The Largest Single Shipment of Kid Gloves We Ever had has Just Reached Us

From our Leader Short Kid Glove at $1.00 a pair to the Longest Fashionable Length at $3.50 a pair, our stock is now absolutely complete.

Owing to the scarcity of skins and the consequent high prices it has been difficult to secure satisfactory Kid Gloves to sell at a reasonable price. We placed the order for these Gloves nearly one year ago and instructed the makers to take their time, give us choicest skins only and pay strict attention to the making. As a result of our foresight we have a perfect stock of perfect Kid Gloves in most correct and fashionable shades.

> Come in and see our assortment of Kid Gloves, you will be pleased with them.

received.
Several cases which had been look-ed into by the Ladies' Visiting Committee received the necessary attention. It was also decided to hold a sale of home-made cooking in H. A. Andrew's Store, on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 27 and 28. It is boped that all the members of the Society will contribute to this sale. After some minor discussion the meeting then adjourned.

PLEASANT DANCE

A most enjoyable dance was given at Orchard Home, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lesslie English, on Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Hortense Mattice, of Hamilton. The spacious drawing rooms were prettily decorated with banks of flowers in every corner. The excellent floors and Mr. Smith's music were enjoyed by about twenty-five couples.

were enjoyed by about twenty-five couples,
Among those present were, Mrs. H. Smith, the Misses Shannon, Foreman, Banning, Stephens, Merritt, Thompson, Campbell, VonGunten and McCorvie, and Messrs. Chinnisk, Benedict, Campbell, McCorvie, McDonald, O'Nell, Holmes, Williamson, Gillies, Baird, Walker and McPherson, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Lugsden, the Misses White, Morgan, Shep, of Blenheim, and Misses Jamieson and McPherson, of Detroit.

GIVEN AN ADDRESS

Mrs. W. D. Sheldon pleasantly en-tertained the members of Christ Church choir at her home last even-ing. The evening was spent in mu-sic, after which luncheon was serv-

During the evening Mr. Galloway, the retiring choir director of Christ Church, was presented with a beautifully worded address, as a token of the regret which the members of the choir felt on his departure, and their appreciation of his ability, and his untiring efforts while here. During the evening, Mr. Carrington, lately Curate of Christ Church, made the announcement that he is also leaving the city, as well as Ernest and Clarence Higley, two other esteemed members of Christ Church congregation. The Messrs. Higley will attend Trinity College, Toranto. Mr. Carrington, it is understood, is leaving for Quebec.

WHITNEY TO TOUR

The Toronto News says:
The probabilities are that Hon. J.
P. Whitney will hold a series of public meetings in various parts of Ontario during the coming autumn,
These meetings, it is understood, are to be somewhat unique in character. White they will necessarily be political, it is understood to be Mr. Whitney's desire to avoid the regular campaign or "stumping tour" for this series. The Prime Minister will in all probability travel atome, unaccompanied by any local or central campaign organizers or speakers. His idea, it is said, is to comfer and take counsel with the people on matters of past and prospective legislation, and give his account of the Government's stewardship.

It is not unlikely Mr. Whitney

Thamesville, Sept. 12. — Wm. Bedford, one of the best known farmers of this vicinity, was instantly killed this afternoon while threshing on the farm of a neighbor.

Bedford was standing near the threshing engine when suddenly the fly-wheel burst. One of the pieces struck the unfortunate man with terrific force, going right through his skull and penetrating the brain. The helpers hurried to his assistance and medical aid was summoned, but it was found that the unfortunate man had been instantly killed, Attorney-General of New Brunswick has the most official salary of $2,100, yet Mr. Pugsley-

It was never quite clear what he did for his stated salary since a large part of his legal services to the province were paid for in fee such as a leader of the bar might expect if he were in private life. When he came to Ottawa on affairs of the province he received a legal fee when he went to the Privy Council to argue a public case, he received a counsel's reward. of service as Provincial minister Mr. Pugsley continued his private practice, which was probably the largest and most remunerative of the provincy.

When Mr. Pugsley left the Provincial Government there were large financial obligations coming due. At last winter session he explained that this money could be borrowed easily at three and a half per cent. Meanwhile a large part of it was floating in the banks. Since then the banks have declined to make further advances and demanded repayment of overdrafts. In consequence the new Premier has been obliged to float a loan at five per cent., which is the highest rate of interest paid by a Canadian province or any loan floated during the last ten years and more. ### FAMILY WAS BESIEGED FAMOUS PRIZE STOLEN

Strange Eviction Scene At East Sheen range Eviction Scene At East Sneen
—Children Turned Into Roadway—
Indignant Crowd Hiss Wreckers—Piece By Piece the Cottage Was Pulled Down Until Nothing But

Extraordinary eviction scenes were witnessed at East Sheen, near Mortlake, when Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Somers and their four little children, who withstood the attacks of housebreakers for four days, were turned into the roadway, and their home demolished literally over their heads. The house, six-roomed tenement, standing alone in an orchard abutting on the Upper Richmond road at East Sheen and, known as Grover Cottage, is stated to have been given to the Somers family to occupy about four months ago, rent free, there being an understanding that they would not be molested for about a year. Six weeks ago Mrs. Somers learned that it was proposed to make a new road where the cottage stood, and that she and her family would be expected to leave. When, however, she spoke about this to the gentleman who allowed her the use of the house, she was told that she need not be concerned, as no one could turn her out but himself.

Men With Crowbars.

A few days age four men with crowbars and other housebreaking implements appeared at Grover Cottage, and requested the family to leave, as they were going to knock the premises down. Mrs. Somers, who is a young woman of about 30, refused to leave the place until she had got another, whereupon the workmen started to pull the house down. When they left off a lean-to at the rear was demolished, as well as the washhouse. The workmen returned to the work of demolition the next day, and attacked the roof, so that the family were driven into the rooms below. Later they came again, and began to tear away the remainder of the roof, and to pull to pieces the rooms on the ground floor, where the family were huddled togethed in great confusion. Men With Crowbars.

Crowd Was Hostile.

Each day the work of demolition was watched by a crowd of indignant people from Mortlake, and when the housebreakers left off at night they were loudly hissed by the hostile crowd. Driven from room to room, the family had nothing left of their six-roomed house but one on the ground floor. The roof was gone, and holes in the ceiling freely admitted the air. The doors and window-sashes had also been removed. In this room Mrs. Somers and her children passed the night on the floor wrapped up in blankets. The doors that had been torn from their hinges were brought back and propped up in their places, and these, with the drawn window-blinds, afforded some protection from the night air.

Driven Into the Street.

When on the last day the house-breakers appeared on the scene they at once began to demolish the only part of the property left standing. The sound of the crowbars woke the children. Mrs. Somers pleaded with the men to stay their hands until she had dressed the children and could get out. The request was refused, and she was accordingly obliged to take the children into the open air and dress them there. In order to expedite her retreat she declares that they covered up the chimney outlet with slats so that the smoke from a small fire that was burning filled the room.

Ceiling Knocked In.

Ceiling Knocked In. In a very short time the ceiling was nocked in, and then the four walls knocked in, and then the four walls were pushed down, and all that was left of Grover Cottage was a heap of bricks and mortar, laths, and plaster, which workmen were busy clearing away all the day. Mrs. Somers and four children wandered about Mortlake all the morning looking for a house, and, not being able to find one, a householder in Hampton square was them an awayter fewer them as a wayter fewer them.

Was Brought Off in Best Raffles' Style.

The theft of the Gold Cup at Ascot will take premier place in the history of daylight, robberies. Though in charge of an attendant and a constable this trophy, valued at $1,500, disappeared while their backs were turned for only half a minute.

The cup was brought to Ascot by a trusted servant of the makers, Mesers Garrard, of Haymarket, together with the King's Gold Vase and the Royal Hunt Cup. These three handsome trophies were placed, as usual during Ascot week, on view on a table at the corner of the grand stand near the cloak rooms. This is one of the busiest spots on the course, as the main entrance to the lawn passes by here.

It was when most of the spectators were hurrying to the course to watch the race for the Fiftieth Biennial Stakes, the thieves brought off their coup.

Garrard's representative, who with a policeman in uniform was keeping watch over the cups, had stepped away for a minute or two to talk to someone on business matters, and at that moment a gentleman dressed in the pink of fashion asked the officer the way to the railway station. The constable obligingly stepped a few yards away to point out the way, and though his eyes were only off the table a few seconds, in that time the Gold Cup disappeared.

Stary of Two Motor Cars.

It is surmised that another of the well-dressed gentlemen who were on the lawn and is the plot popped the cup under his coat, and hurried out of the exit thirty yards away. Two motor-cars stood near by, and an instant later they departed at a great pace, one containing the cup, and the other acting, it is presumed, as a decoy in case of pursuit.

The theory is borne out by a society lady. She was in the grand stand enclosure, and says her attention was attracted by a man wearing an overcoat, whom she saw walking at a rapid pace out of the main entrance. She noticed him enter a motor-can, the chauffeur of which drove off at a great speed. She heard of the theft almost immediately afterwards.

The Gold Cup is provided by the trustees out of the funds of the meeting, and has been in existence since 1807, but from 1845 to 1854 it was replaced by the Emperor's Plate.

Official Description.

The trophy is looked upon as one of the most important of the year, and the following is the official description of this year's cup:

A gold egg-shaped cup and cover, with richly-chased serpent handles and borders, after the style of Flaxman, standing on a square gold pedestal which is safe, scaled 34 ounces. The height of the cup is 131-4 inches, and the diameter six inches. The intrinsic value of cup and pedestal is £500, the pedestal being valued at about £200.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

Was your garden a success this You bet it was My next door neighbor's chickens took the first prize at the poultry show.

SHE CERTAINLY COULD.

Kind lady, remarked the weary wayfarer, can you please oblige me with something to eat? Go to the woodshed and take a few chope, replied the kind lady.

The worship must be accetable to God and come from a cheerful and thankful heart.

The train is completely wrecked, the engine and several cars being smashed. The cause of the accident is not yet known.

Boy Killed by Carousal.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 12.—At the inquest into the death at Lily Lake, near Campbellton, of Oliver Peters, a lad who was accidentally shot on Sunday by a comrade, Benjamin Beatty, the evidence showed that four boys had gone on a drunken carousal to Lily Lake, taking much liquor with them, also firearms. They spent the day playing for the drinks.

The jury condemned the fact that such youths could procure liquor freely, and they asked that Peters companion be proceeded against for violating the law, and that Sunday law-lessness generally in the neighborhood he suppressed.

Americans Greatest of Travelers.

Americans are rightfully called the greatest travelers in the world. They all seem imbued with the spirit of Columbus, and when we think of that venturer across strange waters in search of he knew not what we can scarcely associate him with any other country as a native than ours. It is a noticeable fact that in every resort of prominence in England and on the continent there are to be seen among the tourists during the season at least two Americans to every one representative of any other country, and in the African cities Americans are even more in predominance over travelers of other nationalities.

HOMEMADE KITE.

How the Mandy Boy Can Construct an Excellent Flier.

The accompanying cut shows how a good kite may be made. Out of some straight grained, light wood—cedar preferred—make four sticks about one-eighth of an inch in thickness. Let two of them be twenty-two inches in length, one seventeen and one-half inches and the other thirteen and three quarters inches. Place them as shown in the picture, and tack them firmly where they cross. Cut little notches at the ends of the sticks, and put a string around the whole frame, making it taut and tying it so that it will not slip.

Now cut out a piece of very thin manila paper—tissue paper would do, but thin manila is more serviceable—one inch larger all around than the frame, and paste the edge over the string. Make a small hole in the end of the sticks at A, B, C, D, E and F and put in a string loosely from A to of the sticks at A, B, C, D, E and F and put in a string loosely from A to F, from B to E and from C to D. Make a string loop from E to F, te which the tail of the kite is to be attached. The strings must come through to the paper side of the kite, not the stick side.

The cord by which you are to fly the kite should be attached where the strings cross each other; do this with a loose knot inclosing all the strings. For the tail, use a strip of muslin about one inch in width and fifteen

For the tall, use a strip of muslin about one inch in width and fifteen feet in length and attach ten bobs made of paper rolled up. If the kite should dive, add more tall until it sails steadily.

Use fine, but strong, cord for the flying, and don't attempt it in a high wind. Kites always fly better in a moderate wind.

Explanation of This Insect's Ability to Walk Upside Down. The ability of the fly to walk along

The ability of the fly to walk along the ceiling or up and down a pane of glass is a matter that is constantly puzzling boys and girls, and older people, too, and a simple explanation of it here might be of interest.

As insignificant a creature as the fly is, this power has made it the subject of scientific study for years. The scientists at first thought its feet were furnished with suction pumps, so to speak, little valves that clung to the ceiling on the same principle as that of the wet leather disk that boys lift bricks with. When they found that this was an error they thought that the fly's feet were supplied with a kind of sticky oil that enabled it to hold on.

But a careful experimenter discover-

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boot on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black divplay headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspictious heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and allments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit is to say, the fluid on the fly's feet forms a sort of connection between the feet and the surface the fly walks on, and the attraction thereby established in the first properties. But a careful experimenter discovered that while the feet exude a fluid it is not sticky, and so that theory had to be given up. Finally this same ex-

LETTERS CAUSE MURDER.

Hamilton Man Figures in Sensational Tragedy at Chicago. Sept. 12.—A Hamilton, Ont., man named Billy Murdoch figured big in a sensational tragedy here yesterday, when Mrs. Harman Westerfield, the 25-year-old wife of Herman Westerfield, was shot by a former suitor. Ed J. Hiedehonds, who, when he found the police were after him, shot himself in a down-town apartment bouse.

Westerfield, when he saw his dead wife, sent a bullet through his brain. Mrs. Westerfield three years ago was a friend of Billy Murdoch's, and off and on has kept up correspondence with him.

Endearing letters passed between them, couched in terms such as "a million kisses and hugs, from your own boy," "Billy will always be your own boy," "Billy will always be your own," etc., etc.

The police have the letters and a photograph of Murdoch.

It is said that when Hiedehonds learned of the friendship between Mrs. Westerfield and Murdoch he became insanely jealous and killed the woman.

FLOWERS IN SICKROOMS.

Never Send All White Flowers to sending flowers to an invalid m sending howers to an invalid great discrimination must be practiced. In the first place, he careful not to cause any extra work to the already everburdened family.

For this reason growing plants are undesirable, and, besides, while the old idea that they harmed the sick one by remetaling in the scene were especially if they are much handled.

In the second place, do not send flowers having a very pronounced or sickening odor. Tuberoses are thus distinctly barred, as are other flowers of their class.

Thirdly, avoid violent color contrasts. The hervous system is always slightly deranged and the perceptions unduly sharpened in a serious illness, and the contrast of vivid reds and pinks and yellows may be really harmful and will surely be disagreeable to the patient. Choose instead delicate pinks, soft creams or light blues. On the other hand, do not, above all, send white roses unaccompanied by any other hand, do not, above all, send white roses unaccompanied by any other flower nor an abundance of unrelieved white flowers of any kind. You might just as well order a floral pillow marked "At Rest" for the effect it will have upon the recipient of your mistaken kindness.

The sick are often inclined to be morbid, and nothing but cheerful suggestions should be presented to their imaginations. Pinally, prefer the unusual flowers. You may be pretty sure that many besides yourself will send roses and carnations and violets. The little bunch of ragged robins or the cluster of old fashioned pink peonles will be a thousand times more appreciated.

And best of all will be the butter. Thirdly, avoid violent color contrasts.

And best of all will be the buffer cups or the homely black eyed Susans which tell perhaps of a faroff happy home or a dear one loved and gone.

The Careful Scot.

MOORS' CAMP IS BURNED

Tribesmen Dispersed By Allied Franco-Spanish Army

Moors Routed At Point of Bayonet-Well Planned Attack

Casablanca, Sept. 13.—The allied France-Spanish army on Wednesday made a sudden and successful move on Taddert, where the Moors were massed in force.

The camp of the latter was destroyed by bombardment, and the enemy was put to flight, leaving many dead on the field. The French lost one man killed and six men wounded.

The attack was carefully planned, and was based largely on the observations of the Moors' position made from a military balloon.

The allied army, which was divided into two columns, left the camp at 6 o'clock in the morning, leaving several companies of infantry to defend the base at Casablanca.

The first column was composed of four companies of regular infantry, several companies of sharpshooters, a battery of artillery and all the cavalry.

The description given of the man is as follows:—Twenty-five years of age, dark complexion, dark clothes, and wore a light cap. No names were mentioned in the message.

battery of artillery and all the cavalry.

The second consisted of six companies of infantry and a battery of artillery. The march was skillfully carried out under the cover of a fog until within half way to Taddert, when the fog litted and disclosed several large bands of the enemy.

The allies then charged several large bands of the enemy at the point of the bayonet, and although the Moors resisted with their old-time courage they were finally compelled to retreat in the face of a superior force, and both of the columns of allied troops advanced on Taddert.

After the bombardment of that place by the French artillery, as well as by the guns of the French cruiser Gloire, which fired '55 shells, the allied infantre advanced on the Moors' camp which fired 75 shells, the allied infan which fired 75 shells, the allied infantry advanced on the Moors' camp, where the enemy was making a last, desperate stand. A short engagement followed, and the Moors fled in wild disorder, pursued for several miles by the irregular Algerian cavalry in the French service. The Moorish camp was destroyed. The exact loss of the Moors is not known, as they carried away many of their dead.

The allied army later returned to Casablanca.

Reports a Victory.

During the engagement the Moors endeavored to employ their now familiar tactics of circling rapidly in front of the advancing troops, with the object of cutting them off and surrounding a section of the allied forces, but the attempt utterly failed yesterday, largely on account of the rapid advance of the two independent columns, whose movements seemed to puzzle the Moors and made them believe that a trap was laid for them. When assailed from a long time of troops, the Moors retreated from Taddert, where many of them fell under the accurate firing of the field artillery and the guns of the Gloire, at anchor off the coast.

When the Moors saw their camp in fames, they set fire to all the farms and woods which they could reach, and soon the country surrounding Taddert became covered with smoke and flames.

MODEL TREATY DRAFTED.

Italy and Argentina Will Submit to Three Arbitrators.

The Hague, Sept. 13.—Special care was taken in drafting the general arbitration treaty just concluded, in behalf of their respective Governments, by the Italian and Argentine delegates to the Peace Conference, in order that it may sarve as a model for other treaties of like nature which Italy and Argentina expect to conclude with other countries.

By the terms of this treaty, the two countries interested agree to submit to arbitration all the differences which may arise between them, with the exception of those affecting provisions of the constitution or questions of nationality. In case of a conflict of views, each country will appoint an arbitrator, and they will appoint a third. In the event of the two countries being unable to agree on the appointment of a third arbitrator, the appointment will be made by the Queen of the Netherlands.

Number of Victims of "Dramatic Per-lod" Fixed at 47,020.

st. Petersburg, Sept. 13.—The Slovo yesterday published statistics regarding the revolutionary movement, prepared by the noted Russian statistician, Dr. Zankoff, whereby the total number of victims of the "dramatic epidemic" is placed at 47,020, of which 19,144 were killed.

It is further shown that 2,381 sentences of death were carried out, that 1,350 prisoners committed suicide, and that 21,405 persons were wounded. The largest loss of life, 12,953, resulted from encounters with the soldiers or police.

The anti-Jewish riots number The anti-lewish riots numbered 7,962, and there were 4,540 anti-Armenian riots and 2,193 mutinies. The agrarian disorders were comparatively insignificant, only 533.

The revolutionists assassinated 83 generals or governors, 61 prefects and 8,079 officials of various ranks.

It begins to look as though the present money stringency may affect the village. In May last the Council refused to consider an offer at par for $3,826,78 of local improvement debentures. This will be swell-d to about $11,000 with the silex walks and sewers to be constructed this year. In addition, the purchase of the electric plant will require an additional issue, and it begins to look as though a higher rate of interest would have to be offered, judging from the experiences of other municipalities in the province,—Tilbury Times.

CLARIFIED AND BOTTLED MILK

The clarify and bettle milk is the only sanitary and up-to-date way to handle such an important product of the dairy as milk, for while it is one of the best and most necessary foods we have if properly cared for, it is certainly one of the most dangerous if neglected or carelessly handled, and should never be exposed to street dust, as is done in the ordinary way of peddling milk from large cans with one measures. The Steam Turbine Machine used Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. II.—(Special.)—About 550 head of butchers' cattle, 30 mileh cows, 100 calves, 500 sheep and lambs and 300 fat hogs were offered for sale at the East. End Market to-day. Business was fair, with no changes to note in the prices, except that milch cows are rather higher. Prime hears sold at from 4%c to 5c per 1b., but they were not choice; pretty good cattle, 3%c to 4%c, and the common stock at 2c to 3c per lb. Milch cows sold at 35 to 55 each. Most of the calves were grassers, which sold at 2%c to 3%c per lb. Good yeals sold at 4c to 4%c per lb. The Steam Turbine Machine used to clarify all the milk sold from the

It is estimated that no less than 80
Jews lost their lives in encounters with the enflamed populace. The Jewsish quarter of Kishinev was attacked by an organized band of roughs, who losted houses and shops and ruthlessly killed or wounded all those who attempted to defend their property.

The Jews are fleeing from Kishinev in panic. Many of them who made their way to the banks of the Pruth, in the hope of finding protection in Roumania, were driven back by the frontier guards.

Ashes and Cinders Thrown Over Score

Ashes and Ginders Invitages.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 12.—Advices received here from an officer of the revenue cutter Rush, lying at Dutch Harbor, and dated Sept. 4, say that on Sept. 1 and 2 a volcano in the Alutian Islands erupted, sending ashes and cinders over a score or more of native villages.

A hurricane accompanied the phenomena and wild fowl of all kinds were driven far to sea. No lives were reported lost.

The eruption occurred in the vicinity of the volcanic island Perry, which sprang up from the sea a short time after the San Francisco earthquake.

COAL PROBLEM IN THE WEST.

People Have Not Learned Necessity of Stocking Up for Winter.

HUMBUGGED. More than ever, 'dishonorable and disreputable pharmaceutical concerns are flooding the market with cheap and Some of these are even labelled "Extract of Wild Strawberry," "Wild Strawberry Compound," etc., in the hope that the public may be deceived and led to purchase them, thinking they are getting the genuine Dr. Fowler's.

of Stocking Up for Winter.

An advance of 15 per cent. in prices is a little detail which is presented for the consideration of the coal consumer in the prairie provinces, and he is thereby enabled to realize one of the benefits of an agreement between operators and men in the coal fields. Quotations are 90 cents to $1.50 per ton higher in Regina, and this increase practically applies to the whole Province of Saskatchewan. All grades of western coal are included. Prices are still below the level at which Pennsylvania coal can compete in these markets, but the difference is slight, and it is possible that more of the American product may be used in tuture.

During the stremous days of the last coal shortage the companies and the railways were attacked for their inability to provide a sufficient supply of tuel. It was argued that the public must be served, no matter what the cost might be. In fact, it was proclaimed that the consumer should have the coal, because he was prepared to pay for it, even if the price were $20 per ton. But a revolution in the weather has worked a change in popular sentiment. Now that the summer, or an advance copy of it, has arrived, and balmy breezes are being wafted over the prairies, the disregard for values in the coal market is less apparent. Complaints are heard, in fact, because the public is called upon to pay the increased wages which the miners in the mountains receive. It is considered unfair that the consumer should be forced to settle for the advances which the operators have chosen to give to their men. When the winter comes back these complaints will probably congeal. The scramble for coal will take the place of academic discussions on the economic phases of the subject. Ask for Dr. Fowler's and insist on being supplied with it. See that the name The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont., is on the wrapper. Price Metal for Quebec Bridge Was Twice Inspected.

Rallway Pays More.

Quebec, Sept. 12.—The coroner's jury resumes its enquiry to-day into the Quebec Bridge disaster.

Before the Royal Commission yesterday, E. A. Hoare, chief engineer of the Quebec Bridge Co., testified. He was appointed to that position in 1900, but for 35 years had been engaged on different Canadian railways. His experience with bridges was that of structures entering into railway construction, both wood and steel.

He had been chief engineer of the Canadian Northern Railway.

His duties in connection with the Quebec Bridge were to prepare plans and specifications, to make probable estimates for tenders and to superintend the work. The specifications first called for a 1,600 foot span, and later for one of 1,800 feet, some modifications being made to them by Mr. Cooper. The modifications were made after the signing of the contract. The Government had accepted the modifications. Mr. Cooper had visited the bridge several times and received weekly reports. All metal was inspected upon arrival in the metal yard, and again at the bridge, before being raised into position. This was very important. Neither Mr. McChure, Mr. Cooper nor himself had authority to stop the work of the Phoenix Co. on the bridge.

Asked what he would have done then had anything occurred to warrant a stoppage of work, he said he could not state, as such a contingency had never occurred to him.

Amongst the bodies of bridge victims recovered yesterday was that of Bird, the chief resident engineer of the Phoenix Bridge Co., at the bridge, an old Montrealer. Railway Pays More.

It is interesting to know that the Canadian Pacific Railway is contributing its share of the increased cost of producing coal. It is by far the largest consumer of steam coal in the west, and its requirements seem to keep pace with the output of the mines. It obtains its coal at a great reduction, of course, because it enters into contracts to take delivery of a large quantity from each mine every day. The advances in wages have made it necessary for the railway company to pay 10 per cent. more for its coal, and this means a large additional expenditure. Thousands of tons of coal are consumed by locomotives alone on the divisions west of Winnipeg, and nearly all this fuel comes from the mines which were affected by the recent settlement.

Consumer Should Stock Up.

Censumer Should Stock Up.

There are not many indications that the warnings which have been issued with respect to another shortage of fuel during the coming winter are being respected. The people of the west do not often cross a bridge before they come to it, and they do not intend to worry very seriously over the coal outlook until there is some urgent need of concern. It is more than possible that a wail will arise next November about the scarcity of fuel, and Governments and railways will work overtime in the effort to relieve distress. Much of this trouble would be obviated if the individual consumers would show enterprise by stocking up during the summer. It is easy to deliver coal, both from cars and from the wagons, during such weather as this, and the transportation companies and coal trade would welcome an opportunity to supply the needs of the public now. The unwillingness of the public to accept delivery is a disappointing feature of the situation. Consumer Should Stock Up. Tragic Label,

Each brown placard is the label of a tragedy—the summary of a name-less being, when all that matters now is the formal catalogue of the peor, stark body.

And the River of Mysteries, grey, old, and sullen, creeps between the heavy barges that are moored on the Surrey side, like a hooded witch clutching her victims to her breast. Sometimes it happens that a body is wrenched from her grasp, and sometimes she hurries on and gives her prey to the obliterating sea.

No mention in the newspapers of these mysteries, for when such things happen almost at the rate of one a day the readers would find them monotonous. Does one give the fig-monotonous. Does one give the fig-ures of those unfortunates who are killed in the street accidents each when the street accidents each day?

Yet, talk with a river policeman, and he will give you some idea of the little great mysteries that are happening. Perhaps at the very moment when you are being spun along in an Embankment train a shape has just been brought to the Waterloo Pier, and lies now at rest on the boards by the side of the river. It may be the body of a penniless suicide, and the irony of it is that while the man lived he was worthless in the world, but his death brings five shillings to the recoverer of the body. "Found drowned" is an easy way to explain a mystery, but how do all these people find their way to the river? Is it suicide? Is it accident? Or is it something worse? None can tell, and none can be certain until the River of Mystery miraculously speaks.

It is a fact that with nearly all these unknown the pockets are found empty of valuables, even in the case of those whose clothes are not poor. There are still Gaffer Hexams and Rogue Riderhoods with us, as they were in Dickens' days, whose philosophy on the matter is familiar: "Has a dead man any use for money? How can money be a corpse's? Can a corpse own it, want it, spend it, claim it, miss it?"

miss it?"

Empty Pocksts.

But it is certainly odd that in practically every case, there is nothing in the pockets of the clothed ones, or on the linen, by which one may trace the name of him or her who is drowned. Very frequently, however, that is discovered by the system which works between the river and the Metropolitan police. Somebody has been missing from Shadwell or Lambeth, and the relations notify the police. Empuries flash from station to station, and probably the river police have the description of the man long before the body is brought up from the dark waters. We know who he is, and to whom he belongs, but his death is another mystery—let us call it an "accident."

Out of all the five river police stations from Barnes to Erith—the others are at Waterloo Bridge, Blackwell and Wapping—that by Waterloo is, perhaps, the busiest. During all the years Waterloo Bridge has lived up to its evil reputation of being the "suicides' bridge." Scarce a night sease by without the splash that marks the prange of a would-be suicide in his leap to anywhere anywhere, out of the world. And the men of the river keep watch and ward and frustrate the designs of those who seek to die. Odd it is that suicides abridge and where the chance of success is least.

A nerve-trying business this of the Empty Pockets.

"HOLD ON TIGHT!-I'VE GOT YOU!" his pole up and down vindictively. "We've been camping for four days and this is the first minute I've had you to myself. Four chaperons are entirely too many for twenty people; that's four-tenths of a chaperon to a couple-too rich for my system."

"And what, may I ask, is your sys-tem?" She made a grab at her pole, could not be discounted.

"Humph! The old fossil!" grunted

"Fossil? He's not more than forty nd he certainly is a man of brains. "Your tone, Miss Newton, intimates that I am a mere matter of physical bulk, and you are further aggravating me by getting your line tangled in mine just as I was about to have a

She cast her line in a new spot with a sudden show of humility.

"Well, you see, I hadn't realized that you had attained the degree of psychic development necessary to tell—when a fish was about to bite."

"Personally," he continued, "Professor Jordan bores me immensely. Think I'll run up to town for the two days he intends to filuminate the camp with his intellectual light. Would you mind telling me if you are going to marry that dried up Greek root?" He drew in his line and fixed it for deeper water.

"Doesn't make any difference which head you classify him under. If he's coming here to spoil the party I might as well go back to town and stay. I asked you to marry me seven times last winter and couldn't even get you to look at the matter seriously—thought maybe all this scenery and the moonight nights and the—er—hammocks would develop a little sentiment in your soul, but if there's another man in the case I have nothing more to say."

"So hammocks are included in your

"I could really imagine no greater joy than—a hammock and the fossilated Jordan," he said sarcastically.

"I have to thank you for the sugges tion," airily. "When you are in town to-morrow night, gasping for a breath of morrow night, gasping for a breath of cool air, don't think you are entirely forgotten. I shall be remembering your idea and trying the hammock. The moonlight here is fascinating," she murmured irrelevantly.

A Sense of Duty.

Just before the boat capsized Rees Rees had been boasting of his "practical common sense."

"I am nothing if not a man of practecal common sense," he averred.

"When there is a difficulty to be solved Rees Rees is the man to solve it."

Then when the boat sank Rees' fellow excursionist, John Jones, found that the plank to which both clung was unequal to the support of their united weight. At this juncture he remembered his companion's boast.

"Prove yewer practeccal common sense now, Rees!" he pleaded, with true Weish eloquence. "En are a single man, with noboddy dependent on eu. I am married an' got six shildran. ### DUTTON 4-OHATHAM 3.

A very large crowd of people

A very large crowd of people gathered at Tecumseh Park, yesterday afternoon, and witnessed one of the fastest ball games that has been played on the ball grounds this year. Dutton was in good shape, and it is needless to say, the local boys were also. In the first innings the Dutton boys made four runs, and for the next innings they didn't score a run. The reason for them making such a big mark in the first innings is credited to the local catcher, Gaunt. Hicks was behind the bat, and did fine work for the rest of the game. The teams were well matched, and are all good players. The Dutton team was made up of players from West Lorne and Dutton, Duncanson was in the box, and had strike outs, and only allowed two men to get bases on balls. Leitch, behind the bat, showed that he was a good catcher, and the support throughout was good. The fielding is the feature of the game put up by the Dutton players. Emery was in the box for the from team, and for the last eight innings pitched a shut out game. The fielding of the home team was good, and few errors were made during the performance. The home team would have won had it not been for the clever work of the Dutton players in the first innings. The locals scored two runs in the third innings, and one in the eighth, thus making the score 4 to 3 in 'favor of the visitors.

LETTERS

the Editor of The Planet: Dear Sir,—I was sorry to see in last night's paper the letter, re the heavy and unreasonable work given a child for homework. There must be some mistake. First, a child between six and seven years of age ought to be in the kindergarten room, and cannot be beyond the first book work, while the words mentioned were at least third book words.

mentioned were at least third book words.

Every parent wishes to be in touch with their children's life at all points, and the beginning of the school life is certainly the most important. Habits are formed then often for life, and the greatest care is taken in choosing the teachers for the first book work.

I feel sure if this parent seeks the right source, instead of complaining through the paper, the matter will soon be straightened out. At the head of both our Public schools we have two of the finest principals I have ever had anything to do with, and a staff of excellent teachers under them. I am a mother, who has had six children attend the Public schools of Winnipeg, Brantford and Toronto, and found the teachers in the schools in these places noble men and women, but I had to come to Chatham and our Central school to see a school managed along almost perfect lines. Most of us parents find our hearts full of gratitude towards our most respected principal.
