VICTORY FOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

By a Vote of Five to One Citizens

Go In For a Progressive Policy.

Chicago, Ill., April 7.—By a vote of five to one, Chicago voters Tuesday affirmed their belief in municipal ownership of the street railways and their desire that the council should proceed to give effect to that policy.

What is known as the Mueller law, passed by the state legislature, was submitted to the voters for adoption. It authorizes cities in Illinois to construct, own, operate and lease street railways and to provide the means therefor.

The voters Tuesday also balloted on the question, "Shall the council, upon the adoption of the Mueller law, proceed to acquire ownership of the street railways under the powers conferred by the Mueller law?" and "Shall the council, instead of granting franchises, license the street railway companies until municipal ownership can be secured and compel them to give a satisfactory service?" These were also answered in the affirmative by majorities of nearly three to one.

Probably the chief contributory cause for the decisive majority in favor of municipal ownership was the miserable car service Chicago has at this time, which has been the subject of bitter complaints on the part of the citizens. For this reason the movement for municipal ownership had the support of nearly every newspaper in the city, and practically all the city's organizations favored the proposal, holding that its adoption would enable Chicago to secure favorable terms from the companies, who have hitherto been standing out for the so-called ninety-nine-year act, and other concessions the city was decidedly unwilling to grant.

Mayor Harrison says that the vote authorizing the city to proceed to acquire immediate ownership of the car lines carried because the majority of the voters did not understand its meaning. But the vote cast in favor of the proposition is so heavy that it cannot be explained except by a general conviction on the part of the citizens that municipal ownership is a good thing and should be brought into effect as soon as possible.

The fight, however, is not yet over, since the city cannot act upon the vote until it gets enlarged borrowing power from the legislature. And apart from this the financial condition of Chicago would not permit of the scheme being carried out immediately. But the city is now committed to the policy of "ultimate ownership," and the citizens are not likely to change their opinion that municipal management should be given a fair trial.

The various civic bodies that assisted in carrying through the municipal ownership victory, highly elated over the result and at once proceeded to consider the steps necessary for giving effect to the measure. Meetings were hastily convened, perhaps the most important of these being that of the municipal ownership committee, which met at the more quickly to achieve the end desired, a "Traction Committee" was appointed and instructed to take whatever action was requisite to make the vote operative. With that object in view the committee at once proceeded in co-operation with the city council for the early submission of a bill to the legislature.

Nothing will be accomplished until the city is able to raise the money necessary to carry out the plan. It is estimated that the city will have to raise $10,000,000 to carry out the plan. The city is now working to secure this amount.

Not long ago Philadelphia tried to own and conduct its own gas plant, but it was not a success. It opened the city to various kinds of corruption, and the citizens were anxious to have the lighting plants back in the hands of private corporations.

While municipal ownership of public utilities has been widely advocated by many in all American cities for the last ten years, the tendency toward individualism in ownership has prevailed and the city has been made.

Glasgow is one of the cities always pointed to as illustrating what municipal ownership can do. For fifty years it has furnished its own water supply; for thirty years it has owned and controlled its gas plant, and for ten years it has owned and operated its transit facilities, and conducted them at a profit to the city.

In 1874 the city bought out all of the private horse car lines and improved them very much during the next year.

Under the city's control wages of the employees were raised, their hours shortened, clean and death insurance established, clean and safe cars were added, the service increased and street car fares were reduced. In addition to all this the city's gross profits to the city were $1,000,000.

This is a fair sample of what has been accomplished in Glasgow in every branch of public service under the city's ownership. But there it is a matter of fact.

In Berlin, Germany, the receipts from the gas plant under the city's control are $1,000,000 per year. The city's experiment has been tried, the city's revenue about 7 per cent, and it is growing more profitable to the city each year.

POOR SERVICE DID IT.

Chicago, April 7.—Mayor Harrison, speaking of the result of Tuesday's election, says: "The result of the vote simply shows how strong is the popular feeling in behalf of municipal ownership. More than anything else it shows public criticism of the stretched car service that the corporations have given Chicago for the last four or five years. The people are willing to try municipal ownership at any risk."

"It is now the duty of advocates of immediate municipal ownership to show us how we can get it. The vote on municipal ownership is in question, and so affirmative opinions were registered on all the radical propositions as well. This affirmative vote carried the proposition to elect members of the board of education instead of having them appointed by the mayor."

"The original motion was then carried on the same division. The opposition was against the bill on the ground that a uniform system should prevail, and that the bill would deprive the city of the revenue of the local municipalities which would come into the municipal treasury."

In resuming the adjourned debate Mr. Hanna urged that under the present system the city is induced to men to enter the local councils as under the old system when entry into the township council was a matter of course.

County Councils Bill Gets Second Reading and Taxation Bill Passes Committee.

Hon. E. J. Davis' bill declaring for the principle of local option in the constitution of county councils was given a second reading in the legislature last night. The house divided on an amendment of Mr. Tucker to give the bill the three months' hold.

The vote was 42 to 45. The absentees were: Conroy, Jameson, Gamble, Kribs, Beck, Liberal, Latchford, Stratton, Conroy, D. C. Cameron, John Smith.

One official pair was recorded: Latchford and St. John. The original motion was then carried on the same division.

The opposition was against the bill on the ground that a uniform system should prevail, and that the bill would deprive the city of the revenue of the local municipalities which would come into the municipal treasury.

Sickening Tragedy in the Bush Opposite Munro Park Last Night.

Alone and intoxicated in a little log cabin which he had himself constructed Frank Munro, a son of the late John Munro, for many years landing wharf for the port of Toronto, met a horrible death by fire last night. Dragged down by drink until he was an outcast and shunned by members of his own family, he for the last eighteen months had spent a solitary existence in the midst of the bush opposite Munro Park.

From the proceeds of sundry sales of timber from the estate and from an inheritance from his grandfather he managed to live and satisfy his craving for liquor, spending his days in town and his nights in his poor shack.

Last night about 7.30 he was at the street Mrs. Wilson, on Queen-street, between Maple and Bech-avenues, where he bought two bags of charcoal. He was then very much under the influence of drink and could not make his own change. Ernest Restall noticed him and watched him as he went to the place, make his untidy way to the shacks in the wire along the front of his property and continue in uncertain fashion thru the bleak bushes up to the top of the hill, and then enter the little cabin. This was the last seen of him alive.

MUNRO'S LONELY CABIN.

totally destroyed cabin and watched by a half dozen nearby residents and fire fighters.

The Road to Ruin. Frank Munro was a prominent figure in the neighborhood. He was about 25 years of age and well proportioned, and is said to have been of unusual promise. He lost his position in a local bank thru drink, and his family connection as well. A year ago last September he himself built the cabin which he occupied until his death.

He kept a gun and revolver on the premises, and when under the influence of liquor was very strict in his guardianship against trespassers. When sober and with those who knew him he was a "good fellow," and during the summer often entertained friends around his smartly dressed table. For the last year he has, however, been on an almost continuous spree. He sold trees for flag poles and firewood, and the money went for whiskey.

How the end came no one can tell. It may have been the result of attempting to light a fire in the little stove, or it may have been from the volunteer firemen hurried to the spot. It is outside the town limits, and there is no water anywhere near. The flames had then full possession of the shack, and the roof had fallen in. Under Chief Lyon's direction the firemen began to tear away the boarding with ax and hook.

Suddenly, Frank Robart one of them, was sickened by the sight of a man's face hanging over the edge of the roof. He fell on his hands and knees, and being actually roasted before his eyes. Water was secured in pails from neighboring houses, and used with good effect. Chief Lyon, with fire hose attached, directed the nauseating task of raking the burning charred remains from the burning building. They were carried to East Toronto was away attending the funeral of his brother. What disposition would be made of the remains was not known at midnight.

Thoroughly Enjoyable Evening at Toronto University Brings the Latest Convention to an End.

Venus smiled on Vulcan last night at the university, and claw-hammers and cream lace were mingled in a brilliant display of radio-activity. The close of the Ontario Educational Association meetings was marked by a rare evening in the city. The rooms and corridors were crowded with a constantly moving procession, while the halls were filled during the proceedings held there. At the conclusion of the address a continuous performance program was inaugurated and all the pedagogic people repaired with appropriately pretty girls to the scenes of scientific wonder and mystery. Some of these were very popular, and the dark scenes not the least so.

Exhibits of Interest. Fluorescent phenomena in room 16 were specially favored, and the vibratory experiments in the elementary physical laboratory were perhaps next in interest. The mercury vapor lamps played strange pranks with the lovely completed-upon systems, but nobody seemed to mind. Colored photographs and stereo views were shown in the psychological room, and photographs in room 16. Much attention was paid to artistic subjects, the west hall having pictures showing scenes in the history of art, room 3 photographs of ecclesiastical architecture in France, and the east hall, E. B. Oler's collection of historical photographs by Paul Kane. These interesting paintings covered the walls and formed a very complete representation of scenes in the life of the artist. Kane excelled Catlin in his portrayals, and the collection possesses the highest ethnographic value.

Big Things Seen. In the senate chamber Professor Galbraith's mammoth oyster was still in season, waiting for the May, and beside it was the palate of a mammoth from the Yukon, about the only organism capable of disposing of the oyster. A series of fossils showed the evolution of the horse, and models of skulls in various stages of development, naturally of interest to teachers, as were able to overcome their antipathy for loads under a microscope. Glona's orchestra discoursed smart music under the tower, and refreshments were served in the dining hall.

William Bell Does Not Take Kindly to Kind Practiced at Y.W.C.A. Building. MISS STICKLE'S FAREWELL RECITAL. Orange Fete of the Newboys' Club. Opened in Public Library Building.

Hamilton, April 7.—(Special.)—At the meeting of the internal management committee of the board of education this evening, Wm. Bell said he had not much faith in the kind of cooking taught in the domestic science class held in the Y. W. C. A. building. "It might do for a 5 o'clock tea," he said. Some of his colleagues defended the class. A committee was named to see if the board could not save money by transferring this branch of learning from the Y. W. C. A. building to one of the public schools. The board will likely send an exhibit to the Dominion Educational Association exhibition to be held in Winnipeg in July. The board's budget for water supplied to the schools amounts to $300 a quarter, and the trustees have an idea that they are the victims of poor meters. The matter will be investigated.

McKendry's Millinery IS THE TALK OF THE TOWN

114 cases of New York Millinery have been passed into stock yesterday, comprising the most up-to-date novelties that money or good taste can secure. We've never been in so good a position to serve the thousands who will flock here this week. All we ask is that those who can will help a little by coming out in the forenoon. The stock is worthy the best of Paris or New York and a credit to Canada, whilst prices are kept within most reasonable bounds, consistent with excellence of material and first-class workmanship.

BEAUTIFUL COSTUMES and WAISTS Ladies are finding out that this store is the proper place to find exquisite novelties in Muslin and Silk Waists, Spring Costumes and Jackets. It is quite impossible to describe the garments our skilled artists have prepared for your approval, suffice it to say they are positively unique. The very least any lady of taste can do is to look, and we know that it means you will buy if there happens to be a need.

ONTARIO TEACHERS.

Prof. Clark spoke in the west hall, but was quite inaudible at the middle distance. The front benches enjoyed the addresses, and ripples of laughter spread sympathetically rearwards as the professor waxed jocular. He called for the cultivation of a uniform kind of English in all parts of the empire; the provincials should speak English as well as they can. He advised those with a provincial accent not to imitate some other accent, but to strive for a clear enunciation of the consonants and vowels.

Cooking in Illinois. Miss Isabel Bevier repeated in general terms the substance of her morning address, giving an account of home science work in Illinois. Some business was transacted, and it was resolved to leave the decision of the next place of meeting to the trustees, a motion to select the university and another the educational buildings dividing the meeting. It is believed that the disagreement was the outcome of the Latin conflict, the Goths and Vandals holding the conviction that on their native heath they could have defeated the hosts of Caesar.

Prof. Squire reported to the public school section that the committee appointed to consider the membership of the council had not met. The section discharged the committee, and the retiring president was instructed to appoint a committee to advise the minister of education that the council at present did not fairly represent the public and secondary school men. There are six university men out of twelve, and one public school man on the council.

Three New Sections. The board of directors of the association arranged for the formation of three new sections last night. The first, proposed by Dr. Oldright, is for high, and the second, for the manual arts, including manual training and drawing, and the third will be for the high school head masters.

The resolutions passed by the various sections will be presented to Hon. H. Harcourt, and it remains to be seen what the minister of education will make of them.

H. W. Doan, the popular secretary of the association, was the subject of many congratulatory remarks on the great success of the meeting. Over 30 members were registered, a number greatly in excess of any previous record.

The last day of the Ontario Educational Association was busier than the two previous ones. Eleven of the thirteen sub-sections held meetings.

In the modern language section Miss L. L. Jones, B.A., gave a paper on "Teaching Pronunciation of Foreign Languages."

W. J. Sykes gave a brief biographical sketch of Davis Gabriel Ross, and E. S. McKellar, B.A., described "Our Collegiate French Circle."

In the afternoon Prof. Squire spoke on "Victor Hugo," and Prof. Vander-Smissen gave an account of "Young Goethe in His Lyrics and Letters," also illustrated.

Natural Science Officers. The natural science section met at 10 for business and elected the following officers: Hon. president, Prof. T. L. Walker; president, T. H. Lennon; Stratford; vice-president, S. B. McCready; London; secretary-treasurer, E. L. Hill; Guelph; councillors, L. H. Graham, Toronto; J. P. Hume, Campbellford; D. S. Jackman, Berlin; A. Cosens, Brampton; E. L. Hill, representative to college and high school department.

The afternoon meeting was in combination with the mathematical and physical section.

In the classical section there were six papers. The first of the morning was by E. W. French, who compared the schools of the United States with those of Ontario in the teaching of classics, and stated the Yankee superiority to be due to more time and fewer subjects to study; more oral work, due to a uniform pronunciation; and more prose read before reading poetry.

Chancellor Burwash divided subjects of education into necessities, utilities and luxuries, and ranked Latin and Greek among the highest utilities. He criticized Herbert Spencer, and regarded literature of equal importance with knowledge or science. Literature is a portrayal of life, and life endures, Spencer thought knowledge was the way of life, and in a broad sense he ignored the spiritual side of life.

The morning paper was by W. M. Logan on the pronunciation of Latin.

A paper by President A. Carruthers on Greek Architecture opened the afternoon session. Following this G. O. Smith read a paper on the Roman occupation of Britain, illustrated by lantern slides. The Anglo-Saxons had almost completely destroyed the Roman civilization. Britain was a frontier district of the empire, and occupied by a large military force. All the southern half of the provinces enjoyed peaceful prosperity under Rome. Food stuffs and raw materials were imported in large quantities, and municipal life flourished.

Dr. Johnston's paper on Pompeian Art and Life closed the session.

Strang Honorary President. The classical section elected the following officers: Hon. president, H. I. Strang, president, R. A. Little, vice-president, G. W. Johnston; secretary-treasurer, H. J. Crawford; council, F. W. French, Prof. J. C. Robertson, S. F. Fassmore and C. A. Mayberry.

The officers of the mathematical and physical section were elected at the meeting yesterday morning. J. O. McLennan, Ph.D., was chosen as hon. president; W. J. Robertson, LL.B., president; G. A. Chanen, Ph.D., vice-president; H. S. Robertson, secretary-treasurer; W. J. Patterson, J. L. Cox, F. F. Manley, G. Hogarth, A. D. Griffith, council; J. T. Crawford, Miss Hills, councillors; and H. S. Robertson, representative to college and high school department.

Papers were contributed by J. W. Hedley on "Analytic Functions," and by A. M. Overhol on "The Difficulties of Euclid to Junior Pupils." These were of technical interest.

At 2 o'clock F. J. Smale, Ph.D., discussed the question of the study of chemistry to be taught in secondary schools.

N. R. Carmichael, M.A., spoke on the use of experiments in teaching physics. To perform the experiments necessary to enable a pupil to formulate for himself the principles of physics is impossible in a life-time. The real purpose is to connect the laws of the subject with the facts of nature. The pupil learns to put questions to nature and to understand her answer. The study of science furnishes mental exercise very similar to that of the study of literature and may lead to a similar spirit of culture.

Lecture on Radium. Prof. McLennan's lecture on radium and radio-activity was one of the treats of the convention. His exceedingly lucid style, the number and ingenuity of the illustrations and apparatus displayed, and the sequential manner in which the subject was discussed gave everyone a comprehensive and intelligent grasp of the great issues involved in the latest discovery in chemistry and physics. The successive experiments by which Prof. McLennan demonstrated that an electroactive was 20,000 times 10,000 times 1,000,000 times more sensitive than the most sensitive balance when he to the consciousness of the audience with conviction that science and the higher imagination were not so far apart.

The historical section met at 2 o'clock and elected their officers, which were: President, W. L. Grant; vice-president, J. E. Hous; secretary-treasurer, J. S. Carstairs; councillors, Miss Janet Carnochan, Prof. George M. Wrong, W. J. Robertson, A. C. Casselman, William Dale, W. S. Milner.

Alexander Fraser, provincial archivist, gave a complete and concise exposition of the workings of the archives office, and appealed for assistance in making a collection of documents.

James Millner. Deputy Minister of Agriculture C. C. James told of the struggles of the early Middle West in the province to secure higher education. The Upper Canada Academy played an important part in this, and eventually became Victoria University. At least twenty-two of those who were trained in the academy sixty years ago were still alive.

"Our First Novelist." Major Richardson was the subject of a paper by A. C. Casselman.

In the public school department, D. F. G. Park mentioned some difficulties of organization. Many teachers returned only a short time, and the financial basis was too narrow. Unity of action and sympathy, the development of the superannuation scheme, and the regulation of education and salaries were among the benefits likely to result.

F. P. Moore, principal of Dundas Public School, discussed the proposed new history. The lack of interest in history he charged to the style of book hiltorio in use, a story without life, animation or warmth. The facts are given in dried-apple style, with the juice all gone. One might as well spend his time in a grave-yard studying epitaphs as the ordinary history. Every teacher should read historical fiction to his classes.

Enlightened Prof. Wrong. Cameron Ross McIntosh also contributed his views to this discussion. Graphic representations, maps, pictures and charts should be a feature in a school history. He eulogized Prof. Wrong's book on the history of Canadian history comprising poetry and prose, with biography as the central idea in each chapter. The central idea was not a bad but necessary for mind development. Modern history must not be a mere list of names, but its impulses should get free expression. A better name would be "Training in Mental History," and this is likely soon to be adopted. The drawings in the advanced classes developed the imagination and reason and impressed on the pupil the necessity of plan and system.

In the afternoon J. T. Curtis said he relied for getting expected results from the appointed in rural sections, on the improvement of public opinion. Teachers must also show their worth, and insist on adequate remuneration. Resolutions were adopted by the board as follows: That principals of model schools should be selected; that the number of the model schools should be reduced, and that there should be a redistribution of districts, and that the number of model schools should be largely increased; that no certificate should be granted to anyone under 21 years of age, except as assistant; that the model school term be lengthened to eight months; that a provincial system of superannuation be established by the state; that the education department provide a more suitable text book in history after consultation with the teachers who have to use the same; that a set of readers up-to-date be authorized; that the association department take means thru their representative to obtain better representation on the educational council; that the teachers coming to this convention make application for rates similar to commercial travellers.

Domestic Science. The domestic science section held its third session on Tuesday afternoon in the home science room, and transacted routine business. A resolution of condolence on the death of Miss Edith Currier was read and carried by Miss Ida Hunter and carried by a standing vote.

Miss Isabel Bevier of Illinois University gave an account of her work in establishing a course in home science and outlined the four-year course which had been adopted. Their object was not to train teachers or professional housekeepers, but to give the students those things regarding the essentials of life which they ought to know.

The officers were elected, Mrs. Hoodless becoming president; Miss Davidson, president; Miss Ewing, vice-president; Miss MacPherson, secretary-treasurer; Misses Givin, Laird, Marshall, Bendoric and Buchanan, councilors; Miss Tennant and Miss MacMillan, auditors.

The chief paper of the afternoon was by Prof. Hume, on "Ethics and the Home." He declared that women were too much governed by superstition and tradition, and that they should pay special attention to problems of ethics, for they had most to do with molding the character of the young. The functions of parents cannot be delegated to public and Sunday school teachers and ministers of the gospel.

Kindergarten. The kindergarten department met in the morning and was addressed by Mrs. Hughes. W. L. Richardson proposed the kindergarten as a basis for manual training, and games were exhibited by Brantford visitors.

G. R. Pattullo read a paper on "Our Schools and Civic Reform." He urged the beautifying of school grounds as a step towards making the country more attractive to young people who drift away to the cities.

C. W. Kelly's paper dealt with "Salary Systems." He was decidedly in favor of the present salaries, and made suggestions on grading.

A resolution was carried by the trustees regarding the payment of asking leaders to state the salary expected, and asking the other departments to co-operate in protest.

The trustees of the Ontario Education Act and difficulties in its working. The officers should be allowed to deal directly with pupils, as well as parent, and should be under the control of the boards.

John McIntyre, K.C., Kingston, advised the trustees to deal with parents and teachers in emphasizing the importance of dress, manners, general carriage, respect for superiors and the rising generation. He mentioned the names of a number of titled persons who had been trustees in the old Kingston district school.

G. H. Wilson's paper on the free text book question was read by the secretary.

W. Sutherland read his paper on rural school improvements.

The trustees urged the organization of rural trustees into conventions to meet annually, each one to send a delegate to the section.

The trustees of the Ontario Education Act advocated the consolidation of the rural schools, but the inspectors considered Ontario not to be ready for the system.

STEAM UNCOOKED PYTHON. When They Had Pulled the Crocodile They Rallied the Coll House.

New York, April 7.—Many creatures of the tropic zone arrived yesterday aboard the Atlantic Transport liner Marquette, and among them a crocodile and a python. The crocodile was a specimen of the species known as the crocodile and a python.

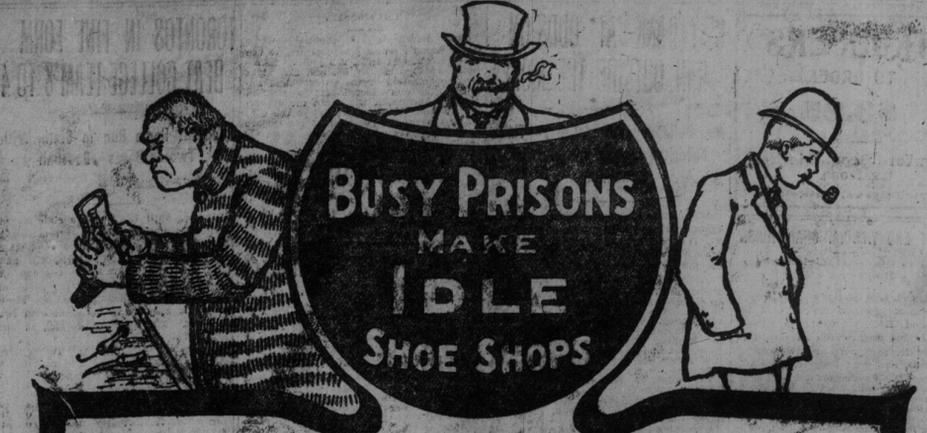

The crocodile is a pet of Mrs. Searles of the Sells-Forepaugh show, and is called Sappho. The python, so the story goes, was a gift of the same agent who gave out the story, said to be about twenty feet long, escaped from its box and discovered the pet crocodile and made an effort to squeeze its life out. But the scaly armor of the saurian was invulnerable and could not be cracked even by the rigorous pressure of a forty-foot python's coil.

The python presented a somewhat remarkable appearance after the separation. It simply could not swallow the crocodile, and it was found that the crocodile had been a corker. It had relaxed yesterday, and looked just like any other python of its kind.

She Couldn't Pay the Fine. New York, April 7.—Mrs. Howard Gould was unable to pay a fine of $10, which was imposed on her, who was arrested in Central Park for speeding her automobile, faster than the law allows. When the amount of the fine was stated, Mrs. Gould, who had accompanied the chauffeur to the Hudson police court, found it necessary to telephone to her husband for the necessary cash. Gould hastened with it in person, declared the arrest an outrage and paid the fine under protest.

Can't Get Easter Eggs. Vladivostok, April 7.—There is a bad Easter outlook here, owing to the scarcity of food. The poor people are unable to afford the customary Easter eggs and eggs. In view of the petroleum famine, the local authorities have taken over the oil supplies and have placed the inhabitants on an allowance of a pound of oil per day.

The matter of making a demand for more wages was discussed but no action taken. It is felt that the membership is not as yet strong enough to warrant such a step. London, April 7.—Julius J. The explosion, however, took place half a mile from where the king was."

LIFE CHIPS

Nothing ever came to us by chance. Over 20 years ago and before we began to make Health Foods, we spent time and money investigating the merits of different foods for body and brain builders. Our purpose was to furnish a pure wholesome food that could be easily digested by weak stomachs and at the same time was full of nutrition and palatable. We made thousands of practical tests extending in cases over years and rejected and selected, proving everything. Then when the work was done we had confidence in our Foods because we knew

END OF WORLD IN 1904

Chicago, April 7.—The end of the world in ninety years has been predicted by Dr. John Robertson at the evangelistic services at the First Presbyterian Church in Austin.

"The day of judgment is at hand," he said. "Roughly speaking, about 2000 years have elapsed between each coming of the Lord. After His created man it was 2000 years until he appeared again and 2000 more until the coming of Christ."

"Reasoning by inductive analogy, the end of the world and the coming of the Lord are not far distant. He is about due for the fourth time, and this time He will come as a judge."

GOES TO SUB-COMMITTEE.

Pettypiece Bill Enters Another Stage of Its Existence.

That child of misfortune, the Pettypiece taxation bill, has entered another period of its existence. On Wednesday the legislature referred it to a special committee of thirteen members (unlucky number).

The chairman, Hon. John Dryden, observed that in taxing railways on a flat rate, such as proposed by the premier, there would be no need of the machinery of the Pettypiece bill which proposes to establish a provincial board.

Mr. Dryden said if both bills were gone on with there would be two systems, and Mr. Pettypiece retorted that there were two now.

Major Clark asked what was the use of the committee meeting at all, if the government bill was to be passed, and the Pettypiece bill squeezed out.

Mr. Pettypiece declared that the premier's bill would not be in force two years. The principle of his bill had not been discussed by the taxation committee, because the attorney-general did not want it and kept pushing it aside.

"The government wants the best thing going," said Mr. Dryden.

"You do not want the best thing going," retorted Mr. Pettypiece.

Mr. Stock suggested adopting the principle of the Pettypiece bill and letting the board get to work at the same time passing the premier's bill to get $200,000 out of the railways this year.

After a desultory discussion, the sub-committee of six was appointed.

Librarian Bain Says Proposal is Good in Small Libraries Only.

Librarian Bain is not enamored of the suggestion that the public be permitted to wander among the bookshelves. It is all very well in a suburban branch where, indeed, such is the present system, or in a town library, he says, but in a large one a small army of attendants would be needed to superintend proceedings, and besides, the result would be a carefully disordered state of the shelves.

It would be impossible to keep the books in their places, and the earnest reader, the one choosing his library fare with a purpose in view would be unable to read methodically.

A certain class of people would no doubt be pleased with such a scheme, he said, they being persons who gauged a book's attractiveness by a cursory glance at its illustrations, and, in Buffalo, provision was made for these individuals in the library there, altho the general system was not on those lines.

In Philadelphia the experiment had been tried not many years ago, and had been given up, not only on account of the facilities offered to pilfer books, but because the general working out of the plan was unsatisfactory.

Dundonald's Scheme.

London, April 7.—General the Earl of Dundonald has been urging the minister of militia to establish twenty-four new squadrons of cavalry.

Borden is not favorable to the idea at present, as the proposition would involve an expenditure of half a million pounds.

The end sought might be favored by the conversion of some existing regiments of infantry into cavalry.

Lord Henage Retires.

London, April 7.—Lord Henage, retiring from the vice-presidency of the Tariff Reform League, gives as his reasons that the league has been captured by the old protectionist party, and he is disappointed because the secret committee of the league declines to install an agricultural expert on the tariff commission.

AT THE BIG STORE

THE HOUSE OF HOMES

OUR THIRD SPRING OPENING TWO DAYS FRIDAY and SATURDAY

A TIME OF GREAT INTEREST AND PLEASURE FOR US AND FOR YOU

In a big interesting business like we ENJOY the weeks seem like minutes—the months like hours and the years are gone almost before we can count them—well—time flies and we can't stop it—and now we're up to another celebration in THE BIG STORE—and we have pleasure in announcing that the next two days will be Spring Opening days—we welcome you heartily and promise you that if you honor us by your presence that we'll make it pleasant for you—and if we do that we'll have obtained our object—of course, there's a business side to it all and we'd be foolish to try and persuade you differently.

Furniture Display Greater Than Ever

If for no other reason than that we've got the greatest stock of furniture and house furnishings that we ever had to show, the Big Store will look its best on Friday and Saturday—hardly a market or taker on the Continent of any pretensions at all but you will find represented on some one or other of the floors—beautiful drawing room things—splendid dining room suites—beautiful, new, novel and quaint things for the library or den—everything for the kitchen that would make work light and house-keeping a pleasure—and one of the real treats of this Spring Opening time will be for you to take the elevator to the top floor and then jaunt down from floor to floor by easy stage and see for yourself what a wealth of home things we are showing—Cash or Credit.

Look for the Special Price Tickets

For these two days we are discounting nearly every price in the house—anywhere you will see special price tickets on lots and lots of beautiful new furniture that has been opened up for this Spring Trade, and a purchase during the Spring Opening Festivities will mean to you a saving of anywhere between 20 and 50%—this is an unusual offering, but we believe that it is good advertising and we mean it to make it well worth your while to make your purchases during these two days—you will find the special price tickets on every floor—in the Big Basement Store—on the ground floor—in the parlor goods floor—amongst the dining-room and bedroom furniture and away up amongst the carpets, linoleums and draperies—come in, and while you are enjoying the music be saving yourself a whole lot of money on things for the home.

There'll Be a Special Floral Display

And every floor will look its best—when you've seen everything else we want you to be our special guests at our Buffet in the Basement—light refreshments for all who wish it.

These demonstrations will start on Friday and Saturday afternoons at 2.30 o'clock.

Pay a Visit to The Model House

If there's one spot in the house that will be more of a delight than another to visit during these Spring days we believe the "Model House" has the call—it's always been an interesting place, but the little "house within the house" has been in the hands of the carpenters, the painters, the decorators, the electricians, the drapers and who knows else, and ideal as you've always thought it you'll think it more so now. We extend a double welcome to you because it's pretty to look at and you'll enjoy the coziness, and at the same time can store away some useful ideas for yourself to use in the future. Everybody ever so welcome.

WANT TO APPEAR AT THE BAR.

Dr. Nesbitt Asks Legislature to Hear Sturgeon Falls Deputation.

The Sturgeon Falls school difficulty was brought up in the legislature yesterday, when Dr. Nesbitt preferred a request, on behalf of the supporters of the public schools of Sturgeon Falls, to be heard at the bar of the house with reference to the Sturgeon Falls bill.

The premier replied that the doctor should have given notice of the question, but he had already presented the bill with a full knowledge of the facts. The house would be satisfied by itself by annulling its act and he asked Dr. Nesbitt to point to a single instance of the house listening to a deputation. However, he would consider the request and give his answer in a day or two.

Grace Van Studdiford.

once more brought her talents to the rescue, and now she is on the high road to prosperity again. Her history is one that reads like a novel, but, better than fiction, it is all true.

It was some time ago when the Eastons were singing "Robin Hood," that Grace Quive attracted the attention in St. Louis of wealthy Charlie Van Studdiford. She sang the part of Maid Marian, and she sang it so well that she was almost the star of the opera. Charlie "Van," as he was called—a general man about town, scion of one of the oldest and wealthiest families—heard her one night and tossed his heart over the footlights to her. There was a meeting, a courtship, he followed the company from place to place, and finally a wedding and resignation. And the former Grace Quive went to St. Louis to reside over the magnificent home and household of one of its millionaires. She was received by society without question and was installed at once as a reigning favorite. Charlie "Van" loved a good harvest and he had a string of them. He raced them for generous stakes, but he knew little about the game. The consequence was that he woke up one morning to find himself penniless. His estate was involved to its limits and when a settlement with his creditors was made he had not enough to live on. Then he told his wife.

This was the falling of a golden dream to the one-time singer. She had hoped that her new career might last forever. But she did not complain. Neither did she, as would have so many, leave him to fight it out alone. On the contrary, she took up the old life where it had been left off. She went back once more to her first success, and soon after the fortune had flown she was once more behind the footlights. Her first engagement was a temporary one; it was at a summer garden in St. Louis, and her friends turned out in throngs to do her honor.

Soon better things came to her. Her reputation had not been forgotten, and the next season she was out with a comic opera star. When she reached St. Louis all society packed the Olympic star, and she was the talk of the town. The end sought might be favored by the conversion of some existing regiments of infantry into cavalry.

The man was carrying to the apple tree, 500 yards away, a bundle of kindling, when the man's heels, where the arm was thrust into a hole in the trunk, cut another hole, and the boy's body was then stripped. Two hours later he was found, the dog leading the rescue.

Man should not be blamed if he has a wart on the end of his nose...

James Bay Road, Extension of G.T.P. and Short Line in Muskoka. Favored.

The government's railway subsidy proposals were tabled by Premier Ross yesterday. Three railways will receive the assistance of the province...

The James Bay Railway will be assisted to the extent of the guarantee of its bonds to the amount of $20,000 a mile for its 265 miles from Toronto to Sudbury.

The Huntsville & Lake of Bays Railway will receive $10,000 for a railway one mile in length, connecting two lakes.

The third proposal covers the construction of a branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific from a point on the main line to Fort Arthur, at the head of navigation, a distance of about 300 miles.

In moving the first reading of the bill respecting aid to the James Bay Railway, the premier said it was proposed to subsidize the railway to Sudbury, a distance of 265 miles.

It was proposed to guarantee the bonds of the railway to the extent of $20,000 a mile. The railway had received a subsidy from a Dominion government for its 265 miles, of $2000 and if the cost of construction is over $15,000 a mile, the subsidy will be $4300 a mile.

The guarantee of the bonds of a railway, the premier said, was a new device from the original system. The Manitoba government had guaranteed bonds to the amount of $10,000,000 for four railway systems.

The Dominion government had guaranteed the bonds of the Canadian Northern to the amount of $10,000,000, and had guaranteed the bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific to the amount of $10,000,000.

Continuing, the premier showed that the bill provided for running powers being granted to the C.P.R. and no agreement between the two roads. It was provided that the construction will be of the highest standard.

Mr. Whitney: We wouldn't swallow the present rate of the other day. The premier showed that by withdrawing the old subsidy of $4000 a mile for ninety-five miles the province would be saving $380,000.

Mr. Whitney: Merely avoiding the expenditure. For another line for which a subsidy is granted is a branch of the Huntsville & Lake of Bays Railway, a mile in length, connecting two lakes. The railway will receive a gift of $10,000.

The next proposal was the aid to the Grand Trunk Pacific. This is a 165c from a point on Thunder Bay, Port Arthur or Port William to a point where the railway will connect with the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

It is proposed to give a subsidy of $3000 a mile for the 200 miles of the road, and a subsidy of $600 a mile for the 65 miles of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The premier explained that the subsidy that had been withdrawn from a branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific would be applied on this. The Grand Trunk, the premier said, should have an independent line to the head of the Great Lakes.

Mr. Hays said there were already two roads from Port Arthur westward. This was not less important than the James Bay Railway. It would connect the Great Lakes with the Grand Trunk Pacific, and open up a new territory for settlement.

Greater Than Heretofore. Mr. Powell reminded the house of the premier's declaration a year or so ago that the day of granting subsidies had passed. Now we were getting subsidies greater than have been given before. What had brought about this change of front?

Mr. Whitney remarked on the facility with which the premier painted the lily when some assault was being made on the treasury of Ontario. In reply to Mr. Whitney, the premier said that the day of granting subsidies would be begun with a year.

Major Clark asked if the premier had declared that the day for subsidizing railways had passed. Mr. Ross replied that he had not absolutely tied himself down to that platform.

Opposition "Hear, hears," and just at this time Mr. Whitney read a sentence from that classic, "The Englishman's Boy to Rankin," to illustrate the difficulty of tying the premier down to any particular thing.

The bill was read a first time. Doing a Good Trade. George M. Mcweeney, who lately started a wholesale tobacco and cigar business, has met with great success.
