HEROIC CAPTAIN AND SON SAVED BRITISH VESSEL

Anglo-Californian Reached Port With Nine Dead and Eight Wounded. TORONTO MEN ABOARD Captain's Son Seized Wheel After German Shell Had Killed Father.

"Merchant ships are a necessary link in the chain by which the British Government maintains her part in the war. Captains and seamen stay by their jobs just as men on shore do by theirs where their work is necessary." Capt. Parslow before sailing from Montreal.

QUEENSTOWN, July 5.—With nine dead sailors stretched on her deck, eight men lying wounded below, and her sides riddled with shot and shell, the British steamship Anglo-Californian steamed into Queenstown harbor this morning after having withstood the attack of a German submarine for four hours. The ship's escape from destruction was accomplished with no other means of defence than the indomitable spirit of her captain and her crew, combined with mastery seamanship, which enabled her to frustrate the efforts of her assailant to torpedo her.

The story of how Captain Parslow stood on the bridge of the Anglo-Californian amidst a rain of shot and calmly directed the movements of his ship until he was killed by a shell, and of how his place was taken by his son until British destroyers appeared and the submarine was compelled to flee, was told by the survivors. Sailed From Montreal. The Anglo-Californian left Montreal for the British Isles on June 24. The submarine was sighted at 8 o'clock last Sunday morning. Capt. Parslow Continued on Page 2 Column 2

PRINCE ARTHUR REVIEWS TROOPS ON BATTLE LINE

In the Western Theatre of War—Brave Frenchmen Decorated. PARIS, July 5.—On July 2 Prince Arthur of Connaught, who has been at the front with the British forces in the western theatre of war, reviewed the various French troops which had been engaged for a month in heavy fighting in the Argonne region, says a despatch to The Times. Gen. (name deleted by censor) decorated in the name of France with the Legion of Honor or the Military Medal those who had especially distinguished themselves. During the ceremony a terrific cannonade was taking place.

WHAT MANITOBA PROBE SHOWS

The evidence taken before the two royal commissions at Winnipeg to date fairly establishes the following facts: 1. That members of the Roblin government, the provincial architect and other civil servants combined and conspired with the contractor for the parliament buildings so that by padded estimates and other devices the latter obtained from the provincial treasury about one million dollars to which he was not entitled. 2. That a considerable portion of this loot went into the campaign fund of the government and that a portion of it was paid to civil servants and others having guilty knowledge to leave the country and remain away from Manitoba. 3. That the opposition members of the legislature procured sufficient evidence to expose the foregoing facts and that a deal was made between the leading members of the two political parties in Manitoba by which the Conservatives were to surrender the government and the control of the legislature to the Liberals. 4. That the government of guilty persons effected by which all election protests were sawed off and the Roblin government, then in power, gave up $25,000 for opposition members of the legislature and agreed to give the charges against the government and the contractor then pending before the public accounts committee. 5. That the government of Manitoba being about to bring a suit against the contractor, to recover the illegal payments made to him, interested itself in procuring the best lawyers possible not for the province but for the contractor.

LIBERALS GOT BIG SUM TO ABANDON PROTESTS

Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars Paid by Ex-Architect General Howden and as Much More Promised in Transaction—Norris Said to Be Implicated.

WINNIPEG, July 5.—W. H. Howden, ex-attorney-general of Manitoba, admitted today before the commission appointed to investigate the Kullerton charges that, by an agreement $25,000 was paid, and $25,000 more promised, to William Chambers, representing the Liberals, for the dropping of election protests by the Liberals. This arrangement, Mr. Howden said, had nothing to do with the change of government. Mr. Howden said that G. M. Newton had come to him and told him that Chambers had a proposition in connection with the election protests. Chambers represented the Liberals, and wanted $50,000 to drop the election protests. While admitting that the cabinet knew he was negotiating in connection with the protests, no member of the cabinet, or of the Conservative party, knew there was any money transaction connected with it.

Newton Borrowed Money. Dr. Simpson Supplied Money. Mr. Howden then asked Dr. Simpson, president of the Conservative Association, for the money, stating that it was wanted in connection with election protests. Dr. Simpson gave the money, but Mr. Howden said he did not know how or where it had come from. Howden started to give the names of the men alleged by Chambers to have shared in the money, when Pittblado stopped him, precipitating considerable argument. Pittblado wanted the names struck out of the record, which course the commissioners refused to take, altho at the same time they requested the newspapers to leave out the three names mentioned. "I am not here to tell these things," said Howden. Mr. Justice Perdue expressed the opinion that before any more witnesses were called Mr. Norris should be called. (Continued on Page 3, Column 1)

ITALIAN FORCES MARCHING IN STRENGTH UPON PLAVA

Austrians, Despite Strong Resistance, Are Being Methodically Driven Back—Enemy Resorts to Casting Down Boulders and Blowing Up Rock Galleries. GENEVA, Switzerland, July 5.—(Via Paris).—Severe fighting is in progress on the plateau of Cornico and Doberto between the Italians and the Austro-Hungarians, according to advices received here today from Innsbruck. The Austrians continue to cast down boulders and to blow up hidden rock galleries on the advancing Italian mountaineers. A large Italian army is reported to be marching on Plava from western Goritz and to be methodically driving back the Austrians despite severe resistance. An Austrian aeroplane, carrying a pilot and an observer, fell down a precipice on the spur of Monte Nero on Saturday and was smashed. It was many hours before the bodies of the two aviators could be reached.

RUSSIANS MAKE DECISIVE STRIDE AGAINST ENEMY

Austro-Germans Held Up Between Rivers Pruth and Dniester. IN SOUTH POLAND TOO Vienna Admits Muscovite Attacks in Strong Force Against Advance.

LONDON, July 5.—Much activity was apparent today in all the three elements where the warring powers come into actual contact. Berlin uses a "reliable source" for the denial, the not an official one, that a German battleship of the pre-dreadnought type was sunk by a Russian submarine at the mouth of Danzig Bay, but the official report from Petrograd on the occurrence is accepted as correct by London, where resumption of the naval operations in the Baltic has been watched with intense interest.

General von Linsingen's Teutonic army, after a terrible struggle, is reported by both Vienna and Berlin to have reached the whole front of the Zlota Lipa River in eastern Galicia. Berlin claims a success on the western front where, in the forest of Le Pretre, the German forces, it asserts, compelled the French to evacuate trench after trench over a 1,500 yard front of 100 prisoners including a battalion staff and a number of guns fell into the hands of the attacking troops. The Paris version of this claim is that after an extremely heavy bombardment the German succeeded along a front of one kilometre in regaining a foothold in the old lines which had been taken by the French. Both sides report sanguinary, but fruitless attacks at other points along the western line.

The German Doctrine Lands in the States. The attempt on the life of Mr. Morgan, the New York banker, brings the war home to America. The loss of so many Americans on the Lusitania off the coast of Ireland was a more serious affair, but it was not in America. The outrages on the Canadian border, instigated by German agents, have the United States any consequences to our own doors. It may be some time before the facts of the German organization "to get to Canada" are known, but it was all planned, and the plans are available now if the opportunity comes. German warships have raided the St. Lawrence and submarines to up the river; sympathizers to cross over from the States; these things are all organized. To make Canada a part of Germany is only one of the things in the Kaiser's plans.

What deep-laid plans may exist for the United States no one can tell. The attempt on Mr. Morgan may be part of the German layout. Grant that the man Holt is a crank; yet he is a product of German Kultur! Have the United States any reason to expect any other attitude than that of the rankest kind of treachery from Germany? Do not "the principles of the war" as laid down by the German apologists and proponents of the Kaiser, on the basis of deeds? Would not the sending of an assassin to Woodrow Wilson mean in the States, by the same token, the sending of an assassin to the other men of great influence in the United States? That is the menace of the United States, and any delay in determining the American pause. Americans must know now that one object of the new Germany is war on democracy, and that it will attack democracy at any and every point, and especially in America, where it has so many disciples. It is a matter of the honor of the fatherland, a mania that has seized many a German, that it was the most devastating and the most inhuman known to history.

The German Kultur preached by Bernhard would justify assassination in the United States!

TURKS SEVERELY DEFEATED IN SEVERAL HEAVY ATTACKS ON BRITISH AT DARDANELLES

CAPTURED ORDERS SHOW TURKS ARE DEMORALIZED. Commanders Told They Will Meet Death Penalty if Unable to Prevent Men From Fleeing From Advancing Anglo-French Bayonets.

LONDON, July 5.—Sir Ian Hamilton, in his report of the Dardanelles operations gives the following extract from captured divisional orders: "There is nothing that causes us more sorrow, increases the courage of the enemy and encourages him to attack more freely, causing us great losses, than the losing of these trenches. Henceforth commanders who surrender these trenches, from whatever side the attack may come, before the last man is killed, will be punished in the same way as if they had fled. Especially will the commanders of units told off to guard a certain front be punished, if, instead of thinking about their work, supporting their units and giving information to the higher command, they only take action after a regrettable incident has taken place. Officers Warned. "I hope this will not occur again. I give notice that if it does I shall carry out the punishment. I do not desire to see the courage of our men by those who escape from the trenches to avoid the rifle and machine gun fire of the enemy. Henceforth I shall hold responsible all officers who do not shoot with their revolvers all privates who try to escape from the trenches on any pretext." (Signed) "Commander of the Eleventh Division, "Col. Riffart."

Australasians Repelled With Ease Onslaughts Under Personal Direction of Enver Pasha—Destroyer Scorpion Surprises Troops on Move—Fighting Before Krithia.

LONDON, July 5, 9:10 p.m.—The total Turkish casualties in the Dardanelles operations between June 28 and July 2 were 5150 men killed and 15,000 wounded, according to an announcement made tonight by the British Official Press Bureau. Special Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, July 5.—With Enver Pasha, Turkish war minister, looking on, the British expeditionary force at the Dardanelles inflicted severe and costly defeats on the Turkish force who attempted to recapture the positions that they had lost to the allies early last week and to drive the Australian expeditionary force into the sea, on express orders from the pasha. Total losses of over 20,000 were inflicted on the Turks, according to the estimate of Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton. Of these, 5150 were killed. Ghurkas to Fire. The fighting took place on June 28 and July 2. The Ghurkas distinguished themselves in the combats and at one time, greatly infuriated at the wounding of an officer, they charged out of their trench against the oncoming enemy and used their kukris for the first time with excellent effect, says Sir Ian Hamilton. The destroyer Scorpion also did signal service in detecting half of a Turkish battalion advancing near the sea to the northwest of Krithia, under cover of night, turning her guns on the Turks and allowing but few of them to get safely away. The Australians also went thru their ordeal with credit, only replying to a heavy bombardment of the enemy with cheers and when the Turks advanced to the attack with bayonet and bombs, some of them got into the saps and were instantly killed, and the rest were disposed of by bombs and rifle fire. They soon broke and fled and many were killed while withdrawing. In another attack on the Australian left, about an hour later, 30 Turks got over the parapets in front of the right of Quinn's post. German Seaplane and Aeroplane Scared Off by British Aviators. AT GREAT ALTITUDE Hostile Aircraft Dropped Bombs into Sea in Making Escape.

LONDON, July 6, 12:31 a.m.—The British admiralty announces that with regard to the Berlin report of an air raid on Harwich which took place on Saturday night, the facts of the incident, which otherwise "is hardly worth recording." "On Saturday forenoon, a German seaplane and aeroplane appeared off Harwich, flying very high. Our aircraft immediately started in pursuit and drove them off. The hostile aircraft then dropped their bombs into the sea and made their escape still flying at a great height." Dropped Bombs on Trieste. ROME, via Paris, July 5.—The following Italian official statement was given out here tonight: "One of our dirigibles, heavily and seriously damaged the cantonment at Trieste last night. The airship returned undamaged."

BOMB INTENDED TO FRIGHTEN POLICE?

Mysterious Explosion in Area—way Puzzles New York Officials. NO ONE WAS HURT Heavy Door Blown Ten Feet and Windows Were Shattered.

NEW YORK, July 5.—A dynamite bomb was exploded tonight in an area outside the detective bureau at police headquarters. While a heavy door was blown ten feet and a number of windows on one side of the building were shattered, no one was injured. The damaged part of the building is close to Inspector Fauror's office. The police at first worked on the theory that a jail delivery had been attempted. Several pieces of metal were found, but there was practically nothing which led to a definite clue.

MEN CROWD TO GIVE SERVICES FOR KING

Splendid Scene at Armories Last Night When Recruits Filled the Orderly Rooms. Canadians need no spur to stir their sense of duty when the call to arms is sounded. The scene at the armories last night with men crowding every orderly room bespeaks the true Canadian character. Orders to recruit were received only four days ago and since then the men have been steadily offering themselves. The voices of drill sergeants vibrated thru the hall and the men responded to the orders in a true soldierly manner. "At this sight," one military officer remarked, "we have good reason to be optimistic."

were duly polished off" is the terse remark of Sir Ian.

Turkish attacks carried out in force on July 2 were also defeated. When the attackers had arrived at occupied shooting distance they were met on the flanks by the Scorpion and the rifles and Maxim's of the men in the trenches and were forced to retreat about a mile from the British front.

The report of Sir Ian Hamilton incidentally reveals that the British forces at Krithia hold, in front of their position, all the trenches of the Turks, who had to advance to the on-coming open ground. The ground in front of the British trenches is covered with Turkish dead and patrols who were sent out by night report that the valleys and ravines are full of Turkish bodies.

The report of Sir Ian Hamilton, issued by the British official press bureau tonight is as follows: About 2 a.m. (date not given) the searchlights of the destroyer Scorpion discovered half Turkish battalions advancing near the sea, to the northwest of Krithia. The Scorpion opened fire, and few of the enemy got away.

Simultaneously the enemy attacked a knoll which we had captured, due west of Krithia, advancing from a trench in close formation in several lines. The attack came under artillery and machine gun fire, the enemy losing heavily. The foremost Turks got within 40 yards of the parapet, but only a few returned.

Regained Lost Trenches. The Turks made several heavy bomb attacks during the night, our troops being twice driven back to short distance. Early in the morning we regained these trenches by a bayonet attack. They have since been strengthened. At 5.30 1000 Turks, moving from Krithia into a ravine, were scattered by machine gun fire.

The operations reflect great credit on the vigilance and accurate shooting of the Scorpion. The Turkish battalions in the night were estimated at from 1500 to 2000 dead, Gurkhas and Kulis.

About 10 p.m. on July 30, the Turks again attacked with bombs a portion of the most northerly trench captured by us on the 25th. An officer of the Gurkhas held the trench heroically, as it turned out—the men became infuriated, hung all their bombs at the enemy, and then charged down out of the trench, used their kukris for the first time, and with excellent effect.

About dawn the Turks once more attempted to attack over the open, but nearly the whole of these attacking forces, about half a battalion, were shot down, and a final bomb attack, which commenced, failed utterly.

Further reports from the Australian and New Zealand corps as to the enemy's attack on the 28th and 30th on our right flank state that the action was commenced with a very heavy fire, from midnight until 1.30 a.m. The men on the right were able to employ rifle fire effectively.

"At last one shell blew the captain off the ship, killing him outright and terribly mutilating him just before that he had given us orders to launch the boats, but this was very difficult under the heavy fire. Several men were struck down while working at the davits. Ultimately four boats were lowered, and were rowed away until picked up."

Son Took Place. The son of Capt. Parslow, serving as second mate, was standing by his post on the bridge, coolly giving orders as the submarine circled around us, vainly seeking to get a position which would give us a death blow with torpedoes. All the while the under-water boat continued to rain shot and shell upon us, and the time was so close that she was able to employ rifle fire effectively.

"At last one shell blew the captain off the ship, killing him outright and terribly mutilating him just before that he had given us orders to launch the boats, but this was very difficult under the heavy fire. Several men were struck down while working at the davits. Ultimately four boats were lowered, and were rowed away until picked up."

Prisoners brought in state that the fresh battalions were employed in the main attack, which was made by personal order of Enver Pasha (the Turkish war minister), who, as they definitely assert, was present in the trenches on June 29. This is confirmed by the statement of an intelligent Armenian prisoner captured on that date. According to him, stringent orders were recently issued that no further attacks were to be made, because, if the Turks retreated to a defensive, the British would be forced to attack, and would suffer severely, as the Turks hitherto had suffered, but Enver Pasha, when he arrived in the northern section, overrode the instructions and orders were received by the prisoners' regiment that the Australians were to be driven into the sea.

On July 2, after a heavy bombardment of our advanced positions by high explosives and shrapnel, leaving half an hour the enemy infantry advanced, but were driven back to the main attack, about a mile from our front, by the accurate shooting of the Scorpion and by our rifle and machine gun fire.

About 7 p.m. the Turkish artillery recommenced their bombardment, under cover of which two battalions emerged from the trenches, the rest of our most advanced trench and advanced to our advanced positions by high explosives and shrapnel, leaving half an hour the enemy infantry advanced, but were driven back to the main attack, about a mile from our front, by the accurate shooting of the Scorpion and by our rifle and machine gun fire.

At the outset a very effective shrapnel fire from the Tenth Battery, Royal Field Artillery, caused great confusion and the ground in front of our trenches in every direction had been seen covered with Turkish dead. The Turkish officers who were seen sent out at night reported that the valleys and ravines are full of dead. These can be no be called and establish the agency of Chambers.

Mr. Fullerton thought he could prove this agency proceeded with his resignation of Howden. Howden told of an interview with T. C. Norris about the middle of April.

"I told him," he said, "that Chambers had been seen to discuss a proposal to Howden, and that election protests, involving considerable money, I wanted to know if the party were behind it. Norris said the party, as a party, did not discuss matters of that kind, but certain individuals, himself included, would name others—had matters in hand, and whatever arrangement Chambers made with myself would be all right. Chambers was too old a hand to make any arrangement which would not be carried out by the party. Premier Asquith declared."

This statement was prompted by a question from a member, who said he thought he saw a step toward conspiracy in the introduction of the national registration bill.

ordered full steam ahead and wireless calls for assistance were sent out. The submarine on the surface proved to be a far speedier craft than the steamer and rapidly overhauled her, meanwhile deluging her with shells.

One shot put the wireless apparatus on the Anglo-Californian out of action. Finding that he could not escape by running for it, Capt. Parslow devoted all his attention to manoeuvring his ship so as to prevent the submarine from using torpedoes effectively.

Captain's Heroic Death.

"Our captain was a brave man," said one of the narrators. He kept at his post on the bridge, coolly giving orders as the submarine circled around us, vainly seeking to get a position which would give us a death blow with torpedoes. All the while the under-water boat continued to rain shot and shell upon us, and the time was so close that she was able to employ rifle fire effectively.

"At last one shell blew the captain off the ship, killing him outright and terribly mutilating him just before that he had given us orders to launch the boats, but this was very difficult under the heavy fire. Several men were struck down while working at the davits. Ultimately four boats were lowered, and were rowed away until picked up."

MONTREAL, July 5.—The Anglo-Californian, which sailed from Montreal June 24, carried 50 Americans and Canadians among the crew of 85. The men were shipped at Montreal, the boat also had a party of Russian revolutionists on board.

The examination of Mr. Howden was continued. He said that the only people he discussed the negotiations with were Mr. Chambers, Mr. Newton and Mr. Norris. Asked if he believed the Liberals had placed the negotiations in Chambers' hands, Mr. Howden said that Chambers had informed him to that effect.

Referring to the protests being placed in his hands by Sir Rodmond Roblin, Mr. Howden said that he had a difference as to how they should be handled. He thought it should be all or none. If any were to be dismissed, and Sir Rodmond only one of his party—"it was not a matter to be proud of."

Mr. Howden said that he secured the $50,000 from Dr. Simpson, who was president of the Conservative Association. He did not disclose the negotiations with Dr. Simpson, for, except that it was in connection with the Anglo-Californian, he said it was quite a large sum, and it was a week before he got it. The money was paid in cash, and he did not know where it came from, but his experience was that the officers of the association were getting the money.

Roblin on Stand.

Sir Rodmond Roblin was further cross-examined by Isaac Pitblado, Liberal counsel.

Sir Rodmond said he dictated his letter of resignation himself, in his own office, to his own stenographer. He showed it to members of his own cabinet, but not to any Liberal, if there were any change from the wording, Judge Phippen had suggested, he made it himself.

He thought, when he stated Mr. Howden's resignation, he was substantially proved that he was complying with the promise he had made.

Sir Rodmond said that when Sir Rodmond asked Kelly about the caissons which had been altered, was produced the government file, and he found the alterations made. He found the alterations made, and he found the alterations made, and he found the alterations made.

Witness wanted to avoid a lawsuit by Kelly. That is why he wanted Phippen to present the case to Kelly and persuade Kelly to accept payment for the caissons on a rack-gate basis.

"WATERLOO" GIVEN IN THE MADISON

Farnum Barton Gave Skilful Interpretation at Opening Performance.

HAS SPLENDID COMPANY

Fine Portrayal Left Vivid Impression Upon Large Audience.

True to tradition and the philosophy of life is the playlet "Waterloo," which had its initial performance at the Madison Theatre last night.

The sketch, the short, is a graphic picture that leaves a vivid impression upon the spectator. Written by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, it became celebrated on its production by Irving, and its power to grip an audience is added to by its appropriateness to the thoughts and incidents of the present movement.

The scene opens in the cottage of Corporal Gregory Brewster at Waterloo in 1800. As played by Farnum Barton, the old soldier has all the physical weaknesses peculiar to old age, but over all the master-passion is dominant, and the sound of a passing band brings back visions, while a request from a present day colonel arouses the old warrior to a description of Waterloo in which he is again a participant and the present is forgotten.

Loyn Osborne, as Sergeant Arcl McDonald, represents the smart soldier of the present day. His youth and rank astonish the soldier of another generation whom he comes to visit, and he comments that "gray hair came quicker than stripes in those days." In the same way the old man finds everything changed, people don't speak as plainly as they used to do, the chairs are harder, and the fact that he is the one that is transformed is unrecognized.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 6

The Globe "Inevitably Ducks"

The Globe refrained from speech yesterday on the mud wall which is to be stretched across the water front. The Globe says that it inevitably ducks when it hears the word mud. It ducked yesterday. A colleague and neighbor on the same street took up the cudgels for it, however, and supplied any deficiency of the Globe in defending the mud entrenchment.

The plan is to build a mud wall 230 feet thick from somewhere west of Yonge street down to Cherry street and to put 35 feet holes in the wall at the street crossings. The holes in the wall are, as we are informed, to enable the citizens to take a southward look at "the same glory of sunlit water or gloom of stormy wave and sky which now fills the horizon."

It is only fair to let them know what they are going to get. It will be no graceful viaduct with innumerable arches, as the board of trade was led to believe. The "Scrap of Paper" argument has been introduced to shed contumely on those who would modify the beauty of the mud wall as interpreted by its exponents.

If there be anything in the "Scrap of Paper" contention, then those who were promised a viaduct and are now informed that they are to get a mud wall in the manner of the High Park embankment, with 88-feet holes in it here and there to add an airy lightness and symmetry to its style, something after the manner of the rhetoric of the mud wall exponents, are entitled to protest against having a mud wall imposed upon them.

We may be abused for not bowing down to idols of mud and stone, but the fact remains that Toronto, scrap of paper or no scrap of paper, is not going to get a viaduct, but a mud wall. Nobody has denied this fact yet. It is slowly dawning upon the minds of the people, and even of the board of trade, that what The World says is correct. We are going to pay very high for the mud wall, too. How high we shall see presently. And the erection of the mud wall will delay the use of the new Union Station for five years at least. No wonder The Globe "inevitably ducks."

Coming Fast

Public ownership of railways and other public utilities is coming upon the English-speaking world like an avalanche. In the United States, with a vast sum of money seeking investment, the stocks and bonds of railway companies and other public utility corporations go a-begging, while municipal securities are eagerly sought after.

trial and public utility stocks, bonds and notes during June, 1915, aggregated only $57,000,000, while the sale of municipal securities passed the $100,000,000 mark during the same month. In short, the month which broke the low record mark for the sale of corporate securities was a banner month for the sale of municipal debentures.

Quite naturally, in belligerent countries, the war has caused nearly all capital to be invested in government issues, but in the United States no such explanation can be given. The fact is that the investing public has more faith in the municipalities than it has in the Wall street looters, who have been directing and misdirecting the American railways for many years. The steady stream of railway securities coming back from Europe is hurrying up the liquidation which we long ago pointed out was inevitable.

The trend toward public ownership and operation in the other country can be so strong and unmistakable as to require no comment. Here in Canada we believe that the greater part of the railway mileage of the country will soon be under the control of the Dominion Government. The nationalization of the American railways will be a more difficult undertaking, but it will come, with many other changes to be accomplished in the great readjustment that will follow in the wake of the war.

A Martyr for Free Thought

John Huss was burned to death at the stake five hundred years ago today. The spirit that sacrificed him is still far from extinct. His crime—one which has now become a virtue in a few civilized countries—was to assert the right to have one's own opinion and to think for oneself. That principle represents the whole difference between what the allies are fighting for and what Germany is trying to impose upon the rest of the world.

The fight is not over the beliefs of Huss or his doctrines, or whether he was right or wrong. This is a mistake that has deluded many in the present day. He was burned because he had his own opinion. We must also be willing to die for our own opinion if freedom and liberty are to reign upon earth. If they are not to reign it matters very little who reigns, or who submits to domination. Canada, for their part, should be clear on the issue—"freedom for themselves and for all others."

Which Gospel—Separation or Brotherhood?

A letter from a soldier at the front contains the sentence: "This is the most appalling part of the war—no respect for the Red Cross." It seems pretty clear that the Germans at home are not aware of what is going on in the field. The German military authorities and the government suppress all stories that do not redound to the credit of German "kult." It is important to know that there still remains in German consciousness, and the shame of guilt which leads to the suppression of the truth is about the only ray of hope in German character. While the sense of shame remains there may be a chance to work up to some effective consideration of morality.

We believe the decent German men and women do not understand the diabolical character their race has gained for itself in the opinion of the world. The notable article by Owen Wister in the current Saturday Evening Post is illuminating on this point. A soldier, after living with a Belgian family for some time, was turned out with his party, and by orders destroyed the houses they had lived in with their contents and murdered the owner. The soldier gave an apple to a little girl who survived with other children and said she was glad one German had a heart. His reply was: "My heart is broken."

The soldiers have to do as they are told. The other German states have to do what Prussia tells them. Prussia has to do what the Kaiser and his crew command. Wister's article, "The Penetration of Calamity," shows how the artificial conditions which make automatons of them, children and adults alike. In peace it is very satisfactory, but in war it becomes a diabolical terror. He represents the children a year ago attending an opera and cheering over the noble sentiments of the piece. A year later the same children are instructed to cheer over the destruction of the Lusitania and the murder of her 1389 passengers.

Another writer points out that an uneasy feeling is making its way among the more intelligent Germans, leading them to wonder why the whole world appears to be turned against them and their "kultur," their progress and their science, their philosophy and their religion. They do not seem to be capable of seeing themselves as others see them, and they do not know that their diabolical practices in the field of battle, their half-century of espionage, their long conspiracy against the peace and the civilization of Europe and their absolute misrepresentation of the

BOARD TURNS DOWN TORONTO RAILWAY

Will Not Order City to Allow Operation of Farnham Ave. End of Line.

THEIR EXCLUSIVE RIGHT Company Failed to Proceed as Provided in Agreement, Says Finding.

The Ontario Railway Board dismissed without costs the Toronto Railway Company's application to compel the City of Toronto to allow the company to operate on the Metropolitan tracks on Yonge street to Farnham avenue. The board upheld the company's claim to exclusive right in possession to operate a line over the tracks, but ruled that they failed to proceed as provided in the agreement to take over the line. In answer to numerous complaints received from residents of North Toronto the board added to its judgment a paragraph stating that the city acted within its strict legal rights in tearing up the tracks and that the city had caused the citizens discomfort for the past several years.

The lengthy judgment of 2,000 words takes the issue up point by point and deals with every phase. Regarding the agreement of sale, dated June 25th, 1912, which was not produced, the judgment says that as counsel for the alleged vendor and purchaser respectively affirm its existence there seems to be no room for doubt. "This," says the judgment, referring to the respective rights set out in the agreement, "is contrary to the applicant's counsel, and rightly the board thinks, to confer now upon the applicant the exclusive right in possession and enjoyment to operate a surface street railway on that portion of Yonge street."

Regarding the city's objection to the jurisdiction of the Ontario Railway Board to operate an extension of the Metropolitan tracks on Yonge street, the judgment refers to sections 21 and 22 of the Act and says: "The board is of the opinion that its jurisdiction is clear and unmistakable." Continuing, the judgment declares the portion of Yonge street referred to in the respective rights set out in the agreement of the applicant's railway, "it is said out that before the company can legally 'take over' the tracks, it must make the gauge of the tracks conform with those of its present system."

REGULAR OSTEOPATHS COURT ENQUIRY.

Editor World: Re the action of the Medical Council regarding appropriation of $1000 for investigating osteopathic colleges, would you kindly make this statement in your worthy paper? Our associated colleges, seven in number, have a minimum course of three years in non-state schools and several a four-year course of eight months each. The same text-books are used in each state the graduate must pass the state board medical examination before practicing.

In some states an independent osteopathic board exists. A composite board as found in Columbia and Alberta is on the same basis. We have no correspondence courses and we do not recognize such, altho we understand, they exist. There are fakers in all professions and we are anxious to eliminate them as are our medical brethren. F. P. Millard, President Toronto Association of Osteopathic Physicians, to enlighten.

PREPARATIONS FOR GREATER YONGE ST.

Judgment of Railway Board Opens Way for Improvement.

TORONTO LOSES MONEY

Share of Street Car Earnings Cut by Numerous Jitneys.

Mayor Church was quite pleased yesterday when informed that the Ontario Railway Board had given its decision against the application of the Toronto Street Railway to operate its cars on the Toronto and York Radial Railway Co.'s right of way on Yonge street, between the Toronto tracks and Farnham avenue. He did not think, however, that the railway board should have gone out of its way to express the opinion that the Toronto Railway Co. had rights on that portion of Yonge street, as the application did not ask for such an opinion. The mayor still maintains that the street has no rights on Yonge street, and states that if the railway board says they have the city will apply to the lieutenant-governor in council for an order to preserve that portion of Yonge street. "We shall grade it and lay a pavement and make preparations for a greater Yonge street," said the mayor.

Mayor Church still upholds Acting Chief Smith of the fire department in his action of the other day, when he dismissed District Chief Gunn. It is pointed out that Acting Chief Smith's appointment was not ratified by council, but that the received his instructions from the board of control, and as it was necessary to put someone over that chief, Thompson stepped in. The board of control, however, is not the legal authority to make such a dismissal, claiming that the acting chief had no power to discharge him. The board of control will not build this year. It was decided, however, that the fire should have a new building and a recommendation will go to council asking that plans be prepared and tenders asked for a $26,000 structure.

Ald. Gibbons told the property committee yesterday that the city was losing 20 cents for every dollar that was taken in by the jitneys on account of the decrease in street railway earnings. The board of control has taken out of the account the reduction in traffic, and suggested the reduction in fare. The matter of jitneys was sent to a committee of the board of control, consisting of Ald. Singer, Samuel J. Marsh, William Lewis, H. Long, L. LeRoy Sell, L. S. Shields and C. Davy.

D. A. THOMAS ARRIVES ON A BIG MISSION

Canada Chief Critic of Morgan Contracts, is His Remark.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The American liner steamer St. Louis arrived here today from Liverpool. She was escorted down Channel by two torpedo boat destroyers to a distance west of Cape Rock, probably owing to the presence on board of Mr. D. A. Thomas, the British capitalist and coal operator. Thomas comes here to supervise and expedite the production of munitions for the allies.

"My business in the United States and Canada, if correct to Canada very soon, is to co-operate with Mr. Morgan's firm and firms in Canada in the purchase of munitions of war for England. In this connection I want to say that there has been no criticism of the manner in which Mr. Morgan has fulfilled his contracts. What criticism there has been was chiefly in Canada, and was to the effect that Canada had not been favored so much in the award of contracts as the United States."

NO PARTY TUNES ON THIS "TWELFTH"

Only Patriotic and Military Marches to Be Played by Bands.

ROUTE OF PROCESSION

Queen's Park, Grosvenor, Yonge, Albert, James, Queen and Dufferin Streets.

No party tunes will be played by the bands participating in the Twelfth of July parade this year. If instructions are adhered to, as no doubt they will be, a letter has been sent to each lodge setting forth this request. It contains also the request that only military and patriotic marches be given. An innovation in the program is that at 12 o'clock all the bands in the procession will play "Onward Christian Soldiers." All lodges are instructed to be in position not later than 10:15, and the move-off will take place precisely at 10:30.

The day's celebration will follow largely the program of other years. The route is the same as that of last year, namely, from Queen's Park by way of Grosvenor to Yonge, to Albert, to James, to Queen, to Dufferin street and the Exhibition grounds.

The chief marshal will be William H. Harper, and the assistant marshals, W. Bros. W. J. Stewart, western district, and W. J. Corson, eastern district; W. S. Strothers, northern district, and H. M. Booth, centre district.

GERMANS PILFERED VICTIMS' POCKETS

Prisoners of War Had Disagreeable Time in Hands of Enemy.

CURSED BY OFFICERS

British and French Placed Alternately With Turcos by Captors.

LONDON, July 5.—Capt. Hart, who has just reached London after two months in a German prison camp, told some of his experiences. Capt. Hart of the Canadian Medical Service was attached to the Fifth Battalion, came originally from Winnipeg, but immediately prior to going on active service was at Regina. He was taken prisoner on April 27. He had been close to the firing line, and had a party of wounded, but there were no ambulances, so he went back to attempt to secure them. On his return with four ambulances he found the road blocked with an elm tree, fallen thru shell fire. The ambulances consequently were forced to turn back, daylight was coming on, and nothing is allowed on the road in daytime. Capt. Hart went on alone to all the posts where he had left the wounded. He passed two lines of British trenches and was told there was another line ahead, so continued his journey.

Ran Into Trap.

However, when he came to a certain cross-road two German soldiers stepped out from behind bushes, covering him with their rifles. Capt. Hart jumped behind a tree, but the Germans called out to half a company of his comrades who were in the adjoining house and these made their way in different directions and eventually surrounded the spot where the captain was standing and secured him. He was first taken to Roulers, Belgium, and afterwards spent ten days at Mainz on the Rhine. Among his fellow captives were Capt. Norwood, Lieut. Andrew Lisen, Lieut. Lieut. Owen of the Eighth Battalion.

Pockets Rifled.

They were moved to Danholm on the Baltic. The common lot of all these officers was to have their pockets rifled the first night they were in captivity. The railway carriages were crowded with British and Canadian officers being placed alternately with Turco officers. "The white gentlemen will appreciate the company of the black gentlemen," said one German officer sneeringly, when this arrangement was made.

The officer in charge forbade them to have the windows of the carriages down, but when their backs were turned the ordinary soldiers of the guard allowed them to get ventilation. The German officers used to gather round the carriages at different stations cursing the English and Canadian captives in very guttural and forcible German.

Camp Treatment Bad.

Treatment of the camp was bad, says Capt. Hart, except in the matter of food, which they paid for themselves. It was supplied by contractors and was very bad. The commandant treated them with consideration. Nineteen of them were in one room for sleeping, but it was airy and gave little cause for complaint. It was a least very different from the place where they spent the days at Mainz where they were held captive in a compound like a magnified bird cage.

On June 15, Capt. Hart was informed by the medical officers that he would be released shortly, and eight days later he was on his way to land. Capt. Hart says he left the other Canadian officers well and in good spirits. Packages already received

For Summer Draperies and Cushions

Curtain fabrics are not so plentiful as a year ago, and the lack of production in Europe is making itself felt more keenly every day; yet we are selling our merchandise, if anything, lower than a year ago, as the advanced prices have not yet affected us. We would, therefore, advise anyone thinking of renewing their draperies to do so now before the inevitable advance in prices.
