

LONDON POST FINDS LITTLE HOPE IN PREMIER'S SPEECH

Other Opposition Newspapers Refrain From Praise or Blame—Mail and Times Claim He Conceded Several Points Advanced Often by Them in Criticism.

CARSON IN OPPOSITION

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Nov. 3.—Among the London morning papers which have been the most severe critics of the government, the Post is to-day its strongest antagonist. The Post in a downright editorial criticism says: "We find little ground for hope from the Asquith speech and find little consolation in his rhetoric. The country is being forced to see by the mere pressure of events that our affairs are being grossly mishandled and we rejoice that Sir Edward Carson had the honesty and courage to make a veracious report to the country of the state of muddle and indecision which, if we are to avoid disaster, must be ended some how or other. The Post makes the strongest complaint of the Premier's cabinet proposals which it regards as a desperate attempt to reconcile the irreconcilable and combine the efficiency of a small executive with the patronage of a large one. The Telegraph, Chronicle and Standard refrain in their editorials from any special blame or praise. They express admiration for Mr. Asquith's frankness in admitting errors and miscalculations and hope that needed lessons will be learned from experience. The Mail confines itself to the claim that Mr. Asquith conceded several points which had been constantly pressed upon him in our columns. These points are: "Compulsory service, taking single men first; the appointment of a war cabinet to replace the debating cabinet; admission of the failure of the Dardanelles expedition and the muddle in the Balkans." The Times' editorial likewise contends that Mr. Asquith admitted often in the very words of his critics nearly everything that has been said and written of late about the shortcomings of his government. The Times complains that the "astonishing" thing is that our army is costing from 250 pounds to 300 pounds per man per annum, without any promise of curtailment, and expresses the fear that "his clinging to the doctrine of collective cabinet responsibility will prove the fatal weakness of his new plan." It reminds him that the nation looks to its rulers for "foresight, initiative and energy which hitherto have been conspicuously lacking." The Daily News lobby correspondent says Sir Edward Carson had counted on Andrew Bonar Law, secretary for the colonies, resigning with him on the specific issue of the Dardanelles campaign but that the audience Mr. Law had with King George on October 18 when Sir Edward Carson's resignation was impending, directed his mind in another channel. Many of the papers discuss the Premier's remarks regarding the Dardanelles, but none draws from them the inference that it is the government's intention to withdraw the expedition. It is generally believed that as the result of the debate in the Commons there will be no further cabinet resignations, and that Winston Churchill will remain as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. It appears that Sir Frederick Smith, the new Attorney-General, will be a member of the cabinet. Sir Edward Carson's position henceforth probably will be that of leader of a considerable body of Unionists and some radicals who will act as a parliamentary opposition in the Commons, devoting themselves to criticism with a view to keeping the government up to the mark and well-informed on the country's views regarding the conduct of the war. The Daily Express, the Unionists' paper which is not in the least in sympathy with Mr. Asquith, while complaining that the Premier's sanguine rhetoric will not win the war, admits that he has strengthened his own position and by so doing has performed a direct public service. A strong government is the essential thing.

French Troops Are Landing at Kavala

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Nov. 3.—The landing of French troops at Kavala on the Greek coast is reported in a Sofia telegram to Berlin and although this news is unconfirmed it seems a likely sequel to yesterday's information that the British and French transports had been sighted off this Greek port. Whether or not these forces will be able to connect speedily enough with the other troops aligned against the Bulgarians from Krivolak to Strumitza to relieve the pressure there and by a possible flank attack threaten the rear of the Bulgarian forces, is admittedly problematical. With the exception of this reported landing of troops, the Balkan situation to-day prevents little besides a tangle of rumors, including one that Monastir is already in Bulgarian hands, and that the Serbians are almost surrounded by the Austrians, Germans and Bulgarians and are hastily retreating to their last positions in the Albanian Mountains. These rumors are discredited here or at least regarded as premature, since the official communications from Berlin, Vienna and Sofia record no such developments.

ITALIAN OFFICIAL

By Special Wire to the Courier. Rome, Nov. 2.—Via Paris, Nov. 3.—The following official statement was issued to-day at the headquarters of the Italian general staff: "In the Ledro valley the enemy, powerless to drive us from the Becchi and Bocca were damaged and Manzumi was burned. "In the Upper Sexton valley, (Dreva) enemy troops which were seen in Immechriedel and Knott were shelled by our artillery. In the valley near Luder, south of Lusnitz an enemy detachment which was attacked and dispersed by our troops abandoned a quantity of rifles and munitions. "Along the Isorno front yesterday, under a continuous rain, our troops renewed their attacks with unabated vigor. In the Plava section we stormed the Zagora region, which was strongly fortified by the enemy, taking 374 prisoners, including seven officers, with one machine gun, many rifles and ammunition. On the Prodgora height, we broke and passed through a fourth exceptionally strong line of trenches. We took 111 prisoners, three of whom were officers. A counter-attack made on our flank by troops coming up from the Gorizia bridge head was hurled back with heavy losses. "On the Carso plateau, after repelling with heavy loss several violent counter-attacks during the night, our troops succeeded by day in progressing along the northern slopes of Monte San Michele and towards San Martino Del Carso. We took 175 prisoners, everywhere our troops showed admirable endurance, bravery and self-sacrifice. "Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg railway is rebuilding 7,000 freight cars in Buffalo shops.

"POISON PEN" LETTERS ABOUT LADY BECK

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, Nov. 3.—The New York Herald this morning publishes the following: "That 'poison pen' letters intended to attack her competency to judge saddle horses at the National Horse Show, which will be opened Saturday in Madison Square Garden, have been sent broadcast to prominent exhibitors covering Lady Beck, wife of Sir Adam Beck, director of remounts for the Canadian army, was the announcement yesterday at the office of the National Horse Show Association. "Officials of the association expressed indignation over the attempt to injure Lady Beck's standing as a horse woman, and stated that the letters contained a veiled threat, which it is believed is intended to keep Canadian notables from the exhibition. "The letters are signed by 'An exhibitor,' it was said, and advise that Lady Beck shall refuse the invitation to judge, 'before it is too late.' The horse show committee states that Sir Adam's action in purchasing remounts for the Canadian cavalry, the instant war was declared, and before the machinery of the government could be set in motion, had inspired the letters. "In a statement issued yesterday, Mr. James T. Hyde, secretary of the association, denies that there is any foundation for the attack." Middleton, N. Y., has shipped to Florida apples weighing 20 1-2 ounces each and 15 1-2 inches round.

Roumania May Favor Allies

By Special Wire to the Courier. Melan, Nov. 2.—Via Paris, Nov. 3.—The Roumanian opposition led by Take Jonescu and M. Filipescu, is doing its utmost to overthrow the Bristiano cabinet and form a new national ministry favorable to the allies, says a Bucarest despatch to the Secolo. It is semi-circularly stated, however, that Roumania would enter the war only after the allies had landed half a million men as otherwise it would be impossible for her to carry on a war on two fronts.

LAVERGNE AGAINST HELPING

Says He Will Go to the Front if Sent by Government, Not Otherwise.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Montreal, Nov. 3.—Armand Lavergne, M.P.P., has refused the offer of General Sir Samuel Hughes to recruit and command a regiment for battle service. In a letter to the Minister of Militia, containing this refusal, Mr. Lavergne, who is an officer, says he will go to the front if sent by the government. Mr. Lavergne, in the course of his letter says: "As you already know, I am, and always have been, opposed to the participation of Canada in the wars of the Empire. I cannot assume the responsibility of sending Canadians to take part in a war which is not for the defense of Canada. "If the government believes that Canada should participate, it is for them to recruit the troops. If the number of volunteers is insufficient, the military law furnishes the means to fill the ranks. Let me tell you that if I was of the opinion that Canada should take part in the war, I would not hesitate to favor conscription. But I have always opposed, through the press and on the hustings in the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario, all participation by Canada in foreign wars except in defence of our territory. Since I have been in public life this was always the well known policy of the Nationalist party to which I belong, and I have seen these same principles put into effect and defended with vigor intelligence, and conviction by several members of our cabinet, past and present, such as Hon. Mr. Monk, who remained loyal to them until his death, and Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Hon. W. B. Nantel, Hon. L. Cochrane and the new minister of the interior, Hon. Mr. Patenaude. Let me repeat that I consider it unwise and more than criminal to place Canada in danger for a war in which we have not had, have not and will never have any control whatever. I will ever oppose any

Soldiers Off to Hamilton

Forty-Eight Red Coats Under Col. Brooks Leave to Join New Regiment.

Forty-eight men of the 25th Dragoons, under command of Lt.-Colonel Brooks and Major Gordon Smith, left this morning on the 10:29 train for Hamilton. Arrived there, they will be absorbed into the new mounted infantry regiment, which is under command of Col. Brooks, and which will have its winter quarters in the Ambitious City. Owing to some misunderstanding, the civic officials here were not notified of the departure until nearly 9 o'clock. In fact, even then it was only by accident that Mayor Spence was told the men were leaving. As a result the leave taking was very brief and hurried, but the men were given farewell addresses of good wishes by Mayor Spence, Col. J. H. Fisher, M. P., and Mayor Patterson of Paris. Following this the march was made to the station, all the units accompanying the draft as a mark of honor. As the soldiers were merely moving to an adjoining city to be there for the winter, there were little signs of the usual sadness in saying farewell to active service men, but even under these circumstances, tears were shed. Quite a large crowd saw the men go. Owing to the fact that the civic officials were not advised of the impending departure until too late, no arrangements could be made to have a band.

ITALY MADE GOOD GAINS ON AUSTRIA

By Special Wire to the Courier. Udine, Italy, Nov. 3.—Officers and men who were engaged in the great Italian offensive against the Austrians and who have arrived here, concur in the statement that definite results were obtained by the Italians. The Italians, they say, gained on an average between one and two miles all along the extensive front while the strategic line, especially in the neighborhood of Sestuai, Castelivo and Sirausina was favorably straightened, the new line being solidly protected by the three important positions of San Michele, San Martino Del Carso and Poljane, where armored trenches and refuges, cut into the bare rock were taken inch by inch in hand-to-hand struggles after preparation by the Italian artillery. An officer describes how a single shell from a 12-inch gun destroyed fifty yards of an Austrian trench lined with steel and concrete, enabling the Italian infantry to take it. From Sirausina to Montalcone the Italians have obtained the long-desired vertical line which is more easily defended than their previous positions. The officers and men command Lieutenant-General Count Cadorna's systematic plan of taking dominating positions one by one, which made the recent important advance possible. John Schmidt, chicken thief, killed a $50 rooster and $10 hen at Akron, O., and got a year in prison.

More Progress in Blockade

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Nov. 3.—Further progress in the blockade against Germany is noted by the Stockholm correspondent of the Morning Post, who says that although the Swedish ferries have resumed service with Germany, they will carry only passengers and mails. An agreement, he adds, has been reached with the British Government during the recent Anglo-Swedish negotiations that these boats should no longer transport freight.

MEETING FORMER PREMIER

Von Buelow Will Interview Giovanni Giolitti in Lucerne.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Madrid, Nov. 3.—Formal denial is made in a statement issued at the German embassy that Prince Von Buelow intends to discuss possible peace terms here and in Washington. A despatch from Corunna says the former imperial chancellor of Germany, who is now in Switzerland, where he was reported to have been sent by his government to initiate peace negotiations, is expected to arrive there aboard the Dutch Steamer Tubantia. INTERVIEW EX-PREMIER Zurich, via Paris, Nov. 3.—The Neue Zurichcher Nachrichten, which is in close touch with clerical circles, denies that Prince Von Buelow came to Switzerland with the object of discussing peace negotiations since under the present circumstances such proposals could come only from the quadruple entente. The newspaper says, however, that it is not impossible he will meet certain political personages at Lucerne, notably Giovanni Giolitti, former Italian premier, who, it is reported is about to arrive there incognito. The object of the interview between the two statesmen, it is said, would be to study the possibilities of peace between Italy and the central empires. In this case a tentative discussion might arise in definite outlines. No foreign politician is known to have arrived at Lucerne thus far. On the other hand, the Lausanne Revue says there was a meeting of eminent ecclesiastics of different nationalities a few weeks ago at the Capuchin monastery at La Val Sainte-Fribourg to investigate the possibilities of peace. No information has been obtained as to the result of the conference. J. F. Hylian, county judge at $12,500 a year in Brooklyn, N.Y., was once a laborer at $1.10 a day.

GREECE SHOULD BE COMPELLED TO FULFILL HER OBLIGATIONS

Sir Edward Carson Says Hellenic State Should be Made Afraid of Britain—Criticized the Sending of Army to Egypt—Britain Should Stand by Serbia.

BERESFORD'S BITTER SPEECH

London, Nov. 3.—Sir Edward Carson, who recently resigned from the office of Attorney-General in the cabinet, initiated discussion on Mr. Asquith's statements. He said he would not have risen if the Premier had given sufficient information to the public on matters upon which they showed anxiety, and after fifteen months of war, he thought it only right that there should be free debate in the House. The present position, he declared, was one of grave peril. "We have had an ever-widening theatre of war," he said, "which in the east is threatening the very vitals of our Empire. The Germans are in possession of Belgium and part of France and Poland and are now threatening our gallant ally, Serbia. What the House and country are really anxious about is whether our resources in men and material are being used to the best advantage; whether what has appeared to be grave miscalculations could have been avoided, and, above all, whether the machinery of the Government for carrying on the war is the most adequate and most effective which we can devise." THE BALKAN CRISIS Perhaps the gravest instance, and the most recent, of how the Cabinet and Government worked, he said, was to be found in the Balkan situation. On September 28 Sir Edward Grey stated that Bulgarian mobilization had resulted in Bulgaria assuming an aggressive attitude on the side of Great Britain's enemies, and that Great Britain should be prepared to give its friends in the Balkans all the support in its power in a manner most welcome to them. When he learned that this was no longer the policy of the Government and that there were no plans to this end he severed his connection with the Cabinet. Sir Edward said he decided to resign in a somewhat premature conclusion reached by the War Council of the Cabinet the day before. He quoted Sir Edward Grey's statement, made in the House on September 28, promising the allies' support to Serbia, and read part of his letter to the Premier: "I cannot understand how Britain can abandon Serbia to her fate without national dishonor. Even if we are not so bound in honor such a course would, in my judgment, be the policy of despair and an admission of failure, which could only be justified after every other alternative had been abandoned. Bulgaria will be forced to stand by her ally. All hope of inducing Koumania to come to Serbia's assistance will have been abandoned, and she may even find it to her interests to join our enemies and every encouragement will be given Greece to follow the policy of the King rather than Venizelos and his majority in the Chamber. The loss to our prestige will be incalculable." The former Attorney-General told Mr. Asquith that he was quite aware of the difficulties suggested by the General Staff, but that he felt confident that troops were concentrated at Saloniki and the naval power used it would demonstrate that Britain had resolved to preserve their country for the Serbians. The result would be that Bulgaria would be weakened in her power to crush Serbia; the Anglo-philic and anti-Turk parties in Bulgaria would be strengthened and encouraged; Koumania would be more likely to help, and the policy of Venizelos would be greatly stimulated. MAKE GREECE KEEP FAITH. "As regards Greece, I think," he continued, "vigorous efforts should be made to compel her to fulfill her treaty obligations. It was at her invitation we sent troops to Saloniki in conjunction with the French, and we shall be rendered ridiculous in the eyes of the powers if we are compelled to withdraw and placed in a position of dishonor towards Serbia. Greece—the King's party—is afraid of the central powers. We ought to make her afraid of us. Our naval

Briand Says No Peace Until Enemy Defeated

By Special Wire to the Courier. Paris, Nov. 3, 2:47 p.m.—France will not sign a peace agreement until after her restoration by right of victor and until she shall have obtained all guarantees of a durable peace," said Premier Briand to-day. This statement was included in the ministerial declaration of the new cabinet which was read before the chamber of deputies and the senate. The Premier read the declaration to the chamber. "We are at war," said the Premier, "the hour is for action. Towards action all the efforts of the government must be directed. The essential task of the government is the utilization of all the vital forces of the nation with a view to war, and to combine and associate with this object all public services. Only by vicelike and incessant co-operation will victory be obtained. Everyone must accomplish his task. Once all responsibilities are established every fault, every failure, will be punished. "That is the program of the government. It is the very image of the nation—to form the most complete union in the face of the enemy. France never had an army more worthy of victory. The government aided by parliament must furnish all means to these heroes whom we salute with emotion to the glory of France."

BULGARS NOW HAVE REACHED BABUNA RANGE

More Teutonic Forces Being Sent From Russian Front Into Serbia.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Nov. 3.—The Bulgarians, advancing from Velez in the direction of Monastir, have reached the Babuna range, half way between Velez and Prilep, according to the Times' Athens correspondent. The Serbians are falling back on Prilep and Monastir, he says, but Monastir has not yet been seriously threatened. The Times' Petrograd correspondent says that more Austro-German troops are being sent from the Russian front into the Serbian campaign. The correspondent anticipates that an opportunity will soon come for the Russian commanders to strike at the diminished Teutonic forces confronting them. He says that interference with the German sea route to Libau by submarines has compelled the Germans to construct hurriedly a branch railway from Krottingen, near Memel, to Murvievo on the Libau-Dvinsk railway, supplementing the existing line from Tilsit to Shavli. With the help of these two lines, the correspondent adds, the Germans hope to feed their northern front with munitions and avoid a dangerous rupture to their communications by sea and land. 28 DAYS STRAIGHT A letter received a few days ago from Major Percy Jones, says that his men had just come out of the first line trenches after 28 straight days on duty. This, says the letter, is stiff work, but the worst feature is the monotony. There was no fighting except of a desultory kind. AT THE ARMORIES Four new men were signed up yesterday at the local recruiting office as follows: Charles Lemon, Canadian, aged 42, cook, married, 7 Able Ave., 2nd Mounted Rifles. Arthur F. Bayliss, Canadian, aged 32, coremaker, single, North Park street, 2nd Mounted Rifles. John Knight, English, aged 18, laborer, single, Eagle Avenue, 38th Dufferin Rifles. Vincent Cutmore, English, aged 30, carpenter, single, 11 Elizabeth street, 38th Dufferin Rifles. RUNNING SMOOTHLY Toronto, Nov. 3.—General Manager Cousins, of the Toronto Hydro Electric Commission, says the system is running without any trouble to-day and that out of the 235 men on the pay roll, seventy are still at their posts. DECORATED ITALIAN Paris, Nov. 3.—The government has conferred the grand cordon of the Legion of Honor on Lieut.-General Count Cadorna, chief of staff of the Italian army. General H. J. Gouraud, former commander of the French Expeditionary force in the Dardanelles will take the insignia to the Italian headquarters and present it to General Cadorna. HOSPITAL GOVERNORS DISCUSS AFFAIRS

Institution of a Pathological Department is Recommended, as Work has Reached Such Proportions That One is Needed.

The regular meeting of the Hospital Governors took place yesterday afternoon. Present, Messrs C. H. Waterous, Warden Cook, J. Sanderson, A. K. Bunnell, G. Wait, R. Sanderson, Dr. Bell, T. H. Preston, H. Symonds, F. D. Reville.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT
Following are extracts from the report for October: Admissions, 100; discharges, 98; deaths, 6; number in isolation, 2; number of operations, 63; number in residence, 55.

"At the joint meeting of the W.H.A. and the house committee, held October 26th, the Aid undertook the purchase of a new sewing machine for use in the linen room, replacing the one placed there by them, and which has outlived its usefulness, also a letter box to be placed on the wall in the nurse's home. This will do away with the practice of receiving letters while on duty.

We have to thank the Rev. Turner of the Mohawk Institute for a load of vegetables from the harvest festival, the W. H. A. for fruit and ice-cream on Thanksgiving Day, ample for every patient, nurses and help in the hospital, the J. H. A. for supplies of linen for the maternity ward, and an electric heater for the nursery, fruit, etc. for the maternity patients.

The visitors for the month from the W. H. A. were Mrs. Webster, Mrs. Syer and Mrs. Sparks, who brought fruit, magazines, etc. for the patients.

A number of recommendations on the part of the superintendent were endorsed.

A letter was read from Mr. Dunnington Grubb, Toronto, landscape artist, offering to submit a plan for the improvement of the hospital grounds for $500. It was decided to write him that the board was not at present considering such an investment.

The report was read of the Grand Jury at the recent sessions, in which they stated that they found everything in the hospital in first class shape. It was commented upon as the best report ever received from such a body.

It was reported that $1025 had been paid for new sterilizers. This sum comes out of the Shaw bequest.

PATHOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT
A letter was read from the Brant Medical Association, enclosing a resolution asking the board to consider the institution of a pathological department, and in such event recommending that the same be placed under the direction of Dr. Reginald Digby.

Dr. Second addressed the governors with regard to the matter. He pointed out that with the growth of the hospital the necessity for the examination of tissues, etc., was becoming more and more frequent, and the same had to be sent to Toronto causing more or less delay. Sometimes a prompt diagnosis was vitally essential. The estimated equipment would cost about $350, and it was suggested that the honorarium should be $300 per annum, and at least one hour a day be devoted to the department. The pay for such examinations in the case of private patients would probably meet the outlay. Public patients of course would not be charged. The doctor felt so strongly on the subject, that he offered to meet a third of the expense.

The board thanked the doctor for the latter offer, but felt that the hospital itself should bear all charges. In the discussion which followed, the opinion was expressed that the institution had become large enough to institute such a department, not alone for the benefit of patients, but the county generally. A resolution of approval was passed, and the working out of details referred to the house committee in consultation with Dr. Bell, Dr. Pearce, Dr. Digby and the superintendent.

A number of other matters were disposed of before adjournment.

THE FARRINGTON DEBATING SOCIETY MET LAST NIGHT

Decided to Hold Opening Debate Next Tuesday Evening on Local Option Question.

The Farrington Debating Society held an organization meeting at the public library last night. It was decided to re-organize for the coming season, and a meeting was arranged for next Tuesday evening, November 9th at the public library, when the election of officers will take place. All interested in any way are required to be on hand at 8 o'clock sharp. After the business part of the meeting is concluded, a discussion will be held on a topic that is creating much comment among the citizens at the present time: "Resolved, that the time is ripe for local option in Brantford." The leaders to uphold and refute this have been chosen, and an interesting and instructive time is promised. This society affords an excellent opportunity for the men of the city to improve their abilities as orators and to gain a better knowledge of the foremost and important questions of the present day. The society extends a hearty invitation to all the young men of the city, of any nationality or creed, to join them, and they may rest assured that the most courteous treatment will be accorded them.

Music and Drama

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE."

Cohan and Harris will present another of their great hits at the Opera House on Friday evening, one night only Nov. 5th. The piece is a straight farce and it comes to us after a solid year's run at the George M. Cohan Theatre, New York, where it was pronounced the absolutely supreme success of the season's play offering and broke all records by running 58 full weeks to crowded houses. From all reports there isn't a tired business man in all this broad land who won't find in viewing this farce, a better tonic, general bracer and health restorer than any doctor's prescription supply. Cohan and Harris have made a reputation by producing fun-compelling plays, but it is generally conceded that "It Pays to Advertise" is the funniest of them all, not even excepting "Get Rich-Quick Wallingford." Here is a play after your own heart. If you like to laugh you will find more hearty guffaws, delightful chuckles and amusing ripples of mirth in "It Pays to Advertise," than you have discovered in a theatre since the day you were born. And best of all it is clean, clever fun, with a love story of unusually interesting complications. The farce is by Roy Cooper Megrue and Walter Hackett; the story they tell has to do with the only son of a multi-millionaire soap magnate, who takes a plunge into "business," and how in a few weeks he builds up a "soap proposition," until his orders run into millions of dollars, and then suddenly discovers that he has no soap to deliver. He has done it all through sensational advertising, and forgets in the excitement to manufacture any soap.

Wonderful artillery duels in which real shells—costing $80 a piece were used, Miles of trenches—thousands of Confederates and Federal fighters—"war as it actually is."

First time in the history of theatricals for a motion picture to be handled and presented as a regular attraction. It requires two 60-foot cars to transport the equipment. A regular travelling organization of fifty people with its own stage director, crew, musicians, operators and mechanical experts to readjust the theatres to scientific local requirements.

Not depending solely on the local musicians, a complete symphonic orchestra is carried. The musical score is synchronized to the several thousand distinct and individual scenes.

The spectacle has met strong opposition at various times but has been approved by every board of censors in Canada and the United States and by scores and scores of the most eminent senators, representatives, governors of states, judges, publicists, diplomats, educators and clergymen. It has been viewed and commended by a larger number of priests and ministers than had ever previously approved a theatre entertainment.

Receipts and attendance have likewise made a new page of theatrical history. Within the first eight months the gross attendance was approximately 1,500,000. Receipts have dwarfed those of "Ben Hur" and every other great spectacle hitherto presented.

Artistically "The Birth of a Nation" combines exquisite comedy and romance with the grandeur and thrill of history's greatest moments, inculcating the lesson of patriotism that rings from the "nation re-born" as the result of war between the States and reconstruction.

In Canada, "The Birth of a Nation" was first booked for a try-out at the Royal Alexandra theatre, Toronto. Immediately following its announcement the house was sold out solid for every evening performance. Daily matinees were given, and still the capacity was over taxed. In Montreal the same conditions prevailed. "The Birth of a Nation" created new records in Toronto and Montreal. Never before was it found necessary to hold over any high class production for more than two weeks in order to satisfy the demand for tickets.

A regular travelling organization of fifty people with its own stage director, crew, musicians, operators and mechanical experts to readjust the theatres to scientific local requirements.

Not depending solely on the local musicians, a complete symphonic orchestra is carried. The musical score is synchronized to the several thousand distinct and individual scenes.

The spectacle has met strong opposition at various times but has been approved by every board of censors in Canada and the United States and by scores and scores of the most eminent senators, representatives, governors of states, judges, publicists, diplomats, educators and clergymen. It has been viewed and commended by a larger number of priests and ministers than had ever previously approved a theatre entertainment.

Receipts and attendance have likewise made a new page of theatrical history. Within the first eight months the gross attendance was approximately 1,500,000. Receipts have dwarfed those of "Ben Hur" and every other great spectacle hitherto presented.

Artistically "The Birth of a Nation" combines exquisite comedy and romance with the grandeur and thrill of history's greatest moments, inculcating the lesson of patriotism that rings from the "nation re-born" as the result of war between the States and reconstruction.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo says there has been no real prosperity in the United States for the past ten years.

EVERYBODY NEEDS PURE, RICH BLOOD

Pure blood enables the stomach, liver and other digestive organs to do their work properly. Without it they are sluggish, there is loss of appetite, sometimes faintness, a deranged state of the intestines, and, in general, all the symptoms of dyspepsia.

Pure blood is required by every organ of the body for the proper performance of its functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood, and this is why it is so successful in the treatment of so many diseases and ailments. Its acts directly on the blood, ridding it of scrofulous and other humors. It is a peculiar combination of blood-purifying, nerve-toning, strength-giving substances. Get it today.

FRENCH SOLDIERS CERTAIN INVASION HAS BEEN STOPPED

Peasantry Driven Out of Their Homes by First Hun Drive Have Returned and Live in Tiny Dwellings Erected on Ruins of Former Abodes.

Dunois, in the Philadelphia Bulletin, writes:

Restrained by the censor from even the meagrest details of actions going on along the war front, journalists throughout France are filled with the vicissitudes of the volunteer correspondents in the trenches among whom are to be found most of the journalists of the country, for they gloriously quit the pen to take up the musket or sword on the call to arms. Nor, as a matter of information, do the readers suffer very seriously from the incomprehensible restrictions of the censors, since the men in the trenches discover intimacies with events as they occur about them that even the practiced observation of the trained journalist would be apt to either disdain or overlook. From every section of the four hundred mile line, the trenchers as the soldiers are often called, in the long hours of waiting for the relays to and from the firing line, apparently find solace, if not diversion, in describing to the minutest detail the happenings and mishaps attending the murderous regime, the recurring deluge of poisoned missiles, the infinite ruses of the "Boches" to allure the Plo-u-plo into the open where concealed explosives and murderous surprises are never ending variety attend the luckless soldier who allows himself to expose a handbreadth of his person above a trench parapet.

FRENCH FIGHT BETTER THAN TEUTONS

It is from these private letters that France finds out the daily regime of the million km defending the patrie, for the curt "communiques" rehearse with maddening monotony practically the same phrases twice every day, imparting the fact that cannonading, gas jetting and machine gunping, are as usual; never a hint of what the significance of these reiterations may possibly imply as to the sequence. It remains for some humble soldier to explain that the event chronicled in five lines really covered hours of agonizing suspense, deluges of monster bombs, prolonged anxious peering through the slight apertures of the parapet to catch sight of the forever expected and dreaded enemy armed with "squirts" to blind and stupefy the antagonist. It is through the soldier's letters too, that the uninvested parts of the country learn the certainty of the Hohenzollern's intention; that the invasion is definitely stopped; that the enemy can never again threaten Paris or count on defeating the armies of Joffre. They may here and there by unexpected douches of poison gas, smother the opponents on their immediate front, but every combat reveals that the French soldier, man to man, is a more tenacious fighting animal than the Teuton.

The serene confidence of the country is above all shown in the systematic building of "shacks," as they would be called in this country, to temporarily replace the abodes of the peasantry over the two hundred square miles destroyed by the Hohenzollern artillery, as well as the methodical encampment of the infantry, for during the first months of the invasion the plain soldiers, apparently by command, fired every structure, from churches and chapels to the most poverty-stricken "grubst" of the toilers. Now like mile of this devastated country, square up to the line of fire, has been rebuilt or is rebuilding by both national or private aid. Almost the whole of the Ardennes and Argonne region is now becoming habitable by the former wanderers who flocked everywhere that temporary shelter could be found. They dwellings, constructed by the settlers in the west at first housed themselves, are reared over the dismantled remains of the former abodes, but the Assembly has taken into consideration projects for a future rebuilding that shall shelter the farmer folk as they were never housed before.

It was to the initiative of the British Quaker societies that the forlorn homeless were indebted for their first shelters; these "pacifists," debarred from taking active part, either by contribution or volunteering, in warfare, resolved to do part of Britain's duty by aiding the afflicted. They devised the method whereby the homeless might be sheltered until the State could take hold. They submitted practicable plans for the wholesale reconstruction of the two categories of ruins—the "dead" dwellings, as the French term the utterly destroyed, and the "wounded," as the partly ruined are classed. Hence up to the firing line, the astonished visitors may see to-day symmetrical wooden structures common in this country, but almost unknown in Europe. The Society of Friends took it upon themselves to supply homes for the worst sufferers, the tens of thousands forced to fly from the Meuse valley, where the first deadly onsets were felt in August, 1914. Where artillery cannot be procured out of the civilized ranks the "pacifists" are mobilized, working in "shirts" when believed from trench guard. In the erection of these temporary structures the space is allotted according to the number of the family. Four

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency), on certain conditions.

Duties—Six months' residence upon cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within five miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 50 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $200 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 90 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions. A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of entitration is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Little stock may be substituted for the worst quality of land under certain conditions.

W. W. COBY, C.M.G., Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

The Situation.

The Germans continue to sweep onward in Northern Serbia and the fact becomes evident that despite a stout resistance on the part of the Serbs, they are making rapid headway. It is announced to-day that more of the enemy troops are being sent from the Eastern theatre, into this region and that the Russian commanders anticipate that they will soon be able to strike a decisive blow at the diminished Teutonic forces now confronting them.

Asquith's Speech.

Briefly stated, Asquith's speech did not do much. It did not do much to change the public mind, but it did do much to show that the British government is not in a position to give up the struggle.

It did relate a number of facts and achievements of which the Empire may well feel proud; it did not clear up much which the public feel they have a right to know, or outline in very clear cut terms concise plans for the future.

The deliverance had been anxiously awaited, and was characterized by much of the power by which the Premier has time and time again swayed the Commons and beyond that the people.

In the matter of achievement, he was able to point with just pride to the fact that the British fleet not only keeps the German fleet bottled up, and has cleared the seas of German vessels, but also safeguarded the transport of 2,500,000 troops and 320,000 sick and wounded at a fractional loss; that the nearly million British troops now on the Western front have prevented the enemy from gaining a single foot of ground since April and up to the Sea of Marmora, up to Oct. 26th, British submarines had accounted for or damaged two battleships, five gunboats, one torpedo boat, eight transports and 197 supply ships.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The people of Berlin have started in on meatless days. They might also, at the same time, prepare to meet less comfort in future operations.

There is a proposal to put a tax on actors and actresses who come to Canada. That is a part for which none of them would like to play the role.

Three States across the border have administered a decisive blow to woman suffrage. One of the weaknesses of that cause is to be found in the fact that a great many of the fair sex do not desire the ballot.

Mr. L. B. Swift, a prominent lawyer in the States, in a recent address before the Indianapolis bar said among other things:—

"Americans can sympathize with only one side in the struggle and that is the side which is in unison with their whole history. If that side wins, the German people will come out of the darkness in which they now live and with all their virtues, abilities, and means of happiness, success and prosperity, will stand side by side with us in the broad sunlight of liberty."

erty. If that side loses, Americans must brace themselves to meet an antagonist such as the world never saw.

Our neighbors are more and more commencing to realize the truth that a German victory would mean the iron heel on the neck of Uncle Sam.

LAVERGNE

(Continued from Page 1) contribution by our country of one man, one ship or one dollar until England believes it just that we should participate with her, not only the dangers, but also the full control and responsibilities of the affairs of the empire. It is not for us to defend England. It is for England to defend us.

Mr. Lavergne says if the minister urges that the war is being waged for liberty and justice he will reply that French-Canadians in Ontario are submitting to a form of government worse than that imposed by Prussia on Alsace and Lorraine. Until they are liberated he could not consider the idea of deserting their cause for an adventure less interesting in a foreign country.

Concluding, Mr. Lavergne remarks: "As a soldier, it is unnecessary for me to tell you that I will obey you, orders, whether they are for here or in a foreign country, in the fullest measure, but this responsibility should be taken by the government."

STREET LIGHTING.

The cost of street lighting for the City of Brantford for the month of October, amounted to a total of $2390.24.

BUILDING PERMIT

A building permit was issued yesterday to W. D. Schultz for the erection of a temporary frame garage at 89 Albion street, estimated cost $50.

ASSESSMENT APPEALS

Court of Revision re. appeals against assessment, will be held tomorrow at the city hall. The assessments this year show an increase of over $350,000, while only eight appeals are to be heard. Considering the large increase, this small number of appeals is a marvellous record.

LIBRARY BOARD.

The regular monthly meeting of the library board was held last night in the Board room, the members present were: F. W. Ryerson, chairman; D. J. Waterous, Rev. G. A. Woodside, J. E. Quinn, E. J. Carlin and T. Hendry. Accounts amounting to $478.00 were passed and ordered to be paid. The board decided to purchase 40 more chairs for juvenile department. Other routine matters were disposed of and the board adjourned and made a tour of inspection of the building, and found everything satisfactory, the floors being in A1. condition, in fact the building has never looked in as good condition as at the present time.

STORY HOUR.

Some time ago the Story Hour for the little folk at the public library, was introduced and much enjoyed by a few of the children of the city. Gradually the parents of the children have heard of this little event, which takes place every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon and which has been proving so instructive and interesting to the children, and as a result, large numbers have been attending. Yesterday's crowd was a record one, about 169 being present to enjoy the stories told by Miss Middlemiss, who is at the head of this department. After the stories were concluded, a short programme was put on by the little folks and much enjoyed. The children sang "O Canada" and "We'll never let the old flag fall." The children then enjoyed a little treat of home-made candy, prepared for them by Miss Middlemiss, to whom great credit is due for the excellent order which prevailed and the successful bit these meetings are making.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE

It appears that the team owned by Mr. Ferris, which ran into a rig on the Cockshutt road, occupied by Messrs G. Yake, J. Thompson and H. Hall, first of all threw out Mr. Ferris and broke his collar bone. Mr. Barnes of the second toll-gate, caught them and was driving them back when a motor cycle came along and they bolted once more. Mr. Yake was the most hurt. He was underneath the two horses for several minutes. When pulled out he was unconscious and thought to be dead. He is around to-day, however, as usual with a very badly wounded face and one ear which was half torn off, stitched up. The buggy was damaged to the extent of $34, and Mr Yake will try and collect from Mr. Ferris.

ASQUITH QUITE COOL BEFORE HIS SPEECH

Started Off as an Ordinary Occasions, Taking No Notice of His Reception.

London, Nov. 3.—It is doubtful whether the House of Commons has ever been so crowded or a speech awaited with so great and eager anxiety in such an electrical atmosphere as that of Premier Asquith yesterday. The inadequate accommodation of the House was strained to the uttermost, while the Strangers', the Ladies' and the Public Galleries were packed to suffocation, even the Cabinet Ministers having to sit on the floor owing to there being no room in front of the bench.

Premier Asquith seemed the least excited person present. He joked with David Lloyd George while waiting to answer the enquiry regarding the safety of the National Gallery with the quip that he hadn't had time to go there recently. He didn't even move an eyelid at the tremendous reception given to him when rising to speak. To all appearances he might have been about to open some particularly uninteresting case in the Law Courts. On the whole, according to the views of members expressed afterwards, the speech satisfied the majority of the House. At the beginning of the speech, when reviewing the general situation, he aroused no excitement, but there was some headshaking when he started regarding the Dardanelles that the Government as a whole had decided to undertake the expedition despite "the doubts and hesitations of Lord Fisher, when its principal naval adviser."

The first point when the enthusiasm was reached was the declaration that the allies would not allow Serbia to "become the prey of a sinister and nefarious combination," but later the atmosphere became icy when the Premier referred to the difference of the cabinet regarding compulsion. The point when the listeners were really stirred was when he used the phrase, "I will stick at nothing in order to win the war."

Tempestuous cheers which rocked the House, greeted the sentence, which were renewed when he declared that despite the terrible responsibility, he would not resign or shift the burden of office so long as he enjoyed the confidence of the King and Commons. The remark that a committee of the Cabinet charged with the strategic conduct of the war should not be less than three or more than five met with general approval. Similarly the statement that married men should not be forced to enlist unless and until the unmarried had joined.

Altogether the speech was typically Asquithian, and as usual, when he really bestirred himself he carried the House with him.

GREECE SHOULD

supremacy enables us to do this, and for my part I would not hesitate to inform her that unless she was prepared to join the allies in defence of Serbia we would break off friendly relations."

Sir Edward Carson criticized the sending of an army to Egypt to await afterwards, the speech satisfied the majority of the House. At the beginning of the speech, when reviewing the general situation, he aroused no excitement, but there was some headshaking when he started regarding the Dardanelles that the Government as a whole had decided to undertake the expedition despite "the doubts and hesitations of Lord Fisher, when its principal naval adviser."

A SECRET MEMORANDUM?

Bonar Law at this point caused a stir by referring to "the secret memorandum to the Cabinet on the Gallipoli position," the reference went unchallenged and unexplained.

Lord Charles Bessford followed up Sir Edward Carson's attack on the Government with an even bitterer speech.

"I do not think the Premier's speech will greatly relieve the anxiety of the country," said Bessford. "It is altogether wrong to conduct the war, should be a member of the cabinet."

"The Premier's callous doctrine of 'wait and see' is fatal to success in war. Up to now we have had no proper policy or plan of campaign."

"The naval authorities were not consulted regarding the Dardanelles. They were simply told to do it. The whole thing has been grossly mis-managed."

NO PROMISE TO SERBIA

Sir Edward Grey replied to Carson's attack. He denied that Great Britain had promised help to Serbia, but said: "The consequence of our vaccination is that help has been lost."

Referring to a charge that had been made by Carson that the British might have had more troops at Saloniki, the Foreign Minister said: "There was close consultation between ourselves and the French regarding the best use of the forces, and we sent those who were nearest it. It ought to be clearly understood that much time was spent in consultations preparatory to the final decision."

"There has been no delay in landing troops and no going back on promises."

REDMOND DEFENDS PREMIER

John Redmond also defended the Premier. "The attack upon Mr Asquith," he said, "and the persistent pessimism of the press have had no weight in Ireland."

"I am against compulsion. To impose it unless the country is practically unanimous in its favor, would be folly and a crime."

that have come over this nation are laid to the lasting blame of this people who are responsible for them. "Let us never again be beguiled by the flattering tongue of the arch-traitor England when the question of peace terms arises, as happened with the Prussians in 1875. Then let Hindenburg's spirit lead us. Just as the field-marshal always knew what he wanted and what he was doing, so must we. We must have the first and second helpings, and after that the others can have what is left. "With every means in the air, on the earth, and under the water must we battle with our enemy to that end, without hesitation and without pity."

MADE ARRANGEMENTS

A meeting was held last night by the local option workers and arrangements were completed for presenting the resolution to the council next Monday night.

FINE STOCK

Mr. Thomas Lloyd-Jones of Brantford has returned from attending the sale in Quebec of the flock of South-downs of the late Capt. Guy Drummond, the best on the continent. He purchased twenty-four ewes, including three from the Sandringham flock bred by the King.

OLD TIMER

An interesting visitor to the Courier this morning was Mr. Bryce Ennis of Stratford. This is Mr. Ennis' third visit to Brantford, the first being made in 1857. At that time he attended here the Provincial Fair. The feature of that fair was the exhibition by Mr. George Stone, late of Guelph Agricultural College, of a pair of shorthorn steers, weighing 3,000 lbs. apiece.

JOINT MEETING.

Reeve Morgan E. Harris has written to the Corporation of the City of Brantford, asking for a joint meeting of the city and township with regard to the respective portions of work to be done and materials to be furnished for the work in connection with the making of a ditch on the road from Walnut St. leading to the House of Refuge, of which the city and township are joint owners. The meeting will be held on November 15th.

ZION CHURCH GUILD.

On Monday evening the Y. P. C. of Zion Church entertained the young people of that church. A most splendid program consisting of an instrumental quart by the Misses Sanderson; readings by Misses A. Thompson and A. Ryerson; vocal solos by Miss E. Senn, Mrs. F. Sage, Mr. J. Danby and Mr. B. Scott, was enjoyed by the large audience. Then followed a "Nut Contest" in which all took part. Dainty refreshments were served and a firewell spiral, hand-shake and singing of the National Anthem brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

EXPERIENCING DIFFICULTIES.

While many of the city folks have been wont to complain about the dust nuisance, due to the dry spell, the farmers of the neighboring townships are experiencing even greater difficulties as a result. Farmers from many points state that their annual operation of fall ploughing is practically at a standstill. The continued heavy rains throughout the summer months and the necessary tramping of the soil while it was in a soft state, followed by the recent dry spell, has left the soil so packed together that in most cases slow and unsatisfactory progress is all that can be made, and a good soaking rain would be much appreciated throughout the country.

Y. M. C. A. READY TO RECEIVE THE SOLDIERS

Will Throw Open Swimming Tank to Them on Their Arrival.

Plans are being perfected to receive the 84th on their arrival.

Believing that one of the things most appreciated by the men at the end of their long march will be a warm refreshing bath, the Y. M. C. A. will open its entire bath facilities, free of charge, including towels and soap to the men.

Correspondence facilities are being provided with free stationery. The entire south or fireplace end of the lobby will be devoted to this purpose. The Soldiers' Club in association with the Y. M. C. A. will be in readiness and everything done that is possible to make the men comfortable and happy.

The following arrangements for Soldiers' privileges in the Brantford Y. M. C. A. is hereby suggested by Mr. Goodwin.

(a) Soldiers enlisted for active service in uniform to be given free the same privileges as our members holding limited privilege tickets.

(b) Bathing parades, under control and supervision of proper officers to be given free at baths at specified hours, the charge for soap and towels to be five cents, same as paid by regular members.

(c) Arrangements to be made for issuing a term membership ticket to soldiers desirous of joining at a fee of fifty cents per month.

(d) Such fee as above mentioned to pay the expense of the Soldiers' Club room privileges together with bath and swimming other than bathing parades, bowling and billiards according to schedule and with the usual fee paid by regular members.

The following programme of activities is suggested by Mr. Goodwin for work among the soldiers in the Y. M. C. A. this year—

(a) Devote the Men's Club suite to a headquarters for the officers of the 84th Battalion who are quartered in our building.

(b) Set apart two or three sections of the Association Hall for Soldiers' Club Room equipping it with tables, chairs and piano and supplying reading matters, correspondence material and social games such as checkers and chess. Citizens are here requested to furnish current magazines for this service. Books for a soldiers' library will also be gratefully received and put to good use.

(c) Arrange for social functions, moving pictures, practical talks and lectures, glee clubs, debating societies or similar social and educational features at such time as would be desirable and convenient.

(d) Seek by stated and informal religious services, Bible study groups and personal work to do define religious and evangelistic work for the men.

(e) Arrange, as a matter of convenience to the men, for the sale of postage stamps and post cards.

(f) Promote such classes as French, first aid, etc., and in connection with medical examinations and recruiting of officers, conduct work for men desiring to enlist, who may be under the required physical standard, that they may be brought to that standard.

(g) Where regulations will permit, visit hospital for such informal service and personal conversations, as might be helpful to the men, supplying them also with reading matter and correspondence material.

(h) To furnish Association privileges such as bowling, billiards, athletics, swimming and gymnasium work, according to a schedule and on a basis as hereafter stated.

Note—In all the activities to seek to conform to the usual military usages and to demonstrate to the officers that our work is designed to cooperate with the interests of better efficiency on the part of the men in training.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS.

Miss Hayes, the representative of the Butterick Pattern Company, is now here to demonstrate Butterick Patterns, and would be pleased to have any one who is interested, call and see her at the Pattern Department, E. B. Crompton and Co., Limited.

TO-MORROW.

OBITUARY

Death of Lieut. Codd of the Central Fire Department.

The death occurred yesterday afternoon of Harry Codd, a well known and highly esteemed member of the Brantford Fire Department.

The deceased, who was an Englishman by birth, had been through the South African war and had also been a member of the London Police Department. Some seven years ago he became a member of the East End fire department and was the last of those to remain in the service, who first joined that branch. He was later transferred to the main hall in the position spoken of. He had been ill for some time and off duty for the last three months. His sickness dated from the fire at the Screw Works. He was not at the hall when the alarm was sent in, and biked there in a hurry. In his overheated state he became drenched with ice cold water, and from that time was never in robust health. He leaves a most noble wife, a wife and two children.

Among the other cases disposed of was one against a citizen, charged with passing a stationary street car with an auto. This charge was dismissed.

The case against James Moon, charged with trespass, was adjourned.

The charge of conversion preferred by Julia Good against the Martin family from the Reserve, was also dismissed.

Benjamin Near, the trooper who deserted Monday night, and was arrested at Windsor, is being brought back to the city to-day.

Some time ago a man by the name of John Tesky quarrelled and parted with his wife, their little child was taken to the Children's Aid Society and is being taken care of by that institution. Several times Tesky has tried to see his daughter, and yesterday becoming despondent, he wrote a letter to the chief of police, Mr. Slemin, intimating that if he could not see his daughter, Mildred, he would take his own life to-day. Chief Slemin promptly looked into the matter, and as a result Tesky, who has been staying at the Imperial Hotel, appeared before Magistrate Livingstone this morning. He had by this time, however, realized the folly of such an act, and the case was settled.

KING SLOWLY IMPROVING

by Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Nov. 3.—The physicians in attendance upon King George, who was injured last week, while at the French front, by the fall of his horse, gave out the following bulletin to-day:

"The King has not had so good a night. He is still in some pain. His general condition has improved, and he is now able to take solid food."

Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh club, expects to make a lot of changes in his team before the next season. Dreyfuss conferred with several National league managers during the recent world's series, and he is convinced that he will be able to make some advantageous trades this winter.

"I have reason to believe that there will be an interesting announcement or two forthcoming in the near future," said the Pittsburgh magnate. "I may be that the negotiations will not be closed much before the National League meeting is in progress. There is a chance, though, that the news will break before that time."

Asked whether these "negotiations" had to do with additions to the Pirates roster, Col. Barney replied:—

"There will probably be some additions and subtractions, too, indicating that whatever men are to go to Pittsburgh will go via the trade route. Nothing could be learned, however, as to the identity of the men sought or the positions filled by them. It is believed that one of the new acquisitions will be a catcher, and that a new second baseman is being sought would not, it is held, be closed much before the National League meeting is in progress. There is a chance, though, that the news will break before that time."

"I am not ready yet," said the Bucco magnate, "to discuss the question of Clarke's successor. I have not up to this time being I am taking matters easy and am not worrying over next year. It will be a simple task to name a manager, and when the time comes I will do so."

"THE GODDESS" UNIQUE SERIAL STORY BY GOUVERNEUR MORRIS

For a long time Barclay kept on hoping against hope, and attributed Tommy's failures and wrong-headed principles to his youth and high spirits. Then one day there appeared an interview which Tommy had given a reporter, between the chuckers of a polo game, and Barclay threw up his hands.

Talking with the wild carelessness of youth, Tommy had given it as his opinion that in the great coal mine strike in Western Pennsylvania, then at its height, the miners were really fighting for their existence, and that the owners were oppressing them.

To Barclay such opinions uttered by his adopted son amounted to treason. And he had the impulse to abandon all those hopes which he had entertained for the boy's future, and he had abandoned them.

First he sent for his nephew, Carlton Fitch. To this one he made no elaborate explanation of his changed attitude. He said, "Carlton, I want to see you married, and settled down. You are said to be in love with Mary Blackstone."

A light seemed to glitter in Fitch's eyes.
"I'm afraid her father doesn't like me, uncle," he said, "and there is some one whom I think she likes more."

Fitch nodded and Barclay smiled grimly.
"I will take care of Blackstone and Tommy," he said, "You take care of the girl."

Then he sent for Tommy. "Tommy," he said, "I'm fond of you and you have been a bitter disappointment to me."

"I know it," said Tommy, "I can't help it. I'm made that way, but I'm awfully sorry."

"The bulk of my property," said Barclay, "will have to go to some one with more respect for property."

"Yes, sir," said Tommy, "please don't stop liking me."

There was something very wistful and manly about the boy, and Barclay did not deeply mind that he cared to admit.

"I shall always be fond of you, Tommy," he said.

Ten minutes later the great man wrote a few direct dictatorial sentences on a sheet of notepaper, and sent them by special messenger to Mary Blackstone's father.

Senator Blackstone, a man with a large mouth, hook-nosed face, and white side whiskers, frowned heavily after reading Barclay's note; frowned heavily, gave vent to defiant mutterings, and then suddenly collapsed into a deep chair, as if very tired, and read the note again:

"Dear Blackstone—Don't by any chance allow your daughter to throw herself away on my adopted son. She belongs to the aristocracy of wealth. That aristocracy may one day become a nobility. Mary is fitted to wear the purple and to share the throne of the world's greatest empire. The world in which we live is pregnant with great events. And the weak will go under. Destroy this."

"Barney," said Tommy, "I have not up to this time being I am taking matters easy and am not worrying over next year. It will be a simple task to name a manager, and when the time comes I will do so."

"I have ground down the Trusts," he said, "only to find that they have ground themselves down at the same time."

"Now the pendulum is swinging the other way. Gradually the trusts will regain what they have lost. What is the next step? Greater trusts? Yes, but beyond that, staggering belief, a trust of trusts. A trust in whose hands will be all the means of business of a whole continent and whose stockholders shall be the inhabitants of that continent. Poverty and degradation will cease to exist. The gradation will cease to exist. The chairman, a president, dictator, perhaps he will be called king. And already the powers who believe in this coming change have such a mission before them. He will be the first king; he is very young, but he will be the second. After him, who? Why, a son of his body, trained from birth to fill that great position. And you, my dear, if you think curious and that some's mother, and wear a diamond."

And so she sat, staring into space. And for the first time in her life she found that ambition is stronger than the mere wish to exist and have a good time.

Suddenly, with an excited laugh, she caught up a great piece of gorgeous ancient church embroidery that lay across the back of a sofa, and dropped it skillfully so that it hung from her shoulders to her feet like some royal robe; still laughing she darted to one of those glass topped tables in which things curious and rare are often kept. From this she took a gold crown that had been taken from the grave of some old Egyptian queen—two gold snakes their heads and tails twisted together. As she put this upon her head and went and stood in front of a long mirror. Then she began to play-act—to look very haughty and dignified or very gracious and condescending, to extend her hand to be kissed by imaginary courtiers; she was half in earnest, half laughing.

She heard a soft footstep; there was no time to discard the crown and the robe. Blushing crimson and feeling very ridiculous, she turned and saw one of the footmen.

His wooden face showed no surprise at her eccentric costume; he did not even appear to see it. He carried a small silver tray on which was a white card.

"Who is it, Bentadge?"
"Mr. Barclay, madam."

Her impulse was to run to the grand hall stair and call down to Tommy. But she hesitated. Then her eye roved once more, and she caught a glimpse of herself in the long mirror.

"Tell him," she said, "that I am not at home."

Tommy, sure of his welcome, had been told that Miss Blackstone was at home, and had leisurely followed the footman upstairs to the door of the little sitting room.

When he heard her say coolly, even coldly, "Tell him that I am not at home," he felt as if he had been struck between the eyes. And then anger and indignation she had pronounced that she would be at home at that particular afternoon, and now here she was saying that she wasn't.

Of course there was nothing that he could do but turn and go. And of course, he did these things.

When he was in the open air he drew a long breath.
"I'll get out of this blasted city," he said, "and if she happens to want me for anything she'll find that I'm the best thing she can get."

Like many other rich men, Barclay owned a hunting preserve in the Adirondacks, and seldom went near it. But the five granite mountains surrounded by dense forests thickly sprinkled with lakes was one of Tommy's favorite stamping grounds. It wasn't so much that he enjoyed killing animals or seeing how many fish he could catch as that once in a while he liked to be alone, and to keep alive and comfortable by his own exercises.

The preserve was real wilderness. One dirt road led from the railroad station at Four Corners to the main camp at the head of the biggest lake but otherwise the region boasted only a few narrow trails. And you had to make your way from one landmark to another as best you could. And either you had to take plenty of condensed food in tins or trust to your skill with rod and rifle to keep you from going hungry.

Tommy would leave the train at Four Corners, hire a team and get himself put down somewhere along the road leading to the main camp. He would then choose a direction almost at random, walk until he was tired, build a low lean-to shelter, have supper or not, according to luck, make a workmanlike fire to keep his feet warm, curl up in his blanket, and pass a luxurious night. Waking at daylight, bruised, sore, cold, and for some reason known only to those who love the woods, perfectly happy and contented.

His kit on these trips consisted of a blanket, a frying pan, a kettle, a change of underclothes, a very light 22-calibre rifle, a .02. fly rod, a compass, a pipe, tobacco, and a few other odds and ends, such as matches and salt, and a pair of field glasses, and an Oxford book of verse.

One night a few days after Mary Blackstone had treated him so cavalierly, Tommy camped on high ground by the head waters of a brook.

Just back of his shelter of balsam boughs a knob of granite stood up clear above the surrounding forest. Tommy always called it the hub, because it was almost the exact centre of the great ring, traced roughly by the five mountains, and afforded glorious views of them, and of the low country, lakes, forest and swamp that intervened. It was Tommy's favorite camping ground. He would sit for hours on the top of the hub his legs hanging over into space, gazing and dreaming.

On the particular night in question he climbed the hub after a fine supper of trout and roasted grouse, filled a pipe and watched the day fade and the stars come out. What he enjoyed most was the sense of solitude; civilization, of course, was within reasonable reach in any direction, but Tommy did not feel as if it was. He felt as if there wasn't another human being within hundreds of miles.

Presently the moon began to rise, and that always made Tommy morose, full and sentimental. If he had been a dog he would have thrown back his head and howled. Being a young man, he sighed, and began to imagine that he and she (a romantic edition of Mary Blackstone with better manners and less worldliness) had come to this wilderness to escape from the outside world and to make their home. What fun it would be! How would work to make her happy and comfortable! How easy it would be for them to get along without anybody else to bother them.

HOT STUFF FROM PAPER IN LEIPZIG

Says Hyphenated Americans Should Follow Germany, Even if Civil War Result.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—The Neueste Nachrichten of Leipzig appeals to German diplomacy to save the United States from the blunder of its friendship with England, even if the cost be civil war in America. This paper says:

"It is high time that German diplomacy step in with every particle of force which is at its command to put a stop to England's machinations to convert the United States into one of her satellites."

"The German-American is conscious of his right to enlighten his home with all that is best in the German spirit. He has long tolerated with mixed feelings the despotic attitude of his English-thinking and feeling fellow-citizens in their efforts to rob him of those rights. The idea, however, that his own children should, through England's cunning, be forcibly Anglicized and converted into enemies of his Fatherland, is more than he can bear."

To this characteristic English herald the German-American longs to put an end. He is, of course, well aware, whither any active opposition on his part will lead, namely, to an ominous civil war in America, but he thinks that grim prospect would not scare him should the only come. That responsibility will rest solely with the blinded fools who have sold themselves body and soul to the English devil."

"Our Government should no longer hesitate to take the most drastic steps consistent with our quasi-state of peace between the two countries to come to the assistance of our German kindred across the Atlantic, even though civil war be the outcome of the step."

Spring training trips are to be materially shortened by the major league clubs next Spring. The National League teams were not allowed to report at their training camps until March 1, and this rule will not be abrogated. It is the general belief that the American League will adopt similar legislation at the annual meeting next month, and that the change will meet with general favor.

The magnates are tired of exhibition games in small cities, which are played at a loss. They seem to favor four weeks of hard work at the camps, to be followed by a bee-line trip back to their own grounds. Expenses must be curtailed.

It is only a question of a short time when the New York American League club will give official notice of its site for its own ball park. The park, it is understood, will be built in the borough of Queens. Architects already are drawing plans for the new plant, which is to have a seating capacity as large as, if not larger than, Braves' Field in Boston. The Yankee management has a lease on the Polo Grounds for next season, but it will make every effort to open its season on its own grounds, and work on the park will be pushed with this in view.

"THE RIDEAU" AND "THE YORK"

New Trains Between Toronto and Ottawa via Canadian Pacific Railway.

When the C. P. R. attaches a special name to a train this means that the equipment is the finest and most up-to-date. The Lake Ontario Shore Line, on which the two new trains "The Rideau" and "The York" are operated, was recently completed at very heavy cost and has a roadbed unexcelled in any part of the system. Excellent service is therefore assured to those who travel by these trains between Toronto and Ottawa, and the delightful scenery should add an additional attraction to the journey.

The trains leave Toronto at 1.45 p.m. and Ottawa at 1.15 p.m., daily except Sunday, reaching their respective terminals the same evening, namely, Ottawa 10.00 p.m. and Toronto at 9.30 p.m. They call at the principal stations en route and have convenient connections with trains from Kingston and also from Western Ontario points. Buffet Library Observation parlor cars, in which current periodicals are supplied free and a broiler service, provide mind and body with food as required. The trains will run from and into the Union station at Toronto and Sparks street (Central) station at Ottawa, close to the Parliament Buildings.

The Diamond
From the Sky

By ROY L. MCCARDELL

Copyright, 1915, by Roy L. McCardell

"For what you have said about Esther, either you or I must die," Arthur says. "Take one end of this handkerchief and stand across this open grave. Hold the handkerchief in your left hand, as I hold this corner of it. Now take your pistol, and when I count to 'Three' raise and fire, and the one of us left alive will pull the dead man into the grave!"

Arthur counts "One!" when the now fearful murderer essays to fire. But the watchful Arthur is too quick for him. His pistol speaks first, and instinctively tugging the handkerchief as he fires, Arthur drags the bleeding Blair into the grave, prone on his face. Arthur leaps into the grave after his fallen foe and tears open his shirt to see if the heart still beats, and there, on the breast of Blair Stanley, gleams in the moon rays the ethereal glitter of the diamond from the sky.

Arthur Stanley had known its every aspect, for the Stanley archives are full of it, in print and manuscript, pictured and described. "So there it has been, in the keeping of my cousin!" he mutters, and hardly realising what he does, except the baleful gem is his by every right, he tears it from the neck of the figure in the grave and clambers out and stumbles on his way.

Beside a cross, white and majestic in the moonlight, he halts. The moon shines on the diamond in his bloody hands as he stands by the grave where lies, as he believes, his own mother. Then, feeling the brand of Cain is on his brow, Arthur Stanley 2d stumbles on, still clutching the diamond from the sky in his bloody hands.

In the new dug grave Blair Stanley moaned and stirred. The wound in his forehead had been a glancing one, only sufficient to stun him, and now as he came to consciousness in the clammy depths of the grave his first impulse was to clutch wildly at his blood stained and disheveled shirt bosom.

The diamond from the sky was gone! The death of the good doctor had been all in vain. And Blair Stanley also fled beneath the moon, bootless and in truth blood guilty.

At Stanley hall Arthur gained access to the library and shuddered again as he saw the stains on his hands and on the great jewel that seemed to gleam all the brighter for them in the glare of the library lamp.

It was not to show the diamond from the sky that all men yearned for; it was to have it, to possess it, even in secret, that caused them to lie, to swindle and even to grope through blood for it.

Well had the late Colonel Stanley known the baleful history of the diamond that had fallen to the feet of his adventurer ancestor in a meteor. The Stanley "charm against harm" it was called, and now look what harm it had already done! Arriving in the good name of sweet Esther, good old Dr. Lee's fair ward, but Arthur did not know that the good doctor lay cold in death at the hands of Blair Stanley.

Arthur felt instinctively that the diamond from the sky was responsible for Blair's impugning the good name of sweet Esther, good old Dr. Lee's fair ward, but Arthur did not know that the good doctor lay cold in death at the hands of Blair Stanley.

The wild thought, the wilder hope, that he might go elsewhere and under a new name, still holding to the diamond from the sky, rehabilitate himself and then seek out Esther in secret and wed her now possessed Arthur.

Among Arthur's many extravagances which the lax administration of estates in Virginia permitted, a scapegoat heir was the buying of a costly French automobile. It was a day when automobiles were rarities and luxuries, and the young spendthrift of Stanley hall had preceded himself with the thought that he would be the first to own an automobile in all Fairfax county.

Arthur reasoned that Blair, who he supposed was lying dead in the grave that had been dug for another, would not be found till perhaps noon. Even then they might not connect his tragic death with the broken guitar and the other signs of struggle in the doctor's garden.

Meanwhile the dawn had come and Esther, who had been aroused at the pistol shots, was in great agitation and alarm. Comforted and encouraged by the first glimpse of dawn, she had descended to the lower hall of the house. The door of the doctor's study stood ajar and she glanced within.

There in the dim light of the morning sun filtering through the window shades she saw the doctor in his dressing gown stretched limply across a table. She touched his cheek to rouse him and found it cold. Those pale lips, kindly even in death, could never keep their promise to tell her who and what she was "on the morrow." Here it was the morrow, and the lips that could tell were cold in death.

AGAINST VOTES FOR WOMEN

New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania Defeated New Proposals.

New York, Nov. 3.—Women suffrage was defeated yesterday in all three states as the proposition was submitted to the voters—New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

In this state the figures at midnight indicated that the suffrage amendment had been beaten by at least 200,000 votes, with the five boroughs of New York City and the up-state counties about equally strong in supporting the overwhelmingly adverse verdict.

In Massachusetts the majority against was more than 100,000, villages, towns and great cities returning figures of about 2 to 1 against the suffrage proposition. Boston, like this city, Philadelphia and Pittsburg, voted heavily against the gallantly aspiring women.

In Pennsylvania, where suffrage received considerable support in the rural counties, the Republican organization, swinging state and big cities, smothered the suffragists. The count of votes was so slow that no accurate estimates could be supplied, but the opinion was that Pennsylvania had voted down suffrage by at least 150,000.

DIVORCED FROM POLITICS

Everywhere the vote on suffrage seemed to be cast quite irrespectively of party lines or affiliations. Communist and Democratic officials turned a cold shoulder to the suffragists. Communities that elected Republican officials calmly rolled up a large vote against the proposition and had given the right and left in big cities and in the countryside, suffrage was roughly handled.

The first great drive of the equal suffragists in the closely populated States of the east resulted in the rout predicted by political observers. New York followed positively in the footsteps of New Jersey and Massachusetts followed New York. If the majority in this State is increased beyond 200,000, as was anticipated last night, the movement has met with a worse defeat here than across the Hudson, where it went down on October 19 by 150,000.

The suffrage leaders would not admit that the verdict against them had been so overwhelming. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt insisted that the antis had carried this State by 137,000 only, that Massachusetts had lost by 88,000 and that Pennsylvania's results would not be so discouraging as at first indicated. On the other hand, the antis, having access to press accreditation upon official returns, claimed 200,000 majority in New York, 100,000 in Massachusetts and at least 150,000 in Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK CITY ANTI.

In this city as elsewhere the suffrage vote was counted only after the returns on individual candidates were canvassed, which process delayed complete figures, but at midnight enough had been received from the five boroughs of Greater New York to indicate that the majority against suffrage in the city would be not short of 100,000.

At midnight Manhattan was apparently 32,400 against the suffrage amendment; King's 41,200 against, Queen's 7,500 against, the Bronx 10,000 against and Richmond 1,500 against. Since early in the night the anti-majority had been mounting slowly. Where it seemed about 75,000 at 8 p.m., it appeared to be close upon 100,000 a few hours later. The suffragists were especially disappointed at the showing made in Brooklyn and in the upper part of Manhattan. Rumors revived last night that despite protestations of neutrality, both Tammany and the Republican organization secretly intrigued against the cause. More than half of the election districts in Greater New York, 1,120 out of 2,079, showed a majority against suffrage of 96,000.

The returns from the up-state counties, where the antis had spread their efforts widely, and where they had made a special appeal against votes for women on the ground that "woman's place was in the home," were saddening to the suffrage leaders. One county after another sent in a majority against them.

The good order maintained at practically every polling place was a most agreeable feature of the election. There was little brawling, there were few attempts at fraud. The number of arrests made in the 12 hours the polls were open was astonishingly small when a previous history of elections is kept in mind. But pleasant even than these features were the general air of courtesy and politeness shown at nearly all of the polling places. The policemen had little to do. This state of affairs was attributed, rightly or wrongly, to the presence of women watchers at the polls. The most confirmed opponents of woman suffrage had to admit that there was a change for the better; that there was less rough talk, rough conduct and deliberate rudeness than anybody could remember.

CROSS, FEVERISH
CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a spoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of Mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a spoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a so-called bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."
