with H. Diamond, in the Middleweight class, while there was not a man to be found in St. John's, nor an entrant from any part of the Island to do battle with Ken Goodyear, the Heavyweight from Grand Falls. This was offset by the Committee of Management arranging a special exhibition at the last moment, when four of our local boxers, namely, Brocklehurst, Phelan, Stamp and Fred Marshall, consented to tackle the burly "Ken". Three of the first named each gave the Grand Falls heavy a spirited round. "Ken" who is a big powerful man, with a perfect body, was much admired by the fans. While in action he failed to hit high or low, and although playing an open guard, few were the punches delivered by his lighter opponents. In the remaining two rounds, Fred Marshall, the lightweight champion, tried conclusions against the burly Ken and gave a very good impression. The exhibition throughout was greatly enjoyed, and all the fans were delighted to see Goodyear in action. Old timers who followed his little work-out last night, state that his action is something similar to the style of Shalloy. The only drawback of the exhibition was that he was not given a chance to show his real hitting powers. The championship belt, kindly donated by Padre Nangle, and handed over to the A.A.A. for Heavyweight competition, was presented to Goodyear from the ringside, to be held in the possession of the Grand Falls Club for a period of one year.

SNAPPY WRESTLING BOUTS.

Three wrestling bouts were staged, special, lightweight and middleweight, all of which proved very interesting. The special bout, between Brady (81 lbs.) and Parsons (78 lbs.) was fought for ten minutes without a decision. Both lads gave a very clever exhibition of mat work, for so young in years. They used all kinds of holds, with honors evenly divided throughout, and the gong ended without a fall being registered. Brady, slightly stronger than his opponent, if anything had the better of the argument.

The lightweight match between B. Chancey (127) and A. Hennebury (129) proved to be a well contested bout. Although no fall was registered in the fifteen minutes period, Chancey worked on the offensive practically the whole period and tried to force his opponent to the mat on several occasions, by applying a half nelson and body hold. Hennebury, who was more scientific, always managed to extricate himself and by clever maneuvering during the bout, gained several good body and head holds on his opponent, which looked good for a fall. But Chancey, by nothing other than brute strength, worked clear. At the end of the fifteen minutes no fall was registered and the judges declared the match a draw, and decided that an extra 10 minutes was necessary to declare a winner. After a brief rest the bout was to be continued. Chancey, however, was unable to appear. While Chancey's seconds were engaged in a rub down following the bout, a spectator intervened and threw cold water over his heated body with the result that he was seized with cramps in the stomach. Hence he was unable to continue the bout. Hennebury was then awarded the honours.

H. Adams (151) and O. Avery (145) contested for the title in the middleweight class. Adams, once getting his opponent to the canvas, found no great difficulty in placing Avery's shoulders to the mat. Adams secured two falls. The first in 4 min. 56 sec. by applying a half nelson and body hold, and the second in 2 min. 54 sec. with a double arm and body hold. During the greater part of the bout both wrestlers were standing on their feet in the headlock position, with neither showing any material advantage. During the evening the full C. L. B. Band was in attendance, and rendered several appropriate selections, which were greatly appreciated by the gathering. The tourney was well handled and proved a financial success. The proceeds, which amounted to roughly $500.00 goes to the aid of the Memorial Fund Week.

The A.A.A. officials, particularly Mr. Stan Cullen, who refereed the bouts with entire satisfaction, and all concerned, in making the tournament the phenomenal success that it was, every congratulation is due.

STAR FOOTBALLERS MEET.

The annual meeting of the Star Athletic Association was held last night when preliminary matters in connection with the coming season were discussed. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer showed that the Association is in a sound condition and the members look forward to a successful athletic season. Several of the old players have seen the last of their football days and the Star team this year will consist principally of the younger blood, from which great things are expected. It was decided to hold another meeting next week, when the election of officers for the year will take place.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SPINACH.

Oh, the good old days of boyhood they are gone forever more, with their laughter and their shouts and the gear about the door;

Now the games we played are over, and the old school house is down;

And the years have built a city where there used to be a town.

But last night I caught a vision of a dining table neat

And a heaping dish of spinach which the mother made us eat.

Now I hold no love for spinach in the days of long ago

And their endless round of pleasures, there was that one touch of woe.

Just one blizzard to the laughter which I would not live again.

Could I turn away from manhood the years that escape its care and pain?

Though I'd like to be a youngster, I'm not willingly repeat

That springtime dish of spinach which the mother made us eat.

Well I know that it's a tonic, I've been told it oft enough.

And a very wholesome diet, but I never liked the stuff.

And I used to squirm and sputter and the smile would leave my face.

Every time I saw my mother putting spinach at my place.

All in vain were my excuses, I could never leave my seat.

'Till I'd finished up that spinach which the mother made me eat.

Now I hear his mother saying just what mother said to me:

"You must eat your dish of spinach if a strong boy you would be,"

And I hear him argue with her, and I chuckle soft and low

As he mumbles and he grumbles just as I did long ago.

And I say unto his mother, as her pleading eyes I meet:

"You can lead a boy to spinach, but it's hard to make him eat."

Newfoundland Types

THE "FORTY-FIVE."

Your hardened "forty-five" player is no mere prosaic creature, quite the contrary he is a person of temperament, unbounded resource, and infinite guile; you recognize the fact from the first deal, and you begin to appreciate it further on your first "renee."

See him pick up his cards, at first glance he seems to show no sign, good or otherwise, as to what chance has brought to his hand; but to a student of human nature, particularly that peculiar to forty-five addicts, you can recognize little eccentricities, such as the raising of an eyebrow, or the winking of the eye, to be marks either of approbation, or resignation to what the Arab terms Kismet.

The "middle" commences, and one devotee signifies a "tan," a second murmurs makes a pass, whilst the seasoned warrior boldly admits a "twent" only to be held by the dealer, quick as a thought comes his twenty-five, and all give way before it. A swift counting of the "kitty," a throw-out of four cards, to pick up one, and he is ready for the fray.

On his left a low card comes in play, shied in hand smacks on the Ace of Trumps, which he takes with the Ace of Hearts. Out comes his five and again he crosses the harvest. Once more he leads, this time the Jack, and follows with a throw of losing to an opponent's Queen. Twenty made and twenty-five to get number one leads, "Partner's" only card is useless. Number three triumphantly flashes out a three of trumps, and then with a flourish and a bang like thunder comes his two. With an amused smile he listens to the reprimands of his opponents, and shuffles the pack again.

Tapestries Bring Good Prices

London, April 11 (A.P.)—High prices were paid by French and English collectors for tapestries, when the late Duke of Brunswick-Lansburg's collection came up for auction at Christie's. One English eighteenth century panel brought $15,000 and three Flemish panels $17,000. The duke's five lots realized a total of $68,000. Five Gobelin tapestries from another collection brought $19,500.

VICTIMOUS IN 900 YEARS' FIGHT WITH ELEMENTS.

Glacier National Park, Montana, April 26 (A.P.)—There stands to-day on the Rocky Mountain side of this park an ancient evergreen tree that shows evidence of having battled with the elements for its existence for three centuries.

High snow drifts, heaped from the mountain tops, crush the tree to earth each winter and there it lies, growing along the ground. The trunk is 18 inches in diameter. Every spring it tries to rise, but it never can grow up like other trees because every winter there is a hundred-foot drift of snow in this particular spot in Crack-or-Canyon. The Glacier Park foresters estimate its age at 300 years.

Defrauding Insurance Company Costly Job

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 24.—(Canadian Press)—With the trial and conviction of most of those implicated, the conspiracy to defraud the Manufacturer's Life Insurance Company, of Canada, a scandal that has engaged the attention of the entire island for several months, is just ended.

After trials in which the accused offered no defense, Municipal Judge Rodriguez Serra, imposed a sentence of six months in jail and a fine of $500 on Juan J. Geraldin, of Ponce, on each of two counts, and on third count, imposed a fine of $100 and costs.

Enrique Valentin was fined $200 and costs, on one count, and $100 and costs for infraction of the insurance law. Sixto Luccioni was fined $100 and costs, as was also Joaquin Telles.

All the principals were charged with conspiracy to defraud the insurance company by obtaining life insurance policies on the lives of persons known to be tubercular, and who were unable to pay the premiums involved, the accused advancing the money and receiving the amounts for which the policies were taken out.

As a result of the conspiracy several companies have cancelled policies for more than $350,000 insurance.

British Eastern Trade Heavy

London, April 13 (A.P.)—The value of Great Britain's eastern commerce and the cost of the Navy in those seas during 1923 totalled $5,500,000,000 and $17,710,000 respectively. Official figures given in reply to a question in the House of Commons disclosed the totals.

Household Notes.

Serve boiled herring on buttered toast garnished with crisp lettuce leaves and tartar sauce. Use 1/2 teaspoonful of baking powder to every three eggs when making an omelet. Dip bananas in butter, fry and serve with sweetened egg sauce, flavored with lemon.

A dash of cinnamon is nice added to the powdered sugar in which doughnuts are rolled. Toasted Graham bread served with orange marmalade and coconuts makes a delightful Sunday "light supper." Just before serving asparagus salad add to the mayonnaise some chopped ripe olives and whipped cream.

Our Montreal Letter.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) THE MIGHTY MERICID MEETS DEFEAT.

"Well, I'm done. My record was on the rack. I've laid it down to-day. It was the last straw broke the camel's back. I've laid that down to-day. No, I'll not fume nor fret, nor fuss, nor fight. I'll walk by faith a bit, and not by sight. I think the city will be alright. Tho' I've lost my crown to-day."

Hon. Méricid Martin, once the People's Idol, defeating all comers for the Mayoralty on four different occasions, met his Waterloo on Monday, April 7th, when he was defeated by a candidate who entered the race at the eleventh hour. Oh! how the mighty Méricid did fall. Yes, the mighty weapon in the people's hands, the vote, swept him into the vortex of defeat. The usurpation of power is an evil which the people soon grow tired of. Notwithstanding the bitter opposition he met with at many of the meetings when he had cohorts of twenty and thirty policemen to try and get a hearing for him; his two-fistic encounters with two of his opponents; and the refusal of the crowds to hear him speak at some of the meetings, Méricid still held out hope that he'd be elected for a fifth term. But the dread of sorrows and disappointment he had to suffer. The circumstance which rubbed him the wrong way, came to him when he least expected it. The three English wards: St. George's, St. Andrew's and Notre Dame de Grace, simply snowed him under, and told him:

"Whether he sucked the stone or had the plum."

Out of the 35 wards, Méricid got small majorities in 18, but the others, with the three English wards particularly, put the kibosh on him. The vote was a very light one. Out of 172,649 voters, only forty seven per cent. voted. A funny incident of the affair was that the election did not cost the Hon. Méricid a cent. At a stormy meeting at Malsonneuve he had forgotten his rubbers, but they were sent to his home on Logan St. and Méricid saved $1.75 by the honesty of someone, which made him happy and glad and also made him boast of running his election without a cent of expense. The official majority of the Mayor-elect, Charles Duquette, was 3,046. Hon. Méricid Martin has been in the City Council for a quarter of a century, fifteen years as an Alderman, and ten years as Mayor.

Charles Duquette, the newly-elected Mayor of Montreal, is the president and general director of l'Alliance Nationale, a mutual insurance society doing business at 395 Viger Avenue. Mayor Duquette was born July 25, 1869, in Montreal, and was educated at St. Henry College. On leaving school he entered the shoe business, which he relinquished in 1901 to become Chief Inspector of l'Alliance Nationale, a position which he occupied until 1919 when he became general director of that organization. He was appointed branch treasurer in 1894, director in 1898, and in March 1912, was nominated to the executive as 2nd general vice-president, being re-elected in 1912 and 1914. He was elected 1st general vice-president in 1916, and general president in August, 1922.

Mayor Duquette is president of the Canadian Fraternal Association, and is representative of l'Alliance Nationale in the National Fraternal Congress of America. He is considered an expert in the mutual insurance system. The new Mayor exhibited at all times an active sympathy with community work. It was during his term of office that the St. Jean Baptiste Society was recognized under the federative system and that the bylaws of that organization were entirely revised.

He was president of the St. Charles section of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, director in 1917, and general president in 1914, resigning in 1915, on account of his duties in l'Alliance Nationale.

He is a life governor of Notre Dame Hospital, and is a member of the Chambre de Commerce. His interest in sport is shown by the fact that he is a member of the executive and life governor of l'Association Athlétique Nationale, and vice-president of the Laval sur le Lac Golf Club.

Mayor Duquette, who is a married man, resides at 335 Harvard Avenue, Montreal.

A FORMER NEWFOUNDLANDER AN ALDERMAN.

Out of the seven new Aldermen elected on April 7th, one of them is a former Newfoundland, in the person of Frank J. Hogan, Master plumber, proprietor of a general hardware store at Point St. Charles, and at one time a noted lacrosse player, having played on the Shamrock and M.A.A.A. champion teams. The new Alderman was born at Western Bay, and has resided at Point St. Charles since the family moved to this city. Frank has worked his way to the front by diligence, honesty, attention to duty, which means success. He has built up a lucrative business and has made boots of friends by his affable ways,

Have You Tried The New Cuticura Shaving Stick?

This delicately medicated antiseptic Soap produces a rich creamy lathering, enabling you to shave without the slightest irritation. Indispensable for those who shave regularly. Properly used, it will prevent ingrowing hairs.

Price 25c. Sold every where or mailed post-paid. Most recent price for Canadian Post: Cuticura, P.O. Box 2514, Montreal.

Kindness and courtesies. His great popularity was shown in the three-cornered fight, when he won by over three hundred of a majority against a strong opponent, C. H. Browning, and made his French Canadian opponent, A. Samovra, lose his deposit. Frank will be no stranger in the City Council and will be the friend of the laboring man. He speaks French fluently. Being personally acquainted with Alderman Hogan, having followed his lacrosse career for years when doing reportorial work for the city papers, I predict a successful term in the Council for him and congratulate him as being one of the few, if not the first, of the sons of good old Terra Nova to obtain such a signal honor in the Metropolis of Canada.

THE CRIME WAVE ABATING.

The carnival of crime has abated considerably of late. The toughs, bandits, and other bad men will get the limit of the law in future. The recent robbery and tragedy in connection with the Bank of Hochelaga officials, has stirred the populace to indignation and anger, the police to greater activity, energy and watchfulness, and the court to long and painful sentences. The judge sentenced two hold-up men, who robbed the cashier of the Standard Shirt Company, to 14 years, with twelve lashes each, and were it not for their youth, they would have been sentenced to life imprisonment. Three persons implicated in the robbery and murder of the Chauffeur of the Bank of Hochelaga car have been sent for trial by the Coroner's Jury and are in the shadow of the gallows. It is expected that one of them will turn King's evidence, and reveal the workings of some of the toughest characters of the underworld.

A DANGER TO LIVES IN LARGE BUILDINGS.

The citizens at large are exposed to many dangers from automobiles, careless and reckless drivers of auto trucks, and other vehicles on our public streets, and especially at crossings. But there is another source of danger in our large commercial buildings, it is the open elevator shaft, which, of late, has become a great danger to human lives. Someone is to blame for the open elevator shaft. In the construction of these elevators, all doors should be firmly locked until the operators open them to carry passengers up and down to the different floors of the building. Too many of them are never locked, and careless persons plunge headlong into an untimely end. Then again the operators don't exercise enough caution when running the elevators, by not closing the doors tightly and by going too fast. The Gazette in an editorial on the subject says:

"In the prominence given the dangers of the streets and the necessity for precautions on the part of those who take their walks abroad, night should not be lost at the chance of accident and the need for constant care in business and industrial establishments equipped with elevators. Hardly a month passes without a serious and often fatal mishap in a lift-shaft being recorded. Sometimes the accident is due to the mistaken assumption that the elevator cage or platform is in a certain position, and sometimes to recklessness in attempting to enter or leave it while it is in motion; more rarely to a measure of negligence on the part of the operator. In the two first-named instances, the person killed or injured is the victim of his own want of forethought, and in all three the accident could have been avoided. It seems little to sound a warning against the folly of opening a door and stepping into a shaft without first assuring oneself that there is something there to afford a solid foothold, or against the danger of jumping on or off a moving lift, yet the mortality statistics due to such causes are a proof that frequent repetition of an act dulls the edge of caution, until continued carelessness brings a terrible retribution. In the matter of safety, as of liberty, eternal vigilance must be exercised in the interests of oneself and of others."

WHAT RECKLESS DRIVERS DID IN NEW YORK STATE.

In a recent address of State Tax Commissioner Mark Groves before the Brooklyn Rotary Club he declared "that six times as many persons were killed last year by automobiles in New York State as the total loss of lives of soldiers and sailors in the Spanish American war."

Not only were 1893 persons killed and 28,000 injured in New York State in 1923, but persons in this state also suffered property losses of from forty million to fifty million dollars. He said that so rapid has been the extension in the use of motor cars that governmental organizations have failed absolutely to cope with its attendant problems. Five-sixths of the total nineteen million automobiles and motorcycles in the world are operated in the United States and residents of the Empire State are the owners of 64 out of every 1000 of these machines in the entire world.

AN EFFORT MADE TO MAKE STREETS SAFE.

In the great drive for safe streets which is now being undertaken by the Quebec Safety League as the result of the great number of fatalities from automobile accidents, the local taxicab companies and independent drivers have promised their best efforts to assist in the work. "We are tooth and nail for safety and are glad to help in a campaign to prevent accidents," is their general statement to the Safety League.

The local chauffeurs, it is understood, will adopt a pledge something along the following lines:

1. I agree to drive carefully at all times, always keeping in mind the rights of pedestrians and other drivers.
  2. I will obey the laws of city and province.
  3. I will pause at all railroad crossings and look in each direction.
  4. I will protect the lives of children, obey the school police and observe the school traffic signs.
  5. I will signal to the driver behind, my intention of turning or stopping.
  6. I will do all in my power to stop the frightful loss of life and the large number of automobile accidents.
- The Safety League is out to make the streets of our cities and provincial highways 100 per cent. safe for all, and in this great work, it appeals to all citizens to co-operate to bring about this happy condition.

THE FAMOUS BASILICA AT ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE.

Less than four years after the famous Basilica of St. Anne de Beaulieu was destroyed by fire, the new temple, which is to be one of the most magnificent in America and to cost $5,000,000, will be completed if the architects can carry out the plans as arranged.

On Saturday the foundation work of the church was completed and thirty-five carloads of steel to be used for the superstructure will reach St. Anne de Beaulieu in the course of next month. If the work is proceeded with as successfully as it has since the reconstruction of the famous church was decided, expectations are that the Feast of St. Anne will be celebrated in the new church dedicated to the thannaturgus on the 26th of July, 1926.

A SNOW AND RAIN STORM.

Sunday, April 6th and Monday, April 7th, were days of rain and snow storms. The streets were bad enough, but the crossings were terrible. You had to wade ankle deep in snow and slush, and if you made a jump to try and cross, well you ran the risk of falling into a miniature lake. It is simply disgraceful the way the streets, and especially the crossings, are neglected by the City Council. While conducting sixty boys through the streets in the middle of the snow storm and after they had navigated their way through the slush at a very bad crossing I met a gentleman who said: "What would tourists think of Montreal now if they saw our streets and crossings?" Tuesday, April 8th, the streets and crossings after the storm presented the worst appearance for years. The birch broom brigade should be organized by the city to try and make the crossings passable on such occasions.

DEATH OF "MOTHER" WILLIAMS.

A few months ago you published an article entitled "A Remarkable Woman," in which the career of a well-educated lady who was obliged in her old age to sell newspapers from early morning until late at night to eke out an existence. # ALEX SCOTT Open Every Night 18 New Gower St.

was taken from a New York train on a stretcher, suffering from a complication of diseases and brought to Ryan's Hotel to await an entrance into one of the city hospitals. I visited her, but hardly recognized the smart and cheerful old lady that I interviewed only a few months before. Her body was terribly swollen. She informed me that as she went to get her "Billboards" the theatrical magazine in New York City, she was brutally kicked by a man who delivered the magazines. Thinking nothing of it at the time, it was not long before the affair became serious, as she was fatally injured internally. Knowing that the end was not far off, she expressed a wish to be brought to Montreal, and her remains placed with those of her father, who died suddenly at St. Ann's Church one Sunday morning during High Mass, forty-seven years ago. She was placed in St. Joseph's Hospital, Lachine, and lingered for a couple of weeks, suffering great pain. She died on Tuesday, April 8th, and was buried from St. Ann's Church on the morning, April 11th, where a solemn Requiem Service was held to rest at Cote des Neiges near the remains of her father. A few faithful friends followed the remains to the graveside on the Snows, where "after life's struggle she sleeps well." "And as I turned to leave I thought I heard a voice say: 'Farewell dear friends, you will see me here. It will be your turn another day.'"

STAFFORD'S Sarsaparilla Blood Purifier

FOR THE CURE OF
 Skin Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Impure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor, Debility, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Boils, Pimples, etc.

There is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-and-tried Blood Purifier and Blood Builder. A medicinal preparation that will truly purify, revitalize and "renew" the blood, restore hope and pleasure, ambition and happiness, vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a strengthener of the system, fortifying it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for Chronic Diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of this nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood deposited through the inactivity of the Liver and Kidneys.
 These excretions if not removed from the circulation, gradually form poisons which deteriorate the condition of the blood and allow other diseases to obtain a more ready entrance to the system. In the effort of nature to throw off these impurities, frequently pimples, boils, carbuncles, etc., appear, and it is wise to respond promptly to the Warning of Nature.

THIS SARSAPARILLA
 is a genuine preparation scientifically prepared from the best and purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is more apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition and you will be prepared to fight life's battles with greater success.
 One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that you will need to take to produce results.

Why do We Dream?

What is the cause of dreams? Why does the brain, which is under control while we wake, work while we sleep in what seems a wild and irrational way?
 The answer is simple: If the blood did not continue to circulate while we slept, we should never dream those fantastic dreams which puzzle us so much. It is because our blood still circulates through the brain that thoughts, vague and unconnected, must continue to be thrown off and what we call dreams.
 Our power of thinking, while we wake, is governed by reflection, and is sound or unsound according to our mental capacity. When asleep, however, this no longer holds, though it is said that persons who, in their waking hours, habitually keep their minds and fancies under strict control, have far more rational dreams than those whose mental self-control is weak.

The brain, the most sensitive portion of the body, is composed of cells, called the most exquisite degree. In all probability, when science possesses the delicate instruments necessary to explain all atomic nature, it will be found that what is commonly called "grey matter" is akin to the unknown force which produces light.

The ordinary light—which you distinguish from darkness—is, of itself, hardly less artificial than manufactured light. It is produced by a certain force acting upon these brilliant materials, called light-waves. These light-waves, in their turn, act upon the retina of the eye and enable you to see.

What this force is science cannot exactly say. It is certain, however, that friction is the chief cause, operating to produce light, and herein you get the analogy with the human brain. In order to move or "throw off" the atoms of the brain, friction is necessary. That friction is caused by the circulation of the blood, and the more sensitive the quality of the brain, the more easily it responds to the action of the blood circulating through its thousands of small blood-vessels. This is the point where thought is created.

So you dream while you sleep, for the reason that your brain, by virtue of the never-ceasing blood-circulation, continues to throw off its atoms and carries, by force of habit, a jumble of symbols which, not being under control, issue forth wildly, vaguely, and unintelligibly, or at least without co-ordination.

TO BUY HOMES FROM BESCO.
 SYDNEY.—A curious demonstration of the lengths to which the radical element are willing to go, to prevent the development of a better feeling between Besco and its employees was given by Phalen, Local of the U.M.W. at Glace Bay recently. By unanimous resolution, the local decided that any member of the union who should purchase his home from the company, under a plan recently inaugurated, should be expelled from the U.M.W. for 99 years. Under prevailing conditions, in the coal industry, this means that such a man would be unable to obtain employment anywhere in North America, with the exception of a few non-union counties in West Virginia.

Some time ago, Besco decided that the present system of renting company houses is not in the best interests of either the corporation or its employees and that the men should be encouraged to own their own homes. The Empire Housing Company was organized and special arrangements made to facilitate the purchase of company houses by employees who wish to do so. There is nothing compulsory about it.

Since its organization, about 67 houses have been thus transferred to employees, principally in the Glace Bay and New Waterford districts, but with a few also near the steel mills in Sydney. From March 10 to March 31 there was a marked increase in sales, 36 houses having been purchased by miners. This evidently roused apprehension in radical circles, hence the Phalen resolution designed to stop the movement.

The houses are sold at prices ranging from $700 to $4,000 and the payments range from $2 a week upward, being equivalent to the small rentals usual in colliery districts.
