FIRE AND DEATH SWEEP THROUGH RUINED TOKIO

Fresh Scenes of Horror Are Being Enacted as the Death List Approaches 250,000 in Japanese Earthquake, Flood and Fire—Many Foreigners Dead.

BRITISH CONSUL AT YOKOHAMA KILLED

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Peking, Sept. 4.—Tokio is still burning.

Fresh scenes of horror are enacted on every side. Dead bodies are heaped everywhere. The death toll is now placed at nearly 250,000.

Imperial guards are blasting the remaining buildings in the hope of turning an advancing wall of flame from the Royal Palace.

One thousand persons in Tokio who escaped the earthquake and fire that followed have committed suicide by drowning, insane with grief.

In Tokio and Yokohama, less than 48 hours' food supply remains, and many thousands are suffering from lack of drinking water.

Engineers are doing their best to repair the mains and sewers. The flames approached the Tokio jail, and fearing that nearly a thousand prisoners would be roasted alive, the officials released them. Many of the convicts immediately started looting. Koreans also are reported to be looting in bands, and the Tokio police frustrated an attempted revolution. The Koreans were attempting to arouse Socialists and others. They were expelled, and the martial law, under which Tokio has been held since Saturday, tightened.

CITIES LEFT IN RUINS.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News, Copyright.

Kobe, Sept. 4.—Tokio and most of Yokohama are merely charred ruins. The deaths from the earthquake, flood and fire are estimated here to exceed 250,000.

Survivors are suffering from lack of food and water, but supplies are being rushed to them. The American squadron, now at Port Arthur, has offered assistance.

An emergency mass meeting of foreigners was held here this afternoon. It was called by the British and American Association in conjunction with the consular body. A relief committee of twelve British and American was appointed, and will go to Yokohama by steamer tonight. Twenty-five thousand yen ($12,500) for the relief of the quake sufferers was subscribed in 10 minutes. The Fujiya hotels at Miyanoshita and Hakone were destroyed by the earthquake. Four foreigners, including Mr. and Mrs. Tebum, were killed.

The steamship, Empress of Australia is delayed at Yokohama. Her hull is not injured, but something fouled her propellers during the upheaval.

The offices of the Canadian Pacific, the Admiral Line and many big shipping firms are in ashes.

PRINCE'S SON KILLED.

Associated Press Despatch.

Shanghai, Sept. 4.—Advices from Tokio say that the second son of Prince Higashi-Kuni was killed instantly in the earthquake. Marshal Prince Kan-In, a descendant of the Mikado emperor, is missing. Keijiro Matsuo and Yoshiro Hiranuma, minister of education and justice, respectively, in the new cabinet, have been missing since the first earthquake shock.

FACES BIG PROBLEM.

Associated Press Despatch.

Osaka, Sept. 4.—The Japanese Government is boldly facing three gigantic problems arising out of the greatest disaster in the history of Japan. The first problem is that of providing food, shelter and clothes for more than 2,000,000 people in Tokio and for many additional millions in other cities and districts affected. The emergency commandeering act will enable the authorities to requisition the necessary supplies and labor. The relief work is being organized throughout the nation.

The second problem is that of maintaining peace and order in Tokio and other cities where already looting and violence are reported. Martial law has been invoked, and other military measures have been adopted to cope with the situation.

The third problem is that of reconstructing the ruined cities, the railways, roads, telegraph and telephone lines. It is estimated that at least £1,000,000,000 sterling will be required for this work.

The worst suffering reported from the entire devastated region is at Yokohama.

Lawlessness and disorder are prevailing there, the local authorities being insufficient to handle the situation.

An emergency relief bureau has been established in Tokio and an army of citizens who escaped the disaster is supplying provisions and water to the victims.

The troops also are doing their best to alleviate the suffering. The imperial gardens at Tokio and every other place that escaped the devastat-

Japan's Rulers Have Close Call

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Peking, Sept. 4.—The Emperor and Empress of Japan narrowly escaped death in the earthquake Saturday, according to a wireless message from the Korea Maru in Yokohama harbor today. A portion of the villa in which they were taking shelter during the shocks Saturday was shaken down. Immediately their majesties expressed fear for the safety of the prince regent, who was in the imperial palace at Tokio, whereupon the head of the imperial household volunteered to go to the capital, and walked almost the entire distance, completely wearing away his wooden shoes, stepping over corpses along the road, not stopping even to aid the wounded and dying until exhausted and with bleeding feet, he staggered into Tokio and reached the prince regent.

SWALLOWED UP BY TIDAL WAVE.

Enoshimo, known as "Picture Island," which was submerged when earthquake and tidal wave devastated Japan. The island was connected with the mainland by a bridge. It was one of the most picturesque islands of the Japanese group, and was visited by every tourist who went to the Land of Nippon.

COL. W. GARTSHORE TELLS OF TRAVELS IN STRICKEN AREA

Londoner Relates Impressions Gained During Trip in the Land of Nippon.

NUMEROUS SHRINES

But several months ago Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore, president of the McClary Manufacturing Company, was in the devastated area of Japan.

"There were no earthquakes while we were there," he stated, "but the natives do not think anything of them—they have so many. The houses are built to withstand the shocks. There are no plaster partitions." The walls, he said, dovetailed. Of late, though, Western types of buildings had been erected.

Japan, no larger in area than the Maritime Provinces, was the home of 82,000,000 people. The land is lowlying, and a tidal wave would almost engulf it.

Col. Gartshore, Mrs. Gartshore and their granddaughter were in the Land of Nippon when the holiday season was in full swing.

Cherry Blossom Time.

It was cherry blossom time. The populations of all the large cities, especially in Tokio and Yokohama, were swelled by swarms of merrymakers who came from the surrounding districts to take part in the festivals associated with blossom time. The festivals were in progress until the cherry trees shed their blossoms—for almost a month.

Circus tents and shows filled the streets. Entire streets, known as "theatre streets," were entirely devoted to amusements. On these streets Japan's beautiful women were in parade.

The devastated area abounds with shrines, gardens, temples and tea houses. Here one sees Western and Eastern architecture.

The country was most prosperous. Factories were working at full speed, and wages, which rose to a high level during the war, had not dropped.

American motion pictures are popular in Japan. Hollywood screen celebrities are as familiar to the Japanese as they are to North Americans. Japan has its own motion pictures, but they are different from those of the occident. They have no sub-titles. A lecturer explains the pictures and gives all the speaking parts.

The English language is fast becoming popular in Japan. The Japanese recognize it as the tongue which most nearly approaches an international one. Japanese is not discarded. The people of Nippon are proud of their language, and in fact are proud of themselves as a race, believing they are one of the most advanced nations on the globe.

Imports From Canada.

Japan imports much from Canada. Of necessity she must, for only 20 per cent of her land is productive.

Japan in every way is almost as modern as America. Her transportation system and her factories are just as efficient, and she possesses one of the first-rate armies and navies in the world.

Col. Gartshore is following the news of the catastrophe with more than passing interest. The land with which he can associate many pleasant recollections has been turned from one of industry and beauty to one of devastation and horror. And the colonel has a kindly, sympathetic feeling for the island nation which is doing so much to set a shining example for the other countries of the East.

MAY BE IN DANGER ZONE.

Miss I. Caroline MacDonald, London social service worker, who is believed to have been in Tokio when the quadruple catastrophe visited the district. She is a daughter of the late Dr. Peter MacDonald, former postmaster. Her sister, who resides at 228 Central avenue, received a letter today from her dated Aug. 12, and postmarked Tokio. Miss MacDonald has been in Japan more than three years.

THINK TIDAL WAVE NEAR SAN PEDRO EFFECT OF QUAKE

Observers See Manifestation of Japanese Disaster Along Californian Coast.

CAUSES COMMOTION

Special to The Advertiser.

San Pedro, Cal., Sept. 4.—Small tidal waves, which broke upon Point Firmin and other parts of the California coast early Monday morning, are believed by naval observers to have been caused by the "washback" of the great Japanese tidal wave of Saturday.

Observers kept watch today for further manifestations of the Japanese disaster along the California coast. The waves of early Monday were four or five feet high. They caused commotion among seafaring men who remembered the severe havoc wrought upon vessels in this harbor after the Chilean earthquake and tidal wave last year.

All day yesterday vessels here had difficulty in keeping their positions owing to the heavy 20 feet high ground swells which followed the tidal waves. The battleships Idaho and Nevada pitched and rolled so badly their quarter boats touched the water.

Swells piled over the San Pedro breakwater, carrying away the lighthouse tender. Planking and other debris was piled along the shore.

Mariners of vessels arriving today reported the waves at sea the highest in their experience.

Seamen who saw the four tidal waves early Monday said they came in only a few seconds apart and were followed by a number of great swells. E. A. Banfield, a long distance swimmer, was attempting to cross the channel to Santa Catalina Island when the waves rushed in. He was nearly swept away, but was picked up by a power boat accompanying him.

GIRL CLERK TAKES POSTOFFICE JOB, BUT MEN PROTEST

Miss Langford of Thamesville Commenced Work in City Postoffice Today.

G. W. V. A. IN ARMS

Miss Langford of Thamesville, the first woman to be employed in the downstairs branch of the London post office, commenced her duties this morning. She spent the first few hours in getting acquainted with the staff and other routine phases of a large office.

Although it is generally conceded that Miss Langford will be placed in the money order department, called by the employees, "one of the best jobs in the London office," Postmaster Thomas Duncan did not feel that it was a matter of public interest to make known what work she would be assigned to and refused to state the exact nature of her duties.

"It is just an addition to the staff, and she will work around the office," was his only comment.

The appointment of Miss Langford to the city office has caused a furore of protest among the local members of the Great War Veterans' Association, and that body is determined to find out why the Civil Service Commission should pick a woman for the vacancy and disregard the applications of several London war veterans, who, it is claimed, could do the work with ease.

When acquainted with the fact that Miss Langford had started to work, Col. W. G. Coles, president of the G. W. V. A. stated that the association has lodged a protest with the department and no further action will be taken until a reply has been received.

Other employees in the London office are not entirely satisfied with the appointment either. Many feel that one of the men employed in the mail sorting or other routine work should have been promoted to the position and that vacancy filled by a returned man.

"I can't see why it is necessary to bring a woman into the office," one employee remarked. "They could hardly ask her to shove around a truck, sort mail or handle bags. That's why she is given a good job."

Heroic Operator Sticks To Post As Earthquake Sends Thousands to Doom

Courageous Japanese Youth, Taki Yonemura, Gains Fame as He Remains at Key in Face of Death, Advising World of His Country's Greatest Disaster.

By L. C. OWEN.
Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

San Francisco, Sept. 4.—Out of the appalling tragedy which has swept the two greatest cities of Japan has emerged another heroic wireless operator who, like the courageous Jack Binns of steamship Republic fame, stuck steadfastly to his key in the face of almost certain death and disaster.

Binns, on January 23, 1909, won the heartfelt plaudits of an entire world when, forgetting his own peril, he continued for hours to send out S. O. S. calls from the sinking liner Republic after she had been rammed by the Florida and finally succeeded in guiding rescue craft to her side in time to save all on board.

Taki Yonemura, operator in charge of the Japanese government wireless station at Tomioka, 144 miles from Yokohama, is the man who, emulating Binns' feat of almost a generation ago, probably will go down in history as one of the outstanding heroes of the terrible catastrophe.

The only man at the Tomioka station who understands English, and himself having only a limited knowledge of the tongue, Yonemura for three days and three nights, without a single respite, flashed to the outside world the only authentic first hand information concerning the world's greatest tragedy.

It was from Yonemura that the first word of the Yokohama earthquake came last Saturday. When the violent trembling was followed by a succession of tidal waves which inundated the great city, again it was the little Japanese radio operator who, groping his way uncertainly in foreign tongue, flashed across 4,700 miles of broad Pacific the dread message that thousands of his countrymen had perished. When Tokio was rended so that hardly one stone stood upon another and the conflagration followed, again it was Yonemura, with his smattering of English, who first apprised the outside world.

Hour after hour, day after day, and through the long vigils of the night, the "Japanese Jack Binns" has been on the job. His messages picked up here by the big receiving station of the Radio Corporation in America in turn have been flashed to press associations and newspapers throughout the country. He was the only source of information. Cables were out of commission and there were no messages from their correspondents in Yokohama and Tokio, and it was Yonemura who stood in the breach. Never once has he failed to answer his call. In the intervals between sending he has laboriously spelled it out, letter for letter, in the continental code. When it is stated that the code is not ordinarily used by Japanese wireless operators, his handicap can be better understood.

From out the great disaster there undoubtedly will come great heroes. Great emergencies and catastrophes always produce them, and when Japan makes up that list it is safe to wager that the name of Yonemura, wireless operator, will be close to the top.

PRISON TERM FOR MAN WHO ROBBED HIS EMPLOYER

Stewart Gush Is Sentenced to From Three Months to Two Years in Reformatory.

HE LOOTED SAFE

An indeterminate sentence of from three months to two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory was imposed on Stewart Gush by Magistrate Graydon in police court this morning, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing from his employer.

Gush, who was arrested three weeks ago on a charge of drunkenness pleaded guilty to having stolen from the safe of Isaac T. Fox, local pawnbroker and employer, the sum of $190.52 in gold and $65 cash on August 3.

Gush, when he appeared this morning was again asked to plead and elect trial, which he did. He blamed liquor for the theft, claiming that he had been on a drinking bout for six weeks and din not know what he was doing at the time. He had been employed by Fox for five years.

Magistrate Graydon, in imposing sentence, said he would like to let him go on suspended sentence. He pointed out that he was liable to 14 years' imprisonment but having regard to his age and the fact that it was his first criminal offence, he imposed the lesser sentence.

FEAR LONDON WOMAN IN EARTHQUAKE ZONE

Miss Caroline MacDonald, the Daughter of Late Postmaster, Believed To Have Been in Tokio.

Among those Canadians believed to have been living in the Tokio region, where the earthquake of Saturday did an overwhelming amount of damage, was Miss Caroline MacDonald, a daughter of the late Dr. Peter MacDonald of Central avenue, who has been living in the city of Tokio for a number of years past.

Miss MacDonald went to Japan 17 years ago, appointed by the world board of the Young Women's Christian Association, to organize a branch of that association in Japan.

Six years ago she severed her connection with the Y. W. C. A., and has since that time been engaged in independent social srevice work in the city of Tokio, where she maintained a home.

The last letter received from Miss MacDonald by her sister, who lives at the family residence on Central avenue, was dated Aug. 12. Unless she left the city of Tokio for a short stay in the mountains, there is little likelihood that Miss MacDonald was not living in the area struck by the disaster.

SURPLUS FOR CITY LARGELY UP TO FAIR

If Western Fair Makes Ends Meet, City Will Be $10,000 Richer.

Upon the financial success of the 1923 Western Fair depends largely whether the city is going to finish the year with a surplus, reasons City Treasurer James Bell.

As the city councillors have placed themselves on record as being ready to come to the rescue with any amount up to $10,000 if the exhibition encounters reverses, this must be reckoned with as an expenditure.

The city treasurer feels that it is just a little too soon to predict a surplus, although he does not "throw cold water" upon the possibility with a clear-cut prediction to the contrary.

"A 25-cent admission fee for the fair has been set," he reminds, "and there is a chance that the result will be so satisfactory that the fair board will be able to make both ends meet and not have to call upon the council for the promised assistance. If that transpires, it will certainly help the situation considerably and mean $10,000 toward the surplus as predicted by the mayor."

CONSTABLE ALEX. SHAVER ASKS FOR REINSTATEMENT

Alex. Shaver, one of the most active members of the late county police force which dissolved on August 23rd, giving way to a new organization, has applied for reinstatement.

Even since he handed his resignation to the county officials, Constable Shaver has been active in police work. Recently he journeyed to Dundock, 90 miles north of Toronto, and arrested Harold McGrath for the theft of an auto from a Middlesex resident. The prisoner was brought before Squire W. H. Chittick at the interim session of the county court and remanded for a week.

The officer and Constable William Fifield, another member of the old force are at present in business together.

VICTIM OF DROWNING TO BE INTERRED IN CITY

Funeral of Cecil Roy To Be Held in London On Thursday.

Cecil Carmen Roy, the London young man who was drowned in Lake Whittaker near Harrietsville, Sunday noon, will be buried Thursday at 10 a.m. from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Roy, 17 Askin street, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Services will be conducted by Rev. J. C. T. Morris of Askin Street Methodist Church.

Roy was riding a horse down the bank to the lake when he was thrown into the water. Besides his father and mother he leaves two brothers Howard of Brandon, Manitoba; Irvine of Windsor; and six sisters, Mrs. Arthur Holland and Mrs. Roy Jenkins of this city, Mrs. Harry Stewart of California, Mrs. Glenn O'Dell of Niagara Falls and Miss Dorothy and Miss Olive at home. He was 19 years old.

SEPTEMBER WILL SET NEW BUILDING RECORD

September is destined to be another record-breaking month in the building line, according to reports available from the office of the city building inspector.

Since the first of the month no less than 20 alteration or building permits have been issued for work estimated at $24,525. This sum is chiefly for residences and garages of the better sort.

Lawyer Gets Big Banknote But Finds He Can't Spend It

E. W. Flock, local lawyer, stated this morning that he had received the highest fee ever recorded in legal circles for taking an affidavit.

Mr. Flock said that some time ago he had been visited by a man who wished to have an oath administered. The action was performed and Mr. Flock left it to his client to pay him. Pulling a huge roll of bills from his pocket, the man peeled off one and gave it to the lawyer.

But there was a fly in hte ointment.

On close examination Mr. Flock saw that the bill he had received was for 10,000 marks, currency of Germany, which in normal times was worth $2,500, but at the time it was given to him was worth about five cents.

Nothing daunted, the legal light left his office and went to have his shoes shined. On completion of the work he tendered the German bill to the bootblack, who in all seriousness told him that he could not change it as it was for too large a sum.

Mr. Flock stated he did not have the heart to tell the man that the bill was at this time worth less than a nickel, so he put it in his pocket and paid in good and lawful currency of the Dominion of Canada.

So that, although the German bill is not good here, the lawyer maintains that he has received the highest fee recorded for administering an oath.

THINK DETROIT BANDIT GAVE FICTITIOUS NAME

Police Point Out Coincidence in Address of Alleged Londoner.

With the further details of the man held in Detroit for murder and giving the naem of Jack Downie, and an address in London as his home, local police are inclined to believe that the man is lying.

A coincidence was pointed out to The Advertiser by one of the members of the force, who stated that it was strange that 414 Pall Mall street should be the address given, as some two years ago Jack Yohn of that address was arrested and charged with complicity in the Wyoming bank robbery. He was discharged when his mother put up a strenuous plea for him. The officer in question remarked on the fact that the same address should be given by the man in Detroit and stated that it strengthened his belief that Downey was lying when he said that was his name. It is stated that Yohn is in Detroit.

LONDON GIRL WINS HIGH HONORS AT TORONTO FAIR

Two pupils of George Carrie, the new tenor soloist in the First Methodist Church, and the well-known singing master of St. Thomas, have been awarded prizes in the singing competitions in the Toronto Exhibition. Gladys McEvoy of London was fifirst in the altos, and Marion Booth or Orillia was third in the same class. Both are pupils of Mr. Carrie.

HURON COLLEGE MAN GETS OXFORD DEGREE

Rev. Frank Anderson Will Be Dubbed B.D., D.D. at the Famous Seat of Learning.

Rev. Frank Anderson of Huron College expects to go to England next year to have formally conferred upon him the degrees of B.D. and D.D. of Oxford University.

Professor Anderson received word this morning from the regis professor of divinity at Oxford, that the university had accepted a thesis, submitted by him, and on this account he had been awarded the degrees of B. D. and D.D.

Professor Anderson's thesis was written on the subject, "The Greek Apologists of the First Two Centuries—Their Work and Message."

INSPECT CITY MARKET TO PROBE CONDITIONS

Two members only of the finance committee conducted a scheduled inspection of the city market this mornin; Ald. Albert Judd, chairman and Ald. George Burdick. A report upon conditions affecting rental space, etc., will be submitted when next these problems confront Mayor Wenige and colleagues.

The market problems have long vexed the aldermen as well as many others but a final settlement with a readjustment of rentals and the letin of space is promised for the immediate future. It is three years or more since the rates were elevated it is explaind.

MURRELL NOW DOCILE, TAKES BATH AT JAIL

Sidney Makes Good Use of Tub and Sponge Without Opposition.

Sydney Murrell took his bath today without so much as a murmur of opposition.

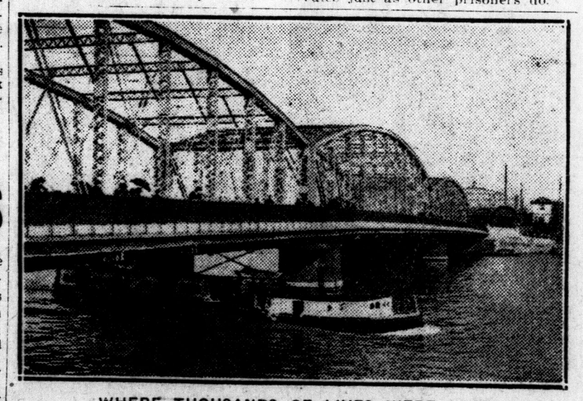

Guards were not required to bathe him as they were a week ago. He made good use of the tub and sponge which Governor Byron Dawson had ordered for him specially.

At present, the governor stated, Murrell is just as well behaved as any of the prisoners and is giving no trouble at all.

He is eating regularly and sleeps well, and has been especially docile since the jail officials demonstrated to him that he must conform to jail rules just as other prisoners do.

ISSUE WRIT FOR ACCOUNT.

Isaac E. Markle and Harriet A. Markle of London Township, through their solicitor, W. C. Fitzgerald, have issued a writ against Victoria A. Goulding, nurse, of London Township, for $581.50. They claim this amount is the balance on the price of three lots, a promissory note dated October 12, 1922, for $180, and cash lent and an account paid. The writ was issued in the county court.

WHERE THOUSANDS OF LIVES WERE LOST.

When hundreds of refugees from fire, flood and quake were fleeing across the famous Ryogoku bridge, one of the longest and best known in Japan, it collapsed. The Advertiser illustration shows the bridge as it appeared previous to the great disaster which devastated the country. In the area round the bridge thousands of lives were lost. The bridge led to the mountains and safety.

HARVESTERS FROM BRITAIN DEMAND PASSAGE HOME

BRITISH HARVEST WORKERS DEMAND THEY BE RETURNED

Immigrants Now in Winnipeg Declare They Have Been Deceived.

CLAIM HARDSHIPS

Special to The Advertiser.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 4.—Claiming that they had been brought to Canada under false pretenses, some 150 British harvesters assembled at a meeting in the labor headquarters last night and passed a resolution demanding that "those responsible for bringing them to the Dominion send them immediately back to their homes."

The sentiment of the resolution, which was extremely bitter, implied that the imported harvesters had suffered "great distress and degradation." A committee of seven was appointed to interview the immigration authorities and the men propose to march to the Labor Temple this evening, requesting support of the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council, and also the moral backing of the Central Labor Council O. B. U.

A deputation will also be sent to Frank Hodges, Labor member of the British House of Commons, on his arrival in Winnipeg today. He will be urged to take grievances advanced by the men before the responsible authorities.

A number of the harvesters related their experiences since arrival in Canada. They charged that inducements offered to men before embarking in England had been very inviting, but on reaching their destination in Western Canada they had discovered that in many instances the farmers did not require any help, or again that inexperienced harvesters were not desired. Several speakers complained of working on farms for a number of days, only to be summarily discharged without receiving any wages for their labor. Their purses depleted, they had been left stranded, and in some cases the men asserted they had been forced to walk for miles to the nearest city.

"It is up to the people who brought us over to fulfill their promises, or else get us out of here," said one of the speakers. "For one I am fed up with the whole business, and while I came over prepared to do any kind of work, I refuse to be bufeted about like a common chattel."

WARD ONE ALDERMEN SEEKING MAYORALTY?

Mayor Hears That Two of the Ward's Representatives May Be Candidates.

Mayor Wenige was vigorous in his assurance today that Ald. John Greer has not viewed the city hall salary question in the proper light, if he imagines that he (Wenige) intends using the Brittain report for political purposes during the coming municipal campaign.

"I do not consider city affairs from a political angle," his worship explained. "In fact I do not have to. I view them from the businessman's angle. Ald. Greer and others have evidently questioned as to what authority I have for the assurance that Dr. Brittain is going to submit a city hall salary recommendation. I say that my business training convinces me."

The mayor reported today incidentally that he had just heard that some of the boys at headquarters were considering the suggestion that Ald. Greer be groomed for the next municipal campaign."

His worship added that he had also heard that "another Ward One alderman was considering entering the fray." "I hear that he intends to 'put it over big' after the fair," said the mayor, intimating that he was still ready to meet all comers.

CLAIMS NO LONDONERS ON LINER NEAR JAPAN

The Empress of Canada Was Scheduled To Arrive at Yokohama Sunday.

As far as is known in local railway circles there are no Londoners on the C. P. R. liner, "Empress of Canada" which was scheduled to arrive at Yokohama, Japan on Sunday and whose safety is feared on account of the huge tidal wave which swept the Nippon coast after the first quake. The "Empress of Canada" is the largest steamship on the Pacific, and no word of her arrival has yet reached Canada.

No Londoners booked through the city office on the Empress of Canada, Harry McCallum, local agent told The Advertiser today although it is quite possible, he said that some may have purchased their passage in other cities.

C. P. R. officals calculate that the liner would be about 800 miles off the Japanese coast when the first quake rocked the island. It is known that at least 17 members of the families of Canadian missionaries are aboard.

ing shocks and flames have been thrown open to refugees.

Tokio is still virtually isolated. Aeroplanes, however, are flying to the capital with official messages. While no accurate estimate can yet be formed, it is believed the damage to property in Tokio alone will be more than 5,000,000,000 yen. It is thought the reconstruction work in the city will require at least two years, probably more.

CANADIAN IN JAPAN.

St. Catharines, Sept. 4.—Mrs. (Rev.) Albert Sneyd, whose husband is in charge of the Y. M. C. KINGSTON PEOPLE.

Special to The Advertiser.

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 4.—Two Kingstonians may have lost their lives in Japan, but no information is available. A daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. Dunlop was living in Japan and was just recently married. Mrs. H. F. Woodsworth, formerly Miss Ida Chown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Chown, was living at Kobe, Japan, where her husband is dean of the university.

ARE FROM HAMILTON.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hamilton, Sept. 4.—Among Canadians in Japan, in or near the devastated area, are the following from Hamilton:

Fred and Mrs. Ainsworth, representing the Methodist Church; Rev. Victor C. Spencer, of Nagano; Miss Florence Spencer, of Veda, and Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Carey. Rev. Mr. and Miss Spencer are son and daughter of Rev. Canon Spencer of this city. It is thought they are at a distance from the scene of the disaster. They are Anglican missionaries. Miss Margaret Keagley, daughter of Mrs. W. S. Keagley of Dundas, is also a Methodist missionary in Japan, but it is not known here where she is stationed.

BELIEVE BAPTISTS SAFE.

New York, N.Y., Sept. 4.—All Baptist missionaries in Japan are believed safe, according to a cablegram received early today by the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society from Chas. B. Tenny, secretary of the Japan Baptist Mission.

DISASTER OVERTOOK TOKIO.

By the Tokio Correspondent of The Osaka Mainichi.
Copyright in Canada.

Osaka, Japan, Sept. 4.—My last sight of Tokio was at 3 p.m. on Saturday. At that time, in the midst of unchecked fires and repeated shocks, I saw people trying vainly to reach safety, heedless of hundreds of corpses in the streets.

The disaster had come upon Tokio about three hours earlier.

The first shock was felt at a little before noon on Saturday. The center of the quake was then believed to have been at the bottom of the sea near Oshima Island, about fifty miles southwest of us. It came in the form of a dozen terrible, vertical four-inch wave movements, the earth beneath us rising and falling.

Almost Completely Destroyed.

Within an hour the quakes had somewhat subsided, but tremors continued. A disastrous conflagration followed the shaking to pieces of Tokio and Yokohama. Yokusuka was almost completely destroyed, as were the districts of Cieba, Kangawa, Shizuoka and Saltama.

The extent of the damage and casualties was at first incalculable. At the time I estimated that nearly 200,000 houses had been destroyed in Tokio and that a like number of inhabitants had been killed and injured.

The crown prince's palace, nearly all the buildings of our government, the Bank of Japan, the Imperial University and library, department stores, theatres, public halls, all the newspaper offices—these were totally destroyed. The imperial palace itself was heavily damaged.

The magnificent new skyscrapers, of which Tokio was proud, and which had been recently completed in front of the central station, were destroyed.

Prince Regent Fled.

Our prince regent, who fled from the imperial palace at the first shock, later returned to a somewhat detached structure, which at first was judged safe. But as the danger continued, he fled again from the district and through Takasaki, 60 miles to the northwest. His destination is unknown.

One of the most terrible occurrences of the first brief hour in the crumbling, burning capital, was when the government printing office collapsed and several hundred employees were pinned in the ruins.

Another tragedy of which we heard early was near Fuji, where 500 girl spinners were killed in the crash of a factory.

When I left Tokio, frantic refugees were struggling to escape through streets piled with corpses.

FLEE FOR SAFETY.

By JAMES L. BUTTS.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright.

Shanghai, Sept. 4.—Messages received here from Kuyuan, Kansu Province, which was the scene of violent earthquakes in 1920, report that strong tremors were felt there Sunday. People are terrified and fleeing by thousands. Casualties are as yet unknown. An epidemic similar to that which followed the earthquakes of 1920 is feared.

UNITED STATES RUSHES AID.

By JAMES L. BUTTS.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright.

Shanghai, Sept. 4.—The American fast destroyer fleet of six ships, engaged in battle practice off the Chefoo coast, has been ordered to proceed with all possible speed to Yokohama and is expected to arrive there some time Wednesday. The American destroyers will render all possible aid. It also is expected they will help facilitate communication between the American embassy in Yokohama and the state department in Washington.

U. S. SPEEDS RELIEF.

Special to The Advertiser.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Speed and effectiveness with which American naval units are being concentrated for the relief of Japanese disaster victims was shown in despatches to the United States government today from Admiral Anderson, commander of the Asiatic fleet. Anderson notified the department that he was speeding from Chefoo, in Chinese waters, to Yokohama, aboard his flagship, the armored cruiser Huron, with all available food and medical supplies. The destroyer tender Blackhawk he has sent to Tsing Tao, China, for supplies, and it will go thence to Yokohama.

Destroyer division 45, consisting of six destroyers, has been ordered to fit out at Ching-han Tao, China, with the utmost despatch, for medical relief in Japan, and proceed as quickly as possible to Yokohama.

The commander of this squadron was ordered to obtain from the marine guard at Peking and from the army all available medical supplies and medical personnel. The destroyer Pekos, now in the Philippines, has been ordered to fill up with provisions, flour, beans and other suitable items for the destitute, medical supplies, blankets and miscellaneous supplies, coffins, hardware and all medical officers available, and transport all Red Cross supplies. The Pekos is to go at once to Yokohama.

Associated Press Despatch.

Washington, Sept. 4.—The United States moved swiftly yesterday, to bring the full force of the government and the people to the aid of stricken Japan. While government executive departments were directed to assist in the work, the public were urged in an appeal issued by President Coolidge to contribute funds to the American Red Cross for aiding the unfortunate and giving relief to the people of Japan. The Red Cross announced that it had started the fund with a contribution of $100,000 for the relief of victims of the earthquake.

Effort, it was emphasized, will be directed toward assisting the sister nation on the farther shores of the Pacific by every available means.

The navy department was one of the first executive branches of the government to take action, through Admiral Anderson in command of the Asiatic fleet despatching seven destroyers from Port Arthur, one of which is expected to arrive at Nagasaki tomorrow and the other six at Yokohama on Wednesday. All are carrying medical supplies and food, while other stores are being taken aboard larger vessels of the fleet at Chefoo, China.

The entire Asiatic fleet has been placed at the disposal of the Japanese minister of marine for such service as he may care to make of it in relief work.

MANY FOREIGNERS MISSING.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Peking, Sept. 4.—Flames wiped out the foreign residence district of Yokahama, and the fate of many Americans and Europeans is unknown, a wireless message from the Korea Maru in Yokohama harbor, reported today.

Scores of foreigners are missing and injured. The three foreign districts of Hamonyama, Nogeyama and Iseyama were destroyed by Saturday's quakes, as were the beach cities of Enoshima, Isoko and Hommoku, which were heavily populated with foreigners.

OIL TANKS EXPLODE.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 4.—A despatch to the Evening News from Peking says that oil tanks exploded in Yokohama yesterday morning with heavy losses of life.

The despatch also says that another bridge upon which many foreigners had taken refuge has collapsed. The despatch also says two islands, which were used for summer homes by Europeans, have disappeared off Yokohama, and that three similar colonies on the coast have been destroyed by the tidal wave.

Three Yokohama suburbs, peopled by Europeans, have been razed by fire, the despatch says, and no news has been received of the fate of the inhabitants.

POLICE FIGHT KOREANS.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Peking, Sept. 4.—Police of Tokio fought a pitched battle with 200 Koreans, who attempted to arouse Socialists and others to revolution, according to a despatch from Osaka today. The Koreans finally were expelled, and martial law tightened, the despatches said. Casualties were not given.

BRITISH CONSUL KILLED.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 4.—The British consul at Yokohama and about 100 of the foreign residents of the city, are believed to be dead, according to despatches received by the Central News by way of Shanghai. Shipping is still unable to enter Yokohama harbor, owing to continued submarine upheavals.

FEAR FOR SAFETY.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.)

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 4.—It was stated here today among the Salvation Army workers in Tokio, for whose safety grave fears are felt, are Captain Harold Burrows, son of Major Burrows, of St. John, N. B., a graduate of Toronto College, and Captain Kenneth Barr, formerly of Halifax.

The Tokio Salvation Army headquarters is in the center of the city and in the area where the destruction was possibly the greatest.

SENDS DISTRESS SIGNALS.

Associated Press Despatch.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 4.—Distress signals from the Japanese steamship Taiyo Maru, believed to be in the vicinity of the Japanese coast, were picked up by the naval radio station at Bremerton, near here, early today. The vessel, using the Japanese code, finally got in touch with the steamer Korea Maru.

According to available records here the Taiyo Maru sailed from San Francisco Aug. 21, for Hong Kong. She left Honolulu Aug. 27.

LIMASOL SHAKEN.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 4.—An official message received today from Limasol Island of Cyprus, says that Limasol was shaken by severe earth tremors last night and early this morning. No details were given.

CONSULS ARE KILLED.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Osaka, Japan, Sept. 4.—The foreign settlement at Yokohama was completely destroyed by tremendous earthquakes Saturday. The American consulate collapsed, the consul and his wife dying in the ruins. The British consul also was killed.

Destruction by quakes, fire and floods at Tokio was even more appalling, first official reports issued today declaring 200,000 were killed and injured in the capital alone.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP BABY.

Elaine Munce, seven months old daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Munce, 376 Maitland street, who was adjudged the winner in the grand championship baby show held at Port Stanley yesterday. The baby was presented with a $500 Northern Life endowment policy as a prize. She is shown in the above picture holding a silver cup which she was also awarded.

Leverhulme Gives Estate To People of Stornoway

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 4.—Viscount Leverhulme, who is abandoning his industrial development town-planning schemes for Stornoway, Lewis Island, Scotland, is making a princely gift of his estate there for the use of the people.

At a joint meeting of the public bodies of Stornoway, at which he explained the reasons for his complete abandonment of his plans, he offered the whole land which he owns in Lewis as a free gift to the people, including the castle and the castle grounds. The Leverhulme gas works, offal factory and laundry at Stornoway are to be presented to the town council to meet the cost of the upkeep of the castle and grounds.

The castle is one of Viscount Leverhulme's residences.

TO MOVE FOR COLORS FOR 18TH BATTALION

Mayor Will Sponsor Project at Tonight's Council Meeting.

Mayor Wenige believes that the time is opportune for the presentation of colors to the 18th Battalion of Canadian infantry by the municipality of London. At tonight's session of the city council he will move to this effect. It is expected that he will receive the support of a majority of the aldermen in this project.

The 18th Battalian of the Second Canadian Division served overseas without colors, and the mayor thinks by this presentation, which is suggested for Armistice Day, the city would be but showing a little appreciation of service rendered.

At the last meeting of No. 1 committee the mayor's proposal was referred to the council, as he was out of the city, and none of the aldermen desired to tackle it. In fact, one or two of them even hinted that they would oppose the move on the ground that the 18th Battalion was not recruited in London alone. It is not felt, however, that this will interfere with London tendering regimental colors, as this city is the headquarters for Military District No. 1, and the personnel of the 18th was drawn from Western Ontario.

DESERTED WIVES TAKE TROUBLES TO COURT

Four Cases of This Sort Before the Police Magistrate in Private Hearing.

The police court roster was heavy this morning with charges under the deserted wives maintenance act, no less than four being called.

Magistrate Graydon heard the cases in his office after court adjourned, and attempts at reconciliation will be made in some.

The case of A. Jenkins under the act was enlarged for a week, at request of the counsel for the defence. It was pointed out by counsel for the wife that the man is $540 in arrears of alimony and the woman is at present destitute. The two lawyers had a slight argument about enlarging the case, the complainant feeling that it was not fair to the woman to lay it over again.

Charles Mossop was charged by his wife with desertion, but as the woman did not appear in court, it was adjourned for a week.

George Clements was also arraigned under the same heading, Mrs. Clements stating the facts to Magistrate Graydon at the conclusion of the court.

Andrew Thompson appeared on a charge of being disorderly, he having been arrested when police answered a call sent in by his wife. The case was not heard in court.

W. Matthews, charged with vagrancy, was remanded for a week, he being too ill to appear this morning.

WILL TRY TO COLLECT FROM COUNTY MILKMEN

Court Action Expected To Result in Payment of License Fees.

At last the city is going after delinquent milk dealers other than residents of London who have failed to pay the municipal license fee. Quite a number of them will be affected.

And City Solicitor T. G. Meredith will do the legal footwork in the city police court if Mayor Wenige's opinion carries any weight in civic circles.

City Inspector McCallum consulted the mayor in this connection, and his worship voiced the belief that the city solicitor should be requested to defend the city bylaw in the courts.

The city authorities explain that there are several milk dealers who, while they do not come into the city with their product, sell to local distributors, who in turn sell to their customers within the limits of the community. That they should pay the same license fee as other dealers is the claim. And the technicalities will now be threshed out in the court if present arrangements are carried out.

LODGES WILL HONOR LONDONER IN DEATH

City Organizations To Attend Funeral of Arthur S. Glass.

The funeral of Arthur S. Glass, who died on Sunday following a lengthy illness, will be held this afternoon from his home at 317 Horton street.

The death of Mr. Glass has caused deep regret among his many friends in London. Prominent in fraternal circles, Mr. Glass was second standard bearer of Richard Coeur de Lion Preceptory, No. 4, Knights Templar and a member of the Mocha Arab patrol. Both of these organizations will attend his funeral this afternoon.

Mr. Glass has been a lifelong resident of London. He was employed as chief income assessor for the city of London, and was an authority on municipal income taxation. Being a man who fulfilled his duties with the utmost zeal and enthusiasm, his position, according to Assessment Commissioner Bennett, will be a hard one to fill.

Mr. Glass is survived by his widow, his mother, Mrs. Eliza Glass; two brothers, Leonard and Grover, and two sisters, Mildred and Myrtle.

BUT 40,000 LEFT.

Associated Press Despatch.

Pekin, Sept. 4.—There are but 40,000 persons left in the city of Yokohama, all the rest being dead or having fled to places of greater safety, according to a landing party from the steamer Korea Maru, whose report on conditions was received here today. Kokohama's population as given by the last enumeration, was approximately 423,000.

The landing party, it is asserted, obtained evidence in support of the earlier story that an attack had been made on the new premier.

Efforts of the legations here to communicate with Tokio thus far have proved fruitless.

Advises Canada Use Care In Relation to the Empire

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 4.—Canada should watch its step carefully, advance cautiously and act sagaciously in its natural evolution in relation to the British Empire declared Sir James Aikins, Lieut.-Governor of the Canadian Bar Association here.

Pointing out that by its constitution the relation of the Irish Free State to the crown and the imperial parliament was to be that of the Dominion of Canada, Sir James said: "Can it be assumed that the treaty intended the Irish Free State should remain bound by that status and relationship as they existed in Canada at the date of the treaty, or is it not more reasonable to suppose that as Canada evolves constitutionality in respect to the Empire, the Irish Free State will follow accordingly"

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF MISSIONARIES FROM DISTRICT

Miss Isobel Govenlock and Miss Annie Bishop in the Devastated Region.

ARE AT KARUIZAWA

Fear entertained for a number of missionaries from the London Methodist district who are believed to have been stationed in Tokio, and the surrounding district, all of which has been ravaged by the great earthquake which commenced Saturday.

A list of Canadian missionaries was obtained this morning from Mrs. Gordon Wright, who is president of the London branch of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church. At least two names are included in the Tokio district of missionaries who are well-known in the city.

Has Sister In London.

Miss Isobel Govenlock, who was sent to Japan by the Ridout Street Methodist Church, and Miss Annie Bishop, a daughter of Dr. Bishop, a former pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Miss Govenlock is a sister of Mrs. John Hyatt, 94 Windsor avenue. Miss Bishop is a sister of Mrs. Benson, also of this city.

Forty foreigners have been reported killed in Karuizawa, where Miss Govenlock was stationed.

Mrs. Hyatt, Miss Govenlock's sister, this morning received a letter from her, dated August 16, in which she stated that her term in Karuizawa would last until September 3. In the meantime, word is being anxiously awaited.

Miss Govenlock, who was a school teacher previous to becoming a missionary, spent much of her life in London, and is well-known here.

The districts named in the case of the following missionaries may be incorrect, as Mrs. Wright's list mentions Miss Govenlock as being situated at Fuki, while according to Mrs. Hyatt's information her sister was at Karuizawa.

Located In Tokio.

At Tokio are Miss Robertson, Miss Blackmore, Miss Drake, Miss Rorke, Miss Annie Bishop, Miss Blanche Majaffine, Mrs. Pinsent (of Newfoundland), Mrs. Allen, Miss Myra Simpson, Miss Chapple and Miss Bates; at Fuki, Miss Hanley, Miss Armstrong, Miss Govenlock and Miss Courtice; at Chezuokie, Miss Greenbank; at Kofu, Miss Ryan, Miss Clarke and Miss Barr; at Canezawa, Miss Jost, Miss Lediard and Miss Tait; at Toyom, Miss Armstrong and Miss Tweedie; at Naguna, Miss Hart and Miss Scott; at Ueda, Miss Colbeck, Miss Heard and Miss Philip.

In addition to the distress and uncertainty felt concerning the missionaries in this district, Mrs. Wright stated that missionary work would suffer a severe set-back if the headquarters of the Canadian Women's Methodist Missionary Society in Japan, a $100,000 building, situated in Tokio, had been destroyed, as in all probability has been the case.

CANON CODY TO ATTEND ALUMNI CONVENTION

Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, former minister of education in the provincial government, is to be the principal speaker at tonight's session, opening the annual meeting of the Alumni of Huron College, which continues tomorrow in the college buildings on St. George street.

Canon Cody's address will follow a banquet at which the members of the Alumni Association will meet for the formal opening of their annual gathering. Between fifty and a hundred clergymen are expected to be present.

A second speaker at the evening session will be R. W. Allin of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Synod of Huron, who will discuss "The Relationship of the Laymen to the Church and to the Clergy."

At 10 o'clock, the conclusion of Mr. Allin's address, devotional exercises will be conducted by Rev. C. C. Waller, principal of Huron College, in the College chapel.

London Suffers Insulin Famine

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 4.—London has been without a supply of insulin since Friday last, according to reports. The famine has been caused by an excessive quantity being used in experiments which have been carried out with the object of preventing reaction following injection of the treatment for diabetes which often is serious.

SAYS SOME LINES TODAY COST LESS THAN BEFORE WAR

Wholesale Grocer Declares Retail Men in Trade Are Not Profiteering.

COSTS NEAR NORMAL

Complaints against alleged profiteering of retail grocers made by a housewives' investigating committee in Detroit last week are not at all justified, locally, according to William Turnbull, manager of Edward Adams and Company, wholesale grocers. The price of staple articles are only a shade higher than the range existing in 1914, he said, and in many instances a product may be purchased today below pre-war prices.

Mr. Turnbull furnished figures showing the general decline of commodities since the peak year of 1920 has been around 100 per cent. In his capacity as manager of one of the city's oldest established wholesale houses Mr. Turnbull has become familiar with world conditions affecting the main expenses of the householder and is regarded as an authority on markets and situations pertaining to groceries.

Almost Normal.

"Living costs, with the exception of rent and fuel, are almost back to normal," Mr. Turnbull said. "Reductions in the prices of the most generally used commodities have put the average housewife's grocery bills on a level with those of 1914. The increases in fuel and rents are therefore to be regarded as exceptions in the universal trend toward normal times and lower costs.

"Conditions in the grocery business as they affect the farmer are probably the worst in years. Agriculturists are not getting a square deal owing to the peculiar situation that has cropped up since the war ended. Everywhere I go they give me to understand they are being ruined, and I am convinced they are. They are not getting anyways near the comparative even basis of remuneration which existed in 1914."

Mr. Turnbull attributes present farming difficulties to the impossibility of unionization. Selling in a wide market while city workers sell in an artificial and restricted market, the farmer can never hope to reap the harvest rewards of toil enjoyed by miners, railwaymen and other unionized artizans, he said.

Farmer Suffers.

"You can't blame union workers for going after all they can get, but it seems grossly unfair that our Western Ontario farmers should continue to keep the country supplied in necessary products without receiving a fair return for their labor. Fifty per cent of Canada's population is comprised of farmers and all are working at starvation wages. What puts the price on essential commodities is freight rates and distributing costs. Freight is high because the unions are so powerful. The farmer, being a worker and a capitalist combined, gets the raw end of the deal every time."

Mr. Turnbull added that dressed meats, wheat and other farm products were now slightly above 1914 prices but farmers were in a much more uneviable condition than they were nine years ago.

"At 10 o'clock, the conclusion of Mr. Most of them are living on what they managed to save in the past and unless a great change is forthcoming thousands will be forced into the city in order to live."

HUM OF INDUSTRY AT FAIR GROUNDS BETOKENS SHOW

All Will Be Ready For 1923 Western Fair Before Gates Open to the Public.

THE NEW BUILDING

Fifty-one weeks in the year the officials of the Western Fair Association work and plan, and in one short week the result of their efforts is displayed before the public. Yesterday, Secretary A. M. Hunt and his staff took up their new quarters in the executive offices at Queen's Park. Today they are immersed in a tidal wave of details, which, however, they are going to surmount.

The manufacturers' building with all the booths on the upper floor finished, is nearly ready for occupancy on the ground floor. No pictures of the building which have been sent out do it justice as a medium for displaying goods, and J. H. Saunders, president of the association, who spends most of his time just now in the grounds, is highly pleased with the increased attraction and value it adds to the fair.

In the building its size is apparent, and the system of lighting which is achieved by large open wells in the upper floor over which are glass skylights adds immensely to the comfort of the sightseer and the show value of the booths.

Getting Booths In Shape.

Some of the exhibitors have started to install their products and get their booths in shape for the week. Mr. Hunt was busy this morning staking out the space which will be reserved for the midway, and Mr. Saunders, who was in Toronto last week arranging for the best of the live stock in the Canadian National Exhibition to come to the "Western," stated that the "Johnny Jones" shows this year are greater in number and in entertainment value than in any year that he remembers.

Speaking of the shows, he said: "There is one new show they have in Toronto which has become very popular. They call it the "Caterpillar." It is a ride of sorts, and you spend part of the time in the dark and part in the open. There was a queue down there a hundred yards long, waiting to get on it, and I expect it will go well in London."

The grounds and buildings are looking smart and inviting. The horse barns, the dog building and the cattle barns, which have been moved over to the south side of the grounds, have been given a coat of man-o'-war paint. The art section has been treated to a little spring cleaning inside, and the pictures will be moved in in the course of the next few days.

Fire Chief On Job.

Fire Chief Aitken conducted a tour of inspection today, in which he went over every building and into every corner that could possibly prove a fire trap. All the fire alarms were examined and found to be in order, and all the lighting and power arrangement were gone over carefully. With a program in every phase of the activities of the Fair that is better than before, and that includes one or two entirely new items, the officials are only praying for good weather to have the largest gate attendance in history. The Pageant of London, the nightly fireworks display, the Tom Davis Elevated Wheel Sensation, and the excellence of the live stock to be shown this year, warrant the optimism of the president and officials of the Fair.

Added to this, the London Hunt Club are putting on a turn of their own, and the grounds at Queen's Park are destined to center the attention of London and Western Ontario for the week of September 8 to 15.

BELIEVE 200,000 HAVE PERISHED IN EARTHQUAKE

REPORTS SHOW HAVOC AND DEATH IN GREAT JAPANESE EARTHQUAKE GREATER THAN FIRST ESTIMATED

Typhoon Followed in Path of Quake and Tidal Waves.

Salvation Army Officers Killed —Anxiety For Missionaries Increases.

Associated Press Despatch.

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—Every report received from Japan throughout the day either confirmed or increased previous estimates of the havoc wrought in death and destruction by the quadruple catastrophe which has befallen the central eastern section of Hondo, largest of the islands of the Japanese empire.

Beginning at noon Saturday with a series of earthquakes, which razed most of the city of Tokio and large sections of Yokohama and other cities in the vicinity, the disaster was continued by fires which broke out in scores of places. Tidal waves followed, engulfing and washing into the sea hundreds of buildings. Then came a typhoon, adding a final and tragic touch to what is probably the greatest calamity in modern times.

Topping all previous estimates of death and ruin, Ujiro Oyama, Japanese consul general in San Francisco, today received from Shichitaro Yada, Japanese consul general in Shanghai, a report that 160,000 persons were killed or injured and one million made homeless in the Tokio-Yokohama section.

Former estimates from various sources had placed the casualties as high as 150,000 dead in Tokio alone. One of these came from the Japanese minister of marine by way of Osaka. Other reports told of severe casualties both on land and sea.

Shattered Wilderness.

A composite of reports depicts Tokio and Yokohama as shattered wildernesses of mortar, bricks and stone, where once stood some of the stateliest structures in the empire.

Dead and dying are on every hand. Survivors, who can grope their way about through the fire and smoke and rubbish, are leaving the city for places of safety.

Those who still live are threatened with starvation, and many are trying to catch fish from ponds and lakes to tide them over until food arrives.

It is estimated that at least 100,000 tons of rice alone is needed to meet the emergency created by the food shortage. The imperial palace, which was badly damaged by quake and fire, has been thrown open to the needy and injured survivors.

Dead Countless.

What happened at Yokohama can be barely more than surmised. But every report, though meager, confirms the worst of fears. While it seems certain most of the foreign residential section escaped, it is estimated 1,400 buildings were destroyed. The number of dead is countless. An officer of the steamer London Maru reported that bodies were scattered everywhere, on land and in the water, where many sought refuge in ships after the quake.

How extensive the quake was cannot be accurately stated. It is known it extended as far south as the Idzu Peninsula on the eastern seaboard, about 100 miles south of Tokio.

A message by cable from Kobe tonight said there was a bad shake in Toyama, a city of more than 60,000 population, near the northwest coast of Japan, nearly 200 miles northwest of Tokio, and in Kobe, fully 350 miles southwest of Tokio. The vibration seems to have penetrated the island transversely.

In addition to the hundreds of large public and private buildings destroyed, which include a large number of Japanese government buildings, Japanese and foreign naval hospitals, arsenals, printing plants and newspaper offices, it was learned tonight through Osaka that the Italian and French embassies in Tokio were destroyed.

Wards Wiped Out.

Eight of Tokio's fifteen wards are known to be almost totally wiped out, while the remainder are lying in ruins or burned, the total number of buildings destroyed being placed at 200,000 for the city and suburbs.

In Yokohama Bay and at Yokosuka, a city of 70,000 population on the upper reaches of Miio Bay, the destruction is nearly as great, population considered, as it is in Tokio. Reports came today of new quakes centering in Yokosuka yesterday afternoon, doing great damage, especially to ships. It is known that Saturday's quakes and subsequent tidal waves did great damage to Japanese naval vessels. The extent of the damage, however, is not determined. The quake yesterday, today's report said, destroyed the telephone exchange at Chojamachi, killing 40 operators. At seven o'clock last night new quakes shook Kawaguchi, destroying 500 houses and damaging 1,500 more.

Other Places Destroyed.

Other places where destruction was complete or nearly so as a result of Saturday's quake are:

Nogoya, with a population of 620,000, "virtually destroyed"; Sasako, 600 perished when railway tunnel collapsed; Ito, 500 houses washed away; Hakone, famous mountain resort frequented by foreigners, "easier to count the dead than the living"; Enoshima, "Picture Island," submerged, "a sea of mud"; Yoshimi volcano emitting smoke; Odawara, swept by a tidal wave.

Other volcanoes in the islands nearby are reported active.

The rich and titled suffered along with the poor and the obscure.

When the first shock came a session of Japanese leaders and statesmen was being held in the naval club for the purpose of selecting a new cabinet to take the place of that of the late Premier Kato, which resigned when the premier died. Although the building collapsed the leaders who survived adjourned to another building and completed a cabinet.

A report from Osaka this afternoon said that Viscount Takaha, former premier, and twenty other leading members of the Seiyukai, or government party, were killed while holding a conference, and it is surmised is was the conference to select the cabinet.

FEAR FOR MISSIONARIES.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Anxiety regarding the fate of many Canadian Protestant missionaries in Japan, either in the earthquake zone or immediately adjoining it, is being felt in church circles in the city.

The following is the complete list of the missionaries of the Anglican Church in Canada stationed in Japan who are not on furlough:

Rt. Rev. H. J. Hamilton, D.D, bishop of mid-Japan, and Mrs. Hamilton, Nagoya; Rev. J. Cooper Robertson and daughter, Gifu; Rev. J. G. Waller and Mrs. Waller, Nagano; Miss E. M. Trent, missionary of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, Nagoya; Miss Nora Bowman, Nagoya; Rev. R. M. and Mrs. Millman, Toychashi; Rev. C. Cuthbert and Mrs. Robinson, Nagoya; Miss S. Gertrude Shore, Ueda.

A former minister of St. John's Road Baptist Church, Toronto, Rev. P. W. Ziemann, is also stationed in Tokio. Mr. Ziemann's home is in Prescott.

In Presbyterian foreign mission circles some uneasiness is felt regarding several missionaries now on their way to Korea and China, who were on board the Empress of Canada, which in the ordinary course of events would have reached Japan about Sunday or Monday. On board the vessel are Rev. E. J. and Mrs. Fraser and family, who are returning to their stations in Korea; S. D. M. McCrea and family, returning to Korea, and Miss Edith McGillivray, who is going to join her parents in Shanghai. The missionaries en route to Korea disembark at Kobe, Japan. Rev. Walter D. and Mrs. Coates were also known to be in Tokio studying the language, but it is believed that they would have left the city at this time for a summer resort in the mountains.

Summary of Great Disaster

Total deaths in earthquake believed to have reached nearly 200,000. Tokio's deaths alone placed at 150,000.

Two important Japanese naval bases are reported to have been completely destroyed.

Prince Matsikata, former Japanese premier, dies from injuries.

OFFICERS BELIEVED DEAD.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Sept. 3.—All Salvation Army officers and workers in Japan are believed to have lost their lives in the earthquake, according to a cable reaching the organization's headquarters here today by a roundabout route. The message came through San Francisco, where it was received by Col. Masaiut Kobayashi, who for many years has been in charge of a corps of Japanese Salvationists on the Pacific Coast. The Salvation Army training schools were in the heart of Tokio and are said to be wiped out. Commissioner and Mrs. Wildam, a few staff, were in charge of the hospital when the disaster occurred. Commander Miss Booth immediately replied to the message with the announcement that money and supplies would be rushed to the stricken areas by the Army with all possible speed.

FOOD RIOTS BREAK OUT.

Associated Press Despatch.

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—Food riots have broken out in Tokio, according to a radiogram received tonight by the Radio Corporation from Iwaki station, 155 miles from Tokio.

The gendarmerie is reported in these advices to exerted the most strenuous measures to suppress these disorders, even attacking the rioters with their swords.

The advices also confirmed earlier reports of the submergence of the island of Enoshima "Picture Island," one of Japan's most beautiful spots. This island, the message said, was swept away by a tidal wave, as were also Honomuku and Isoko, villages in the vicinity of Enoshima.

Many Europeans, visitors and residents of that section are missing. Noegyama, a better class residential section of Yokohama; Iseyama, another section, where stood a noble statue of Io Naosuke, prime minister of the Shogun at the time Japan was opened to foreign intercourse; and Kamonyama, a third section, all were destroyed, leaving thousands in extreme misery.

There has been no news received in Japan from the Bonin Islands, on which is located a cable relay station, and it is feared, the advices declared, that the land there was submerged by the tidal wave following the tremor.

KING SENDS MESSAGE.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Eng., Sept. 3.—King George has sent the following message of condolence to the emperor of Japan:

"I hasten to express to your imperial majesty the horror with which I learned of the appalling disaster which has befallen your country by the terrible earthquake and its consequences at Tokio, Yokohama and other places. I sympathize profoundly with your majesty in this overwhelming catastrophe, resulting in loss of life and property and in untold sufferings to thousands of your people."

Rome, Sept. 3.—Pope Pius has sent through the apostolic delegate in Tokio profound condolences to the Japanese imperial family and the government and people of Japan.

CAUSES APPREHENSION.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Kitchener, Sept. 3. — Considerable apprehension is being felt here for the safety of Miss Evelyn Lackner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lackner, a member of the missionary body of the Methodist Church, who is doing work in Japan. Miss Lackner spent the summer in the city with friends, and left over a month ago for Yokohama. Her parents said today that her boat, the Empress of Australia, was expected to reach Yokohama the day before the earthquake.

C.P.R. OFFICE DESTROYED.

Associated Press Despatch.

Hong Kong, Sept. 3.—An intercepted wireless message received here reports that the office building of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, in Yokohama, was destroyed. The general agent of the company, who made the report, was unable to say definitely as to the fate of his staff.

NAVAL BASES DESTROYED.

Associated Press Despatch,

Liverpool, Sept. 3.—The Japanese naval base at Kamakura and Yokosuka were entirely destroyed in the earthquake, according to despatches received by the Japanese consulate here. Eight of the fifteen districts in Tokio were partially destroyed, and the fires are not yet under control in some districts. All the bridges over the river traversing Tokio were carried away by the tidal flood. The small volcano on the Island of Koshima, 30 miles from Tokio, is erupting.

EMBASSIES DESTROYED.

Associated Press Despatch.

Osaka, Sept. 3. — The Italian and French embassies in Tokio were destroyed by the earthquake. This information is given in a late wireless from that city.

Victoria, Sept. 3.—A fund has been opened in the local Japanese colony for the relief of sufferers in the Japanese earthquake.

PLACE DEATHS AT 150,000.

Associated Press Despatch.

Osaka, Sept. 3. — The minister of marine today estimated the fatalities resulting from the earthquake and fire in Tokio at 150,000.

It is reported that Viscount Takahashi, former premier, and 20 other leading members of the Seiyukai, or government party, were killed on Saturday while holding a conference, a representative of the Osaka Jiji Shimbo, met a number of destitute foreigners at Hakone, who stated that about 40 foreigners had perished there.

LOCAL CHURCH FEARS MINISTER IN DANGER

Missionary Supported by First Methodist Church in Earthquake Zone.

Of special interest to Londoners is the fact that Rev. Alfred T. Wilkinson, Methodist missionary, is in Japan, where, according to latest reports, earthquakes, fires, and tidal waves have taken a toll of 160,000 lives in the past 48 hours. Rev. Mr. Wilkinson is supported in his work of spreading the gospel among the Japanese by the members of the First Methodist Church here and the congregation is anxiously awaiting definite word of his fate.

Mr. Wilkinson was in Canada a year ago on furlough and visited London. While here he spoke to the congregation of the First Methodist Church on the conditions and the progress being made in Japan, and Londoners were deeply impressed by his cordial manner and very evident knowledge of his work.

Rev. Bruce Hunter, newly appointed minister of the First Methodist Church, is a personal friend of Mr. Wilkinson and he is also worried over the situation, because he knows many of the Methodist missionaries now in Japan. Some of them were his classmates in college.

Speaking to The Advertiser last night, Rev. Mr. Hunter stated that Mr. Wilkinson has spent many years in foreign work and is held in high regard by Canadian church authorities.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson have seven children, five of whom are in Japan, two sons being in Toronto. When last heard of, Mr. Wilkinson was at Shezuoka, at the foot of Mt. Fiaji.

ENTERTAIN MINISTER.

Special to The Advertiser.

Blenheim, Sept. 3.—Rev. J. C. McCracken and family left this week for their new home in Woodstock, where Mr. McCracken becomes rector of All Saints' Church. Before leaving, the members of the choir and others gave them a surprise party, and to Mrs. McCracken presented a fine necklace of pearls.

EXPLORER THINKS CRAWFORD ALIVE

Stefansson Believes Young Canadian May Have Crossed To Mainland.

HELD BY SOVIETS?

By HENRY R. SOMERVILLE.
Special Cable to The London Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Copyright.

London, Sept. 3.—Stefansson first learned from The Advertiser that Noice left thirteen people on Wrangel Island. He was highly pleased at this news, as it strengthens the claim to the island which was the cause for which Crawford made the expedition. Stefansson mentioned that a distinguished British general had this morning telephoned him and had expressed hope that Noice would leave a party on the island.

Stefansson says there would be excellent chances of relief ship reaching island if it sailed immediately, but he cannot believe there is any urgency. The party must have been left with good supplies, and despite the fate of Crawford's expedition Stefansson says: "They are as safe on Wrangel Island as we are in London." The ship that started in September last year went too late, but this was because of exceptionally unfavorable winds. In an ordinary year September would not be too late for the voyage.

May Be Alive.

With regard to the possibility of Crawford being alive on the mainland Stefansson says there are some hopes. He adheres to his belief that hunting resources of the island made starvation unlikely. At the time of my interview this afternoon the only information available in London was that supplies were running short last January, Crawford and others crossed to the mainland, leaving Knight sick with scurvy on the island, and that Knight survived until June, though unable to hunt, and Eskimo woman had supplies when found. Stefansson is skeptical of this report. He says hunters do not think they are short when they have several months' supplies on hand. He thinks Crawford crossed to the mainland of Siberia simply because of the monotony of staying on the island. The distance from the island to the mainland is only 100 miles. Natives there are the most hospitable people in the world, and there would be a chance of meeting Russian and American traders. Having reached the mainland they would be within 700 miles of wireless stations. Crawford may have expected to be able to receive news and send reports if he crossed to the mainland. The motive might have been food-getting.

May be Prisoners.

In view of the Soviet attitude it is even possible that Crawford and companions are prisoners. Trading trips which are now on that part of the Siberian coast will soon be returning to the United States and bring news. While cherishing some hopes Stefansson fears that the Crawford party in crossing to the mainland may have trusted themselves to ice too thin and were drowned. In speaking thus Stefansson is without information which must have been already published in Canada, but he is firm in his belief that food can be obtained by hunting on the island. He recalls that, as told in his book, "Friendly Arctic," Knight suffered from scurvy on the last expedition. This sickness would come from eating too much groceries and not enough meat.

Stefansson tells again the financial story of the relief expedition. Last year the ship started late because he could not get money in time. The same fiasco threatened this year. Neither British nor Canadian governments would help, each apparently thinking initiative should be taken by the other, and the question is on the agenda for the imperial conference.

Mortgaged Property.

Finally an Englishman named Griffiths Brewer, feeling that failure from starting too late would be repeated this year like last year, mortgaged all his own personal property to borrow the necessary moneys. He is a man of very moderate means, but he acted because he thought the situation was desperate. He hoped the money would be refunded through a public subscription announced in the Times. One of the first subscribers to this fund was the granddaughter of Franklin. Only £500 has so far been subscribed. It is to the credit of Griffith Brewer that in face of the official and public legarthy which caused the failure last year and threatened to do the same this year, he mortgaged his possessions in order to save the party. Like Stefansson, Brewer did not expect tragedy or starvation, but he was conscious of all sorts of serious troubles to the party isolated for three years.

BOYS FIRE BRIDGE TWICE IN ONE DAY

Old Chatham Landmark Is Condemned by Firefighters Who Extinguished Blaze.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Sept. 3.—Engine and ladder companies of the city fire department made two runs to the wooden bridge spanning McGregor's creek at Princess street Saturday night, and extinguished fires which, it is alleged, had been deliberately started underneath the structure.

After the second run, the city police were notified and an investigation was held. One or more boys, it was stated today, will be charged with setting fire to the structure.

City firemen reported that beams and joints under the bridge are in a bad condition, and that a heavy load passing over the structure may collapse. The bridge has spanned the creek for nearly 40 years, and is the only connecting link between Chatham East and the section known as "Over the creek."

EXPECT DEBATING TEAM.

Canadian Press Despatch.

St. John, N.B., Sept. 3.—The debating team from Oxford University, which will tour Canada this fall, is expected in October. The first debate will be with University of Toronto on October 18.

DECLARES LABOR TO HOLD POWER

Frank Hodges Addresses Large Gathering At Canadian National Exhibition.

VICTORY IN SIGHT

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Another decade will see the Labor Party forces in charge of the government of Great Britain, Frank Hodges, secretary of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, told the gathering at the Labor Day luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition directors. Mr. Hodges was a guest at the exhibition luncheon along with other prominent labor men.

In his speech Mr. Hodges touched on the European political situation, which he regarded as very gloomy, not only because of the flareup between Italy and Greece, but because of the strained situation in Western Europe. Great Britain, with its million and a half unemployed was facing a serious winter.

"But," he went on, "in the face of these difficulties that are both political and economic, the Labor movement has not lost heart. It is battling these political and economic forces with a courage that is worthy of the applause of the workers in this newer country of yours."

Mr. Hodges believed that, politically, victory was in sight for the Labor forces. Within the next decade, he declared, if the party continued to attract adherents at the same rate as it had in the past, it would form the government of the country.

Denies Radicalism.

He denied strongly that a Labor government would mean one that would be radical and disorganize the country. The Labor party would, he declared, be "as careful about guarding the essentials of the national constitution as any of the older parties."

Another speaker was Henry Miles, a member of the Quebec Senate, who briefly told of Montreal's desire to establish an exposition similar to the Canadian National. The aim, he said, would be not to rival the Toronto Fair, but to found one that would supplement the Toronto Fair in the important work which it was doing to advertise Canada to the world.

Detects Unrest.

Later in the day Mr. Hodges addressed a crowd from a bandstand in the exhibition grounds, dealing chiefly with labor's problems.

"The labor movement," he said," is beginning to detect signs of unrest in Canada, the U. S. and Great Britain. We are all of a common kinship and more or less common culture. I have been received in Canada with some feeling of assurance that the workers will respond to the call from their fellow-workers across the sea for the binding of a greater link of co-operation. It is up to the workers of the Dominion, with their freshness and vigor, to do the right thing in the interests of labor and to take extreme care to avoid the mistakes of the workers of the old World. The workers of Canada can give life and guidance to the workers of the world, but we must do our utmost to keep free from greed and strife and keep within the common pastures of peace and gratitude, which spell happiness for all."

CALL OFF PROGRAM BECAUSE OF RAIN

Labor Day Crowds Disappointed When Baby Show and Races Are Postponed.

Called off on account of the rain!

This was the fate of the big Labor Day celebration planned for Queen's Park yesterday, and which would have been the best held in this city, embracing, as it did, a baby show, motorcycle races, bicycle races, horse races and running events. But owing to the heavy rain of Sunday night and yesterday morning, it was decided that the meet would have to be postponed, and a tentative date, Sept. 22, was set for the celebration.

Probably the most disappointed of the visitors to the park were several mothers, who had their babies all ready for the show, and when they were told that it was off they registered the disappointment they felt. No notices to the effect that the program had been cancelled were to be seen up till 3 o'clock, and people would wander into the grounds, look around and walk out again.

One look at the track was enough to discourage any idea of races of any sort, the large circle being nothing more or less than a mire of soft mud, through which it would have been impossible to ride a bicycle or any other vehicle, or animal, and as for running and foot races, they were out of the question. But the visitors to the park were not daunted by the postponement, and are certain that they will turn out on whatever date is set for the celebration.

C. P. R. HAVE FEARS AS TO LINER'S SAFETY

Empress of Canada May Have Been Swept by Tidal Wave.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Not a word has been heard as to the fate of the Empress of Canada, the largest steamship on the Pacific, which would be from 800 to 1,000 miles off the Japanese shore when the quake shook the island. On board the vessel were at least seventeen members of families of Canadian Methodist missionaries, either going out to their new field or returning from furlough.

The quake occurred Saturday, and the Empress of Canada was due to arrive at the port of Yokohama yesterday. The principal fear as to her safety is in connection with the huge tidal wave which swept the shores of Nippon following close upon the earthquake.

TWENTY-TWO NOW DEAD.

Associated Press Despatch

Sydney, Sept. 3.—Victims of Saturday's explosion and fire in the Bell Bird Colliery now number twenty-two.

Labor Day Crowds Picnic At Springbank Despite Rainy Weather

Springbank Park was a desolate place yesterday morning. Persistent rains throughout the night and the early hours of the day turned the grounds from delightful picnic spots into soggy pastures, and as a result some of the picnic crowds left for home around noon. Four or five gatherings stuck out the afternoon, however, and in a couple of hours were greeted with bright sunshine which permitted the running off of the sports programs.

Deaf and Dumb Picnic.

Extremely novel to the onlooker was the outing staged by the London Association of the Deaf and Dumb. Hardly a sound emanated from their section of the grounds, but the 150 members and their friends present spent quite a delightful afternoon in races and baseball. Several people stopped on their way to watch, and they marvelled at the efficient manner in which the program was conducted, not by shouting or outspoken instructions, but by signs alone. When the program was concluded a tasty supper was served by the lady members of the association. The following were in charge of the picnic: C. Ryan, chairman, Mrs. Fisher, treasurer, and A. H. Cowan, secretary.

The results of the races are: Girls over 18, May Nottage, Irene Stone; younger girls race, Margaret Cowan, Audrey Nottage; clothespin race, Mrs. Marion Noyes, Clara Balkwill; coat race, C. Young, Myrtle McNamara: men's 50 yard race, S. Lloyd, Charles Cowan; leap frog race, Howard Lloyd and E. Paul, McLaughlin and Cole; married folks' walking race, Mrs. Joe Taylor, Mrs. W. McKay; snowshoe race, Olive Lecker, F. Bumgart; boys' race, Charles Cowan, Lloyd Stone; smoking contest, F. Bumgart, Mr. McMurray; ice cream race, Sophie Fishbein, Irene Cowan; married folks' wheelbarrow race, Mr. and Mrs. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Cowan.

Willsie Family Reunion.

The sixteenth annual reunion of the Willsie family was a splendid success in spite of the fact that the sports program had to be abandoned on account of the wet grounds, and many would-be picnickers motoring from the United States were forced to return on account of the weather and the condition of the roads.

About 100 members of the family were present, and the officers were not unduly disappointed, as the day was most unfavorable for an outdoor celebration of any kind. Impromptu games featured the afternoon, and after supper a friendly game of ball was played.

Members of the family from Michigan, Texas and Wyoming, who made the trip to Springbank in other years, found it impossible to come this time, but sent letters and telegrams of good wishes for the success of the union.

Levi Willsie of Wilton Grove is president of the Willsie Family Reunion, while Ivan Willsie of London is the secretary. The Willsie families were one of the first in this district to stage annual outings, and for the past sixteen years they have gathered from distant points in Canada and the United States to spend a day with one another.

The known history of the Willsie family, dating back for many centuries, is extremely interesting. Records show that a long time ago there was a nation on the south coast of the Baltic Sea near Denmark called Wilze and Wiltsee, a derivation of Wiltze is regarded as the oldest name on the Baltic Sea. A thorough search of many countries has brought out the information that now there are no less than 21 spellings of "Wiltsee." A few of them are Willsie, Willsen, Wilzen, Wilsen, Weilsie and Waelso.

Baptist Y. P. S. Frolics.

The Baptist Young People's Society staged one of the merriest gatherings on the grounds yesterday afternoon. Like other picnics their elaborate program was somewhat curtailed by the inclement weather, but with the perseverance for which children are noted the young folks managed to run some of their races in spite of the rain.

The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of N. J. Melitzer, chairman; Jimmy Gibson, Roy Cook, Fred Johnson, Hazel Shaw and Mrs. Kennedy, assisted by adult members of the various city churches, who looked after the refreshments.

The winners in the races are as follows: Peanut race for girls 8 and under, Verna Shorten, Margaret Walker; peanut race for boys 8 and under, Jack Walker, Fred Shaw; girls 8 to 10, Verna Shorten, Alice Jackson; boys 8 to 10, Reggie Shorten, Billy Johnston; girls 10 to 12, Florence Johnson, Elva Woods; soda biscuit contest for boys 10 to 16, Reggie Shorten, John Oates; snowshoe race for girls 12 to 14, Dorothy Belbeck, Mildred Brooks; hobble race for boys 12 to 14, Hueston Johnson, Roy McBeth; spark plug race for girls 14 to 16, P. Kennedy, Amy Rozelle; bomb race for boys 14 to 16, Hueston Johnson, George Boam; backward race, P. Gunning and W. Hardy, Harold Monk and H. Johnson; ladies' balloon race, Jean Coleman, Margaret Gibson; feeding the monkeys, H. Johnson and Alice Jackson, Reggie Shorten and Jean Coleman; hoop race, Mr. Johnson's team, Mrs. Hocking's team.

Stiltz Family Picnics.

More than 50 members of the Stiltz families in Western Ontario assembled at the park for their second annual reunion, and in spite of the rain had a splendid time. The afternoon was spent in games and novelty sports, and at 6 o'clock supper was served in the pavilion.

Those in charge of the 1923 outing were Mrs. W. Jones of Delaware, V. Stiltz of Muncey, Mrs. Thos. Toll, Mrs. M. Stiltz and Mrs. B. Stiltz.

Charles Stiltz of Muncey, the "father" of the families in this district, displayed as much "pep" and enthusiasm as the youngest child present, although 60 years old, and he took a leading part in all the fun. Among the visitors were Mrs. H. Bartley of Lyle, and Mrs. and Mrs. H. D. Taylor of London. Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall of St. Thomas were also present, but they were called home on account of a sudden illness in the family.

Irish Program Cancelled.

The sports program of the second annual reunion of the Irish families also had to be cancelled and in its stead games were played. The heavy rains during the preceding 24 hours prevented many from attending this year's frolic, and although it wasn't as large as last year's, the esprit de corps was as strong as ever, making the picnic a success.

People came from South Dakota, Detroit, Springfield, Simcoe, Caradoc, London, Niagara Falls, and many other points for the second "get-together," and all declared that they would return in 1924, relying on more suitable weather to make the next reunion the best ever held.

As the name would imply, the ancestors of the present Irish family migrated to America from Ireland, settling near Kingston. Later, however, the family broke up, and today they are scattered throughout the United States and Western Ontario. The oldest person on the grounds yesterday was Mrs. Susan Irish, 87, of Springfield.

The 1924 officers of the Irish families are: Honorary president, Melvin Irish of Niagara Falls; president, E. W. Bancroft of Simcoe; vice-president; Silas Hyatt of Mount Brydges; secretary, Emma Bancroft of Toronto. On the board of directors are Earl Irish, Mrs. Stanley Richards, Lloyd Babcock, Floyd McIntosh and Mrs. Walter Schuyler. Leonard Irish, Roy Bancroft, Fred Bancroft and Walter Schuyler constitute the sports committee.

RECALL JAP CONSUL FROM OTTAWA POST

Tamekichi Ohta Regrets Leaving Canada and Declares Relations Fine.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Tamekichi Ohta, the consul-general of Japan for the Dominion of Canada, has been recalled by his government, and will likely leave Ottawa about September 15. He will be succeeded by N. Matsunaga, who is a widely experienced member of the Japanese consular service.

Mr. Ohta, in speaking of his departure from Ottawa, said he had found life congenial and happy in Canada.

"As to the international relations between Canada and Japan, I am glad to say that they are continually increasing in their cordiality, while mutual confidence remains unshaken. Trade and commerce between the people of both sides of the Pacific is also very promising, and I am happy to leave without concern in that regard."

ONE DEAD, TWO HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Silvio Bergatte, of Welland, Meets Instant Death in Crash On Highway.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Welland Sept. 3.—Silvio Bergatte, aged 28, of this city, was instantly killed, Vancence Amadio of Welland was seriously injured, and Patsy Roberts of Thorold was slightly injured in a crash on the highway north of Welland today between Bergatte's motorcycle and a car coming in the opposite direction and driven by J. Sabira.

The motorcycle had turned out to pass a car driven by W. Clendenning of Niagara Falls when it was struck by Sabira's car. Bergatte's body was mutilated by the impact, and Vancence Amadio, whom Bergatte was carrying as a passenger, was hurled 30 feet into the ditch, where he was found with his jaw, leg and arm fractured. His recovery is considered doubtful. Roberts was a passenger in the motor car.

SEIZE NARCOTICS WORTH $25,000

Question Windsor Businessman On Whose Property Alleged Dope Was Found.

NAME WITHHELD

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, Sept. 3.—Following the seizure of what police believe to be narcotics valued at $25,000, which were found in an outhouse on East Pitt street Sunday night, a wealthy east end Windsor businessman, whose name at present the authorities decline to disclose, was brought to headquarters today and questioned. Later he was released pending an analysis of the drugs taken.

The seizure was made in a building owned by the businessman who is under suspicion, the police say.

In connection with the drug seizure Royal Mounted Police explained that the old system whereby "stool pigeons" were used to obtain evidence against dealers in "dope," and where there were convictions, were paid one-half the amount of the fine collected, has been abolished. Direct evidence must now be had, it is stated.

NOICE RELATES DASH TO WRANGEL

Relief Expedtiion Head Tells of Difficulties Met in Polar Seas.

LIVES ENDANGERED

The followtng message is the exclusive personal story of Harold Noice, commander of the Wrangel Island relief expedition, who returned to Nome, Alaska, August 31, after his dash into the Arctic to rescue four white men and one Eskimo woman marooned there since September, 1921. No word had been received from them or of them since they landed in 1921, and grave fears had been expressed regarding their safety.

By HAROLD NOICE.
Commander of the Wrangel Island Relief Expedition.

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 3.—"Wrangel Island or bust," was our slogan when we left Point Hope behind us on Aug. 9 and headed northwest into the Arctic Ocean. Would we get through? What would we find on that forlorn island? Would we find the little party alive and still waiting patiently for the succor which had been so painfully long in coming? Or would we find nothing but the corpses of the gallant band?

Crawford and Gallei I had never known, but in Toronto last spring I met Crawford's parents and little sister, a fine, courageous family, waiting bravely for word of their son and brother. Maurer was also unknown to me, but I had heard a great deal of him from Stefansson.

I could visualize the little party as they landed on the island in 1921, full of enthusiasm. I could see them with a well-stocked larder, comfortably tending at intervals their lines of traps. It was not hard for me to realize their terrible disappointment as the summer passed and the ice failed to open up sufficiently for a ship to get through.

It was hard for me to be gloomy on such a day. The sea was free of ice, the temperature was around 50 degrees, and the Donaldson, her deck cluttered with two walrus-hide boats, twenty shaggy Eskimo dogs, and all the various impediments of an Arctic expedition, plugged steadily ahead.

Ship Hemmed In.

Then, during the night, the temperature dropped to 37, and at 4:30 a.m., August 11, we ran into a field of scattered ice, which we began to work through, but as we advanced the ice ahead became more tightly packed, and we shortly found ourselves unable to move against it. We squirmed back into clear water, and then turned southwest along the edge of the floe in search of an opening which might carry us on our way to Wrangel.

Then, almost without warning, down came the fog. Our position was now extremely perilous. There we were within a short distance of huge cakes of ice, from 30 to 50 feet in thickness, and about an acre or more in area, which were plunging and tearing about in the heavy chop, and any one of which might easily crush our fragile bark like an egg. In clear weather these cakes could have been easily avoided, but here we were, ice, ocean and ship, shrouded in a thick impenetrable mantle of gloom.

As if matters were not already bad enough, the engines, which had been severely tested in the fight with the ice-floes, gave up the struggle, and with a last despairing gurgle subsided into silence. The crew and Eskimos stood by with long pike poles to fend us off from the ghostly shadows which ever and anon loomed through the fog.

Suddenly a vast white mass like a ghostly floating castle with thousands of tons of green sea water cascading from its battlements as it rose and sank ponderously in the swell, bore down upon us.

We were between it and the line of the pack, and for a few minutes it seemed that our craft must be crushed. Then in a few moments we heard the thrice-welcome chug of the engines. With the first officer, Hans Olaf, at the wheel and myself in the rigging, we worked the boat clear of the floe, and then with the wheel hard to starboard we sheered off just in time to avoid a collision.

Reach Wrangel.

We decided to buck the pack again, heading directly for Wrangel, which was by now only about 30 miles distant, and then down came the fog once more, and closer crept the ice-fields. We drifted with the current into the direction of Herald Island, 38 miles west of Wrangel. This was 2 a.m., August 13. The fog held all that day and on until the afternoon of the next day, when it cleared sufficiently for me to take an observation. I found that our drift during the preceding 40 hours had brought us within seven miles of Herald Island.

Finally, on August 29, we smashed through the last barrier and entered a narrow lane of water which bordered the east coast of Wrangel Island. The goal we had worked so hard to attain was ours. But what of the people we had come to find? For any sign or sound of life the island might have been the abode of the dead.

Island Desolate.

It seemed to us that no human being could find a foothold, let alone a living, in such a desolate place. The black cliff, the somber lines of the sky, coupled with the superstitious dread of the Eskimos in approaching unfamiliar land, which unconsciously communicated itself to the rest of us, all combined to shake my confidence in Wrangel as a worth-while place for colonization. A vague portent that all was not well assailed me. These thoughts were but momentary, for immediately I reflected that Wrangel was a large island; that there were doubtless fairer aspects of its coastline than that which we were skirting, and that our people would probably be found further ahead where the coast was less rugged and forbidding.

We turned south, and after reaching Cape Hawaii, the northeast corner of the island, we steamed along the gradually lowering southern coast, keeping as close to the beach as possible, and blowing the whistle at minute intervals to attract the attention of any person who might be living along the coast.

(The second installment of Harold Noice's story of his rescue expedition will appear in The Advertiser Wednesday).

The Decision of Italy.

Italy refuses to recognize the League of Nations as the proper place to take its case with Greece. In doing so Italy puts herself in an undesirable position.

The nations of the world met together, and showed a sincere desire to work out some plan whereby they could settle their differences without starting to butcher the residents of opposing countries.

The affair between Greece and Italy forms a case that the League of Nations is prepared to deal with; it was brought into existence for just such a purpose; it provides all the necessary machinery to weigh all the evidence brought forth and hand out an impartial finding.

Italy, by her positive refusal to recognize the league, desires to turn back to a system the whole world hates.

The course leads to death, ruin and financial bankruptcy. It will shove Europe and Asia farther down into the abyss of chaotic turmoil and turn back the pages of history to the chapters that glorify force and extol might.

The League of Nations is ready to act. If the Italian government is a wise agency it will seek the open door rather than the loaded gun.

Our Sympathy to Japan.

Canada is more interested in Japan today than she has been before. That little kingdom, mighty and capable, with her chief cities rocked and blasted by the convulsing forces of nature, presents a spectacle of sorrow and hopeless disaster that for world interest shames and almost obliterates the useless crisis between Greece and Italy.

Canadians have an unselfish interest in the people of Japan. They have their own mission stations, their own doctors there, all these forces and individuals going with the high purpose of giving to the Japanese people the light and service we have learned to value and appreciate in this country.

Japan, with its military strength, with its army and navy, its ambitions and its desires—some of them selfish, some of them legitimate and worthy—stands today in the world's vision an object of world-wide pity and sympathy.

Labor Day in Name Only.

Labor Day, except in name, has almost ceased to function. It is a public holiday, recognized as such, and comes the first Monday in September.

When it was first designated it was observed, and well observed. A Labor Day celebration was often a revelation to the residents of various centers of the industries the place contained.

Today it remains for some courageous citizens at various points to put on a program of sports, hoping to make a little money out of the gate receipts.

Others look upon it as a very convenient time to close up their summer homes. Then, too, coming on a Monday, it makes a fairly good week-end visit.

Likewise it is a signpost for the children, who know that right straight after Labor Day comes school.

There may be some value in having such a day in our calendar, a sort of dividing line between summer and fall, but from the use made of the day, there is little reason why it should be called Labor Day. Labor has apparently passed it up.

A Good Thing for London.

Mayor Wenige claims that the city is going to have some money left over at the close of the years business, and, further, that the tax rate is going to be lower next year than this. He probably means as well that the actual taxes paid will be lowered.

If this can be safely accomplished the mayor will have a good day's work to his credit. It is not desirable that needed expenditure be cut, or that the city become stingy, but the effect of a lowered tax rate should be a good one. It will at least be assurance that the peak in municipal levy has been passed; it will afford assurance to householders who find their present taxes too much that the demands made on them are going to be a little less instead of a little more.

Mayor Wenige and his associates are right when they take into consideration the ability of the people to pay as well as the desire of the council to spend.

Higher Costs for the Movies.

It is a poor day when some person does not make a statement. A while ago the daily statement took the form of predictions of a dollar hair-cut.

Just now interest hangs lightly on the pronouncement—which is another word for statement—that $2 movies will soon be here.

The dollar hair-cut has not arrived, so why worry about the $2 admission to a moving picture?

Producers should remember that they used to put on quite a performance for five cents. Then it went to ten cents, and for fifteen the best seat in the house.

Just how the other steps and hops were made to 25 and 35 cent admissions is a matter of variable experience.

Producers claim pictures are costing too much. The answer of the general public is that it is the producers who are piling on the costs, and in turn collecting them from the public.

The Toronto Star holds that if a picture does not look gorgeous enough at half a million to make up for a poor plot and poor playing, then another half million of gorgeous surroundings is thrown in and charged to the public.

The day of the $2 movies is a long way off. The wise producer knows that his safety lies with the crowd, and there is no such thing as a $2 movie crowd.

Mrs. Ford's Turn Has Come.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review is pleased that Mrs. Henry Ford has got into the newspapers.

She said something to some girl campers about the clothes they wore. The Woodstock paper doesn't care a fig what she said so long as she said it and got her name in the papers.

It is a fact that Henry Ford has monopolized the publicity for the family. It is: Henry Ford will run for president; Henry Ford will not run. Mr. Ford this and Mr. Ford that. It surely was high time that Mrs. Henry had her name in print.

With the Woodstock editor we rejoice greatly that Mrs. Henry has appeared in ink.

The Marks Were All There.

Mr. T. L. Church, M.P. for North Toronto, sent a wire to Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor. It contained so many fiery phrases that Mr. Murdock thought it best to write and ask Mr. Church if the wire were to be taken seriously or if some person was using his name for a joke.

Mr. Murdock should have known that a lettergram full of such words as "impudent," "fool talk," etc., would in all probability come from Mr. Church of Toronto.

It is one of the qualifications of being mayor of that city, for it was only a short time ago that his successor in office, Mayor Maguire, sent an impertinent note to Sir Henry Thornton.

Toronto deserves better mayors than the people elect.

Note and Comment.

A Massachusetts man bet $5 he could stay under water five minutes. He won. The funeral was private.

One of the thrills of having children pass their exams comes when you get the bill for the next set of books.

Once more the glorious day has arrived when c-a-t spells cat.

Hon. Arthur Meighen was in Quebec addressing an audience in the French language. Will some person please tie a large slice of ice on the head of the Toronto Telegram's editor while he deals with this crime?

A Toronto man had his car saved because one of his children was in the back seat asleep, and screamed when she awoke and saw strange men running the car. A good bulldog is even a better thing to leave in the back seat.

Sir Adam Beck is doing a good service for Ontario in watching closely the steps taken to divert water that interferes with Ontario's power development. He has voiced his protests many times, and will probably keep on doing so until he gets some action that will put a stop to the pilfering of water that belongs to the people.

The Canadian customs authorities want a woman at Bridgeburg who is keen, capable, of good tact, well educated, and with 17 other good qualities. They propose to add her to the staff of inspectors. When one is found with all these fine points surely there is a man in the land wise enough to propose to her.

The St. Catharines Standard man is worried because he can buy a big basket of tomatoes now for 20 cents, and he pays so much for a little tin in the winter time. Moral, young man, is this: Buy a couple of baskets at noon, take them home determined to stem the high cost of living. Buy a dozen or two dozen cans, fuss over the mixture, boil it, or whatever is necessary, and put away in the cellar. Action, my boy, stern, relentless action, will solve your problem.

Main Street on Saturday Night

By ANNE CAMPBELL.

The clock of Dr. Mumby's church struck nine
When we drove into town one night in June,
Electric lights seemed trying to outshine
The mellow glimmer of the slighted moon.
Where yesterday a dozen shoppers walked,
Tonight a throng of happy townsfolk met,
With those from nearby farms who stopped and talked
About the crops, and hens that would not set.

The quaint old stand where hamburger is fried
Before our eyes, and served us with a bun,
Was crowded close with boys and girls who tried
To pull and push, and be the favored one.
The popcorn man upon the village street,
Surrounded, too, by joyous, careless youth,
Tried hard with wares well flavored, to compete
With Sandwich Joe, whose food teased every tooth.

The postoffice, so crowded when the train
Steamed in with promise of abundant mail,
Was visited by every straggling swain
Who's promised her he'd "write her without fail,"
The shoppers lingered in the Racket Store,
With gossip more than purchasing concerned,
They would not meet till Saturday once more
Brought to their busy lives this rest well earned.

The clock on Dr. Mumby's church twelve times
Struck, like a note of warning, through the town,
And dawdling farmers heeded, while its chimes
Turned homeward all the folks who "just drove down,"
Tomorrow we might hurry in to hear
Our pastor give a message kind and true,
But twelve o'clock and five are very near,
And in the meantime, there are chores to do!

THE NEW WITCHCRAFT.

Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live.—Exodus xxii., 18.

This was the text by which our forefathers in England and New England foolishly tried to justify the persecution and killing of supposed witches in the 17th and 18th centuries.

The latest execution of this kind in Great Britain was in 1722.

But witchcraft, the practice of sorcery, magic, and necromancy, was not thereby suppressed.

It has existed in every age known to man; and in our own it seems to be flourishing with exuberance.

Its name is changed, but not its nature.

In every city you may see the signs of the practitioners of the ancient profession.

They call themselves clairvoyants, psychic mediums, telepaths, soul-analysts, metaphysical seers, and even psychologists—as if their craft were a real science and not a black art.

I do not include here those people who are earnestly and reverently seeking and testing evidence of existence after death. I include those who for pay profess to reveal the future, foretell destiny, discover hidden secrets, and call up departed spirits.

These are the new witches.

The old command, Thou shalt not suffer them to live, is out of date.

The new command should be, Thou shalt not help them to make a living.

I think that would put the Witch of Endor out of business.

THORNDALE CHURCHES HOLD DECORATION SERVICE

Special to The Advertiser.

Thorndale, Sept. 3. — Decoration services were held at Vining's Cemetery, 5th concession, West Nissouri, on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. Gilbraith of Thamesford, assisted by Rev. Mr. Tucker. The address was given by Rev. Mr. Gilbraith. During the service, solos were sung by Miss M. Hueston and Mrs. J. W. Langford, a choir of about ten voices led in the singing. The collection which was taken up will be devoted to the upkeep of the cemetery.

HORTICULTURISTS STAGE ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Sept. 3.—The annual flower show of the Stratford Horticultural Society Saturday afternoon and evening was a decided success. There was an increased number of exhibits, especially good being the showing of gladioli. Asters were a good second and sweet peas, zinnias, and other blooms were well represented.

Fire losses in August reached $37,000, the heaviest of any month this year. The fire at McLeod's mill resulted in the greatest loss. There were ten alarms.

IDENTIFY YOUNG GIRL WHO ENDED OWN LIFE

Discovered Man She Was To Wed Already Married.

Special to The Advertiser.

Detroit, Sept. 3.—The body of the young woman found in a secluded spot in the woods in Greenfield township Sunday afternoon, was identified today as that of Audrey Giltiland, 18 years old, 8975 North Martindale avenue, who took her own life with poison last Thursday, the day she had looked forward to as being her wedding day.

Her father, John P. Giltiland, an accountant at the Detroit City Gas Company, made identification at the county morgue.

Infatuation for a dance-hall acquaintance about twelve years her senior, an ardent courtship for a month, which was to have ended in marriage last Thursday, and then suddenly on the day set, discovery that the man was already married preceded a lonely and tragic end among the trees.

RESCUERS ARE STABBED BY UNKNOWN ASSAILANT

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—Three men suffered knife wounds while going to the rescue of a woman whom they had heard shouting for help in a house at 1838 Notre Dame street west, this city, last night. The man with whom she was struggling turned on her helpers and stabbed one of them, Joseph Frenette, five times in the back. The other two men were only slightly injured. Only a vague description of their assailants could be given to the police.

BIRKENHEAD LAUDS IRISH COALITION

Says Newly-Elected Government Will Justify Its Existence.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—"It is a complete vindication of the coalition," said the Right Hon. the Earl of Birkenhead, formerly British lord chancellor, in discussing the recent Irish Free State elections. His lordship arrived here today for the purpose of taking part in the eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association. He added that the justification of the coalition would be found in the conduct of the war and in the treaty which brought into being the Irish Free State. "That treaty was possible only under the coalition. The Liberals could not achieve it and it was not to be looked for from the die-hard Tories."

"VICTORY DANCE" RESULTS IN REPUBLICANS' ARREST

Associated Press Despatch.

Belfast, Sept. 3.—A "victory dance" held in Dundalk to celebrate the election to the Dail Eireann of Frank Aitken, Republican chief of staff, was raided by the military in the early hours of this morning, and all the male participants, numbering 55, and including Phillip Daly, county councillor, were arrested.

The authorities claimed that some of the men had previously fired on a party including two army officers.

Geo. Hollerg and family have returned from Toronto, where they were holidaying.

Your Health: Here's a New Reason To Destroy All Vermin.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

Recently a Paris despatch was printed in the newspapers. It stated that Dr. Bazin told the Academy of Science that cancer is carried by parasites harbored by cats and dogs.

This investigator took lice from the body of a dog dead of cancer and placed them on living dogs. In due time the vermin infested the animals and they died of cancer.

The story goes on to say that Dr. Bazin investigated houses where persons had died of cancer and found that many animals had died of the same disease. He concluded, therefore, that the lice and fleas of domestic animals may transmit cancer to human beings.

Even should this encouraging statement be disputed it is interesting. Of course there are many chinks to fill in and many facts to be established before this theory can be accepted.

To begin with, it is unusual to find diseases which are readily communicated from animals to men and vice versa. But we will leave that discussion to the scientists.

It is known that certain diseases are carried by vermin. For instance, bubonic plauge is carried by the flea of the rat. The flea prefers the rat, and, so long as the rat lives, it will not leave to bite a man.

The "cootie," the ordinary body louse, carries the germs of typhus. Mice transmit epidemic jaundice. From time to time the bedbug is looked upon suspiciously as the possible carrier of pneumonia. The mosquito carries malaria and yellow fever. The household fly may transmit typhoid fever.

There is an interesting book—at this moment I do not recall the name of the author—entitled the "Minor Horrors of War." It is a recital of what vermin and animal pests have done in the taking of life.

I can well believe that some forms of cancer might be transmitted by insects.

In any event every house should be protected against insect and vermin infestation. In America we are keen to get rid of such things.

It is surprising to know that the workers in the American Red Cross had difficulty in educating certain groups in Europe to the knowledge that vermin are dangerous.

It will be interesting to see how the brickbats of scientific skepticism will be aimed at Bazin's head. It will take him the rest of the year to answer the questions which will be put to him.

But whether this particular theory is proved or disproved, there is no doubt that all vermin should be carefully destroyed if one is to escape disease as well as minor discomforts.

REMAND SICK PRISONER ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Canadian Press Despatch.

Welland, Sept. 3. — Herschall Stewart of Allanburg, who is alleged to have shot and killed his wife in July, and who has since lain in a critical condition under guard at the Welland County Memorial Hospital as the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound following the alleged killing, has been formally arraigned on a murder charge before Magistrate Goodwin, who visited the hospital for the purpose, the magistrate remanding him until his condition will permit his being brought into court.

WESTERN HARVESTERS MAKE RAPID STRIDES

Rust and Sawflies Cut Yield in Southern Manitoba Districts.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Sept. 3.—Weather conditions in the Prairie Provinces during the week have been favorable and harvest has made rapid advancement, according to the crop report issued here tonight by the agricultural department, C. P. R.

Little threshing has been done, but it is expected it will commence during this week in many districts in the southern portions of the three provinces. Farm products continue to market freely, it is stated, bringing satisfactorily prices. Livestock is in excellent condition and there is an abundance of feed.

Grades and yields in Southern Manitoba, as anticipated, are turning out low, owing to rust and sawfly ravages. Cutting there is practically completed, and from 60 to 65 per cent over the whole province.

BLAST VICTIM RECOVERS.

Special to The Advertiser.

Wyoming, Sept. 3. — Clayton Graham, the recent victim of a dynamite cap blast at Wanstead, is now reported as likely to make a complete recovery.

Mrs. W. O. Alles and Edith Alles returned from Dayton, Ohio, where they spent a week's vacation.

CHATHAM BOYS DISCOVER REMNANT OF HUMAN LEG

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Sept. 3. — Several boys playing at the rear of the old Lethbridge stables near the river on Saturday discovered a portion of a human leg. The city police were informed and the remnant of a human being was transferred to the city police station.

City records do not show where any person of either sex has been missing during late years. The portion of leg found is well shaped and would belong to a person about twenty-one years of age. The leg was well preserved.

CANFIELD WOMEN GUESTS OF INSTITUTE AT CAYUGA

Special to The Advertiser.

Cayuga, Sept. 3. — The August meeting of the Cayuga Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Torbez, was of especial interest, as the Canfield Institute furnished the program, being the guests of the day. Mrs. Teeft spoke on "What Parents Owe to Themselves and the Community." Mrs. Badger's topic was, "Making Commonplace Life Interesting," and Mrs. B. Walker spoke on "Avoid Worry and Look on the Sunny Side of Life." Miss Varney and Mrs. Armstrong sang very acceptably. Reading by Mrs. L. Walker and Mrs. W. J. Grant, a piano duet by the Misses Vicars and an accordion solo by Mrs. Lowry were other numbers enjoyed.

CALL FOR INSPECTOR WHEN THEY NEED VET.

Inspector Tustin Says Many Citizens Have Wrong Idea as to His Duties.

Humane Inspector G. A. Tustin declares that he is not a veterinary surgeon, regardless of what people in the city think.

The reason for this denial on the part of Mr. Tustin is found in the fact that not a day passes but that he receives a minimum of 12 calls from citizens who wish him to come and treat a sick dog, cat or horse.

"I am not a vet," declared the inspector, "and it is not my business to visit these sick animals, except in so far as the humane society is concerned. People whose pets become ill or diseased should call a proper surgeon, who knows what to do and when to do it. I am willing to help, but I am not an animal doctor and I wish the people of London would realize this."

ASKS FOR ORDER TO CONFISCATE LIQUOR

Inspector Bolton Wants Four Cases Seized at C. P. R. Last Week.

License Inspector Walter Bolton appeared in police court this morning and asked for an order by Magistrate Graydon for the confiscation of four cases of liquor seized by him at the C. P. R. on August 27.

Mr. Bolton told the court that efforts had been made to locate the consignee at Chatham, but had failed. The representatives of the railway had also been notified, but knew no reason why the liquor should not be confiscated. The freight on the consignment was paid by Mr. Bolton after the goods had been seized.

The cases contained 460 bottles of imported liquors, and was valued at about $4,000. This is the third large seizure for which confiscation has been requested in the past three weeks.

Magistrate Graydon stated he would order it turned over to the crown next week.

London Baby Proclaimed Grand Champion of Show

Elaine Munce, 376 Maitland Street, Wins $500 Insurance Policy in Labor Day Competition At Port Stanley.

Special to The Advertiser.

Port Stanley, Sept. 3.—Elaine, daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Munce, of 376 Maitland street, London, was today proclaimed the grand champion child entered in the baby show which was one of the main features of the Labor Day celebration here. She wins the $500 Northern Life endowment policy. Contrary to all expectations of this forenoon, Labor day, at Port Stanley was far from being an utter failure. To a large extent, the all-famous baby show for the grand championship caused hundreds to turn out, even though prospects for a day of fun were small.

In this event dozens of mothers exhibited their babes, all of which had won a championship cup at previous picnics, and hundreds of interested friends turned out to see the result, the grand champion being decided by the amount of cheering given.

Show Keen Interst.

In the land sports, anxious children contested with much eagerness, some of the items providing great amusement for the hundreds of onlookers, especially the dog race for boys, when each contestant was required to run or jump along on all fours. So eager were the contestants to enter that the girls' shoe race cancelled because of rather dirty course was staged by request of several entrants, who stated that they didn't mind a little dirt on their hose.

Following are the results of the baby show:

Grand champion—Elaine Munce, 376 Maitland street, London.

Baby girl, six months and under—1st, Freda M. Barclay, Windsor; 2nd, Ethel Grace Wyatt, London.

SEEK BODIES OF BOYS THOUGHT TO BE DROWNED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—All day yesterday Malt Akroid and a crew of five men dragged for the bodies of the three Toronto boys who are believed to have been drowned near Midland. They will continue their search today.

Parents of Harold Mundey and Stanley Crang, who have been at Bala awaiting word from the searchers, returned to the city yesterday.

GRAND OPENS SEASON WITH SPLENDID BILL

"Town Scandals," With Interesting Vaudeville Sketches, Proves Success.

The first of the Columbia Amusement Company attractions opened a three-days' engagement in the Grand Opera House Monday afternoon and proved a strong drawing card. "Town Scandals," the vehicle chosen to exploit the company, is nothing more or less than glorified burlesque, being made up largely of sketches and scenes similar to those presented by the English revue companies, and the burlesque wheel ventures familiar to theatre-goers in the larger cities. There is no plot, no ceremony, just a conglomeration of vaudeville turns with pretty dances and marches and tuneful ensemble chorus numbers binding the whole. While not many of the numbers are new, the old ones used are good, and the entertainment proved a distinct success with the large audiences, for every number was received with hearty applause to which the company responded generously. Harry (Hicky) LeVan, the Irish comedian who heads the company, has an unctuous humor which he gets over well. He is supported by Arthur Lines, a "straight" Frank O'Neil, also a clever comedian, and Johnny Hudgins, blackface comedian, who, as a dancer, will compare favorably with the best seen here in more pretentious productions. Miss Exie Butler, billed as the prima donna, has a yodeling specialty, which she does well, and she also scores with an excellent saxaphone number. Lettie Bolles and Lillian Beeson, ingenue and soubrette respectively, are easy to look upon and "full o' pep." Their several contributions to the lengthy program are all good. The chorus is young, sprightly, shapely and hard-working. The Barney Google number is a distinct novelty, while the Oriental dances are well done by principal and assistants. The costumes and scenic mountings are particularly good.

One feature of the performance is a fantasy, entitled "Dreams," presenting living art models in attractive poses. As a variant of the old living picture act it is decidedly attractive and was received with prolonged applause. Altogether the production is a good one, and if the succeeding companies of the Columbia Amusement Company's management which appear here the first three days of each week come up to the standard set by the opening, there can be no question of the success of the venture or the pleasure in store for patrons of light musical and spectacle entertainment.

Reopening after the summer vacation the theatre looked its best. It has been renovated and painted throughout and is now in first-class shape. "Town Scandals" will continue today and tomorrow with matinee and evening performances daily.

SALVATIONISTS TO HOLD FAREWELL AND WELCOME

Brigadier Creighton, who is leaving the local Salvation Army shortly, will deliver a farewell address at No. 1 Citadel on Wednesday evening.

Brigadier and Mrs. McAmmond, arriving in the city on Wednesday, will be given a welcome at the citadel on Thursday evening.

Colonel McMillan, who has been in the Canada East territory, which includes Port Arthur, to the eastern coast, will be in London Wednesday, September 12, and will be given a welcome at the citadel on that date.

At the Movies Last Night

"Penrod and Sam."

To the schoolboy and the memory of schoolboy days in adults, is the feature-picture at the Allen Theatre, "Penrod and Sam," from the book by Booth Tarkington, dedicated. And nobly does it carry out its purpose. As a picture it stands supreme, in that nearly every incident in the long film is reminiscent of "boy," that ruler of the earth. Laughs follow quickly on one another and a touch of pathos is also introduced. What man does not remember the time his pet dog died and was buried, with many tears and sobs? What old boy but played at being the leader of an army or built a shack and fought his battles with bare knuckles and no thoughts of the ethics of the prize ring? "Penrod," played by Ben Alexander, a young boy, is a remarkable bit of acting and the lad bids fair to become one of the leading stars of the movie world. And practically all the rest of the cast are boys, everyone of whom deserves special mention.

Larry Semon, the inimitable comedian, made his appearance in "The Gown Shop," and the roof was nearly lifted off with the laughter which followed the picture. A film showing the House of David colony is also shown. A Goldwyn-Bray film completes the silent part of the offering.

But a surprise, and a real one, is offered to the patrons, in the Methuselah Quartet, a group of male vocalists, members of the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, Michigan. These men, two Englishmen, an Australian and a Scotchman, are totally different in every respect from what would be expected. And they can also dance. Their rendition of "Wi' a Hundred Pipers and A' and A,' " is one of the most novel pieces heard here. That they were liked was evidenced by the encores which they gave in response to the applause from the crowded house. They will be here till Wednesday.

"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife."

Loew's Theatre opened the first week in September with a Gloria Swanson picture, which pleased her followers. As in all her pictures the cast and the scenes are above the average and well enough balanced to allow the star to dominate the story with her own forceful personality. In "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," the famous actress appears in an ingenue part rather foreign to usual roles.

As Marie De Briac, the young daughter of an impecunious French count, wayward and idealistic, she becomes enamored of an American millionaire, one John Brandon, already the husband of seven wives, all of whom he has divorced or been divorced from. On this point the story is not very clear.

Not until after her marriage to this dominating man, who has never known what it was to be successfully opposed in any project, does she find out the truth. The subsequent relations of the married enemies, forms the basis of the picture. It is a theme that has become hackneyed by constant repetition, both on the stage and on the screen, yet Gloria Swanson does a great deal to rescue it from triteness. The play is interesting, and being centered around such a star is sufficiently well presented, even if it is a rather sordid story in immaculate clothes and with lavish and sumptuous effects.

The vaudeville part of the program is headed by the "Wilson Aulay Trio," a well-known gymnastic burlesque, that has appeared on many of the larger circuits, and is a worthy first turn on any bill. The "Fay Rasch Trio," two men and a girl, offer songs and dances, and the "Three Dawson Sisters," another trio, well known to vaudeville patrons in the last few years, contributes a dancing and singing act, which includes their original act of 1890, and is all through dainty and attractive. A comedy reel, that is really capable of raising a healthy laugh, and a Pathe reel complete an entertaining program.

"Westbound Limited."

Dozens of pictures have been produced in which wrecks are featured. It has almost been a rule to use the railroads to carry the hero back to his sweetheart or to typify transportation. The man in whose hands lies the safety of a few hundred passengers has rarely been featured. The engineer is there, but you don't see him. You see the dapper young man alighting from the train—and in all probability that star wouldn't know the throttle of a passenger mogul from a tractor lever.

In "Westbound Limited" now showing at the Patricia, the worries, the trials, the amusements and the home life of a railroad man are realistically screened. As the engineer of "99," a fast passenger, Ralph Lewis holds the stage with his son, Johnny Buckley, in real life, Johnny Harron.

And between them with the aid of a well-chosen cast, they have brought to the screen a pleasant drama, with thrills, but not impossible or grossly exaggerated happenings. Lewis starred in "The Third Alarm," one of the best pictures of fireman life produced.

Emory Johnson, producer of the "Westbound Limited" and the "Third Alarm," evidently knows his business. Wedgewood Nowell and David Kirby, two well-known Fox character actors, do good work in "Westbound Limited." Ella Hall, the heroine, who plays the part of the railroad president's daughter, and who in the end marries Johnny, the young railroad block-signal man, is a trifle disappointing. Her "Babydoll" face and in a few cases, actions, seem out of place.

But, all in all, the picture is good. Its glimpses of life in the cab and in the yards are real. The averting of a head-on collision by the engineer's son, and the incidental winning of the girl, is the climax, and a series of cleverly-arranged events work up to it.

The Temple Four (late with George White's Scandals) constitute the vaudeville. One or two of their jokes were good, and their singing was only fair.

WARNS FAIR MANAGEMENT AGAINST "FAKE" OFFICIALS

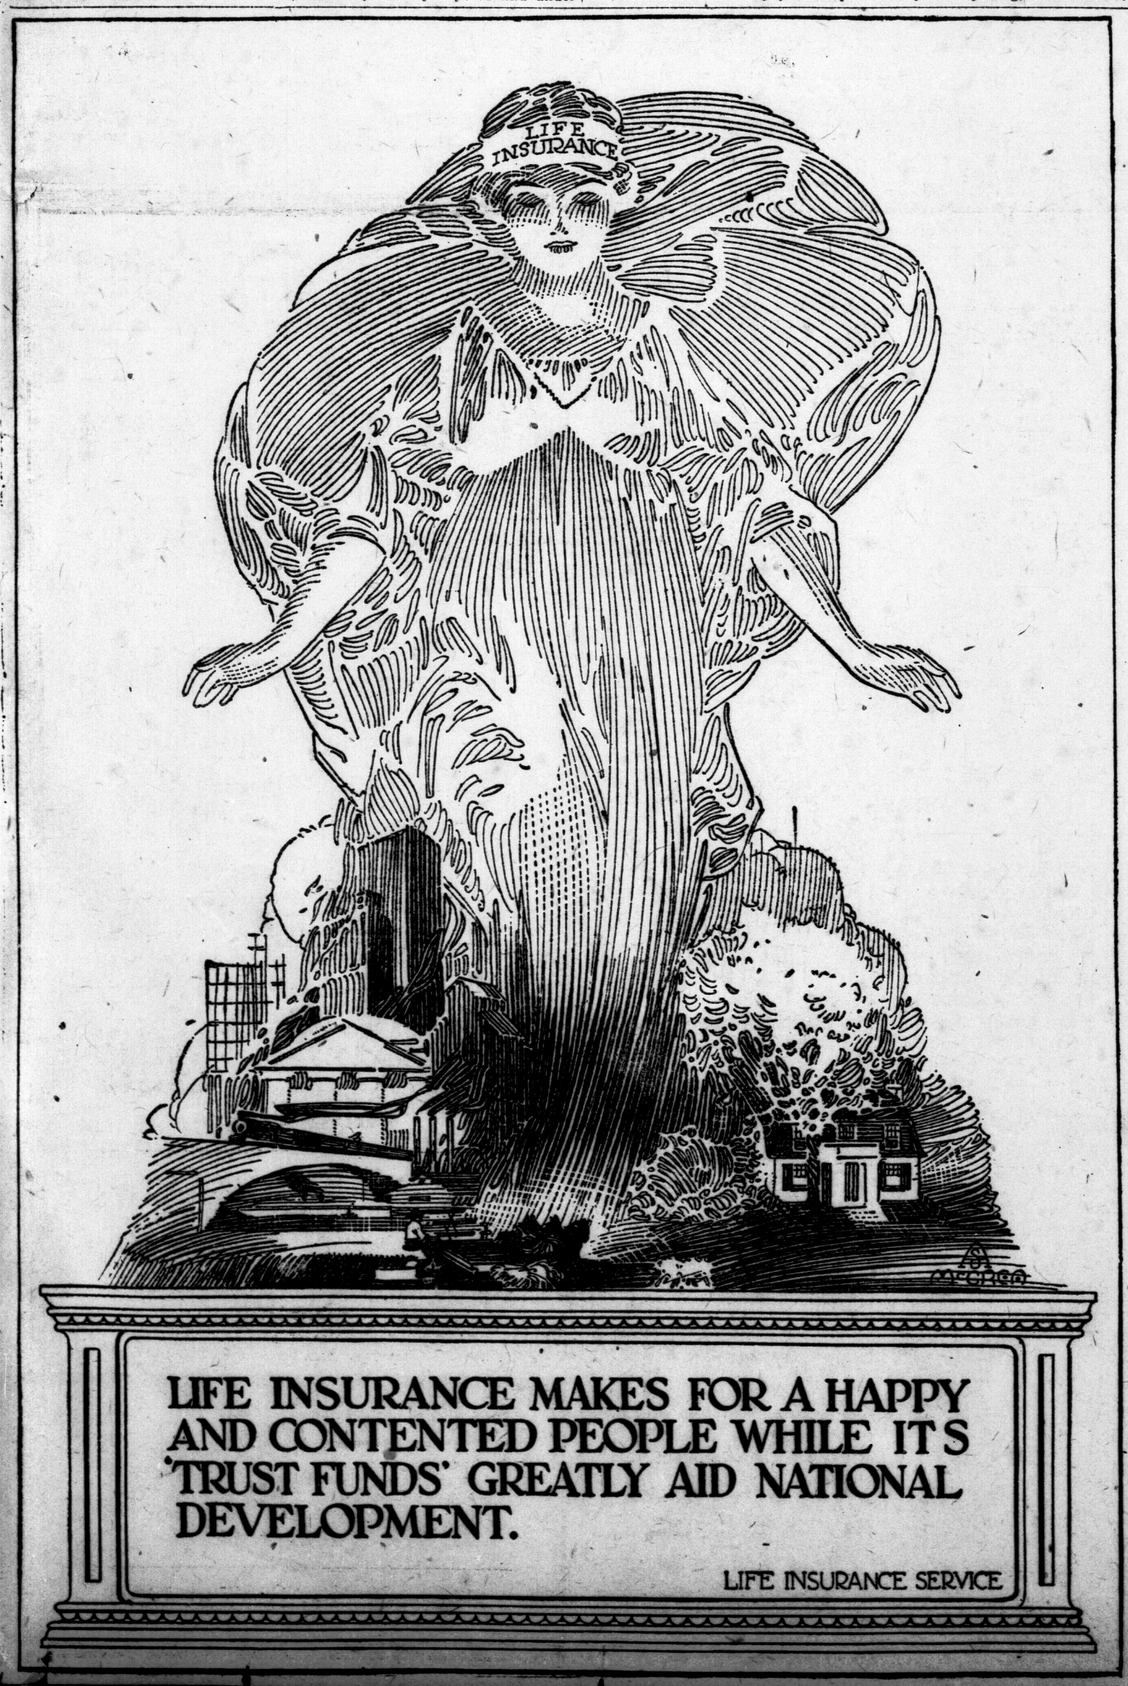

G. A. Tustin, local humane society inspector, has warned the management of the Western Fair that attempts may be made to gain entrance to the exhibition by persons flashing bogus official badges.

Mr. Tustin stated that more than 80 persons wearing false humane society badges had gained admittance to the Toronto Exhibition during the first week and that this was casting a reflection on the legitimate representatives.

Mr. Hunt, manager of the local fair, has been notified that there are five inspectors in this district and has also been given the numbers of their badges. He has told Mr. Tustain that care will be taken to see that none but authorized holders of these are admitted.

Danny McPhee Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game For St. Thomas To Beat Chatham, Score 1--0

St. Thomas Meets Terriers Wednesday On Home Lot

Meredith's Single Scored Billings, Who Had Walked, With Winning Run in 7th.

Special to The Advertiser.

Galt, Sept. 3.—Secretary Mark Dulmage advised the management of the Terriers today that the local nine had been drawn to meet St. Thomas, victors over Chatham, in the next round of the senior O. B. A. A. play-off, with the first game in St. Thomas on Wednesday and the return here on Saturday.

Chatham, Sept. 3.—Danny McPhee was forced to pitch a no-hit, no-run game here today to beat Chatham 1 to 0 in what will probably go down as one of the finest exhibitions ever staged in O. A. B. A. play-offs. Three thousand five hundred fans witnessed the tense struggle, which was broken into in the seventh when Meredith's long drive into center field scored Billings, who had walked, with the lone and winning tally of the game.

Blake McCoig pitched masterly ball throughout, a wonderful hurling performance in the face of weaker opposition. The Chatham moundsman allowed but four hits, his performance being marred by wildness, four getting to first by the free route. McPhee was never in better form. The first Brisco to get to first base strolled there on a walk in the eighth. McPhee had the batter two and three when the fourth ball was called. McPhee threw his glove and the ball down and walked off the field, an occurrence which took some of the lustre off the southpaw's performance. McPhee was coaxed to take up his duties again and after throwing the first three balls to the next batter wide of the plate, settled down and made him a whiff victim. In the eighth McCoig hit Arlein's ankle, and he had to retire.

The work of Umpires Legg and Forgue gave great satisfaction.

GIANTS HOLD OWN, REDS ARE BEATEN

Forty-Five Thousand See the Giants Win and Lose, But Gain.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Sept. 3.—The New York Nationals and Boston Braves split even in the holiday bill here today before 45,000 fans at the Polo Grounds. New York won the opening game by 3 to 2 in ten innings, while Boston took the second by 8 to 1. By breaking even while Cincinnati lost the only game they played today, the Giants gained half a game on the Reds. The Giants won the first game when Jack Bentley, pinch-hitting for McQuillan, got a lucky hit to McInnis with Stengel on third, as a result of his hit and Snyder's single. The Braves battered four of McGraw's pitchers in the second game for thirteen hits, while Oeschger, who hurled for the Braves, allowed the Giants but seven smacks, and managed to keep them well scattered. Hank Gowdy and Mickey O'Neill were chased from the second game for protesting Umpire Finneran's decision. Scores:

First game:		R.H.E.
Boston	000 000 020 0—2	6 0
New York	000 200 000 1—3	6 3

Marquard, Fillingim and E. Smith; McQuillan and Snyder.

Second game:		R.H.E.
Boston	203 000 021—8	13 0
New York	100 000 000—1	7 5

Oeschger and O'Neill, Smith; Ryan, Jonnard, Barnes, Gearin and Gowdy, Snyder.

DIVIDE AT BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn, Sept. 3.—Philadelphia won the first game from Brooklyn today by 4 to 2 and lost the second game by 5 to 4, which gave the Phillies two out of three in the series. Brooklyn won the second game in the eighth inning, when High was safe on Tierney's fumble and scored on Berg's sacrifice and Grimes' single. Scores:

First game:		R.H.E.
Philadelphia	210 010 000—4	10 0
Brooklyn	000 000 200—2	6 1

Ring and Wilson; Ruether and Hargraves.

Second game:		R.H.E.

Couch and Henline; Grimes and Taylor.

CARDS DIVIDE.

Chicago, Sept. 3. — St. Louis and Chicago divided a double-header today. Rogers Hornsby's fifteenth home run of the season ended a pitching battle in the first game between Keen and Stuart, the visitors winning by 1 to 0. Barfoot weakened in the tenth inning of the second game, and, with the bases filled, O'Farrell singled to center, giving Chicago a 5 to 4 victory. Scores:

First game:		R.H.E.
St. Louis	000 000 010—1	7 1
Chicago	000 000 000—0	5 2

Stuart and McCurdy; Keen, Fussell and O'Farrell, Hartnet.

Second game:		R.H.E.
St. Louis	000 310 000 0—4	9 1
Chicago	000 300 010 1—5	9 4

North, Barfoot and McCurdy, Clemons; Osborne, Dumovich and O'Farrell.

MORRISON EFFECTIVE.

Pittsburg, Sept. 3. — Morrison was effective against Cincinnati in the morning game of a double-header today, and Pittsburg won by 7 to 2. He held the visitors to three hits until the ninth inning, when they collected three more. Benton was hit hard, and McQuade, who relieved him, pitched well except in the eighth, when the home team scored two runs. The second game was postponed on account of rain.

Score:		R.H.E.
Cincinnati	000 000 002—2	6 2
Pittsburg	301 100 02x—7	15 1

Benton, McQuade and Wingo; Morrison and Gooch.

MAY PROTEST SPEED BOAT'S WIN 150-MILE STAKES

Associated Press Despatch.

Detroit, Sept. 3.—Gar Wood's speedboat Teddy, piloted by his brother, George Wood, finished first in the 150-mile international motorboat sweepstakes today over a three-mile course in the Detroit River. Packard Chriscraft II. finished second, and Packard Chriscraft III. finished third.

The Teddy travelled the final six laps without her hatches, a violation of the rules, and the result may be protested. The Teddy's official time was 2:59:55:25.

Col. J. G. Vincent, owner and pilot of Chriscraft II., announced that he would protest Teddy's victory.

U. S. STARS ROUT AUSTRALIAN PAIR

Last Stand of Aussies in the Davis Cup Not Thrilling.

Associated Press Despatch.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 3.—The United States scored a clean sweep today in the final two singles matches of the Davis Cup challenge round finishing the international championship series with a margin of four games to one over the Australian challengers. After William M. Johnston had clinched the cup by routing John B. Hawkes in the first match, 6—0, 6—2, 6—1, William T. Tilden conquered James O. Anderson 6—2, 6—3, 1—6, 7—5, in a match filled with both brilliant and mediocre play.

The crushing character of the closing victories, though again securing the United States' possession of the Davis Cup, came as a distinct anti-climax to the gruelling, spectacular play in the first two days of the challenge round. The gallery of 13,000 that taxed the capacity of the big West Side Club's stadium, had come expecting a last desperate stand on the part of the Australians, who had proved so unexpectedly powerful in dividing the first two singles encounters, and forcing the doubles match to five terrific record-breaking sets Saturday before bowing in defeat. But they were doomed to disappointment. At no stage of today's play was there the least uncertainty of the outcome, for the mastery of both Johnston and Tilden was complete at practically every stage of both matches.

This year's victory, gained by the same margin as that over Australia a year ago, put the United States into the lead in total number of victories since the Davis Cup first was put into competition in 1900. The United States has now won it seven times, Australia six and the British Isles five.

There was no surprise except, perhaps, its overwhelming nature in Johnston's defeat of Hawkes, but the convincing ease with which Tilden, outside of the third set, conquered Anderson, was altogether unexpected.

For two sets Tilden had his opponent helpless in the face of withering, relentless, accurate attack. Tilden had everything. His cannon ball service was invincible. He drove Anderson from side to side with forehand and backhand shots that streaked across the court, and his mixture of pace had the Australian completely at sea. Anderson was wild and his service was far from its usual effectiveness, but against such amazing opposition he was helpless.

CANUCK ESSAYS CHANNEL SECOND TIME.

Associated Press Despatch.

Calais, Sept. 3.—The Canadian swimmer, Omer Perrault, entered the water at Cape Grisnez at 1:10 this afternoon in his second attempt this year to swim the English Channel. He is accompanied by a Calais boat.

Perrault's previous attempt was made on August 5, when the roughness of the sea compelled him to abandon the attempt when only six miles from the English coast after swimming from Calais.

Firpo-Dempsey Go Grips Public Ticket Sales Show

May Not Be Best-Matched Pair in World, But Ticketseekers Queues, 11 Days Before Fight, Shows Hold the Big Battle Exerts On Gotham.

By ROBERT EDGREN.
Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

New York, Sept. 3.—Dempsey and Firpo may not be the best matched pair that ever fought for a warld's championship, but something about the bout has caught the public fancy more than any other battle ever staged. Tex Rickard was standing on the sidewalk in front of his headquarters at the Garden when I found him today smilingly looking over a long line waiting to reach the ticket window. It looked like the day of a big fight rather than eleven days before.

"The greatest sell-out in history," said Rickard. "Look at them, and all cash. A week before the fight there won't be a ticket for sale anywhere. We have sold out whole price sections; now there is nothing left but $15 and $20 seats, and they're going fast. We're going to cover the Polo grounds with seats, 80,000 people, and if the place was twice as big, we couldn't accommodate everybody. All the little fights are overshadowed and almost forgotten. There's never been anything like this fight before. The gate is going to run about $1,400,000, even at low prices.

What Public Wants.

"How do you account for what the public wants? Looks like an American champion likely to knock out a foreign champion—people want to see it?" I suggested.

"No," said Rickard. "They went after the Carpentier-Dempsey fight the same way, and a lot of them wanted to see Dempsey knocked out. I guess a lot of people think Firpo may turn the trick. It gets both crowds. It gets those who want to see an American win and the foreigners who would like to see any foreigner beat a North American. New York's full of them."

"What do you think of Firpo's chances?" I asked Rickard.

"He has a mighty good chance," said Tex. "Nobody knows Firpo better than I do. I picked him for a comet the first time I saw him, and I've watched him ever since. They think Firpo is dumb. He's smart, I know. Nobody can put anything over on that bird. I've had him in a lot of contracts, and he had to understand everything before he put his name down. You ought to see him figure everything out. He can figure quicker than I can and he doesn't make any mistakes.

"He has not fought the same way twice, and he's shown improvement every time. He'll be better with Dempsey than he was with Willard. He's a born fighter. He'll be game if he has to, and I'll tell you one thing—anybody who thinks Dempsey is going to walk out and drop Firpo in a punch is going to be fooled. If Firpo is beaten, he isn't going to be beaten in a hurry. He's too tough to be knocked out in a round, or three, or four rounds. There's nothing soft about him. If Dempsey can beat him in ten rounds he'll do a good job, and Firpo may get one over, himself, before that. Dempsey's going to know he's in a fight from the minute it starts. That's my opinion."

DeForest Too Mysterious.

They're telling a funny one about why Firpo severed relations with Jimmy DeForest. As Firpo describes it, DeForest was simply too mysterious and Firpo didn't see any reason for it. Jimmy would call Firpo aside for instructions, take him into a room, close the door and stand with his ear at the panel to make sure no one was following. Then he'd slip around to the windows, put his head out and look all around, close the windows and call Firpo to the middle of the room. There he'd whisper his instructions. The air of mystery was too much for Firpo. Also, he didn't understand whispered instructions very well. He wanted to talk with his advisers in his own language, and he sent a call for help to the Argentine. But if Jimmy had not puzzled Firpo by being so mysterious, he might have been handling him still.

The report from Saratoga that Dempsey is knocking out all his new sparring partners is causing a stir in Firpo's camp. The Argentine sportsmen want to know if the odds shouldn't be 5 to 1. That isn't lack of confidence in Firpo, but just the willingness to make the most of a business opportunity. Same stuff Yale and Harvard men used to pull at the boat races on the Thames.

In spite of reports that Firpo is speeding up his work today, he isn't knocking his sparring staff all over the lot the way Dempsey does. Perhaps his sparring staff is too fragile to stand much mauling.

He ought to have a few like Burke and Godfrey to have a real workout. But it might not be diplomatic to take too many chances.

There has not been much betting on the fight. People who like to make wagers are waiting for the odds to settle down. There are few fights in which either man is worth 4 to 1 in the betting, when both can handle a knockout punch.

Greb Challenges.

Harry Greb, who won the world's middleweight championship from Johnny Wilson Friday night, has issued a challenge to Dempsey, and Harry Wills is starting a "tour" as "claimant of the championship." Kearns says that Dempsey will fight anyone the public regards as a reasonable challenger, when the right time comes, but that until he is finished with Firpo he won't pay any attention to challenges from any one. He has enough to think about.

Dempsey plans a trip to Utah and a hunting trip there, immediately after the Firpo fight. After the two long sieges of training in Montana and at Saratoga, he is entitled to a rest. Dempsey will not consider any offers for a match next month, in Connecticut or elsewhere. As for Wills' claim to the title, let Wills claim anything he wants to. Greb was considered as a possible opponent for a six or eight-round bout during the indoor season, but his showing with Jimmy Wilson may have knocked that out. He didn't even come near stopping Wilson in fifteen rounds, and nobody is going to concede him a chance to stop Dempsey over any distance.

Tecs Grab Modest 18 Hits and Ding-Dong Tilt As Well

Kazoos Drop Only Game of Holiday Bill To Tribesmen 5--4.

The Kazoos struck the trail early in the only game of the holiday bill played yesterday afternoon over in the west end, but the Tecs stuck doggedly to their trailing, tied it up in the eighth and won out in the eleventh, 5—4.

Delman, the young blonde right-hander, went the full route, but Ruane's double in the fifth looked as if the puffing Tecs had their second wind, and Brown was yanked in favor of Dickie Hughes, former Hamilton dweller, and while the tanned party got the next three out in a row, he was in cramped situations for nearly every frame until the long drawn-out end of the tilt, London amassing the modest total of 18 hits.

The Londoners made a false start in the first, singles by Getsie and Schaefer and Rose's wild peg allowing a tally in. This inspired the Kazoos, and they came back with a pair in their half, a walk to Wolgomot, singles by Kimble and Viverous and a choice which didn't function being responsible.

The Tecs came back with two in their half of the second, Delman, who had forced Barbelon after he had singled, didn't constitute a threat until McHale had baubled Stimpson's smash, and then Getsie's double scored both runners. Kazoos plumped down heavy on the tetter in the third, drawing ahead of the Tecs again with a brace of counters. McHale, safe through Barbelon's error, and Wolgomot with a single, Bubser bubbled over with a double to left, driving the fleet foots over.

After that Kazoos never really threatened, great plays by Stimpson, Churry and Barbelon discouraging their attempts. Singles by McHale and O'Brien, Wolgomot's sacrifice and a walk to Kimble crowded things a bit in the seventh. Bubser, however, singled into Stimpson's hand and the outfielder's great peg and Mackey's great block at the plate lightened the pressure.

Meantime Hughes wore a furtive air looking for trouble around the corner every frame. He met it in the eighth, but dodged hastily away after singles Getsie, Beatty and Schaefer scored the tieing run, making the next two roll out.

The Londoners had chances in the ninth and tenth and made good on them in the eleventh, as Barbelon was waved, Delman singled and so did Stimpson, filling the bases. It was delayed, and tense action, however, as Getsie popped, and Beatty lifted a foul, but Schaefer broke up the game and loosened the tension with his spanking single to right.

The Tecs lost a great chance to keep the game within the regulation size in the fourth when two walks and Getsie's single filled the bases with two gone, Wolgomot stepped into the breach here though, making a nice catch of Mackey's foul.

Blankenship, Thurston, Gillinwater and Crouse; Holloway, Pillette, Johnson and Bassler.

RUTH STARTED IT.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—New York today took both ends of the holiday games from Philadelphia, winning the morning after 13 hard-fought innings, 2 to 1, and capturing the afternoon contest 7 to 4, when Walberg weakened in the eighth.

Heimach and Shawkey had a real hurling duel in the morning game, the former losing out in the 13th when Ruth opened with his only hit of the day, a double to center. The scores:

First game:		R.H.E.
New York	010 000 000 000 1—2	12 1
Philadelphia	000 100 000 000 0—1	10 1

SENATORS, RED SOX SPLIT.

Boston, Sept. 3. — Boston defeated Washington 5 to 4 in the opening game of their double-header here today, but lost the second game 7 to 3. Singles by Collins, Flagstead and Burns and Joe Harris' double scored two runs and put men on second and third with none out in the ninth inning of the first game. Walter Johnson then relieved Zachary, and Shanks drove a single through the box, which scored the tying and winning runs.

Marberry made his first big league start in the second game. He was in difficulty in the sixth, but Russell relieved him and no Boston batter reached first during the remainder of the game. The scores:

First game:		R.H.E.
Washington	000 012 100—4	9 2
Boston	000 100 004—5	11 1

Zachary, Johnson and Gharrity; Quinn, Murray, Howe and Decormer.

Second game:		R.H.E.

Marberry, Russell and Ruel; Ehmke, Howe, Murray and Picinich.

TRIPLE PLAY FEATURED.

Cleveland, Sept. 3.—Cleveland defeated St. Louis in both games here today, winning the morning game 4 to 2, and the afternoon contest 5 to 2. A triple play by the Browns was the feature of the first, which marked Uhle's twenty-fourth victory of the season. In the second game Speaker hit a home run with two on base. The scores:

First game:		R.H.E.
St. Louis	200 000 000—2	13 1
Cleveland	011 000 20x—4	7 0

Davis, Kolp and Collins; Uhle and O'Neill.

J. DEMPSEY PREPARES DEFENCE AGAINST LUIS

Dempsey So Fit Will Lay Off Training Again For Today.

Associated Press Despatch.

Saratoga Springs, Sept. 3.—Perfecting a defence for the style of battle he expects from Luis Angel Firpo seemed to be the chief object of Jack Dempsey's training at Saratoga Lake camp today.

Dempsey boxed two rounds each with George Godfrey, Farmer Lodge and Jack McAuliffe, in addition to going through his other stunts for the benefit of the cameras. Godfrey was under instructions to hit with the right hand while at close quarters, much after the fashion of Firpo, and the big Negro never stopped trying to club the champion on the back of the neck with rabbit punches. Dempsey, however, ducked under the blow or blocked it with his left.

While facing Lodge, Dempsey permitted the 235-pounder to pull and maul him around the ring. The champion tied Lodge's big arms in the clinches, digging left hooks into his body. Lodge was completely winded after the two rounds.

The champion's two rounds against McAuliffe were fast, as the big Detroit heavyweight kept Dempsey stepping to avoid his left jabs. Because Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, considers that Dempsey has reached a satisfactory stage in his training with the championship battle still ten days away, the title-holder plans to take a day of rest tomorrow.

FIRPO IN GOOD HUMOR.

Atlantic City, Sept. 3.—In high good humor, Luis Angel Firpo went through a strenuous training session today as if it were play. He sparred two rounds with McCann, one each with Frank Koebele and J. Clarke, the Joplin Ghost, and two with Natalio Pera, the entire workout being an exhibition of speed and defensive work. Firpo did not punch hard today, contenting himself with a few cuffs on his helpers' ears. McCann hit him once with a solid right on the point of the jaw, but that didn't seem to hurt, and Koebele hooked a left to his chin. He didn't mind that either.

Branson of Kansas City won the national 100-mile motor-cycle racing championship at the speedway here today, negotiating the distance in 60 minutes 11 seconds, or at an average speed of 99.7 miles per hour. Ralph Hepburn of Los Angeles was second and John Krieger of Santa Anna, Calif., third.

KING WAVE WINS BLUE BONNETS KING'S PLATE

Drew Away From Bona Fide and Dorienne At Finish.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—The feature of the racing at Bluebonnets today was the running of the King's Plate, which was won by King Wave, the favorite, after a hard stretch drive in which both Bona Fide and Dorienne figured. King Wave, however, drew away at the finish, and won as if much the best. Another feature race was the handicap at six furlongs, in which the Ross horse, New Hampshire, could only made a poor third, although much fancied. A large crowd, undeterred by the threatening weather, attended the racing.

The results:

First race, steeplechase, purse $1,200, about two miles — Briganna, won; Chuckle, second; Sea Monarch, third. Time, 4:10. Flying Frog also ran.

Second race, purse $1,000, 6 furlongs—Patchwork, won; Sunbrae, second; Assyrian Queen, third. Time, 1:15 2-5. Fox Tail, Heavy Artillery, Black Hackle, Dixie Dick, Pumps, Minute Man, O'Kelly also ran.

Sixth race — Fleet Princess, won; Catamaran, second; Malvern, third. Time, 1:08 2-5. Humble, Runaway and Seth's Alibi also ran.

Seventh race—Ticacle, won; Dancer, second; Hutton Trope, third. Time, 1:43. Vendor, Magician, Forge Ahead, Armistice, Debadeuo, Annette Teller, George Duncan also ran.

HERB HILL WINS "EX" MILE WALK.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—The one-mile handicap walking race, open to all America, staged at the Canadian Exhibition track this afternoon, was won by Herb. Hill, Toronto Y. M. C. A., with J. Mahon, St. Michael's College, Toronto, second, and Miles Joyce of Tonawanda, N. Y., Athletic Club, third. Hill's time was 7 minutes 35 seconds. Hill started 35 yards, Mahon 30 yards and Joyce 17 yards from scratch. All were within 10 yards of the tape at the finish.

L.R.C. TOURNEY PUT OFF UNTIL NEXT SATURDAY

Program of Four Ten-End Games Will Start Sharp At 1 o'Clock.

Two attempts were made to stage the big Labor Day tourney at the L. R. C. greens yesterday, but it was too damp, and the committee decided to postpone the event until Saturday.

All rinks must be on hand promptly at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Four 10-end games will be played.

A new draw will be made later and announced.

St. Matts' Stuck It.

St. Matts were able to stage their tournament, J. Banks again romping off with the first honors. The rinks were:

Wilson, J. Begg, W. Thompson, J. Banks, skip, 3 wins, plus 23.

Christie, St. Lawrence, C. Snellgrove, skip, 3 wins, plus 22.

A club draw will be held tonight, and an open Thursay night.

HAMS LOSE TWO.

Hamilton, Sept. 3.—Flint took both of the holiday games from Hamilton, the score in the morning being 6 to 5, while in the afternoon the count was 4 to 1. In the morning game Miller was given poor support in the sixth inning when three of the visitors' runs were made. The Hams staged a rally in the eighth which netted them four runs, an error, a walk, three singles and sacrifice fly doing the trick. They got another in the ninth, and Blake was called out at the plate when a squeeze play was attempted to put over the tieing run. Doubles by Lewis and Regan and Jahn's homer accounted for three runs for Flint in the first inning of the afternoon game. Two singles and a triple gained them another in the fifth. Kaylor's clout over the right field fence accounted for the Hams' lone tally in the afternoon.

WOLVES RAINED OUT.

Bay City, Aug. 3. — Bay City and Muskegon, after being rained out this morning, were forced to halt hostilities at the end of the eighth inning in the afternoon game by another rainstorm with the score knotted, 4 to 4.

Lefty Pinto pitched far better ball than Lefty Good, but poor support on the part of his mates in the sixth inning permitted the Wolves to tie the count.

Dr. Ross Wins City Singles Title From E. V. Rechnitzer

Little Lessons In Golf

BY CHESTER G. HORTON, Nationally Known Golf Instructor.

If you were to make a stone on the end of a string describe a circle as you whirled it in the air with your arm you would be required to observe one absolute essential. You would, as you know, have to keep your head still. The least movement of your head would, of course, cause the flying stone to move out of its circular path through the air.

Precisely the same thing applies to the head of the golf ball. Today, with the aid of the sketch, we get a picture of what happens to the clubhead when the player moves his head. In this particular case the player allows his body to sway to the right. The dotted line shows the irregular path followed by the clubhead. Getting back he lifts his head and the ball is topped. I maintain, however, that when the stroke is properly made the head keeps itself still. Thus the golfer should begin at the right beginning—that is, seek to perfect the stroke; the head will take care of itself.

Last Year's Champ Played Mediocre Game — Rain Put Off Several Events.

Dr. J. V. Ross, 1921 Western Ontario tennis champion, created the sensation of the city tennis tournament yesterday when he defeated E. V. Rechnitzer, last year's cup holder, in three brilliant sets. Despite rain early in the afternoon a large gallery turned out to see Ross and Rechnitzer battle for the city tennis laurels, and they were rewarded by an exhibition from Ross the equal of which has seldom been seen in London.

The new champ started right in to win every possible point. His forehand drive was working better than it ever worked before, and this combined with accurate placing won for him the first set 6—2. In the two succeeding sets, both of which Ross won, the latter never let up until the final point was secured.

Although Ross annexed all three sets, 6—2, 6—4, 6—1, and displayed keen tennis throughout it was plain to see that Rechnitzer was not up to his game. Depending usually on his sizzling forehand lofter stroke, Rechnizer seemed lost when, after numerous futile attempts to get it over, he changed his tactics and used the chop stroke. But the chop proved as diffcult to negotiate as the forehand, and Ross found many of his opponent's soft drives easy picking.

His Form Bad.

Rechnitzer apparently realized that both his forehand and chop were in bad repair, for he contended himself in the second set with returning Ross' drives on the chance that Ross would make mistakes. But the new titleholder wasn't making mistakes. He shot the balls unmercifully at his opponent, and his placing was remarkable. Rechnitzer tried the forehand stroke which won for him many past tournaments, but out of no less than 40 attempts he only got six in.

It was a pretty game to watch. Spectators applauded vigorously after particularly brilliant rallies. Several times at a crucial point in the game Rechnitzer managed to even up on his adversary, but he lacked the punch to pull out triumphant. In the second set with one game in his favor the 1922 champion had the set virtually in his hands when he missed what should have been an easy placement. Had he got that shot the score would have been 5—3 in his favor, but Ross seized the advantage obtained through Rechnitzer's failure and won all the remaining games.

Credit must be given Ross for his stick-to-it-iveness and determination to win, although Rechnitzer's evident carelessness and lack of punch at a vital moment contributed substantially to his defeat.

In the mixed doubles semi-final event between George Harley—Miss Stevenson and E. V. Rechnitzer—Miss Olga Miller, Rechnitzer's tennis lethargy was plainly evident. Miss Miller, who won the woman's championship, paired with Rechnitzer, was practically conceded victory by the fans. But her partner was way off his game, and Miss Miller herself did not play up to form. The result was a victory for Mr. Harley and Miss Stevenson in straight sets, 6—0, 6—4.

Harley's Net Work.

The round before the semi-final mixed doubles tourney, Harley and Miss Stevenson overcame the Chubb—Baxter combination after losing the first set. Harley's accurate net play has been largely responsible for his team's good showing in both the mixed and men's doubles, and yesterday his aggressive overheads and shrewd placing won for him a double victory.

Rain spoiled many features of the tournament, including the men's doubles finals, which was postponed until Wednesday afternoon. The ladies' and mixed doubles are also scheduled for that date, and the three events will doubtless attract a good crowd.

The semi-final of the men's open doubles between Ford—Mitchell and E. Rechnitzer—Harley will be played today at 4 p.m., and the winners will meet Harper and O. Rechnitzer in the final on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Stevenson and Harley will meet Arthur Ford and Miss Baker in final of the mixed doubles event, and Miss Miller and Mrs. E. A. Rechnitzer will meet Mrs. G. E. Reid and Miss Stevenson in the final of the ladies' doubles.

WYER WINS RACE FOR 'TISER TROPHY

Veteran Leads in Revived St. Marys-Stratford Road Race.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Sept. 3.—Percy Wyer of Toronto, a runner of years' experience with men like Dellow and Scholes, invaded Stratford today and carried away the handsome London Advertiser Trophy for the revived Stratford-St. Marys road race. Not only did Wyer win the race but he bested by 2 minutes the previous record of 1 hours and 23 minutes for the 13 miles. Today his time was 1 hour and 21 minutes. A. Hall of Stratford, who had won the race a few years back, was second in 1:25½, and Dave Caverly, also of Stratford, third in 1:53.

The race was run over a course in which there are a number of heavy hills. These were mastered in fine style. Heavy rains, which fell most of the night and during the morning made the ground heavy and hard to navigate.

The race was between Wyer and Hall. For 9¾ miles they hung together, plugging along. "How far have we yet to go" queried Wyer, the first intimation that either was looking ahead to the finish; "3¼ miles" came the reply from the car which followed them. "I'll have to leave you, old chap," said Wyer to his running mate, as he sprinted off. Hall did not get so far behind, either.

Oowing to the rain the regular sports program was called off and the race finished in front of the G. W. V. A. rooms on Wellington street. A large crowd awaited the runners. Wyer was cheered as he crossed the tape a winner. Four and one-half minutes later, Hall came home. Both runners were quite fresh. Danny Caverly, veteran of many races, plodded home 28 minutes later.

The runners were sent on their journey by Mayor Constable of St. Marys there promptly at 2 o'clock.

The local war vets, though keenly disappointed at not being able to hold their sports, are planning a big day for Sept. 15.

The trophy goes to Hall, who finished second, because of the winner not being a resident of Perth County.

BOTHWELL RACES

Special to The Advertiser.

Bothwell, Sept. 3.—In spite of the heavy rain, which slowed up the track, a splendid crowd attended the Labor Day races held here today. Jack Canuck won the 2:15 class in straight heats. Pearl Togo, after finishing second in the first heat of the 2:50 class, ran first in three straight heats for first money.

The 2:25 class was a mixed up affair, Ben Unko finally showing two firsts, after running second and fourth respectively in the first two heats. In the second heat of this race Attco threw his driver, with no serious result.

The results:

TOURING BRITISHERS BEATEN AT ST. MARYS

14--11 Score by Which Alerts Defeated Oxford-Cambridge Lacrosse Men.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Marys, Sept. 3. — The touring Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team went down to defeat here today to the tune of 14 to 11. The game was fast and clean from start to finish, no penalties being imposed. The first period opened for the visitors, they scoring three in quick succession. St. Marys retaliated with three from Mulby Cowan. St. Marys walked away with the second period, Neylan getting the visitors' only counter as against the locals' six. Period score: St. Marys 6, Oxford-Cambridge 1.

With two minutes of the third period gone, St. Marys scored twice, but the Englishmen came back with three counters, two from Wansborough and one from Pearson. The visitors worked like lightning in the final stanza to overcome the lead, but failed. They secured four counters and held the locals down to three. Period scores: St. Marys, 3, 6, 2, 3; Oxford-Cambridge, 3, 1, 3, 4. Wansborough was the visitors' scoring ace, he getting five of their eleven goals.

The line-ups:

Oxford-Cambridge—Curtis, goal; Heywood, point; Leich, coverpoint; Goode, first defence; Fleming, second defence; Bennett, center; Ives, first home; Neylan, second home; Pearson, inside home; Wansborough, outside home.

St Marys—Newman, goal; Stewart, point; Yates, coverpoint; Richardson, first defence; Alberts, second defence; Tuer, center; Smith, first home; Lou Lavelle, second home; W. Lavelle, inside home; Cowan, outside home; spares, Riddell, Hobbes, Mossip.

Referee—Joe Turnbull, St. Marys.

Curtis in goal and Wansborough on the home starred for the visitors. About 1,000 people witnessed the match.

END TOUR.

Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, Sept. 3.—Harry Shirley, secretary of the Wallaceburg Amateur Athletic Association, this morning received a telegram from Manager Neylan of the Oxford-Cambridge Universities lacrosse team, stating that they would be unable to fulfil their engagement on Friday next. Later Manager Neylan explained that owing to much sickness which has occurred amongst their players since their arrival in Canada, their numbers have been reduced from 16 to 9, therefore making it impossible for the universities to field a full team.

WALKERTON RINKS REACH FINALS IN HOME EVENT

Special to The Advertiser.

Walkerton, Sept. 3.—Stephen of Walkerton defeated Pye of Walkerton in the first event of the bowling tourney here the score being 19 to 7.

The special prize went to McConnell of Walkerton, who won over Burdett of Cargill 17 to 4.

At a late hour tonight the Association event was still in progress.

PT. STANLEY PAIR WIN AT ST. THOMAS DOUBLES

Nicholas and Hough First—Harrietsville Pair Take Second Honors.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Sept. 3, — The annual Scotch doubles bowling tournament of the St. Thomas Bowling Club held today, in spite of the heavy rain last night and intermittent showers throughout the morning and early afternoon, was one of the most successful events pulled off by this club in years. Of the sixty rinks originally entered for this event, fifty showed up in the heavy rain this morning, but only forty could be accommodated on the old greens, it being thought inadvisable to use the new greens under existing conditions.

The play for the Motor Club Trophy, donated by A. E. Maxwell, tobacconist, was cut from 4 games to 3, and play started at 1 p.m.

Tillie Campbell of Rodney, a strong contender for the trophy, was defeated in his first game by Hockin of Dutton in a close game by 6 to 8.

The Motor Club Trophy and first prize of two Jaeger motor rugs were won by Nicholas and Hough of Port Stanley, a popular win. Second place went to Dr. Doan and Facey of Harrietsville. Third prize was captured by McMaster and McDonald of Appin, with 3 wins, plus 23. Dan Clibborn and Oscar Stewart of Dowlers, Limited, city, took two folding oak card tables for fourth place with 3 wins, plus 18, and fifth prize also remained in St. Thomas with Cox and Armstrong, 3 wins, plus 13.

RAIN CANCELLED LABOR DAY SPORTS AT WOODSTOCK

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Sept. 3.—A deluge of rain which fell during the night and continued until noon on Monday caused the cancellation of the complete sporting bill which had been arranged for Woodstock for Labor Day. The postponed events, included a two-game baseball series between Ingersoll and Woodstock, a cricket match between selected elevens from the Oxford Cricket Club, and the annual Scotch doubles tourney of the Woodstock Bowling Club for the Dr. Krupp trophy. The latter event has been postponed until Wednesday afternoon. In spite of the elements, play was started in the Dominion championship quoiting tournament.

CAPT. GALBRAITH WINS THREE RIFLE CUPS

W. O. R. Shots Held Successful Matches in Spite of Rain.

Wet weather interfered with the annual matches of the Western Ontario Regiment Rifle Association, but the program was completed by 6 p.m. Shooting conditions were good, with a light wind, which held fairly steady throughout the day.

The City of London, regimental and aggregate matches were all won by Capt. G. M. Galbraith, who therefore captured the three silver cups presented respectively by Col. A. M. Smith, Lt.-Col. G. E. Reid, D.S.O., and the 7th Regimental Chapter, I. O. D. E. Capt. Galbraith's score in the regimental match of 68 out of a possible 70 points, was remarkably good.

In the extra series events many good scores were made, notably by Major W. C. Butler, with two possibles at 500 yards, and Lieut. J. W. Smith with a possible each at 200 and 500 yards. The latter competitor captured first place in the extra series aggregate.

A large number of competitors from the regiment were present, and the shoot was a thorough success. Prize winners are as follows:

SABINE'S QUOITING IS FEATURE OF TOURNEY

Tom Watson's Son, First Time Out, Surprises the Gallery.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Sept. 3.—The feature of the opening day of the Dominion quoiting tournament was the pitching of the present champion, Robt. Sabine, of Woodstock in the first round. He drew Jack Hopper, Detroit, and was always in the lead. Frank Gallagher, ex-champion, was pitted against T. Van, both of Victorias, Toronto. The game held the gallery until the finish with Van nosing the ex-champion out, 41—34. Thos. Watson of Chicago, who has attended all the quoiting tournaments for the last ten years, defaulted in first round, but he slipped over a nice inquoit pitcher in his son Donald, who, in the first time out led the way to 41 points over.

The following are the results of the first draw:

T. Watson, Chicago, defaulted Hayes, Woodstock.
T. C. Pierce, Galt, defaulted Hayes, Woodstock.
G. Bier, Woodstock, defaulted W. Farrell, Woodstock.

GERTRUDE HANGS UP NEW SWIM MARK.

Associated Press Despatch.

Long Beach, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Gertrude Ederle of the women's swimming association of New York, today set a new world's record for the 500-yard short pool swimming handicap, when she won the event at the swimming meet conducted by the Olympic pool. Her time was six minutes and 27 seconds, the former record of 6:55 4-5 having been held by Helen Wainwright.

Why Do They Criticize Me?

Luis says his sparring partners better than Dempsey's.

—By LUIS ANGEL FIRPO

Special to The Advertiser.

Atlantic City, Sept. 3.—"I know as well as anyone that a good staff of sparring partners is the great need of a man training for a championship fight. If anyone can tell me where and how I can get better sparring partners than the ones I have, I would like to be told. Good sparring partners are a great help, and only the biggest kind of a fool would neglect the chance to get the best of help to prepare for a fight at so big a price as the championship of the world.

"I do not see why so many people say my sparring partners are not good enough. I am sure they are better than the men Dempsey has in his camp. Dempsey has Jack Burke, who they say is a very good light-heavyweight, but I have Frank Koebele, and I surely believe Koebele is as good, if not better, than Burke. Koebele is a young man who has not been a professional for very long. He is from Brooklyn, and weighs 172 pounds. He was the Metropolitan light-heavyweight amateur champion, and since he turned professional he easily won the three fights he has had. He is very fast and a hard hitter.

"He carries the fight to me always, and with him each day I have two good rounds of speedy fighting. I will bet that he gives me as good a workout as Burke could give me. Dempsey has Jack McAuliffe, but I have Joe McCann. I have fought and whipped both men, and I want to say that Joe McCann hit me harder than any other I have fought. I think that I get as much good sparring from McCann as I would from working out with McAuliffe.

"Does anyone think that Dempsey's colored fighter, Godfrey, is better to work with than Jeff Clark? If the two were to have a fight I am sure that the most people who know them both would bet their money on Jeff Clark. Then, Dempsey has Jules Rioux. I do not know him, but people who have seen him say he is just a big strong fellow who does not know much about fighting. I would rather have my countryman, Pera, to work with. Pera is a good, strong, heavyweight. Some of the spectators who watch him work with me say he is not a good fighter. I do not pay much attention to that because when I first came here from my country they laughed at me and said that I could not fight at all.

"Many of them still say that I cannot fight. Still, I have whipped all the men they have asked me to fight, and I am training now to fight for the championship of the world. If I cannot fight at all, why is this so? Perhaps some one is mistaken. I think they are. So. I do not pay any attention when they say Pera is not a good fighter. If they were mistaken about me they can be mistaken about Pera. I think he is a very good heavyweight, and I am sure he is of more help as a sparring partner than Rioux would be. So, you see, I think my sparring partners are better than Dempsey's, and if the champion of the world, training in his own country, cannot get better men to work with, why do they criticize me? If many of the boxing writers do not think well of me and my way of fighting, at least I have the physicians in my corner. Some of the boxing writers watch me and say, 'how can he win?' But all the physicians who examine me say only, 'how can this man lose?'

"The last one who examined me was Dr. Ryan, a famous dentist from New York. He says that my jaw-bone is nearly twice the thickness of the average, and that the little holes on each side of the chin where the nerves come out (the button, the prize-fighters call these places) is much smaller than usual, and that all around each of these holes is a growth of bone that makes it hard for me to be hurt by a blow there.

"I do not know whether that is the reason, but I do know that I have never been hurt in any way or ever made dizzy by a blow on the jaw, since I was a very young man."

MOSER WATERLOO FOUR WIN KITCHENER EVENT

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, Sept. 3.—F. H. Moser's rink of Waterloo won the Cleghorn Challenge trophy, Premier Honor, at the annual Kitchener bowling tournament tonight by defeating J. B. Brown of Fergus by 16 shots. H. W. Wilson of Paris won the second prize, the Kitchener trophy, by winning from J. C. Cunningham of Waterloo by 15 shots. Third prize went to J. G. Wilson of Fergus, who won from J. Johnson of Guelph by 9 shots. Fourth prize was captured by J. W. Blain of Milton, who won from O. Olfield of Dundas by 2 shots in an extra end.

The winners were determined on the plus and minus system throughout the day with an additional game at night to determine the ultimate winners. The eight rinks which played for the prizes were the eight rinks which finished the day's bowling of four games with the highest plus scores.

The individual players on the rink were J. H. Zeigler, E. H. Schlosier, J. Dahmer and F. H. Moser.

Forty-eight rinks entered the tournament, altogether, and only three defaulted, although the play was held up several times owing to showers.

RACES AND BALL FEATURE 'BURG LABOR DAY SPORTS

Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, Sept. 3.—The big Labor Day sports staged here today under the auspices of the Wallaceburg Employees' Association, were a decided success. Racing and a baseball tournament were the main attractions. Henderson's Kiltie Band from London and the Thomas United Midway were popular added features:

Don Valley put Port Lambton out of the baseball tourney by 12 to 3, only to succumb to Tupperville by a 9 to 5 score in the final game.

The results of the races follow:

2:17 class, $350 purse—1, Flaxie Berger; 2, Joe Stratton; 3, Famous Horn. Time, 2:16¼.

2:25 class, $300 purse—1, Hazel P.; 2, King Boy; 3, Ginger Ale. Time, 2:24¼.

2:50 class, $250—1, Lottie Clay; 2, Lady Eale; 3, Hazel Deran. Time, 2:49¼.

LOCAL THISTLES DEFEATED BRANTFORD RANGERS 1 TO 0

The Thistles of London played the Brantford Rangers' junior football team at Brantford on Monday. When, after a hard game, which was partly spoiled by miserable weather, Thistles emerged victors by one goal to none.

The Rangers were by far the heavier team. McAuley made some good saves.

Just before the interval Dayles put the "Jags" on the lead with a nice drive.

The rain, which continued right through the first half, came down in torrents in the second and after twenty minutes' play, the game was abandoned, the players being unable to keep their feet on the slippery ground.

OIL SPRINGS NINE WIN PETROLIA TOURNEY

Walker Bested in Nip-and-Tuck Finals 8 to 6.

Special to The Advertiser.

Petrolia, Sept. 3.—Despite the threatening weather that prevailed throughout the day, a large crowd attended the baseball tournament here. Oil Springs was successful in winning the first prize. The first game, between Oil Springs and the local team, was played on a wet field, which made fast ball impossible. However, the game created much excitement when the local team lost to the vistiors, 4—3, in a last inning rally. Smith pitched good ball for the locals and was touched for seven hits while Griffin was knocked for nine safeties. The second game, between Walker and Newbury, also provided plenty of thrills for the fans. Walker slammed their way in to the finals by winning, 7—2. McCallum, for the winners, was very effective. The final game was a struggle throughout, in which Oil Springs came out conquerors. They defeated the fast Walker nine by 8—6 in a nip-and-tuck battle. J. Taylor pitched for Oil Springs, while McCallum did mound duty for Walkers.

First game	R.	H.	E.
Oil Springs	4	7	2
Petrolia	3	9	3
Second game:	R.	H.	E.
Walkers	7	12	2
Newbury	2	4	4
Final game	R.	H.	E.
Walkers	6	7	4
Oil Springs	8	9	4

TO ALLOW NANAIMO SOCCER TEAM TO TOUR N. ZEALAND

Canadian Press Despatch.

Fort William, Sept. 3.—Reports of the president, secretary-treasurer and auditors were submitted at this morning's session of the ninth annual convention of the Dominion Football Association. President John Easton of Winnipeg touched upon the dark days through which the association had passed last year, but he said the statement of the auditors and the financial showing demonstrated that the association was on its feet again.

The association will likely give its consent to the Nanaimo, B. C., soccer team, Canadian champions, going to New Zealand next summer, should the request for such a visit be repeated. The New Zealand Football Association asked for a representative Canadian team to tour that Dominion in 1924, but, owing to the apparent impossibility of making arrangements, no action of the D. F. A. was taken. Nanaimo has asked for permission to go, should the invitation be repeated. The convention is likely to be harmonious.

HEAVY RAIN DOWNPOUR HALTS BRANTFORD SPORTS

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Sept. 3.—A heavy downpour of rain, which started at two o'clock this morning and continued until after one o'clock this afternoon compelled the postponement of the big sports program that the Brantford Amateur Athletic Association had arranged. The competitions will be held Saturday, Sept. 15. The cream of Canada's athletes were in Brantford today for the events, having been attracted by the handsome prizes offered.

The only sport here today was an exhibition soccer game played at Tutela Park between the London Thistles and the Rangers. The visitors won 1—0.

ASKS MODEST FEE

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 3.—Steve Donoghue, the leading English jockey, who rode Papyrus in the recent winning of the Epsom Derby, has asked a fee of £15,000 to ride the Derby winner on his forthcoming appearance in the United States against the champion three-year-old of the U. S.

HUDDERSFIELD WON.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 3.—A Northern Rugby League game played today between Huddersfield and Warrington resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 13 to 8.

In the Rugby Union today between Camberne and Plymouth the former club won by a score of 15 to 8.

BOTHWELL WINS.

Bothwell, Sept. 3.—Bothwell defeated Inwood here today in a baseball game, 4—2. Rain hampered the attendance somewhat.

MISSION BAND MEETS.

Embro, Sept. 3.—The Knox Church Busy Bees' Mission Band met Sunday afternoon. A Bible story was given by Margaret Sanders and a missionary story by Marion Findlay. Mrs. W. W. Murray gave a story on "The Little Lady of Light."

JACK-THE-PEEPER VISITS CITY HOMES

Prowler Annoys Residents in Early Hours of Yesterday Morning.

Early yesterday morning police were trailing a prowler, who tried to enter several city homes.

His first attempt was made at the home of James Willis, 109 Clarence street, at 2:30 a.m. Mr. Willis reported to the police that the stranger had wrenched a screen from the bedroom window, when members of the family awoke and frightened him.

He then went to the home of Nat Campbell, 107 Waterloo street, at 3 o'clock, and was frightened away there also. Police last heard of him attempting to open a window at the home of Charles Ferris, 105 McClary avenue, at 4 o'clock. In each case he tried to effect an entrance to a bedroom window where young women were sleeping.

It is believed he is a Jack-the-Peeper rather than a burglar.

PUSH AMALGAMATION OF DOMINION "VETS"

Sarnia Convention Approves Initial Step Taken To Consolidate ex-Service Clubs.

Canadian Press Despatch.

St. Catharines, Sept. 3. — Hearty approval was unanimously given tonight, at the convention of the Ontario command of the G. W. V. A., to the resolution passed at the Dominion convention in Vancouver with reference to the amalgamation of all the associations of ex-service men, and the Ontario executive was authorized to take such steps as they may consider will best advance the interests of veterans in Ontario, and expedite the consumation of Dominion-wide amalgamation. The resolution maintained that the question of determining a mutually acceptable policy should not precede but follow amalgamation, all questions of interior economy to be placed in the hands of the Dominion amalgamated executive.

AUTOIST MEETS DEATH IN JUMP FROM MOTOR

Robert Austin of Wingham Dies After Being Admitted To Hospital.

Special to The Advertiser

Wingham, Sept. 3.—Robert Austin of Wingham was almost instantly killed here shortly after noon today when he became frightened and jumped from a car in which he was riding.

P. McGue, the owner of the car, was driving along the Teeswater road about a mile out of Wingham when the axle broke, and the car swerved into the ditch.

Austin, apparently fearing that the car was going to turn over, jumped and landed on his head. He was rushed to the Wingham General Hospital, but died from hemorrhage shortly after being admitted. No blame can be attached to the driver, as all the other occupants of the car, of whom two were children, kept their seats and were unhurt.

Austin was married and has a wife living in London. Coroner Dr. Redmond after ascertaining the facts decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

London, Paris and New York Pattern Hats For Autumn

Velvets and Ostrich Back Again

Following the dictates of another Velvet Dress Season. Paris says velvets and ostrich trimmings—and one is puzzled at the transformation of feathers into such wonderful effects and colors. Here are to be seen the ostrich in the flue and glycerined. The vulture contributes his feathers in natural and the glycerined finish. Wonderful bird effects. Coque that's been dipped in a silver-like preparation. Natural long pheasants' feathers singly and in clusters of threes. Oriental Embroidered Materials and Ornaments are the feature trimmings of the Autumn Millinery Season.

Millinery Colors For Autumn

Excepting black, which will be a strong favorite. Follow the trend of Autumn hues; browns in their wonderful range from the bronze and pheasant right to the dark rich Congo. Pigeon and cast iron gray, sand, fallow, sandalwood, cartouche. Then the occasional glare or oriental hues such as carmine, almond green, serpentine green, blue bell, feu, punjab, ceramic blue comprise chiefly what you will choose in your street, afternoon or dinner hat for the new season.

Children's Hats

Simply trimmed, but possessing vast charm. All trend to the tailored models in velvets, felts and velours. Scores of variations in shapes, including the new whim. The Madge Evans Hats in large plain lines and bended streamer, the roll-up and droop shades. Tams and Pullons of wool velour cloths feature a display that simplifies choosing for the girlies.

Velour and Scratched Felt Hats

And this collection boasts many lovely examples of the Velour and Felt Charm, for these are of the newest millinery note. Felts roomy but snug-fitting. The fashionable Mattewan Velours of rich, long, furry nap that fit well down on the head, some even drooping over the ear on one side. Ribbon and leather bands, leather facings on under brim. Six colors hold sway in these hats—nut brown, pheasant brown, sand, pigeon gray, navy and black.

Hats In Paris Manner Make Their Appearance

The latest whisper from the Paris boulevards and races is echoed in this new offering of autumn millinery. They are the authentic inspiration of the newest chapeaux as Paris has conceived them—Charming fashions that go especially well with separate frocks, and in scores of stunning shades and combinations. Tailored hats of decided chic, afternoon hats of fascinating femininity. Truly they reflect Paris.

London and New York Hats of Lovely Lines and Superior Styles

New Shapes, New Materials, New Trimmings. All-pleasing is the assembly of Autumn's Newest Creations of London and New York Hats. So varied is the choice in millinery that one is not confined to a range of a few shapes, for you may select almost any style from a poke to the large picture-like models, and every one a correct interpretation of Millinery Fashion. Outstanding models of this opening show are Directoire Shapes, the Beretta-Capeline-Cloche, a droopy style, Louis, Phillippe Poke, in various sizes and shapes. There seems to be no particular place on these hats for trimming, some caught on the side with a pheasant feather or at the back with Oriental Embroidery—and again one has Embroidered Crepe in fan-like shape for adornment. Yet none are overdone, in fact the trimmings are less on the Autumn Modes.

WILL EXAMINE "VETS" IN PENITENTIARIES

Authorities To Ascertain Mental Status of All Returned Men Serving Time.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Following a request by C. G. MacNeil, secretary Dominion command, G.W.V.A., General W. S. Hughes, superintendent of Canadian penitentiaries, has directed the surgeon at each institution to conduct an examination of returned soldier inmates, in order to ascertain their mental condition. The move is in line with action in the U. S., where, in Wisconsin, above 50 per cent of the veterans in the penal institutions were mentally abnormal, and where 20 per cent of these men were suffering from some mental disability directly traceable to military service.

The result of the survey of ex-soldier inmates of Canadian prisons is being awaited by the G. W. V. A. with intense interest, and in cases where doubt exists, alienists will be called in to determine the exact status.

SEPTEMBER HOLIDAYS.

FRANCE JOINS ITALY IN OPPOSING ARBITRATION

MUSSOLINI REFUSES LEAGUE INTERVENTION

France Decides To Join With Italy in Stand Against League of Nations Arbitration—Direct Negotiations Between Rome and Athens Only Plan Considered.

ITALY MAY HARDEN TERMS OF EVACUATION

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 4.—A Central News despatch from Rome today says that Premier Mussolini specifically has instructed the Italian delegates to the League of Nations that he has absolutely determined to maintain his position that the league is incompetent to deal with cases in which the honor and prestige of Italy are concerned.

"If the Greeks fulfill the conditions of my ultimatum and pay up I shall withdraw from Corfu, but they had better pay soon, for next week the price will be higher," the premier said. "I have no intention of occupying any more Greek territory or employing any other sanctions unless, of course, the Greeks are foolish enough to attack Italian subjects or property."

ITALIANS DENY CHARGE.

Associated Press Despatch.

Geneva, Sept. 4.—A member of the Italian delegation to the assembly of the League of Nations today authorized the league secretariat to deny that Italy had ever officially repudiated the competency of the league to handle the Greco-Italian crisis.

"We are awaiting the return of Major Giuriati from Rome, and then we will determnie our final official attitude," said the Italian spokesman to a member of the secretariat.

"Personally," he added, "I think it is likely we may ask the permanent court of international justice to pass upon the competency of the league.

ATHENS IS ISOLATED.

Associated Press Despatch.

Rome, Sept. 4.—Athens is completely isolated.

A counter-revolutionary republican movement is under way, the despatch adds, and is gaining ground despite drastic measures taken by the government, including the immmediate arrest of all suspects and the confiscation of arms. The followers of the late King Constantine's party are said to be preparing for action.

THREATENS HARDER TERMS.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 4.—Italy will make her terms for the evacuation of Corfu more onerous if Greece delays in fulfilling the terms of his ultimatum, Premier Mussolini is quoted by the Daily Mail's Rome correspondent as declaring.

DENIES DISSENSION.

London, Sept. 4.—The Greek legation here today emphatically denied Italian reports of serious internal troubles in Greece. The latest telegrams from Athens, it was said, indicate that complete order prevails through the country.

While it was admitted that there was dissension between the dominion political parties, it was asserted that the whole country, public and press was united on the question of vindicating Greece's honor in the present difficulties with Italy.

BUILD FORTIFICATIONS.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Athens, Sept. 4.—Italian forces have unloaded heavy artillery at Corfu, and are building strong fortifications, an unconfirmed report from the island states. Another unconfirmed despatch reports occupation by Italian forces of the Albanian harbor of Agii Sarahia. A British destroyer arrived near the scene of naval activity around Corfu to protect British interests, according to another report.

FRANCE JOINS ITALY.

Paris, Sept. 4.—France sides with Italy in opposing arbitration by the League of Nations of the Italo-Greek controversy over the murder of the Italfan member of the Albanian boundary commission. She may even support Italy against Britain, Sweden, Norway and the other small states in barring the matter forcibly from discussion at Geneva, according to information emanating from the French foreign office.

and Athens alone can produce a sat-

Direct negotiations between Rome isfactory settlement of the conflict, the French Government believes. It holds that the league, having no naval forces at its disposal, should not attempt to mix in quarrels that are beyond its strength to control, because such action could only react to the injury of the league itself.

Normal influence and military influence, the French point out, are too different conceptions. The league has the former but not the latter. It is a court of appeals, but not a superstate, and cannot enforce its decisions on recalcitrant governments.

GREEK REPLY RECEIVED.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Sept. 4.—The text of Greece's reply to the protest of the council of ambassadors over the assassination on Greek soil of the Italian boundary mission was received today, and will be considered by the ambassadors at the earliest opportunity.

The members of the council consider that the Greco-Italian dispute should be settled by the council, and not by the League of Nations, for the reason that the Italian commissioners were representing the ambassadors in settling the Greco-Albanian frontier question when they were ambushed and slain.

SUN LIFE COMPANY FEARS FOR STAFF IN STRICKEN JAPAN

Tokio Superintendent on Visit to Canada Describes Scene of Catastrophe.

NEWS INDEFINITE.

Special to The Advertiser.

Montreal, Sept. 4.—"This is very bad news we have received from Japan," said Mr. Edward Lord, superintendent of the Sun Life of Canada for Japan, with offices at Tokio, who arrived at the head office of the company here this week, with Mrs. Lord, to have a conference with the officers at headquarters, and also to join in the annual excursion of the Macaulay Club of the Sun Life.

"I have only just arrived here from Japan," said Mr. Lord, "and the news we have received so far is not very definite, but from what news we have received so far I am hopeful that the earlier reports are exaggerated. We have a staff for the Sun Life at Tokio of about fifty people, of whom six of the senior officers are Europeans and the rest Japanese. From the information so far available, it would seem that our office is in the heart of the city that has been wrecked, so that we at the head office are naturally awaiting more definite news with considerable anxiety."

Originated in Ocean.

"Certain apparently established points in the despatches," said Mr. Lord, "seemed to indicate that the earthquake, with an accompanying tidal wave, had originated in the ocean and driven in toward the land. This seemed to be indicated by the fact that the tidal wave had come in toward Tokio Bay, which would act as an immense funnel for the disturbance to reach Tokio and Kamakura, which is a seaside resort across the head of the bay from Tokio.

"Kamakura is a seaside resort with a huge summer hotel, which is largely frequented at this time; the height of the vacation period by foreign residents of Japanese and Chinese centers, while many of the wealthy Japanese citizens had summer residences there.

Destruction Terrible.

"Despatches showed that the destruction must have been terrific. The Tokio Kaijo building, reported as having collapsed, was a modern steel and stone structure, twice the size of the Sun Life head office here. If such a modern structure, much larger and more modern than any office building in Montreal, had been destroyed, as reported, the disaster must have been terrible.

Another big modern building reported collapsed, the Mitsukoshi, was the biggest departmental store in Japan, a modern steel and stone structure, occupying what would be in Montreal, a city block," said Mr. Lord.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION.

N. J. Griffith, well-known London undertaker, has left for Toronto to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Association of Undertakers being held in the Queen City this week. Mr. Griffith is vice-president of the association. He will return to London about the end of the week.

SCHOOLBOYS OF 350 YEARS AGO HAD MUCH TO DO

Present Day Boy Has Easier Time Than His Predecessors.

DESCRIPTION OF LIFE

Today the youth of London starts back to school after ten weeks' vacation, doubtless with many forebodings of the coming term, and regrets that the holidays are not more lengthy.

But do any of them stop to think that they are fortunate in that they are living in 1923, ad not 350 years ago—in the reign of King George V, rather than that of Queen Elizabeth?

Because the schoolboys of the present day have a much easier time of it than those of long ago, although modern youths may be instructed in lines of study, which, no doubt, seem more than difficult.

Today the boy going to school does not have to worry about what fun he indulges in on the way to or from the seat of learning, nor does he have to bother his head about a hundred and one things which were part of the life of the schoolboy in the days of good Queen Bess.

This year, 1923, one sees the boys runing out of their homes with but very few minutes in which to cover the ground between the home and school. Breakfast over, they grab their books and run, wondering how they are going to sit through a few hours of study. After school they go in for their many games and then home to supper.

But everyone knows the schoolboy of today.

Turn back the page to the year 1573, the time when William Shakespeare was a boy. Let us see what the boy of that period was supposed to learn and how he was to behave himself.

Cleanliness Essential.

According to books of that ancient date the model schoolboy was to rise early, put on his clothes, turn up his bed, go downstairs, salute his parents and the family, wash his hands, comb his hair, brush his cap, and put it on, taking it off when he spoke to any man. Then he was to tie his shirt collar to his neck, see that his clothes were tidy, fasten his girdle around his waist, rub his hose or breeches, see that his shoes were clean, wipe his nose on a napkin, pare his nails, clean his ears, wash his teeth, and get his clothes mended if torn. Then take his satchel, books, pen, paper and ink and off to school.

On the way there he was to take off his cap and salute the folk he met, giving to the inside of the road; and he was to call his school fellows. At school he was to salute his master and schoolmates, go straight to his place, undo his satchel, take out his books, and learn as hard as he could. After school he was to walk orderly home.

"Not runnynge on heapes as a swarme of bees,
As at this day Euery man it nowe sees;
Not vsinge, but refusynge, such foolish toyes,
As commonly are vsed in these dayes of boyes,
As hoopynge and halowynge, as in huntynge the fox,
That men it hearynge, deryde them with mockes."

He was, on the contrary, not to talk or chatter as he walked home, or to gape or gaze at every new fangle; but to go soberly, be free of cap, and full of courtesy, and when he reached home he was to bid his fellows farewell and salute his parents with all reverence.

Had to Serve Meals.

Then he was to wait on his parents at dinner.

First say grace; then make a low courtesy and say, "Much good may it do you." If he was big enough he was then to bring the food to the table, taking care not to fill the dishes too full, so as to spill them on his parents' clothes or the tablecloth. He was to have spare trenchers and napkins ready in case any guests came in; to see that there was plenty of bread and drink, often empty the voiders into which bones were thrown, and be always ready in case anything was wanted.

Then he was to clear away. First cover the salt cellar, then set a voider—dirty plate basket—on the table, and put into it all the dirty trenchers and napkins (as forks were not then in use, and folk ate with their fingers, the napkins would be made very dirty); sweep the crumbs into another voider, and lay a clean trencher before everyone; set on cheese, fruit, biscuits or carraways, with wine, or else ale or beer. When all had finished he was to turn in each side of the tablecloth, and fold it up, beginning at the top. That done, he was to spread a clean towel on the table, or if there was not a towel, use the tablecloth; bring the basin and ewer, and when the people were ready to wash their greasy hands, pour water on them, but not too much. Then he had to clear the table that all might rise, and lastly make a curtesy to them.

How He Dined.

The hungry boy was then free to eat his own dinner; but no, he must "pause a space, for that is a sygne of nourture and grace." Then he was to take salt with his knife; to cut his bread, not break it; not to fill his spoon too full of pottage for fear of spilling it on the cloth, and not to sup his pottage, "nor speak to any, his head in the cup"; his knife was to be sharp to cut his meat neatly; and his mouth was not to be too full when he ate:

"Not smackynge thy lippes, as commonly do hogges,
Nor gnawynge the bones, as it were dogges;
Suche rudenes abhorre, such beastlynes flie,
At the table behave thy selfe manerly."

He was to keep his fingers clean by wiping them on a napkin; and before he drank out of the common cup he was to wipe his lips so that he might leave no grease on the edge; he was not to talk, or stuff:

"Temper thy tongue and belly alway,
For measure is treasure, the prouerbe doth say."

He was not to pick his teeth at the table nor spit too much—"This rudnes of youth is to be abhorrde." He was to laugh only moderately and to learn as good manners as he could, for

"Aristotle, the philosopher, this worthy sayinge writ,
That 'maners in a chylde are more requisit
Than playnge on instruments and other vayne pleasure;
For vertuous maners is a most precious treasure.'"

Curriculum.

Then at school their lessons would seem difficult to the boy of today. At that period there would be taught an A-B-C book; a catechism in English and Latin; Lilly's Latin grammar, authorized by the crown; an easy Latin construing book, such as Erasmus' "Colloquies," or "Baptista Mantuanus," or one of Cato's books; Clenard's Greek grammar. In addition to these, perhaps they were also required to study books of Ovid, Plautus and Seneca. On top of this grounding in the dead languages, they were obliged to take up the "trivials"—grammar, "logike, rhetorike, and the quadriuials (arethmetike, musike, geometrie and astronomie)."

This might be said to be the curriculum of the schoolboy of Shakespeare's day, and, looking at it in the light of present day education and the freedom with which the schoolboy today carries on, it would appear that although 350 years of civilization have passed since that time, looked on as the "dark ages," the youth of today has a much easier time of it than his forebears.

CHIEF INSPECTOR IN CITY.

E. S. Busby, chief inspector of customs and excise in the Dominion Government, has returned to Ottawa after spending the holiday with his son, Dr. E. D. Busby, Duchess avenue. Mr. Busby's visit to London was purely an informal one, but he spent a few minutes in the customs house renewing acquaintances with local officials.

DECLARE BANDIT GANG MADE HOMES AROUND LONDON

Hamilton Man Implicates Jack Downey and Charles Nelson in Hold-Up.

UNKNOWN IN CITY

Special to The Advertiser.

Detroit, Sept. 4.—At an early hour this morning Charles Nelson, aged 19, believed to be from Port Stanley, Ont., was arrested after a complete confession had been made by Robert Harris, 176 Robinson street, Hamilton, of the brutal murder of Lloyd Johnson, of 528 Harper street, Detroit, an oil station manager, on the morning of Aug. 28.

Harris told Detective Sergt. Frank Detloff and Arthur Lawitzke, of central headquarters, that Jack Downey, 414 Pall Mall street, London, had fired at Johnson after rifling the till of $600 killing Johnson instantly, although he obeyed the order to throw up his hands.

Eight of the gang, including two women, all believed to be Canadians from the vicinity of London, are held at the county jail. The detectives say they are implicated in another oil station holdup, and the theft of thirty automobiles, some of which have been found, the others having been disposed of. Jack Downey has a wife and child in Belleville, and is of a prominent family named Sager.

Local police have no knowledge of the man calling himself Jack Downey, 414 Pall Mall street, who is held in Detroit on a charge of murdering Lloyd Johnson, an oil station manager of that city, on Aug. 28.

Chief Birrell and Inspector of Detectives Nickle both stated that they have no record of any man calling himself that nor do they know anyone by that name.

Inquiry at 414 Pall Mall street, where Mrs. Cecilia Yohn has lived for the past three and half years, was also negative. Mrs. Yohn having no recollection of the man.

Charles Nelson, aged 19, arrested in Detroit, in connection with a shooting affray and a series of automobile thefts, and believed by Detroit police to come from Port Stanley, is not known in the village.

His name does not appear in any official records. No villager could be found with any recollection of him.

MAYOR WELL PLEASED WITH WORK OF COURT

Commends Judge Warner For Success of Juvenile Tribunal.

Mayor Wenige expresses himself as well pleased with the record of the London juvenile court to date. He commends Judge Quintin Warner and staff upon the obvious success of the undertaking.

"From reports that I have received, Judge Warner and his assistants are employing the proper measures," the mayor stated. "They are acting in the best interests of the city and the future citizens of this community."

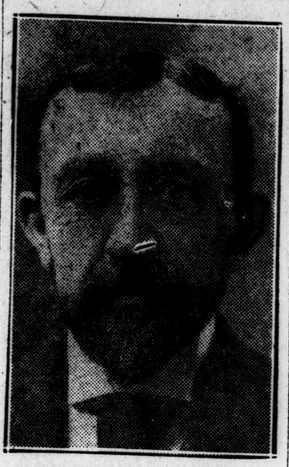

"I have also argued that preventive measures are far more essential and in fact imperative, rather than corrective tactics. And Judge Warner, I find, is exercising the former to the best advantage. That is what is needed. I am more than pleased with the results, more particularly when there were those who predicted that it could not be done."

SCHOOLBOY LOSES BIKE ON FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL

Floyd Cake, 159 Rectory street, is sorry that school started this morning, and for very good reasons.

Floyd, like all good schoolboys on this first day of the term, made his way to one of the educational institutions of the city, the Technical School, where he left his bicycle outside while he ascertained some particulars from the principal. He was not in the building very long, but on coming out and looking for his wheel he was amazed to find that it had disappeared.

The police were notified and are now on the lookout for the thief.

30 REPUBLICANS, ELECTION VICTORS, LANGUISH IN JAIL

Successful Candidates at Liberty Take Pledge Not to Attend Parliament.

DEPLORE BOYCOTT

By WILLIAM H. BRAYDEN.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright.

Dublin, Sept. 4.—Of the 44 Irish Republicans returned at the parliamentary elections, 30 are in jail, 8 are walking about the streets openly, and 6 are ducking about evading arrest.

Those candidates out of jail signed a pledge before the elections not to attend the new parliament, but as they are in the minority they will make no pronouncement of their final decision until they have consulted with their imprisoned colleagues. Even the most hostile to the Republicans trust that there will be no boycott of parliament, and that there will be a strong demand for the release of De Valera.

The unexpected strength of the Republican minority has convinced neutrals that modification of the government's attitude is desirable. It has been suggested that the single charge bill be passed through parliament, making the oath of allegiance optional. This, however, would not satisfy all Republicans.

President Cosgrave's attitude at present is that he will hand over the parliamentary prisoners to the arbitrament of the new parliament.

MAKE SPECIAL DRIVE FOR NEW INDUSTRIES

Energetic Campaign Will Begin After Close of Western Fair.

Now that certain improvements have been authorized for the city's industrial area in Southeast London, the members of the Industrial Area Commission do not feel that their work has been completed for the year.

The next move, they insist, is to launch a campaign to attract new industries, and efforts in that direction will follow. Directly after the close of the Western Fair it is proposed to call a special session at which will be considered suggestions for a campaign and in what manner the members could best co-operate with the chamber of commerce.

Representative citizens interested in London's expansion, and who have watched the industrial area situation since the purchase of that property have long since urged more "pep" and action, but are now reconciled to the belief that satisfactory results will be forthcoming as a reward for the efforts of the 1923 commission.

ASSERTS CHARGES AGAINST KING BEN ONLY BLACKMAIL

Member of Sect, Visiting London, Defends Leader in Accusations.

800 IN COLONY

Claiming that the criminal charges laid against "King" Benjamin of the House of David colony, Benton Harbor, Mich., are merely an effort on the part of former members of the colony to secure a portion of the colony's funds, and are not true, Edmund Bulley, member of the sect, gave a short description of their home to The Advertiser.

According to Mr. Bulley, who is an Australian by birth, the colony is situated just ouside Benton Harbor, and is one of the most fertile sections in the state of Michigan. It covers approximately 3,000 acres of land, 1,000 acres of which are under cultivation, the remainder being timbered. Most of the land cultivated is devoted to fruit, with a few small truck farms here and there, where the members grow the produce for their own consumption.

800 Persons in Colony.

There are about 800 persons living there who have embraced the faith of the colony, the majority being Americans, with a liberal sprinkling of British subjects from Australia and England. There are also members who acknowledge European countries as their birthplaces.

Asked concerning the receipts from enterprises conducted by the members of the colony, such as the baseball team, band, vaudeville teams, etc., Mr. Bulley stated that all moneys received went into a common fund, the colony being run on the lines of a commonwealth.

Aside from the fact that the members do not believe in cutting their hair or shaving, which they claim was the law of the Nazazenes, as taught by Jesus Christ, who admonished mankind as follows: "Thou shalt not round the corners of thy hair nor mar the corners of thy beard," the sect is wholly vegetarian. Mr. Bulley stated that he had never eaten meat, and that according to the commandments all should be vegetarians, as it was said "thou shalt not kill."

They also believe that by living and following in the footsteps of Christ that they will overcome death. In the words of Mr. Bulley, "We believe that by keeping the laws of life as taught by Jesus, we can preserve the physical body from going to the grave."

They do not believe in prohibition, although they are strong supporters of temperance, claiming that prohibition was never laid down by God as a law for mankind.

Open to Visitors.

Referring again to the colony, he stated that it is always open to visitors. A large park has been provided for a picnic spot, and small trains carry the sightseers around the grounds and to all points of interest.

Asked concerning charges made against the leader of the sect, Mr. Bulley declared that they were not true and only blackmail. Purnell is not called "King" Benjamin by the members, but "Brother" and his wife is called "Sister" Mary.

Mr. Bulley is married and has two boys, his wife and sons residing in the colony. He is in London in company with three other members, William Connor, George Hannaford and Edgar White.

ISSUE WARRANTS FOR SPRINGBANK ROWDIES

Summonses Failed To Bring Quartet Wanted in Park Disturbance.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the four young men guilty of indulging in a free-for-all fight at Springbank some time ago, according to Provincial Constable Stratton.

This step was made necessary by the failure of the authorities to serve summons, all the boys mentioned in connection with the affair having evidently left town. Three of them are London youths, while the fourth comes from Windsor and is a brother of one of the others. The charges against them are for drunkehesss and obstructing an officer in the execution of his duty, the latter charge arising out of the fact that when the county officers tried to stop the fight they set on him and injured him by kicks and blows.

Constable Stratton stated that although the boys had left town and could not be served at present, the warants would be good no matter when they returned.

USE FAIR TO EXPLAIN WORK OF POSTOFFICE

Postal Exhibit Will Be One of Features at Western Fair.

For the first time in its history the Western Fair will this year have a complete postal exhibit. In former years all fair mail has been handled in the association offices on the grounds, but D. J. McLean, district superintendent, has completed arrangements whereby a model postoffice will be installed in the government building to take care of all incoming and outgoing mail matter in full view of the public.

Many of the innovations in place at the postal exhibit at the Toronto Exhibition will be brought to London and will be installed on the first day of the London fair. In their effort to educate Londoners in postal matters and to display the newest postoffice features, the local officials consider themselves fortunate in securing part of the Queen City exhibit, and everything will be done to make the exhibit here extremely interesting and instructive at the same time.

As many departments as possible of an up-to-date office will be introduced at the fair, Mr. McLean stated this morning. A trained staff will be maintained and they will perform their duties exactly as they are done in a regular office. Staff members will also give short talks on the various phases of postal work and the proper method of preparing matter for transmission through the mails.

Besides the exhibit in the government building the officials have been successful in obtaining a black tent from the Western Fair Board for the purpose of exhibiting postal slides. The tent will be located south of the Crystal Palace and free shows will be given each hour.

More than 80 slides depicting practically every feature of postal service work has been secured and a London employee will explain the slides as they are shown.

AUTO SAFETY ZONES WORKED OUT TONIGHT

Will Be Established at Principal Street Intersections in the Downtown Part of City.

Automobile safety parking zones will be established at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets and all other principal intersections in the downtown section of the city.

The spaces will be painted out tonight, weather permitting, following a conference at noon between Mayor Wenige, Chief of Police Birrell and City Engineer Near.

It is proposed to paint out a strip down the street on the downtown thoroughfares, the required distance from the intersection and about six feet from the curbing, in order to facilitate traffic. The white lines will be ample direction to the motorists as to the proper place to halt or park and not run afoul of the law. The spaces proposed will allow the safe passage of other cars on the street.

At tonight's session, members of the city council must determine whether there shall be parking downtown after 6 p.m. and until midnight. A recommendation comes from the traffic committee and the board of works that the restricted area be on Dundas street, from Ridout street to Wellington and on Richmond street from York street to Queen's avenue. But a minority report in this connection is also going to the council.

FINDS BIG IMPROVEMENT IN CITY'S BUTCHER SHOPS

London butcher shops are in class A condition, according to Health Inspector R. H. Sanders.

"There has been a wonderful improvement over 1922," reported the inspector. "The shops are in excellent condition. As an instance you will find no slink veal in any shop in the city, while at this time last year it was possible to go around and secure perhaps a 1,000 pounds. The butchers have learned not to offer it for sale."

THE GUMPS—THE NEW STENOGRAPHER

NORTH OXFORD STALWARTS WON FROM MIDDLESEX MEN

Although rain did its utmost to interfere with the Farmers' Union Picnic held at McMillan Park, Lakeside, on Labor Day, the majority of sports scheduled for the afternoon's entertainment were completed.

It was the seventh annual outing of the farmers of East Middlesex and North Oxford, and despite the frequent showers it was a huge success.

R. H. Halbert, Progressive member for North Ontario, gave an address. He urged the farmers to get together and support E. C. Drury in his broadening out policy, and made a plea for farmers to become more interested in politics.

The main sporting attraction of the afternoon was the tug-of-war between East Middlesex and North Oxford. North Oxford won in two straight pulls. The winning team was composed of Robert Smith, Alex. Smith, William Nutt, James McDonald and George McLeod. Those on the Middlesex team were John Riley, Waldon, Allan Westman and McRoberts.

Sidelights On Bathing In a Continental Hotel

American Traveler Finds It Costs Thirty Cents Every Time He Thinks of a Bath Tub.

Dorothy Thomas of Ingersoll, Ont., who is traveling in Europe with a party of friends, overhears an American discussing the subject of baths on the continent, and writes about it under the interesting title, "Yes, We Have No Bath Tubs."

Rome, Aug. 25.—Gosh, Hal, did you ever take one of those European tours? Say boy, take it from me they are more than an education—I dub them a provocation. One thing is sure; a bath on the continent is about as common as a Fiji Islander on Old Broadway. Just try and get one!

You land in a swanky hotel after a sweltering, spine-jolting ride on a dinky train, which belches cinders right into both your eyes, and covers you with its grimy breath. All set for a hot bath, then, aren't you? Humph! After punching the button you could write a whole history on "What Not to Carry When Traveling," before the femme de chambre—in our lingo, plain "maid"—knocks on your door, as if she feared you were a demon about to burst it, open and devour her.

Then you yell "Bain" at her in joyful, hopeful tones—It's darn queer how that tone survives so many disappointments—and know right well she will say that there is only one bath on that floor and that it is now occupied. Did that sink in, Old Top? One bath for a floor, and there's no use swearing or begging or hoping. Well, you sit round chewing the butt end of your cigar and wonder why you ever left home and the family bathtub, until dinner time comes, which makes you ponder whether to be clean or starved.

Being out in polite society now, and having to live up to mother and the kids, you decide upon a scrub, when the maid at least announces a bath free. Free, did I say? Say, in these thrifty hotels you get soaked anywhere from thirty to sixty good American cents for the privilege of taking off the grime forced upon you.

Did you ever take a bath in hard water with soft water soap? It's a good indoor sport. Try it, once! The only satisfactory things about a scrub are that your tub is run for you and you are given a bathtowel big enough to cover a baby elephant, and which makes you feel like Cicero strutting forth in all his glory. That's a bath on the continent.

To keep track of just how clean you keep yourself, in spite of all obstacles, the bathroom door is locked between times to prevent you from getting away with murder.

Last night, in the wee sma' hours, armed with brush and soap, I paddled down the hall to the bathroom hidden round the turning (that's English for an ordinary corner) and halfway up the back stairs, slunk in, bolted the door and was congratulating myself on putting one over on these hotel holdups, and was about to turn on the liquid when lo! and behold! I discovered the hot water faucet was minus a handle! Wouldn't that bump you now? 'Twas unbelievable, I thought, that they could have meant to play me such a mean trick. Upon demanding an explanation from an errand maid into whom I bumped on my stormy passage round the corner, I was haughtily informed that "the key was kept in the office" and "please, sir, a bath was one and six!"

Here endeth my pursuit of cleanliness—at least, until I am once again in the land of the free—bathtubs!

WEDDINGS.

McCARRON—O'NEILL.
Special to The Advertiser.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Leo McCarron of London, Ont., was best man Tuesday morning here in the Immaculate Conception Church at the marriage of his brother, John J. McCarron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCarron, and Miss Elizabeth Ruth O'Neill, daughter of Mr. James O'Neill, the Rev. Leo Smith, pastor, performing the ceremony. The bride was gowned in white flat crepe, and wore a veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was Miss Cecilia Connorton, who wore mountain haze georgette with picture hat to match, and carried pink roses. The Misses Anna Margaret McGinnis and Mary Weiss acted as flower girls.

A reception and breakfast at the home of the bride here, followed the ceremony. After a western motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. McCarron will reside here at No. 233 Frost Avenue.

BUCKLAND—BAXTER.
Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 3.—An interesting but very quiet wedding took place in Windsor on Saturday, when Myrtle Guttridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Baxter, Adelaide street north, became the bride of Mr. Ernest Harvey Buckland, son of the Rev. C. H. Buckland, ex-M.P.P., and Mrs. Buckland, of Charles street, Guelph. Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Buckland left on a honeymoon trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, and on their return will reside in Windsor.

KING—BILYEA.
Special to The Advertiser.

Thorndale, Sept. 3.—A pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Thorndale Methodist Church, when Jane Bilyea, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bilyea was united in marriage to Mr. Sylvester King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred King of Toronto. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers. The Rev. A. Kellam performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a lovely gown of ivory georgette crepe, heavily beaded, and silk net veil. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Mrs. C. Slymn, sister of the groom, as matron of honor, wore pink charmeuse satin with gray and black picture hat, carrying a bouquet of pink roses. Little Miss Edna Gleason, cousin of the bride, was a dainty ring bearer. Her frock was an adorable orchard organdy over white silk. She carried a basket of sweet peas. Mr. George Bilyea, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Miss Myrtle Bilyea, sister of the bride, played the wedding march and sang "O Promise Me," during the signing of the register. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. About 25 guests were present. Among those present were Mrs. Rea of Woodstock and Mrs. Atkinson, grandmother of the bride, from St. Marys. Later in the afternoon the bride and groom left by train for their home in Toronto.

GILLIES—WATSON

A quiet wedding took place on Friday, August 31, when Maribel Ferguson Gillies of Winnipeg was married to Robert E. Watson of Mull. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Bowley Green.

CHARLTON—BURCHIEL.
Special to The Advertiser

Glencoe Sept. 3.—A pretty wedding took place in St. John's Church, Glencoe, Saturday afternoon, when Mary, only daughter of Mrs. Abraham Burchiel, was united in marriage to Rev. H. K. L. Charlton, rector of Onondaga Church, Brantford, and son of Rev. T. J. Charlton of St. Matthew's Church, London, who performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. SOCIAL etaoinn

The church was prettily decorated with gladioli and asters.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her uncle, William Burchiel, wore a gown of ivory silk and pearls, and was attended by Miss Florence Westcott, becomingly dressed in yellow crepe de chine. The groom was supported by Mr. Dobson of London. Wedding music was played by Mr. R. Singleton, and a reception was held later at the home of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton left in the evening for a short honeymoon in Detroit, the bride wearing a smart suit of navy tricotine, with touches of gray in her hat.

They will go later to Mr. Charlton's parish of Onondaga, where they will reside.

BERRY—LEIGH.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 11:30 yesterday morning, at All Saints' Anglican Church, when Marjorie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Leigh, Wharncliffe road, was married to Dr. J. O. Berry, of Chatham, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Berry of Orillia, Rev. A. A. Bice officiating.

The bride wore a becoming gown of Egyptian crepe, with an orchid hat and a corsage of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. Mrs. Harry May acted as matron of honor, and wore a smart suit of navy blue, with hat to match. Mr. Harry May was best man. Following the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Berry left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Muskoka.

Miss Mabel Broughton Marries E. Firth Buller

Home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Broughton, Piccadilly Street, Is Scene of Pretty Autumn Wedding.

One of the prettiest of autumn weddings took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in Piccadilly street, when Mabel Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Broughton was married to Errol Firth Buller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Buller of Peterboro. Rev. H. J. Uren performed the ceremony.

Palms and ferns, arranged with gladioli and asters, were used to decorate the rooms throughout, and an archway of white asters made a pretty setting for the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of silk net, caught with a graceful girdle of corded ribbon. The skirt was fashioned with three tiers and tiny frills. She carried a shower of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley, and her veil of silk net, with Venetian medallions in the corners, and hemmed with pearls, was arranged with orange blossoms.

Miss Hazel Buller of Peterboro, a sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, wearing an accordion-pleated gown of apricot georgette, with a corsage of tea roses. Mr. Howard Broughton, a brother of the bride, was best man.

Little Misses Daintry Collins and Betty Spettigue, nieces of the bride, made charming flower girls, wearing bouffant frocks, fashioned alike, with socks and shoes to match, and carrying tiny baskets of Sweetheart roses and sweet peas. Miss Betty wore peach taffeta and Miss Daintry's frock was of maize taffeta.

The wedding music was played by Miss Mildred Richards of Toronto, who wore a gown of pale pink satin, with georgette trimmings. During the signing of the register, Miss Beatrice Brown of Kingsville, wearing a gown of turquoise blue georgette, with tiny frills, sang, "Because" and "O Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony a reception was held, Mrs. Broughton receiving with the young couple, wearing a handsome gown of silk velvet with steel ornaments and jet trimmings, with a corsage of Richmond roses. Mrs. Buller also received, wearing a black satin gown with a radium lace overdress, with a soft girdle of periwinkle blue. A wedding supper was served later from a table adorned with roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Buller left later on a honeymoon trip down the St. Lawrence to Montreal. The bride traveled in a navy blue suit, with a small black hat, trimmed with coque feathers and a cinnamon fox fur, the gift of the groom. Upon their return they will reside in London. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a white gold wristwatch, to the best man a diamond tie-pin, to the soloist and pianist gold brooches set with pearls, and the little flower girls received silver necklaces.

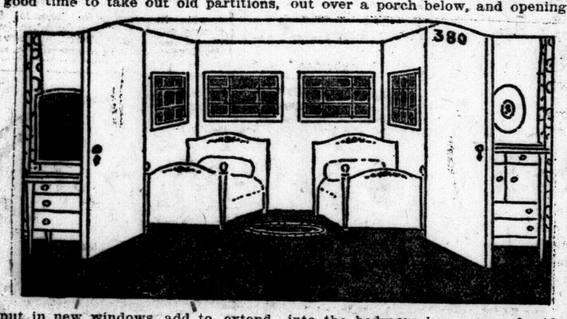

Among the guests, numbering 40, were many from out of town, including: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Buller of Peterboro, Mrs. Blyth Burns of Peterboro, Miss Hazel Buller of Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Buller and daughter Dorothy of Brantford, Mrs. Jack Gifferd of Winnipeg, Miss May Cameron of Thamesford, Mr. Charles Young of Brantford, Miss Fern Thompson of Brantford and Miss Ethel McIntyre of Brantford.

Your Home and You

By HELEN KENDALL.

Sleeping Porch Comfort.

Fall-time is remodelling-time. For the next two months, before chilly weather overtakes us and the furnace has to be set going, the sound of the saw and the hammer will be heard in many a home. Now is the time to glass the porch in and make it an outdoor living-room. Now, too, is a good time to take out old partitions,

During the summer I saw a most ingenious sleeping porch, or outdoor sleeping room, rather—which may be of interest to many persons who would like to sleep out in the open air if it could be managed with any degree of comfort. An actual sleeping porch has many disadvantages. It can hardly be kept very attractive in appearance because the bed-covering and furniture must be weather-proof. Getting in and out in bitter cold weather is an ordeal that few enjoy.

This sleeping porch was, during the day, a charming part of the bedroom itself. It was a sort of alcove, built out over a porch below, and opening into the bedroom by means of wide double doors. While its upper walls were practically all windows it had tight lower walls clear to the floor.

At night the occupants of the bedroom undressed in cosy warmth, then closed the double doors behind them, slipped into the warm beds, and flung open the windows over their heads. In the morning the windows were closed, the doors opened into the bedroom, and then closed again until the occupants had dressed and gone. The beds were left to air until after breakfast, then the doors were opened and the heat from the radiators in the bedroom soon warmed the open alcove. All day it was an ordinary pretty bedroom, with the beds in an attractive niche. A small radiator at the head of each bed gave additional heat on extremely cold days, but my hostess told me they were rarely used. The whole scheme appealed to me as a compromise that might solve many objections to the regular sleeping porch.

A NEW SWEATER COAT.

Will the procession of new and original sweater designs never stop? From a simple sports garment or one intended for a sort of removable lining for a coat, it has developed into a "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

The one pictured would certainly be a "joy forever" to the high school or college girl, for it combines usefulness and beauty in an unusual degree. It is a hand knit affair of silver gloss. It has the effect of being double-breasted and fastens across the chest with Oriental beads which are substituted for buttons. A wide front panel, narrow band cuffs which extend beyond the sleeves like a tab and turnover collar, are all embroidered with a Chinese motif. It is a garment quite dressy enough for any occasion, and yet retains the smart sports look that all knitted garments have. That is their charm, in fact.

If it is not too early to suggest such a thing with vaactions barely over, such a thing with vacations barely over, such attractive present for Christmas, and one which any young lady (or old, for that matter) would sincerely appreciate.

COLLEGIATE PARENTS ASSEMBLE TONIGHT

Will Discuss Children's Courses at Meeting Called by Mothers' Club.

Tonight will see the first of the parent-teacher meetings held in the Central Collegiate Institute. The committee in charge has prepared an exceedingly interesting program, which includes addresses by Principal A. E. Miller of the school and by Dr. Alfred Grant, as well as several musical numbers. Fathers and mothers whose children are attending the school have been invited to attend, and include those living in the Lord Roberts, Aberdeen, St. George's, Talbot street, Ryerson, Simcoe, Alexandra and Empress avenue public school districts.

Discussion, which is expected to lead to closer co-operation between the home and the school, will be a feature of tonight's meeting, after which a reception will be held and refreshments served. An opportunity will be given the parents to meet the teachers in their own rooms and discuss with them the courses upon which their children are entering.

It is expected that, as a result of the meeting, a committee will be appointed to draft a constitution for a new Collegiate Parents' Association.

Mrs. J. C. Duffield, accompanied by her daughters, Misses Louise and Agnes, have arrived in Montreal after spending the past two months abroad. They will remain in Montreal for a few days, returning home at the end of the week.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON.
Authors of "The Lightning Conductor."

Realization of What She Has Done, Begins To Dawn On Terry

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Teresa Desmond (Terry)—Lovely and unbelievably innocent, is impersonating her beautiful half-sister,

Juliet Divine, known as the Million Dollar Doll—whose sketchy career is unknown to Terry.

Miles Sheridan, Terry's Dream Prince, furnished the money for her convent education when she was a child. His wife's infidelity is making him wretched, and in order to facilitate her obtaining a divorce, Miles offers the Million Dollar Doll $20,000 to take a yacht trip with him. Juliet is unable to take the trip herself, but working on her little sister's gratitude to Miles, she persuades Terry, who is an exquisite counterpart of herself, to take her place. Miles does not recognize the little girl he befriended so long ago.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife is in love with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, who does not know of Terry's relationship to Juliet, is in love with the younger girl.

Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, is Terry's maid on board the yacht. Her early disapproval of "The Million Dollar Doll" is swiftly disappearing under the influence of Terry's child-like charm. Miles has stipulated that he will have nothing to do with the girl on the voyage, but under the impression that Terry is flirting with him, he breaks his bargain and kisses her.

Terry's indignation is so real that Miles Sheridan apologizes for his action.

After his dinner with Terry, Miles sits and smokes, reviewing his past.

Terry goes to her room wretchedly unhappy.

CHAPTER XLVI.

New Fears.

The girl wondered how she had been able to get through the evening without breaking down.

"I couldn't have done it," she thought, "unless we'd talked about history and things like that."

But she had got to get through; and she believed that the trembling of her hands and the constant effort to make her voice sound natural had passed unnoticed by Sheridan.

"If I'd guessed what it would be like I shouldn't have dared risk going up to dine with him," she told herself.

She said now, in looking back at what had happened, that she must have been numbed at first by the shock, for after her horror of the change in Sheridan had been turned to self-reproach by his scolding, she had been conscious of no sensation at all.

She had forced herself to think that he could have meant no wrong, that she had misunderstood, and must atone.

But as she sat opposite to him at dinner, striving to be composed, a voice seemed to shout question after question in her ear. The questions were so loud, so insistent, that often she could scarcely hear through their clamor, what Sheridan was saying: and she was afraid, when she spoke, of answering them, instead of replying to him. The effect upon her mind of this confusion was unnerving.

"What does he think of you?" the voice would scream, over the sounds in the room and the noise of the sea without.

"What does he think of you that he should walk into your cabin and shut the door, and kiss you, and then say the fault is all yours?"

"Is that the way good men behave to girls?

"What have you done to him that he shouldn't respect you?

"Is it because you came on board his yacht alone?

"Is it just because you are you, or is it because he thinks you're Julia?

"What has Julia done to make him act like that, and look at her like that, though he never knew her, never even saw her before.

"Is it because she is an actress?

"Do men treat all actresses like that?

"Was it even more terrible of you to come on the yacht for this trip with him than you thought it was, or than Julia told you when she said people would understand, and you would have to sacrifice the respect of the world?"

Now, as she lay on her bed reviewing, dry-eyed, what has passed, the girl saw that there was something very wrong somewhere, either about Sheridan, or Julia, or about herself—or all three.

The thing she had done could not be undone. She would not undo it, even if she could, because it was for Sheridan's sake; and, in spite of his harshness at first, and worse than harshness at last, he was the Prince. She owed everything to him.

But oh, she was paying! And he was like the rest of the world, in not respecting her. She hadn't realized that it would be so with him, as well as others.

And she could not see ahead, into the future.

She was afraid, and trembled.

* * *

Sheridan did not meet his guest on the day that followed. She was keeping out of his way; he understood that, of course. It would have been a slow moving brain not to take in that fact.

But Sheridan puzzled over the point of view—of such a woman. In spite of trying to push the thought of her out of his head, it crept back again and again.

"Why does she think it worth while to go on acting as if she were aggrieved?" he wanted to know. "Why do I feel as if I'd been a brute to her, when I know that these million doll-women appreciate a man only when he is a brute?"

He wished that she would walk on deck, as usual, and give him a chance to throw her a word, as if nothing had happened. If he could see the girl, he would stop thinking about her in this stupid way, that was a mere trick of a brain too highly keyed.

But she did not come; and that evening Sheridan said indifferently to Mrs. Harkness, "I suppose your charge—Miss Divine—got through that little squall last night as well as she did the big one. Not upset at all?"

"No, Mr. Miles, she seems pretty well," replied the old woman. "She hasn't been about much, because she wants to rest her ankle a bit before we land at Monaco tomorrow. She's been reading in her cabin a good deal."

At least the girl hadn't given him away to Harky! He could tell by the look in his old nurse's eyes that she'd received no shock.

And it would have been a shock if she had had any hint of the scene in Miss Divine's stateroom.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON HANDSOME HUSBANDS.

To behold an ADONIS
Is ONE thing,
To GET him,
Even temporarily,
Is ANOTHER;
Whilst to secure him
Permanently
Is harder still.
Handsome men
Are hard to catch
On the hop.
Women spoil them
And they are often blase.
You MAY get one
For a few TIMES
As a DANCING partner;
For a few WEEKS
As an ADMIRER;
With strategy
You might EVEN get one
For several MONTHS
As a BEAU,
Or for a few YEARS
As a HUSBAND;
But it is not till you've Got him for BETTER or WORSE
That you know whether you've Got him FOR GOOD.
Some handsome husbands are good—
Others are good FOR NOTHING.

Grandfather Frog and Peter Rabbit Get Into a Hot Argument

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

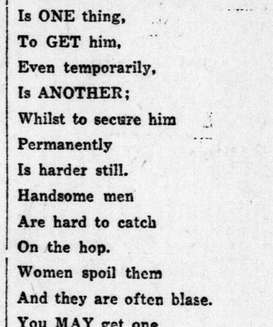

Grandfather Frog glared with his big, goggly eyes up at Peter Rabbit sitting on the bank of the Smiling Pool. You know Grandfather Frog is very old and is accounted very wise, and so is usually very much respected. But Peter had just shown him no respect at all. Grandfather Frog had said that the young Chuck, whose shining doorstep of yellow sand Peter could see on the other side, had swum across the Laughing Brook, and Peter had declared that he didn't believe it.

"You long-legged, long-eared piece of impudence! Do you mean to sit there and tell me that you think I've told an untruth?" demanded Grandfather Frog angrily.

Peter shook his head very hard. "My goodness, no!" exclaimed Peter. "I couldn't imagine you telling an untruth, Grandfather Frog. But you didn't see that young Chuck swim across the Laughing Brook. You said that Jerry Muskrat told you that he saw him swim across. I think Jerry was mistaken. He must have seen someone else."

"Did I hear you mention my name?" asked a somewhat squeaky voice, and Jerry Muskrat's head appeared close beside the big, green lily pad on which sat Grandfather Frog.

"You did," spoke up Grandfather Frog before Peter could find his tongue. "That long-legged bundle of curiosity up there thinks there is something the matter with your eyes."

"My goodness, no!" exclaimed Peter.

Jerry Muskrat looked puzzled. "If there is I am not aware of it," said he mildly. "Just what does he think is wrong with my eyes?"

"He thinks you didn't see that young Chuck over yonder swim across the Laughing Brook," replied Grandfather Frog.

"Huh! Is that so?" Jerry exclaimed. "Well, if I didn't then I can't see him now, and I am looking right straight at him."

"You must have been mistaken," protested Peter. "You must have been, because Chucks can't swim."

"Who says they can't?" retorted Jerry Muskrat.

"Why I—I—I—I've never heard of such a thing," stammered Peter rather lamely. "I suppose a Chuck could swim if he fell in the water and had to swim to save his life, but I don't believe there ever was a Chuck who swam intentionally. If that young Chuck over there really came from this side of the Laughing Brook he must have got across some other way. You never will make me believe he swam across."

All that Grandfather Frog and Jerry Muskrat could say had no effect on Peter. He obstinately refused to believe. You know there are people just like that. Finally Grandfather Frog and Jerry gave up in disgust. Grandfather Frog dived to the bottom of the Smiling Pool, and Jerry swam away, leaving Peter sitting on the bank.

Mr. Fred Palmer, 217 Dalhousie street, Brantford, Ont., writes: "When I first went out to the Northwest, the water played havoc with my bowels, and being in a remote spot, I could not get anything to give me relief for any length of time.

"I wrote and told my wife about the time I was having, and she sent me a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and I cannot speak too highly of it for what it did for me.

"Whenever the children have any bowel trouble from eating fruit or drinking strange water, which they have done for the past five years, living in the country, the only remedy we use is 'Dr. Fowler's,' and nobody should be without it, as it cannot be beat for instant relief."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past 78 years, and you don't experiment with new and untried remedies when you buy it; but be sure and get 'Dr. Fowler's' when you ask for it, as a substitute may be dangerous to your health.

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

(Beauty Culture)

Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, and spread over hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.

Mothers and Their Children

Regarding Property.

One Mother Says:

My child is naturally very destructive, and after trying to break her of the habit I finally got her a bank into which he takes pride in putting money she has earned. I am the custodian, and whenever she deliberately destroys anything I take out some of her money and make her pay for it. Of course it never covers the loss, but it makes her see that she has some responsibility for the property of others.

Miss Hopper if you can spare one hand from your hair a moment take a letter to Mister Clutchen Brake, Manifold, Michigan. Dear Mister Brake colon paragraph.

We have your letter stating that the most extravagant thing you ever did was to buy a 1907 four-cylinder, chain-drive Piazza runabout for $200 to economize as the brute makes four miles on a gallon of gas and a quart of oil doesn't even moisten her crank case adding that you could shove one of the giant redwoods of California into one of her cylinders and never notice it and what can we suggest you can do to start a gasoline war in your town period paragraph.

Well comma Mister Brake comma long experience has taught us to look for the silver lining comma no misfortune of any of our clients being so dark that there is nothing we can sell them comma and one way to approach the gasoline problem is to install a half dozen of our Squeakless Squirt gasoline service pumps and sell gas for ten cents a gallon which is fine if you have an oil well and foolish if you have not but a more practical solution is to give your Piazza runabout a couple of coats of our brilliant yellow Shower Survivor porch paint if you want to sell it or a Limited Libation economy carburetor if you don't period.

Yours for frugal fuel.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

A LARGE ORDER.

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD.

Henry had brains, but he was a blunderbuss. He was a blunderbuss, but he had brains. Some people said it one way, some the other, and they were all right. His stenographer, Mary Crocker, didn't remark on it at all, but she believed in keeping her eye on him, and when his brains won him a promotion in the foundry, she kept to herself the suspicion that the blunderbuss part of him would sooner or later get him into trouble.

There were two factors hostile to his success. One was a natural antipathy to the efficiency methods of minutely subdivided bookkeeping and cost accounting as practiced in the general office. The other was a rival in another department—one of the few other departments which had not yet been put under his charge so far as such matters as the routing of material and like matters was concerned. In this department, by the way, Mary's brother Jim also worked.

The rival's name was Peter Revere, and he was unmitigatedly jealous of Henry's promotion, not taking into account the fact that Henry had brains, while Peter used his head chiefly as a place in which to stable a mean disposition.

The fifth person concerned in this little drama was familiarly known as the "boss." Spoken of, that was his title. Spoken to, he was Mr. Stockbridge. Stockbridge, Wallace M., in the telephone book. He owned the foundry, was inordinately fond of it, and indefatigably interested in its least important activities. At times he was badly bitten by the efficiency bug, but so far as the effects of such a bite had not been felt personally by Henry.

Recently, however, there had been a bit of trouble somewhere. A vast supply—enough to last for years—of European thread had been accumulating without rhyme or reason. Henry was frankly puzzled. While most of the routing of material was in his hands, there was one department which he had not taken over, and he surmised that someone there was acting according to orders from higher up.

His stenographer had something else up her sleeve besides a plump, well-rounded arm. Henry had caught glimpses of filing cards of a color and size which he knew had no meaning in his department. Caught once studying them, she had flushed uncomfortably and thrust them out of sight in a pigeonhole in her desk. Now, what the deuce, ruminated Henry, was Mary up to?

Henry flattered himself he had a very fatherly feeling for all the girls in his office, especially Mary. Now, a fatherly feeling is all very well, but when it concentrates very much on one person, a man wants to beware. But Henry, in his blunderbuss fashion, wasn't hep to the real directions in which his feelings were leading him.

Then everything happened at once. To begin with, it started on a back page of a popular magazine. W. M. Stockbridge, pursuing a story through the advertisements, happened instead on an efficiency blurb, and took it all in, as he periodically did.

Next morning he set out on a tour of the foundry, resolved to find something which needed correction. Running into Peter Revere, he soon discovered quite as much as, if not more than, he had hoped for. In the course of conversation the fact leaked out that there were enough three-quarter-inch European threaded couplings to connect the desert of Sahara with the canals of Mars.

"Who ordered them?" demanded the boss.

Peter shrugged his shoulders and remained discreetly silent.

"Hm!" grunted Stockbridge, and strode into Henry's sanctum, where Henry was paternally watching the soft curve of Mary's cheek as she bent above his dictation.

"I'd like to know who is responsible for those ten tons of couplings," he bellowed at Henry. "Show me just how much you've ordered made up in the past year." He threw a choleric glance at the filing cabinets.

Henry swallowed bravely, and looked hopefully at Mary. He didn't recall having gone on record for any particular order, come to think of it. Had just had it done, and that was the end of it.

But Mary turned obediently. Only, strange to say, what she handed over to Henry was that bunch of cards he had once caught her examining. Surprised, he looked them through.

Then he cleared his throat. "Mr. Stockbridge, you probably won't be interested in what little I've had made up," he said briskly. "But here's what's been sent in from another department, and accounts for about nine tons."

He handed them over to the boss, who gave them a short scrutiny and then stalked out to blow up Peter Revere."

"How in time for the love of Mike did you collect all that data?" asked Henry curiously, when he and Mary were alone.

"Oh, I had a bit of an idea that Revere was trying to put something over on you," said Mary demurely. "My brother Jim's in his department, and I got him to make copies of the orders. They were spread over some time and in small lots, but Revere probably knows how careless—that is, I mean how you don't keep records, and thought he saw a chance to get even with you for your promotion over him."

"I see. Thank you, Mary," said Henry soberly.

Then he took first one slender hand and then the other tenderly in his. "Mary," he said (and his tone was not in the least paternal), "you are just the person I need to keep me out of trouble. How about undertaking the job for life?"

Mary threw him a roguish glance from beneath her curling lashes.

"Rather a large order, Henry," she said. "But—I'll try."

AFTER EARLY ADVANCE PRICES BECOME LOWER

Unfavorable Outside News Has Depressing Effect On Wall Street.

By STUART P. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.

Wall Street, New York, Sept. 4.—After an hour of moderate price fluctuations, mostly on the side of advance, the stock market today, with the outside news as a whole decidedly unfavorable, became heavy, and prices of many of the active speculative issues fell from 1 to 3 points.

When the buying of the first hour had run its course, there was a sharp dip in prices, followed by heaviness in the general list. United States Steel common broke through 92, as against its final price of 92¾ on Saturday. Other steel shares were sold down, and speculative leaders, such as American Can, Baldwin Locomotive and Studebaker got well under the closing level of the previous week before prices steadied. Davison Chemical rose above 40, then sagged off again. Studebaker and the motors generally held their ground fairly well, while Mack Trucks, whose dividend was increased from $4 to $6 annually, was in demand. Dupont and General Motors were bought mainly on dividend talk.

The upturn in Punta Alegre Sugar was the feature in its group, and appeared to be discounting some sort of favorable dividend action at the meeting tomorrow. A dividend at the rate of $2 to $4 per share has been mentioned.

Railway stocks were comparatively neglected. As on Saturday, the stocks of anthracite coal carrying roads were little affected.

Such issues as Reading, the Eries and Delaware and Hudson were offered down when the selling in the industrials was at its height, but there seemed to be no important selling.

Most observers were inclined toward the view that a compromise would be reached soon.

MANY ADVANCES NOTED IN FOODSTUFF PRICES

Bacon, Fish, Butter, Cheese, Eggs and Potatoes Are Higher.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 2.—The index number of wholesale prices constructed by Prof. H. Michael of McMaster University, Toronto, advanced 1.2 per cent in August, from 176.4 at the end of July to 178.6. This compares with 164.7 for August, 1922; 254.4 for August, 1920, and 118.4 for August, 1914. The index for 20 foodstuffs included advanced 1.4 per cent, from 180.7 for July to 189.6. This compares with 175.7 for August, 1922; 289.0 for August, 1920, and 131.1 for August, 1914.

Beef, mutton, sugar, flour and tapioca declined; bacon, fish, butter, cheese, eggs and potatoes advanced. The movements in this section were entirely seasonal.

The index for the 20 manufacturers' goods included advanced 1.1 per cent, from 165.7 at the end of July to 167.6 at the end of August. This compares with 153.8 for August, 1922; 219.7 for August, 1920, and 105.8 for August, 1914.

Wool, copper and rubber declined, while raw cotton, binder twine, silver, tin, zinc and bituminous coal advanced. The movement in wholesale prices is still quite uncertain, it being a series of oscillations up and down within narrow limits, and it is quite unsafe to make any predictions with regard to the near future. Foodstuffs are now at their highest point since August, 1921, but manufacturers' goods have fallen 2.3 per cent since March of this year, but are still 17 per cent above the lowest point reached in April, 1922.

SILK OFFERINGS ARE HELD TO PREVENT PRICE FLURRY

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Sept. 4.—All offerings of Japanese silk on the New York market were withdrawn today and it is not expected that trading will be resumed until the full extent of the disaster is known. This will effectually prevent any extended flurry in prices here for the time being.

COTTON

Associated Press Despatch.

Liverpool, Sept. 3.—Cotton, spot, in good demand; prices steady. American middling, fair, 16.76d; good middling, 16.11d; fully middling, 15.66d; middling, 15.11d; low middling, 14.81d; good ordinary, 14.31d; ordinary, 14.01d.

The sales of the day were 7,000 bales, of which 5,400 were American. The receipts were 1,000 bales, including 100 American.

Futures opened and closed very steady.

SAYS THE ALDERMEN CONTROL SITUATION

Can Prevent Delegations Appearing Before Council If They Wish, Says Mayor.

At the last session of the finance committee the comment was made that Mayor Wenige was responsible for the number of delegations who appear to take up the time of the city council in regular session.

The mayor retorted that the councillors have a right to deny any deputation a voice. All responsibility rests with them. As an instance of this, it is recorded that at the last regular session 11 members of the council voted to hear E. T. Essery speak on behalf of certain citizens interested in the Oxford street pavement. Ald. Douglass voted alone in the negative.

Later in the evening Ald. Greer and Ald. Burdick, both members of the finance committee urged that "all other deputations present now be heard." This motion was adopted unanimously.

Since then both committees have recommended that Mayor Wenige enforce the procedure bylaw in this respect but he still insists that his associates hold the key to the situation.

FORESEES RADIO TALKING ACROSS OCEAN IN FUTURE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—"I venture this in reference to the near future's improvements in radio devices" said Prof. C. W. Lengwood, radio engineer addressing the throng in the sportsmen's building at Exhibition City last evening. That there is a very active possibility that at the opening of the next Canadian National Exhibition we will all here be able to hear the voice of his majesty King George from across the seas as he gives a message to the people of Canada. It could be done right now if we could have the co-operation of the firms controlling the powerful stations," he declared.

PRICES RANGE LOWER UNDER SMALL TRADE

Spanish Preferred Leads Activity in Paper Group—Brazilian Holds Firm.

Reported for The Advertiser by Johnston & Ward.

Montreal, Sept. 4.—Following the week-end holiday, trading on the local market was restricted in volume. The opening was postponed for half an hour out of respect to the memory of C. Simpson Garland, ex-president of the exchange, who died suddenly on Sunday.

Prices as a whole showed a slight tendency toward lower levels, but there was no marked change in any particular issue.

Brazilian Traction led in the number of shares traded in, quotations being firm from 42½ to 42⅜. Montreal Power was steady at 123 and Quebec Railway at 18. Broken lots of Illinois Traction preferred changed hands at 90. The balance of the public utility group was neglected.

Spanish preferred was the most active of the paper stocks, and eased off fractionally to 99. Brompton on a small turnover registered a loss of ¼ of a point to 42¼.

Dominion Textile was slightly firmer at 63¼. Cement was off ½ point to 84½. Canada Steamships unchanged at 47, and Steel of Canada lost ½ point to 67½. The weakest stock on the list was Asbestos; on transactions of less than 100 shares the price sagged off to 50½, or a loss of 1½ points.

The balance of the list was featureless.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—Trading was brisk on the local stock exchange this morning after the triple holiday. In general the market was strong, with advances outnumbering declines. The banking group provided the most activity, with Hamilton developing further strength, closing at 175 at noon, a net gain of 3 points. Imperial and Standard held steady throughout the morning, unchanged from Friday's quotations. Union at 111, on a small transaction, showed a loss of ¾ from the last previous sale, while C. P. R. showed the greatest change in the balance of the list, losing 3 points at its close of 145. Bell Telephone advanced 1½ to 124½, while Brazilian was ½ up at 42¼.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept 4.—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was fairly active, with prices for the most part steady. Beatty was the leader in activity, opening fractionally lower at 11c and closing at 11¾c. Vipond, on sales of 16,050 shares, opened ½c higher at 70s, and after selling up to 70¼c, sold down to 69¾c, closing at its opening quotation. Teck-Hughes opened 2 points higher at $1.20, but on further liquidation dropped to $1.11, its closing figure.

In the silvers, Wettlaufer sold up ¼c to 10c. Total sales for the morning were 187,635 shares.

REPORT HEAVY TRAVEL DURING HOLIDAY TIME

Railway Officials Claim Traffic Largest in Several Years.

Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railway officials in this city announced this morning that passenger traffic on the London division over the week-end was the heaviest at that period for quite a number of years.

Saturday the platforms at both stations were frequently crowded to congestion, and in several cases it was found necessary to run trains out of London in two sections. On many other trains standing room was at a premium.

Traffic lightened considerably on Sunday, but Labor Day saw a recurrence of Saturday's travel, and again division officials had to run two trains to Windsor and Toronto, instead of one to efficiently handle the holiday crowds. One of the largest crowds that has left the city for some time was aboard the C. N. R. train that left London for Windsor at 9 last night. The first section was crowded even though it was made up of eleven coaches, and all available seats were occupied on the second section.

Everything the Farmer Trades In Local Market

After two days of rest the local market assumed large proportions this morning. A heavy supply of all kinds of garden and farm produce being offered. Prices as a rule are steady. Though the pickling season should be at its height at the present time prices have not reached the level where the housewife feels justified in making extensive purchases. Tomatoes do not display any tendency to become cheaper, 55c to 70c per bushel being quoted. The same conditions prevail in gherkins, cauliflowers, onions and other articles usually prepared for winter use.

The following prices were those quoted: Tomatoes, 55c to 70c; gherkins, 30c to 50c per 100; cauliflowers, 25c to 75c each; bantam corn, 12½c to 15c dozen; potatoes, $1.65 to $1.75 bag; $1.15 to $1.20 bushel; cabbages, $1.00 to $2.00 dozen; celery, $1.00 to $1.75 dozen; dairy butter, 40c lb; eggs, 35c dozen; apples, $1.25 to $1.50 bushel; muskmelons, $2.50 bushel, or 10c and 15c each; homegrown watermelons, $1.00 to $2.00 dozen, or 10c to 25c each; puff balls, 10c each; elderberries, cleaned, $1.20 to $1.30 for 11-quarts.

Half a dozen loads of hay sold at $12 to $14 per ton. Only two sales being made at the top figures.

One lot of old oats brought $1.50 per cwt.; and a load of new wheat $1.00 per bushel.

Common Grades Meet Slow Sale at Much Lower Price Range.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—There was a scarcity of choice butcher cattle in the market this morning. The demand was good for choice stuff, but draggy for common. The margin between the high and low in the butcher section was in consequence rather wide, medium to common selling from $5 to $5.50, and best butcher from $7 to $7.20, averaging about steady with last week.

The export trade was rather quiet, though a couple of extra choice loads sold at Swifts at $8.50 for export beef for New York. The bulk of the export for the old country sold from $7.35 to $7.85.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Calves dull, except for choice veal quality.

Hogs easier at $10.25 f.o.b. bid; for today's loading, $9.75 f.o.b. bid.

Union Stock Yards—Receipts today: 249 cars, 4,343 cattle, 620 calves, 2,196 hogs, 2,589 sheep and lambs.

TODAY'S OPENING PRICES.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Influenced chiefly by an advance in Liverpool quotations, wheat prices here averaged a little higher today during the early dealings. Traders were disposed to associate the Liverpool advance with reports that France had accepted in principle German suggestions of an economic accord between the two countries. Trade here was of moderate volume. The opening was followed by something of a sag and then by slight rallies.

Scantiness of immediate supplies tended to lift the price of September corn, but favorable crop reports made the later months easy. After the opening the market underwent a moderate setback from the initial range.

Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting ¼c to ⅜c higher and later showing some loss.

Futures opened:
Wheat—Sept., $1.02½; Dec., $1.07.
Corn—Sept., 85¾c; Dec., 68½c.
Oats—Sept., 38⅜c; Dec., 40⅛c.

PLAN CORN ROAST.

Chatham, Sept. 3.—Plans for a corn roast for the members of Chalmers Young Peoples' Guild at the home of Fred Brooksbank, next Friday evening, were made at the weekly meeting on Sunday. The president, Edgar McKerrall, presided during a very interesting program. R. C. Henry had the topic "A Call to Worship," and handled the subject in a capable manner. Miss Annie McKay read an article, which was also appreciated.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Relief When Other Medicines Failed

Port Mann, B.C. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was tired and run-down. I had headaches and no appetite and was troubled for two years with sleepless ness. I tried many medicines, but nothing did me any real good. While I was living in Washington I was recommended by a stranger to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am stronger and feel fine since then and am able to do my housework. I am willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. C. GREAVES, Port Mann, B. C.

ST. THOMAS CHURCHES FEAR FOR MAN'S LIFE

Methodist District Awaits Word of Safety From Their Missionary in Japan.

Much anxiety is felt in St. Thomas and surrounding district as to the fate of Rev. M. M. Whiting, representative of the Methodist Churches of this district in the stricken area of Japan, and although nothing definite has been heard, it is hoped that he was not in either of the cities destroyed, but on a summer vacation in the hills, where the damage and loss of life was much less than in the larger centers.

Although not a former resident of St. Thomas, Rev. Mr. Whiting was sent to Japan by the Methodist Conference as the representative of the district which has that city as its center, and therefore he is now looked upon, more or less, as a citizen.

Rev. Robert Hicks, Central Methodist Church, who knew Mr. Whiting personally, was out of town all day yesterday and could not be reached, but Rev. A. E. Moorehouse of Grace Church recollected him, and remembered having heard him speak before departing for the Orient.

"Rev. Mr. Whiting is a most able speaker," declared Mr. Moorehouse, "and one who was highly thought of by all members of the Methodist conference. He spoke here about 15 years ago in Central Church, just prior to his going to Japan, and I heard him at that time. He gave a remarkable address. He returned here about five years ago, and spoke in the churches, but I was not here at that time so cannot say much about him. He was not a resident of St. Thomas, but allocated to the district by the conference. From reports that have been received here there is no doubt but that he was doing a wonderful work in Japana, and if he is among the dead his loss will be severely felt. While we are extremely anxious we are nevertheless hoping for the best."

Rev. W. Gaetz, First Methodist Church, also stated that Mr. Whiting was highly respected and performing a marvellous work in his foreign home.

Fear is felt by the Anglicans of St. Thomas that representatives of that church in this district may also be in the danger area, although Rev. P. N. Harding, St. John's Church, stated that he did not know of any that came from that city direct.

"There are several Anglican missionaries in Japan," he stated, "headed by Bishop Hamilton, and we are afraid that several who have appeared in local churches at one time or another may be imperiled by the tragic disasters which have been visited on that country."

Regarding the Presbyterian missions, Rev. A. E. Thornloe, Alma street Presbyterian Church, stated that none of their representatives was stationed near the earthquake area.

EXPRESS GRAVE FEARS FOR MISSIONARY IN JAPAN

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, Sept. 3.—Relatives and friends of Miss Evelyn Lackner of this city, a missionary of the Methodist Church in Japan, are expressing grave fears for her safety, as a result of the earthquake which has destroyed the Japanese city. Miss Lackner had been in the city for a month in the late spring, but left for Japan about a month ago, joining 18 other Canadian missionaries at North Bay. They sailed from Vancouver on the Empress of Canada, and it is feared they arrived in time to be involved in the earthquake.

WANT AD TIPS

Several Plans for Used Cars

There are many proved good Want Ad plans for used cars. A dealer whose advertising had been along conventional lines wished to vary it. So he adopted and advertised a selling stunt which in used-car experience has often been very successful. His Want Ad ran:

"We will sell to the highest bidder, a fine 6-cylinder touring car of a make and model now selling used around $?00.

"This car has new paint, new top, good tires, and an exceptionally smooth-running motor. It's a dandy! It will be displayed in our used-car department until Monday morning.

"You examine it and submit a sealed bid of what you are willing to pay for it. Bids will be opened at 9 a.m. Monday. Highest bidder gets the car."

The same possibility that draws individuals in crowds to country auction sales—the chance that one may pick up a big bargain—makes this selling plan produce excellent results. On occasions, to put variety into a dealer's advertising, it is an excellent plan. It is good, too, for the private car owner who is very anxious to sell his car at once, and is willing to take what he can get.

One highly successful concern consistently features in Want Ads its "$250 department." A typical Want Ad reads:

"Tell your friends and neighbors that we will furnish at all times a good touring or good runabout for $250 cash. OR ON TERMS: $145 cash and $10 per month. Tourings and runabouts with starter and demountable rims, $350."

Some advertisers have found it an excellent idea to state in the Want Ad only the down payment—very low. Others cater carefully to the customer's convenience—he is urged to phone and make an appointment for evenings or Saturdays. Another plan is to list a large number of cars in the same Want Ad, on the principle that nearly every reader actually in the market will find something he will wish to investigate.

The used-car advertiser has many good Want Ad plans to pick from.

SEVERAL AFTER CITY JOB.

There are several persons who would evidently accept the position to be vacated in the city tax collector's office, October 1, by Mrs. Turner. City Treasurer James Bell reports the receipt of another application this morning. All tenders for the position must be considered at an early date by the finance committee.

PRINCIPALS CLAIM GOOD ATTENDANCE AT CITY SCHOOLS

Knollwood Institution Attains High Mark With 100 Per Cent Enrollment.

MANY NEW PUPILS

Whatever the attendance in the London public schools may amount to during the year, the first day of school saw from 92 to 100 per cent of the children in attendance. All the schools except one reported full classrooms, and in some cases the principals were wondering where they would put any extra pupils who might come in during the next few days.

The Collegiate Institute Middle School enrolls this afternoon, and by all signs registration will be complete. Of the public schools, the largest first day turnout was reported from Knollwood, where Miss Tolhurst reported 100 per cent. attendance. There are 500 new pupils in the schools this year, according to the principals. Individual reports from the schools were as follows:

Ryerson, Hubert B. Galpin, principal—"Every child in the kindergarten who was to be promoted was there. We have a very full attendance. There are about 30 new pupils, and in one room we have as many as 46 children, but I can remedy this in time."

Riverview, Frank J. Newhouse, principal—"We have a 90 per cent attendance, which is excellent for the first day, and the school is fairly full."

Have 22 New Pupils.

Rectory street, Melmoth W. Althouse, principal—"Our first day's attendance is about 85 per cent, and we have 22 new pupils. This is a very good showing considering that we are so near Queen's Park. We seldom have a full turnout until after the fair."

Chesley avenue, E. E. Gibbs, principal—"There are 30 new children in the school, and the attendance has been very good indeed for the first day of the term. The rooms are pretty well filled."

Boyle Memorial, D. J. Ferguson, principal—"We have between 30 and 40 new pupils, which is very good. Every room in the school is filled, and we shall be glad when the new rooms are opened and ready for use."

Alexandra, James F. Kirkwood, principal—"Today we have had very fine attendance. There are from 20 to 25 new pupils. This is a good beginning for the year."

Aberdeen, Claude Brown, principal—"A wonderfully fine turnout for the first day. We have 37 new children, and all the rooms are filled."

Ealing school, J. J. McWilliams, principal—"Yes, we have had a full attendance, and there are 25 new pupils so far."

Empress avenue, R. G. Fowler, principal—"We have enrolled 30 new pupils, and the school is well filled. A very good first day attendance, indeed."

Knollwood school, Marjorie Tolhurst, principal—"We have had a 100 per cent attendance this year, and we have 11 new pupils. The school is filled."

Lord Roberts, J. F. Bryant—"We have an unusually large attendance this year. The school is full and we have about 60 new pupils, which is high."

Lorne avenue, W. E. Opper, principal—"The attendance today has been about 95 per cent, and there are 30 new children. This is a very large attendance for the initial day of the term."

Pottersburg, Mark Garret, principal—"We have all the way from 94 to 96 per cent in attendance, I think, and we have 18 new pupils, which is a good beginning."

First Day Poor.

Simcoe street, William Wallis, principal—"We have had a very poor first day attendance—not more than 75 per cent, I should think. Many of the children have not come back from their holidays. We have about 20 new pupils, so far."

St. George's, Edward Wyatt, principal—"We have a bumper attendance today. We have 35 transfer pupils from the Ryerson school, and about 40 new pupils, so we shall have a full house for the term."

School Not Overcrowded.

Talbot Street, R. N. Welsh, principal—"We have a good all-round attendance, the school is not in any way overcrowded. It never has been one of the schools that have suffered from this. There are 15 new pupils."

Tecumseh Avenue, John T. Parkinson, principal—We have just as many children as when we closed last term. There is a very large attendance, which is filling every room and there are 30 new pupils."

Wortley Road, W. B. Wyatt, principal—"A very large attendance indeed. There are probably 95 per cent in the room today, which is very high. London South is a growing district and we are sure to have a full school."

Victoria, E. H. McKone, principal—"More than 90 per cent of the children have turned out, and there are 45 new pupils here, which is very high. The school is well filled and there will probably be more coming in, in a few days."

Munich Cobbler Drops Dead When Leather Prices Rise

By ELSA SIMM.
Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright

Munich, Sept. 4.—Herr Hollunder, a shoemaker in the Wurztrasse, dropped dead of apoplexy when he learned of the recent rise in leather prices. Friends of the cobbler relate that when he went to a wholesale shop to buy a new supply of leather, and was informed what he would have to pay for it, he walked out, dazed, without buying. Returning to his own shop he sat down, and was heard to mutter: "I must give up my business because nobody will be able to buy shoes or even have the old ones repaired."

Then he toppled over dead. Herr Hollunder was an expert, and hard-working shoemaker, but his clientele consisted chiefly of persons of the middle class, who now are able to buy only the bare food necessities. An advertisement appearing in a provincial Wurttemberg paper apparently inserted seriously reads: "Wanted.—Investors with several million marks, to form a corporation for the purchase of one pound of meat weekly." An address is given where stock in corporation may be bought.

MAYOR URGES SYSTEM FOR SUPERANNUATION

Suggests Inauguration of the Gratuity Scheme For Retiring Civic Employees.

The abolition of the haphazard superannuation scheme in municipal circles is urged by Mayor Wenige, who suggests the inauguration of a gratuity scheme, similar to that enjoyed by federal government employees.

His worship expressed the hope today that Dr. Horace Brittain and his associates would recommend a change to that effect when they submit their report to the council at the end of this month.

Every city employee should be compelled to set aside in a special fund a portion of his or her salary each month as a precaution against old age. The same is true in civic circles as in private corporations, the mayor points out. Too many employees retire after a number of years and have little or nothing placed away. This should be guarded against as far as possible, he says.

The universal opinion at the city hall is that the Brittain report will contain a recommendation that the several municipal bodies set an age limit for service whereby the employees themselves will know definitely when they will leave the city's service and can so govern themselves accordingly. This would eliminate the lengthy and bitter discussions usually attending every proposed superannuation.

NOTED MEDICAL MEN ARE IN LONDON TODAY

Dr. C. S. McVicar and Dr. James C. Masson Address Academy of Medicine.

Two lectures of much interest to local medical men were heard at the medical school auditorium, when Dr. C. S. McVicar and Dr. James C. Masson of the Mayo Hospital, Rochester, addressed a large gathering of city doctors this afternoon on subjects on which they are considered the best authorities in America.

The two noted doctors were secured by Dr. George R. Ramsay, secretary of the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine, to deliver papers as part of the post-graduate course being conducted in London for physicians who are at present practicing their profession. Dr. McVicar spoke on the "sick headache" in relation to gastro-intestinal diagnosis and also discoursed on the internist's responsibility and factors involved in the selection and preparation of surgical risks.

Dr. James Masson's talk was on uterine prolapse and its treatment. Before hearing the lectures local practitioners gathered at the Tecumseh House, where an informal dinner was given the two visiting doctors.

It was announced today that the district meeting of the Ontario Medical Association will be held in the city on Oct. 4. Dr. J. C. Bloodgood is scheduled to give an address on the cancer problem, and the meeting will probably be open to the public.

In view of the intense interest taken in cancer developments with regard to surgical phases of the disease, the lecture by Dr. Bloodgood is expected to attract hundreds of doctors as well as citizens.

ALD. WILSON TO MOVE TO GET CUSTOMS HOUSE

Will Reopen City Hall Question at Tonight's Meeting of Council.

While Mayor Wenige and his supporters insist that the new city hall is going to be built on the McCormick site, Ald. William A. Wilson has given due notice that at tonight's session of the council he will open preliminaries for the main bout. He has selected the custom house as the logical position for London's new administration offices.

Ald. Wilson moves tonight, if the council will allow the city hall site question to be again reopened for discussion, that a special committee be appointed to confer with the federal authorities respecting the possible sale of this building to the city.

Ald. Wilson selects the following committee to act with him: J. Frank White, M.P., C. R. Somerville, E. S. Little and Ald. Albert Judd, chairman of the finance committee.

PAGEANT FOR THE FAIR NOW WELL UNDER WAY

Western Ontario's History To Be Demonstrated by Cast of 400.

Rehearsals for the great historical pageant to be held during Fair Week are under way, and from the enthusiasm shown by the hundreds of participants the pageant will be one of the largest and most interesting events of Western Fair Week.

Rehearsals are being held every afternoon and evening at Hyman Hall. Although the 400 people who take part will not be able to rehearse at one time, the directors are making arrangements so that the various episodes, each comprising not more than 70 people, are practiced separately. Starting today, the rehearsals will be so arranged that the school children taking part may have an opportunity to rehearse without interference with their studies.

On Friday next Andrew Jerpe and Merle Ward, who are undertaking the staging of the project, expect to commence piecing the episodes together. Several rehearsals, including the total cast of 400 people, will be held at the fair grounds before the opening day of the exhibition.

The Indian episode, dealing with the battle dances and habits of the early inhabitants of this district, will form an important part of the preliminary periods of the pageant. From W. W. Wintemburg, authority on Indian life and customs, the pageant manager, Merle Ward, has obtained information regarding the style of costume, mode of living, habits and dances of the Iroquois, Algonquin and Neutral Indians.

The correct dances and dress of the Indians will be adopted by the pageant producers, and demonstrated Indian episode of the pageant.

REPORT AUTO DAMAGED.

Badly damaged, a Gray-Dort car is parked at the intersection of the L. & P. S. R. tracks and Bathurst street. Teh car, bearing license No. 66-136, according to police records, is owned by John Cox, R. R. No. 8, London. Neither the L. & P. S. R. officials nor the police have any report of an accident at the crossing.

CITY LABOR MEN CONDEMN ITALY'S MOVE ON GREECE

Characterize Occupation of Corfu by Mussolini's Troops As Imperialistic.

POINTS TO WAR

Local labor men are in thorough accord with British labor in condemning Italy's action against Greece. Questioned in this regard today they denounced Mussolini's decision to make Greece pay by force of arms in round terms, and characterized the occupation of Corfu by Italian troops as "Prussianism" and "imperialistic."

Arthur Mould, prominent laborite, declared the policy of Italy was averse to the interests of labor. The situation in Italy was identical with that of Russia, he believed, and Premier Mussolini was as much a dictator as the most autocratic despot that ever held reins over the destiny of the Russian people.

"The action of Italy emanates from the spirit of the party at present in power," Mr. Mould said. "Personally I heartily approve of the condemnatory attitude of British labor toward Italy's coup, and I believe every right-thinking individual cannot help but denounce it. Italy's movements against Greece are on a par with previous actions of her autocratic government."

"We thought the lessons of war would rid the world of much of its intolerance, but European nations have apparently been affected in an opposite direction. Italy's aggression is the outgrowth of a movement which has secured control over Italian politics. The Fascisti got their power by force of arms, and not by the will of the people, and their Prussianistic principles are only natural. France's attitude is just as deteriorating to the interests of humanity as Italy's. In fact, all Southern Europe appears to be thirsting for blood of neighboring nations. They are not content with the present terrible situation, but want to make it worse. If there is any real dispute between Greece and Italy it should be settled by the League of Nations or some other competent international body."

Result To Be Expected.

Ald. Frank McKay thought Italy's action deplorable, but declared it was the logical result of putting revolutionaries at the head of government.

"No reasonable man can approve of the Italian assault on Greece, even with the provocation claimed by Mussolini," Ald. McKay said. "But the crucial state of affairs existing in Europe as a result of Italy's policy was to be expected when you consider that Fascisti does not represent the people and only attained power by the exercise of might."

"European politicians seem to want war, and they are going to get it. Perhaps when disaster stares them in the face and they become but a remnant of what they could be under peaceful conditions, they will understand the futility of war."

War Is Futile.

Ald. John Colbert, president of the Street Railwaymen's Union, said Italy would "not get anywhere" through her imperialism.

"Labor is the enemy of all influences which tend to create war," he said, "and that is why labor is against Italy. Evidently the Balkans and neighboring countries have not yet been taught war's awful lesson. They can't understand that the only way to obtain harmony and happiness is by legitimate means. Force of arms never was effective in making a nation contented and prosperous. Thinking people don't flock to the colors any more when it is possible to settle differences by arbitration. Italy's action will react to her own undoing."

Youthful Prisoner Slides Down Pole To Freedom

Special to The Advertiser.

Detroit, Sept. 4.—Climbing from the boiler-room of the county jail to the roof of the adjoining garage last night Gordon McDonald, 18-year-old burglar suspect, swung himself across to the top of a nearby telephone pole and slid down to liberty.

McDonald, who has been held in jail since June 18, was given some liberties about the building. Today he was employed in painting walls of a ward, and this job made it necessary for him to make frequent trips to the boiler-room.

The youth was allowed to eat in the kitchen, and when after a late supper he was seen to enter the boiler-room it was supposed that he was doing some work. When at the night check up it was found that McDonald was missing a search was started.

A ladder, which the youth had used to climb to the garage roof, made his means of escape apparent.

McDonald was arrested on a charge of house burglary. His home is said to be Hamilton, Ont.

Deputies were despatched to Windsor, Sheriff Walters believing that the young jail-breaker would attempt to return to Canada.

SENDS HAMILTON MAN TO JAIL FOR AUTO THEFT

Hamilton, Sept. 4.—Magistrate Jelfs today sentenced W. Summerfield to eighteen months for stealing an automobile belonging to W. H. McMullen, 69 Lonsdale avenue, Toronto. Summerfield also rifled a number of valises and suitcases in the car.

London may still have a cross-town bus line in East London. With the consent of the city council, street railway authorities have appealed to the provincial railway board relative to the proposed motorbus service on Rectory street, from Dundas street to the Hamilton road.
