ANOTHER GIGANTIC STRIKE BREAKS OUT IN OLD LONDON

Transport Workers to the Number of 150,000 Quit Work, Alleging That Agreements Have Been Broken, and British Capital Business Comes to a Halt.

[Canadian Press.]

London, May 23 .- The national executive committee of the Transport Workers' Federation has decided upon a general strike, commencing tonight in support of the Thames lightermen, in their dispute with their employers, and also to enable the federation to endeavor to adjust its own grievances.

don and their employers was a dispute concerning the employment of a nonunionist workman. The man was a foreman named James Thomas, a Scotsman, who refused to join the Journeymen's Union. The men refused to work under his orders, and several thousand of them were locked out, upon which the committee of the union ordered several thousand more to strike.

It is estimated that over 100,000 transport workers will be affected the decision reached this morning, and this will bring virtually the whole trade of the port of London to a standstill.

CHARGE BOYCOTTING. Representatives from every portion of the kingdom were present at the meeting of the federation, and a resolution was unanimously adopted to quit work owing to the alleged boycotting of members of trades unions, and the

No fewer than 150,000 dockers, carmen, lightermen, laborers and others connected with the docks will be immediately involved in the strike, and the entire transport work of the port of London will be brought to a standstill. entire transport work of the CONFINED TO LONDON.

The resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Transport Workers' Federation, confines the strike for the moment to London. Mr. Anderson, the general secretary of the federation, in reply to a que tion this morning, said: "The resolution-means the stoppage of work by all the transport workers of London, and if necessary a national strike, will be

be a signal for the spread of disaffection. Work at some of the London docks is already paralyzed this morning, and numerous vessels laden with foodstuffs are unable to discharge their cargoes while perishable food is rotting in the warehouses.

Harry Gosling, the men's leader, addressed the dock workers after the of crooks, he declared, despite the activ-decision of the Transport Workers' Federation, and told them they were in the fight which will be and profor a big fight, which would not be ended in a week or two. It would be a fight to a finish, and the men, if loyal, would win, as they won last year. Ben Tillett, secretary of the Dock, Wharf, Riverside and General Workers' Union of Great Britain, in a speech, said that the dispute, if necessary, would become a national question. They proposed, he said, to make the fight a great and revolutionary success.

The difficulty of obtaining meal supplies from the docks has sent the price up two cents a pound already, and the millers are apprehensive of the situation, as they possess supplies for only ten or fourteen days,

New York, May 23 .- A London cable to the New York Times this morning figured it. He also ordered the police

Fresh industrial disturbances, sagging markets, with rumors of probable failure, and the expectation of enforced reductions of railroad dividends, and an international situation which, while not critical, contains obscure and disquieting elements, all combine to render the outlook in England gloomy

The most serious suestion is the industrial unrest. London's food supply is again menaced. Fifteen thousand workers at the port of London are on strike, and unless a committee of insuiry, appointed by the Government, disconnected with the London docks will be idle by the end of the week.

The spectre of another national coal strike has not been removed The federation declares that Premier Asquith promised a "reasonable fiving wage," and that the awards do not give it. The federation calls upon the Government to take immediate action. A deputation is seeking an interview with the premier.

Suffered With Nerve Treuble For Two Years.

IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE FOR HIM TO SLEEP.

Diseases of the nervous system are very common. All the organs of the body may be sound while the nervous system alone may be diseased, therefore it is necessary for anyone suffering from any nervous trouble to procure a remedy which will at once quieten the nerves and build up the system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will do this for you, providing you give them a fair trial.

Mr. Chas. W. Wood, Montreal, Que. writes:-"For two years I had suffered with nerve trouble, and it was impossible for me to sleep. It did not matter what I consulted a doctor, and he gave me a bed. It was all right for a time, but the death old trouble returned with greater force than before. One of the boys, who works with me, gave me half a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took them and I got such satisfaction that I got another box, and before I finished it I could enjoy sleep from 10 more than 4,000 miles from Washing p.m. until 6 a.m., and now feel good."

Store Closes Today at Six, Shop Early.

Tomorrow, Victoria Day, Store Will Be Closed.

The Annual Pilgrimage To The Country

The season of the year has arrived when early closing is appreciated by every class of people. Whether your occupation calls you to business, labor or profession, all will appreciate alike the early closing privilege, particularly during the summer months.

Victoria Day always sets the ball rolling, it is the opening day of the outing season and summer sports, the first opportunity for thousands who are shut up in business places, factories, offices, etc., to get away to the country and breathe the free pure air after the long confinement of the cold winter season.

This store, by closing today at six o'clock, enables its hundreds of employees, many of whose homes are in the country and surrounding towns and villages, to make the journey tonight and thereby enjoy the full benefit of the holiday.

Public sentiment grows stronger each season for early closing or shorter hours of labor during the summer months, and as this store is the pioneer of this movement in this city, we appeal to the shopping public to co-operate with us in still furthering this movement by doing all your shopping before six o'clock. Then many who are obliged to remain at business until 10 o'clock or later to serve you would enjoy the privilege of early closing on Saturdays and days preceding holidays the same as other days.

By doing your shopping before six and not after, you will show your disapproval of business places being kept open late and unnecessary hours. This store closes at six o'clock Saturdays and days preceding holidays. Shop before that hour.

STATEMENT OF TRAVER'S

Savs He Does Not Recall Ever Conversing With Ex-Bank Manager.

Cartwright has issued a denial of the statement reported in the press to have been made by W. A. Travers, at the Farmers' Bank inquiry in Toronto, esterday, to the effect that Sir Richard had practically authorized im in private conversation to issue circulation against the farmers' notes held by the bank.

Sir Richard says: "I did not know Mr. Travers, and I very much doubt ably. She will return to her home if I ever had any conversation with him at all. In any case the statement is absurd on its very face-the circulation which a bank is authorized to issue has nothing whatever to do with the amount or character of the notes it holds. The circulation is based on the amount of its paidin capital.

LONDON, THURSDAY, MAY 23.

AN ELECTION NEXT WINTER?

Mr. John S. Ewart, K. C., of Ottawa, gives his grounds for predicting a federal election next winter, in the and latest of his "Kingdom Papers." The order of events is fore shadowed by Mr. Ewart as follows:

"Mr. Borden and Mr. Hazen will go to London and make, or at least the British Government; Parliament will meet as usual in November; a redistribution bill (rendered necesintroduced and passed; supply will be arranged; a navy bill will be introduced and carried to a second Parliament will be dissolved; election shortly afterwards.'

Mr. Ewart quotes at length Mr. Borden's numerous promises to submit his naval policy to the people. Mr. Borden did not say whether the submission would be by way of a referendum or a general election, but two of his supporters who have since become ministers, Col. Hughes and Mr. Burrell, declared that he intended to take the latter course. On Nov. 24, 1910, Mr. Borden said in the House:

"A permanent policy would have to be worked out; and when that out and explained to the people of in this Canada, to every citizen country, then it would be the duty of any government to go to the people of Canada to receive their manapproval or disapproval of that pol- ments are too eager to get rich quick.

Mr. Ewart ought not be so confident that Mr. Borden will consider himself bound by what he said in 1910. In 1909 Mr. Borden pronounced for the 'speedy' construction of a Canadian navy-the word speedy being quest in the resolution unanimously adopted by Parliament. So far from suggesting at that time a reference to tion this winter, but the Federal Govthe people. he demanded action by Canada without delay.

Mr. Ewart has hitherto described himself as a Nationalist, though not in the Quebec sense of the word. He vention he will be the first president has advocated a declaration of Can- in 60 years to be refused a renominaadian independence, which would give tion. Roosevelt is certainly mixing this country the status of a nation in for his old friend a bitter brew. every trace of its legislative subordin- British people would have broken the are decades behind Wisconsin and some ation to the Parliament of the United throne to pieces if King George had other states where the whole patronage Kingdom, leaving the crown as the sole political tie between the mother coun- sace-Lorraine. This is perfectly trus. try and the daughter states. In King- and yet the British throne is far more dom Paper No. 9 he suggests that secure than the Kaiser's. The non Sir Wilfrid Laurier compromised the partisan character of the British freedom of his country by assuming crown is its own strength, and symial defence committee and the imper- gle of the British people for perfect ial general staff, and by accepting con- political liberty. The difference befidences relating to the foreign policy tween the position of the King and of the British Government, "Laurier is that of the Kalser is exactly the distoo British for me," said Sir Charles tance that Germany trails behind Tupper on a memorable occasion. Mr. Britain in political freedom. Ewart finds Sir Wilfrid too imperial. In his opinion the attitude of Mr. Borden on the naval question is more correct than was Sir Wilfrid's, because Mr. Borden now says that Canada will enter into no system of naval defence unless she has a voice in the councils of the Empire. How Canada is to be given this voice without some form of Imperial federation Mr. Ewart does not say. The late Canadian Government and the late Australian Government solved the problem by stipulating for the complete control of their own navies. Mr. Ewart's preference for Mr. Borden's policy of conditional co-operation in Imperial naval defence would be more logical if he would confess himself a convert to Imperial federation. It is not consistent with his former Kingdom Papers."

SUFFRAGE LEADERS IMPRIS-ONED.

Mrs. Pankhurst and Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence have been sentenced to nine months' imprisonment without hard labor, but also without the amenof first-class misdemeanants. This is severe punishment, but the offence-that of unlawfully conspiring to injure property-carried a maximum penalty of two years' penal servitude. There is at least no sex discrimination in the law which the defendants violated, and they cannot reasonably complain because it has taken its revenge. They will have to fall back upon the plea that they merely copied the methods by which large masses of men attained the franchise in the past, the classic example being the Bristol riots, which cowed the House of Lords into accepting the Reform

The militant women suffragists were unjustly treated at the outset of their agitation by being refused the right to ask questions in public meetings, or to present petitions to the head of the As four women's suffrage bill had passed their second readings in the House of Commons between 1870 and 1908, the latter securing a majority of 179, the friends of the cause had reason to accuse the politicians of playing them false. The Women's Political and Social Union began militant tactics in 1908, and politics with a rush. In 1909 Mr. Asquith promised to accept a democratic women's suffrage measure if the House gave a majority for it. Accordbrought the question into practical ingly in the same year a bill to completely enfranchisé women passed its second reading by 157 to 122. The bill got no further that year. In the election of January, 1910, Mr. Asquith repeated his promise. On June 14, 1910, the Conciliation Bill, a compromise measure which would have enfranchised a million women, passed its second reading by a majority of 110, and the committee stage by a majority of 145, but the Prime Minister declined to give time for the further stages, on the ground that the struggle with the House of Lords must have undivided attention.

In 1911, after another general elecion, the House by a majority of 167 gave the second reading to Sir George Kemp's Women Suffrage Bill, which was framed on broader lines than the Conciliation Bill, but the third reading was put over until this year at the Government's request. In the meantime Mr. Lloyd George. Str Edward Grey and other advocates of women's suffrage took the platform in support of the Kemp bill, in the hope that it would pass the third reading during the present session of Parliament. This try to make, some arrangement with hope has been almost wrecked by the amazingly ill-timed outbreak in March last, when Mrs. Pankhurst and sary by the recent census) will be her cohorts indulged in a windowsmashing orgy in London. The defeat of the Conciliation Bill, which was introduced a few days later, was attributed to the revulsion of sentiment produced by this raid. The more democratic measure now hangs fire, and it is doubtful whether it will be even put to a vote this year. The movement will triumph in Great Britain eventually, but it has been given a setback by misdirected zeal of the very woman who had brought it to the front. Mrs. Pankhurst and her advisers contend that the question was dropping out of sight because militant tactics had been abandoned for a year, permanent policy had been worked and that the Government was conspiring to give it its quietus, but this fear seems to have been purely imaginary. Shareholders who are not satisfied with some of the annual bank state-

American market nor exclusion from the American market will prevent Canada from achieving its destiny. The defect in the Telegram type of patriotism is lack of robustness. It is always in deadly fear of the American, or the Pope, or the French-Canadian, or some other bogey

The destiny of Canada does not depend upon tariffs, as the Telegram imagines, or need it scan the trade re-turns with an anxious eye in order to see whether Canada will be in existence next year. Canada has prospered and will con-tinue to prosper under all kinds of tariffs arrangements. There is no need to ask these questions about mar-kets and destiny. What the Telegram eds is more confidence in Canada.

INSPECTOR EDWARDS DEFENDS THE WRITING

Says That Children of Today Compare Favorably With Those of Other Periods.

Inspector Edwards takes issue with the statements made previous to the Historical Society meeting the other evening that the handwriting of children today is abominable had He decompares favorably with any period in he writing in the public schools is Highland poetry, which begins thus: greatly improved over the past," said Inspector Edwards. "Not long ago Dr. Merchant was in the city, and went to the Simcoe street school for the express purpose of viewing the writing of the pupils. From every standpoint he declared it to be the best he had ever seen in Ontario. What is true of Simcoe street is true of the others We have given special attention to this matter, and I must say that ther has been a decided improvement of recent years. As for the students in the commercial department of the Collike copper plate.

"The trouble about the criticisms made of the writing is that professional men have been cited as examples. is a well-known fact, in truth it is ulte indisputable, that a course at the iniversity or law school completely spoils the majority of penmen. The are compelled to take so many notes that they become careless, and as a result the writing of the majority of university graduates is legible. I am taking the whole school and I venture to say that the writing compares favorably with the best that was ever written in London. A canass of the schools will bear out my statements."

GREAT MEN WHO ADMIRED OSSIAN

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The other day I was writing about James Macpherson's "Ossian," a book two very mean men right under old Johnson's nose, Macpherson and Boswell. Johnson hated the one and loved the other. It was to Boswell that he passed that fine compliment one day, "Somehow or other Boswell, I feel If you can trust yourself when all men more at home with you than with any man." The love of the big-souled Samuel for small-souled Bozzy has always been one of the enigmas of literature. The mighty doctor was quick enough Or being lied about don't deal in lies, to discern the meanness and untrustworthiness of Macpherson, but he never realized that both Boswell and his Scotch brother of Ossian fame would send forth into the world literayou can think-and not make ture of the everiasting variety. When Dr. Blair, the Edinburgh professor of rhetoric, who wrote a lengthy and euogistic dissertation on Ossian, asked Dr. Johnson whether he thought any written such poems, the dictator of English letters replied: "Yes, sir; many men, many women and many children." "Sir," exclaimed he to Reynolds, "a man might write such stuff forever, if he would abandon his mind f neither foes nor cooling friends can to it." But, even while Dr. Johnson was expressing disgust with Macpherson and all his works, another great English poet, Thomas Gray, was going into ecstasies over the wild and Yours is the earth and everything that's melancholy beauties of the Gaelic And-which is more-you'll be a Man, bard. The influence of Macpherson's poems was specially pronounced in the case of Byron, In boyhood the young lord was greatly influenced by Highland scenery, and there is good ground for believing that Ossian was his earlies inspiration. In his collection of poems "Hours of Idleness" (1807), published when he was a Cambridge undergrad-"It is a matter of pride with us that wate, there is an imitation of the

The Art of Love-Making By Beatrice Fairfax.

"Love-making, how simple a matter; depths to explore, No heights in a life to ascend! No disheartening before

No affrighting Hereafter-Love now will be love evermore, So I felt 'To keep silence were folly,' all language above, I made love.'

-Robert Browning. "I am deeply in love with Esther E," writes Lester, "and we have been keeping steady company for the past two years. She is my ideal of a girl quiet, refined and cultured. But she is only eighteen and I am nineteen. feel a little timid about touching the subject of matrimony, although I think it would be all right, as I have a very good position. Kindly advise me how to go about making love to her and what is best for me to do.

Said Eden Phillpots: "No man ever yet failed to make love from ignorance how to begin." In days of old, a knight went down on his knees, and did all sorts of chivalrous deeds to win his lady's favor. He need not go on his knees today, and if he attempted any of the feats of his early love-lorn ancestors, his girl would refuse to have him, for that scenes, which was in reality nothing which was classed as "chivalrous" a century ago is classed as "foolhardy" but another fad for those who were

which was classed as "chivalrous" a century ago is classed as "foolhardy' All the world asks of him is that he is honorable, steadfast, faithful, per sistent, considerate and kind in his love-making. If he is a man of limited means it does not expect any lavish expenditures as a proof of his love. If the girl is the nice sensible girl she should be, she will not accept any gifts which are plainly beyond a man of his income Love-making, granted that the girl is "refined and cultured," as is the girl of your dreams, is so simple that it would be an easier task to tell how dear young man, these facts alone prove to her that you love her, and should prove to you that you come first in her heart. Tell her you love her. It will be the easiest thing you ever did in all

You need not outline nor rehearse what you will say or do next.

No writer of poetry or prose can tell you that which will help you during the next half hour. "Love scenes, if genuine," said Louisa M. Alcott, "are indescribable; for to those who have enacted them, the most elaborate description seems tame, and to those who have not, the simplest picture seems overdone. So romances had better let imagination paint for them that which is above all art, and leave lovers to themselves during the happiest minutes of their lives." You are young, but I judge you are a steady, reliable young man, and your description of the girl indicates that, though she is only eighteen, she has the thoughtfulness of a woman some years older. Under the circumstances I do not believe you are too young to broach the subject of matrimony An engagement of a year or two is not too long when both the man and the woman are as faithful, as reliable, and as much in earnest as you and this young woman seem to be. Ask her to marry you. The asking will be easy. But don't ask her unless you have made up your mind to so conduct the rest of your life that you may make her happy, and be worthy of her. If you are sure of yourself, go in and win!

Origin of the Corset

Catherine de Medici is the woman who introduced the corset into France, and as soon as it found courtly recogthat is much darker and more vivid nition there its hold upon the western than the pink of the coral in ordinlarity has suffered at times. Diana Poltier, the wonderful beauty, who at that time ruled France, being the mistress of Henry II., Catherine's husband, did not follow the queen's example. The reason may have been difference between the texture of because of the jealousy between Catherine and herself, or because she felt that they were not necessary to add to her loveliness.

In a transport of pretended sorrow and to win a young man's sympathies she makes pretence of stabbing herself, knowing that the iron of her corset would prove protec tion against any dagger. In the reign of Louis XIV. the corset found great favor. By that time was made of lighter steel, and, though it would still have appeared to our modern eyes as some instrument of torture, pure and simple, it was a great advance upon the iron arrangement of a few centuries earlier.

Then an epidemic of protended sim plicity swept over the French court. Boucher, the favorite artist of his day, had introduced a liking for rural willing to adopt anything as long as it promised novelty. The court ladies played at being shepherdesses in artificial glades and Boucher painted them in silken shepherd costumes, berib-boned staffs in their hands, and sheep, kept washed snow-white by servants

Appropriate Trinkets

Every woman should stop long enough in the finishing of her toilet to ask herself what is the best selection of an ornament, for all articles of jewelry are not appropriate for the different styles of dress. There is 'good form" in jewelry as much as in manners, dress, etc. A woman should remember never to eclipse her own good looks by the gorgeousness of her jewels. Jewelry or jewels often add much to the attractive general appearance of a woman, but it does not mean that she must wear them in order to be attractiv.

In fact, a woman simply but well gowned and well groomed in every respect and without a single jewel is far more attractive than the woman who covers herself with jewels and is careless in the grooming, with her gowns gaudy or ill-cut. Again, even the wellgowned and well-groomed woman may spoil her appearance by too many jewels or jewelry of any kind, which does not correspond with the styles of her gown or is unbecoming. The habit of many women of wearing a pearl necklace or imitation pearls at all hours and places is to be deplored. For instance, how utterly out of place is a string of pearls or diamond pin worn with a simple little cotton morning frock in the summer time, or with a cloth suit worn when going shopping? And yet one sees this done frequently by those who should know the correct form in all things. Some jewels suit a brunette and others suit a blonde. Wisdom sug-that when dressing women gests should study the style of dress, when It is to be worn, what is becoming and what will look best in color of the PATTERN DEPARTMENT OF THE jewels or the style of the jewelry with the costume which she will wear. The average woman wears the jewels or iewelry she likes, entirely ignoring the rules given above, and this is where she makes such a tremendous mistake. Let every woman study correct form in dress and adorament, as well as in manners and social life. Only the simplest sort of jewelry should be worn by young girls and consequently novelties in such ornaments are rare. One of the prettiest of the new articles in girlish-looking jewelry consists of a single delicate chain of thin links, alternately of silver and copper, or of one or the other of the metals joined by a tiny head of the contrasting hue. These neckaces are accompanied by a small pendant of the two metals, etched or CAUTION.—Be careful to inclose above engraved or of a metal-framed scarab.

Rube Deneau's Dutchmen ODD PLAY TURNS TIDE AGAINST THE TIGERS Will Be Victims Today Moeller Kicks Stanage's Throw

At Least Manager Bowerman Is Figuring On Winning the Game in Order to Show the Detroit Crowd What a Good Ball Team He Manages.

Welcome to our city "Rube," old sport. Glad to have you back again. Seems like you got just as good a team as you had last year, but watch out for the Bowerman crowd. They are a nasty lot when they get started, and they have got all sorts of mean things planned to do up that Dutch crew of yours. The meanest of these will be handed out to you at Tecumseh Park this afternoon when Manager Bowerman graces the occasion with his presence on the line-up. You will be doubly up against it. Rube, because a lot of real "bugs" from Detroit drifted into town this afternoon in order to watch their old friend Bowerman perform, and we really could not let them see us defeated on our own lot.

This promises to be a big day in London. It marks the initial appearance of Manager Frank Bowerman on the line-up, and of course that is taken as an omen of good luck. It sure looks as if "Deneau's Dubs" will come out second best.

The Tecumsehs had a good work-out at Tecumseh Park both morning and afternoon yesterday. Two new players were added to the roster. Quigley reported in Guelph on Tuesday, and Benny Speer, who was with the Toronto team this spring, showed up in the morning. He will be given a chance to make good. He was given lots of work yesterday, and made a good impression. As Reske is in Victoria Hospital taking treatment on his knee, it is likely Speer and Bowerman will form the team's catching department for a while. Hagerty has returned to his home in Boston. He could have secured a berth with some of the Canadian League teams, but preferred to go back to his home town.

Manager Bowerman made a slight change in the infield yesterday. Nichols was switched to third and Lindeburn went to second. The change did not seem to work wonders. Lindeburn appears to be out of his element at the second station, and he does not seem to be able to cover as much territory as Nichols. Charley appeared to take to the third sack as a duck takes to water. It is not known whether Manager Bowerman intends to work the change in today's game or no

THAT ONCE-FAMOUS BATTERY

FRANK BOWERMAN.

The pair that formed one of the most formidable batteries that the National League ever knew. When the umpire announced the batteries for New York as Mathewson and Bowerman, the opposing team knew they would be lucky to win the game. It was Bowerman that practically made a great pitcher out of Mathewson, and Christy has always a good word for the man whose cool coaching and steady nerve helped him when he was breaking into the big show. Mathewson is still a great pitcher, and Bowerman is still a great catcher. He retired from the big league of his own accord, and his great love of the game is the only reason for him playing now.

A SURPRISE PARTY

Mr. Norman Langford, of London Township, Given Fine Secretary. [Special to The Advertiser.]

Maple Grove, May 23. - A ver, pleasant event tok place recently at the home of Mr. Norman Langford, when the members and triends of the Wesley Methodist Sunday school, con. 16, London Township, gave Mr. Lang-ford a surprise party. Mr. Langtord has been superintendent for the last three years and all regret that he leels unable to continue his work. Mr. and Mrs. Langford were taken completely by surprise. A pleasant evening was spent in games and music, and Mr. Langford was called forward, and Miss Margaret McRoberts, on behalf of the Sunday school, read an address thanking him for his work and for the Christian influence he had given to the young people of the community. Mr. C. Boyne and C. Fitzgerald then presented him with a beautiful quartercut oak secretary and bookcase combined. Mr. Langford replied, thanking all for ther kindness. Lunch was served and all returned home, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Langford many years

The concluding rounds were lively enough to suit the spectators. The Englishman had it all his own way, and demonstrated his manifest superiority. Carpentfer, it is understood, will be matched to fight Payne at Dieppe on June 24.

D. J. Cuykendali, of New York, is dead of prosperity and the Wesley Sunday school continued success in its good maifest superiority. Weber Boy 2:15%, a pretty good half-the intention of naming him in the Chamber of Commerce stake, but was prevented from so doing by his sickness.

BIG TOM AND LITTLE ALFIE ARE STILL TWO GREAT RIVALS

Toronto, May 23.-Tom Longboat and Alfie Shrubb, the Canuck team, in the 15-mile international relay race at the Island Stadium tomorrow night, are still disputing as to which is the fastest miler and which man will have the honor of leading off the first relay in the race. Their squabble over this point almost broke up the team Wednesday night, until Tom Flanagan finally ordered them to run a mile race to settle the dispute. This race was to have taken place yesterday at the island before the ball game. The two great rivals went over at noon, but in the first race the Indian threw a shoe during the final sprint to the tape and Shrubb beat him. He demanded another chance and Shrubb, with his usual gameness, gave it to him. This time the Indian beat Shrubb by two yards in 4.281-5. Shrubb still refused to acknowledge the Indian's superiority, and the question of which one will lead off tomorrow night in the big race when this pair face the Yankee All-Red and Indian teams will not be settled until the runners go to the post at 9 o'clock. The first race on the card will be called at 8:30 sharp. Tom Flanagan will be starter.

Tyrus Cobb Says He Is Vindicated

Detroit, May 23 .- Ty Cobb arrived y the action of Johnson in ordering etter police protection in the parks. Cobb said:

TOM L. HAYGARTH - - 182 Dundas Street.

"Dead more than a century ago," I answered solemnly. "I did not stop this morning to read the log, and so I know little of their story. But the vessel itself tells of storm and of long struggle in the ice; probably most of those on board perfrom exposure and cold.

"How-how many?"

"Four men, a woman and a child."

An instant she stared into my face; then swept her eyes about the lighted cabin, only to bury them within her hands, her whole body trembling.
"A-a woman and child! Here! here! for one hundred and twenty-six years! Oh, merciful God!" she lifted her eyes again, filled with horror, her hands clenched. "They—they were actually here, appearing natural? looking as they did in Vest they seemed to be sleeping for they had been solidly frozen in the very attitudes in which they died. The woman rested on the couch yonder. She had beautiful hair and eyes, and must have been about thirty years of age. The child was in a bunk, a little flaxen-haired girl of three or ferm?"

We all messed together, sitting upon he long benches drawn up about the able. Dade waiting upon us, with Doris and Celeste occupying places between De Nova and myself. At the beginnig we spoke little, the strangeness of our surroundings holding us silent, but the minds of all being busy with the same thought, we drifted insensibly into conversation regarding our chances of rescue, and the history of the old vessel in whose cabin we floated. Once De Nova introduced the subject of the treasure which might be stored away below deck, and the men exhibited their interest by numerous questions; but I gave them little encour-agement along this line, realizing that for the present our earliest effort should be to transform the wreck into some de-gree of safety—a sail first and a clean rudder; these attained, the search for treasure might begin.

What a scene and group that was!—th wintry night without, the drifting fog of snow, the helpless hulk rising and fall-ing upon the treacherous heave of the sea, that odd, violet-colored light gleaming over us. The faces are even before me—the girlish-looking Celeste, with her dark curls and white teeth; Lady Darlington, her gray eyes still moist as she looked about the interior, unforgetful of its memories; De Nova, jaunty as ever, with no thought beyond the present, recalling to my mind with every movement the face of that dead Spanlard who for more than a century had sat where he was sitting; Sanchez, pale and with that hunted look, a counterpart no doubt of some seaman this ship had known in other days; McKnight, burly and rednecked; Kelly, his blue eyes filled with the merriment of Old Ireland; Johnson, broad-shouldered and sober-faced, eat-Idealers.

"It is the breath of one hundred and twenty-six years of polar winter," I explained. "This very cabin was of that same temperature when we first broke through its ice covering."

She pressed her palms to her temples, staring about her at the gray, gold-decorated interior.

"Do you actually mean to tell me that—that this wreck has been drifting and tossing about all that time?" she questioned, unbellevingly.

"No, not drifting and tossing about, but solldly embedded within the lee far south of this. This vessel is the Donna Isabel—the same one Tuttle saw—and her logbook lies in that farthest stateroom yonder. Its last entry was made in September, 1753." as though the conception could hardly find acceptance in her mind. The peating sortly, "September, 1753, September, 1753," as though the conception could hardly find acceptance in her mind. The men were grouped close beside the entrance, while De Nova and Celeste had gone forward to assist Dade in bringing his supper from the galley, so that for the moment we were comparatively alone. As I bent over, wondering what I had best say, she questioned quickly, with a little sharp indrawing of the breath:

"And—the people, Jack—the—the crew? What became of them."

"Dead more than a century ago," I answerde solemnily." If did not stop this morning to read the log, and so I know hittle of their story. But the vessel itself the first proper in the deck that the log-book with the log-book with the log-book were legible enough, bringing the story of the voyage down to the latter part of July, and recounting a series of several gales, involving the loss of several members of the crew. Then a new hand took up the pen, "Balaza, First Officer," the captain having been killed by a falling spar; for a week or ten days the tale of fierce struggles in the Ice-pack, and a steady drift to the southword. Others followed—"Aleassar, Second Officer," "Salvatore, Government Agent," every line the record of new disaster, gales, wrecked rigging and death. They were lowed to the proper servic but they had carried out their dead upo the ice, leaving them beyond sight of th deck. The names were all written dow There came a time when the survivor were too few and weak even for the thed from exposure and cold."

Her hands clasped mine, her cheeks hite from apprehension.
"Were—were there any—any bodies—ere?"
"Yes," I replied, reluctantly, not daring asy otherwise.
"How—how many?"

The child of Senera Aleating diet the The child of Senora Alcatras died; the next day the mother went quietly to sleep, never to wake again. They did not ever know when her final breath came. She was the last of the women. The boatswain. Pedro Reo, passed away that same night, sitting on the deck; and there were left only Salvatore, who had gone mad, a seaman named Juan Ruiz, and a pasenger, Antonio Saltere. It was the lat-er who wrote the final entry, Sepl. 11 stone cold; there is only Salvatore left, grinning at me across the table; the last candle is going out, too, and I haven't strength to go after more. Jesu, mercy." It ended in the blank page. I straightened up, unable to articulate, scarcely able to see. Celeste clung convulsively to De Nova's sleeve, her eyes

"Doris, sweetheart," I whispered, my words barely audible to her alone, "this will drive us all mad unless we can do something to bring back faith and beg of you to sing to us, sing to us

INGERSOLL STREETS WILL BE IMPROVED

Board of Works Will Recommend a Great Many New Walks.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, May 23.—Street improve nents to be undertaken this year wi likely be outlined by the board works at the next meeting of council. Yesterday afternoon the board made their annual inspection of the streets. It is understood that there is considerable work for this departmen of the council, but whether all that is was in a bunk, a little flaxen-named so three or four."

"And—and you buried them?"

"As best we could. We wraped them to the deep, with a prayer for their souls." I bent nearer. "Dorls, dear, don't let this rest so heavily upon you. I wish I might have kept it all hidden. It was only the end of one of the innumerable tragedles of the sea. We must face our own needs now, and that task will require all our courage."

Staring at me, her mps parced scream; Dorls had bowed her face upon the table; the men sat horrified, breath-silence that I could hear the crackling of the coal, the sharp swish of snow against the window. And that, that awful thing had actually happened here, here where we were sitting! Here, in pittless darkness, those last two lives had gone out to meet their God—despairing, hopeless! I struggled to win back my courage, my wavering manhood, full conscious of the herumbing fear, the voiceless horror.

I know, Jack, but—but it is wavering manhood, full conscious of the herumbing fear, the voiceless horror.

of Semi-Steel -that of the ordinary furnace is made of Grey Iron. Here's the difference — Destructive sulphur fumes penetrate Grey Iron easily because it is porous. Semisteel is not porous—it is a close-grained material with a smooth surface secretly processed by McClary's. Gas fumes cannot penetrate Semi-Steel therefore it lasts longer. The "Sunshine" Firepot is built in two sections joined together with our famous cup joint. The shape of this joint, combined with a layer of McClary's asbestos cement, makes it absolutely gas, smoke and dust-proof.

Clearly, the "Sunshine" is the premier furnace as far as the Fire-pot is con-

The Grates of the "Sunshine" Furnace have three sides each. Plainly, they have three times the endurance of one-sided grates. Every time you rock down the ashes of the "Sunshine" you can expose a fresh side of the grate to the fierce heat of the fire-lengthen the life of the grates.

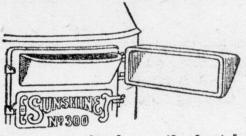

And the short, strong teeth of "Sunshine" grates simply grind up clinkers. The "Sunshine" Furnace is the best as far as grate construction goes.

Shaking an ordinary furnace is hard, back-breaking labor. You don't need to nearest address if you cannot get in shake the "Sunshine"-you simply rock touch with him.

The Fire-pot of the "Sunshine" is made it and the ashes drop into the ash-pan. A child can easily rock the grates of a "Sunshine" — merely another reason why you should buy a "Sunshine" Furn-

> Ordinary furnaces are called coal gluttons. There may be good reasons for that—we don't know. But—we have built the "Sunshine" Furnace so that it is very easy on coal. Hundreds of people now using the "Sunshine," and having used ordinary furnaces, declare that the "Sunshine" makes two tons of coal do the work of three. Evidently, the "Sunshine" Furnace saves coal and money.

The ordinary furnace has a water-pan hidden somewhere about the base. There, it cannot carry out the purpose for which the water-pan was devised. The water-pan of the "Sunshine" Furnace is placed scientifically above the radiator near the dome—the heat laps up the water, before being diffused all over the house. It contains the same amount of moisture as the air of a balmy June day. Plainly, as far as the water-pan is concerned, the "Sunshine" is the furnace you should buy.

There are many more reasons why you should invest your money in "The Understudy of the Sun"-McClary's "Sunshine" Furnace. Call on the McClary agent and ask him to show you all the mechanical reasons and exclusive devices which go to make the "Sunshine" the best and therefore the cheapest furnace you can buy. #### COMPETITION CRUSHED SAYS MR. FALCONER

States Shoe Machinery

Case.

Montreal, May 22 .- That the United Shoe Machinery Company of Canada, a subsidiary of a Boston concern, has by its business methods practically smothered all competition on the part of rival shoe machinery concerns in the Dominion, while it has at same time succeeded in placing within its absolute power Canadian shoe manufacturers, to the detriment of the consumer, was the contention advanced by Mr. A. Falconer, K.C., counsel for the complainants, in the case which is being made the subject of an investigation before a commission appointed by the Federal Government under the combines act.

The commission has been taking vidence for months, chiefly in Toronto, Quebec and Montreal, and today reached the stage wherein the respective counsel sum up their cases. Mr. Falconer's address took up the entire day. The case continues tomorrow In a lengthy speech, in which he gave a review of the shoe manufacturing business in Canada and the part played by the United Shoe Machinery Company, Mr. Falconer endeavored to show that by a leasing system, whereby the company has placed its machinery in various shoe factories, it has succeeded in crushing out competition by the effective method of placing the lessees in such a position that in a great majority of cases they are not able to purchase or use machinery manufactured by rival shoe machinery concerns. To do so would be a breach of the contract entered into with the United Company, as the latter, by a species of tying clause, figuring in most of the lease contracts, insists that such and such a machine is to be used solely in conjunction with other machinery supplied by the United Shoe Machinery Company.

PREFERENCE FOR

Foster Says Arrangement Will Go Into Force Next Year.

TO GET AID OF CONSULS

Tells Montreal That That Port Had Not Kept Up Its End.

Montreal, May 22.-Hon. George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce indicated to a large gathering of members of the board of trade and chambre de commerce this afternoon that he intended to try and justify his position

The minister took a great deal of redit for the preferences already estabished with Great Britain, South Africa, and other portions of the Empire. He also indicated that possibly by next January a preferential arrangement would be made with the British West Indies, and said negotiations to the same end were going along with Australia and New Zealand. The Government, he declared, were prepared to back up this effort to increase trade by doing everything possible to secure improved steamship and cable connections, especially with the West Indies. He also indicated that efforts would be made to secure more active co-operation between the Canadian trade agents and the British onsular service, so as to secure for Canadians the advantages of the British

The main point made by Mr. Foster was that in all work for the advancement of Canadian trade his department must depend to a considerable extent on the co-operation of the boards of trade throughout the country. To this end he sked the Montreal board to nominate commissioners, one to look after foreign and the other after interprovincial trade, o collaborate with the trade and commerce department in securing statistics and also in suggesting new lines of work. Discussing the port of Montreal, Mr. Foster said he grudged every bushel o wheat and cargo which left Canada by any route than her own ports, and he regretted that Montreal had not kept up ts trade in proportion to the growth of the Dominion's commerce. It appeared that this was partly due to lack of tonnage on the St. Lawrence route, which lack was probably caused by high insurance rates. In discussing this, the minister made it clear that if high insurance rates for the St. Lawrence, despite the immense expenditure on the route, were interfering with trade, the Government was anxious to work with the board of trade to find a remedy.

THE WEST INDIES THESE MEN BELIEVE IN COQUITLAM

Excursion run from Vancouver to Coquitlam by Coquitlam Terminal Co., on March 16, 1912.

The men you see in this picture went out to Coquitlam to look it over-and to buy good Terminal Townsite lots there. When you look into the faces of these men you at once are overcome with a feeling of happiness, enthusiasm, optimism. Everybody is smiling-everyone has that prosperous Coquitlam look.

But remember they did not go to Coquitlam for a holidayto a picnic. They went on business.

These men are not chasing any rainbows—they know what Coquitlam and the Vancouver Metropolitan District is going to be. Most of them have seen the West grow to what it is, they breathe the Western spirit-hence their smiles about Coquitlam.

Most of these men are businessmen-men who do not throw their money away without first taking a good look at it. Most of them knew about Coquitlam and bought lots there even before they went out to look at them.

The two months which have elapsed since this excursion took place have been the busiest two months Coquitlam ever

Now the first unit of the 48-stall roundhouse is under contract to be finished by June 30, 1912-the firm of Sanford, Gordon & Sons has nearly 100 men working on it. Two lumber mills have been built, several hotels are going up, and dozens of houses, stores, offices, etc., are being rushed to completion.

We ourselves are about to build 25 houses on the Townsite property. We are also building at a cost of $30,000 an industrial spur track to serve the industries, wholesalers, etc., who are coming to Coquitlam.

The C. P. R. has about one thousand men laying tracks and vards at Coquitlam, the municipality about one hundred men and twenty teams working on streets and roads, and M. P. Cotton & Co., who have the contract for clearing streets, etc., have about two hundred men at work, and approximately three. hundred men are working in the building trades building houses,

Last week they opened at Coquitlam a roller skating rink and a moving picture theatre-six months ago there was nothing but a level piece of ground there, and even two months ago when these men you see in the picture went there, there was practically nothing except a few shanties.

Grow with Coquitlam-but to do so you have to buy in the Townsite-not a subdivision.

London, May 22.-An ordinary photographic developer is proving of the utmost value in an important scientiinvestigation by St. Bartholocases of the degeneration of blood Plassay.

In the commonest form of arterial legeneration, said a member of the medical staff, the vessels become hard and brittle, due to the salts deposited in their walls. The photographic developer has solved the long-standing problem of determining the exact amount of these salts in the walls o the diseased blood vessels.

We are introducing to the public this month the "Canada Piano," a POPULAR-PRICED PIANO. This instrument is the production of The Williams Piano Company, Limited, who are always seeking to give the Canadian public the value of every dollar they spend in purchasing a piano. We believe this piano has all the qualifications of a four hundred dollar instrument. The introductory price for the balance of this month will be two hundred and fifty dollars. The terms will be ten dollars with order, and balance at six dollars monthly. The low price we are offering this piano at, prohibits us from accepting old instruments as part payment.

POLICE PUZZLED BY MURDER MYSTERY

Learn Who Was With Jewar Just Before Death.

[Canadian Press.] Boston, May 23 .- Still without any angible clues to work upon, the police oday resumed their efforts to uncover he mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Lillian E. Jewar, who was found stangled to death in her apartment in the South End on Monday. Police officers in plain clothes scoured the district where the woman lived, and interviewed many persons in the hope of discovering who was with the victim a few hours office her death.

Circumstances attending the manner of killing Mrs. Jewar have led the police and Medical Examiner Leary to believe that the crime may have been committed by a woman. The fact that the woman's nostrils were stuffed with pieces of sting inclined them to think that the ceed as the work of a hysterical woman. After the victim had been struck on the head with some club or instrument, dications are that a kimono was stuffed into her mouth, and she was then strangled with a towel.

WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful - And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when often it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement. Paw Paw, Mich.-"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much rolled. at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came homesufferingworse than before. My

I mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Some Figures.
Inspector Galpia has some interesting gures regarding the number of licenses ormerly held in London.
In 1874, the first year he has recorded, here were 75 tavern, 40 shop and 3 vholesale licenses. In 1875 the high-water mark was reached when there were no less than 75 tavers, 75 shop and 2 wholesale number fluctuated somewhat after that time, until 1886, when there were 61 tavern, 21 shop and 2 wholesale licenses. In 1892 there was a considerable reduction, the number of licenses being 34 tavern, 6 shop and 3 wholesale.

In 1900 there were 35 tavern, 6 shop and 2 wholesale. Several were cut off after that year, and in 1905 there were 32 tavern, 5 shop and 1 wholesale.

Another house will be built on the corner, and plans are now being prepared for it.

A Slander Case.

Mr. J. M. McEvoy has issued a writ on behalf of Edmund James Stapleton for damages for alleged slander, against William Weir. Both parties 32 tavern, 5 shop and 1 wholesale. A vote on reduction took place in 1906, and the number was finally placed at 26 taverns, 5 shops and 2 wholesales. In the meantime 2 club licenses had been issued. That is the number of licenses issued at the present time. The temperance people propose to cut off six more tavern licenses. 2 tavern, 5 shop and 1 wholesale and shows an overwhelming majority in favor of union. CHURCH MEMBERS. The reports of the different circuits of the district show that the number church members this year is 8,670, which is 88 more than last year. The contributions for the year amount to $145,822, an increase of $30,268 over the previous year. This total includes $17,561 for missions, and $6,482 for the ducational fund. A motion to connect the congregations of Kensington Avenue Church and Empress Avenue Church was defeated, and a committee of six, three from First Church and three from Empress Avenue, will report on this matter at the next district meeting. The separation of Memorial Church from First Church was recommended to the general conference. The union of the Byron and Westminster circuits under the charge of a superintendent and an assistant, was sanctioned.

Rev. John Agnew was elected as representative to the stationing committee, and Mr. N. Beal was re-elected corresponding secretary of the district. The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Wray, the district organizer of the Women's Missionary Society, on behalf of that society, and a resolution of tering fantasy, "Princess Iris."
