BRITISH AND FRENCH
BOTH MAKE GAINS

Just Rifle Firing

British Active at Looz

Berlin, May 25, via London—"The official statement issued today by the German army headquarters staff reads: "Western theatre: Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht, in the Wytschaete sector, and the army group of Armentières, following strong artillery preparations, English reconnoitering detachments advanced but were driven back after hand-to-hand fighting. "On the Artois front the fire increased the evening, especially northwards of Lens and at Bullecourt. Near Loos English forces penetrated our first line trenches but were driven out again by counter-thrust. Fighting still continues at one point to a limited extent. "Northwest of Bullecourt advances by several English companies failed in front of our positions. "Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht, at Croisilles and west of the Corbehy-Pontavez road French local attacks in the evening after lively artillery preparations broke down. "In the western Champagne fighting activity and artillery fire increased. "Yesterday the enemy lost ten aeroplanes, brought down in aerial battles and by our anti-aircraft fire. "Eastern theatre: The situation was unchanged."

Keeping It Up

Berlin, May 25, via London—"The supplementary war office statement tonight says: "On the Artois front, along the Aime and in the western Champagne the fighting today artillery duels of varying intensity. "Austrians Say Ground Held."

Vienna, May 25, via London—"On the Julian front the Austrian troops maintained their positions Thursday against Italian assaults on both the Isorno and Carso sectors, according to the official announcement from Austro-Hungarian general headquarters today. Prisoners taken Wednesday total 4,600, the statement adds, and the number was increased yesterday. The statement follows: "Powerful Italian assaults on the Isorno front yesterday resulted in an unusually fierce struggle. Our troops resisted vigorously, and our positions were fully maintained. The northern wing of the Italian army, against the Carso plateau, against the heights of Vodice and Col Santo. There was especially fierce and obstinate fighting on Hill 692, south of Vodice, which was overrun by the Italians in the evening but was recaptured at night by reserve troops, after hours of hand-to-hand fighting. Here and on Col Santo the enemy left hundreds of dead. "The Carso plateau was again the scene of an attempt to break through on a great scale the Italians throwing masses of troops against our entrenched positions. Although the latter suffered considerably from the preceding bombardment the enemy was repulsed by the undaunted defenders. All day and through the night the struggle for our positions on Fattinich, near Castagnizza, and south of that place to the sea, continued, but all the enemy's efforts were vain. He got through nowhere. "Thirty Italian officers and 4,000 men were made prisoners Wednesday, and the number was increased considerably yesterday."

World's Master
Conjurer Dead

Greatest Fakir—Who Admitted It—Ever Known

Maskelyne's Triumphs

Exposed Conjuring Tricks as Well as Inventing Them—Secret of the Disappearing Boy

Even in time of war such an event ought not to go unchronicled as the death of John Nevil Maskelyne, who stood at the top of the tree in his own vocation. It may be that his name is not familiar to thousands of readers who think of Hermann Kellar, Houdini and others when thinking of the great prestidigitators of history. Yet these were children compared with Maskelyne. They came into public view at an age when he had practically retired. In one sense they began where he ended. In another sense they ended where he began. He was the master of all magicians, the greatest fakir—who admitted it—since the world began so far as we know by means of making comparisons. As a conjurer his name is unfamiliar to this generation, and if it is recalled at all it is because of his exposure of spiritual fakes. He would undertake to imitate any of their wonder acts and even surpass them, and after he had given the demonstration he would display the cords and wires and pulleys and dummies which he had used.

The Indian Rope Trick

Maskelyne was an Englishman, and from his youth up a student of conjurers and their tricks. As he developed he was weary of repeating what he had seen, and began to invent new devices. In his sphere he was more successful than any other conjurer whose name is preserved. It was in vain that conjurers from Japan or India or any other land tried to show him something new. Those whom he had not anticipated had discovered, and yet it is astonishing to reflect that some of the famous tricks he imitated or exposed were still being used into our legends while the exposure has been forgotten. The reason is, probably, that while Maskelyne was in his connection for advertising what he had done, the fakirs had a reason for advertising their success. The Indian jugglers come to mind. It has been explained to his friends who have visited India have heard of the marvelous tricks of the Indian jugglers who lose into the air, up which a boy climbs and suddenly becomes invisible; the theory being that he escapes into Heaven.

What They See

There have been thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, of trustworthy witnesses of this feat, among them many who do not believe that the boy really goes to Heaven. The explanation most generally adopted is that the effect is produced by collective hypnotism—the performer hypnotizing the audience, an explanation which does not stand up to the rigorous nature of the performance. This explanation, it is said, was invented by the writer of a short story in which the conjurer explained it. He duplicated the trick, and then explained how it was done. He showed that it was never attempted, except by a broad daylight—a circumstance which others had supposed added to its miraculous nature—and that the conjurer was always arranged in a balcony. At a certain moment they see the boy disappear under the rope and disappear. If they glance under the awning to see what has become of him, the sunbathers there see that the conjurer is doing his trick for his skyward passage, there occurs a second in which they can see nothing at all. At this second the conjurer emits loud cries of triumph, and gestures to indicate that the lad has vanished.

What Really Happens

In reality he sees this moment to slide down the "rope" the word being here mentioned with ironic emphasis—drop behind the performer and be immediately covered with a cloth in the hands of an assistant. What happened, as Maskelyne showed, was that the conjurer merely cleverly hid himself behind a rope. Therefore, when he appeared to toss a coil of rope into the air, he was standing rigid, as though standing on end, he was merely unrolling a stiff rod up which an active archer could readily shoot. The conjurer's eyes, as it would seem to the credulous crowd, prepared the minds of the spectators for what was about to follow. When practiced in England the rope trick did not make an unqualified hit, probably because of a layout setting scene, unnatural, and because the sun was not glaring enough. After being exposed by Maskelyne, noted Indian conjurers said naively that the wonder could only be worked properly in India.

The Box Trick

But Maskelyne invented tricks as well as exposing them. His most notable production was the "box trick." He produced a box into which he could just squeeze himself, leaving only a few cubic inches of space. In this he was tied, and the box was hoisted and sealed without breaking the seal. The explanation, which was not forthcoming until a lawsuit brought it out, was a sliding panel over which the rope was not too tightly knotted. Maskelyne performed this trick for many years and offered a large prize for anyone who could imitate it. Finally another conjurer produced the same effect and claimed the prize. Maskelyne asserted that the imitation was not correct. The other conjurer sued him; the case went to the House of Lords, and the final decision was that while Maskelyne's "secret" had not been discovered, the trick had been successfully imitated, and so judgment went to the imitator.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG IS SUEING SELZNICK

Film Star Wants Contract Annulled—Some Reported Profits

Detroit, Mich., May 25.—Clara Kimball Young, film star, is beginning suit in the Supreme Court of New York to have her five-year contract with Lewis J. Selznick annulled on the ground that the movie promoter fraudulently took advantage of her business inexperience and made representations to which he has not lived up. Through the manipulation of stock of the Clara Kimball Young Company and the Lewis J. Selznick Enterprises, Inc., the bulk of more than half a million dollars made in the exploitation of the four pictures in which she has appeared since the beginning of the year has been paid in her stock in the Clara Kimball Young Company. For the exhibition of the four pictures "The Common Law," "The Polish Virgin," "The Price She Paid," and "The East West Way" from Oct. 15 to Dec. 31, 1916, it is alleged that Selznick took as total receipts, the Lewis J. Selznick Enterprises, Inc., which has the rights of releasing the pictures, and which she claims to have received only $100,000. Selznick is alleged to have made $800,000. The Common Law, "The Polish Virgin," and "The Price She Paid" are declared to have netted $800,000 during the first six months of exhibition.

ALEXANDER
NOT TO TRY FOR SHUT OUTS

(From the June Baseball Magazine) Grove Alexander, who holds the record for the greatest number of shut outs ever won in a season, says he will never pitch another shut out game. At least he makes that odd statement in an article in the June Baseball Magazine, of course, with a few reservations. Among other things, Alex, who is the highest salaried man in the National League, puts over the following fact balls and in-shoots: "A pitcher is strong for a shut out. I managed to write sixteen zero signs on the opposition score board. That looks like a good many shut outs. I am not sure that I will ever do it again. I would say it was quite an undertaking, standing as I do at the beginning of a season and looking ahead. There are too many things in this league, too many things to think of, to make that stunt any day dreams and considered the chances of scoring sixteen shut outs. "Baseball, of course, is a game of skill. But there is enough luck in it to upset all guesses. 'No, I hadn't banked on right and intended to do my best. I had no pipe dream record when I entered the grand old game last April. "Perhaps that explains why I had tried to accomplish anything out of the ordinary I wouldn't have done so as a rule I have learned from my experience in the grand old game. "The best is the fellow who goes on the firing line without any intention of doing anything unusual. "Last year I was pretty fortunate in my shut out score. I guess I was too liberal with the whitewash. "I am not sure that I will ever do it again. I would say it was quite an undertaking, standing as I do at the beginning of a season and looking ahead. FARM LABOR EXCHANGE

Upward of 400 Nova Scotia Boys Have Volunteered to Work on Farms

(Halifax Echo)

The Farm Labor Exchange, a bureau for farm help established in the interest of increased production, in connection with the Nova Scotia department of industries and immigration, is already showing results. It is working in co-operation with national service leagues throughout the province and has now the names and addresses of 451 Nova Scotia school boys over 18 years of age who volunteered to take work on farms, of whom 380 have already been placed on farms, and 1,720 boys who have volunteered to work on their own home farms are being released from school work to aid in increased farm production.

Arrangements are being made with various organizations throughout the province such as boards of trade, Canadian Clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s and other social bodies whereby numbers of these organizations will spend their vacations on farms, and commercial travelers of the province are arranging to do likewise. A representative of the industries and immigration department is now traveling throughout Nova Scotia making arrangements for this work and the department will in every way possible work through local organizations at various centers such as New Glasgow, Truro, Amherst, valley towns and Halifax City. In this city 44 boys have volunteered for farm service.

At New Glasgow the organization appointed has effected a novel system that is expected to yield great results. They have made an arrangement with owners of motor cars, who give the car services whereby workers in factories of the town will be driven out to farms within a radius of from 15 to 20 miles to work a couple of days or longer on the farms. The workmen volunteered within a radius of from 15 to 20 miles to work a couple of days or longer on the farms. The Elections in Australia

What the Results of Voting May Signify

Old Party Lines Gone

Return of Hughes is Defeat of Autocratic Political Machine—May Mean Conscriptation

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

Not for a long time has the labor party of Australia failed to elect its representatives, and therefore the victory of Premier Hughes, reported by cable a few days ago, is all the more significant. A good way to describe what happened is to say that it took a war to beat the Labor party in Australia. However, an appeal to patriotism did not help. Hughes and his supporters adopted the battle-cry of "Win-the-War." The people of Australia had already seen the death of thousands of their sons; they realized that the lives of many more thousands were at stake, and so they rose to the occasion and said to domestic questions, "They say that Hughes is the best man in sight to prosecute the war, so far as Australia is concerned. So they voted for Hughes and his supporters. Incidentally they did a good day's work for the Empire."

The Conscriptation Issue.

The victory is a modified one, since the Hughes government is pledged not to impose conscription upon the Commonwealth without a plebiscite. A few months ago the people of Australia were invited to decide themselves upon this question, which had the strong backing of Premier Hughes, and they voted against conscription. This was interpreted to mean that they had lost confidence in the premier. The election shows that they still are willing to follow him. It is probable that if he had passed a conscription law as a government measure his course would have been approved. The fact that he chose to submit this measure to the people in the form of a plebiscite indicates that he was not sure of the path he should pursue, and thousands who would have supported him had he taken the bolder course reserved the right to differ from him on this point. As a rule, in British countries, leaders who are afraid to lead and prefer to rush back for instructions to the constituents, who shrink from definitely committing their party to a certain course, lives to regret the day.

A Great Imperialist.

Hughes was elected as the representative of the Labor party, and became premier because he was the ablest member of that party. He is a man who has been revealed as a passionate supporter of the Empire, to the astonishment, no doubt, of many of his admirers. He was British first and Labor with pronounced subsequentity. It was due partly to his vigorous leadership for the war that the Australian army was recruited and the Gallipoli campaign was won. Kipling Praises Italian Army

London, May 25 (via Ottawa's Reuter Agency)—Rudyard Kipling, who has just returned from a visit to the Italian fronts at Casno, Isonzo, and the Trentino, has given Reuter's some impressions of his trip. The famous writer is full of enthusiasm for the Italian army and what it is doing, and is equally confident of their ability to conquer. In the course of his interview he spoke in terms of the keenest admiration of the mechanics of the Italian transportation system, who have achieved wonders in the face of the most insurmountable problems of warfare among the mountain slopes.

"Italy," said Mr. Kipling, "has given battle in the third dimension. She has lifted her heaviest artillery to the highest peaks."

In this connection some graphic particulars have been gathered by Reuter's from a staff officer also just returned from Italy. This staff officer says that hundreds of guns have been placed in positions where one would think it impossible to place a single cannon. He has seen artillery of the heaviest description installed in caverns dug out of the solid rock at a height of 5,500 feet above sea level, and heard some working at an elevation of 10,000 feet.

In the regions of the familiar signs of war are absent; there are no flat stretches of land, no trenches with their sand-bag parapets; nothing but mountains seamed with wonderful trenches built with concrete and furnished with metal steps. One has the impression that Italy is building fortifications for war for the next century, but secretly with the carrying out of these stupendous works she is keeping an eye on the mountain in front, intending to capture it one day.

"But," continued the staff officer, "more astonishing even than the guns firing from mountain top to mountain top is the fact that guns were got there at all. Up these mountain slopes are terrifying zig-zag railways from which you look right down a precipice—and at the turns there seems nothing to prevent you flying into space—while speed must be maintained to keep the engines going. Up these grades come lorries carrying guns and all the terrible accoutrements of war."

The staff officer speaks enthusiastically of the smartness of the Italian soldiers and the completeness of preparations for the offensive. Italy before the war was as unprepared as Great Britain, but is now manufacturing her own guns and ammunition in a way that is absolutely extraordinary.

HEALTHY CHILDREN

It is natural for little ones to be well, and with care every baby can be kept well. The main thing towards keeping little ones well is to keep their little stomachs sweet and their bowels regular. Baby's Own Tablets will do this. Thousands of mothers keep the Tablets in the house as they find them an efficient guard against illness. Concerning them Mrs. Hilaine Desmarais, St. Joseph de Sea, Que., writes: "I believe Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine in the world for children. My baby was terribly constipated but the Tablets promptly cured him and now he is a big healthy child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

Clergyman Has Recovered

Was Unable to Fill Appointments and Greatly Discouraged by Continued Ill-Health

Gananoque, Ont., May 25—The many friends of Rev. George Alton are pleased to learn of his recovery after a long period of ill-health from biliousness, stomach troubles and severe headaches.

Mr. Alton had become very much discouraged, even his inability to obtain relief, and thought he would have to quit the ministry, when fortunately he read the Rev. Charles's Kidney-Liver Pills and began their use. He tells the particulars of his case in this interesting letter.

Rev. George Alton, Gananoque, Ont., writes: "I had been suffering from biliousness and headaches for four years. I was very weak, had headaches, and my stomach was so bad that I could hardly eat anything. I had tried many cures, herbs, pills and salts, and was under the doctor's care for some time, but instead of getting better I seemed to get weaker. I was unable to fulfill my appointments on Sabbath and had to secure help. I used to take dizzy spells and could not walk across the floor straight. I had almost given up all hope and my wife said that if I did not get better we would have to quit the work of the ministry. I was partly discouraged in looking over the 'Whig,' the well-known Kingston paper, I saw Dr. Chase's advertisements in it, and read how Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills had helped others who were troubled as I was. I resolved to give these Pills a trial, and I must say that in a short time I obtained relief. I continued taking them for some time, and now I am able to resume my work again. From the benefit I have obtained from these pills, I would recommend them to the whole world who are so troubled as I was."

Rev. C. Cunningham, 124 First Avenue, Toronto: "It is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Rev. George Alton of Gananoque, and believe his statement with reference to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to be true and correct."

THE OPPOSITION SAVES THE DAY

Then the Opposition party came to his rescue, and from that day to this he has only been able to direct in public life he built up a personal following. Thousands of people in Australia would vote for Hughes if he proposed the importation of Chinese coolies.

An Oppressive Machine.

Apart altogether from the issues of the war it would be a good thing for Australia if the Labor machine were smashed. It had become an autocratic in the name of labor as a machine has become in the name of Germany. The Labor party in Australia, as represented in parliament, has ceased to be democratic. It had fallen under the direction and control of a group of politicians, self-seekers for the most part, and devoted to Socialist ideals. The motto was to bleed the "fat man," and in Australia the fat man is the man who has more money than his neighbor. There is no doubt that the Labor party in Australia has added greatly to the happiness of the ordinary citizen; there was a danger that the Labor party, in the hands of Socialists and representatives from the United States of the infamous I. W. W., would have become a worse curse to the country than the Molly Maguires. Hughes is a man who has more than 400,000 members in a hopeful sign. The recent election is also an indication that on the next appeal conscription will carry.

LID PUT ON PITTSBURG CABARETS FOR GOOD

Singing will no longer be permitted by the license court judges in connection with cabarets at the hotels and cafes of Pittsburgh, as a result of the stringent stipulations which were exacted from license keepers before they were given their license certificates the other day. The serving of intoxicating liquors where dancing is permitted is also tabooed. Selling to women is also discouraged by the court, and practically all of the new licensed places in the downtown section were required to sign stipulations not to sell liquor to women. This was also required of proprietors of road houses. Altogether there were more than forty dealers who had to sign the stipulations which were laid down by the court before they were given certificates. The stipu-

THE QUEBEC CRISIS

Suppose we set on one side just now the question of what Sir Wilfrid Laurier is going to do about conscription and ask what the Borden government is going to do with Lt.-Col. Armand Lavergne, Le Devot, and the other fire-eaters of Quebec—especially Lt.-Col. Lavergne and Bonarras's disloyal sheet Le Devot?

The eyes of the country are not on Sir Wilfrid Laurier but on Sir Robert Borden. The Nationalist agitators are not merely opposing conscription. They are denouncing England as bitterly as it could be done by von Bethmann-Hollweg. They are appealing to every prejudice, distorting history, and seeking by every means to inflame the people of Quebec to the point of rebellion.

THE COALITION TALK

Evidently the torques at Ottawa, frightened out of their wits by recent events, are beginning to look to the Liberals for comfort and assistance. The Ottawa correspondent of the Standard suggests that Sir Robert Borden may invite some of the leaders of the English-speaking Liberals to enter the cabinet. It says further:

"The demand for such a move first came from the Conservative members and it appears to have been received with favor not only among the most influential private members of both parties, but leaders in the cabinet itself. At least three or four members of the cabinet are understood to be willing to patriotically efface themselves with favor not only among the most influential private members of both parties, but leaders in the cabinet itself."

for a means of escape, and so we hear of the possibility of coalition. Meanwhile, who are the gentlemen in the cabinet who are willing to "patriotically efface themselves," and to what particular jobs will they retire?

Premier Lloyd George gave the Empire the cheering message yesterday, that there is a distinct improvement in the food situation in England, and that if the Germans are depending mainly upon submarine warfare for success they are doomed to disappointment. The prime minister paid a warm tribute to the American navy for the assistance it has already given. He pointed out, however, that the utmost economy of foodstuffs was still essential, and the remark is worthy of earnest attention in Canada, where as yet a real economy in foodstuffs has not been introduced.

In reply to a query from the Standard, it may be said that the Times favors conscription of men and of wealth. It believes there should be food control, and as near equality of rations as can be secured. It believes that the great partisanship and the policy of drift which have marked the course of the Borden government since the war began have caused the undesirable conditions which exist today, and that it is necessary to defeat the government before Canada can secure adequate leadership.

The decision of five leading business houses, which will doubtless be adopted by others, to close at five o'clock on four afternoons each week in June, July and August, should be responded to by early shopping on the part of the people. The employees will doubtless show their appreciation by engaging in some sort of national service such as the garden affords an opportunity to put in practice.

The attention of the Standard is directed to Hon. J. D. Haesen's reference to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech on the conscription announcement. Mr. Haesen said: "I think it may also be said that my right honorable friend, the leader of the opposition (Sir Wilfrid Laurier), in his short address, dealt with the matter in a way that was worthy of one occupying the high position he occupies in this house."

The Foster government is to be commended for the promptitude with which it provided 12,800 bushels of seed grain to the farmers. This means a greatly increased production. There was much difficulty in getting the supply, but Hon. Mr. Treadwell's department was equal to the task.

Bradstreet's reports more favorable crop reports in the United States. It says that enormous areas are going into leading crops and gardens. A record acreage of spring wheat is possible, corn planting is active on an immense area, and oat crop areas are also large.

The Italian army is meeting with success in their drive toward Trieste. The Russian reports are also more satisfactory than they were a week ago. If the submarine is really beaten the whole situation is greatly improved.

The casual list continues long and tragical. Canada must fill the thinning ranks. To do less would be to prove traitor to the men who have fallen, and those who are today facing death in our stead.

Reports from western Canada say that the crop outlook generally is excellent. A bumper crop is needed, and the bulletins will be scanned with unusual interest.

BRITISH KINDNESS TO THE INTERNED
A German Story of His Life at Islington
We quoted some weeks ago from a Berlin daily paper (the Lokal Anzeiger) the account given by a wounded German prisoner, Otto Zippel, of the kindness he received under British care both in hospital and at Dorchester Camp. Another equally interesting article on somewhat different lines appeared in Die Woche for March 17. "The Week," as our readers are aware, is one of the most important illustrated newspapers in Germany. This article, entitled "The Poorhouse of Islington," written by Carl Hans Stielow, a German who had lived over twenty-five years in England, and had reached the age of fifty-five when the fortunes of war compelled him to spend a year among the interned aliens in Islington Workhouse. He begins very naturally, with a lament over his hard fate. It seems to him "cruel and inhuman" that 700 Germans should have been deprived of liberty and cooped up within the grey walls of this "castle-like building" in North London, though even that was "a palace among the prison camps of England." On the last point, we may observe, Herr Stielow cannot speak from personal observation, for leaving Islington he was repatriated along with other fellow-countrymen over military age.

GERMAN ACCOUNT OF AIR RAID ON ENGLAND
Berlin, May 25, via London.—Airship squadrons, under Captain Strasser, on the night of May 28, attacked fortified places in the south of England, including Sheerness and Harwich, with success," says today's official statement. "All the airships returned without losses or damage, notwithstanding the perfected defenses of the enemy." A British official statement yesterday said four or five hostile airships had raided the eastern coast of England and escaped because of the thick clouds. Bombs were dropped in rural districts, causing little damage.

CUSTOM-MADE SEMI-READY SUITS TO SPECIAL ORDER
Feature of the Service in All the Semi-ready Stores in Canada—Tailoring Clothes to Order
Unfriendly folk often tell a prospective customer of Semi-ready tailoring that Special Orders are only a species of ready-mades, and that they are cut and made en bloc with stock garments. The prompt five-day delivery system would give coloring to the shoes because a fast schedule in tailoring clothes is beyond the ken of the average customer. Semi-ready Special Order Suits are custom-made to the last silk stitch. When the measurements are received at the shops the cloth is cut from the exact physique type patterns, and the suit is finished to the precise size and style ordered. It would be manifestly impossible to keep a stock of ready-cut garments on hand to fill Special Order for individual suits. Every garment in the Semi-ready Shops, whether for stock or for Special Order, is cut to individual size with scissors—not the knife.

RELINQUISH HOPE OF FINDING HEIR
World-Wide Search for English Youth, Successor to Earldom, Abandoned

The last hope of finding Francis Patrick Clements, heir to the earldom of Leitrim, has been abandoned and a London probate court has declared him dead. A search of ten years has failed to reveal any trace of the mysterious young Englishman who left a fortune and a life of ease to become an ordinary laborer and a wanderer.

It was in May, 1907, that Clements, 22 years old, handsome and an athlete, disappeared from his exclusive quarters in England. It was believed that he became a stoker on a trans-Atlantic steamer plying between Southampton and New York. At least a man answering to his description worked in the grimy hold of the steamship St. Louis and left it at New York with 88, his wages for the trip, in his pocket. If he really was Clements that was the last time the heir to the earldom ever was heard of.

The present earl is childless and the missing man was the only person in line of succession to the title and the great estates of Leitrim. A worldwide search was begun and in March, 1908, it was believed that Clements had died in Kansas City. A young Englishman, evidently once in well-to-do circumstances, had died of pneumonia and had been buried in Union cemetery there. In appearance he was strikingly similar to the descriptions of Clements that had been sent out broadcast.

The body in Union cemetery was exhumed, but it was not that of the missing heir to an earldom.

Once again, in 1911 this time, relatives of the youth believed they had found a trace of him. A man like him in appearance had been killed in the Isle of Wight. But once more it was found that the dead man was not Francis Patrick Clements.

The search has been kept an unrelenting. The holds of hundreds of ships, the wharves of many lands, have

Urges the German Food Control Plan

Distribution the Great Problem
International Institute's Founder Declares

Britain's Outlook Poor—A Backward Spring Handicaps The Farmers; Autumn-Sown Crops in Many Cases Were Winter-Killed

With the world's food crops poor last year and those of this year poorer, it is necessary even if the war ends this summer or fall for the United States to employ rigid food measures, according to David Lavin of California, founder of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, and its American representative, Mr. Lavin said in outlining his plans. The Russian government has been seen to have a number of plans for the regulation of food distribution.

The mobilization of our agricultural resources comes next in importance to the handling of our army and navy," Mr. Lavin said in outlining his plans. "The war problem is not one of production, but of distribution. We have seen how the Russian government was overthrown because people were starving in a country that has had ever since the beginning of the war immense supplies of surplus wheat which the closing of the Danubian prevented from going to market."

"There is more manipulation of food products in the United States than in the belligerent countries of Europe, so the first thing to do after we have quit throwing away food and wasting it, and have begun to plant locally in each state and county more heavily, is to shift off manipulation through our national food distribution organization."

"I can't say how tremendously important such a measure is. We must remember that no food detail can be neglected. In France and England they are too slow in seeing the importance of food—last two years too slow."

"Our remedy for high prices, for speculation for providing enough food, lies in the duplication of the German system of organizing the farmers and in the proper adaptation of our parcel post service to family food deliveries. The great strength of the German empire does not come from the goose step of her soldiers nor from her Krupp guns; it comes from her food supply. It is her farmer organization for the scientific distribution of her agricultural products. The Landwirtschaftsamt, as the organization is called, is the long hair of this modern Sanson."

"Briefly, this is the organization of farmers, who have their representatives, seventy-two in number, at Berlin, who are officially recognized by the government. This organization runs right through the states down to the smallest township. It keeps its members informed as to prices and as to points where food products are scarce and assists in the shipment of food to those points. Through it any farmer is armed against the food speculator's purchasing agent, because he knows the prices of food exactly. Through it he is also able to borrow money to tide him over so he will not be forced to sacrifice crops."

"The second part of this organization involves transportation. We must use our parcel post system so that the housewife can deal directly with the farmer. If the largest mail order house in the United States today does a business of $400,000,000 a year, handling a multitude of small articles, certainly this system can be successfully applied by the Post Office to the farm products for the city consumer."

In this connection it is said that reports of the agricultural outlook in Great Britain are almost uniformly discouraging. The oldest farmer cannot recall a more trying time than that through which he has just been passing. A late sowing, a poor yield, a wet autumn, and a severe winter, have been followed by a spring with all the marked characteristics of December.

The state of the field is called in all the agricultural reports "serious" although it is still possible that a period of warm weather might change the situation, considerably by the end of May. The history of many of the best of the British crops this year is a story of sowing in November and reaping in April. In many cases the autumn sowing was destroyed completely and some fresh plan had to be hastily devised.

The wheat area, it is said, cannot be large this year. The yield of oats cannot yet be estimated, and barley for some reason is in disfavour, although on good barley lands there is still prospect of a good crop.

In the middle of April potato farmers

PERFECT HEALTH DUE TO THE BLOOD

No Girl or Woman Need be Constantly Ailing and Unhappy

Nature intended every girl and every woman to be happy, attractive and healthy. Yet too many of them find their lives saddened by suffering—suffering always because their blood is impure. All those unhappy girls and women with colorless cheeks, dull skins and sunken, listless eyes, are in this condition because they have not enough blood, red blood in their veins to keep them well and in the charm of health. They suffer from depressing weariness and periodic headaches. Dark lines form under their eyes, their heart palpitates violently after the slightest exertion, and they are often attacked with fainting spells. These are only a few of the miseries of bloodlessness. Nothing can secure girls and women from the inevitable decline that follows anemia except a generous supply of new, rich, red blood, and nothing has ever proved so successful in creating red, good blood as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Thousands and thousands of girls and women owe their good health and charming complexion to the use of this medicine. Here is one example of its power to cure. Miss Dorina Bastien, St. Jerome, Que., says: "For over a year my health was gradually failing, my blood had seemed almost to have turned to water, my cheeks were pale, my lips bloodless, and the slightest exertion left me breathless. I suffered frequently from severe headaches, my appetite failed, and my friends feared I was going into consumption. I had been doctoring but did not derive any benefit, and finally I had to give up my work and return home. It was at this stage that a friend brought me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and urged me to try them. By the time the box was used I thought they were helping me, and decided to continue using them. I took a half dozen boxes more, when my strength was completely returned, my appetite restored, my color returned, headaches had disappeared and I was feeling better than I had been for years. I would urge every weak and ailing girl to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW DANGERS OF CONSTIPATION

A recent issue of The New York Times says: "Recent researches of Prof. Metchnikoff and others have led doctors to suppose that many conditions of chronic illness, nervous debility, rheumatism and other disorders are due to poisoning set up by unhealthy conditions in the Large Intestine, and it has been suggested that the lowering of the vitality resulting from such poisoning is favorable to the development of Cancer and Tuberculosis."

"At Guy's Hospital Sir William Arbuthnot Lane declared on the heroic plan of removing the diseased organ. A child who appeared in the final stage of what was believed to be an incurable form of tubercular joint disease was operated on. The Lower Intestine, with the exception of nine Druses, was removed upon the portion left was joined to the Smaller Intestine."

The result was astonishing. In a week the internal organs resumed all their normal functions, and in a few weeks the patient was apparently in perfect health.

The Lower Intestine can never get into this condition if internal Baths are used. The "J. B. L. Cascade" cleanses the Lower Intestine its entire length thoroughly with pure warm water, and removes all this poisonous waste, which is such a menace to health.

This is a sample, only, of many hundreds of letters we have in our files: Dept. Public Works, Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 31st, 1916.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, Toronto:

Dear Sir—

Words, I can assure you, quite fail me to express my satisfaction and gratefulness to you for inventing such a humane and common-sense remedy for stomach troubles as the "J. B. L. Cascade." For the past 15 years I have suffered from such, and have never had the permanent relief from medicines as I have had from your "Cascade." I consider it the best investment I have ever made, and would not be without it for one hundred times its cost. I consider that those who are afflicted as I was are making the mistake of their lives to be without one of your Cascades.

Wishing you every success in your efforts for suffering humanity.

I am, Dear Sir, yours truly, "Grateful!"

P.S.—Name and address will be furnished if requested.

It is Nature's own cure for Constipation, and is now being used by over 500,000 Canadians and Americans with great success.

The "J. B. L. Cascade" is now being shown and explained at E. Clinton Brown, Druggist, corner Union and Waterloo streets; also F. W. Munro, Dispensing Chemist, 357 Main street, St. John, where a most interesting booklet called "Why Man of 70-day is Only 50 Per Cent Efficient" is given on request. If you prefer, write today for this booklet to Chas. A. Tyrrell, M.D., 163 College street, Toronto.

URGES DAYLIGHT SAVING
New York, May 26.—Marcus M. Marks, president of the Borough of Manhattan, and head of the National Daylight Saving association, went to Washington to urge President Wilson to include in his legislation a programme for the daylight saving bill. Mr. Marks in a statement said that the measure, which was favorably reported on by the Interstate Commerce commission to the senate last week, if enacted into law, will mean the saving of at least one million tons of coal in this country this summer.

The measure provides for setting the clock one hour ahead.

Governor Carl S. Milliken of Maine on Saturday sent the following telegram to the governors of the other New England states, Gov. Keyes of New Hampshire, Gov. Graham of Vermont, Gov. McCall of Massachusetts, Gov. Holcomb of Rhode Island, and Gov. Beaman of Connecticut:

"Will you join with me in urging upon congress the advisability of putting into effect the daylight saving plan?"

This telegram was sent as the result of various letters coming to Gov. Milliken from different sections of the state, including resolutions passed by the Portland Chamber of Commerce and the merchants' organizations urging that the governor issue a proclamation advising the setting ahead of clocks one hour beginning the first of June.

At a meeting of the governor and his council, the matter was informally discussed and the general sentiment was that unless the national government took some action the daylight saving plan should be a question for local regulation. Feeling that this was a matter for the federal government to decide, Governor Milliken and his council concluded that the best step to take at this time would be to co-operate with the other New England governors in presenting the matter to congress.

Every Occupant of 500 Acres or More Within Nova Scotia Province Affected

(Halifax Echo.)

The land tax act adopted at the recent session of the provincial legislature and now in force provides that every occupant of 500 acres or more within the province is to pay annually to the provincial treasurer a tax of 1 per cent of the value of the lands held by him. For the purposes of the act the commissioner of Crown lands is required to prepare annually before June 30th a tax register showing the name of every occupant liable to taxation, under it and the number of acres held by every occupant. The act requires that every chief ranger appointed under the Forest Protection Act, assessors under the Assessment Act, Municipal Clerk and Registrar in Devon, to furnish the commissioner with all assessment rolls, records, etc.

Every person or corporation owning lands in the province is to deliver to the commissioner a return of information presented by him. After the completion of the tax register the commissioner will serve upon each occupant of acres for which he is assessed, and if within fifteen days an occupant files objection to his assessment the commissioner will fix a day to hear the parties and determine whether any change should be made.

The value of the lands for the purpose of assessment under the Act is fixed

KILTIES TO HAVE FIELD DAY

A field day which is to be held by the 236th New Brunswick Kilties promises to be an event well worthy of a trip to Fredericton. Sunday and Monday, June 3 and 4, will be full of interest for the visitor. On Sunday an open-air service will be held and medals will be presented to various officers and N.C.O.'s who have won honors at the front. Monday has been set aside for the great field day which will include all military activities as well as sports. The Kilties are hard at work preparing to make a good showing in the military and athletic events and it is certain that they will meet with unqualified success.

The great feature of the field day will be a representation of trench warfare as it is fought in France today. The arrangement of this is under the direction of officers who have returned from the front and they are planning to make it as realistic as possible.

In the evening a bazaar and dance will be held and music will be furnished by the Kiltie bands.

The Man In The Street

The weather man must have known that we were going to take a half-holiday this afternoon.

A holiday, which formerly was looked upon as an opportunity to loaf or play, is now regarded as another chance to put in some good hard licks on the potato patch.

Some wise agriculturist said, a while ago, that potatoes need damp soil for planting. Well—there is no trouble on that score; they have it.

We are strong advocates for the policy of conscription of labor; the man we would like to conscript being the chap who hangs over the fence and yells how the work should be done.

Don't the angle-worms look at you with a reproachful gaze when you turn them up and then fail to transfer them to your bait can.

Funny, isn't it, how many more worms than you can find when you are digging for agricultural purposes than you can locate when you need them for a fishing trip?

"See Canada First" will be a popular slogan with the young bloods who have been in the habit of spending their summer vacation and their year's savings on a holiday trip to states.

The new passport regulations may cause some embarrassment as well as some disappointments. Take the case of a young chap in a border town who wants to call on a girl across the line and who will have to go before an official and make solemn oath regarding his intentions.

A Boston paper pays tribute to two young men who, it says, "are fighting in the army service corps." They will be making the infantry jealous if they keep that up.

Some one unkindly reminds us that in less than a month the days will be beginning to get shorter again. Sounds as if summer were over before it has arrived.

The increased cost of ice does not seem to be causing any great amount of worry so far this year.

After the announcement that Russia is still standing by her allies, some one suggests that it might be better to say that Russia is standing still by her allies.

Are They Ready?
You have to be a farmer to appreciate this; we needed an explanation to show us the point, but perhaps you know more about turnips than we do. A group of citizens were chuckling over the story of the chap who cut up turnips to provide seed for planting.

"Where does turnip seed come from, any way?" one, who is willing to admit his ignorance, asked.

"You let the growing turnip come to bloom and the seed is in the root," replied another.

"I don't believe you know what you're talking about," said the incredulous one. "I'm willing to bet you don't even know the color of a turnip blossom."

"Sure I know the color of a turnip blossom," returned the man who knew it all. "It is pink."

LOCAL NEWS

The birth of fifteen infants—eight boys and seven girls—and five marriages were reported to the registrar during the week.

NO ARRESTS
There were no arrests by the local police yesterday, consequently the police books again registered the word "nil." The entire session of the police court this morning was taken up with by-law matters.

SEVENTEEN DEATHS
Seventeen deaths were reported to the Board of Health this week as follows: Pneumonia, five; senility, two; and marasmus, convulsions, heart disease, drowning, premature birth, Bright's disease, broncho pneumonia, cancer of liver, pleurisy, pneumonia, cancer of pulmonary tuberculosis, each one.

NEWS OF SERGT. H. V. PITT
Mrs. H. M. Pitt of Main street is in receipt of a letter from Miss Constance Scott of the Canadian Red Cross Society informing her that her son, Sergt. H. V. Pitt, had been visited in Warren Road Hospital in Guilford, Surrey Co., England, and was feeling better and is now able to sit up in a chair. Sergt. Pitt left St. John with a well known New Brunswick battalion and was at the front until a short time ago when he contracted trench fever.

LIQUOR CASE
Antonio di Benedetto, whose premises in George street were the first to be invaded under the new prohibition act by Sub-inspector Crawford, has returned to the city. The case was to have been tried in the police court on the first of next week on application of E. S. Ritchie, who appears for the defence. There were 866 bottles of brandy and twelve bottles of Jamaica rum found in the house and at 4 o'clock on the raid was made on May 11.

THE MARKET
Reports from the country market this morning showed there was a good supply of everything. The usual prices were prevailing with beef selling at from fifteen to thirty-two cents a pound; veal, fourteen to twenty cents; pork, twenty cents to thirty; spring lamb, $1.50 to $2.75 a quarter; fowl, forty cents; chicken and turkey, fifty cents; butter, forty cents; eggs, forty cents a dozen; rhubarb, eight cents a pound; potatoes, eight to ten cents a peck and onions, ten cents a pound.

SOLDIERS HONORED
A very enjoyable evening was whiled away last night at the home of Bradford Aiken, Church avenue, Fairville. The gathering was in honor of Privates George W. Ring and John Clark, both of whom will leave soon for Sussex in preparation for overseas service. About fifty of their friends assembled and gave them a hearty send-off. Private Ring was made the recipient of a wrist watch on behalf of his brothers and sisters. He and Private Clark were also remembered by the Cadets of Temperance. Each received a testimonial. Following the presentation music and dancing were enjoyed.

HOME FROM ENGLAND.
Mrs. R. Johnston, who, before her marriage, was Miss Jennie Ritchie, formerly on the office staff of W. H. Thorne & Co., Ltd., was a passenger on a large Atlantic liner which brought many Canadian women back to their homes recently. Mrs. Johnston arrived in the city on Tuesday and is the guest of Mrs. Perry, 100 Adelaide street. She will leave this evening for the west, where she went to reside after leaving W. H. Thorne & Co. Mrs. Johnston's husband is serving his country and she has been living in London, but the longing for the land of her birth overcame her and, during mines and submarines, she has safely arrived.

PT. HERBERT EVANS IN ENGLISH HOSPITAL

Father is Notified That Soldier Son is Seriously Ill

W. J. Evans, of 296 Wentworth street, received word this morning from Ottawa to the effect that his son, Private Herbert Evans, a member of a local infantry battalion, was reported seriously ill and had been admitted to the Northern General Hospital, England. Private Evans is twenty-three years old and prior to enlistment was employed with T. McAvity & Sons, Water street. The telegram did not state the nature of his illness.

B. F. NURSE OF GEORGETOWN, BRITISH GUANA, DIES HERE

Bernard F. Nurse of Georgetown, British Guiana, died last evening in the General Public Hospital. Mr. Nurse came north about three weeks ago for surgical treatment and underwent an operation, but efforts to prolong his life proved fruitless. He had been an accountant in the office of the Consolidated Balata Company at Georgetown. In the Methodist church of that place he took a prominent place and was regarded as an excellent and influential citizen. He had made his home with Mrs. Reid, an aunt, who was his nearest relative. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at two o'clock from Messrs. Chamberlain's undertaking rooms.

FAIRVILLE NEWS

The home of George Ring, Pleasant Point, was the scene of a happy gathering last evening when young friends gathered to honor George Ring Jr., who recently enlisted in one of the local battalions for overseas service.

Games and music were enjoyed and a handsome wrist watch was presented to the young soldier on behalf of the gathering. Everybody present had a good time.

The city land on the Manawagonish road is being taken up by amateur gardeners in a very gratifying manner. Among the lot holders are several local people and more are known to be anxious to secure a plot. One of those interested declares that the ground is in good condition for planting.

Among the recent arrivals from Mount Allison University, Sackville, was Colville Golding, son of Councillor Wm. Golding. The young man enlisted a short time ago in an artillery unit for service overseas and thus adds another name to Lunenburg's very creditable list of roll. Private Golding received his civil engineer's certificate at the closing exercises this week.

PT. WM. JOHNSTON WRITES OF THE GREAT FIGHT AT VIMY RIDGE

Writing from France to his father, William Johnston of this city, Private William Johnston, speaks of the conditions at the front and of his share in the battle of Vimy Ridge. He says:

"Summer is here at last and we are enjoying some beautiful weather. I suppose you have seen that the Canadians have taken Vimy Ridge. It sure was some scrap. We had taken some prisoners a little while before the big show started and they told us that we never would take the ridge. Well, we showed them whether we could or not. About an hour before daybreak the artillery opened up and, believe me, it did. They put the barrage on Fritz's front line and tore all his wire up. He sent up his S.O.S. call and then he opened up with his, but he could do nothing as our heavy stuff put his out of action. Then over we went and our barrage lifted farther back. It was something wonderful you would think the boys were marching up Brussels street, the way they went along, singing and dancing.

"When we got there, Fritz threw up his hands but, after we came out, there was nothing but German dead lying all around."

A postscript conveys the news that Private Johnston had been slightly wounded but expected to be back with his unit, a New Brunswick infantry battalion, before long.

We print in this announcement a list of the states showing the great progress that Prohibition had made on its own merits in the United States before the Union entered the war. In connection with that list we want you to see what is the view of a business man's periodical devoted to commercial, economical and other financial questions (The Analyst, New York). Its Kansas correspondent writes:

"To-day the argument for Prohibition is simple and direct—namely, that human experience and medical research and experimentation have showed beyond doubt that alcohol is a poison, and that in its toxic qualities and effects it differs in degree, and not in kind, from cocaine and opium. This conviction is the strength and support of Prohibition, and the cause of its uninterrupted progress. It is clearly seen to be an economic measure rather than one of morals only."

"All the pleas and arguments of personal liberty, of the social delights of alcohol, of the charm it adds to life, of the employment it affords to thousands, seem futile and ineffective in the light of the fast-spreading belief that alcohol is the greatest known deterrent to economic efficiency. The fight against its use is no longer a matter of emotionalism, but of cold, calculating common sense."

A Comparison

Here is the plight of a large city still under license:
The result of alcohol is to breed vice and crime and to cause both mental and physical inefficiency among men. The license system has been a sickening failure. For a typical instance, listen to Governor Foss of Massachusetts: "In the last fifteen years (Boston) the arrests for drunkenness have increased from 18,000 to 57,000, 300 per cent. Over 60 per cent. of all the arrests in Boston are for drunkenness. It is very evident that our license system in Boston has increased drunkenness instead of checking it."

The Sheriff of Denver testifies for Prohibition, which went into effect there January 1st:
"We have about three-fifths the arrests we had formerly. The police court record for drunks and disturbances has fallen over forty per cent., the habitual loafer has disappeared, the can-rusher, the old soak who came home with a quarter in his pocket and sent his eight-year-old, ragged, barefoot girl to the saloon for a can of beer and then tossed her a crust of bread while he swigged the beer and snarled at her through his drunkenness, is no longer a resident of Denver."

Help to Enforce Prohibition

Does New Brunswick want to go back to license? If not, then she must, right now, enforce the Prohibition laws with all her might. It must be enforcement by the whole people in co-operation with the appointed officers of the law.

PERSHING WON FAME IN MORO CAMPAIGNS

Jumped Over 862 Officers from Captain to Brigadier General by Roosevelt

Fought Sioux and Apaches—Leader of American Army Was Youngest West Pointer Ever Made General in Peace Time

Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing, the famous "Black Jack" of the regulars, says the New York Times, will go down in history as the first American army officer to command troops on the battlefields of Europe. He is one of the officers who were picked by Colonel Roosevelt, when the Colonel was president for rapid promotion to the highest of army commands.

General Pershing was just a dashing, much loved, captain of cavalry when in 1906 Colonel Roosevelt started the country by sending his name to the senate for confirmation as a brigadier general. The other officers advanced by Colonel Roosevelt were Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, the latter of whom recently succeeded General Wood as commanding officer of the eastern department on Governor Island, New York.

Pershing is a West Pointer of the West Pointers, as a classmate of his expressed it not so very long ago. He was graduated into the regular service as a second lieutenant of cavalry in 1886 and he began to make himself heard of before he had been in the saddle a year. It was to the Sixth United States Cavalry that Pershing was assigned after he received his diploma from the Military Academy.

In the first few years of his service Pershing fought in the border campaigns against the Apache Indians of Arizona, and he was again heard of in 1890 he led his starry troops in the turbulent Sioux wars of the early nineties. He was in the thick of the fighting that marked the brief warfare that was waged by the regulars against the Spaniards in Cuba in 1898, and shortly after the Treaty of Paris was signed and the Philippines came under the American flag he was among the first to be ordered into the new possession.

Arriving in the Philippines, General Pershing, then a captain, was promptly promoted to major and then to lieutenant colonel. He was one of the leaders against the then fierce and intensely anti-American Moros he was soon to gain fame and honor and win the single star of a brigadier. At the time of his nomination for that rank in 1906 he was the youngest West Pointer ever named as a general of the regular army in a time of peace. In order to reward Pershing, President Roosevelt jumped his over 862 officers who were his seniors in rank.

Eleven years ago the big problem in the Philippines was still the pacification of the Moros. Those splendid warriors, hundreds of whom are now serving in the crack organization known as the Philippine Scouts, fought inch by inch the Americans and undertook the work of governors and commanders sent to mollify them that the United States was their friend.

Pershing was ordered to finish the Moro campaign and was named governor of Misamis and commander of the troops operating in that part of the province where the Moro opposition was still a problem of the first magnitude. From a distance of several thousands of miles the job did not sound big at the time, but a more difficult task has seldom, if ever, been placed on the shoulders of an officer of the regular army. He gritted his teeth and undertook the work with his famous smile. He had a picked lot of regulars under him, every man of whom he knew and trusted and every one of whom knew and loved "Black Jack."

The Moros that Pershing was called upon to bring to terms had mobilized in the crater of an extinct volcano called Bud Dajo, on the island of Jolo. To drive them out had been a task with which the army had contended since 1906. Pershing announced to his men that the Moros were coming out of the crater if it took him ten years to accomplish the job.

There were 600 Moros—every one a Mohammedan fanatic—in the crater fortification when Pershing started "to clean out the mountain hole." Without Bud Dajo safely and securely in American control the Moro problem could never be solved.

With a thousand men, half of them his own trusted troops, and the other half picked Philippine scouts, the campaign for Bud Dajo began. The Americans and the scouts had to proceed through miles and miles of dense jungles, opposed every yard of the way by the fierce Moros. Pershing left on, and finally he fought his way to the foot of the mountain.

Pershing's jungle fighters cut a trail around the mountain, and, fortifying themselves from attack from above, began the siege. The soldiers formed a complete cordon around the mountain and calmly instituted a campaign of watching for the first sign of the Moros. They waited and waited a chance to get them when they tried to cut through the cordon.

In their retreat to the crater the Moros had been so hotly pursued that for once they had been unable to take with them the supplies that would make possible a long stand. At last the "iron ring" began to make itself felt, and in small detachments the Moros tried to gain the open jungle by dashes through the American cordon. Every dash was frustrated, the fanatics rushing forth to certain death. Finally on Christmas Day, 1911, the 400 Moros still in the crater did something a Moro seldom does—surrendered. A few reached the jungle, but the regulars pursued, beat the bush, and in the end these desperadoes paid the penalty of their daring.

With Bud Dajo captured, Pershing set about to finish his job. On Jan. 11, 1912, there followed on Lake Sait a stiff engagement, which resulted in the death of eighteen Moros and the serious wounding of two Americans, one of the latter Lieutenant H. H. McGee, U. S. A. For nearly eight months more there was a skirmish of some sort, but Pershing kept on, determined never to stop until the Moros had been completely subdued and American authority restored.

SENATE APPOINTMENTS

Government Course Criticized by Important Montreal Journal

(Montreal Journal of Commerce, Edit.) It is to be regretted that the proposal of A. K. Meighen, that no further appointments to the senate be made until after the general election, was treated as a party matter, and disposed of accordingly, when the subject was discussed in the House of Commons at Ottawa last week. The proposal deserved a better fate. There was merit in the suggestion of Dr. Michael Clarke that the matter be reserved for further consideration on the return of the prime minister from England.

This reasonable course has been adopted in the case of a motion by Dr. Fugatey, that inasmuch as the provincial electoral lists are made the basis of the dominion lists, it is expedient to provide that in any province which grants the provincial franchise to women, the women shall have the right to vote at the dominion elections also. Instead of hastening to a decision on this important question the government asked Dr. Fugatey to let the motion stand until the premier returns, and this has been agreed to. Dr. Clarke's suggestion that a similar course be taken in the case of the motion concerning senate appointments was not accepted. The fair presumption, of course, is that the premier had already discussed the subject with his colleagues and that he had been decided to adhere to the policy of making party appointments to the senate.

Apart from other considerations, the proposal that is likely to be made for a further extension of the term of parliament would have been much strengthened by the manifestation on this occasion of a willingness on the part of the government to make less use of the extension as a means of exercising party patronage. It may be too late now for the creation of anything like the "national government" that some people have been advocating. But it need not have been too late to exhibit a determination to exercise power in a national rather than a partisan spirit.

Mr. Meighen, speaking for the government, said the appointments to the senate were not to be regarded as matters of patronage, but were on the same footing

Above all it is sound

LOOK at a Chalmers from any angle. It satisfies the eye. The high narrow radiator is distinctive. The car has class. It is handsomely finished. The equipment is the best. Every comfort, every motor luxury is there. But above all the Chalmers is sound. It is a sensible car, strongly built. It has amazing reserves of power.

This was proven in Chicago. An amateur driver drove a stock Chalmers car for 24 hours on high gear through the congested Chicago traffic. A total of 586.8 miles was piled up, beating all previous traffic tests by 228 miles.

The run was made under American Automobile Association supervision on 14 miles to the gallon of gasoline.*

The Chalmers made a record run from Chicago to New York. 1047 miles in 31 hours flat. The best previous time was 35 hours 43 minutes in a big twin six.

Bear this in mind when you step into this smart car. The Chalmers is a sound, powerful car—and it is sensibly priced.

Come in and put it to the test.

when it comes to the question of appointments to the senate, where no public interest requires the filling of vacancies, party power is used, and party patronage exercised.

In this matter of the senate appointments the government had an opportunity to show that they did not desire to make a party use of the extension already granted to them. If they had manifested that patriotic spirit they would have given strength to the position of those who have been disposed to grant a further extension rather than have the turmoil of a general election. The government, unfortunately, have not availed themselves of the opportunity opened to them by this situation. They have, by clinging to their patronage, given a strong argument to those who are declaring against any further extension.

Economy

Many people think they are saving money by buying cheap tea, forgetting that it is not the cost per pound but the cost per cup that determines a tea's economy.

You may pay 5 or 10 cents more per pound for Red Rose Tea than for common tea. But because Red Rose Tea is a blend of Indian-Assam teas with Ceylons, consisting of the choice tender shoots and buds—the parts of the tea plant that yield the largest amount of liquor and the finest flavor—one-third less is required in the pot to make the same number of cups.

The cost per cup between Red Rose Tea and common tea is then practically the same. But the flavor—what a difference.

And this distinctive and delightful flavor and rich strength is protected by the Red Rose sealed package. No air, odors or dust can get in to injure Red Rose Tea's splendid quality and economy.

Order a package from your grocer.

In sealed packages only.

Red Rose crushed coffee is as generously good as Red Rose Tea and just as easy to make.

WORLD'S GREATEST MEDICAL CLINIC TO BE HELD IN NEW YORK

All the ills that human flesh is heir to, from the commonest to the rarest, will be on exhibition in New York next month in the greatest session of surgical and medical clinics in the history of the world—the sixty-eighth annual meeting of the American Medical Association, which, born in New York in May, 1846, now returns after a long absence to see in a vast series of demonstrations by the most gifted and skilled in the profession, the latest that has been accomplished in the alleviation of human suffering.

For months, so quietly that the public at large now learns for the first time that such a meeting is to be held in New York, the committee of arrangements, composed of Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, chairman; Dr. Floyd M. Cranfill, secretary; and Dr. Alexander Lambert, treasurer, assisted by large auxiliary committees, have been at work to make the conventions, June 4-8, epochal in the history of the organization. New York City's exceptional equipment in medical schools and hospitals made it possible to form the plans on a scale not possible in any other city of the country.

There are in New York seven medical schools, two post-graduate schools, and 124 hospitals and allied institutions. Every one of these institutions and practically all the doctors of prominence in the city have a place on the programme. For the clinical sessions, to which the first two days of the meeting will be given, 2,000 demonstrations and exhibits have been arranged. The number of surgical operations to be performed, it is estimated, will range between 1,500 and 2,000, including every kind of operation, from the top of the head to the toe as one member of the committee put it, and done by men whose skill with the knife has won for them incomes ranging from $80,000 a year to $100,000.

Men from smaller communities will be brought in practical contact with the latest methods. In their calling of saving and prolonging life they will be stimulated by the ideas and practices of the great leaders of their profession. Thus, in a new sense for a medical gathering, the 1917 meeting of the association is expected to radiate a benefit to every part of the country. Unless the progress of the war should bring about some unlooked for situation, it is estimated that the attendance will reach 10,000.

Every kind of disease practically will be represented in its human manifestation in the clinics, some so rare that a physician with a large practice may not come across more than one case of these strange, far-separated maladies in a lifetime. For instance, there are more than 100 different kinds of skin diseases, some of them so rare that in a decade not a half dozen cases will be reported from the whole United States. In skin diseases leprosy bears an ancient and hideous prominence. There will be a large leprosy clinic during the sessions with the observation of every safeguard for taking the patients to and from the place selected. Special preparations have been made for the symposium on poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis. Latest treatments of various forms of cancer will be demonstrated at Rockefeller Institute. A great variety of mental diseases will be shown in the clinics. Military medicine and surgery and the service required of medical officers of the army and navy will have an important place in the sessions. A programme of all the specialties of medicine has been prepared, including diseases of the nose, ear and mouth. Dr. Phillips, chairman of the committee of arrangements, said of the preparations for the meeting: "Not only have the local committees arranged the most extensive series of clinics illustrating every phase of medicine and surgery, but also for laboratory experiments, demonstration of health board methods, and the treatment of all the hospital social services, nurses' training schools, planning and financing of municipal and war hospitals. The series of clinics, etc., is covered by twenty-six complete programmes, with many exhibits and the free use of moving pictures both of surgical operations and of the operating of state and municipal health departments. To organize this work and to carry it out there have been called into service between 200 and 300 of the principal doctors, social workers, training school executives, and hospital superintendents. This is, in fact, the biggest thing ever done in the history of medicine."

Blame Czarina for Downfall

Her Influence Over Czar is Revealed

All Her Requests Granted

Was Rasputin Medium—Telegrams Discovered Since Monarchs Deposed Are Made Public

After the downfall of the Russian dynasty some private communications between the Czarina and the Czar came into the hands of a Petrograd paper, and were published. They throw a lurid light upon the influence of the wife upon the husband, and show that she did not cease from importuning him to meddle in affairs of state at a time when his whole thoughts and energies ought to have been concentrated upon the war. The correspondence shows no request that was not granted. The Czarina is revealed as the worst influence in Russian politics, and to her and to Rasputin, under whose control she appeared to have been, is due the Russian revolution that has shaken the whole world. The communications consist wholly of telegrams, all written in the English language. Toward the end of the crisis developed the telegrams were in code.

Saved Rasputin's Tool.

The first wire had reference to the trial of Manuilov, private secretary to Premier Sturmer, and a close friend of Rasputin's. Manuilov was charged with bribery, and the whole country expected that the most sensational disclosures would be made. It was an open secret that Rasputin was concerned, and it was on his account rather than on the account of his tool that the Czarina appealed to her husband, who was then apparently at army headquarters. Her first telegram reads: "I request you to discontinue immediately by telegraph the trial of Manuilov. It begins at eleven in the morning and will be mercifully over. Give the details to you and Batazhin (an aide-camp of the Czar) and directly by telegraph to stop the proceedings. Alix." The next day, a few minutes before noon, the Czarina telegraphed by order of the Czar, and the grateful wife sent him this message: "I am glad to see the depth of my heart I thank you for your dear letter. I am grateful that the telegram of yesterday has had such an effect on your noble order, Alix."

Rasputin Disappears.

The disappearance of Rasputin and the discovery of his body were reported before the end of the message sent by the Czarina to her husband and other persons. When the rumors about his disappearance were first created in Petrograd, the following telegram, dated December 26, was sent to the Czar: "I am disturbed over my lack of knowledge about the details of the murder of Rasputin. I wrote you last week. When Rasputin's fate became known I wrote to Nicholas Romanoff as follows: 'Can you send me immediately a copy of the report of the inner committee? I am in need of his advice in regard to my friend who has just been arrested. I continue to hope for God's mercy. Felix (Prince Yusupoff) and Dmitri (Grand Duke Dmitri Pavlovitch) are involved.'"

The Evening, December 30.

"The Czarina wired to Nicholas Romanoff, his wife. It reads: 'K is doing everything in his power. So my waiting here. I discovered. Felix was stopped on his way to the Crimea. I wish you were here.' "ALIX." Orders to the Police. The following day a series of despatches reflected the developments in the mystery about Rasputin's disappearance. The first message to Nicholas said: "Nothing is known up to the present, in spite of the enquiries among the people. One must apprehend that the worst that could possibly be perpetrated by these two boys (Prince Yusupoff and Grand Duke Dmitri)." "ALIX." The second message of the same day read: "Order Maksimovitch (chief of police) to forbid in your name Dmitri's leaving his home till your arrival here. Dmitri wanted to see me today, but I refused. We are especially involved. The body has not been recovered as yet." "ALIX." The next day, January 1 of this year, the Czarina wired to Nicholas Romanoff. Recovered from the river. "ALIX." The above message referred to the recovery of the monk's body from the Neva. After that the Czar left for Tarskoe-Seio, near Petrograd. When the authorities began proceedings against the members of the Czar's family, Prince Yusupoff and Grand Duke Dmitri, for their participation in the murder, the Dowager Empress Marie became uneasy. Any trial of the murderers would have led to tremendously sensational disclosures, which would have reflected upon the entire Romanoff dynasty. The Czar's mother therefore urged the immediate ending of the trial proceedings. Nicholas sent her the following message signed "Niki," from his residence at Tsarskoe-Seio: "I thank you for the telegram. The case will be stopped immediately. I love you."

The End.

Events now marched rapidly. The revolution was well under way, and every day the Czarina sent her husband the news and made suggestions for dealing with the situation. She told him that concessions were necessary. Mingled with matters of state importance were details about the health of the children who had seized this highly important moment to indulge in measles. What the Czar did in response to the advice of his wife is not revealed in the telegrams. He seems to have been paralyzed into inaction when he learned that the troops were joining the revolutionaries, and that his own headquarters convinced him that nothing could be done to avert the doom impending from the Romanoff dynasty. On the evening of the fatal last day a telegram from the Czarina

He's a Soldier First And Last

Military Considerations Only Guide Gen. Petain

Now Has a Free Hand Untrammelled by Statesmen, New Commander is Free to Work Out His Own War Policy

Petain, they say, might have had the supreme command of the French armies when Painleve succeeded in bringing about the retirement and promotion of Joffre. He would not accept it because he feared he might be supposed to respond to the political as well as the military demands of the day. It is said, too, that Petain had a scheme for the destruction of the German armies which was disregarded. So Nivelle succeeded Joffre as commander-in-chief, if not as generalissimo. Nivelle was willing to take account of other considerations, and it might be remarked, giving all credit to military considerations alone, that the civil power, not the military experts, decided that Paris should not be abandoned in 1914, and the civil power, not the military experts, decided the Verdun should be defended in 1916. In both cases, cold-blooded strategy suggested that the French should retreat. In both cases politicians vetoed the recommendations of the general. In both cases, we see now, the politicians were right and the strategists were wrong.

White-Faced France

Nevertheless, a time has come in the affairs of men when France has decided to rely upon pure military advice. France is bled white. She is like the runner in the hundred yards' race who has been running on his nerves for another rod, pole or perch he would collapse. So in her extremity she calls upon her greatest genius, Petain. He saved Verdun. He gave the world the immortal words, "They shall not pass." He refused to listen to politicians who had been right, he must remember, in two great crises. He might have been chief of the French armies had he been willing to consider something else beside military efficiency. Nivelle, the critics say, has had his chance. His belief in the great offensive has been tried out. It has won, at the cost of tens of thousands of French lives. The war was not won thereby. So now comes Petain of Verdun, absolutely untrammelled by orders of the general, with no orders but those he gives. It is up to him.

The Silent Man

More than a year ago Frank Simonds of the New York Tribune met Petain and wrote about him. What he said there is now more interesting than when he wrote from France. He said: "At the door the commander-in-chief met us, shook hands and murmured clearly and slowly, with incisive distinctness, the formal words of French greeting: he spoke no English. Instantly there was the suggestion of Kitchener, not of Kitchener as you saw him in the flesh, but in photographs; the same coolness, decision. The smile that accompanied the words of welcome vanished and the face was utterly motionless, expressionless. You saw a tall, broad-shouldered man, with every appearance of physical strength, a clear blue eye, looking straight forward and beyond. My French companion, M. Le Roux, spoke with Petain. He had just come from Joffre and he told him in an interesting circumstance. Petain listened. He said now and then 'yes' or 'no'. Nothing more. Watching him narrowly, you saw that occasionally his eyes twitched a little, the single sign of fatigue that the long strain of weeks of responsibility had brought."

Eczema Made Baby Peevish. Cuticura Healed Him.

I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and then bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and baby got rid of the eczema. He was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. James Richards, Abney, Md., P.E.I., Dec. 4, 1916. Having obtained a clear, healthy skin by the use of Cuticura, keep it clear by using Cuticura Soap and Ointment as needed. Cuticura Soap is ideal for the complexion because so mild, so delicate and so creamy.

AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE URGED TO EAT NO POTATOES GOOD FOR BEED

The Hamilton Club of Chicago appeals to all patriotic Americans to join with it in a country-wide campaign for conserving the present limited supply of potatoes of the country for planting purposes. In a recent address before the Hamilton Club, Eugene H. Grubb, the well-known agricultural expert of the Union Pacific Railway, who is regarded as the leading American expert on potato culture, made the startling announcement that if all the potatoes in the United States were planted this spring they would not produce a sufficient crop to raise the potatoe in the country. The leading agricultural editors have corroborated this statement and agree that such a consensus of opinion among well informed agriculturists and others who are best qualified to speak on the subject. In view of this perilous situation and the probability of an unprecedented shortage in the food supply before the end of the year, it is not only the part of wisdom but a patriotic duty of every American citizen to employ every reasonable and proper means to his command to assist the production and conservation of our most valuable food commodities.

The Scientist at War

"If I were an officer I should not like to be sent to the front, not for the confusion of battle. I think I should rather meet the Bavarians in the trench lines, but I should like to know that when I was obeying orders, I was carrying out a minor detail of something Petain had planned; I should expect it to happen, the thing that he had arranged, and I should feel that those clear, steel-blue eyes had foreseen all that could occur, foreseen calmly and utterly whether it entailed the death of one or a thousand men, of ten thousand men if necessary, and had willed that it should happen. I do not believe Napoleon's Old Guard would have followed Petain as they followed Ney. I cannot fancy him in the imperial uniform, and yet, now that war is a thing of the past, of telephones, of indirect fire and destruction from unseen weapons at remote ranges, now that the whole matter and circumstances of conflict have

WHAT CAUSES MENTAL TROUBLE?

To a doctor's eye, mental disturbance is nothing more serious than a sign of nerve exhaustion, and it is often quickly relieved without medicine of any kind. Nerve food is the cure. What the nerves need is phosphorus. Now, there is phosphorus, of course, in every well-balanced diet; but unfortunately, many of us do not get enough of it. It replenishes the brain and nerves, and phosphorus is one of the most difficult to assimilate in medicine. It is the most easily given, and is readily utilized by the system in the nerve-food Sanagen.

An announcement a few days ago by the chairman of the United States Naval Advisory Board to the effect that a submarine-destroyer has been invented attracted world-wide interest.

absolutely unprepared and unsuspecting Germans. Unfortunately in the past one recalls too many American inventions that were destined to revolutionize this industry, and that science, and too few of them that were of more than trifling importance.

A Real Inventor. Nevertheless, there is no man in the United States to whom we might look with greater confidence than to Mr. Sperry to solve the problem, not even to Mr. Edison.

Mr. Sperry's scientific investigations. It is said that he has been devoting himself exclusively for many months to solving the submarine problem. If he has succeeded, his name will be one of the most famous in the annals of the war.

Making the Aeroplane "Fool-Proof." The most famous of the numerous Sperry inventions is the aeroplane stabilizer. Early in 1914 the French Aero Club, inspired by the military authorities, offer a prize of 50,000 francs for an invention that would make the aeroplane "fool-proof." What was wanted was a device that would enable the aeroplane to balance itself in the event of the pilot being obliged to take his hands from the steering-wheel, some such invention as the cat has for falling on her feet.

This is the Buckle

The Gyroscopic Principle. The Sperry device consists of a gyroscope, or rather four gyroscopes, the operation of which had been previously employed on the mono-rail railway.

His earliest important invention was the gyro-compass designed to eliminate the uncertainties that are inseparable from the magnetic needle in these days of steel ships. Here again the principle of the gyroscope was applied.

Oyster Bay Colonel Far Outdoes Government in Number of Recruits Gained

Without drumbeat, trumpet flourish or flag-waving, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, through sheer force of patriotism, prestige and personality, has recruited 187,000 men who are eager to follow to France to fight against the Germans.

Roosevelt division has been to sift and select from an overwhelming flood of applications just the type and character of volunteers required by the special and peculiar necessities of the plan.

Putting it generally, the colonel has accepted only such men as are above the conception age and whose means are such that dependents would be well cared for without public assistance in case of death or permanent disability of the volunteers.

Can Officer Two Divisions. Broadly stated, the colonel is now in the position to offer to the war department two completely equipped divisions, including infantry, cavalry, field artillery, engineers, signal corps, motorcycle machine gun commands, motor transport, commissary and subsistence, aviation corps, hospital corps and quartermaster's corps.

He has men enough already pledged to constitute three divisions, but his desire and ambition is to mobilize an army corps of two divisions with himself as junior officer, merely a brigade commander and ranking ninth after the regular army officers who would command divisions, divisions and five of the six brigades.

The financial preparation for the colonel's plan is such that these divisions could be mobilized, equipped and sent to France without it being necessary, in all probability, to call on Uncle Sam for a dollar of expense, but who are mighty anxious to have the colonel go, have been astonishing in number and size.

It is not possible to divulge the names of contributors, real or potential, but it may be said that in one southern city alone $1,000,000 has been pledged. In another city seventy-five men have signed their checks for $1,000 each. There are offers of $50,000, $25,000, $10,000 and $5,000 and the number of smaller offers is almost beyond count.

Not Final. "Young Charlie Spinkins seems to be pretty well satisfied with himself."

THE VAMPIRES.

(From the Montreal Herald.) Vampires are foul creatures that suck the blood of living men and women while they sleep.

They should be the outcasts of Society. But are they? No; they roll past us in limousines, chokins us with their dust; they look almost like real men; they dazzle us with the size of their watch-chains and the sparkle of their diamond pins and rings.

He sucks the life-blood of living men and women—aye, and of innocent little children—but he does it in this way: He boosts the price of the necessities of life so that they are out of reach.

Men and women and little children, improperly nourished, sicken and die. But the Vampire grows richer.

It is one of the darkest blots on our civilization that this is possible. In Belgium there is starvation because there is no food in the land.

The natural hunger for bread cannot be satisfied until the unnatural, the cruel, the inhuman hunger for gold has been appeased.

The cry of the little children for cheap bread, cheap milk, cheap ice, goes up.

Food profiteering in Canada has got to be put a stop to sooner or later. Why not put a stop to it now? For some poor, tired, ill-nourished boys tomorrow may be too late.
