THOUSANDS OF MEN HIDING IN LONDON

How the Anarchists in England Live

Six Thousand Refugees Still Continue Plots Against the Rulers in Their Home Lands.

It has been said that the right hand of London does not know what the left hand does, and in one particular this is more than usually true. The average Londoner, for instance, does not know that among the millions are many thousands of men who are virtually in hiding. These are refugees from the country of the Czar, banished from the land of their birth because of political opinion and the violence with which they sought to carry their ideals into fact.

There are in all six thousands of these refugees in London. The number is not surprising, for every anarchist and extremist either in Russia or in any other land of intrigue knows that when flight becomes necessary, the best, indeed the only, objective is London. And so six thousand Russians are hiding in London unable to go back except like thieves in the night and then at the risk of capture; capture meaning in some cases death, in some cases Siberia.

DESPERATE MEN.

For these men are desperate men, hiding passionate desires and emotional plots behind sallow countenances, large almost wistful eyes, anaemic lips and scant mustaches.

It is a common error to think that when they leave the land of the Czar they leave their plans behind them; indeed, all the important part in the great crusade that sweeps continually across Russia, leaving in its train misery and death.

Just what this work consists of is the compilation and printing of the literature with which the revolutionary parties fire the minds of the moujik masses. Practically every pamphlet that is distributed throughout the length and breadth of Russia is printed in London or its suburbs. There are five presses, according to a statement made by a member of one of the revolutionary parties to a Saturday Journal man recently, which are maintained by the funds supplied from the societies' headquarters in Russia, and which are worked entirely by the refugees.

The Russian authorities have their secret police also in London, and no doubt their men know the whereabouts of practically every important refugee in this country. Any upon whom suspicion falls in especial are closely watched and their comings and goings watched to the police do? The refugees are safe in England, and the only chance the authorities have of getting them is by the seizure of the literature or the writers of it when it is being taken into Russia.

SMUGGLING ON THE FRONTIER.

The literature is, of course, smuggled in, and many a daring dash, many a sensational escape and, too, many a smart and effective capture could be stopped at the points of operation, and by the anarchists have to be diverted to some other spot.

The life of these refugees cannot be described as luxurious. They do not mind if they starve for a day or two, but they will not live in the meanest of surroundings. After all, the worst hotel in London is preferable to the conditions of Siberia. So they say.

One thing, however, there is a certain camaraderie among all the exiles. They have learned that charity begins at home, and give to any brother in distress anything that they have. Moreover, all those who are actually engaged in the work of producing the pamphlets are paid a certain wage, the money coming out of the funds of the central committee in Russia. Out of this salary they pay every week a small portion towards the general funds.

MONTECALM, Sept. 17.—At the corner's inquest tonight on the death of Edward Kaitting of Belleville, the victim of an airplane accident at the exhibition grounds here yesterday, evidence was given showing that when Kaitting received electric shock in grasping the frame work of the airplane his false teeth became dislodged and stuck in his throat. One of the electricians who gave evidence declared that the other two men who also grasped the airplane received equally severe, if not more severe shocks, but were not killed. Witnesses gave it as his opinion that Kaitting's death was due not so much to electric current as to the fact that his false teeth choked him.

The jury adjourned without bringing in a verdict.

Describing the flag he had raised at the Pole, Commander Peary made particular mention of the silk American flag given him by his wife fifteen years ago and which he had carried on every one of his Arctic expeditions, leaving a portion at the most northerly point attained. The remnant of this flag raised at the Pole consisted of one star and a section of the blue field and a part of the red and white stripes.

At noon today Commander Peary returned the visit of the captain of the Tyrin.

Mr. Gompers finds That Politics and Unionism Do Not Mix Very Well in Europe

Copyright, 1909, by P. S. Riddle for Samuel Gompers. PARIS, Monday, August 30, 1909.—Since writing my letter of ten days ago in Venice I have made brief visits, in passing, to Milan, where I saw the great cathedral, to Chamoni, whence I viewed Mont Blanc, to Monreux, there seeing the Paradise of Lake Geneva and the surrounding Alps, and stopped over for a day each in Berno, Basel and Cologne, at the latter place concluding a trip down the Rhine from Mayence. In Paris again after a six week's absence on my flying tour over a large part of Continental Europe, I find myself in possession of printed and other data which to read and digest fully would require at least six months. But these things are not intended to record my conclusions on through observation and reflection, but rather my impressions of the moment as to the facts of social conditions and the tendencies of the European labor movement.

As in Berno, so in Cologne, so in the other cities visited, I was taken in hand by trade union representatives, who showed me about the city and explained the labor situation in their country. The national unions of Switzerland have a building of their own in Berno, a fine five-story stone building in a good neighborhood, in which there are the usual meeting rooms and the offices of the national secretaries. As I have already mentioned, a considerable trade union buildings in European cities have the appearance, and the employes in the suites of offices a good deal of the air, that we in America associate with the headquarters of big corporations. The labor situation of Switzerland has peculiar features. A considerable part of the country's industrial operations is carried on in the rural districts, the employes of the farms, the short farming season of the summer and in the factories or other establishments during the rest of the year. The product of their agricultural labors is not sufficient to employ them, and they are not enough to induce them to part with their little lands for a little more land. Their usual hope, I was told, is to save what they can during the summer, and to buy a little more land in regard to this is common in the fact that the movement from country to city is steady in Switzerland.

Regarding another article under the title, "L'Alimentation," printed in this body are mingled with any comrades not to purchase it in the cafes, barber shops, etc. The looks of Switzerland is united on this one subject, if no other. There are twenty trade union organs printed in German, six in French, and three in Italian, one co-operative organ in German, French and Italian each, twelve political labor newspapers in German, two in French, and two in Italian. Of course, no traveler can pass through Switzerland without having his attention attracted to its hotel industry. The labor press has its opinion as to the way it is carried on. Mentioning the fact that in 1905 the little country had more than 1,900 hotels, with a total of 125,000 beds, this description of the outcome of the efforts of all sorts of people in the "local union" as promoting strikes without considering their effect and contrary to the advice of the federated committees affected, of issuing numerous sections of the "Christian" and "local labor press" could do other than please their politicians in power. This description of the outcome of the efforts of all sorts of people in the "local union" as promoting strikes without considering their effect and contrary to the advice of the federated committees affected, of issuing numerous sections of the "Christian" and "local labor press" could do other than please their politicians in power.

likely soon to have, the Cologne "Zelting" has. It has 131 hand compositors in its composing rooms and not one composing machine. A corps of healthy and intelligent-looking men it is that gets out the "Gazette" and the books and other newspapers it prints. There they stand, upright, at the type cases, lifting letters by letter, just as we used to see men in the newspaper offices in America twenty years ago setting up the news, and the editorials and advertisements. And there's not a typesetting machine in any daily newspaper office in Cologne! Well, the men report themselves satisfied, the manager told me we were satisfied, and why shouldn't we Americans be satisfied? And satisfied also, may be the economist who wishes to illustrate his doctrine that comparatively high wages do not certainly imply a comparative high cost of product. My authentic information is that the compositor working on the New York morning newspapers have a minimum of $31 per week, time-work, the compositor of the Cologne "Zelting" earn, not very far upward. A upturn operator on a New York paper for four times the product of a compositor on the Cologne "Zelting." There I met the secretary of the Metalworkers and Typographical unions. The form has compiled and published an excellent pamphlet on the working conditions of his fellow craftsmen, which according to him are miserable and degrading. One of his criticisms of official opinion action is especially noteworthy. He declares that the Cologne official conception of working class overworking begins only "when more than six persons live in one room and more than eleven persons live in two rooms." "Working on civic duty" — on civilization!

THE BIRD-MAN—A NEW TYPE

With the Growth of Aviation Comes the Development of a New Kind of Human Being—Most Aviators are Born Not Made.

New occupations develop in men new faculties. New conditions of life, new departments of action, differentiate those involved in them from their fellows. I have long felt that aviation—the encounter with a new element—must more definitely than anything else evolve its type, believe it is doing so, and that with the assemblage of aviators next week at Rheims for the great tournament it will be recognized once for all that there are "bird-men."

It comes in the eyes of the men who through scanning vast wastes of water, navigate. One thinks of this when one sees the light that lies in the eyes of the bird-man. It is a still, clear, deep in there—something sombre, almost as though placed there by the incessant watchfulness to overcome the treachery of sudden winds. And, also, there is in their eyes a certain flash—a strange, arresting, magnetic flash, which is the light which darts out when, with a supple, infinitely dexterous turn of lever or a wheel, the flying man swooping through the air at a breathless, confusing forty-mile-an-hour pace—averts in the space of an earthenware's gasping breath the fearful disaster of a sharp plunging to right or left.

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, STOMACH CRAMPS, CHOLERA MORBUS, CHOLERA INFANTUM, SEASICKNESS, SUMMER COMPLAINT and all LOOSENESS OF THE BOWELS MAY BE RAPIDLY AND EFFECTUALLY CURED BY THE USE OF DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY The medicine with a record of cures extending over 65 years. You don't experiment when you buy it.

THE EYE OF FLIGHT. The light in the bird-man's eye is, indeed, the visible sign of a new sense that he possesses. It is the sign that serves him, faithfully and instinctively, when he finds himself above the earth in a filmy, vibrating structure which owes its endurance of the laws which men have revered for centuries solely to the trick of the human hands which control its levers. It is a sense which gives a man the power to act fearlessly.

LORD STRATHCONA TELLS OF HIS TRIP THROUGH THE WEST

MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—Lord Strathcona reached this city yesterday from the West. Lord Strathcona, the former of the Dominion, which had visited Winnipeg, some eight years ago. As a man of affairs, he had not visited the capital of Manitoba since he accompanied Hon. Mr. Desjardins and Hon. Mr. D'Almeida in his recent tour of the Dominion. Lord Strathcona's trip through the West was a very successful one, and he has returned with a wealth of information regarding the resources of the West. He has seen the great growth of the West, and has seen the people who are making it what it is today. He has seen the people who are making it what it is today.

east would, no doubt, continue to forge ahead and hold her own in the commercial and financial world, but there would be a very hazardous prediction that did not include Winnipeg and other of our western cities as development of mercantile and financial influence and power. The High Commissioner, again going back to the early days, said that he had gained a great deal of knowledge concerning the possibilities of the West. Lord Strathcona is a great admirer of the Dominion, and he has seen the West in a way that few other men have seen it. He has seen the West in a way that few other men have seen it.

SMALL BOY CONFESSED THEN CHANGED HIS MIND
Nine-Year-Old Witness Could Not Help Him Out — In the Police Court This Morning.

In the police court this morning Sandy Moore was fined $4 or ten days in jail for drunkenness, and John Booth was remanded on a similar charge. The latter stated that he would make good promises if he were given his freedom, but His Honor decided that he would look up his records first. When finding Moore, His Honor asked: "Where do you live, on the Marsh Road?" The prisoner answered in the affirmative.

His Honor: "You fellows down there ought to get on to yourselves."

Walter Allan, an eleven-year-old boy, was charged with throwing stones and breaking a plate glass window in E. O. Parsons' store on the West Side. The boy stated that he did not break the window, Dill Nells, a nine-year-old witness, was called, but he knew nothing of the occurrence.

Officer Lee stated that the boy had confessed to him, but the boy's father said that his son told him he did not throw the stone and was frightened when he said he did it. His father was allowed to procure into the case and if his boy was at fault, make restitution.

"IT SEEMED LIKE THROWING MONEY AWAY Until I Tried Gin Pills"

Mr. F. Fitzgerald was completely disheartened. He had suffered so long with his kidneys, and spent so much money on doctors without relief that he had made up his mind he could not be cured.

Then he chanced to read about the wonderful cures by Gin Pills, the great Kidney Remedy, and sent for a sample. The pills did him so much good, he immediately bought two full size boxes. And these two boxes of Gin Pills made him feel like another man. He had ever tried. I must say that before using Gin Pills, I had undergone a long and expensive course of treatment by eminent specialists in Chicago. They did me no good—it seemed like throwing money away.

I still keep a box of Gin Pills on hand and take one occasionally. I am pleased to recommend them and bear testimony to their efficacy.

P. FITZGERALD.

After reading such a letter as this, you simply can't doubt the value of Gin Pills in cases of kidney and bladder trouble. If you are a sufferer, write the National Drug & Chemical Co. (Dept. R. S.), Toronto, for a free sample of Gin Pills and try them at your expense. After you have seen for yourself just what Gin Pills will do, you will see that they are the best and remember that Gin Pills are sold by all first-class dealers. Write us if your dealer doesn't carry them.

Wilson has been known under many names. He was remanded to goal for a week awaiting an investigation. The prisoner refused to answer any questions.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18.—At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council, the Winnipeg delegates to the Labor Congress which opens at Quebec on Monday were instructed to bring up the question of the proposed employment of Oriental Labor on the Grand Trunk Pacific and to oppose the plan in every possible way.

QUEBEC, Sept. 18.—Archbishops and Bishops are now here in full force for the pleinary council. Today, as was yesterday, will be spent in preliminary work such as the appointing of committees, etc.

His Honor: "With reference to the word 'knowingly' there was sufficient evidence presented to the jury to show that the prisoner was editor of an assumed name. Under these circumstances I think he knew what the paper contained."

Mr. Ritchie—"Nowwithstanding Your Lordship's opinion, I think it is a fair question to present to the Court 'en banc.' The rule laid down by Your Lordship would be applicable to a civil case. The burden is on the Crown to show actual knowledge of publication. The gist of the offence is knowledge and I submit it is a fair question to argue before the full Court. Is that burden discharged when the Crown proves editorship and proprietorship? I submit, my Lord, that it is not. However, I will not press it against Your Lordship's opinion."

Mr. Baxter—"Your Honor, my learned friend's argument comes to this—that the prisoner must have said to someone: 'I know this is obscene but I am going to publish it.' In order that it is not a fair test of knowledge. We have proved publication and have traced it to the prisoner. We have proved that he was the editor—if you call his position by that name."

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A special despatch to the Times from Copenhagen says that it is rumored there in circles usually well informed that the abdication of King George of Greece as a result of the military agitation at Athens, is considered inevitable. The same circles have, during the last fortnight, been highly optimistic in regard to the King's position.

The present trouble in the Greek Government, it is believed, is the outcome of the recent failure of the Greek cause in Crete when the powers, upon Turkey's protest, removed the Hellenic flag which had been hoisted at Canea by the Islanders.

This failure to secure Crete was unpopular in military circles in Greece, and several weeks ago two battalions of troops at Canea mutinied as a result. Going into the suburbs they made demands upon the King for the surrender of high positions held in the army by princes and their favorites, together with other reforms in military circles. All concessions made to them, however, seem to have failed to satisfy the popular disappointments over the loss of the kindred Island of Crete.

STYLISH FALL CLOTHING

At Prices within the Reach of All

Buying a Suit of Clothes is not an every-day affair—a fact that makes the man of small income use considerable discretion and judgment. When buying a suit, you want one that not only wears well, but one that will fit and look well, for an indefinite period; a suit that you can depend on to keep its shape. Our Clothing is guaranteed to do this because the materials are good, thoroughly sponged and shrunk and tailored by hand. You will readily see that you can save money by purchasing here, inasmuch as the same suit, custom-made would cost much more and in most cases not as well made. Not only are the materials of the most favored patterns, but the workmanship is difficult to equal.

LOOKS LIKE A BIG HUNTING SEASON

Game of All Kinds is Plentiful—Many Taking Out Licenses But Comparatively Few Outriders

The opening days of the 1909 hunting season have been banner ones from every standpoint. Big game is abundant and scores of sportsmen are out in quest of the moose and deer. Reports received from every section of the province indicate that a big season is assured. American hunters are commencing to arrive in large numbers and the total list of non-resident licenses is considerably in excess of other seasons. From the Crown Lands Department at Fredericton and points on the North Shore applications for non-resident licenses are being received in large numbers. The New Brunswick woods have been extensively advertised in Upper Canadian magazines. The province is recognized as the best moose hunting ground in America.

J. N. Noble, of King Square, who is the local agent of the Department, has experienced a heavy rush for licenses since the opening of the season on Wednesday. He stated this morning that about two hundred and thirty-five licenses had been issued and there remained a keen demand. Only a small number of non-resident licenses have been issued by the St. John agent. Mr. Noble has heard a number of reports from the hunters who declare that big game has never before been so plentiful. There have been about five moose shot in nearby woods since the opening. The deer are plentiful and several large specimens have already been bagged. E. Coggins, who had an early start, landed a large moose. Many partridge and smaller game have also been shot by the hunters.

W. C. T. U. MAKING PLANS FOR DOMINION CONVENTION

Opens Here on Oct. 29—Executive in Session This Afternoon to Make Arrangements.

There will be a meeting of the W. C. T. U. executive committee this afternoon in the hall on German street. At the gathering plans for holding the Dominion convention will be further discussed. It is expected that the definite reports will be presented.

Mrs. Dr. Gray, county president, has informed a Star reporter that an excellent entertainment programme is being planned. The convention will open October 29 and continue until November 2. That provincial branches have the entertainment in hand, and the local unions and the university of Mrs. C. H. Dearborn, are especially active in the preparation of a programme. Several Upper Canadian speakers of note will take part in the meetings here.

MCDUGALL CONVICTED ON FOUR OF THE COUNTS

Jury Disagreed on Two and Found Prisoner Not Guilty on Five Others.

The jury in the case of C. Bruce McDougall returned a verdict of guilty on four counts and acquitted the prisoner on five counts in the indictment. On the remaining two counts they failed to agree. The indictment contained in all eleven counts and the prisoner was convicted of publishing a libel against Mayor Bullock, Magistrate Kay, Moncton, and Dr. A. W. Macrae, also of circulating obscene literature. He was acquitted on the counts of knowingly publishing the libels. On the counts referring to Daniel Mullin, K. C., and Ald. Prink, the jury failed to agree. Mr. Ritchie, for the defence, made an application for bail, in view of His Honor having rendered judgment concerning technical points in the indictment.

The Attorney General stated that he might demand a new trial on the counts in which a disagreement was reached. He would announce his intention this morning. His Honor adjourned the court until 10 o'clock today when he will give judgment in a number of matters and hear the application for bail.
