CHAPTER XX.

"I can travel with Pitts," Yolande objects; but the voice is yielding and very unsteady, and the tip of her forefinger is most industriously tracing every curve and line of the carved chair back.

"No, you can't travel with Pitts," Captain Glynn responds, shortly, his voice changing, also, and the smile illumining his eyes growing brighter.

"I don't see why I cannot," Yolande says, with a last feeble mutinous effort.

"Because, whatever you may think of me," he remarks, gently, "I would not for the world offer you a public slight. We have not been married a month, Yolande, and if I were to stay here and suffer you to go to London, it would publish our mutual unhappiness to every one. You don't wish that, I am sure."

Yolande shakes her head, and a smothered, convulsive sob is his answer.

"You don't wish to punish me for my unfortunate involuntary wrong toward you, do you, Yolande? I hope," he continues, with his hand laid on her arm—and a pretty little arm it is, Dallas notices—a slim, girlish pink-white arm, which he feels an almost irresistible longing to kiss. "If I met a woman before I met you, or heard of you, or saw you, and loved her first, you can scarcely lay it to my charge as a willful wrong, can you?"

"No," Yolande answers, listening only too gladly and eagerly to the dear voice which persuades her, "it was not that. I did not blame you for—for loving her—in a pitiful, trembling whisper. She is very pretty and elegant and attractive, I know well. But if you had only told me the truth plainly and frankly! If you hadn't led me to believe that you cared for me!"

"But I did care for you, Yolande," he declares, smiling, and slipping his arm around her waist. "I shouldn't have married you, if I had not thought you were a sweet, lovable, ladylike girl whom I felt proud and pleased to call my wife, and with whom I felt proud and pleased to call my wife, and with whom I hoped to spend many happy years."

Captain Glynn's fair, handsome head is resting on hers, with its coils of silken brown hair, and his right hand meets his left among the laces and ribbons at Yolande's waist. "It is rather dull, this wooing of one's own wife; but it is an experience by no means lacking in pleasantness or piquancy, Dallas admits.

"But if my wife's pride is going to punish me for another woman's falsehood," he continues, softly, pressing his lips to her forehead—"going to condemn me to loneliness and desolation for the rest of my days—married and divorced, with a wife and no wife—why, I must only endure it as best I can!"

"Oh, Dallas, oh, Dallas!" Yolande cries, with a convulsive sob, quite heart-wrung by this mournful picture of a solitary, joyless life. "Oh, no, oh, no, my darling! Oh, my darling, I'll stay with you and comfort you as much as I can!"

"You'll not forsake me then, love?" Captain Glynn asks, plaintively, as they sit side by side opposite to the now blazing fire; and his young wife's arms are round his neck, and she is clinging to him in a passion of tender protectiveness, as if to save him from the horrible fate that menaces him.

"You won't leave me alone in misery and temptation, dearest, will you?" he murmurs, pressing a kiss on Yolande's cheek; and he smiles to himself to think how easy and complete, after all, has been his victory over his little rebel wife.

"I should have taken this tone with her from the first," he thinks, blaming himself. "I should have had a pleasanter honeymoon, I dare say, and not would she if I had humored her a little. She is easy enough to manage, poor little girl!"

"No, no!" Yolande says, in answer to his question, her slender arms tightening their hold of him. "I'll stay, I'll stay! I won't leave you, my darling, you won't stay very long here, will you?"

For Joyce Murray's fair, winsome face, with her curling lip and sarcastic smile, rises before her like a vision of evil. A chill comes over her in the warm glow of her freshly kindled hopes and happiness, and a heavy sigh rises to the lips her husband kisses. "He has loved Joyce Murray—may, he loves her now, though he tries, because he is married, to quell his love. Nothing can undo that or alter it. Joyce Murray has his first, best love—that is an irrevocable fact.

"Not very long, I suppose, in any case," Dallas replies. "Until after the poor old earl is gone, you know, dear."

And Yolande wonders vaguely, with the selfish hopefulness of youth, how long it will be ere the last ends of the old man's life will have run out; and Dallas, trembling between hope and fear, wonders whether the earl has put his name down in his will for a lump sum, as well as for the regular allowance which is paid to him from the estate, as it was to his father before him.

He has a good many debts, which, though not individually very serious, are hampering him somewhat, and of which he is most unwilling that the existence should come to the knowledge of Yolande or her trustees. The small sum of two hundred a year, which is his allowance for pocket-money under his marriage settlement until Yolande inherits her uncle's and aunt's fortunes, will be forestalled for years to clear off these debts, unless the earl has remembered him with a stray thousand pounds or so.

"Dallas, you won't be angry with me, if I say something?" Yolande whispers, falteringly, flushing and creeping closer to him.

"No, dear; I hope not," Dallas answers, guessing what is coming.

"You won't make me so miserable again as I have been to-day, will you?" she pleads humbly and tenderly, caressing his hand, but not venturing to look up into his face. "I have been so unhappy to-day—oh, so unhappy, dear!"

"Jealous?" and Dallas smiles, as he chucks her under the chin. "No, dear, I'll give you no real cause for unhappiness on that score. I can't answer for imaginary causes, you know."

"I shall not make unhappiness for myself without a real cause, Dallas," Yolande says, with a sigh.

"You shall have no real cause, my darling!" Dallas assures her affectionately, but wondering at the same time, with grim amusement, how he will contrive to keep Yolande and Joyce on good terms with him and each other while they all remain under the same roof.

"I almost wish, upon my word, that Yolande would go up to London in the morning," he thinks. "I have a presentiment that mischief will come of her visit here. I have felt it all along."

"Well, I won't worry you about imaginary grievances, my dearest," jealous Yolande says, fondly, her pale face lighting up anew with happy hope, as she dutifully kisses her lord's hand in gratitude for his goodness to her. As she does so, she misses one well-known sargaw from the slender fingers.

"Where is that beautiful red cameo ring, Dallas," she asks—"that one I admire so much. You haven't lost it, I hope?"

"No, oh, no!" Dallas answers quickly, with rather overdone carelessness of tone; and involuntarily, as he is startled into remembrance, he puts his hand to his vest-pocket to feel if the other ring is safe.

"Is it there?" Yolande asks, smiling, nestling closer, and playfully twining her fingers with his, as she thinks how she will take the ring from him, put it on his finger formally, repeat a passage from the marriage-service over it, and say—"Now Dallas, we are married over again!"

"Don't!" he says, irritably and sharply, pushing her head away. "No, no! It isn't here!" And he is so startled to find that Joyce's ring is not in the vest pocket, where he thought he had placed it, that he loses his presence of mind.

He looks about on the carpet eagerly, then hurriedly thrusts his fingers into the pocket on the right side of his vest, and, getting somewhat distracted, jerks the ring up for a moment into the light, as he gropes after it.

The diamonds, catching the firelight, emit a scintillating ray, and Yolande sees it.

Just Phone Your Grocer

HE'S the Carnation Milkman. He'll send you a supply of sweet, fresh milk you can keep on your pantry shelves in perfect safety—even through the heat of summer!

Then you have it always on hand. No running out, no waste, no inconvenience! Carnation Milk is just pure "whole" milk with about 60% of the natural water content removed by evaporation. For tea or coffee use it as it comes from the can; for cooking or drinking reduce its richness by adding water as desired.

Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans with your groceries.

The Carnation Cook Book contains 100 delightful tested recipes. Here's one. Try it—and write to-day for the Cook Book.

FROZEN CUSTARD

2-3 cup sugar, 1 1/2 cups water, 1 1/2 cups Carnation Milk, 2 eggs, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1 teaspoonful vanilla. Beat the milk. Beat the eggs slightly; add sugar and salt. Add the scalded milk mixed with the water and stir constantly. Put in double boiler and stir until the mixture thickens and a coating is formed on spoon. Cook, add flavoring and fruit. This recipe makes one quart, enough to serve six people.

Talk Women How She was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winnipeg, Man.—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bounding baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine, and any one seeing me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee Street, Winnipeg, Man.

Their Wrongs and Ours Must be Curbed.

(Morning Chronicle)

Mr. F. J. Cragg, in a letter which we printed recently, made a timely and vigorous protest against excessive speeding and reckless driving on Halifax streets, and especially on St. Margaret's Bay Road, and he issued the warning that he will personally report to the proper authorities all motorists who indulge in the dangerous speeding on that road. Mr. Cragg has shown courageous public spirit.

Undoubtedly reckless motorists is a serious menace, not only to those who practice it, but still more to the public. The Chicago Tribune recently spread before the public an impressive object lesson of the automobile toll of death in that city when it printed across a half page 48 portraits of persons who had been killed in automobile accidents in that city. Many of them were pictures of little children; but all ages were represented.

All were killed by motor cars in Chicago, and the small portion of Cook County outside the limits of the city. All lost their lives during the present year. And the forty-eight were little more than one-tenth of the total of what the Chicago newspaper describes as "the death harvest of seven months of speed," or to be exact, seven months and seven days.

Under the pictures, filling the greater portion of the remainder of the page, are the lists of other victims. With them appears a chart showing that deaths caused by automobiles have been steadily increasing in number year by year since 1916, with the exception of 1918, when there was a slight drop, doubtless due to decreased riding during the war. The number of deaths during the first seven months of 1918 was 188. During the corresponding period of 1922 it was 332. It has now passed the 400 mark.

All motor accidents, it is true, are not due to speeding or to carelessness on the part of the motorists. The pedestrian himself is frequently at fault

Cleopatra's Beauty Secret

Cleopatra knew that to have a fresh fine skin, thorough cleansing was necessary. She knew that the gentlest means must be employed. She used Palmolive Soap.

The crude combination of these oils which was the best even royalty could command is today brought to perfection in Palmolive.

Every girl can have the radiant healthy skin which is the foundation of all beauty. Intelligent care is the secret—thorough cleansing the basis.

Unless thoroughly cleansed with soap and water the skin becomes sluggish and inactive. The tiny pores clog with dirt, oil, secretions, perspiration, rouge and powder, and blackheads and other blemishes result.

A pure mild soap causes no irritation. Women who fear it have been using the wrong soap.

Palmolive, with its creamy mild lather is lotion-like in its action. It soothes while it cleanses; it freshens, revives and stimulates and leaves the skin delightfully fresh and rosy.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.

MARKET REPORTS

Indicate that there is no surplus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and high priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal, and we have on hand a stock of same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product.

We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

HOTEL FIRE CAUSES GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.
HUNTSVILLE, Ont., Aug. 21. Seven dead, two missing and possibly dead, and five seriously injured, are the latest available figures of the casualties which attended the total destruction of Wawa Hotel, Lake of Bays, early Sunday morning.

EXPECTS FULL EXPLANATION FROM FEDERAL GOVT.
QUEBEC, Aug. 21. Rev. Canon B. Scott, Rector of St. Matthew's Church, this city, has gone to Cape Breton to see if conditions in the mining districts are represented by Rev. Mr. Hamlin, of Newport, R.I. In a sermon preached in St. Matthew's Church, he says "I consider it only fair and right to see conditions for myself. If I have been misinformed on any point, I shall have no hesitation in saying so. Calling upon the Federal Government to furnish troops in the strike area has made the affairs of the British Empire Steel Co., a matter of personal interest to every man, woman and child in Canada. We look to the Federal Government to give us an explanation and a satisfactory one."

BANDITS HOLD UP AND ROB CLUB CARD PARTY.
VANCOUVER, Aug. 21. Entering the Seventh Battalion Club early this morning, two armed bandits lined up a score of card players, went through their pockets and escaped with more than ten thousand dollars.

JAPANESE PREMIER ILL AND WILL RETIRE.
TOKYO, Aug. 21. It is believed here that the resignation of Baron Kato, as Premier of Japan, is imminent. While his condition is not dangerous he is very ill. Now that ratification of the Washington-Armament Conference Agreements on which Baron Kato has set his heart, has been completed, and the warships involved have been ordered scrapped, it is understood the Premier is ready to retire.

S.P.C.A. SECRETARY CONDEMNES BRANDING OF CATTLE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 21. "This is absolutely the most damnable thing that has ever been brought to our notice," said J. R. Innes, Secretary of the Canadian S.P.C.A. to-day in discussing a regulation of the British Government, that on and after Sept. 1st all Canadian steers cattle for export must be branded with white hot electric branders. He added the animals would not be branded in such a cruel manner if the S.P.C.A. could prevent it. Mr. Innes showed a piece of hard birch on which the electrical brand had been pressed for the required ten seconds, and C. was charred into it to a depth fully one eighth of an inch. The brand is approximately four inches high and two inches wide.

SIX LIVES LOST IN MOTOR ACCIDENT.

PARIS, Aug. 21. Rev. Hiram Grant Person, and Mrs. Person, Newton, Mass., Charles H. Gray, two unidentified women, and an automobile bus driver were killed to-day when a bus went over a parapet of the road leading from Nice to Evian, and plunged three hundred feet into the River Var; a number of other persons in the bus were injured. The accident occurred three miles from Gulliaumes.

The Digby is due to arrive on Sunday next, and will get away for Halifax and Boston on Monday night next.

British Foreign Policy Stated.

RESTRAIN FRANCE BY ISOLATING HER FROM OTHER NATIONS.

LONDON, August 14.—(Associated Press).—What is claimed to be "an authoritative and direct foot-note on British foreign policy," was made public last evening by the Central News.

"There is no tenderness in the British Empire for Germany," declares the statement, "but the Government believe that if France is out to maintain an indefinite stranglehold on Germany the complete overthrow of the economic situation of Europe, if not of the whole world, is certain.

"Although there is more than suspicion that the French policy is directed to the isolation of Great Britain in Europe, the British Government are seeking not isolation, but the co-operation of France. If that fails, obviously Great Britain will try a hand at the isolation game.

"Great Britain may then try to win over Italy, to detach Belgium from her support of France in the Ruhr, and to bring into line with her Holland, Switzerland, Sweden and Norway, who are suffering equally with or more than Great Britain from the effects of the French policy.

"Apart from the immediate aims of the Government in Europe, the dominating note of their policy is ultimate co-operation between Great Britain and the United States for world settlement. No immediate or sensational response from the United States need be expected, but Premier Baldwin believes Europe cannot be saved unless the people of the United States join the British in saving them."

THE GREAT TRIUMPH.
I fancy when this life is done
And all the tales are told,
And all the battles fought and won
And all the young are old,
That we shall see in clearer light
Just what is wrong and what is right.
The shams will little rule us then,
And pride no longer her head
To utter scornful things of men
Who different pathways tread.
When what the soul is we can see,
A friendlier people we shall be.
If unrepented sins remain
We'll mourn them as before,
But God shall wipe away the stain
From those who sin no more.
The proudest then may cease to sneer
At what man counted failure here.
I fancy rich and poor will find,
Perhaps to their surprise,
That being true and being kind
Is more than being wise;
That what on earth men counted small,
Was the great triumph after all.

BLUE PUTTEE Ice Cream is made according to our own exclusive formula, of the purest and richest ingredients, including fresh cream. There is no other like it. Have you tried a dish lately?—aug21.4

Preserves will be clearer, brighter, and of better flavor if they are cooked rapidly.

Household Notes.

Your garbage pail will be much easier to clean if you line it with old newspapers.

Home made marshmallows are good rolled in grated cocoanut before being sugared.

A little chopped onion, crumbled egg yolk, or chopped chives are nice in French dressing.

Flavor pea soup with a little crushed fresh or dried mint, and serve with croutons.

Plump large seeded raisins in olive oil, and roll in granulated sugar, clove and cinnamon.

After freezing, ice cream should have at least fifteen minutes in which to mellow, before serving.

All the rooty vegetables that you are storing for winter use should be kept in clean, dry places.

Wild blackberries make an especially delicious jam. Use three-quarters as much sugar as fruit.

Nut and raisin bread is excellent made with sour milk and equal amounts of Graham and white flour.

Flavor cream puff filling with a little coffee or chocolate; ice the tops, and sprinkle with chopped nut meats.

Stewed dried apricots can be used for delicious fritters. Dust them with powdered sugar before serving.

Food that easily absorbs or gives off strong odors should be covered with waxed paper when put in the refrigerator.

SPORTOGRAPHS

With the announcement of the revival of bicycle racing at the Guards Sports, to-morrow, fond memory brings the light of other days around us. The above old cut shows the St. John's Bicycle Club lined up for a tour at the Racout Building.

The City team is out in the West. Out in the West in the Grand Falls' lair; Maybe they'll rise to the ancient test. Or perhaps they'll do what the sun does there.

own way, and shortly after the start Hayes scored from a nicely placed corner. Doolley got an easy one shortly after, and Hayes was responsible for two more goals, and Kearney netted No. 5. The attendance was only fair.

To-night the Gaelic and Wesley will be seen in action, and as both are in the running, a good game should result.

SAINTS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Special to Evening Telegram. GRAND FALLS. (Delayed in Transmission.) St. Andrew's won the Grand Falls Football Championship for 1923 as the result of the C.L.S. and the Guards playing to a draw in a scoreless game on Saturday. Had the Church Lads won, it would have necessitated a play-off between them and the Saints. Grand Falls drew with the Cranley team, 3 to 2, last evening, which was a reverse of the first clash when they defeated us 5 to 1. It was a fast and furious game and gave our men a great lesson for the Inter-Town Championship Games, which begin to-day. Sorry it was not found possible to assemble a cricket team in the progressive capital of our island home to face our team on the green.

GUARDS SPORTS TO-MORROW.

All our favorite athletes are competing in the Guards Sports to-morrow at the Agre Athletic Grounds, entries for which close on the field to-morrow. 1,000 special seats have been provided, in anticipation of the overflow attendance which is sure to be present. In addition to the athletic card, special diversion for the kiddies has been arranged. The revival of bicycle racing by the introduction on the programme of a 5 mile event, is sure to be welcomed. On the track last night ten competitors were practicing, and one of them was "clocked" as doing it in 17.34, which is exceptionally fast. The prizes (now on exhibition at Trappell's) will be presented by Mrs. Tasker Cook in the absence from town of Miss Allard. As skating is out of town there will be great chance to secure a win in the half and one mile, and these events should be particularly exciting. A large number of entries has been received for all events and it should be a gala day in the season's sporting events.

HOW SPORTS DEVELOP CHARACTER.

The following article is written by Mr. Fielding H. Yost, Director of Athletics and Physical Education at the University of Michigan. Most intelligent persons know that the boy isn't necessarily on his way to perdition because he likes rough sports, has been known to participate in a fist-fight or two, and nurses an ambition to shine in the competition games of his school or club. His ambition is a perfectly wholesome one, prompted by a fundamental need deep within him. Mr. Yost explains the craving and tells why the satisfaction of it makes better men. Much of what he has to say about boys is equally applicable to girls, and his statement about the relative infrequency of injuries in competition sports should be reassuring because it comes from an authority who has twenty-five years' experience supervising athletic sports and physical training at one of the largest educational institutions in America. His article follows:—

Every boy should engage in competitive athletics. I make this broad statement from the viewpoint of one who is interested in the development of the race and the advancement of civilization; not merely from the viewpoint of a football coach. The value of competitive athletics is twofold: first to the individual and second to the group in which he is a part. It is easy to see that a boy might have good health, good morals and a strong mind and still not fit in well with his own group. Sports that make him more adaptable and more inclined to adopt the ideas of teamwork are necessary for the whole group as well as the individual. Sports set an objective for the adolescent character. They offer the surest means we have of getting out the "bad dirt." They are the open door. Sports will develop him mentally as well as physically. They will teach him to think "in a pinch," to keep cool in trying situations, to control his emotions. The spirit of co-operation is another thing that sports teach; in all games this ability to merge all the individuals in one harmonious whole is most important. Considered from a recreational standpoint as distinguished from the physical side, competitive sport is valuable in that it offers to boys in the school and college a diversion from their studies. It gives them something to think about that will relieve their minds of the monotony of work; it amuses them and at the same time it improves their bodies. The same amount of amusement might be had in going to the theater, or playing at cards, or sitting around a piano, or listening to the radio, but these things do nothing for the body. There are four qualities which every boy must develop if he desires to excel in athletic competition. The first requirement of all athletic sports is good health, or "condition." This means that a boy must build himself up physically to the highest point that his body permits it; it means that he will be compelled to observe the rules of hygiene. He must be taught to observe these rules because it is the right thing to do, but how much easier is it to give him a definite objective instead of an abstract theory! If you tell a boy that drinking, excessive smoking and other forms of dissipation will prevent him making the team he is striving to win a place on just as surely as if he lost one of his legs, he will be much more impressed than if you merely said that these dissipated men pay later in life. It is human nature to be prodigal with health. The boy always has it in the back of his head that dissipation may hurt the other fellow but it won't hurt him. But when he realizes that breaking training-rules means being dropped from the squad or taking a place on the bench as a substitute, the penalty is very real and very immediate and one that he can understand. The second requirement is that he must learn to think under fire. Success in most games depends to a large extent on quick thinking. Third, he must cultivate the right normal attitude toward the game—the spirit of fair play and give and take. Fourth, he must have the determination to do and the will to give service. This is the thing that puts the vital spark in him. He might possess the first three qualities to the highest possible degree, but he would be like a fine watch that had never been wound up unless he were inspired by desire to make use of them. In contemplating competitive athletics, one should study causes more than results. It is the causes of victory which makes participation in athletics worth while. If defeating a rival were all that counted, we might as well have college championships settled by matching pennies; one side would beat the other in that kind of contest and the institution whose representatives won most often would have a right to style itself champion. But matching pennies is a commonplace; a coward or a quitter might consistently beat a man endowed with all the desirable qualities. There are four principal causes for victory, and if you take care of causes, results will take care of themselves. In the first place, there must be thorough preparation in the individual and in the group. In the second place, there must be co-operation and co-ordination. Thirdly, there must be co-existing loyalty—loyalty of a kind that can force self in the interests of the group. Lastly, there must be the realization that service produces results. One of the things I always have tried to teach is that each man should find his own game and play it, instead of making up his mind in advance that he is going to take up one particular sport and stick to it regardless of his fitness. I believe that the desire to excel is natural and that there is some sport in which every one of us has a chance to get somewhere near the top. I would rather be a great croquet-player than a hopelessly poor football-player. If your boys are physically able (a fact which any physician or trainer can easily determine), by all means let them play football, baseball and other strenuous fighting games. Competitive athletics will not develop the fighting instinct but will satisfy it. This instinct is present in every normal boy and it should be given an outlet. The desire to excel has been handled down from the remote beginning of mankind. Without it civilization would perish and the human race itself would be in danger of extinction. The boy of to-day likes strenuous games because his ancestors for many centuries had to cultivate the qualities most in demand in these games. In man's early days, when he was without weapons, only the fastest runners could survive—thus running was an accomplishment that had to be cultivated. Then man found out that he could offset the difference between his size and natural weapons and those of the animals by using a stone or a club—so throwing and striking were developed. Those hapless individuals who could neither run, throw nor strike went on the lunch-counter for some voracious beast. Our games of to-day are made up largely of a combination of running, throwing and striking. It is instinctive for boys to want to do those things. Even very young children who cannot understand games will follow the hunting and fighting instincts and play running games of their own devising. Your boy is not showing vicious traits because he likes rough play better than being "dressed up"; he is being human. He isn't necessarily proving himself a quarrelsome and dangerous character when he fights; he is finding an outlet for an instinct that should not be curbed but directed into proper channels. In properly supervised sports he will learn that it is more manly to beat the other fellow according to definite rules that give them both a chance than to tackle him with bare fists. The qualities that he will develop in preparing himself for the team and in taking part in the games will be the qualities that the future of the race must continue to depend on. The world is getting to be a better place to live in every day, but we are still a long way from the millennium a long way from the day when human nature will be so perfect that there will be no necessity for fighting qualities. Until then, strong and honorable and unselfish men must help the weak and protect them against the vicious. It will often take hard fighting to make right triumph over wrong, and some one must be prepared to fight for decency or evil will rule the world. The boy or man who makes up his mind to give service has found the key to success. Altruistic principles prove in the end to be more effective than those conceived in selfishness.

This Morning Millions removed the film

You know them by their whiter teeth

When you see pretty teeth, remember this. There is now a new way of teeth cleaning. Millions of people employ it. All the world over leading dentists advise it. It will do for you what it does for others. The results will amaze and delight you. A ten-day test to prove this will be sent you if you ask. That dingy film. Teeth are made dingy by a film—that vicious film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. Film also holds food substance to ferment and form acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. That's why few escaped tooth troubles, and why beautiful teeth were seen less often than now. No old-time tooth paste could effectively fight film. Now you can combat it. Dental science has found two effective ways. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring. Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research, and these two great film destroyers were embodied in it. That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Careful people of some nations are employing it today. Other needs. Research proved other things essential. So Pepsodent maintains the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which otherwise ferment and form acids. Pepsodent is bringing a real dental era through these things. New beauty comes. Pepsodent brings whiter teeth, cleaner, safer teeth, and quicker. One week will prove this to you. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the amount of the vicious film. See how bright white as the film-coats disappear. and guaranteed for a lifetime. THINK WHAT THIS MEANS.

How it Works.

The furnace stands in the cellar, directly under one register, and pours heat up through the house—warms to the furthestmost corner—heats the whole house like a stove heats one room—keeps the same temperature everywhere.

It saves one third to one-half of your fuel. The price of fuel next winter will have no terrors for owners of Enterprise All-Cast-Iron Pipeless Furnaces. This splendid furnace burns any kind of fuel and takes less of it to do its work than any other furnace that is made.

Remember we are practical Tinsmiths, and have a thorough knowledge of how to install this furnace right in your home. We can recommend the size and pattern to suit yours best.

The Initial Cost is Low.

The Cost of Upkeep is Low.

It can be installed in one day, and two days, in most cases would be the longest.

We GUARANTEE you positive satisfaction, and the manufacturers stand behind us.

Call at our store, or phone for an appointment, but at any cost investigate this wonderful new up-to-date device for chasing the chills out of your home next winter, and at such moderate cost, too.

Personal

We are sorry to hear of the serious illness of a popular and well known citizen in the person of W. J. Lennie, who for the past four months has been stricken with pleuro pneumonia, and grave fears are entertained for his recovery.

Mr. George C. Snow, the well known cabinet maker on Colonial Street, accompanied by his wife and two sons—Captain J. H. and Gordon—are leaving St. John's by the Digby this week. The family will reside in Boston in the future. Mr. and Mrs. Snow have been life-long members of St. Thomas's Parish. Captain Snow did good service in the war and has since been an efficient officer in the Church Lads Brigade. The good wishes of their many friends will go with them.

Mr. Rex Field, a former employee of Messrs. Bowring Bros., this city, is a passenger returning by the a.s. Sylvia, from New York, on a vacation.

Mr. A. Stewart, late of Marshall Bros. Dry Goods, has accepted a position with Jas. Baird, Ltd. "Al" is a hustler, and no doubt will make good in his new position.

Dr. W. J. Hogan, Dentist, who has been on an extensive business trip down north, returned by a.s. Buss this morning. Dr. Hogan's homecoming is a sad one. Yesterday he received word of his brother Harry's death in Carbonara, and after arrival he motored over the bay to attend the funeral which takes place this afternoon.

Cricket Thrills.

Fine "One-Man" Displays and Exciting Finishes Which Give the Lie to the Jeremiah who Complains that the King of Summer Games is Dull. The detractors of cricket have again been bemoaning the dullness, as they see it, of the county game. This with even less justification than usual, for, despite the awful weather of the opening weeks of the season, cricket has been almost uniformly interesting, at times thrilling.

Was there no pent-up excitement at Leeds on June 5th when Yorkshire, after wanting only 23 runs with five wickets in hand to beat Notts, lost by 3 runs? Again, was not the crowd on edge when, earlier in the season, Howell, of Warwickshire, took all ten of Yorkshire's wickets in one innings? Not only can cricket be desperately exciting, but it provides a greater variety of thrills than any other game. At football, for instance, tense moments are practically confined to shots at goal and saves by the goalkeeper, but at cricket excitement may be raised to fever pitch in a score of different ways.

Has any other game ever staged such a scene as the finish of the England vs. Australia Test Match at the Oval, 1882. England was set a paltry 85 to win, and the game seemed as good as over when the score stood at 51 for three wickets. But P. B. Spofforth—now, by the way, an enthusiastic follower of lawn-tennis—was more than living up to his nickname of "The Demon," and wicket after wicket fell, until Melbourne triumphed by seven runs!

Changing Defeat Into Victory.
The late C. W. Alcock, Surrey's famous secretary, thus described the closing moments: "One spectator dropped dead, and another unconsciously gnawed away the handle of his umbrella. Men who are noted for their coolness at critical moments, were trembling like a leaf, some even shivering with cold, some even fainted. At times there was an awful silence."

There have been even tighter finishes between the two countries. England lost by 3 runs at Manchester in 1902, and won by one wicket at Melbourne during the 1907-08 tour; but the Oval series will never be surpassed for intensity.

The most extraordinary Varsity match was that of 1870, Oxford, with three wickets to fall, wanted 3 runs to win. F. H. Hill, who was well set, made a hit which, in the ordinary way, would have reached the boundary, but brilliant fielding allowed of one run only. Then F. C. Cobden performed the hat-trick and all was over bar delicious shouting.

These are rare in first-class cricket and naturally are always sensational. There has never been a Test Match tie, but South Africa vs. England, at Johannesburg, 1906, nearly ended in one. The scores were level when P. D. Sherwell, last man in for South Africa, made the winning hit.

Perhaps the most remarkable tie in county cricket annals was that between Somerset and Sussex at Taunton in 1919. The scores were equal when the last, Sussex batsman failed to come in within the two minutes allowed by the rules of the game. When he eventually reached the wicket it was only to be told by the umpire that he could not be allowed to bat.

A Century of Centuries.
Somerset, of course, are notorious for illustrating the "glorious uncertainty" of the game. There was their famous match against Yorkshire at Leeds in 1901. In their first innings Somerset were all out for 87, Yorkshire replying with 325. Then Somerset amassed 630, to which huge total L. C. S. Palairet contributed 173, Len Braund 107, and F. A. Phillips 122. This was against the bowling of Rhodes, Hirst, Haigh and Wainwright.

In their second innings the waxy Tynes went down for 113 and were beaten by 279 runs. It was Yorkshire's only defeat that season, whereas Somerset finished third from the bottom of the table.

Almost as amazing was the Hampshire vs. Warwickshire match of last summer. All out for 15 in their first innings, Hants had to follow on, made 501 and won the game.

First ball of his second attempt and survived to make it 18!

"Never a Brace."
Some years later the Oval saw a rather similar Test Match scene, when Tom Hayward came in after having got a "duck" in his first innings. England had followed on. The Australian bowlers were right on top. They and everybody knew that Tom's record of "never a brace" was in deadly danger. There was a tangible silence as Tom went to the wicket, followed by roars of relief when he scored.

Hayward eventually lost his record in the match vs. Kent, at Blackheath, a ground which has always been a cemetery for Surrey. Dismissed for a "duck" in his first, in his second he played a ball straight for "Panter" Humphreys—of all fieldsmen to take a liberty with—called Hobbs for an "impossible" run, and paid the penalty. A dramatic moment if you like!

Bowlers can provide thrills. Howell's feat has been mentioned. The crowd, watching Australia vs. South Africa at Manchester in 1912, rocked with excitement when the Australian, T. J. Mathews, having performed the hat-trick in South Africa's first innings, repeated the feat when South Africa went in again, thus establishing a Test Match bowling record, which endures to this day.

A Cricket Story.
He looked so big and talked such a blue.
The fielders simply stood out miles.
But the first two balls he played so strange.
The men came in to shorter range.
I'd call attention here that he was guarding wickets, one, two, three.

The fifth ball bounced and caught his head.
Behold the things he saw—
? ! ? ! ? ! ? ! ? !
And said:
The last ball wandered round his bat.
Two stumps lay down and fell quite flat.
And as he hurried back they smiled
To see the score he had compiled.

The Responsibility of Ministers.

The Editorial comment of the Mail on the political imbroglio prior to the entry of the present administration into office is interesting, in that as the Mail is the particular organ of the late administration, it is without doubt fully informed of the nature of the charges which led to the resignation of Sir Richard Squires, but which so far have been kept a secret from the public.

In view of the investigation that has been decided upon, and in the absence so far as the public are concerned of any definite charges having been laid against the members of the late Government, it is questionable whether any object is served by making a reference to the matter in any form. The Editorial referred to, however, considers that there is no question that a great deal of the criticism of the late Minister of Agriculture and Mines is justified, that there does not appear to have been the slightest regard for economy on his part, that the statement of his special expenditure shows him to have been the very last man who should have been entrusted with the disbursement of such large amounts on his sole personal responsibility.

Comment such as the above cannot but be considered as criticism, and criticism of a case which is to all intents and purposes sub judice is not considered the best of form or fair to the defendant, and for those very good reasons should not have been made. There would seem, however, to be a purpose in such comments, and they show a striking likeness to certain references that have been made to the case in the Canadian papers, which have stated that it would appear to be the intention to make Dr. Campbell the "whipping boy."

While it may be the desire on the part of a certain section to influence the public to that way of thinking, we are inclined to believe that that object will not be achieved. The conduct of the individual members of an administration is a responsibility of the Prime Minister, and if irregularities occur in one or other Departments he is supposed to be in sufficiently close touch with affairs to check them promptly. If they are allowed to continue so far as to become a menace to the public, the onus of the blame falls on him. The history of our own politics is not without a precedent on which to base such a contention, and the British Parliament furnishes many similar incidents.

French Banker Sprung Leak.

BELOW WATER LINE. A full survey of the damages to the French banker Amorcean, which arrived from Grand Bank on Sunday afternoon in a very leaky condition, was made yesterday at Choble's wharf. The leak was found below the waterline, which will necessitate her having to dock for repairs. The bulk of the cargo is now being landed and stored, until after repairs are effected.

Exhibition of Art.

Most men are content to divorce business and art, but Mr. A. E. Hickman has quite upset the tradition. A man of business is unable to appreciate art, and has invited Mr. Pearce Ellis to hold a water color exhibition at his place of business. The exhibit will take place on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. The water colors and other paintings which will be on view, consist of a number of beautiful pictures painted during the last few weeks. St. John's people will have a rare treat, for the pictures truly depict and clearly reveal the bold and beautiful irregularity of our coast line, the sunlit waters of Quidi Vidi and the entrance to the Narrows from different points of view. Mr. Ellis contributes to every big exhibition in America, and is himself a member of the New York Society of Painters. The Architectural League of New York and a dozen other clubs devoted to art. Among the pictures exhibited will be seen a reproduction of that painting of Grand Manan which won the show prize of two thousand dollars at this year's New York exhibition.

Portuguese Purchase Local Catches.

FISHERMEN ACCEPT $3.00 PER QUINTAL. Our local fishermen have recently disposed of their codfish to a Portuguese vessel now in port. The price paid was $3.00 per quintal. The vessel referred to has also bought up 1,900 quintals of the catch secured by the Lunenburg schooner Alicante, which arrived from the Banks a few days ago for supplies. As soon as the vessel's cargo is completed she will sail for Lisbon. This is a new departure in local fishing circles, and should the venture turn out successful, other vessels will proceed here.

Popular Singer Coming.

Our musical loving public will be delighted to hear that Mr. Earl Spicer, baritone, who thrilled his audience with a rendition of high class singing about two years ago, has promised to give a concert on September 5th in aid of the Marine Disasters Fund. Mr. Spicer has consented to break his journey to England for a few days, and will not sail from here until September 11th.

Free Port of Zebrugge.

The Belgian Cabinet has examined and approved a bill by which the port of Zebrugge will be transformed into a free port and its exploitation will be entrusted to a body of business men. A Campaigne Maritime de Zebrugge will be floated by Brussels bankers.

Something Big.

A pompous skipper from the Southern Shore being in St. John's on a time invited a friend to dinner on board his schooner. He told the cook to make the necessary preparations saying "Jim when you announce dinner I'll ask you what have you got for dinner, and you say something big." In due time Jim put his head through the scuttle and shouted "Mug up!" "Alright Jim what have you got?" replied the skipper "A whale air" said Jim. Surely something big like the Bay Bulls Garden Party, Sunday, Aug. 24th.—aug21.11

Road Work in Progress.

Work on the section of the Topsail Road in the neighbourhood of the Sanatorium was begun this morning. As we stated previously, in order to prevent the dust of the road interfering with the out-door life of the patients, the Municipal Council and the Motor Association have undertaken to cover that portion of the road with tarvia, and their action in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Remove Those Horrible Signs.

We wish to draw to the attention of the Municipal Council that additional signs "Drive Slowly Manslaughter" were again placarded over the city yesterday. As for as we are aware no authority has been granted by the Municipal Council for these horrible signs which have appeared recently on the city streets. We again ask the question will the authorities please ascertain who are the guilty parties. As the unauthorized erection of signs is a breach of the Municipal Regulations as well as outraging all sense of decency, instructions should be issued to have them removed forthwith.

Magistrate's Court.

A drunk received his discharge on payment of cash hire. A 23-year-old laborer without a home, taken in for safe-keeping was granted his release.

A 35-year-old laborer arrested at the instance of Mr. Walsh, for loitering and sleeping on the premises of Messrs. A. Harvey & Co. was formerly charged with vagrancy and sentenced to 10 days.

A 65-year-old woman without a home was found by the night police at an early hour this morning fast asleep in a door way on George's Street. Upon being aroused from her slumbers, she was taken to the police station. After her case had been heard in court this morning, the only alternative left was to send her to the penitentiary for 10 days.

It is a pity to see unfortunate innocent people sent to jail. A place of refuge will have to be found by the Authorities somewhere, because at present the Poor House and Lunatic Asylum are overcrowded. The police, it appears are powerless to do anything in the matter. Cases of vagrancy and many without homes to go to, have been a common occurrence in the Magistrate's Court for sometime past. A place of refuge is badly needed in this city.

Road Traffic Dangers.

INCONSIDERATE MOTORISTS. The Royal Scottish Automobile Club and the Automobile Association, in a communication to the press, say they have had representations made to them from responsible quarters with regard to the driving of motor cars. It is suggested that there is a growing tendency to disregard the comfort and convenience of over-taken and approaching traffic and that the "crown of the road" is held in many cases when there is ample room to the side, whereby the safety of the vehicles passed or passing is imperilled. There is further, in many instances, a practice on the part of experienced drivers of giving way only on the very near approach of other vehicles. This may be quite satisfactory to the driver who knows what he can do and what he intends to do, but is very disconcerting to the other, who may not be so expert. Ladies and drivers of cycles with sidecars, as well as the many amateur drivers who have only recently come upon the road, are chiefly affected by the practices and habits referred to.

Portia Sails To-Morrow.

S.S. Portia, Capt. J. Field, sails for the Northward at 10 a.m. to-morrow, for ports as far as Cook's Bay, included in the quantity of freight going North this trip, will be a cargo of salt for the planters operating at Grey Islands. A big shortage of salt is reported in this as well as many other sections. The following have booked passage, included in which are many road trippers:—Messrs. H. Simms, B. Keen, M. Jones, J. E. Hann, J. W. Jones, Const. Dewling, R. A. Parsons, Gosse, J. Diamond, J. Jackman, M. King, G. Winsor, Messrs. Peckford, E. Joyce B. Morris, J. Wallis, Messadams Howell, Hiscock, Gooding, Clouston, Jones, Miller, Maidment, Misses Newbury, Fletcher, Gosse (2), Moore, Grimes, Wilcox, Fowlow, Winsor, Luther, Ford, Atkinson, Noble, Peyton, Clouston Hayward (3) and 30 steerage.

Susu Arrives.

S.S. Susu, Capt. Roberts, of the Fogo Mail Service route, arrived at noon today, having made all ports of call as far as Change Islands, accomplishing the trip in 5 days. The captain reports the fishermen of Catalina did very well with the fish when he called there going North. On the whole the fishery is not as promising as expected. Consignments of big hauls have prevailed which is a big handicap to successful operations. Coming South a number of schooners were passed at Cabot Island bound to Newton apparently well laden. The Susu brought a few packages of freight and the following passengers:—Misses M. Foley, B. Brown, A. Downey, M. Russell, L. Davis, E. Bishop, J. Wright, L. Burey, J. Burry, Capt. B. Abbott, S.A.; Messadames Foley, W. Perry, J. Goodyear, Dr. Whiteway, F. Housell, J. Bishop; Messrs. Rev. J. T. Hiscock, C. Butler, E. W. Abbott, Geo. Perry, M. Perry, Dr. Hogan, J. Goodyear, H. Haltrud, W. H. Collins, E. Whiteway, C. Whiteway and 15 in steerage.

Shipping.

Schr. James and Stanley has cleared from Grand Bank with 3,320 lbs. codfish, shipped by S. Harris, Ltd., for Oporto.

Schr. Orlia has cleared from H.R. Buffett with 2,139 qts. codfish, shipped by C. Wareham, for Oporto.

Schr. Helen Vair has sailed for Halifax with a cargo of empty steel drums shipped by the Imperial Oil Co., Ltd.

Silvia left Halifax at noon today for this port.

Stella Maria sailed for Halifax at 12.30 today.

Where the Money Is.

I've fished for forty summers boy, I'm poor because I fished for cod; My neighbour never caught a fry But fished to catch his members nod.

His member showed sagacious man Believes in the bloke who deals in Hands him bright bribes to boost his plan. My neighbour's rich, he gets the "grab."

I saved a few hard earned crowns The true and stowed them safe away To float us thro' the "ups and downs." To shield us in the "rainy day."

The boys and girls they could not say— The means and myself are all. We'll eke it out as best we may; Perhaps things may turn before the Fall.

I have been rash, I think, of late, So many wondrous things were spread Before our eyes by men of prate; I'm almost now without a red.

I staked my money on the gold Star Bay sand which they told. I believed the sparkling yarns they told. Of nuggets gleaming in the slud. I set myself in mation grand Like some gold king of '48.

Far better had I lent a hand At pipit work along the line. I asked George Turner for the maps. The same he furnished in galore; Big claims I grabbed with other chaps That cut a chunk from Labrador.

Oh! how I dreamed of thousands then And thought myself a lucky man; Far better had I bought a hen To lay for Hospital and San.

I plunked a hundred dollars neat To help the Aerial Survey Find the lost "main patch" for the Seat.

And show our erring Caps the way. But, bah! it seems no use to try Such speculative schemes at all. There is mere gold and less alloy In trilles like the Galway walk.

If you'll advise me—do, I pray, I'll go and raise some Persian sheep Until the gaping natives say "This man is blessed with knowledge deep!"

We'll make him Minister of Flocks To supercede our late Sir Ned. Then I will send them breaking rocks While I like Dives am banqueting.

There is a spot where heifers peel The "green backs" from the forest trees; Some call it scaling, roasting, some, But all grow rich as summer bees At evening when they see the fire Laden with treasures of the day. (This is mere poetry, man alive. And wasted on such trash as they.)

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

A. S. FARMERS FEAR BANKRUPTCY AT PRESENT PRICE OF WHEAT. WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture declared yesterday that thousands of farmers in the United States will go bankrupt with wheat selling at considerably less than the cost of production, while thousands of others will be able to hold on only by grinding economy, if the present plane of prices of commodities other than agriculture is to be maintained. He added, to have general prosperity the prices of Farm products must be increased.

CAPTAIN AND COOK OF RUM RUNNER SHOT BY PIKATES. GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 21. In a battle with rum pirates on board the British schooner J. Scott Hankensen, out of Nova Scotia, Capt. Arthur Moore, of Weymouth, N.S., was shot and probably fatally injured yesterday, and Harry Harm, the cook, was shot in several places. Both were brought to hospital here by fishermen who sighted the schooner's distress signals. According to the story told by the crew the vessel was lying off Rockport about four thirty in the afternoon when two men approached in a motor boat and boarded her. The schooner's cargo consisted of three thousand cases of whisky. The men entered the cabin and at once opened fire with revolvers on the captain and cook. Although shot through the stomach first, Capt. Moore returned fire, wounding one of his assailants. The cook was shot in the neck, shoulder and legs. The pirates, discouraged at the skipper's resistance, left the schooner without any plunder. Physicians state Moore would probably die of wounds.

LAST MILITARY FORCE WITHDRAWN FROM SYDNEY. SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 21. A remnant of the military forces in Sydney area, numbering about seventy men, left for Halifax Saturday night, and all indications are that the Provincial Police will be paid off within a day or two.

AMUNDSEN WILL MAKE ANOTHER ATTEMPT. ST. PAUL, Alaska, Aug. 21. Captain Amundsen, who was forced by accident to his airplane to abandon his proposed flight from Alaska to Spitzbergen, went to the North Pole, as indicated, that he will make another attempt, using Spitzbergen as a base. The explorer's new plans contemplate a much better equipped expedition.

FRENCH REPLY TO LORD CURZON'S NOTE. PARIS, Aug. 21. The French Government's reply to the recent note of Marquis Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, on representations situation was handed to the British Embassy at nine o'clock this morning.

ANOTHER HOLD UP. DARTMOUTH, N.S., Aug. 21. Kansas and Texas passenger train southbound was held up by bandits one mile south of Okeas, Okla., at midnight. The crew engaged the bandits in gun fire, and it was reported that at least one man was wounded. The robbers escaped with twenty packages of registered mail, the value of which is unknown.

TEN KILLED AND THIRTY INJURED WHEN BUILDING COLLAPSED. NEW YORK, Aug. 21. Rescue workers early today estimated that at least ten firemen had been killed and more than thirty injured, some fatally in the collapse of a room and section of a wall during the fire which destroyed an old three story brick building in Brooklyn shortly after midnight.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

U. S. FARMERS FEAR BANKRUPTCY AT PRESENT PRICE OF WHEAT. WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture declared yesterday that thousands of farmers in the United States will go bankrupt with wheat selling at considerably less than the cost of production, while thousands of others will be able to hold on only by grinding economy, if the present plane of prices of commodities other than agriculture is to be maintained. He added, to have general prosperity the prices of Farm products must be increased.

CAPTAIN AND COOK OF RUM RUNNER SHOT BY PIKATES. GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 21. In a battle with rum pirates on board the British schooner J. Scott Hankensen, out of Nova Scotia, Capt. Arthur Moore, of Weymouth, N.S., was shot and probably fatally injured yesterday, and Harry Harm, the cook, was shot in several places. Both were brought to hospital here by fishermen who sighted the schooner's distress signals. According to the story told by the crew the vessel was lying off Rockport about four thirty in the afternoon when two men approached in a motor boat and boarded her. The schooner's cargo consisted of three thousand cases of whisky. The men entered the cabin and at once opened fire with revolvers on the captain and cook. Although shot through the stomach first, Capt. Moore returned fire, wounding one of his assailants. The cook was shot in the neck, shoulder and legs. The pirates, discouraged at the skipper's resistance, left the schooner without any plunder. Physicians state Moore would probably die of wounds.

LAST MILITARY FORCE WITHDRAWN FROM SYDNEY. SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 21. A remnant of the military forces in Sydney area, numbering about seventy men, left for Halifax Saturday night, and all indications are that the Provincial Police will be paid off within a day or two.

AMUNDSEN WILL MAKE ANOTHER ATTEMPT. ST. PAUL, Alaska, Aug. 21. Captain Amundsen, who was forced by accident to his airplane to abandon his proposed flight from Alaska to Spitzbergen, went to the North Pole, as indicated, that he will make another attempt, using Spitzbergen as a base. The explorer's new plans contemplate a much better equipped expedition.

FRENCH REPLY TO LORD CURZON'S NOTE. PARIS, Aug. 21. The French Government's reply to the recent note of Marquis Curzon, British Foreign Secretary, on representations situation was handed to the British Embassy at nine o'clock this morning.

ANOTHER HOLD UP. DARTMOUTH, N.S., Aug. 21. Kansas and Texas passenger train southbound was held up by bandits one mile south of Okeas, Okla., at midnight. The crew engaged the bandits in gun fire, and it was reported that at least one man was wounded. The robbers escaped with twenty packages of registered mail, the value of which is unknown.

TEN KILLED AND THIRTY INJURED WHEN BUILDING COLLAPSED. NEW YORK, Aug. 21. Rescue workers early today estimated that at least ten firemen had been killed and more than thirty injured, some fatally in the collapse of a room and section of a wall during the fire which destroyed an old three story brick building in Brooklyn shortly after midnight.

Market News.

(TRADE REVIEW)

Since last writing of connecting with this ar-there is no appreciable change
 the foreign market to be recorded.
 now as it we have seen the
 of our stocks of old fish, the bal-of which is being sent to Brazil
 the schooner Inspiration, now load-at the premises of James Baird and which will sail next week and which fish no great quantity reached the city yet, except some overland from places between and Cape St. Francis, and shippers are expected here for some time yet. The wet weather that prevailed for several weeks past a great detriment to the fishin "making" their respective to handle so much for some time In the meantime, those actively in fishing operations are beto realize a steady improve-in the catch for hook and line and there being two months yet

 Like the shore voyage the under catch will also be much be-than general average and the proto be derived from our sales of fish will depend almost altogether on the cure. If we lack in this first deal then our offerings of Labrafish will not attract the trade elsewhere was ours. In connec-with this the following letter received from Spain during the week of our report here is pertinent:
 "I will not be open for any shipping of early Labrador fish as the of old Labrador is still very and we must work that off of New Zealand fish (Labrador fish) is offered at 24 shillings, which had outlook for your genuine under. This price will not give fishermen $3.50 per quintal for amounts off the coast. The buyers will give the preference to the fish as the cure has been improved the past few years.
 The Labrador fish is really well cleaned dry fish, it will compete and will be held over in storage just as we had to do last year's fish."

 experts, who are more interested

 Dr. Zilva's report is mentioned praising the Norway Oil in the amount of truth in these state-as the report certainly did not that there were 250 times more times in Cod Liver Oil than there in butter, which has always been considered one of the best known builders, but the whole truth should be mentioned that the NBS was found to have twice the amount of vitamins than the Norway contained, and that for flavor, col-should be substantiated by the Newfoundland Government in a con-den fishery, which has proved an satisfactory, was less satisfactory last week, bad weather having caused a decrease in the catch; but these reports were without any effect on the market as the tone for crude oils continues easy. There was further shading of prices for Manhattan. The advices of fishing operations in Newfoundland is regarded as of decidedly bluish nature pointing to a material decrease in the yield as compared with last year, but even this news proved inadequate to vitiate any life for the present.

 Flour—We recorded last week an advance in the price of flour of 25 cents per barrel wholesale, and this week again the tendency has been upward with another recorded advance of 10 cents per barrel. A few weeks ago every feature that made for almost a record crop of wheat, obtained in Canada and farmers feared that as a result of the anticipated great yield, they would suffer serious losses in the marketing of the harvest.
 They determined to fight this, and means were taken to obviate the inordinate lowering of prices, when sensational reports were telegraphed, that the fine weather prevailing had been suddenly succeeded by very adverse conditions and "rust," insects, snow and rain contributed to do material damage to the crop, the estimates of which have been reduced approximately from 15 to 25 per cent. It was for a while believed that the great crop down in the United States had escaped any such partial blight as that recorded for Canada, but advices now to hand say that the U. S. Government Crop Report reduces the estimates for wheat by 40,000,000 bushels and from causes similar in part to those obtaining in the Dominion. The farmers as we stated last week have taken a firm attitude and will not stand for any great reduction in prices demanding at least figures for their holdings which will pay for the cost of production. All this has the tendency of keeping the market firm and that we have been buying at the lowest prices to be realized this year is the opinion of those well versed in the peculiar conditions which sometimes attach to this trade. In conversation with one dealer yesterday he observed to The Trade Review, that the best purchases this fall for the average householder would be old wheat (last season's) the greater part of which was No. 1 and 2. This year the early samples will run from No.
 1 to 6, so that there will be all kinds of mixtures in any but the very best brands, and people should exercise great care in purchasing. By the "Mapledawn" from Montreal this week there arrived 4,500 barrels of flour. The prices in the local market this week vary from $1.35 to $2.00, according to quality.
 Pork—The tone of the pork market still remains firm and though there is not much activity noticeable at present an increased demand must soon ensue, with the fillip in trade that is generally inseparable from the handling and exporting of the season's catch of fish. Present stocks cannot be replaced at selling figures and it is not thought unlikely that, even as early as next week, the upward move in prices will materialize. Prices in the local market are the same and vary according to the goods sought from $22.50 to $27.00. The imports this week were 400 barrels by the Rosalind from New York.
 Beef—Beef rules practically the same as at last writing. There has been a good demand during the past week or so and the outlook for the near future is an advance in prices, as no heavy packing is recorded in pickled meats of late. The imports for the week were 385 barrels by the S.S. Yankton, 120 by the Mapledawn and 390 by the Rosalind; a total of 895 barrels.
 Molasses—The stocks of molasses available here were supplemented during the week by a cargo of 490 puncheons from Barbados, received by the schooner Jean Campbell. This, more than likely, will be the last molasses to come here, for the season, and not much trade is being done in this article at present. Another few weeks, however, will witness a change with an accelerated demand and a promise of higher offerings. The prices in the local market are 78 to 90 cents wholesale, according to grade.
 Sugar—According to dealers in sugar, though prices receded again last week, the supply is very closely adjusted to the demand being upon the market, and the general opinion is expressed that a reaction may soon be expected. The prices this week showed a further decline and guaranteed is now quoted at $9.25 per barrel wholesale. There were imported by the Rosalind this week 2,375 cwt.
 of sugar.
 Tea—Each ship arriving here of late from Great Britain or the United States brings along shipments of tea, and this week the Rosalind landed 25,000 pounds and the Yankton 300 pounds. Dealers say that there will be no cheap tea this year and people would be well advised to purchase their tea requirements now. The crops in Ceylon and other tea producing countries have been short, exchange has improved and the future outlook is for considerably higher prices than those now prevailing. Prices wholesale in the local market vary from 35 to 50 cents per lb.

The Successful Summer Class.

Dear Sir.—Will you please insert in your paper a few remarks about the Summer School of 1923, which has just closed. The outcome of this class was the result of the labours of Dr. Blackall, who was the organizer. It began its work on July 23rd with an attendance of 30.

The course was confined to three subjects, Mathematics, Language, and English as a means of brightening up and setting forth an avenue for continued private study. The classes were conducted by Dr. Blackall, Miss E. Dawe and Mr. I. Samson, on the system known as the "Dalton Method." Much might be said about this system as by it students can attain to a greater degree of efficiency.

The class was an unqualified success and all the Teachers enjoyed it heartily, deriving much benefit therefrom, and which we hope to find will be put into force by those whose privilege it was to attend it. The outcome of the work of this class will no doubt have an impressive influence on the pupils in the schools of this Dominion.

Each Saturday at 1:15 a luncheon was partaken of by the students at Wood's West End Restaurant. These were provided by kind friends and to them we express our sincere gratitude for their thoughtfulness and interest in the work of Education. Our thanks are also due to Messrs. Fox and Hutton, who helped to make the affair more enjoyable by their musical and vocal talents.

The teachers deriving a source of benefit from this class hope that it will be possible for the Government to make a grant for the conducting of this class annually. At the final luncheon given on Saturday, August 18th, the following address and presentation were made to Dr. Blackall and his staff:—

Dr. Blackall and Staff of Summer School.

We, the students of the Summer School of 1923 wish to place on record our appreciation of the instruction, invaluable, and inspiring help given us by Miss Dawe, Dr. Blackall and Mr. Samson during our attendance at the sessions of the Summer Class.

We are deeply grateful to Dr. Blackall, the organizer of the movement, who is always ready to help on the work of our profession, and to Miss Dawe and Mr. Samson we express heartfelt thanks for their untiring efforts.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gifts as a slight token of our esteem and appreciation for the services rendered us during our attendance at these classes.

In conclusion we hope that you may be long spared to carry on this noble work of uplifting and enlightening those whose duty lies in the cultivation of the child mind.

(Signed)

STUDENTS OF SUMMER CLASS.

Before presenting the address a few preliminary remarks were made by Mr. Cook, who pointed out the character of the work of this Summer Class and of the benefits derived by the students. At the conclusion of his remarks he called on V. L. Randell to read the address, which he did in an admirable manner. Miss Wakely in a graceful manner presented the gifts, consisting of a case of pipes for Dr. Blackall and Mr. Samson, and a silver bouquet holder to Miss Dawe.

The recipients in well-chosen remarks thanked the donors for their kindness and appreciation, thus bringing to a close a very successful and beneficial Summer Class. Thanking you in anticipation. We are, Yours truly,

SOME OF THE STUDENTS.

The Fighting Race.

(Saturday Night)

At different times we have been requested to republish "The Fighting Race," a poem written back in 1898, the year of the Spanish-American war, by Mr. Joseph I. C. Clarke, whom I believe is still of this earth though a man well on in years, a resident of New York City. The poem is as follows:—

"Read out the names!" and Burke sat back.
And Kelly dropped his head,
While Shea—they call him Scholar Jack—
Went down the list of the dead.
Officers, seamen, gunners, marines,
The crews of the gale and yawl,
The bearded man and the lad in his teens,
Carpenters, coal passers—all.
Then, knocking the ashes from out his pipe,
Said Burke in an offhand way:
"We're all in that dead man's list, by Cripes!"
Kelly and Burke and Shea.
"Well, here's to the Maine, and I'm sorry for Spain,"
Said Kelly and Burke and Shea.
"Wherever there's Kelly there's trouble," said Burke.
"Wherever fighting's the game,
Or a spice of danger in grown man's work,"
Said Kelly, "you'll find my name."
"And do we fall short," said Burke, getting mad,
"When it's touch and go for life?"
Said Shea, "It's thirty-odd years, besides,
Since I charged to drum and file on Up Marye's Heights, and my old captain
Stopped a rebel ball on its way.
There were blossoms of blood on our sprigs of green—
Kelly and Burke and Shea—
And the dead didn't brag." "Well, here's to the flag!"
Said Kelly and Burke and Shea.
"I wish 'twas in Ireland, for there's the place,"
Said Burke, "that we'd die by right,
In the cradle of our soldier race,
After one good stand-up fight.
My grandfather fell on Vinegar Hill,
And fighting was not his trade,
But his rusty pike's in cabin still,
With Hessian blood on the blade."
"Aye, aye," said Kelly, "the pikes were great.
When the word was 'clear the way!'
We were thick on the roll in ninety-eight—Kelly and Burke and Shea."
"Well, here's to the pike and the sword and the like!"
Said Kelly and Burke and Shea.
And Shea, the scholar, with rising joy
Said, "We were at Ramillies.
We left our bones at Fontenoy
And up in the Pyrenees.
Before, Dunkirk, on Landen's plain,
Cremona, Lille and Ghent, We're all over Austria, France and Spain.
Wherever they pitched a tent,
We've died for England from Waterloo
To Egypt and Dargai;
And still there's enough for a corps
or a crew,
Kelly and Burke and Shea."
"Well, here's to good honest fighting blood!"
Said Kelly and Burke and Shea.
"Oh, the fighting races don't die out,
If they seldom die in bed,
For love is first in their hearts, no doubt."
Said Burke then Kelly said:
"When Michael, the Irish Archangel, stands,
The angel with the sword,
And the battle-dead from a hundred lands
Are ranged in one big horde,
Our lines that for Gabriel's trumpet wait.
Will stretch three deep that day,
From Jehoshaphat to the Golden Gates—
Kelly and Burke and Shea."
"Well, here's thank God for the race and the sod!"
Said Kelly and Burke and Shea.

Rod and Gun.

The September issue of Rod and Gun in Canada contains a wealth of information and amusement for the sportsman. "The Clerical Fishing Party" by the Rev. W. A. Bradley is an original account of a real trip, while there is a practical article on making use of the birch-bark. "By Canoe through the Wilds of Quebec" by Alfred Keator is an interesting account of a novel route, while Bonnycastle Dale, and F. V. Williams have contributed two good stories.

The last Close Call of Martin Hunter is contained in this issue while a table showing the Game Seasons for 1923 will prove of interest to all sportsmen. Robert Page Lincoln has a fishing department of interest while C. S. Landis, W. C. Hotley, F. H. Walker and J. W. Winson have their regular contributions all up to the standard. Guns and Ammunition in the September issue is particularly large and interesting, while an article on the North American Buffalo and a story by H. Mortimer Batten complete a particularly good number.

SIDE TALK

By Ruth Cameron.

"SOMETHING TO WRITE HOME A BOUL?"

Thank you so much for taking me to ride. That will be a nice thing to write home about." So said a small guest of mine when I dropped her after an auto ride at the neighbors where she was staying. I couldn't help laughing at the naïveté of that. She thanked me not for her enjoyment of the ride, but for her enjoyment of the chance to tell someone else about it.

Was She So Different? And yet, though she was more honest than a grown-up would have been, was her reaction very different from that which so many of us have toward interesting experiences?

We may not admit it to ourselves, but doesn't a very large fraction of our enjoyment of travel, or the chance to meet distinguished people, or to visit fine houses, or to indulge in some sport with an element of danger in it, consist in our delight in telling about it afterwards?

Try To Imagine It. If you were allowed to take a most interesting trip to some foreign land on the condition that you were never to let anyone know that you had been; never to refer to it in any way afterwards; never to look at a picture and say nonchalantly, "Oh yes! I climbed part way up that mountain when I was in the Alps"; never to join in the talk about European hotels with some personal anecdote; never to thrill your hearers with the story of the tremendous storm at sea and how alarmed even the captain was;—well, how much of your joy would be taken away? One-half? Or three-quarters? The ordinary amateur trader was based on this phase of human nature, and the tremendous souvenir post card trade that has almost completely superseded the other, gets its main support from the inevitable human desire to impress upon one's friends the fact that one has been travelling.

The Passing Of The Sovereign. To be able to send a picture of the big hotel one stayed at, with a cross upon one's room—or, better still, a post card photograph of oneself leaning over Plymouth Rock, or viewing Niagara Falls, or starting on a coaching party through Yellowstone Park, was to give the fullest expression of the tell-about-it instinct. We wonder that the jewel box made of sea shells, or the pin cushion fashioned of red velvet and shiny wood with a picture of the National Capitol painted on it, have almost vanished before this cheaper and more satisfactory emotional outlet.

Of course we aren't as naïve as my little guest of the auto ride, but I think we are all pretty much like her inside.

Coolidge Has Plan to Settle Threat.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE MAY BE AVOIDED—CONFERENCE SUGGESTED.

WASHINGTON, August 12.—(United Press)—The threatened anthracite strike, the proposition of reducing government expenses and the immigration situation, were the principal problems confronting President Harding's old cabinet as it met for the first time to-day, to advise with the new President, Calvin Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge has drawn up and already put into execution a definite plan to banish the threat of a coal strike by having representatives of both sides meet at New York to-morrow and seek an agreement. His plan was up for discussion before the cabinet but he has already gone so far with it there is little likelihood of any changes being made.

Director of the Budget Lord has made up an itemized account of what the government departments should spend in the next fiscal year and that will be put before the cabinet for consideration. There may be considerable difference of opinion over it. Lord shaved the estimated needs of the government to the bone, and he insists that all the secretaries cut costs.

Secretary of Labor Davis will tell the cabinet about the immigration situation as he sees it after a trip to Europe where he studied the condition of persons who were waiting to embark for the United States at the first opportunity. His recommendation for new immigration legislation will be gone over.

If jelly starts to congeal before it is poured into glasses, it will appear cloudy.

OLD CUSTOMS.

On Sabbath afternoons of yore D and d harnessed up the milded steed, and took the children, six or four, around the town at luscious speed. And all the neighbors did the same; they all had rigs of ample size, and lazy horses, fat and lame, see-sawed along and scrapped with flies. The banker had his span of bays too swift for lightning streaks to pass; he scooped along the dusty ways and thought he put up lots of green. The peer and the Texas bronk, the donkey and the old gray mare, totted on where now the autos honk, and horsehoes pounded everywhere. And surreys brinded and maroon went creaking through the drowsy town; all through the Sabbath afternoon the fat steeds ambled up and down. We smile at those long vanished times, at customs of the ages dark, and horses look to us like crimes, "and besides, favor Noah's Ark. But when we read the public prints on Monday mornings, long ago, we found few tales, in lurid tints, of traffic peril, death and woe. The morgue was not unduly filled with voters killed by speeding freak; the catalogue of maimed and killed was not a feature, every week. The slow-coach customs of the past annals the bustling modern chaps; but boneyards didn't grow so fast, and undertakers had no snap.

Well Done, George!

A little while ago a rough-looking individual called at the house, and when George answered his knock he grasped the little fellow by the collar. "If you don't tell me where your father keeps his money, he'll knock your head off." "Oh, please don't do that," whimpered George; "you'll find all the money we've got in an old waistcoat in the kitchen." Two minutes later a bruised and battered wreck was heaved through the front door of George's house. He sat for a while in the gutter and blinked. "That kid's too smart—unnaturally smart," he muttered. "Never said a word about 'is father being' inside the waistcoat!"

A POPULAR HOUSE DRESS MODEL (WITH INSERTED POCKETS.)

4426. The slenderizing features of this style will appeal to the stout woman, while the practical points will make the style attractive to all figures. Figured percale with trimming of mercerized poplin is here shown. Gingham, with an edging of rick rack would be good—or, damask, with organdy for collar and cuffs. The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 3 1/2 yards of 32 inch material. To trim with contrasting material as illustrated requires 1/2 yard. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2 1/2 yards. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A PRACTICAL APRON MODEL.

4268. Gingham was selected for this design, with white bias binding for a finish. Satcen, crestone, oxford or crepe could be used with stitching or braid for trimming. Small, 34-38; Medium, 38-40; Large, 42-44; Extra Large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A NEW VERSION OF A POPULAR STYLE.

4004. Smart platts lend gracefulfulness to this charming "one piece" model. It will develop well in tafel.

A CHIC FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

4298. Here is a very charming model suitable for any of the pretty materials now in vogue. One may have the dress with or without the full sleeves. Dotted net with ruffles of satin ribbon is here shown. Crepe and crepe de chine also figured voile and batiste are good for this design. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 12 year size requires 3 1/2 yards of 40 inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A PRETTY UNDERGARMENT.

4444. Nainsook, cambric or crepe may be used for this style. The skirt portion could be made of louncing or embroidered nainsook, or flannel and the waist portions of cambric. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 10 year size requires 1 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

in linen, crepe, ratina, or sponge. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 10, 12 and 20 years. A 16 year size requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. The width at the foot with platts extended is about 2 1/2 yards. As here illustrated white flannel was used, with embroidery in yellow yarn. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 34-38; Medium, 38-40; Large, 42-44; Extra Large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A Medium size requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

"The Riband" of the Skies.

the Most Popular Flying Contest.

The Aerial Derby has always, since its inception in 1912, been the most popular aviation event of the year. The length of the course is approximately ninety-five miles, beginning at Hendon, and it was estimated that each of the three races before the war was witnessed by fewer than one million people, arranged the aerodrome and the airports en route. The first race was uneventful, but the sensation was created in aviation circles when the competitors ranged up for the second one in 1913. Gustav Hamel put in appearance in a tiny 50-h.p. monoplane with especially small racing wings. Even the most optimistic of flying men shook their heads, prophesying disaster. Nevertheless, the plucky Frenchman came in an easy first, winning the 100 guinea gold cup and 200 sovereigns.

It is interesting to note that his speed averaged 76 miles an hour. This set up a new record for this type of cross-country flying over a circular course, and was esteemed a wonderful performance; as indeed it was.

The third race, flown on June 6th, 1914, less than two months before the outbreak of war, witnessed the advent of a "dark horse" in the person of W. L. Brock, an American pilot. Visibility on this occasion was very bad, but Brock, who proved to be the winner, flew through a succession of fog-belts and baffling mists at more than seventy miles an hour.

Mr. Brock, who piloted a French-designed Morane monoplane, built under license in this country by British workmen, followed up his victory by numerous other successes.

"This year's Aerial Derby is expected to set up a new speed record, if weather conditions are favourable."

Here! Here!

Sheridan was once very much annoyed by a fellow-member of the British House of Commons who kept crying out every few minutes, "Here, here."

During the debate Sheridan took occasion to describe a political opponent who wished to play the rogue, but had only sense enough to act the fool.

"Where," he exclaimed, with great emphasis, "where shall we find a more foolish knave or a more knavish fool than he?"

"Here, here!" was shouted by the troublesome member.

Sheridan turned round and, thanking him for the prompt information, sat down amid a general roar of laughter.

IT'S AN ILL WIND THAT BLOWS NO ONE GOOD.

BY BEN BATSFORD.

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

SPORT FOR SPORT'S SAKE.
Manchester Guardian: There is far less organized seeking after the highest sporting honors in England than elsewhere. We have a few specialists and gloriously large companies of dilettanti. So long as those companies keep up their strength, it does not much matter what the specialists do.

INDUSTRY AND CREDIT.
Daily Chronicle: Since the war we have pinched our industry in order to restore our credit, a process only justifiable if our credit is in turn to help restore our industry. It would seem pure folly to allow it instead to be frittered away in other countries without any benefit to our own producers.

WOMEN'S CEREMONY.
Daily Express: Men are the chief mongers of platitudes. That is because they have only tongues where-with to converse. Women have a much vaster armory. They have their eyes and their eyebrows as well as their mouths. And in their range of platitude they have greater scope for latitude. Who shall say which is the more devastating?

THE COAL DEADLOCK.
Brooklyn Eagle: There is only one thing to do with the deadlock: Break it. It is a waste of time looking for a magic key that will open a lock that has made up its mind not to open. Yet the general attitude toward deadlocks in disputes is one of hopeless hand-wringing and frantic screeches for missing keys. The only answer is to smash the deadlock just as we smash perversely inanimate locks.

PROTECT THE BIRDS.
The Times: If men are imaginative enough and respectful enough of nature, if commerce and fashion can be humanised, there should be no reason why the bird life of these islands should not always remain rich and varied. It will be regrettable if Lord Grey's bill fails, for want of time or other cause, to become law, because it agrees with the drift of opinion and harmonizes and tightens up the present rather unsatisfactory state of the law.

WHY ESPERANTO.
Providence Journal: English is the primary language of 160,000,000 people. Variants of Chinese are spoken as a native tongue by twice as many, mostly confined to a single area. There are about one hundred and thirty recognized languages, disregarding dialects, but none approaches English for widespread use; with the Chinese exception, no other is spoken by so many people. With such a long start English would be a natural selection for official recognition as a universal language.

HAMLET, WITHOUT THE PRINCE.
The Australasian: Long life, coupled with good health, is the ideal and obsession of everyone who has passed the fifty-year mark without being found out. How many of us, then, were at once interested in the cabined announcement by Dr. Oldfield, of London, that, if they will let him diet the nation, everybody will soon live to be a hundred. It's very simple, too—you cut out meat, tea, alcohol, and a few other things like that, and fatten on what's left. Porridge stands first, and the life-giving menu winds up with buttermilk and onions.

LOYALTY TO THE FLAG.
Daily Telegraph: We can understand those who dislike Jingoism and the louder type of Imperialism, both of which are happily rare today. But the Union Jack is for all patriotic Britons the emblem of their faith in the country, their cause, their ideals, and their race, sacred to their eyes and to their hearts, and hallowed by the memories of all who have worked for it and died for it. The simple question of Socialism and the Flag to our minds is this: Can and will the Socialists accept the Union Jack as their flag when they have won the electoral victory to which they look forward?

THE FIGHTING SPIRIT.
Rock Island Argus: Farmers and amateur gardeners often wonder why crops can't grow as prolifically and with as much strength as weeds. This is the answer: Weeds grow wild, with no helping hand, and they have to fight hard for existence or perish. They fight hard. That's why they survive. Take a garden. The veg-tables receive almost constant aid from man. They are in effect pampered. Through many generations they have come to "expect" this outside aid, in the sense that by having this aid supplied to them they have lost much of the natural vigor and initiative of vegetable life in the wild state. Progressively, as you take the obstacles away, the garden truck becomes weaker in ability to compete for existence with other growing things. So with all of us. Obstacles are sent to make us fight, thereby developing our powers, our strength.

FARMING TRUTHS.
Le Soleil: Farming is not only an occupation, it is a science. The man assured of a sufficient revenue to live who makes use of the latter is always comfortably, while those who neglect it lose a substantial part of the fruits of their labor, become discouraged and in course of time subjects for immigration or at least wanderers of an agricultural career, whenever a crisis takes place. If all the cultivators of Quebec followed the path of the advice which their instructors can give them, the harvest would be doubled in less than five years. Impoverished soils would become thirty per cent richer, farm products, butter, cheese, beans, vegetables, fruit, etc. would be marketed in better condition, would realize better prices, above all, if sold in co-operation, and the annual revenue of each farmer would be more proportionate to the energy which he exerted.

A New Method.
 A guest at a country hotel gave instruction that he wished to be called early. The next morning he was disturbed by a loud tattoo upon the door. "Wall!" he demanded sharply. "Please, sir," said a voice. "I've got a message for you." Yawning heavily, he jumped out of bed and unlocked the door. A page boy handed him an envelope and walked quickly away. The guest opened the envelope and took out a slip of paper bearing the words: "It's time to get up."

An Appeal

ON BEHALF OF THE UNEMPLOYED AND DESTITUTE.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir—As the columns of your widely read paper are always open in the cause of justice and right, might I venture to make an appeal for the starving, unemployed portion of the citizens of this town. Surely the authorities of both Church and State are aware that in this city where evidences of luxury and individual extravagance are apparent to everybody that there are a large number of creatures made in the "range of God, without food, food, and decent clothing there are little innocent children with pinched, pitiful faces, newly born infants entering the heritage of poverty, their fathers wandering the streets day after day in search of work to gain the wherewithal to feed them, but in vain. If they were Armenians long ago would their appeal be heeded? but nobody seems to care. The animals are well looked after, but those who we expect to grow up and carry on the business of the country are left to starve. And I now ask in behalf of the unfortunate unemployed that work be found for them before we as a community are brought face to face with the eternal disgrace of allowing our people to perish for want of the food which is theirs by right. If and when there is work started I trust that no more camouflage contracts will be handed out to favorites. The money voted for the needy should be placed in the proper channels, and not given to well paid locusts who are always on the lookout for a grab. History repeats itself every time. Who would ever think that we would have a visit from the shades of All Baba and the forty thieves? All that was wanted was the jars, and those might be procured from the rumshop on Duckworth Street. "Where are we and winter coming?" That question can be answered easily if the management of our affairs are not radically changed. We will either sell out or crawl out. Be that as it may it is right up to our representatives and our church authorities to get busy and see that honest labor is provided for those who are idle and hungry through no fault of their own. We are a law abiding people by choice and by nature, but there is a point where the line must be drawn, and I think they deserve credit for the manner in which they have conducted themselves during this trying time. Now, Mr. Editor, they expect your help to ventilate their troubles and I feel sure they will not be disappointed.

Yours sincerely,
 ONE OF THEM.

She Knows The Reason

WHEN the thinking woman sees a housewife with red hands, she knows the reason. Nine times out of ten there is something wrong with the soap she is using.

To be certain about the purity of your soap, see that it contains no lye to harm your hands.

Ask your grocer for Kirkman's Soap. There can be no better soap because

The best materials obtainable are used. It is absolutely free from all adulteration.

It contains no lye to coarsen or redden the hands.

Further, it is boiled nine different times, so as to be certain of the perfect blending of all the ingredients.

THIS makes it absolutely sterile—free from germs—and safe to use, even on the most delicate skin.

And for nearly a century, this has been true about Kirkman's Soap, ever since 1837, in fact.

If you want your hands to look their best—smooth, soft and beautiful—ask for Kirkman's Soap, and use it regularly for all laundry and household purposes.

The Economical Soap for Intelligent Women

Without Question or Argument
 Kirkman's Soap is sold to you with the distinct understanding that it satisfies YOU in every way. Your grocer will return your money without question or argument, if you are not pleased with results. You alone are the judge.

Your Hands Will be Grateful

Its Rich Delicacy and genuine all-round goodness makes Salada the choice of millions and its sales are ever increasing.

THREE YEARS WOULD END DEFICITS.

I thought it was a hopeless case. I would not remain here because I could find for myself more pleasant occupation, but I have faith in the people of Canada. There are enemies; they may be defeated, but they are going to fight a damn good fight.

There are three solutions of the problem, according to Sir Henry. The first is a complete change of management, but that was not the way to efficiency.

DEATH TOLL IN JULY. Several persons were killed in automobile accidents during the month of July.

BLINDING OTHERS ASTRAY. The man should be ashamed of yourself, says a girl of that age yesterday.

Wedding Bells.

WYATT-SLANEY.
 Last night at the Nuns' Chapel Presentation Convent, the wedding of Mr. Walter Wyatt (engineer s.s. Portia), to Miss Jennie Slaney, youngest daughter of Mr. Peter and Mrs. Slaney, St. Lawrence, was solemnized by Rev. Fr. Kennedy. The bride looked pretty in a dress of white satin, with hat to match and a bouquet of white carnations; she was attended by Miss M. McNamara, who wore a beautiful periwinkle blue canon crepe dress, with hat to match, and bouquet of carnations. The duties of best man were performed by Mr. Jno. Bell our famous athlete. After the ceremony the party motored to the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. M. P. Murphy's, Pennywell Road, where supper was served and the usual felicitations observed.

Selling Our Neighbours Our Forests.

(Saturday Night)
 A well known United States trade publication expresses itself as being greatly worried over the prospect of having the Canadian Government place an embargo on the export of pulp wood to that country; while in the same publication, on another page, there is a call for the people of the United States to preserve what is left of their depleted forests.

"When we think," says one of the articles, "that at one time white pine forests covered the country in an almost continuous belt from Maine to Minnesota, and now it is possible to go into the lumber markets of our large cities and buy mahogany from Madagascar cheaper than we can buy first-class white pine lumber, we realize that we are facing some very definite forest problems."

"Pulpwood for the manufacture of pulp and paper, which a few years ago cost from $4 to $6 per cord is today costing from $14 to $20 per cord."

In still another article in the same publication we are informed that "for many years the pulp and paper mills of northern New York, New England and the Lake States have purchased from 25 to 100 per cent. of their annual pulp wood requirements from the freehold lands of Canada. Many of our mills have become so dependent on Canadian pulpwood that an embargo would not only cause extreme hardship, but might even cause them to cease manufacture."

Of course we will all feel sorry for these United States manufacturers; but there is a way out, they can move to Canada; and continue to enjoy the prospect of living off of our forests. On the other hand are we to leave the bars down until our forest areas are in the same plight as those of the United States?

It is a nice question as to whether or not Canadians should feel obliged to sacrifice their heritage in order to supply United States paper mills with their raw product. Many of our public men have been giving thought as to how we may best increase our population. For instance how can a greater number of people be profitably employed? Are we wasteful of this opportunity when we send over our borders raw materials in place of the finished article? It would appear so. In all fairness it would seem that we should at least reap the full benefit of our own devastation by employing our own labor in the work. The mills producing paper in Canada are a real asset to the country, but a paper mill located here will say at Glens Falls, New York, and utilizing Canadian spruce in its mills one might consider rather as a liability from our point of view.

The threat has been made in the United States that if we cut out the export of raw timber for paper making purposes that country might retaliate by cutting off our anthracite coal and our sulphur. Well, it is quite possible to obtain sulphur in all desired quantities in Europe, and as for an anthracite coal embargo, it would unquestionably be a blessing in disguise. We will be obliged sooner or later to find a substitute, or substitutes for this expensive fuel. If this is going to be necessary in a few years, why not start now? The time seems opportune.

The Five Mile Bicycle Race at Guards Sports to-morrow will be keenly contested and in itself will be well worth the admission.—aug21.11

A vegetarian had an amusing experience the other morning at breakfast. His family were out of town, and he went to a restaurant, and took a seat next to a stranger. The vegetarian took occasion to advertise his creed by telling the stranger that all meat was injurious, and that the human diet should be strictly vegetarian.

"But," replied the stranger, "I seldom eat meat."
 "You just ordered eggs," said the vegetarian. "An egg is practically meat, because it eventually becomes a bird."
 "The kind of eggs I eat never become birds," answered the stranger quietly.
 "Good gracious," cried the vegetarian, "what kind of eggs do you eat?"
 "Principally boiled eggs, sir."

DUSTORMUD?

"FOR HEALTH'S SAKE
USE LIFEBOUY SOAP"

Mud consists of the filth of the drains and streets, and more often than not the mud carried into your house on the children's boots, or yours, brings in disease germs. The dust you see in your house is dried mud and is generally laden with germs which cause sickness.

Take care to keep your floors free from mud and your curtains, window sills, stairways, etc., free from dust and thereby lessen the chances of heavy sickness in your home. Use LIFEBOUY SOAP, and plenty of it, on your floors and woodwork. Use it also for your wash.

LIFEBOUY is a disinfectant soap which cleans and disinfects at same time. LIFEBOUY is recommended by doctors and Health Departments and is made and guaranteed by Lever Bros., soap makers by appointment to His Majesty King George V. Your hands will benefit from LIFEBOUY SOAP.

BUY LIFEBOUY SOAP--don't take something else--LIFEBOUY IS BETTER.

The large bars of LIFEBOUY sell for 20 cents each and the octagonal shape cakes for 9 cents.

British Soldiers.

PREPARE TO LEAVE TURKISH TERRITORY.

CONSTANTINOPLE (A.P.)—With the coming of peace at Leusanne, preparations are being made by the British army to evacuate the territory which they have held since the Armistice. There will be genuine regret among all the Christian races here, and no little sorrow among the educated class of Turks, when General Harrington and his 12,000 soldiers bid farewell to the Golden Horn. For whatever unassisted their presence gave to the new regime at Angora, their occupation of the capital and Straits have been a power for good. Indeed, with the small French and Italian garrisons and the Yankee blue-jackets from the American destroyers in the Bosphorus, the British soldiers have been the main source of security and order throughout the large areas menaced by the Turks. Five and six times again at Chank, in Gallipoli, at Constantinople and in Thrace, their patience have been tried by the Turk, but they have kept their rifles muzzle, their bayonets reversed and their tempers in leash.

General Sir Charles Harrington, the patient and tactful Commander-in-Chief of the Allied forces here, has addressed a typical message of commendation and of caution to his officers and men. In it General Harrington, who is beloved of all ranks for his human qualities and his constant solicitude for his men, says:

"It must be realized that it is only human to expect that our departure will be heralded with a certain amount of satisfaction by the Turks. I look to all ranks to conduct themselves during this period with dignity and restraint, and to do all in their power to avoid incidents, so that the evacuation may be carried out in accordance with the high standard which exists throughout the force, and so that they may leave behind them a memory and respect for British forces which will be long-lived in Turkey and in the history of the British army."

"All have a difficult task to perform. The patience and restraint which have been exercised by the troops are beyond all praise, and worthy of the best traditions. The closing weeks may be difficult ones, and for this reason I ask all ranks to help me in completing the task with the dignity and high sense of duty which has so characterized the forces I have been so proud to have under my command."

The evacuation will be completed six weeks after the ratification of the peace treaty. General Harrington has asked his government for instructions regarding the status of the army of occupation during the period subsequent to the ratification until evacuation. He suggests the provision that no Turkish forces shall be allowed to come to Constantinople, and that no triumphal entries shall take place until the last of the troops have gone in order to avoid the dangers of incidents during the delicate period.

To Compile Dictionary OF BABYLONIAN LANGUAGE.

Chicago, Aug. 13. (A.P.)—Writing a dictionary of a language dead for more than 2,000 years is the ten-year task undertaken by Prof. D. D. Luckenbill, of the University of Chicago, who, with a staff of eight assistants and many internationally famous scholars, is compiling a dictionary of Babylonian-Assyrian.

When he completes the work, he will have more than 200,000 different word forms and at least 30,000 different words, he says. The object of the work is to open up vast fields of early civilization's history as gathered from the clay tablets of the people who at one time conquered the Hebrews.

Professor Luckenbill is making a record of every word as it occurs in remaining records. Since some of these records vary in age as much as 3,000 years, the words often change radically in meaning during that period, Prof. Luckenbill said. Even English of only 500 years ago is hard to read, he added, so that changes in Babylonian-Assyrian of more than 2,000 years ago are much greater.

All the museums in the world are being ransacked for clay tablets and other records of the old empire, Prof. Luckenbill asserted. "By making available the history of these ancient people, scholars have been building up the story of commerce for 3,000 years. Most of our business law comes from the Babylonians. They used marriage licenses, notes, mortgages, contracts, and most of our own legal forms. From them we have discovered three great codes of law which modern nations have been using since.

"When a dictionary is made available for scholars, the twilight of the past is likely to be dispelled and we shall know far more about our own institutions. That is why a ten-year task on a dead language is worth the trouble and pains."

An American traveller was being shown over an old castle. The old guide explained eloquently the beauty spots of the old ruins.

At last they came to a particularly fine old tower.

"This 'ere tower," the guide explained expressively, "goes back to William the Conqueror."

The American looked at it critically, and then asked:

"Going back to William the Conqueror, is it? Why, what's the matter with it? Ain't it satisfactory?"

The Cove.

GARDEN PARTY TO-MORROW, WEDNESDAY.

On to-morrow the Annual Garden Party in aid of Father Gough's Church and Schools, hitherto held at Beachy Cove, will this year take place in the grounds of Mr. Allison's Cottage, Round Pond, near Twenty-Mile Pond, Cove Road.

The necessity for a new school chapel on the Cove Road is a very pressing one to say nothing about the heating of the new church at the Cove and the upkeep of four school buildings. All this has to be done from the funds realized from the funds of the Garden Party. We feel sure, then that hundreds of city friends will face countrywards on to-morrow afternoon, and while enjoying the afternoon amidst scenery which is delightful they will at the same time have the pleasure of helping on a good work. Busses will ply from Rawlins Cross at a very reasonable rate. There will be boat races, pony races, etc., and Mt. Cashel Band will discourse sweet music. What more, sure you'll come.

Royal Rights.

In accordance with an ancient Royal Custom, King George has the right by statute to the head of every whale caught on the coasts of his kingdom. The tall is to go to the Queen, that her wardrobe shall be furnished with whalebone. The King is also entitled to every surgeon brought to land in the United Kingdom, and should receive, too, every year from divers persons a tablecloth worth 1s., two white doves, two white hares, a catanip, a pound of cumin seed, a horse and a halter, a pair of scarlet hose, and a silver needle from his father.

Accurate Meters

Continued accuracy can be expected in any electrical measuring device only when correct design and careful workmanship are combined. These two qualities have for so long been found side by side in Westinghouse Meters and Instruments, that the name Westinghouse on any electrical measuring device has come to mean ever-dependable accuracy, wherever electricity is used.

Whatever measure or record you wish to make of the electricity you use, there is a Westinghouse Meter or Instrument for the purpose.
