Remarkable Escape from Starvation.
Off Cape Horn.
 Extract of letter from DAVID JAMES (Master), of the late barque "Colorado," of Glasgow.
 "Having lost our ship on Staten Island, on the 5th of July, and having saved neither effects nor provisions, we were then compelled to travel over the island for ten days, subsisting on nothing but shell-fish and seaweed. On the 20th of July we came across another shipwrecked party of seventeen, the surviving part of the crew of the British ship "Dumfries," of Glasgow, fourteen having perished through exposure. Now, the ship was lost on the 22nd of June, and the cargo, consisting of Epps's Cocoa, was washed ashore on the wreck. There was nothing saved except the Cocoa, and we, numbering twenty-five men, were kept alive on it up to the 20th of August, when we were rescued by the steamer "Mercurio," of Buenos Aires.
 "Too much praise cannot be given to this Cocoa. We had a good stock of it there; we used it in a liquid state for drink, we also baked it on the fire, which kept us alive and warm for six weeks on this barren island, situated in a region of perpetual ice and snow."

CHAPTER XI.

"I see. Been cheering yourself up with a fit of the 'blues.' And very wise that is. By the way, she looks less 'blue' than she did a while ago, doesn't she?"

"Virtue?"—and this time she roused herself to look at me languidly. "Oh, yes—I am glad of that! Poor girl—it was a most dreadful thing for her."

"Well, it was rather rough, I admit; but, as madame means to fix up her brother and his wife comfortably by way of recompense, I don't think that in the end Virtue will be very sorry. For the sake of her sister, I shall be glad if there is really some good in Ben Dent. By the way, Nat, I've often wanted to ask you—how was it you were so certain that it was not Virtue who took the jewels?"

"I thought it was Valla," she returned, quietly.

"Valla?" I echoed, staring.

"Yes—to spite Virtue. That is what I thought."

"Well, to be sure!" I said, turning over the idea, and not finding it by any means easy of digestion. "You really believed that?"

Psoriasis All Over Body

Doctors Said Incurable, But Now There is No Sign of Disease, Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mde. N. Massey.
 Psoriasis is one of the most dreaded of itching skin diseases. It is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and doctors are accustomed to give it up as incurable.
 But here is a case that was given up and pronounced incurable. The result proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment almost works miracles in curing the worst form of itching skin disease imaginable.
 Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."
 "The soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment is truly wonderful. Eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch, ringworm and sores of such torturing ailments are relieved at once and as certainly cured if the Ointment is used persistently. Mothers find Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable in preventing and curing the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, irritations of the skin and baby eczema."
 Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box. All dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

for only five minutes, and yet I dare not! But I do wish that I could just hear him say that he forgave me, and that he wasn't as miserable as I am!"

We were both silent upon that. It grew dark in the great room. I had got stiff with sitting so still, and Nat lay with closed eyes, though I know she was not asleep, when the door opened softly to admit Roger Yorke. I moved from my chair to get out of his way, and he paused at the head of the couch and stood looking down at her. His footfall had made no sound on the thick carpet, and the little lady lying there with closed eyes was all unconscious of his entrance. Indeed, she must have thought it was I who stood by her, for she said, without moving:

"Ned!"

"Well?" I responded, from the other side of the rug.

"Ned, when I have gone right away from Chavasse, and am shut up somewhere where it is quite certain that I sha'n't see him any more, if he should ever ask you, you'll tell him that I did love him, won't you?"

"Oh, yes," I answered, cheerfully—"I'll tell him right enough!"

"And, if I should die, Ned—you laughed at me when I said that, but I don't think I am strong enough to live to be as old as old Batterbin and be so miserable—if I should die there—where it is, you know—you'll tell him the same thing, won't you? And tell him that I kept his flowers, and that they are going to be buried with me." This with a tone and manner as though the funeral ceremony were fixed for some early day in the following week.

"Well, for my part, I'd see some reasonable chance of being dead before I began to arrange my funeral, but never mind; it's quite as well to be prepared, of course! Oh, yes, I'll tell him—don't you be afraid! I'll tell him how you used to read that letter he wrote you until you knew it backward and forward and crossways and upside down, and used to say it over in your sleep, and carry it about tucked under your chin. I'll tell him how you kissed those blessed flowers until it was a mercy you weren't poisoned. Oh I won't forget anything! He shall know all about it."

"Thank you," she said, heaving a deep sigh. "It won't matter then—I sha'n't mind his knowing."

"Oh!"—and, despite the undoubted pathos of the tone of conversation, the situation was so comical that I nearly pulled my reply by giving abruptly to the laugh which I had been holding down all this time. "You couldn't like him to know it now, I suppose?"

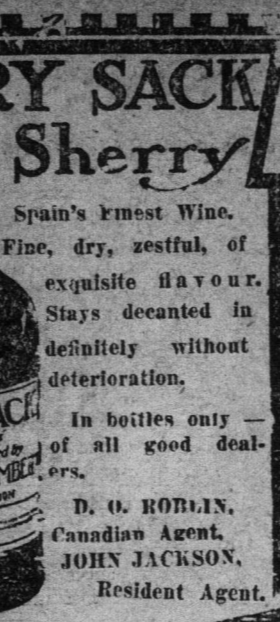

"Oh, no, no," she cried, with a tart—"not now! You must not tell him a syllable!"

"Oh, dear, no—certainly not!"—and his time I laughed outright as I moved off to the door. "I won't tell him! But if I were you, my dear, I wouldn't whisper my confidences out so loud without being quite sure first who's listening."

Nat started up with a little scream, saw Roger Yorke standing there, and forthwith proved the unflinching strength of her resolution and her unswerving consistency by throwing herself into his arms and bursting, without the least preparation in the world, into a tremendous storm of sobs and tears.

Having seen things out so far, I stopped a moment to hear what they would say. But it was not worth the trouble. They were talking, to be sure, but their conversation was about the most complicated, incoherent, involved, and generally rapturous piece of business that I ever had the pleasure of listening to. I got to the door without their noticing me, and slipped away to tell madame.

CHAPTER XII.

But to tell madame I found was to be a more difficult task than I expected. Not that my courage failed me at the critical moment, but that when, after a search, I found her in the morning-room she was not alone. With her were Major Constable and the rector; and on the faces of all three, as I came in abruptly, there was so odd an expression that I was conscious of receiving an uncomfortable check, and almost involuntarily asked if anything was wrong.

Yes; it appeared there was something wrong at Holmedean, although what it was some time before I grasped clearly. It is a hard task at all times, or should be, to speak ill of the dead, more especially when the death has been such as that of Fraser Froude; and I will put into as few words as possible the news which was now flying through the length and breadth of Whittlesford, and which the rector and Major Constable had brought to Chavasse.

In plain English, Fraser Froude was a swindler. He, the master of Holmedean, whose stately funeral had taken place but the day before, with half of curious Daleshire following it was, and had been for years, a mere speculating adventurer. His fortune, of which he had been so fond of talking, and which Whittlesford had generally taken on trust, had no real existence—did not appear ever to have had any existence. His tenacity of Holmedean had been a speculation, like everything else, and he had not paid one farthing of the purchase-money. He had paid nobody, but had lately quieted his more clamorous creditors by the announcement of his engagement, or his approaching engagement to the heiress Miss Orme, whose fortune his account had trebled and quadrupled. Now his sudden tragic death had burst the bubble, and the 'balliffs were at Holmedean. The village was all agog with this fresh bit of sensation, and the rector, loving gossip as well as ever did any old woman, had come in to enlighten madame. He was bubbling over with almost childish excitement, and rose as soon as he had retold the story for my benefit, saying that he must go over to Redpots and tell Dizarte, and with that the two left my mother and myself together.

Madame's face of mingled chagrin and astonishment, as the door closed behind them, was a sight to see. She looked at me quite helplessly.

"A complete adventurer, my dear! Who would have thought it possible?"

(To be continued.)

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe
 No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the faded appetite and is just laxative and food in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your Druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Price versus Value.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Price is a not value are not the same thing. No doubt, that is entirely obvious to you. Reader, Friend, but there are a great many people to whom it is not clear; a great many people who build their lives on the shifting sands of that characteristic twentieth century mistake. Every article which we own, and buy, and sell has a price. Every article also has a value. Now, if you look up these two words in the dictionary you will find that price means a sum of money which anything is rated to be worth, whereas value means "the properties of a thing rendering it useful or desirable," in other words, its beauty, its durability, its fitness, its utility. Surely the distinction is plain, and yet in these days of false ideals and confused standards it seems to me that three out of five people confuse these two words, or worse still, substitute price for value. I happened to be standing in a furniture shop the other day near two young women who were buying a bureau. The choice had narrowed down to two pieces of furniture, one a simple affair, following the old Colonial lines, the other much larger and of a florid design. The price of the two articles was very nearly the same. After looking them over for some time, the purchaser finally turned to her companion and said, "Which looks as if it cost the most?" Her companion averred that the larger bureau had that appearance, and that settled it. Now it was perfectly evident that one of those bureaux must have been more suitable for her home than the other; it was plainly evident that the one rejected was a better built piece of furniture and had better lines. These were the considerations of value on which she would have based her choice. But she didn't care about value. What she wanted was price, or rather the appearance of price. A frank young person was displaying some of the Christmas gifts she had purchased for her girl friends. "I hope they look as if they cost fifty cents," she said, "for that's what makes my Christmas shopping take so long, trying to get little things for a quarter that will look as if they cost fifty cents."

"Wouldn't it be better to simply try to get things that will please your friends, regardless of what they appear to cost?" asked her companion. But the young person couldn't see it that way. You see, she was one of those people who substitute price for value. Another girl was dissatisfied with a beautiful fur which her father gave her for Christmas, "because no one would know that it cost as much as it did." The fur was luxuriously warm and exquisitely beautiful; the value could scarcely have been improved, but just because she feared the price was not sufficiently evident, the fur was spoiled for this foolish young woman.

To care for things because they are beautiful or useful, or desirable in any real way, and not merely because they cost, or appear to cost a great deal of money, is the sign of a high order of intelligence. It is also a sign that its possessor will find it far easier to be happy than those who substitute price for value.

Why Have "Nerves"?

"This is the reason why women have 'nerves.' When thoughts begin to flow cloudy and uncertain, impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame, straightway, nine times in ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the heat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically. Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicinal extracts of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled."

Mrs. LILA B. HAWKINS, of Zeus, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my trouble and I was getting very bad but, thanks to Doctor Pierce's medicines, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Doctor Pierce's wonderful medicines."

Proud of Tim Shannahan.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—Every fair minded person in the country must feel proud of your correspondent, Tim Shannahan, for the manly stand he has taken with regard to the inspection of steamers and sailing vessels by the Lloyd's surveyor. This is a matter of the greatest importance in a country like ours, where the safety of thousands of lives depend upon the condition of the ships in which they go, and no language can be too strong to arouse a feeling of security in the community. The particular case which your correspondent refers to is one that calls for some explanation from the Lloyd's Surveyor, and must not be taken as an insinuation that anything shady has been done by the owners of the said ship, for it is generally known that the owners of the Labrador expended quite a substantial sum in repairing her during the past summer. But no matter how much money is expended in repairs it matters little if the said repairs are not performed as they should be. The community at large are loud in their condemnation of the way things are going in the inspection of ships under repair and the confidence of the people is shaken when they behold a steamer that has just been repaired springing a leak a few hours after leaving port. The Government are introducing legislation to render aid to the widows and orphans of seamen who lose their lives while engaged at their calling, but I agree with Tim Shannahan that the Government should make an effort to have the inspection of ships carried out in such a manner that the confidence of the community will be established and leave no doubt on their minds that every thing is being done that should be done to ensure the safety of those who man our ships. Prevention of loss of life is far better than relief to those who may be bereft of their bread winners and I hope that now the matter has been brought before the Government that they will lose no time in dealing with it.

Yours truly,
 HUMANITY.

The Great Featherweight Championship.

Championship Boxing — Moran and Driscoll Draw.

Rarely if ever have the patrons of the National Sporting Club suffered such a severe disappointment as they did last night, when Jim Driscoll, the feather-weight boxing champion of England, and Owen Moran, fought a draw for the Lonsdale Belt, a purse of £1,500, and side stakes of £100 a side. "This contest was fully expected by those who knew" to be the finest fought in Europe or, for that matter, in America, for many a year. Driscoll, the Prince of Boxers, and Moran clever, but not so clever as Driscoll, yet possessed of greater stamina and a mighty hard hitter—surely the meeting of such men was bound to furnish an historic battle. Evidently the lovers of boxing thought so, for the National Sporting Club was crowded from gallery to stall, and though a splendid contest was witnessed when Platts defeated Elton, after a hard-fought fifteen-round bout, yet the spectators merely settled themselves down more comfortably into their seats awaiting with impatience the great fight of the evening.

They were doomed to disappointment, however. Over-anxiety had spoiled too many great sporting contests before. Whether it be cricket, football, or boxing, the occasion seems to weigh on the protagonists at times. And so it did last night when two such hardened warriors as Driscoll and Moran, heroes of innumerable fights, met.

How They Started.

The contest began quietly enough. Driscoll, dark, lithe, springy as a panther, circled round the fair-haired sturdy, powerfully built Moran, shooting out from time to time a rapier-like left and dodging the heavy returns with all the agility of a dancing master. There was "nothing in it," as our American friends would say. Each man was feeling for his opponent's weak spot with a wholesome dread for that gentleman's capabilities.

Round two was very much on the pattern of the first. Driscoll danced round and round his man, throwing out feelers, lightly avoiding tentative swings, and rushing in at intervals to see if he was Moran's master at lightning. So quick and clever was the work in the first three rounds and so close was the strain that the going scounding the three minutes' round was hissed seemed to ring almost before a blow had been struck.

Gradually the men warmed up to their work and Driscoll set the pace. In and out he danced, leading with his left, evading the heavy blows of his opponent. Yet one noticed that his blows seemed to have little effect on his rugged opponent, who kept following his man round and round the ring, striving his utmost to deal one telling blow. The result lay in a nutshell. Driscoll could outbox his man, but Moran was the more rugged fighter.

Until the ninth round Driscoll steadily outpointed his opponent. He scored in the outfighting and he fairly held his own at close quarters, covering himself up in marvellous fashion to meet the heavy short-arm blows swinging up at all angles at body and chin.

Then from the tenth round onwards, both men seemed to throw all science to the winds. "Rough-housing" took the place of boxing. Clinches were frequent, and the referee, Mr. Douglas, found it necessary to walk round to both corners and warn the boxers. Several times he called upon the men to break, and twice at least he walked up to the ring-side while the men were fighting to admonish them.

A Poor Contest.

Moran seemed to be using his head in the clinches, and bringing his elbow across under his opponent's chin, but this may have been due to the fact that he was two inches shorter than Driscoll. The latter seemed to forget his tactics and joined heartily in the "mix-up," but in this way he played into his opponent's hands. For there was no doubt that Moran was the stronger man.

Profiting by Driscoll's lack of strategy, Moran recovered a lot of lost ground and towards the end of the bout scored many points. In the last round he nearly had Driscoll out with a tremendous blow on the jaw, but that master of boxing came in and saved himself by clinching. At the finish Moran was distinctly the stronger man, though it is questionable whether he had wiped out the points scored by Driscoll in the earlier rounds.—Daily Mail.

Interesting Lecture.

Newfoundland One Hundred Years Ago.

To a large and deeply interested audience Mr. Isaac C. Morris last night delivered a lecture at Wesley Church Sunday School Room, on "Newfoundland 100 Years Ago." Treating of themes appertaining to his native country, Mr. Morris, we hold, is always at his best and last night well illustrated this. He inculcated loyalty to country, showed how the knowledge which our forefathers of the long ago had as to the country's resources had been turned to account and developed so that their expansion is now surpassing the most sanguine hopes which the lecturer held 55 years ago. He paid a tribute of praise to the pioneers of Newfoundland who came from Devon, Dorset, Jersey and Ireland in the early days and by bravery, perseverance, hard work and honour and honesty built up the country's industries, and dwell on the great business done by such firms as Newman, of Harbor Breton; Elson, of Carbon-ear; and Bowring's and Job's, of St.

John's. He spoke of the hardships that existed 100 years ago for the people of Terra Nova. The coast was unlit, unsurveyed, uncharted, pirates menaced them, terrible winters prevailed and great ice blockades in spring, the perils of the sea in fishing and navigation were all recapitulated and the perils which beset the clergymen of all creeds in ministering to their flocks were recounted. The conditions of society, customs, business, etc., were detailed in a most illuminating and interesting manner. A well-deserved and hearty vote of thanks was accorded the lecturer at the close.

According to the Nascope's message all the steamers on the trout are into the main patch except the Ranger, Sagona and Kite.

LONDON, To-day.
The Powers have decided to ignore the extravagant demands of the Balkan Allies, as they consider their reply tantamount to an agreement to accept the proffered mediation of the Powers. Their replies to the allies, congratulating them in agreeing to mediation, will propose that the frontier line drawn from Enos on the Sea of Marmora, Midia, in the Black Sea, instead of from Rhodosto, in the Sea of Marmora, Ridda, all territory west of the proposed line, with the exception of Albania, going to the Allies. European nations declare the question of indemnity to be paid by Turkey, cannot be entertained and will remind the Allies that the questions of Albania and Aegean Islands will remain in the hands of the Powers for final settlement.

What is believed to be the most ambitious expedition up the Amazon River, ever undertaken, will start from here on Wednesday when the steam yacht Pennsylvania leaves. She will be gone three years. The expedition is being sent out by the University of Pennsylvania Museum to study language, manners, customs, arts, crafts and history of many races of Indians, concerning whom very little is known. Since white men have begun the commercial exploration of Amazon, most natives have retired from the River to the interior which is well nigh inaccessible. These will be reached by steam launches. Although the natives are bitter against commercial white men they are friendly to those who come without any ulterior motives.

ROME, To-day.
Pope Pius published an Apostolic letter which he revised yesterday, decreasing the Universal Jubilee from Low Sunday, March 30th to Dec. 8th, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, in commemoration of the religious toleration edict issued by Emperor Constantine in the fourth century. The faithful must come to Rome and visit twice the churches of St. John Latrean, St. Peter's, St. Paul's, praying, confessing, receiving Communion and giving alms, or they must visit six times the churches chosen by their own Bishops and carry out the same devotions. Thus by attending the Jubilee they will obtain Plenary Indulgence.

March 23rd.

Less than one week from now. Do you realize that? Is it going to be the twenty-third or merely "23" for you? If Easter should happen to break with a nice clear day, with the sun shining and bells ringing and a parade of beauty on every avenue, you wouldn't feel very happy if you had to sit in a kimona and look out of your window all day at this great galaxy of style.

All it takes is a little quick energy now, a little planning and a little work, and you will come out on Easter day so attractively dressed and so good to look at, everybody will think that the day is being celebrated in your honor and that they are calling it Easter because you represent the coming of Spring.

Then go down to the stores and get into the piles of pretty fabrics. There are enough charming styles and patterns and colors out this year to make a rainbow look as if it needed rouge.

The Ready-to-wear things are just as charming too. Suits and dresses were never more attractive, never more pleasing in style.

At a weekly gathering of the suffragettes in a Music Hall to-day shouts of "Why don't you blow up Premier Asquith and shoot him," rang through the hall, whilst Mrs. Pankhurst was speaking. After referring to her approaching committal to jail in connection with the burning of Lloyd George's house, she said that she had a letter from her daughter asking what she was doing against her punishment. She says she is trying to release herself as a prisoner of war from the enemy, and ending all her tortures of imprisonment and solitary confinement.

Panic has broken out among the inhabitants of the village of Flourer, lying near Lake Neuchâtel, because the top of Mount Marolins is sliding slowly downward, threatening to overwhelm the place. The mass is moving at the rate of 8 or 9 inches an hour, and there is imminent danger of an accelerated speed in its descent. Most of the people have moved their belongings to the sides of the neighboring hills, where they remain in the open in terror. A similar movement on Mount Carollini began in 1889, but ceased in a few hours.

The draft of a note drawn up by the Ambassadorial Conference in London at their last session, is being considered by the German Foreign Office, as well as at other European capitals, and is to be handed to the Allies after it has been approved by a further Conference in London on Wednesday. How a cut led to 4 years of suffering

Mr. J. E. Arsenault, a Justice of the Peace and station master at Wellington, on the P. E. Ry., says: "Four years ago I fell on a freight truck, sustaining a bad cut on the front of my leg. I thought this would heal, but instead it developed into a bad ulcer, and later into a form of eczema which spread very rapidly and also started on the other leg. Both legs became so swollen and sore that I could only go about my work by having them bandaged."

"I consulted two doctors, and tried all the salves, liniments and lotions I heard of, but instead of getting better I got worse."

"This was my condition when I got my first box of Zam-Buk. Greatly to my delight that first box gave me relief. I continued to apply it to the sores, and day by day they got better. I could see that at last I had got hold of something which would cure me, and in the end it did."

"It is now over a year since Zam-Buk worked a cure in my case, and there has been no return of the eczema."

Purely herbal in composition, Zam-Buk is a sure cure for all skin diseases, cold sores, chapped hands, ulcers, blood-poisoning, various sores, piles, ringworm, inflamed patches, cuts, burns and bruises. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for 75c.

"For three years I was a very sick woman. Rheumatism, headache, palpitation of the heart and Bright's disease were my succession of troubles, but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them all. I used twenty-four boxes to complete my cure, but they certainly made me well.

"I will never be without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Dame Mayer's ills because they are all caused by diseased kidneys, and with cured kidneys straining the seeds of disease out of the blood, the rheumatism, Bright's disease, headache, and palpitation of the heart are bound to disappear.

You never heard of a case of kidney disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills would not cure.

It is that the name of the capital, Canberra, really means "laughing Jackass." Archibald Weston, a noted Queensland authority on aboriginal names, makes this amusing assertion after having studied the derivation of the word. Those who regard the statement as correct are blaming the Government for not taking the preliminary precaution to ascertain the meaning of the word. The "laughing jackass" is not really a jackass, but a large bird, which is highly appreciated by the farmers, because it kills snakes. The name is due to its raucous cry, which usually occurs at sun-down. It so resembles the laughter of a human being in uncontrolled glee, as to be almost impossible for those who hear it to retain their gravity.

St. Patrick's Day Wedding.

At 6 o'clock last evening Miss May Carroll was united in matrimony at the R. C. Cathedral to Captain D. MacDonald, of the S. S. City of Sydney, the Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V. G., officiating. Following the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. P. F. Moore, where a reception was held in which only immediate friends participated. On the return trip of the City of Sydney Mrs. MacDonald will accompany her husband to New York where they will reside in future. The Telegram joins in the congratulations extended.

Poor Mexico.

The merchant shudders in his store, while bullets whiz around him, and no one ventures to his door, unless to kick or wound him. The farmer doesn't now prepare to do his springtime seeding, but sits and broods in dark despair, where Mexico lies bleeding. Some years ago the land was gay, a stretch of smiling acres; then Mexico became the prey of magazine muckrakers. "Reform," the four-eyed writers cried, "is what this land is needing." They sprung a movement, nation wide, and Mexico lies bleeding. Old Diaz ruled with steady hand, and made the country blossom; he knew the people, knew the land, and knew just how to boss 'em. And he was wise and strong and fair, a man of sense and breeding; they tore the "tyrant" from his chair and Mexico lies bleeding. The land is painted red with gore, man's folly advertising; from almost every cottage door a widow's wails are arising; we read about the deadly storm, and shudder as we're reading; they've had their spasm of reform, and Mexico lies bleeding.

The work of Messrs. Kent and Cliff in the Assembly is "jarring" Patsy as well as "knocking" his master, Morris, and both are hurt over the truthful accounts of the Opposition's criticisms which appear daily in the Telegram. When Patsy talks of a "wild-eyed enthusiast" perhaps he has "Topsy" in his mind's eye. The poor "Little Jap" is now such a political "has been" that he is resting quietly on the scrap heap.

Laxative for Old People—'Cascarets.'

What glasses are to weak eyes, Cascarets are to weak bowels—a 10-cent box will truly amaze you.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

IRISH NIGHT.

"Irish Night," as it was presented in the College Hall, last night, was an unqualified success. The audience was an exceptionally large one. His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson were present, attended by Major Davenport, A.D.C. The performers acquitted themselves admirably. The programme was:

Trio—Let Erin Remember the Days of Old.—Misses Jean Strang, E. Herder and Mr. M. McCarthy.

KATHLEEN MAUVORNEEN.

This four-act Irish melo-drama, well known in theatricals, was produced at the Casino Theatre, last night, under the patronage of His Grace Archbishop Howley. There was a thronged audience and special seats had to be provided in the dress circle. It was indeed a faultless production for amateurs, but lack of space prevents an extended reference. The specialties by Miss O'Reilly and Messrs. Moore and Summers were very pleasing. On the whole the staging of the play, under the direction of Mr. M. S. Donnelly, was excellent.

HON. JAMES McLAUGHLIN.

The death of the Hon. James McLaughlin, which occurred at 2.30 a.m. Sunday, came as a painful surprise to the whole city, as few had known of his illness which was of short duration. Mr. McLaughlin had reached the ripe old age of 83 years. He was born at Tashmon, Co. Wexford, Ireland, came to Newfoundland in 1848 and was a most successful sealer and master of the voyage at the sealfishery from early manhood until middle life. Mr. McLaughlin was one of our best known and most respected public men, and was elected to the Assembly in 1879 for St. John's West, and 1882 was appointed to the Legislative Council, and was senior councillor at the time of his death. Kindly and charitable by nature, Mr. McLaughlin's home and purse were ever open to the poor and needy and he was hospitable and affable always. There are left to mourn him a sister and daughter, a religious of the Carmelite Order, Dr. James of St. John's, and Mr. McLaughlin, of Denver, Colorado. In the widespread sympathy expressed the Telegram joins.

Public Meeting at Port au Port.

On Saturday, the 8th inst., a large and representative meeting of the inhabitants of Bay St. George North, was held in the Parish Hall, Port au Port, when the following Resolutions relative to the extension of the Railway to Port au Port, were adopted:

Whereas it is the unanimous opinion of this meeting, that the time has arrived when prompt and active measures should be undertaken by our legislators to promote and extend the industrial interests of the inhabitants of this important section of the West Coast, by affording the means of developing its rich and extensive agricultural, mining and lumbering capabilities;

And Whereas the application of capital and enterprise has converted the great limestone deposits of Port au Port into a means of support for hundreds of the population, besides attracting settlers from other parts of the country, offering inducements for the extension of trade and commerce, in a word opening up vast possibilities to all kinds of industries; and whereas it is the unanimous opinion of this meeting, that the time has arrived when prompt and active measures should be undertaken by our legislators to promote and extend the industrial interests of the inhabitants of this important section of the West Coast, by affording the means of developing its rich and extensive agricultural, mining and lumbering capabilities;

And Whereas the application of capital and enterprise has converted the great limestone deposits of Port au Port into a means of support for hundreds of the population, besides attracting settlers from other parts of the country, offering inducements for the extension of trade and commerce, in a word opening up vast possibilities to all kinds of industries; and whereas it is the unanimous opinion of this meeting, that the time has arrived when prompt and active measures should be undertaken by our legislators to promote and extend the industrial interests of the inhabitants of this important section of the West Coast, by affording the means of developing its rich and extensive agricultural, mining and lumbering capabilities;

Be it therefore Resolved, 1st. That the immediate extension of the Railway to Port au Port is absolutely necessary to the prosperity, advancement and enterprise of the inhabitants of the North Side of Bay St. George.

2nd. That the Government be respectfully requested to take up and adjust this question of railway extension to the satisfaction of those vitally interested and that the representative of the District, Mr. Downey, be asked to bring the matter before the Legislature at an early date and give it the support its importance demands.

3rd. That a copy of these Resolutions be transmitted to the Rt. Hon. the Premier, earnestly soliciting his favorable consideration of this movement having for its object the progress of the Great West Coast and the improvement of the conditions of its people, and expressing a hope that at the earliest date this deserving portion of St. George's District may be admitted to share in the benefits of the railway policy adopted by the Government.

The principal object of the meeting was the consideration and adoption of the Railway Resolutions referred to above but when that business was concluded the discussion of the bridging of the rivers at the head of Bay St. George was proposed, when the following resolutions on the subject were adopted:

Whereas road-making is essential to the progress of any country or section of it;

And Whereas the material and social advancement of the people of Bay St. George has been greatly retarded by want of roads and bridges to connect the settlements around its shores;

And Whereas a large section of the head of the Bay is intersected by a number of unbridged rivers which render travel by this route often difficult and dangerous and always slow and inconvenient;

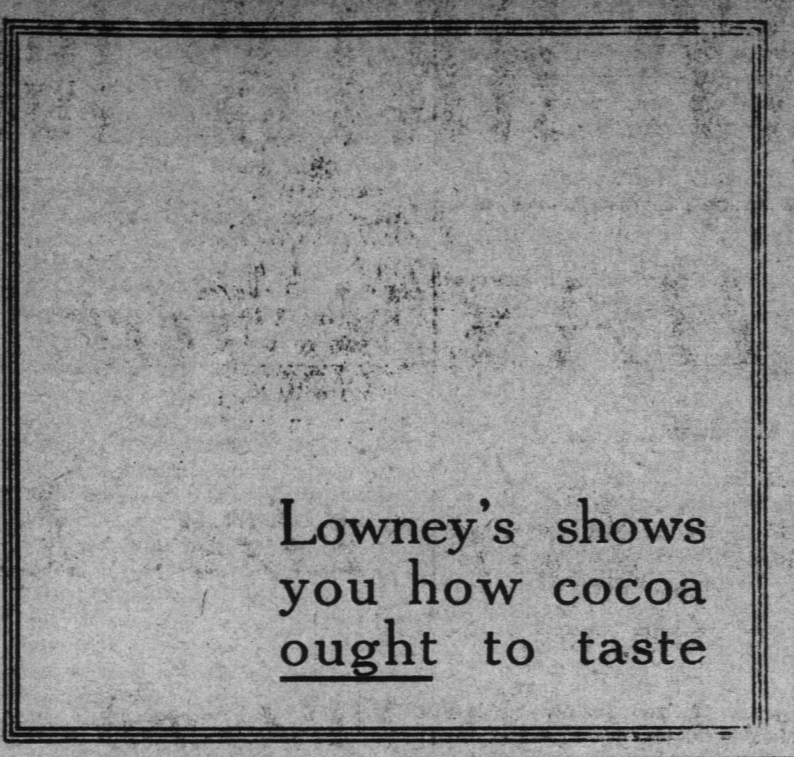

And Whereas the citizens of St. George's in public meeting assembled in the Star of the Sea Hall of that town, on the 27th ultimo, adopted certain resolutions urging the Government to provide for the bridging of those rivers, which flow into St. George's Basin, so as to insure an uninterrupted highway of traffic between the settlements of the north and south sides of Bay St. George.

Be it therefore resolved: That this meeting strongly endorses the action taken by the public-spirited citizens of St. George's in this important matter.

That in the opinion of this public meeting of the inhabitants of Bay St. George, North, the bridging of those rivers referred to above is not alone desirable to a closer union of the inhabitants of both sides of the Bay, but absolutely necessary to their mutual business relations and industrial pursuits.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Rt. Hon. the Premier for his consideration and that the member for the District be asked to support and bring before the Legislature the heretofore expressed opinions and wishes of his constituents on the north side of Bay St. George.

SAVES ELDERLY PEOPLE FROM KIDNEY AND ALADDER MISERIES

Sleep-Disturbing Bladder Weaknesses, Backache, Stiff Joints, Rheumatic Pains Disappear After Few Doses are Taken.

While people along in years are naturally more subject to weak kidneys, they can avoid the tortures of backache, and rheumatism, and be saved the annoyance of getting up at night with disagreeable bladder disorders, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly relieves the most severe and obstinate cases.

Croxone cures these conditions because it removes the cause. It is the most wonderful remedy ever devised for ridding the system of uric acid. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. Croxone makes the kidneys filter the blood and sift out all the poisonous acids and waste matter that cause these troubles.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped-up inactive kidneys like water does a sponge, dissolves, and drives out every particle of uric acid and other poisonous impurities that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause rheumatism. It neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the bladder, overcomes unnecessary braking of sleep and restores the kidneys and bladder to health and strength.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what else you have used. The very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it, and all your misery and suffering soon disappears. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case. 54

The Ingredients of Cakes.

These are—flour, butter, sugar and eggs, with perhaps milk, flavouring and fruit, and to make good cakes you must have sound and whole ingredients.

Those who bake at home can't make sure of these, and a sort of certainty through out. After that, to bake at home with success you must have a good raising powder. The best raising powder is PAISLEY FLOUR. It is mixed 1 part to 8 parts of ordinary flour, as a rule. It does the work of raising with certainty and gives well and even raised light and digestible bakings.

The 22c tin contains 14 ozs. and will raise half a stone of flour; the 14c tin contains 7 ozs. and will raise 3 lbs. of flour; the 6c tin contains 2 ozs. and will raise 1 lb. of flour.

Another Letter From Mr. English.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I have before me a booklet "How Morris is Making Good." The pamphlet attempts to show how the country is indebted to Morris for its prosperity. In the first place, it tries to make it appear that Morris found the country in a dormant state and awoke it to activity, and further on, in a self-contradictory manner, devotes a chapter to a review of the country's steady advancement since the first days of responsible Government. I see the unsteady hand of the author of "Newfoundland in 1911" in that illogical pamphlet. What Morris has really done is to administer as if it were a violent stimulant, he has, with a pretence, disturbed our normal and steady condition.

He found the Country advancing in a healthy way and with firm step along the highway of prosperity, but that stately and robust condition did not satisfy him. He wished to see an orgie of frenzy inaugurated, he needed, for a time he literally set the country mad, intoxicated with the idea of material advancement. Stimulants may at times be useful, but they are at all times dangerous, especially when administered in excess by clumsy quacks. A reactionary effect is sure to take place which depresses the heart, below normal in proportion to the acceleration induced by the dangerous stimulant. One extreme is exuber-

Best Food in the world is good Homemade Bread, made of "Beaver" Flour

Bread, made of "Beaver" Flour, will nourish and sustain you longer than any other one article of diet. Bread, made of "Beaver" Flour, is the least expensive of wholesome foods. You can eat bread, made of "Beaver" Flour three times a day for a lifetime without wanting a change. It's good for you. "Beaver" is a blended flour. It contains both Ontario and Western wheat, in exact proportions. Your grocer will supply you. Try it.

ance, high, boundless hope and confidence, the other despair, want of hope, the depths of despondence. Morris started the mad dance, and unless calm reason soon replaces the frenzy he has stirred up, this country will for years to come have cause to curse the day we gave him power to dose us with his dangerous poison.

Already the reactionary effect is setting in.

People are beginning to tire of the mad whirligig. They are asking themselves where is all the good, Morris promised us? Like the man who has had a night of drinking, we are now, as a consequence of Morris's mad rush, feeling sick, and we want no more of Morris's intoxicants. No thanks to Morris for our present condition of prosperity. Our prosperity is the result of forces that Morris cannot control. He may create a false acceleration, or he may hinder, to stop he cannot, and to urge beyond the normal steady advance is dangerous. His mad policy is sure to hurt us by and by. He has raised us to a pinnacle of high hope, but the pinnacle had its foundation laid in shifting sand and is sure to come tumbling down, crushing us in its fall. Witness the abortive farming policy. We saw visions of cheap vegetables, eggs, meat and fruit as a result of his stimulant in that direction. Who does not feel saddened as a result of the failure of a realization of his dream. Witness the high hope we entertained of mining development. Where are the mines resulting from all that talk? So elated were we we could almost feel in imagination the ground tremble under our feet with the concussion of the miner's blast.

Nothing has been accomplished in that direction.

We are in despair. What talk there was a year or so ago of an oil shale development. We fancied already vast reduction works and a city at Deer Lake. The bright vision has faded. Morris has failed, failed ignominiously, but Patsy says he is making good. Oh, surely, he is making good for Patsy and the others of them. Making good for Morrison and Crombie and a large crowd of followers and hangers on. Oh, yes, making good for the Reids in railway construction contracts, mail contracts, etc. But he is not making good in the way of compelling the Reids to carry out their obligations to the public. The same pamphlet, above referred to, tells us that to-day "she (the country) faces the future with a serene confidence that the resources of her mines and forests will more than do for her in the future than ever her fisheries have done in the past." (the bad grammar is not mine, I presume it's Patsy's) "She faces the future with a serene confidence," that is nice, it makes a pleasing halcyon, so thinks Morris, but his thinking is all astray. What sound, solid reason have we for looking so seriously towards the future? Is it because of Morris's empty talk? What has Morris done to show us what our forest wealth is really worth? What has he done to prove the existence of mineral wealth lying undeveloped? Where are the official reports? What about our coal?

What has Morris done to prove Mr. Howley's assertion as to the existence of large deposits of coal? So far reports from the geological office do not prove the existence of commercially valuable coal. They rather lend a supposition to their non-existence. Mr. Howley might know more than appears in his official reports. Why not have Mr. Howley make out a complete and full report on the matter, so that persons may judge for themselves? Now all this talk about the future of mining, pulp and paper and lumber, is all a blind. There is a big boom in pulp and paper just now. But what is the outlook? Why depleted forests! In ten or fifteen years Grand Falls will be a deserted village. The spruce forests cannot withstand the Terrible demands made upon them. They cannot keep pace with the cutting out, so reckless, so extravagant is it. Perhaps it will last a few years longer than my estimate, well, granted that it does, it does not alter the fact that depletion must come, and that some day, not far off, the industry will be abandoned. Mines stand exactly in the same corollary. Mines will become exhausted and they cannot reproduce their mineral wealth. Bell Island is productive to-day, it cannot last forever. Thirty or twenty-five years may see the abandonment of that mine. What then, where are the mines to take their place? Has Morris done anything that may be said to lead to the discovery of other mineral deposits? When Morris talks of the great mineral wealth of the country, he is either talking bunkum or bluffing, or else he is talking from inside information. If he is talking intelligently, he must be possessed of information not given to the public. Why, then, it may be asked, does he not give out the information? For my part I believe he is just trying his usual game of bluff, bluff has succeeded with him so well in the past. To build our hopes on the future of our mines, because we have Bell Is-

Long Bridge Swept Away.

The heavy ice above the Long Bridge, which accumulated there during the winter, and which was fully three feet thick, with the sudden thaw of Saturday and Sunday, gave way Sunday forenoon, and with the current caused by the inrush of water from freshets on the Southside Hill, and from the swollen tributaries of the Waterford River, caused the ice to break up and give way suddenly. At 1.40 p.m. Sunday, thousands of tons of ice, mostly in large pans, were borne down in the current, and hurled their weight against the harpets of the Long Bridge, tore that structure away as if it were made of so much cardboard. The tide ran at the rate of fully four knots and the mass of ice and debris from the bridge was thrown against Reid's yacht Fife, moored at the breastwork, tore away the group head to which the "springs" which moored her were attached, and she was thrown across the dock diagonally with her bow in over Mudge's pier. She lay across this until yesterday morning, and was aground at low tide. The ice met a barrier in the Dundee and Clyde, anchored side by side at the south side of the pier; it then backed up and remained rafted to the bottom. Both ships with the first shock, were swept from their moorings also, but wedged themselves between the pier and the schooner Toberatic and remained there till yesterday forenoon when the Dundee was moored forward and the ice escaped down the harbor. The Fife suffered some damage, but the other ships escaped. The Premier, Mayor, Councillors and members were present, and we hear a new drawbridge will be erected on the site of the old one.

Carnival at Wabana

WABANA RINK PRESENTS MAGNIFICENT SCENE.

The second Carnival arranged for the skating season on Bell Island took place on Friday evening, March 15th, when Wabana Rink presented a brilliant scene. Over one hundred spectators and admiration of the magnificent was displayed on all sides. About eighty appeared attired in various costumes. Special music was prepared for the occasion, and added much to the enjoyment, while the Ladies Association served teas during the evening. Amongst the spectators present were Manager Burrows, of the N.S. Co., and Councillors Taylor, Bin, Bennett and Stewart. At 9.30 the gathering was addressed by Chairman Taylor, of the County Council, who, on behalf of the Judges (Messrs. J. B. Martin, D. Fraser and C. F. Taylor) declared that Miss Jackson as "Folly" was selected as winner of the ladies prize, "Erin" coming a close second, and Mr. T. Blackwood representing the "Spanish Cavalier" being declared second. At 10 p.m. after refreshments were served, general skating was indulged in till 11 p.m. when a most enjoyable social event was brought to a termination.

The Eye.

BY H. L. RANN.

The eye is a small glittering object which catches the rays of light before they hit the ground and works them up into a crazy quilt. It also catches cinders, styes and catarrhs, which it embraces with feverish energy and never lets go of without a struggle.

The eye is located at the point where the brain begins and the nose leaves off, and is hung on a pivot which allows it to turn nervously on its axis and take in the skirt dance without the slightest exertion. Whenever the eye goes lame it can be hooked into the small end of a pair of opera glasses, which will enable it to enjoy the Apache glide with the utmost freedom. Some people are so afraid that their eyes will give out at the psychological moment that they never go to comic opera without a pair of double-barrelled opera glasses which have a magnifying power of 4,000 volts.

Nearly all eyes are equipped with a portable roof called the eyebrow, which can be raised or lowered at will without coming off. The best-looking eyebrow is a close imitation of the string-mustache, and can be curled down over the cheek bone in a very threatening manner. There is also the vanishing type of eyebrow, which starts out boldly at the bridge of the nose and disappears in thin air.

The wink is a convulsive action of the eye, caused by the eyeball revolving rapidly several times and stopping on dead center. Some people employ the wink as a substitute for an introduction, and are required to pay $10 and costs. If this treatment were more general there would be fewer mashers in green vests infesting the street corners.

The evil eye is a variety which never sees any good in anybody except the undersigned. A person with an evil eye can sit in the front window and detect more weaknesses than an investigating committee on the part of the police. The best eye is the open-faced kind, which looks straight at you without dodging or hiding behind a letter of recommendation.

AT THE WRECK.—Capt. Martin and Bosun Fielder are still at the scene of the wrecked steamer Labrador at Branch. A portion of the vessel's hull is above water, but her condition is such that if a heavy sea is on the land she will be broken in pieces.

Crew Went Home.

The crew of the s.s. Lloydson went home from Port aux Basques by the express, which arrived here on Saturday night last. Captain Barbour addressed the men twice at "Channel" asking them to remain on the ship, and that he believed they would yet be in time for the voyage, but they refused. About 18 or 20 stayed on her. Several of the men obtained berths on the Neptune and Seal before these ships left for the Gulf.

Visits Scene.

Thursday afternoon, His Excellency Governor Davidson, Mrs. Davidson and Secretary Davenport visited the scene of the fire at the Reid Company's locomotive shops, and yesterday they inspected the damage done to the Long Bridge. Thousands of citizens also visited the place during the day.

The Fruits.

Last week after taking cognizance of the attitude of the Government towards the police force and the unwillingness of the Premier to grant the police force a cent advance in their wages. Const. Brown, Leadwell, Pitcher and Brown of the Western Station immediately sent in their resignations. These are all good men and they will be missed from the force. We hear that four or five others will also resign from the Eastern Station.

Art Exhibition.

The drawing exhibition was formally opened yesterday in the British Hall by His Excellency the Governor, who made a brief address at the opening, congratulated Professor Nichols on the highly creditable work displayed. Amongst the large audience present were Mrs. Davidson, Major Davenport, Hon. J. and Mrs. Harvey, Sir W. H. and Lady Horwood, Hon. John Harris, Rev. Dr. Curtis, W. G. and Mrs. Gosling, W. W. Blackall, V. P. and Mrs. Burke and Dr. Skelton. Only the drawings done by children in standards I. and II. were shown and these were good. The freehand work of the pupils of Placentia convent elicited favourable comment. The coloured sketch of the Titanic attracted general attention. It was the work of Master Scott, of Moreton's Harbor, and reflected credit on his ability. The exhibition will be continued to-day and to-morrow, closing to-morrow night when prizes will be presented to the those who have had the best work.

CHAPTER XXV.—THE IRISH HEROINES.

Our party consisted of husband and wife, a little daughter then about 3 years of age, and the other heroine of whom we have already spoken, and whom we have called Norah. Of the voyage out it is not necessary that we write at any length, as it was similar to the voyages in the early days of emigration; and similar to that of the "Irish Emigrant," of whom I wrote in my second story. There was, of course, the usual amount of seasickness; a few storms; and the average time was some thirty or forty days. They brought with them some articles of old-time mahogany furniture, and a few heirlooms of the family. Their money, of course, had to be brought in gold; as banking, with its modern conveniences of drafts and cheques, was not then available as it is to-day. This to them was their greatest care during the voyage, but in due time their little ship sighted the land; and on a bright June day entered the Narrows which Cabot had entered three centuries before. Their ship ran well up the harbor, as she was consigned to parties who transacted business in that direction. Thus it was that on landing they went ashore somewhere near the premises of C. F. Bennett & Co., which portion of the town, we of the present day call the West End.

The West End then was very different from what it is to-day; but not far from the place of landing, and what is now known as the upper side of Water Street, our party pitched their tent and made their home. In course of years they erected a two-storied stone building, which still stands, and which is still strong and well preserved. To their new home in St. John's they brought good health and capital; the highest moral and christian character; and firm faith in God; and upon these principles they laid the foundation of their business, and of their homestead; therefore it is no wonder that they succeeded in the truest sense of the word, and that "the blessing which maketh rich and addeth no sorrow" followed them in all their career. They did not leave their principles behind them, as we are apt sometimes to do; nor did they forget them when it was convenient; but they put them first and foremost; and in all the changes of their life, in times when clouds seemed to threaten their sky and the way looked dark, they put these higher principles uppermost; and like the Psalmist of old, "they came out into a wealthy place." They learned to love Newfoundland, and in all they did, and in their descendants, who were not very many, and of whom only two now remain, St. John's has had citizens good and true.

During their fifty years they established a nice business and ran it along on the old conservative style; and kept an eye to safety and economy. The capital which they invested was very helpful for fishermen of

Have a Chat on Useless Cheques.
Some of the toney ladies of this town have a novel way of paying their servants, says Tucker, and they manage to do it by presenting the girl who toils for them with cheques on pay day that are as valuable and as useful as a seven and sixpenny "waterproof" on a rainy day. When the girls get these cheques they present them in payment for goods at the different stores in town, but the proprietors often find that when they go to deposit them in the Bank that they are slipped back by the official at the window, who puts on a sweet smile and informs his customer that there are no funds to the credit of the slippery female with the slashing and ornamented signature. Tucker knows many business men in town who have such useless cheques lying in their safes and takes his opportunity to remind "deadbeats" who issue such cheques that they are sailing very "close to the wind." We have a certain section of this community who seem to be capable of doing anything outside of holding up people at midnight with a seven shooter in order the West End, and was instrumental in building up St. John's and of making it the centre of trade that it is to-day. While the homestead was established in Newfoundland, there were of course lonely hearts across the water; and amongst the number was one who would not be satisfied until he, too, had crossed the broad Atlantic and joined the party. This was the son of the Mayor of Dublin; and it was Norah who was all the world to him. To be Mayor of Dublin was quite a prominent office, and the young man in question had much in his favor. He had a good chance of doing well by staying at home; but it was all nothing to him; and he determined to leave all and try his fortune in the same country to which Norah had gone.

He had youth and health on his side, and in all probability would have some little capital. He therefore decided to embark and make his home in Newfoundland. Being young, he had not much to dispose of, but his father had given him a beautiful horse which was kept and groomed in the best condition. This animal he decided to sell, and it was in the act of selling it that he received a mark that he carried with him to his grave. On entering the stable to show him to a prospective buyer, the animal became restive, and in its prancing kicked its owner in the thigh, with the result that he ever after walked with a halting step.

In due time the Mayor's son made his departure, and sailing from Dublin, he finally arrived in St. John's. He was, of course, warmly received by our friends, and especially so by Norah. Like others who came before him, he liked St. John's; liked its harbor and its location, and thought it reminded him a great deal of many parts of his own native Ireland. With youth on his side, and his bit of capital, he applied himself to business. He made his home in the West End of the city, not far from the site of the homestead of his friends. He had a good deal of hustle about him; and being willing to work hard, and to put his brains and his toil, and his money together, he soon found that he had come to the right country; and that not only would Newfoundland give him a living, but would increase his wealth. He was about twenty-four years of age when he came to Newfoundland, and some two years afterward he decided upon taking the step which all good and true men should take at the right time; the step of his marriage. And so he gained the hand of Norah, whose heart he had long ago won. There were no obstacles in the way, no one to interfere nor to object. He knew his bride and she knew him. They were of the one race, faith and country, and so they started out on the journey of life amid sunshine and favorable breezes; and the union was happy. They were blessed with sons and daughters.

Vegetables should not be cooked in an iron kettle.
Cook carrots and beets whole, then skin and slice.
Soak wilted vegetables in cold water to freshen them.
Cotton the same shade is better to mend gloves with than silk.
A brush should be kept for the purpose of scrubbing vegetables.
Vegetables with a strong odor should be cooked in plenty of water.
Cake tins may be greased with paraffin and the cake will not stick.
Old paint stains on a carpet can be dissolved with spirits of turpentine.
In making cake, eggs should have yolks and whites beaten separately.
Sweet potatoes should always be boiled with their skins on and pared afterward.

Find Relief in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Statements So Testify.

Plata, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with female weakness and backache, and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my nervousness is better. I will recommend your medicines to all suffering women."

—Mrs. MARY HALSTEAD, Plata, Pa., Box 98.
Here is the report of another genuine case, which still further shows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon.

Walcott, N. Dakota.—"I had inflammation which caused pain in my side, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if any one even spoke to me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I began to gain right away. I continued its use and now I am a well woman."

HAVEN'T YOU HEARD THEM ASK WHO'S THAT?

You have noticed that all politicians and public men generally find, sooner or later, their Portraits reproduced in the daily papers or in some publication. It therefore behoves you to see that you always have on hand a recent good Portrait of yourself. Don't say to yourself, Oh, this old one will do.

Let us make a new, good Portrait of you for this purpose.

We don't worry about getting ahead of any competitor. Our chief aim is to get ahead of ourselves—to do better this year in Style, Fit and Finish than we did last year; to tailor better clothes than we have ever done before.

We know the fate of the self-satisfied man, and with this knowledge we are not content to run a dead heat with our previous best.
