London, March 5 .- It is reported that after the division on the vote of censure the queen advised Mr. Gladstone to resign and reconstruct a ministry based upon a thorough and consistent foreign policy Mr. Gladstone declined to resign, maintaining that he held power under commission from the people.

WHAT WILL IT LEAD TO?

Proposed Loyal Demonstration at Dublin

in Hener of the Prince of Wales.

Dublin, March 5.—The loyalists will hospitality to the prince while he was the guest of the lord-lieutenant. The lord mayor says he had not the remotest intention of offering an insult to the prince. The letter is certain to cause a furious second. the next meeting of the Dublin council.

The Parnellite Policy. DUBLIN, March 5 .- At a meeting nationalists this evening a resolution was adopted calling upon the municipal councillors to preserve an attitude of dignified neutrality in reference to the visit of the Prince of Wales, and warning them that any act inimical to the Parnell party will lose them the support of their constituents. An amendment expressing approval of Lord-mayor O'Connor's apology and promising a respectful reception was not seconded. It was stated that the Irish party had no wish to be discourteous, but repudiated the statement of the Freeman's Journal that the Irish would welcome the

By Advice of the Queen. London, March 5 .- It is expected the government will make a statement explain ng that the visit of the prince of Wales to Ireland is not in consequence of suggestions made by Earl Spencer but originated with the queen. The prince has been warned of the opposition of the Parnellites but refuses to abandon the Parnellites but refuses to abandon the visit. He and the princess will land at Kingstown April 16. The tone of the nationalist press is favorable to the visit.

Perfecting the Scheme For Sending an Irish Brigade to Fight the British. New York, March 5 .- An important secret meeting of revolutionary Irishmen American at Washington Heights last evening, and plans were discussed for the elaboration of the program decided upon by the Clan-na Gael and other societies to end an Irish brigade to Egypt to assist the mandi to fight England. Only men who held commissions in the fenian army in 1869, and Irishmen who fought in the Union ranks, were present. There were no dynamiters invited. The men at the meeting represented Irish revolutionary societies in this country which have 20,000 men enrolled and sworn to take up arms at any time for Ireland when called upon by the executive of the organization. The result of the meeting is not positively known, but it is believed that 700 men will be drawn from the Clanna Gael in New York, Brooklyn, Trcy, Albany and Rochester, to form an Irish brigade in conjunction with men from Chicago and other cities of the west for service in the BERLIN, March 5 -The North German Gazette characterizes as wilful perversions of the truth the attempts of the English newspapers to construe Bismarck's speech in the reichstag on Monday as indicating a desire to contribute to Mr. Gladstone's everthrow. Bismarck's object, the Gazatte avers, was to state the real facts as to Germany's attitude in regard to Egypt, so as to retain the confidence of foreign countries, whose belief in Germany's honesty would have been seriously shaken if Bis marck had advised England to take Egypt.

A Mission of Peace. BERLIN, March 5 .- Count Herbert Bismarck had an interview with the emperor before leaving for London. The majority of the newspapers believe his mission is one of peace.

London, March 6 -All the morning papers have leaders upon Herbert Bis-marck's visit to England, and express the hope that his mission will reconcile Ger-many and Eggland.

A Check to Assisted Imm Some little while ago, when the Trades and Labor representatives were making fierce attacks on the dominion governme because of too much assisted 'immigration we said it would in all probability turn out that while they had been talking th government had been acting in the matte to some purpose. In the house the other day Hon, Mr. Pope thus replied to two questions put by Mr. Mackintosh:

questions put by Mr. Mackintosh:

In view of the early completion of the work on the C. P. R., instructions were given to the high commissioner in December last that no more general laborers or navvies should be assisted or encouraged to come to Canada, nor any more mechanics and artisans. The department also instructed that the greatest exertions should be made to induce agricultural laborers, agriculturists with families and female domestic servants, both in the United Kingdom and on the continent, to come to Canada. Having received from workingmen reasonable remonstrances against the assistance of a certain class of laborers that come into competition with them, the department is considering the best means to assist agricultural laborers and servants, and to exclude from encouragement those complained of by the workmen of the cities and manufacturing districts.

changes in the cigar duties, and the reasons why, is of such particular interest just now that we quote it entire: It is stated, and it is quite clear from the returns down to the present time, and from the indications of the effect of the Scott act in the future, that we shall use a considerable excise revenue next year, and as oigars manufactured in the dominion of Canada to-day pay into the committee of the state As a consider of the early of the early food as revenue next year, and as cigars manufactured in the dominion of Canada to-day pay into the treasury about 10 per cent. of their value of excise duty, it was thought, as the general revenue tariff is 20 per cent. that the government might fairly get out of the cigars a portion of the money which they have lost on whisky and beer. [Cheers.] It is proposed on cigars of all descriptions, made in whole or part from foreign or imported leaf tobacco or any substitute therefor, an excise duty of 30 per thousand, which is double the duty at present, shall be paid, making it about 20 per cent. that the consumer will have to pay instead of 10. On cigars of all descriptions made solely from tobacco grown in Canada and in manufactories where no foreign leaf is used or kept, the duty shall be $$ per thous and instead of $1.50. On wet snuff a specific duty of 12 cents when put up in packages of less than five pounds. The present duty is 8 cents. The trade is anxious and willing to put up snuff in small packages and to pay additional duty, and we are willing to take the money and let them have the advantage. (Hear, hear.) On cigars and cigarettes the customs duty is to be just double what it is now. It is now 60 cents per pound and the new duty will be $1.20 specific, and 20 per cent. ad valorem. Those are the propositions by which we expect to get back a considerable portion of the money we are liable to lose on whisky and malt liquors during the next year. (Loud cheers.)

This may be said to be interfering with the individual right of labor to sell as much of its time as it chooses per day or week. No doubt your readers would be glad to learn from some competent authority as to how this objection would be met in the view of a measure being brought in for a compulsory eight hours per day limit. The advantages would be: more time for recreation, self-improvement, and improvement of home surroundings; the disadvantages: the decreased power of making "money."

Farmers and Prohibition Editor World: Would you permit an ex-farmer, who has never been connected with the liquor trade, to state from a farmer's standpoint the effect which prohibition will have on the financial interests of the agricultural community. First, as to compensation: There is strong probability that the sober second thought of the coun try will grant compensation as an act of property have been confiscated for the alleged benefit of a majority. To deny that principle would be declaring for commun. m at once, in which farmers would be the greatest sufferers. To argue that confisca-tion is justifiable because liquor licenses tion is justifiable because inquor includes are issued only from year to year is more absurd than it would be to contend that the timber licenses annually issued by the timber licenses annually issued by the government to lumbermen for cutting logs on limits might be abolished and the business stopped without remuneration to the lumbermen. The government would not dare to confiscate lumbermen's licenses not dare to connecate lumbermen's licenses without giving compensation, although it has the nominal right to do so as owners of the timber land; much less then has it the right to confiscate liquor property, which is solely owned by private parties. Although it may be shown that the lumber trade lowers the morals of the men it confines to shanty living; is injurious to health and destructive to life in stream driving logs: that it furnishes the inflammable me logs; that it furnishes the inflammable ma-terials used in the construction of theatres, asylums and houses, causing the burning to death of thousands of men, women and children, and that its owners have made fortunes out of it, yet no person (except a crank) would have the hardihood to offer hese facts as reasons for confiscating tim-

England could seize some Russian post there, and make its evacuation dependent on the retirement of the Russians to Merv. This would be easier than fighting in Afghanistan. The bombardment of Odessa might again be attempted; but it is a pity that Russia is impregnable by way of the Baltic.

When compensation comes up it should be paid by those counties which passed the Scott act. They allege that they will reap special benefits from it, therefore it is they and not outsiders who should pay for it. To be more just it should be paid by those counties which passed the Scott act. They allege that they will reap special benefits from it, therefore it is they and not outsiders who should pay for it. To be more just it should be paid for by those who cast their votes for it, and not by those who voted against it. The former by their votes have forced upon the latter the additional expense and trouble of getting their liquor in inconvenient ways and under difficulties, therefore the act Baltic.

The prince of Wales and czar of Russia married sisters, whose sincerest desire it would be to keep their two adopted countries from war. The czarina is said to themselves for this loss by any means known to agriculture; and that the loss will be as hopeless as if the land on which the darley, hops, rye, and corn are grown for making liquor was cut off from their farms and buried in the sea. This is something that no farmer either foresaw or expected when he was persuaded or deladed into voting for prohibition, but it is an inevitable consequence.

BOARDERS.

BY EDWARD SULLIVAN. Naturally, my dear, a body meets with many singular people in the course of keeping boarders; I think the queerest folks the Lord ever chose to make have come and boarded with me, since Mr. Johnson left me with three little children to earn my living by the most ungrateful task ever was put upon a woman's shoulders; for there are people that never think that you can do enough for 'em, and people that haven't any consideration for your feelings, and if a turkey happens to be tough, ask if it was ever known for cer. tain what became of the pair that went into Neah's ark, and the like of that, you know; and there are people that have whim, and want raw meat, or scorched cinders, and people that can't bear anything fried, and people who won't touch pork, and people that take airs and won't pay, and people that are so far from being what they pretend to be that you have to mention to them that their rooms are wanted, and all sorts of people, who do all sorts of queer things.

must say, by Mr. Dinkie.

He came to board with me above five years ago, just at Christmas time. He was a bachelor, fifty years old, I should judge, and his face was smooth-shaved, and he wore a mahogany-colored wig, and he was rather particular in his dress, He'd just met with a disappointment—not in Then he was off. "He ain't such a was very rich. She wore diamonds in her ears so big, and so shiny that I wonder the thieves let her come home alive with 'em on. And she had the same kind of diamonds on her fingers. She had three pets—a dog with curly wool, and a kitten all white except a black nose, and a green and red parrot. Daytimes she had them in her room, but she hired an extra room for them, and they slept in that and it was for them, and they slept in that, and it was comical to see them. Poll in her cage, and the dog and kitten each in a sort of basket-cradle, with refreshments set for em in case they should be hungry in the night.

Everybody isn't so careful of children.

She had white quilted covers for the two animals. It was peculiar, and she was curious in a good many things.

She wasn't very handsome, but she was of a very good family, and though she wanted extras she paid for 'em. I remember she in the she wanted extras she paid for 'em.

a good deal on the parlor sofa. Sometimes, too, he used to see her to church and to lactures; and no matter how she acted afterward, I have my eyes about me, and I noticed she used to fix herself up very smart indeed, of evenings, after he came.

Then he came and asked me how much I reckoned she had a year. And she asked me how much I reckoned she had a year. And she asked me hat I calculated he owed. I told him that I'd heard she had ten thousand dollars interest of her money, and I told her what he had, and how he got it. I couldn't tell what she thought, but I made up my mind that there'd be a match between 'em, for I've always noticed that the more a lady (talks against the gentlemen, the more apt she, is to have the first one that makes her an offer. Yes, I'd make up my mind to that, when, one day, I was sitting on the porch outside the back parlor win. makes her an offer. come into the pan—when I heard Miss Swiffles come into the parlor, and about three minutes after, Mr. Dinkie he came in.

I'd like to remark just here, that far from me be listening. I'm above it; but I wasn't called upon to go away, and I couldn't help hearing, and this is what I did hear. "Miss Swiffles," said Mr. Dinkie, "I am rejoiced to find you alone."

"Ah!" said Miss Swiffles. "I have long wished such an city," said Mr. Dinkie,
"Indeed!" said Miss Swiffles.

"You can guess why?" asked Mr. Din-'No, sir, I can't," said Miss Swiffles. "Is this the coquetry of your sex?" asked Mr. Dinkie. "Have you not seen that I adore you?"
"No," said Miss Swiffles.

"I have hidden my emotions better than I supposed I could," said Mr. Dinkie.
"My dear Miss Swiffles, here on my knees
allow me to offer you my hand and heart, and beg you to accept them and the life-

g devotion of—" "Get up, Mr, Dinkie," said Miss Swiffles. "Don't make a goose of yourself. I understand that you ask me to marry you?"

"Adorable creature," said Mr. Dinkie,
"you put the question I would have asked into the most concise form."

"I'll put the answer into the same form,"
said Miss Swiffles. "No."

You cannot ask me to relinquish my hopes at once," said Mr. Dinkie, "May ask why you are not disposed to consider my proposition? Will you not consider it, and answer it more at leisure?" But why?" said Mr. Dinkie. "Well, if you want to know why," said

Miss Swiffles, "because I like to be my own mistress. I have plenty of money, as you know, and three charming pets, who are worth more than any six men I ever met. I didn't marry when I was a ever met. I didn't marry when I was a good-looking young girl, because even then I couldn't be sure any man wanted me and not my property; and now I'm an ugly old woman. I shan't throw myself into the arms of the first fortune hunter that has calculated an old maid will marry anyone who asks her. You waited for dead men's shoes twenty years, I understand. Now probably you wish to wait for mine. That's why I say 'No,' Mr. Dinkie."

Next thing I heard was the door slam. Mr. Dinkie had gone, and Miss Swiftles was laughing to herself on the sofa.

I couldn't help it. I just peeked into the window, and says I, "Hurrah, Miss Swiftles, three cheers. It was as good as a play."

"'Tisn't the first man I've served so," said Miss Swiftles, rubbing her nose. "Oh, said Miss Swiftles, rubbing her nose."

"A field of some "There States".

Truly yours. BENJANIN DINKIE.

Of course I agreed, and when I saw Mi-Swiffles she said the man had a bette temper than she thought. And so that very evening weall walked into Mr. Dinkie's room. He had had the bedstead putaway, and hired an extension table. And there was Mr. Dinkie and a dark complexional configurations and two waiters. plexioned gentleman, and two waiters.

Mr. Dinkie did the honors beautifully.

At 12 o'clock Mr. Dinkie arose.
"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "the time for parting has come. I must be on board the steamer in two hours. Mosler, the same obligation lies on you. We part perhaps forever. Adleu."
He shook hands all around. When he came to Miss Swiffles he gave her a little note.

"Mr. Dinkie," said Miss Swiffles, "we all do wrong sometimes. Probably I was mistaken in you. I wish you a very pleas-he was rather particular in his dress. He'd just met with a disappointment—not in love, mind you, but in money.

He had made himself a slave to a rich old uncle for twenty years, expecting to be his heir; put up with all sorts of treatment; been huffed, scolded and sneered at, morning, noon and night; never said a word; just gone on grinning and rubbing his hands, and speaking about his "dear uncle," until the old man died, when he left him only five hundred dollars a year for his life. After that he came to board with me.

There was boarding with me at the same time a maiden lady named Swiffles. She was about as old as Mr. Dinkie, and she was severy rich. She wore diamonds in her ears so big and so shiny that I wonder the thickes let her come home alive with 'em the love of the strength of the burglar?"

Inten he was off.

"He ain't such a bad fellow, after all,"

Said Mr. Robers.

"No, he ain't, said I.

Miss Swiffles went up stairs very slowly.

I saw her wipe a tear away as she went, and I stopped to put out the hall lamp. I had done it and bolted the front door, when all of a sudden the house was filled with shrieks. It was Miss Swiffles voice I knew, and she was screaming for help.

"She's found a burglar in her room to myself, and away I rushed and up came all the boarders, and we stood in the room where she stood, holding a letter in her hand, and shrieking like mad.

"He's told her he'd commit suicide on her account," I said. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear!"

"Oh! I'm so ill," cried Miss Swiffles—"so ill! Open the window! I'm poisoned. Oh! "Poisoned!" says I. "Oh! oh! oh!"

I remember asking her once why she hadn't married, and she said she always felt that the male sex was beneath her, and that she couldn't promise to obey any of 'em. She asked me if I didn't feel to despise 'em myself, and I said some of 'em I did, and some again I didn't.

She had written a lecture, I think, for the purpose of putting 'em down, and she vas a-going to deliver it in my parlor one night; only I says to her, says I, "Miss Awiffles," says I, "I'm only a poor widow, lepending on my boarders for a living; and as most of 'em are of the male sex, it might give 'em offience to tell all 'em was all true. Jay-Eye-see's Nose Out of Joint. From the Chicago Mail.
"J. I. Case," said a Wisconsin man who sat in Broker Schwartz's office, "has a little grandson now who has altogether supplanted the famous Jay-Eye-See in the gruff millionaire's big heart." When the millionaire's youngest daughter lost her heart it went into the possession of a young fellow who had no money, and who had simply a mode:ate place in the office of the Racine plow works. "Oh, yes, take her if you want. You don't get anything with her, though, mind that: not a d—d penny," was the answer which the suitor got when he asked the old man's consent. There was only a modern't suitor got when he asked the old man's consent. There was only a modest wedding, and then the couple moved into a little cottage rented by the husband. "Give 'em a house? No. Let 'em hustle," was the way the old man met a plea from the girl's mother. "Didn't we have to hustle, eh? Are they any better nus?" The old man went along and spent thousands on his famous gelding. The young couple moved along in a humdrum way like scores of other modest couples in young couple moved along in a humdrum way like scores of other modest couples in Racine. The young man "hustled;" got around every day; paid his debts promptly, and saved a little money. So now the old man dances his grandson on his knees, the young man hustles on his own account, the young mother looks prettier than ever, and Jay-Eye-See's nose is completely broken.

The Don amateur rowing club has gone out of its way to kick O'Connor and En-wright, the champion double-sculler of America. In times gone by the pair belonged to that club, but last spring they sacrificed their membership and attached themselves to the Toronto rowing club, as members of which organization they all their races during 1884. In consequence of the part they took in the double sculling match against Laing and Humphrey last fall, and other matters connected with their career, charges of conduct unbecoming amateurs have been made against them and are now being investigated by them and are now being investigated by the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen. The result of the inquiry will not be known until next month, and it cerwould not have hurt the Don cours" to have refrained from taking any lefinite action until then, especially in sideration of the fact that they allowed consideration of the fact that they allowed nearly a year to elapse before expelling them from a club, the membership of which they had long ago forfeited, if not resigned. The institution down by the Don is composed of excellent material, but it is doubtful if their standing will be improved by this gratuitous sample of cicking men when they are down, or rather when they are in trouble. John Forbes has posted $100 with Frank Martin accompanied by an offer to trot his horse Tom Rolf, record 2.224, for $250 a side, against Elsie Groff, record 2.25. Mr. lley, the owner of the mare, expressed his willingness to trot her against any horse in Canada, barring Chas. Wagner's famous daughter of Phil Sheridan, Phyllis, ecord 2.17½. the pennitentiary. In spite of this, she talked so plausibly that Hale believed her the victim of circumstances, settled with the jeweler to avoid trouble, and married the woman. Then disaster came. The bankers were not so easily imposed upon, and refused to trust their funds with a man so nearly connected with a whole family of penitentiary boarders. Hale lost the management of the clearing house, and things went from bad to worse. Still he was devoted to his wife, and would allow no one to speak ill of her. Dire poverty came, but still he remained bound by his strange infatuation. The couple drifted to Milwaukee. One day Mrs. Hale was arrested for larceny from a number of stores. Hale was likewise arrested and lodged in jall. She confessed. He easily proved his innocence. She told a pitiful tale of suffering, and said she had stolen to keep the ex-banker's children from starving. This did not prevent her from being sentenced to the Milwaukee house of correction. GUITEAU'S CURSES. Superstitious People Talking of the Mis fortunes that Followed Them. From the New York Sun. Charles M. Reed, who assisted Mr. Schofield in the defence of Guiteau, has for tne third time asked congress for an ap. offices without success. If he should ever succeed in getting any payment he will moved in good society. One night his house was entered and much jewelry stolen. Almost everybody who had anything to do with that trial, on either side, has seen more or less ill fortune since. Some of the fatalties and distresses that have visited many of those who were con-nected with the trial or brought in nected with the trial or brought in contact in any way with the assassin pre-sent remarkable coincidences, when his pre-dictions, spiteful and maniac-like ejacula-tions and curses are called to mind. It is not the least striking of these coincidences that the republican party was defeated last fall. In one of Guiteau's moments of real or assumed passion, not long before his execution, he held his bible high in the air, and, with his eyes rolling and teeth gnashing, said that the party was doomed, and that the last republican president was serving. At the same time he pronounced some rambling maledictions against President Arthur, in which he asserted that his party would repudiate him and nominate Blaine, and then be swept out of existence

The list of fatalities to those who were associated with the prosecution or defence of him is strikingly large. The district attorney, whom Guiteau's vocabulary was exhausted to curse, has been grievously afflicted. The sudden death of his wife, his practical suprension during the Star-Toronto Branch, 34 Church St. afflicted. The sudden death of his wife, his practical suspension during the Starroute trials, and the loss of the office are the chief misfortunes, though by no means the Zonly ones that have befallen Thim since the trial. Two of the officers who had Guiteau in charge have died, one having been murdered. Of the jury that convicted him one has died, one has been in an insane asylum, two have failed in business and some of the rest have seen nothing but trouble since the verdict was rendered. The judge who sentenced Guiteau was the owner of a hotel building that without warning collapsed sentenced Guiteau was the owner of a hotel building that without warning collapsed one night last summer, killing several people and causing heavy pecuniary loss. One of the physicians who testified that Guiteau was sane was afterwards murderously attacked by an insane patient; another had serious legal trouble, while the noted alienist who insisted that the assassin was not responsible for his act died suddenly in the prime of life and with an enviable and increasing reputation as a specialist. and increasing reputation as a specialist.

The domestic trouble of Mr. Scho-The domestic trouble of Mr. Some field, the brother in-law who de-fended Guiteau, developed at last into a public scandal, followed by a divorce. Dr. Woodward's death was into a public scandal, followed by a divorce. Dr. Woodward's death was hastened, it is believed, by the nervous strain caused by his attendance on the dying president, while Dr. Bliss suffered very greatly in health by reason of his sleepless care of Garfield, found after the president's death that his practice was scattered, and had to meet other embarrassments. Marshal Henry, who had Guiteau in charge, was removed from office not long after in some disgrace, while Garfield's

She had stolen for his sake, and he would stand by her. After she served her time the pair came to Chicago. Hale secured employment and supported the family, though, of course, not in the way he had been accustomed to do. Last January Mrs. Hale was again arrested in this city and convicted, and sent to the house of correction for a year. This was the last straw, and the infatuation was dissipated. To-day Mr. Hale filed his bill for divorce on the ground that his wife had been tried after in some disgrace, while Garfield's steward, Crump, laid the foundation for organic disease by his faithful nursing of the president, and other misfortunes were entailed, so that he had at last to eke out living by keeping a cheap restaurant in a In view of such a list as this the superst tious find a good deal of food for co Among the more ignorant of the negroes Guiteau has long been regarded as the

"Now, Johnnie," said the teacher, your father borrows $100 and promises to pay $10 a week, how much will he owe in seven weeks?" "One hundred dollars," said Johnnie. "I'm afraid you don't know your lesson very well," remarked the teacher. "I may not know my lesson very well," Johnny frankly acknowledged; "but I know my father."
