Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., are here most prevalent, and for their cure we have nothing to compete with the great Sassafras Remedy.

—If the blood be pure the body which is formed by it cannot be diseased. But if there be in any part of the body any affection, such as a boil or ulcer, even a bruise, the blood circulates through that part takes up impure matters from the local affection and carries it to the general system. This is the cause of all sudden death to persons of full habit afflicted with boils and eruptions, who use no medicine; the matter gets into the circulating system and chokes up the fine blood vessels which supply the brain with vitality, and life ceases as if

COUGHS AND COLDS.

Sudden changes of climate are sources of Pulmonary, Bronchial and Asthmatic affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should be at once had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges. Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough, or "common cold," in its first stage. That which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon attacks the lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Cough Lozenges, allay irritation which induces coughing, having a direct influence on the affected parts. As there are imitations, be sure to obtain the genuine. Sold by all dealers in medicine at 25 cents a box.

It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price 25 cents. ### General News.

The excess of births over deaths in Britain is now more than 1,000 a day. In England it is above 250,000 a year; in Scotland, above 40,000; in Ireland, it is estimated at nearly 70,000.

Now that the telegraph is extended to Cuba, it will not be long, it is expected ere it will reach the Isthmus of Panama, by which the Old World will be within two days of Central America, Lima within seven, Valparaiso within eighteen, and New Zealand within twenty-seven days.

The St. Catharines Journal tells of a most disgraceful scene that occurred in that town. A family arrived there a short time ago from Niagara. There were three brothers, one of whom was sick, and after lingering a few days he died. There upon began a fight for his boots between the other two, when one was knocked senseless on the floor, and the victor drew the boots from the feet of the corpse and put them on his own.

SIR FREDERICK BRUCE.—The death of Sir Frederick Bruce has caused profound grief in England—as appears by our English files which have arrived here. He is eulogized no less as a man than as one of the ablest diplomatists in the Queen's service. The Times says it is no secret that it was in accordance with his repeated advice and exhortations that a wise overture toward a settlement of the Alabama claims was made by Lord Derby's government, and he "always cherished the hope that he would be able to render his country the service of removing a fertile ground of contention from the path of the two Governments, and thus bring them into closer and more friendly relations." There is no little discussion as to who shall be appointed his successor at Washington, and there is much feeling as to the importance of obtaining a man who shall THANKSGIVING.—Thursday next, the 10th of October, has been named by the Lord Bishop of Toronto to be observed as a day of thanksgiving for the abundant harvest.

Mr Wm Reid, one of the sufferers by the Rolling Mill accident at Hamilton, is dangerously ill of inflammation on the brain, the result of his injuries, and his recovery is considered doubtful.

THE PRIZE SHIRTS.—Messrs. A. Thomson & Co. have for sale the splendid lot of woolen shirts and drawers, made by Messrs. Armstrong, McCrae & Co., which took the first prizes at the Provincial Exhibition. For quality, texture and finish these goods cannot be matched in Canada.

ASSESSMENTS.—At the last meeting of the Nichol Council a by-law was brought in and passed for imposing the rates to be collected during the current year, viz: For County purposes, 2 1/2 mills per $; General School rate, six tenths of a mill; General Township purposes, four tenths of a mill. The rate that the Pilkington Council has fixed for that Township this year on all rates real and personal property is six mills in the dollar.

FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR COPETOWN.—A sad accident occurred on Monday last, on the Governor's road, near Copetown, which resulted in the death of Thomas Brady, a young man 25 years of age, son of Mr. John Brady, of Dundas. The deceased was engaged teaming slabs from Elliott's sawmill, and while on the road he fell from his load, and received such injuries as resulted in his death before medical assistance could be obtained.

SAD ACCIDENT.—We are sorry to learn that an unfortunate occurrence, resulting in the death of a young son of Mr. Nelson McKague of Rothsay, took place three or four days ago. It appears that the lad had climbed unobserved into the wagon, and had started the horses causing them to run away, when he was soon thrown out of the wagon, and his skull was fractured by the fall. He lived only a few minutes after the accident.

RETURNED TO DIE.—A correspondent of the Stratford Beacon relates the following.—The village is much affected by an incident which has just occurred. Ten years ago a man named John Warner left West's Corners to take up his residence in Michigan, and when he went away he said he should return to die on the plot of land he formerly owned and lived on here. Meanwhile he was forgotten. But on Friday he reappeared in our midst. He said he had come back—as he stated he would do when he left—to die. And so it was to be. For only the Monday morning following he expired.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER TO MR. McKIM.—The Elora Observer says:—"The friends and supporters of Robert McKim, Esq., M. P., have decided upon giving him a public dinner in Johnston's Crown Hotel, Alms on Wednesday, the 23rd October, inst., at 5 o'clock p. m. An energetic committee has been formed, and no stone will be left unturned to get up an entertainment worthy of the occasion. A number of good speakers, together with the Salem Brass Band, will be invited. We look forward to this occasion with a degree of pleasure, and trust that Mr. McKim's supporters will turn out to a man."

Police Court.

Before T. W. Saunders, Esq., Police Magistrate.

SATURDAY, 5th.—Charles Truen was charged with being drunk. As this was his first offence, Charles was dismissed.

Alex. McLaren, a travelling tinker, charged with drunkenness and indecent exposure of his person, was fined $1.00 and costs for injuring his constitution by over indulgence in stimulants. The second charge was dismissed.

LONG DRESSES.—Oliver Wendell Holmes used the following language, none too strong, in reference to one of fashion's foolish freaks:—"But confound the make-believe women we have turned loose in our streets; where do they come from? Not out of Boston parlours, I trust. Why, there isn't a bird or beast that would drag its tail through the dirt the way these creatures do their dresses. Because a queen or duchess wears long dresses on great occasions, a maid of all-work or a factory girl thinks she must make herself a nuisance by trailing through the streets, picking up and carrying about with her—bah! That's what I call getting vulgarly into your bones and marrow. Show over dirt is the attribute of vulgar people. If any man can walk behind one of these women, and see what she makes up as she goes, and not feel squashed, he has got a tough stomach. I would not let one of them into my room without serving them as David did Saul at the cave of the wilderness—cut off her skirts. Don't tell me that a true lady ever sacrifices the duty of keeping all about her sweet and clean to the wish of making a vulgar show. I don't believe it of a lady. There are some things that no fashion has any right to touch, and cleanliness is one of these things. It is an insult."

NICHOL AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

The Nichol Township Agricultural Fall Show was held at Fergus, on Friday.

For some years past this Society was united with that of Pilkington, and a union show held alternately in Fergus and Elora. This year each society held its own show. The exhibition in Fergus was a poor one for such a township as Nichol, which contains many enterprising farmers. The Society had united for the purpose of exhibition with the first six concessions of Garafraxa, and in consequence there were a number of exhibitors from that part of the township.

The horses and cattle shown were good of the kind, but we are satisfied Nichol, if it chose, could make a better turn out in both classes. There was a large show of sheep, many of them being well bred and of superior quality. Mr Robt Scott showed a splendid ewe lamb, which beats any of the same class we have seen this year. Messrs Tindal and Broadfoot had also some superior sheep. There was not a large display of pigs, but the most of them were good. Among the implements we noticed two of Mr George McLnnes' superior ploughs, which have so often taken first prizes. He had also a very neat set of harrows. Mr Phelan had two of his excellent fanning mills, and Mr J B Armstrong had on exhibition, not for competition, two of his first-class buzzsaws.

The show of grain, dairy produce and ladies' work was meagre, but what was shown was displayed to good advantage in Wylie's Music Hall. There were some splendid potatoes exhibited. The butter was superior, but there were not many entries. There were very few entries of grain. There was but a very poor show of ladies' work. The Judges were, Hon. Messrs Jas Elliott, Guelph township; W. Armstrong, Eramosa; and Dr. Elliott, Elora. For Grain, &c., Messrs. Jas. Loghrin, H. Michie and J. Phillips, Fergus. The following is the

SATURDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 5.

Nova Scotia.

There are but few papers published in the Province of Ontario or Quebec that have not already indulged in one or more long articles speculating on the probable course that Mr. Howe and his followers will pursue during the first session of Parliament. To conjecture is perhaps a necessity of journalism, and hence instead of waiting patiently for the expiry of a month to solve the problem, we are asked to foretell the conduct of a certain number of individuals, and argue the probable future from the known past and present.

On one point coalition and anti-coalition journals agree; that is, that the conduct of the people of Nova Scotia is somewhat of an anomaly. Their loyalty to the British Crown has never been called in question by those who thoroughly understand their character, and their hostility towards Confederation has been charged to their erroneous belief, that it will have a tendency to dissolve British connection by making Canada a distinct and independent nation. If such had been the object, or strong tendency of the scheme, a careful reflection might result in a mild disapproval of their actions, for it must be apparent that in all the turgid rhetoric we have heard concerning "a Mighty Empire," "a great and extensive Nationality," there was very much sound and very much silliness. In this respect the Nova Scotians are right, for we are of opinion, that the longer we hold on by the apron strings of an indulgent mother like England it will be so much the better for us.

But a stronger reason for this people's dislike to Confederation appears to be their dread of being unjustly dealt with, and their rights, in their full extent, neglected or despised by Canadians. The questions they have agitated for months past were these; Whether Confederation would strengthen or imperil their connection with Britain; how far the Dominion tariff would enhance the cost of importations, what effect the Commons' legislation would have on the fishery and shipbuilding interests; would taxation be increased or diminished? would the local exchequer be drained or replenished under confederation? These were questions of vital importance to the Nova Scotians, and since their reasonings and arguments upon them did not conduce to a favorable view of Confederation, they had a right as freemen to do what they did—give the scheme a constitutional opposition. They did this and they did no more, and perhaps they would have considered that they were not true to themselves or their country; if they had not.

But they are reasonable people; they will make no demands but for justice, and there is not the slightest ground for a suspicion that it will be denied them; and here there is the strongest reason for believing that their opposition to Confederation will be merged and lost sight of forever. Even if Mr. Howe still entertains an adverse feeling, it is highly improbable that he would publicly evince it, since he, even with his splendid endowments, and seventeen of his countrymen at his back, could endanger Confederation but little so long as it retains its present popularity in the other three provinces with the politicians of both creeds. But it would be unfortunate if Nova Scotia should be obliged to continue an unwilling province in the federation—wedded to it against her will, and retained by force. But again we would express our belief, that a strict regard to her rights will be amply sufficient to reconcile her, and that her great hero, Mr. Howe, having done all he could, but yet nothing to place him beyond the pale of the Constitution, is willing to be convinced of his error if Confederation works differently from what he calculated and argued.

NEW BRUNSWICK ITEMS.

A St. John's paper has the following: It is said that New Brunswick will give Governor to Ontario, in the person of a distinguished Judge, and it is known that General Doyle will be Governor of Nova Scotia. Whether it be true or not, we suppose that the rumor about Ontario Governorship has reference to Wilmutt—an excellent man. Mr. Beakwith is Provincial Secretary, and Surveyor General.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

THE PREVAILING UNEASINESS AND ITS CAUSE.

From the Fall Mail Gazette, Sept. 15.

In the following letter an English merchant residing in Naples, gives his impressions during his recent tour which he has just made in France: "I send you an account of the general feeling I observed among the population, as far as I had the opportunity of judging. The first thing that struck me was the deep-seated feeling of uneasiness and distrust of the future pervading all ranks of mercantile men, a distrust which seemed the greater the higher one went in the scale. The explanation they gave for this feeling, when questioned, was the fear of war at no distant future; but the probabilities of peace being disturbed did not seem to be sufficiently overwhelming to account for the general belief in it. I therefore tried to take deeper soundings and found my supposition correct. The general uneasiness has a lower basis. When Mr. Thiers in the Corps Legislatif condemned the policy of the French government, however petty his theories may have appeared to impartial observers compared with the Emperor's policy, it is nevertheless certain that he struck a chord that vibrated in the heart of the nation. The populace care little for one policy or the other, but they care much for success. They feel instinctively that whereas after the Crimean and Italian wars France was decidedly the arbiter of Europe, and her wishes more or less a law for other continental States, it is now no longer so. Of late, French diplomats have not been successful. They wanted to reconcile Italy to the Pope, but Italy and the Pope are greater enemies than ever. They wanted to regenerate the Latin race in America, and curb the Anglo-Saxon; yet at the bidding of the latter they had to desert an unfortunate Prince whom they had sent to his destruction, and were now almost reduced to wish that the very Anglo-Saxon race they had intended to check would step into their succession and do what they themselves, Frenchmen, had failed to accomplish. The statesmen of France had counted on the defeat of Prussia, yet Prussia was victorious. They had interposed in favor of Danes and Poles, yet Danes and Poles had been ruthlessly crushed. They had asked for a few coal fields on the banks of the Rhine, but they were met by a curt refusal; and the solution of the Luxembourg question was more like defeat than victory. The Plans of the government and its party grated on their ears, for they detected their hollowness. The Emperor's speech at Lille, where he confessed past discomfitures, acknowledged the existence of dark spots on the horizon of the future, but declared his confidence in the strength of France, is but one of the thousand proofs of the ability by which he has so long ruled France; thereby he separates himself as he has done more than once before, from his too zealous followers, and stood forth as the true representative of the feelings of the nation. So much for politics; but they are not the only source of uneasiness. At home, the laws of political economy have been violated, and the consequences are beginning to be felt. Employment was to be found for the working classes, gigantic works were undertaken, many of public utility, and by others Paris and the other principle cities in France were embellished. But at what a cost! Government and municipalities are over head and ears in debt, and more loans are everywhere in contemplation. All that conforms itself in the long run into increased taxation and stagnation of trade; that again into want of employment with which government in the end is unable to cope. Do not complain so much about your position in Italy; it is constantly said to me; 'we are not much better here, only things are managed more dexterously, and made to look pleasanter.' This financial depression brings social questions to the surface, and perhaps this is about the most abundant source of apprehension. The French see the great question between labor and capital presenting itself with wonder and admiration at the peaceable working out of reform, which they consider a great revolution, they can hardly bring themselves to believe that the labor question will likewise be peaceably worked out. Be that as it may, they see that this and other equally grave questions are inevitably approaching in France; but the absence of England's unbounded liberty of public discussion, opinion and action, they see no elements for their peaceful solution in their own land, particularly as it is generally believed that there are revolutionary parties organized and ready to take advantage of the first favorable moment. The next revolution, was said to be more than once, will be social, not political; and the Emperor will either put himself at the head of the movement, as it would be in his character to do, or fall in combating it. In short, the French, rightly or wrongly, feel sorely humiliated, politically, financially and socially; they calculate that however peacefully inclined their rulers may be, war will before long be a necessity to avoid what they fancy might be greater evils."

FROM OTTAWA.

It is understood that at the meeting of the Privy Council on Friday, the appointment of a successor to Mr. Archibald, Secretary of State, was discussed. It is probable that Dr. Tupper will accept the position and run the risk of re-election. Mr. Thomas Worthington, Assistant Commissioner of Customs and Excise, has been appointed head of the Excise Department under Mr. Howland. This department is more difficult of management than the Customs, and has only lately been properly organized under Mr. Inspector Brunel. Clerks are being sent from the Bureau of Agriculture to organize similar offices in Ontario and Quebec.

FROM OTTAWA.

It has been decided to take means to procure an early meeting of the Colonial Boards of Trade, in Toronto, to be composed of delegates from all the Provinces, to consider the following important questions:—The tariff rate, intercolonial railway, uniform currency, silver question, reduction of postage, shipping and navigation regulations, intercolonial maritime law, &c., in view of an early meeting of the first parliament of the union.

LADY SUBSCRIBERS.

An experienced editor pays a high and deserved compliment to the fair patrons of the press. Women, he says, are the best subscribers in the world to newspapers, magazines &c. We have been editor for forty years, and never lost a dollar by female subscribers. They seem to make it a point of conscientious duty to pay the preacher and the printer—two classes of the community that suffer more by bad pay, than all the rest put together. The St. John Morning Journal says: "The St. John Morning Journal says: 'We have been editor for forty years, and never lost a dollar by female subscribers. They seem to make it a point of conscientious duty to pay the preacher and the printer—two classes of the community that suffer more by bad pay, than all the rest put together.'"

A Beautiful Incident.

William IV. expired about midnight, if we remember right, at Windsor Palace. The Archbishop of Canterbury, with other peers and high functionaries of the king, were in attendance. As soon as the "sacred hand departed" with the breath of the king, the Archbishop quitted Windsor Castle, and made his way, with all possible speed to Kensington Palace, the residence at the time of the Princess—already by the law of succession Queen—Victoria. He arrived long before daylight, announced himself, and requested an immediate interview with the Princess. She hastily attired herself, and met the venerable prelate in her ante-room. He informed her of the death of William, and formally announced to her that she was, in law and right successor to the deceased monarch. "The sovereignty of the most powerful nation lay at the feet of a girl of eighteen! She was, de jure, queen of the only realm, in fact or history, on which the sun never set." She was deeply agitated at the formidable words, so fraught with blessing or calamity. The first words she was able to utter were these, "I ask your prayers in my behalf." They knelt together, and Victoria inaugurated her reign, like the young king of Israel in olden time, by asking from the Highest who ruleth in the kingdom of men, "an understanding heart to judge so great a people, who could not be numbered nor counted for multitude." The sequel of the beginning has been worthy of such a beginning. Every throne in Europe has tottered since that day. Most of them have been for a time overturned. That of England was never so firmly seated in the loyalty and love of the people as at this hour. Queen Victoria enjoys personal influence, too,—the heartfelt homage paid her as a Christian woman—incomparably wider and greater than that of any Monarch now reigning.

Saturday Night.

How many a kiss has been given—how many a curse—how many a career—how many a look of hate—how many a kind word—how many a promise has been broken—how many a heart has been wrecked—how many a soul lost—how many a loved one lowered into the narrow chamber—how many a babe has come from earth—how many a little crib or cradle stands silent now, which last Saturday night held the rarest of all the treasures of the heart! A week is a life. A week is a history. A week marks events of sorrow or gladness, which never people never heard. Go home to your family, man of business. Go home, you heart-erring wanderer! Go home to the cheer that awaits you, wronged wail on life's breakers! Go home to those you love, man of toil, and give one night to the joys and comforts fast flying by. Leave your books with complex figures—your dirty shop—your busy store! Rest with those you love, for God only knows what the next Saturday night will bring you! Forget the world of care and the battles with life which have furrowed the week. Draw close around the family hearth—Saturday night has awaited your coming in sadness, in tears, and silence. Go home to those you love, and as you bask in the loved presence, and meet to return the loved embrace of your heart's pet, strive to be a better man, and bless God for giving his weary children so dear a stepping stone in the river to the Eternal, as Saturday night.

he Assassin Berezowski.

The assassin Berezowski, who attempted to kill the Czar, was taken to Toulon on the 11th instant, to serve out his sentence. A letter writer says: "As soon as he entered the precincts of the bagne, the gray and yellow dress of a cellular prisoner was taken off, and the red jacket and green cap worn by those condemned for life was put on. The unfortunate young man was then taken to the prison, where his feet were already swollen and painful from the long march he had just come off. A heavy chain was fastened on his left leg by a massive ring; he did not appear to suffer during the operation, and quickly rose from the recumbent position in which it is always performed, taking up the chain in his hand, which otherwise drags on the ground. The head was shaved, as is the custom, in squares—that is, one square perfectly bare and on the next the hair is left about half an inch long. In spite of this disfiguring process and the green cap it was remarked that young Berezowski had a certain look of distinction, and even a gentle intelligent expression of countenance. One of the jailors who was not aware that his fingers had been injured, asked him what was the matter with his hand. "It was the pistol," he replied; "I was cured in three weeks by the application of cold water." While his ten companions were having their irons riveted, Berezowski remained quietly in a corner of the forge, and spoke to no one. He will not be chained to another convict, as is usually the case, but will remain in one of the convict's rooms, chained to a triangle of iron, which is fastened to the camp of the prisoner, and through which a bar is slipped, thus preventing their moving beyond the length of their chain. In a month, unless the wretched man first turns mad, he is to be sent to New Caledonia.

MR. HOWE AT HALIFAX.

The Hon. Joseph Howe made a triumphal entry into Halifax on the evening of the 24th ult., accompanied by Messrs. Annand and McLellan. On arrival at the station he entered a carriage, drawn by six greys, and proceeded through the principal streets of the city to the Parade. All along the line of the procession the streets were thronged by thousands. Nearly every window was filled with ladies, who testified their sympathy with the demonstration by waving handkerchiefs, &c. A very large number of carriages were in the procession. The bands of the Union Protection Company and Volunteer Artillery discoursed sweet music as they passed along. Banners bearing appropriate mottoes, and hundreds of torch-lights enlivened the scene. There was a brilliant display of fireworks from carriages in the procession, and also from the buildings in the streets through which they passed. At the Parade the cortege stopped, and in a short time the enclosure was thronged with people. Mr. Howe addressed the people for a few minutes, referring to the splendid victory the people had gained over their opponents. He said they must thank the God of battles for their triumph. It being impossible for him to make himself heard by the vast assemblage, he said he would only thank the citizens of Halifax for the magnificent reception they had given him, and on another occasion he would have an opportunity to address them at greater length. Mr. McLellan, in response to loud calls, spoke for a few minutes. In Dartmouth a salute of eighteen guns was fired, and a huge bonfire lit. Many of the buildings in Halifax and Dartmouth were brilliantly illuminated. Messrs. Beckwith, Provincial Secretary, and Debrisay, Board of Works; Fletwell, without office, have just been appointed.

POETRY.

The Great Enchanter.

Sleep is the poor man's warmest cloak;
His treasurer to dispense
His lavish alms, and turn to gold
His scanty pence.
It heals the sick man in a dream,
And sets the fettered free;
It calls the beggar from his den
To golden luxury.
It crowns the hounded wretch king,
Reverses Fate's decrees;
And bids the briefless pleader rise
Judge of the Common Pleas.
Sleep joins the parted lovers' hands;
Weathers the starved poet's brow;
And calls the hero still unknown
From lonely village plough.
Sleep holds the resurrection keys,
And from its shadowy plain,
Down Memory's long and cloudy vaults,
The dead come back again.
Sleep comes, like death, alike to all—
Divine equality;
Blesses the monarch in his state,
The slave upon the sea.
Sleep brings our childhood back again—
The only Golden age;
Sleep! Oh, thou blessed alchemist—
Thou holy Archmage!

NORAH CUSHALEEN
OR THE
HAUNTED CASTLE.

'All is secure now,' she muttered, as she approached the window, and looked dreamily across the park, the objects of which were every moment becoming more distinct.
'Yes,' she continued, 'the ceremony must be over by this time; and Mary Kendall is now the wife of Malvyn. No more danger is to be apprehended from that sneaking English adventurer, or from her own absurd, romantic notions. She is bound fast and sure, and in a few hours Malvyn will arrive with her, where all is ready for her reception. Ha! I see the figure of a horseman coming across the park. Surely it is Malvyn, and alone. What can this mean?'
Slowly the rider approached on his jaded horse, and as Lady Blantyre thought, with an air hardly befitting a new-made husband. She stood petrified with astonishment, and a vague feeling of alarm stole through her heart.
'Can he have failed, can the scheme have been miscarried?' she murmured through her pallid lips.
She listened till she heard him enter and ascend the stairs, then softly opening the door, she met him on the landing.
'What means this?' she hurriedly asked. 'Why are you here, and alone?'
Her sudden appearance surprised him and for some moments he stood silent before her. 'Speak!' she eagerly whispered; you have not failed! Surely you have not come to tell me you have failed?'
He passed into her chamber, and beckoned her to follow him. Then he told her all that had occurred.
She heard him in silence, and when he narrated the appearance of the spirit of the murdered Norah she started, and a strangely dark expression came over her countenance. But she did not interrupt him till he finished the recital, by telling her of the ineffectual search they had for Mary.
'Coward,' she then bitterly exclaimed, 'poor, pitiful coward, to be frightened by a shadow—a mere freak of the imagination.'
'You are wrong, mother,' he replied. 'It was no shadow. O'Brady and the priest saw and heard it as well as I.'
'They did,' said her ladyship, as her eyes suddenly emitted a gleaming flash.
'They did, and were not less moved than myself.'
'And you all three fled like a pack of scared deer,' she said, scornfully.
'It is no joke to see and be challenged by a ghost, mother,' returned Malvyn, gloomily.
'And suppose it was a ghost what power could it have?' demanded her ladyship. 'I would no more be afraid of a ghost that I am of my own lap dog. It can have no power, for it is but a shadow, after all.'
'I could not forget that I had murdered,' he said, with a shudder.
'Hush!' interrupted his mother, with sudden impetuosity. 'Speak not, think not of that. Had you banished the recollection from your mind, the appearance at the ruin would not have alarmed you so. And she is gone—fled home to her father's castle, no doubt, and the scheme has failed at the very moment of success. Oh, but you are valiant and brave as becomes the head of the house of Blantyre!
'Cease your reproaches, mother,' cried Malvyn, in an impatient tone. 'I have been sufficiently chafed and worried; do not you add to my annoyance. Let us rather think how the mischance is to be remedied.'
'Ay, that is indeed the point,' returned her ladyship. 'Fresh scheming is required, and that immediately. Leave me now—leave me to my own thoughts, and seek repose for yourself. At a later hour I will visit you in your own chamber.'
'But—'
'Go—go,' she imperatively rejoined. 'I would be alone.'
He departed, and Lady Blantyre was once more the sole occupant of the chamber.
With an eager, trembling hand she fastened the door, and tottering across the room, sank heavily into a seat.
'They all saw it,' she muttered. 'A spirit, it is said, can be seen by only one person at once, and it never speaks, or, if it does, it can be heard by one person only. Yet all saw, all heard it. Then it is no ghost; it is the girl herself in flesh and blood, and the story of her death is a myth. Great Heaven! if my suspicion be true, if Norah Cushaleen be alive, the danger of the house of Blantyre is ten thousand times greater than ever. His wife, the law will make her so, and ruin and disgrace are before us. The girl must be bridged,' she added, thought. 'If the girl be indeed alive, her death alone can prevent the terrible catastrophe—that will bridge the gulf, and nothing else will. Yes, I must do it. To no other hand will I confide the task of saving the family of Blantyre from destruction. Neither weakness nor fear will move me from my purpose.—Murder! Ay, I could commit ten murders in such a cause; and shall I permit the life of a paltry peasant girl to stand between me and the honour of my family? No, I will visit this ruined castle, and if I find my suspicion to be true, Norah Cushaleen dies by my hand. No hesitation, no uncertainty this time. I'll make sure work of it.

'But this other matter, how is it to be managed? It is evident that the scheme of a forced marriage must be abandoned. Having failed so signally, it cannot be tried again. Another plan must be substituted for it. But what?—ay, what? there is the difficulty. Yet it is a difficulty which must be solved, for this obstinate girl shall not escape from the honour which all her friends wish to confer upon her.'

Business Education!

A practical business education has now become a necessity to every young man contemplating a business career. Without this education young men are destitute of the first requisites to success in the world.
The business education the British American Commercial College of Toronto imparts, and in a course of twelve months, prepares that their graduates are at the present time filling positions of honor and responsibility in some of the highest Mercantile Houses and Banking Institutions of our country. Stronger testimony to the thoroughness of this education could be given than the following letter from J. G. WORTS, Esq., President of the Board of Trade:
Toronto, Dec. 19, 1866.
Messrs. Musgrove & Wright, Dear Sirs—I cannot express too strongly my appreciation of your efforts to establish a model house of business. I consider that such a system as yours is of the greatest importance to the employer and the employed, as it saves the former the time and labor of teaching every new hand, and the latter the waste of time involved in a long apprenticeship. Your admirable system of real business is a complete remedy for this defect, and your great success in this department is a most manifest proof of the air of reality that your students display in their model transactions, and by their domestication they are enabled to carry out their engagements. I can testify to the efficiency of your system from personal experience, having at the present time in the employments of the firm I belong to three young men who were educated at your establishment. Wishing you every success in your laudable enterprise,
I remain, dear Sirs, yours, &c.,
J. G. WORTS.

The first prize for Business Penmanship was awarded this Commercial College at the late Provincial Exhibition in Toronto. Graduates are examined and their diplomas signed by a Board of Examiners composed of practical business men. Graduates are also placed in situations, if required.
Circulars regularly published, giving a full and complete description of the system, and may be had by enclosing stamp and addressing

BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Stock amounts to $4,670. The price paid was $2,381.70, being Fifty-one Cents on the Dollar, and the Goods will be sold at the undermentioned figures, being on an average 40 per cent. under wholesale and 100 per cent. below retail prices. For example, goods which originally cost $1.00, and which have been retailed for $1.25, cost the subscribers only 61 cents, and are now offered at 60 cents.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT BANKRUPT STOCKS.

A merchant only a short time in business fails and assigns, and then his Goods are called an old Bankrupt Stock. Does the circumstance of his failure convert his goods into old? May Bankrupt Stocks be as good as new as others? Purchasers, however, should be the judges. Sellers should not give evidence in their own cause.

RUSSELL WATCH!

A FEW REASONS THAT MAKE IT SUPERIOR TO ALL COMERS.

- 1st—It proves itself a reliable time-keeper beyond all question.
- 2nd—The RUSSELL WATCH being made on correct and scientific principles, it must follow as a natural consequence that it will keep time.
- 3rd—Each part of which the RUSSELL WATCH is composed is a reflex of the perfect machine which, under skilful direction, it is produced.
- 4th—Truth is the essential of each part.
- 5th—Uniformity and conformity must therefore characterize the several parts in fulfilling the purpose for which they are made and brought together.
- 6th—Reproduction, as regards watch work, is simply an application of the principle that "things which are equal to the same things are equal to one another," and if there is any merit the RUSSELL WATCH possesses that merit to a demonstration.
- 7th—The greatest variety of price, quality and size, that confidence and perfection will admit, afforded by the RUSSELL WATCH.
- 8th—The RUSSELL WATCH stands pre-eminently above all competitors for public favor and patronage.
- 9th—Proofs of the foregoing—the universal testimony of all Watchmakers who have sold, and the positive statements of the thousands in Europe, the United States and Canada, who have worn the RUSSELL WATCH.

TESTIMONIAL.

To Robert Cuthbert, Watchmaker, Wyndham Street, Guelph.
If Society was as perfect in its organization, and was as obedient to the dictates of truth as the RUSSELL WATCH I bought from you is in indicating time, evil would be banished, and happiness would become monotonous.

PROOFS OF THE SUPERIOR QUALITY

AMERICAN WATCH

WALTHAM, MASS.

Referring to their advertisement in a previous issue of this paper, the American Watch Company, of Waltham, Mass., respectfully submit that their watches are cheaper, more accurate, less complex, more durable, better adapted for general use, and more easily kept in order and repaired than any other watches in the market.

They are simpler in structure, and therefore stronger, and less likely to be injured than the majority of foreign watches. They are composed of from 125 to 300 pieces, while in an old English watch there are more than 700 parts.

How they run under the hardest trial watches can have, is shown by the following letters:

PENN. RAILROAD COMPANY.

Office of the General Superintendent,
Allentown, Pa., 15th Dec., 1866.

GENTLEMEN—The watches manufactured by you have been in use on this railroad for several years by our engineers, to whom we British watches as part of our equipment. There are now some 300 of them carried on our line, and we consider them good and reliable timekeepers. Indeed, I have great satisfaction in saying your watches give us less trouble, and have worn out less, than longer without repair. As you are aware, we formerly trusted to those of English manufacture, of acknowledged good reputation; but as a class they never kept time as correctly, nor have they done as good service as yours. In an engine statement I have submitted by my predecessor, Mr. Lewis, whose experience extended over a series of years.

Respectfully,
EDWARD H. WILLIAMS,
General Superintendent,
American Watch Co., Waltham.

NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Locomotive Department, West Division,
Rochester, Dec. 24, 1866.

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor in saying that I believe the great majority of Locomotive Engines have found by experience that Waltham Watches are the most accurate of any for their uses. They run with the greatest accuracy and steadiness, notwithstanding the rough riding of an engine, and as I have never known one to wear out, they must be durable. I hope to see the time when Railway Companies will generally adopt your watches, as I firmly believe that all engineers and conductors. In my opinion it would greatly tend to promote regularity and safety.

Yours respectfully,

Great Cure of Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia in Canada.

Consecon, Prince Edward Co., C.W., 1st March.

Messrs. Young & Chamberlain, Sirs—He is ingeered within my own person that there is at last a medicine that will indeed cure Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I am afflicted with this complaint, and have tried many remedies, but in vain. I have read of your medicine, and I have tried it, and I find it to be a most valuable medicine. I have a feeling of sinking and queasiness about the stomach, worse than pain, eructations of wind, occasional pain, drowsiness, constipation, uneasiness in the right side, headache, a poor appetite, &c. and was greatly reduced in strength. Hearing of your new Indian medicine, the Great Shoshone Remedy, spoken of so highly, I tried a bottle with your Pills, from these I must say I found but little change, but I took another and then found my health improving. I continued it until I have taken about ten bottles, using the Pills, and I find that I have quite recovered, eat hearty without pain or uneasiness. I am well and have plenty of business, and I am well and have plenty of business, and I am well and have plenty of business. I am well and have plenty of business.
