THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE Contrary to general expectations Presi dent Harrison of the United States was nominated to contest the Presidency for second time on the first ballot of the Re publican Convention in Minneapolis yester day afternoon.

The President's renomination was ac complished in spite of the most determined Blaine to obtain a different result by wellstimulated enthusiasm, and by all the arts known to the most adroit wire-pullers. Whitelaw Reid Secures Second Place

There was much preliminary skirmishing before a vote was taken, and though neither of the factions was entirely confident of its strength, the test vote of Thursday night on the question of disputed delegates, which resulted in a victory for Harrison's men, was taken as an indication that Harrison was stronger than his opponents gave him credit for. Then it became necessary for Blaine's followers to look around for a dark horse" to draw votes from Harrison. in hopes that on the first ballot, if Blaine could not be elected, the split in Harrison's ranks would show he was in a minority, and then there would be a stampede for Blaine. The result of the voting, in some measure, sustained this view. McKinley did get votes that would have been polled for Harrison in a number got votes that would have gone to Blaine if The President, as will be seen by the following statement of the vote, was reated by a decisive majority:

Harrison, 535%. McKinley, 182. Blaine, 1824.

The most remarkable fact established by this vote is the weakness of Blaine. There can be no doubt that he was the brains of the Harrison Administration. The popular features in the programme of the Administration were devised by him. The only redeeming feature in the trade policy was the reciprocity clauses attached to the Mc-Kinley Bill by Blaine's influence, in spite of Harrison, who is an unreasoning sort of a protectionist. And to Blaine must be ascribed nearly all the diplomatic triumphs of the present regime.

An analysis of the vote shows that the combination against Blaine managed the husiness largely through McKinley's capturing Northern votes, while the delegates from the Democratic States of the South voted almost solidly for the President. There may be those who will say that it is a bad omen for the candidate selected that he received his chief support in the convention from States that are certain to give a majority against him.

THE CONVENTION'S CHOICE.

BEGAN WITH A BLIZZARD.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 10.—The fourth day of the convention opened with a miniature of a Dakota blizzard. It was not cold and it was not accompanied by snow or hail, but it was lively enough to tear from their places the decorations which adorned the buildings along the principal streets. The rain fell in torrents for a time, but the storm was of short duration. At 11:30 the convention was called to order. After prayer by Rev. Dr. Wayland Hoyt Mrs. J. Allen Foster, of the Woman's Republican Association, was escorted to the platform and read an address in an audible voice with many oratorical gestures. The lady orator, as she warmed up with her subject, laid aside her notes and addressed the convention with a fluency and force which elicited frequent applause.

THE BLAINE MEN BREAK LOOSE.

The chairman then announced that the next order of business was the presentation of names for the nomination of President, and called the States in alphabetical order. At the call of Colorado Senator Wolcott proposed James G. Blaine. There was dead silence for a moment, and then the Blaine men broke loose and for three minutes the hall rang with their cheers renewed again and again. When partial silence had at length been restored Mr. Wolcott continued: "The greatest American now living suffered defeat eight years ago because the party which he led and honored was torn up by discord and because fraud triumphed. (Cheers.) We meet to-day to right that wrong, to present our uncrowned leader the pledge of onr unswerving devotion and the assurances of victory in November." When Wolcott closed the Blaine men were on their feet cheering and waving flags, hand-korchiefs, fans and even umbrellas.

THE HURRAH FOR HARRISON.

When Indiana was called, the venerable R. W. Thompson walked up the aisle, took the platform and briefly placed in nomination Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana. The counter-demonstration of the Harrison men came with enthusiasm. Fans and umbrellas were in the air. Delegates stood on their seats, and the Hon. Fred Douglas, waving his white hat on top of his cane, led the cheering, that was sustained for two minutes or more. The chairman sat down until the tumult subsided. uptil the tumult subsided.

The nomination of Blaine would almost to a certainty have pointed to the choice of Cleveland as the Democratic nomine in the convention that assembles in Chicago one week from next Tuesday. It is still probable that Cleveland will again be the man, though there are those who talk "dark herse."

Just as the applause that followed Mr.

The delegates climbed on their chairs to see the two lone women on the platform behind the chairman cheering and encouraging the applause All over the convention hall the delegates were trying "Blaine, Blaine, James G. Blaine,"

Delegates opened their umbrellas and waved them aloft. One of the umbrellas was white with Blaine's name in big black letters. The confusion was indescribable and the noise defeaning. It culminated when the band struck up. No one could tell what it was playing; only the steady beat of the bass drum could be heard above the dim. Mrs. Keren's companion folded her white parasol and waved a silk flag almost over the chairman's head. It fed the flame of the convention's excitement anew. The "Blaine, Blaine, James G. We were not really able to do this until last proposal to decrease the salaries of the ministers who received assistance from the augmentation fund from $900 to $850 per year. There was a bot discussion dver this, and it was finally defeated by a good majority.

It was also proposed to form a new synod in British Columbia and to make three presbyteries out of the present presbytery. This matter was left to a committee.

Rev. W. Burns was appointed secretary of the committee. It was decided to receive Rev. Dr. Grey, representing the Church of Scotland, on Monday.

The whole of the evening session was taken up with the report of the foreign mission committee, which described the work done in Palestine, China, India, Fetmosa and other places. It was announced Rev. Mr. Gould, a graduate of Khek Church, has been appointed assistant to Dr. Mackay in Formosa. Rev. J. Me. Fink, of Wisconsin. At the conclusion of the call of States the convention proceeded to ballot. It was ordered that she delegates from the Indian Territory and Alaska who had been seated be also entitled to vote upon the Presidential ballot. Alabama was the first State called, and when it responded with fitesen votes for Harrison and seven for McKinley deafening cheers greeted the entrance of the distinguished Ohio Governor into the contest, which were repeated as the balloting further showed his popularity.

When the State of Pennsylvania was called a great surprise greeted the convention. Various delegates who had up to this time apparently been docile under the leadership of Senator Quay revolted, and when the result was announced Harrison had ten more votes from this State than had been expected. The Harrison people, of course, cheered at this announcement, and when South Dakota followed with a solid vote for Harrison while Tevas gave the Sahara.

had been expected. The Harrison people, of course, cheered at this announcement, and when South Dakota followed with a solid vote for Harrison while Texas gave him 22 votes, and it was apparent that the President would certainly be nominated, the scene of enthusiasm was unrivaled by any previous incident of the day.

McKinley then moved that the rules be suspended and that Benjamin Harrison be nominated unanimously by acclamation. The Harrison people gave one wild, hysterical cheer of exultation and approval, but there were cries of "No, no," "Roll call, roll call," from the Blaine and McKinley delegates in various parts of the hall. Finally Mr. McKinley said: "Mr. Chairman, there are States, as I understand it, that have not been reached which desire to record their votes. I therefore withdraw my motion." The roll call continued, and from this time on showed steady and significant gains for Harrison.

At the end, after an interval of half an hour, "The number of votes," the clerk announced, "is 904\(\frac{1}{2}\); number necessary to a choice, 453. Benjamin Harrison receives 555\(\frac{1}{2}\) votes; James G. Blaine, 182\(\frac{1}{2}\); Wm. McKinley, 182; Robert Lincoln, 1 vote, and Thomas B. Reed 1 vote. Having been connected with the Free Library movement since the first bylaw passed and chairman of the board appointed in 1888, I have watched with some interest the discussion of the question as it has been appearing in the ADVERTISER during the last few weeks, and which has been provoked by the application of the Workmen's Free Library Board to the Board of Aldermen for a grant of money to enable them to purchase books.

men for a grant of money to enable them to purchase books.

While I have no objections to a grant being given to the Workingmen's Free Library by the aldermen, if they can do so legally, yet there is a weak point in the case, as giving a grant of public money to an institution under the control and management of a particular class is always a dangerous precedent, and sometimes starts elements of an objectionable character, and in this particular case there is no necessity for the workingmen begging for a favor which did they unite vigorously and appeal to their employer to vigorously and appeal to their employer to assist them, with the support of the elergy-men of the various denominations, the Board of Aldermen would have to grant legally what the workingmen now ask for

The first report of the finance committee recommended: 1. Payment of several accounts. 2. That the widow of the late D. G. McKenzie be paid $800 for his services as clerk and inspector of House of Refuge. 3. That the usual grant of $25 be made to each of the Farmers' Institutes in this county. 4. That the county treasurer's salary be $1,600 per annum—an increase of $200. The report was adopted.

The special bridge committee recommendithat a certain percentage be paid all municipalities on bridges for which the county is liable. The report was adopted.

cipalities on bridges for which the county is liable. The report was adopted.

The second report of this committee stated that the contract for the bridge over the Aux Sable on the boundary line between Huron and Middlesex had been let to L. Hardy at $760. It also was adopted.

The report of the potitioning committee recommending no action on the motion to reduce the number of county councilors was adopted.

The report of the jail committee stated that the jail was neat, clean and well kept, and that there were 22 prisoners—15 males and 7 females. It also recommended that certain repairs be made to the jail.

THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE. It Is Taking a Very Prominent Part is

New Orleans, June 11.—The influence of the Farmers' Alliance in Louisiana politics is well shown in the membership of the Legislature. In the country parishes the Alliance insisted on the division of the local offices. They received the candidates for the Legislature, and the result is that the general assembly, which in the past has

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrup and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

CONVERSAZIONE. Did He Get an Answer? A good story is told of Rev. Phillips Brooks, the new bishop of Massachusetts. He was walking late one night through one of the finest residential streets of Boston, when he met an inebriated individual, who appealed to him to help him find his house. The good man took the befogged brother in charge and saw him safely on the steps of his home, and the man gratefully and effucively thanked his benefactor. With the persistency of a drunken man, he wanted to know the name of the man who had been a friend indeed. Knowing that when the stranger was sober he would be mortified to learn who had assisted him, Dr. Brooks said: "Oh, it doesn't matter; call me St.

to learn who had assisted him, Dr. Brooks said: "Oh, it doesn't matter; call me St. Paul, if you like."

"Oh! well—by the way," said the grate-ful man, as he tried to steady himself by clinging to the door-bell, "did you ever get, any answer to that awful long letter you wrote to the Ephesians?"

Pet Superstitions.

Pet Superstitions.

How many of us are there who do not once in a while feel just a little uncomfortable when we find that we have sat thirteen at the table, or have seen the moon over our left shoulders, or have seen the moon over thousand and one things that are supposed to portend evil? Not that we think for a moment any misfortune really will happen on consequence of these acts, but the suggestions are not pleasant, and we wish our attention had not been called to them.

Of course, we all laugh at superstitions and think them silly, as they are, but, nevertheless, we do not get away from the suppleasant feeling.

I knew an old lady who considered it positively wicked and unchristian to give up to "foolish superstitions," but she never would allow anyone to rock an empty chair in her presence. You will see people in the street who have been hurrying, as if anxious to lose no time, stop on a corner and wait five minutes for a long funeral procession to pass. They have not the courage to cross through it when an opportunity is offered, although they may waste moments that are golden to them.

The most sensible and practical people in the world will often take particular pains to skim off a patch of bubbles that has risen to the top of their tea, because someone in jest has said it is a "sure sign of risen to the top of their tea, because some-one in jest has said it is a "sure sign of money."

It always requires a distinct effort for me to pass a pin that I see lying on the sidewalk, because of that absurdly bad rhyme, which, of course, I consider non-

"See a pin and pick it up, All the day you'll have good luck." Sometimes these omens do not go well together, and even contradict each other. together, and even contradict each other. For instance, one will tell you that the only lucky way to find a pin is with the head toward you; and just as you have the habit of going around looking for pins with their heads toward you, another man will say, "It is vecy unlucky to pick up a pin with the head toward you. The only right way is to have the point toward you, for then the luck will be 'sharp.'"

If at the table a little salt is spilt between two people, the way to avoid a quarrel is

If at the table a little salt is spilt between two people, the way to avoid a quarrel is each to take a pinch and throw it over his left shoulder. Salt always has seemed a wonderfully powerful mineral from the time when we were small. Which of us, when a child, did not firmly believe in that old joke about putting salt on a bird's tail? I remember a curly-headed little boy in kilts who went out into the garden with a handful of salt, resolved upon catching a bird. He was very patient, and cautiously tiptoed around for a long while. Finally, a little

He was very patient, and cautiously tiptode around for a long while. Finally, a little discouraged, he went in to his mother and said, mournfully, "Mamma, they all flew away." His mother didn't laugh at him.

When we stop to think, we wonder how real these silly superstitions, in which nobody believes, are in their influence upon our actions. We hesitate to start on a journey on Friday; we walk out in the mud rather than go under a ladder; we don't give knives or sharp instruments to our friends; and we don't do a hundred things that we might, all because, though we are not superstitious, we would rather not do what suggests anything disagreeable.

A Beautiful Songster.

Of the song of the wren, says Olive Thorne Miller in her paper on "The Wren" in the June Atlantic:

This witching carol, one of nature's most aluring bits of music, fell upon my ear for the first time one memorable morning in June. It was a true siron-atrain. We forgot, my comrade and I, what we were seeking in the woods. The junce family, in their snug cave among the roots, so interesting to us but now, might all fly away; the oven-bird, in the little hollow beside the path, might finish her lace-lined domicile, and the shy tanager conclude to occupy the nest on the living arch from which we had frightened her—all without our being there to see. For the moment we cared for but one thing—to follow that "wandering voice," to see that singer.

We were not the first to be fascinated by this marvelous melody. "Dull indeed must be the ear that thrills not on hearing it," says Audubon, and its effect upon him is worth telling. He was traveling through a swamp, where he had reason to suspect the presence of venomous makes and other reptiles. While moving with great circumspection, looking out for these unwelcome neighbors, the captivating little aris burst upon his ear. Instantly snakes were forgotten, his absorbing passion took trull possession, and he crashed recklessly through the briers and laurels in pursuit. It is pleasant to know, further, that he found not only the singer, but his nest, which was the first he had ever seen, and gave him a delight known only to enthusiastic bird-lovers.

The Clinton News-Record, speaking of the recent attempted train-wrecking near that town, says: "Very serious reflections on the good faith of Mr. Poultarman are bruited about, but from what we can learn it is very cruel to indulge in such suspicions as he is said by those who have known him for twenty years to be a man of irreproachable character, who deserves the highest meed of praise for averting a horrible disaster, instead of trying to make him out a criminal. The authorities are doing everything in their power to ferret out the perpetrators of this gross outrage." Mr. Poultarman is the man who stopped the train, thus averting a serious accident. The story which has been circulated about him is to the effect that he placed the obstructions himself and then stopped the train—evidently with the expectation of receiving a reward for his supposed bravery. It was said the lantern and red handkerchief with which he signaled the train were both new. These stories the News-Record says are cruel and without foundation.

MR. REID AND THE FREE LIBRARY. Mr. Robert Reid writes entertainingly in to-day's issue of the ADVERTISER, upon the proposal to establish a free library in London. He favors the submission of a free library bylaw to the electors; he strongly supports the absorption of the Mechanica' Institute, in the manner prescribed by the Act; and he maintains that if this were done the city would have a splendid library property to begin with at a comparatively insignificant outlay.

phile. It would indeed be a mistake for the citizens to enter on a rivalry with the Mequire the Mechanics' Institute, now sus- by many with suspicion. ained by a section of the people, and turn its wealth of literature to account as a foundation for a free library for all. There Institute that the objects for which their organization was founded and is now maintained can be better secured by the more modern free library there will be a disposition to co-operate with the citizens for obtaining that much-to-be-desires boon.

In Hamilton, where public apathy per-mitted the collapse of the Mechanice Institute and the disposal of the collection of books at a sacrifice, the need of a free library was at once emphasized. The people gladly supported the bylaw to establish it. It was only after the board began to select the books that they discovered the great less which the people had sustained through the previous disposal of the Mechanics' Institute and its literary treasures. We do not look for the collapse of the London Mechanics' Institute, but we mention this experience as emphasizing the view, so well put by Mr. Reid, that it is of the utmost importance in establishing a free library to have it founded on the accumulations of good liter-ature made by the Mechanics' Institute.

Ir is started in Ottawa that the Govern ment has decided to abandon its proposed gerrymander of Russell county. The manstraight and the state of the s kept voting in the county. A more imputent attack on the rights of the citizens of London has never been made than this resolution to minimize the importance of London. In parliament and in public meetings, they continually speak of this city as a place with 22,000 inhabitants, because two of the wards in the city are gerrymandered out of it. Why, is any tical neck of a man who owes his seat in ament to the fact that it was stolen from the man who was chosen by the h a huge, canvas-covered structure, capshis of holding 20,000 persons, or 8,000 more than assembled in the hall at Minneapelle. We pity the chairman. He scaday the delegates will assemble. The man who gets the nomination for the Democrats must be indorsed by a twothirds majority of the delegates, so that he has a harder seer to has than a Republican andidate. So far Coveland seems to be the go favorite of the majority of the States, but the opposition to him by a portion of the Democratic party in New York Statemay prevent his selection. In that case a cark horse will be brought out, for Schator fill, the chief antagonist of Cleveland in New York, seems to be also out of the unregenerate days, when he wrote for the newspapers, he was "Si Small." Then he gained a wide notoriety as "Sam Small, the gained a wide notoriety as "Sam Small, the Evangelist." Next he became president of a Methodist college and blossomed out as the "Rev, Samuel Small, D.D." And now that he is going inte politics he is to be crown as "Colonel Small."

must carry if they would win, has been steadily uncertain during the last twenty years. Since 1864 its record has been 1864, 1872, 1880, 1888 Republican; 1868, 1870 and 1884 Democratic. In 1892; If the New York Democrats are sensible enough to unite on Cleveland or any other strong candidate, they can carry the State, but not if the stabbing process of 1888 is repeated.

—Grover Cleveland is the only living Democrat who was ever elected to the Presidential nomination at every Republican national convention since 1872, and he is the only living Republican who was defeated in a Presidential conteat. In 1876, he was aimost elected, his opponent only beating him by a few votes. Then Hayes was nominated and elected, though a comparatively unknown man.

—It was the Blaine men that prevented Grant from getting a third term in 1880. Thirty-six ballots were taken before a choice was made, the Grant men scoring 304 in the first and 366 in the last. It was Grant against the field, and carried him through.

The dropping of Morton is, under the circumstances, a concession to the growing sentiment in favor > by peddling around the militia camp to please politicians, and assessing a portion of the cost on the municipality, is that "other places wanted it." To this let us reply, as General Herbert has replied, that the in-terests of the men, the comfort of the men and the interests of the taxpayers should not be sacrificed to please anyone. The militia force costs over $1,000,000 yearly. A good deal of that money has been spent neednen, more efficiency in the force, and more ax on any city or town.

CHARGES WILL NOT DOWN. These charges were emasculated so as t this sort of thing? To save the poli. prevent inquiry by the commission appointed by Caron to try himself, and a were forthwith produced. Sir Richard will ask whether the Government on the dates given the fac-similes of letters

3. Whether the Government have observed that if the said documents be, as they purport to be, accurate reproductions of the original letters of the several members of the Privy Council therein named they establish beyond doubt that the said members of the Privy Council were actively engaged in the distribution of funds throughout the several constituencies therein named to an extent wholly inconsistent with the statement that said funds were required for "legal purposes?"

shall be taken to bring the guilty to pun-ishment. No statesman worthy of the name would be contented to have members of his Government lie under accusations so grave. He would, in justice to himself, order a full and impartial investigation. The innocent have nothing to fear; it is only the guilty that can profit by suppression of the facts.

TURF TIPS.

It is again reported that an agreement has been signed for a match between the great rotting stallions Allerton and Axtell for a purse of $10,000 at a meeting of the St. Joseph Driving Club on Sept. 14.

But it still remains for Budd Doble to cosent to the agreement.

Little Nell, the filly that ran away and caused he death of Jockey Andy McCattly, ran away again at her exercise lustly, bolted through the fence at the same point where the fatal accident happened and threw her exercise boy. The filly was cut about the head and one hip, and her rider was badly though not seriously hurt.

An Illustration of How a Sharp Man May Part Quickly with His Money. [From the Savannah News.] [From the Savannah News.]

Even a mathematician will get mixed in his calculations sometimes when clanging money back and forth. The telegraph operator at the De Soto realizes this fact, and nine men out of ten would have done the same thing that he did without thinking.

One night last week a guest of the hotel handed in a message. The operator counted the words and announced the charge was 50 cents. The gentleman handed over a ten-dollar bill, which the operator mistook for a one-dollar bill, and gave him back a half-dollar. The gentleman left the hotel without noticing the mistake. Presently he discovered it and returned to the operator's desk.

The operator opened his drawer and looked at the bill.

"Why, yes," he exclaimed. "I thought it was a one. Here it is," and he handed over the bill.

"Now I owe you 50 cents," said the gentleman.

"Oh, no you don't," said the operator.

"Oh, yes, I do," replied the gentleman.

"The telegram was 50 cents, you know," and he handed over a half-dollar and walked off.
"I'm into that fellow 50 cents," remarked.

"I'm into that fellow 50 cents," remarked "Not much," returned the the bookstand man. "He's into you 50 cents," and the operator has been trying to figure it out

A Welcome Change.

After weeks of enforced absence the pupils of the Talbot street school will resume their studies in their proper quarters on Monday. The finishing touches have been put to the building and it is now in proper shape, looking none the worse for the restoration process. The change will be acceptable, as both the teachers and children have been put to much inconvenience in the meantime. It is desired to tell the senior classes that their books will be at the school.

Hard on the Boating Business.

The recent floods knocked off a number of the splashboards at the waterworks dam, and this fact accounts for the heavy current of the river. It has almost prohibited boating. Chairman Davis, of the water commissioners, says the damage will be repaired at once, and all will be right within a week. Captain Foster's boat went down to-day, but the return trip takes longer than usual. What with wet weather and the present condition of affairs the boatmen have had an unlucky season so far. The Adjourned Sessions.

At the adjourned general sessions beford Judge Elliot this morning, James Armstrong withdrew his plea of not guilty on the charge of stealing brass and other metal from the G. T. R. and pleaded guilty as an accessory after the fact. He was remarded for sentence.

Elijah Niuhsm, a county constable living on the Oneida Reserve, was charged by Constable Doxtator and others with keeping a disorderly house, and the charge will be investigated.

J. D. Barclay, of Coldstream, and Samuel Thompson, of Glencoe, were appointed county constables.

the Crown.

PORT ARTHUR, June 11.—The trial of Margaret Ellen Carrothers for the murder of her busband was continued yesterday, when nineteen more witnesses were examined, including Dra. Daniel Clark, P. H. Bryce and J. H. Cameron and Mr. O'Dea, the writing expert of Toronto. Dr. Clark said he had no doubt the wound from behind if inflicted first would produce immediate unconsciousness, and deceased would thereafter be incapable of firing the one in front. If the front shot was fired first the victim might not be able to discharge the shot from behind, but this would be dependent on the individual's power of resisting the bullet's blow. Having regard to the circumstance of the case it was his opinion, and he had no doubt whatever, that it was a case of homicide. Dr. Bryce concurred generally in the conclusions of Dr. Clark, stating that the facts pointed to homicide rether that the suicidel the head.

Band Concerts to Begin.

The members of No. 2 Committee—Ald. Connor (chairman), Shaw, Garratt and Jones—apent a pleasant hour last evening discussing the all-absorbing question of band concerts, which pleasureable occasions the public has been eagerly waiting for. The instructions of the council were to expend the money ($500) among the "bands" for concerts in the "parks." The Seventh's bandmaster had been notified to be present and state his terms, but he did not appear. The necessity of dividing the money led to the criticism of the warious musical organizations and the word "parks" gave Ald. Shaw an opportunity to advocate the claims of his ward and No. 6 to a share of the music. The deliberation simmered down to a motion (by Ald. Garratt) to the effect that the Seventh be asked to give thirteen concerts in Victoria Park during the season, commencing Wednesday evening next, and that the Cavalry Band be given a trial at the same place on Friday night. If the latter reach the required degree of efficiency they will be requested to play again, and No. 5 and No. 6 wards may get a concert or two each. The Seventh are to get not more than $25 per night, and must have 20 men for every concert. Ald. O'Meara was nominated as musical critic, but it was afterwards decided to take in the whole committee. They will see that the bands comply with the regulations and will exercise their discretion in ordering the concerts and choosing the bands. -Capt. Hudson, who has been very ill, reported to be improving. -Miss Hyman, of this city, has been visiting Mrs. G. K. Brown, of lugersoil.

-Mrs. H. Stevenson, of this city, is visiting friends in the vicinity of Lucknow. —Miss Edith Armstrong, of Whitby, and Miss Flora Coulthard, of Oshawa, are visiting friends in this city.
—Dr. J. M. Piper, of South London, who has been visiting in New York and Boston, has returned home. John Stockwell, a lad who disappeared rom Hamilton some time ago, has written o his mother that he is working on a farm lear this city. -The Bishop and Dean of Huron, Arch-deacon Marsh, Canon Davis and other Anglican clergymen attended the funeral of Rev. Important Resolution Passed by the London (Eng.) County Council-Powdorly Not In the Presidential Race.

The Boston Boiler Manufacturers' Association voted $5,000 to bring non-union workmen to the city.

The strike among the lumber shovers at Tonawanda is getting worse, over 500 men are involved, and the trouble is spreading.

Terence V. Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, has published a letter in which he takes himself out of the list of aspirants for the Presidential nomination of the new people's party organized by the Farmers' Alliance. While he will support that party and vote for its nominee, he will not run for any office on its ticket.

—At St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday morning the Bishop of Huron will ordain five candidates as deacons, and advance four to the order of presbyters. The former are Messrs. Beverly, Fostly, McCansland, Evans and Ward; the latter, Rev. Messrs, Howard, Brownlee, Rhodes and Bemish. Rev. Mr. Shortt will preach.

—Yesterday afternoon the city public and separate schools and the school in London West were visited by active workers of the Florists' and Gardeners' Club, and 1,200 fine chrysanthemum plants distributed among the pupils to be grown for exhibition at the fall flower show, when special prizes will be given for the best plants grown by the children. The young folks are much interested and will no doubt make a fine display of 'mums.

—The closing entertainment under the auspices of Christ Church Guild was held last night. A microscopic exhibit was given by Mr. Foote, and many interesting things were shown. Dr. Woolverton had his excellent collection of curiosities on hand, and afforded explanations in his usual happy way. Mr. Grasby gave splendid telescopic views of the moon and stars through his superior instrument. A clever exhibition of gymnasties on the horizontal bar was given by the Partridge brothers and Stevens. A pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of the doxology and the benediction.
