THE FAIR IMPOSTOR.

CHAPTER XXVII.
 PUT TO THE TEST.

A COUPLE of hours later Harold was smoking a cigar in the small gallery; on the morrow the long-looked-for excursion to the Giant's Breastplate was to come off, and as an early hour or two in the turnips had been planned, the male visitors, all ardent sportsmen, had gone to rest.

Harold sat alone, his long legs stretched out before him, his eyes half closed, his thoughts wandering to the little cottage at Higham and the strange friendless young organist.

He had done his best, during his long ride, to face the position, to make up his mind and arrive at some decision. On one side stood Lillian in all her beauty, and his promise to Sir Talbot; on the other, the sweet face which had haunted him since the moment of his first seeing it. Many a man would have set in the first scale the money which would be secured beyond the shadow of doubt by his choosing Lillian, but Harold was too honest, too noble to give that consideration more than a passing thought.

It was not Sir Talbot's wealth which he might secure by marrying Lillian which helped to perplex him; that might go and would go, if it went, without a moment's regret. It was his sacred promise and Lillian's beauty which still held him as a charm.

Had she loved him, had she shown him the slightest favor, anything indeed warmer than the habitual coldness and reserve, Harold's love would have been too firmly established to be shaken by any other woman, though she combined the beauty of a Venus with the witchery of a Cleopatra.

"She never loved, never cared for me!" he mused. "She is far above me; I'm not worthy of her. And yet—yet—my promise; the promise which Sir Talbot regards as sacred, and I am bound to fulfill. What am I to do?"

He had asked himself this question for something like four hours, and was still far of the answer.

"Would to Heaven," he thought, bitterly, "that I had never seen—no, I cannot wish that. Never to have seen her sweet face and heard her voice? No, I can't wish that? How beautiful she looked this afternoon when I held her hand! It was wrong of me to do that; and yet who could help it, after feeling her soft, warm fingers against their face! She is solitary, so friendless and alone! What would she say if I held her again, longer this time, and told her that I loved her? Would it be 'yes,' I wonder? No, she has seen nothing of me, and yet I feel as if I had known her for years. Heaven and earth, what am I saying! and here it is only a short week or two ago since I felt that I would have given all the world to win Lillian's love! Am I fickle, changeable? Yes, that is it. I am like a child who doesn't know his own mind. What shall I do?"

Almost as if in answer to his question, a servant came into the gallery and approached him.

"What is it, James?" asked Harold.

"Sir Talbot sent me to ask you if you would go to him into the library, sir."

Harold rose and followed the man. There was a dim light from a reading lamp in the library, and Harold entered in his usual direct fashion.

"Do you want me, sir?" but his voice dropped suddenly as he crossed the room, and he hurried up to the chair with an exclamation of concern, for Sir Talbot was sitting, lying rather, in his usual armchair, his face white and drawn, his hands lying on his knees supine and limp.

"Uncle! are you ill?" he asked, anxiously.

Sir Talbot held up his hand and painfully motioned him to a seat.

"Sit down, my dear Harold; it is nothing—wait a moment, I shall gain breath. I—am rather faint."

Harold went to the sideboard and brought him a glass of water; Sir Talbot took it with a shaking hand, then fell back with a heavy sigh.

"What is the matter?" said Harold.

"Let me call some one, sir."

"This is no time for modesty, my boy," continued Sir Talbot, as if in answer to his grave look of surprise.

"A father's eyes are sharp, and penetrate the veil with which a young, pure-hearted girl strives to throw over her love. She loves you, Harold! Why—why—wait? For my sake join hands, as you have joined hearts, and let me go hence in peace and contentment. I have only one thought—for your joint happiness. What is to prevent it?"

Harold cleared his throat—something seemed to make it difficult for him to speak.

"No, no," said Sir Talbot, with an effort—"I shall be all right directly. Don't be alarmed, Harold; I—I am used to these attacks."

"Used to them!" echoed Harold, with dismay. "I did not know—"

Sir Talbot smiled.

"No," he said, "why should you? I—I have concealed them as carefully as I can. You—you know my old hatred of—of fuss, Harold, and my dislike to showing any sign of weakness. A stupid feeling, my dear boy, seeing that we are all so very human and so very—very weak. But that was in the old days, when I liked to be considered a man of iron—a man of iron!" he repeated, with a smile—"who was likely to fall to pieces any moment like the veriest clay! Tut, tut! don't look so scared, boy!—I am not going to die this time."

There was a pause, during which he evidently fought for strength, and presently he sat up, and leaning his head wearily on one hand, turned some papers on the table with the other.

"I—I had no idea, sir," said Harold, with sorrowful concern, "that you suffered in this way."

"No," said the old man. "As I say, I am not fond of showing my weakness. I have been subject to these fits of faintness since—since the night Lady Woodleigh left me; sometimes they are mild attacks, sometimes violent. I have had a bad one tonight; and, Harold, I am an old man—one of these little eccentric fits will carry me off, and that before long. I cannot complain; I have been spared to taste true happiness, after long years of remorse, and I shall be content to go; and I shall be, Harold, when the one dear wish of my heart is gratified."

He broke off suddenly, and looked round the room eagerly.

"Where—where is Lillian?"

"She has gone to her rooms," said Harold. "Do you want her, sir? I can fetch her."

The old man looked wistfully at the door and then at Harold, but held up his hand as Harold rose.

"No, not yet—I want to say a few words to you alone first. Harold, do you remember the night you started to seek for her?"

Harold inclined his head.

"Quite well, sir," he said, gravely. The old man leaned forward.

"You remember—you have not forgotten the bargain we made together, Harold?"

Harold shook his head.

"I have not forgotten, sir."

"It was a solemn engagement between us, was it not, Harold? You scarcely know how much depended on its fulfillment; but you can imagine how anxious I am to see it carried out, when I tell you that I cannot rest any longer in this uncertainty. Harold—and his voice quivered appealingly—"I am an old man, tottering, waiting on the brink of that dark river which all must cross; the grim ferryman will be here directly—how soon I cannot tell! Already I hear the splash of the oars, catch glimpses of his black coat. Harold, I cannot cross contented and resigned, until I see the dearest hope of my life fulfilled."

He bent forward in his eagerness and laid his thin, white hand on Harold's strong arm. Harold was about to speak, but the old man stopped him.

"Don't speak; hear me out, Harold. Since the night of her return, a blessed night for me! I watched you—she and you, Harold—you are neither of you completely happy; there seems to be some difference between you. What is the barrier? You love her, Harold, I have seen that long ago—and, indeed, it would be wonderful if you did not! Who could live near her and fail to love, to worship her? And, and—Harold, I think, I am almost sure, she returns your love."

Harold looked up with a slight start of surprise.

"This is no time for modesty, my boy," continued Sir Talbot, as if in answer to his grave look of surprise.

"A father's eyes are sharp, and penetrate the veil with which a young, pure-hearted girl strives to throw over her love. She loves you, Harold! Why—why—wait? For my sake join hands, as you have joined hearts, and let me go hence in peace and contentment. I have only one thought—for your joint happiness. What is to prevent it?"

"You spoke, yourself, of some barrier, sir," he said, gravely.

"Yes, yes, and I think I know what it is," said Sir Talbot, eagerly. "It is pride, Harold, pride!"

"Pride?" echoed Harold.

Sir Talbot nodded.

"To Lillian I have never said one word respecting the estate or the money; she knows—everybody knows—that I have proclaimed you my heir, and see! dreads lest she should be suspected of marrying you for the sake of the title and money. It is pride, Harold! You cannot fail to have seen how proud she is, poor darling!"

"Yes, she is proud," assented Harold, thoughtfully, his brows knit, his lips compressed, his brain in a whirl of indecision.

"Harold, I have hit upon a way of setting that pride at rest. Do not misjudge me, do not misapprehend me when you hear my plan. Harold, you go to the title and the estate. All would have gone to you if my darling had not been found, but now, assured that I should have your concurrence, I have left her all else. It is a large sum of money—nearly one hundred thousand pounds. With this in her hands, she will not hesitate to come to you; her pride will not have any ground left to stand upon, the barrier will be broken down and all will be well."

As he finished he sank back with a sigh of exhaustion.

Harold rose and leaned against the mantelshelf, his hands thrust in his pockets, his head sunk on his breast.

Sir Talbot looked at him anxiously.

"Are you angry, disappointed, Harold?"

"I?" said Harold, promptly meeting the anxious gaze with calm, though troubled steadfastness. "From my heart I can say that I have no feeling of anger or disappointment. Honestly, it is as I would have it. I knew that I could not expect in common fairness to rob her of your wealth. By simple right she was your heirless. If she could bear the title I would relinquish that as cheerfully and ungrudgingly."

him in a rig. Fearing Moir's desperate character the Constables approached close to him in the vehicle and suddenly jumping out all three threw themselves upon the man.

Moir was composed and took his arrest quietly. He told his captors that the men who helped his escape were companions that he got acquainted with in the London jail. They supplied him with money, a screw driver, saw and skeleton key which he got by lowering a cord from the window. They had a code of signals by whistling. After he got through the tram he said that he went to release Taggart because he had helped to conceal the tools. They did not treat him right in the Asylum he said, and that was why he got away.

Murderer Moir Captured at Last.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—William Moir, the escaped murderer from the Hamilton Asylum, was captured on Saturday near St. Davids by Constables. He was working on a fruit farm for $25 a month and board. Moir still wore Fred Butler's Asylum clothes, and was cutting thistles when caught. A man passing in an automobile recognized Moir, and when he arrived at the Falls he notified Constable Maine who sent three constables after Taggart and he separated after getting out. He walked east from Hamilton on the highway on Sunday night after getting out, on Monday he hid in a barn near Morton, and Tuesday morning he started for Niagara Falls and got a ride in a milk man's wagon to Thorold. He then walked to the Falls by the electric railway line. He spent Wednesday in Queen Victoria Park, then retraced his steps to Queenstown, and out to St. Davids. Moir was taken to Hamilton on Saturday night.

His story of the escape may be a pack of lies to shield his confederates. There is a report in Toronto that Taggart was seen near his old home north of the city, and County Constables are stationed in the neighbourhood.

Murdered in Their Bed

Burglars Kill Man and Wife While they Slept.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 20.—Robert Casey, Jr., keeper of a general store on the Philadelphia & Washington Turnpike at Claymont, near here and his wife, were murdered in their beds in their house over the store some time during the night, evidently while they slept.

A Tight Place.

Springhill Has Several Thousand Dollars to Pay and no Money in Sight.

Springhill, Aug. 10.—To-day is the first anniversary of the longest strike not only in the history of Springhill, but probably in the industrial history of Canada. It is being duly celebrated by a picnic at MacKell's Farm, about two miles outside of the town near Rodney. This morning a procession marched through the principal streets of the town. There were about four hundred men in the line of march. It was headed by the Junior Band belonging to the town; behind the band marched two hundred representatives of the U. M. W.; then came the band of the 93rd regiment marching in plain clothes. The band was followed by a number of children bearing small red flags, the emblems of socialism, under charge of Jules Lavenne; following the children came the socialists with their red banner unfurled. This portion of the procession numbered about one hundred persons. The procession marched to the picnic grounds. The wives and families of the men were transported to the grounds in carriages.

It is expected this afternoon that addresses will be given by a number of the prominent local leaders of the U. M. W.

The town of Springhill is in rather an unfortunate financial state at the present time. The town settled its indebtedness to the County by giving a note for $2,500 and this note will shortly be due and there are no funds in sight at present to meet it. In less than two months the town will also have to pay $2,500 interest on its bonded indebtedness and how the money is going to be raised is the question.—Sackville Post, Aug. 12.

"Spiritual Comforts" Provided.

An incident occurred at Farnum camp, where the artillery and cavalry of the Province of Quebec receive their annual training, which illustrates the danger of speaking in metaphors. It is laid down in the regulations of the Militia Department of Canada that during the training manoeuvres the artillery must not fire unless there is a medical officer present with the necessary stores to dress wounds in case of accident. The officer in command of the artillery is held responsible for the carrying out of this regulation, and this year, as usual, a surgeon with an ambulance and stores was detailed to attend the "batteries" during practice. One very hot afternoon two colonels who were inspecting the firing became overcome with thirst, and riding over to the medical officer, asking him what he had in his ambulance, thinking that he would appreciate the significance of the enquiry:

"Bandages, dressings, some instruments and two stretchers," replied the medical officer.

"Any 'spiritual comforts'?" asked one of the colonels.

"No, I did not know they were required," said the medical officer.

"Well, that's something you should never forget," said the thirsty officers covering their disappointment philosophically.

"I promise that the matter will be attended to to-morrow," said the surgeon, and the others rode away.

Next day the two colonels, as the day progressed, began to suffer again from heat and thirst and rode over to the ambulance.

"Well, have you brought those 'spiritual comforts' to-day?" they asked with pleasant anticipations.

"Yes, indeed, I have attended to that," replied the medical officer, and forthwith introduced the chaplain of the 26th Canadian Horse.

H. J. B. WOODS, P.M.G.

The Evening Chit-Chat

There must have been three or four hundred dollars worth. It was a grand funeral. I wouldn't have missed it for anything.

"Mr. L. lived there" pointed out the lady with whom I was driving. "You didn't know him? Why, he was a real prominent man. When he died he had the greatest funeral I ever saw. The flowers were something in a g n i f i c e n t."

I have written before of the cruelty and uselessness of the average funeral service, harrowing feelings already almost past endurance, and doing no one any possible good. To-day I protest especially against its formality and ceremony—the habit of regarding it as a function which must be attended by all acquaintances of the dead man and his family. I do not believe in the old idea that we honor the dead that way. If we really want to do him honor I think we can do it far better by trying to be a bit kinder, a bit more forbearing, a bit less unselfish to our fellowmen whenever we think of him.

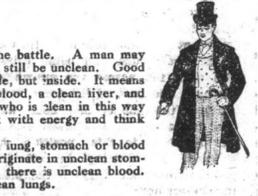

I should like to see funeral services abolished and a simple commitment service left as the only burial ceremony, but if there are to be funerals, let them be attended only by a man's close friends who come spontaneously and not by obligation. An unknown poet has expressed just my feelings on this subject. I wonder if they are yours:

When I am dead
I would not have the rude and gaping crowd
Around me gather, and 'mid lamentations loud
Tell of my virtues; and with vain regret
Demean my loss, and, leaving me, forget.
But I would have the few of kindly heart,
Who when misfortune came, so nobly did their part,
And oft by thoughtful deeds their love expressed;
These would I have, no more, no less.
When I am dead.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Peppermint Cure is. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

Fads and Fashions.

Make a wide hem in the skirt of your growing girl's wash dress two inches deeper than necessary; then run an inch-wide tuck in the hem on the wrong side.

If the knife that is used for cutting or scaling fish is wiped off with a piece of lemon, raw potato, or passed through the flame of a burning match, it will be odorless.

A convenience for the sewing room is to tack a strip of cloth three inches wide across one side of the wall, on which to pin unfinished garments and patterns often in use.

To make an excellent cologne take half an ounce of bergamot, a quarter of an ounce of oil of lemon, half an ounce of English lavender water, half a dram of heroli and a quart of alcohol.

When using a lemon in the kitchen for flavoring purposes, it is an excellent plan to heat it before cutting it in half. The juice will run far more easily. It may be heated by dropping in hot water.

When cutting bias folds of thin material, take an exact square of goods, begin at one corner and roll up goods into a roll, pin to keep from unrolling, and then begin at one end of roll and cut.

Charming bed coverlets are made from the linen sheet. Threads are drawn and the hems hemstitched on all four sides. A design in the corners and centre or a border all the way around is done in heavy mercerized thread.

To avoid unsightly wrinkles in garments when they are packed, fold them over carefully without undue creases, and then slip a roll of tissue paper in the fold. This is a great help in keeping clothes looking tidy.

An excellent way to pad the edges of dollies or centerpieces before buttonholing them is to work the chain-stitch in rather coarse cotton. The depth of the scallop is a determining factor as to the size of the thread to use.

To save time on wash day, and render the clothes line quickly and easily put up and taken down, have rings or screw eyes put on all the posts, cut the clothes line the right length, and on each end fasten a heavy harness snap.

When using thread to crochet or knit, wind the thread loosely into another spool and put into boiling water. This shrinks the thread, and it will not afterwards shrink and give the lace that close compact look which it would otherwise have.

Sewing machines that have become so hard to work as to be almost useless, when oiling brings no improvement, may be improved in this way: plunge into boiling water for a few minutes, dry and oil, and it will run like a new machine.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin, and visible pulsations of the arteries.

There may also be experienced a smothering sensation, gasping for breath, and feeling as though about to die.

In all such cases the action of Dr. Bovey's Iron Tonic Pills in quieting the heart and restoring it to its normal beat, is beyond all question marvellous, as our thousands of testimonials will show.

Dr. Bovey's Iron Tonic Pills are sold by all druggists and dealers at 25c per box.

The Rescue of A Steeplejack.

The King recently made five awards of the Edward and Albert Medals for gallantry in saving life. The Edward medal of the First Class was given to David McWhirter and William McLelland, under thrilling circumstances at a great height.

On July 8th last two steeplejacks were engaged in fixing new lightning conductors to a chimney about 150 ft. high, at the Coltness Iron Works, Newmilns, Lanarkshire. They were at the top, on a scaffold consisting of two planks, about 9 inches broad, when they became affected by gas fumes from the chimney, and one of them became unconscious and fell on the scaffold. The other, after tying his mate to the planks by a rope, was able to descend by a ladder to the ground and received medical attention. Their assistant climbed the ladder, but was not sufficiently experienced to reach the scaffold.

There was not time to obtain the assistance of regular steeplejacks, but two men employed at the iron-works volunteered—David McWhirter and William McLelland. They both ascended the ladder, got on the narrow scaffold, and succeeded in placing the unconscious man in the "boat-swin's chair" used by the steeplejacks, and in lowering him safely to the ground. Neither of them had previously had experience of climbing chimneys, and in addition to ascending a vertical ladder 180 feet high, they had to deal with an unconscious man on a narrow open scaffold, and they also ran the risk of being overcome by the gas fumes.—British Workman.

A Daring But Unsuccessful Attempt

Eureka, Cal., August 22.—The Alaska-Pacific Steamship Company's liner Buckman was held up at sea off this port yesterday by two passengers Captain Ward was shot and killed by one of the men while resisting. The man's companion was overpowered by the engine crew. The passenger who shot the captain jumped overboard with a life preserver.

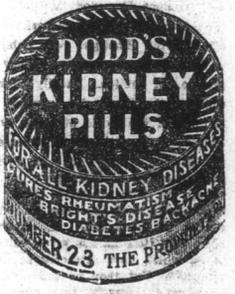

The Buckman was enroute from Seattle to San Francisco. At 2.15 o'clock yesterday morning, Fred. Thomas, a passenger went to the captain's room, while an accomplice descended to the engine room. Both men were armed and they attempted to take possession of the vessel. Captain Ward refused to comply with Thomas' demand and was shot dead. Thomas ran out of the room, and seeing his plans had miscarried, strapped on a life preserver and leaped into the sea.

In the meantime the accomplice had encountered resistance in the engine room. He was overpowered and placed in irons.

The Buckman is now proceeding to San Francisco in charge of First Officer Brennan. She is expected to arrive in quarantine at noon to-day.

The attempt to rob the Buckman was reported to the steamer President, northbound. The President searched the vicinity for Thomas without result.

Word of the hold-up reached this city from Fort Humboldt by wireless from Portland.

Ketchell a Wreck and Out of Game.

New York, August 20.—Stanley Ketchell, the middleweight title holder, has broken down physically and may never indulge in a championship battle again.

Ketchell has decided to go to his home in Michigan for a long rest. He has been travelling at a speedy gait ever since Johnson stopped him in California last fall and has shown little or no desire to maintain strict training. Although he has taken part in several minor bouts, he has done so regardless of his physical condition.

Nutritive Hypophosphites

When a person feels "blue" — "all tired out" — doesn't feel like doing anything — cannot concentrate his mind on his work — feels weak mentally and physically — doubts his powers — complains of poor appetite and sleeplessness — suffers from headaches — then his nervous system is run-down and demands a good up-building tonic.

Nervous exhaustion is a modern disease, caused by too close attention to business, overwork, worry, devotion to trying family cares overstudy, etc.

Nutritive Hypophosphites forms the best nerve and brain food known, and has restored thousands of sufferers to health. Large bottle, $1.00.

Divine Right of Kings.

Ever since Emperor William ascended the throne he has periodically directed the limelight of publicity on himself by some extraordinary expression of opinion. Shortly after he came to the throne he outraged the feelings of the world at large by an address he gave to some recruits in the German Army when he advised them it might be their duty in the course of their military career to shoot down their brothers and fathers at his command.

It was alien to our soil and spirit and never thrown in an English atmosphere. The right to elect and depose Kings was one of the most cherished rights of the Witenagemot, and was not infrequently exercised. Bishop Stubbs in his Constitutional History writes: "If the descendants of the Conqueror had succeeded one another by the ordinary rule of inheritance, there can be no doubt but that the form as well as the reality of ancient liberty would have perished."

His Gracious Majesty King George ascended the throne in virtue of an Act of Parliament. His title is parliamentary, and unlike his cousin, the Kaiser, he would never think of asserting a belief that he reigns by virtue of Divine Right and not by parliaments or People's Assemblies. His title is broad based on the will of the people as constituted in Parliament. King George's latest acknowledgment of this fact was his appeal through his ministers to the representatives of the people and to the press to change the words of the Coronation Oath. To this request they assented and the Supreme Legislative authority which made the title under which His Majesty reigns altered one of the conditions of his title. The King appealed to the Legislative Sovereign, viz., the King in Parliament, and thereby acknowledged the parliamentary authority by which he sits on the Throne.

Fish By Train.

Thursday the first shipment of fish to arrive by train came along in a freight. The fish was packed in 4 qt. casks and came from Bonavista, King's Cove and Catalina for shipment to New York by the S. S. Borna. Shipping fish to the city by train from these places is growing in popularity and it is expected that a large quantity will come by this conveyance during the fall months.

Final Word.

THE FLEISCHMANN CO. Will close their Demonstrations on Monday and Tuesday (26th and 30th), after a most flattering and successful Demonstration of 8 weeks; having made many converts to the use of this old established and famous Yeast. Demonstrations will commence at 2.30 each afternoon. There will also be a Bread Lesson on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, in the Adventist School, Cookstown Road. Refreshments will be served free, and the gas stove will be given away after Tuesday's Demonstration. Don't fail to attend. -adv'tl.

Personal.

Mr. T. R. Job and Mr. T. B. Job and wife, who had been here from England on a vacation, left for home by the s.s. Siberian to-day.
Rev. Monsignor Reardon arrived in town last night by train. He will accompany the Archbishop to Montreal.
Mr. Fred Rose, of Bennett's, returned here from Western Bay a couple of days ago, where he enjoyed a pleasant holiday. The ponds over there teem with fish, and Mr. Rose took 14 dozen fine fish. A boy with him captured 7 dozen.
Mr. John M. Devine, who had been over the Bay, returned to the city by last night's train.
Mr. H. F. Shortis arrived here by last night's train from a holiday spent in Conception Bay. Mr. Shortis remained for quite a while in his native city of Harbor Grace where his friends are legion, and where he was given a good time. His two daughters - Misses Marie and Lilly - accompanied Mr. Shortis on his trip.

Chapter of Accidents.

By the schr. Maria, Leander Pike, master, lying at Bowring's wharf to-day, and which arrived from Scilly Cove, we get particulars of some accidents which occurred at that place and Labrador recently.

SHARK DROWNS BOY.

She reports that the people of Smith Sound recently heard word by schooner of a peculiar happening on the Labrador whereby a little lad named Vardy of the Sound lost his life. It appears that the child was in a boat near his father's vessel and was in the act of thrusting his hands down into the water when a large shark, which was underneath, suddenly rose under the boat and seizing the child by the hands tore him out of the boat and brought him under water, neither the voracious fish nor the boy reappearing. The men on the schooner's deck saw the horrid occurrence but had not time to lift a hand before the child was carried away. The father was disconsolate over the loss of the boy, and when his mother at home learned of it she was in a terrible way.

INJURED BY FALL.

The same vessel also reports that a man named Piercey, at Scilly Cove, was dangerously hurt a few days ago while putting fish in casks on board a lighter to be shipped by the Ethie. He was up on a flake or platform lowering away the casks when a mitten which he wore over one of his hands hitched into a nail in the package and he was thrown into the bottom of the lighter, falling a distance of 15 feet. He was rendered unconscious and for a time it was thought he was fatally injured. For two hours he remained in a state of coma until after great exertion Dr. Anderson revived him. No bones were broken but he was seriously hurt internally, and it will be weeks before he can be about again, if he ever fully recovers from the effects of the accident.

FOUND DEAD IN BOAT.

A man belonging to Scilly Cove, whose name our informants forgot, and who was subject to epilepsy, was found dead in his boat on the fishing ground at Labrador recently. He was in the boat alone and being seized with a fit fell across the gunwale. His head and part of the torso went out over the side of the boat and were immersed, so that while laying over the boat in this position he drowned. Men coming in off the grounds found the body in the position indicated and received a shock on making the discovery. The man was unmarried and his relatives were sorrow stricken over his sad death.

REMOVED DROWNING.

The people of Hant's Harbor received word by a craft from Labrador a few days ago to the effect that a rumor was current on the part of the Labrador from which the craft arrived that a resident of the place was drowned there recently. They could get no particulars and the report as yet has not been confirmed.

More Larcenies.

To-day a resident of the higher levels, who is a near-do-well and well known to the police, was arrested by Const. Mercer for stealing a number of pipe stems, &c., from the jewelry store of Mr. Allan, Water Street. Mr. Allan was absent and he succeeded in getting in there. He will come before the court Monday.

A sailor to-day in an uptown boarding house succeeded in obtaining access to the room of another son of Neptune and made free with his belongings. He stole from him a pair of pants, a gold ring and several other articles. The matter was reported to Sergt. Savage who soon had the culprit in the toils and he is now behind prison bars.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

In the police court to-day two drunks were discharged.

A drunk and disorderly was fined $10 or 30 days, and a second charge of refusing to support his wife and children was not proceeded with for the present.

Albert Blackler, brakeman with the Reid Nfld. Co., summoned a resident of Topsail for obstructing him in the discharge of his duty on board the train on Saturday last. Deft. pleaded guilty through his counsel - Kent, K.C. - and was fined $1 or 6 days. Complaints counsel, Mr. Higgins, stated that the Company did not wish to prosecute the man but to prevent a recurrence of this kind of conduct. Conductors and trainmen are pestered with individuals who bring liquor on the cars and create disturbance and serve out spirits often to other passengers. They intend to invoke the aid of the law in all such cases in future, and will at all hazards stop disorder on the trains. An assault case was withdrawn. A drunk was remanded for eight days.

Another Banker in Port

The banking schr. Cavalier, Capt. R. Hollett, arrived here Thursday night and is at Bowring's premises. She fished down off Quirpon for a week and found cod scarce. She however secured 100 qtls., and has to date 1,700 qtls. for 7 dorries - a very good fare. She came here to be docked, cleaned and painted, after which she will continue the voyage on the Grand Banks. She was in company with the Linus A., which got no fish, and three western bankers fishing there were in the same predicament. The shore folk are doing nothing with the fish and squid is scarce.

How He Was Drowned

More particulars as to how the young man James Walsh, of Outer Cove, was drowned, as exclusively reported by the Telegram, came to hand to-day. He was one of the crew of the s.s. Mintauk, of Greenport, Long Island, and was engaged sealing 90 miles off Martha's Vineyard when the fatality occurred. He was washed overboard and drowned while out fishing. The big seine was shot out several times in an effort to recover his body but all attempts proved futile. Deceased was only 21 years of age and belonged to Outer Cove. He used to work on Bell Island every summer at the iron mines till this season. His friends were strongly opposed to his going to the pogie fishery last spring.

Sunbeam Returns.

Lord Brassy's yacht Sunbeam was towed into this morning by the tug Inghram after a run of 1 day and 21 hours from Canso. She came down the whole way under sail and made 10 knots an hour, showing that she is a clipper ship of the first water. She coasted at Port Hawkesbury and since leaving here, about 3 weeks ago, has been in Montreal and other Canadian ports. She will remain here until Monday and will then sail for England. Lord Brassy with his daughter and party landed this morning and called on His Excellency the Governor.

City Council

Meeting Last Night—Landlords Must Connect Their Houses With Sewer.

The Council met at 7.30, Mayor Ellis presiding. The full Board and representatives of the Herald and News were present.

Mr. Hanlon wrote on behalf of Mr. N. Pike, asking that sewerage be extended to the latter's house on 41 Scott Street.

The Mayor thought it could not be done at present, owing to the heavy expense necessary.

Mr. F. W. Ayre wrote in reference to the Mayor's statement about Bannerman Street. Mr. Ayre thought it very necessary to have the grass removed from the drains, and pointed out that the residents in that locality who were paying taxes were entitled to have this done. He criticised the way in which some of the Council's employees worked, and suggested that the Council try to get the prisoners in the Penitentiary to do some work for them. Ordered that the Road Inspector report on cost of cleaning.

John Cowan complained that Wood's estate had not received compensation for appropriation of land on Long Pond Road some years ago, and asked for an enquiry into same. The Council did not recognize any liability in the matter.

With regard to Joseph Miller's letter, received at last meeting, the Sanitary Supervisor reported that work had not been done satisfactorily at Miller's shop, and that was why patronage had been discontinued.

Councillors Myrick and Martin, who knew the circumstances of the case did not think it fair to take all the work from Miller, because of dissatisfaction over one order. The matter will be considered at a special meeting, to be held shortly, to arrange distribution of work.

P. J. O'Reilly requested payment for a plate glass window which he contended was broken by an employee of the Council. As there was some doubt as to the liability of the Council, the matter was referred to the Solicitor for report.

Rev. J. J. McDermott asked for better light in front of St. Patrick's Church. Referred to the Lighting Committee.

Michael Ryan applied for a permanent position on the Council's staff.

Jas. C. Baird complained of location of telephone pole in centre of drain near his store on George Street, as being cause of collection of water. Ordered that pole be removed and drain repaired.

W. V. Drayton acknowledged Council's letter requesting him to repair pavement in front of his store, and reported that he was taking immediate steps to have same effected.

John Quigly applied for compensation for land taken by Council. Matter will receive attention.

The Gas Co. applied for permission to place a gas engine in George Knowling's premises. Granted.

Francis Pelley asked permission to remove stable. Granted subject to regulations prescribed.

C. P. Eagan and Richard Meyers applied for permit to make repairs to store and dwelling. Granted.

H. J. Stabb and Co. wrote requesting the Council to consider the fact that their proposed freight shed was to be built on their wharf over the water, and asked that the Council would specially consider that circumstance and allow them to erect a wooden structure. Ordered that they be directed to comply with the law.

C. H. Lush applied for permission to build on Letlie Street. Deferred for report.

A discussion arose over the offer of land for street by Mr. Thompson, some years ago. Matter postponed for later meeting.

In connection with the matter of taxing pedlars, hawkers and commercial travellers, Furlong and Conroy reported that these were distinguished from ordinary shopkeepers in not having any established place of business, and that a tax not exceeding $50 could be imposed on them for selling within the city limits.

Councillor Mullaly suggested that there ought to be some official to look after these people and collect the tax.

The Engineer reported on the condition of the old building, 320 Water Street, and outlined the improvements which Kaleem Noah contemplated making. Permission granted to proceed with repairs.

Mr. Brown asked for water service to be extended to his house on Boulevard. Permission given under same conditions as granted Mr. Wood at last meeting.

In connection with the reports on drains, gullies, etc., The Mayor wished to make a few observations on some remarks that had been made about cobble and concrete drains. Some time ago Councillor Martin had proposed that all new drains built of old ones replaced, should be made of concrete, instead of cobble stones. He had opposed that policy because of its enormous cost, as he felt it was impossible for the Council to do it. Even apart from the cost, he wished to repeat his opinion that except in a very few cases, cobble drains were as good, if not better, than concrete. Drains were only meant to carry off surface water, and people should remember that they were never intended to convey washing and scrubbing water and the various kinds of offal one sees thrown in them every day. On streets like Church Hill, Garrison Hill, Military Road, etc., where all the houses had sewer connection, cobble drains showed a respectable appearance, were sanitary, and in every way as good as concrete. He thought it a useless expenditure to replace them with concrete. He wondered if newspaper correspondents and editors who were advocating this change, had any idea of the cost of carrying it out. To take as an illustration the case of Springdale Street, it would cost at least $2,500 to put in concrete drains. This was more than a third of the total appropriation for St. John's West. Again, people were a good deal astray if they thought the substitution of concrete would remedy the evil of dirty drains. The only way to do that was to connect every house with the sewer, then without the dirty water and kitchen offal that now found its way in the drain, it would be an easy matter to have clean streets. He thought that advantage should be taken of the legislation passed last spring to compel landlords to install sewerage. He was surprised to see that the papers had not turned their influence most in this direction, as he felt that it was certainly the right end of the matter, and he believed that time would bear him out. He had observed conditions in a new concrete drain that was recently built in Water Street, and he found from two to three inches of dirty water lying in it for two or three days, and he same thing would happen in any level place in the city. If the plan he outlined were adopted, the expense of flushing could be done away with altogether, and this would be a considerable saving on the Council. He felt it necessary to express himself on these points, as he hadn't time to reply individually to the several writers in the daily press.

Councillor Martin wished to say that the Mayor had misunderstood him, as advocating a complete change from cobble drains to concrete. He had asked to have the alteration "where considered advisable," particularly in congested localities. He could not agree with the Mayor that the stones were as good as concrete, and he mentioned the case of George Street, where conditions had considerably improved since putting in the concrete drain.

The Mayor thought that if the cobble stones were laid in cement it would improve these drains considerably, but he did not favour anything that would encourage people to perpetuate the practice of throwing refuse and dirty water in the drain.

Councillor Myrick thought that

Carew Street was as clean as any in the city, and it had no drain at all; as a result, the women all went to the grating at the end of the street with dirty water, etc., and he thought if the drains were removed from College Square, it would have the same effect.

The Mayor thought that the $30,000 loaned by the Government should be used immediately for the installation of the sewerage system, and instructed the Secretary to inform applicants that as soon as the money was received from the Government, work would begin.

Councillors Ryan, Martin, Coaker and Myrick advocated the extension of the system to York Street. Work will commence as soon as possible.

The Mayor referred to some remarks in the Telegram, about the purchase of land around Windsor Lake, and several of the Councillors said that some people were criticising the Council for spending money in this way. The Mayor pointed out that the Council had been advised that it was absolutely necessary to undertake this work, if the city's supply of water was to be made pure. Capable chemists had analyzed the water, and found it impure. Our late Governor, Sir Wm. MacGregor, had expressed himself very strongly on the matter, and the Premier had offered to pay half the interest on cost from the road grants of St. John's, East and West. It was all right for irresponsible men to stand off and criticize, but it was their duty, in the responsible position they occupied, as Councillors, to take every precaution to safeguard the city's health. The work would exceed the estimate about $2,000; so far, $18,100 in claims had been allotted.

It was decided to advertise for tenders for hay.

Dr. Brehm reported that he did not agree with Mr. Meyer's suggestion re the use of carbolic acid as a disinfectant in place of Jeye's Fluid.

Callahan, Glars and Co.'s application for permission to build stable, was approved, provided they comply with regulations.

Councillor Channing complained of condition of grating on Geo. Street. Matter will receive attention of Inspector.

Lists of motor licenses and patronage, asked for by Mr. Mullaly, were tabled.

Councillor Coaker gave some suggestions for improving work on Robinson's Hill, and asked for repairs to train at Hanley Place.

Councillor Mullaly again referred to the unsatisfactory work of the street car sprinkler. Ordered that the Inspector make a report on same.

The matter of James Byrne's request for increase in pension, was left over for a special meeting.

Councillor Mullaly moved that a light be placed in British Square. He also intimated his intention of withdrawing his motion in connection with the Myron dismissal.

It was resolved that residents of Knight, Carew and Colonial Streets, and Hon. Jas. Angel, P. Murphy and Mrs. Volsey, of Hamilton Street, be notified to connect with sewer.

After the passing of the pay rolls, etc., the meeting adjourned at midnight.—Daily News.

New Cricket Grounds.

The idea, we learn, is entertained by the cricketers of the city—who intend making a determined effort to revive interest in the game—of securing the foot of Bannerman Park for matches in future. A splendid crease could be made here, and it would not in the least interfere with the rights of citizens in the park. This portion of the Park is not much frequented, and it would be an ideal place for holding matches, being so near the city. It would be a ground equal to if not better than Pleasantville, and if secured interesting matches will be played there next season.

THERAPION

A complete revolution has been wrought in the department of medical science, whilst thousands have been restored to health and happiness who for years previously had been merely dragging out a miserable existence.

THERAPION No. 1—A Sovereign Remedy for discharges, suppurating ulcers, the use of which does irreparable harm by laying the foundation of structure and other serious diseases.

THERAPION No. 2—A Sovereign Remedy for primary and secondary venereal eruptions, ulcers, pains and swellings of the joints, and all those conditions which mercury and arsenic are so popular but erroneously supposed to cure. This preparation purifies the system through the blood and thoroughly eliminates all venereal matter from the body.

THERAPION No. 3—A Sovereign Remedy for debility, nervousness, impaired vitality, sleeplessness, indigestion and nervous headache or pain, loss of appetite, indigestion, pains in the back and head, and all diseases resulting from indigestion, early excess, etc., which the faculty of surgery utterly ignores, heretofore.

THERAPION is sold by all Chemists throughout the world. Price in England 2/6 and 4/6. In ordering, state which of the three numbers you require, and observe that the word "THERAPION" appears on British Government stamps in white letters on a red ground affixed to every package by order of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners, and without which it is a forgery.

THERAPION may now also be obtained in Drages (Tasteless) form.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

Mr. H. F. Shortis and his daughter, Miss Maria, intending leaving for home by this evening's train after having spent a very pleasant visit to Harbor Grace and Bristol's Hope.

A number of young ladies and gentlemen from this town and Carleton near held a basket party at Bristol's Hope on Wednesday last, which proved most enjoyable.

Dame rumor says that the race boat Magpie will likely be purchased from Mr. Warren by the S. O. E. Society.

The hay crop this year is far heavier than for many years past, which will be a good thing for cattle raisers. Potatoes, too, are showing good signs of an abundant yield.

Miss Bride Kennedy, of St. John's, who has been in town for several weeks, the guest of Mrs. Timothy Hayden, leaves to-morrow for home. She is much pleased with her visit to Harbor Grace.

In conversation a few days ago with an old Irish lady, who has resided here since she was a very small girl, we learn the following as to tea drinking, which Chesman and the other tea agents will be pleased to know. When referring to her good health she said: "I am over 85, and for the past 60 years at least my first duty on rising in the morning is to put down the teapot and get three cupsfuls of extra strong tea, and, mind you, I must have sugar for that lot, although molasses will do at other times." "Many people say strong tea is poison," was our reply. With a merry laugh the old lady said, "People who call it poison are too mean to use it. I am not poisoned yet, anyway."

Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Laurence Hanford took place at Petty Harbor at 4 p.m. yesterday. It was attended by all the people of the harbor, many from Bay Bulls and other places, and over 100 were present from the city. The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket. Mr. N. J. Murphy acted as undertaker, and Rev. R. Tierney, P. P., gave the final absolution at the church. The casket was covered with floral offerings from friends of the deceased. Interment was at the R. C. Cemetery.

Dogs Bite Children.

Last evening in the West End a little girl named Sullivan was set upon by a dog and bitten about the hips and legs. A doctor was called and cauterized the wounds which were painful though not serious. A few days ago a little boy named Power was also bitten by a dog and had to be treated by a doctor.

Municipal Matters.

A Word of Thanks.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir,—I think it is right that I should say a word or two to the editors and correspondents of the city newspapers who have, from various points of view, discussed the matters which I have been agitating in your columns for some months past. This is the first time in the history of our town, so far as I can discover, when the views of a private citizen upon municipal affairs have succeeded in attracting the attention and exercising the minds of even a small section of the public; perhaps this is for the reasons that I am the first private citizen who has thought it worth his while to persist in forcing his opinions upon the attention of the public. I cannot regret that I have occupied so much of your space, for there seems how to be growing up in the minds of our people a desire to think about municipal affairs and to express their thoughts. That the opinions I have expressed and the suggestions I have made have been received with respect, and even a general measure of approval, is naturally gratifying to me, and I beg to tender my thanks to those who have seconded my feeble but well-intended efforts. Nor am I less grateful to those who have temperately and courteously expressed their dissent from my opinions. Perhaps I ought to be more grateful to them than my backers, for it is in this very dissent that I see the hope of the town. My aim from the moment when I first began to address the public on municipal affairs was to provoke expressions of individual opinions upon matters of deep interest to the town from all classes of our citizens. Though I honestly am persuaded of the justice of every statement I have made and of every opinion and suggestion I have advanced, I regard the triumph of my own views as a matter of the least possible importance. I desire to see this town admit most cheerfully that such a system is much to be desired, but there seems to me to be a number of practical objections to its inauguration upon a scale even remotely approaching completeness. And until the system is universal I think it will be admitted that we must expect filth to be thrown upon the streets and into the drains. And so long as filth is thus exposed to a process of me must take measures to mitigate instead of abolishing the dangers which this exposure occasions. My first objection to this kind of perfection is that it is impossible. The streets which are now most pestiferous are those, of course, where the poorest classes of houses exist. How poor an enormous number of these are the general public have, I fear, little conception. To introduce into tenements which are nothing but match-board a water and sewerage system would be to invite the certainty of a freezing up of the whole supply along whole streets and sections of the town in the winter time. The consequences can easily be imagined. The dangers which are now alleviated by the sanitary scavengers would then be intensified and remediless, for the introduction of the water and sewerage would involve the curtailment of the scavenging system. With the sewers frozen up and no means of collecting the nuisance, which had its usual outlet through the sewers, the accumulations of filth on our streets would be unexampled even in our history. And you could not make the houses in the streets which are now the foulest frost proof. Unless you can take reasonable precautions against the danger of a universal freeze-up, you must be cautious how you introduce water and sewerage into these houses. And then, again, to introduce this system must be a matter of time; it cannot be done with any approach to completeness in a hurry. Then what are we to do in the meantime? Suffer the present conditions to exist? I trust not.

And What About the Expense?

True, the landlord will bear it in the first instance, but the tenant must immediately begin to pay an addition to his rent. And how can the tenant of the poorest and most dangerous class of houses afford such an addition to his monthly or weekly outlay of money? And even if all these objections are overcome, what about reforming the habits of uncleanness which have of necessity been engrained upon the nature of people who have lived in filthy surroundings all their lives? These habits will not be reformed in a year or in several years. And you must protect the city against them in the meantime. No, there can be no doubt that an extension of the water and sewerage system must be inaugurated, but the work must be done cautiously and gradually and with due regard to the dangers which lie in the way. But, in the meantime, and at the present time, the city must, if it hopes to escape epidemic and endemic disease, reform the drains. To neglect this for the sake of a better system which may come in the distant future, and may not, is to court disaster. How it may be done without interfering with the project which Mr. Wood and the Herald support, and which I support, with due modifications, I think I shall be able to suggest, for a friend of mine has outlined to me a proposal which, to my inept judgment, at least, seems feasible and judicious. I might say much more on this sub-

The Kaiser's Latest.

Special to Evening Telegram. BERLIN, Aug. 26.

The speech delivered last night by Emperor William of Germany before the Provincial Banquet at Koenigsberg, in which he reiterated and emphasized his belief in the Divine Mandate by which he ruled, referred to the Prussian Crown as bestowed by God's Grace and not by Parliaments or people's assemblies and laid a lance against the present movement for women suffrage, is the political sensation of the hour. The leading organs of the German Press extend comments to it, generally criticising the Emperor's utterances and there are indications that the discourse will have a deep political effect upon the country, nearly all the Berlin papers discussing the subject in connection with the political crisis of November, 1908, when the publication by the "London Daily Telegraph" of an interview with the Emperor aroused a storm against the uncontrolled public speaking of the Emperor. The serious "Vossische Zeitung," "The Tageblatt," "The Post" and other papers point out the constitutional character of the Kingdom of Prussia, in the Empire and inquire whether the Chancellor Von Hofwieser was privy to the Emperor's intention of delivering such a speech. They predict that it will lead to a renewed discussion of the Emperor's constitutional position when the Reichstag re-assembles in November. The strongly Monarchist "Tagliche Rundschau," the favourite journal of army officers, says: "This speech means a storm. Never before has Emperor William set into such clear relief his romantic medieval idea of his non-responsibility to pass judgment, of his not being bound by the constitutional co-operation of the people, and ruling by God's free Grace against all those convictions and feelings which today determine our existence as a State."

The Vatican's Attitude

Special to Evening Telegram. ROME, Aug. 26.

Cardinal Merry Del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, came to Rome this morning from his summer residence for a reception of the Diplomatic Corps. Among those who attended was Marquis De Gonzales, in charge of the Spanish Embassy at the Vatican, since the recall of the Ambassador Marquis De Ojeda. His conference was longer than usual. It is reported that the conversation of Spanish Representative with the Cardinal Del Val confirmed the details of the note sent to Spain, which maintains unchanged the attitude and policy of the Holy See, without making a step either forward or backward. The note asserts that if Premier Canalejas persists in maintaining his position, the effect will be left in Statu Quo, the Spanish Catholics being left to decide between the rights of the Church and the policy of the Government. Marquis De Gonzales declared he had received no further instructions from Madrid since communications to the Government the note of the Vatican.

Two Hundred Dead.

Special to the Evening Telegram. SPOKANE, Washington, Aug. 26.

Telegraphic communication with the St. Joe Valley in Idaho was restored today for the first time since the forest fires became serious, but as yet it is impossible to verify the reports of large loss of life. Additional to the 88 reported dead by the Government officers, the estimate of approximately 200 dead in the whole fire area, is adhered to by those most familiar with the situation. It is thought that the list of missing will be materially reduced.

Mr. H. F. Shortis, accompanied by Miss Shortis, returned from Harbor Grace last night.

Made Healthy and Sweet

and its affairs wisely and economically administered. The means by which this result is to be achieved are quite indifferent to me. I suggest means, it is true, and advocate them to the extent of my powers, but I shall always be happy if I see other means adapted to the end suggested and adopted. And I can see only one way to achieve the result, and that is to induce the general body of our citizens to take a hearty interest in the affairs which so deeply concern them. I have never had the least hope of influencing the Municipal Council by any direct appeals of my own; my only hope has been that I might be able to persuade the public generally to exert an influence upon the administration which I am powerless to do myself. I think now that the day is coming when citizens will insist that their representatives to the Council govern the city according to the wishes of the inhabitants, namely, cleanly, honestly, intelligently, and economically. As these have always been my views and intentions, I hope that my friendly critics in the press will not take it amiss if I join only very sparingly in my discussion on the opinion I advocate from time to time. If I refrain from participation in the debate I ask them to impute it to no contempt of hostile criticism and to no reluctance to abandon a fight when it waxes hot. If I succeed in suggesting matter for debate, I think that I shall have done all that can be expected of me. I am rather concerned that the public should discuss the questions I raise, than that I should succeed in converting the multitude to my way of thinking. Let the opinion of the public be expressed.

Let the Public Will Be Done.

Besides, I have a great many matters to bring forward yet, matters which I have not so much as touched upon in the past, and I cannot expect people to be listening to me all the time. I am content to hammer away at the same old topics until I awaken others to interest themselves in them, but when that result is attained, I prefer to find some new subjects to dilate upon. My only difficulty will be in making a choice out of the many subjects which are crying out for discussion. But, though I am laying down a rule for myself in the future, I find that I must break it before I adopt it. My excuse must be that the controversy is not yet under way and I must not desert the field the moment my gauntlet is picked up. Mr. Ralph Wood and the Editor of the Evening Herald see the real solution of the health question in the complete inauguration of a water and sewerage system in the houses of the town. I

International Strike of Seamen.

Special Evening Telegram. COPENHAGEN, Aug. 26.

Delegates from all the Seamen's Unions of Europe and America represented at the International Congress of Sailors and Marine Firemen in session here, agreed this morning to declare an international strike, unless the shipowners of every country concerned agree to the formation of a Board of Conciliation to deal with the grievances of the men. The proposal for the strike was the subject of heated discussion at the Congress, the delegates of several of the continental countries having opposed the suggestion of British Union for a strike. The date of threatened strike will be known only to the leaders of the International Congress who are pledged to secrecy. It is confidentially expected that the full Convention will approve the strike resolution when it is laid before the Conference for final action.

Had Eczema In Both Legs

Remarkable cure of Chronic Eczema by use of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

You could scarcely imagine a more severe case of this condition than the cure of Mrs. Clark recorded here. For twenty years she suffered all the tortures of this terrible disease and tried every kind of prescription, of doctors and the cure commonly recommended. Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Ont., writes:—"My mother had Eczema in both legs for about 20 years and suffered from the dreadful itching, stinging sensations which can never be described. She doctored and tried everything for it but got no relief until she used Dr. Chase's Ointment which she was recommended to her by a friend. She found that this brought relief and by continuing its use has been cured of Eczema. I do not think any one could have this horrible disease any worse than she did and can recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as a thorough cure for Eczema." Do not get it until she uses Dr. Chase's Ointment as it is sold at dealers of Edmondson, Bates & Co. Toronto. Dr. Chase's Ointment was first

A Brutal Act.

A couple of days ago Mr. Thomas Linegar, who keeps a farm on the Blackhead Road, made the discovery that one of his cows had been brutally treated by some unknown person. He found that the animal had nearly two feet of its tail cut off and it was evident that it had been cut at first with a knife and then broken or twisted off. The poor beast must have suffered intense pain and it is to be hoped that the S. P. C. A. will leave no stone unturned to discover and procure punishment of the perpetrator of such a cruel deed.

Broke His Arm.

Yesterday afternoon as a little boy, named Lewis, aged 8 years, was playing about Beaumont Street with some companions he slipped and fell across that thoroughfare and broke his left arm above the elbow. The lad who suffered much pain was borne into his house and Dr. Campbell who was called, set the fractured bone having had to chloroform the lad to perform the operation.

An old man was found lying drunk on the roadside near Pitts' premises.

In the East End, by Constable Tucker last evening, the officer procured a cab and had him driven to the police station.

A Painful Accident.

Miss M. Kelly, who resides with her sister, Mrs. Flynn, at the Cross Roads, met with a painful accident a few evenings ago. She was standing on a couch, adjusting a picture on the wall when she slipped and fell heavily to the floor. She suffered painful injuries to her legs, one of which her friends for a while thought was broken. It was not, but was badly sprained and is since swollen and discolored. She has since suffered much pain and cannot attempt to walk.

CHURCH POINT, July 31, '08.

Blacking & Mercantile Co., Ltd., Amherst, N.S.

Dear Sirs,—Nearly one year ago I had my first order of "Mathieu's Syrup" from you. It was not known in this country, and I gave samples to several families whom I knew would use it. After a few weeks I began to have a call for it, and trade has increased wonderfully since. I have not the least doubt but that it will soon be the best selling remedy for coughs, colds, etc., on the market. In my store here sales are good and our people ask for it. Several stores in this country now keep it in stock and report sales increasing. I have bought from you since August 10th, 1907, 4 Gross and have only 3 dozen on hand of this date, and which I am holding for retail trade in my store. Yours truly,

Regatta Committee Meeting Last Night.

A meeting of the Regatta Committee was held last night to finalize the work of the season. Hon. John Harvey, the President, occupied the chair. There were also present: Secretary Noonan, Treasurer Crotty, Messrs. P. Laracy, C. Ellis, N. Andrews and W. J. Higgins. Besides two sets of silver medals the Treasurer reported a balance of $135.26 on hand. After the report had been adopted the gold medal for second place won by C. Stanley, was presented to him by the chairman who warmly congratulated him. Mr. P. Laracy moved that the £5 donated by Lord Brassey be added to a fund to purchase a set of medals for the rowers who will succeed in breaking the Outer Cove men's record of 9.13. This was carried unanimously. After several other matters of minor importance were discussed the meeting adjourned.

Price 5c. a cake. Wild Strawberry Compound will relieve promptly, and effectually cure all kinds of summer and bowel complaints. 25c. a bottle.—adv.

Hand Badly Smashed.

While working in the Reid Nfld. Co.'s machine shops a few days ago Mr. Fred Butler suffered a nasty accident. He had his right hand caught in the planer and it was badly smashed, the flesh being torn from the fingers. He was treated by Dr. Stafford, to whom he went, and will not be able to resume work for a week or ten days yet. A man named Power also had his hand badly hurt there a few days ago and is being attended by Dr. Campbell.

Health Report.

One case of diphtheria developed during the past week. There are now seven cases in the Hospital and three being treated at home. There are four cases of scarlet fever in the Hospital and four being nursed at home. There are also two of typhoid at home. To quote the words of our contemporary: "Not for a year has there been so less infectious cases reported."

A New Racer.

We learn from members of the Regatta Committee that Mr. W. D. Reid has definitely decided to build a new race boat next season. She will be a beauty and will be built by a boat maker of repute. A number of gentlemen also project the building of a new racer, so that next season's Regatta will be one of the most interesting ever held.

The people of Avondale are looking for the motor bike man who knocked down a blind girl there last Wednesday and injured her severely. He drove through the place at a high rate of speed, and when he knocked down the girl did not stop to inquire about her condition.

The Canadian Naval Uniforms.

London, August 19.—The uniforms of the crew of the Rainbow, the vessel which is to be the nucleus of the Pacific section of the Canadian Navy, are identical with those of the crews of the British Navy, except that the letters "H.M.C.S." replaces "H. M. S." on the caps.

Picnic at Job's Cove.

An enjoyable time was spent here on August 15th. In the afternoon there was a picnic on the school grounds. Unfortunately the weather was poor and many interesting items of the field sports were left out. However, some exciting contests were run off and created much amusement for spectators. In the juniors' football match, Shamrock vs. All-Corners, the former won by 4 goals to nil. After a lunch had been served the event of the evening came on, a football game between the Terra Nova Club of Broad Cove and the Shamrocks of this place. These teams are old rivals and the match was looked forward to with interest. Spectators were not disappointed, the game was a fast, clean exhibition and excitement prevailed from start to finish. In the first half Broad Cove, playing with the wind in their favor, scored. When ends were changed many expected to see the Shamrocks win, but their shooting was decidedly poor. Eventually they notched up the equalizer and for a time determined to win out, but Broad Cove put up a good defence and the game ended in a draw, one goal each. The question of supremacy is still undecided. Both teams were dined in the school subsequent to the match. Speeches were made by Rev. J. Lynch, Dr. Ferguson and Messrs. King, Baggs and English. A dance attended by about one hundred couples was kept up till the wee sma' hours.

Druggist's Fatal Error.

Detroit Girl Dead Through Wrong Labelling of Bottle. Lucknow, Ont., Aug. 19.—Margaret Murray, of Detroit, who had been visiting here, is dead at the home of her uncle, Donald Murray, as the result of taking a poisonous medicine dispensed in error by a local druggist. Miss Murray was 19 years old, and the daughter of a prominent dry goods merchant in Detroit. She had asked for rochelle salts, and was given a preparation taken from a jar labelled to be such, but which had been wrongly filled with another powder. Apparently she was the first and only person to get the wrong preparation.

Arnst Retains World's Sculling Championship.

Defeated Barry, the English Champion, by Two Lengths on the Zambesi River.

Livingstone, Africa, Aug. 18.—The sculling match for the championship of the world between Richard Arnst, of New Zealand, and Eddie Barry, of London, was won to-day by Arnst, the champion, by two lengths.

The race was rowed upon the Zambesi river, a short distance from the famous Victoria Falls, over a course of three and a half miles. The stakes were $2,500 a side. The men met upon an ideal course, a fine stretch of river, half a mile in width, within sight of the island from which Dr. Livingstone, 55 years ago, caught his first view of the Victoria Falls. Until a time within the memory of living men the scene of the race lay in an unexplored part of the dark continent, never looked upon by white men, but the river banks where not long ago the crocodile and hippopotamus held unchallenged sway were to-day thickly lined with holiday-makers, brought here by the railroad completed in 1904. Tugs with cinematographs darted about the river taking pictures of the race and other usual accompaniments of rowing contests in the older countries were not lacking.

The Zambesi was selected as a compromise location for the race, Arnst, who has held the championship for three years, objecting to the expense of the trip to England, while Barry, who is a Thames waterman, and the holder of the English sculling championship, was opposed to the long journey to New Zealand.

World's Champions. A list of the world's sculling champions is:— 1883—Hanlan beat Ross. 1884—Hanlan beat Laycock. 1884—Beach beat Hanlan.

1885—Beach beat Hanlan. 1886—Beach beat Gaudaur. 1886—Beach beat Ross. 1887—Beach beat Hanlan. 1888—Kemp beat Clifford. 1888—Kemp beat Hanlan (twice). 1889—Searle beat O'Connor. 1890—Kemp beat Matterson. 1891—Stanbury beat McLean. 1892—Stanbury beat Sullivan. 1896—Stanbury beat Harding. 1901—G. Towns beat Gaudaur. 1904—G. Towns beat Tressider. 1905—Stanbury beat G. Towns. 1906—G. Towns beat Stanbury. 1907—G. Towns beat Durman. 1907—Webb beat G. Towns. 1908—Arnst beat Webb.

Arnst was the champion bicycle rider of Australia until he turned his attention to rowing. Webb captured the world's championship from Charlie Towns, after the latter had received the title as a gift from his brother George. The latter had beaten Eddie Durman, of Toronto, just before his retirement in 1907.

Ernest Barry belongs to a family well known along the Thames river-side, his elder brother William having once won the championship of England. He stands 6 feet in height. His racing weight is about 160 pounds. Barry won Doggett's Coat and Badge in 1902, and has since done a considerable amount of sculling. He trained H. T. Blackstaffe the winner of the Olympic Sculls.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S Liniment in my family for years, and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

Tim Shannahan on the Automobile Tax.

Someone blundered in framing the law by which the Auto tax should be collected annually, and now we find that the owners of those machines escape paying this year. It will be interesting to watch the action of auto owners in this matter, for we all know that if the mistake didn't occur the tax would have to be paid up, not for one year, but for each and every year. Surely our sports of the auto class do not want to shy clear, knowing as they do that the Council is short of money, and we had such a fuss kicked up over the cleaning up of our city. Every owner of an auto is supposedly a rich man, the very fact of his owning an auto proves that. It must also be supposed, or expected, that auto owners are in that class who claim to be admirable citizens, and being such it must be expected of them that they would not try to shy clear of handing in their spoondolls to the Council to keep the streets of the city in repair. Good citizenship is expected from the class that constitute the automobile owners, and if they do not set the example for people like Shannahan and Tucker, we can't expect any great things in the way of city pride from the rank and file. Here is a grand opportunity for wealthy men to arouse true civic pride, to stir up a live interest in helping along the Council in their up-hill fight to make our city cleaner and brighter. We have eighty or more automobiles running in this town, and if the owners voluntary contributed their ten dollars each, we would have eight hundred or a thousand dollars which would do a great deal towards beautifying our city. No one ever dreamed of autos escaping the tax this year, it happened simply through an oversight, a blunder on some one's part, but surely our interest in civic affairs is not such that the upper ten would give it to the commonality to say that they are using the streets of the city without paying a cent for the privilege. Let some one start the ball a rolling by sending in his ten dollars, and I have no doubt the whole bunch will follow suit. If the Council cannot accept their money because the mistake was made, then all I have to say is that if we are going to run this poor town on straw splitting, we will never accomplish anything. We read of men in other countries donating thousands of dollars to their native cities, and surely we are not expecting too much when we look to the well-to-do to pay a tax which they may escape on a mere technicality. The subscriptions by those people who own autos, to every object under the sun, clearly proves that they are not of the class to try and escape paying a few paltry dollars; and if the matter is handled rightly we will soon have a thousand that can be spent in cleaning up our town and repairing the sidewalks on the back streets.

Seen on Harvey Road.

Two fishermen of the higher levels, who sell their catch from a wheelbarrow, going from door to door, were the "cynosure of neighbouring eyes" on Harvey Road last evening. They had taken more vodka than is necessary for the successful guiding of a wheelbarrow, and the way that they wobbled about created much amusement for pedestrians passing that way. They took turns in trying to steer the wheelbarrow, one trying to outdo the other, and at last both sat on the barrow apparently exhausted to try and regain their sea legs.

ANNIVERSARY.—To-morrow will be the 29th anniversary of the dedication of St. Patrick's Church by Rt. Rev. Dr. Power.

Hump's Good Work.

The whaler Hump, Capt. Davidson, arrived at Trinity yesterday with 4 whales, which she took in Conception Bay. The ship left here Tuesday after being dry docked and killed 6 fish in Conception Bay on her way down to Trinity. She thus secured 10 fish this week and has now a total of 90 to her credit. Last year Capt. Davidson was high liner of the fleet and secured 131 fish. Up to this time last year she had only 50 whales, so that with 90 caught to date it looks as if the vessel, if her luck continues, will take 150 or more this season. Capt. Davidson is an energetic man and deserves the success he has achieved.

BROKE HER ARM.—Mrs. Wylie fell and broke her arm while skating at the Roller Rink last evening.

PUBLIC NOTICE!

The Newfoundland Agricultural Board has ascertained that certain plots of potatoes in the neighbourhood of St. John's are affected by the dreaded

"Potato Canker" Disease.

This is the same disease that was first detected at Red Island, in Placentia Bay, about a year ago, and is so fatal in its effects that if not immediately checked the absolute impossibility of growing potatoes in Newfoundland for years to come, is sure to result.

The Agricultural Board therefore requests that all potato growers who may observe indications of disease in their crop will at once notify the Secretary of the Agricultural Board at the office of the Department of Agriculture and Mines.

The Agricultural Board recognizing the incalculable injury that must accrue to the country if this disease be not immediately stamped out earnestly requests all persons to aid the efforts now about to be made to effect this.

In February last the Agricultural Board issued an illustrated pamphlet from a special report by Professor Gussow on this disease. Some thousands of copies were sent to Outport Magistrates and Clergymen, and the Board now requests that potato growers in any affected Districts will procure a copy of this report and be guided by its recommendations.

By order,

FRANK H. SIMMS, Secretary
