Hoed Potatoes While Boy Drowned

Truro, July 15.—At the inquest concerning the drowning of George Langille here yesterday, one of the boy's companions testified that he ran when Langille sank out of sight to the fifty yards away and told a man named Clarke and another that young Langille was in the water. Clarke told him he couldn't help it, that he hadn't been in the water for years and was not sure he could swim now. He told the boys to run to town and tell the Chief of Police. The man made no offer to go near to where the boy was, but kept on hoeing potatoes. The witness said he and the other boys made every effort to bring Langille out of the hole. One of them went down and caught hold of him, and the latter clung so hard to his legs that both were near to death. He brought the drowning lad home in a net. A young boy, who was nearly two hours before help arrived from town, a distance of about two miles. The depth of water was about ten feet. A young man named Nolan succeeded in diving to the bottom and releasing the dead boy's grasp from the rocks.

Bridgetown is now organizing a yacht club and will build a house and landing at Port Wade, near the terminus of the Middleton and Victoria Beach division of the Halifax and St. John's Railway. Arrangements are being made to secure a site and Bridgetown gentlemen are said to be subscribing sufficient money to make the new club house an elaborate one with excellent accommodations.

The annual cruise of the Royal Penobscotian Yacht Club has been taking place the past week on the St. John river, and for the first time a boat belonging to the Digby Yacht Club has taken part in a cruise with an outside squadron, the yacht Alton having joined the fleet, with O. S. Dunham, of the Digby Couriers, and Fritz Dakin, the yacht's owner, as passengers. It will no doubt be the means of promoting the good feeling which now prevails among the clubs of the Maritime Provinces and will have a tendency to encourage inter-provincial regattas at Halifax, Chester, Shelburne, Newmouth, Digby and St. John, the homes of enthusiastic yacht clubs.

Dreyfus is Exonerated

Restored to His Rank in French Army

FAMOUS CASE IS NOW OVER

After Twelve Years the Victim of His Superior Officers Has Been Reinstated and His Name is Now Free From the Stain of Having Betrayed His Country

Paris, July 16.—The supreme court has announced its decision, annulling the condemnation of Dreyfus without a retrial. The effect of the decision is a complete vindication of Dreyfus entitling him to restoration to his rank in the army as though he had never been accused.

Captain Alfred Dreyfus of the artillery, a member of a wealthy Breton family of Alsace, where he was born in 1859, was on October 14, 1894, arrested on the charge of communicating French military secrets to foreign powers. Two months later he was tried by court martial and found guilty, and on January 5 he was publicly degraded and deported to Devils Island near Cayenne, French Guiana, there apparently to spend the remainder of his life.

The friends and relatives of Dreyfus, notably his wife, always believed in his innocence and devoted all their energies to the work of proving that an opinion that the evidence pointed to Major Count Esterhazy as being the guilty man, he therefore determined to see that justice was done to Dreyfus. Soon afterward Col. Picquart was suggested as chief of the Intelligence Department by Col. Henry and then began the fight to preserve the honor of the French army.

Dreyfus, on November 15, 1897, charged Esterhazy with writing the incriminating document, but the latter was acquitted by a court martial. When M. Cavaignac became head of the French War Office he read to the Chamber of Deputies several documents which he had and which proved the guilt of Dreyfus.

Col. Picquart afterwards charged that these documents were forgeries, for which he was arrested and degraded. But the friends of Dreyfus were tireless in pushing his case and brought about the arrest of Colonel Henry, chief of the Intelligence Department, who finally confessed that he had forged one of the incriminating documents, and later he committed suicide in prison.

By this time the whole of France was aroused for or against Dreyfus and the utmost excitement prevailed in military, political and social circles. In June, 1899 a fresh court martial of Dreyfus was ordered and the prisoner was brought back from Devils Island to be retried. In the meantime the press throughout the world had been filled with stories of the barbarities to which Dreyfus had been subjected to during his solitary confinement on Devils Island, which aroused further feeling in his favor.

The second court martial of Dreyfus, which opened at Rennes, France, Aug. 7, 1899, resulted in his again being convicted, and he was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in a fortress. Later he obtained full pardon from President Loubet and was set free. The friends of the unfortunate captain were not contented. They obtained fresh evidence in his behalf, and finally got their case before the supreme court. Maitre Morand, counsel for Dreyfus, arguing against a further trial, said many of the witnesses were dead or had disappeared. Dreyfus, he added, did not ask for damages. He desired only the vindication of his honor and the restoration of his name in the list of officers of the French army. The official prosecutor general, M. Beaudouin, concluded his argument by asking that the verdict of the Rennes court martial be quashed without retrial.

The judgment of the supreme court was a complete vindication of Dreyfus.

Murder and Pillage In Unhappy Russia

Many Disturbances Yesterday All Over the Empire--Central America News--Orange-men Opposed to Home Rule

(Special despatches to Monitor.)

St. Petersburg, July 18.—The number of revolutionary outrages by Agrarian secretaries has increased today. In many places peasants are violently applying the torch to estates belonging to the crown and to private forests. At Nishaleno in cambrak province, the town hall was set on fire and the entire village was consumed. Throughout Poland a systematic pillaging of government spirit shops is in progress. The central police office of Warsaw was robbed and a confederate killed. At Lublin, Russian Poland, the revolutionists executed a workman, suspected of being a spy, and at Nizhn, Negorod and Vostnyk the officers of the spirit monopoly were robbed and killed. The bank at Sosnitsa, in the province of Novosibirsk, was robbed and at Tills an Armenian locomotive engineer was shot in his cab by an assassin concealed in the neighboring woods. The workmen at Kostoff, province of Yaroslavl, killed an alleged government provocator at Piliagorsk. A Tartar woman who was captured in the Orlovsk district, was murdered at Yaroslavl. Bombs were exploded at the residences of the chief of police and an officer of the cadet corps.

The Monastery of the Nativity, Moscow, was plundered of all its Jewish sacred relics and $16,000 in cash.

Washington, July 18.—The evening of July 18th will probably be fixed as the time for an armistice in Central America, pending the settlement of the dispute involving Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras.

New York, July 18.—The marriage of Miss Bessie Mascock, formerly of Bridgetown, to Edward Rogers, of New York, takes place in St. Agnes church this morning at 11 o'clock. Miss Mascock is the daughter of a happy couple who will take the train for Bridgetown where they will arrive Friday and remain for a short time.

Bisley Camp, July 18.—During the shooting for the Secretary of War's squibbed competition yesterday the wind was very light, and the weather was hot. This match offers a first prize of $100. The distance is 800 yards and ten shots are allowed mark a possible fifty. Five Cambridges scored 16 each. Bridgetown and Paradise to Have New Bridges

New Glasgow Firms Have Secured the Work in Both Cases

Another Bridge Badly Needed Between Annapolis and Granville

The days of the old wooden bridges at Bridgetown and Paradise are numbered, as contracts have already been awarded for the construction of up-to-date steel bridges. This is largely, if not entirely, due to the efforts put forth by O. T. Daniels, M. P. For many years "the old red bridge" although a splendid subject for souvenir post cards, has been an eye sore to the residents of Bridgetown, and the same may be said as regards the bridge at Paradise. The latter is perhaps, not quite such an ugly blot on the landscape, as it is not so large, and it is in a little better condition. But both should have been done away with years ago. It was on June 1st that Hon. N. S. F. Phips, the commissioner of works and mines, invited tenders for the construction of a superstructure of iron and steel for the two bridges. They were duly received and as a result the contract for the Bridgetown bridge was awarded to W. P. McNeil & Co., of New Glasgow, and that for the Paradise bridge to John Stewart, of the same town. The specifications for the Bridgetown bridge call for one span of one hundred and fifty feet between the centers of the end piers. It will have a roadway sixteen feet wide in the clear, and two sidewalks each four feet and nine inches wide. Another bridge, which is greatly needed, and which would benefit a large section of country would be one connecting Annapolis with Granville Ferry. It is said that the present steam ferry is not all that could be desired and it is hard to get a company of business men to invest money under the circumstances. It would be the making of our country town, because after a bridge should be built the most natural step would be the union of the two places under one civic government to the great benefit of both.

Accident at Nictaux West

While Mr. Fred Keeth was going up a ladder on his house which he was repairing, a brick fell some fifteen feet and struck him over the eye, stunning him, and cutting 1 1/2 inches which required six stitches to close. Dr. Miller, of Middleton, was called and dressed it, and he is doing as well as can be expected.

The town of Sussex, N. B., is building a new school building to contain fourteen class rooms. This building will be modern in every respect. Plans have been awarded to Leslie L. Fair, architect, of Aylesford, N. S.

A FAMOUS SONG WRITER.
Poster Was Called the Edgar Allan Poe of Music.

Stephen Collins Foster, the most popular of American song writers and composers, has been called the Edgar Allan Poe of music. Like Poe, he was a genius. He came of Virginia parentage, received a good education and died in New York Jan. 13, 1864, in the height of his fame, a penniless wanderer. He was born in Pittsburgh July 4, 1826.

He learned easily, and after receiving private lessons in music and drawing taught himself to play on the fiddle, guitar and banjo. He also devoted several years to the study of piano. Then he turned his attention to composing songs and dialect ballads and dialect songs. At the age of seventeen, while employed in Louisville, Ky. he published the serenade "Open Thy Lattice, Love," which was instantly successful. Then followed "Uncle Ned," "O Susannah," which were sung by a minstrel troupe, and Stephen Foster became famous far and wide.

Marrying in 1844, Jennie McDowell, he came to New York, where in rapid succession he supplied his publishers with songs which became famous—"Old Kentucky Home," "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," "Old Dog Tray," "Willie, We Have Missed You" and "Sweet Ellen Bayne." But the song that is best known in many lands is "The Swannee River," for which Christie's minstrels gave him at the beginning $50. In addition he received royalties on its sale of over half a million copies and the honor of knowing that eminent singers like Jenny Lind sang it to applauding thousands.

His last song, a negro melody, "Old Black Joe," is still a favorite. A fourth of his 150 songs were in negro dialect, among which were "Nellie Fly," "Nell Was a Lady" and "Nancy Tite."

THE ELYSEE PALACE.
Checked Career of the White House of France.

The Elysee palace, situated in the Rue Faidherbe Saint-Honore, is a cross between a country house and a hotel. It has had a checked career since its erection in 1715 and has harbored some queer characters. Louis V. presented it to Mme. de Pompadour. Who knows how many lettres de cachet went out of the gates to imprison those who lampooned her? Under Louis XVI. it was called the Elysee Bourbon. During the revolution it became national property, was put up for sale, found no purchaser and was turned into a government printing office. During the directory there were no changes in the fine old rooms, and the marvellous and incalculable danced and gambled from sunset to sunrise. The rooms were let to a syndicate who made a large fortune out of the speculation.

THE USEFUL SCREEN.
A Comfort For the Business Woman Who Lives and Sleeps in One Room.

So strongly is modern apartment life forcing the necessity for economizing space upon the up to date housekeeper that she is obliged to use every method to obtain it. Many business women who live and sleep in the same room and perhaps do a little cooking there, too, will find in the screen their greatest ally. It may protect the couch-bed by night—from too close intrusions.

SCREEN OF BLUE DENIM WITH SCROLL DESIGN IN WHITE ROPE LINEN.

The tiny gas stove and the little dining table may be concealed behind its folds, and it may hide the washstand and towels. If the home is more ambitious and there are several rooms, the screen has still its part to play.

It is so simple to make and the results obtained are so satisfactory that it may be well to give a few suggestions as a guide to any who wish to attempt the task.

First determine upon the size of the screen, the height of the panels, their width and whether two, three or four shall be used. A screen of good proportion is one formed of three panels, five and a half feet high by two feet in width. Have a frame made by the carpenter, or better still, make it yourself if you are clever at such work. It is a simple matter to form the skeleton of strips of light pine from an inch to an inch and a half in thickness. Only the outside pieces and two crosspieces are required to brace the frame and make it taut and firm. Once the frame is completed the rest is easy.

Now stretch over the frame some figured burlap that can be secured for 25c a yard. Choose this for the face of the screen. Place the frame upon the floor. Tack the edge of the burlap to the top piece of the frame.

THE LITERARY "AT HOME."
Another form of entertainment which causes a great deal of interest is to have a literary "at home," when each guest is expected to represent a well known book.

On arrival each guest must hand the hostess his or her card, on which is written the book that they represent, and also in turn hand them a card on which are written the names of the guests, with a space left by the side of each. The object is to guess as many of the books represented as possible, and the one who fills up most of the spaces receives the prize.

No elaborate fancy costumes are necessary, but all that is required perhaps will be the addition of a faded rose to represent "The Rose of Yesterday," a girl in a white frock for "The Woman in White" or a scarlet frock for "The Woman in Scarlet." "Nicholas Nickleby" is cleverly represented by the letters B and B, made of nickel (nickel B, nickel B), and "Oliver Twist" by a piece of twisted wire (all of a twist), "We Two" by a tiny figure 2. In many ways little devices like these can be contrived which will cause a great deal of guessing and fun.

Roast Partridge.
Pick, singe, draw and truss a brace of partridges, spread over the breast portion with butter or dripping and roast in front of the fire or in the oven for twenty minutes to half an hour, basting the bird frequently. Most people like this bird cooked rather underdone.

READY TO SERVE.
The addition of a pat of butter mixed with a good pinch of pepper and a grain of nutmeg inserted in the body of each bird before roasting improves the flavor. Unruss the birds, dish them up, garnish with water cress and fried breadcrumbs, and serve with rich brown gravy, which should be flavored with the giblets.

Boni's Friend Sore on Auto

Paris, July 16.—Ex-Deputy Laurence, whose latest attempt to join Boni in the law making business ended in failure, says it's all the automobile company's fault. In order to impress his fellow citizens with the necessity of electing him to the chambers, Laurence hired a car from a well-known Paris concern. On its trip through his district the auto broke down half a dozen times, compelling the would-be deputy to hire horses and mules twice, a cow once, and manual labor all the time. Once himself and a dozen sturdy peasants had to push the machine for several miles. His rival, on the other hand, was splendidly "automobilized," says Laurence in his complaint asking 100,000 francs damages. "Every time I broke down, and even then my machine worked for a change, he out-tripped me, and I often saw him pass by, grinning sarcastically as my auto crawled along or was pulled by horses, mules or a cow respectively. In this way I became the laughing stock of my constituency, and my rival, who had a fast machine, got the seat."

THE CUB REPORTER'S FIRST. This story is told of a cub reporter on his first assignment on a daily. He handed in the following: "A man killed a dog belonging to another man. The son of the man whose dog was killed proceeded to whip the man who killed the dog of the man he was the son of. The man whose dog was killed was arrested on complaint of the man who was assaulted by the son of the man whose dog was killed." Proud Mother—You'd like to see the baby, I'm sure. There! (Uncover him.) Bachelor (taken by surprise)—By Jove! What an—or—singular child. Angry Mother—Well, you didn't expect he was twins, did you? "I trust your honor will excuse me this time," said an habitual drunkard at the police court; "it is my misfortune—I am a child of genius."

Congregation Put to Flight by Wolf. Rome, July 16.—A jackal has been hunted in church at Alessandria, a small town in Piedmont. Together with a wolf, the animal had escaped from a travelling circus, and was chased by the townspeople into the church, where a service was going on. The worshippers were panic-stricken, fleeing in all directions, while the parson sought refuge in the pulpit. At last the jackal was stung with a blow from a club. The wolf escaped into the open country, and at last accounts is terrorizing the district.

THE FARM

FEEDING NEEDS MORE ATTENTION

There is no question at all but that if our farmers would pay attention to the things pertaining to the handling of the cow, making her feel comfortable, taking care of her with quiet regularity, giving her the kind of food she needs with which to make milk, that he can by doing these things, without changing any of his cows or any material number of them double his income, says T. L. Haacker, of Minnesota.

We have at the experiment station, I think, some forty complete yearly records of just ordinary cows, not even select. Some of them yield 120 pounds of butter a year, some of them yield 200 pounds of butter a year, some 300 pounds, and some 350 pounds, and we have now and then one that just in the month of her lifetime yield the 600 pound mark.

But taking all these different yearly records, we find the average cow on proper care and proper feeding will produce about 275 pounds of butter in a year, while she is giving us only about 150 pounds. The difference between the yield at the state farm and the yield on the average farm is simply because the material she needs to make milk, and she is not taken care of, she is not comfortable, she is subjected to cold, she is subjected to changes, and those things. Every little incident that happens that brings discomfort to the cow will cause the yield of milk to change, and so the average farmer never brings a cow up to her full flow, simply because the cow has not a chance.

COW VS. BALANCED FEEDING.

A system of individual feeding reduces the matter of nutritive ration and prescribed rations of only secondary importance, since it must be left largely to the cow herself to determine how a maximum amount of production may be obtained in each case, says an agricultural authority. It is therefore, not only useless, but decidedly a wrong system to prescribe certain rigid standards of food rations for all cows, even when the quantity of milk produced is considered in the construction of these standards.

Dairy farmers should familiarize themselves with the chemical composition of available feeding stuffs and the market prices of these and should strive to know the characteristics of each cow in the herd so that the system of feeding practiced in individual cases may be such as will secure the best and the largest dairy production of which the cows are capable.

Economy of production should not, however, be a prime consideration, since a herd of cows that can produce a minimum amount of food; such a cow would be likely to produce also a minimum amount of milk and butter fat. The ideal dairy cow is one that will produce large quantities of milk and butter fat economically and will continue this production during her entire life in the herd.

The continued usefulness of the individual members of the herd is of importance to the dairy farmer and should be kept in view, rather than a maximum reproduction for a single lactation period or a portion of the same.

COTTON-SEED MEAL FOR COWS.

The Missouri experiment station has been making some feeding tests of cotton-seed meal and linseed meal for dairy cows. In the report of the tests in which large quantities of meal are given, a ton of cotton-seed meal has $2 to $3 more value than a half-ton of linseed meal. They say further: "When cotton-seed meal can be bought, delivered to your railway yard station, at $15 per ton or on in car lots, as it usually can in the fall, the desirability of such a mixture ought to be clear to every one. It is at least a car to protect themselves against a rise in the price of bran and oats, which usually occurs about the middle of each year. Cotton seed meal at this price is far cheaper than bran at $15 per ton or on in car lots at 25 cents per bushel."

A VALUABLE REMEDY TO DESTROY INSECTS.

The arsenate of lead poison is a combination of the acetate of lead and arsenate of soda. It can be made at home, but I think a better product can be obtained from dealers as cheaply as one could afford to make it. There is a surprising difference in the price asked for this material. Some dealers charge 18 cents a pound in 200 pound lots, while it can be obtained for 9 cents of other manufacturers. I have recently analyzed three different arsenates of lead and they vary from 29 per cent. to 41 percent. to 50 per cent. of the arsenate of lead, the remainder being largely water. The better material was one of the lowest priced. Arsenate of lead at 9 cents and containing 50 per cent. of the poison is cheaper than Paris green containing 60 per cent. of arsenic and costing 10 or 12 cents.

One of Three Things Always Cause RHEUMATISM

Do you know the system rid itself of waste matter through bowels and kidneys? Yes, but by the skin as well.

As a matter of fact, the skin rid the system of more urea than the kidneys do.

If the skin, or bowels, or kidneys are unhealthily—they won't throw off enough urea. This urea is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to joints and nerves—causing rheumatism.

One never inherits Rheumatism. One does inherit weak kidneys, irregular bowels and bad skin action.

Fruit-A-Tives

will positively cure Rheumatism because they increase the eliminating action of skin, kidneys and bowels—and make these three organs so vigorous and healthy that there can be no urea or waste retained in the system to poison the blood and irritate the nerves.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices, combined with tonics—the whole forming the most effective cure for Rheumatism.

lead is now used mostly where it is necessary to apply large amount of poison so that the insect may be killed quickly or before it lays its eggs, as in the case of the grape leaf beetle and of the elm-leaf beetle. For these insects it is advisable to use the poison at the rate of four or five pounds in 50 gallons of water or kerosene.

TO MAKE THE FARM HOME ATTRACTIVE.

Wash wood neatly. Keep the barn clean and neat. Keep walks and porch swept clean. Clean up or fill up small, dirty ponds.

Burn as much of the garbage as possible. That that fences are mended and painted.

Put screens on neatly and see that the screen doors have locks that are in order.

Don't keep garbage or wet material in wooden barrels, because the wood becomes soaked and can't be cleaned.

Don't empty dishwasher right outside the kitchen door. It makes a wet slippy place, which is often the source of disease.

Be sure that the fence around the chicken yard is in good shape, so that the chickens won't get into the flower garden.

Big a deep pit and put all the old tin cans, broken bottles, kerosene and rusty pans and knutles into it. Cover with earth.

Prune the trees and don't leave the branches lying under them. Either take them away or use them for a hedge for sweet peas.

Don't keep empty tin cans lying around the house. When it rains they fill with water and breed mosquitoes, and are a constant danger to the family.

If there is an unsightly building, plant vines that will form a screen.

Wild cucumber, wild hop, morning glories and flowering beans make quick growth. Do not have too many trees right around the house. A farmhouse should be very healthy, but is often quite the opposite; and we find the rooms damp and the roof and foundation often covered with moss.

COMBATING THE WHITE GRUB.

In strawberry fields, planted on sod lands, plants are often injured by white grubs the larvae of the May beetle or June bug. No remedy has proved effective since the grubs are always below the surface. The only satisfactory method is prevention. No old sod land should be used for a strawberry field.

When such a field must be used it should be fall plowed, at least two seasons previous to planting with strawberries and some such crop as clover to be fall plowed and the land immediately sown to buckwheat or rye for a winter cover crop. The following spring after plowing should be a safe time to set the berry plants. From then forward frequent rotation of short period crops will keep the field free, particularly if the land is more or less bare in late spring and early summer, when the eggs are laid.

DIAMONDS For Every Home

Diamonds for every Canadian home are not the gems which the wealthy alone can purchase; they are those invaluable gems known as DIAMOND DYES which have been for twenty-five years true money savers for the women of Canada.

DIAMOND DYES, wherever used, have proved their superiority over all other package dyes in richness, fullness and durability of colors. Certain speculators, jealous of the popularity of DIAMOND DYES, are putting up with adulterated and cheap dyes to imitate the DIAMOND DYES. These common and cheaply prepared dyes produce blotchy and muddy colors and ruin good materials.

When you have dresses, skirts, blouses, jackets, capes, stockings and other articles of wearing apparel to recolor, use the DIAMOND DYES only, and you will have results which will fill your heart with joy. DIAMOND DYES make old things look like new.

Always ask your dealer for the DIAMOND DYES and refuse any other make that may be offered to you. The common dyes are sold by merchants simply for the sake of big profits. New Diamond Dye Direction Book and Diamond Dye Cook Book sent free to any lady who sends her address to Wills & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain Street, Montreal.

ALSO BURIED.

A certain village on the Roman road to Scotland used to have a bad reputation among cyclists. Few ever got through it without suffering from the attacks of a big dog, which (instead, it is believed, by its owners) flew viciously at passing machines and gave the riders a very bad time. Often enough had the dog's decess been reported, but the story of its ultimate defeat and death is graphically told in the neighborhood.

One hot day a meek-looking clergyman stopped at a wayside inn and begged Boniface to give him a meal. He explained his inability to pay for it by declaring that, as he was passing through an adjacent village, a brute of a dog jumped out of a house and got under his motor. He rode it down and killed it, and had given the owner all the money he possessed as compensation.

The landlord's eye grew wide. "Are you certain you'll eat that dog?" he asked.

"Indeed, yes. To make sure it was really dead, I compelled them to bury it while I was there."

"Then come, parson, and dine with me," cried Boniface, enthusiastically. "That dog's been killed some time before, but you're the first man I've had the gumption to stop an' see it buried."

Is This Rich Man's Wife Woman or Demon

denounced by the people of her own city.

But she has not yet given her side of the case except through her physician and her husband, Moses Kauffman, president of the Sioux Falls Brewing Company and one of the most widely known and best liked men in South Dakota, and a politician of note.

They have declared that Mrs. Kauffman asserts that the Police girl, suffering from vertigo, fell down stairs several times receiving her injuries in this fashion. But Dr. Germain, the family physician, who signed the death return, stating that the girl died from natural causes, has revised his statement, stating new belief that death resulted from wounds inflicted by some blunt instrument.

He has thus placed himself in an unfavorable position as regards the law in South Dakota, which makes the returning of a false death certificate a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment or both.

The doctor attempts to justify his act by the statement that Mrs. Kauffman being a woman so well respected, he accepted her statement as to the cause of injuries.

All these facts were public property before the woman's arrest. But a preliminary examination of witnesses was to furnish evidence startling even to the prosecution itself.

Anna Jensen and Mrs. Oscar Larson, former servants in the Kauffman home, testified that ten years ago Mrs. Kauffman lost an only daughter, and that since her daughter's death she has been unable to bear the sight of youth and health in other girls.

They swore that whenever Mrs. Kauffman saw a girl of the same age her own child would have been had she lived, the wife of the lawyer became almost insane with desire to harm her.

THE DEMON IN THE HOUSE.

In the case of Agnes Polaris the prosecution was greater than usual, as Mrs. Kauffman was heard to remark her resemblance to her dead daughter. The witnesses quoted Mrs. Kauffman as saying in Agnes's presence:

"Why should she live and my girl be dead?"

And then, as though possessed by a demon of cruelty, she would tell Agnes unmercifully.

The witnesses told how other girl servants were forbidden to lock the doors of their rooms at night, and how they had been nearly frightened to death by the woman's appearance at their bedside, glaring at them, while her features formed hideous expressions. Sometimes these girls ran from garret to cellar, pursued by their enraged mistress, finally to flee from the house never to return, believing their lives in peril.

While this testimony was being given a furious crowd was gathering in the street. It was the intention merely to confine Mrs. Kauffman in her home pending trial on the charge of murder, but the angry crowd, which included many women, surrounded her residence and became so violent that the officials guarding her were compelled to take her to jail for safety.

Crowds came from miles around, many pouring into the city from Parkston, the home of the girl victim.

ONLY SAVED BY A RIDE TO JAIL.

This brought an order that the prisoner should be placed in jail, and she was removed by a detour of the back streets to a cell in the big stone court house. The crowd refused to consider this a concession, feeling the seriousness of the offence warranted the same treatment for a rich woman as for a poor one. All day the situation remained critical, and at night a special guard was placed at the jail.

In justice to Mrs. Kauffman, it must be stated that as soon as it was known that she had been locked up, at least a score of the best citizens of Sioux Falls volunteered to go on her bail bond. Although formally committed on the charge of manslaughter, she has since been released.

Her husband took her in a closed carriage from the jail direct to a train. Their destination was a secret that has not yet been revealed. It is believed that they have gone to some retreat where both will be able to recover from the strain of their terrible experiences, and be prepared to face the trial which is inevitable.

Herr Rubelki's Views

Kubicki, the great violinist, recently made the statement that he found more true musical appreciation in the smaller cities and towns of the United States and Canada than in the great musical centres. Of course there may be a modicum of exaggeration in this; still the progress of musical education in America during the last few years has been phenomenal. In Canada the musical fever is rampant, greatly to the advantage of the country. Down in Windsor piano and voice teachers of standing are much in demand.

Since Mr. H. Whorlow Bull opened a studio there his time has been fully occupied, for not only has he a high standing in Detroit, where also he has a studio, but he is the director of the Choral Society of Windsor, Walkerville and Harrow, and organist of the Central Methodist Church, Windsor. Mr. Bull is an Englishman, and has been associated with the choir of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral before coming to this country about two years ago. His musical taste is unimpaired, and his opinion worthy of attention.

In a letter written recently to the Toronto firm of Gourlay, Winter & Leeming he said: "Permit me to express my entire satisfaction with the Gourlay piano. I have used this instrument ever since I opened my studio in Windsor, and, although it has had hard constant use, it retains that sweet, clear, pure tone that is such a help to violinists. I congratulate you on the success of the Gourlay as a thoroughly musical piano."

The street committee should make some provision for giving our town streets a weekly cleaning up. It gives visitors a bad impression to see our main streets littered with paper and refuse. In many progressive towns metal receptacles are placed at street corners to receive waste paper and fruit skins, and are found great aids in preserving a tidy aspect.

The Free Trip to Halifax

Subscriptions are coming in quite lively on our "Trip to Halifax" proposition, considering the number who have written us that they are trying for it. Still the highest at present only has seventeen new subscribers to her credit and the one in second place less than half that number. Any energetic young man or woman who would like to go to the Dominion exhibit, without a cent of expense for railway, hotel, car fare or entrance fees ought to be able to make that seventeen look small in an hour or two. Perhaps because there is only one prize offered is the reason more are not trying for it, but it is the greatest prize ever offered by a country newspaper in Nova Scotia and well worth a little work.
