ARE GUARANTEED TO STAND THE WEATHER. Our selected stock brick will look as well in the front of a building as some of the so-called face or repress brick, nor are they liable to chip or split with the frost. So far as tested they have not shown any of the WHITE SUBSTANCE, which so disfigures some brick buildings, and we believe them to be entirely free from this ingredient. We aim to keep on hand a large quantity, so that the trade can always rely upon being supplied with good brick.

Having a good wharf on our property and a siding of the W. & A. Railway, we can ship either by vessel or rail.

For the information of builders we publish herewith a certificate from a well-known architect.

The International Brick and Tile Company:

GENTLEMEN.—I took one of your stock brick promiscuously from a lot shown me and put to a severe weather test, having boiled it in hot water and put it out to be frozen at once, and often in an open atmosphere, but have not yet seen the least change in the surface. MOTICE

Poetry' Sunlight is Beyond the Storm.

BY MATTIE BONNER. Up the mountain side, since morning,
We had plodded all the day;
Saw the frightened chamois bounding
From our sight away, away;
Saw the mighty rocks and boulders,
Careless scattered all around,
As if dashed from giant shoulders
In a passion to the ground,

Now, all obstacles surmounted,
On the summit glad we stood,
Where a glow of gleaming glory
Surged upon us like a flood.
Oh, the sunlight! Oh, the sunlight!
How it shot in quiv'ring bars,
Talling of the walls of issuer. Telling of the walls of jasper And the city o'er the stars.

Far below a storm was raging,
And the clouds of blackest hue
Rolled and tossed in mad confusion,
While the lightning glittered thre
Hidden from us all the valley, By the moving, murky screen: But above, where we were standing, All was quiet and serene.

And my heart went out in pity
To the dwellers far below—
Hidden from them all the beauty,
Hidden from them all the glow—
And I wondered if in future,
After we have done with life,
When the mountain is ascended— When the mountain is ascended— Left below the storm of strife—

Whisper that sweet rest was o'er them,
Bid them bravely upward go.
Ye within the storm-swept valley,
Look beyond the dark ning sky!

On the mountain top is sunlight;
Ye shall reach it by and by.

The idea of your being in ondon, and a vast millionaire, and a colossal celebrity! Why, it's the Arabian Nights ome again. Man, I can't take it in at all; can't realize it; give me time to settle the whirl in my head."

"The fact is, Lloyd, you are no worse off han I am. I can't realize it myself." "Dear me, it is stunning, now isn't it? Why, it is just three months to day since we went to the Miners' restaurant—" " No: the What Cheer."

"Right, it was the What Cheer; went there at two in the morning, and had a chop and coffee after a hard six hours' grind over those Extension papers, and I tried to per-suade you to come to London with me, and offered to get leave of absence for you and pay all your expenses, and give you something over if I succeeded in making the sale; loose the run of business and be no end of time getting the hand of things again when time getting the hand of things again when we would are eyes."

Were my doubts dissipated? Was my you got back home. And yet here you are. How odd it all is! How did you happen to come, and whatever did give you this incredible start."

"Oh, just an accident., It's a long story -a romance, a body may say. I'll tell you all about it: but not now." "When?"

"The end of this month." "That's more than a fortnight yet. It's oo much of a strain on a person's curiosity. Make it a week."
"I can't. You'll know why, by and by. But how's the trade getting along?"

His cheerfulness vanished like a breath,

and he said with a sigh:

"You were a true prophet, Hal, a true prophet. I wish I hadn't come. I don't want to talk about it." "But you must. You must come and hilated!" and tell me all about it." "Oh, may I? Are you in earnest?" and the water showed in his eyes.
"Yes; I want to hear the whole story, interest once more, in some eye, in me and affairs of mine, after what I've been through here—lord! I could go down on my knees for it!"

He gripped my hand hard, and braced up and was all right and lively after that for the dinner—which didn't come off. No; the usual thing happened, the thing that is always happening under that vicious and aggravating English system—the matter of precedence couldn't be settled, and so there was no dinner. Englishmen always eat dinner before they go out to dinner, because they know the risk they are running; but walks rapidly into the trap. Of course no-body was hurt this time, because we had all heen to dinner, none of us being novices except Hastings, and he having been informed by the minister at the time that he invited him that in deference to the English custom he had not provided any dinner. Everybody took a lady and processioned down to the dining room, because it is usual to go through the motions; but there the disis a puzzler. Wait; don't take any more of that liquid. You don't need it." oute began. The Duke of Shoreditch wanted "Look here, Henry, you alarm me. to take precedence, and sit at the head of the table holding that he outranked a minister who represented merely a nation and not a fused to yield. In the gossip column I ranked all dukes not royal, and said so, and claimed precedence of this one. It couldn't be settled, of course, struggle as we might "Henry, this is a serious thing. It troubles me. What did you take up yonder and did, he finally (and injudiciously) trying to play birth and antiquity, and I "seeing" his Conqueror and "raising" him with Adam, whose direct posterity I was, as shown by to play birth and antiquity, and I "seeing" his Conqueror and "raising" him with Adam, whose direct posterity I was, as shown by my name, while he was of a collateral branch as shown by his, and by his recent Norman origin; so we all processioned back to the drawing-room again and had a perpendicular lunch—plate of sardines and a straw-berry, and you group yourself and stand up and eat it. Here the religion of precedence is not so strenuous; the two persons of highest rank chuck up a shilling, the one that wins has first go at his strawberry, and when the shilling it must be shown that it is a man.

Then it liashed on me, and I owness up, like a man.

"I took the dearest girl in this world—prisoner!"

So then he came with a rush, and we shook, and shook till our hands and had a perpendicular lunch—plate of sardines and a strawberry, and of a story which had lasted while we walked three miles. He just sat down then, like the patient, good fellow he was, and told it all over again. Synopsized, it amounted to this: He had come to England with what he thought was a grand option.

Then it liashed on me, and I owness up, like a man.

"Henry, I'm ashamed of you. You don't then the tone."

"Henry, I'm ashamed of you. Shall, dear, if you can improve it. Let us see you try."

"I say he did survive, and I've lost twenty thousand pounds. I never would have believed it.

"I've a further report to make," I said, "and a pretty long one. I want you to let me come soon, and detail my whole months history; and I promise you it's worth hearing. Meantime take a look at that."

"What, man! Certificate of deposit for £200,000? Is it yours?

"Mine. I earned it by thirty day's judicious use of that little loan you let me have."

"When it is sir," and I handed it to him.

How the Tomato Was Named.

Few persons know the origin of this common name. It originated in this way: The earlier experimenters with the fruit believed that it had a great effect on the spleen—that is to say, it made persons liable to crossness, good-natured—gave them, so to speak, a lovely disposition, and for this reason the plant was known to the ancient Spaniards as the Love Apple. By the name of Love Apple it is still known in many English speaking countries. The word tomato is derived from this same source, that is to say, from the original Latin word amo, to love, although we use it now as Spanish derivative tomato being a Spanish expression.

-The tariff Reform Club of New York city has drawn up and is distributing for comment and criticism a tariff bill such as its members would like to see passed by the next congress. Although offered only as a suggestion, it is supposed to represent the views of President Cleveland and some other of the tariff reform leaders. The bill is the best value in the market. Special prices on 5 lb. lots. Neily & 11 li founded upon three general principles:-Specific duties are abolished and all luties levied are ad valorem, or "according to the value."

2. The tariff is reduced to a general average of 25 per cent.

3. The free list is greatly enlarged so as to include nearly everything which can be called raw material.

This bill would place on the free list hay, wool, eggs, vegetables except potatoes, animals, salt fish, coal, wood, and all breadstuffs except barley, bread and biscuit. It would tax potatoes 10 per cent, equal to about 5 cents per bushel, instead of 25 cents

At present the United States appears to be in a bad way financially. The exportaion of gold still goes on and shows no signs of abating. The stock of some of the largest manufacturing enterprises has recently depreciated in some instances to the extent of 50 per cont; while the list of banking institutions, business houses, and manufacturing concerns, which have recently failed, would be a very lengthy one indeed. There is of course considerable distract in financial circles on account of the uncertainty as to the changes to be made in he tariff and in the silver legislation, and he president has very wisely decided to nd it at the earliest possible moment by calling an extra session of Congress to deal with these matters.

Lizzie Borden's Trial.

The Borden trial bids fair to be a cau celebre. The interest in the fate of the plain-faced woman who sits in the dock in New Bedford, accused of the murder of her aged father and stepmother, is intense all through New England. Even here the thrill of curosity is great.

The crime has the element of mystery in it. Katherine Green would make an entrancing drama of it. Emile Gaboriau would have revelled in the shadows survivaled to the shadows survivaled to the fated during the shadows.

No town in the provinces has as bright an outlook as Amherst. Last week the Amherst Boot & Shoe Co. held its annual meeting, and showed a sale for the year of $368,000.00. Over $200,000 of their goods were made in Amherst by their 200 emplyees. The Robb Engineering Company employ 100 hands, and their new electric light engines and boilers are having a large sale in Outario and the west, as the Eison Co., who do the largest business in Canada, are installing them with their plants. Christic's coffin factory employs 40 hands. Work has been commenced on the buildings for the new trunk factory. The car works are about completed and cover a large area. They will give employment a large area. They will give employment to about 250 hands, and expect to do a large

A peculiar suit has been instituted in the probate court of Cincinatti to determine who are "Protestants" under the will of Ethan Stone, who died forty years ago. The will devised certain property in trust, one-half in support of the Protestant religion, and one-half for a protestant shool in Storr's township, with a proviso that at the end of each decade all the Protestants in the township should decide by vote which denomination should have the fund for the ensuing ten years.

Fruit Crop of Great Britain.

A long continued drouth has done inestimable damage to the fruit crop of Great Britain. The crop will be far below the average and consequently there is every prospect that prices will rule high there this fall. The Gardner's Magazine says:

The long-continued drought has seriously affected vegetation of all descriptions, and heavily discounted the prospects of an abundant yield of fruit of the highest quality. Trees on dry, gravelling soils have, as a matter of course, suffered the most severely, but those on strong land have shown signs of distress. Notwithstanding these facts should the rains that are now falling over the greater part of the country be sufficient to moisten the soil to a considerable depth, there will undoubtedly be moderately good supplies of apples, plums, and cherries. Rut with the soft fruits the case is different, for the season is too far advanced for the crops ## Email and Oaker seturned from Mt. AlIsom last week, where she has been provening

GRETCHEN, by Gideon, produced Nelson, 2.10; Edna, 2.24; Sadie L. and other fast ones. It is needless to tabulate the list of producing sires and dams with which this fine young horse stands connected, as they are too well known to require further tracing back.

SIR WILLIAM is a dark bay, foaled 1887, bred at Maple Grove Farm, Auburn, Maine. He is very symmetrical and highly finished, with plenty of substance; this, with his very speedy conformation, gives assurance that he will not only be fast, but that he possesses the power of his ancestors to transmit their good qualities to their offspring, as his colts are beginning to prove.

It will be observed shou of that noted horse. Early Rising not Always a Virtue.

Thousands of people have no choice whatever about their hour of rising in the morning. Later or earlier, that hour is fixed for them by the requirements of the office, the shop, or the class-room; by the time table of the railroad, by the arbitration of their employer or the necessity of their employes. But in the cases manifold where personal liberty is enjoyed, it should not be thoughtlessly restricted simply because of the domestic tradition that early rising deserves fren be a movable feast without materially disturbing the routine of an orderly housekeeping day. How To Drink a Farm.

Bob Burdette gives this simple recipe: " My homeless friend with a chromatic nose, while you are stirring up the sugar in a ten cent glass of gin, let me give you a fact to wash down with it. You may say you have longed for years for the free, independent life of the farmer, but have never been able to get money enough together to buy a farm. But there is just where you are mistaken. For some years you have been drinking a good, improved farm at the rate of a hunabove all, rapidly growing children, should dred square feet a gulp. Now pour down the firery hurrying, anxious, toiling Canadian men and dose and imagine you are swallowing women. Rest, rest, and again rest. Do not strawberry patch. Call in five of your friends and have them help you gulp down that 500-foot garden. Get on a prolonged spree some day and see how long it requires to swallow a pasture land to feed a cow. Put down that glass of gin; there is dirt in it-one hundred feet of good, rich dirt, worth $43.56 per acre.

The delicacy of the dish depends on eating it at once before the under crust becomes soaked.

DELICIOUS CHOCOLATE CARAMELS .-- The secret of success with these caramels is to boil to the right thickness, and the length of time required to bring them to this point depends on the quality of the sugar used. Fifteen minutes of hard boiling will usually be sufficient. Six tablespoonfuls of butter, three pounds of light brown sugar, one cup of milk, one cake of Baker's chocolate broken into small pieces, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of vanilla flavoring to be added after taking from the stove. A half cup of cream may be used for half the amount of butter. Boil until thick, stirring constantly after the boiling begins. Flavor, pour into buttered pans, and when cool check with a sharp knife into squares. If properly made the caramels should break apart like maple

DIGBY COUNTY MIRACLE. narkable Experience of a Well-known

APTAIN JAMES MCKAY TELLS HIS STORY OF SUFFERING AND RELEASE—HIS RECOVERY WAS DISPAIRED OF AND HE LONGED FOR DEATH—"THE DARREST HOUR IS JUST BEFORE THE DAWN," AND WITH IT CAME A RAY OF HOPE-HEALTH AND STRENGTH

Probably one of the best known men in fighy County, N. S., is Captain James Mc-Kay, of Tiverton. The Captain is known among ship owners, as a first-class mariner and pilot, has been chiefly engaged in the West Indies trade, and has been very fortunate with the vessels under his charge. Some three years ago, Captain McKay had a very severe attack of la grippe, which gradually developed into more serious troubles, until his life was dispaired of. It was with deep regret that his employers and friends saw him sink gradually under a terrible disease, until his death seemed only a question of a few weeks. At this time, when physicians could do nothing for him, he was induced to try Dr. Williams' Piak Pills, and by that wonderful medicine was restored to health and strength. Captain he was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and by that wonderful medicine was restored to health and strength. Captain McKay's almost miraculous recovery created no little amazement, and as much interest was manifested in it, both in his own village and in the adjacent places where he is so well known, that The Free Press thought the matter of sufficient importance to the public, to get a statement of the facts from Captain McKay, and accordingly decialled a reporter to interview him with that end in view, when the following facts came into his possession:

possession:
"I have heard," said the reporter fthat your recovery was wonderful, and was brought about entirely by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Would you let me

Williams First First. Would you let me have the particulars of your illness and restoration to health?"
"Certainly," replied Capt. McKay. "I have told the story a hundred times already, but at the truth never wears out once more won't hurt, and besides I always think I may "Phat are yez doin' there, Casey?" but as the truth never wears out once more won't hurt, and besides I always think I may be aiding some person who is now suffering as I suffered and giving them a clean bill of health. To begin at the beginning, I had la grippe about three years ago and that tied me up pretty well. I wasn't fit to take charge of a ship, so sailed south as far as Milk River, Jamaica, as nurse and companion for an invalid gentleman. The weather at that season was simply melting, and I used to lie on the deck at night, and in my weakened condition got some sort of fever. When I reached home I was completely used up and continued to get worse until I could hardly move about. At times my limbs would become numb with a tingling serisation, as though a thousand needles were being stuck into me. Then my eyesight began to fail. It was difficult for me to distinguish persons at a distance. My face became swollen and drawn, and my eyes almost closed. At times my flesh would assume a greyish color and remain for days in that state, being at the same time cold and death-like."

"Could the doctors do nothing for your" enquired the reporter.

the same time cold and death-like."

"Could the doctors do nothing for you."
enquired the reporter.

"Seemingly not. They gave advice, sent medicine, and rendered their bills promptly, so that I think they derived the most benefit, for under their treatment I did not improve a bit. At last I got so bad that I lost all ambition, I suffered terribly, was only a burden to my friends, and actually longed for death, which all thought was soon in store for me. But the darkest hour is just before the dawn. I had become so bad that I hardly cared how soon I slipped my cable, for I was now almost completely paralyzed, but at this time the statement of a man down in Cape Breton, whose case had been somewhat similar to mine, came to my notice. He attributed his cure to Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and I thought that there might be a chance for me, though I confess I had at that time but very little faith in any medicine. To make a long story short I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and soon found that they were helping me, and their continued use put me on my feet again, and I went to work after months of enforced idleness, to the great astonishment of my acquaintances, who never expected to see me around again. Since that time I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to several persons who have used them with good results, and I feel it my duty to advise their use by people who are run down or suffer from the effects of any chronic ailment.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., a firm of unquestioned reliability. Pink Pills are not looked on as a patent medicine but rather as a prescription. An analysis of their properties show that these pills are an unfailing specific from all diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood, or from an impairment of the nervous system, such as loss of appetite, depression of spirits, anemia, chlorosis or green sickness, general muscular weakness, dizziness, loss of memory, locomotor ataxia, paralysis, sciatica, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, the after affects of la grippe, all diseases depending upon a vitiated condition of dance, the after affects of la grippe, all diseases depending upon a vitiated condition of they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of any nature. These pills are not a purgative medicine. They contain only life-giving properties, and nothing that could injure the most delicate system. They act directly on the blood, supplying its life-giving qualities, by assisting it to absorb oxygen, that great supporter of all organic life. In this way, the blood becoming "built up," and being supplied with its lacking constituents, becomes rich and red, nourishes the various organs, stimulating them to activity in the performance of their functions and thus eliminate diseases from the system. can find out how I fall to sleep.
