A MYSTERIOUS QUEST.

CHAPTER V.

AN IMPORTUNATE SUITOR.

"It makes me blush to tell you this, but Annetta felt powerless to refuse him. So merely eliciting from him the promise that he would leave me here after undisturbed, she accepted from him the money which was necessary to robe the couch as he desired, and prepared to receive you, whom he designated as the artist he meant to employ. That I should wake, she knew; but she trusted that we should find you a gentleman, and we have, so much so that I do not believe you will betray us, even if this fanatic insists upon having a painting completed from this sketch."

"A painting? He shall never have the sketch even!" exclaimed young Degraw. "See your features in the grasp of a coarse man anxious to make money by exposing them to public view! Never! Not if I have to destroy!"

"Don't she cry, grasping his hand in hers, for he had made a movement as if to tear the drawing he had made. 'He is a dangerous man, Annetta says he is not to be trusted. If he detects the deception to which this old friend of mine has subjected him, what may we not expect in the way of persecution? Indeed, I dare not trust myself to this unknown man's mercies. I would rather be thought me dead till—'"

"Till what?"

"Till I can fly his reach or so merge myself in some other identity that he will never dare approach me again either as a lover or a friend."

"Pretty coward! And so you will not trust me to manage this man. I do not fear him."

"You are not a woman."

"True. Well, I will humor this whim. I will take the picture and tomorrow Annetta may send him to my studio. Meantime, may I hope that you will sleep sweetly, and without fear?"

"Oh," she murmured as she caught his look, so unmistakably full of suppressed love; "how can I thank you for your sympathy? How can I reward you for your goodness?"

"By such sleep," he answered. And taking her hand in his, he carried it to his lips, when, suddenly, from the doorway communicating with the room, a voice penetrated harshly through the apartment, crying, with a marked foreign accent:

"And who may you be, sir and what is your business here?"

"To the sound of a scream from the signorina's lips, young Degraw turned. Before him, in the doorway I have mentioned, he saw standing the figure of a man so evidently Italian in his appearance and bearing, that it did not need the hurried bound and startled exclamation of the Portuguese for him to recognise in his menacing intruder the Signor Montelli.

"So, so, we are to wind up with a scene," thought he; and instinctively stepped between this stranger and the shrinking figure of the Signorina. But the precaution seemed needless. At the first words uttered by the Portuguese, the Italian broke into a harsh laugh, and drawing the old crone after him, left the room and shut the door behind him. Mr. Degraw, surprised by this sudden departure, stood staring, while the signorina trembled so that she seemed in danger of falling.

"It is very strange," quoted the former, "He did not seem to notice that the couch was empty and that you stood living and breathing before him. The Portuguese cannot be as true to you as you thought. She must have told him that you would wake—"

"Oh! oh! hush!" broke from the young girl's lips, as the door opened

"Be Warned by Headache"

It tells of Serious Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys—Try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

You can stop a headache with powerful drugs. But it is not generally wise to do so.

A headache almost always warns you of derangements of the digestive system, the liver, kidneys or bowels.

Awaken the liver to healthy action by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you not only free yourself of headache, but remove the cause which will soon lead to more dangerous results than headache.

Pains are the result of poison in the system and whether you have headache, backache or aching limbs, you can be almost sure of relief and cure by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They are wonderfully prompt, as well as definite and thorough in action. They can depend upon them, no matter how long-standing or complicated your case. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box; all dealers or Edranson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

again and the old woman stepped in. "I am so bewildered, I do not know what to make of all this." And leaving him, she advanced toward the door, who met her with a look that added to his surprise and her perplexity.

A short interchange of words followed, and then the old woman drew back and the signorina turned. But with what a different air and with what a different look. Young Degraw would hardly have known her face if he had not already seen it under the influence of various emotions, and when she opened her lips, she seemed to find it so hard to speak that in mercy he was going to begin the conversation for her, when her troubled found a tongue and she exclaimed:

"I cannot endure any more tonight; you must go and let me find some rest. Perhaps, to-morrow—"

"But this wretch," he interposed. "Am I to leave you to his mercy?"

"He is gone and Annetta has locked the door. I do not fear him; he will trouble us no more."

"She looked so confident and yet so discouraged, that he did not know what to say. It seemed dreadful to leave her thus, and yet neither in look nor tone could he discover any inducement to stay. All the light had gone out of her face, and she seemed only a waiting image, eager for him to be gone.

He drew a deep breath and held it up to his hand. "To-morrow, then," said he.

She nodded, sighed, and something like a sob seemed to rise in her throat.

"Oh, go!" she cried, "go, go!" And she let her hand touch his before she pointed toward the door.

"I will be here at three," he murmured. And tearing his gaze away from her drooping face and figure, he dashed away from her drooping face and figure, he dashed across the threshold and out into the hall. As the door closed behind him her sob broke her bounds, and he distinctly heard her moan. But he dared not go back.

"This last mystery is worse than the first," so he commented, as he reached the street. "Is the Portuguese a demon, or—?" He did not complete his sentence, for just then he caught sight of the figure of a man going on before him toward the avenue, and convinced that it was that of the hated Montelli, he quickened his pace in the hope of overtaking him and coming to some sort of an explanation.

But as soon as his step rung faster than that of the man in front did the same, and though he hurried to the full extent which decency allowed, he did not reach the man nor even catch the car which the other managed to board as it rushed down the somewhat steep incline which marks the avenue at this point.

When he came to think of it, however, he was not sorry that he had missed an encounter with a man, of whose resources and intentions he could know so little. If the signorina was all he believed her, she would preserve herself in safety till the morning, while if she were not, the sooner he forgot the bewitching face and touching manner, the better. Till to-morrow, then, he would be patient, meanwhile trusting that all good angels would guard the rest of her whom in his inmost heart he felt to be the one woman chosen by Providence to be the light and glory of his life.

His studio when he returned to it, struck him for the first time in his remembrance as cold and barren. Though the signs of ideal life were about him, and from every quarter of the great room shone images of beauty and the creations of art, he experienced a sensation of desolation and loneliness, that should have warned him of the depth of the experience which he had undergone since he had passed out of this place four hours before. The picture of the fair beauty was the sole object which seemed to possess any interest for him, and struck again by the oddity of the coincidence which had brought him face to face with the woman who had unconsciously furnished him with the basis for this painting, he lit all the gas jets in the room, and sat down to study this work of his in the light of his late encounter.

It was like her and yet it was not like her. The features, the grace, the coloring were all there, but the humanity which made her countenance so engaging, was lacking from this dream-like face.

"I have a fairy here," he muttered, "but she is a woman. Would it have been better if I had left her such in the painting? No; or I should have had no 'Dream' to match my beautiful 'Reality.'"

And he tore from his portfolio the sketch which he had made of the signorina, and with a heart throbbing too fast for comfort, placed it beside the painting he had just been contemplating, and sat down again to study them and compare.

O the exquisite contrast between them! And O the touching grace of his new idol! Could any one see such a face and not love it? Hamilton Degraw could not. Without struggle, without fear, without any doubt of the wisdom of such an abandonment, he let his whole heart go in this hour of silent reverie, and it was not to the rich and gracious unknown that it led, but to the poor, the desolate and the menaced singer, with her woeful past and perished ambition.

At three o'clock the next day he stood again before her house. He had asked for Montelli all the morning; he had even vaguely expected the Portuguese, but his quiet had been undisturbed and his studio unvisited. It was, therefore, with faint apprehensions of possible evil that he rang the bell and waited for the answer, which was longer in coming to-day than it was yesterday.

At last, after two or three smart rings, the door swung back, and he saw the same inane-looking girl before him, backed by the same unfurnished and lonesome hall; but there was no loneliness there for him. She was within, and that would have made prison walls attractive.

"The Signorina Valdi?" he inquired. "I shall find her in her rooms?" She went up, as if she had never heard of him, and he followed her to the girl's room, which he had never seen before.

"She must be dead," he decided, and was pushing by her, when she caught him by the sleeve, violently shaking her head.

"What do you mean?" he asked. "Is she not there? Shall I not find her?" The girl evidently did not comprehend him, but went on shaking her head, even after he, irritated and alarmed beyond endurance, tore his arm away and rushed up-stairs into the hall above. But he no longer busied himself about her. He was on the floor with the signorina, and bounding to the first door he saw, he vigorously rapped, and when he got no answer from within, passed to the next door, and so on till he reached the one by which he had entered the day before.

Here he no longer hesitated, but turned the knob. The door opened without difficulty and at the first glimpse he got of the space within, young Degraw started back in dismay. The floor was bare, the walls denuded, the room unfurnished. Uttering a cry, he dashed around to the inner door in which he had last seen Montelli standing, and which, as you remember, communicated with the apartment where he had held his wonderful interview with the signorina. It was standing open, and beyond it all was empty and bare as the space in which he stood.

"Is she gone? Have I lost her?" was his cry, and he dashed from one end of the room to the other, searching for traces of an escape which her dangerous position with Montelli had doubtless prompted. But he found nothing, and, moved by a thousand emotions, he hastened back into the hall and up another flight of stairs, determined upon discovering some one who could explain this mystery to him.

Dear Sir—In your report of the Curlers' meeting several errors have "crept in." First you state that Mr.
Bennett was the unanimous choice of the meeting, while there was opposi-

you say Mr. Berfean and Mr. Lebes-correct. These gentlemen were elected to these positions. The Committee

 THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

In olden days they used to rack the criminal and break his back, and one may know how tough he'd feel, if he was broken on the wheel. The torturer, we may opine, believed he had things pretty fine; he knew his trade from A to Z, and no suggestions welcomed him. And yet his work was crude and coarse, for he relied on brutal force. If I were torturer in chief, I'd stretch the poor chaps on the rack until their joints began to crack, and then I'd say: "Oh, laugh and sing, and smile, and smile, like everything!" I have three kinds of rheumatism, and pink pains through my system whiz, and people stand about my chair, and when I pass around and swear they spring their optimistic gags, and tear my temples all to rags! There is a time for signs and tears; there is a time for smiles and cheers; distinguish then, those times betwixt—don't get your optimism mixed!

WOMAN'S SPHERE.

 A generally understood, woman's sphere is a condition of penitential servitude to which she has been assigned by the brutality of man. It is bounded on the north by the nursery, on the south by the kitchen, on the east by the parlour, and on the west by the dining griddle. Whenever a man marries a woman who shows a tendency to delicious dissipation by uniting with a sewing circle or drinking in the delights of the public library, he rears up at the breakfast table and emits a few soothing remarks about woman's sphere. A man will go to the club and play Kelly pool until he has to have the oxygen treatment between shots, but if his wife joins the maddening throng at the moving picture show one night a week he will recall the fact, in plain and simple language, that his mother never left the house except to gather the eggs. When a man gets to the verge of a nervous breakdown as the result of overwork on the golf links he goes to the city and takes a well-earned rest on the Great White way, but if his wife wants to spend the weekend with her folks four miles south of the village he reminds her that in the economy of nature, rent comes before livery hire. Woman herself is largely to blame for this tortifying condition. Woman's sphere, properly speaking, is to run the house and tell man where to head in. The "shrinking violet and cringing vine" proposition is high-class strategy up to the departure of the officiating clergyman, but the role of the pampered Amazon is the only one that prevents misunderstanding after marriage and makes the home a picture of the joys of heaven.

Dicks & Co.'s Store Extension.
 Mr. Leamon's enterprise has lately made the Book Store of Dicks & Co. one of the finest of its kind in the city. The new extension that has been built on at the rear is 26 x 20 feet and is proportional to the main building in height, breadth and length. There are four storeys. The place is finished in elaborate style, steel girders are used and all the floors are finished in maple.
 The stock room is on the top floor in the new part, and the Book Bindery to the front. There are shelves for stock on this floor well-laid out.
 The next floor, coming down stairs, is the Showroom to the front, while the new addition floor is taken up by offices including Mr. Leamon's office and that of his staff. Also on this floor are the lavatories and cloak room for the lady help, elaborately fitted up, there being two basins, a sink, etc., of the costliest material. In fact no expense seems to have been spared to secure comfort and convenience.
 The street floor at the front is used as heretofore for the general book and stationary trade. The back part where the new extension is on this floor is used for fancy goods. There are eight new show cases running the whole length of the new floor, and as "silent sellers" contain a repertory of many beautiful leather goods, bric-a-brac and silverware. Those cases were imported from Montreal at a cost of $1,500.
 The basement which runs the full extent of the building and has a concrete floor is used for a packing room and keeping of extra stock, the shelves are filled from top to bottom. The big boiler and furnace that heat the whole building are here. The place is wired "in condit" to ensure greater safety. The carpenter work will be finished in a few days. Messrs. M. & E. Kennedy are the contractors, and Mr. Ryan did the plumbing.
 Mr. Leamon deserves to be complimented on his enterprise. He is now all ready for the Xmas trade.

A Fisherman Drowned.
 Both Mr. Hutchings and I. G. Sullivan last evening had messages from Magistrate Squerry, of Rose Blanche, stating that while two men, Walter Hatcher and Thos. Stroud, were out overhauling their trawls, they in some way upset their dory and Hatcher was drowned. Stroud, after a hard struggle, managed to get up on the bottom of the dory, when men from the shore rescued him. As far as is known the body of Hatcher has not been recovered.

Docked for Repairs.
 The Allan-Liner Pretorian which is now in Halifax has been dry docked. She will there get a new propeller to replace that which had a blade knocked off on the voyage to St. John's. After getting this done she goes to Philadelphia and will touch at Halifax on the run here.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DELIVER

At College Hall.
 The annual sale of the L. C. A. S. and Young Ladies' Guild was well patronized last night. Mr. John Leamon opened the sale at 4 o'clock. He made a brief address replete with words of encouragement and congratulation. He suggested that in future it might be well to seek the co-operation of the friends in the outports who are interested in the work of the College and get them in touch with the annual sale. The sale was then declared open. The President, Mrs. Herder, and her zealous assistants had a busy time right up to the closing hour. The tables were filled with desirable goods and the stalls contained a lavish display of candy, fruit, toys, etc. The hall was nicely decorated and brilliantly lighted. The sale will be continued this afternoon. There will be a concert at night under Mr. A. Mews' direction. Amongst those taking part are Misses Strang, Rogers, Johnson and Curtis.

The Rosalind Here.
 The S. S. Rosalind, Capt. Williams, arrived here at 5 p.m. yesterday from Montreal via Charlottetown and Sydney. She left Montreal on Tuesday, the 28th November, and had thick snow on the run down the St. Lawrence. She arrived at Charlottetown at 5 p.m. on Friday last, and had thick snow also from Father Point down. She left there Saturday afternoon and arrived at Sydney at noon on Sunday, and left again at 9 Monday night. She had fair weather with snow showers coming down, doing the run in 44 hours. She brought a full cargo including 15,000 barrels of flour, 2 head of cattle and general produce from Charlottetown. She brought Miss Gale in saloon and 10 steerage.
FUNERAL TO-DAY—The funeral of the late Master F. J. Jackman, son of Mr. E. M. Jackman, took place from the White House, LeMarchant Road, this afternoon, at 2.30, and was largely attended.

Steamers at Botwood.
 The steamers Patonia and Mariana are now at Botwood loading pulp for England. Both are taking big cargoes from the A. N. D. Co., and two other steamers will arrive next week to take cargoes also.
 Last year, one week before Xmas, 250 bottles of Ess. of Ginger Wine were sold at Stafford's Drug Store, for only 10 cents a bottle.—dec6t

Disorderly Character.
 Last night a resident of Petty Harbor who had been drinking heavily of late entered the S. A. Food Depot, and after acting in a very disorderly manner assaulted one of the S. A. people. He was then ejected and continued the disturbance on George's Street. Officers Stamp and Goodyear came on the scene and the man defied them. He violently resisted arrest and had to be handcuffed to be brought to the station. It was perhaps well for himself that he was arrested, for had he attempted to go home as he had intended doing, he might have perished on the road.

BERLIN, Dec. 6. A despatch to the Morning Post from Constantinople says that the Porte has emphatically rejected Russia's demands that the Bosphorus and Dardanelles be open to Russian warships.

LONDON, Dec. 6.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.

Persia has made a direct appeal to Britain to act as mediator in an effort to negotiate a settlement of the crisis with Russia, according to a despatch received here from semi-official sources at Teheran. The progress of the Russian troops towards Teheran has been temporarily stayed. The troops, which are proceeding from Resht towards Kaavin and Teheran, will be halted at the former city and held outside Teheran.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Dec. 6.

Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the Government would use all constitutional means to pass the Home Rule Bill for Ireland during the life-time of the present Parliament. This declaration was made in reply to a question from William O'Brien, who expressed concern over a report that Asquith was trying to get the Lords to throw out the Bill when it reaches the Upper House. The Premier, by his announcement to-day, means that he undertakes to force the Home Rule Bill through three consecutive sessions, if necessary, thus making it become effectual in spite of the opposition of the Peers.

PARIS, Dec. 7.

A pessimistic view of the German Chancellor's speech yesterday in the Reichstag, dealing with German-British relations, dominates France. The general view prevails that it harmed rather than helped Anglo-German relations. "Le Temps" regrets that the debate between German and English statesmen was ever started, for the result has not been in the direction of conciliation and friendliness. "Le Temps" was amazed at the way in which the Chancellor talked German extension, and says Germany is vastly mistaken if she thinks she can expand by trampling over the bodies of her neighbors.

Special to Evening Telegram.

PEKIN, Dec. 7.

An edict announcing the resignation of Regent Chun was issued to-day by the Empress Dowager. It was signed by members of the Cabinet, and points out the administration has been unpopular. That constitutional government has not yet been established, explaining this by the fact that complications arose, people's hearts were broken and the country thrown into turmoil. The Regent regrets his repentance came too late, and feels that if he continued in power his commands would soon be disregarded. The Regent has been granted fifty thousand taels annually from the Imperial household allowance. As the Imperial and revolutionary leaders at Hankow have not yet come to an understanding, the Armistice has been extended three days.

Will Lay Up.

When the Rosalind is discharged she will go to New York via Halifax and will lay up there for a short while for necessary repairs. She will then run on this route in company with the Floriel, which ship will make trips up till February, after which she will be prepared for the sealing voyage. The Stephano will soon begin her runs to the West Indies.

Seal in Lake.

One day last week as Mr. A. Snow was passing up the side of Quidi Vidé Lake he saw an object swimming in it which he thinks might have been a seal. It repeatedly burst through the thin ice which covered the Lake. It would be about the size of a dog hood, and some years ago a similar sight was witnessed in "the pond." If it was a seal it came in through gut and entered the foot of "the pond" after coming up the river.

322 Whales.

The whale fishery just concluded has resulted in the securing of a total of 322 whales, not including the catch of the Hawk of Bowring Bros. The Lynx got 74; the Hump, 57; Cabot, 59; Puma, 72; Cachalot, 41 and Port Saunders, 19. The Cabot's catch is 17 below that of last year, but her fish this season are better oil yielders. The Lynx and Puma beat last year's record. The old Cachalot last year had only 35 fish, and this year 41, five being sperm.

Pulitzer's Romantic Career.

A Tramp Who Became a Newspaper Millionaire.

The history of modern business and commerce contains many striking examples of men who, commencing life with scarcely a penny in their pockets, have in the course of years accumulated vast fortunes. None of their careers has been so varied and extraordinary, however, as that of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, the proprietor of the 'New York World,' who just died at the age of sixty-four, leaving a fortune of $5,000,000 sterling. He was seventeen years of age when he decided that there was no opening for him in his native country, Hungary. He therefore tramped through Germany to the coast, sailed in an emigrant ship for New York, and when he reached Boston harbour jumped overboard and swam to shore because he had not sufficient to pay the head-tax on aliens. Ultimately he arrived in New York with just twenty-five cents in his pocket.

However, he managed to enlist as a private in the Lincoln Cavalry, and served through the last year of the Civil War. After his regiment was disbanded he began his fierce struggle for existence. He worked at everything that came his way—coal-heaver, coachman, waiter, butler, and stoker on a Missouri ferry-boat. It was while engaged in the latter occupation that he strolled one night into a small saloon in St. Louis where a game of chess was in progress. Pulitzer possessed a perfect genius for chess, and that night he beat the best man in the saloon. His play attracted the attention of a German journalist who was proprietor of a paper in St. Louis. He gave him a job, and within a few weeks Pulitzer was managing editor and part-proprietor of that newspaper.

This was the turning of the tide. In 1878 he was able to buy the St. Louis Dispatch, and amalgamating it with his first newspaper, he formed the St. Louis Post Dispatch, now one of the most prosperous journals in the United States. Five years later he acquired the 'New York World,' from Jay Gould, a paper which soon developed into one of the most influential journals in America, under the guidance of Pulitzer. Its power may be judged from the fact that Grover Cleveland declared that but for its campaign on his behalf he would never have been President.

Pulitzer, having shown what he could do in the newspaper world, turned his attention to law and politics, and soon became a great force on the platform. He had an extraordinary command of English, although when he first landed in America he could not speak a word of the language. Every spare moment, however, was spent in the public libraries, and within four years he could write trenchant English. At the height of his fame and prosperity, however, a great misfortune befell him. Early in the 'nineties he became quite blind. During his last years he spent most of his time globe-trotting. He was known in all the chief European capitals, particularly among musicians, for his one great passion was music, and he never travelled without his private pianist. A striking illustration of his power is furnished by the fact that, in spite of his affliction, and no matter where he might be, he would cable to New York entire leading articles and statements of policy.

Supposed To be Lost.

The Norwegian schr. Kudes Naes, Capt. Larsen, which is well known in this port, left Labrador for Gibraltar for orders last laden on September 30th, and since has not been heard of.
In shipping circles it is now pretty well conceded that she has gone to bottom with her six men of a crew.
The vessel was a topsail schooner.
Capt. Larsen was well known in St.
John's. Lloyd's are now charging reinsurance on her at the rate of 90 guineas per cent.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The many friends in this town of Mr. J. Nunn are sorry to hear of the accident that befell him a few days ago. It is hoped he will soon be about again.

We are sorry to report that one of our Harbor Grace boys, Mr. Joseph Garland, son of Mr. Joseph Garland, sr., while working at Sydney some little time ago, met with an accident, breaking a leg. He is now in Hospital and expects to be out about the New Year. No particulars of the accident are at hand. Mr. Garland was employed as brakeman on the coal cars in the company's yard there.

Mr. John Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gordon, of Bear's Cove, who has been employed for some time by the wholesale grocery and provision firm of John Tobin & Co.,
of Halifax, is, we are glad to say, doing well. He has lately been appointed to the firm's travelling staff. Jack has numerous friends here who will be pleased to hear from him and will wish him success.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Hogan on Saturday last.

People living in the neighborhood of Noad Street complain of the very little force of water at the tank there.
"If the weather was a little more summerlike," said one person, "we would not grumble, as we could take a novel with us and read while we wait." This should be easily remed-ed.

We are glad to see Captain Hillier of the Salvation Army out again after his recent attack of scarlet fever.

News was received in town last week that a young daughter had arrived to our former townsfolk, Mr.
and Mrs. A. G. Munn, now of Summerlands, British Columbia. Congratulations!

Master Howard Trappell, son of Mr. John Trappell, who is connected with the A. A. Telegraph Co.'s staff at Heart's Content, is now in town spending a vacation with his father and other friends.

CORRESPONDENT.

CURED HIS WIFE
SO HE TRIED THEM

Leon Sergeant Found New Health in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Suffered with his kidneys and was very feeble, but now he is feeling fine.

Saint Walburg, Sask., Dec. 6, (Special).—One healthy, happy family in this neighborhood are always ready to speak a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are Mr. and Mrs.
Leon Sergeant, and here is the reason in Mr. Sergeant's own words:

"I suffered with my kidneys and I was very feeble. My urine was thick and had a brick-dust sediment. As Dodd's Kidney Pills had already cured my wife I bought three boxes. Now my urine is normal and I feel fine."

It is statements such as these that give Dodd's Kidney Pills their popularity. They are no cure-all. They simply cure diseased kidneys and the ills that come from diseased kidneys.
But no matter what neighborhood you visit you find some man or woman who has been sick and in pain and has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. For a score of years this work has been going on and to-day in every part of Canada Dodd's Kidney Pills are known as the one cure for Kidney Disease, Urinary Troubles, Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

Ice on St. Lawrence.

The s.s. Rosalind reports that when she was coming down the St. Lawrence from Montreal, considerable ice had formed for a long distance below Quebec on the river and there was also a deal of floating ice about. There were 16 inches of snow on the ground at Quebec. The steamers that were to leave Montreal after the Rosalind were the Ben Dhl, Bray Head and Bengore Head, and these were the last to come down the river for the season. Each of them was bound for England. The work of taking up the buoys on the river began on November 27th. Ice was making fast on the St. Lawrence as the Rosalind came down.

The Portia Here.

The S. S. Portia, Capt. Thos. Fitzpatrick, arrived here at 8 a.m. to-day from the westward. After leaving here Saturday week the ship had it very stormy with gales of N.E. wind and thick snow and had to harbor over night in at least three places. Right up the coast until Bonne Bay was reached this weather prevailed in fact it was worse than experienced during the mid winter storm last year. On the return run with little exception, the ship had fine weather and made good time down the coast. She brought a half cargo of fish, oil, etc., and her passengers were: Messrs. Burke, Campbell, Brazil, Costello, Williams, Johnson, Fowlow, Walsh; Mesdames Hart, Coady, Culleton, Dawson, O'Toole, O'Leary, Winsor, Keefe; Misses Kennedy, Fowlow, Lawlor, Quinlan and Murphy and 126 steerage.

Restfulness of a Good Book.

A woman fond of books, or to speak more correctly, who used to be fond of books, was complaining one day that she had absolutely no time to read, and that her life was dull and colorless in consequence. A friend tried to persuade her to let other things go for half an hour a day, and spend that period with one of her favorite authors, assuring her that there would be a gain in ability to work as a result. The advice was heeded. The woman in question made the effort to have the little heaven of interest in the daily routine, and the aspect of things so far as she was concerned, was wonderfully changed.

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, South Side, this afternoon when Mr. Herbert A. Crossman, chief steward of the s.s. Portia, was united in Hymen's Bonds to Miss Georgina Ebsary, daughter of Mr. Stephen Ebsary, of the South Side. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. H. Uphill. The bride, who was charmingly costumed, was given away by her father. The groom was assisted by his brother, M. F. Crossman, and his cousin, Mr. B. Crossman, while the bride was attended by her sisters, Misses Ella and Laura Ebsary. The happy couple were the recipients of many valuable presents from their numerous friends on the South Side and in St. John's proper. After the ceremony a reception was held at Smithville, after which the bride and groom left for Topsail on their honeymoon. The Telegram wishes the happy pair every happiness.

The Reliability of a Gas Cooker.

Now one must admit that the reliability of a gas cooker is especially useful when one has no servant to take charge of dainty dishes. Boiling water can be obtained in the shortest time imaginable, and this fact alone is of great importance both in sickness and in health. Everything keeps so beautifully hot on a gas cooker, and there is no fear of scalding being spoilt through delay in the serving of a meal, and the dripping-pan, having been filled with boiling water, makes a splendid impromptu hair mangle.

Again, one of the greatest merits of gas, is that the arrangements of the household need not be upset as unexpected visitors arrive; a fresh brew of tea can be made in an incredibly short space of time, and the preparation of more substantial viands can soon be put in training. The old-fashioned range has a way of going out at times, but a gas cooker is always ready to give a warm welcome to any comer he never so late. One wonders how many doctors' bills have been saved by that hot soup, cocoa coffee, hot milk, or some other refreshment that can be prepared immediately when a member of the community arrives cold and wet, after perhaps some hours' exposure to inclement weather. In case of sickness, no one can speak too highly of the invaluable help that the handy cooker gives; the nourishing little dainty meals can be served in the most appetizing way cooked to a perfection, and kept piping hot, even though delay may occur in the serving of them.

WRESTLING MATCH—The second wrestling match under the auspices of St. Mary's Y. M. A. will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 20th, when "Kid" Keats of the Association will try conclusions with Frank Roberts, the well known athlete of the C. J. B. Young Olson has kindly consented to act as referee and no doubt the match will be a very exciting one, as both contestants have been training hard for the event.

DIED.

J. doing business on George Street, and Stephen, working with Reid Nfld. Co. and one daughter, Mrs. J. B. Giles. ## Continuation Classes.

One of the wants of the times in Newfoundland is a system of Continuation Classes. We are singularly backward in this respect. Few facilities are afforded for the industrious boys and girls who have left school and gone to work, and for young men and women of application to attend cultural and vocational classes. As compared with many other places we are simply not in the running.

One tendency of this defect in our national life is to give an overwhelming preponderance to amusement, sport, and frivolity. Amusements and sports are well enough in their way, and a useful factor in life when kept in proper bounds. But when they occupy the whole leisure time of our boys and girls, and young men and women, they have a tendency to blunt sensibility and a proper appreciation of the gravity of life.

The time is ripe for a forward movement in the way of giving our young people better chances to make good and to live fuller and more useful lives.

It is high time we should wake up and look around and see what other countries are doing. Canada has a Royal Commission on Royal Training and Technical Education, which has been making observations throughout the Dominion of Canada, Ireland, Scotland, Denmark, Germany, France, Switzerland and the States. Dr. Robertson, the Chairman, who it will be remembered visited Newfoundland in the fall of 1910, has been giving utterance to what has been forced upon him as the result of what the Commission has seen and learned. His preliminary warning to his countrymen is that "Canada will have to do much in the near future, and do it with reasonable energy and speed to keep from being left still further behind."

PARKER & MONROE, Ltd.

Mr. English on
Mr. McGrath's
New Book.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The way of the transgressor is hard, proverbially, the way of the literary pilferer is also hard, for some day his sins will find him out.

Perhaps it is wrong to call Mr. McGrath a pilferer, for his method of appropriating other people's writings partakes more of the nature of wholesale plundering, and his rather clumsy way of altering the wording of gifted men's works has been his undoing. He robs the living and does not scruple to defile the dead. Had Mr. McGrath confined his ravages to the papers of living authors, he may have had to a certain extent immunity, but when he steals from obsolete works he leaves a trail of evidence that is sure to lead to detection. Up to date works is apt to be correct in detail, therefore, its rifling is not so easy to point out, especially if the plunderer has skill enough to hide his tracks. Mr. McGrath can scarcely be accredited this qualification, as perhaps the following will show. If the enquirer will turn up Harvey's "Newfoundland as it is in 1894," he will find, on comparing it with "Newfoundland in 1911," by P. T. McGrath, that Mr. McGrath does not scruple making a stepping stone to fame of the sacred dead. Such conduct is reprehensible and should meet with the direct condemnation. Mr. McGrath shows lamentable ignorance of the geography of this country, as well as of the technicalities of the other sciences his book attempts to deal with. Any advanced schoolboy could correct most of his geographical errors. For instance, he places the Anguille Range, on the west side of St. George's Bay. Every schoolboy knows that that bay has no western shore, but is open to the Gulf of St. Lawrence on that side. Centre Hill according to "Caliban" is inland from the bottom of Conception Bay, whilst every boy knows or should know, that it is between Piper's Hole, Placentia Bay, and Clode Sound, in Bonavista Bay. The reliable book also states that Blominton Mt. is the highest in the country, being according to the compiler 2025 feet elevation. Had Mr. McGrath taken the trouble to consult Commodore W. Tasker's chart 1391-6, he would find that Blominton has grown considerably since Harvey's time, and that it is now 2115 feet in height. The chart quoted gives six higher peaks, those peaks are all in that range of hills between East Arm of Bonne Bay and Western Brook Pond, with the exception of one, Mt. St. Gregory, 2340 feet just inside N. Head, Bay of Islands. The other elevations are not named, their heights only being given, as follows. I forgot, one Gros Morn is mentioned, it is the loftiest in the range, being 2540 feet. Next are 2450, 2300, 2280 feet, according to the chart. Beside those hills we have Hodge's Hill, which is, I believe, 2204 feet high. Mr. McGrath places Spread Eagle Peak inland from St. Mary's Bay, when everybody knows it is near Bildo, Trinity Bay. Speaking of the rivers of the West Coast, Mr. McGrath mentions St. George's and Hawke's Rivers to the exclusion of Grand River and such, of much greater importance than this, Hawke's River, the very existence of which Mr. McGrath has not established. Speaking of mountains Mr. McGrath further remarks on page 19 of the wonderful book, that "the railroad ascends to 1730 feet to traverse this 'backbone' of the Island and reach the western slopes." By the "backbone" he means the Long Range Mountains. The compiler is in error. The elevation of 1730 feet is crossed long ere the train reaches the "backbone," this height being reached on the White Hill Plains in the centre of the country. After having crossed those plains the road descends by a steep gradient to Kitty's Brook, from that to water level at Bay of Islands the grade is easier. The "backbone" is not encountered till Deer Lake is reached. From that onward the road finds its way through passes in the chain of hills at moderate elevation above the sea.

I think I have said enough to show how reliable "Newfoundland in 1911" is, as a work of reference, and will have little more to say along that line. On to-morrow I will give further reasons why, in my opinion, the book should not be permitted to go unchallenged. Before concluding this article I should like to point out an omission in Mr. McGrath's book. The compiler makes no mention of an industry that has quite recently been inaugurated. I refer to the canning of codfish. It would be of great interest to know what Mr. McGrath would call the factories in which the canning is done. He calls the buildings on the South Side, where oil is manufactured, "warehouses," also he calls them "sealeries," perhaps the factories where fish is canned might be called coddleries, if you were to follow out Mr. McGrath's idea.

ARTHUR ENGLISH,
St. John's, Dec. 5th, 1911.

No More Misery
in the Stomach.

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia vanish in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.

A Prayer.

I do not ask that I should have no cross,

That I should hold life's gain without its loss.

That I no burdens share;

But grant me that my arm may never fall.

That at the worst my courage may not quail.

That I have strength to bear.

I do not ask that I shall have no sorrow deep,

Mine eyes should ever smile and never weep.

My heart be always gay;

But grant that when the bitter cup I drink,

My faith may look to thee and never shrink.

And love all pain outweigh.

I do not ask thy mighty laws should turn

And bring back those for whom my life doth yearn.

Those loved ones gone before;

But when at last there comes the long, long night,

Be thou with me, my never-falling Light,

Eternal, evermore!

The Evening Chit-Chat

By ROYAL CANNON

The little mother had been searching diligently for a pair of gloves, which had cleverly secreted themselves in some out-of-the-way corner. She did not find them, but did bring forth my riding crop which had also been among the missing for some months.

"Well, that's the way it always is," she said as she restored the crop to its proper place. "When I look for one thing I find another."

"Is so, isn't it?"

"You've had that experience yourself, haven't you, my friend? Perhaps you dropped a collar button under the chiffonier, and had your rage at the mishap assuaged, when in the course of your groveling, you found that little silver pin you thought you had lost for keeps."

"Perhaps you were hunting through your desk for a receipted bill, when you stumbled upon that little snapshot of the baby which you had searched for so many times in vain."

"And, of course, as you brought your treasure triumphantly forth to be congratulated upon, you uttered that good old bromide—'Whenever I look for one thing, I find another.'"

"Now, did it ever occur to you that it's just the same about bigger things—about mental and moral qualities—that is when you are looking very hard for one thing, you often find another?"

"You don't just see what I mean? I don't blame you. Let me make it clearer by illustration."

"Suppose you make up your mind that you are going to try with all your might to be popular. As like as not the very intensity of your desire frus-

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a salivary check, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can't fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or fatigued spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

The Ancient Clock.

In Winnipeg There is One Made in the Year 1779.

When a Winnipeg Jeweller was called upon to repair a clock at Mrs. M. M. Lockwood's residence, he was surprised on removing the face to find perhaps one of the first clocks made in America. At a glance it was seen that the work throughout was made of wood, the only portions of other material about it being two heavy iron weights. On further examination it was found that the clock was made in New Haven about 1779. A peculiar feature about this relic of the stormy days of early American independence is that although the most intricate parts are made entirely of hard wood, it has been in constant use since 1779, and has kept correct time. On one place is found the name of Emil Koch, followed with the information that he had repaired the timepiece in 1859, and only once in the recollection of the present generation of the Lockwood family has the clock stopped. In an interview with Mrs. Lockwood it was learned that the clock had been in their family since her marriage with the late M. M. Lockwood, and that previous to this time it was the property of his grandfather, having been in his home in New York State for sixty years. As near as she could remember, it was given to him by his father, who was born in New York State about the time of the declaration of independence. The framework is made of maple and stands 26 inches high. The front is decorated with carved pillars. The figures on the dial are almost obliterated by time, and the same key which for generations has been used every 24 hours to wind it, is worn smooth by age, having been brought into service no less than 50,000 times.

Fads and Fashions.

Gold mesh bags are still extremely stylish. Long drop carriages are very fashionable. The hats of this season are abundantly trimmed. The ruffle is in again in all its old time variety and glory. A novelty is to have a set of earrings and necklace to match. Double-faced materials are used a great deal for coats and skirts. Iridescent bands are the very smartest trimming for the evening gown. Ecclesiastical purple is one of the very smart shades for evening wear. A new style in the evening slipper is the extremely high-pointed tongue of silk. There seems to be no deviation from the straight, slender lined in dress. The rage for brilliant Oriental coloring is expressed in the new evening dresses. Blue in all shades has acquired a

Cascarets Insure Inside Cleanliness

The million of Cascarets users never have Headache, Constipation, Biliousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage-way every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil. This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

decided vogue for handsome tailored costumes.

Capes that are draped to make the figure look narrow are popular as evening wraps.

Heavy fur plush is a good substitute on a coat of fur if fur is out of the question.

Many French model gowns in lightweight woollens have fullness at the top of the skirt.

The long, close-fitting sleeve, with the flaring piece over the hand is very trim and chic.

The vogue for the complete dress, of whatever materials, is far-reaching and greatly liked.

The two most fashionable forms of collars are deep points and the rounded form—collars are deep.

This season more velvets and brocades are used than chiffons and other transparent materials.

The very narrow tailored skirt, open at the side, is often seen among the new model gowns.

Black and white constitute the gentleman's color combination, no other being nearly so successful.

The waist line is getting back to its normal place, and the sleeves are a trifle wider at the elbow.

The high waist and the draped bodice are two striking notes in the full swing of the winter styles.

Inside the new mufflers there is such a multiplicity of buttoned pockets that the wrist bag can be discarded.

As to young girls' evening dress, embroidered neck, bordered chiffons and soft silks or satins are all good.

Revers of coats are cut with very broad points, low and well down at the left side, nearly to the waist line.

Black and white is a great feature in gowns, especially when combined with a coral tone or coral jewelry.

An oval buckle of tiny-glimmering brilliants makes the finishing touch to the evening slipper of the moment.

The wide, deep shawl collar on coat or gown sometimes entirely covers the back of the figure to the waist line.

Coats of tailored suits are longer, semi-fitting and are trimmed with variations of the hood, shawl and sailor collar.

The medium décolleté is now worn at dinners and semi-formal occasions. The high neck gown is not so often seen.

WASTE.

How to utilize the waste is one of the great problems of the manufacturing world. It is one of the great problems of human life as well. The ingenuity of man has made it possible to save even the particles of gold dust in the mint. It is vastly more important for a man to save the raspings and parings of existence, thoseavings of days and we bits of hours, the right use of which determines the true value of a man's life-work.

Tim Shannahan On the Good Carpet Bag.

This is the age of improvement says Delaney, everywhere you go you behold some new idea, you have people who lie awake all night thinking out something new. But as we gaze on the newness of us we feel a kind of lonely forerunner. There are many things we prize, but as we look overboard, and amongst them a good old carpet bag. The bag we use when travelling, the bag we use when all tired out, the bag we use so securely. But why we look at a carpet bag I know not, says he, and now that I think of it, it does appear more than ridiculous, when the carpet bag was looked upon as a relic of a bygone age, hands treated it with a reverent respect that would do credit to a plardecated with a contagion poster course if any one wanted to read that was in the bag, all they had to do was to cut the bottom and the would count for little. But as I before no one stooped so low as to suit the carpet bag, so it occupies prominent positions on all our travels, the on the old "Carlow," "Flower," and no one ever uses any one who'd even dream of looking at a hand on it.

Stout, fat, prosperous and well-to-do was the carpet bag. You had confidence in the owner the very moment you clasped eyes on the carpet. Children hugged it, and awaited bulging eyes the happy moment the key clicked in it, for the carpet bag was ever generous and never refused without bringing its share of "nice things." To day the scene has changed, and the lean, mean, unfeeling looking "suit cases" has taken place of the carpet bag.

Prescription "A"

Cures Indigestion and Dyspepsia in all its Forms.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at
