CHAPTER XVIII.
"COURAGE MOUNTETH WITH OCCASION."

To her nature, delighted always more in giving than receiving, it was keen pleasure to feel herself the channel of interest from the book's pages to the man's mind. That obtrusive "ego," which at first (small blame to her) obscured the subjects with visions of lost hopes, past struggles, past days, became, as week merged into week, less omnipresent. Theories which drove Miss Hurst into gentle doses grew fascinating to the scholar trained by Robert Vaughan beyond school-girl standard. A hard knot over differing opinions set Sydney reading slowly once, with long pauses at full-stops. "This is dull for you," Mr. Hurst apologized; "I ought not to have let you go on. Pray leave off."

"I should be sorry to," she answered; "I only wanted it clear to myself. I wish I knew the bare elements of all this better."

"You do?" he exclaimed. "Then you shall. There's a book"—getting up impetuously, only to seat himself again, with a sadly subdued expression. "I forgot I cannot find it. But, Jean, you will. Asleep, is she? Then when she wakes, or if it would do as well, I might tell you what you want to know."

"That would, indeed, be better. But it would trouble you."

"Not the least."

So leaning from his end of the table toward her, looking at her, as she always felt, so entirely his infirmity was lost sight of in the expressive mobility of the other features, he gave her the essence of much reading in few minutes, and after that, no matter what the subject started, Sydney had the clew to investing it with brightness. At every stage she needed explanation. This he had always ready, from books, from memory, or by and by from manuscripts of his own, and life began to lose, for him, its dreariness. Mightily pleased at her discrimination in securing this well-adapted "person," Miss Hurst noted a change in her brother, complacently appropriating it as a personal compliment, while time and distance, though no whit diminishing Sydney's fond regard for all she held dear at St. Clair's, stilled the oppressive whirl she had gone through and left her healthily tired maybe, but little disposed to brood over Mr. Villiers' detection, or over her stepfather's chances of becoming a countless presumptive.

About which it is our duty to return to the Dale, and see what goes on.

CHAPTER XX.
LADY COMYNGHAM AND MRS. ALWYN UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER.

It was a great misfortune, or she felt it so, that Mrs. Alwyn's conscience, worn fine under roughish usage, still asserted its existence sufficiently to keep her extremely irritable for some time after her younger daughter's departure.

With the common perversity which values what is lost or flung away, Mrs. Alwyn now acknowledged that the child of her second marriage had some rare endowments of brain and soul, and the notion that she had so worked them as to get no social credit thereout, but had let them go into petty paid servitude, was wormwood to her. For one-and-twenty years she had had that youngest-born to carp at, or to bind to, as the whim took her. Now she missed her, hugged her conceit too closely to confess it, and took umbrage at all whose questions constantly reminded her of the girl's absence, and the entanglement she had drawn upon herself by promoting it. Suffering under this condition, described by her servants as "bein', so nobody couldn't please her with nothin'," the malaise of Mrs. Alwyn pervaded the household, and set ever-widening circles of gossip afloat.

It was on one of June's last days when Hills appeared at the glass-door of the morning-room, asking if his mistress or Miss Villiers would tell him what color Miss Sydney wished "they stocks gratted. He'd promises of General Jacks and Madame Nomores, but was not sure which miss wanted."

"Either will do," Mrs. Alwyn answered, from her writing-table; "one just as well as the other."

But Hills was not going to be choked off in that summary fashion. Miss Sydney interested herself in his flow-ers, and he determined to pay the compliment of consulting her taste.

"I know miss lean one way or other," he persisted, "so shall I wait for her views, ma'am, till she come back?"

"Oh, wait and welcome!" replied Mrs. Alwyn, with lips drawn into angry puckers.

"Werry well, ma'am. But as the sap's rising free, I hope Miss Sydney won't be long."

So Hills put the inquiry to Miss Villiers pointedly. "Could you say if she'll be back in a fortnight or so, miss?"

"Yes," said Leonora, "I really couldn't, Hills. And the man went off sulky, to take counsel of Phillips."

"I've bin askin' 'em in there," with a jerk toward the ladies' room. "When they look for Miss Sydney, and neither on 'em 'I tell me. They hev'n't took an' quarreled with her, hev they?"

"Goodness knows what they're up to," returned Phillips. "Missus is as close as a nut, and Miss Leonora don't say a word to such as we. But my advice is, Hills, bud your roses as fast as you please."

"When ain't she a-comin' at all?" cried honest Dan Hills, discomfited.

"You leave me to find out, and when I know I'll tell you."

So Phillips took her turn at investigating matters, and inquired respectfully next day of her mistress when Miss Sydney's room was to be set in order. She didn't wish to be behind with it, and it would take a whole forenoon.

"Do it when I tell you," said Mrs. Alwyn, shortly, an angry gleam at the back of her eye. And Phillips answered:

"Serve corn soup with toasted corn bread."

"Oh, very well, 'm," with such meekness that her mistress scented suspicion in the obedient syllable.

"Oh the whole, though," she said, with a good assumption of second consideration, "I think the room had better be thoroughly turned out. Help Walters with it to-morrow. Then it will be ready for Miss Sydney, if she returns next week."

"And for any one else if she doesn't!" commented Phillips, acutely, on this order. And added, borrowing the phraseology of a game-keeping parent, that nobody was quicker at a double than her mistress, but she, Phillips, was not to be taken in by no doubles, and it was her belief Miss Sydney was gone for good.

This disquieting opinion soon spread in St. Clair's. Reaching Patty Pegg, of whom, as of all her pupils and pensioners, Sydney had with courage to leave, it furnished her with courage to go bobbing, like a cork afloat, to Mrs. Alwyn the next Sunday, with "Please, mum, ain't Miss Sydney a-comin' to learn us our singin' no more? Mother an' me du want to know bad." And old Mrs. Hills lay in wait at her door, like an anxious spider, to catch the lady from the Dale with the same question; and even Mrs. Dacie, disturbed by some echo of this report, donned her black silk, and went over to Sydney's old home, determined to come at the truth, one way or other.

But the doctor's good wife was easily dispirited.

"It was on one of June's last days when Hills appeared at the glass-door of the morning-room, asking if his mistress or Miss Villiers would tell him what color Miss Sydney wished "they stocks gratted. He'd promises of General Jacks and Madame Nomores, but was not sure which miss wanted."

"Either will do," Mrs. Alwyn answered, from her writing-table; "one just as well as the other."

But Hills was not going to be choked off in that summary fashion. Miss Sydney interested herself in his flow-ers, and he determined to pay the compliment of consulting her taste.

"I know miss lean one way or other," he persisted, "so shall I wait for her views, ma'am, till she come back?"

"Werry well, ma'am. But as the sap's rising free, I hope Miss Sydney won't be long."

So Hills put the inquiry to Miss Villiers pointedly. "Could you say if she'll be back in a fortnight or so, miss?"

"Yes," said Leonora, "I really couldn't, Hills. And the man went off sulky, to take counsel of Phillips."

"I've bin askin' 'em in there," with a jerk toward the ladies' room. "When they look for Miss Sydney, and neither on 'em 'I tell me. They hev'n't took an' quarreled with her, hev they?"

Heroes of N. W. Frontier

STIRRING TALE OF BATTLE IN PASSES.

Particulars have already been published of the ambushing of a party of Indian troops in the passes of the N. W. frontier of India. Details have now come to hand showing how a desperate position was retrieved by consummate leadership and valour. A convoy proceeding from Jandola to Haldar Kach travelled along the Shahrur river bed, which for three miles passes through a gorge known as Shahrur Tangi. This gorge country is a series of precipitous rocky mountains, ranging from 3,000ft. to 4,000ft. The gorge itself is a rock-strewn track running now beside and now intermingled with the Shahrur river, which, like all its kind, is rapid and shallow, with occasional deep pools, and hills, come down stream in muddy walls of water from two to four feet high, and rising to even greater heights in the narrow places. Thus, two days before the fight, the spate at the narrows had actually reached a point 27ft. above the bed of the river. For some unaccountable reason Shahrur Tangi is superstitiously regarded by the tribes and never before had they ventured on an attack there, although the nature of the ground is peculiarly suitable to their tactics. At the spot where the attack was made the river bed is only 20 or 30 yards wide, while the cliffs on both sides rise abruptly to the sky, in heights of 50 and 60 feet. In such a locality complete reconnaissance by protecting troops is impossible, and reliance is placed on permanent pickets, who can only supervise the most likely points of attack. On this occasion the enemy, 200 strong, made a most careful reconnaissance, succeeded unobserved in getting into position the night before, and at daybreak were lying hid above the river bed, among the rocks on both sides, as an advanced guard of 40 men under Lieutenant T. B. Vickers, sappers and miners, reached a narrow spot where the gorge is merely a gash in the hills. The enemy Opened Fire With Rifles and Bombs, bringing down nine men with their first volley. By the rules of war, Lieutenant Vicker's party should have been annihilated, but with splendid resource he collected his men, dashed up the precipitous cliff, and got in touch with 100 men of the 2nd Grenadiers, who were coming to his assistance; he then led the attack against his unseen foe, whom it was difficult to locate, owing to the baffling echoes of the firing in the cavernous neighbourhood. While leading the attack this gallant officer was killed. Meanwhile reinforcements from Haldar Kach and Chacmalai had been sent out, including a Stokes mortar, which, under Lieutenant Butler, came dashing into action from the river bed. The enemy still held their ground and inflicted further casualties, among them being Surgeon Harris, who while calmly tending the wounded under a murderous fire was caught by a bomb and killed outright. However, Lieutenant Young and a platoon of the 28th Punjab performed a daring feat. Guessing the probable position of the enemy, he and his men climbed to a ledge overlooking the narrows, and by taking the pins out of their bombs, converted them into hand grenades, which they lobbed over the edge, thus obtaining air-bursts. This perilous expedient was partly successful. The convoy received orders to turn back, and with its escort was safely withdrawn, while parties scoured the narrows covered by rifle and bomb fire. Overcome by this plan, the enemy broke off and dribbled away, says a correspondent of the Times, being caught in the process by our artillery, which was waiting patiently but hitherto had been unable to come into action. The casualties were 29 killed and 17 wounded. Surgeon Harris shortly before he was killed had, with the assistance of Sergeant Hicks, carried into safety a wounded Indian officer under heavy fire.—News of the World.

Just Folks

JUST HALF OF THAT, PLEASE.

Grandmother says when I pass her the cake:

"Just half of that, please."

If I serve her the tenderest portion of steak:

"Just half of that, please."

And be the dearest a rice pudding or pie,

And I pass Grandma's share she is sure to reply,

With the trace of a twinkle to light up her eye:

"Just half of that, please."

I've cut down her portions but still she tells me:

"Just half of that, please."

Though scarcely a mouthful of food she can eat:

"Just half of that, please."

If I pass her the chocolates she breaks one in two,

There's nothing so small but a smaller will do.

And she says, perhaps fearing she's taking from you:

"Just half of that, please."

When at last Grandma leaves us the angels will hear:

"Just half of that, please."

When with joys for the gentle and brave they appear:

"Just half of that, please."

And for fear they may think she is selfish up there,

Or is taking what may be a young angel's share,

She will say with the loveliest smile she can wear:

"Just half of that, please."

Although France lost a million young men in the war, statistics recently issued show that last year the excess of births over deaths was 158,790, as compared with 58,914 the year before the war. The same returns show that the number of marriages in France last year were double the number in 1913. Including Alsace-Lorraine, the number of births in France last year were 834,411, compared with 790,355 in 1913, while the deaths last year were 674,621, compared with 731,441 in 1913. The marriages last year were 623,869, as against 312,036 in 1913.

THE PIECE BOX.

The other day I went to my piece box for a bit of some goods to mend a dress. I had to hunt for it and presently I found myself fathoms deep in the fascinating employment of reorganising my piece box and at the same time reminding over the pieces that I tied up. It should have taken me three minutes to get that bit of goods. I am ashamed to tell you how long it actually took. It seems to me that no conventional memorabilia book could have any more potent power to call back scenes and memories than the box of pieces into which the left-over bits of the family garments have been sewed away.

How Tired You Were of It. There's the bit of the covert cloth you had years ago when covert was the right thing for suits. How wonderful that suit seemed to you when you first bought it, how much you were of it, how anxious you scanned the skies before you went out—and oh, how tired you were of the ironed-in stuff before you really cast it aside! There's a bit of pink crepe de chine reminding you of the first party you bought after you were married. You had made your trousseau so long after the way of brides that pink gown was an especially auspicious event. You wore it, let me guess three years and then you used it as a waist linen. It was a pretentious you can remember your husband pruned it and said you must get yourself new things often and not spend all your money on the children.

"That's Not Thick Enough." What is this heavy stuff here that feels almost like carpet. My goodness if that isn't a piece of your bicycle skirt, bought 32 years ago when bicycling was as much the fashion as motoring is now! The skirt was given away, goodness knows how long ago, but this piece still lingers around waiting for some chance use. Does it seem possible that you ever wore anything so heavy as that? And in summer, too! To-day you wouldn't think you could wear such goods as that in the heart of winter. But when those skirts were the rage, the heavier they were the more smart they were. You smile as you remember going from shop to shop looking for the goods, taking the samples they offered between your thumb and forefinger to test the thickness and then saying "No, that's not heavy enough."

A Record of the Children's Lives. And then the scraps of the children's dresses—how vividly they trace the history of each, from the first sheer scraps of white lawn or batiste, through the first colored dresses, the pink dimity (how dear she looked in it at her first party with a pink bow on her hair) and the blue silk muslin (that tomboy wore a ruffe off the first time she wore it) and so on to the fresh record of the present-day frocks, the American beauty sport skirt and the orchid mignonette that are part of this summer's wardrobe.

There are times when one wishes we were like the animals and grew our clothes upon our backs and only changed them by moulting or getting a new coat of fur. But what a lot of romance and interest would be taken out of life if we did! And not the very least would be the romance of the old piece box.

Ecclesiastical Intervention in Peace Negotiations.

Bishop of Dromore Delivers Message to DeValera--Dail Eireann Considering Lloyd George Proposals--Central American Countries may Engage in War.

HIERARCHY INTERVENE.
DUBLIN, Aug. 22. The Hierarchy, as the Roman Catholic Church is known in Ireland, has intervened in the Irish peace negotiations. Most Rev. Edward Mulhern, Lord Bishop of Dromore, came to Dublin to-night with a message from the "highest authority" which he delivered to Eamon De Valera and other Sinn Fein leaders. There were long consultations over the message. Asked whether the message came from "the Cardinal," meaning Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, a priest who accompanied Monsignor Mulhern, replied in the negative. This was considered in some circles here as possibly meaning that Rome had intervened.

AT DUBLIN MANSION HOUSE.
DUBLIN, Aug. 22. Dail Eireann held two secret sessions to-day to consider the question of what shall be its reply to the British Government's offer. It adjourned this evening without having arrived at any decision, but will meet again to-morrow in private, simultaneously with the gathering of the Sinn Fein Executive Committee. This evening the following official communication was issued: "Dail Eireann met this morning at 11 o'clock, adjourned at 12 o'clock, reassembled at 4 o'clock, and rose at 6.30 o'clock. It was again occupied all day with Lloyd George's proposals. It will meet again to-morrow." There was no long speech delivered at to-day's meeting of Dail Eireann. "Any deputy speaking for more than five or ten minutes would make himself unpopular, except, of course, De Valera or other members of the Cabinet when making an explanatory statement," said one of the members. He added that thus far the deputies merely had shown considerable curiosity concerning the terms of the Government's offer, and that members had been called upon for explanations from all parts of the room in the Mansion House, where the sessions of the Parliament are being held.

IRISH BULLETIN STATEMENT.
DUBLIN, Aug. 22. The Irish Bulletin to-night brought long argument contrasting the British Government's dealings with North East Ulster and the remainder of Ireland. "Compulsory free trade," says the Bulletin, "is imposed between Ireland and Great Britain. There is no such obligation between Ulster and Ireland, but there are proposals involving a customs' barrier between them. This is the traditional British policy of using Ulster as the bridgehead for maintaining British rule in Ireland." The Bulletin says it declines to believe that the speeches in Parliament last week of Premier Lloyd George and Foreign Secretary Curzon constituted the Government's last word. It adds that the Irish people do not desire renewal of warfare, but that they will face renewal without hesitation in order to preserve their national honor.

RIOT INSURANCE IN DUBLIN.
DUBLIN, Aug. 22. Insurance underwriters of Dublin to-day asked and were paid three pounds sterling per hundred to insure the plant of a Dublin newspaper in sympathy with Sinn Fein, against riot or other civil commotion for three months. This is five times as much as would be paid ordinarily, and is taken here to show how divided is the best local opinion on the question of a renewal of strife in Ireland.

SOUTHERN WAR THREATENED.
PANAMA, Aug. 22. Panama is prepared and ready to repel Costa Ricans, should they invade the disputed Coto territory. No definite action will be taken, however, until it has been learned what attitude the United States Government will adopt towards Panama in the event of the Panamanians opposing the taking over of Coto by the Costa Ricans.

LABOUR CONVENTION AT WINNIPEG.
WINNIPEG, Aug. 22. When the first session of the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada concluded here this afternoon, among the items of business disposed of were the following: The convention called upon the Government to establish eight hour days and forty-four hour week. Insertion of fair wage clause in all works on which public money is spent was urged. The Ontario Government was asked to appoint a labor man on the Hydro-Electric commission. Opinion was expressed that the present cost of living did not justify any reduction in the wage rate on the Canadian National Railway. Committees were named and were at work here to-night.

NELDR, DIES IN MONTREAL.
MONTREAL, Aug. 22. At the age of 71 years Henry Hurd, an old employee of Gunn, Langlois and Company, died to-day at his residence, 1545 Jeanne Mance Street. He was born in Newfoundland and came to Montreal about 45 years ago. For some time he was in the service of the Bell, Simpson Company, produce merchants. Joining the firm of Gunn, Langlois and Company over 25 years ago, he had remained in their service ever since, and has been active until recent months.

COAL CARGO LOST.
NORTH SYDNEY, Aug. 22. The 100 ton schooner Itaska, owned and commanded by Capt. Joseph Petipas, of Halifax, is reported a total loss at St. Pierre. He was enroute to Newfoundland with a cargo of coal.

FATAL FIRE.
MACON, Ga., Aug. 22. Eleven persons, early to-day, were believed to have lost their lives in a fire which last night destroyed the Brown House, one of the oldest hotels here. One man is known to be dead and firemen believe there are at least ten bodies in the ruins. Ten persons suffering injuries from burns or sustained in jumping from the second and third stories of the hotel, are under treatment at the Macon Hospital.

Shipping Notes.
S.S. Eagle, Othar and tug John Greene were docked yesterday for general overhauling. S.S. Fern arrived at Sydney on Saturday and will load coal for the Reid Newfoundland Company. S.S. Manos left Charlottetown last midnight and is due here to-morrow evening. Schooner Review, Symonds master, arrived at Bonne Bay yesterday from the Labrador halting for 400 quintals of codfish. Schooner June arrived yesterday afternoon after a run of 17 days from Cedix. The ship brought a cargo of salt to Messrs. Baine Johnson and Company. S.S. Rosalind sailed from Halifax this forenoon for this port.

Origin of "Rough and Ready."
"Rough and ready," an expression commonly applied to persons who are willing, capable and efficient, but somewhat uncouth in their methods, has an origin in no way discernible from the phrase itself. In Wellington's army, during the Battle of Waterloo, was an intrepid colonel whose name was Rough. His first name does not appear in the available records. Wellington selected Rough for a hazardous task that required not only courage but promptness as well. The colonel cheerfully accepted the detail, and, acknowledging his quick response, the duke said: "Rough and ready." Colonel Rough was so pleased with the compliment from the Duke of Wellington that he adopted the phrase as his family motto. Later it became a slogan in the British army, and finally found its way into everyday language.

It's Piping It That Costs.
A negro preacher after a sermon on "Salvation Free" proceeded to announce a collection. A colored brother took him to task after the service for not practicing as he preached. terrible accident Record.

Statistics show that of approximately seventy thousand persons killed in accidents in the United States, in one year, about fifty thousand met their death in the streets and highways and about twenty thousand in industries. Contending that this awful mortality can be very materially reduced, one well-known organization, which for the last ten years has been specially engaged in accident work, declares: "Three-fourths of the deaths and serious injuries from accidents can be prevented. About one-third of the reduction can be accomplished through mechanical guards; but two-thirds can be accomplished through education." When we learn that the casualties from accidents in the United States, in a single year's time, were far greater than those suffered by the country's troops in France, we can realize the pressing need of taking greater precautions to prevent accidents. It is pleased to note that what are termed "industrial" accidents have, owing to the care of employers, been decreasing in a marked manner. On the other hand, road accidents have tremendously increased, due largely to the phenomenal growth in the number of automobiles. The furious driver has much to be responsible for. The Chief Constables' Association at their recent meeting in this city, demanded that these law-breakers should be far more severely dealt with by the courts. A timely suggestion made was that all offences against the Motor Vehicle Act should be recorded on the license cards, so that judges could at once ascertain just what record a culprit had. Fatalities in the highways have frequently called for special comment from juries, and more than once strong recommendations were passed demanding stricter vigilance from the police, and severer punishment for furious and drunken drivers. Our public schools might very profitably follow the example of schools in certain great cities where scholars are instructed in precautions to avoid accidents in the streets, in the home and elsewhere. That astonishing carelessness is a prime factor in accidents is evident everywhere.—Montreal Star. The finest selection of Diner Sets in the city at KNOWLING'S.—aug20,21

Nothing But the Truth—Without Fear or Favour.

ALL-CANADIANS vs. CITY.
To-morrow morning at 10.30 sharp the game of the season will be played between the All-Canadians and the City boys. Both teams have been practising hard for this contest and, as the line-ups are very strong, a good game will be forthcoming. Coke Cahill is looking after the interests of the Canadians, whilst Lionel Mann is Master of Ceremonies for the City boys. The line-ups will be the same as in their last appearance.

LIONS MEET DEFEAT.
The unexpected always happens. The surprise of the season was handed out last evening when the B. I. S. defeated the Red Lions by a score of 5 to 3. The Irish lads, though somewhat weak since their last appearance, used two reserves, who filled the bill fine, and though defeat was staring them in the face up to the sixth innings, they eventually romped home with a two run lead before Umpire-in-Chief Chesman announced the game called on account of darkness. Thus the Lions went down to defeat for the first time this season. Last night's result puts a different aspect on the Lions' chances for the championship, as in case the Cubs defeat them in the next game, a play-off will be necessary, provided of course the Cubs defeat the B. I. S.

The Score by Innings:
Red Lions . . . 0 1 1 0 0—3 runs
B. I. S. . . . 1 1 0 0 0—5 runs

CHAMPIONSHIP SPORTS.
The big Championship Sports Day, under the auspices of the A.A.A., will be held at St. George's Field to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 sharp. Up to early this morning 57 of our local crack runners and sprinters had entered for the various events. They are keyed up with enthusiasm, because of the fact that the Championship of the season means so much, while on the other hand the Victor Ladorum goes to the all-round champion of the day. Hard fought races are predicted and many a surprise will be in store. The Committee wish it to be understood that all the athletes must be

Power of a Plant.

MARROW THAT LIFTED A CART.
A correspondent says that he put one of the growing pears on a tree in his garden into a square glass bottle, which he fixed against the wall. He then watched from day to day to see what would happen.

Gradually it filled the bottle, flattening itself against the square sides, and at last burst the glass walls of its prison.

Some time ago a heavy paving-stone began to rise on a pathway in a country town, and when it was removed to see what had caused the disturbance a mushroom was found growing underneath. Soft and pliable as the fungus might seem, it was more powerful than the dead weight of the stone, which must have been half a hundredweight.

Tree Lifts a Ton.

Enormous weights have been lifted by vegetable marrows. Some years ago one which was growing under an old disused cart, from which the wheels had been removed, actually raised this from the ground. Cucumbers, too, have performed prodigies of valour. One young cucumber found its way among the very young and thin through the middle of a large marrow-bone, and as it grew larger and larger the inexhaustible force it exerted split the bone.

At one place in the Tyrol the roots of a larch grew downward through a cleft, and as the root thickened it split the stone and raised part of it, weighing more than a ton, a distance of a foot. At Cambridge, in one of the main streets, there is an iron fence which has been absorbed by a growing tree, so that several of the massive iron uprights have disappeared inside the trunk.

The only thing that some of these trees cannot resist is the strangle grip of another plant that encircles them. In England honeysuckles often kill a tree like the beech, while in tropical forests many of the creepers kill the trees up which they climb, and then save themselves from falling by throwing out long branches to neighbouring trees.

Force of Rising Sap.

The tiny root hairs of our common wild plants, though so fine as scarcely to be seen, push the particles of earth and the stones on one side and penetrate into the soil like a gimlet. Experiments have been made with beans which have been grown in water spread over quicksilver, and the roots have been found actually to force their way through this heavy metal.

GROCERY BUSINESS CLOSING.
Another wonderful instance of the power of a growing plant is the way in which the sap is pumped up to the remotest leaves. The force of the rising sap has been found to be equal to a pressure of twenty-two pounds.—The Bita.

garbed in the regular running costume. The competitors must be on time, as the first event will be started promptly at 2.30. A feature of the evening's sports will be a football game between Great Britain and our own local Champion team, the B.I.S. This clash will be awaited with interest, as one of the finest exhibitions of football for this season will be doped out. The former team will wear the Briton uniform. The line-ups will appear as follows:—

GREAT BRITAIN—Goal, Barry, H. M.S. Briton; full backs, A. Bush, H. M.S. Wisteria, Williams (H.M.S. Briton); half backs, Foster (Saints), Ramshaw (H.M.S. Wisteria), Henry (C.L.B.); forwards, Brown (Saints), Elton (Saints), Macklin (Guards), Ferriman (H.M.S. Wisteria), Sharp (H.M.S. Briton); Reserves, Irvine (Highlanders), Beams (H.M.S. Briton).

B. I. S.—Goal, J. Phelan; full backs, Constantine and J. Higgins; half backs, Fox, Burke and Eriem; forwards, F. Phelan, E. Phelan, W. Callahan, H. Phelan, G. Gibbs. Referee, E. Churchill.

The following are the additional entries for the sports:—

The Fifth Test Match.

Whilst the final result of the fifth Test Match has not yet reached here, the end of the second day's play shows England well ahead. Tennyson declared the first innings when 403 had been scored for 8 wickets. The Australian wickets were all down for 89. In their second innings, England's team obtained 244 runs for the loss of 3 wickets before the close of the second day's play. It is most likely that Tennyson again declared early on the third day, and then attempted to get the Australians out before stumps were drawn. At any rate, it seems impossible for England to have lost the game although the Australians may have stonewalled as in the fourth game, and forced a draw.

Waiting Decision.

We learn that Hon. R. Watson, People's Warden of St. Thomas' Parish received a cablegram from Rev. Ernest C. Earp this morning, stating that since hearing from him last week, his Bishop had offered him an English Rectory, and intimating that he would like to know the decision regarding St. Thomas' as soon as possible. Mr. Watson has already cabled the result of last night's meeting, so that an early reply as to the decision of the Mr. Earp may be expected.

Will Play Grand Falls.

It has been arranged that a city team will be sent to Grand Falls in response to the invitation from that town, discussed at last night's League meeting. All those who will be able to make the run to the Paper town are requested to get in touch with R. E. Innes or R. G. Ross.

GROCERY BUSINESS CLOSING.

We understand that the extensive grocery business conducted by Hon. J. D. Ryan on Water Street will shortly close down. It is the intention of the proprietor, however, to continue the wholesale provision and feed store on Duckworth Street.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

NOT MANY, BUT ONE.

LONDON, Aug. 22.
Remarking the importance of the recent conference as signifying a close Union of the Nations of the British Commonwealth, Premier Hughes of Australia, at a farewell dinner given him by the British Empire League here, to-night, said "our safety, our prosperity, our existence, our future depends on united action, and we Premiers in Conference solemnly resolved that to the outside world we are not many, but one. For good or evil we resolved to tread that path, and it was a wise resolution." Making reference to the evils of Bolshevism in Russia, Hughes said to the workmen of England and Australia that there was only one way by which high wages could be maintained, and that was by production of goods at a price which would enable them to be sold in the markets of the world. Wealth and prosperity the people of England depended on, putting aside the poisoned cup of Bolshevism, he said. Premier Hughes leaves to-morrow for home.

PUSHING TURKS BACKWARD.

SYMRNA, Aug. 22.
It is reported that the Greeks have forced the passage of Sakaria River, and are pushing the forces of Mustapha Kemal, Turkish Nationalist leader, toward Angora. The Greek front now extends ten miles Eastward of the river.

A STATE OF SIEGE.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Aug. 22.
The Nicaraguan Government has issued a decree of a state of siege throughout the republic. The disturbed condition in the Northern departments is given as the reason.

THE SPIRIT WILLING.

LONDON, Aug. 22.
Efforts of employed workers in Russia to help famine sufferers are hindered by the fact that they themselves are weakened through lack of proper food, says a Moscow despatch to the Daily Herald.

KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

MECHANICVILLE, N.Y., Aug. 22.
Five men were killed and a sixth injured, probably fatally, by the explosion this afternoon of a battery of three high pressure boilers in a plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

ADVENTUROUS SPIRITS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.
Recruiting for the Spanish foreign legion for service in Morocco was in progress yesterday at the Spanish Consulate here. About 350 men, who have been recruited since last Thursday, were told to be ready to leave today for Spain. More than half that number are United States veterans of the A. E. F. The rest are Spaniards and South Americans.

IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Aug. 23.
Irish Republican leaders, gathered here to frame a reply to the British Government's offer of Dominion status for Ireland, divided their activities today between a secret session of Dail Eireann and a meeting of the Executive Committee of Sinn Fein. Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, planned to meet his Cabinet at Belfast today, and it was believed probable that relations between Belfast and Dublin would be considered.

OPPOSE CARPENTERS' RETURN.
New York.—The women of France don't want Carpentier to fight any more in the United States, according to Miss Carmelita Welser of Springfield, O., last K. of C. girl worker to return from Europe, who arrived in New York this week.

"French women were not so enthusiastic over the Dempsey-Carpentier match as American women were, she said, "because the women of France have been trained for generations to believe that whatever fighting their men should do should be done on the battlefield and not with gloves in a ring."

Not Acting Premier.

The rumor was current yesterday that during the absence of Sir R. A. Squires, the Hon. Geo. Shea would act as Premier. The News this morning states that the information was from reliable authority. Hon. Geo. Shea, seen by a Telegram reporter yesterday said "that there was no Acting Prime Minister as far as he knew." Seen again this morning in reference to the rumor, he said it was absolutely without foundation.

Wedding Bells.

HISCOCK-LEDREW.

On August 8th a very pretty wedding took place at Carbonear at St. James' Church, when Rev. H. V. Whitehouse united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony Mr. Richard Hiscock and Miss Vida Joyce LeDrew. The groom is the youngest son of Mrs. E. C. Hiscock of Trinity, and the bride the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. LeDrew of Capilda. The church was suitably decorated for the occasion, and the choir was in attendance, the hymns "The voice that breathed o'er Eden" and "O perfect Love" being sung during the service. The bride looked charming in a travelling costume with bouquet of carnations and fern, her bridesmaid being Miss Nettie C. B. Hiscock, sister of the groom. The groom was assisted by Mr. H. M. Hollands, son of the late Rev. C. Hollands. After the ceremony the wedding party were entertained at McCarthy's Hotel, when the health of the happy couple was proposed by Rev. H. V. Whitehouse and suitably replied to by the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Hiscock then motored to Hr. Grace, joining the train for St. John's, where a few days were spent, thence taking the Sagona for Bonavista, and spending a week at Trinity before taking up their residence at their bungalow on Beaumont Avenue, Grand Falls. Grand Falls was reached on Monday, August 22, and the popular young couple received a hearty reception from their many friends of the paper town. Mr. Hiscock has been foreman of the Exploits Valley Royal Market for some years, and has made himself deservedly popular among the people, while Mrs. Hiscock has held, very capably, a responsible position on the teaching staff of the Grand Falls Academy for the past three years. There were very many presents from their many friends, and among the congratulatory messages received on the day of the wedding was one from a brother of the groom, Capt. George Hiscock, who witnessed his good wishes from his steamer, the Livingstone Roe, on his way to Sweden from the U.S.A. We join in the many expressions of goodwill for the continued happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Hiscock.—Com.

Salvage Notes.

The summer vacation being spent and home once more settled into, it is time that your correspondent endeavoured to publish, for those interested, the happenings at Salvage during the last few weeks.

The children of St. Stephen's Sunday School, Salvage, held their annual picnic yesterday evening on "Net Point." The weather was delightful and the children enjoyed themselves to the full (provided that their shouts and cheers were an index of their feelings).

Miss C. Blackmore of Newtown, has been appointed as Assistant Teacher ensuing year.

Mr. Chas. Brown of Bishop's Hr. has had his shop taken down and carried to Alexander Bay, where he is rebuilding, Mr. Brown hoping to remove his family to the latter place sometime during the autumn.

Miss Lucy Lane, Coward's Island, is spending a short holiday with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Brown, Bishop's Hr.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Miles are spending their summer holidays with the parents of Mrs. Miles, (Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown, Bishop's Hr.) We understand Mr. Miles leaves next week to resume teaching.

Miss Rebecca Curtis, King's Cove, has been spending the summer with her aunt, Mrs. John Moss, Bishop's Hr.

By the last Malakoff Mrs. A. Squires was taken to the Hospital. We hope Mrs. Squires may soon return thoroughly cured of her malady.

Mrs. H. J. Oldford, Salvage, returned from St. John's to-day.

Mrs. E. Burden, Salvage, who had been away for a short holiday, returned home last week, looking fine after her trip.

Mr. Jas. Burden, in company with several other men went to Gambo yesterday, in motor boat, en route for the "Paper City" in search of employment. Only a few men are left in these borders now—as nearly all have gone in search of the wherewithal to live, as the fishery has been a total blank (with the exception perhaps of one case). At present those fishing rarely get a barrel per day, and generally not half that amount. Squid is fairly plentiful the past few days.

During the summer Dr. and Mrs. MacDonald had the great pleasure of seeing all their offspring at home. Nurse MacDonald (Heart's Content) was home for a week or so. Kenneth was up from Botwood and Alastair was home for a short while. Nurse MacDonald is still at home. Mrs. MacDonald is at Greenspond visiting friends, etc.

During the past few months we have heard and read quite a bit about "Buried Treasure." In next week's notes we shall try and give a short account of the "supposed" piratical loot at Bar Harbor and the attempts made to recover same.—CORRESPONDENT Aug. 20, 1921.

At Last Outpost of Civilization.

Augusta, Maine, Aug. 20.—Governor Baxter received yesterday an undated letter from Captain D. E. Marcellus, the Arctic explorer, now on an expedition to Baffin Land, in which he said he had reached what might be called the last outpost of civilization. "I have taken the last provisions and fresh water and am now awaiting weather to clear before proceeding northward to Hopdale, the first Eskimo settlement," he wrote.

"It is two above freezing here today with many icebergs in sight, but no drift ice to hinder us on the coast," according to wireless reports. The Bowdoin is proving to be a wonderful sea boat. Had her going the other day with ice rail under and forerigging cutting every fave. Was a bit anxious about my main boom which was heaving like rubber but she came through all right."

Gerald Ritchie, a great-grandson of Thackeray, died recently in Chelsea.

President Harding has written one book, "Our Common Country," a book about the great land of which he is now the first citizen.

One hundred thousand copies have already been subscribed in America for Sir Hall Caine's new novel, "The Master of Man."

There was a Gloomy Dean before Dean Inge. His name was Donna. He was the eighteenth-century poet and a predecessor of Dean Inge at St. Paul's. Mr. Gosse calls Donna "the Sepulchral Dean."

Sir James Barrie most vehemently disapproves of the Russian Soviet Government, which has just issued an edict that children's tales must be devoid of all elements of superstition, and must contain no mention of angels and fairies.

A Delaware bookshop's window had this notice:—

"THIS IS POET'S DAY.

"Personally and confidentially speaking, we'd have half the birds shot at sunrise if we could get away with it. But as we can't we content ourselves with displaying them all here and leaving their fate to you. It is becoming the fashion of novelists to follow the example of Anthony Trollope, Charles Garvice, and Anthony Hope, and to take an office and work there regular hours like business men.

Touching Mr. Lowther's retirement—is the House of Commons an unhealthy place? Many elderly politicians give evidence of great vitality. But perhaps this is a case of the survival of the fittest. When Mr. Gladstone was in his sixty-fourth year, as recorded in his diary when standing with the Queen at Balmoral, he walked thirty-three miles over the roughest ground he had ever passed. Ten years before, after a walk of twenty-five miles, he remarked, "This is rather too much for my stiffening limbs. My day of long stretches is, I think, gone by."

Do You Murder Time?

BEING BORED IS A BAD HABIT.

How often one hears a man or woman say, "I did so and so just to pass the time away?"

Many people find it dull to be left by themselves for even a short half-hour. Yet such people do not realize that to admit that one is feeling dull is a confession that the speaker is a dull person.

Life is too short for any one of us to be able to afford to kill even an hour of it. The man who reaches the allotted span of three-score years and ten has had probably less than 100,000 hours to himself, apart from his work and his sleep and his meals. As the average life of man or woman is considerably less than seventy years, we can see how precious is every leisure hour.

Compare Your Fellow-Creatures. "But," you may say, "how am I to spend my time? If I have an hour to wait at a country station I am bored; there is nothing to do."

Nothing to do! Have you no book or paper to read, no eyes for trees and flowers, no ear for the song of birds? Walk out into the lanes and you will find enough even in the hedgerows to give you occupation. Spend a few moments by a pond, and you will gain some idea of the teeming life of Mother Nature, and of the wonderful way in which she has designed her creatures to fill their parts in life.

Do you know that under the microscope a single drop of water is seen to contain as much life as the naked eye can see in the whole pond? The thought will help you to make the hour interesting.

If there are no hedges or ponds, you need not despair. Can you find nothing to interest you in your fellow-creatures? Don't you ever wonder what their characters are, or what their life stories have been? Watch them as they go about their work; compare the slow steadiness of age with the quick impulsiveness of youth. One man whom you see obviously enjoys his work; another regards it as mere colourless drudgery. Ask yourself which of the two is the happier.

Try to Entertain Yourself.

But perhaps the best hours of all, and those which are most frequently killed, are the ones we spend in an easy chair in our own homes. It is at these times that we can read books and journals, deriving the fullest measure of joy from the writings of men whose thoughts, enshrined for ever in print, are always at hand to liven up the dulllest moments.

Being bored is nothing more or less than a bad habit, which is due in most cases to lack of the necessary energy to entertain yourself. If you find your own company dull, rest assured that you will bore other people if they rely upon you for entertainment.

A little effort is all that is needed, and once you have made it you will be surprised to find how interesting are the hours which previously were the most dull.—Tit Bits.

Legends of the Air.

STORIES OF OPTIMISTIC ANCESTORS.

There is a curiously old-fashioned look about the photographs in "A History of Aeronautics," by E. C. Vivian and Lieut.-Colonel W. Lockwood Marsh (Collins, 30s.), of the early flying meetings.

Our minds have long ceased to wonder at the aeroplane and the airship. What will probably excite most interest in this admirable volume is the early chapter which gives the legends born of ancient man's desire to fly. One of the earliest is in one of the oldest records of the world—the Indian classic Mahabharata, in which it is stated that Krishna's enemies sought the aid of demons, who built an aerial chariot with sides of iron and clad with wings. The chariot was driven through the sky till it stood over Dwarka, where Krishna's followers dwelt, and from there it haled death upon the city missiles that destroyed everything on which they fell.

Egyptian sculpture gives the figures of winged men, but no authority has ventured to assert that the ancient Egyptians had mastered the problem of flight.

There was a foundation of fact in the legend of Icarus. Daedalus made his wings, and the boy Icarus, learning that his father had determined on an attempt at flight, secured the wings, fastened them to his shoulders, and leapt from a cliff-edge, only to find the possession of wings was not enough to ensure flight to a human being.

The Flying Saracens. These ancient would-be airmen generally came a cropper jumping off high places. There is the story of the Saracens of Constantinople who, in the presence of a great throng, attempted to fly round the hippodrome:—

The Saracens chose for his starting point a tower in the midst of the hippodrome, and on the top of the tower he stood, clad in a long white robe which was stiffened with rods so as to spread and catch the breeze, waiting for a favourable wind to strike on him. "Fly, O Saracens!" they called to him. "Do not keep us waiting so long while you try the wind!"

Comnenus, who had present with him the Sultan of the Turks, gave it as his opinion that the experiment was both dangerous and vain, and, possibly in an attempt to controvert such statements, the Saracens leaped into the wind and "rose like a bird" at the outset.

He broke his bones and died.

The Power of the Press.

The press stands for propaganda, and the importance of propaganda was never more fully recognised than it is to-day.

Lord Northcliffe, in bidding Mr. Keith Murdoch farewell on his return to Australia, said "we have to contend with all sorts of other propagandists," and that is true equally in an Empire and a world sense. The plea for simpler and cheaper communications within the Empire has been endorsed by the Imperial Conference, and the Imperial Pacific Cable Board has, it is announced, promptly responded by a resolution to restore the deferred press service suspended during the war. Mr. Murdoch has done great work in developing the cable news service from the Mother Country to the Dominions and India, and it is matter for regret that Great Britain is not as fully supplied with news from Greater Britain. "If I forgot all my forty years in Australia and saw Australia through an attenuated and unannounced cable service I should look upon it as a country of desolation and despair," said Mr. W. M. Hughes. Lord Northcliffe has started on a world-tour, in which he will visit Canada, Australasia, and India, and his promised communications to The Times, we do not doubt, will emphasise the necessity for a larger measure of attention in the British press to the affairs of the Dominions and Dependencies. But that attention must be rooted in accuracy and authenticity. "Stuffing the ears of men with false report," the acceptance of mere gossip and wild rumour as "news," the misrepresentation of motive in order to serve a party end, are practices not unknown to the "enterprising" journalist in any country. The press of the British Empire should be sans peur et sans reproche. In no direction is quantity without quality calculated to do more mischief, and it is a pity that deliberate misrepresentation or wholly unwarranted assumption in affairs cannot be subjected to penalty as is the libel or slander of individuals. President Harding, a month ago, wrote an appeal to the press on a sheet of note-paper. "It is up to the press of the world, as the mouthpiece of the best civilisation, to give its voice to steady human progression." President Harding was thinking of what "the same press" can do to assist disarmament and the better understanding of peoples. The same press—sans in morals as in mentality—within the British Empire can do more than Parliaments and the politicians to make the Empire one and indivisible, and to ensure the success of its mission in the interests of freedom and civilisation.—United Empire.

forwarded to coast officials here through the Navy Department. The report was indorsed as "possibly pertinent to theories promulgated as to the disappearance of certain vessels on the high seas."

The report read in part: "Two large and apparently fast motor boats were hanging from homemade davits on each side of the main rigging. Astern was a white whale boat and on a platform built out astern was a yellow-pained fisherman's dory. There was no evidence of her name. The depth of water at that point was too great for fishing and she was to light weather apparatus showed the vessel was not going to place in particular and in no way get there—probably a smuggler."

Monte Cristo" Island Hoards in the South Seas.

WEST OF THE HORDES IS KNOWN AS "THE PERUVIANS' MILLIONS."

That very useful island, whose famous hero, Monte Cristo, had fabulous wealth had its position only in the celebrated author's imagination.

It would be hard to write had known that the real thing was in existence, and within easy reach of those who liked to look for

An Englishman, in the year of his death, filled his pockets from the many hoards there. In the seventy years, at least twenty known expeditions have visited the treasure-strewn locality, and more than one have returned with retrieved

The island is to be investigated by a party made up, not of treasure-seekers or British naval officers, assisted by others with an intimate knowledge of mining. Hitherto operations have been on primitive lines, or the best with spades and explosives.

The new party, with a substantial bank backing, proposes to make use of up-to-date scientific and engineering appliances, and to make for a long stay.

Some of the "dumps" which have so often defied discovery may be brought to light.

Monte Cristo Island is no barren spot. Early last century it had a military garrison, and before that a settlement. What became of them neither nor tradition hints, but if any hoard any spot it ought to be on this romantic island. Wild pigs and deer, doves, and other native fauna are abundant, and the shore waters are rich with fish and sharks.

For two centuries or so ago, the shipwrecked and brushwood, and made use of the island for obtaining fresh stores of food and fuel, were, like others who have been there, keen judges of a handy and comfortable rendezvous. Whether the East or the West Indies, the western Indian Ocean or the West Indies, the Black Flag pirates had a habit of choosing a pleasing base of operations and murder.

Some of these bold had men of the nineteenth century hid their valuables and specie, down to as late as 1835, many millions' worth of treasure have been hidden for safety on Cocos Island. Among the principal hoards is that of pirate Bonita.

This Spaniard, traditions say, hid over $5,000,000 of gold and silver in coinage, ingots, jewels, and plate, obtained from rifed merchantmen and looted towns. Yellow Jack claimed him suddenly at Panama, and he, with his dying breath, divulged to his chief officers the whereabouts of the "dump." Before the vessel set sail, both of them were killed in a drunken fray, and all knowledge of the treasure was lost.

Plans and documents indicated another great cache came late into the possession of two English women, two years before the war, and their treasure hunt on the Cocos lasted for seven weeks. The expedition discovered the well-defined rocks which are supposed to indicate the treasure haunt on the Cocos lasted creek, the waterfall, and several other marks of location; but unfortunately the face of the cliff had slid down over the mouth of the cavern.

There are thousands of tons of debris to be removed before the cache can be reached, but the proposed expedition of treasure-hunters has something to go on with, the previous party having left enough evidence of the site of their labors.

The wealthiest of all the Cocos' hoards is, undoubtedly, that of the Peruvians' millions hidden in 1855. In that year the Peruvians, hard pressed by Chile's troops, sent the contents of the national till on board the U.S.A. barque Mary Dyer, lying in Callao roads. Her hands, three nights later, while the mate was ashore, owing to the skipper's strange death, slipped anchor, and escaped to sea before the forts could hold up the vessel.

When she was captured a few weeks later by a Peruvian warship, the national riches had disappeared. Three of the crew escaped being hanged at the yard-arm—two seamen, who promised to reveal the cache, and another, Thomas, who had been seriously unwell at the time and in his bunk. Subsequently, the two seamen, on trying to prove that the treasure was hidden on one of the Galapagos, were shot as liars.

Thomas escaped at Panama, and at Colon found a kind Newfoundland, Keating, by name, who smuggled him on board his vessel, bound for Kingston, Jamaica. There Thomas disappeared for ever; but in 1863 and 1866 Keating visited the Cocos and lifted some of the treasure.

These treasures of the Cocos are not mere myths. An Englishman in the early forties of last century enriched himself from a hoard there; two separate American expeditions, a native of Lima, and Joseph Keating, have done likewise.

Migration of Despair.

APPALLING MISERIES OF RUSSIAN PEOPLE.

Conditions of indescribable suffering and misery are reported from Russia, where famine is mowing down a vast population. The drought, coupled with the disinclination of the peasantry to grow more food than suffice for their own requirements, has brought about an appalling calamity. The people are fleeing from the desolation of their fields in search of food. The Kremlin, the citadel of Moscow, and the seat of the Soviet Government, is being provisioned to resist a siege. Many peasants, before flight, make an attempt to sell their holdings, but load what can be carried on the carts, and flee blindly into the unknown. At some crossing-places carts are accumulated waiting an opportunity to reach the other bank. The cattle in these fugitive assembles are dropping from exhaustion, and many are being slaughtered to anticipate their death from starvation. According to witnesses of this migration of despair, its scenes are a nightmare, baffling all description. Madame Katherine Breshkovskaya, the self-sacrificing woman who well earned the title of "Grandmother of the Revolution," has issued in Prague an eloquent appeal to humanity, in which she says: Agricultural Russia has been brought to the verge of inevitable death. The country is already covered with dead. Adults are dropping having lost the strength to utter a cry. Without a wall, without a groan, the Russian people are disappearing from the face of the earth, covering with its bodies the desolated soil. The harvest has burnt in the fields. The grass has withered in the meadows. The cattle have not the strength to stand. Gardens and forests are fruitless. There is not a crumb of bread or a drop of milk. In 14 once rich provinces death is mowing down unhindered 25,000,000 doomed men, women, and children, taking away even the hope that their race will be perpetuated in the deserted wastes. From the White Sea to the Black, from the Baltic to the Caspian, extermination is proceeding by sickness, epidemics, hunger, and the cold of the impending winter. The Soviet Government, desiring to augment its stocks of grain, has decided on

You Can Be Transparent

A liquid that renders flesh invisible or transparent has been invented.

If a hand or arm is immersed in this liquid its flesh will disappear almost entirely from view; the bones, however, will be visible, as under X-rays.

The mixture makes the flesh of your hand transparent, because it has the same index of light refraction as the flesh. The light rays passing through the liquid are not bent, or refracted, when they pass through the flesh, though they are bent by the bones, which have a different index of refraction.

Different parts of the body have different indices of refraction; any part can be made to disappear by submerging in the proper liquid. But not all parts at once, so the magic cloak of invisibility is still to be discovered!

He works like a nigger to make the hole bigger—He's sore if His cutter won't cut.

He don't bother with plans of cheap artisans. But there's one thing Can rightly be said:

The whole excavation Has this explanation He builds it. By using his head.

So use your head when you require a good tonic and nerve builder by taking Brice's Tasteless Cod Liver Oil. Price $1.20 bottle; Postage 20c. extra.
