Happiness At Last!

Loyalty Recompensed.

Gaunt loved all children, and the child's liking for him brought him some kind of consolation in his misery. There was a look—or he fancied there was a look—in her pale face which reminded him of Declma. Perhaps, he thought, Declma had looked like that when she was a child. He knew, as well as the ship's doctor knew, that the little one was doomed, and his heart was full of sympathy for the anxious mother. The child told him all about herself, and often pined him with questions about himself.

"Why do you always walk about alone?" she asked, one evening.
"Well, I like it," he said. "Now, if you were able to walk about with me, Maude—"

"I wish I was," she said in her thin voice. "I often watch you when you think I'm not looking, and I see that you are always thinking, thinking. Mamma says that she's sure you've something on your mind. Have you?"

"A very great deal, Maude," said Gaunt, with a smile.
"And yet you're not going to Africa because you're ill and going to die?" said the child.

"I hope none of us is going to Africa to die," he said.
"Oh, I am," she remarked, confidentially. "Mamma thinks I am going to get better, but I know I am not. Something inside me seems to tell me so."

"We'll hope for the best, Maude," said Gaunt.
"Oh, yes," she assented, cheerfully; "but it isn't much use hoping. And now you're going to walk on the upper deck by yourself, with your arms behind your back and your 'thinking face' on. I wish I could come with you, then perhaps you wouldn't think so much; but I can't walk."

"You shall come all the same," said Gaunt; "I'll carry you."
"Will you, really? I'm very heavy, you know!"

"With a glance, which asked permission, at her mother, Gaunt lifted her in his arms, drew the shawl closely round her, and carried her to the upper deck.
She was wonderfully delighted, and prattled to him in her childish, artless way.

"You must be very strong to carry me like this," she said; "but perhaps you are used to it?"
He thought of the night he had carried Declma, and his lips set tightly.

"No; I've not had much practice in this kind of thing; but you're not very heavy, and I like carrying you."
"And I like you to carry me," she said. "I think you are a very kind gentleman."

"Thank you, Maude," said Gaunt. "That was a very nice thing to say."
Presently, he knew, by the way in which her head lay upon his breast, that she was asleep, and he carried her down to the saloon to her mother.

"Thank you, my lord," the lady said, as he placed her little one in her arms. "You must have a kind heart to be so kind to my child."
"I'm fond of children," said Gaunt.

THE "FLU" Dare Not Return

The "Flu" will certainly get a warm reception this winter if it dares show its ugly head in our peaceful midst, for the people are confident now that they can deal it such a smashing blow it will never survive. In every village, town and city in Canada, families are fortifying themselves with the greatest "Flu" annihilation known to science—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. Colds, coughs, etc.—the advance guards of Flu—are met with withering fire, and relief from these troubles is sure every time. One hundred thousand Canadians are only too willing to testify to the great healing power this remedy contains. It has conquered coughs of 35 years' standing. It cannot fail to do for you what it has done for others. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, as it is sold under a money-back guarantee to banish coughs, colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma, and prevent you from getting the "Flu." It is not a syrup, but a scientific mixture, 20 times stronger than any other cough cure. One dose gives instant relief. Price, 75 cents. Take no substitute. None genuine without my signature. Ask your druggist or by mail from W. K. BUCKLEY, LIMITED, 142 NUTTAL ST., TORONTO.

He went up on deck again. A fog was coming on, and he watched it rolling up from the horizon. He was thinking, not of the child, but of Declma. Where was she now? What would happen to her? She would not marry Mershon. But there would be some one else. Some one, please God, worthy of her. His heart ached with anguish as he thought that he had no right even to protect her. He was startled by a voice near him. It was Mr. Jackson's.

"The fog's coming on thick," he said. In the dull, expressionless tone which was habitual to him.

Gaunt assented.
"How far are we off the Canaries?" asked Jackson.

"About two days' sail. I should think," replied Gaunt.
Jackson moved away, and Gaunt paced up and down. Presently he almost ran against the captain.

"Thick fog?" he said.
The captain grunted and passed on. During the night the fog increased. Gaunt, coming on deck the next morning, found the vessel steaming in an impenetrable vapor as dense as a blanket. Every now and then she almost came to a standstill. The captain's bell seemed to ring incessantly; the mate's voice was heard at intervals gravely and sternly giving orders.

Gaunt knew that they were nearing a dangerous coast; but the other passengers, less experienced and well-informed, displayed no great interest, and felt no anxiety. They grumbled at the fog, grumbled at the captain, as if he were answerable for it, grumbled at each other; but there was no anxiety.

Gaunt himself was not apprehensive until the evening of the second day's fog. Then, as he was pacing the forward deck, he overheard the captain remark to the first mate:

"Better stop the engines!"
Gaunt had crossed the ocean too many times not to know what this meant.

The vessel had lost her reckoning; the captain did not know where he was.

Gaunt went down to the saloon. Some one was banging away at the piano; there was the usual laughing and talking. Some of the young people were, under the shelter of the music, flirting boldly; they all looked happy and free from care.

Then suddenly that peculiar noise of the screw, to which the ocean traveler so soon becomes accustomed, ceased.

Every voice was silent; the young lady at the piano stopped playing; every one glanced interrogatively at his neighbor.

"Before any question could be asked, the captain came into the saloon. There was an easy smile on his face, and when a particularly nervous gentleman exclaimed:

"The screw's stopped! What's the matter, captain?" he nodded carelessly, and replied:
"Giving the stokers a rest. Go on with your playing, Miss Brown. We shall be off again directly."

But the fog increased, and the engines did not start.
Gaunt went on deck and found the captain in close confab with the mate.

"Anything wrong, captain?" asked Gaunt, quietly.
The captain was about to make a brusque reply, but as he glanced at Gaunt's face, he seemed to change his mind.

"Yes, my lord," he said. "We've lost our reckoning. The fog has caught us, fairly caught us."
"Is there anything I can do?" asked Gaunt. "But of course there is not."

The captain shook his head.
"No." Then he said, as if with an afterthought: "Well, yes; you can go below and keep 'em easy till we get out of this. It may drift directly." But he looked into the fog doubtfully.

Gaunt, after a glance at the thick vapor, through which one could not see a yard, went to the saloon.
Miss Brown had ceased playing, and the alliance had settled upon the lately light-hearted crew. Gaunt went to the piano and struck a chord.

man had condescended to make an effort for their amusement.
"Encore! Encore! Give us another!" they cried.

Gaunt puzzled his brains, and after dint of thinking, remembered another son. It was absolutely necessary that this crowd of timid passengers should be prevented from knowing and thinking of the peril that lay so near them.

He played and sang, and little Maude stole up to the piano and leaned against him admiringly and contentedly.

"You are a clever man!" she said in her childish treble.
Gaunt rose from the piano and induced a more skilful performer to take the seat vacated by him.

"Let us have something with a chorus," he said, with a gravity which surprised his hearers, who had hitherto regarded him as the most grim and unsociable of men.

A young lady went to the piano and began the accompaniment to a comic song, to which one of the young men essayed to sing.

Gaunt heard the stern voice of the captain issuing orders, and the tramp of the crew as they obeyed.

The song proceeded, the chorus was being roared, when suddenly there came a peculiar shock and sound which struck the singers dumb.

No one knew what had happened, but through every man and woman there had run something which had sent cold fear and dread to every heart. They sprang to their feet and looked wildly at one another for a moment in silence; then the first shriek rose from a woman's lips, and was instantly followed by others.

There was a rush for the saloon door. That terrible thing, panic, had taken hold of them, and men and women fought for the narrow door-way, some of the former forgetting their manhood in their terror, pushing the women aside.

Gaunt stood near the door. He heard the captain, as he passed the supper deck door, pause and say calmly and sternly:

"Oblige me by keeping the passengers in the saloon, my lord!"
Gaunt closed the door, and stood with his back to it. She was rocking hideously, like a living thing in pain, and some of the women fell to the floor or were thrown there by the mad rush of the men for the door. Gaunt stood firm and square, with his legs apart.

"We must remain where we are," he said. "We must obey the captain's order. There may be no danger; we should certainly not better things by crowding on the deck and hindering the men."

Some of them fell back, but one or two of the men still pressed on him, and the nearest caught him by the collar of his coat.

"Who are you, to stand in our way?" he demanded in a voice thick with the frenzy of terror. "Stand aside! We're not going to be huddled up down here!"

"You, stand aside!" said one of two others, advancing threateningly.
Gaunt saw that it was necessary to make an example, and he promptly knocked the first speaker down.

"Please understand," he said, "that not one of us will leave the saloon until we have the captain's permission."
The man picked himself up, and the rest fell back a pace. Gaunt's calmness and firmness were making them ashamed of themselves.

Gaunt deliberately shot the bolt in the door, and leaned against it.
"Look to the ladies!" he said to the men. "The trouble may be over in a few minutes. We have a good captain and a good crew, and we can rely upon them to do their utmost for us."

His quiet words, his perfect self-possession, had their due effect upon the women. They ceased shrieking and screaming, but huddled together, crying and moaning in a subdued fashion.
Gaunt went on talking, doing his best to reassure them.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's "Trade Review.")

CODFISH.—The total shipments from St. John's this week were 19,184 quintals dried codfish. Messrs. A. Goodridge and the Nfld. Produce Co. sent 4,570 quintals to Bahia for Jean McKay. Messrs. Jas. Baird, Ltd., 5,857 quintals by the schooner Herbert Warren to Pernambuco. A. Goodridge & Sons 3,200 by schooner Nauta to Oporto and different shippers dispatched 5,557 quintals to Liverpool by the S.S. Digby. The shipments from the outports this week were as follows:—5,550 quintals by the schooner Union Jack from Messrs. Strong and Murrell, Little Bay, Islands to Gibraltar for orders, 3800 by schr. Russel Lake from Lake & Lake, Fortune for Oporto, 4,740 by schooner Rose from Lewis Dave, Bay Roberts for Gibraltar for orders; 4,507 quintals by schooner Gladys Hollett for W. T. Hollett, Burin for H. Fitz, and 2,800 by schooner Marie from Ambrose Eearn, Bay Bulls, for Oporto; making a total of 21,347 quintals for Oporto, which added to 19,184 for St. John's, gives a grand total of 40,531 quintals dry codfish.

CODLIVER OIL.—This week 1,875 gallons were shipped to New York, in which market there seems to be indications of an improvement in the demand. The nominal local quotation is around $1.00 per gallon, and those who hold the limited stocks that are in the market are in no hurry to sell at such a price, as they believe that the demand will improve early in 1921 and the prices accordingly.

COD OIL.—The market continues dull with very little enquiry from abroad. The demand is expected to improve at the turn of the year, when activities in the United States leather making factories will increase and oil will be needed. The local price is down to around $100 per ton this week, though a few sales have been made at lower figures.

MOLASSES.—The schooner Frances Louise arrived this week from Barbados with 325 puncheons, 65 barrels, and 116 half barrels to Messrs. A. S. Rendell & Co., which makes a total for St. John's this year of 7,500 puncheons, as compared with 12,000 the previous year. There is therefore, a shortage of about 4,000 puncheons. It will not be felt as the using of molasses has decreased about 30 per cent. The quotation is still $1.45 per gallon for Choice, and $1.50 for Fancy wholesale in the St. John's market.

FLOUR.—The import of flour to St. John's for the past week amounted to about 22,000 barrels, chiefly from Montreal. The price of wheat continues to decline and in the local market the quotation for leading brands wholesale is down to $14.80 on the recent importations. Later purchased flour will likely be cheaper. The total importation for St. John's to date is about 208,000 barrels, as against about 260,000 barrels at this date last year, a shortage of 50,000.

SUGAR.—The sugar question is kept before the public so intimately in the daily papers, that there is very little left to say this week. We can only reiterate the prices fixed till February 12th. Viz:—22½ cents per lb. for 25 barrel lots, payment by certified cheque in advance. The retail price is 24 and 25 cents per pound, except in some of the shops in the back streets, where grocers do not appear to have yet received the news that the F.C.B. has made a reduction of 4½ cents a pound on sugar.

PORK.—No change in the Pork situation since last week. The fluctuations are within narrow limits, with a downward tendency. Heavy Mess has been the principal seller in the local market for the fall trade owing to its comparative cheapness. Ham Butt is still scarce, especially in light cuts. It is believed that all pork prices have passed the highest point, and the future will see a gradual reversion to pre-war prices, which event will be hastened with plentiful grain crop this season in the United States. To-day's St. John's prices are, Ham Butt $53.00 (Choice) Fat Back and Short Mess $45.00, Ham Butt (Independent) $45.00.

BEEF.—The strong position of the Beef market is still maintained owing chiefly to the shortage of good cattle and the great demand from Europe for barreled beef. In the local market Boneless is in short supply. After this week the output demand will be about over, so that there will be no inconvenience felt by the shortage. Boneless Beef is now $10.00 per barrel below what it was this time last year, so that it is pertinent to ask farmers and butchers why they do not make a commensurate reduction in their fresh beef cuts. Some are charging the war prices still. Local barreled Beef quotations are, Ros. Flank $37.00, Family $36.00, Boneless $34.00.

POTATOES.—The price is firm today and likely to go higher. If the winter is frosty local farmers will not bring potatoes to town for sale, but if mild, prices will be easier. Imported potatoes are a little higher, following advanced freight rates by more circuitous routes than existed all the season. The quotations here today both qualities are, Imported $5.00 to $5.50, Home grown $4.00 to $4.50. These prices will likely hold all the winter under ordinary weather conditions.

HAY.—The market is strong as foreshadowed in our last review, and prices here will likely be higher by the end of the year and will probably go by gradual steps to about $60.00 before next May. The stocks held in St. John's are large and there will be no scarcity. The St. Lawrence route being now closed down, the small lots that will come forward via Halifax or North Sydney will be subject to higher freight rates. The local price is $55.00 to $55.00 per ton.

OATS.—The market is unchanged. Large shipments are due from Montreal during the next few days by the Canadian Govt. Steamers, which will be sold at the lowest prices of the season. Importers here have held off from importing as long as possible, in order to get lowest quotations, and the public will now get the benefit of their action. White and Mixed will sell at about $5.00 per sack, and Black oats at $5.40.

FEEDS.—The feed situation is very weak and prices on all kinds of feeds to arrive will be a good deal lower than the rates prevailing all the season. In this connection we suggest to the Milk Farmers that the public are expecting that they call a meeting and reduce the price of milk, and reverse the position of advancing the price when feeds advance, as they always have done, giving this as a reason. Let them now be consistent and logical.

A Funeral Seven Months Long.

After a funeral of seven months' duration, from October 29 to May 24, the body of Soawabia Phongal, the mother of King Maja Vajravada, of Siam, was, in accordance with the customs of the land, incinerated and the incinerated ashes deposited in a royal temple beneath the statue of Buddha, at Bangkok.

During the entire period of "lying in state" the dead queen's body was kept in a sitting posture in an immense golden urn at one of the royal palaces. At the last stages of the funeral ceremonies a distinguished crowd, including the highest functionaries of the realm, ambassadors and legates from all parts of the world and their wives and suites, who had gathered in the plaza of the royal palace, heard the far-off booming of cannon at intervals of a minute.

This marked the start of the funeral cortege from the palace, where the body had reposed so many months, to the Buddhist monastery, Jetubon, where the big urn containing the body was transferred from a palanquin to the jewel-glittering car of state. Two and a half hours later, the people in the royal plaza heard the majestically melancholy strains of the "Dead March in Saul." Military band after band lined the street the entire length of the procession and whenever the band which led the cortege stopped playing another one to which it had come abreast would strike up the music, so skilfully timing itself that the most attentive listeners along the route would have found it hard to tell when the notes of the first band ceased and those of the succeeding ones began.

Reference Due to the Dead. The golden urn was the object placed highest in the procession, for the deference due to the dead person's rank required that no living person be permitted even to look out of the window of an upper story, lest it bring him or her to a level higher than that occupied by the passing queen.

Royal princes knelt in prayer beside and on steps below the urn, and it was they who were chief in removing the sacred vessel whenever in the course of the ceremonies it was necessary to transfer it from one place to another. And even they never touched the urn until they had pronounced a prayer and brought their hands to their own foreheads and breasts.

In the centre of the plaza was a large edifice constructed for the occasion—the funeral pyre, phra meru, as the Siamese call it. It looked like a temple of ample dimensions, containing four spacious rooms and capped with towers, on the four sides of each of which were faces of Buddha, to symbolize the Buddha's all-seeing power.

Here the golden urn with its body was carried by the royal princes, while the king, who with the other great dignitaries and the Buddhist archbishop and other prelates had descended from their equipages of state, stood at the door of the inner chamber of the pyre to receive the body.

During the night, when all had left except certain officials appointed for the purpose, the actual cremation took place. And on the following day just honors almost as elaborate as those of the day of the funeral were paid to the ashes, the king and crown prince especially being prominent in these.

The Founder of Eton College.

Henry VI, who was born at Windsor on December 6, 1421, and succeeded his father, the victor of Agincourt, when nine months old, experienced the extremes of Fortune in the course of his troubled life of 59 years. Crowned King both of France and of England, he died in the Tower so obscurely that the manner of his death never has been known, although persistent popular tradition asserted that the Duke of Gloucester, "Richard Crookback," slew him there. Throughout the stars fought against him. In the time of his minority almost all

The Boy Bishops at Salisbury.

One of the most curious customs anciently observed in connection with the anniversary of a Saint's death was that which of St. Nicholas' Day—December 6—was formerly observed at Salisbury Cathedral, or Old Sarum, as it is called. This consisted of the choice of a boy Bishop from among the choristers, whose term of office lasted from the date until Innocent's Day, twenty-two days later. The boy was invested with the full authority of a genuine prelate, dressed in episcopal crozier. His fellow choristers, for the time named, acted as prebendaries, and were obliged to render due homage and respect as such. The evening before Innocent's Day there was a special service, attended by the juvenile prelate and his usual juvenile clergy in solemn procession, chanting hymns as they marched up the aisle to the choir. There the little Bishop took his seat upon the episcopal throne, surrounded by his juvenile clergy, when a service was rendered in remembrance of the massacre by Herod, of "all the male children that were in Bethlehem." Multitudes used to assemble to witness the spectacle, and so great was the crush, that special enactments were passed to prevent any undue crowding of the little fellows. If the boy elected as prelate died during his term of office, his funeral was conducted with all the pomp and ceremony observed on the demise of a veritable prelate, and he was buried in his full canonicals. There is still to be seen a monument to one who actually died during his brief period of official life, carved in stone, with mitre on his head, and crozier in his hand, while two angels support a canopy over his head. The custom was suppressed in England in July, 1548, but lingered for some time after.

Will Not Enter Protest.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, declared yesterday that the embassy here would not protest to the United States Department on the Union Club incident in New York, Thursday last, when a mob of five thousand "Irish sympathizers" attacked and partially wrecked the Club building because a British flag was displayed from one of its windows. Sir Auckland pointed out that the flag had not been injured, and said he regarded the incident as purely a matter between two factions of United States citizens.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

HOW SHALL YOU GET THROUGH IT?

"Well, how did you get through it?"
Last year, on the day after Christmas, I heard one woman ask another that in all seriousness, "Oh, pretty well."
We hear a great deal said about the Christmas spirit. Presumably we mean thereby a spirit of love and rejoicing—a sense of peace on earth, good will towards men.

day before Christmas were Christmas and thus have everything done a day early and avoid that last minute rush.
Don't think of a dozen extra things to crowd in just because you have this extra day, but keep it for rest and get into the right state of mind for enjoying Christmas.
No one who is utterly weary can enjoy Christmas as it should be enjoyed, or make others enjoy it. Make up your mind that you will not let yourself get into that state of exhaustion where frayed nerves make the day a burden instead of a joy.
Make up your mind that you will have the peace-on-earth, good will towards men Christmas spirit this year, instead of the "get through it!" Christmas spirit.

Business Slump in Nfld.

LARGELY DUE TO POLITICS, DE-CLARES EDITOR OF WESTERN STAR.

"Politics has a lot to do with the continued press stories referring to Newfoundland's business slump," was a remark made to the Post by A. L. Barrett, editor of the Western Star, St. John's, Newfoundland, who is an interesting visitor in Sydney. Mr. Barrett arrived here on Saturday and will remain for a couple of days.

"While Newfoundland has not escaped the depression which other countries of the world are passing through at the present time, it has been more fortunate perhaps than many. The cause of the present conditions is due to the successes with which the people have met with during the last few years, and instead of reserving their capital, they spent their money freely in extending their businesses and enlarging their stocks, and to-day they are faced with a depressing condition owing to the difficulty encountered in liquidating."

Speaking of the herring fisheries, Mr. Barrett said that the catch was good, especially at Bay of Islands. "Several new packing factories have been opened up here, and these together with the old ones already established are kept very busy and incidentally there is work for everybody. There is no lack of employ-

JUST A BOY.—
He's not eager to be bad,
If the right he always knew,
He would be as old as you,
Were he now exceeding wise,
He'd be just about your size;
When he does things that annoy,
Don't forget, he's just a boy.

Could he know and understand,
He would need no guiding hand,
But he's young and hasn't learned
How life's corners must be turned,
Doesn't know from day to day
There is more in life than play,
More to face than selfish joy—
Don't forget he's just a boy.

Being just a boy, he'll do
Much you will not want him to;
He'll be careless of his ways,
Have his discolored days,
Wild, wilful and headstrong, too,
Just as, when a boy, were you;
Things of value he'll destroy,
Put, reflect, he's just a boy.

THE USUAL LUCK.

I bought a hundred dollar suit, one day when I was feeling flush; and people said I looked the part, arrayed in costly dark green plush. I proudly loafed around the town, and told how much my raiment cost, and then the price of clothes came down, and life became a killing frost. Then Jinks and Jimson fell in line, and so did Smith and Brown and Jones, and bought them suits the same as mine, and only dug up sixty bones. I to the tailor went, in tears, and handed him some hot abuse, whereat he smote me with his shears, and roundly soaked me with his goose. I bought a handsome limousine (and placed a mortgage on my shack), and it was painted Brewster green; two thousand plunks it set me back. Then for a week I rode around, inflated with a foolish pride, on vain and giddy errands bound; I gave her gas and let her slide. And then the price of cars was cut by makers who were fond of fun, and Johnson, Perkins and McNutt bought cars like mine for half the mon. And so no smiles my face bedeck, I spring no glad and joyous yips; I always get it in the neck when I go forth on shopping trips. No matter what I buy to-day, the price goes down to-morrow noon; then wiser shoppers go their way, and save the groat and pignone.

Much Enduring Man.

Man surpasses most of the wild animals in the matter of resistance to heat and cold. The coldest town in the world is Yakutsk, in Siberia, and here for long periods almost every winter the spirit thermometer indicates forty-five degrees below zero. Horses and cattle perish; even cats die with the cold, yet a population of several thousand human beings survive. In Northern Alaska the cold is often so great that a bowl of water flung from a window falls to the ground in rattling ice crystals. Yet man lives and flourishes under these conditions. Man is equally tolerant of extreme heat. He can live in the Sudan, where temperatures have been recorded of a hundred and twenty degrees in the shade, and where the heat of the sun beating on the sand is sufficient to roast an egg. More wonderful still, he can spend as much as ten or fifteen minutes at a time in the hottest room of a Turkish bath, where the temperature is thirty degrees above that of boiling water and which is an ordeal which would kill almost any other warm-blooded animal.

Encourage Home Industries.

The Trade Review, in its current issue, gives an additional boost to the resolutions passed by the Newfoundland Industrial Workers' Association recently, and carries on by practical illustration the ideas of that body as expressed by the sentiments of its members in session convened. The daily press has placed itself on record as being entirely in accordance with the request made by the N.I.W.A., that all patriotic Newfoundlanders buy the articles manufactured in their own country rather than those made in and imported from foreign countries. There is reason as well as sound finance in adopting such a plan of purchase. In the first place the money is kept within the dominion, thereby making it possible for the local factories to continue working full time and employ the maximum number of workers. In the second, a flip of this nature given to home-made articles would so encourage the manufacturers that they undoubtedly would make every effort to increase their output, which would mean a corresponding addition to the number of operatives employed. And in the third place the circulation of money spent on local products would create a revival of trade in other directions, and incidentally bring more golden grist to the mill.

Home manufactures number amongst them many necessities. Local factories produce articles which are always in demand by all classes. Boots and shoes, clothing (outside and inside), soap, paints, oiled clothes, lines, twines, tobacco, confectionery, stoves, castings, nails, biscuits, bread, and other commodities in general use, the purchase of which by consumers and users would add greatly in relieving the present situation in local labor circles. Every single item in the list named above, when imported into the dominion from outside producers and salesmen and purchased by our own people mean just the value of the article in a loss to the community of labor. Every item of the above list, when bought locally as the product of home industry, means just that much extra money kept into circulation in the dominion. And it means more, because it helps to build up, to increase, to enlarge local products and the places in which they are manufactured. It means further more employment, and more employment means more money to spend, and greater opportunities for employees. It is a first duty on consumers, especially under present circumstances to buy and use only home-made goods. It is not only patriotic, it is common sense and should appeal to all Newfoundlanders.

The quality and finish of local manufactures from a tenpenny nail up to a suit of dress clothes, is equal, if not superior to, its imported equivalent. Skilled and competent labor produces every article and the majority of the artisans and mechanics and finishers are Newfoundlanders born and bred. Local industries were established and created to supply a demand, which for a long time had been made on foreign countries, no less than to give employment to hundreds who would otherwise have been obliged to leave home and give the best that was in them to building up the industries and trade of other countries. And it is not fair to either manufacturers or employees that we should turn aside from their products and give preference to imported articles, probably the output of people not in sympathy with either ourselves or our principles. It is robbing our own labor of its rightful inheritance to turn down local manufactures. Why buy the products of sweat shops in other countries, when as good and in many cases a better article produced under just and equitable conditions of labor at home, can be had for less money, and by no means of inferior quality. Such goods as we have to buy abroad let us buy, but there is no reason why articles of local manufacture should not be more freely purchased than they have been. The prosperity of any country depends upon the encouragement of its industries. Newfoundlanders have not, as a whole, been supporting their own in the way they should have been, and the result is being witnessed at the moment by factories running at half time or with only half their working staff kept on. It is not too late to retrieve such an unfortunate situation. The remedy is in our own hands. Let the slogan for the future be "Buy Newfoundland Goods, and Encourage Home Industries."

"That on November 19th they did assault Peter Hickey, Wm. Power, Wm. Russell, Augustus Bishop and Joseph Bishop;
"That on the same date they occasioned Peter Hickey bodily harm, assaulted Ellen Power, Augustus Bishop and Joseph Bishop, and incidentally assaulted Alice O'Neil."

At the Premier's special request, there was no public ovation, and only a few personal friends and a small number of curious people, anxious to see how our leader looked after his strenuous holiday, were at the station to greet him. The elements were so overjoyed at his safe return, that perforce, they had to weep tears of joy the whole morning.

The Old Ladies' Home, which is under the management of the Cowan Mission, is now filled up, and already there is a small waiting list, which is proof enough, if any were wanting, of the necessity and usefulness of this institution. In the meantime, the Cowan Mission is sadly in need of funds, which with to carry on their good work. The proceeds of the sale of work to be held on Wednesday next by the Thursday Wanderers, will go towards the Home, and the sale should therefore be well patronized.

MONDAY, Dec. 6.
We hear remarkable accounts of the value of Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture in cases of Bronchitis, coughs, and colds, and in the sort of weather we are having nowadays, alternately frosty and sleety, and blowing all the times it is well to have something right at hand that can be depended upon to prevent a cold from going very far. We believe Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture to be the very thing needed for this purpose. Price 75c. a bottle. ### "Free Speech."

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir,—In view of the fact that no ban, as yet, has been placed on the expression of "Free Speech," and that the atmosphere of the "Star Chamber" has been purified by many years of subsequent liberty and emancipation of the subject, both in his thoughts, ideas, and expression, I feel that it is (still as yet) due to me as a citizen to be able to write or speak without fear or favor what I honestly believe to be a hypocrite what I pretend to believe, or as a caterer to a section of thin-skinned people whose ideas—or pretense—is gauged according to the "pap" and "gain" of human prestige.

A number of gentlemen banded together under the insignia of the Loyal Orange Association, have discussed in convalescence the advisability of the organization of "The Self-Determination League for Ireland," and the views of that League, forgetting that there are several things to be said and written in favor of that League. The Loyal Orange Association are I take it acting according to their lights, and are but following the programme planned out by that general body of the world over. That idea—the principal of the league—is to oppose the Irishman, but I think it is going a bit far when the L.O.A. shall dictate as to what is free expression of speech and what is not and I furthermore feel that these gentlemen are over-reaching in their prerogative when they, approaching the Government, demand that certain writers (in a cause as an opposition they openly advocate) shall be muzzled, and that grandest thing a man can possess—"Free Speech" taken from him.

The views and the attempted design to have those views made legally statutory facts, are it is apparent illogical and show quite plainly that current history is being neglected in its reading by those gentlemen.

To-day in England, some of the leading journalists, public speakers, and erudite propagandists are favoring the movement of "Irish Home Rule," and no public ban has been placed on their plea. Asquith, of whom Bottomley says that "no more impressive voice is heard in the British Commons," speaks to-day along the self same lines that govern the movement of the Irish League in this city, and yet he is neither denounced, silenced or cast out. Is it that freedom of pen and speech are a concrete thing in the Old Country, and but a myth here?

It is neither sporty or manly to threaten a man with the loss of his position if he shall continue to write in debate—as he would speak in debate—the truth as he sees it.

The slave of old dared not answer the master and it bred in him a seething hate and detestation. "The world owes every man a living" has been written, and I think that it is a pure piece of tyranny to sitch from the honest speaker or writer, the means of securing that living for himself and for his family. The gentlemen of the L.O.A. would forget that every member of that "Self-Determination League for Ireland and Newfoundland" is the son or the grandson of an Irishman. Every one of them are Irish descent and was it not the Irish who were instrumental in colonizing this home of ours?

The L.O.A. forget that the majority of our boys who went to their deaths in freedom's cause, were the descendants of these same Irish pioneers.

They forget what Lord Roberts said in his magnificent speech at Manchester in 1895, just after he had been made Chief of the Forces in Ireland, "My hat off to the Irish,—the warmest-hearted people I know." They forget that magnificent action and those immemorial words of the late Good Victoria, when she bade her Irish soldiers wear the Irish emblem on St. Patrick's Day and her words, "I honor my Irish children by having them honor their native emblem on this their own day."

Is this the hour to raise strife in this country because a clean-cut debate is on—a public discussion of a matter that is being fearlessly developed in England and elsewhere? Is the open and independent jurisprudence of a public question to be strangled by the voice of an opposition? and is it fair play to denounce the utterances of honorable and respectable citizens, when their pen and voice are used towards an international matter and its general discussion?

In the ranks of "The Self-Determination League for Ireland," as well as in the Loyal Orange Association, there are representative citizens whose views are honest and whose right should not be questioned. To muzzle them is tyranny, and but hieing back to the horror of the past, when man was a serf and what is perhaps worse a sycophant. I do not question the right of the L.O.A. to voice their sentiments along the lines of the Order of that Society nor do I see how they could as such a body, hesitate to take a stand of antagonism towards any kind of "Home Rule" for Ireland, but as a citizen with a citizen's rights I do question the movement of that organization to interfere with the rights of free speech, and I for one do deny the attempt to unsettle what was no more than a clean-cut debate, and to make of it all a disturbing factor in our midst.

This should not be, and the resolutions passed by the gentlemen of the L.O.A. should stand as resolutions effecting the work and the views and the powers of that Association only.

To have such resolutions so far-reaching as to destroy any other body of citizens, or to injure the members of any other body of citizens, in their living or position, is to record those resolutions and the power behind them as a menace to all and sundry outside that Association; and it is to give a power, to be used, at will, by a minority of persons to the detriment of the many outside who hold free and independent views and under the law will express them.

I would like to point out to the gentlemen of the L.O.A. that the desire and wish of the members of the Self-Determination League for Ireland is that Ireland be granted the right to determine how she shall form her own method of self-government, and I am not aware that any member of that League fosters the idea of an Irish Republic.

The League is not inimical to the order of Dominion Home Rule as we here in Newfoundland enjoy it, and if Ireland so desires it, and the whole matter has been perverted by the resolving body of the L.O.A., I fail to see how or why, there is any diatribe to the Crown in the expressions of the Self-Determination League that Ireland be given the choice of government, and never was the "Hon! sol qui mal se pense" idea more or better conveyed than in the resolution of any society that condemns something that never in the letter or the spirit existed.

To stir up sectarian strife, to antagonize the creeds and the churches, to set fellowman against each other, to bring racial and religious embitterment into our midst, is, I judge, wrong and poor weapons to the uniting of any cause. None of this existed at that time when our boys marched away shoulder to shoulder, and fought together and died together, and are mourned and honored now irrespective of their creeds or nation.

The unknown hero that was placed in the great Westminster Abbey a few days ago, may have been an Irish lad, but no less would he be honored or no less would be the touching and splendid tribute of the King who placed upon that historic bier the tender and genuine tribute of a royal as well as a kindly monarch. After such a war as has ravaged the whole condition of humanity, and near upset the tranquility of the world, home peace might at least be looked for.

This is an epoch when mutual aid, assistance and vitalising kindred spirit should be given each to each other. Merciless and antagonising discord is a poor thing amongst us, and can have but one deplorable issue—Hate, animosity and strife.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindly insertion of this letter, which I beg to assure you has been written only with one object in view, merely "Fair Play to all."

I remain, sincerely yours,
P. J. KINSELLA.

Dec. 6, 1920.

The "Veteran."

The editor of the Veteran, a monthly magazine published in the interest of the Great War Veteran's Association of Newfoundland, has our thanks for a copy of the initial number, which came to hand this morning. Following the introduction explaining the mission of the journal, and its aim and purpose, the December number, contains autographed messages from Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Prime Minister of Great Britain, Field Marshal Earl Haig, Lord Northcliffe and Col. A. E. Bernard, announcing his resignation as president of the G.W.V.A. The illustrations are numerous and typical, the articles readable and interesting, and altogether the making of one of which the editor, Mr. Fred R. Emerson, and his staff may well be proud. The Telegram welcomes the Veteran to the ranks, and hopes that it will have a successful and long life.

Sugar 35 Cents a Pound

Not in North Sydney, of course, but at Port au Port, Nfld. A gentleman who arrived from the latter place this week told the North Sydney Herald that outrageous prices are charged there for the simple necessities of life. Sugar 35 cents a pound, flour $18.50 a barrel are samples of the high cost of living prevailing at Port au Port. According to the same excellent authority mail order houses outside of Newfoundland are even prevented the use of the mails for distribution of catalogues in the above district, and asserts that scarcely a fishing concern on the coast can escape bankruptcy, owing to the conditions governing the exportation and sale of fish. ## Precision Fire

In every instance the Remington Model 51 Automatic Pistol performs its task with precision. The flat matted sighting rib, matted to prevent the gleam of reflected light, and the low sights peculiar to this pistol alone, have proved a great aid to exact shooting. The simplicity of aiming—the ease of firing—the superior balance of the piece—all insure accurate work.

Memorial for Heroic Dead.

The Prince of Wales has brought back with him from the Antipodes a very beautiful conception of a form of memorial for the soldiers who have fallen in the great war.

He approached Ballarat, the great gold mining city in the Australian colony of Victoria, by means of a broad avenue, some fifteen miles long, lined on either side by trees, which are flourishing, and that bid ere long to form a sort of foliage domed roof for the entire thoroughfare.

Each tree planted within the last three or four years, and there are about five thousand of them, commemorates a Ballarat boy who gave his life for the empire at the front in England.

Boycotting British Goods

Chicago, Nov. 29.—The latest thing in picketing or pickarding by Sinn Féin sympathizers took place here last night when a party of them made up of men and women, blocked State street with signs advising a boycott of British goods. No attempts was made by the police department to stop this new form of anti-British manifestation.

Some of the placards read: "Buy nothing made in England." "The blockade is England's weapon, the boycott is our answer." "Buy nothing in England until Ireland is made free."

The resolution to boycott England was passed on November 21 by the Friends of the Irish Republic, and a committee headed by M. J. Flannery was appointed to list British goods.

S. S. Day at Gower St. Church.

(I. C. M.)

Success may truly be written on the banners of old Gower Street Sunday School after yesterday's anniversary. Like all anniversaries, it was well prepared for and much hard work was done to ensure the best results, and the beautifully ideal weather of the day crowned the rendition of the programme from first to last.

The morning and evening services were conducted by the Rev. T. B. Darby, B.A., and by the Rev. Dr. Curtis, and the afternoon service was entrusted to the guidance of our esteemed citizen, the Hon. R. K. Bishop. All these gentlemen are well known for their zeal in every good work, and it is pleasing to note that their arduous work is still fresh, and that they are still able to devote their time to Sunday School interests. They all did good yesterday, and their words, as well as their presence, were a source of inspiration to the entire school. The programme of the afternoon was varied and consisted of a choice solo by Mrs. C. Garland and also a reading by Miss Irene Thompson, and a recitation by Miss Estella Barnes, and as a setting to it all the venerable Dr. Cowperthwaite, who for such a long time ministered to the spiritual wants of the Gower Street congregation, interspersed a few timely remarks.

But there was one special note struck at the service which reminded the school that away in the Far East they were being remembered, for word had just been received that the Rev. S. A. Soper, B.A., had arrived safely at his mission in Western China. This was indeed a timely message, because Mr. Soper is not only a Gower Street scholar, but he is representative in the mission field.

The preacher of the day, to whom was entrusted the sermons and the address, was the Rev. E. C. French, Pastor of the Blackhead circuit. Mr. French was greeted with splendid congregations, and his message to them at all the services was earnest as well as inspirational. His remarks in the main treated of the home, the church and the school, and they showed what important factors these institutions are, and what a vital place they occupy in society and how much depended upon their standard of teaching. These agencies represented all that is best in life, and if their principles were carried out, there would be more prevention of error, and therefore less need of reform. This included Sunday School work. Hence the value of the latter.

The preacher brought much dignity to his work, and in all he said he displayed deep research and special preparation, and showed himself "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." We thank him for his help, and congratulate Mr. W. H. Peters and his staff upon the signal success of their anniversary day.

Of the singing and music we do not deem ourselves competent to write, but we take the liberty to state that the solo rendered at the evening service by our esteemed citizen and war veteran, Mr. Lloyd Woods, was one of the best of his many successes.

Put in for Repairs.

Saturday evening the S.S. Turret Court, bound from Carbonear to Sydney, put into port in a disabled condition. The ship had left the former place at 1 o'clock on Wednesday, after discharging a coal cargo for the Railway Commission, and was in the vicinity of St. Pierre when she encountered a heavy breeze. Being light she received a severe drubbing, seas continually sweeping the decks. In the height of the storm other main bearings in the engine room got out of order, making it impossible for the ship to proceed on her course. Temporary repairs were effected and the ship was nursed along to port. The steamer is now at the dock premises, where the necessary repairs will be made.

Student.

Sequel to Was Time Courtship When Yankee Naval Men Were Fogged at North Sydney—Ceremony Took Place Nov. 24.

Miss Madge Violet Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Evelyn, Queen Street, and Mr. Alfred Jukavooran, of New York City, were united in marriage at the home of the bridegroom's parents, 444 W. 165th street, New York, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 24th, by the Rev. Geo. Benton Smith, pastor of the Chelsea Methodist Episcopal church, in the presence of a select number of friends.

The bride, who was dressed in silver tulle, adorned with white carnations, was attended by Naomi, sister of the bridegroom, whose cousin, Mr. Arthur Seraydarian, acted as best man. In the absence of her father, the bride was given away in marriage by her future father-in-law. The wedding being private the observance of the form of the ritual was simple, but completely enveloping in its beauty.

After the ceremony luncheon was served when all those present expressed their delight at the charming appearance of the bride, and have sent their congratulations to the bride's parents in North Sydney.

The groom was a young naval student when the United States entered in the struggle, and was one of the officers attached to the U.S. airplane station here.—N. Sydney paper.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Meigle sailed yesterday for North Sydney to load freight for here. S.S. Manola sailed yesterday for Sydney where she will load coal for this port.

Schooner Norma W. Strong has entered to load codfish for Gibraltar from the Monroe Export Co.

Schooner General Allenby has cleared from Grand Bank with 4646 qts. of codfish shipped by S. Harris.

S.S. Glencoe was detained at Hr. Breton Saturday owing to stormy weather.

Repairs to the S.S. Solberg are now nearing completion and it is expected that the steamer will be able to resume her voyage to Hampton Roads this week.

S.S. Patria, 15 days from Sunderland arrived in port yesterday in ballast. The ship met with stormy weather all through the voyage and on nearing this coast became badly leaved up about the decks. The Patria is practically a new ship being launched in February 1920. The ship is consigned to A. H. Murray & Co. and will take a load of fish to the Mediterranean.

Body Arrived by Express

The remains of Charles Steel of Northern Bay, who was killed at Temiskaming in Northern Ontario, a few days ago was brought to Brigus junction on Saturday night by the express and transferred to the Carbonear train for carriage to Northern Bay via Carbonear. Steele, who was a fine young man of splendid physique, having made a poor voyage at the fishery, went with some other young men, to Canada in search of employment. He located at Temiskaming where he met his death, although how, is not as yet known. The Telegram extends its sincerest sympathy to the sorrowing mother, whose other son, Eleazer, was killed whilst with the Canadians in France, during the war.

Parishioners Meet.

A meeting of the parishioners of St. Patrick's, presided over by His Honour Judge Morris, was held in the Holy Cross Schools on Sunday morning for the purpose of finalizing matters in connection with the presentation to be made to their former Pastor, Bishop-elect Renouf of St. George's. The Treasurer's report showed that the amount realized by voluntary contributions will be up to expectations, and will be in keeping with the best traditions of the Parish.

The Consecration will take place at the Cathedral on Wednesday morning next, Feast of the Immaculate Conception. It was stated at the meeting that through the kindness of the Importers' Association, the Catholic employees in the stores and offices will be afforded an opportunity of attending the ceremony.

New Traffic Route to North Sydney.

The inauguration of the steamship service between Argentia, the new terminal on the southern coast of Newfoundland, and North Sydney is now simply a matter of weather conditions. Such was the information of Mr. Spracklin, agent of the Newfoundland Railway Commission here to a query last evening by the North Sydney Herald.

Everything is nearly in readiness at the above terminal in Placentia Bay for the transferring of freight and passengers to the Commission's steamers Kyle, Meigle or any other craft placed in the service. The commission, taking action toward economy of operation, has taken the thrills out of cross country travel in winter, and has decided to abandon during the winter months the exposed, mid-interior section of the road, where the line ascends the backbone of the country, a range of hills known as the Topsails. Passengers will be saved the previous dangers and delays by diversion to a steamship route from North Sydney to the southern Newfoundland port of Argentia. For local transportation purposes, auxiliary railway services will be established on each coast.

Because of the geographical and industrial features of the island colony, which have drawn most of the quarter-million inhabitants to countless harbors and hamlets on the coast, where they ply their fishery pursuits, steamship service is an essential and considerable supplement to the railroad lines. The commission for this reason has taken over with the railway the whole system of inter-bay and coastwise water connections, which previously have been operated jointly by the Reid-Newfoundland Company, owners of the railroad, and the Government. Thus, in a country of few trunk highways and of no trolley cars outside of St. John's, the commission is administering virtually a monopoly of transportation mediums, both of passengers and freight.

What the eventual result of the commission's administration and recommendations will be is uncertain. It is expected to report to the next session of the Legislature, when the question of continuing the commission under further temporary appointment, or of adopting a permanent plan of government, or private or joint operation, will come up. Wearing out of such plans will involve several problems that go back to the early history of the road.—North Sydney Herald.

Wrestling Match.

On Friday, Dec. 10th, a wrestling championship tournament will be held in the C.L.E.C. Armoury, under the auspices of the C.L.E.C. Athletic Association. As some considerable time has elapsed since the last event of this kind was held here, a great deal of interest should be shown in the contest. There will be competitors for the bantamweight, featherweight, welterweight, middleweight and heavyweight championships and with such men as Marshall, Hammond, Hennebury, Skiffington and others entering for these events, interesting contests are assured. The champion in each class will receive a silver cup. As Mr. S. P. Cullen will referee, a square deal is assured all the competitors for there are few who know the game as well as Mr. Cullen. Great credit is due the C.L.E.C. Athletic Association for the work they are doing in encouraging athletics, and it is to be hoped that the public will show its appreciation of their efforts by filling the Armoury on Friday night.

McFarlane, was attended by her sister, Miss Mildred McFarlane, who acted as bridesmaid, whilst the groom was supported by Mr. F. Hickey. A Trust Company as Executor

A Trust Company as Executor affords the Estate for which it is acting all the advantages of the best private Executor with none of the weaknesses which are inseparable from individual Executorships.

In addition, there are many exclusive advantages possessed by a Trust Company which should be carefully considered by all intending Testators before appointing an Executor for the administration of their Estates.

If you are interested, communicate with the Officers of this Company and they will explain the matter fully to you.
