WEDNESDAY, FEB 5TH, 1902

—Consumption and cancer are two of the most droaded diseases that humanity is heir to, and medical skill is called upon to combat. But in spite of the prevalence and fatality the recent investigations of medical science into cause and cure have been productive of results which point to the ultimate successful treatment of even advanced cases of either disease. Even now consumptives are being cured, at the many sanitariums established for its victims, at a rate that has cut the old mortality figures in half, and it is dawning upon the people that the disease is really curable. The cures of the past will be multiplied with every increase in the institutions designed for the special treatment and it is becoming more and more a matter of national interest of create and subsidize such invalids' retreats. There is surely no valids' retreats to create and subsidize such invalidation of the province of their marriage recently.

—Mr. McEwen is canvassing the town for subscriptions in the interest of the Lord's Day Alliance.

—The farmers of King's county are agitating for a branch line of railway from Kingsport to Aylesford.

—Lawrencetown is considering the quicking for a branch line of railway from Kingsport to Aylesford.

—Rev. J. Gaetz of Lawrencetown will conduct a religious service at the home of Mr. David F. Milbury, Port Lorne, Thursday the 6th, at 7 p. m.

est to create and subsidize such invalids' retreats. There is surely no matter more deserving of public aid than the promotion of the health of an unfortunately large class of people, who, aside from their own sufferings, leave to their families the hereditary terror of a tainted blood, which accentuates the tendency to contract the disease. In this province the establishment of a sanitarium for consumptives was strongly hope to see the matter revived at the coming session of parliament and strongly urged for immediate action. If there is virtue in the modern treatment, and that there is will hardly be denied, it is the distinct duty of the government to place within the reach of the sufferers, who in the majority of cases belong to the poorer class, the means for relief. Private charity must not be depended upon to eke out the poor man's purse in the expense of treatment; the object must be made a public one to secure uniform favors for the sufferers. It is a matter of utmost importance; it excites attention. There is hope for the consumptive and it is our duty to humanity to build upon that hope a structure of realities. The late news describing the successful treatment of cancer by X rays also bears the imprint of reality. If the powerful light will indeed kill the germs in a cancerous growth the public cannot too soon be acquainted with the practical able ill has been successfully combating industry will be one. This will apply not only to transatlantic, but also to inland vessels. Transportation on the Great Lakes is increasing very rapidly and the shipbuilding establishments at Toronto and Collingwood are taxed to their full capacity in filling orders. There has been an increase in the grain trade in the past ten years from 14,000,000 to 34,000,000 tons and as the coasting laws prevent American bottoms being employed between Canadian ports there is a great necessity for more Canadian vessing the strength of the stren great necessity for more Canadian ves-rnment and the Colonial Omee on the subject and it is believed that as a result it has been agreed that the new steamships will require to have a speed of twenty-one knots and be fitted with special facilities for the transportation of dairy and other perishable produce. Quebec will probably be summer terminus and the winter the summer terminus and the whiter terminus is understood to be an open question.

There will also be a number of private bills which will be of great importance. To us in the Maritime provinces the chief interest centres in the application asked by a company for the construction of a bridge across the Strait of Canso. It is proposed to build a large suspension bridge with facilities for railway, tramway, vehicle and foot passenger accommodation. The estimated cost of this is $4,000,000, and if any port in Cape Breton should be chosen as the winter terminus of the Fast Line its construction will have an important bearing upon its success.

Several important canal bills will also come before parliament this session. The St. Joseph and Lake Huron Ship-Canal company is seeking incorporation. This company proposes to build a ship-canal connecting Lakes Huron and Erie. The Georgian Bay Canal will also come before the house this session asking for an extension of time.

It is also probable that the deedging and the strain of the protest against the granting of forest lands to capitalists for game.

Will be regarded as a special treat by many. Arrangements have been made with the D. A. R. for excursion tickets of one fare for that time.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hennigar Tupper of Bentville have many friends in this vicinity who will deeply sympathize with them in the loss of their son Thornton, from consumption, at the carly age of twenty-one. The death of a young daughter occurred about a year ago, which makes the present of subject to a young daughter occurred about a year ago, which makes the present about a year

Manual training in schools.

(St. John Globe.)

Perhaps no question in regard to the deucation of the people has excited more interest in the last few years than the question whether there shall be practical training as well as the teaching of books. There has been put up against the theory of educating all classes and conditions of people along the same lines the objection that many are thereby unfitted for the work of life, and that there is a tendency to overcrowd certain professions to the detriment of necessary labor. Manual training has intervened between the extremes, and to some extent is modifying the system of modern education. The public mind is in a receptive state upon the subject, and is disposed to listen to what may be said. No subject more strongly appeals to parents at the present time than this one.

If you have a cut up flank you are sure to have a short rib. You must have the flank well down to make a true underline, and from a breeder standpoint, if you get a tucked up flank, you will not get a good feeder. When the flank is well let down there is room for the stomach and the animal will be a good feeder. You should not have any looseness or flabbiness in the flank. You will notice that the beily of that pig is pretty trim. The bone of course, to the packer, is of very little consequence, but to the breeder it is of considerable consequence. A soft bone is undesired by you want to have the bone firm able; you want to have the bone firm a factor of the story of the proper in this district practice weaning the pigs at two and three weeks old. Think this is a most injudicious plan because 50 p. c. of these pigs will become thriftless runts. They are not able to digest the strong food you give them and if you get them in proper condition for the market. One of the great things we have to overcome is soft bacon, and this is largely produced from conditions of that kind. The young pigs are in an unthrifty condition either from weaning to the pigs at two and three weeks old. I exhibited to you is about the right weight. From 170 to 220 bounds is the right weight for the export trade. If they are long and fleshy they can be a little bit heavier, but if they are short and weigh up to 220 pounds they are liable to be too thick.

An Auditor—What is the best breed! Mr. Brethour—A pretty hard question to answer.

An Auditor—For the bencon trade?

Mr. Brethour—A pretty hard question to this kind, and when I am a wording a question this kind, and when I am a wording a question of this kind, and when I am a wording a question of this kind, and when I am a wording a question of the breed. The Tanworth is a mask the ideal carcase than of a make the ideal carcase than of a make the ideal carcase than of a make the ideal carcase than of a packer's pig, is a very good pig, bit they are not as even a breed as the Yorkshire, and if, they are liberally fed, they are not he back, and they are rather weak in the thigh. Question—What about the Ohio Chester?

The proposed the cooken are the collection of the people in the thirth or gammon in that the collection was a collection—What is the advantage in the winter time is the coll that gould be cooked.

An Audit

The Ohio Chester is just the same as the others. An Ohio man started out with that breed and he has been buying from other men, and they have been buying from him. They are all recognized as one breed in the United States and Ontario. There is no distinct breed of Ohio Chester Whites. The Berkshire, as a breed, are good for the pork market, but when you come to the bacon market, they are a little inclined to be too thick on the back. Of course they would answer very well for the market in Quebea.

the eminent athletics miss some of the best results of athletic training; they the eminent athletics miss some of the oest results of athletic training; they get to be self-conscious, eager and over ambitious. But it must be contessed that most college athletics are modest, temperate and self-restrained. A leading university president told me a few years ago that he would rather his son had a year's training in football than to give him a year at an Eastern university. He thought his son would gain more help in the battle of life, to give him self-restraint, the habit of quick decision and the habit of obedience that he could gain in any other way. Such strong declarations may be utterly incomprehensible to those who have made no study in these lines, but there is a measure of truth in them.

Permission is given by university authorities for such long and frequent iourneys that the work of the student is often seriously interfered with. Furthermore, men are allowed enrollment in some colleges whose almost exclusive intetest is in athletics. It must be confessed that in the excitement of a great victory college and university students sometimes plunge into serious dissipation. It is plain that these evils require the strong hand of college authority for their correction. The sportsmanlike spirit is sometimes wanting among the students themselves; they are so eager for victory that they or their friends tail sometimes in courtesy and gentlemanliness. But "quality overdriven becomes defect," and all good things have their evil sides, and in estimating the present condition of athletic life in our colleges, there is too often a tendency to magnify the evil and to minify the good.

The general trend of this larger and wiser athletic life is toward manliness self-restraint and that physical vigor which is a strong condition of success

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen: — Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this car entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physiciant and the pine, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased car has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours.

The Household.

SUNSHINY NATURES.

Broiled bacon is a dish which in few households deserves the adjective, because it is seldom broiled; the fat is fried out of it and again soaked into it by long spluttering in a spider full of grease. The only way to cook bacon—both for the matter of appearance and for digestive qualities—is to broil it, not over a bed of coals (it is too fat for that) but in a very hot oven. Cut the bacon in the most del

Place it over a dripping pan and set in a hot oven. It requires to be turned just once. The fat which falls into the pan makes excellent dripping for frying potatoes. Drain the bacon on brown paper. If you wish to serve call's liver with

"I have been experimenting with a ew scheme, and behold the result!" xelaimed the practical mother, as she isplayed a small pair of shoes, with clapidated uppers but comparatively bod soles. "I was lamenting the size our shoe bill recently when I was dvised to cover the soles with three or four coats of copal varnish, or four coats of copal varings, and they will never need re-soling. As in less than six weeks' time our little chap's shoes are ready for the cobbler I immediately invested in some var-nish and, in lieu of a brush, made a nish and, in let of a brush, made a swab, and varnished the soles of all the footwear of the family—expense ten cents, and some varnish left over. I found (after a while) that I had preserved the soles indefinitely. The heels need varnishing as well, and the more coats you give the shoes the longer they will last. It will be found that soles and heels preserved in this way will outwear the strongest up-

IRONING WITHOUT SFRINKLING.

It sometimes happens that we need a starched garment on short notice, and it will be convenient to know that it can be ironed by simple means at once. A cloth may be wet and wrung out quite dry, place this over the garment to be ironed, press the iron over it, and remove the damp cloth; this will moisten the material sufficiently for perfect work. press swiftly until dry, and you will have a gown or apron, or whatever it may gown or apron, or whatever it may be, more smoothly done, and far stiffer than when sprinkled and folded for two hours. Sometimes very nice work can be done by simply rubbing be ironed and so pressing it, but for nice starched dresses or aprons, etc., the damp cloth will insure a very smooth surface if laid over the mater-ial.

—A new way of saving the special magazine articles in which she is interested has been found by a woman who considers it a waste of money to have such periodicals bound. When the other members of the family have finished reading the magazine, she removes the wire or cord that holds the leaves together and takes out the articles she wishes to preserve. These are then sorted into envelopes marked "history," "verse," "fiction," etc. When she has collected enough articles to form a thousand page book on cles to form a thousand page book on any subject, she numbers the pages, writes out an index and sends the books to be bound. In this way she has collected several volumes on subjects of special interest.

If the milk strainer seems clogged so that the milk will not run through rapidly, even though it is perfectly clean in appearance, put in a small handful of salt and rub through with cloth, wash as usual and see what a difference it makes.

To mix stove polish, make a strong suds of soap and water, add a table-spoonful of molasses and turpentine, sufficient to polish your stove and use in the usual way.

Vinegar rubbed on the hands after they have been in strong soap suds will remove the drawn, shiny appearance and make the skin smooth and soft, as vinegar neutralizes the lye in the soap.

VARNISHED FOOTWEAR.

"Two men got into a fight in front of the bank today," said a local tradesman at the family tea table, "and I tell you it looked pretty nasty for one of them. The biggest one seized a great stick and brandished it. I felt he was going to knock the other's brains out, and I jumped in between them." The family had listened with rapt attention, and, as they young heir, whose respect for his father's bravery is immeasurable, proudly remarked: "He couldn't knock any brains out of you, could he father?" the head of the family gazed long and earnestly at the heir, as if to detect evidence of a dawning humorist; but as the youth continued with great innocence to munch his

"Why. I thought you said you were going by this train."
"So I am; I am the Inspector." The extra was paid as usual.
