HOUSE OF COMMONS, March 20.

The noble Lord then presented a petition from the Merchants, Bankers, and others at Montreal, praying that the House would act upon the recommendation of the committee which considered the subject of the timber duties.

CRACOW.—RUSSIA.

Mr. P. M. Stewart put several questions relative to the occupation of Cracow, and to the issuing of quarantine regulations by Russia having the effect of closing the mouth of the Danube, contrary to the treaties of Vienna and Adrianople, which guaranteed the freedom of all open navigable rivers.

Lord Palmerston stated that he had received communications from the Ambassadors to whom he had written respecting the affairs of Cracow, but that he had not held any communication whatever with the authorities of that city. When he first learned the intention of the three great Powers of the north with respect to the Polish refugees, it was the intention of His Majesty's Government to direct the British Consul at Warsaw to proceed to Cracow.

Before, however, that step could be taken, they learnt that Cracow was actually occupied by the allied troops, and thence did appear to them that such a course would be as useless as it would be expedient. As the British Consul could not have appeared at Cracow in an official capacity, it was feared that his presence there would imply a tacit acknowledgement of the proceedings which had taken place, and therefore it was thought advisable not to place a British officer in so unbecoming a situation.

With regard to the question, the quarantine at the mouth of the Danube, he had received no additional information. By the treaty of Adrianople, no doubt the freedom of all navigable rivers was guaranteed, and although Russia had a right to establish a bona fide quarantine for the preservation of health, that Government was not under any pretext, justified in adopting such a course, with a view to embarrass the commerce of this or any other country. This Government, however, received no official information on the subject.

Mr. P. M. Stewart said that under these circumstances he should feel it his duty, on Friday, the 15th of April, to call the attention of the House to the conduct which Russia had pursued towards the Polish refugees.

IRISH CORPORATE REFORM BILL.—On Monday evening the third reading of the Irish Corporate Reform Bill was carried in the House of Commons by a triumphant majority of 61, the numbers being for the bill 390, against 199. Considering that this glorious concession to the cause of equal rights and equal rights has been obtained in Parliament elected under the special auspices of Sir Robert Peel and his friends, then in power, we may well consider this majority a triumphant one, and call it so. Great as it is, it would have been still greater, but for the unavoidable absence of several reformers, in consequence of severe illness. Amongst the gentlemen so situated are the two Messrs Ord Mr. Ruden, Mr. Bobkin, Mr. Hockins, and Col. Doughton. The Tories accounted for their defeat on the address by a snow storm, which prevented their friends from coming to the scratch in time;—they have accounted for similar discomfitures subsequently, by various reasons, equally cogent, but now all their excuses fall them, and they must acknowledge themselves fairly and utterly overcome.—Liverpool Mercury.

The French Ministers have resolved to lay before the Chambers a proposition for levying a duty of 15 centimes the pound on beet-root sugar.

A letter from Rome states that Don Miguel having offered resistance to the beautiful princess Aldobrandini Borghese, (formerly Miss Talbot) was challenged by the prince, but refused to fight on the plea of superior rank, and that, but for the interference of the Pope himself, he would have been cudgelled by the indignant husband.—The insult was offered in the chapel of the Vatican, during the performance of a solemn religious ceremony.

A memorial of a painful and touching character was presented to the Queen of Spain on the 23d of March. It was signed by Col. Don Manuel Fontineras, and stated that his young wife had been shot, with twenty-nine other females, by order of the Carlist Caballeros, in revenge for the execution of his mother, shot as a spy.

MR. ROLAND.—MEETING OF FENCIBLES.—On Saturday, the Fencing Classes, under Mr. Roland's care, had their annual meeting, when, as usual for the last sixteen years, on these occasions, the Assembly Rooms were crowded, soon after the doors opened, by most of the beauty and fashion of Edinburgh.

The scene is one of a highly and fascinating character, in which all present take a lively interest. The fencing, from Mr. Roland's (whose professional fame is of such a character as to render any praise redundant) down to the positions of his youngest pupils, was all graceful and good.

The business of the day commenced by an introductory mixed lesson of fencing and gymnastics, taken by between thirty and forty remarkably handsome boys in effective and elegant costume, we believe principally from the Edinburgh Academy. This simple lesson was taken with a vigour and grace that did honor to master and pupils.

These assaults were followed by a theoretical and practical lesson of broadsword, taken by 14 pupils, who in their loose play, gave and received a beating with the utmost good humour and spirit.

This was again followed by some divisions of the Military Academy, under the direction of Mr. Shaw, the teacher of these exercises in that establishment.

Some gymnastic exercises were introduced upon the pole and parallel bars, at which most of the boys showed great strength and activity; but Mr. Blood perfectly astonished the company by his extraordinary power and vigour. Without any run he vaulted clear over the pole six feet six inches from the ground.

The exhibition concluded with a keen contest for two medals. One for the Naval and Military Academy was gained by Mr. C. Young, and Mr. William Clerk carried off the one given to the pupils of the Edinburgh Academy.

Upon presenting the prizes, Professor Wilson, Sir David Fiskins, and Archdeacon Williams severally delivered eloquent addresses, which were made to show that intellectual and physical acquirements were not only not incompatible with each other, but that the efficient working of the one is often the result of the proper development and healthy condition of the other.—Edinburgh Observer.

ESSAY ON THE SAFETY-GUN BY THE INVENTOR.—We recommend all sportsmen and the friends of young men acquiring a taste for field sports, to procure a copy of this essay, and to satisfy themselves, which they may do by a visit to Clerk & Co's shop, 89 George Street, that the invention it explains, affords a complete remedy against those melancholy accidents from the accidental discharge of fowling pieces. Dr. Semple's apparatus is evidently as complete as human ingenuity can make them. The machinery of the first method is very simple, as it is operated upon by a spring placed in point of the trigger guard, so that in bringing the gun the action of both hands is required, the trigger to be brought back to the trigger guard when bringing the gun to the shoulder, and the right to draw the trigger in the ordinary way. The 2nd method is equally safe with the first; and the method in which it is wrought completely gets the better of the objection of sportsmen who cannot shoot with the left hand back on the guard, as the safety is worked by the right hand when the gun is pressed to the shoulder, and is never worked when the gun is carried in any other position whatever, hence design only can make it. It may be further mentioned, that the 2nd method of safety has been known for some time in the country, and on the continent. It has been adopted by many eminent sportsmen, all of whom we advise to call as before mentioned, and they will see the safety is a different form from any thing that has hitherto been exhibited. The second method is a recent invention, and when it is more prominently brought into notice, it will, no doubt, answer the benevolent ends of the inventor.—Edinburgh Observer.

SPAIN. Although there is not to be any active intervention on the part of France and Great Britain in the affairs of Spain, measures are about to be taken by both Governments to strengthen the coast blockade, and to cut off all external resources from the Carlists. The British Government has been compelled to take this course, in consequence of a foul murder of a part of the crew of a British sloop of war on the 17th ult. This vessel was peacefully lying at anchor at Olivia, when several of her crew were inhumanly butchered by a band of Carlists. The rebel Prince was informed of the circumstance, but refused to give up any of the murderers. On the contrary, the treacherous and cowardly attack upon the British mariners was lauded by his officers as an act of heroic intrepidity. The British Government has therefore been obliged to adopt measures for putting down such atrocities on the coast. The Carlists, for the time to come, will be treated as a band of pirates and so be cut off from all the usages of civilized warfare. To this extent France also pledges herself; so that, between both, Don Carlos and his bands of murderers are not likely to repose long in regal security.

LATE FROM NEW GRENADA.—The Bogota Gazette, of March 23d, announces that the convention concluded some months since between the Republics of Grenada and Venezuela, for a division of the National debt of the old republic of Columbia, has been objected by the Congress of New Grenada, and that the objection had been followed by the resignation of all the ministers. New Ministers were immediately appointed, but they promptly declined. Senors Miguel Bestrepo and Antonia Torices were then appointed, and it was uncertain whether they would or would not accept the office.

THE INDEMNITY.—We yesterday announced the arrival, in the packet ship, Harve, of upwards of $300,000, being part of the indemnity due the United States. The decree of the French King, is published in the Paris papers of April 3d.—N.Y. Adv.

United States. Our Western Frontier. Affairs on our Western frontier wear a squally appearance, and forbode a storm. Highly important intelligence may be daily expected, and the people of all sections of the Union are becoming more and more interested in the subject. Beyond the Sabine River, the western boundary, the hostile armies are not far from each other, and a decisive battle was, at the last date, some extent, expected. On this side of the river, Gen. Gaines was watching the operations of the contending armies.

Mean time, the subject has come before Congress, and Mr. Cambreleng stated that Gaines had orders to preserve the neutrality of the United States, and to prevent the passage of armed forces left from the United States to Texas, and from Texas into the United States. He is required to use force if necessary. According to this plan, should Houston be defeated, and retreat into the territory, it would be the duty of General Gaines to oppose his approach by force of arms.

However much the masses of Santa Anna are to be deplored, it is not for us to rush into a foreign war, for the protection of the Texans. A military spirit, that seeks foreign aggression, is the most dangerous propensity that can befall any nation. It was such a spirit that kept the Roman Republic in continual warfare with her neighbors, until that republic embraced the whole civilized world in its dominions, and finally itself relapsed in the empire, and became the subject of military despotism. A similar career of aggrandizement attended the French Republic, until the Republic itself, in like manner, fell into the all-grasping power of Napoleon. Such a military spirit of conquest is of all others, to be deprecated in this happy Republic.

LATEST FROM FLORIDA.—REMARKS BY THE INDIAN CAMPAIGN. Lieut. Van Buren, Aid to Gen. Scott, and Capt. Finley, Aid to Gen. Butler, arrived at Charleston on the 3d inst. from Piedmont via Savannah, in the steam packet Wm. Seabrook, from Savannah.

Lieut. Van Buren states that owing to the commencement of the warm weather, the campaign had been brought to a close. The regular forces had gone into summer quarters at St. Augustine. There were supposed to be about 200 on the sick list at Tampa Bay and 80 at Volusia.

Two Americans were detected here on Thursday, passing forged notes of the Waldo and several other U. S. banks. They were examined before Justices Rait and Ker, when Jared Merrill (who styles himself "Colonel") was fully committed for trial and is now in goal: the other person proved his innocence and was liberated. The magistrates have written to the various Banks on the subject, and it now remains with these institutions to send hither the means of proving the forgeries.

It is worthy of remark that at the late Court of Common Pleas and General Sessions in April Term, in and for the County of Charlotte, not one Grand Juror, and only one Petit Juror was found liable to a fine for non-attendance: and that on three occasions within the last two years there have been twenty three, and in one instance twenty four Grand Jurors in their Box at the opening of the Court. Such attention to public duty is certainly highly creditable to the inhabitants of the County.

At the great meeting held in Dublin on the 27th of March last, to take into consideration the independence of the Irish press, Counsellor Guthrie expressed himself as follows:—

"A local press sedulously watches over every act of local abuse: it drags the villain before the public: it is the best guardian of common justice: it attends the proceedings of the courts, and both organ any misconduct that may be averted for the public."

However repulsive it may be to the feelings of an editor to bring the errors of otherwise reputable individuals before the public, yet when persons of the first rank and character are insidiously and covertly attacked in a public print, it well becomes the pursuit of an independent journalist to discover the columniator and hold him up to the scorn he deserves.—Such a task has devolved on us, with respect to the malicious and insulting article which appeared on the 5th of March last, in the Boundary Gazette; and which contained most vile and far-fetched abuse of His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor. The authorship of that article is fixed on Geo. S. Hill Esq. The proof of this fact rests with a number of most respectable gentlemen into whose hands the original letter came, and who unequivocally declare it to be in Mr. Hill's hand-writing. This discovery does not induce us to soften a single word of what we said when the writer was unknown, and when the person at whose door the scurrility now lies was not even suspected.

We are assured that people in general on the other side of the lines, feel highly indignant that such an article should appear in an American paper, and that they deprecate the appearance of such scandal any where.—As far as we can gather the general sentiments on our own side, it is energetically expressed in regretting and condemning the publication of that unprovoked calumny.

We believe that when a person who possesses an ingenious mind commits an error or a crime and becomes sensible of his guilt, his own feelings and reflections are a sufficient punishment; so that to be severe on him would savour of cruelty. On the other hand it may be thought useless to be harsh with offenders who are callous to the finer impulses of our nature, and who would remain unaffected by the severest censure. But in either case the great object of promoting public morals is to be maintained without reluctance or compromise, and in this spirit we will conclude the unpleasant subject on which we now treat by making the following observations.

Mr. Hill is a legislator:—what would he say of that legislator, who, instead of employing his energies to render the laws pure and perfect, should violate his most sacred obligations, and heap insult and injury on the very persons whose sanction is necessary to give the law its force? How much more meanly would he think of it, should this injurious and flagitious conduct be carried on under the designation of a cowardly disguise?

Mr. Hill is a lawyer:—what would he say of that lawyer who should not only disregard his sworn duty to protect those whom a breach of the law has injured, but, throwing the immutable principles of right aside, inflict a palpable and diabolic wrong on the highest officer of that court to which the injured make their last appeal?

Mr. Hill is a father:—what would he say of that father who should, without the smallest provocation, make use of gross remarks and unfounded insinuations against the son, to wound the pride and lacerate the feelings of the father? Would not such absolute baseness deserve unqualified execration?

Mr. Hill is a member of society:—here we stop. If he can prove he is maligned, we shall welcome him out of the unenviable predicament in which he is now placed:—if he cannot produce such proof, he ought to make due reparation, as far as it is possible to be made, to the distinguished Officer whom His Majesty has entrusted with the Government of New Brunswick.

It is with much regret we have to mention that the barque Brothers, Potts, which cleared at this port on the 7th inst. for Dublin, was wrecked on the carrying place to the S. S. W. of West Quay, on the morning of Friday the 15th inst. The previous day had been very dry and in the afternoon a stiff breeze sprang up from the N. N. E., and the vessel, which was on the north head of Grand Manan, in the passage between that Island and the coast, and being on a lee shore, she was driven on the rocks, and the vessel, altho' water was being refilled.

In the Standard of the 5th inst. we mentioned that numbers of spurious $5 bills of of Waldo bank had been circulated here, and traced to an individual who would be called on to account for them; this was Mr Atkinson, whose name has appeared similarly circumstanced in the St. John papers. We cannot deny him the justice of publishing the following letters, which, he has transmitted to us for that purpose.

St. Andrews, May 7, 1836. JAMES FRANK, Esq.

Dear Sir,—At the request of Mr. Atkinson, I acquaint you that a full investigation of his having paid away certain notes, said to be forged, took place yesterday and today before Messrs Wier, Douglas, Ker, and myself the result of which was an acknowledgement from the Bench of their Conviction, that Mr. Atkinson was free from charge of any kind, that the notes were passed by him in confidence, but he satisfactorily accounts for the manner in which they came into his possession, and left not the slightest grounds of blame or guilt attachable to him. His character is therefore free from stain or reflection to this transaction not the most distant suspicion can rest upon Mr. Atkinson knowing any thing of the notes being bad.

I am, my dear Sir, Yours &c. JAMES RAIT.

St. Stephen, May 11, 1836.

Dear Sir,—Your favor of the 7th May, 1836, is duly received, respecting the investigation of Mr. William Atkinson and feel happy to find it has terminated to the full satisfaction of the Magistrates on the bench. And have further to say, that I have known Mr. Atkinson for ten years; in the course of which time I have had more or less yearly transactions with him and have never through the course of our dealings seen anything contrary to justice and strict integrity.

Yours &c. JAMES FRANK.

At his residence in Fredericton, on the 2d inst. after a protracted and painful illness, which he bore with christian piety and resignation, the Rev. Mr. M'Esweeney, Roman Catholic Priest, in the 38th year of his age. Mr. M'Es. was distinguished for integrity of principle, universal benevolence, and unbounded liberality to the poor and distressed, and for the mild and charitable disposition which he evinced towards all classes of the community. He was justly endeared to the numerous flock, over which he had the pastoral charge for a series of years, and his death is deeply felt and regretted by a large circle of his friends and acquaintances. His mortal remains were carried in solemn procession to the Catholic burying ground, and there deposited, attended by a numerous and respectable concourse of the inhabitants of this town and its vicinity.

The Rev. Mr. Cummins Parish Priest of Saint Andrews officiated on this melancholy occasion; and his timely arrival, which was unexpected, afforded much consolation to the deceased in his departure from this transitory world.
