MORAL REFORMER NO TASK FOR YOUNG MAN

Dr. Hoyle Says Revelations at Moral Reform Meetings Are So Vile That He Has Been Forced to Leave—Synod at Final Session Discusses Non-Attendance.

Determination to hold fast by the church's isolated position marked the last day's proceedings of the Anglican Synod at St. James' Parish House. The report of the committee on the state of the church made no reference to the question of church union. And, on the other hand, a motion by H. T. Beck to congratulate the Holy Name Society of the Roman Catholic Church on its good work among Catholics was defeated unanimously.

Mr. Beck's motion was made with respect to the proposal of the committee on Lord's Day observance to keep pressing for restrictive legislation. "It is a great pity," he said, "that we should year after year lay emphasis upon the fact that criminal legislation is being urged in the matter of private conduct. Why not leave something for the clergy to do? Why not leave some field in which individual responsibility may work? Legislation on religious questions such as Sunday observance is obnoxious in a free country where so great differences of opinions exist." He moved an amendment to the report, but was defeated. The report stated that the Dominion is now under one law as regards Sunday observance, which Mr. Beck declared to be misleading, inasmuch as the law does not become effective in any province until the attorney-general of that province has signified his consent.

While advocating the adoption of the report of the moral and social reform committee, which had been revised and strengthened overnight, Dr. N. W. Hoyle recommended that the man whom it is proposed to appoint at a salary of $1700 for moral reform work be a man of mature years. "It has been suggested that a young man be given this position, but I should be sorry to hear that that had been done. This man will attend meetings of the Moral Reform Association, of which I am a member, and there are matters discussed at those meetings which no young man should hear.

"At times, gentlemen, I have been forced to leave the meeting," Mr. Hoyle continued, "so vile were the revelations made. And when I got outside I felt that I myself had been polluted."

Rev. L. E. Skeey of St. Anne's recommended that a layman be appointed to the position and called attention to the growing prejudice against clergymen interfering in the censorship of theatres and other kindred work. "We know how unfair the newspapers have been in recent cases," he declared. "A layman would be more acquainted with the world and would be free from public prejudice."

Mr. Skeey's objection, however, came too late, as by a motion passed on Thursday, a "man in priest's orders" will receive the appointment. Eighteen members of the synod spoke on the report of the committee on the state of the church. The report was couched in general terms, and was so optimistic that Rural Dean Cayley took objection to its tone. "The position of the church in rural districts is not entirely healthy," he averred, "we are not covering the field as completely as the Presbyterians, Methodist or Baptist bodies. We lose thousands of children simply because we do not provide the country districts with enough churches and Sunday schools."

SERVIA TO START DEMOBILIZING IF BULGARIA WILL DO LIKEWISE

LONDON, June 13.—(Can. Press).—Anticipating a demand by the powers for demobilization, Serbia has proposed to Bulgaria that the two countries reduce their armaments until one-quarter of their present forces remain under arms. The representatives of the powers today informed the Serbian premier that their governments, desiring to see the dispute between the two allies settled, would suggest that Serbia and Bulgaria demobilize. Premier Pachitch replied that Serbia already had submitted to Bulgaria a note expressing the hope that Bulgaria would cease her concentration of troops on the Serbian frontier, and also a proposal that both countries immediately reduce their armies until one-quarter of their present effective strength remained.

DOOR NOT OPEN TO PRINT PAPER

U. S. Retaliates Against Canada For Restrictions on Export of Wood Pulp. WASHINGTON, June 13.—(Can. Press).—Amending the section of the Underwood tariff bill which would place on the free list all print paper valued at not more than 2½ cents a pound, the majority members of the senate finance committee today voted to incorporate in the bill the provisions of the Canadian Reciprocity Act passed in 1911. This action would extend the free list to include all print paper valued at not more than four cents a pound on the condition "that no export duty, export license fee or other export charge of any kind whatsoever, or any prohibition or restriction in any way of the exportation shall have been imposed on such paper, board or wood pulp, or the wood pulp used in the manufacture of such paper or board."

While the word "Canada" is omitted from the amendment adopted by the committee, it would operate against Canada because of that nation's restrictions on exports of wood and chemical pulp. Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, said that other restrictive provisions, or countervailing duties aimed against Canada which have been proposed had not yet been acted upon by the majority and that the matter would be taken up again tomorrow. He added that there might be reconsideration of the action thus far taken.

Under the reciprocity amendment, pulpwood or paper could come in free from Canada when it is the product of free lands in Canada, lands unrestricted by export duty or license fee.

CROP IN ALBERTA PROMISES TO BE GREATEST PROVINCE HAS KNOWN

CALGARY, June 13.—(Can. Press).—The summary of crops reports received today from forty-five points in Alberta indicate that a crop never before equalled in this province will be reaped this season. While the spring was undoubtedly a backward one, the early summer has more than made up for this. There has been plenty of moisture and bright, warm sunshine in addition.

ASTOR'S ESTATE FINALLY KNOWN

More Than Eighty-Seven Million Dollars Left by Titanic Victim According to Appraisers. NEW YORK, June 14.—The final exact appraisal of the estate of Col. John Jacob Astor, who went down with the Titanic, was made public today at the office of John V. Crogey, transfer tax appraiser. Col. Astor's estate amounted to $87,218,791.05. That is the largest individual fortune ever handled in this state, or in the United States by tax appraisers.

It will pay a "death" tax of $3,500,000 to the estate. The work of appraising the estate began on July 18, 1912, and did not end until yesterday. More than 1100 typewritten pages were needed to describe Col. Astor's various holdings. This is the first time in an Astor generation, it is said, that any Astor knew just how much the estate was worth. Before the colonel's death he probably could not have estimated it within $50,000,000 of its actual value.

ENGLAND SHOULD BEAR WHOLE EXPENSE

Imperial Defence Should Be Paid For by Britain, Says Henri Bourassa, Who Claims That Canada Has No Voice in Control or Government of the Empire. EDMONTON, June 13.—(Can. Press).—The Canada's national obligations should be measured by the extent of her national privileges and liberties, and that, as the sole control of the army and navy lay with the British Parliament, England should bear the whole cost of imperial defence, formed the basic principles of the Nationalist conception of imperial relationships as defined by Henri Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, at a public meeting this evening.

"Canada and the other self-governing colonies," said Mr. Bourassa, "had absolutely no control and no voice in the government of the empire. The people of the United Kingdom, thru their parliament, were the sole and absolute masters of the empire. Did a question of external policy arise, Canada was not consulted, the decision lying solely with the British Parliament. Matters of foreign relations were arranged by English diplomats and settled by the English parliament, none of the colonies being consulted in the army and navy." Mr. Bourassa maintained that they should be responsible for the entire cost of its maintenance. Going on to deal more particularly with the Borden naval policy, and the Nationalist reasons for opposing it, Mr. Bourassa stated that Canada's seaborne trade was Britain's trade, and the United Kingdom was just as much interested in protecting it in time of war as was the Dominion. Depending as she did on the overseas dominions for the greater part of her food supply, Britain was much more vitally interested in purchasing Canadian foodstuffs in time of war than was Canada in selling them.

Even with all its snares and dangers, full-fledged imperial partnership was considered by Mr. Bourassa to be preferable to the low, undignified, jingo-inspired alternative offered to the Canadian people by the present government. Despite its dangers, said Mr. Bourassa, full imperial partnership was inspired by high ideals of national equality, while the policy of the Borden government would simply result in the self-abnegation of the Canadian people. That policy meant that Canada accepted an imperial policy over which she was denied by the British government the slightest share of control.

KNOCKED FROM WHEEL BY YONGE ST. CAR

Peter Starrie Sustained Serious Injuries to Head and Back. While crossing from the east side of Yonge street to Agnes street about 6:30 o'clock last night, Peter Starrie, 54 Agnes street, was knocked off his wheel by a northbound street car and seriously injured. Police Constable McMurphy removed the man to St. Michael's Hospital in a motor car, where his head and back were found to be injured.

GERMANS WILL WRENCH A BIT OF COMFORT OUT OF THIS YEAR'S HOT SPELLS.

Special Cable to The World. Copyrighted by The Toronto World and N. Y. World. BERLIN, June 13.—Berlin society is astonished at the hustle required of Princess Victoria and her husband, even on their honeymoon. They stayed only two days at Hubertusstock, then they hurried to Potsdam in order that the princess might have a chat with her mother, the empress. Then, after a few days in the mountains, they moved to Gmunden, so that the prince might talk with his father, the Duke of Cumberland. Now they are to return to Berlin to take part in Emperor William's jubilee celebration. Afterward they will go back to Gmunden. Finally the prince has been ordered by the emperor, as commander-in-chief of the Prussian army, to rejoin his regiment at Rathenow shortly.

VANCOUVER BUILDING COLLAPSED ONE KILLED AND MANY INJURED

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 13.—(Can. Press).—With a crash heard for many blocks three storeys of a new four-storey block near Main and Pender streets east, collapsed this morning, killing Harry Anderson, a carpenter, instantly, burying two more in a mass of debris and injuring five others seriously. The accident was caused by a defect in the concrete work at the lane end of the structure. Three of the injured men taken to the hospital were bricklayers.

MILITARY BOX RAIDS RENEWED BY MILITANTS

EDINBURGH, June 13.—(Can. Press).—The militant suffragette campaign was resumed here tonight with the biggest raid that has been made on mail boxes. Twelve of these receptacles from one end of the town to the other were attacked. Chemists' test tubes filled with a colorless liquid which caught fire when the glass was broken, were dropped into the boxes by the suffragettes and many letters were badly damaged. A bomb, sewed up in an oil-soaked cushion, was found tonight in the railway station at Eden Park, Kent. Attached to the bomb was a clock which was timed to explode at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. The clock had stopped when the bomb was discovered. Kerosene had been used to saturate the cushion enclosing the bomb, and if the cushion had become ignited the station, which is a wooden structure and situated in a lonely spot, doubtless would have been burned down.

JAILS ARE FULL OF CONSPIRATORS

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 13.—(Can. Press).—Nearly 200 persons have been arrested as a result of the assassination of Grand Vizier Mahmud Scherket Pasha, and the capacity of the jails is being taxed in their detention. Damad Sall Pasha, who is suspected of complicity in the plot because his signature was on a cheque for a large sum of money which was found in the possession of one of the accused men, is the son-in-law of the late Prince Ahmed Kemal Ed Din, a brother of the Sultan.

FIRE DESTROYED THREE HOUSES

Blaze Originated in Stable and Caused Loss of Four Thousand Dollars. Three houses, their contents and a stable were almost completely destroyed in a fire on Blake street, East Toronto, late yesterday afternoon. The total loss aggregated about $4000. Three families were left homeless. The blaze originated in a stable at the rear of No. 2 Blake street, owned by Joseph Russell and occupied by Mr. MacCarthy. Damage to the extent of $800 was caused to the house and $500 to the contents. The fire spread to No. 4, owned by Henry Brown and occupied by Mrs. McKay. A loss of $300 resulted to the contents of this house and $300 to No. 6, next door, occupied by Mr. Brown himself. The loss to the two houses amounted to $1800. The cause of the fire is unknown.

GLOBE EDITOR HURT IN FALL

Stairway at Soo Paper Plant Collapsed During Inspection. SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., June 13.—(Special).—Just as the members of the Detroit board of commerce were completing their tour of inspection of the mills of the Lake Superior Paper Company this afternoon, the stairway at the slasher plant, upon which a number of them were standing, gave way, precipitating the party to the floor beneath. The stairway was not a high one, but several members of the party were badly shaken up. Rev. J. A. Macdonald of The Toronto Globe received a bad shaking up and for a time was in such a dazed condition that he could not even recall having made a speech the previous night. Others injured were W. D. Atkinson of this city, Eugene Jamieson of Detroit and M. J. Alley, also of that city. Several victims were taken to the hospital.

VICTIM OF IRATE SPANIARD IN HAMILTON HOSPITAL SUFFERING FROM SKULL FRACTURE.

HAMILTON, Saturday, June 14.—Jose Rodriguez, 239 West King street, Spaniard, was arrested last night by P. C. Chamberlain charged with assaulting John Sims. It seems that the prisoner had got into a mix-up at Daffey's Hotel, corner James and Stuart streets, about two weeks ago and was put out of the hotel. Last night, it is alleged, he went into the hotel and struck one of the bartenders, John Sims, on the head with a stone, fracturing his skull. As soon as he had hurled the stone the Spaniard fled. Sims was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in the police ambulance, where he was immediately placed upon the operating table and several pieces of bone were removed from his head. He is in a critical condition. In the meantime, Mr. Daffey, the proprietor, in company with some friends gave chase in his automobile and eventually captured Rodriguez and handed him over to P. C. Chamberlain, who took him to the police station.

FARMER SHOT HIMSELF.

WINDSOR, June 13.—Thomas McLean, a farmer living in Colchester South Township, was found dead in bed this morning with a bullet hole in his head and a revolver by his side. His young son woke up after the shooting and aroused the other members of the family.

A SOMEWHAT DELICATE SUBJECT. Jaff: Is that ye, John? Th' Meenister's card frae th' assembly an' takin' up th' direction o' th' public morals frae th' secular an' editorial chair yince more. An' he's awar' worrit about th' dress th' weemin are wearin' or rather no wearin' th' day.

John: Does he mean them tight garments with th' hoochy-coochy bits in th' bottom of th' sides?

Jaff: I'm thinkin' that's it. But he says he had a talk w' Billy frae the gallery o' th' kirk about it.

John: How did Billy get in? Had he a jour's card?

Jaff: Nae, John, but an apprentice elder's card frae a bit chapel up the Don. Onyway th' Meenister dit all him about ye tight-fits an' he teit him the followin', an' I'm gien it th' ye in Billy's backwoods Doric:

"When I was a small boy," said Billy, "I lived at a cross-roads up the mountain, south of Hamilton, and I remember hearing and seeing Old Dolly Jerome, and the other folk, by the neighbors telling of her early days in Glanford township. She was the oldest woman there and had made the first white child born up the mountain. She was married, had among the Smuaks, the Shavers, the Choates, the Flinks, the Ryckmans and the Smiths, and the other first families. She smoked a pipe and made two things, and she was a balm of gilead alive and sewing gum from the pitch on the end of the pine logs that were piled about the sawmills."

John: Never mind' all that, come to th' pint.

Jaff: Well, accordin' to what Billy teit th' Meenister this said body, Dolly Jerome, said, an' I'll quote Billy again:

"Dolly Jerome said that she remembered when all the clothes the mothers and young women in the pioneer days—and she spoke of quite a hundred years ago—were in Glanford were a 'kallier' dress, a sun bonnet, an' a big apron (at times). That they went bare-foot, that they worked in the house and in the fields and that at times the winds o' summer were rather discomfortin' but, that no one ever thought these 'kallier' dresses were immodest or too much given to clingin' in winter the homespun woolen dresses didn't cling and were more or less full."

John: I'd like to rite that down in my nex' edition o' th' Lan'marks—

Jaff: Pat's botherin' th' Meenister, John, is hoo th' condemn th' weemin o' today for haen th' same kin' o' clothes as in auld days.

John: But th' girls o' today ha' sun-kin o' a sleeve corset or stays, accordin' to Th' Tally's fashion column—

Jaff: That's what th' Meenister says an' that it doesna add till th' modesty o' th' subject. An' that he's said fashed till doot w' th' questions. An' so I'm come th' ye, John, th' gie me a plinter that I can gie th' Meenister.

John: I ain't got much to say on th' subject, but I agree with Billy as th' modesty an' yet th' scant attire for th' mothers and daughters of th' pioneer times, I'd suggest to th' minister that he say that 'coot th' girls o' today wear long stockings it doesn't improve the comparison with the pioneer days. But beyond that the minister'd better leave it to th' geyt what rites his woman's page—

Jaff: Nae, John.

WOULD TAKE IN MOUNT DENNIS TOO

Ald. Anderson Favors Pushing City Limits Further West.

NEED FIRE PROTECTION

Islanders Complain of Poor Equipment and Fire Chief Will Investigate.

When the city council gets thru next Monday discussing the extent of territory that should be annexed to the city, the present probabilities are that a pretty general demand will be made for pushing out the northern limits a goodly distance on either side of North Toronto.

Ald. Anderson was asked by Controller McCarthy in the board of control if he deemed it advisable to recommend to council that all the territory between North Toronto and the tracks of the northern division of the G. T. R. extending north to 400 feet beyond the old Belt Line, should be annexed.

"Why not keep on westward to include Mount Dennis?" Ald. Anderson queried. "There is a population of 10,000 in Mount Dennis."

"And why not take in Todmorden?" Controller Church demanded. "There is between three and four thousand of a population there."

"You know where I stand," Controller Church said. "I'm against annexing any more territory."

"So am I," added Controller Church, "unless it is petitioned for. We should not recommend annexation of a strong territory. That is postage stamp policy of annexing," Controller Church declared to Controller Church. "Be consistent. Either favor wholesale annexation or none at all."

It was decided to recommend the annexation of the two lots within Dufferin street and North Toronto, extending 400 feet north of the old Belt Line.

Water Meter. Controller O'Neill put thru a motion that all water supplied outside the city limits be metered.

"The cities are getting together to insist upon more representation, now that the redistribution bill is being prepared," said Controller Church. He moved that Toronto co-operate, and the motion was adopted.

Ald. Wickert submitted a report upon the civic expenditures that are charged to capital account, although belonging to revenue account. He suggested the appointment of a strong committee to investigate. The matter will be taken up next week.

The City Planning Conference will be in Toronto next year, Ald. Anderson reported. The executive requires $1200. The board of trade and other organizations have assured $900. It was decided to recommend that the city guarantee the other $300.

Ald. Burgess, who was one of the losers in a recent fire at the island, appealed for better fire protection. "It's a scandal," he declared. Chief Thompson will be asked to confer with the harbor commission and report.

At Controller Foster's request the commissioner of works will report upon the cost and condition of the concrete pavement on Poullette st.

Ald. Anderson asked for shelters for High Park and Kew Gardens, explaining that revenues from parks would cover the cost. The request was granted.

There are so many complaints of lack of watering troughs that the commissioner of works will report at next meeting of council the progress made in the last five months in betterment of water supply. The motion carried.

Controller Foster moved that legislation be got to increase the license fee for circuses. It was adopted.

Controller O'Neill put thru a motion that all civic automobiles must be taken to the courtyard of the city hall while waiting to be used, and

RAGGS' WEEKLY LETTER

Squeedunk, Ont., June 13, 1913. My dear Toronto-Onters:

This is such a nice town! But why use a term so commonplace that it carries no conviction? Let us rather say: "This is a gladsome village an Arcadia, a happy valley of contentment and dreams!"

One was a God-child in this town. God-child's name is "Babe Joan," and she is three. The darling turned a muddle upside down on her curly head this morning when I was in charge. Did you ever shampoo a three-year-old? It sounds simple to the uninitiated.

I safety-pinned a bath towel about his person. I gave her a soft silk "handkerchief" and murmured fondly: "Now, belovedest," (one always calls one's God-child "belovedest," it is expected of one by one's dear friend who is one's God-child's parent)—"now, belovedest," cheerily and firmly, "hold the hanky tight—tight over the big blue eyes, so no crazy old soapy will make 'em smarty."

She gurgled merrily at my attempt at early English, and did as she was bid. Poor lamb! I got her hair all "wetly," then proceeded with the "soapy." The hanky was not as effective as I had hoped. (I also like to will draw a veil over what followed—a veil rent by such shrieks of anguish and terror as must have curdled the cold blood of Nero when Rome burned.)

The soapy had somehow, in spite of my precautions, insinuated itself into the "boo eyes" with cool water. I held Babe Joan tight in my arms and wept with her! At last she sobbed herself to sleep in my arms, and I put her in a hammock in the sunshine. There she slumbers, the wee mite, as peacefully as if there were no such horrors in the world as pain, heat and "soapy" to smart "boo eyes."

She looks so sweet, dear little mortal, the tears still wet on her rosy cheeks, her little tummy giving an occasional convulsive heave, as she sobs pathetically in her sleep, and her hair standing out stiffly full of soap, which her mother will have to take out—while I take a long country walk this afternoon. I don't know how she'll manage it. I personally would guard, blindfold, and chloroform the child, as all possible means.

C. P. R. Inseminia. I couldn't sleep, coming from Toronto. I was too busy—thinking of several things. I'm so glad I was too busy thinking to sleep. Such a wonderful night it was, as the train traveled north! The stars were bright—brighter than in my home village, New York. There, the poor dears are like the faded beauties in the last row of the chorus, sadly bright, but faded.

Shining down on woods, and farms, and rivers, each star seemed like Royal Muskoka, Cleaveland, Pt. Cockburn, etc. To every one in towns and villages and rushing trains—and to the great dark trees, too, though they are not so bright as shelter the little birds nesting in their branches.

My window was horribly draughty, and I got a chill, but I didn't care. From my darkened berth I fixed my eyes on a bright star, and for hours we winked and blinked at each other, and at the other stars, and then I fell asleep. Ha! It's a little habit you humans have—you hide your faces and cry tragically: "Lost! Gone forever!"

But, after a while, the stars did blink hard a few times and disappear—all but the morning star. A purple haze appeared "way off over the fields and hills, and the back of my head swung, and there was the same old star, twinkling and winking at me, and saying: "You looked the other way, and thought I had gone! Ha! It's a little habit you humans have—you hide your faces and cry tragically: "Lost! Gone forever!"

have lived so long without hearing me before. Sometimes, too, a look of pity flashes over a strong man's face—no doubt, for his wife at home putting the children to bed, and for the world at large, thinking missing something—it knows not why.

Perhaps I can best describe my voice in simile—it is like the cry for help of a shipwrecked soul floating on his (or her) back in a sea of despair!

But as I was saying, a keen student of human nature, these turned heads and appreciative glances interest me keenly. I quite missed them when I stayed last summer, at a military station in Ontario. The regimental brass band took the place of the church organ, and for the first time in my memory (and I remember lots of things that happened when I was four), my voice was not heard ringing strong in clarion tones above the inefficient and insignificant music of the organ choir and congregation.

On Sunday evening I went to church in this village, and made a discovery of vital importance to me, as fan of music. In this remote Canadian village is an entire choir possessed of my unusual type of voice—men's and women's alike, are like mine, of the thrilling quality known as "strangled notes." Their voices (also like mine) have one tiny defect—my only fault, I may say—that of singing slightly flat on the high notes and sharp on the low ones.

In unison we sang a number of hymns, chants and an anthem, and I sang in solo (unadvertently the more the less charmingly) the first verse of the psalms for the day—which it appears, are said, not sung in this church.

Having been "raised" (to use the parlance of Squeedunk), in the Church-of-England-in-Canada, the service and hymns are so familiar to me that I prefer to leave my books at home to prop up the leg of the desk Aunt Maria gave me. Had I had this fact published in the pulp magazine I should have saved the congregation much unnecessary trouble, and myself many small bruises.

The village policeman, the drug clerk's wife, the postmaster, and the late rector's widow, at intervals during the service all stretched long arms from different directions, punched (or pinched) me, and offered "Hymns, Ancient and Modern." As a painkilling precaution I finally accepted the late rector's wife's hymn book—at least it was she who passed it to me, but I find it hard to believe that she was who wrote on the front page: "If water rots your boots, what'll it do to your stomach?"

This is such a funny little place. I met the rector after church. I said, "Don't sound like work among the many forests, ever so interesting?" He replied, "Well, dear lady, the fact of the matter is that the Italians and Poles are Roman Catholics, and the Chinese are all Freshy-trians."

Yours, hastily, Rags.

P.S.—Maybe we shouldn't laugh, but rather weep, that humans can spend their lives in these small towns, and grow sweeter, finer, and bigger every year, as many of these poor people do. Perhaps it is the nearness of nature that brings happiness closer to the chosen few.

What if it would weary some of us after a time? Is not that the fault of over-loyalty? Is not that the fault of a world of brilliant minds, who find greater joy in thought than in life? Is it not a grievous thing that we worship things rather than men in great metropolises rather than in "sapphire skies and silent hills?"

But, awake! Wake! Wake! from her nap. She said as she opened her eyes: "I don't have to know my nose (blow my nose)—if I like I can 'niffle' it."

IS THIS HOW YOU FEEL?

Without energy, without inclination to work, with muddled thoughts, depressed brain, lack of ambition, pains in the back, headaches, dull, stupid sensations, loss of appetite, arising in the morning unrefreshed from sleep, gloomy and despondent—the man whose nerves and strength are breaking down feels like giving up the fight. Do you feel these symptoms? If so, take heed.

is for you. It pours glowing, exhilarating life into a weakened body; it rejuvenates, animates sluggish vitals, stimulates the brain to activity and fills the body with life, ambition and endurance. In one day it will make you feel as if born anew. It furnishes the motive power that runs your body and quickly banishes physical debility.

It is for those who open their eyes in the morning upon a world that looks blue and discouraging, for those who feel tired, despondent and out of luck; who have lost the fighting spirit—those who have almost sleep, and who wish that they were as strong as they used to be. It is all a matter of nervous energy—that is what ambition comes from—and that is what you can get from Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt.

Dr. McLaughlin:—Dear Sir,—I can gladly say that I have found great success in your Belt. It has cured my kidney trouble in three weeks and my Rheumatism troubles me no more. If this Belt ever wears out, I will certainly have another one for it is the best thing I ever had. I am satisfied in every way with it and I will recommend your Belts to all my friends. Wishing you success in your good work, I remain, Yours truly, F. J. HORTON.

You can believe my word or not, as you like, but these men speak from experience, and if it weren't for the prejudice in the minds of people generally against treatment by an Electric Belt, I would not be able to Complete baserement the marriage will take place very quietly at the home of the bride's mother, on June 26th, after which the young couple will leave on an extended trip to England and the Continent.

Mr. E. J. Pugh, who has been confined to his home as a result of an accident since February, has left with his sisters for their summer cottage on the Lake of Bays, and will return before October.

The engagement is announced of Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. McConvey, Euclid avenue, to Mr. Samuel Dowley. The wedding will take place in St. Peter's Church on Wednesday, at nine o'clock.

The lowest priced tea is not the cheapest. "Brown Label" "Salada" Tea, at 30 cents per pound, makes many more cups than any tea sold at 25 cents per pound. It is therefore not only more economical to use, but is infinitely more delicious.

Summer Sailings—Niagara-St. Catharines Line.

Commencing June 17, the Dalhousie City and Garden City will resume their full summer service between Toronto and Port Dalhousie, making connections at the latter point with the electric trains of the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway, for Niagara Falls. These boats will leave the Yonge street wharf and will make four round trips daily except Sunday. Convenient boats will leave Toronto at 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. every Saturday, so that passengers will reach Niagara Falls, Ont., at 6:10 p.m. and 9:10 p.m. respectively. Returning, a train leaves the Falls on Monday at 6:40 a.m. for Port Dalhousie, ensuring arrival at Toronto at 10:30 a.m., thus constituting a delightful week-end trip.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY Keep very quiet and do not start new enterprises. A steady course will be best and an impartial valuation of your talents will help you to make the best use of your resources. Those born today will have impulsive, restless natures, and only great care early in life will develop in them strong characters. In literature and art they will gain renown.

THE GOOPS NURSERY

CONDUCTED BY Elinor Murray Treatment For Burns

Slight burns may be treated with dry bicarbonate of soda just thickly sprinkled on and then covered with clean linen and a bandage. If preferred, make a paste of the soda by adding to it a little water and spreading this on the injured part. The main point is to exclude all air as quickly as possible.

More severe burns require oil. If there are any blisters, the water should be let out of them with a sterilized needle before the dressing is put on. Everything used on a burn must be very clean, for otherwise there is great danger of infection setting in, and resulting seriously. Pure olive oil and lime water well mixed, make a good dressing for bad burns. After the ointment has been applied, put on linen bandages and cotton batting to keep out the air. The treatment given here will relieve the suffering from burns; but unless the burn is a very superficial one, it is best to let a doctor see it.

Always cut the clothing away from a burn, and do not try to pull it off. This causes great agony; this is especially true of removing a shoe when the foot is burned.

After a severe burn, there is always considerable shock, and the patient should be kept lying down with his head low, hot water bottles at his feet, and also over the heart, if the heat is faint, and stimulants given until the doctor comes. Children should be taught first aid in such matters. They should be told how to put out a fire, that if their clothing catches fire they should lie on the ground, and cover their face with their hands, or wrap a rug or blanket about themselves, or the person burned. The biggest mistake in such cases is to rush about for some one to put out the flames.

Little girls and young children who are allowed around camp fires should wear their shoes over their feet. These blaze up so quickly, that aid may come too late.

First aid knowledge has been given for many years, yet it is amazing how few people have really made a study of these things, so that in emergency they would know exactly what to do. A tin of olive oil and lime water, ready in case of accident.

But probably what we need, most of all, is the presence of mind and coolness and brainy in the face of sudden need.

And we need careful, constant vigilance over everything we do. Care, how we leave boiling water or hot oil or scalding fruit within reach of tiny, grasping hands; care, how we train our children concerning matches and fire.

ANNUAL OUTING

Trip to Victoria Park, Niagara Falls, a Big Success.

About 150 members of the staff of the R. S. Williams and Sons Co., Limited, with a number of guests, thoroughly enjoyed the sixth annual outing to Queen Victoria Park on Thursday, June 12th.

The day was replete with exciting events, contests and games, and a total of 71 prizes were distributed for winning contestants in the various events. The party went over on the nine o'clock boat to Queenston, and after a trolley ride to the Falls, had lunch and immediately devoted themselves to the various program arranged for them by their committee.

The single men defeated the married men in the men's baseball, over which the utmost rivalry had developed, to the tune of 12 to 4. The ladies' ball game was equally interesting and exciting in many respects, while all of the various events were hotly contested and entered into with the greatest enthusiasm.

After a dinner at the hotel, the party boarded the cars for the steamer, and on the boat on the way back an impromptu entertainment was given by members of the staff, which was enjoyed, not only by their party, but by passengers on the boat.

The prizes were then awarded and the program was just completed as the boat slid into its dock in Toronto, and the crowd disembarked to their respective homes, a tired but happy bunch of picknickers.

Don't Be A Goop! IMPERIAL LIFE STAFF OUTING

H. C. Cox, the President, Entertained at His Beautiful Residence at Cooksville.

The Imperial Life Assurance Company, including the head office staff, executive officers and several of the directors, held its annual outing at the beautiful estate of the president, Herbert C. Cox, at Oakville yesterday afternoon.

Under the finest auspices and with ideal weather conditions a most enjoyable time was spent. During the afternoon several of the famous horses of the English Stables were put over the jumps to the great delight of the visitors. Archery, practice, lawn tennis and other sports occupied the time fully, while a considerable portion of the staff were entertained with trips in the motor boat on the exceptionally still waters of the lake.

Not the least enjoyable feature of the outing was the journey thru the beautiful Oakville country until Ennisville was reached, when, after an all too short but delightful afternoon and evening had been spent, the eighty visitors returned to Toronto, their hearty cheers were given as a slight testimony to the feeling which was entertained towards their kind host and hostess.

Immediately after lunch Mrs. Cox was presented with a bouquet of American beauty roses by General Manager J. F. Weston on behalf of the staff and directors.

MRS. LEATHES LEAVING FOR ENGLAND.

Several of the friends of Mrs. J. B. Leathes gathered at the station yesterday morning to bid her good-bye before leaving for a year's absence in England. The Equi Franchise League, of which Mrs. Leathes was a most active member, presented her with a handsome hand-bag and the Business Women's Club gave her the club pin in gold. The coming of Mrs. Leathes to Toronto four years ago marked a new epoch in women's suffrage in Ontario, her keen intellect and culture, and her advocacy of women's suffrage from an altruistic standpoint appealing to many hearts untouched by the expponents of suffrage ideals. Her influence for the cause has been far-reaching, owing to the many addresses upon the subject of women's suffrage she has delivered throughout Ontario and to her frequent contributions to the press.

The inmates of the Girls' House of Refuge in Delaware County, Pa., operate a fifty acre farm, where they grow their own vegetables and perform practically all the work. 34 CARLOADS or 449,663 pounds of Tea is the increase alone in the sales of "SALADA" for the first 23 weeks of this year over the same period of 1912. This unmistakable evidence of the appreciation of Good Quality is all the more gratifying because it is shared in by our friends in the trade. It is proof positive that "Salada" is a real trade-winner—building trade that grows—trade that pays.

TRIBUTE PAID TO NEW SYSTEM Members of American Medical Association Praise Whitby Asylum.

The tribute of a host of experts on psychiatry and mental diseases assembling at the American Medical Association in Niagara Falls this week, and gathered from all parts of Canada and the United States, was paid to the Whitby Asylum scheme projected by Hon. W. J. Hanna. This convention, which was attended by all the medical superintendents of the hospitals for insane which exist in Ontario, proved most educational in the broad scope of opinion expressed and the study of the different methods employed in the treatment of mentally defective.

INSURANCE MEN MEET.

The most successful meeting this year was held by the Toronto Life Underwriters' Association in McConkey's last night, with about 70 local life insurance men in attendance. W. M. Torry, president of the Dominion organization, extended an invitation to the local body to attend the annual convention at Ottawa in August. One of the chief speakers of the evening was W. A. Piesse, who delivered an address on insurance from the agent's viewpoint.

FAMOUS SINGER SERIOUSLY ILL

Mary Garden's Sickness Is of Such a Character That She May Not Recover.

Special Cable to The World. Copyrighted by The Toronto World and N. T. World. PARIS, June 13.—Mary Garden has been lying ill and confined to her apartment here since the middle of May and fears are entertained that her illness is of a serious character.

When her indisposition began it was announced that she was unable to sing today because she had the grip, but today the opera management stated that she was too ill to sing in "The Jewels of the Madonna," in which she was scheduled to sing at the first performance here, and consequently the production has been postponed indefinitely.

At Miss Garden's apartment no visitor is admitted, but her sister sent out word that Miss Garden "is getting better."

In opera circles the nature of the illness is unknown, but the management's announcement today gives rise to fears that the case is more serious than an attack of grip.

TAKING STOCK OF YOUR GARDEN

A wise gardener never lets one single day pass over his head without seeing some place or thing that may be improved next year. Here and there, as he works along, heeling up the earth around the roots of the various plants, an idea will crop up, some fresh thought for the betterment of his grounds.

Or what about a rugged rockery over there in front of that bare corner, where the close wooden fence on the north shuts out sun and air, making the earth damp, heavy and sour.

How about an arch over the garden gate? An arch over which one may train a clean green vine, or a rambler, or some such vine? Think what a perfect frame, for the first glance into the garden, such an arch might make.

Notice, especially, if certain plants are flourishing as they should, in the situations where they are now growing. Is there any other spot where they might do better?

If one is doubtful, plant an odd specimen or two in various spots, noting how well each one grows.

Plant every cutting, small shoot, or sucker, that you can manage to pull off the main plants. These will root if looked after properly, and your stock will increase amazingly.

Now, in order to have large "transplantings" for late August. These will bloom early next year.

Keep cultivating every spare minute.

HEALTH AWAITS GOOD DIGESTION

When the Stomach is Wrong the Whole Body Suffers—How to Keep it Healthy.

Indigestion is one of the most distressing maladies afflicting mankind. The stomach is unable to perform the work nature calls upon it to do, and the result is extreme pain, belching, nausea, heartburn, painful fluttering of the heart, sick headache, and often a loathing of food, even though the sufferer is half starved. People with poor digestion are prone to try all sorts of experiments to aid the process of digestion, and there is only one way in which the trouble can be actually cured, and that is thru the blood. That is why the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cures even the most obstinate cases of indigestion. They make the rich, red blood that strengthens the stomach and its nerves, thus enabling it to do its work. The process is simple, but the result means a good appetite, and increased health and pleasure in life. Mr. R. Lussler of Soré, Que., offers ample proof of this. He says: "For several years I was a sufferer from indigestion, and the torture I suffered after meals was almost unendurable. Often I would go to bed, and I would not get up until I took the Pills that followed. Accompanying the trouble I had headaches, dizziness, and often a feeling of nausea. All the time I was taking one medicine after another in the hope of getting relief, but without avail. Finally I read of a case of a similar sufferer cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. It took the Pills steadily for about six weeks with result that I was fully cured, and could eat anything I cared for. I may add that I have not since had any return of the trouble."

If you are suffering from indigestion do not waste time experimenting, but begin to cure yourself today with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which go right to the root of the trouble through the blood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.00, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

As a matter of fact, a man streaked of which he had not a few in his nature, showed itself at the wrong moment. He wondered if he couldn't lay it all off to the furious and sudden rainstorm and plead that the shock of nearly killing a man had unnerve him. In the meantime he would have flowers sent to Mildred every day and play his cards carefully in future of Lelaire.

Calling for his clothes, Cain arrayed himself with his usual care and sauntered to his club. The afternoon of the previous day he had been in the office of the Atlanta he was the acknowledged Beau Brummel, and to such an extent that they would not venture to consult their tailors at certain seasons of the year until Forrest Cain had appeared on the streets of the city displaying the latest word in sartorial art.

Forrest Cain was a lily of the valley in more ways than one. He talked, not, neither did he smile. He was one of the few wealthy young men of Atlanta who employed his time in killing that measure of duration. The older young men of his set, while many of them could easily afford to loaf, preferred to engage in business. The younger men of his set, while many of them could easily afford to loaf, preferred to engage in business. The younger men of his set, while many of them could easily afford to loaf, preferred to engage in business.

CHAPTER IV. It was on a matter of business that Forrest Cain had made a luncheon engagement at his club that day. It was with Galen Deery, Mildred's father, a crafty speculator in timber lands, who by strict attention to business had piled up more money than he had any use for, but from life-long habit he persisted in striving for more.

As one of the executors of his father's will, Cain came across the deeds to a piece of property consisting of several thousand acres, situated in the north-western part of the state. He had never seen the property and it did not interest him, so when Galen Deery had, several months before, offered to buy it for spot cash, he was for selling it without further trouble in the matter. But his more business-like sister, when she heard that it was Galen Deery who made the offer, figured there was something behind it all that did not appear on the surface and refused her permission to sell.

After bluffing around for several weeks, Deery was forced to lay his hand on the table and show his cards. It was then seen that Deery, too, owned several thousand acres in the neighborhood of the Cain estate's property, which he had acquired several years before thru a foreclosure process. And it further appeared that Deery had evolved a vast scheme involving lumber, water power and manufacturing plants, which would net several millions of dollars if successfully carried out. But, in order to carry out his plan it was necessary for Deery to not only control the Cain property, but also a part of the property owned by Deery's brother and the Cain property. This intermediate property was really the key to the whole thing, but Deery, on first acquiring the Cain holdings and then quietly grabbing up the other.

After fortifying himself with a couple of cocktails against an uninteresting session with Deery, Cain drew at a table with him and tried to appear interested in what he had to say. As soon as the dinner here to old Judge Barbee, Deery opened up as follows: "Forrest, I've got something in connection with our scheme. I'm going to get your line, and you'll get busy on it. We will land that piece of property that separates yours from mine, and we can go right ahead with our plan. We know 'Much work involved in it? You know I'm not very strong for work," said Cain.

"No work at all; simply pleasure; right in your line, I tell you." "That being the case, I will listen more carefully than I otherwise would have done. Please proceed." "I haven't bothered you much with the details of the work I have been putting in on this property, because usually you refuse to listen. But as a matter of fact the old warhorse that cost three or four months ago—got full of leucor and jumped off a mountain, and landed on my body a short time before this event took place, he made a new will, and left the property to his son, Judge Barbee, his lawyer. The property is left to his son, but I can't enter him in the property to his wife, but she died two years ago. Of course the son would have the property, but I don't want to guess he thought it better to make a new will and save all complications.

"I learned all this early this morning when I happened to pick up Judge Barbee and take him down town in my car. But beyond all this I learned that this son is in Atlanta, and the judge expects to see him any minute. He wrote several days ago that he would be here. March 1."

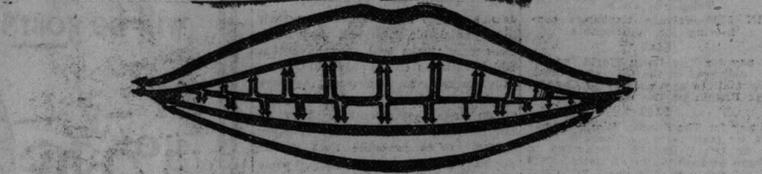

"Now, the judge doesn't know we're here that property, and neither does he. What want you to do to get acquainted with the young fellow and move to him that city life best mountain life so far that he will never want to see that piece of property again and will be glad to sell it for a song."

By GORDON HOLMES

At first, while he was speaking, his shrewd eyes dwelt on his hearer's face, but Doris Waverton's agitation was so marked that he thought it kinder to look elsewhere. Even when he finished, he kept his gaze averted, and did not seem to give any heed to the storm of doubt and terrified surmise that choked her utterance.

"I am sure—you mean well," she gasped, "but—what you say—is wildly impossible. I have seen my—my husband—spoken to him. I have humiliated myself—for the sake of my child."

"Let me at least save you some natural distress, Mrs. Waverton, by telling you that I know all about your visit to Mr. Waverton, broke in the detective promptly. "You were introduced by the highest motives; but when you are calmer, I shall ask you the condition under which that meeting took place. Were you not atung to a pitch of emotion that took a good deal for granted? Did you not meet this man in the park, at an hour when you could hardly discern his features? Am I mistaken in thinking that you attributed any change you may have noted in voice or mannerism partly to his disturbed state, partly to the interval of many months since your previous meeting—or he could not have succeeded in deceiving a host of witnesses who were given better opportunities than you to detect the fraud. That fact, chiefly accounts for my presence here today. If you, Claude Waverton's wife, are not to be convinced that this masquerade is not your husband, our contention falls to the ground; or, at any rate, it will be a most difficult and uncertain task to try and sustain it. In a word, we are practically powerless without your help. Will you give it?"

"I—cannot!" she wailed, sobbing in sheer desperation and bewilderment. "You say you know of my visit to 'The Dome,' but you cannot know—"

"Pardon me, Mrs. Waverton, and now Clancy thought the time had arrived to clinch the argument. "I do not call him, himself wrote to the Detective Bureau, and told us the object of your journey to Lake Champlain." Doris was woman enough, notwithstanding the war of conflicting emotions raging in heart and brain, to dry her eyes and collect her senses on hearing a statement that in its bizarre nature transcended all that had gone before.

"He wrote," she said, "she cried hysterically. "Yes, we cannot guess who this man really is, because the name, Charles Scott, is surely an alias. We cannot penetrate the motive that led him to commit a daring fraud on society. But there is one object to which he is committed with strange tenacity—he is determined that, should you wish to marry again, you will not be tempted to accept the proposal of the man whom he mentioned in the letter that led to your well-meant attempt at reconciliation." She clasped her hands in an unconscious attitude of entreaty. "Mr. Clancy, can you give me no shred of proof, other than your unsupported word, as to this amazing story?" Despite her vehemence, for her sweet voice was shrill and full of anguish, Doris was slowly recovering her self-possession, and the detective knew that the success or failure of his mission hung on the next few words.

"Yes," he said, "I cannot expect you to accept everything on trust. Here is the letter in question. You will see by the envelope that it was posted at Saginaw and delivered in New York." Doris took the letter, and Clancy saw that she did not fail to examine the envelope as he had suggested. Then she read, and her lips were set tightly; the drooped eyelids hid the gleam of fire that leaped up in her eyes when she came upon that sentence wherein the man said that he had "lied" for her sake.

She re-read the letter, word by word; but no word was uttered for a long minute, because she was thinking deeply and Clancy imagined that she was now furiously angry with the impostor to whom she had bared her soul. At last she lifted her head, and her glance met the detective's squarely. "What do you want me to do?" she said. "I want you to unmask this pretender."

"How?"

"In the first place, by coming to New York this evening, or early tomorrow; so that my chief, Mr. Steingall, or I, can communicate with you without loss of time; secondly, by keeping secret all that I have said, keeping it hidden at present even from your sister or your lawyer; thirdly, by promising to come to Atlantic City, or to Saginaw, whichever place is deemed most suitable, and there carry out the plan that will be made known to you. I cannot be more precise, because we must be guided by conditions as they arise. Lastly, provided you will promise to fall in with our plans, on arriving in New York you ought to telephone your address to the Bureau. You will then feel certain that you are not being hoodwinked by some mad dreamer of dreams named Clancy; but that there is a sound, reasonable, and official backing to the amazing story, as you rightly term it, that I have laid before you today."

HOLDY'S EXTRA WHISKY OLD RYE WHISKY At hotels and stores.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING BY HENRIETTA D. GRAUEL DOMESTIC SCIENCE LECTURER

For Warm Days

The clink and tinkle of crushed ice against crystal glasses seems to cool one by suggestion alone, so the dispensing of summer beverages has always been considered a pretty hospitality, easy to compass at a moment's notice.

With soda fountains and ice cream parlors springing up on every corner, mushroom-like, cooling drinks now have an accepted place in the list of summer goodies.

Ginger ale, root beer and lemonade are all wholesome beverages that can be made at home without much expenditure of time or trouble, and in making these and serving them at home you have the pleasurable assurance that they are pure. This is no small consideration where there are children in the family, in view of the startling disclosures of investigators who find coal tar products and harmful acids in many supposedly harmless soft drinks sold over counters.

Ginger ale made with honey has a peculiar softness and richness not found in the commercial article. Pound three ounces of ginger root until it is crushed and bruised; add the juice and rind of six lemons, three pounds of granulated sugar, one pint strained honey (all sugar may be used), one-half cake of fresh compressed yeast, four gallons of tepid water.

Mix the ingredients in the afternoon and let stand over night. In the morning taste the mixture and if not sufficiently strong with ginger add a few drops of essence of ginger. Strain thru a fine cloth and bottle securely, fastening the cork with wax or wire.

Root beer is made in exactly the same way, except the herb mixture is bought ready prepared to add to the yeast, sugar and water. Sufficient root beer extract to make five gallons costs fifteen cents.

Punches and fruit drinks requiring sugar will be smoother and richer if the sweetening is dissolved in boiling water and cooked until it becomes a simple syrup and then cooled before the fruits and juices are added. This is the secret of the goodness of fountain drinks. They are always sweetened with syrups, never with raw sugar.

Pineapple-ade is a good illustration of this method. Other fruits may be used in place of the heartful pineapple, if you prefer. Boil a pint of sugar and the juice of three large lemons with pint of water four minutes, cool and add one large pineapple grated. Put this in the punch bowl and dilute with ice water, or, better still, iced Apollinaris. A few fine strawberries may be added for a garnish.

Chocolate frappe is a nourishing drink that is liked by everyone who is fond of this flavor. Fill a tall thin glass half full of whipped cream and white of egg beaten together. On this lay two tablespoons of shaved ice and add cold chocolate syrup, beating all the while with a spoon, until the glass is even full. Heap whipped cream over top and sprinkle on a little powdered sugar.

Mint is always a refreshing flavor and may be made into acceptable juices without the use of alcohol. Wash a few tender sprigs of mint and bruise the leaves slightly with the fingers to make them aromatic. Fill the glasses half full of crushed ice and add four tablespoons of fruit syrup or ginger syrup, or any sweetened fruit juice that you like. Fill up with cold water and thrust in the sprigs of mint.

Ice drinks are more acceptable if straws are served with them. These may be purchased in bundles of twenty-five for five cents at variety stores. They are of uniform size and length, but better than the real straw, that is often rough or splintery, are the manufactured paper straws at the same price.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 14

THERE IS WATER IN THE LAKES

Unique even among the pro-corporation journals of Canada in this particular regard, The Toronto Globe comes forward as an apologist for the recent astounding merger which now controls all the shipping of this country from the head of navigation to tide water. This merger is part of a gigantic combine which controls all shipping from Canadian seaports to the United Kingdom, and includes the transcontinental railways, thus stifling all competition and increasing transportation rates. It has already doubled the freight on grain, and has so materially increased the spread between the freight upon wheat and the freight upon flour as to threaten our milling industry, with a total loss of export trade.

The Richelieu and Ontario merger, according to The Globe, represents a capital of $2,500,000, and a complete monopoly of lake and river traffic. This monopoly not only extends to the ownership of vessels, but includes the absolute ownership of so many wharves and landing places that tramp steamers, if any existed on the lakes could not successfully compete. As The Globe is frank enough to say, the constituent companies of the merger "control most of the available wharves, and that gives them the same absolute dominance as if they controlled the lakes and rivers."

But in all this The Globe sees no cause for alarm. It soothingly says: "But it is comforting to reflect that if there is any effort made to levy onerous rates against the manner of some of the railways, the water highways are an easy remedy always available. Water transportation is always competitive. Unlike the railroads, the water highways are open and available for all carriers. It is impossible to advance rates beyond the competitive level. Outside vessels, always looking for such advantages, will soon restore the equilibrium of charges."

The argument, by inference, contained in the above is by no means a new one. It is the old retort, the cheap sneer with which the Big Trust invariably replies to the protest of a citizen against the monopoly. "If you do not like our service," says the "big railway company for example, "build a railway of your own."

Any shipper along the great lakes who finds the merger oppressive, has only to expend thirty or forty million dollars and he can have rates reduced immediately.

There can be no lack of competition on the great lakes, The Globe argues, because the lakes are full of water and free for all. But there is even more water in the Atlantic Ocean, and it is a matter of common knowledge that a combine controls all the shipping between the United Kingdom and North America. How it works out, from a shipper's standpoint, may be inferred from the fact that the rate from Canadian ports to Liverpool advanced from six cents per hundred pounds for grain in 1907 to nearly thirteen cents in 1912, and on flour from eight cents to twenty cents. In short, the rates more than doubled. On inland waters the rate upon grain from Port Arthur to Montreal has been increased until the all water route is no cheaper than the part rail and part water route. This means, of course, that the railway companies and the inland navigation merger are working hand in glove, and no one doubts that the merger is connected with, if not controlled by, the ocean combine.

The grain grower of Saskatchewan has the rate upon his grain from his nearest railway station to every port in the United Kingdom absolutely fixed for him by a gigantic combine, and there is no competition. The Winnipeg Free Press, the western members of parliament, the western people, are clamoring for relief, but The Globe finds no reason for their complaints, so long as there is plenty of water in the great lakes, and in the stock issues of the great corporations.

ROOM FOR ALL. "Christians should endeavor, as the Apostle Paul commands them, to live peaceably with all men." Probably that sentence from the old "General Lesson" echoes in many an Irish-born heart in Ontario. Rabbi Jacobs has been calling attention to the really Christian spirit of Rev. Dr. Herridge in speaking of the Jewish people, as contrasted with the remarks of another preacher, who had changed his faith, and who, like most proselytes, seemed to think that justification of himself required abuse of his former co-religionists. It was said of old that the children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light. A grocer or dry goods man who attempted to push his own business by decrying the goods of his neighbors, would find that he gained little sympathy and less custom. "Good wine needs no bush." The man who can deliver the goods is the man who gets the business. So it will be with the churches. The Jewish people have testified by their inextinguishable faith and their manifold good works that they have that which satisfies them, physically, mentally, morally and spiritually. There is no test invited by other religions which finds them wanting. They do not interfere with adherents of other faiths. It is probable that if the Jewish body relaxed the ancient code or desired to increase in numbers its simple faith would attract multitudes. But the Jews are not a proselyting body, and desire chiefly to keep their own stock pure. Such a book as Morris Joseph's "Modern Judaism" would perhaps astonish the ordinary reader, but he may find something lighter in the sympathetic pages of D'Israeli's "Coningsby."

Rabbi Jacobs pleads merely for the right to be left in peace. "Leave us alone to follow the faith of our fathers—the belief in one God, His universal Fatherhood, and the brotherhood of man." And instead of spending money in striving to change the belief of his people, the Rabbi thinks the money had better be dedicated "to the more hallowed work of reclaiming drunkards, wife-beaters, fallen women, idle loafers, street roughs, and the godless element who walk about the city using vile and blasphemous language."

LOSING AN OPPORTUNITY. In the current number of The Canadian Forestry Journal, notice is taken of an incident which pointedly shows the value of accurate information regarding lands opened for settlement purposes. Turtle Mountain, Manitoba, lies partly in Canada and partly in the United States, and sometime ago an agitation was started for throwing open the Canadian portion which had been created a forest reserve. It was, however, pointed out by several authorities that the land was unsuitable for agricultural purposes and that concession of the demand could only result in the stripping of the timber and the abandonment of the land by the settlers as happened under similar conditions in Ontario and Quebec. In these provinces the authorities had to begin the replanting of the light hilly lands at large expense, whereas by proper conservation of the forest, the Turtle Mountain Reserve would in a comparatively few years supply sufficient timber to keep ten sawmills of the ordinary Ontario size running in perpetuity besides supplying the surrounding district with fenceposts and firewood.

This prompted the editors of The Canadian Forestry Journal to ask The United States Forester whether the United States forest service had ever had its part of Turtle Mountain examined, and if so, why it had not been constituted a national forest. From his reply it appears that when the district was examined in 1902 and found to be well adapted for a forest reserve, only one twenty-fourth of the area remained government land. Had the United States department been a little earlier on the ground, all of Turtle Mountain on both sides of the international boundary would have been a permanent forest. The report made by Mr. T. M. Hatton of the U. S. service stated that the timber was then being rapidly removed and that it would be but a matter of five or six years until all the heavy timber would be destroyed or consumed, and erosion rendered liable. Many of the settlers, it stated, found it difficult to make a living. The report concluded with a recommendation that a forest reserve should be established provided an exchange of lands could be effected. The incident is instructive as showing the need of full investigation before forest lands are opened for settlement.

"SEEIN' THINGS." Representative Edwyn Y. Webb of North Carolina rises to remark that complete federal control of railway rates would result in "government ownership, destruction of the republic and the establishment of a monarchy." Mr. Webb may be right in saying that real rate regulation will ultimately terminate in public ownership. Regulation is at best a half-way house. The board of railway commissioners Canada has done some good work; it has put an end to rate cuttings and rebates. Indeed, competition in rates no longer exists on this continent and the only competition left is competition in service. After ten years of existence the railway commission can be credited with many effective reforms, altho it has been principally occupied in dealing with disputes among the railways rather than with disputes between the companies and the public. A number of cases have been heard at various points and as a rule have been disposed of satisfactorily, but, speaking by and large, the transportation problem is about as much a problem in 1913 as it was in 1903. All now admit that the question must be dealt with by parliament and that before long the Dominion Government will own and operate a transcontinental line. If privately owned lines cannot stand this competition, they will have to be taken over by the government and sooner or later all the railways of Canada, perhaps not unwillingly, will pass into the possession of the government. Those who are opposed to government ownership will be troubled by strange apparitions. Public ownership, they will tell us, must result in something dreadful—perhaps a republic. In the end Mr. Edwyn Y. Webb of North Carolina may come to Canada.

The Philosopher of Folly. SUMMER CLOTHES. We soon may have a red-hot spell; upon this thought I often dwell, yet thinking on it makes me yell in fear and sorrow. I with the rest of all the host who in the name of freedom boast must follow the custom of my folk, I'd scamp down the zig-zag street and never care a boot for heat the liveliest summer; but, woe is me, I bare my arms about the village thus and so, and as I meditate I go from glum to glummer. If it is a silk waist coat I, leaving my throat for all to see and in the fashion, like Jonas Hanway and the gamp he carried when the rain was damp; soon to this clothed reformer's gamp we'd all be dashin'.

CANADIAN PACIFIC. Great Lakes Express Steamship Service. Few people realize with what ease and speed a trip from the east to Port William and Winnipeg can be made via the Canadian Pacific Great Lakes Express Steamships. Stop for a moment and consider that you can leave Toronto at 12:45 noon on Tuesday or Saturday and arrive in Winnipeg at 3:40 p.m. Thursday or Monday. Fifty-seven hours from Toronto to Winnipeg, twelve hours faster than any other service for those who wish to travel on different days in the week and have a little more time on the water, the trip can be made leaving Toronto at 12:45 noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, arriving in Winnipeg at 11:40 a.m. on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. Think of a steamship service five days each week across the great lakes. The steamships are built and furnished to give the very best comfort and the cuisine is the result of years of studied effort and experience, and is needless to say, the best. The Tuesday and Saturday boats contain inside and outside state-rooms and cabins de luxe. Large, well-ventilated dining saloon and rest rooms, together with spacious decks for promenading. All state rooms on the Monday, Wednesday and Thursday boats are outside, and in addition there are parlor rooms. If you are contemplating a trip don't let this slip your memory. Canadian Pacific steamships make the fastest time, have the best of accommodation and the table is unexcelled. Full particulars and reservations on trains and ships, at every Canadian Pacific ticket office, Toronto city office, temporarily located at 18 East King street, in a few days will be in the new high building, southeast corner of King and Yonge streets. 56

NEW IMMIGRATION PLAN. OTTAWA, June 13.—The business of attracting immigrants to Canada has heretofore been a combination propaganda on the part of the government and the railways. A new arrangement is about to be effected whereby the railways will confine their efforts to the tourist traffic, the more profitable end of the business, and the government will alone attend to immigration propaganda.

WEBSTER—On Thursday, June 12, 1913, at Toronto General Hospital, Frances Maude Barber, beloved wife of Lewis C. Webster, aged 29 years.
Funeral from her late residence, 59 Prizell avenue, Saturday, June 14, at 2.30 p.m., to Norway Cemetery.

ERIN, June 12.—(Special.)—The Proudfoot charges against Hon. W. J. Hanna were iterated and reiterated at today's big picnic of East Wellington Liberals in Stanley Park.

Among the speakers were: Wm. Proudfoot, K.C., M.L.A., Hon. Mackenzie King, Hugh Guthrie, M.P., and Udny Richardson, M.L.A., for East Wellington.

Mr. Richardson predicted that the Liberals, in addition to holding all the seats they have at present, would make startling gains, and that the result of the next election would, to the Conservatives, be a most unpleasant surprise. Hugh Guthrie and Hon. Mackenzie King aroused enthusiasm by the story of what they called the Liberal's fight for the people's rights during the naval bill debate. R. M. Hazlewood, Liberal candidate for North Wellington, made a favorable impression.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.
William Spencer, aged about 45, was found dead in bed at 33 1-2 Jarvis street last night. He had been given supper a short time prior while in bed, but when the landlady returned for the dishes he had expired. The body was removed to the morgue, but an inquest will not be held.

ENGINEER STROVE TO AVERT WRECK

Air Brakes Didn't Respond and Fatal Collision Unavoidable, He Testifies.

STAMFORD, Conn., June 13.—(Can. Press.)—Declaring emphatically that the brakes had failed to respond properly, that he had tried to take precautions and had done all he could to avert the accident, Engineer Chas. J. Doherty of New Haven told a dramatic story at the inquest into the wreck in this city last evening and the ramming by the first section of the Springfield express by his engine, of the second section, on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, which resulted in six deaths, besides injury to many others.

Wrecked Car Burned.
In the midst of the examination of witnesses, Coroner Phelan turned suddenly to Attorney Benjamin L. Spock of the New Haven Road, who was seated in the audience, with this question: "Is it true, Mr. Spock, that the wrecked parlor car, the Skyhawk, was burned?"

Mr. Spock replied that it was true. The car had been ordered burned by officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, who was seated in the audience, with this question: "The inquest will be resumed tomorrow."

Engineer Doherty was arrested tonight charged with manslaughter. Ball was fixed at $5000, which was furnished by John Dillon of New Haven, his brother-in-law.

BANKERS DINE ON PORK AND BEANS
And "Shanty" Luncheon Is Enjoyable Event of Ottawa Visit.

OTTAWA, June 13.—(Can. Press.)—Probably the most successful convention in the history of the New York Bankers' Association was brought to a close tonight after a full round of interesting sessions and delightful entertainments.

This afternoon the visiting bankers, their wives and daughters, were entertained by the Ottawa clearing house to a "shanty luncheon" at the royal shanty, Rockcliffe Park, cooked and served by Ottawa valley lumbermen. Special cars conveyed the visitors to the foot of Pine Hill. The fare at the lunch consisted of pea soup, pork and beans, Dutch oven bread, doughnuts, maple syrup and tea.

Novel indeed was the event to the visitors, who heartily and humorously entered into the fun.

Business sessions were completed this evening. This evening the New York and Syracuse chapters debated on "Resolved that it is for the best interest of the State of New York that some form of financial institution be established in order to properly finance the business of agriculture in said state."

HANDLED OFFICERS LIKE CHILDREN
Youth Held For Assault Tells Strange Story in Police Court.

That one undersized man demonstrated his superiority over two policemen in view of a crowd of several hundred people, and that the little man handled the cops as if they were children, was the surprising part of an interesting narrative related in the police court yesterday by Alex. Mahard, who had been summoned on a charge of assaulting Police Constable Hewitt (154).

Mahard said that he joined a crowd of people at Broadway and Queen, and watched Constable Hewitt and Constable Pearson attempting to make an arrest. The man whom they were trying to take had been partly handcuffed. Suddenly he grabbed both officers by the tunic and walloped them down the street, while the crowd howled with merriment. The officers, said accused, agreed to not molest the man if he would let go of their tunics.

After making the crowd disperse, he finally tore the tunic partly off Hewitt, took off the handcuff and disappeared. Mahard said to the officers: "That's the way the crowd treated you. I grabbed him and he struggled. Magistrate Kingsford remanded the case until Tuesday, for further investigation into the boy's story."

MORAL REFORMER NO TASK FOR YOUNG MEN

God must transcend all the laws of etiquette and hospitality.

"Do not let persons come to your home and demoralize yourself and your family. Let it be understood that those who visit you on Sunday must go to church with you. If this was settled there would be no longer any question of obtaining a supply of clergy."

The bishop lamented the fact that even in houses of the clergy today the ideal of entering the ministry is not held out constantly to the children. He stated that arrangements were being made whereby ten or twelve new men would shortly be obtained from the old country for mission work in the diocese.

A measure of religious instruction in the public schools was advocated by Archdeacon Ingles, who claimed that the educational committees should not be dismissed until something was accomplished along this line. "We have heard a great deal lately about co-operation and union. Here is an opportunity for us to do something. There is a common ground of belief on which all Christians stand. The Congregationalists and Presbyterians are taking up the matter, and I think that we should make a move in the same direction."

Protest Mackinnon pointed out that this work is in the sphere of the provincial synod and the delegates to that body will present the case for religious instruction at its next meeting. The educational committee of the Toronto synod was dismissed on account of its failure to do anything.

The synod voted $300 to the moral reform committee with which to carry on work in the diocese. An additional $200 was subscribed by ten members of the executive committee who are to pay off an old debt against the church in Canada.

A project to erect a house of rest at the island for Anglican clergymen has been abandoned, four-fifths of the clergymen consulted having expressed themselves as opposed to the proposition.

A resolution to establish one Sunday as Bible Sunday, introduced by E. B. Edgerton, was carried by a large majority, declaring that he only consented to the proposal on condition that the day selected should be the second Sunday in Advent, which is the third before Christmas. The establishment of a Bible Sunday is to be world-wide and undenominational.

The executive committee of the synod for next year will be composed of the following: Archdeacons Warren and Ingles, Canons Marsh and O'Mara, Rev. C. E. Sharpe, Messrs. A. R. Boswell, N. W. Hoyle, K.C. H. D. Beck, Hon. Justice Hodgins, W. D. Gwynne. The appointments are made by the bishop.

It was moved that the St. Andrew's Brotherhood be invited to report annually to the synod in future.

It was announced that the seventy-fifth anniversary of the opening of the diocese which falls due next year, will be celebrated in 1915 at the general synod meets a year from now in Victoria.

VINDICATION FOR BRITISH CABINET
Partisan Parliamentary Committee Glosses Over That Little Flyer in Marconis.

LONDON, June 13.—(Can. Press.)—British cabinet ministers were today absolved by the partisan parliamentary committee from all blame in connection with the scandals alleged to have surrounded the contracts between the British Government and the Marconi wireless company.

The report of the parliamentary committee which investigated the affair was issued today and declares that there is no foundation for any of the charges made against Attorney-General Sir Rufus Isaacs, Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd George, or Postmaster-General Herbert L. Samuel. The committee finds that all the ministers concerned acted in the sincere belief that there was nothing in their action which would conflict with their duty as ministers of the crown.

No improper influence. The report further states that no evidence was given showing that any member of the British Government exercised any influence in order to procure the contract for the English Marconi Company or in any way acted contrary to the public interest in behalf of that company, or used knowledge acquired in their official capacity for their private profit, or were in any way concerned in any dealings in the shares of the company.

The report in conclusion strongly condemns the publication of charges which were absolutely untrue and which those responsible for their circulation had not reason to believe to be true.

The foregoing extracts are from the majority report. The majority of the

AUSTRALIANS SCORE IN FIRST INNINGS

All Out For Less Than Three Hundred and Montreal Cricketers Are Satisfied.

MONTREAL, June 13.—Altho today's score of 287 to 85 in the cricket match between the Australians and Montreal was not exactly flattering to the home side, the visitors did not amass quite such a large total as was generally expected. Goodman carried off the bowling honors, taking his four wickets for the comparatively modest figure of 52 runs, while Lane and Hart helped materially. Lane would have fared more successfully in the analysis had he not encountered some bad luck, for not only were several chances missed off his bowling, but in the first over a ball of his struck the wickets without dislodging the bats. The game started at midday on the Montreal grounds under none too favorable circumstances. The light was bad and there were several showers of rain, one of which was sharp enough to stop the play for a few minutes. Score:

Betting Even Money Today's Polo Game

NEW YORK, June 13.—Despite the rather easy victory of the U. S. team in the opening game of the international polo series, a close contest is predicted in the second game with the English cup challengers, at the Meadowbrook Club field tomorrow afternoon. Various factors contribute to this impression. Just what the result of several shifts in the two teams will be polo experts are unable to state. It is the general impression, however, that the invading line will be stronger than the four of last Tuesday. It is certain that the American team will be unable to jump the challengers as they did in the first game, since the English will bring out their best ponies for the opening period in preparation for just such tactics. Wagering on the outcome of tomorrow's game is at even money.

LAWRENCE PARK BOWLING CLUB.

The Best Tailors in Canada make the Semi-ready Special Order Clothes.

I will tell you why we can get and hold in our service the best workmen. The Tailoring season comes in cycles; for a few months the tailor is too busy, and for the next few months he has little or nothing to do—then, his help is laid off.

In the Semi-ready shops they are busy all the year round. The Stock Goods are tailored in the dull months of the tailoring season; the best tailors are working on dress suits, frock coats, fine serges, and when the busy season comes around we have all the best tailors, the skilled artisans to work on Special Orders, garments made to measure. Semi-ready Special Orders offer quick service and clothes at the better prices you expect in wholesale tailoring.

ST. KITTS TO BATTLE WITH YOUNG TORONTO

Beacherites Determined to Win First League Fixture—Other Games of Note.

Altho the Big Four is not performing in Toronto this afternoon, allowing the Tecumsehs to take a much-needed rest at Montreal, the blue shirts will have the battle of their lives with Jim Kavanagh's Frenchmen.

At the Beach, however, the fans who journey there will see another game on the same lines as last Saturday's pro-tussle. At 8 o'clock sharp the Young Toronto and St. Catharines will meet in their first senior O.A.L.A. fixture of the season, and as the visitors have already a victory to their credit which they secured in an exhibition game on May 24, the Beacherites have a double desire to win. The battle at St. Catharines was none of the tamest and both teams are inclined even at the most ordinary times to lay on the hickory, so it looks like a real bang-up game in which every one will have his hands full as referee.

St. Helens and Can. Gen. Electric Co. will play at Broadview Y.M.C.A. grounds this afternoon in their first junior O.A.L.A. game.

Lansdowne Seniors want all the following players to meet at the Union Station at 12 o'clock: Torrey, Long, Hooper, Sheardown, Curtis, Ramshap, Conley, Bennett, Higgins, Ripley, Farr, Riddell, Laird, Burrell, Irwin and Harrison.

The game between the Lansdownes of Toronto and the Excelsors of Brampton at Brampton this afternoon promises to be a fast game. The local twain have been practicing hard. Coach Jack Carmichael, and are confident of putting a furl in their opponent's sails. Clayton for the Lansdownes. The Excelsors will line-up: Goal, Campbell; point, Mullis; cover-point, Becham; first defence, Warren; second defence, Blain; third defence, Ashley; centre, W. Stephens; full back, Harry Sproule; second home, Geo. Sproule; first home, Mara; outside home, Jarvis; inside home, Charters.

Brennan Was Good Philadelphia Again

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—Brennan was invincible in all but the final inning today, while Harmon was hit when hits meant runs, Philadelphia winning from St. Louis, 5 to 2. St. Louis could not bunt hits off Brennan until the ninth inning, when three singles and an out gave them two runs. In the second inning, Catthers, playing rightfield for St. Louis, after catching Cravath's long fly, crashed into the fence, fracturing his left arm. Score: St. Louis..... A. B. R. H. O. A. E. ### EIGHT SPEEDY EVENTS AT EXHIBITION PARK

Yankee and Ontario Riders Coming to Meet Locals at Motorcycle Races.

Eight classy speed events are on the card for the motorcycle races at the Exhibition to-day. The Wanderer's officials have spared no trouble or expense in bringing fast American riders to compete with McIntosh, Cole and plions, and amateur entries have been received from London and Hamilton riders who will make Bobby Scott the amateur champion, and the rest of the boys get the limit.

MANY ENTRIES EXPECTED FOR THE DUNLOP TROPHY.

More than usual interest is being evinced in the Dunlop trophy race this year, owing to the fact that it is being contested for outside of Toronto, and because the race will once more be run entirely on the road. It is now impossible to run a road race in Toronto.

The young riders having heard that the race will be over such an ideal course as that from Waterloo to Preston—five miles of the twenty being as smooth as asphalt—have set to training with the result that it looks as if the entry list will surpass all records. From as far as Charlottetown, P.E.I., have come enquiries regarding the race, and it now looks as if a number of riders will make the trip from Winnipeg.

BLACK FRIDAY PASSED QUIETLY

Day of Ill-Omen Had No Terrors for the Stock Market.

Leading Issues Went Higher in Toronto Exchange—Bank Shares Lower.

Black Friday proved a rather quiet day in the stock markets, despite all the predictions of dire happenings which had been made in the week. The European exchanges showed a firm tone, and a further rally in the New York list also served to establish confidence in the market. Altogether the events of the session were of a highly favorable nature, as tending to restore confidence in the financial situation.

The Toronto Stock Exchange took its cue from Wall street, and when the rise in prices commenced there, our market responded with like action. Smart gains were shown by Brazilian, Toronto Railway and Winnipeg Electric in particular, and while these were not held in their entirety, the list wound up above the previous close.

Scattered few of the less prominent issues were under pressure again and lower quotations were reached, but those were the exception rather than the rule, and the weakness was lost sight of in the face of the improved tone to the usual favorites.

Flurry in Toronto Railway.

A three point rise in Toronto Rails, which sold up to 140 under sustained buying, was the real feature of the day. The movement was attributed to the feeling that the recent decline had been overdone, particularly since the near future will probably witness a resumption of the bullish talk on the shares incident to the possible acquisition of the property by the city. The stock dropped back again when profit-taking came into play, and closed at 138 1/2, a half of the gain wiped out.

In the general list Brazilian moved up a large fraction to 88, only to retreat later to 85 3/4, a fraction below the previous close. A subsequent rally carried the price up to 88 1/2, but the close at 87 5/8 left a net gain of just a quarter point. Winnipeg rose up a full five points to 195, Twin City gained 1 1/4 to 103 3/4, Mackay common was over a point higher at 118 1/2 and the preferred fractionally improved at 66 1/2. Duluth Superior, Steel of Canada, Macdonald and Dominion Iron all made recoveries from their recent lows and closed at one time touched 19 3/8, the it was back to 19 again in the final dealings. Maple Leaf at 47, General Electric at 106 and Locomotive preferred at 87, were at new low records for the year, the latter being down three points for the day. The decline in the bank stocks was carried further, with Commerce, Royal and Standard at their lowest quotations in several years.

FAILURES SHOW ANOTHER INCREASE

Commercial Insolvency in Dominion Is Heavier Than Last Year.

Those who regard the record of commercial mortality as one of the best indications of the state of business will find ground for thought in the fact that failures in Canada last week totaled 31, against 16 the same week last year. They have been running steadily in excess of 1912 of late, a fact which is accepted as another sign of a reaction in our prosperity. The record, as compiled by Dun's, follows:

| Date    | Ont. | Que. | Man. | Alta. | Sask. | P.C. | B.C. | W. Can. | U.S. | Total |

GOSSIP OF THE STOCK MARKETS

Black Friday brought no new terrors to the stock markets, the day of ill-omen actually proving one of bullish operations. In the New York exchange closing prices left small net gains for the session, which might be viewed as an indication of the inherent strength of the situation, since after the big rally of Thursday a retreating of values would have come purely in natural order. The question is whether the worst has really passed, or whether the former tone is merely for the purpose of coaxing out more margins?

SILVER ON DOWN GRADE

Bar silver dropped to a new low record in two months at 59 1/2 cents an ounce in the New York metal market yesterday, making a total loss of almost a point since the first of the month. Compared with January last year, the metal was selling at 64 1/2 cents, a depreciation which means much to the Cobalt mining companies. It is interesting to note that just as the quotation for the metal was falling, cents, and that on June 29, 1912, it rose to 62 cents, which was the high level of the year up to that time. The complete range for 1912 was 55 to 64 1/2 cents, the former in January and the latter in October. The present decline started in the London market and is attributed to selling for the account of speculators in the old country and China.

THE BAROMETER OF TRADE

Despatches from Pittsburgh indicate that the steel market is depressed and manufacturers are getting more eager for new business. New orders are down and far between, actually running more than 50 per cent. below the shipments of the mills. The United States Steel Corporation, for instance, is receiving orders at the rate of about 20,000 tons a day, while the shipments are 45,000 tons daily. Under these conditions a falling off in production is expected in the near future. Meanwhile, consumers have taken note of the unfavorable situation, and have restricted their buying in the steel business has ever been viewed with the most pessimistic of eyes, and from the present indications it would seem that the barometer is falling. Any reduction in output would, of course, mean a corresponding shrinkage in earnings.

PUTS AND CALLS

Grain speculators will be interested to learn that under legislation recently passed by the legislature of the State of Illinois, trading in puts and calls on the Chicago Board of Trade will be permissible again, on and after July 1. Dealings in these options were declared illegal a couple of years ago under the gambling act, a "call" is a contract which gives the possessor

RALLY IN MINES CARRIED FURTHER

Sharp Advances in Cobalt and Porcupine Lists—Big Short Interest Outstanding.

The turn for the better in the financial situation during the last few days has had a decidedly favorable effect on sentiment in the mining exchanges. Traders who saw nothing but blue ruin ahead have turned into optimists, and meanwhile, the public demand for stocks has broadened to a sufficient extent to justify a large part at least of their cheerfulness. Since Wednesday night prices for all active Cobalts and Porcupines have been on the upgrade, and material advances in value have been recorded.

Those who have followed the course of events during the last month are convinced that there is a large short interest outstanding in the mining exchange. The heavy declines which stamped the day-to-day action up to a few days ago were due in no small measure to the removal of short positions from the smooth-flowing stream of liquidation convincing the bears that they might assume contracts with impunity. Now that the turn has come, these traders are seeing prices marked up on them quickly, and were a short covering movement to follow a smart rally would be entirely in order.

Offerings Are Restricted.

The list yesterday maintained an appearance of resiliency, which augured well for the future of the market. Stocks were not offering at all freely, and consequently brokers found it necessary to raise their bids from time to time before shares could be located. In the Porcupine list Pearl Lake rose a full 2 1/2 points to 40 1/2, with the trading movement of larger proportions than in some days. Porcupine Gold advanced 1 1/2 to 9 1/2. Dome Extension a large fraction to 9. McIntyre to 12 1/2 and Dome Lake to 12 1/2. This gain was not held in its entirety. Hollinger sold at 15 3/8, on sentiment in the range, up 35 points for the day. Dome was up to 8 1/2.

Similar progress was made by the Cobalts, which were in sustained demand. Beaver was 24 1/2, the bid at the close, up 2 1/2 points for the day. Peterson Lake gained 1 1/2 to 23, and Great Northern, Gould, McKinley, Durrugh, Nipissing and La Rose were all higher. The movement was inspiring, and at the close confidence was the general rule.

BRAZILIAN IN LONDON.

Rouard, Ryerson & Co. received cables from London quoting Brazilian Traction as follows: London equivalents about three points below these:

NEW PULP MILL.

SAFETY COMBINED WITH LARGE PROFITS

Which would you prefer—to take the long chance of developing a prospect into a mine, or to mine the ore NOW IN SIGHT in a rich Quicksilver property and share in the profit!

The late J. P. Morgan has been credited with making the following statement: "EARNING BREAD BY THE SWEAT OF THE BROW IS HONEST, BUT ALL THERE IS IN IT IS BREAD, SWEAT AND HONESTY." BE A SHAREHOLDER IN KING'S QUICKSILVER MINING COMPANY, LIMITED, AND ADD TO THE OTHER THREE—FORTUNE. There are plenty of prospects in the mining business offered to you as an investment for your savings, but an opportunity to invest in a thoroughly proven mine, with sufficient ore already blocked out to keep a 30-ton plant going to its fullest capacity for the next nine years, which means a monthly production of over 600 flasks of Quicksilver, are not so plentiful.

THIS IS WHAT WE HAVE TO OFFER YOU BY THE PURCHASE OF THE SHARES IN THE KING'S QUICKSILVER MINING COMPANY, LIMITED.

So rich is this valuable mine that for the past seven years Mr. C. F. Francis, its former owner, has produced while working a daily yield of about four flasks of quicksilver, which netted him over $150.00 per day, notwithstanding the crude and expensive methods employed in the extraction of the metal.

THE KING'S QUICKSILVER MINING COMPANY, LIMITED, have purchased this valuable mine, and are now installing the most approved and up-to-date furnaces and concentrators, and already have over 100,000 tons of ore blocked out and ready for extraction, which will mean an output of over 600 flasks per month at an average net profit of over $30.00 per flask, thus assuring large and substantial dividends.

The Directors of the Company are all well-known, successful Canadian business men. Expert mining engineers have pronounced their property THE RICHEST MINE IN THE COUNTRY. The demand for quicksilver is ever on the increase, and is far greater than the supply, and with competent management, fine equipment and unlimited market for quicksilver the investment in the shares of the Company offers an opportunity that rarely comes to the individual investor more than once in a lifetime.

To provide the necessary funds for the erection and completion of the plant, a limited number of shares are now being offered for public subscription, which we have the good fortune to be able to offer to our clients and friends at 70c per share.

NOW IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY, and we cannot impress upon you too strongly the extraordinary money-making chance the purchase of this stock offers. For Illustrated Booklet, which you are sure to find of great interest, as it tells all about quicksilver, how it is found, and to what uses it is put, we shall be pleased to mail you upon request, or should you care to call at our offices we will be glad to furnish you with the fullest particulars.
