SUPPORT PLEDGED FOR GAME SANCTUARIES

At Annual Meeting of Fish, Forest and Game Protection Association Friday Evening

The annual meeting of the Fish, Forest and Game Protection Association was held at the Council Chamber on Friday evening last and was fairly well attended. Rev. Douglas B. Hemmon, D.D., the president, was in the chair.

An interesting report was presented by the secretary, Mr. A. G. Guest, which showed that excellent progress had been made in stocking the local rivers and lakes with salmon and trout fry; and that with the help of the Department of Fisheries the uncertainty regarding the waters closed to salmon fishing in the Gasperau River had been made clear. The limit for fishing is now set at 125 yards below the mouth of the fishway.

Dr. Leslie Eaton also went into the matter quite fully and explained the difficulty which had formerly existed because no signs had been placed to mark the prohibited water.

Mr. J. E. Hales, who has taken an active part in the restocking of the Gasperau, gave a most encouraging report of conditions. He stated that thousands of young salmon had been seen returning to the sea.

Mr. E. Percy Brown spoke of the necessity for educational work, especially among the boys, regarding the killing of undersized trout, and the right methods for returning such fish to the water. It was decided to ask Mr. R. W. Tutts, Migratory Bird Officer, to include in his Bird Talks to school children this important matter of fish protection.

It was also pointed out that there was apparently a great need for instruction to fishermen regarding the size and number of fish permitted to be taken.

President Hemmon gave a somewhat extensive report on the subject of game sanctuaries. This was followed by an interesting discussion, after which a motion was unanimously passed, pledging the Association in Nova Scotia to secure the setting apart of game sanctuaries and suggesting the establishment of such a sanctuary in this county.

It was decided that the executive meet with the members of the Kentville branch on Monday evening, when the matter of the establishment of sanctuaries, especially for Kings county, would be still further considered.

The following were elected officers of the Association for the coming year:

President—Rev. D. B. Hemmon.
Vice President—Mr. C. A. Patriquin.
Sec. Treas.—Mr. A. G. Guest.
Executive Committee—The officers and Dr. Leslie Eaton, Messrs. J. E. Hales, J. H. Baltzer, R. W. Tutts, E. R. Redden and F. S. Crowell.

FRENCH CLUB OF ACADIA UNIVERSITY

Gave Interesting Entertainment at Orpheum Theatre Last Evening

The entertainment given at the Orpheum Theatre last evening by the French Club of Acadia University under the direction of Prof. Paul Rogers, proved to be most interesting. There was a good attendance and the program was greatly enjoyed, even though all present could not understand every thing that was said. From the opening chorus, "Alouette", to the final curtain there was not a wait nor a dull moment, and Prof. Rogers and those associated with him are to be congratulated on the splendid performance given.

There were two short plays in which those taking part displayed a remarkable knowledge of the French language. The acting was also splendid, so much so that those in the audience who could not follow the words were able to get the plot perfectly. The first play was "Le Medecin malgre lui" (The Doctor in spite of himself), in which the cast was as follows:

Sganarelle, a wood chopper MM. Findlay Geronte, a wealthy bourgeois Hatfield Lucandre, in love with Lucinde Flowers Lucas, servant of Geronte Marven Valere, idem Marven Lucinde, daughter of Geronte Melles Hayward

In the other play, "L'Anglais tel qu'on le parle" (English as it is spoken), the scene was laid in the office of an hotel, and the cast was as follows:

Eugene, interpreter MM. Marven Hogson, irascible father of Betty, Dunlap Julien Cicandel in love with Betty, Gould L'Inspecteur (police inspector) Swinn Betty, the daughter of Eugene Thorne Un Agent de Police Melles Dixon La Cassiere (the cashier) DeWolfe Un Garcon (a porter) Clark

Between the plays a number of specialties were presented. Les Soldats de Bois (The Wooden Soldiers) was given by Melles McMahon, Shaw, Hales, Yvonne, McCutcheon, Falt, Miller. A solo by M. Verne Graham, whose voice gives promise of a splendid future. A most enjoyable number was "Scenes de la Vie Parisienne", in which the characters were as follows:

Le marchand d'habits M. Estey La marchande de fleurs Mlle McCleod Les Apaches Melles Smith and Colbat Le Cabaret espagnol Melles DeWolfe and Dixon

The two dance numbers were loudly enjoyed, and the Spanish dance was especially well done.

The remaining two numbers were "L'Amour des Pantins", by M. Hatfield and Mlle Miller, and "Sous l'Empire", by M. Findlay and Mlle Vogler.

The closing chorus was the "Marsillaise". All the accompaniments were splendidly rendered by M. Israel, a la piano.

He Is Not Here: For He Is Risen.

In the end of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre. And, behold, there was a great earthquake; for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow; and for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men. And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here; for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; Galilee, there shall ye see him; lo, I have told you. And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word. And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him.

METHODIST CHURCH PROPERTY PURCHASED

Three Residences to be Built on Site This Summer

The sale is reported of the Methodist church edifice on Gasperau avenue, which has been vacant since the union of that congregation with the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. It is said that the building and site has been secured by Mr. Harry Gates, who will take down the former and erect three neat residences on the ground which provides ample accommodation. The price which is to be paid, it is understood, should the trustees adopt the recommendation of the managing board, will be low considering that there is room for three good building lots which should be worth at least eight hundred dollars each.

The Acadia suggested that this building should be purchased and used for town purposes, and we still believe the proposition would have been a most profitable one as it was disposed of at about a quarter of what the erection of such a building would cost today. However, our suggestion was not acted upon by those in authority or urged by citizens who should have been interested, his acquisition of such a desirable property.

The work of building will, if all goes well, be undertaken in the near future, as it is said one of the new houses has already found a purchaser. We are pleased to be able to report the likelihood of building activity in town during the coming summer, and predict a great improvement in the appearance of that part of the town as a consequence.

ACADIA BASKETERS DEFEATED MT. ALLISON

In First Game of Intercollegiate Series—Score 37-29

SACKVILLE, April 2.—Mount Allison lost the final game of the Western Basketball League when Acadia handed them a 37-29 trimming on their own floor here tonight.

The game was a most exciting one from a spectator's point of view, the combination of both teams being very pretty to watch. The result of the engagement was in doubt until the closing whistle blew. Both teams fought doggedly all the way through and although their shooting was not of the best the score was quite large.

Mount Allison opened when Thomas scored on a combination play from the first tip off. Acadia soon evened up and both teams kept up a ding-dong battle for the lead. At the end of the first period Mount Allison led 21-19.

In the second period Acadia had the best of it. Their defence was right on the job and their forwards shot well. Acadia—Cox, 18; Davidson, 9; Nile, A. Noble, 6; O. Noble, 3; Elderkin, 1; Moffatt.

The Argosy Weekly, published by the Mt. Allison students, says of the above mentioned game that in spite of the fact that Acadia was awarded no less than sixteen foul throws and Mt. Allison 10, the game was a remarkably clean one as follows: Acadia team it comments as "Acadia has a splendid, well-balanced aggregation, which is a credit to their coach, Mr. Osborne, Cox, who played a brilliant game on the firing line, was high man in individual scoring. Moffatt was perhaps the pick of the visitors' defence, and proved a stumbling-block for our forwards on many occasions."

To know more than one can tell is not a calamity.

ANNIVERSARY OF VIMY RIDGE BATTLE

The Story of an Important Incident in the Great War in which Canadians Won Undying Fame

Today, April ninth, is the seventh anniversary of the Battle of Vimy Ridge. The day will ever be a memorable one in Canadian annals. It marked the culmination of a winter of patient waiting by the Canadian Corps before the slopes of the gigantic fortress and the wresting forever from the hands of the German army of what was generally regarded as the strongest strategic position along the front. Seized by the Germans in their first onslaught in 1914, the ridge had proven an insurmountable barrier to the Allied armies, and the French army, weary by daring and successful operations in which the enemy were driven and forced across the Souchez valley, sustained terrible losses in attempting to make their victory complete and capture Vimy without sufficient artillery support. The Germans had converted the ridge into one huge fortification, lined with interlarded with trenches, bristling with artillery, honeycombed with dug-outs, strewn with mazes of barbed wire and presenting an obstacle in the way of the Allies which the German high command confidently believed to be impassable. It was decided by the Allied ridge must be undertaken preliminary to the great task of the offensive in 1917, and to the Allied forces the dreadful blood-bath of the Somme, where they were factor in spirit as the Canadians were placed before Vimy in the late fall of 1916. The winter which followed was enough to try the mettle of any troops. The weather was cold and snow was frequent, and the Corps, often necessarily insufficiently clothed, suffered considerably. The moment of the final onslaught, which was made in a snow storm, driven by a gale. At 5.30 on the morning of Easter Monday, April 9, 1917, the Canadians attacked. They were supported by a terrific artillery barrage in which guns of all calibres combined to hurl thousands of tons of high explosive shells upon the doomed positions of the defenders of the ridge. The copious use of liquid fire added to the terrors of the onslaught. The operation was carried out with the dash which characterized all the attacks of the Canadian Corps. The opposition was at first not severe, but increased in intensity as the ground was covered, and Hill 145 and "The Timple", the highest ground on the ridge, saw some of the bitterest and most bloody fighting of the entire war. By nightfall it was apparent that the strongest bulwark of the western front had been lost to the Germans. Heavy fighting continued for several weeks, but strong counter-attacks failed to make any serious impression on the captured positions. In the closing months of the war the position played a vital part in the Allied system of defence, and it was regarded as probable that a breach between the British and French armies would be the result. Vimy did not fall, however. The line ward as far as LaBasse held firmly, and only a sector in which not an inch of ground was yielded. Persistent attempts failed and the position remained in the hands of the Allies until the drive to the southward relieved the situation and changed the aspect of the campaign. Memories are eloquent of the nation's pride in the sacrifices of her illustrious dead and of her glory in the achievements of their surviving comrades.

PRINCESS OF POPPYLAND SPLENDIDLY PRESENTED

By Acadia Seminary Glee Club at Orpheum Theatre Last Thursday Evening

A capacity house greeted the presentation of the operetta, "The Princess of Poppyland", at the Orpheum Theatre last Thursday evening, and all present were loud in their praises of the splendid performance given by the Glee Club of Acadia Ladies Seminary. Miss Olaf Teabeut, dramatic director, and Mr. W. A. Jones, musical director, must have given considerable time and effort to the undertaking, and they are to be congratulated on its success.

The stage setting was very prettily arranged under a canopy of red poppies, and the costumes, which had been imported for the occasion, were most elaborate.

Miss Beulah Wry made an ideal Princess and her musical numbers were splendidly rendered and greatly enjoyed. The part of the King, as portrayed by Mr. Harry Mollins, could not have been done better. Miss Elsie Davis was especially good in the role of Fizzletop, the court chamberlain, while Miss Mary Brady, as the Honourable Dozey, a sleepy secretary, created considerable amusement by her efforts to keep awake. Mr. Verne Graham acted the part of the Prince splendidly and his singing, especially in the duet with the Princess, was much enjoyed. The comedy was ably provided by Mr. George Bryden, as Baron Innomia, with his two attendants, Pip Pip and Honk Honk. The Princess sang a duet very sweetly, and were loudly enjoyed.

The several numbers by the chorus were splendidly rendered, while the two dance numbers, "May Basket" and "Gypsies", brought forth loud applause. The accompaniment for the operetta was played by a portion of the Seminary Orchestra, with Miss Irene Card at the piano.

The complete cast was as follows:

The King of Poppyland—Harry Mollins.

THE JUNIOR SCOUT BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Two very interesting games of basketball have been played in the above league. The first game was played on Thursday, April 2nd, between No. 2 Troop (United) and No. 1 Troop (Anglians). The game was very close throughout, the United excelling in individual shooting and the Anglians in combination. Semour Gerck starred for the former, while Dick Caldwell, as guard, and Mac Sanford, as forward, did good work the latter. At the end of the periods the score stood 13 all. In overtime play No. 1 scored a field goal, which gave them the game. Ronald Prescott scored splendidly.

The second game on Tuesday last between No. 3 (Baptist) and No. 1 (Anglians) resulted in a win for the latter by a score of 19 to 10. No. 3 Troop showed lack of practice but gave the winners a hard and fast game. Boyd Bartheau and Churchill Conner played especially well and fast game. ## SOME COMMENTS ON TOWN AFFAIRS

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN

Dear Sir.—Now that we women are taking an interest in town affairs I would respectfully ask that you allow me some space in your columns at this time, and again as occasion appears to demand some remarks on the work of the Town Council. Our women, and our men, too, in this regard, and very few attend the meetings of the Council. Indeed much of the business is transacted at meetings of which the public is not aware, and it really looks as if some of the business is done without the formality of a Council meeting, for at the meeting held last Wednesday evening it was decided that the building which was to be erected should be given the position of assistant to the Town Clerk, commencing March 16th, while we were informed by your Greenwich correspondent of the appointment in your issue of March 26th.

And now, sir, I have to give you a rap for not having written something about the Council meeting of the 1st inst., other than your reporter's notes as published, for I am of the opinion that a full column newspaper story could, and should, have been written. I have always admired your valuable hints to the Town Council, some of which have been acted upon, and many ignored; I have also noticed your gentle criticisms, from time to time, and can only conclude that on this occasion you did not want to be blamed for "dirty, mean criticism", or to be responsible for its effects.

Take the appointment of an assistant in the town office: while there is not much to be gained by "crying over spilled milk" and the citizens have to lump it if they don't like it, I don't believe they do like it. It is not clear to me why the Councillors should have agreed to this appointment at the expense of the town even if the Mayor did contend that it should be made. As I understand it our Councillors are elected because of their more than average intelligence and business ability; and before taking office they are sworn to faithfully perform the duties of their office to the best of their ability, which duties, I presume, are defined by some law; at all events they are expected to carry on the business of the town to the town's best interest; and I question whether any of them would increase the expense of his own business under like circumstances. When the present Town Clerk was appointed, his offer to do all of the work of the Town Council and the Electric Commission for $1500 per year was accepted, and that notwithstanding another offer being before the Council to perform those duties and other specified work of the town for $1000 per year. If the Town Clerk felt he could no longer do the work, why should he not employ an assistant at his own expense to enable him to carry out his obligations?

Many hold the opinion that there is not work enough in the town office for two, and I do think I know more than one Wolfville woman who could do all

BARBARA LA MARR TO COME AS "WHITE MOTH"

Maurice Tournour's "The White Moth", a story of the French theatre, co-featuring Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle, will be the first National picture at the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

It has been elaborately produced and is said to mark the finest of Tournour's achievements as well as the best work of the artists who have interpreted it on the screen.

"The White Moth" originally appeared in Ainslee's Magazine, being the work of Izola Forrester, author of "The Gray Path", "The Feast of Lights" and other plays by Albert Shelby LeVino.

The plot centres around the experiences of Mary Reid, an American girl, who, after studying music unsuccessfully in Paris, becomes a famous dancer on the Parisian stage, where she is known as "The White Moth". She falls in love with a young American millionaire Douglas Vantine, but his brother Robert marries her in order to forestall what he thinks will be a misalliance. And herein lies the denouement.

Miss La Marr has the title role, while Ben Lyon plays Douglas Vantine and Conway Tearle is seen as Robert.

Others prominent in the cast are Edna Murphy, Josie Sedgwick, Kathleen Kirkham and William Orlamond.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the School Board was held on Tuesday evening of Monday evening this week. Chairman Roach presided and all the members were present with the exception of Commissioner Vaughn.

The following bills were read and ordered to be paid:

J. D. Harris, $ 3.75
Davidson Bros., 11.40
D. Ross Cochrane, 1.20

An application was received from E. S. Langille for the rental of the east room in the old school building to be used as a carpenter shop and for which he offered to pay $36.00 per year.

As doubt appears to prevail as to the custody of this building, which is no longer required for school purposes, a resolution was passed setting forth and recommending to the town committee on streets and public property that the east and middle rooms in this building be rented to responsible persons.

Communications were received from all the members of the teaching staff, with the exception of the principal, accepting the re-appointment for next year a salaries offered. In the absence of a statement from Mr. Silver a resolution was passed asking that he make known his intention at an early date.

MIX HERE AGAIN

Tom Mix, William Fox western star, and his wonder horse Tony will be at the Orpheum Theatre again, Monday and Tuesday in a new comedy titled "Oh, You Tony!" In this picture, as in "Soft Boiled" and "Ladies to Board", Tom shows that as a comedian he is second to none. One roar of laughter after another greeted the star's antics acquiring etiquette in Washington, D.C., whether he had been sent by a rancher's association. Then when he tries to make his cowboy's veritable Chesterfields the first night audience literally went into spasms of uncontrollable mirth. Claire Adams, Dolores Rousseau, and Earle Foxe have the other important roles.

The Hantsport Acadian

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF HANTSPORT AND VICINITY

HANTSPORT HAPPENINGS

The different organizations in Hantsport are busy making garments to be sent later to the Sydney relief. Several bales have already been shipped. Those interested are the Lambda Sigma Society, Women's Institute, The XII's, etc.

Rev. Dr. Dickie, pastor of the Presbyterian church, recently received a congratulatory letter from J. W. Nicholson, convener of Halifax Presbytery, also expressing appreciation for splendid response to Budget appeal last year. The Hantsport church passed its Budget allocation of 1924. $150 was asked for, $200 being contributed.

The evangelistic meetings in the Baptist church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Z. L. Fash, will be continued through the week, ending with Easter Sunday. These meetings are being well attended, with special music each evening. On Sunday evening the solo, "Hold Thou My Hand", by C. I. Briggs, was impressively rendered by Miss Aileen Yeaton.

Capt. Young and family, who spent the winter months in Digby, arrived in Hantsport on Monday via the tug "Otis Wack", of which Capt. Young is master.

Mr. Andrew Brown, of the Bluff Road, has disposed of his property to Mr. A. S. Cooper, of England. Mr. Cooper is a nephew of Dr. Pollard, "Atlasook."

Mrs. (Rev.) Jones, of Stellarton, is the guest of her sister, Miss Hilda Stoddard.

Mrs. H. G. Bishop, of Kentville, was a recent guest of her friend, Miss M. Francis.

Mrs. (Capt.) Charles Lawrence is quite ill at her home here. Her many friends hope soon to hear of an improvement in her condition.

Mr. Grover Beazley has received the appointment of Principal of the North-west school, to succeed Principal Stapleton. Mr. Beazley has filled the office of Vice Principal for a number of years.

Miss Eleanor Chesley, a student at Edgely School for Girls, is spending the Easter recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chesley.

Mrs. A. W. Pattison, who has been the guest of her sisters, the Misses Chisholm, Digby, spent several days in town last week, leaving on Saturday for St. John, where her daughter, Miss Beatrice Pattison, has accepted a position as stenographer with J. & A. MacMillan, stationers.

Miss Susie Newcombe, of the P. M. Hospital, Windsor, visited at her home here recently.

Mr. L. Rock, of Halifax, spent the week end with his family, who are residing on Avon street.

Mr. C. E. Chesley was in Bridgetown recently attending the obsequies of his mother, Mrs. Phineas Chesley.

Mrs. Chas. Barkhouse, who has been a patient at the Infirmary, Halifax, returned home on Thursday.

Everett Fullerton and Albert Stevens left on Friday for Boston. Everett will visit his brother Gordon, at Winthrop, for several weeks.

Without a doubt the season is exceptionally forward. On April 1st, K. J. Mitchener, proprietor of the Sea Food store, was exhibiting a branch of apple blossoms. Garden shrubs are also putting forth green leaves.

Mrs. C. G. Yaton, entertained the XII's at her home Friday evening, the guests of honor being Mrs. J. H. Newcombe and Mrs. A. Houghton, who both celebrated anniversaries this week—and who during the evening, were presented with small tokens of regard by the club. The table decorations were very dainty and artistic. Much merriment was expressed when a combined wedding and birthday cake was cut and the various souvenirs concealed within were disclosed.

DIARY OF SIMEON MICHENER

May 8th, 1850. The canal boat moved up to the basin this evening. There was a great time about getting berths, there being about twice as many cabin passengers as they could accommodate, but I managed to stow away on a table, and Mr. Curry along side of the cook.

9th. This morning very rainy; started up the canal at 11 a.m. towed by two horses, passing by—in the course of the day—some highly cultivated farms and some very romantic scenes, particularly the falls on the Mohawk river, called the Cohoes. We kept moving along till dark, and are better accommodated to-night than last night.

10th. Awoke this morning and found ourselves in a place called Schenectady. We soon started again, passing through a number of locks and by a number of canal boats, following the course of the Mohawk river, which flows swiftly on, presenting a beautiful sight.

11th. Turned out this morning and found we were at the little falls. We were detained there for four hours on account of the water being out of the locks, as they were looking for a man that was missing and supposed he had fallen off the boat, but they did not find him. This is a very picturesque place, the canal being cut through solid rock which in some places rises to 20 and 30 feet above the canal; the river rushing over the bed of rock, with considerable of a town in sight, forms a magnificent view. The canal takes a rise here between 30 and 40 feet; there are four locks one right after another. Stopped this evening at an amusing scene took place in getting out. The passengers were detained about one hour.

12th. Sunday. This morning it was raining but soon cleared off and became fine all day. No locks at the canal here; it runs on a level for 69 miles, sometimes passing through bays, sometimes through towns and little villages. We stay on the boat till we get tired and then get off and walk a mile or two to amuse ourselves.

13th. Another beautiful day. We are now coming into a better looking country than what we have just passed through. We are half way between Albany and Buffalo at two o'clock.

14th. This day passing some very beautiful places, and the peach trees are in bloom.

15th. This morning, at 7 o'clock stopped at Rochester and a few of our passengers left us. This is a large town

NEW TYPE OF LIFEBOAT PROPELLED BY LEVERS

This new type of lifeboat which was recently tried out in England, is operated by moving levers to and fro, which operate a screw propeller. Some of the advantages of this type of vessel are that it can be got away from a ship's side in more or less awkward in manipulating oars at anytime let alone during a catastrophe at sea.

close to Lake Ontario, and sometimes we can catch a view of the lake from the canal, but it is so smoky we can not see much. This day passed by some beautiful orchards; the country is level and better cultivated than some we lately passed through. How beautiful is the work of nature and how few seem to admire it.

16th. This is another fine day, but we have got along very slowly. The country is level and vastly superior to any we have passed through on the canal yet. On either side are the milk white dwellings of the farmers, with beautiful green fields and the orchards in full bloom. At 2 o'clock we arrived at Lockport; here is a very great work of lockage, as you ascend about 60 feet through five locks at an angle of about 35 degrees, and then proceed onward for several miles through a deep cut in the rocks from 16 to 18 feet deep.

17th. This morning arrived at Buffalo at five o'clock. This is the terminal of the Hudson and Erie canal, which extends from Albany to Buffalo 364 miles, through a diversified country. The shore and went around the harbor and shipped on board the brig "Henry Clay", bound for Black river, Ohio.

19th. Laying at Buffalo. I think after this I shall keep my journal weekly. I wonder what Margaret is at to-day—perhaps up to her father's, or down home reading of the morning paper should like to be home, but that can not be yet awhile, and I must make myself content for the summer.

EASTER DAWN

As in the days of long ago There comes with Easter time, The glory of a victory won The gift of faith divine. The vale of shadows has no fear Since He has passed that way, For He turned the gloom of night Into the light of day.

A glorious song of triumph Is heard around the world, Once more the banner of the King Is to the breeze unfurled. Great armies march beneath its folds, Nor ask to know the way, Since He has turned the gloom of night Into the light of day.

GOOD RECIPES

Easter Salad

Boil eggs hard (about ten to fifteen minutes). Remove shells and while hot hold between thumb and finger and press into apple shapes. Mix a little vegetable coloring or cochineal and touch up the eggs with it, applying with a brush. Insert a clove to represent blossom end and a bit of celery top to represent stem end. Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

French Easter Cream

One-third cup raisins, one cup grape juice or ginger ale, two cups cream, one-half cup sugar, yolks of three eggs, one tablespoon granulated gelatine two tablespoons cold water, one teaspoon vanilla.

CHAPPED HANDS

Minard's eases them, soothes and heals. It protects them from biting winds. Mix Minard's with sweet oil and use as shaving lotion. Makes your face feel fine.

YOUR EASTER SEASON DECORATIONS

For your Easter party you will want bunnies, flowers and suggestions of spring millinery, arranged in a dainty and novel way.

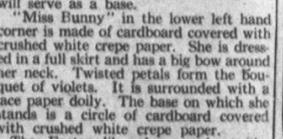

The daintiest of favors may be concealed in a floral hat box. An ordinary pasteboard box is covered with decorated crepe paper and finished with a large ribbon bow. A lining made of pale yellow crepe paper hides the contents of the box.

A lollipop favor is quite fitting to go with the hat box centerpiece, as it displays a flower bonnet made to represent a flower. Curly of slashed brown crepe paper peep out from beneath the bonnet and a large crepe paper bow is tied under the chin. A wooden button mold gilded will serve as a base.

"Miss Bunny" in the lower left hand corner is made of cardboard covered with crushed white crepe paper. She is dressed in a full skirt and has a big bow around her neck. Twisted petals form the Bouquet of violets. It is surrounded with a lace paper doily. The base on which she stands is a circle of cardboard covered with crushed white crepe paper.

The Easter lily place card at the right is made of crepe paper and has an extra long stem which is bent to form the stand. The name card is attached to a ribbon tied at the base of the leaves. The large tulip centerpiece and small matching nut cup favor are very pleasing.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Minard's eases them, soothes and heals. It protects them from biting winds. Mix Minard's with sweet oil and use as shaving lotion. Makes your face feel fine.

After Every Meal

Pass it around after every meal. Give the family the benefit of its aid to digestion. Cleans teeth too. Keep it always in the house. Costs little - helps much.

BISHOP HACKENLEY VISITS WOLFVILLE

St. John's church was packed to the doors last Sunday evening to greet the new coadjutor bishop of Nova Scotia, Rev. John Hackenley. The bishop, who was accompanied by Rev. G. Brown, rector of Cornwallis, with whom he spent the day, preached a very impressive sermon on the thoughts suggested by Palm Sunday, and urged his hearers to a devout observance of Holy Week and especially of Good Friday.

Before the sermon he spoke of the appeals now being made on behalf of the families of the Cape Breton miners, which he very strongly commended. Having personally investigated conditions in the mining districts last week he could

ON THE USE OF DROPS IN THE EYES

Certain incorrect and misleading statements concerning the use of drops in the eyes for the purpose of examining or testing eyesight have appeared in the public press from time to time.

The following statement has been prepared by the undersigned, licensed physicians, specializing in the treatment of the eye both in disease and health, solely for the purpose of putting the truth of the matter before the public. ONLY LICENSED PHYSICIANS ARE PERMITTED TO USE DROPS IN THE EXAMINATION OF THE EYES. THESE DROPS IN THE HANDS OF QUALIFIED PEOPLE ARE ENTIRELY HARMLESS. Moreover, the use of drops is considered necessary in the majority of cases for refraction of the eyes and invariably so in the case of children and young people, by all Oculists, Medical Schools and Hospitals.

Among Oculists and in Eye Hospitals the world over no instruments have been devised to supplant the use of these drops, but modern instruments are used in conjunction with the drops. H. V. Pearman, M.D., J. A. M. Hemmeon, M.D., Wolfville. A. C. Fales, M.D., Middleton. 22-4i assure them that the need was very urgent and all the assistance given would be well bestowed.

It is regrettable that under the circumstances no reception could be held. The bishop is a man of fine presence and of most attractive personality and great geniality of manner, and evidently possesses superabundant energy. He returned to Halifax on Monday.

Blue Bird Tea Brings Happiness. The first Mayflower seen by THE ACADIAN this season was sent in this morning by Mrs. Rodney Chase, Kentville.

The members of the Sir Robert Borden Chapter, I.O.D.E., wish to express their thanks to those who took part in the musical comedy, "Coats and Petticoats".

At the meeting of the Sir Robert Borden Chapter, I.O.D.E., on Tuesday, a resolution was passed... the provincial department of education to include the "King's English Drill" in the curriculum of the schools of Nova Scotia.

The street authorities are laying down a piece of plank sidewalk at the east end of the town beginning at the end of the pavement on the north side of Main street. This work has been petitioned for by residents of that section and will be a decided convenience.

Mr. J. Elliot Smith, manager for Messrs. Gerald DaCosta's Nova Scotia Fruit Department, received last week a cable as follows: "Finished clearing 'Cornish Pl.' Nonpareils, No. 1, 30s to 32s; No. 2, 25s to 27s; No. 3, 19s to 22s; Ben Davis, 32s to 34s; No. 1 Russets, 36s. Demand strong."

The presentation of Rafael Sabitini's famous story, "Captain Blood", at the Orpheum Theatre this week was greatly enjoyed by a large audience on both nights. Keen interest was sustained throughout the entire ten reels, and the scenes were extremely realistic, especially the final battle scene between the British and French ships. The next super special production at the Orpheum will be eagerly awaited.

The Women's Missionary Aid Society met in the vestry of the Baptist church Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, with the ladies of the Avonport Missionary Aid Society as guests. Miss Wilson, returned missionary from Bolivia, S.A., gave a very interesting and informal talk on her work among the South American Indians. Mrs. Corey, Mrs. Gullison, Mrs. Patterson and Miss Wilson were made life members of the society. The Easter offering amounted to $105.25. After the meeting a delicious supper was served.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

On Friday evening, April 3, the Girl Guides entertained their mothers and also the members of the Local Association at their regular meeting.

After roll call and inspection, the horse-shoe formation was taken up and fifteen recruits took their Guide promise and were welcomed into the sisterhood of the Guides.

After the enrollment ceremony, each patrol in turn acted a Guide law, and the way in which the meaning of our laws was presented proved very interesting. Jean Shaw, Second of the Crow Patrol, and Gertrude Phinney, of the same patrol, played a violin duet, thus completing the final requirements for their Entertainer's badges.

A short sing-song was enjoyed and at the close refreshments were served by the Guides. The evening was brought to a close with the singing of our Guide Even-song and "Taps".

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED AT ST. GEORGE'S LODGE

A. J. MASON SINGS FOR RADIO

(From Maritime Radio News) Among those who participated in the concert broadcasted at CNRA on March 24th was Mr. A. J. Mason, a talented vocalist from Springhill, N.S. Mr. Mason has a fine tenor voice, and his singing was greatly appreciated by radio fans.

He formerly lived at Hamilton, Ont. After studying music in Boston with A. J. Hubbard, Mr. Mason spent two seasons with the Selwyn producers of New York in their successful musical comedy, "Buddies".

Mr. Mason has been in the show business since 1906. In 1917 he launched out for himself at Wolfville, N.S. He has been very successful as a manager of picture houses and has a host of friends in Springhill, Parrsboro and other towns in the neighboring province. Mr. Mason has presented several amateur dramatic and musical productions. He has also done considerable fraternal and church work. Having a splendid voice and a genial disposition, he is in much demand at musical entertainments.

An interesting feature of the broadcast at CNRA in which Mr. Mason took part, was the fact that his parents were listening in at their home in Hamilton, Ont. They were naturally greatly delighted on hearing their son's voice. Radio fans will be pleased to hear Mr. Mason on the air again.

The Tuxis Boys of the town of Bridgewater have offered their services to the Council for any work in which they can be used. Bridgewater has a tax rate of $3.25 on an assessment of $1,512,905.

The closing meeting of the Literary Society was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Payzant Friday evening, April 3, president, Dr. S. W. Spicer, in the chair. More than seventy-five members and guests were present. The following were elected officers and committees for 1925.

The secretary, Mrs. James Kennedy, reported a balance on hand of $52.75. An expression of appreciation was extended to the retiring president, Dr. S. W. Spicer, who was present at every meeting during his two years' office, which he filled so faithfully and well. Dr. Spicer gave a short resume of the year's work and thanked the society for the splendid support given him.

To Mrs. W. A. Porter was also extended a hearty vote of thanks. The following very delightful program was then enjoyed.

Piano duet—Mrs. Charles Sinnett, Mrs. A. D. Payzant. Cornet solo—Mrs. Charles Cox, accompanist Mrs. Sinnett.

Canning may well be pardoned for its pride in its Literary Society. It is beyond question a distinctly splendid organization. Its contribution to the social, musical and literary life of our community has won for it a host of friends. The program Friday evening was an unusually delightful one. To assign premier honors to any one of the artists would be a doubtful task. One of the many good things done was the introduction to our society of Mrs. W. A. Porter, of Canard, who won a host of friends by her delightful recitations. Mrs. Porter was recalled many times. Mrs. F. F. Chute, violinist, was also compelled to respond to encore, in fact were it not contrary to the rules of the society all would have found it necessary to have done so. The cornet solo by Mrs. Charles Cox was greatly appreciated.

At the close of the program supper and a social hour were followed by community singing; Mrs. John Burgess accompanist. The evening closed by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne".

The Supper Committee consisted of Mrs. A. A. Ward, Mrs. A. M. Covert, Mrs. James Kennedy.

The Nominating Committee consisted of Mr. Frederick Schafheitlin, Dr. S. W. Spicer, Mrs. A. A. Ward.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church held a largely attended meeting at the home of Mrs. A. A. Ward Friday afternoon. Mrs. N. W. Eaton was appointed delegate to the Berwick branch. The program consisted of readings from the Blue Book, the committee in charge being Mrs. James Kennedy, Mrs. L. F. Blenkhorne, Mrs. Z. West, Mrs. Leander Eaton, all of whom gave interesting selections. The speaker at the annual Easter meeting will be Rev. Mr. Irish, returned missionary of China.

Athlon Lodge, No. 39, I.O.O.F., held its weekly social gathering at the close of the business meeting on Monday evening, supper being served.

Mrs. Charles Sinnett and Mrs. A. A. Ward are holding weekly practices with the Sabbath school of the Methodist church at the home of Mrs. Sinnett, in preparation for the Easter concert to be held Monday evening, April 13th.

Miss Ada Reynolds has returned from visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Dickie, Upper Canard.

Miss Isabel Meek has returned from visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Forsythe, Greenwich.

The flag staff presented by the government, through the instrumentality of Captain A. W. Bowser, has been placed on Armory Green and adds much to our memorial square. The staff is 50 feet high and arrangements have been made to have the flag flying on the anniversaries of the various engagements in which the Canadian troops participated, and on public holidays. It has been some time since we have had a flag flying, owing to the position of the old flag staff on the Armory building which caused the halcyons to come over the edge of the building, wearing them off, making it a very difficult matter to reeve the halcyards. The Women's Missionary Society of United Baptist church was entertained at the home of Mrs. L. M. Ward on Wednesday afternoon, April 1st, the attendance being large and the afternoon an enjoyable and profitable one.

The Canning High School pupils were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Payzant in honor of their son William.

Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes arrived on Friday from Boston, where they have spent the winter.

Mr. Wilber Cox, who with his family has spent several months with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edith B. Cox, Halifax, has accepted a position in Kentville, where he and Mrs. Cox will reside.

The social and entertainment held in United Baptist church for the purpose of adding to the fund for renovating the church, was very successful and much enjoyed. The program was an interesting one and the sum of $25.00 was realized.

The following teachers will compose the staff of Canning school for the coming year: Principal—T. B. MacDormand, Bear River; Preparatory—P. C. Kempston; Intermediate—Miss Erma Goldsmith; Primary—Miss Emma Bigelow.

The people of Canning were charmed to welcome the Right Reverend John Hackenley, D.D., who addressed them from the pulpit of Christ church on Sunday afternoon. He was assisted by the rector, Rev. Gordon C. Brown, and by the Rev. G. M. Ambrose, of Halifax.

The church was filled to its utmost capacity and the service will long be remembered. Mr. Ison of St. John's church presided at the organ.

Rev. George M. Ambrose, of Halifax, addressed a meeting in the interests of the Canadian Bible Society from the pulpit of the United Baptist church, Sunday afternoon. The speaker gave a resume of the work of the society, upon which the mission of practically every evangelical church is dependent for the translation and propagation of the scriptures in the carrying on of missionary work. The address was a very convincing one. Rev. Mr. Ambrose also addressed the congregation of the Congregational church, Kingsport, and the Pereau Baptist church.

Unquestionably this report expressed the wish of the party from whom it originated. Our plant is running to normal capacity with every indication of doing a normal season's business. We have at the present time on our payroll between 60 and 70 men, and negotiations have already been made for the purchase of from 1500 to 2000 tons additional materials to round out the season's business. THE EASTER MOON

By Margaret Aliona Dole The Easter moon is blooming like a lily in the sky. When the petals soft unfold With its radiant heart of gold.

It will shed upon the earth a light that cannot die. Beyond our pigmy knowledge we cannot trace its course. For the world's own blackened cloud Has always been its shroud. Yet it shines again, we know with resurrection force.

Behind the veil of darkness its mystic beauty grew With the glory of the sun Till the winter's trance was done. For all death is but a dream while the powers of life renew.

God's kingdom is within us as well as Heaven above. And the heart is just a shrine To hold the light divine. Yet the space of all creation cannot contain God's love.

Unsophisticated people are those who see fields uncultivated and wonder what the farmer is doing for a living. To know more than one can tell is not a calamity.

CHAPTER IX

Piccolo Thomas—Featherweight

ough already warm by day it was, sunset, a trifle cold this early in the year, yet many men sat in the open air, there was no sound of sneezing, the balsam scent, rich, thick, and them, antidoted any tendency to er a slow ramble to the verge of the ed space, Angus sat down again on the ground. The big half moon swam up, and world rolled to meet it. Its coming was with a glow like fire in the sky, and in incandescence, and then the ridge at which it came was shown all at display. Angus gazed soberly at the display, and then he said:

th how sad steps. Oh moon, thou climb'st the skies, and with how wan a face!"

There is nothing much to do, Piccolo, I can see. I hope you don't talk in sleep. That's all. But even that isn't maybe much matter. This is a House-that-Jack-built affair. I see now. A shirky lad on the cars—see now. I told you nothing, so as to whom I told you nothing, so as to you from looking suspiciously at me—was sent along with us by some- who remained in Colvalli to point out to somebody else in Spokane we were waiting for our connection. You saw we were watched even though I ejaculated Piccolo. "And you nothing!"

Oh, that's just the way I am by my- self, Piccolo. It's easy to me. I'm in Aberdeen. In a phrase of this I am naturally as close as bark to the water. I saw him. I watched him talk- ing in Spokane with the man in brown— us. That's all. But it was at my might call some look, followed by a pretence that it was not. Ay, some- in Colvalli has, as ye might say, them wise to us."

Movie Bill, suggested Piccolo. I don't know," answered Angus, and he his head sadly. Then said he: "The first link in the chain was only a necessary, not an organizer. He has dis- sused. I was right in being sus- picious of him. The man in brown is from Spokane. I think is of a higher quality. He has come on with me. I fancy, is more than an emis- sary or a bearer of news. There are gangs of such fellows all over the country, doing for business in their own line, thing crooked. It's a great deal more generous than the most dangerous of the worst work!"

His head gave a slow little nod. "And we may show them that too," went on. "Ay, even us. Being a look is to follow a risky calling, but he turn to it by reason of a kink. De- ber Mr. Hawke to me, Pic. Oh well, I needn't. You can show him to me about letting him know you are doing tomorrow morning, if not tonight,"

He then absently he fell to whistling the of "My Ain Folk," stopped abruptly one put out, and looked over his shoulder.

"They have phonographs up here," remarked. "Blent strains of one or two came to me on the edge of the bush. They without speech a while longer, but they very thoughtful in the deepening night."

"Well how about bed?" MacPherson asked the silence.

"All right," said Piccolo. "I'm getting up in years. I can do with a sleep after travel." Angus announced in a tired voice.

They rose and strolled leisurely in the moonlight back to the tent hotel. Some of the guests were already a-bed, and maybe whose labours called them early, teamsters who had horses to see an hour in advance of the time for the general morning movement to the city's work. As they lay in bed they the man in brown come in. He looked at them as if unaware and went to far cot, but though Piccolo lay awake some time hopeful to be able to "show" to Mac that night, the pleasure as denied him. His lids grew heavy, topped. He looked at Angus and saw that he was already asleep.

Thus, on his side, check on hand, MacPherson slept till morning and wak- ed to find Piccolo up.

"Good morning, Pic," said Angus. Piccolo nodded abruptly, drawing on shoe.

"You're setting on your cot," observ- ed Angus mildly. Piccolo glared at him.

"Sit! Sit! Sit!" he said. "I'll sit where I dam please, I'll sit! By heck, I'll show you something!"

The last of sleep went from Angus's eyes and he stared. Men cranky in the morning he had met, but he had never imagined Piccolo a bad awakener. In- stead it was not a subject that had cross- ed his mind.

"Twig, by heck!" thinly muttered Piccolo.

"Eh? Do I twig what?" asked Angus, thinking his partner had something in the way of news to communicate.

"I didn't ask if you twigged any- thing," snapped Piccolo. "That man! He's an early riser or I would have beat him up in his pyjamas, long shirt, or what ever he sleeps in, when I woke and thought of him! I'll show him whether I'm a—"

"Sssh!" warned Angus, realizing. "He's not supposed to know that you could understand his tip-tapping."

"He'll understand what's coming to him when I'm through."

"Be careful," said Angus. "Bitter, bitter!" said Piccolo, on a low note. "What's bitter, lad?" "To think that, after I've beat him up, he won't know why I beat him up."

rose and, half-dressed, went out to wash at the trestle ablation quarters. When he came back Piccolo was still sitting on the cot instead of the stool, chin out-thrust.

"He minds me," thought Angus, "of our national flower's remark: 'Touch me wha dar'; or of the MacPherson motto: 'Touch not the cat but in glove'. Terrible, and wital comie!"

Piccolo glanced impatiently at him, eager to go into the dining section, and as soon as Angus was ready, Piccolo marched ahead, strutting into the further part of the tent with chest chucked, hoping to see the man in brown there and evil-eye him. But no man in brown was visible.

"He's not here," said Angus, relieved. "No," said Piccolo. "And him we will just call the bird, because of the way a name carries to the ears of its owner—is he here?"

"No," snapped Piccolo again. "I could beat him up too! I'll show you." Angus sighed and said no more.

Breakfast seemed to mollify Piccolo; and, breakfast eaten, they went out, firstly to take out miner's licenses, then gun licenses, then to hire a pack-horse to carry their outfit up into the heights as far as roads, trails, or open stretches with feed for horses would allow.

To the livery stable proprietor they were nothing unusual. Yes, he had horses for hire, saddle and pack-horses. They knew the woods to the upper land above timber. It was sure a young camp, but they had been up often, his horses, up the Tea Creek trail, up the Kokanee mine road, and the Olask trail. All that was necessary was to let them loose at the last fixed camp, when they would be wanted no more, un-bit them and tie the lines to the horn so as not to trip 'em, turn 'em around, give 'em a flip on the haunch. They'd come home, you bet. He charged five days' hire in advance and left it to prospectors to settle up when they came back if they kept them longer. "You betchar! Great thing to have one's grub, and blankets, and truck packed up hill. One could pack oneself coming back—all the cats gone. Sure, you betchar!"

They led the pack-horse selected to the grocery store and there began to load. Into the skin-covered panniers they packed their food and (as a further thing to have one's grub, and blankets, and truck packed up hill. One could pack oneself coming back—all the cats gone. Sure, you betchar!"

Angus watched him. And it was just then that the man in brown went past. He looked at them with less seeming interest than many of those passing by. There is something about seeing a train off, seeing a steamer sail, seeing men depart into the hills that has a lure for most.

To MacPherson's mind, or eye, it was these very deliberately that his partner did what he did. Piccolo flung out the rope's end so that it gave a flick round the legs of the man in brown. He glanced round, glared, and then—to Angus's relief—passed on. Forward leapt Piccolo.

"Do you want to speak?" he snapped to the man in brown. "What do you glare at me like that for? Got any kick coming?"

The man paused and looked down at him. "I didn't say anything," he replied. "Say! I didn't say anything! You looked!"

"A man can look around, can't he?" and the man in brown walked on. "I don't want any back chat," piped Piccolo, waltzing after him.

"Come here," growled Angus. "Do not make a fool of yourself."

"You too, Scotty, you too think I'm a—"

Piccolo said no more. Having to bot- tle up the word added to his rage, and he leapt after his insulter and swinging his hand hit him with the flat on the back of the neck.

"Here quit, you mosquito!" said the man in brown, and turning delivered a blow.

But the blow missed. Piccolo had bobbed down. Angus stared. He wondered whether Piccolo had learnt box- ing in the ring or from watching a Char-

HIGHWAY NOTICE

Closing of Roads

The attention of the public is respectfully called to an Act to amend Chapter 77 of the Revised Statutes, 1923 of "The Load of Vehicles Act", passed the 9th day of April, 1924, A.D.

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and Assembly, as follows: 1.—Section 7 of Chapter 77 of the Revised Statutes, 1923, the "Load of Vehicles Act", is repealed and the following substituted therefor:

7.—(1) No person shall operate a motor vehicle that is subject to the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act on any highway in any municipality after the first day of March and before the first day of June following without the permission of the Superintendent of Highways or of such other officer as may be appointed by the Provincial Highways Board for that purpose first had and obtained.

(2) The Provincial Highways Board from time to time in each year may, and is hereby authorized and empowered with the approval of the Minister of Highways, to exempt from the provisions of Sub-section 1 of this section, for the whole or any part of the period between the first day of March and the first day of June following in the year and for which the exemption is granted, every person operating any motor vehicle or a motor vehicle of any particular class that is subject to the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act, on all highways within any municipality or municipalities which highways in the opinion of the Provincial Highways Board will not be unreasonably damaged by reason of the granting such exemption.

lie Chaplin film. The man in brown swung another blow at him, and Piccolo, leapt aside and, more astonishingly still, hit—and hit home. It was not a strong hit, but it did that: it got home. Laughter broke out on the street. A crowd gathered. The man in brown aimed to smash down his assailant, but his assailant was not where he had been, and once again got home.

The crowd whooped with joy. The noise it made was, to Angus's mind, not the noise made at a boxing contest, but at a movie house, at, in fact, the un- winding of a Charlie Chaplin film, or reel. Reel was the word. These two reeled back and forth. The big man drove sledge-hammer blows upon thin air. Piccolo was ubiquitous.

"Oh, ten to one on the humming- bird!" called a man, chuckling with laughter. "Ten to one on the humming- bird for half-an-hour. I don't know which will tire first, but ten to one he ain't hit in half-an-hour!"

The crowd shouted with joy. "Five to one on the feather-weight!" shouted another. "Go to him, Oh, go to him, you feather! Punch him. Punch him soft if you can't punch him hard!"

Piccolo heard and was furious. "I'm a—" he piped, dancing round his man, but he throttled the word on his lips.

Angus sighed, glumly considering him. That a serious matter like this should be looked upon as a mere comic display by the crowd further enraged Piccolo. Then whack! He received a blow on the forehead and went down flat on his back without bending. The onlookers were hushed for a moment.

"Geel! You shouldn't have hit him!" was hardly spoken, when Piccolo was erect again. He came up so swiftly that it seemed he had rebounded like a cottie. He had gone down without a bend, and was up without a bend, it appeared, from the sudden horizontal, flat on the ground, to the abrupt perpendicular again. The way he rose made the whole affair once again comic. The hush of horror when he fell down was ended; there went up a roar of merriment. The tears were in some men's eyes; some held their sides.

Up came Piccolo like that, then, and so suddenly as to take the man in brown entirely off his guard. He came up and leapt forward, and landed a hard punch under his opponent's chin. Back the man in brown staggered—and recovered. Then the crowd surged between them, slapping each on the back, shouting with amusement.

The man in brown walked on, grin- ning, but it was a mere veneer of a grin, a distorted grin, over an expression of chagrin and rage. Piccolo returned to Angus's side somewhat blown.

"A twig, indeed!" he remarked. "A twig!" "That's all right! That's all right!" soothed Angus. "Man, ye have held up business in this excitement! Do you know that the pile-driver stopped? The mill would have stopped too if the man at the saws was not hidden from view! Oh Pic, you are surely the white-haired boy. You are awful unexpected. A cow- puncher; then you spring it on me that you are a telegraph operator; and now—now a contortionist!"

"Contortionist!" yelled Piccolo. Angus made soothing sounds. "I didn't hit him hard enough, that was all," said Piccolo.

"Ay, ay. That was all. But you did wonders."

PORT WILLIAMS AND VICINITY

Mrs. Manning K. Ellis and daughter Mary returned home on Friday last from their trip to Vancouver, B.C. The "Loyal Workers" S. S. class went to Canard last Friday evening with their comedy, "The Comical Country Cousins" and were well received. They realized about $15.00 from their efforts. Several of the residents of Port Williams went to Wolfville on Thursday evening last to hear the operetta, "The Princess of Poppyland".

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Graves made a short trip to Sydney, leaving on Wednesday last returning on Saturday. Mr. Eldon Baker, of Kingston, who was at one time clerk in the hardware department of Mr. Geo. A. Chase, spent the week end at Port Williams House, renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. A. L. Hardy, of Kentville, has been visiting Mrs. Elizabeth Chase, Church Street.

The people of St. John's church, and all others who were fortunate enough to hear Bishop Hackenley of North Sydney on Sunday morning last, were loud in their praises of him. Bishop Hackenley is considered a very fine speaker, and one of the strongest men in his denomination. The reception which was held in his honor on the Saturday evening previous was attended by a large number of people who had the pleasure of meeting the Bishop.

Mr. Justin Gates, who has been very ill with congestion of the lungs, is slowly improving. He is not yet able to take up his work again.

Mr. Aubrey Rand has been on the sick list, threatened with tonsillitis. A number of people from here attended the recital given by Acadia Ladies Seminary students on Monday evening of this week. Both the vocal and piano work was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Chas. MacKenzie is spending a few days in Halifax with friends.

Mrs. O'Brien, of New York, is visiting her aunts, the Misses Ella and Bessie Wood. Miss Ella Wood is still confined to her room, but we all hope to see her about very soon.

Mr. Robert Chase has returned from Truro Agricultural College and is ready to take up his spring work again.

Mr. Frank Murphy, of Musquodoboit, has been the guest of his uncle, Mr. Robert Murray, of Church Street.

Mrs. E. S. Mason and daughter, Enid visited Mrs. Eldridge one day this week.

Mr. William Jacques, of Church Street, arrived home on Tuesday of this week with a car load of horses bought in Toronto.

Spring is surely here, as the steamboat "Ruby L." (2nd) arrived in the Port on Sunday morning last, taking advantage of the early tide. She was loaded on Monday with barrels by Mr. Elias L. Gates, going out on the night tide.

Miss Dorothy MacKinnon, teacher at Arlington, is at home spending her Easter holidays.

The Women's Missionary Society met at the parsonage (Mrs. O. N. Chipman's) on Wednesday, and a very instructive as well as interesting meeting was held, subject "Medical Missions". The Easter thank offering was also received.

On Sunday morning next there will be special Easter music given at the morning service at 11 o'clock. Rev. O. N. Chipman, pastor.

Mrs. Margaret Newcombe, of Church Street, spent Wednesday as the guest of Mrs. O. G. Cogswell.

Mrs. Agnes Lockwood is able to be out again after her long illness from the "flu".

Our school teachers have each gone to their respective homes, Miss Mitchell (Gaspereau) and Miss Coleman (Burlington) to spend their Easter vacations.

Mr. Carl Weaver, of Advocate, has returned to the Port, and is stopping with his aunt, Mrs. Fred Weaver.

BISHOP HACKENLEY ENTERTAINED AT CORNWALLIS

A community reception was tendered the Right Reverend John Hackenley, Coadjutor Bishop of Nova Scotia, by the rector, Rev. Gordon C. Brown, and Mrs. Brown at St. John's rectory, Cornwallis, Saturday evening, April 4. After a few remarks by the rector, the address of welcome was read by Mr. John Donaldson, Senior Warden, to which Bishop Hackenley responded very happily. A delightful social hour followed in which the Bishop moved among the gathering charming all. Bishop Hackenley preached in the Parish church Sabbath morning, and previous to his forced address made a strong plea for the families of the miners, whom from personal observation he knew to be in great distress. Bishop Hackenley was the guest of Rev. Gordon C. Brown and Mrs. Brown.

of the work and not be overworked. You men probably have noticed that a woman behind the counter does not spend half her time looking for her scissors, they are fastened by tape so they can't run away and hide.

What about that amendment to Chapter 107 of the Statutes of 1924? Is it quite honest to camouflage legislation presented to the Assembly so that it will appear harmless? This Act was passed to enable the town to borrow $5,000 to extend the sewer on Main street to the western line, the rate pay-

GREENWICH

A number of our ladies attended the Breton relief, held in Wolfville last Wednesday afternoon at the Town Hall. In the evening, a good number of both ladies and gentlemen motored into town to attend the public meeting held in the Baptist church, when Mrs. MacPherson, the president of the relief committee at Glace Bay, gave a plain and telling address.

Mr. Philip Bishop, who has spent over a month in the United States, returned home Friday afternoon. He spent the most of that time in Watertown, Vermont, with a prominent and practical bee-keeper and gained further knowledge in his work of bee culture and honey production, of which he is and has been most successful. Last year he produced over five tons of the best of honey. We wish our bustling young bee-keeper still further success in every way.

Our Girl Guides attended the special meeting held in Wolfville last Friday evening, enjoying the time thoroughly.

Greenwich Community League held its last meeting of this season on Friday evening, being a successful one, with good attendance, good program and good refreshments. At the business session, a committee was appointed for collecting food, clothes, etc. for the Glace Bay relief, all to be taken to Wolfville, packed and sent from there. The president, Miss Bessie Fraser, who was convener of a committee appointed the week before—the other members being the treasurer, Mr. Murray Forsythe, and secretary, Mr. R. Ward, announced the piano would be cared for at the home of Mrs. John Fenwick during the summer. The program included a solo, "My Little House", by Mrs. W. Curry, which was beautifully sung in her contralto voice. She received a strong, hearty encore and responded by another song, "The Roses".

The accompanist on the piano was Miss Minnie Bishop. A duologue, called "Narrow Escape", proved very amusing and was enjoyed by all, being put on by Misses Bessie Fraser and Evangeline Cox. The "Topsy-Turvy Song", sung and motioned to perfection by five school boys, brought down the house, so to speak. It was most truly enjoyed and Mr. Ward, their instructor, deserves praise. A most hearty encore greeted the boys, and they responded by giving one verse and chorus. Abundant refreshments of ice-cream and cake were served at close of program by the Social Committee. The Dramatic Committee provided program for the evening, making the closing night a joint affair. Here's hoping the young people will go on with rehearsals for the "play" and give it some evening soon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Pearson went to Windsor Saturday afternoon on the 3.06 train, returning on the 6.15.

Mr. Alex. Andrew, of the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Kentville, spent the week end here at his home.

Mrs. Robert Hatt, of Port Williams, spent Sunday here, a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schofield.

All should attend the service at our church here next Sunday afternoon and enjoy the fine program being prepared for Easter by the choir and a number of the S. S. scholars, consisting of choruses, solos and exercises by ten little girls.

Messrs. Robert Bishop and Charles Fenwick left early on Monday morning on a trouting excursion of a few days, driving out to the lakes at Black River. We wish them success.

The many friends in this community of Rev. F. H. Beals, of Wolfville, who was a former loved pastor of Canard and Port Williams, will be interested to know he very recently had an artificial limb made at the Chesley Artificial Limb factory, Hantsport. Great regret was felt by all when Mr. Beals had to have his leg amputated a year ago, owing to a serious illness.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Harris Forsythe on the birth of a fine baby girl, on Tuesday morning, April 7th.

ers having voted it, as it had been pronounced a necessity by the Provincial Health Officer, and the estimated cost was $5,000; the cost of the sewer constructed was, however, only eighteen hundred dollars, and now the Council wants the Act amended so that they may use the remaining $3,200 for other sewer purposes, without asking the rate payers to vote on such expenditure.

But there is another story about these bonds. The 1924 Council had this Act passed with the provisions that not less than five per cent. of the amount of the bonds should each year be placed in a sinking fund, and that into this fund should also be placed all the frontage tax that these monies with the accumulated interest should be used for paying off the bonds, and for no other purpose. Then like many a little boy who thinks his money will burn a hole in his pocket if he does not spend it quickly for candy, the Council proceeded to issue bonds to the extent of $3,000, before knowing, apparently, how much would be required to construct the sewer. It does really appear to me that, had the 1924 Council been composed of women,—yes, "old women", if you please—they would have seen, when considering the framing of the bill, that the frontage tax alone, when placed in a sinking fund, would, with the interest thereon, go a long way towards paying off an issue of twenty year bonds; and that five per cent. annually would, without any interest, pay them.

I should expect those "old women" to have arranged with a bank for the money to construct the sewer, before even having the bonds printed, especially where money was becoming cheaper rather than dearer, and that on completion of all sewer one of them would have taken a pencil and done some figuring, by which she would have found that, after deducting the contribution received or to be received, the proceeds of $1500 worth of bonds would be sufficient to meet the payable in seven years a sinking fund created by the frontage tax would, with four per cent. interest, be sufficient to pay off the bonds at maturity and still leave in the fund over two hundred dollars. Should any of you women, young or old, care to do some figuring, you will find that the sinking fund for the $3,000 in twenty year bonds, sold, will, when the bonds mature, have in it from the five per cent. annual payments with accumulated interest thereon, something like $4,550, and that if ninety dollars of frontage tax is received annually for fifteen years, and placed in the sinking fund, it, with interest, will, in the twenty years amount to about $2,150; and if the contribution of three hundred dollars towards the cost of the sewer is placed in the sinking fund, as it certainly should be, there will be a sinking fund of about $7,300, allowing the average interest on invested funds to be four per cent. All of this money to be $3,000 in bonds, and the Act providing that it cannot be used for any other purpose. Women tax payers, what do you think of this wonderful financing?

Yours sincerely,
AMANDA JANE,
Rose Cottage, April 6th, 1925.

MEETING OF N.S. CREDITORS OF NOTHARD & LOWE

In response to a notice sent out by Messrs. Chase & Illey, of Kentville, about sixty creditors of Nothard & Lowe met in the Court House at Kentville on Thursday afternoon, March 26th. J. N. Chute was chosen chairman and J. L. Illey, secretary.

Mr. Illey, being called upon, read a carefully prepared paper giving some details of events in connection with this firm. He was not in possession of all the facts, but apparently there were in England two large preferred creditors, viz., J. C. Houghton & Co., for $20,000, and a Trust Company holding a mortgage of all the real estate and personal property owned by the firm, was reported that Houghton's claim had been satisfied. There was some doubt as to the validity of the mortgage. This mortgage had not been recorded here until this month.

Mr. Illey advised that the meeting appoint a committee to secure legal advice both in England and in Nova Scotia, with a view to obtaining all the facts in regard to the resources and liability of the firm in England and also to advise what action was most advantageous in the interests of all the creditors in Nova Scotia.

Other solicitors present, Messrs. Roocoe, Owens, Withrow and Dennison, advised the meeting to take legal action by throwing the company into bankruptcy under the Canadian Bankruptcy Act. There was considerable discussion and as any action would involve an expenditure of money, naturally the farmers who had been robbed of the returns of their orchards did not feel disposed to put up funds unless there was some definite hope of recovering something.

J. N. Chute, Donald Smith, A. H. Caldwell, Wm. Brown and J. R. Webster were appointed a committee to have the matter in charge and to call a meeting of creditors when they thought advisable.

AN EASTER LILY

After long months of slumber brown and grey,
It dreams that April's smile is bending near,
And stirs, and from its withered covering slips;
Lifts a few leaves in the benignant light,
Then flowers, a soaring ecstasy of white,
Like a pure soul breathed upward to God's lips.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 2

Tea Production Today

If the Chinese, who first discovered tea, had realized the possibilities of the trade and had studied the nature and requirements of the plant, China might still be the largest tea producing country. Centuries of neglect, however, stunted the growth and caused the quality to deteriorate. In the mountains of Ceylon and India, tea was found to flourish. Scientific methods of cultivation and manufacture were introduced with remarkable results. Now the finest tea grown in the world and by far the largest quantity comes from these countries. "SALADA" is mainly blended from flavoury India and Ceylon teas.
