Proposed Eviction of 105 Irish Tenants.

DUBLIN. April 9 .- The agent of the Marquis of Clanricarde has obtained permission for the eviction of 105 more tenants of his lordship's Irish estates.

Commercial Crisis in Argentine Feared.

Buenos Ayres, April 9 .- Heavy losses which the country has sustained through the drought, and the extremely low prices of produce have created well-grounded fears that a commercial crisis will result within the next three months.

Royal Luxury-$31 Per Doz. for Eggs. LONDON, April 9 - Queen Victoria will and landed 4,000 insurgent troops. return to Windsor on April 27. As an instance of royal luxury it may be mentioned sold in the city market were bought up by the Queen's poulterer, who paid for them have a guinea apiece.

The Bering Sea Bill.

London, April 9 .- The Bering Sea Bill passed its third reading in the House of Commons this evening. It passed without amendment, Sir Charles Russell having accepted Sir Richard Webster's suggestion that the clause to which the United States Government is said to object be altered in the House of Lords, Outbreak of Cholera in Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 9. - Cholera of a most malignant type has become so prevalent throughout the city as to cause general alarm. Callaidi Bey, a councilor of State, was attacked with the disease yesterday and died within a few hours. Soon afterward a servant of one of the members of the Greek legation was seized and he too succumbed. The Greek legation has been removed to Therapia and it is probable that foreign representatives will seek temporary quarters outside the city. The authorities are taking active measures to prevent the spread of the disease.

Thirty-Three Moslems Killed.

MADRAS, April 9 .- A terrific fight has occurred in the district of Malebar between a force of Madras mounted police and a band of Malebar Moslems. The latter had committed many depredations and among their crimes it was charged they murdered a number of Hindoos. A strong force of mounted police were sent from here with orders to capture the Moslems and bring them here. After a three days' search the police came upon the band and attacked them. The Moslems fought fiercely but were finally routed and the band scattered. Thirty-three Moslems were killed and a large number wounded. The casualties among the police were few.

The Tories Disappointed. London, April 9 .- The Conservatives and Unionists who were expecting the defeat of the Government to-day by disaffectation of the Radicals to-night on Mr. Morley's motion on the appropriate day for debating Dalziel's motion, were disappointed. The Radical members of Parliament met this evening, and agreed that the Radical members would not oppose the Government, but would support Morley's would make any better use of the extra time than if it were devoted to private Sir William Harcourt's motion was carried by a vote of 268 to 244, a Government majority of 24.

Hatred of the British.

LONDON, April 10 .- The Daily News (Tory) correspondent in Cairo says that there have been two collisions during the last two nights between British and Egyptian soldiers quartered in that city. Pickets efficered by Englishmen are patroling the streets. The trouble does not threaten to become serious but is regarded as significant of the fanatical hatred felt by natives toward the British.

Kossuth's Son in Politics.

VIENNA, April 10 .- The Neue Freie Presse publishes an interview with Francis Kossuth, who has just become a subject of the King of Hungary. Young Kossuth says he will henceforth remain in Hungary, and declares his intention of taking an active part in politics. He has no intention, he says, of fomenting or encouraging any disturbance, but he will seek to carry out a part of his father's principles not yet realized, but which he believes it is yet possible to realize by perfectly legal and constitutional means.

Blown to the Winds.

BERLIN, April 10 .- While a number of men were engaged in the manufacture of dynamite in a laboratory just outside of the town of Doemitz yesterday, a quantity Canadian mammoth cheese (22,000 pounds) of the dynamite became ignited and the works were blown to pieces. The bodies of three of the workmen were literally blown to the winds, while five others were so horribly mangled that they cannot live. The wreckage of the buildings was complete, some of the debris being carried half a mile away.

his escape from the Portuguese warship for Saulsbury, coal laden, went ashore last Mindello at 2:15 p.m. yesterday and arrived evening during a thick snow storm near at the Buenos Ayres quarantine station last evening. The Portuguese sailors made no resistance to his leaving the warship. The people of the Argentine Republic generally are rejoicing over the escape of Da Gama and the reports of Mello's successes at Rio Grande do Sul. These reports are not altogether trustworthy. Buenos Ayres, April 10.—Latast informations confirm the report of a fierce bombardment of Rio Grande do Sul by the rebel Mello, on land and sea. Two hundred rebels were killed, but the city was not taken. Banks have suspended and firms have failed.

TORONTO YOUNG LIBERALS.

Complete Success of Their Annual Banquet-Hon. H. L. Davis and D. C. Fraser the Chief Speakers.

TORONTO, April 9 .- The Young Liberal banquet to-night passed off very successfully. Some 300 members of the club and friends were present. President F. Pedley presided, and over a score of Liberal members of the Legislature were present. The feature of the evening was the attendance of a deputation of Eastern Dominion members, Hon. H. L. Davies, Hon. D. C. Fraser and Dr. Borden.

Hon. G. W. Ross and Hon. Richard Harcourt were also present, representing the Provincial Government.

The speeches of the evening were those of Hon. H. L. Davies and Hon. D. C.

A BRAVE YOUNGSTER.

Her Foot Caught in a Track-Presence of Mind Saves Her.

EAST TAWAS, Mich., April 10 .- Olive Jones, 6-year-old daughter of Chas. Jones, residing at Prescott, while crossing the track of the Detroit, Bay City and Alpena Railroad at the road crossing at Prescott, caught her foot between the planking and rail. She saw the train coming, and her brother, a young man, running towards her to help her, but he did not arrive in time. The train did not slack down and her foot was mangled, necessitating amputation just above the ankle after she was brought here. The remarkable presence of mind shown by so young a child is not often found. She said she saw she could not get her foot cut before the train could get to her, and she did not want to have her head cut off or get cut in two, so she got her other foot off the track and leaned away over so as to let them cut off only one foot. After the first wheels passed over she got the foot part way out, the company from keeping any portion and then said she pulled it clar out after the army in the cars any longer than is the second wheel passed over, which was solutely necessary to carry them away. easy as the foot was literally a pulp. MORE FUN THAN BUSINESS. Thenternational Medical Congress in Romeoes not seem to have done much for the vancing of science. The Eternal City as been crowded to overflowing. The tels have been diving a roaring trad and tourists no doubt have donevell, but it has been a great excuon party rather than a conference for t exchange of new and great ideas. Theredicos themselves were not oversatid with their reception, into which the ney-making spirit of the Italian had larg entered. The great red rose that is in by members of the congress did notvays frank them past barriers, and theices demanded for seats at shows we often exorbitant. The King, howevolid his best to be hospitable, setting a goexample to royalty in other capitals. CALL AND SEE.

The Inspector and the Principals of the Public Echools Do Not Agree as to Premotions.

Afternoon sessions of No. I committee of the Board of Education appear to suit the members. Yesterday's regular meeting was marked by a full attendance, including Trustees Alexander (chairman), Dr. Campbell, Murphy, Jeffrey, Craig, Wilkins, Sanders, McRobert and Powell, Secretary McElheran, Inspector Carson, Principals Merchant, Graham, Kirk and Stewart.

The reason for the presence of so many principals was soon seen. Some time ago Inspector Carson aubmitted to the board a copy of rules and regulations which he desired to have enforced governing promotions and other matters. To some of these the principals objected and they pre-sented a number of amendments. The points of difference in the reports, however, were not very great, and Trustee Powell suggested that a sub-committee be appointed to confer with the principals and inspector. He was sure a satisfactory arrangement could thus be arrived at. Mr. Powell moved that the rules be referred to the inspector, Chairman McRobert, Trustees Campbell, Jefrey and Alexander, and principals, the report to be submitted to the board at its next meeting. This carried. The application of Miss Lilias McKeon for a permanent position on the teaching staff was filed for future reference.

Two tenders for supplying fifteen dictionaries were received-one from John Mills and the other from Jas. I. Anderson & Co. The tender of Anderson & Co. was accepted at $2 54 each.

Three tenders were received for the purchase of the much-talked-of typewriter for the secretary's office. The National was offered for $70; No. 2 Remington for $117 50, and the Smith-Premier for $115. It was decided to ask the Remington and National companies to allow the board a month's trial of their machines.

Dr. Campbell introduced the case of four children from Westminster, named McGregor, whose family had rented a house in the city and were still paying non-resident fees. As the pupils were under age the question was referred to the solicitor.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

This Week's Attractions at the Grand Opera House-Keene and Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb.

KEENE AS SHYLOCK TO NIGHT. For several years students have been lamenting the drama's decay, but now that the craze for the lighter vein of plays has about died out, the fickle public is again looking toward the actors who do not need fancy dances and comic make-ups to make a hit, for a revival of the plays which our ancestors for several decades back have looked upon with fine artistic pleasure. There is no more fitting actor on the stage to-day to present Shakespearean plays than Thomas W. Keene. Mr. Keene will be seen at the Grand to-night in his great characterization of Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice." Mr. Keene this season has the strongest support he ever had, and as he comes here annually and always keeps faith with the public he is sure of a large and representative audience.

SMALL PEOPLE COMING. Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb and her excellent company will hold the boards at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday, April 11 and 12, with a grand ladies' and children's matinee on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb, Count and Baron Magri and Miss Annie Nelson, the wonderful little people, will be assisted in their delightful performance by Alvido, the Japanese juggler, Neil Litchfield, John Morris, Ed Mozart and Chevaller Trayom, in an entirely new and amusing programme, especially to please the ladies and children. During each performance Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb will wear four different rich and elegant costumes produced by the famous Worth, of Paris, while her petite form is fairly ablaze with diamonds and other jewels, a majority of which have been presented to her at the European courts. Among them is an elegant diamond necklace valued at $3,000, presented by Queen Victoria.

A LOSING VENTURE. •• The Algerian" company disbanded a few days ago. A "friend" of Adele Ritchie backed the venture to the extent of $35,000 and then threw up the sponge. Moneywas lost from the very beginning of the tour. MR. BIRKS' TESTIMONIAL.

The citizens are reminded to look in the amusement column of to-morrow's issue in order to see the elaborate programme arranged for the testimonial concert to Mr. W. J. Birks on Friday evening next. One of the largest and most fashionable audiences of the season is already assured, and ticket-holders are counseled to be on hand in good time for their seats to-morrow morning.

A GRATEFUL WOMAN.

Suffered for Years with Neuralgia in the Head-Finds a Cure and is Anxious Others Should Also Enew of It.

The following letter, which speaks for itself, was voluntarily sent to the Caledonia, N. S., Gold Hunter:

Dear Mr. Editor: For a number of years I have been afflicted with neuralgia in my head. What I have sufered as the result can scarcely be understood by those who have never felt the excruciating pains of this malady. I was treated by one of the best doctors but without success. In fact I was growing worse, and constantly simply because they are unacquainted with suffering more and more. Hearing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills recommended for this trouble, I procured a single box to give is certain to cure nerve pain speedily. them a trial. Before they were all used I felt better, and procured three boxes more. I now feel like a different person. I am powerful, penetrating and effectual. Sold cured and this happy result is alone due to | everywhere. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I feel so grateful for the good they have done me that I venture to ask you to give this letter an insertion in the hope that my experience may be of benefit to some other sufferer. Yours truly, Mrs. W. T. Hemford, N. S., Feb., 1894. MRS. W. T. JOHNSON.

An eminent medical authority has aptly described neuralgia as a "cry of the nerves for better blood." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act promptly upon the blood, supplying its life and health giving constitutents, speedily and effectually, curing neuralgia and all troubles dependent upon a poor condition of the blood, or a shattered state of the nerves. No other remedy acts so speedily, and with such certainty. > REFUSED AT THE ALTAR. Until the Clergyman Did So.

English. Ind., April 9.—Absalom Thayer and Miss Estelle Flagler stood up to be married Saturday night. When the clergyman asked, "Do you take this man to re your lawful wedded husband," etc. Miss Flagler answered, "No, sir. I do not. You are the first who has asked my opinion on the matter. Mr. Thayer has been courting my mother for more than a year. I thought it was herself he wanted, but it appears he only wanted her consent that he might marry me, and she concluded to compel me to wed him." The minister then said: "This ends it, Religious Tolerance.

Powerful Sermon by Rev. W, J. Clark

h the First Presbyterian Church, London.

Re States Very Cutspokenly His Opinions of the So-Called Protestant Protective Asso-

The First Presbyterian Church, London, was crowded on Sunday morning last, when Rev. W. J. Clark, the pastor, spoke on the subject of "Religious Tolerance." In the large audience were to be seen adherents of all religious bodies, including a number of prominent Catholics.

The preacher took as a general text the incident of the Samaritan villagers refusing to receive Jesus because his face was as though he were going to Jerusalem, whereupon his disciples, James and John, when they saw this, said: "Lord, wilt thou that we bid fire to come down from heaven and consume them?" But he turned and

Mr. Clark said: I read these verses simply as suggestive of the line of thought which I wish you to follow with me this morning. My subject, as I announced to you last Sabbath morning, is "Religious Tolerance," and it would be well, perhaps, to state plainly what is wished to be understood by the terms. Perhaps the simplest way in which this could be set forth is by taking a specific example. Our Baptist brethren hold that baptism as administered to the children of a believer is unscriptural, that the right should be administered only to those who, being of the years of discretion, have experienced the grace of God in conversion and make public profession of their faith. They believe, moreover, that immersion is the only proper mode of baptism. I believe these views to be entirely mistaken, and consider baptism of the children of believers scriptural, and the mode-be it immersion, pouring on or sprinkling-a matter of no great moment. But while fully persuaded in my own mind of the correctness of the view of the Presbyterian Church, and while I would be greatly pleased if the Baptist Church as a whole, or individual Baptists, should see their way clear to accept our view of scriptural teaching in regard to this matter, I hold I would not be justified in interfering with the financial, social or political rights of my Baptist brother because we cannot agree upon these points; nor has he any right to interfere with mine on the same ground. If the Baptist Church was engaged in

PLOTTING TO IMMERSE me by force, or to punish me by taking away political privileges because I would not submit to immersion, then I would be justified in resisting such tyranny to the utmost of my power, and so maintaining my own liberty "to know, to argue, to utter according to the dictates of my own conscience," and this I demand with equal force for my fellows. That which is true in regard to Baptists is true in regard to Church of England, Methodist, Roman Catholic, Mormon, Christian Scientist, Mohammedan, Pagan, Greek Church, Buddhist, or any other religious view whatever. I have no right to use any means but that of argument or example to change the opinions of members of any of these sects so long as the religious views held do not lead their advocates to transgress the moral law or interfere with the social, political or religious rights of their fellow-citizens. To make it specific-my Roman Catholic brother may abstain from meat every Friday in the year. I have no right to interfere, but if he seeks to compel me to the same diet, that's another question. He may demand that the clergy shall practice celibacy, and I have no right to object so long as he does not compel me to live a single life. I think this position is clearly understood, and now I would advance neveral reasons why I steadfastly adhere to this position. I make no pretense of discussing this question exhaustively, but in history can be given than that of the simply appeal to various arguments, the form of which I think no one will have any difficulty in appreciating. It may be said that theoretically this is all very well, but that adherents of a certain form of religion, because of their religious views, do interfere with the rights of their fellow-citizens. In answer I would say that I must be very sure of evidence before I receive it, and be VERY SLOW TO ACCEPT THE HOT, BITTER tion, and even if it only take the form of as to why I seek to practice and advocate celigious tolerance. The first of these is:

1. That good men have been trained ander various religious systems, and intel-brought before us a nation chosen by God with whatever honesty of purpose such usalem, he would meet there many with to testify to the truth, and as was essential under existing circumstances, very straight lines were laid down to divide the Jew from surrounding nations, but all the godly were not Hebrews in the strict sense of the word. We have a Melchizedek, a Job, a Jethro, a Rahab, a Ruth, all of whom were blessed by God. In the New Testament the same story is told. We have the centurian in the Gospels, of whom Christ said, "I have not found so great faith-no, not in Israel"; Cornelius, the centurian, in the book of Acts; Lydia and others, who were deprived of special Jewish training and yet godly. And whatever may be said of religions outside the pale of Christian doctrine, the fact remains that amongst almost all peoples professing every variety of re-ligious doctrine, there have been found men loving God and doing good to their fellowmen. If we narrow our circle and draw distictions between Catholic and Protestant, the same story is told again. Sir Thomas Moore in the reign of Henry VIII., Cardinal Manning in recent years, and many other names that occur to us, an evidence that men may be members of the Roman Catholic communion and at the same time

GOOD CITIZENS AND MORAL MEN. To come closer home. I have known more than a few Roman Catholics fairly well, and have found them honorable in dealing, kindly in sympathy and strictly moral men. Of course a bitter, prejudiced antagonist may say that all these cases were hypocrites, whitened sepulchres, etc., and may in the madness of his hatred believe what he says; but I prefer not to accept any such absurd and monstrous statement. If these good men have been and are to be found, and if they conscientiously adhere to the peculiar tenants of their faith, how unjust and uncharitable it would be of me to seek to interfere with their political or commercial welfare because forsooth our views do not agree! So long as these views held by my neighbor do not lead him to transgress the law of morals, so long should he be perfectly free to hold such views, and it would be iniquitous in the highest degree for me to interfere or to seek to interfere with his holding them.

2. But a second reason suggests itself in support of religious tolerance, and that is that the natural constitution of mankind is such as to lead us to believe in honest differences of opinion. In the heat of an election you will find many men who for the time being honestly believe that any. one who is not disposed to agree with them must necessarily be a dishonest rascal, but ordinarily men are willing to acknowledge that an opinion different from their own in regard to public policy may be held, and held in all honesty. You have often remarked the wonderful variety of nature. Every man differs from his fellows in some degree in his physical make-up, and that which is true of one's body is just as true of the mind. When you went to school you had among your school-follows one perhaps who had a mathematical mind, another who had a genius for history or poetry. I need not dwell upon this point. There is practically an unlimited number of illustrations and examples to prove this. Is it any wonder, then, that about methods of worship and forms of church government? That one finds profit in that which appeals to the sensuous, and another prefers the service simple and unadorned? And the fact that such differences of opinion may exist between the most sincere persons is emphasized by the fact of the great power of early training in giving the bent to one's life. In the majority of cases if you ask a man, Why are you a Presbyterian? he will answer, Because my parents were. Why are you a Baptist, Methodist, Roman Catholic, Church of England? The same answer will be given. The religious impressions of childhood are often very deep. The forms to which we were accustomed in childhood's years possess a power over us that probably no other can ever have. If this, then, is the case, how unjust and unkind a thing it is to visit vengeance upon man because he is still influenced by what his mother taught him when he learned to lisp his prayers by her side? If the bigoted Protestant would but remember that had he been taught the Catholic faith as a child, to-day he would be a Catholic of the Catholics, and on the other side if the bigoted Romanist would remember that had he been taught as his the extract were evident nonsense; y Protestant neighbor, he would have been a Protestant of the Protestants, they would surely see the unfairness and the unkindness of harshly judging one another because of differences in the matter of religious belief. Said Sydney Smith: "Three hundred years ago men burnt and hanged each other for opinions. Time has softened Catholic as well as Protestant: they both required it; though each perceives only his own improvement, and is blind to that of the other.'

But a third reason comes to us why we should always seek to cultivate tolerance of our neighbor's religious belief, however mistaken we may believe that to be, is because the opposite of tolerance-persecution-has never yet been successful in its object. The history of humanity contains one sad record after another of men, in all honesty oft-times, seeking to convert their fellows to their own forms of religious belief, and

ALWAYS SUCH EFFORTS HAVE BEEN FAILURES. It matters not how foolish it may be, if those who advocate or hold any particular form of religious belief are persecuted or oppressed because of their faith, there will be surely stirred up for them many friends and many converts. And while among its professors some of the weaker vessels may be led to retreat, the stronger souls among them will only be established and strength. ened in their faith. It is human nature that it should be so. "Jimmie," said a little girl to her younger brother, "you must come down stairs." "Well, Ethel," was the response of the little man, a "if I must, I won't." Or as Shakespeare puts it in Falstaff's mouth: "Give you a reason upon compulsion. If reasons were as plenty as blackberries I would give no man a reason upon compulsion." And I am sure we all sympathize with this worthy human instinct to dety tyranny, of whatever sort it is. Men have tried everything -wild beasts, the faggot and stake, the thumbscrew and loathsome dungeons, and horrors uumentionable, and all have failed of their object. "The ashes of martyrs" have ever been proved to be the "seed of the church." Perhaps no stronger instance early church. Never was spiritual life more vigorous than when tried on every side by fiercest persecutions. And in more modern times no one can read the history of Phillip II. of Spain without being impressed with the utter powerlessness of altering men's religious convictions by religious persecutions. In our own day we have seen how the Salvation Army flourished on persecupolitical or commercial ostracism it will of men and women who are notoriously just as surely fail of its object as the pains prejudiced and unfit to calmly consider the | and penalties of death, and imprisonment | question. There are several reasons then have failed in like efforts. So that if I be-that I would present to you this morning lieve a doctrine to be false, or a religious organization imperfect, and I therefore persecution has been entered into, in due om he had not in various things seen eye

This fact has been proved over and over at he had considered it his duty to say again. With desire to save the soul even uld become the subject of newspaper or if it be at the expense of the body's suffer-ter remark, but he intended to take no ing, men have been sought to be reclaimed t in such controversies, but would by attaching penalties to so-called heresy, ply go on with his ordinary tasks and but soon the first object is forgotten, and caue the even tenor of his way. evil-minded men seek to use this persecuevil-minded men seek to use this persecu-tion as an engine by which to carry out their own selfish plots and schemes. But the last and chief reason I would advance for the practice of tolerance in religion is because God himself, and I use the Claw the line language in all reverence, is tolerant. In Matthew, v., 45, we read: "For he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sendeth rain on the just and the unjust." This is only one out of countless passages in the Word of God that teach us and have, like thousands of the same lesson, and if God, whom we sup other people, to avoid all pose to be dishonored by the false doctrine held by our fellow-man, does not visit him food prepared with it, this with the thunderbolts of his wrath, wha is to remind you that there right have we, with our necessarily limited views, to visit with penalty the holder of an erroneous creed? Remember, the sum healthful vegetable shortmary of a truly godly life is love to God add love to man, and aught that trans ening, which can be used gresses that law is evil. Now, don't mis understand me. I would not for a momen in its place. If you will understand me. I would not for a momen undervalue the preciousness and import ance of sound doctrine, but the soundest of all doctrine-a fundamental doctrine of ou faith—is to our fellows. Mr. Clark then proceeded to speak of th particular manifestation of intolerance in the shape of the so-called Protestant Pro tective Association, which had for som time past been attracting public attention As to its views and proceedings, he ha read what its opponents had written, and he had read its own publications, and wa not, therefore, speaking without knowledge though the organization had in some re spects covered itself with self-incurre suspicion on account of its secrecy o methods. The nature of real Protestantisr was not such as to need any but ope methods of defense. In all calmness an deliberation, he believed that such a move ment, such a spirit, was evil in its ten dency, and ought to be strongly, coolly an wisely discountenanced. As an illustration c the exaggeration, to use a very mild term indulged in, Mr. Clark read the followin extract from one of the newspaper organ of the movement:

Now the American people sit and fond! dream of peace and security, while the enemy of the Republic is fast encompassing the citade with her cohorts, nor will they wake from this dream until the sound of roaring canno arouses them from this suicidal indifference. "But cannot the power of the ballot aver the danger you proclaim?" you ask. I answe no. Time was when this was possible. That time has passed. Were the issue more remot there might in this direction lie hope. Coul we have succeeded in arousing the later patriotism of the American people before the pall of corruption polluted the purity of the ballot, safety might come through the power of free votes, but it is too late. The American Protective Association and the other noble patriotic organizations could even now effect the rescue if the enemy would but consent the fight it out by ballots, but this Rome will no

Mr. Clark sa he would like to refer also to one or tw statements recently made by certain le turers. One sweeping statement was the Roman Catholics where everywhere enmies of the countries in which they live, that is, broadly, disloyal; and certain forged documents held to show this ha recently to be denounced by the combind Protestant ministers of Columbus, Ohio. t might be that theoretically the view of Roma Catholics was that the Pope stood abox earthly kings, though some old-time Prebyterian manifestoes had been pretty liver reading; but in the practical, not the theoretical, conduct of life, the recors showed that whether in the civil warf the United States, or in fighting Britains battles throughout the world, and elswhere, Catholics and Protestants stod side by side, and alike did their duty s manly men and loyal citizens. Anothr speaker had made a reckless and wholesse charge against the Roman Catholic prieshood of leading immoral flives. No dout there might be black sheep in every flock, bt what could be more scandalous, more dstardly than, because of the misdeing of a fet, to stigmatize a whole body! Presbyterias and even Presbyterian ministers had ben known to bring discredit on their denoninations, yet how indignant we should e were loathsome charges of the sort referrd to brought wholesale against Presbyterian! They should all rather say what good thy could of each other, remembering Count Tolstoi's true saying, that

LOVE BEGETS LOVE, while violence, whether of word or dee, could beget only violence, as was illutrated by recent unfortunate occurrences in some of the Western States. What they were bound to do as Christians, of whatever name, was to manifest the spirit of tie Master-yes, even if it were not recippcated, even if it had to be one-sided. the members of what was termed the Proestant Protective Association-and he had no doubt many of them were honest and well-meaning, even if mistaken-if they believed they had something better than that possessed by the Roman Catholics, the way to manifest it was in their lives, so that men could take knowledge of them. Those who do God's will, exclaimed Mr. Clark, desire its downfall, the last thing I would | are all children of our Father in heaven, think of doing would be to seek to visit and he had sufficient hope in the mercy of penalties of any sort upon those who hold the Eternal, to picture to himself that if lectual uniformity is not essential to mor- it. Dear Sirs.—I had an abscess on my breast and scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken eix bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

Two of Mr. Tait's Bills Killed-Mr. Baltour Has a Measure Respecting Street Railway Companies-London West's Debenture Bill Passed.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.) PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, TORONTO, April 9. -In connection with a motion this afternoon for a return containing information bearing upon Mr. F. Maguire, inspector of immigrants at Niagara Falls, Dr. Ryerson (Toronto) made another ineffectual attack upon the Government. Mr. Ryerson said that Mr. Maguire had been appointed during the recent cholera scare, and he would like to know whether the Government intended, now that an epidemic was in no wise imminent, to retain the office. He could see no necessity for doing so. He accused the Administration of creating a berth for Mr. Maguire in order to prevent a party split in the Niagara district. He also charged Mr. Maguire with not attending carefully to the requirements of the

Mr. Dryden in reply pointed out that Mr. Maguire had all the qualifications necessary to fulfill the duties of the office, and showed how imperative it was to have such an officer at the international point affected, especially in view of the fact that this was the only official (so far as Ontario was concerned) who supervised the immiwas concerned) who supervised the immi-gration. As to Mr. Ryerson's remark that the peaceful settlement by arbitration of Mr. Maguire was scarcely ever in his office, it was not required that he (Mr. Maguire) should be there all day. The time at which immigration trains were expected to pass through could readily be ascertained. This, he thought, Mr. Maguire did. Dr. Ryerson had not done his whole duty in failing to investigate the pedigree of the gentleman in question.

Two of Mr. Tait's bills were killed. The first, giving corporations the right to inaugurate the single tax system of assessment without appealing to the Legislature, and the one to amend the law respecting direction of lessening it. stationary engineers.

A bill of Mr. Balfour's, discontinuing the right of any corporation to grant street railway companies special privileges for a longer period than twenty years, was referred to the legal committee.

The bill to enable the corporation of the village of London West to issue debentures and to consolidate the debt thereof was read a third time. Mr. Clarke-I would like to ask the Attorney-General when the Redistribution Bill will be brought down. Mr. Meredith has evidently got tired putting the question. Sir Oliver Mowat -- Possibly to-morrow. The House adjourned at 4:45.

OTTAWA, April 9 .- In the Commons to-

A proposal of that kind had been made durpublic is to buy what you the power of expropriation, and the buildin of a bridge. I That the electrolytic action from the opration of the railway would destroy the wter pipes and cause great expense and dager to the city. In being asked by the committee to spak, Mr. Heilmuth stated our willingness to insert clauses to protect the city in evry possible way: 1. to have words inseted or struck out to prevent the compay from running electric cars in the city whout the consent of the council; nothing ele was ever intended, and there was no reson why the city should not be fully potected. Further: 2. That we would ne run on city property at Springbank or elewhere without the city's consent, and or the same basis that the proposed bridge a Springbank would only be to accommodite foot passengers. 3. That we would bcome liable for all damages to water pes by reason of electrolytic action, and hat we would not run on the Pipe Line, or After Mr. Hellmuth had offered on cur his attitude of opposition to the bill as a whole was supported by Mr. Meredith, and upon the simple question of whether it ras expedient that the Legislature should uthorize the building of the electric raily to Springbank, and on this vote stood 3 to 10 against.

It will remain a mystery to some why a roject could be defeated on the opposition d the city of London when the line could mt occupy one foot of city land without heir consent, the rights of the city being filly protected in every particular. It was ne intention if the bill had passed to build ne line at once, and the onus of the defeat d the project will have to rest where it roperly belongs. Yours respectfully, London, April 9. S. R. Montreal.

Montreal. Montreal. Montreal 10.—There were about 700 head of buteners' cattle, $9.0 calves, and $60 sheep offered at the East End abattor yesterday. The butchers were out in large numbers, but it was small stuff they were after and only bought cattle when they got a bargain. Some 250 head of the cattle offered were held over from last Thursday's market and the holding over process will have to be repeated with a large number of yesterday's offerings. The drovers are feeling rather poorly, and many of them are bound to lose money on their sales. A lot of 8 very choice cattle were bought by Messrs. Brown and Nicholson at 4½ per lb, less $55 on the lot. Prime beeves sold at about 4c per lb, and pretty good stock at from 3½ to 3½c, while the rougher and leaner animals sold at from 2c to 3c per lb. The best calves were bought up before reaching this market, leaving only a very middling lot from $2$ to $5 each. A lot of 17 yearling sheep of mixed quality were sold here at 4½c per lb, but there were no choice sheep on sale. Fat hogs are plentiful and sell at about 5c per lb.

"Turn to the Right.

Obeying the stern motion of his hand, I assed before him into the next room, feeling myself more humiliated than I can tell by this reference to strangers. For a moment I could see no one. The day was waning, the room I entered was long and narrow, and illuminated only by a glowing fire. Besides I was myself, perhaps, in some embarrassment. I believed that my conductor had made a mistake, or that his guests had departed, and I turned towards him to ask for an explanation. He merely pointed onwards, however, and I advanced; whereupon a young and handsome lady, who had been seated in the shadow of the great fireplace, rose suddenly, as if startled, and stood looking at me, the glow of the burning wood falling on one side of her face and turning her hair to gold. "Well!" M. de Rosny said, in a voice which sounded a little odd in my ears.

You do not know madame, I think?" I saw that she was a complete stranger to e, and bowed to her without speaking. The lady saluted me in turn ceremoniously and in silence. "Is there no one else here who should know you?" M. de Rosny continued, in a tone almost of persiflage, and with the same change in his voice which had struck me before: but now it was more marked. "If not, M. de Marsac, I am afraid-first look round, look round, sir; I would not judge any man hastily." He laid his hand on my shoulder as he finished in a manner so familiar and so utterly at variance with his former bearing that I doubted if I heard or felt aright. Yet I looked mechanically at the lady, and seeing that her eyes glistened in the light, and that she gazed at me very kindly, wondered still more; falling, indeed, into a very confusion of amazement. This was not lessened but augmented a hundredfold when, turning in obedience to the pressure of de Rosny's hand. I saw beside me as if she had risen from the floor, another lady-no other than Mademoiselle de la Vire herself! She had that moment stepped out of the shadow of the great fireplace, which had hitherto hidden her, and stood before me curtseying prettily, with the same look on her face and in her eyes which madame's "Mademoiselle!" I muttered, unable to take my eyes from her.

"Mais oui, monsieur, mademoiselle," she answered, curtseying lower, with the air of a child rather than a woman. "Here?" I stammered, my mouth open, my eyes staring.
"Here, sir—thanks to the valor of a brave man," she answered, speaking in a voice so low I scarcely heard her. And then, dropping her eyes, she stepped back into the shadow, as if either she had said too much already, or doubted her composure were she to say more. She was so radiantly dressed, she looked in the firelight more like a fairy than a woman, being of small and delicate proportions; and she seemed in my eyes so defferent a person, particularly in respect of the softened expression of her features, from the Mademoiselle de la Vire whom I had known and seen plunged in sloughs and bent to the saddle with fatigue, that I doubted still if I had seen aright, and was as far from enlightenment

It was M. de Rosny himself who relieved me from the embarrassment I was suffering. He embraced me in the most kind and obliging manner, and this more than once; begging me to pardon the deception he had practiced upon me, and to which he had been impelled partly by the odd nature of our introduction at the inn, and partir by his desire to enhance the joyful surprise he had in store for me. "Come," he said presently, drawing me to the window, "let me show you some of your old friends.

I looked out, and saw below me in the courtyard my three horses drawn up in a row, the Cid being bestrid by Simon Fleix, who, seeing me, waved a triumphant greeting A groom stood at the head of each horse, and on either side was a man with a torch. My comparion laughed g eefully. "It was Maignan's arrangement," he said. "He has a quaint taste in such things."

After greeting Simon Fleix a hundred times, I turned back into the room, and. my heart overflowing with gratitude and wonder, I begged M. de Rosny to acquaint me with the details of mademoiselle's

"It was the most simple thing in the world," he said, taking me by the hand and leading me back to the hearth. While you were engaged with the rascals, the old woman who daily brought mademoiselle's food grew alarmed at the uproar, and came into the room to learn what it was. Mademoiselle, unable to help you, and uncertain of your success, thought the opportunity too good to be lost. She forced the old woman to show her and her maid the way out through the garden. This done, they ran down a lane as I understand, and came immediately upon the lad with the horses, who recognized them and helped them to They waited some minutes for you, and then rode off.

"But I inquired at the gate," I said.
"At which gate?" inquired M. de Rosny,

"The North-gate, of course," I answered. "Just so," he rejoined with a nod. But they went out through the West-gate and made a circuit. He is a strange lad, that of yours below there. He has a head on his shoulders, M. de Marsac. Well, two leagues outside the town they halted, scarce y knowing how to proceed. By good fortune, however, a horsedealer of my acquaintance was at the inn. He knew Mademoiselle de la Vire, and, hearing whither she was bound, brought her hither without let or hindrance.

'Was he a Norman ?" I asked. M. de Resny nodded, smiling at me shrewdly. "Yes," he said, "he told me about you. And now let me introduce you to my wife, Madame de Rosny.

He led me up to the lady who had risen at my entrance, and who now welcomed me as kindly as she had before looked on me, paying me many pleasant compliments. I gazed at her with interest, having heard much of her beauty and of the strange manner in which M. de Rosny, being enamored of two young ladies, and chancing upon both while lodging in different apartments at an inn, and decided which he should visit and make his wife. He appeared to read what was in my mind, for as I bowed before her, thanking her for the obliging things which she had uttered, and which forever bound me to her service, he gaily pinched her ear, and said, "When you want a good wife, M. de Marsac, be sure you turn to the right."

He spoke in jest, and having his own case only in his mind. But I, looking mechanically in the direction he indicated, saw mademoiselle standing a pace or two to my right in the shadow of the great chimneypiece. I know not whether she frowned more or blushed more; but this for certain, that she answered my look with one of sharp displeasure, and, turning her back on | market house. trace in her bearing of that late tenderness and gratitude which I had remarked. CHAPTER XIII.

The morning brought only fresh proofs of the kindness which M, de Rosny had con ceived for me. Awakening early I found on a stool beside my clothes a purse of gold containing a hundred crowns; and a youth presently entering to ask me if I lacked anything, I had at first some difficulty in recognizing Simon Fleix, so sprucely was the lad dressed, in a mode resembling Maignan's. I looked at the student more than once before I addressed him by his name: and was as much surprised by the strange change I observed in him-for it was not confined to his clothes—as by anything which had happened since I entered the house. I rubbed my eyes, and asked him what he had done with his soutane.
"Burned it, M. de Marsac," he answered

I saw that he had burned much, metaphorically speaking, besides his soutane. He was less pale, less lank, less wobegone than formerly, and went more briskly. He had lost the air of crack-brained disorder which had distinguished him, and was smart, sedate, and stooped less. Only the odd sparkle remained in his eyes, and bore witness to the same nervous, eager spirit

"What are you going to do, then, Simon?" asked, noting these changes curiously. "I am a soldier," he answered, "and follow M. de Marsac."
I laughed. "You have chosen a poor service I am afraid," I said, beginning to rise; "and one, too, Simon, in which it is possible you may be killed. I thought that would not suit you," I continued to see what he would say. But he answered nothing, and I looked at him in great surprise. 'You have made up your mind, then, at last?" I said.

"Perfectly," he answered.
"And solved all your doubts?" "I have no doubts."

"You are a Huguenot?" "That is the only true and pure religion," he replied gravely. And with apparent sincerity and devotion he repeated Beza's Confession of Faith.

A Wonderful Cure.-Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman s VEGETABLE DIScovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little affect. But since using three bottles of the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know." 3

At the Memorial Church the rector, Rev. Canon Richardson, was in the chair. The churchwardens, W. M. English, M.D., and R. S. Hannah, submitted the 21st annual report, showing the many parish organizations to be in a very flourishing state. The Women's Aid Association, besides meeting the interest that they undertook to look after, generously contributing $125 towards the cost of the new ceiling. Through the liberal response to the halt-yearly appeals the mortgage debt was reduced during the year to the small sum of $516. The receipts totaled $6,749 99, and after meeting the expenditure of the year there is balance on hand of $21 49 in the general account and $148 82 in mortgage and societies' accounts.

Envelope collections amounted to $2,046; ordinary collections, $982 77. The salaries are apportioned as follows: Rector, $2,000; assistant rector, $370; organist, $360; organ blower, $26; sexton, $200.

Auditors P. E. Bucke and J. M. Mc-Whinney audited the accounts and found

The account of the Ministering Children's League showed the receipts to be $66 36, and the cash balance on hand, $7 70. The Girls' Havergal Mission Band received $73 11 during the year, and have a balance of $23 79. The King's Daughters Circle received $126 70, and have $8 65 left. The receipts of the Y.P.S.C. E. missionary committeeamounted to $62 51; expenditure, $62; The Christian Endeavor Society raised $19 52 in collections, and have a balance of $3 89. The W. A. M. A. received $374 26, and have a balance of $1 22. The Women's Aid Association have $98 44 in the bank. The receipts were $385 70. The Sunday school received $175 90 during the year. Their balance is $4 37.

The report was adopted. The rector's report states that the past $41 06. year had been one of marked progress in church life and work throughout the parish. They had six strong and useful associations in the Memorial Church and three in the mission chapel. The missionary spirit, he said, was deepening, and $1,000 had been received during the year for missionary purposes. The rector's pastoral work is in a measure represented by 1,450 visits, 58 baptisms, 15 marriages, 56 burials, 173 church services and 50 public and private administrations of the Holy Communion. Fifty-six candidates were confirmed on Easter daythe largest in the history of the church. The mission chapel work shows excellent results. Regular services were held and mick, W. H. Minhinnick, W. Dewar and Loney Mr. Shortt's successor.

ST. PAUL'S. The annual financial statement was brought down by the church wardens at last night's adjourned meeting of St. Paul's vestry. The rector, Dean Innes, was in the chair. The pew rents for the year amounted to $2,575; ordinary collections, motion the suditors' report was received $1,250 37; special collections, $500 66; synod collections, $1,365 15. The total receipts including subscriptions and mortgages amounted to $50,153 89.

Among the disbursements are salaries of Rev. J. O. Crisp, $1,083 29; clerical assistance, $200; organist, $758 29; sexton. $541 58. Special collections paid amounted to $434 94; synod collections paid, $1,365 15. The expense account reached $1,015 85. Payment on new building, etc., $28,152 15. Building fund deposit in Ontario Loan and Debenture Company, $10,387 80. Agricultural Savings and Loan Company's mortgage paid off $4,300.

Woodland Cemetery receipts for the year amounted to $5,426 35. There is a balance on hand of $3,385 38. Sunday school receipts amounted to $323 13. There is a cash balance of $115 02. The reports of the Church Workers' Association, mother's meeting, junior W. A. M. A., Women's Auxiliary Missionary Association, Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, and junior Y. P. S. C. E., showed those various societies to be in a healthy and flourishing condition. ST. JAMES', SOUTH LONDON. The adjourned vestry meeting of St. James' Church, South London, was held in the school house, with Canon Davis presiding. Among those present were: J. K. H. Pope, vestry clerk; G. D. Sutherland and R. B. Hungerford, wardens; Prof. Harrison, L. J. Hessell, W. Foster, E. E. Nugent, A. O. Wallace, W. Hart, J. Wells and several others. The financial statement for the year was submitted by the auditors, Messrs. Charles B. Hunt and J. H. A. Beattie. It showed the church to be in a very healthy condition, and gave the members cause for thankfulness. The receipts amounted to $8,726 43, and were made up as follows: Baiance, $44 94; new rents, $1,584 70; offertory collection, $1,176 78; special collection, $88 04; general mission collections, $171 01; loan on school building fund, $4,000; ordinary subscriptions paid to Sunday school fund, $459 08; balance on school fund, from April, 1893, $950 80, and a number of minor items, making the total named.

The disbursements included the salaries of Canon Davis, $1,750; organist, $250; sexton, $200; vestry clerk, $80; organ blower, $25; general expense, $138 52; choir, $99 21; general missions, $171 01; special collections, $80 55; diocesan mission, $95 29; expenses on building fund, $5,519 12, leaving a balance of $47. The Sunday school statement was also satisfactory. It showed a membership of 415, an average attendance of 322, with the collection averaging $3 40 per Sunday. The receipts totaled $205 10; disburse. ments, $147 43, a balance of $57 67.

The mission fund in connection with the school was accounted for by Miss Cora Beattie, the treasurer. The balance from last year was $5 96, collections $50, interest 8 cents. The only expense was that of keeping a boy in the Indian home at Shingwauk, which cost $50. The fund will thus be left with a balance of $6 04.

The various societies of the church had also been doing good work, the receipts of the Women's Auxiliary being $146 23; Senior Mission Band, $46 36; Junior Mission Band, $13 81; poor fund, $16 10. Besides this several bales of clothing were sent to the missions.

A comparison of the assets and liabilities showed a handsome balance in favor of the former account. The assets were made up of: Church property, $8 959 03: church furniture, $935 54; pew rents (due and in arrears), $410 90; organ, $1,500; rectory property, $4,684 95; Sunday school, $5,477 75; cash in bank, $47; total, $22,015 17. The liabilities only amounted to $4,-501 10, comprised of balance of rector's salary, $50; interest, $211 10; Sunday school annual grant, '93-'94, $40; London Loan church mortgage, $200; London Loan Sunday school mortgage, $4,000, thus leaving the balance of assets over liabilities at $17,514 07.

The report was adopted. The sexton's salary was increased $25, and a new scheme for envelope contributions was considered.

ST. GEORGE'S, LONDON WEST. At the adjourned meeting of St. George's vestry the following members were present: Rev. G. B. Sage, Messrs. Jolly, Kennedy, Rhoder, Paul, Andrews, R. A. Jones and

The chief item of business was the annual report, which the vestry are very well pleased with. The receipts were $4,950 58 and the disbursements $4,874 07, balance $76 51, divided as follows: Receipts-Balance in bank, $33 52; pew

Again at 8 o'clock this morning they put out a chimney fire at Miss Laird's dressmaking establishment on Talbot street and at 10:45 a call from box 64 took the brigade to Ontario street on a similar errand.

-An Ottawa dispatch says: "Capt. Williams, of the London branch of the excise department, has been here for the past few days on departmental business. Incidentally he had an interview with Gen. Herbert on military affairs, the captain being instructor of the London Field Battery, and probably the only man in Canada who has served her Majesty for half a

-Lieut. Col. Smith, D. A. G., made an official inspection of the stores of the Seventh Battalion yesterday. This was rendered necessary through the retirement from office of Col. Payne, as, before he could be relieved, "stock" would have to be taken and a transfer made to the new commanding officer. No appointment to that position has yet been made, though it is expected within a few days.

-Goderich.-You are right. It is not true, as has been stated by some newspapers, that Father Lambert, the able writer of one of the best exposures of Col. Robert Ingersoll's sophistries regarding the Bible, has left the Catholic Church. Father Lambert is now editor of the Catholic Times, Philadelphia. It is understood that the Father Lambert who has joined a Protestant body came from Belgium five years ago.

-George Armitt appeared before Magistrate Parke this morning charged with having driven too fast on the 5th. Sentence was suspended. Jas. Drew, George Insoll and John Gavin, three young men, got drunk last night and started to fight in front of a hotel on Richmond street. Drew and Insoll were fined $2 or ten days, and Gavin, whose parents said he would not work, was taxed $5 or twenty days. The trio took the days.

-One of the principal speakers at the Brussels Young Liberal banquet Friday was Mr. C. S. Hyman, M.P., this city. A dispatch says he made a powerful speech on the trade question. He discussed the new tariff at considerable length, and pointed out that it had done little or nothing toward modifying the National Policy. The corruption accompanying an dthe increased expenditure resulting from protectionist taxation were strongly condemned. Hon. A. S. Hardy, Thomas Gibson, M.P.P., and others spoke.

-Mr. Donald H. McKechnie, who died at 10 Marley Place, South London, Sunday, was born in Scotland 48 years age, and came to Canada when young. He was with Fitzgerald, Scandrett & Co., grocers, for five years, and afterwards secured the degree of M. D. over the border. Returning to Canada he traveled for a Hamilton grocery firm. He had been ill for a year though active until recently. He leaves a widow and three daughters, one of whom is married and lives in Toronto, Misses Maud and Belle being at home. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon.

-Mr. Frank Sanagan, who died yesterday, was a well-known citizen, and for years a leading merchant tailor here. He was a London boy, the son of Mr. Frank Sanagan, now of Detroit, and was 50 years population of China? For answer apply to A. Ives, china and glass riveter and general repairer. 308 Dundas street.

Of age at his death. After leaving London be was in business in Toronto for some time, but returned to London two or three ywt time, but returned to London two or three years ago. He was an excellent workman and in health was universally liked for his social disposition. He leaves a widow and one son-Albert, of Chicago. The life of deceased was well insured in the Woodmen of the World and the A. O. U. W. (Fidelity Lodge). He will be buried from the family residence, 464 Talbot street, to-morrow

-On Wednesday Miss McLerie, only daughter of the late John McLerie, G. T. R. station master at Chatham, was married at the residence of her brother, Chas. Mc-Lerie, Caron avenue, Windsor, by Rev. Dr. Battisby, to Mr. Geo. Thomson, a wealthy contractor of Chicago. The bridesmaids were Miss McKay, Bowmanville; Miss Mc-Lerie, Hamilton, and Miss Riddle, Chatham. The groom was supported by Mr. McCormick, of Chicago, Master Allen McLerie acting as page. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Dickson, Toronto: Mr. and Mrs. James McLerie and family, Hamilton, and Mr. J. W. McLerie, of London. A large number of beautiful presents were received by the bride from ner Chatham friends. 'Jamaica on Canvas."

Mr. Adam Brown, ex-M.P., Hamilton's genial postmaster, is in the city. He has attained considerable fame as a lecturer, particularly with his World's Fair entertainment. His latest is "Jamaica on Canvas," which will be given at Victoria Hall to-night. Mr. Brown, as commissioner for Canada at the Jamaica exhibition, had every opportunity of studying this beautiful island, and his impressions will be related with his usual eloquence. His descriptions will be vivified by a series of fine views of the loveliest spots in that country. As the lecture is given in aid of the Y. M. C. A. it should be liberally patronized, apart from its merit.

Taxes Are Due. To-day was the last day on which city taxes were payable and there was quite a rush at the collector's office notwithstanding the rough weather. As a rule it is not the working class that leave their taxes until the last day, but moneyed persons who can get a larger rate of interest on their money than they have to pay on their overdue taxes. One man who was reluctantly paying up remarked that he did not think the council intended the collectors to harass the ratepayers so. His taxes were sixteen months behind and an unexecuted warrant had been hanging over his head for three months. The rolls have to be turned over to Treasurer Pope on the 16th, and warrants will be issued for all delin-$21,911 in Excess of Last Year.

No. 2 committee has undertaken to reduce the rate of taxation this year by making their estimate $71,706, compared with $49,795 last year. Of course, this latter sum did not suffice last year, and $2,526 23 was expended over and above the estimate. In street maintenance alone the estimate of this year exceeds the last by $18,781. The figures are: This year, $67,356; last year, $48,575. There is an item labeled "Extraordinary expenditure," and amounting to $3,300. It includes a stone crusher, $1,100; painting exhibition buildings, $1,000; band stand, Victoria Park, $600; repairs to steam roller, $150. Ten hundred and fifty dollars are needed for bridge repairs, as against $1,220 last year. There may be some paring done by the council and finance committee, however, before the

THE TIMES OF '85.

The Seventh Commemorate Their Trip Through the Gaps.

They Fight Their Battles O'er Again and Long for Some of Mrs. Clarke's Pie-A Veteran Who Had a Previous Engagement-A Jolly Time.

It is now nine years since the Seventh Battalion was called on to assist in quelling the rebellion in the Canadian Northwest. Seasons have come and gone since that memorable occasion, and, like the seasons, have gone many of the men who marched down to the Grand Trunk station on April 7. 1885, to the air of "The Girl I left Behind Me." It was but a remnant of the old battalion that gathered to celebrate the occasion last night, but what was lacking in numbers was made up in enthusiasm. Time has left its mark, and not more than 50 veterans answered to the roll call of last night. The rest are scattered, some are dead, and others have left the country. There was a short street parade before the banquet, the ex-members walking in civilian clothes, with the exception of those who are still connected with the military in one way or another. The Seventh Band again led the procession and once more played the familiar strains about the girls that were left behind, but this time for a shorter interval. Secretary Ironside read several characteristic letters of genuine regret from faraway comrades, letters in which fleeting reference was made to Mrs. Clarke's pies. hard tack, and other delicacies that the campaign was noted for. Among those of genuine regret none were more sincere than that of Pte. Charles Henderson, an inmate of the Stoney Mountain Prison. He pleaded a previous engagement. Letters were also read from Sergt .-Maj. Baxter, First Hussars; Capt. Geo. M. Reid, Rev. Mr. Ball (the old chaplain, late of Vanneck, now of Toronto), Capt. R Dillon and F. Dayton. Supper was served in the City Hotel's best style. The menu card was in the shape of a tent and embellished by many reminders of the times of 1885.

Major A. M. Smith, who was in the chair, introduced the toast list. Lieut. Chisholm, Corp. Wanless and Pte. Dignan replied to the toast of "Canada Our Home." "The Militia of Canada" was coupled with the names of Capt. McKenzie, Lieut. Bapty and Pte. Walter Wright, the latter singing a song.

Dr. Niven and Major J. B. Smyth replied to the toast of "Our Staff." The memory of departed comrades was tousted in silence.

"Sister Corps" brought replies from Sergt. Cranston, No. 1 Company, R. C. R. I. (late Winnipeg Light Infantry), and Corp. Millie, No. 1 Company, R. C. R. I. (late of "A" Battery, Quebec).

Dr. Niven then took charge of the toast "Ourselves" was the toast that brought forth cheer after cheer from the gathering. Pte. Gibson (now surgeon of the Twenty-seventh Battalion, practicing at Watford), Pte. John Cowan, Pte. Moriiarity and Pte. McNamara responded. J. P. Moore, W. Owen and Color-Sergt.

Alex. McDonald paid graceful tribute to "The Ladies." Mayor Essery and Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald responded on behalf of "The Guests." "The Band" was toasted by Dr. Niven and Pte. Ponty replied,

"Our Future Colonel" was coupled with the name of Major A. M. Smith. Messra Ironside and Farrel replied to the toast of "The Committee." It was a labor of love, Mr. Ironsides said. After "The Press" and "The Host" had been honored "The Last Gap" was toasted and other English refuges.

My Life Saved-Nine Years a Dyspeptic and Sufferer of Liver Complaint-Three Bottles Royal Crown Remedy 1 flected a Complete Cure
-Now Twelve Years and no Symp tom of Return of the Disease-Read for Yourself Mrs. James' Words:

LONDON, Aug. 30, 1889. To Mr. Williams:

It is not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to you and the suffering world that I add my testimony with the many you have already received. Royal Crown Remedy cannot be too highly praised; it has saved my life. For nine years I suffered extremely with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint and could not retain anything at all onmy stomach without excessive vomiting. Erysipelas set in, which confined me to my bed. Doctors could do me no good. I also tried many other plans with no success. I was induced by Mr. Issac Williams to try his medicine, which I did after much persuading. Three bottles completely cured me and for twelve years I had no symptons of return. Your medicine is worthy of praise. I advise all suffering humanity to try it for it is the best. It should be used until the cure is complete.

M. W. James.
