THE BYBLOUIS
By Louis L'Amour

Author of "The Captive of the Mountains"

He was about to climb down again when his glance fell on the displaced stone. As a tribute to poor Garcia's memory, he put it back in its bed, and even took the trouble to pour a few handfuls of dust and loose mortar into the joints, so that none might know it had ever been removed. While thus occupied, his attention was momentarily drawn to a pair of stork-like legs that were peering over the top of the building. He was already looking at them when he heard the sound of a door opening. He looked up and saw a man in a white shirt and dark trousers, who was looking at him with a curious expression. He was about to speak when the man turned and disappeared into the building.

but when daylight brought no tidings of the missing Englishman, the British Vice-Consul called most unfeelingly of a visit by the West Coast Squadron. A worried and anxious Warden, who was aware that Morocco had troubles in plenty, without adding to the store, protested that the Nazarene must have been spirited away without human agency. The Bey was not listened to, so he tried honestly to find out what had become of Warden. The only ascertainable facts were that the tower had been searched, and the way to which was shown to him by one of his own countrymen. The hour was early, soon after sunrise. Since then he had seemingly vanished off the face of the earth. The Bey's myrmidons told how they had searched the tower, and found that the Gisors had climbed into its interior. He had used the tiled roof from placed a stone, apparently without object. But the place was now quite empty, though some one had ground cones, and a small quantity of powder was scattered about. Now, the Bey knew quite well that the Blue Man of El Hamra made the tower his headquarters when he was in the country. He had heard of the Gisors' mission to collect subscriptions for the Jihad that was to drive every foreigner out of the sacred land of the Moors. But he kept silent on that matter, for he feared the Blue Man even more than he did the British. Nevertheless, he caused inquiries to be made, though no one had met the tainted prodigal. In a country where there are no roads, nor any active government beyond the sphere of each chief town, official seal does not travel far. The water was carried to Cape Coast Castle, and reported the disappearance of Mr. "Alfred Williams" to an officer who came out to meet her on the beach. The officer, who was a British officer, and a trained man on the principal place, whereupon the Bey turned to the British Vice-Consul and said that none could have made more genuine effort than he to find the lost Nazarene, either dead or alive. And perhaps he believed. Even the British Vice-Consul could not charge him with negligence, though not one word had he said to the European concerning the Blue Man of El Hamra.

The cruiser fitted back to Cape Coast Castle and thence to Lagos and there was much wonderment in the small circle that knew the truth. Yet no man is indispensable, whether in West Africa or London. Another Deputy Commissioner was gazetted for the special duty of dealing with native unrest in the Bights of Benue and Biafra. The facts were communicated to Whitehall, and an official from the Colonial Office called on an Under-Secretary in the Foreign Office to explain why Captain Forbes was acting in the capacity for which Captain Arthur Warden seemed to be so peculiarly fitted.

"It is a queer business," said the Under-Secretary, "what do you make of it?" "I believe he was worried about a woman," began the other.

"What? In Rabat?"

"No, no, in London. Only this morning I received a letter from Mrs. Laing, who says she is exceedingly anxious to ascertain Captain Warden's address. Now, Lady Hilary wrote two days ago with the same object, and, of course, I returned a polite message to the effect that he was engaged on Government service."

"Mrs. Laing?" mused the Under-Secretary. He unlocked a diary and ran back through its pages. "I thought I remember," he continued, "she was staying with the Baumgartners at Lochmery before they went to Hamburg in their yacht."

"No, no, in London. Only this morning I received a letter from Mrs. Laing, who says she is exceedingly anxious to ascertain Captain Warden's address. Now, Lady Hilary wrote two days ago with the same object, and, of course, I returned a polite message to the effect that he was engaged on Government service."

"My dear fellow," he said, "I have a whole regiment of lady visitors and correspondents whom I shall gladly hand over to you."

GOOD FEEDING HIS THEORY

London, Aug. 17.—Novelists hitherto have relied a good deal on the hero's firm set, determined jaw. Now Dr. Cole Newton, a London surgeon, says that square jaws and determined minds in men are no capricious gifts of nature, but simply the result of proper feeding, and consequently healthy of teeth.

In support of Dr. Newton's theory, it may be remarked that ill-fed boys who are taken off the London streets and sent to a training ship to prepare them for the navy, usually emerge with a well-developed jaw; a change that may very well have been brought about by the hard beef that constitutes the chief item of their bill of fare aboard.

The small boy is apt to lose faith in his mother's veracity when she says it hurts her more to whip him than it hurts him.

FIERCE BEER WAR IN LONDON BARS

Tied and Free Houses Cutting Prices—Outcome of the Budget.

London, Aug. 18.—Remarkable scenes have taken place in a poor quarter of the East-end of London in consequence of the rivalry of liquor sellers. A beer war is being waged between the "tied" houses and the "free" houses owing to the refusal of the latter to agree to the demand of the brewers to raise the price of beer.

The "tied" houses are owned by and under the control of the brewers, while a "free" house is the property of a private individual. Owing to the extra tax thrown at the increased beer duties specified in the budget proposals, the "tied" publicans at the instance of the brewers, decided to raise the price of beer from eight cents to ten cents a quart. The "free" houses refused to follow suit, and retained their old price of eight cents.

In spite of boycottings and refusals on the part of certain brewers to supply orders, the "free" house tenants obtained their supply of beer from the private brewers, whose interests are not only not identical with those of the big brewing companies, but in many respects directly opposed to them. The next move on the part of the brewers was to order their "tied" tenants to come down four cents a quart in the hope of cutting out the free tenants. The district is invaded by thirty men and women from all the neighboring boroughs, drawn together by the possibility of having a cheap drink.

The tenants of the "free" houses are determined to stand firm and fight to a finish. Meanwhile the "tied" house tenants, by selling his beer at six cents a quart, is losing 20 cents on a barrel, but the brewers, it is said, have agreed to make the loss good while the fight lasts. Popular sentiment seems entirely with the "free" houses.

Former Countess SUES IN VAIN FOR HARRY THAW.
Big Island, Maine, Aug. 17.—A visit by Harry K. Thaw's sister to Justice Mills at Mesquite, just across the border from Quebec, was without the result for which she had hoped when she decided to sue for the return of the ring.

A prominent, capable or incompetent Judiciary, it is what is the matter with New York, according to Theodore A. Bingham, former Police Commissioner, in an article written for the forthcoming September number of Hampton's Magazine. General Bingham makes the case of the former Commissioner's responsibility for the loss of the ring, and gives instances to support his assertion.

Another strong sentence declares that each year $100,000,000 in graft and blackmail changes hands in this city, and that he could have made $100,000,000 in a year if he had been a politician. He declares, however, that he is not a politician, and that he is not interested in the money.

Here are some extracts from the Bingham article:

"Eighty per cent. of criminal cases in New York are first heard in the lower courts, and between seventy and eighty per cent. of the arrests made for pocket-picking, housebreaking and blackmailing are made in person by the police."

"The graft and blackmail, packed into the tenements of the crowded East Side are easily handled by the politicians, and often a European concerning the Blue Man of El Hamra."

HARRIMAN MAY HAVE BIG DEAL ON FIREMEN ARE REPLACED

Paris, Aug. 17.—E. H. Harriman arrived here today by automobile and proceeded immediately to the home of James Stillman. According to his friends, Mr. Harriman's health has greatly improved during his sojourn in Europe. It is reported that he may sail from Cherbourg tomorrow on the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm.

New York, Aug. 17.—E. H. Harriman's home-coming at a time when the rumor that he had obtained an option on a controlling interest in New York Central dropped out strongest, is interpreted by Wall Street to mean that he will exercise the option, upon his arrival here, covering about $50,000,000 worth of stock, formerly controlled by the most part by the Vanderbilt interests.

GRANTS $100,000,000 YEARLY

"I do not believe I am unfair in estimating that from 1,500 to 2,000 members of the force are unscrupulous grafters, whose hands are always up for easy money."

"I am asked to estimate the money value of graft and blackmail in New York each year. Of course, to do so could make such an estimate with anything like complete accuracy, but my belief is that that total is not less than $100,000,000 a year."

"During my first year at the head of the Police Department it would have been an easy matter for me to have made $600,000 in bribe money, and $1,000,000 would not have been an excessive figure at all."

"One day, shortly after my arrival at Police Headquarters, an acquaintance dropped into my office."

"Commissioner," he said, "there is a house at No. West Thirty-third street run very quietly. It will be worth $100,000 a month to you. But the sentence was never finished to my knowledge."

"As a matter of fact, the place had never been opened, and the man had been used as an agent to feel out the street."

"A few months later, I was offered $30,000 in cash, and $600 a month merely to be seen shaking hands with the proprietor of an upper Broadway cafe."

COST OF TARIFF REVISION

It is estimated that the cost of holding the special session of the U. S. Congress to pass the tariff bill will be at least $500,000. This does not include increased expense in printing the hearings before the ways and means committee, the various reports and documents, the additional expense incurred by the Government Printing office is not available, but it is estimated to be as much as $300,000 or $400,000. The principal item of expense of the session was mileage. Receipts from customs Wednesday amounted in the aggregate to $211,538, as against $1,038,703 for the corresponding day last year. The excess is attributed to large importations of articles on which rates were decreased by the new tariff law. Importers had been awaiting the lower rates, and shipments had been remanded in order to reach the United States after the new law became operative. The receipts Wednesday from New York were $620,943; Boston, $131,705; Philadelphia, $65,341; San Francisco, $32,056; Chicago, $15,571; Baltimore, $12,033; St. Louis, $9,722, and other ports about $50,000.

BAD DREAMS CAUSED BY COFFEE.

"I have been a coffee drinker, more or less, ever since I can remember, until a few months ago I became more and more nervous and irritable, and finally I could not sleep at night for I was horribly disturbed by dreams of all sorts and a species of distressing nightmare."

"Finally, after hearing the experience of numbers of friends who had quit coffee and were drinking Postum, and learning of the great benefits they had derived from coffee again, I would almost as soon think of putting my hand in a fire after I had once been burned."

"A young lady friend of mine had stomach trouble for a long time, and could not get well as long as she used coffee. She finally quit coffee and began the use of Postum and is now perfectly well. Yours for health."

LUMBERMEN'S INTERVIEW WITH THE AMBASSADOR

Right Hon. James Bryce, Lieutenant-Governor Tweedie and Premier Hazen held an informal conference last night in Hon. Mr. Hazen's residence with a delegation composed of three prominent lumbermen of the city respecting conditions on the St. John river. The members of the delegation were J. Fraser Gregory, president of the St. John River Log Driving Company; Henry Hilyard and Alexander Wilson, of A. Cushing & Co., representing the American and Canadian mill owners of St. John.

Mr. Wilson, speaking of the conference after it was over, described it as a very pleasant one. His excellency did not commit himself in any way but seemed impressed with the manner in which the delegates stated their case. He also seemed and Premier Hazen presented the Canadian case under the Ashburton treaty. He stated that his previous knowledge of the matters in dispute had been largely supplemented by the information they were able to present.

The delegates arrived at Mr. Hazen's home about 8.30. Mr. Gregory opened the discussion, presenting the facts of the case, and contended that in consequence of the works of the St. John Lumber Company at Van Buren the cost of log driving to Fredericton had increased 100 per cent. He had a large map of the St. John River with the aid of which he explained the situation to his excellency. The alleged unfairness of the company holding up 140,000,000 feet of logs destined for points further down the river in order to sort out 40,000,000 feet of their own lumber was what Mr. Gregory principally complained of.

Mr. Bryce at this point asked what as a means to settle the difficulty with respect to the rights of all parties.

Mr. Gregory suggested that a thoroughly independent man be appointed to sort the logs at Van Buren, which he contended should no longer be left in the hands of the St. John Lumber Company.

The other delegates, however, with Premier Hazen and Lieutenant-Governor Tweedie opposed this proposal. They pointed out that the interests were too unequal and insisted that the provisions of the Ashburton treaty be carried out in their entirety. Under that agreement the St. John river was to remain free and unobstructed forever. It was, they thought, simply a case of vested rights against legal rights and they held the Canadian government should uphold the rights of the St. John mill owners and the lumbermen along the river. The St. John Lumber Company, they continued, could not justly complain of what might be done because they ought to have made full investigation before building. Even on the basis of vested rights, they contended, the interests of the mill owners in St. John were more valuable than those at Van Buren. In this city $1,200,000 had been invested in mill plants and there is a yearly pay roll of $50,000. The great hardship that would be inflicted if any part of this were rendered useless was self-evident.

The ambassador rose about 10 o'clock, the conference having lasted about an hour and fifteen minutes.

Mr. Wilson said his excellency asked many questions and showed a comprehensive grasp of the matters under discussion. While he was careful not to commit himself, he thought he was impressed with the idea that the legal rights in the dispute were entirely with the Canadians. Speaking of the personnel of the international commission now inquiring into conditions on the river, he expressed his surprise that a fifth member had not been appointed who would be independent of either interest and avert a deadlock.

Before the conference the delegates were introduced to Mrs. Bryce.

AUSTRALIA'S PORTION IN NAVAL DEFENCE SCHEME

Montreal, Aug. 17.—A Canadian Associated Press London cable says:

The scheme of naval defence agreed to by the Australian representatives and admiralty is described as completely satisfactory to Australian opinion and sentiment. The Australian fleet does not pass automatically under the control of the admiralty during a possible war, but will be placed at his disposal, if when the necessity arises, it is recognized in war time that the navy must be under a central control. Ample provision will be made for the interchange of officers, though for some time the Imperial navy must supply officers and men. No Dreadnoughts will be given, the money being spent on cruisers.

The despatch sent through American agencies and published broadcast throughout Canada, and referred to in today's Times, in a special despatch from Ottawa, as representing Canada and Australia as combining for the use of local fleets in the Pacific in order to "meet the Japanese peril" causes the Canadian delegates to the Imperial defence conference to wonder who is the authority for such "boast." The Canadian Associated Press has the highest authority for stating that the story is "absolutely a fake." Japan has not been mentioned or discussed in any way by the Imperial defence conference.

HARRIMAN MAY HAVE BIG DEAL ON FIREMEN ARE REPLACED

Paris, Aug. 17.—E. H. Harriman arrived here today by automobile and proceeded immediately to the home of James Stillman. According to his friends, Mr. Harriman's health has greatly improved during his sojourn in Europe. It is reported that he may sail from Cherbourg tomorrow on the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm.

New York, Aug. 17.—E. H. Harriman's home-coming at a time when the rumor that he had obtained an option on a controlling interest in New York Central dropped out strongest, is interpreted by Wall Street to mean that he will exercise the option, upon his arrival here, covering about $50,000,000 worth of stock, formerly controlled by the most part by the Vanderbilt interests.

The so-called Harriman stocks fluctuated wildly and the market generally was unsettled. Union Pacific broke from 215 1/8 to 210 3/4, but late in the afternoon when the report of his home-coming was confirmed, Union Pacific rallied and there was a general recovery in sympathy.

New York Central remained steady throughout.

New York, Aug. 17.—An unidentified Italian, pursued by several bystanders who had seen him draw a revolver while quarrelling with another man, dashed into a crowd of shoppers in the most congested section of Harlem's east side late this afternoon, turned in his flight and sent a bullet into the heart of one of his pursuers. The latter dropped dead in his tracks, and the murderer escaped. The victim was William Habernicht, a driver.

ing forts, from turning the country into an armed camp, from placing warships in the lakes, and secured this hundred years of peace. It was Britain's action that avoided war over the Alabama claims and over the Venezuelan boundary question, the two most dangerous crises of the last half-century.

"Take again this question of Britain's claim to sea supremacy which is said to be so extremely provocative of conflict. Is it not merely a question of form rather than of fact? The same commentators who denounce Britain's naval predominance admit that under present circumstances she is entitled to make preparations for adequate defence against invasion against any hostile attempt to disrupt the empire.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S PROGRESS

The Montreal Gazette devotes some attention to the Maritime Provinces, the occasion being the demand of our newspapers for the upbuilding of the land we live in. After a glance at the past the Gazette says in part:

"Except for manufacturing industries which call for heavy use of coal, the Maritime Provinces are not favorably situated, their market being far from their doors. In all other things, however, they have an advantage. Their lumber is nearer the great outside consuming centers than that of Quebec, for instance. They have many minerals besides coal. And they have agricultural land in plenty, some of it producing crops that are nowhere excelled.

DEAD BEFORE HE COULD TURN OFF TAP

Montreal Man Wet Towel to Ease Pain in Head and Feet in Death.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—With the kitchen sink overflowing and a wet towel clamped in his left hand, Alfred Larocque, forty-two years old, was found dead in his home in Queen Street, by his wife. Ten minutes before he had left in high spirits and apparently good health. Larocque, who was a foreman wireman, in the employ of the Light, Heat & Power Company, leaves his wife and two children, the youngest being barely three months old. He and his wife and children went to his father-in-law's house, nearly opposite their home and towards the end of the afternoon, when they announced their intention of leaving. The father-in-law, Mr. Courtemanche, prevailed on them to remain to supper. Mrs. Larocque asked her husband to run across the road to get some food for the babies and he did so. Ten minutes passed and the man had not returned. Going around by the back way Mrs. Larocque peered through the glass of the back door as her husband lay in the heap near the sink. The tap was running water was running over the kitchen and a towel soaking wet was tight in his death grip. Summoning assistance, she broke into the house, a doctor was called, but the man was beyond aid, acute meningitis having carried him off in an instant. It is presumed that he was seized with a violent pain in his head as soon as he reached his home and was soaking a towel to bandage it when he was struck down.

AERIAL INSURANCE LATEST AT LLOYD'S

London, Aug. 18.—The recent activity on the airship world has been responsible for the introduction of a new form of insurance at Lloyd's. Before the conquest of the Channel, the underwriters agreed to pay 40 guineas per cent. This was paid in the case of M. Bleriot, and while in London his monoplane was insured for $50,000 against fire, theft or accident. A member of a firm of brokers says that they expect shortly to do a large business in aerial insurance.

IT WAS REALLY DYSPEPSIA

Though They Thought She Had Heart and Lung Disease. The case of Mrs. James Russell, of Armstrong's Brook, N.B., is typical of many really suffering from stomach trouble, who think the heart or some other organ is diseased. She writes: "Five years ago I suffered with pain in my heart which would leave me so weak I could scarcely walk; at night I would have to sit up in bed to keep from smothering. I was treated by doctors for heart disease. Then the pain moved to the shoulder and my left arm would be numb at times. Then the doctors treated me for lung disease, but the pain kept getting worse. At last a friend advised me to write Father Morrice's 'No. 11' Tablets, 50c. at my drug store, which consisted of a box of tablets. The tablets I took twice, when I was completely cured and have never been troubled since—two years ago." "Cutting the stomach puts the whole system right, and there is no quicker way to cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Heartburn and the other forms of stomach trouble than by taking Father Morrice's 'No. 11' Tablets, 50c. at your dealer's, or from Father Morrice's Medicine Co., Ltd., Chelsea, N.B."

BELLEVILLE GIRL IS DESERTED

Lured into Marriage by Man Who Took Her Money and Left Her Stranded.

Belleville, Ont., Aug. 17.—All Belleville is taking of the heartless and cruel deception practiced by an unscrupulous adventurer upon Miss Dora Frost, a daughter of the late John Frost, who was during his life one of the foremost Liberal politicians of West Hastings, and a prominent merchant of this city. At her father's death, Miss Frost, one of Belleville's most beautiful and cultured young ladies, inherited a small estate. Soon afterwards she was lured to California and there made the acquaintance of a young man who gave the name of Kelly and claimed to be a member of a well known English family, living at Stratford-on-Avon, and the prospective owner of a large estate there. His bearings and credentials bore out his claims, and when, after a very brief but ardent courtship, he proposed marriage, the young lady accepted him and the union quickly followed. In Belleville the romance attracted considerable interest and everyone who knew the young lady was rejoiced to hear that she had made such an excellent match. Some of the factious ones were quick to reproach the marriageable young men of Belleville with their want of enterprise and gallantry in permitting such a desirable belle to be won by an outsider. The reputed Englishman brought his bride back to Belleville and soon charmed a large circle of friends by the graciousness of his manner and the stories of his connections and possessions in the Old Country, to which he announced he would remove with his wife as soon as their farewells were made in Belleville. He, however, put off the day of their departure and absented himself for a time, ostensibly going to Cobalt to look up some mining ventures. When he came back he reported that he had found some wonderful chances to make money and upon the strength of it, induced his wife to put her property into his hands for investment. Then on some pretext he took her to Denver, and word has since reached Belleville that he left her there stranded and helpless, without a dollar to her name. He disappeared and no one knows whether he went. Investigations of his claims as to his standing in the Old Country have proved them to be false in every particular. It appears that Miss Frost has fallen a victim to the wiles of a shrewd man good-looking sharper, so many other young women have done, and great sympathy is expressed for her here. Some of her friends are talking of swift measures of revenge should the young man ever be located.

AWAIT NEXT STEP BY BERESFORD

London, Aug. 17.—Now that Lord Charles Beresford has failed in his attack upon the admiralty the next step in his campaign is awaited by the country with much curiosity and some apprehension. He can say, of course, that his case has been thrown out by a jury of associates of the accused. But it will be a serious step for him to take if he carries out his threat, and discloses the full details of defects in the country's defenses. Three boys who were gathering wild cherries at Hanover, N. J., were startled by a bird that flew from the ground just ahead of them, and on looking about discovered not only the bird's nest but $20 worth of silverware. The silverware was covered with mud, and it is thought was hidden by burglars who afterwards failed to find the spot. Don't think man is always in the wrong because he doesn't agree with you.

AMBASSADOR BRYCE SEES GREAT DEVELOPMENT HERE

Calm, Measured Speech, But Bright in Import, is Delivered Before Big Gathering of Canadian Club—St. John and Its Great Importance in Commercial World.

The Canadian Club has every cause for congratulation today on the fact that they have given St. John people an opportunity to see and hear the Right Honorable James Bryce, British Ambassador to the United States. The author of The American Commonwealth was the guest of honor at a club luncheon last evening and was received with the utmost enthusiasm. His address dealt with Canada's Chance for Possibilities, and as might be expected from a gentleman of Mr. Bryce's position, it was nevertheless thoughtful and an earnest exposition of the gospel of hope and confidence in our great Canadian heritage. It has been long since any speaker in St. John has received so great a welcome. The cheering, the outbursts of applause, the atmosphere of sympathy and the keen attention made the occasion one of rare enjoyment. Mrs. Bryce, who received an ovation, made a brief speech of her own which was received with the warmest applause. During the evening letters of regret as to their inability to attend were read from C. S. L. Raymond, president of the Woodstock Canadian Club, Hon. W. C. H. Grimmer, minister of agriculture; Hon. W. C. H. Grimmer, surveyor-general, and Hon. Geo. E. Foster, members of the government. Other guests were Attorney General Hazen, Provincial Secretary Fleming and Solicitor General McLoud. Last night's luncheon was by long odds the most enthusiastic and the largest in point of attendance the Canadian Club has yet held. The large assembly room was filled, seven tables being necessary to accommodate the guests. C. B. Allan, president of the club, presided and had on his right hand the guest of the evening, His Excellency the Right Honorable James Bryce, and on his left Lieutenant Governor L. J. Tweedie. Premier Hazen occupied a seat to the right of Mr. Bryce, and Mayor Bullock sat to the left hand of the lieutenant governor. The room was tastefully decorated with the British and Canadian flags, and the brilliant coloring of the bunting blended with the snowy napery and the sparkling cut glass and silver to make a memorable ensemble. The Nickel orchestra, augmented by the choir, played the following excellent programme during the luncheon: Overture—Post and Peasant. Supper Prize Song—The Mapleleaves. Spanish Carols—La Paloma. Intermezzo—Cavalleria Rusticana. Mascagni. Rev. R. A. Armstrong offered grace and after the luncheon President C. B. Allan introduced the guest of the evening. The president felt it was a special honor to have the ambassador of Great Britain in St. John, and he expressed his regret that the Canadian Club had not been fortunate in entertaining many brilliant and distinguished men who would honor more heartily than the Right Honorable James Bryce. Mr. Bryce's representative position in the fields of literature and diplomacy, coupled with the distinguished post he now holds as representative of the British empire at Washington, made him one of the leading men in the world of thought today. His presence here was an honor to the club, but to the great dominions of the British Empire this was shown by the fact that the lieutenant governor of New Brunswick had come to the city for the sole purpose of hearing him. He sincerely hoped that the visit of St. John of Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce was not entirely devoid of interest to them and that they would carry away with them an idea of the loyalty and the people of St. John to His Majesty King Edward VII and of their kindly feelings towards his representatives, the Right Honorable James Bryce.

An Ovation

Mr. Bryce on rising received a veritable ovation. It was quite evident from the outset that he was addressing an enthusiastic and sympathetic audience which he would give expression. Lieutenant Governor Tweedie called out in applause to the echo the sentiments to which he would give expression. Lieutenant Governor Tweedie called out in applause to the echo the sentiments to which he would give expression. He spoke slowly and distinctly, used no gestures and impressed one rather as a plain man in a plain suit than as an orator who dwelt on national subjects. He thanked those present for their hearty welcome. It was substantially his first visit to St. John and he had been greeted as an old friend. Thirty-nine years ago he first visited Canada and he was pleased to note substantial evidences of growing prosperity. He was pleased to be in New Brunswick. He had been here before but only for a few hours and on that occasion had had no opportunity to learn anything of the people. It was pleasant to him to be here, not merely as an old traveler to see new faces or as a patriotic citizen of the empire to see the great dominions of the British Empire, but as a man in his office should know the people of Canada through personal touch, rather than through diplomatic connection. Three-quarters of his work in Washington was on behalf of Canadians. We had a frontier to the north of the United States of at least 3,000 miles, and many questions are arising between these two great peoples of which it would be to the great benefit of a representative of his majesty to have a direct knowledge and of the places and people to take advantage of every opportunity to come to Canada. He was especially pleased to be in St. John, a city founded by the United Empire Loyalists of 1783 and whose descendants had done much to make the city what it is. He was glad to see the city prospering and thankful for the opportunity afforded him of seeing what an admirable port we have here, the terminus of two great railway systems and the probable terminus of a third and with an ever increasing number of transatlantic steamship lines plying here he was sure that with these great advantages the port, city and province would go on and increase in the next ten, twenty, thirty years than they had in the last century. He had seen the city, the harbor and the beautiful river and he had learned that the stories he had heard about St. John's progress were not due to the patriotic advertising of New Brunswick writers but had ample foundation in fact. Congratulations for St. John As to the river, Mr. Bryce said he had never seen a more beautiful river and congratulated the people of St. John upon it. He would also like to congratulate us upon doing what so many of the old world cities had failed to do in securing such a fine, well situated and beautiful piece of ground for our public park. Glad as he was to be in St. John he regarded it as a particular privilege and

DYNAMITE USED TO KILL TROUT?

Serious Assertions Made at Brown's Flats in Reference to Lake Fishing Near There.

A St. John man who returned yesterday after a short stay at Brown's Flats, said that he had lost a number of complaints there as to the actions of some American visitors in fishing. Although no direct charge had been made or the accusations proven, it was said that those alluded to were resorting to illegal means of fishing trout in the lakes in the vicinity of Bald Mountain, which is a few miles in the rear of Brown's Flats.

It was said that dynamite was used. The man who informed the Times is familiar with these lakes and their character as fishing grounds, and said that it was preposterous to think of a party of one or two after a single day's fishing returning with more than 100 fine specimens of trout as had been done recently.

It is thought by the people at Brown's Flats, he said, that those doing the fishing shipped their catches to American markets where they brought high prices, a fair-sized trout selling readily for from sixty to ninety cents at certain seasons.

LOGS BLOCK RIVER

Summer Residents Complain—H. W. Woods, the Owner—His Explanation.

Residents of Westfield and vicinity have been complaining that the Nepesip river, where they were in the habit of making canoeing and motor trips, has been blocked for some days by a mass of logs owned by H. W. Woods, M. P. P.

The river was used for many pleasant days and those whose recreation in this way was cut off keenly resented it. Mr. Woods was asked about the matter last evening and said that the blocking of the river was due to the heavy storms last week when a lot of his logs broke away from the boom. He said he was endeavoring to get them back where they belong as speedily as possible but it was a slow process owing to the fact that the logs could work only at certain hours when the tide served. He regretted causing any inconvenience to the summer residents and hoped to have the logs all away in a day or two. He added that it had been considerable loss to him to have the present conditions arise.

FELL DOWN STAIRS

Mrs. Annie Cox Injured This Morning in Her Home in Carleton

About 5:30 o'clock this morning Mrs. Annie Cox, aged 60, fell down a flight of stairs at her home, 10 King street, West End, and now lies suffering from an injured spine. Mrs. Cox, who is the widow of Robert Cox, arose as usual soon after five o'clock and started down stairs to the kitchen to prepare breakfast for her daughter. As she reached the stairs she was attacked by a spell of dizziness and swaying plunged headlong to the bottom landing, her back between the shoulders. The sound of the fall aroused her daughter who summoned Dr. R. G. Day, of Duke street, nearby. She was temporarily relieved by the physician and made comfortable at home. Her shoulder was at first thought to be dislocated, but an examination revealed nothing but a bruise. Her spine, however, is hurt.

CHILD IS HOME.

Coveney Girl Had Been Away Since Sunday, no one Knows Where.

Gertie Coveney of 115 Winter street, the little girl who has been missing from her home since Sunday morning last, returned last evening about 10 o'clock. She went to church on Sunday morning with her brother but left him soon after the service and was not seen by her parents until last night, being absent three days. Her mother said this morning that she could not find out where the youngster had slept on Sunday night, but on Monday night she had been in the central police station where she told the policemen that her father and mother were in the country. Mrs. Coveney said that she was at a loss to understand what the child meant as she had no intention of going to the country. Her husband had been looking for the child since Sunday but, fearing too much publicity, had not sought the aid of the police.
