The Regeneration of Italy. ITALIA.—0, si tu fosse men' bella, 0, piu forte.—Filacaja.

I had a Vision! Italy Rose, like a spectre, on my eye! No more the form whose accents fell On nations like a sudden spell: With witching glance, and lip of smile And heart of more than human wiles, And jewelled brow, and airy robe. The soft enchantress of the globe ! There stood a form, with anguish bowed A captive, all her robe a shroud! And yet the glance of shame and ire, Showed in the soul the ancient fire ; And stern the voice, though sad and slow, That told her tale of more than woe!

To be the toy of homicide! To be the prize and prey of things, In God and Nature's wrath made kings Why, framed with thoughts not born to die, The trembler at a tyrant's eye; With pantings for immortal fame Yet, still the sword's ignoble game; With hand to do and heart to feel, Still crushed beneath a robber's heel; Still bearing on my burning brain, Earth's deepest brand, a stranger's chain Alternate serf of Gaul and Hun, Of both the scorn-by both undone !

Was it, my soul to tantalise That truth first woke my slumbering eyes When, pilgrim-like, from climes afar, Glowed on my night the Gospel star! And shouts of joy from hill and dale. Bade the dew-risen Glory bail, And never purer prayer was given, Than from my Alpine roofs to heaven Till swept the storm of fire and gore, And Night and Slumber fell once more Why, Nature! has thy pencil dyed In purple pomp my mountain's side, Gilded my Alp, and Apennine, With the strong splendors of the mine ; Embathed in light the marble day, The forest dell, the castle gray : O'er all, the spell of beauty cast, To be a dungeon, at the last! Man, from the cradle to the grave, That worst of slaves, a willing slave.

Yet, brighter than my Morn and Even. Inlay of all the bues of heaven; And lovelier than my waters blue, And softer than the airs that rise, Earth's evening incense to the skies! And holier than the moonlight's sleep, On sainted pile, or haunted steep; Heaven's first best gift, its last resigned I mourn my POETRY of mind! No Passo summons earth to hear No Ariosto strikes the string By forest shade or fairy spring No Petrarch sees the visions gleam, By Arno's laurel bowered stream; Or bids again the roses bloom, In homage o'er my Virgil's tomb No bard of fire to burst the chain The pangs of ages, all in vain, My long and lingering destiny, In shame to live, in shame to die! All silent, sunk in woe, or fear, My very soul-a sepulchre!

But, is there not a "coming time!" Nobler than nature in its prime. When man shall trample man no more No diadem be dipt in gore; When all shall see the "promised sign," The idol shattered, with his shrine; Vanished from earth war's demon horde, Undone the "kingdom of the sword." Sorrow, and sin and shame unknown, One God, one king, one faith, one throne G. CROLY, LL, D.

Obligation to Kneel in Prayer.

Religious Miscellann.

All our obligations to God and man are made known to us in the divine record They are either expressed or implied; and if we find no declaration from God, in reference to claimed duty, we are fully prepared to assert that there is no such daty.

Have we any precedent in the Bible for life and power of godliness; and we are kneeling in prayer? In answer to this, we present the highest authority in heaven or present the highest authority in heaven or blessings in the best and most appropriate n earth, the example of the Lord Jesus Christ. St. Matthew, xxvi. 39, in alluding to the scene of our Saviour's deep sorrow and unparalleled agony, says that the Redeemer in the place called Gethsemane, " fell on his face and prayed." St. Luke.

speaking of the same scene, asserts that Jesus "knelt down and prayed." These passages harmonize perfectly, and teach us that Chaist, in his acts of adoration and supplication, and bow down and kneel intercession, bowed down before his Father. The disciples, and all who desired to be saved, were commanded to follow the Lord Jesus; Matt. viii. 23. xvi. 24. The act of kneeling is religious, when it is done before God, with an understanding of his character and requirements. It has always been considered as an indication and token of reverence and worship. Kneeling book mark, having the inscription "God upon the mental view. The declared untoken of reverence and worship. Kneeling in prayer is a part of Christ's religious example, which we are commanded to follow.

Therefore the precept and example of Christ combine to substantiate the duty of kneeling in prayer. Again, the inspired apostles acted under the immediate influence of the blass of the substantial to my promise I took it home, and acted under the immediate influence of the blass of a changer and changed its these he remembered, and the wailing spirit spirit and remembered and the wailing spirit spirit spirit and remembered and the wailing spirit spirit spirit and remembered and the wailing spirit s Holy Spirit, and were directed "into all and daily read a chapter and changed its truth" according to the declaration of their place. I had not read long before I became be left to weep itself into the "second And knees before all the congregation of Israel." We may reasonably suppose that the wor-shippersi in Solomon's Temple imitated his mary among the Israelites in the days of King Solomon.

The Psalmist says, "O come let us worship and bow down; let us kneel before the Lord our maker." If kneeling had not been customary in the Psalmist's day, this exhortation never would have escaped his lips; it would have been improper language.

Again, the faithful and courageous Daniel,

We have also other examples in the Bible of bowing down or kneeling in times of prayer and intercession, from which we conclude that all are under obligation to kneel

Dr. Clarke says, " to prostrate ourselves is the highest act of adoration, by which the supremacy of God is acknowledged." And truly it is becoming in creatures of a day, and in sinful mortals, to humble themselves by kneeling under the mighty hand of God; seasons of approach to him, by the way of prayer and supplication.

But the members of our church in particular are under obligation to kneel in prayer, from the consideration of the cherished principles and features of our organization. We are compelled to acknowledge peculiarities in Methodism, and we should do it cheerfully and heartily, as we reflect upon her nighty and progressive achievements. We should consider our church an inde-ndent body, not bound to imitate others. Our members should cherish affection and regard for principles of antiquity in respect to Methodiam, which have been approved of God, and when carried out resulted in the propagation of true piety, and the purest Our fathers and mothers bowed the knee

"Satan trembles when he sees, The weakest saint upon his knees. They followed Christ, and had the evivotion, and by prosperity in their religious fore members should imitate the example of the fathers, and kneel in prayer. Methodism has had no equal in success, no superior in progress. Its basis was a work of Providence, and its superstructure is the astonishment of the Christian world. Perhaps it would not be too much to assert public congregation. Their manner of wor-ship contributed much to spirituality and success. They delighted to get down at the life freely. We desire to have similar success in the future, therefore our members should mind the same things and walk by he same rule. The principle of humility has been deeply considered, and carried out by our people. They have "literally walked humbly with God," " seated themselves at the Master's feet," and have been willing to do anything pp. 352, 355, Edit. 1724.

God declares that he will give grace to the humble; and we have seen this verified in the case of the faithful of our church. By bowing before God as we approach him, we manifest humility. God delights to see his creatures humble, and has promised to bless such; consequently our people should perish with thee, because thou hast thought sight of God." Acts viii. 20, 21.

The phrase which we translate this matter signifies this world; and in other places of the Acts it is taken for the gospel. If we take it here in the same sense, St. Peter no only declares Simon to have " no part" in the matter of conferring the Holy Ghost, but also to have " no part" in the gospe And this expression of having " no part" is the same whereby the tribes beyond Jordan signified the exclusion of their posterity from Jews. "In time to come your children might say to our children, Ye have no part our children to cease from fearing the Lord." Josh, xxii. 24, 25. And our Lord implies it to mean separation from himself, in those words to Peter: " If I wash thee not, thou hast no part in me." John xiii. 8. We answer,-Not the youth, not the man, not the this youth was no notorious sinner. But he the man, the woman, the youth, who runs the same risk. One thief on the cross is saved, that none may despair; only one, that none may presume.

Who may not hope for salvation? own way may seem right in our own eyes; but the end thereof is death. Yet who does not like to have a way of his own in getting in the Lord. So shall your children make to heaven? Human nature loves it: and nothing seems so right as to seek salvation in the way in which we think it should be sought. But God's ways are not our ways. "I am the Way," saith He whom God pro-mised as the Redeemer of the world. Go same phrase sometimes also signifies separation from civil communion. Thus, "Sheba of thine own, not submitting thyself to the in David," (2 Sam. xx. 1,) when we rebelled against him; and it was again used by the against him; and it was again used by the ten tribes when they deserted Rehoboam. most favourable impression.

Much attention is being drawn to the European Continent in relation to the openings for the introduction of the Gospel of Christ to those who have heretofore been for bid den to receive it. Even the present dreadful war, it is hoped, may be made to subserve the purposes of God's mercy towards the enslaved and oppressed nations of Europe. The upheavings now taking place must surely hasten the overthrow of error and despotism, and thus prepare the way for the setting up of the kingdom of Christ. In Spain, as in all the countries of the Continent, a leaven is introduced, the good seed is being scattered by the Bibles and tracts of the agents of several Protestant Evangelical Societies, and "the wall is being built in troublous times." A few in this hamiet, half-a-dozen in that city, and a score or two in a province, indicate a " repairing of the old wastes," a dawning of a better day. The Revival in Ulster.

The Revival in Ireland presents, in acciden circumstances, a conspicuous contrast to the Revival in America. The latter was distinguished by the quiet and decorum which marked it in every stage of its progress, and in every locality where its beneficent influences were felt. The former, on the contrary, has been characterized by great physical excitement. When Mr. Arthur wrote his tract, " May we hope for a great revival?" he said, referring to the glorious visita-America, "With us it is now very natural to expect that when the great tide sets in here, it will be in a similar direction and flow in similar channels; but He who alone can bless, delights to show us His sovereign power by divers opera-tions of the same Spirit. Most probably the course and form will be something different,may be entirely different. What, if our national pride in greater propriety and order should be rebuked by the permission of extravagances which have not occurred elsewhere? What, if once more the Lord should humble all existing rumentalities by raising up some new and unwelcome one to do the work?" If not in England, yet in her neighboring isle the event has been in accordance with the imagination of the writer. Let it be understood, we do not accept as true every account that reaches us of the course and conduct of the " special religious services" in Ireland. Some of the stories that are told bear on their surface the impress of falsity, and they come from those who take, because their craft is in danger, a hellish delight in misrepresenting the revival and endeavoring to cover it with obloquy. From pens dipped in the gaul of Roman prejudice it would not be reasonable to expect a fair account of those religious ements which win souls from the bondage of Mariolatry and introduce them to the freedom wherewith Christ makes his people free. There is no end to the caricatures of this work of God which in one way or other find their way into the press of Britain and Ireland. Patience and discrimination must therefore be exercised before a correct judgment can be reached of the revival now in progress in the province of Ulster. But this being admitted, enough is known to justify the assertion we have made that it differs widely in its characteristics from the great awakening which has so lately occurred in closes

One of our English contemporaries, on whose version we can rely, says, "We hear that people faint, and groan, and shrick, and roll in agony on the ground, and that some of these demonstrations are succeeded by an almost total prostration of strength." What is the source of these phenomena? This is a question which the wisest Christians will we think be the slowest to dogmatize upon. The priests of Rome reply at once that they are entirely the work of the devil. The Watchman reports a clerical correspondent of its editors, as saying, "the marvellous physical effects of sudden and powerful conviction are. I believe, the finger of God, to show that there is a supernatural power." But the most prudently expressed opinion which we have seen, and one in which no true Christian will hesitate to coincide, is that of the Rev. Dr Cooke of Belfast : "Although these sufferings and cryings out might or might not be the grace of God, yet there was cut cordwood to obtain money to buy his books no question that the grace of God was there." TORNADOES .- On Tuesday, 28th June, we learn from correspondence in the Toronto Globe, a tremendous tornado swept through the Township of Melanethon from the north west, scooping out a lane through the bush, and carrying barns, greatest fury was confined to a very narrow strip, not over a quarter of a mile in width, within which everything was levelled as if a mighty cataract had rushed through it. Some families have suffered dreadfully. One poor man has lost all, his house and barn being levelled to the last log, and sown broadcast over the fields; some of the heaviest timber being moved more than eight rods, whilst everything in the inside was crushed and tern to pieces. Yet, wonderful to relate, he himself, his wife and three or four children, all within doors at the time, escaped with their lives, although some of them are badly hurt. Gentlemen,—1 confess to have entertained a prejudice against Melodeons before having heard your instruments. But, by your new method of voicing, the monotonous, droning, buzzing sound, has been entirely cured, and in place of it a pure organ-line tone substituted. The action is prompt, and the tuning is really perfect. If your Melodeons receive the patronage they merit, they must come into very general use.

Langley's Cordial Rhubarb.

DERHAPS Rhubarb in the various forms in which it is presented to the public is one of the most reliable medicines for Summer use known. Its pecevilar action, first as an Aperient and then as an Astringent, conduces greatly to the popularity it has obtained; and when to this drug are added other ingredients of aromatic, anteid and caraminative properties, as in the Cordial Rhubard, a compound is formed, invaluable in all essee of Diarrhea, Dysentery, Cholera, &c This preparation is not intended to produce the wonderful effects attributed to some of the Elixirs of the ancients and to many of those of modern invention but is designed to act as a corrector of acidity; as a remover of those disorders of the stomach most prevalent during the fruit season, and as a restorer of the tone of the digestive organs when reaxed through the heat of the weather or from any other cause.

The Pedal Bass Harmoniums Into redule pass Entermunitums are designed particularly for Churches, Lodges, Halls, &c. It is arranged with two manuals or banks of keys, the owest set running an octave higher than the other, and may be used separately, and thus get in one case two distinct instruments; or by the use of the coupler, two banks may be played at the same time by the use of the front set only. This connection with the Fedal Rase will produce the effect of a large organ, and sufficiently heavy to fill a house that sents from 1,600 to 1,500 persons.

The Organ Melodeon
Is designed for parlour and private use. The construction is similar to the Church Instrument, being arrange with two banks of keys, and when used together, by mean of the coupler, is capable of as great power as the church natrument, when used without the Fedals. Also, every variety of Melodeons for Parlour use. Purchasers may rely upon instruments from our-manufactory being made in the most complete and thorough manuer. Having removed to the spacious buildings 5ill Washington Street where we have very facility for manufacturing puoposes, and employ none but the most experienced workmen. In abort, we will promise our customers an instrument equal if not superior to any manufacturer, and guarantee entire and perfect estisfaction. Music Teachers, Leaders of Choirs, and others interested in musical matters, are respectfully invited to valid our male rooms at any time, and examine or test the instruments on eshibition for sale at their pleasure.

MELODEONS RENTED.

Persons who wish to hire Melodeone with a view of purchasing at the end of the year, can have the rest credited as part payment of the purchase money. This antire to worthy of special note, as it enables those who desire a fair test of the instruments before purchasing to obtain it at the expense of the manufacturers, to the extent, at least of a year's rent
