

APPROVES STAND OF A. F. OF L. TO AVOID POLITICS

London Labor Men Divided
On Opinions as to the Best Policy To Adopt.

SEEKING SOLUTION

Action of the American Federation of Labor in throwing out the suggestion that an independent labor party be formed in the United States for the purpose of entering political fields was viewed from several angles locally.

Ald. Frank McKay endorsed the move of the American Federation, saying that he thought the federation should, in its own interests, keep out of national politics. Others, however, believed the federation could not accomplish anything unless it went through political channels.

By an overwhelming majority, the American association rejected recommendation that a separate labor organization be formed for political purposes. If such a society were organized it would be along the lines of the Dominion Labor Party and, consequently, advocates of the Canadian party thought the American Federation was making a mistake in keeping labor free from politics.

"The Dominion Trades Congress," one laborite explained, "is similar to the American Federation of Labor. Both organizations have nothing to do with politics. But the Canadian Labor Party was formed to take an active part in politics, and has received the endorsement of the Dominion Trades Congress. On the other hand, the American Federation refused to approve of the organization of a separate body with the view of advancing labor ideals through political means. Although the majority against the resolution was immense, I think they made a mistake."

That a sharp division of opinion exists locally as to whether labor should plunge wholeheartedly into politics along the lines of the Dominion Labor Party is evident in the variety of opinions expressed. Arthur Mould, former labor candidate in the federal elections, is all in favor of the Dominion Labor Party activities, while Ald. John Colbert's "broadening out" policy is well known. Mr. Colbert would take in "white-collar" workers whether they were affiliated with labor unions or not.

Ald. Frank McKay, along with others, thinks neither the Dominion Trades Congress nor the American Federation should delve into political problems when their primary function is to better the lot of labor from an industrial viewpoint. The Dominion Labor Party, however, is an asset to labor generally, and should take part in politics. Mr. McKay pointed out that the trades congress took the same stand as the American Federation when they passed a resolution refusing to participate independently in politics but urged all trade unions to affiliate with the Dominion Labor Party.

The difference in local opinion was indicated in the recent dismissal of P. D. Burke for taking part in politics contrary to the policy of certain London laborites. As one man pointed out, however, every municipality has been given autonomy by the trades congress in connection with politics, and whether or not they nominate candidates for any political office depends on themselves.

"The finest example of labor's success is seen in the British Labor Party," one citizen said. "I believe, therefore, that labor should enter into politics with a whole heart in spite of the decision of the American Federation of Labor."

Freighter on Fire Is Rushing To Make the Nearest Port

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—Four ships are in trouble off this port, two of them freighters and two tugs, which are aground in shallow water in Neah Bay, in the mouth of the Quillayute River, near the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The Equator is reported badly damaged, but the Dolly C. is reported not in immediate danger.

The Stanley Dollar, of 4,710 tons, is the second of the Dollar fleet to report a fire within a week. The Diana Dollar, caught, due off San Pedro, Cal., several days ago and suffered damage estimated at $300,000.

council with a copy. As it is now, we have to receive our information second-hand."

"It is also Ald. Douglass' opinion, and the opinion also of others, that as the year is almost closed it would be of small advantage to the council to consider the report, and that the result would be that its contents would merely provide so much ready campaign fodder for aspiring candidates for re-election. He would avoid all this, and there are many who support him.

"Trying to Break Unions."

"It looks as though they are trying to break the unions, but they won't do it with my vote," declares Ald. Gordon Drake, Ward 3. "That is my stand, and what is more, I am severing my connection with the Chamber of Commerce. I am not renewing my subscription for next year.

"I fail to see why any member of the fire department should be asked to resign from the union or from the force. The firemen and all workers have every bit as much right to their union as the big fellows to their organizations, as the chamber of commerce, which is practically a union. Why, there are some people who would have everyone working for $12 a week."

Mayor Edmund Hayden voiced the opinion of many today that it would be better if the councilors followed the suggestion from Ald. Douglass, and referred the Britain report to the city council of 1924. "The report is quite lengthy," he stated, "and it would appear to me as though we will not have the time to consider it satisfactorily let alone act upon it this year. I would certainly not vote for anything without a thorough consideration of the situation."

It is also proposed today that Dr. Beithan be requested to furnish each member of the council with a copy of his report. This will entail a further delay.

COUNTY FACES DAMAGE SUIT AFTER ACCIDENT

The county of Middlesex faces a big damage action as a result of an automobile accident on Clarke's side-road east of the city last night. Half way along the road, which is between the two Gores, a motor car with five passengers struck the edge of a culvert and was thrown 6 feet into the ditch, the car turning over.

The passenger, two women, two men and one child, were severely bruised and badly shaken up, while the car is almost a complete wreck. The car is owned by a widow who is taking steps to recover from the county. She states that the road has been washed away from the culvert, and that the spot is extremely dangerous.

TRUSTEES DEFEND DANCING IN SCHOOLS

Believe Careful Supervision
Leaves Students Less Liable to Harm.

Which is the better, to dance under proper supervision or have the young people of the city visit the dance halls where the supervision is not of the strictest kind?

This was the question made by several members of the board of trustees to the statement that Baptists of Ontario and Quebec had protested against the use of school premises for dancing purposes in Toronto.

The protest was based on the statement that the board was receiving money from taxation for the use of school premises for dancing purposes in Toronto. The protest was ordered filed by the Toronto board.

Locally there is no dancing at all in the primary public schools, but in the secondary schools there is usually one, possibly two, social gatherings a year, and the students per year, at which dancing is permitted.

Complaint has been made by the citizens as a whole on this matter, although Ed. Smith, chairman of last year's board, stated that the Lord's Day Alliance had tried to prevent one dance being held. The board, however, allowed the gathering.

The feeling of the members of the board is that when the pupils dance at the school they are doing so under proper supervision, and there is no chance for the slightest degree of immorality to creep in, a close watch being kept on all the dancers and the style of dancing. At the dance halls it is not possible to do this so thoroughly, and the board, therefore, feel that as far as this matter is concerned there can be no objection based on sound principles.

Freshmen and Sophomores Fight For Flag Tomorrow

Initiation Ceremonies at Western
This Year To Take
Form of Flag Rush.

WHO BUYS SUPPER?

Class Superiority and "Eats" Depend Upon Outcome of Students' Struggle.

"Freshmen wear old clothes tomorrow."

This ominous notice, in large capitals, is prominently displayed just inside the main entrance to Western University, where it may be seen by all who pass through.

To the mind of the freshie the warning conjures up thoughts of dire happenings and tortures of the most refined kind, betokening, as it does, the initiation of those students who have entered the realm of higher education.

Tomorrow morning the annual initiation will take place, after which the new students can consider themselves full-fledged members of the student body, and although not quite on a par with seniors and juniors, and as such entitled to all the privileges of the university, both social and otherwise.

At a meeting of freshmen held on the campus this morning the details of the "awful day" were decided on, and the students in their blue and white robes manifested an imposing appearance as they gathered to discuss what shape the ordeal should take.

Following the request of the faculty that no rough handling tactics be adopted, it was unanimously decided to stage the initiation in the form of a flag rush, this being quite suitable to the occasion, combining, as it does, offensive and defensive tactics, to say nothing of strategy and fun.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the "fresh" will be given a flag, which will be hoisted on a standard on the campus. They will then form a ring around it and attempt to keep it safe from the sophs, who will attack in a body and endeavor to haul it down, thereby showing their superiority over the newcomers.

The discussion between the freshmen, their counsel and the magistrate was anything but quiet, but after a time peace prevailed, the magistrate announcing the case had been settled since die. The freshmen will try to learn to live together again.

Must Conserve Health of L. G.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Mr. Lloyd George is over sixty; he must be as fit when he returns to England as he was when he left it. We cannot afford to take risks from fatigue and exposure at his age. He is an extraordinarily healthy man, but, like other men, he needs good care. We do not want the tour to impair his health, for he will have much to do on his return to Britain.

That was the official explanation given by Sir Alfred Cope, chief secretary to Lloyd George, of the sudden curtailment of the Ottawa visit.

LEARN FAMILY JARS AGAIN BEFORE COURT

Wilton Grove Couple Settle Differences After Conference With Magistrate.

The troubles of Mrs. Mabel Learn and her two children, of Wilton Grove, again occupied the attention of Magistrate Graydon in police court this morning. Last Wednesday the family troubles of the Learns were aired at great length, and ended with an agreement that Mr. Learn was not to ask his daughter to milk the cows, while things were to be made easier for the young son of the family who helped his father on the farm.

Mr. Learn, a doctor, stating through her counsel, Albert Judd, that the son had been forced to work until 11:30 at night around the farm.

"He is continually abusing his wife, and working the boy till 11:30 at night," said Mr. Judd, in referring to Mr. Learn.

Magistrate heaved a long-drawn sigh, and intimated that the matter better be talked over in his office.

The discussion between the Learns, their counsel and the magistrate was anything but quiet, but after a time peace prevailed, the magistrate announcing the case had been settled since die. The Learns will try to learn to live together again.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1923.

The Fire Department.

The recommendation of the Citizens' Research Institute that the fire chief in London be given full and positive authority to run the fire department sounds reasonable.

The inference in the report is that there has been too much of a beaten track between the fire department and the city council chamber.

A fire chief should receive his commission from the city council. He should be held responsible for the performance of his department. If he does not function under those conditions he should leave and make room for a man who could.

The chances are that Fire Chief Aitken, or any other chief, would ask nothing more than to be allowed to work under such conditions.

There have been cases where rulings by the chief, or the changes he made in the placing of his men, have been taken up by members of the city council within a few hours of their occurrence. They have asked the chief for his reasons, and have argued about the advisability.

London does not elect any man as an alderman for this purpose. An alderman can find plenty of things to do without touching or interfering with a department that is entirely removed from his province.

Dr. Brittain says there should be no firemen's union. If membership in that union interferes with the men's attention to their duty, or if it brings in a third party between the chief and his men, then that clause deserves serious thought. A fireman accepts a serious responsibility, and the public look to him for the same devotion to duty that they see in a soldier.

We do not question the right of any body of men to organize to better their condition, but there are certain callings where public interest is a prior claim. Priority, or promotion by length of service, is one of the unctions of contention in many fire halls, but it does not follow that a man should get a captaincy because he has been there longest. Another man might have spent his spare time fitting himself for promotion, or he might have qualities of leadership that others did not possess. These matters should be determined by the chief if he is to be held responsible for the conduct of the department.

In brief Dr. Brittain finds that the chief of the fire department should run the place as chief in fact as well as chief in name. That view is so palpably apparent that the wonder is that it was necessary to bring in an outside agency to say so.

A Common Understanding.

The imperial conference has not succeeded in writing down in definite chapter and verse just how the various dominions in the empire shall function both as units and as one concerted whole when the case warrants.

The Canadian Parliament, as far as the people of Canada are concerned, is the supreme governing body in this country, and other dominions hold the same respect for their governmental institutions. The premier of Canada has established the point—and we believe the great majority of Canadians agree with him—that Canada cannot agree in a war outside the Dominion without the consent of parliament.

The chief difficulty in formulating a policy whereby Canada, South Africa, Australia and other dominions would take identical action in a European crisis is that we are not acquainted with the situation. It is a long way removed, and none of these dominions have ambassadors or representatives on the spot. They all depend more or less on reports from London, where there is not a unity of opinion on even the greatest and most acute problems, such as the last Near East crisis or the Ruhr situation. Politics and diplomacy get very much tangled up at times, and it is hard to see where one stops and the other starts. Thus it is impossible to have a clear, disinterested lead on such matters from London.

There is something significant in the fact that some representatives at the conference are also on the roster of the League of Nations. There they sit representing a nation; in the imperial conference they take a seat representing a nation within an empire. It is a relationship based on faith and trust, which is stronger than parchment documents; it is a link made of common ideas, of a passion for liberty and a genius for government, for all of which it is hard to substitute a book of rules.

We Need More Planning.

A London property owner, in a letter to The Advertiser, complains of the way his taxes have increased. His house is on a 40-foot lot, and a pavement was put down in front of his place. He finds that the assessment for this makes a larger addition to his tax paper than he had anticipated.

While it means more in taxes, the amount is not very great when compared to other cases. He is getting the use of the pavement, and it has added to the value of the street, and so to the value of his property. He lives on a street that is well built up.

Compared to some other cases, this ratepayer has no grievance at all. Here are some people who have a grievance:

The owner of a corner lot on Quebec street, in the annexed district, assessed at $100, the tax on which used to be $1.50 at the special 15-mill rate. This year he was presented with a bill of $68.59 for sewer, grading, water and oil on the street.

A little farther along the same street is a vacant lot assessed at $100, the taxes on which are $61.78. At the corner of Richmond and Huron streets is a vacant lot, 136 x 130, assessed at $2,720, on which the general tax rate is $94.30. The extras are: Sewer, $121.23; sidewalk, $9.33; pavement, $95.91; curb, $5.23; street cleaning, $9.52; garbage, $3.26, or a total levy on this lot of $338.92.

On another Richmond street lot is a house in which the same family have lived for almost 40 years; they went away on the outskirts of the city at that time in order to get some cheap land and live comfortably. The income is limited. The house is assessed at $3,050, which gives a tax rate of $105.83. With local improvements added it brings the figure up to $380.57, an amount away beyond the ability of this pioneer house to pay. There is an extra lot, and of course it will be remarked, "Why don't they sell it?" The answer is that the "For Sale" sign is there, and has been there for months. The taxes keep the buyers away.

A vacant lot on St. George street, between Victoria and Regent, assessed at $875, general tax rate at 34 mills makes $30.36; the bill this year is for $128.92; sewer and side drains were laid there. Perhaps the most outstanding case is a lot with 260 feet frontage on the Pipe Line road. It is assessed at $1,200 and the general tax rate levy plus war tax is $45.33; the local improvement taxes from paving amount to $138.55 per year. These two put together mean that this man is paying, not a 34-mill rate, but 179.9 mills. Next door is another vacant lot, on which the general tax rate is $4.48; it is assessed at $130, and the bill this year is $52.55.

These cases could be continued, but they would only furnish more evidence of a similar character. A measure of relief has been granted in some cases where the debentures are now changed from a ten to twenty year basis.

It all goes to show the need for greater attention to town planning, and the confining as much as possible of local improvements to districts that are settled sufficiently to warrant the expenditure. London covers enough ground for three times its present population. It should be possible to look far enough ahead in these matters so that no property holder who is using his land for living purposes should suddenly be brought face to face with a bill that will want to make him sell out.

Note and Comment.

Standing shoulder to shoulder in a common cause means the way the canned peaches and the strawberry jam line up on the fruit cellar shelves.

Lloyd George is hoarse. There are a good many thousands of us who would mind being hoarse if it were from shouting a welcome to him.

Youngsters in school are taught that a straight line is the shortest distance between two given points. In later years they learn that a detour is the longest line between two driven points.

A girl in Cincinnati sues for $5,000 because she says she was squeezed by a man on a crowded street car. Most men don't realize that they are bestowing a $5,000 gift every time they indulge in that national pastime.

Another good farmer has been killed by an infuriated bull, this time near Dundalk. The more these cases appear the more one sees the reason for the iron cages in which these animals are kept on stock farms in this district.

Riding over the section of new roadbed on Richmond street is a treat. Good tracks make all the difference, for a very ancient chariot gets along on the new road in great style, whereas a new street car on old track is painful transportation.

A PROTEST.
All the pretty brides are raving.
You can't satisfy their craving.
Every penny they are saving
For this antiquated stuff.
Any old, decrepit table,
Resurrected from a stable,
Can be sold to Waud and Mabel,
If it's only old enough.

For it seems, someone has spoken
That a chair that's bent and broken,
Is a sure, unfailing token
Of a fine, artistic sense.
So each antique dealer's haunted
By sweet brides who are undaunted,
Paying any price that's wanted,
To these walnut vending gents.

And while wives make close inspection
Of each second-hand collection,
Husbands rave and rant objection,
But the girls don't give a hoot.
Yet if any man commanded
That his bride wear second-handed Shoes and blushing, he'd be branded
As a cruel, unfeeling brute.

As a matter of fact, antiques are so expensive that by the time a man is able to afford them he is an antique himself.

Waves of indignation against an investigation of the fire department have subsided now that Dr. Brittain's report is out. You might say that Brittain rules the waves.

The Yankees are favorites to win the series. With Ruth on the lineup their attack will be ruthless.

Some wives miss their husbands when they are away, but others are mighty good shots when they are at home.

A little song of autumn is crooning in my ear:
The soft refrain of falling rain,
The wind across the mere,
The boughs in orchards swaying
And nuts that patter down,
The bushes gray that stir and sway
Above a hedge-row brown.

A little song of autumn is humming today.
A moth awing a wayside spring,
A field mouse soft and gray,
A coolish breeze creep o'er me
And as I sat and shivered Beside the glen I wondered when My coal would be delivered.

Since hearing the jokes in a burlesque show we can appreciate why there are bald-headed rows. After standing on and so often the hair simply drops off through sheer exhaustion.

The whereabouts of two drowned men was discovered by Prof. Menoreau by smearing bread with clay. The professor would have saved himself a lot of work if he had dealt from our baker.

They are using ammonia on rebellious convicts in Kentucky to put them to sleep. Why not sauté in extracts from Mr. Meighen's speeches.

It's autumn in the country now. The leaves are red and gold,
And beauty lies in flaming guise
On oak trees staunch and old.
The frost has blighted everything
That in the garden grew.
But chestnuts brown are falling down,
And autumn skies are blue.

It's autumn in the country now. Against October's sky
A spiral gray floats out today,
The smoke is rising high.
Inside the apple jelly drips,
And cider's in the press.
The kittens steal indoors to feel
The warmth and coziness.

It's autumn in the country now. October trips with scarlet lips,
In blue and amber gown!
The cornfields soon will lie knee deep
In snow's white mystery.
But autumn's in the country now.
Right where I long to be!

SILLY STREAKS IN WISE MEN.
So doth a little folly him that is in reputation.—Ecclesiastes x., 1.
Wisdom in the abstract is perfect, rounded and complete.
But wisdom in the concrete, as we find it embodied in those whom we call wise men, always has cracks in it.
There are faults in the gold-bearing vein.
For example, the silly streak in Solomon's most sagacious of kings, seems to have been his insatiable fondness for the fair sex.
It is not our place to judge and condemn the personal passions and prejudices of the wise. But we shall do well to recognize them as weak points.
The fortunate thing is that they seldom coincide. When we put them side by side they tend to correct and neutralize one another.
That is what is meant by the proverb, In a multitude of counselors there is safety.
It is not because the many know more, but because when they meet together they joyfully detect and expose one another's silly streaks.
One person alone, in all history, is free from flaws. Read Sidney Lanier's poem, "The Crystal." Remember what Pontius Pilate said of Jesus:
"I find no fault in him."

Your Health: Why You May Not Suffer With a Floating Kidney.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
Many diseases are called by odd or striking names. I suppose the first doctor to discover an ailment has the right to label it. He is in a sense the father of the ailment and should have the parent's right to give it a name.

"Floating" or "wandering" kidney is a name you frequently hear. This is one of the peculiarly named diseases I have in mind. An ailment has the right to label it. He is in a sense the father of the ailment and should have the parent's right to give it a name.

You might have a floating kidney all your life and suffer little or no discomfort. This particular type is known as a "floating" kidney. By this I mean that the attachments which should hold the kidney in place have been lacking from early life.

In any case of floating kidney these tissues are very lax. The blood vessels may be unusually long, lessening their support. In one way and another the kidney surroundings lack the binding and holding qualities they should possess.

There are many causes for acquired floating kidney. An injury to the back, such as a blow or a fall, may loosen it. Once in a great while the relaxation of the abdominal walls after pregnancy may be followed by displacement of the kidney.

In the old days, when they were worn, the use of tight corsets was supposed to be a factor. As I have said, some people with floating kidney suffer very little. Others may have severe, spasmodic pains and soreness in the kidney region. The fact that it is movable and creates pressure on other organs causes reflex pains in the abdomen and back.

The dangerous thing is the possibility of twisting, with compression of the ureter—the tube which carries away the urine. Such a complication would cause the fluid to accumulate within the kidney with the obvious effect of such a condition.

PRESBYTERIANS AND CHURCH UNION.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Dr. E. Scott's war-whoop in the press calling upon all Catholics, as well as Protestants, to "oppose in parliament" (his own words) the church union scheme as unconstitutional reminds me of Euclid's Hædionian satire on the "Presbyterian true blue" who "proved his doctrine orthodox by apostolic blows and knocks" on the drum of ecclesiasticism. The banner he waves, however, is not "true blue," but amazingly streaked with the red of the anarchist! His lurid terms for the general assembly—always addressed as "the venerable," but branded by him as "iniquitous"—indicate that, despite scripture, he is not afraid to speak evil of dignities. It is, he says, "scrapping the church, wiping it out forever, winding it up, selling it up," compelling the faithful to "get out, homeless, on to the street," although he knows that equitable provision is made for non-concurring congregations to retain their property and share in church funds.

What crazy rascals they must be, these moderators, the 427 majority members of last assembly, almost all members of the Free Church of Scotland, our foreign missionaries and college professors! But parliament can be relied upon (with proper push and pull) to bring them to their senses! Catholics must join in the parliamentary fight for "religious liberty vs. despotism," else, he tells them, "your turn may be the next to have your church scrapped"—an evil bid for the rescue of the minority of Quebec Catholics. We might let him go on thus; he is doing fine, alienating moderate men from extremist courses. But the assembly's pastoral to the church, signed by Principal Gandier as moderator, did not appear in your pages, and your readers must not be left to Dr. Scott's perversion of it.

The authority of the Presbyterian church in its stated courts is repudiated. Dr. Scott and his company are detroning the general assembly. It was, according to the Presbyterian Church Association, "in no sense a representative body, and its action, therefore, could not bind the church at large." Is that self-appointed association more representative of the church than the assembly?

Dr. Scott says that Dr. Gandier in the assembly's pastoral "does not even refer to the people; to him the people are nowhere; not worth mentioning; to be kept quiet till tied hand and foot." Is there a blind spot in his eye, or how? The pastoral, in plain words, cites "overwhelming majorities of our people," etc. He and his company would not accept the vote of the people who it was twice given, and try to excite blind passion by branding the assembly's action as "coercion."

Dr. Scott makes an addition to the constitution of the church, for there is no provision for consulting the people at all. Such questions must go down to Presbyteries, and no lower. The Free Church of Scotland never took a vote of the people before proceeding to union. He is not even a good Presbyterian; he would make us Congregationalists. More curiously still, he says the church is under "clerical despotism," yet he knows that all our courts are equally composed of ministers and laymen.

Dr. Scott's other plea contradicts and undercuts his appeal to the people in claiming that constitutionally it was beyond its power for the assembly or church to decide for union at all. He says, "the church has no provision for its own disbanding (a word I challenge); all the constitutional steps are for its own continuance." On this principle the people, no matter how big the vote, could not legally determine for union. Sending down the question to the people was a fool's errand, for union was blocked in advance by the absence of provision for it. Why did not unionists, instead of debating the question as if it were valid, enter an injunction to prevent any vote being taken in either courts or congregations? It was only when defeated in church courts that they fortunately discovered the whole thing illegal.

Some associates of Dr. Scott would have liked to unite with the Anglicans, and I led in negotiations for a larger union. But such a union would be unconstitutional; according to Dr. Scott we can never unite with any other body! So here our church is stuck perpetually.

What is really at stake now is the spiritual freedom of the church. Is it free to adjust the expression of its prevailing mind upon creed and government, or is it in the grip of the "dead hand" of the church union? Is the church union to be prevented by parliament or by legislation? Having failed in the church courts these extremists are to appeal to Caesar or the secular arm to override the assembly and thwart the will of the church. Dr. Scott even invokes Catholics to oppose it in parliament. The enabling bill deals only with property interests and civil matters, and if extreme anti-unionists are going to manipulate political powers to overthrow the spiritual freedom of the church in respect of union itself—such ecclesiastical sedition will surely set the heather on fire.

All honor to brethren who on conscientious grounds must stay out of the union to their own and our distress; but if they temporarily thwart union do they suppose the three conferring churches will throw up their hands?

I am not thrashing the merits of church union, on which I have my own personal difficulties, which were finally overborne by the larger interests of the church and country. Every one was free to maintain his own opinions up to the last ditch at the recent assembly. But it is quite another matter when the church, through the assembly, is robbed of authority and loyal adhesion, and may be overridden by Erasmians whose final trust is in parliament. Yours

FEAR FOR RECOVERY OF ACCIDENT VICTIM

Mrs. William Chapman in a Serious Condition in Victoria Hospital.

Little hope is held for the recovery of Mrs. William Chapman, 55, Globe street, who is now in Victoria Hospital as a result of injury received when she was thrown from a street car several weeks ago. Hospital authorities report that Mrs. Chapman has not rallied since her accident. Mrs. Chapman, two weeks ago last Saturday, fell to the pavement from

JARED VINING'S CONDITION SHOWS MUCH IMPROVEMENT

Jared Vining, chairman of the public utilities commission, who underwent an operation for appendicitis in Victoria Hospital yesterday afternoon, was this morning reported by officials of that institution to be getting along splendidly.

Mr. Vining was taken to Victoria Hospital at noon yesterday, and was operated on at 4 o'clock. He has been suffering from several mild attacks recently, and Dr. Grant, his physician, thought it advisable to operate before an acute attack set in.

HEALTH FOR WORKING WOMEN

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You to Become Well.

Thousands of girls have to work in homes, offices, stores, mills or factories who are physically unfit for work, with often an aged or invalid father or mother dependent upon them for support. Standing all day week in and week out, or sitting in cramped positions a girl often contracts some deranged condition of her organic system which calls a halt to her progress and demands restoration to health before she can be of use to herself or any one else.

For these distressing weaknesses and derangements these girls have found health to do their work in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

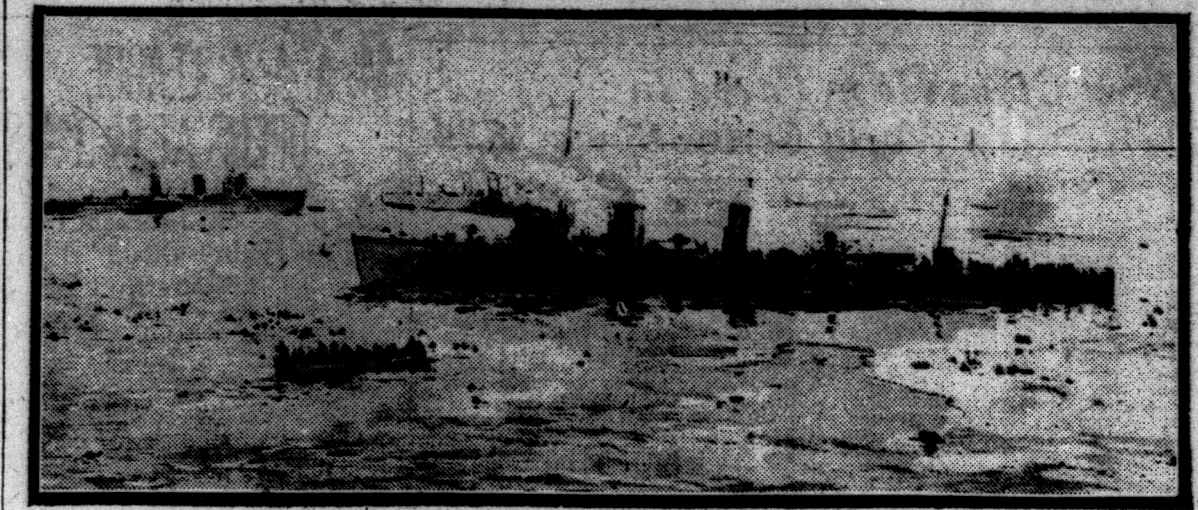

Toronto, Ont.—"My work is to run a power-machine which is very heavy, and I had a pain in my left side and a weakness caused by getting my feet wet. It was only a few days later when I saw your advertisement in the paper and began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash. The pain left my side and the weakness disappeared after I took the first bottle of Vegetable Compound, but I took five in all and used two of the Wash. I didn't have a physician and I didn't take any other medicine. If this letter will help you you may use it."—Mrs. KATY KELLY, 21 Sullivan St., Toronto, Ont.

Nova Scotia Woman Helped. Scotsburn, N. S.—"I have been bothered for over three years with a weak side caused by female illness. At times it has bothered me so that my side ached so I could feel it way to my toes. I took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it helped me considerably, and I intend taking more as I know the results will be good. I saw the medicine advertised in the newspapers, and before I had finished the first bottle of it, noticed a difference in my health. I hope every woman who has female troubles will try it."—Mrs. JOHN R. McLEOD, R.N.I., Scotsburn, N. S.

Pains In Side

Portreeve, Sask.—"My sides would get so sore and pain so that I would be unable to move around. I felt just as if there was a weight bearing on the abdomen down. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound from a neighbor who took it, and that soreness has left me. I live on a farm and have housework to do. If this letter will help any woman who suffers from female troubles you can use it. I know of no better medicine than the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. G. MATTICE, Portreeve, Sask.

Churchill Selects Fleet To Force the Dardanelles

Precautions Taken To Guard Against Results of Defeat—No Dissenting Voice in Outlining of Fateful Plans.

By RT. HON. WINSTON CHURCHILL. I now called for definite plans and orders to be worked out by the staff, and I outlined the fleet that was evidently available for the operation.

First sea lord, Chief of staff.

January 12.

"(1) The forcing of the Dardanelles as proposed, and the arrival of a squadron strong enough to defeat the Turkish fleet in the Sea of Marmora would be a victory of first importance, and change to our advantage the whole situation of the war in the East.

"(2) It would appear possible to provide the force required by Admiral Carden without weakening the margins necessary in home waters, as follows:

"Ocean, Swiftsure and Triumph (already in or assigned to this theatre).

"Vengeance, Canopus (from the Atlantic).

"Albion (from the Cape).

"Caesar and Prince George (from Gibraltar).

"Victorious, Mars, Magnificent, Hannibal (already ordered to be dismantled at home).

"Queen Elizabeth (detailed for gunnery preparation at Gibraltar).

"Inflexible (ordered to Mediteranean to relieve Indefatigable).

"Indefatigable (already on the spot).

"Thus no capital ship would be ordered from home waters, except four already ordered to be dismantled.

"(3) The above takes no account of four French battleships on the spot, and six others reported available.

"(4) Operations could begin on February 1, by long-range fire from Queen Elizabeth on forts at the entrance. It is not necessary to develop the full attack until the effect of the first stage of the operation has become apparent. All arrangements should be secretly concerted for carrying the plan through, the seaplanes and ancillary craft being provided. Admiral Carden to command.

"Definite plans should be worked out accordingly. W. S. C."

Lord Fisher approved this minute, and himself at a later date (February 9) added to the proposed fleet the two quasi-dreadnought battleships, the Lord Nelson and the Agamemnon. This was a great reinforcement, and involved a diminution to that extent in the margin of the grand fleet.

On January 23 I brought the project before the war council. I circulated Admiral Carden's telegram twenty-four hours beforehand to its principal members, including, of course, the prime minister and Lord Kitchener.

Proposed Action in Adriatic. Lord Fisher and Sir Arthur Wilson were both present. Neither made any remark and I certainly thought that they agreed. The decision of the council was, however, as was recorded in the following curious form:

"That the admiralty should consider promptly the possibility of effective action in the Adriatic at Cattaro or elsewhere—with a view (inter alia) of bringing pressure on Italy.

"That the admiralty should also prepare for a naval expedition in February to bombard and take the Gallipoli Peninsula with Constantinople as its objective."

I had now become deeply interested in the enterprise, and nothing but new facts and reasons, the merit of which might convince me, would turn me from pressing it forward.

I now proceeded to open the matter to the French government with whom among other things the question of the command in the Mediterranean required readjustment.

At the same time, while giving decided orders and allowing no doubt or uncertainty to appear in the admiralty attitude, I was careful to preserve the means of breaking off the operation, if it began to miscarry.

First Lord to Lord Kitchener.

January 20, 1915.

"Until the bombardment of the Dardanelles forts has actually begun, we cannot tell how things will go. We must guard against the appearance of a serious rebuff, and we shall therefore at the outset, only use the battleships needed for the initial stage, keeping the rest of the fleet spread between Malta, Alexandria and Alexandretta, whence they can concentrate very quickly. It is also very desirable that the Alexandretta operation should be so timed as to be practically simultaneous with the attack on the Dardanelles, so that if we are checked at the Dardanelles we can represent that operation as a mere demonstration to cover the seizure of Alexandretta. I believe this aspect is important from an Oriental point of view.

"Could you therefore arrange this and let me have your Alexandretta dates? We are aiming at February 15 for opening fire on the Dardanelles."

"P. S. I am sending a copy of this to the prime minister to keep him informed."

Responsibilities. It will be seen that the genesis of this plan and its elaboration were purely naval and professional in their character. It was Admiral Carden and his staff gunnery officers who proposed the gradual method of piecemeal reduction by long-range bombardment. It was Sir Henry Jackson and the admiralty staff who embraced this idea and studied and approved its details. I outlined the resources at our disposal in the old battleships. But it was the staff who proposed the addition of the Queen Elizabeth, with all the possibilities that that ship opened out. It was the first sea lord who added the other two most powerful vessels, the Lord Nelson and the Agamemnon, to the Dardanelles fleet. At no point did lay or civilian interference mingle with or mar the integrity of a professional conception.

I write this not in the slightest degree to shift my own responsibility. But this was not where it lay. I did not and I could not make the plan. But when it had been made by the naval authorities and fashioned and indorsed by high technical authorities and approved by the first sea lord, I seized upon it, and set it on the path of action; and thereafter espoused it with all my resources. When others weakened or changed their opinion without adducing new reasons, I held them strongly to their previous decisions; and so in view of the general interest of the allies, thrust the business steadily forward into actual experiment.

TRUSTEES EXPLAIN REPUTED HIGH COSTS

Chairman Udy of School Board Replies to Criticism by Mayor Wenige.

Mayor Wenige knows the reason for the increase in board of education expenditures as well as anyone else, declared the chairman of the board, A. N. Udy, when informed that the chief magistrate had said it was time to call a halt in the spending of the board money.

Mayor Wenige said yesterday that, in accordance with statements by the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, it was time to call a halt. He also stated that from figures which he had compiled, it was seen that the expenditure in the years 1919-20-21 had totaled more than the amount spent in the ten preceding years. It was these figures which had impressed him with the need of considering the educational problems, increasing in size year by year.

"Of course the expenditures during the three years mentioned were high," stated the chairman. "These three periods followed on the heels of the war, when everything cost an abnormal price. For years before the war we had curtailed our expenditures as much as possible, with the result that there was insufficient accommodation for the school children of the city."

"During the war no building was carried on to take care of the gradually increasing school population, and consequently, in 1919, we found we would have to have more schools. The buildings then in use were congested, and children and parents dissatisfied with conditions. "While the school population had increased, expenditures likewise had taken a jump, everything having doubled or tripled in price. This was a natural condition consequent on the state of the country following a war, and was to be expected. Therefore, when we did start our building program, we had to cope with these high prices, and the consequence was increased expenditures."

"All of this was necessary to relieve the congestion, and although the amounts we have spent may seem to be high, we have only provided accommodation as it was necessary. "Furthermore," concluded Mr. Udy, "Mayor Wenige knows this as well as anyone else."

Trustees Silverwood and Smith said they would have to see the mayor's figures before expressing an opinion, but both of them were sure that any increased expenditures could be accounted for in a perfectly natural manner.

The Monthly Cheque — That Never Fails

How the Money was Lost

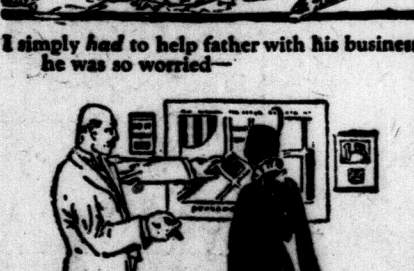

"You see I had only a few thousand dollars left after the estate was settled."

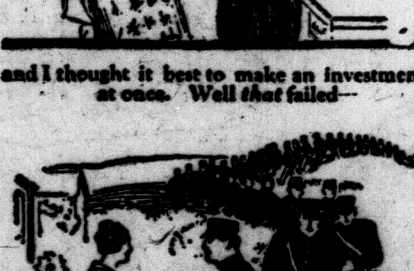

"and my brother borrowed some to help him along; of course that went and then—"

"I simply had to help father with his business. he was so worried—"

"and I thought it best to make an investment at once. Well that failed—"

"and, really, if it were not for the monthly income cheque from the Canada Life I don't know how I should be getting along now."

It is all so simple and effective!

Just a few dollars set aside regularly, and the Canada Life will guarantee to your home a continuous monthly income.

What a relief to know that no matter what may happen, the monthly cheque that never fails, issued regularly by the Canada Life, will come to your home!

"Your present Life Insurance will perhaps "clear the mortgage," pay off the obligations of your estate, and leave something for your family, but

Consider This:

Financial problems should not be thrust upon a woman who is not used to business deals.

Therefore in addition to a "lump sum" of money, you should provide a definite income that cannot fail—

Because a weekly or monthly income is the natural thing for most people—

And a woman can keep a family together on even a small income, provided it is regular.

Moreover, the hands of unscrupulous men are always outstretched for money held by the unwary.

The Monthly Income Plan

Will solve the problem.

Only a few dollars saved and set aside from your regular earnings can be multiplied into a substantial income for your Beneficiary. You will be surprised to learn what a reasonable proposition can be made to you.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means
You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful efforescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

WANT LEGITIMATE PLAYS CENSORED

Members of London W. C. T. U.
U. Will Forward Resolution
To Provincial Government.

SCORE LIQUOR LAW

The local W. C. T. U. in session yesterday afternoon passed a resolution which will be forwarded to the provincial government. The resolution asks that the government appoint a censor to oversee the spoken or legitimate play, in the same manner as the moving picture drama is censored.
It was felt that even more harm could be done where the actual players were seen than where there were pictured representations. The resolution came as the outcome of a lively discussion on the poorer type of legitimate play.

Government control of liquor was another subject which came under the censorship of the W. C. T. U. members yesterday. The subject was introduced by Mrs. May R. Thornley, who read a letter from Dr. E. I. Hart of Montreal, who is secretary of both the Dominion prohibition federation and the Quebec Province prohibition federation. The letter stated that those who knew of the bad conditions in Quebec could not exaggerate them too greatly, that drinking was on the increase and that the number of houses storing and purchasing liquor were multiplying. Women patrons were becoming very numerous.

Bottle a Day.
"Only a bottle a day of spirits is allowed by law to each buyer coming to the government dispensary," states the letter, "but the way the law works is that persons desiring two or more bottles a day, simply go out of the dispensary door and come back in again as new customers."
Bootleggers who want a large supply of liquor to send it to Ontario or across the border into the United States, hire a squad of loafers for a few cents each, to go into the dispensary two or three times and get their "bottle a day."

Mrs. Thornley pointed out that government control had been proved a failure and should by no means be considered for Ontario. Her talk was followed by a discussion on the subject, strongly against any introduction of government control to this province.

Accusing Mayor Wenige with fail-

the Front street breakwater had not been repaired, as promised by his worship before elected to office.

Mr. Smith declared the mayor had not been sufficiently interested to go down to Front street this year. The latter denied the accusation, however, and said he had been there in rubber boots.

To-day I saw

Among the latest arrivals which I saw today are the new books of personal greeting cards for Christmas.
Cards in gray and white and cream, with plain, gilt and delectable edges. Several appropriate verses are suggested for your choice and similar type will be used in the inscription of your name.

The cards are carefully adorned with conventional designs of bright holly berries and evergreens and candles. Some of the very prettiest have quaint old English scenes in water colors, coaches and prancing steeds, old inns, postillions, poke bonnets, and bare trees etched against a winter sky.

The new features which will be popular are the three letter monogram, and the tissue fold inner envelope with its gay colored lining. Do you want your cards engraved? Just bring your nameplate to us, or let us have one made for you.

The card counter will be such a crowded place a little later. Why don't you make your selection of Christmas cards now leisurely and unhurried?
And it is so convenient, too—right on the Main Floor.

of Front street sewerage," the mayor said. "There was no promise to fix up the breakwater."

When the sewerage changes are complete Mr. Smith's complaint will be looked into, the committee decided.
Ald. Watt recommended that the city approach the county to go 50-50 on the cost of moving the London West boundary. The expense involved would amount to about $200.
The matter of rebuilding the Crystal Palace of Western Fair came up, and it was decided that Building Inspector Piper and the mayor should make a report on the project.

In order that street letter boxes would not be confused with fire-alarm boxes, the committee will ask the postoffice department to paint them green instead of red.

The juvenile court presented its estimates for the year. The cost of maintaining the court was shown to be $4,000.

"She doesn't seem to realize it's getting to

"Many's the Betty I could help. I know several good Departmental and Specialty vice for out-of-town people.

"In their advertising the descriptions of goods are written so that out-of-town cus-

"Some of them tell me they sell more of an

Wives Suffer From Selfishness
Dorothy Dix
Describes Men Who Commit Crimes
The Meanest Husband Is the Man Who Is Good Outside His Home, But Bad as Soon as He Is in It—He Breaks His Wife's Heart Slowly.

It is a curious thing that the virtues of the home and the virtues of the street are not always the same, and that many a good man is a bad husband. There are plenty of men so impeccable in their conduct in public that they are held up as examples for the youth of their community to imitate who commit crimes worse than murder against their wives and children.

I have known men honest to the last farthing in all their dealings; men who would have scorned to have given a false weight or measure or misrepresented the goods they had to sell; men who would have died rather than betray a trust or accept a bribe; men who would have cut off their right hand rather than let any tainted money stick to it.

Yet these men, who are so honest with other people's money, are not fair enough to give their wives one single penny of the money they earn by working fourteen hours a day for them and their children. I have seen the wives of these men humiliated into the dust because they did not have an extra nickel with which to pay a friend's street car fare, or a quarter with which to treat the women to soda water who were always buying soda water for them. I have seen these women cringe with fear, like beaten dogs, when they had to present the monthly bill to their husbands. I have seen these women insulted almost beyond human endurance when they went like mendicants to their husbands asking for the money they had earned ten times over.

I have seen honest men such tightwads in their own families that they made their wives and children steal and lie to get the things they were entitled to have, and that their fathers and husbands could afford to give them, and were too stingy to give them.

I have known men who were sober as the town pump. Men who proudly boasted that they had never touched liquor or tobacco in any form. Men who had never played a game of cards for money, or gone to a horse race. Men who were pointed out to the young as models of temperance that they should follow.

I have seen these men give way in their own homes to bursts of temper that were temporary insanity. I have heard them curse and swear like madmen over such a trivial thing as a burnt roast, or too salty soup. I have seen their wives fawn and flatter, trying to keep them in good humor, and using almost superhuman dexterity to keep any topic out of the conversation that would ruffle their husbands' sensibilities.

In such households I have seen the children hush their prattle the minute their father's key sounded in the latch, and seen them sneak away to where his eye would not fall upon them, in the hope that they might that way escape his wrath. I have seen them sit silent and hushed at the table, hoping against hope that he would not single them out for his tirades, and when they had to ask him if they might go somewhere, or do something that they desired to do, I have seen them shake as a criminal might in the presence of a hanging judge.

I have known moral men who were faithful to their marriage vows. Men who never philandered with a pretty woman, or took a second look at any petticoat except those hanging on their own wash line. Men who were vamp-proof.

But I have seen these same men as cold and hard as a rock to their own wives. I have seen these men let their wives starve and die for a little appreciation, a little tenderness, a little love. I have known many of these men who never spoke to their wives after they were married except to find fault with them, never to notice or praise anything that was well done, but to have an eagle eye for every blunder and every mistake. I have known these men never to take their wives out to any place of amusement, never to devise any pleasure for them, never even to take them a present.

I have known men who were spoken of as "such good men." They were so friendly. So kindly to everyone. They always visited the sick, and went to funerals, and headed donations. They were always so pleasant and companionable.

I have known men like that who took out all the nerves and temper they did not dare show customers and clients upon their families. Sometimes they were men who were too much gentleman to quarrel and curse, but they held a more lethal weapon over the heads of their wives and children. When anything displeased them for some unknown reason they would pass into the gloomy silence, a silence that froze everybody and everything and sent the temperature down to zero, and this would last for days and weeks.

I have known plenty of men who spoiled what might otherwise have been a happy home with their grouches, and made it a place of torment from which the children fled as soon as they were old enough to leave.

I contend that the meanest husband is the man who is good outside of the home and mean in it. He is the most contemptible bully and coward in the world, because he vents his spleen on the only people who are in his power, and helpless to defy him. He is the meanest husband because he respects the letter of the law of marriage, but breaks its spirit.

Not all the injuries are physical ones. A hurt heart can ache more than a wound. A bruised soul is worse than a black eye. Sarcastic speeches stab deeper than a knife. A man's selfishness is a more deadly rival than any vamp.

Although she comes from Sydney, N.S., she did not leave her heart there, but has brought it to this city, and will use it in the interests of London and the army.

CLUB NEWS

EMPRESS AVENUE CLUB.
The chief business which occupied the Empress Avenue Mothers' Club at the regular meeting last night concerned plans for the bazaar which the club will hold in November on the next regular meeting night. In this connection a number of showers will be held at the home of the members during October, among them a shower at the home of Mrs. Bryant, the president, 66 Forward avenue, on Oct. 15.
During the meeting the members discussed the subject of a new school for the district and expressed the hope that it would be soon forthcoming. Rex Fowler, principal of the school, urged co-operation between parents and teachers.
The chief speaker of the occasion was Miss Lorina Wade, a former pupil of the school, whose subject was "What I owe to my school." Miss Wade pointed out that no matter to what heights men attained, they owed it to their mothers. Mothers were character builders. During the late war, the men who had won honors had pinned their medals on the breasts of their mothers, saying that the honor was theirs.
The program also included an instrumental solo by Miss Alberta Seitzer.

LIBRARY CLUB.
Miss Marion Baxter presided at the meeting of the Library Club, held last night at the Public Library Building. Another meeting will be held in the near future to take up business laid over at last night's meeting, owing to the lack of a quorum.

HALE STREET CLUB.
The meeting of the Hale Street Mothers' Club last night was an enthusiastic gathering. No program was given, but a great amount of business was transacted. The members have arranged to auction off the monogram quilt at the November meeting, at which Mayor Wenlock will be the speaker. The members of the Wortley Road Mothers' Club will also be invited to be guests on that occasion.
A membership campaign was started at the meeting. Mrs. George Yull and Mrs. C. Austin being appointed captains. The membership campaign will continue until December. A quilting bee will be held at the home of Mrs. George Arm some time in October.

ENTERTAIN SOLDIER PATIENTS.
The management of Low's Theatre entertained the soldier patients of Queen Alexandra Sanatorium at their performance this afternoon.

LORD ROBERTS' MOTHERS' CLUB.
Dr. Frank Bryant was the speaker at the meeting of the Lord Roberts' Mothers' Club held at the school last night. His talk dealt with the necessity of co-operation between the home and the school. Dr. Bryant referred to the marked lack of seriousness in the present-day child. He wanted the parents to feel that it was just as important for the child to carry on his work at school as it was for the mother in her home or the father at his business. Miss Blanche Rowe, the school nurse, also spoke briefly at the meeting concerning the duties of the school nurse. Vocal solos by Miss Anna Clark completed the program. The club is planning to hold a grocery shower at the next meeting in aid of the Day Nursery.

GUIDE RALLY IN JANUARY.
The Girl Guide captains of the city met last night at the home of the local commissioner, Mrs. C. H. Hill, Wolseley Barracks, to make plans for the coming year's activities. It was decided to hold a guide rally some time about the end of January. The method by which the Guide band was given by Mrs. Allan McLean, will be completed for was discussed, but definite rules not yet laid down.

"Trust Emily," Farce Comedy, Will Open Season at End of October.

DRAMA LEAGUE mmm m mmm The cast for "Trust Emily," the farce comedy being produced by the Drama League at the opening meeting of the end of the month, has been chosen, with Miss Ella Mooto taking the leading role as Emily. Other members of the cast are Mrs. David Arnold, Miss Shirley Johnston, Miss Katherine Beltz, Miss Babbie Chisholm, Major Towers, Dr. Dearle, Marcus Auden and Kenneth Greene. "Trust Emily," which is an amusing little comedy in two scenes, with clever humor running through the story, promises to be most entertaining. It is being prepared by the production committee, with Mr. Sydney Sims as coach.

The league has launched a membership drive, and has set a membership of 1,200 as the objective. The membership ticket entitles the holder to admission to six club plays during the season, and to the public production with 50 per cent reduction.

EVANGELIST TORRIE DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

Worley Road Baptist Church was filled last night to hear Evangelist Torrie speak on the subject, "Can We Know Positively That We Are Saved?" The preacher proved clearly from the Bible that it is possible for us to know that we are born of God. The large choir, which has been rendering invaluable services in these meetings sang last night two selections from Mr. Torrie's new song book. Mr. A. G. MacCallum, soloist in Askin Street Methodist Church, also sang a solo which was much enjoyed by the congregation.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2. and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

AMALGAMATE TWO CHAPTERS.

Miss Eula White, regent of the Princess Patricia Chapter, I. O. D. E., and Miss Jessie Gillespie, regent of the Sir John Carling Chapter, whose amalgamation into one chapter was an important piece of business undertaken by the Municipal Chapter at their meeting this afternoon. The Sir John Carling Chapter, which has done such excellent work during the past few years, was really an offshoot of the Princess Patricia Chapter. The members have now returned their charter to the Municipal Chapter, and the plan is that they shall again become members of the mother chapter.

University Women Dine At Highland Golf Club

Organize Book Club at First Meeting of Season—Miss Margaret Coyne Gives Travel Talk.

The Highland Golf Club was the scene of a happy dinner party last night given by the University Women's Club. Covers were laid for nearly forty. Among those present were many new members, as well as many of the club members of the past few years. As this was the first gathering together of the club since the spring, the evening was largely spent in friendly talk. A delightful feature, however, was a travel talk by Miss Margaret Coyne of St. Thomas, who told of her Mediterranean trip last winter.

Among the very interesting places which she described was the old home of Thomas Carlyle in Scotland, which she visited as the guest of this distinguished author's nephew, Mr. Andrew Carlyle, who, by the way, is a Toronto University graduate and was a college friend of Dr. Coyne, the speaker's father, who was also his guest in Scotland.

Miss Coyne's description of Cairo, a modern city with its wide, clean streets, was very vivid. She contrasted it sharply with other eastern cities, dirty and congested, and gave the credit for Cairo's modernness to the thirty years of British occupation there. She pointed out, however, the great necessity for military protection in this part of the world, mentioning especially Constantinople as an unsafe city for unprotected British people.

Her description of the massive pyramids of Egypt and her ascent to the chamber of the king, high up in the solid mass of stone, was exceedingly interesting and vivid in its detail. Mrs. Shanks brought before the club two interesting suggestions. One was that a number of the club members should organize a book club with a view to circulating among the members the latest publications in book form. This suggestion was followed by the immediate organization of such a subsidiary club.

A second suggestion was that the members form themselves into small study groups to read plays or study along other lines. The idea will be further discussed at a coming meeting.

WALL STREET PRICES MOVING IRREGULARLY

No General Tendency in Either Direction; Anaconda Reaches Year's Low.

By STUART P. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.

Wall Street, New York, Oct. 10.—Today's market was another confused affair. At times there was renewed evidence of an oversold condition, with consequent short covering. At other times fresh selling broke out. The result was a highly irregular price movement, with no general tendency one way or the other.

Copper stocks had begun to weaken on the previous days, but today a severe drive was made against Anaconda, and the break in this stock was around 25, where it was at a new low for the year. One of the features of the market. Other copper stocks were more or less affected.

The trouble with Anaconda lies in the fact that the market for the stock was artificially supported at the time the convertible bond issue was brought out last winter. The public got the idea that Anaconda could not put in a new issue of conversion of the bonds, and that all events it would not be allowed to go down much below the minimum conversion figure of 100. On this theory a lot of outside buying occurred; and on this account, and because of the withdrawal of pool support, the market position of Anaconda has ever since been more vulnerable than that of other members of the group.

Oil shares went lower at the opening, some of them getting down as much as a point, but they rallied on the announcement of the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of fifty cents a share on Sinclair Consolidated. Sinclair stock itself, after selling below 18 at the start, ran up quickly to above 19. The street had looked for the dividend to be passed together. The action of the Sinclair directors was regarded as bullish in more solid quarters. Oil companies are not making much money at present prices, and there is usually large because of the need of carrying oil that could not be profitably marketed now. Consequently, the question was debated whether it could not have been decided by the Sinclair Company to withhold dividends.

Baldwin Locomotive and other equipment stocks were helped by a statement in the weekly trade reviews that the railroads were again in the market for large quantities. This foreboded an early pickup of business on the books of the rail and locomotive makers, provided the matter of prices could be adjusted satisfactorily. The rise in Baldwin Locomotive intimidated some of the shorts in other stocks of the same type such as American Woollen, Corn Products and American Can.

Cinderella Again.

Sheridan Is Amazed To Find In Terry His Little Cinderella

He would have taken Terry in his arms again, but very gently she pushed him back. "Wait!" she put him off. "Please—if you love me! There are things to say—for us both. It is true, what Mr. Nasio has said—just now when he came, and Mrs. Harkness and I were sitting by the river."

"So he found you first?" Miles exclaimed. "It was ten to one that he would—with the start he got. I suppose the brute told you what he started from. I don't know whether the last part's true or not, because I've only Nasio's word for it."

"We met when my car was in trouble, and he said he'd seen her in Algeria. Yale wired me that she was on board Silverwood. That's why I started in such a rage. I knew something must be up, and the sooner I faced it the better. Very likely it is true she's changed her mind, for I wouldn't have done Nasio much good, for long, to spring the story on me if there were nothing in it. But it was other things he told that brought me back to you."

"If it had been only the divorce, probably I'd have pounded on to Algeria faster than before—even at the price of letting him find you here alone. When I realized all you had done for me, I couldn't wait till tomorrow for your pardon, and to make sure I had your love whatever happened."

"Child, how could I have thought you were Juliet Divine? Why did I let an idea fix between my eyes and my common sense? I went blundering ahead, taking it for granted that you were what I expected you to be, in spite of your sweet, innocent ways, and a thousand things that ought to have shown me the fool I was. I misconstrued everything. I thought you were playing the ingenue for a purpose! I'd forgive me—I don't see how you ever can! But why, why did you take that woman's place on my yacht, and run such risks, and let me believe you were—what I did believe, even when love took me and tried to make me a decent man?"

"Why, I did it all because she said 'I could help you,' she explained, almost in a whisper. 'I loved you so much—I owed you so much—I would have done anything for you! I didn't realize at first quite what—that it would be like on the yacht, or how people would act—how hard it would be not to tell you the truth about myself. But I promised Julia not to tell, and I wouldn't—till I heard from her—Mr. Nasio hadn't told al-

A Hunter and His Dog Spies the Little Bob Whites

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The young Bob Whites had flown over into the wheat field, next to Farmer Brown's land. That is, all but one had. The smallest one had remained behind and had been laughed at by the others for so doing. It had been agreed that they should take turns watching for danger, especially for one of those two-legged creatures called men. But when they got there the very first one that was to keep watch spied a kernel of wheat on the ground and picked it up like a flash. It tasted so good that he kept looking around for another, and pretty soon he forgot that he was to keep watch.

This way and that the young Bob Whites ran about in the brown stubble, picking up the grains of wheat. It was several days since they had any and it did taste so good that they forgot everything but filling their stomachs. You see, they were not yet old enough in experience to think of more than one thing at a time.

When Bob White and Mrs. Bob White returned to where they had left the young Bob Whites on Farmer Brown's land they found only the smallest one. "Where are the others?" asked Bob White.

"The smallest one didn't want to tell. He hung his head and said he didn't want to be a tell-tale."

"You don't have to," said Bob. "I know where they are. They've gone over into that wheat field. I know it without being told."

His stout little wings whirled and Bob flew straight to the nearest fence post and anxiously looked over that wheat field. Of course, he couldn't see any of his children, for they were hiding in the brown stubble. But at once he did see something that made his heart sick. Just entering that wheat field from the other side was

The smallest one didn't want to tell.

A hunter, carrying a terrible gun. Ahead of him was a dog, running swiftly back and forth across the field, so as to cover every part of it. Bob gave the danger call, but it was too late. Even as he did it he saw that dog suddenly stand perfectly still, with one forefoot lifted. Bob knew that that dog had found those young Bob Whites. His fears were realized. You remember that he had told Peter Rabbit that he feared a hunter would some day find those young Bob Whites.

"Fly! Fly! Fly!" called Bob White. You see, he knew that if they flew instantly, before that hunter got any nearer, they would have a better chance to escape.

But the young Bob Whites did not fly. They had discovered the dog, but they had not seen the hunter. They imagined that because that dog did not move he had not yet discovered them, and so they squatted close to the ground where they were. And all the time that hunter was

ON LIFE—THE SPEED COP

Some MEN are like
MOTOR BUSES—
They COULD go fast,
But they seldom
Get the CHANCE,
For they are always
Being HELD UP
By heavy TRAFFIC,
Or other obstacles
Provided by wives
To prevent SPEEDING.
And it always seems
The poorer the man
The more "little passengers"
He picks up on his journey.
Some men may get TIRED out

And need constant attention.
But a man, like a motor bus,
Only gets enough to keep going,
For his wife remembers
He was EASY TO CATCH
And there are so many more
Exactly like him.
Rich men resemble expensive cars—
They are SELF-STARTERS
And run SMOOTHLY,
And often exceed ALL speed limits.
But eventually they, too, PAY—
For LIFE is the SPEED COP
Who gets everybody's number.

Mothers and Their Children

One Mother Says:

I am always very particular that the children's garters, knee bands and belts are perfectly comfortable. Children's clothes shrink and children grow. Each week I check up on the bands, to be sure none of them are binding.
