Introductory Announcement

BEHEVING that the most convincing evidence of what any school is likely to do, is to be found in the results of what such school has accomplished along its particular line, we shall aim at giving results in this catalogue, rather than filling its pages with idle claims not supported by such evidence. In our estimation, the testimony of leading business men regarding the efficiency of our graduates and the practical nature of our courses of training together with proofs of what our pupils have accomplished, are the best kinds of evidence.

We claim to be THE BEST, and to give courses of instruction very much superior to those offered by any of our Canadian contemporaries, and believe we are furnishing you with sufficient evidence in this catalogue to fully substantiate the claim. We trust you will give every page a careful perusal.

We know it is often difficult for those who have no knowledge of the standing of the different schools to decide as to WHICH IS THE BEST. All claim to be THE BEST, and this fact makes it bewildering to one who has no person of whom he can seek counsel in making his decision. We simply ask you to use your own judgment, carefully considering the matter which this catalogue contains. Our claims are honest, and our work speaks louder than many pages of idle boasting which are not backed up by results.

Examine the engravings which adorn many of the pages, and which are reproductions from specimens executed by pupils of this institution.

Hosts of our former pupils are ready to testify to the fact, that our course of training in penmanship alone has proved to be worth more to them than the entire cost of the full course of training, and yet our instruction in this subject is only one of the branches taught in the institution.

For twenty-eight years our aim has been to give our courses of instruction a challenge comparison with the work of any other business school on the American continent. This claim may sound somewhat boastful, but it is not made in that spirit, and it places us better than to have those interested call at the College to examine our methods and the results we are achieving.

The great measure of success that has attended our efforts in the past has come to us in our Mail Course Departments. The same practical courses taught here are so arranged in series of graded lessons and accompanied by typewritten material, by explaining what is required, that the Mail Course Student can make material progress. To meet individual needs, special letters answering questions are prepared and are dictated to our regular office stenographers. Our Mail Course Students are given the same care and attention of expert and practical teachers, who are daily engaged in the schoolroom in their own departments of teaching. These teachers are not theoretical, but know how to assist those taking their lines of work and the necessary assistance is speedily given.

We feel proud of the confidence which so many of the best business houses have placed in us to turn out competent stenographers and book-keepers, and the best evidence of this confidence is the fact that when they need fresh office help they apply to us for it.

Years Before we Established a Mail Course Department we were doing Mail Course Work.

What a crowd of business men and women who had heard of our course had come to see. They wanted to know more about it, and we were glad to tell them. They were all interested in the course, and we were glad to tell them. They were all interested in the course, and we were glad to tell them.

To Public School Teachers.

The teacher who is not satisfied with his work will find it well worth his while to take a course in the Business College. He will find that he can teach his pupils the same subjects as our who had a better knowledge of them and more of the "inside" knowledge of them.

Such a teacher would be worth from $100 to $200 more per year to the School System. It would be more desirable than any other way to improve the community. This would come to apply equally to teachers in all schools.

It would thoroughly mislead our Student-School System. MAIL COURSE is a better position as a teacher than the one you are in. If you were in a position to say that you could teach the business subjects in the school, you would not think it worth your while to take a course in the Business College. You would not think it worth your while to take a course in the Business College.

It would be a mistake to think that you could teach the business subjects in the school. You would not think it worth your while to take a course in the Business College. You would not think it worth your while to take a course in the Business College.

Business DEPARTMENT

Book-keeping by Mail.

THE six years' experience to our credit in Business College work, combined with our 31 years' experience acquired in coming in contact with business men in a business way, has surely enabled us to acquire ideas and introduce methods, giving our students the benefit of results which our contemporaries of less experience could not be expected to give, unless we have been recent to our trust, and we hardly think that those who are familiar with the forward and progressive position which this institution has always taken will saddle us with this accusation.

When you take our course you profit by this experience. In this training by mail we can easily prepare the student so as to give him first class qualifications to fill any of the ordinary positions in a business office, or to take charge of the books of the smaller business houses. Should he complete our Mail Course, take our examinations successfully, and afterwards decide to complete our full course in Clifton, so as to be prepared for graduation, he would be eligible for starting at such a point in our regular course as his examinations had made him competent for, rather than to begin at the beginning again.

Our General Course in Book-keeping—Inductive Set.

The records are all made from business papers and memoranda that come to the student as he progresses with his work. Every entry made calls for exactly the same detail regarding business papers handled than a book keeper must comply with in carrying on his work. He receives, and makes the entries in his books from incoming papers, that have all the reality and variety of form, and handwriting of the business office, and he must issue all outgoing papers required by the different transactions.

Our Advanced Courses in Book-keeping.

The next set, in our regular series is the Wholesale and Retail Set. This set illustrates the business of a Partnership. In this set a Branch Store is opened with the proper accounts kept in the books of the main store. Many new accounts not included in the Inductive Set are introduced. Special columns are used in nearly all the books of original entry. The latest improvement in the method of keeping the Merchandise Account with separate "Misc. Purchases" and "Misc. Sales" is introduced. Extensive supplementary drills in Opening Partnership Books, Partnership Settlements, Adjustment of Interest between Partners, and in fact every phase of Partnership accounting, and book keeping are given.

Jobbing and Commission Set.

This set presents an excellent drill in handling quantities of "Misc." received from commission houses to be sold on their account. Special books and accounts are used, the whole presenting a up-to-date method in Advanced Book-keeping. Extensive Supplementary Exercises in Joint Stock Book-keeping are added.

Manufacturing Set.

Our Manufacturing Set meets the needs of many young men who engage their services with manufacturing concerns. A good drill, such as this set provides, enables the student to make rapid progress in office work. Special features, such as Department Accounts, Pay Rolls, etc., make this Department of our Advanced Courses very practical.

See Our Special Rates to Those Who Take the Advanced Courses.

Shorthand

Shorthand by Mail.

In what we term our General Course in Shorthand, which covers the entire theory work our plan is to carry the student through by separate lessons, having him send his work through the mail to us for checking, and at the end of a certain number of these lessons we give him what we call our First Grade Examination, on which, if he takes 80 or more, he is allowed a pass. The lessons on second grade will now follow and second grade work is completed, when the Second Grade Examination will be given, and so on with the third grade and the Third Grade Examination, which completes what may be termed our Text-book course. The student is now ready for Dictation, and it is simply a question of getting some of your friends to read to you while you write the notes in Shorthand, and in this way continue your practice until you gain speed sufficient to enable you to fill a position. But where the student's means will allow of it, we would then recommend him to come to Chatham after he completes the Text-book Course for the final work and finishing touches, which are so necessary in the case of the finished Stenographer or Book-keeper. If the student cannot do this, there is certainly no good reason why he should not get the speed by the plan suggested at his home, and if he should decide to do so, we shall be pleased to map out a plan for him, by which he could follow up speed practice according to the most approved and up-to-date methods, and without any further cost.

Advanced Shorthand Course.

If the student would prefer to continue his work with us rather than follow up his speed practice alone, he could do so through the medium of our Advanced Course, the terms for which appear on page 19.

There is no question in our minds as to what we are capable of doing with the earnest student in any of these subjects.

We do not undertake to teach everything, but what we undertake to do, we will stake our reputation on the results, where we have the hearty co-operation of our pupil in the work.

High Standard for Graduation

Our graduation standard in Shorthand is placed at 125 words per minute for Grade B and 175 words per minute for Grade A diploma, while the majority of business schools graduate at 60 to 100. Our standard is, therefore, higher than that of any other school in the Dominion. To some this is an objection, but when they make a comparison of the remuneration which our pupils command with that which the graduates of other schools receive where they graduate at 80, 60 or 100 words per minute, they see, very often when it is too late, that it would have paid them very much better to have taken a course with us. Anything that is worth doing is worth doing well.

This is a view of one of our offices, and shows the kind of training which our students are daily receiving. They are therefore experienced office hands when they are graduated.

VIII COURSE DEPARTMENT

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE

CHATHAM, ONT.

It Pays to Get the Best.

Why it Would Pay You to Register
With Us.

1. Because our courses of instruction stand unrivalled.
 2. Because your services would be in demand when you were graduated.
 3. Because the members of our staff are thoroughly competent instructors.
 4. Because our pupils are commanding higher salaries, and are in greater demand than those of any other business school in Canada.
 5. Because the student's training is made so pleasant and profitable a period of his life, that he ever afterward has reason to look back to it with pleasing reminiscences.
 6. We believe we have placed more of our pupils as teachers in other business colleges than all other schools of the kind in Canada combined.
 7. We believe we have placed more of our pupils in the very front rank of American business men than any other business school on the continent, or than all other business schools in Canada combined. Specimens of their work show the different pages of this book, and will speak for this claim.
 8. The graduates of this institution are not to be found among the thousands of men and women who are seeking employment in vain in the cities of the United States and Canada, but are holding many of the best positions in the gift of the business public.
 9. Our graduates leave us as practical office hands, not as mere theorists who must spend weeks or perhaps months in an office after leaving college, before they can be considered competent office help. Those who require this experience after leaving school are not wanted in offices, hence the army of people looking for employment in lines which they are not capable of filling. These are the graduates of schools where the tuition is cheap, instruction poor, and the standard of graduation low. Business men want office hands who are prepared to do their work from the day they enter the office, without any coaching. Their time is too valuable to spend any portion of it training you; they leave that to the competent school to do.
 10. OUR TUITION RATES. Our tuition rates, which are given on page 17, may be found higher than those of some other Canadian schools of a similar kind, but we believe are much lower than those of any other business school on the continent offering anything like equal advantages.
 11. This institution now stands in the very front rank among the leading correspondence schools of the American continent, and, this fact being considered, our rates are very low.
- We would like every prospective student to carefully investigate the merits of the different schools and the truth of the above statements. If our statements be false, our school would be unworthy of your patronage; if they be true, you could not, in justice to yourself, take your training elsewhere.

Where Some of Our Mail Course Students are Located.

FROM British Columbia, Alberta and Idaho on the west to Newfoundland and the Maritime Provinces on the east, from Saskatchewan on the north to the Bermuda Islands on the south we have students registered in our Mail Course Departments. We present on this page a group of bright, energetic and ambitious young men and women. Many of them have almost completed courses they have arranged for, others have finished, and all express themselves as more than pleased with the practical and useful training received. The utility of these courses has been clearly demonstrated. There is nothing experimental in our Mail Course curriculum. You will find it to be a general rule that when a student enters upon any of our courses, his taste for the work increases and he is so pleased that he determines to push on until the advanced work is mastered. The investment is a safe one to make as the results are fine lasting.

Find carefully the evidence of these students here submitted. The original letters are genuine and with many others are on file in this office for the inspection of those who may wish to see them.

Dear Sirs:

I wish to express my thanks for the benefit I have received from your Mail Course in book keeping by recommending it to others. I found your course to be interesting, profitable and satisfactory.

Yours truly, Miss

Dear Sirs:

I have taken the junior portion of the Commercial Course by Mail. I am recommending it to all my friends who intend to enter some commercial business.

I spent an hour or so evenings of the book keeping and book selling, saving me a great deal of time, money and going to school in a very good sight of the work. When I returned to college I was prepared to go right on.

Yours respectfully,

Dear Sirs:

Gentlemen: I am very well satisfied with my Commercial Book Keeping course. I have gained in my opinion that I am being instructed by one of the best teachers. I advise any young man or woman who cannot possibly attend college to take a course by Mail from your institution.

Sincerely yours, Miss

Gentlemen:

I enthusiastically recommend your Mail Course as an excellent way in which to obtain a workable knowledge of Book Keeping and Shorthand. Your mode of instruction is so clear that it is impossible to make a mistake, if instructions are followed. I have found the courses of great practical benefit to me.

Very truly yours,

Teacher

Dear Sirs:

I am very pleased to say that I am well satisfied with your method of teaching. Your Mail Course system offers an excellent opportunity to those who are unable to attend college.

Yours truly, Miss

Gentlemen:

You cannot better employ his evenings and spare time than by taking a Mail course with you. The work is most practical, it is Actual Business, although the steps are initial and explanations very clear and cheerfully given.

Yours truly,

Dear Sirs:

As one of your Mail Course students I have taken great pleasure during the past few months in working the Book Keeping course. I have found the course thoroughly practical, a splendid drill in book keeping as well as in handling business paper. I hope to finish my course at your school in Charlottetown in the near future.

Yours truly, Miss

Gentlemen:

While teaching in a public school in Bruce County, I took the junior part of your book keeping by Mail, and I believe this part of the work can be accomplished by mail almost as well as by attending college while it does not require so much time and money. I am highly recommending your college as I have found your staff of teachers to be very efficient and ready to help in any way possible.

Former Mail Course Students Now at Work.

Do you know of any other Mail Course School that presents you with such evidence of what they have done for the many Canadian students they say they have? We believe they have the number they claim to have, but what have they to show for it in the way of RESULTS? We have never seen photos of their Canadian pupils placed in high grade, or any kind of position. The reason is obvious. They do not possess the facilities for imparting anything but a book work education if you can call such attempts at teaching an education. They have no institution where the final, individual completeness and finish can be given, provided the student wishes to push further on and train for high class work. We believe that our courses, as studied at home under our personal guidance, qualify every persevering student to improve greatly on his present position, while at the same time we assert that if such a student will endeavor to attend our school here for his final training that the result will be satisfactory beyond expectation. The success of these young people is positive proof of what we say.

One of the largest correspondence schools on the continent claims to have 500 students in our locality, a large percentage of them commercial students. We presume the claim is correct, but we do not know of a single student who has taken commercial training with them, who has been placed in a business position or is capable of holding one.

We do not claim to teach a host of subjects, but do teach the Commercial Subjects such as Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Penmanship in such a manner as cannot but produce the most satisfactory results.

Twenty-eight years without change of management is our record, it is not of the here-to-day-and-away-
 -narrow class.

*In the 10 months ending June 30, 1900 236 were placed
 In the 12 months ending June 30, 1901 304 were placed
 In the 12 months ending June 30, 1902 366 were placed
 In the 12 months ending June 1, 1903 346 were placed
 In the 12 months ending June 1, 1904 375 were placed*

The salaries of those placed last year averaged $800 per annum, some of them commanding over $1000. Many former students are now earning from $250 to $400 per annum.

No other business school in Canada gets such results. Notice how the number of students placed have increased each year.

When you are graduated from an institution with an established standing, such as this institution has, your services are in demand by the business public. YOU GET THE PREPARATION AND YOU GET THE POSITION WHEN YOU ARE READY.

Our School holds a unique position
among the Business
Colleges of the Continent in the Training of Penmen.

THE superior training which the students of this school have always received has been one of our great advantages, and this fact has won for us first class positions in many of the best business offices. Of course the student must have something back of his penmanship if he expects to hold a high class place. But good penmanship is a valuable asset in helping him to such positions. It is an asset which will carry with it the ability to do the greater part of his training which we can offer.

At the University of Michigan, we have a large number of penmen who rank among the best penmen of the continent. This success is due to the fact that we have a large number of penmen who rank among the best penmen of the continent. This success is due to the fact that we have a large number of penmen who rank among the best penmen of the continent.

For more information, write to the University of Michigan, Department of Penmanship, 400 North Charles Street, Detroit, Michigan.

Geo. Thomson, Teacher of penmanship, Yone Bus. Coll., Seattle, Wash.; Gordon Milott, pen artist with Peninsular Engraving Co., Detroit, Mich.

The above take place in the front rank of America's best penmen and designers.

Here are a number of others who rank almost equally high: A. H. Ross, Penman, Albany, Bus. Coll., Albany, N. Y.; H. C. Beattie, assistant editor Western Penman and teacher of penmanship, Cedar Rapids, Bus. Coll., Cedar Rapids, Ia.; T. E. Stiles, penman and proprietor International Bus. Coll., Fort Wayne, Ind.; Henry Thomson, late penman International Bus. Coll., Bay City, Mich., now of Seattle, Wash.; A. F. Gallant, assistant penman this institution, W. J. Elliott, penman and proprietor Central Bus. Coll., Stratford, Ont.; R. J. Callaghan, penman and proprietor Central Bus. Coll., Hamilton, Ont.; W. J. Westervelt, penman and proprietor Forest City Bus. Coll., London, Ont.; A. J. Birch, penman and proprietor Forest City Bus. Coll., Detroit, Mich.; Thomas Thomson, pen artist and engraver with Marling & Ladd, Seattle, Wash.; W. J. Lewis, teacher penmanship Bliss Bus. Coll., Portsmouth, N. H.; J. Wells, assistant penman in this institution, Charles Condit, Sec. Treas. Richards Print Shop Co., Woodstock, Ont.; S. A. Halsted, late penman and designer, Detroit, Mich., now engaged in printing operations; N. Hutchinson, now a medical practitioner, Wampag, Minn.; H. C. Hancy, penman Big Rapids Business College; A. McElvay, penman Bliss Business College, Columbus, Ohio.

These, with many others which space will not permit to mention, go to show that we meet with exceptional success in preparing young men for filling excellent positions in this line.

We have had more demands made upon us than we could supply during the past year, for graduates who excel in Penmanship.

We have turned out more first class penmen, and have done more to interest the public in this most useful branch of education than all other Canadian Business colleges combined. The reputation which we have gained in this connection is almost world wide. Many of our pupils to-day stand in the front rank of America's best penmen.

This subject is included in the branches taught in our regular courses and no extra charge made for it.

The demand is made upon us now for penmen by other business colleges so far exceeds the supply that it is a matter of surprise to us that there are a number of public schools in Canada who excel with the pen. To start themselves in this position, as specialists in this line, the student should first spend some time in a school of teaching business habits and should be an excellent penman and should be able to write in any common style and in all the hands which are used in some of the best schools of business penmanship.

Questions Such as are Here Given are very frequently asked us and will likely prove interesting to the prospective Mail Course student. We have also supplied the answers.

QUESTION.—Can thorough courses of instruction be given by mail in Book Keeping, Short Hand and Penmanship?

Answer.—Most assuredly they can. We will stake our reputation on the results, where the student of even ordinary ability takes any of our courses, applies himself diligently to the work and does his part honestly and perseveringly.

QUES.—Can as thorough courses of instruction be given by mail as could be given to the student were he in regular attendance?

Ans.—With the ordinary student who might be lacking in perseverance, we could not undertake to give such a one as thorough training by mail as we could give to him were he under our daily supervision in this institution. WE WOULD NOT BE DEALING HONESTLY WITH HIM WERE WE TO SAY WE COULD. Not because our courses by mail are lacking in the slightest, as we believe there is nothing superior to them on the Continent, and perhaps nothing equal to them, but simply because it would be unreasonable to expect that any course of instruction given at long range, can be as effective as that given to the student who is in continued personal contact with the different members of our staff and has an opportunity of doing business with his fellow students in this institution as well as those of our Grand Rapids School. We are engaged in the Mail Course work to stay in it, and are determined to win the confidence of the business and general public through the merits of our work alone.

We believe that as soon as the merits of our Mail Course become better known, we will have thousands of students where we now have hundreds, and five years hence this institution will hold first place among the Correspondence Schools of this Continent.

Our reputation as business instructors covers a period of thirty two years, and the student who gets his instruction by mail, or whose circumstances will allow him to come to Chatham, may rest assured that he is getting the best that Canada can give, and we believe no other Correspondence or Business School on the Continent can offer any better. We have every confidence in our ability to fully support these statements, and can furnish most convincing facts to uphold them.

QUES.—Does a person require to have a good education before he can take up either Book Keeping or Shorthand by mail?

Ans.—The student who can speak or write good English, and can spell well, is well qualified to commence the study of Shorthand. Add to these the knowledge of Arithmetic up to, and including Interest and Discount, and such student would be well prepared to commence the study of Book Keeping.

In the case of Penmanship, no special previous preparation is necessary.

QUES.—How long does it take the average student to complete the General Course in Book Keeping or Shorthand?

Ans.—Much depends upon the student's educational qualifications when he enters upon the work, the time he may devote to it daily, and his ability and aptness in taking it up. The usual time is from three to six months where the student spends from 1 to 1½ hours at it daily.

QUES.—How much would be saved by the student who might take up the General Course in Book Keeping or Shorthand at his home and then go to Chatham to complete the course? How much would such student save as compared with the one who might go to Chatham to cover the same work there?

Ans.—The saving would range from $20 to $40 after allowing for the cost of the work by mail. To the student who would be able to complete the portion of the General Course represented by the Mail Course, in two months' time if in attendance, to such student it would mean a saving of $30 had he mastered the work in spare moments at his home before coming. The saving is made where the parties are earning good money in some other employment and simply use their spare moments in this way.

If the student has no other employment whereby he is earning good money, it would not pay him to wait for the slower process of taking the course by mail; as the student in attendance will cover the ground easily in one third of the time that the same student could cover such work by mail. That being the case it would pay him much better to get through the course or courses as quickly as possible and get into a position worth $30 or $50 per month where he would soon earn back the cost of his entire expenses, and the time that would be saved by this plan would enable him to take a position, earn his entire expenses perhaps two or three times over, before the Mail Course student could get ready to accept one.

Here is Our Plan

WHEN the student reaches a certain point in his Shorthand work and is capable of taking dictation even at a slow rate, we give him training in taking business letters from dictation, which pass between the different Wholesale Concerns with whom the students in the Actual Business Department are dealing and the students themselves. This work comes to them in the shape of letters soliciting orders, billing, sending orders for goods, and letters accompanying orders filled, also the writing up of legal forms, such as Articles of Copartnership, Leases, Deeds, Mortgages, Assignments of Mortgages, Discharges of Mortgage, Power of Attorney, and many other forms too numerous to mention, which occur in the "Learning to do by doing" department of our business school. That is, the Practical Department of our business school furnishes practical experience for our Shorthand students, and forms a part of every Shorthand student's training, while he is acquiring the necessary speed to make his services valuable in a business office. This training being along practical lines, and being gained largely through the writing of letters to be used in a business way, it will be readily understood that such training must be of much more benefit to the student when he enters the business world later on, than training in the writing of letters only that have no business importance attached to them.

This page is particularly addressed to those Mail Course Students whose circumstances will allow them to come to Chatham for final training and graduation.

The accompanying illustrations illustrate some of the methods in use in the Advanced department of our Business and Shorthand Courses, and will give you an idea of the advantages to be derived from taking final training with us at Chatham, under our direct supervision. Coming to Chatham gives you an opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the student and places us in a position to speak more definitely regarding the advantages of this very important point in recommending a student for a business position.

Many of those who leave their Mail Course work at their homes, in law, were deeply impressed with the importance of having thorough masters of their work in every letter, took advantage of their training with us before entering the job year.

The training at Chatham can be accomplished more rapidly than the work at home, and it goes without saying that the student who trains here can get a much more thorough course in very much less time than the one who is compelled to do both schooling and field work at home.

Take for instance, the other work in connection with our Banking, Wholesale and Agency Offices. This work could not possibly be given through the medium of any correspondence course. Again, take the final training given to our Shorthand pupils in our own private office. It would be impossible to give any Mail Course Student work which would take the place of this special training under our direct supervision.

Our Mail Course Department is particularly suited to those who are engaged in some other way, and wish to profit by their spare moments in preparing for office work.

It is also particularly well suited to those who are anxious to take the course later on at Chatham, and who are desirous of getting the course as cheaply as possible, as there is a saving of anywhere from $25 to $50 in finishing the work of either department by mail before coming.

It is further particularly suited to those who are located in out of the way places, whose circumstances will not allow them to attend at Chatham, and yet whose ambition prompts them to prepare themselves for something better than their present surroundings offer.

Final Test

If you fear that even with the most careful drilling, some students might not be in the grade of the required degree of proficiency before taking their examination, we make a provision of taking an additional course in business office, and giving them two weeks of our own correspondence, which is very lively. If they have completed our course and stand this test, we then give them his final examination in all of the different subjects. In this work is up to the required standard, he is then graduated.

By following this course, and knowing what each pupil is capable of doing, when put to the practical test, there is little danger of incompetencies slipping through our hands, with our diploma.

With such a comprehensive training in the line of training out such an amount of correspondence, not used in a business way, together with the final drilling test in the Principal's office, taking our regular schedule, we are not fully justified in claiming that our graduates are a specimen of stenographers, when they leave us. Most assuredly we are, and the business houses that have tested them are ready to heartily support our contention.

BEAR IN MIND that in getting your training from this institution, either through the medium of our Mail Course Department or through attending at Chatham, you are getting the best that Canada can give you, and this Continent can offer no better.

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE

CHATHAM, ONT.

To Those who are Poorly Educated.

IF YOUR EDUCATION DEFICIENT—Have you not a desire to improve it? Is your ignorance the result of wasted opportunities, or were such opportunities never within your reach?

Does your ambition not lead you to something beyond the common drudgery of every day life?

Are your means so limited as to make it appear an utter impossibility ever to reach anything higher than the position you now hold?

Could you not by exercising a little economy save from $10 to $25 from your earnings which would be a sufficient sum to put you through any of our General Mail Courses in Bookkeeping, Shorthand, or Penmanship? You would then be in a better position to take care of your own affairs and improve on your present earning power. Our course of training is particularly suited to those whose education is deficient, and who may wish to make amends for early neglect or lack of opportunity.

In our Mail Courses every student works on his own responsibility.

We offer every facility to those who are anxious to improve themselves, and shall always do all in our power to make their efforts a source of life long benefit to them, and time and money pleasantly and profitably invested.

To Parents

Parents give your sons and daughters a chance. A business education will be worth more to them than a legacy, as the latter may take wings through mismanagement, misplaced confidence in some trusted friend or solicitor, or perhaps the devouring elements. It is a bank account that acts marvelously. The larger the demands you make upon it, the greater will be the balance to your credit. The drafts made give the drawer experience, and the greater your experience, the more highly will your services be valued.

Parents should provide this enduring legacy for their sons and daughters. You can make no better investment for them, none that will be a source of greater satisfaction, pleasure, and profit to them. No period of depression can affect the value of it. No adverse circumstances can deplete them of it. It will remain with them as long as strength and reason are left. Even should financial difficulties overtake the possessor, it is one of the assets that is beyond the reach of creditors and is a standing capital with which the holder can commence again in an honorable way, in a good position, and not at the bottom of the ladder.

One Hundred Young Ladies Employed in Business Offices now, where One was Employed Twenty Years ago.

Each succeeding year finds us with a larger registration of young ladies. In certain lines of office work they are preferred, rather than young men, by many business houses, and the wages they command are highly satisfactory.

Many young ladies receive from fifteen to twenty dollars per week, as bookkeepers and stenographers in leading business houses in the larger cities, while a few receive as high as thirty dollars per week.

We know of no line of employment where, with so small an outlay of time and money, a young lady can so quickly qualify for commanding a good position as in the line of commercial work.

A Choice of Two Schools.

Having two schools under our complete control, we can give our pupils the choice of either one in this instance, of The McEachan Business College, Grand Rapids, Mich. In the event a pupil commencing a course in either one, by showing any good reason for completing the course in the other, such privilege will be granted without any cost.

ESTABLISHED 1870

It is a readily understood fact that the student who writes a letter to a friend, or a partner or clerk, in which the business is being done, with his words, letters will enter into the mind of the partner or clerk much more readily and be likely to express him or herself more fully and in a business-like manner than the one who might be conversing on the same subject face to face on the same spot, where the partner or clerk is not present.

The correspondence which naturally arises in connection with the business deals between the students of the two institutions, including the shipping of orders and consignments, the ordering of goods from others, and the receiving and paying for these, the settlement of claims and signing of bills of lading in settlements, all of these give the student a practical training in business matters and in correspondence, the skill one of which would be hard to acquire, and that of which forms a part of THE McEACHAN BUSINESS PRACTICE.

Intercommunication Work

BETWEEN THE TWO SCHOOLS IN THE STUDY OF THE PRACTICE OF BUSINESS.

Our intercommunication work is one of the strongest features in connection with the combination of the two schools. It gives an excellent opportunity of introducing Customs Papers, Exchange, Drafting, etc., and showing how to the laws of the two countries, especially in the settlement of differences between the pupils of the two institutions. These and many other intensely practical questions of daily occurrence in the two institutions, and the student practices them as if business was getting a knowledge of and familiar with them, not book knowledge, or theory, work could never give him.

The volume of business which passes away between our two institutions would be a surprise to those who are not familiar with it. The students engaged in it must therefore get a thoroughly practical knowledge of Drafting, Exchange, Customs Papers, Duties, Shipping, Commission, Correspondence, and all other points which would arise in the actual work. The only difference between our work and that of the outside business world, is that no real money value passes between the parties. In every other respect it is as real and the results are as carefully looked after.

It Pays to Attend the Best.
