Elect Liberals by Acclamation

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Nov. 11.--This was nomination day for the provincial elections. The Liberals captured Charlottetown without opposition. Hon. George E. Hughes and Dr. Warburton, the present members, being elected. In each of the other fourteen districts there is a full ticket on both sides. Hughes is one of the delegates from the island to the conference at which the $7,000 increase of the subsidy was secured for this province from the Dominion, and his election by acclamation indicates that the people are satisfied with the result of the conference. This is the first time that Charlottetown went Liberal by acclamation. It is taken as an auspicious omen for Nov. 18, election day.

Government Will Prosecute

Ottawa, Nov. 12.--In addition to suspending twenty-eight of his officials, Hon. Mr. Brodeur has now given instructions that every man who is proved to have received discounts, commissions, bonuses or rake-offs on supplies purchased for the government service shall be prosecuted, and further that every company, firm or individual who has given such discounts or commissions to officials of the department in connection with such supplies shall also be prosecuted.

Mr. Alfred Pleau, an expert machinist, 173 St. John St., Quebec City, Canada, writes a letter to the Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., given below:

PERUNA STRENGTHENS THE ENTIRE SYSTEM.

"Two years ago, an accident necessitated my confinement for several weeks. The good health I had enjoyed was slipping away and there developed a complication of diseases. My physician said my case was one of general debility. Among the many ailments which developed was a serious attack of catarrh, which annoyed me considerably and kept me awake whole nights. I decided to give Peruna a trial and soon found it acting as a wonderful tonic to my system. The catarrh grew less severe and shortly afterward disappeared, as did also the various other maladies. I attribute my prompt relief and ultimate cure entirely to the use of Peruna and gladly recommend it."

Between Three and Four Hundred Workmen are Believed to have Perished Through Fire Damp in a Coal Mine in Westphalia, Germany

Hamm, Westphalia, Germany, Nov. 13.--An explosion of fire damp occurred in the Radbod Mine this morning and of four hundred men who were working in the pit at the time, only thirty-six have been brought to the surface up to the present.

How Mackenzie King Won Out

The splendid result may be regarded as a personal triumph for Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King. During the past six weeks he has given the people of this riding such an exhibition of the strenuous life that they will never forget. His enthusiasm was contagious and in a few days after his arrival his splendid executive ability had mapped out a plan of organization and campaign the working out of which was dependent on the individual efforts of his supporters, and the result of which has been a revelation not only to the Liberals but to their opponents as well. Mr. King's own capacity for work was shown to be most extraordinary, and his daily programme would have been impossible for one or less strong physique. Carrying on a steady personal canvass during the day and often addressing meetings for working men during the noon hour, or speaking at barn raisings, he took the platform at campaign meetings almost nightly, where by his natural skill and eloquence in dealing with public issues he would for hours hold the rapt attention of his hearers.

What Killed Irving

Every time he heard the sound of bell the throbbing of his heart must have nearly killed him. He used always to turn quite white--there was no trick about it. It was imagination acting physically on his body. His death at Matthias--the death of a strong, robust man--was different from all his other stage deaths. He did really almost die--he imagined death with such horrible intensity. His eyes would disappear upward, his face grow grey, his limbs cold.

Useful Odds and Ends

Nutshells of all sorts are useful in helping to revive a fire, and the shells of the Brazil nuts are particularly serviceable in this way. The stones of plums, green-gages, etc., may be used for the same purpose, and should be dried and saved instead of being thrown away. Orange peel is another article which may be treated as above. All these may be kept in a small ornamental bag or box near the chimney-corner, as they are quite inodorous when dried, and will be at hand when required. Spent matches used in the same way will be found helpful, and in households where gas stoves are used there will generally be a large number of struck matches which can thus be utilized. Old stockings are excellent rubbers for polishing furniture and floors, faucets and brass plates. Odd pieces of dress material can be made into serviceable iron-holders, or, if of serge, can be sewn together to make cloths for use in washing stone steps, scullery floors, window sills, etc. Old postage stamps can be used for covering empty jars, some being put on whole and others cut in half, and arranged to form various designs. Baskets may be turned to account in many ways. The small round baskets that hold pound pats of butter make pretty pin cushions if enameled or painted with gold, silver or copper metallic paint. When dry they must be filled with a bag of sawdust or bran, the top of this covered with a piece of colored silk, and the whole finished off with a fill of silk, lace or bows of ribbon. Similar baskets that have held fruit may be enameled or painted and used as jardiniere for pots of ferns or other plants. Three fastened together with wire and used in this way will form an effective flower stand, or small basins may be fitted into them and filled with cut flowers, the edge of the basin being concealed by using moss or crumpled paper.

Jas. J. Corbett Tells How To Develop the Body

I have been asked very often personally and also by mail as to what are the most important things for a young man to develop himself and build up his general health by means of physical training. In the first place every young man should ask himself what part of his anatomy needs developing the most to secure a symmetrical athletic build. Say his legs are weak, thin; and not in proper proportion to his body. Then he wants to give all his attention to how best to develop his leg muscles. For that purpose lots of walking, running, rowing in sliding seats skiffs or shells, jumping, especially from springboards; or in fact anything that will put a reasonable strain on the leg muscles. As above all things, patience, for it takes a long time to develop the legs. For results cannot be secured in a few weeks. Or, perhaps his chest is flat, weak, and badly in need of development. In a case like that you will nearly always find that a man has a thin, weak neck. It will be noticed that a good athlete will be very seldom seen with a thin neck. I have always found that a strong, thick neck is an almost infallible indication of a robust constitution and good health. Well, that young man wants to do everything in the way of exercise that will tend to develop his chest and neck. There are almost endless ways of doing this, such as with chest and pulley weights; wrestling is also good. Flying rings and the horizontal bar are also excellent. Dumbbells are, I consider, one of the best means I can think of. In fact, all a young man who really aims to improve his physique needs to do is to go into a gymnasium in the country and he will be told by any capable physical instructor what to do with more detail than I can than anything else he possesses. I would advise every young man, whether he wants to become an athlete or not, for the benefit of his general health, above all issues, never to smoke a cigarette. And if he must smoke--get a cigar. The first one may make him sick; possibly the second. But if he really will persist in smoking, get used to it and smoke a cigar or pipe. I have seen so many physical wrecks caused from over indulgence in the insidious cigarette that I consider it one of the greatest drawbacks in the young set forth here.

Shun Cigarettes

Then there is the business man who wishes to keep himself in good physical condition that he may be able to get along as well as in his younger days in his daily avocation. That man instead of jumping on a street car or into his automobile, should walk to and from his office or place of business. It would only take a few minutes longer. But the average man will always give that time worn excuse. "I haven't got the time." He should make time if he thinks anything of his health which some time or other he will find of more value than man's development. Next to avoiding all kinds of alcoholic stimulants the most important thing for a young man to keep on his mind is the absolute need of fresh air. He cannot be out in the open air too much if properly clothed. With the cigarettes cut out and plenty of fresh air I firmly believe, that most of our digestive troubles are caused by eating too much meat. Also not having enough elapsed time between meals, as for myself, if I eat meat, I never take any other solid substance into my stomach for at least seven hours afterwards, and never drink water--above all, ice water--with your meals as it will be sure to cause stomach trouble some time or other. I would say in conclusion that I would earnestly advise all young men to indulge in plenty of outdoor exercise, such as lacrosse, the Canadian national game, which I consider one of the finest field sports in the world, baseball, football, tennis, riding, either horseback or a wheel, rowing, or in fact any of the Health--Outdoor Pastimes that tend to develop the muscles and build up the physique.

But for a young man who wants to become graceful with his hands and feet, I can conscientiously recommend boxing as one of the best exercises that he can indulge in for the development of the entire body. In this regard I consider amateur bouts of a limited number of rounds, held under proper supervision, as one of the best methods in which the manly art can be indulged in and fostered.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fall then those organs must surely failer. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all dealers.

The Boy Who Was Wanted

By W. R. Rose

The boy awoke with a start. He had slept soundly on his bed of hay. It was the most luxurious bed he had known for a long time. He had been very tired when he fell asleep. Walking far, dodging across the fields, always alert and watchful, he had worn himself out. He was still sore and tired and his head was hot and heavy.

He saw a man standing in the doorway of the barn. He was a tall man and his shadow seemed to reach menacingly across the floor toward the boy. By the shadow of the blue sky beyond the man the boy knew the sun had been up for some time.

Come out here, said the man. The voice was rough, but not unkind. The boy arose with difficulty. He wasn't quite sure that he could walk. But he shuffled through the open doorway and stood in the strong sunlight blinking and shivering.

The tall man came a little closer and the boy cringed. The man stopped short. What's your name? Jem.

The boy answered sullenly. He still feared the expected blow.

How old are you? Sixteen.

He was small of his age, underfed and stunted.

Running away? The boy nodded.

From the city? The boy nodded again.

I can't run no farder, he hoarsely said. I'm all in.

And why should you run? A defiant look came into the hungry face.

Cause I'm wanted back here. De potecce wants me. It's housebreakin' Me an' two odder kids got into a cellar door an' lifted some things from a gto'ry. We put 'em up for 70 cts. an' den de cops pinched me. But I slipped under big Murphy's arm an' got away and den broke fer de hills an' de woods. An' I can't it.

When you take me back I gott'er be carried. Mebby dey'll give you something fer yer trouble.

He shivered again and rubbed his grimy knuckles across his eyes.

The tall man came a little nearer and again the lad shrank back.

Don't hit me, he whimpered.

Abigail, The tall man's voice was strong, but it had a pleasant quality.

Yes, Abner. What is it?

The voice that came from somewhere in the interior of the farmhouse had a peculiar drawl that was pleasant, too.

Got a little traveler here for you Abigail, said the tall man. You get me a basin of hot water an' I'll see if I can't take some of th' smartin' out of these tired feet. An' then you might fix him up an' egg an' some toast, mebby. You'll know what.

The child of the gutter watched the further pfoceedings with keenly suspicious eyes. He couldn't understand what these strange people meant. He winced when the hot water was brought, and he wriggled when the tall man pulled off the battered shoes and showed the badly blistered feet. The water hurt him a little at first, but that quickly passed and then the sensation was only delightful.

Guess we'll leave 'em there for a spell, said the tall man, an' soak th' soresness out of 'em. Feel better now don't they?

The waif didn't mean to nod his stubborn little head, and the movement was quite involuntary. And then a most delicious odor came to him. It was the odor of hot toast.

And there was the woman with the kind face and she had a tray in her hands, and on the tray was a plate of buttered toast, and a scrambled egg, and a dish of apple sauce, and a tall glass of milk.

I ain't got nothin' to pay you, he feebly muttered.

Why there's nothing to pay, dear child, said the woman and patted him gently on the shoulder. Eat all you can an' welcome— an' there's plenty more.

The boy looked up slowly and the woman noticed that two white streaks crossed the grimy cheeks.

I—I'll run away just the same, he defiantly sobbed.

And then the satirical view of life that was a part of his bitter young existence asserted itself.

Gee, but they're easy he muttered.

The woman reappeared presently and took the tray.

Don't you want somethin' more? Let me alone, shr'eked the boy, and a wild rage filled him. He caught up a short branch that was lying at his feet. Let me alone.

The tramp lunged him and the boy struck him a heavy blow across the head. He saw the fellow reel back and stagger blindly away, and then he flung himself at the flame and beat it as it ran this way and that, and while he fiercely fought it he screamed wildly for help.

The tall farmer sitting on the back porch heard the cry and ran. And there were two neighbors riding by on the highway who heard it and ran too.

When the struggle was all over and the fire was beaten down, and the big barn was out of danger, one of the neighbors turned to the panting boy.

How did you start it, sonny? he asked.

The boys temper flared up. His hands were blistered, he was half choked, and his beautiful clothes were ruined.

I didn't start it, he screamed. It was the tramp, I followed him. He flung th' match in th' grass an' struck at me an' I smashed him with a club. He ain't far away. You'll find him, his voice suddenly trailed away weakly, and he felt himself fall.

Only he wasn't Jem any more. He was James now. He couldn't understand what these strange people meant. He couldn't understand what these strange people meant. He couldn't understand what these strange people meant.

You ain't forgot th' pol-ecce wants me, have you? he said one day to the tall man while they were alone in the big barn. The tall man looked down at the boy.

Guess we won't bother the police any as long as they don't bother us, he answered.

And then one day a tramp came shambling up the driveway. He was an ugly looking fellow, drunk and surly. The tall man stopped him before he could speak.

Nothing for you, he sharply said. The fellow hesitated, then turned toward the road. But midway he stopped and shook his clenched hand at the tall man.

Presently when the tall man looked around for the boy he was gone. He had slipped behind the hedge and was following the tramp. If the latter really had mischief in his heart the boy meant to find it out.

So presently, when the vagabond lurched from the roadway and climbed the fence, and went up into the little grove back of the big barn, the boy was close behind him where the shadows were thickest. And when the tramp sat down in the grass and drew out his pipe and fumbled for his matches, the boy was very near.

It had been a dry season and the grass quickly caught the flame from the match the vagabond flung to one side. The boy saw the tiny glare and sprang toward it, but the tramp, struggling to his feet, stopped him.

Let it alone, he cried thickly, who cares.

Let me alone, shr'eked the boy, and a wild rage filled him. He caught up a short branch that was lying at his feet. Let me alone.

The tramp lunged him and the boy struck him a heavy blow across the head. He saw the fellow reel back and stagger blindly away, and then he flung himself at the flame and beat it as it ran this way and that, and while he fiercely fought it he screamed wildly for help.

The tall farmer sitting on the back porch heard the cry and ran. And there were two neighbors riding by on the highway who heard it and ran too.

When the struggle was all over and the fire was beaten down, and the big barn was out of danger, one of the neighbors turned to the panting boy.

ing, but Aunt Abigail now—caught him and put her arm around him and so led him back to the porch and tenderly ministered to his hurts.

They found the tramp where he had fallen in the underbush, dazed and maudlin, and they brought him down to the highway.

What you goin' to do with that spunky boy, Abner? one of the neighbors asked as they passed the house.

Do with him? cried the tall farmer. Good Lord, I'm goin' to keep him, an' bring him up, an' make a man of him!

Why Catarrh is Dangerous

Usually it comes with a cold. Being slight it is neglected—but the seed is sown for a dangerous harvest, perhaps consumption. To cure at once, inhale Catarrhose. It destroys the germ of Catarrh, clears away mucous, cleanses the passage of the nose and throat. The hacking cough and sneezing cold soon disappear, and health is yours again. Nothing known for colds, catarrh and throat trouble that is so curative as Catarrhose. It cures by a new method that never yet failed. At all dealers 25c. and $1.00. Get Catarrhose now, today.

Those who habitually correct their children in their faults by whipping and boxing them, must not be surprised when they find them slapping them in return, and rough and abusive towards one another. They are simply trying to enforce their own little ideas of right as they have seen their elders do. The mother who spends most of her time fussing over the wardrobes of her children and herself, starching, ironing and decorating and making them fashionable, will find the lessons she taught cropping out in dudsism; in vanity that prevents the development of solid character and useful habits. The father who smokes and drinks and spends his substance in riotous living, will have better luck than management if his children turn out to be strong, healthy and honorable citizens.

What is needed most of all in bringing up children is example. What they see and hear and take in by absorption in their young years, will, in most cases, become the ruling traits of their lives. Parents rarely fully realize to what extent they stand as models to their children.

The system is vitalized and strengthened and thus enabled to fight off threatened attacks. Not only does Ferroneze relieve at once—it cures rheumatism, gout and lumbago permanently. Eggs Is Eggs

Let us sing the praise of the Great American Hen, who, during the past year, may well have cackled with pride over the production of nearly one billion three hundred million dozens of eggs! Do you realize what that means? Well, listen:

If, instead of remaining quietly at home in Iowa, she had chosen to demonstrate her powers to the universe at large, the hen might have laid those eggs, each two inches long, end to end in a continuous chain reaching 238,813 miles up to the moon, back again, and then more than half way around the world for good measure—a total of 492,424 miles of eggs! Furthermore, if those eggs had been made into one omelet half an inch thick, that omelet would easily have covered Manhattan Island, an area of twenty-two square miles.

An old Mohammedan legend tells that King Solomon used to travel through the air with all his armies on a wonderful flying carpet, protected from the rays of the sun by the wings of a host of birds. Now, according to the poultry census, there are in the United States about two hundred and eighty millions of chickens, guinea fowls, turkeys, geese and ducks of the poultry voting age, which is three months or over. If required to furnish a moving canopy like that of King Solomon, the barn-yard fowls of this country allowing only a foot of spread to each, could easily shadow a space of ten square miles.—Arthur Gutterman in October Woman's Home Companion.

TIME TO BUY CREAM SEPARATORS NOW

There never was a better time to buy the best of Cream Separators than right now.

The advantages derived from the use of the good Cream Separator are greater in the fall and winter than at any other time—when the cows are old in lactation, the loss of butter-fat is otherwise greatest, and butter prices are highest. Likewise are the advantages of the superior DE LAVAL separators greatest over imitating separators when the milk is hard to separate and the weather cold and variable.

In every case a DE LAVAL separator, of suitable size, will surely at least save its cost between now and July 1st next, and go on returning 100 per cent. per year on the investment for twenty years to come.

The agricultural and particularly the dairying outlook was never brighter and more promising.

Much in Arithmetic Study not Worth While

Prof. Webster Says Problems Are Theoretical and Many of Them of No Earthly Use.

(Boston Advertiser)

That the study of arithmetic in the schools was full of useless labor was the contention of Prof. Arthur E. Webster, of Clark University, at the dinner of the Massachusetts Schoolmasters' Club Saturday night.

"Suppose," he said, "my little girl comes home bringing me some such complicated problems in interest as this: Mr. A gives Mr. B. this note for $667.25, to run eight months and six days, at 6 p. c. In five months and thirteen days he pays Mr. B. $221.46. Calculate the interest already paid and the balance due at expiration of the note."

"I am willing to worry with some problem that's going to produce tangible results, but I refuse to wrestle with such hypothetical cases. And I will no longer weary my brain with the extraction of roots and more remote algebraical problems. For the most part they are purely theoretical, and only bring vexation and confusion of spirit to the average human mind. Where they touch practical problems I have respect and gratitude for them. In the majority of them there is no earthly use."

Prof. Webster said that the study of science was worth while, and that the scientist got as much out of life as the man who spends his time acquiring a big estate.

To-day this country produces enough food and raiment to feed and clothe the world, he said. Every man could eat three modest meals a day, so decently attired and have a wife and several children were our products evenly distributed. But supposing this were so, supposing that we all had the fabled three acres and a cow, and beer and milk piped into the house and an aeroplane in the front yard—all circumstances that time may bring about will we be happy? I don't believe that they will bring us very much nearer the goal.

Life should be filled with a purpose beyond seeing how many material possessions we can acquire. I want to convince you, hoping that in turn you can show some of the boys under you that science is worth while.

Have You Corns?

There is but one painless cure—"Putnam's." Takes out the corn, root and branch—does it harmlessly in twenty-four hours. Insist on Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor only.

Play Instead of Work

The question which seems to concern this country particularly is how to obtain the most luxuries with the least work. Some of the five-hour-a-day fellows, have fifteen-hours-a-day wives, which help out a great deal in a family; and sometimes a ten-hour-a-day man finds himself in possession of a no-hour-a-day wife, which assures "dough cakes" for the family. Time was if a man and his wife and children all pegged away at some useful industry, according to the early settlers, they would rise in importance as surely as cream rises on the top of a pan of milk. Nor is the good old plan of industry and economy yet entirely untrustworthy, though growing more so as the years roll by. Large house, fine furniture, elegant dress and equipage with no business or visible means to back it all up are everyday sights. One is often tempted to think there is not much difference between those who work and those who play, but that the balance is in favor of those who play. This is a natural conclusion from a superficial standpoint.

A Bow of Craze

Passing down the street recently at an early hour, our attention was called to a bow of craze on the front door of one of our most beautiful homes. We stood and gazed upon it and read our morning lesson from the black threads that formed the large bow. Plainly did they tell us that a mother had been taken away; that she would greet son and daughters no more. The home is left in all its beauty, the lawn the rose and the sweet briar are still there, but she has been borne forth to sleep by the side of a loved one gone before, and the home is not what it was. Many and sad were the tales that each thread in the craze told us, and yet the busy throng passed rapidly by little heeding the craze on the door.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1908

It is announced that the provincial legislature of Alberta will be dissolved within a few days, and an election will be held on December 15th. The act creating the province of Alberta came into force on September 1st, 1905, and the first general provincial election was held on November 9th, 1906. There are twenty-five members, twenty-three of whom are Liberals. Hon. Alexander Rutherford is premier of the province.

The temperance question has always been a problem, so serious and far-reaching in its importance, that it is impossible for anyone with the best interests of the public to pass it by. The recent move in this town will stimulate interest in the temperance cause, and when a sincere desire for public good, sprinkled with common sense, is manifest, no better means can be found for the solution of the difficulty, than organization for education along temperance lines. The liquor problem in this town is not so serious as it has been in the past, but any move for improvement is entitled to the support of all Christian men and women. The Scott Act is perhaps an ideal law in its intent and text, but after many years experience, supplemented by the experience of others, the liquor problem is today as serious and as pressing as when the Act was first adopted.

VISIT THE SCHOOL

Every member of a community and especially every parent should take a deep interest in the public school. It is not enough to pay your school tax without complaining, or to know that the teachers are qualified, nor is it even enough to keep your children in school regularly. If you are really interested in the subject as you should be, you should visit the school regularly and persistently. Few people have any idea what an incentive it is to both teacher and scholar to know that parents and outsiders are taking a lively interest in their work. We believe the "little folks" at school appreciate such interest more perhaps than the larger ones. Still the effect is not lost on any of them, and we hope every parent will take a hint from this and place the public school on their visiting list.

DID YOU EVER THINK?

A short time ago a gentleman requested us to stop sending his paper. He did not say why he wished the paper stopped, but we presume it was because something in it did not just suit his fancy. Every newspaper has had experiences of this nature, but they are still in existence regardless of this fact. The action of this gentleman causes a thought to invade our weary brain, which runs something like this: Supposing this gentleman should be called to the "Great Beyond" (we hope it may be many years to come) his heart will be stilled forever. Neighbors and friends will follow his lifeless clay to the silent city and lay it to rest among the flowers. An obituary would be published in these columns telling what a kind father, a good neighbor and beloved citizen he was. As he lies out there in the cold, cold grave-yard wrapped in the silent slumber of death, he will never know that the last kind words spoken of him was by the editor of that paper, which in life he so spitefully "stopped." Did you ever pause just a moment and think that your editor, whoever he may be, will write your obituary some day?—Ex.

W. F. TODD IS GETTING DOWN TO HIS WORK

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—W. F. Todd, M. P., of St. Stephen, is in Ottawa, in the interests of his constituency. He arrived yesterday with J. F. Calder, of Welchpool, fishery inspector for the purpose of discussing with S. T. Bastedo, some features of the report of the international fisheries commission report which is now in the course of preparation. The fishermen of Charlotte county are greatly interested in this report and Mr. Todd is here looking after their interests.

BY THE WAY

All over.
"Pass the buck."
Bury the hatchet.
Fill up the cold bin.
It's all over, even the shouting.
Popular ridicule kills in the long run.
Both parties are "it" in Newfoundland.
Whiskey straight makes a man crooked.
Pie Suppers will now take the centre of the stage.
It's awkward to be hustled out in advance of preparations.
Amateur street management is oftentimes responsible for serious consequences.

Breaking down a child's mind with overwork is not education; it is irremediable.
The situation is perhaps not as dry as it might be, but not as wet as it has been.
Storm doors painted the brightest vermilion, attract the attention of passers-by.

Evidence continues to accumulate that the government is disposed to shake things up.
It is not a bad idea, even in high statesmanship, to "be sure you're right," before "going ahead."

Nervous, worried children, fretted with the fear that they will not be able to get their lessons, will not advance.
If a thorough revision of the town's tax valuation were made it would be productive of many and perhaps salutary changes.

The terrible accidents that have happened in the woods lately, is a warning to hunters that the greatest care should be taken in handling fire-arms.

I sing of the pump that I treasure so dear Which stood on the hill for many a year; Sweeter by far were its waters to me, Than richest of wines from over the sea!

Said the lobster green To the dairy sardine:
You ask why I haunt this vicinity?
'Tis because of you
My love is so true—
Now won't you be my af-Fin-ty?

That something is wrong in the policy of assessing property in St. George is very evident. A piece of land is valued at $100, if one tries to secure it for a building he is asked $500. The streets have to be kept up, and if they are not in good condition where this particular land is located, and which is assessed at a very low figure, the owner raises a howl. If lots of land are held for speculative purposes, it's the duty of the assessor to see to it that the owners pay a proportionate tax. A reform in the methods is very essential.

Sometimes a person's tongue gets them into trouble; watch the tongue; it is your tongue, it belongs to you, and is the only one for which you are responsible. Your neighbor's tongue may need care also, but that is his business; this is yours to see to. Watch your tongue; it needs watching. It is a fire—watch it. It is the helm which guides the vessel. Let the Helmsman keep wide awake. It can bless or it can curse; it can poison or heal; it can pierce hearts or blight hopes; it can sow discord or separate chieft friends. Watch your tongue, no one but you can take care of that tongue. Your neighbors may wish they could liddle it, but they can't do it.

"I suppose you know it's autumn?"
Said the Robin to the Bee:
"And the leaves are getting thinner
On the most courageous tree.
You have noticed that no butterflies
Across the garden rove,
And that every single chestnut
Has been scattered in the grove?
It's a fortnight since the swallows
Took their passage o'er the sea—
So perhaps you know it's autumn,"
Said the Robin to the Bee.

"Old winter soon gets busy,
When the feeble sunbeams fade,
And he turns the flower-bed over
With a white and frosty spade.
He rolls the gravel pathways
Fill they ring like iron roads,
And the twigs on all the bushes
With a sparkling cloak he loads.
That's right! Let's both fly southward
Until May once more we see,
When we'll find a warmer welcome,"
Said the Robin to the Bee.

Hon. W. C. H. Mr. Harry Lejar has a large crew of men cutting Christmas trees. They are now at Pennfield from which point several car loads will be shipped. They cut one car load near this town on the Armstrong place. Mr. Lejar expects to ship about 30 car loads from this end of the Province. He has been cutting at Hampton and Riverside. The trees will be shipped to New York and Philadelphia. About two hundred and seventy-five car loads are shipped to New York city from various points each year. Each car will carry from seven to fourteen hundred trees. For farmers who want land cleared up for pastures it is a quick way to get the work done, but it is doubtful if cutting the young growth of spruce will be beneficial to the country at large.

Report comes from Wilso's Beach, N. B., of the supposed suicide on Monday last of Allison Newsum, a young man well and favorably known in this city, where he made his home for several years. It is said that for some time past intimate friends had noticed he had been despondent and acting strangely, and on Monday forenoon he took his rifle and went upstairs presumably to clean it. A short time later his wife heard a report and upon investigation he was found to be shot through the head, living but a few minutes after being discovered. Deceased was a person of excellent character, a member of Border Lodge, I.O.O.F., in this city, and about 33 years old. He is survived by a widow and three children. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jere Newsum, reside in this city. The sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances goes out to his sadly bereaved family and parents.—Sentinel.

G. W. Ganong, ex-M. P. for Charlotte was in on the Central Railway last week looking over a copper property near Springfield, which he and a couple of associates are developing. The deposit was located some years ago but little was done to ascertain its true value until recently, when Mr. Ganong interested two experts from Colorado in the enterprise. The party has been quietly working all summer and have been well rewarded for their trouble. A seam of copper eight feet wide has been opened up and the analysis of the ore shows that it can be treated at small cost. The find will probably result in calling attention to the district as a copper producer. There are a number of mines about, concerning which well known geologists speak in high terms. The ore is very rich and is easily mined from the heavy veins which carry it. Mr. Ganong and his associates have suspended work until the spring, when further developments will be made.—Kings Co. Record.

HAVE YOU MADE A MISTAKE

We all make them occasionally and when we discover our mistakes the best thing we can do is to correct them with as little delay as possible. Many honest people have been induced to buy inferior cream separators because of false statements made by the manufacturers and their agents. Others have bought cheaply constructed machines for which great claims are made and which are advertised as being sold at a great reduction in price by mail order houses and others who have no reputation to sustain, and who have no interest in the separators they sell other than to convert them into money. As a matter of fact these machines are sold at a higher percentage of profit than is asked for Tubular Separators. They are cheaply built and scarcely worth anything at all. To those who have been unfortunate enough to buy these inferior machines we offer relief. We want them to enjoy using the best separator made and will help them to do so. If you have an unsatisfactory separator and want a good one come to us for information regarding our exchange proposition.

ARE YOU WEAK AFTER SICKNESS?

Later on it will be harder to get strong than to-day. What are you doing to get well?

A case in point is well exemplified in the following letter from Mrs. V. J. Wilker, wife of a well known citizen of Pittsfield, who writes: "I had a nervous disorder that completely prostrated me. I couldn't sleep, and would lay and toss about all night, arising in the morning more tired than ever, head heavy, eyes dull and every bone and muscle aching. I tried to get along without calling in a doctor, but was finally driven to it. He treated me for some time, but with no perceptible improvement in my health. Some one recommended Ferronine. The change it effected in my system was noticeable almost instantly. I gradually took on flesh, the 'all-gone' feeling left me. In less than six weeks I was fully recovered from what looked to me like an everlasting sickness. I will always recommend Ferronine, feeling with sincerity that it is an honest, powerful, health-giving tonic."

Try Ferronine to-day! The nourishment and vital energy it supplies is wonderful.

Ferronine makes you feel better at once. It's good for men, for women, for children—just the thing for everybody seeking better health. Sold by all dealers, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

Plotting the Poor Man's Curve

The road of a poor man's life is precisely like a highway which begins at the foot of a hill, ascends, pauses for a brief space on a pleasant plateau at the top, then relentlessly descends on the other side. Roundtree, in his work of poverty in the English town of York, describes this curve of the poor man's life, which is at its lowest point, the foot of the hill, when the man is a young father with a brood of little children to support. His own unassisted labor, unless his wife too works, must fill all these little mouths, says Rheta Childé Dorr in the November issue of Hampton's Broadway Magazine. Many must live on little, and thus, at a time when the man needs strength on which to toil, and the children need nourishment on which to gather strength for the future, the income is smallest. The curve begins to ascend, the family begins to climb the hill of prosperity, when the oldest child reaches working age. When all the children are old enough to contribute to the family income the highest point of the curve is reached. This is the time of greatest prosperity in the home of the wage earner. The break comes when the oldest child marries. A portion of the income is withdrawn. After that the curve begins its downward slant, and with each subsequent marriage the descent is more and more apparent.

Are Babies Moral

"We do not expect paternal feelings in a child of five," says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in October Woman's Home Companion. "Why then, should we expect any other of those race-regarding impulses which we term morality? Even to appeal to the 'better feelings' of a child of eight or ten is often almost as fractional as the celebrated apostrophe of the emotional Irish barister, who in the fine frenzy of his peroration whirled up on the judge with the thrilling appeal, 'Sir, was you ever a mother?' To appeal to a child's better nature, while excellent in moderation often does little more than make a hypocrite out of him before his time.

"He has got your hair, and his mother's eyes and voice, and some of your little tricks of manner—and temper—now, and he is just as safe to develop your superb self-control and civic devotion and consideration for others if you will only give him time—and set him a good example. Meanwhile preaching to him that he should possess these qualities will expedite matters precious little, and unless backed up by example, not at all. Remember that life and growth of all sorts are but a response to environment, and new responses can only occur as opportunity is afforded for them."

Go to Work

Young man go to work! There is no time to be idle now. You must carve out your own way if it is ever successfully carved. You must carve out your own way through energy, perseverance and pluck. Labor is honorable, and the ignoble are those who will not work. Get you a home. Fence a field and plow it and plant it, and gather around you the comforts of home. And when you have made a character for energy and thrift, ask some young lady to share your home with you. We would say to every young lady mark these men who are lounging around attempting to live by their wits, or on the interests of their debts; and when they ask you to share the lot of an aimless life, pass them on, for you cannot afford to marry a man without property or business habits, unless you wish to sell yourself for a mess of pottage. Again we would reiterate, young man, go to work. While ten men watch for chances, one man makes a chance. While ten men wait for something to turn up one turns something up; so while ten fail one succeeds and is called a man of luck, the favorite of fortune. Luck and fortune is the result of honest endeavor, work and toil, and if you would succeed, go to work.

Be Patient With Them

How soon the children leave us. It seems but a step between childhood and manhood. How soon they take this step and how often the eternal step from life to death. We little realize what the future of our little ones may be. Heaven kindly hides the book of fate. One word today spoken, may on the morrow stand like clouds of fire, staring us in the face. One kind act which might have gladdened the little heart, is left undone. Tomorrow it may come back to our memory and cause many heartaches. If we knew that the little ones who are today annoying us in their childish fashion, would tomorrow lay still in death, how different would be our actions towards them. Let us be more patient, and not what tomorrow has in store for us.

Do You Belch Gas?

This is a disagreeable result of food fermentation that Nervine stops at once. Take ten drops of Nervine in sweetened water. The stomach is warmed and soothed, digestive troubles corrected, the rising of gas ceases and you are well. When such a simple remedy does so much it's foolish to be without it. For indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and sick headache you'll find nothing half so efficient as Pabon's Nervine. Get a 25c. bottle from your dealer today.

The Old Maid

In almost every circle of our kindred there has been some queen of self-sacrifice to whom jeweled heads had been offered in marriage; but who staid on the old place because of the sense of filial obligation until the health was gone and the attractiveness of personal presence had vanished. Brutal society may call someone by a nickname. God calls her daughter, and heaven calls her saint.

We like to sing the praises of the sisterhood who remain unmarried; they might administer to aged parents. The brutal world calls these self-sacrificing ones peculiar or angular, but if you had had as many annoyances as they have had Xantippe would have been an angel compared with you. It is easier to take care of five rollicking romping children, than of one childish old man. Among the best women are those who allowed the bloom of life to pass away while they were caring for their parents. While other maidens were sound asleep they were soaking the old man's feet or tucking up the covers around the invalid mother. While other maidens were in the cotillion they were dancing attendance upon rheumatism, and spreading plasters for the lame back of the septuagenarian, and heating catnip tea for insomnia.

Let the ungrateful world sneer at the maiden aunt, but God has a throne reserved for her arrival, and on one side of that throne in heaven there is a vase containing two jewels, the one brighter than the Kohinoor of London Tower, and the other larger than any diamond ever found in the districts of Goconda—the one jewel by the lapidary of the palace cut with the words, "Inasmuch as ye did it to father," the other jewel by the lapidary of the palace cut with these words, "Inasmuch as ye did it to mother."

Industry and Thrift

This country is not in need of any more polished heads and idle hands. Its most crying need today is for skilled workers, for men and women who care more to be useful than they do to be ornamental; who can plow a furrow or shoe a horse, better than they can talk philosophy or plead at the bar; who can make a loaf of bread and broil a steak better than they can chatter French and embroider pillow shams. There is no use talking, we cannot rise above the stomach. We must live, and we must eat to live, and somebody must do the work that living demands. These people who will not lend a helping hand, but willingly prey on their hard working relations are a disgrace to modern civilization. The truth is we are too ambitious, too desirous for easy places we'll do the eating if somebody else will do the cooking; we'll pay the bills, too, if somebody else will earn the money; we can't do everything; people succeed best in pursuits congenial to them; we have no taste for drudgery, therefore we should not do it. This is about the smart logic that is being practiced to the extinction of many a family. Parents take the hard and give the easy to their children. The mothers tend the kitchen and dairy and the daughters the parlor and school. This it is thought will give them grace and culture and fit them to adorn the high position they are expected to fill, but rarely do. Let us think on these things and indelibly stamp it upon our hearts, that no amount of culture and ease can make amends for the lack of industry and thrift.

PAIN
 Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause in congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and so prove it has created a little pink tablet. This tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—cures blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though surely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.
 If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's a painful period with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.
 Brush your finger and don't it get red, and swell, and pain your. Of course it does, it's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain usually is. It's simply common sense.
 We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Charlotte Tories Wanted a "Change"

To the Editor of The Sun:
 Sir,—During the late campaign we could hear shouted into our ears by our Tory friends the stereotyped phrase, it's time for a change. They did not tell us in what way the change should manifest itself at least in the county of Charlotte, so we down here by the salt water took it for granted that it didn't matter much how the change came so long as it could be called a change, hence we "changed from Ganong's Todd. Since the election we are informed that the "change" didn't suit them and moreover, 'tis said, they are fighting mad because of the fact that the "change" came.

Now there is another "change" to be made soon, which will perhaps lash our Tory friends into a frenzy—a "change" that is demanded by every right thinking Grit in the Dominion—and that is a change of a score of these "hide-bound" Tory officials who hold positions of trust under a Liberal government to the disadvantage of thousands of good loyal supporters of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Are we not consistent in demanding such a "change?" Read the words of our great chieftain, Sir Wilfrid, in a speech delivered during the recent campaign, and then ask yourself if it is not a proper demand to ask for the dismissal of these partisan officials? When the Hazen government came into power on March 3rd last the very first move they made was to turn out every Grit official, and yet let it be remembered that Mr. Hazen and his party called for the support of Grits as well as Tories on the assumption that if given the reins of government they would form a coalition government. In the face of these facts is it a wise and prudent policy to still continue these Tory officials in their present positions? The Liberal party has nothing to lose by turning these men out, but stand to gain the undivided confidence of the entire Liberal host.

As a staunch Liberal, backed up by the words of the prime Minister himself, we would ask the hon. Minister of Public Works to consider well this proposition; we would ask the member-elect for Charlotte to use his influence at the forthcoming session of parliament to have these objectionable officials removed forthwith and replaced by loyal Grits. Unless this is done we are inclined to the belief that many of the best blood in the Liberal ranks will abstain from supporting a party that has not the backbone to carry out its pledge to those who work hard to sustain it in power. Let there be an awakening in the ranks of the Liberals such as will compel our leaders to take immediate action on this all-important question. Throw aside all personal or social affiliations and let us introduce political rights and preferences and the thing must surely come to pass.

Yours for political justice,
 DAVID E. MANN.
 Baillie, Nov. 9th, 1908.

How to Improve Health
 No better way than to improve the blood,—cleanse and enrich it,—give it nourishment and strength. This can be quickly done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills which have a vitalizing, purifying effect that is unequalled in any other medicine. With lots of pure, rich blood circulating to all parts of the body, with snap and vim running through every vein and artery, robust health is inevitable. No cleansing building tonic is as good as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold by all dealers.

Changed by Kindness
 "We were married thirty-seven years," a man said, who had lost his wife, and in all that time she never gave me a cross word. But I shall never forget the first time I scolded her. One morning when we had been married two years, I found a button off my shirt. I threw the garment at her, and said in a rough voice, "See a button off!" She got a button and sewed it on, saying, "Forgive me husband, I had a great deal to do yesterday, and I forgot it; but it shall never happen again. Her gentle words always broke my heart. I could have gone down on my knees to ask her forgiveness. She made a different man of me, and the world has been a different place since she died."

POCOLOGAN

Several sporting gentlemen from St. John have lately been at Miner's Club House.

A new enterprise is to be started here in the early Spring, that is a new club house at Pocologan to be called the "Pocologan Club House," which will be erected and managed in good style by John Hunter and Joseph Jack both of Pennfield. They intend calling on their friends in the near future to form a good club and as they are both "jolly good fellows" we have no doubt they will meet with good support from their friends in the undertaking.

ARE YOU WEAK AFTER SICKNESS?

Later on it will be harder to get strong than to-day. What are you doing to get well?

A case in point is well exemplified in the following letter from Mrs. N. J. Wihler, wife of a well known citizen of Pittsfield, who writes: "I had a nervous disorder that completely prostrated me. I couldn't sleep, and would lay and toss about all night, arising in the morning more tired than ever, head heavy, eyes dull and every bone and muscle aching. I tried to get along without calling in a doctor, but was finally driven to it. He treated me for some time, but with no perceptible improvement in my health. Some one recommended Ferrozene. The change it effected in my system was noticeable almost instantly. I gradually took on flesh, the 'all-gone' feeling left me. In less than six weeks I was fully recovered from what looked to me like an everlasting sickness. I will always recommend Ferrozene, feeling with sincerity that it is an honest, powerful, health-giving tonic."
 Try Ferrozene to-day!
 The nourishment and vital energy it supplies is wonderful.
 Ferrozene makes you feel better at once, it's good for men, for women, for children--just the thing for everybody seeking better health. Sold by all dealers, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

Pauley's well known Alliance mines situated near Big Temiskaming.

In Parliament

From a cursory ramble through the names of the newly elected members of the House of Commons, I "pick up" the information that there is only one "White" man in the bunch, the nearest approach to him being "Brown." Placatorially, there is a "Lake" for the "Fisher."
 There being "Cash" in the House, you may go to the "Barr" and order "Champagne" at any "Price" that is, if you are not "Owen" anything.
 If you are, you might "Curry favor with the "Porter" who usually has a "Cheer" in his mouth.

Canada's Credit Good on Other Side

Ottawa, Nov. 10.--F. W. Hirst, editor of the London Economist, was the guest of the Canadian Club Monday. He talked on trade matters, advocating free trade but explaining that he knew Canada could only arrive at that stage by degrees. He said that during the financial panic of some months ago he had been agreeably surprised at seeing Canada going ahead smoothly, as if nothing had happened, although the United States was in a sense isolated. As an Englishman he was pleased to note the interest Britain is showing in Canada and thought that as long as this country's government was well administered plenty of British capital would be available to invest in Canadian enterprises.

A travelling man, so the story goes, taking a trip through a farming district, observed a farmer ploughing with four oxen, to which he was loudly shouting: "Hi, thar! you Methodist, Baptist, Advent, Congregationist, g'lang thar!" Much surprised, he stopped and inquired: "Why do you call your oxen by such peculiar names?" "Why, my dear sir," answered the farmer, "them is the fittest names I can get. This yer Methodist is a good critter an' a willin' worker, but every once in a while he has to jump up an' down an' howl. Thar ar Baptist is a pow'ful strong beast, but whenever he comes to a pool of water he wants to lay down in it. Then the Advent is A-number-one feller does an honest day's work, but he's the subornest, contrariest critter yer ever seen. An then there's the Congregationist, he's the stiddest one in the hull lot. I can depend on him ter keep the whole lot together--but he's so stuck on himself that all the rest on 'em just naturally despises him."
