RUSSIANS TAKE HALICZ AND THIRTY BIG GUNS

HUNS GAIN IN BELGIUM--REPULSED IN FRANCE

FOE PIERCES HAIG'S LINES ALONG COAST 600 YARDS

Germans Level Defences and Gain Ground in An Isolated Sector.

1,300 PRISONERS ARE TAKEN

Attack Preceded by Gun Duel So Heavy It Shakes London.

London, July 11.—One of the heaviest big gun duels of the war raged yesterday on the Belgian coast. Sounds of the distant firing were heard in London from 6 o'clock in the morning until nearly midnight, and again today, beginning at dawn. In some London suburbs tremors like a slight earthquake could be felt.

London, July 11.—The enemy penetrated British positions in Belgium on a front of 1,400 yards to a depth of 600 yards, says a statement issued by the British war office today.

In their advance the Germans reached the right bank of the Yser, near the sea. The attack followed a 24-hour bombardment in which the defences in the dunes sector near the coast were leveled. The sector was isolated by destruction of bridges over the Yser.

Intense Bombardment.

The announcement follows:

"After a very intense bombardment lasting 24 hours the enemy made a determined attack on our positions on the Nieuport front yesterday at 7:45 p.m. Owing to the concentrated and heavy nature of the enemy's artillery fire, the defences in the dune sectors near the coast were leveled, and this sector was isolated by the destruction of bridges across the River Yser. The enemy succeeded in penetrating our positions here on a front of 1,400 yards and to a depth of 600 yards. They reached the right bank of the River Yser near the sea.

"Further south, opposite Lombaertzyde, after gaining temporarily some of our advanced positions, the enemy was driven back to his own lines by a counter-attack."

1,300 PRISONERS TAKEN.

Berlin, July 11.—Via London.—More than 1,250 prisoners have been taken by the German marine corps in the Yser district of Belgium, army headquarters announced today.

Regarding the eastern front, the statement announces that from the Baltic to the Black Sea no extended operations have taken place.

FRENCH THROW BACK HEAVY ATTACKS AT SEVERAL SECTORS

Germans Fail Again To Make Headway at Verdun and in the Woevre.

Paris, July 11.—The Germans made an attack last night in the Woevre, north of Fliery. Today's official statement says they were repulsed.

The statement follows:

"The artillery fighting was rather spirited north of Jouy, in the region of Spigneul and in the Champagne. We repulsed two surprise attacks on small posts. The enemy left prisoners in our hands.

"On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) the artillery fighting continued to be very heavy in the sector of Hill 304. In the Woevre the Germans delivered an attack against our positions north of Fliery. After a severe combat the enemy was ejected entirely from part of a trench in which he had gained a footing.

"There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front."

INCREASE GRECIAN ARMY TO TEN DIVISIONS PLAN OF ENTENTE POWERS

Rome, July 11.—The Greek army is to be increased from three to ten divisions, the recruiting and complete equipment of which are to be completed within four months, according to plans outlined today by Charles G. A. Jonnart, entente high commissioner in Greece. M. Jonnart has reached Rome on his way to Paris, where he will lay before the representatives of the Entente powers at their forthcoming conference the results of his work in Greece, which includes the abdication of King Constantine, and important reforms which he expects to carry out under the new regime of Premier Venizelos.

PAILLARD TURNS UP.

Paris, July 11.—Sergt.-Major Antoine Paillard, one of the French aviators who participated in the bombardment last Friday of the Krupp factory at Essen, Germany, and who failed to return, has, it is now learned, landed safely in Holland.

AT LEAST SIX OF THESE 142ND MEN HAVE MADE THE SUPREME SACRIFICE

Advertiser Illustrations.

The above picture was sent to The Advertiser from England by Company Quartermaster-Sergeant-Major Hogg, and shows members of A Company, 142nd Battalion. Sergt.-Major Hogg has marked a number of the men who have been killed. In the top row, third and fourth from the left, are Pte. (Clucker) Dunn and Pte. Mazurick. In the centre, third from the left, and glancing downward, is Pte. Jack Carnell. In the first row, sitting fourth from the left, is Pte. Kelley, and in the lower row, second and fourth from the right, are Pte. Hayes and Pte. Shillum. All of these London men laid down their lives in the fighting around Vimy Ridge, soon after the picture was taken. A number of others in the group, whose names are not given, have been reported casualties.

STRIKE TIES UP STREET CARS OF THE QUEEN CITY

Six Hundred Cars Unable To Move at Daylight Today.

EVERYBODY IS WALKING

Men Want Ten Cents an Hour Increase, and Company Offers Two.

Toronto, July 11.—At 1 o'clock today Assistant Manager Fred Hubbard, of the Toronto Railway Company, said the company would be unable to give the service ordered by the Ontario railway board. Mr. Hubbard asked what penalty the company would suffer for non-compliance. In fact, there seems to be no penalty. The board will hardly be able to get the men, and it is altogether improbable that the service will be resumed today. The strikers express themselves as content to take a few holidays. The jitney service continues to expand, the steam railways are helping with a 20-minute service in handling the heavy traffic from Parkdale and West Toronto, and the most noticeable upset from the suspension of the street cars is a falling off in the crowds of shoppers at the department stores.

Toronto, July 11.—The threatened strike of the Toronto Railway Company's conductors and motormen materialized this morning at 5 o'clock. Negotiations yesterday and last night were without result, and at a mass meeting of the employees, which began at the Star Theatre at midnight 1,554 voted to strike and only 73 opposed. All the runs of yesterday were completed, the night cars were run into the barns at 4:45, and after that not a wheel turned.

Everybody Walks.

At 6 o'clock, and again at 7, crowds of the incredulous waited for the cars that never came, but the public as a whole had anticipated the worst. The sidewalks of the main thoroughfares were packed with pedestrians, while automobiles, vans and motor lorries streamed by them, each carrying from 6 to 60 passengers.

The strike ties up completely the lines of the Toronto Railway Company. The civic system and the radial lines are running, but these do not serve the centre of the city. On over 100 miles of track there are no cars running, where usually the day's work calls into service over six hundred, carrying half a million passengers, with minimum daily receipts of $15,000.

The men are striking for an increase of ten cents an hour and better working hours. The maximum now paid to conductors and motormen is 30 cents, and the employees ask forty. The company offered an increase of only two cents an hour.

BOARD ORDERS SERVICE.

Toronto, July 11.—At noon the Ontario Railway Board ordered the company to give a service by 3 o'clock, failing which the board states it will endeavor to give a service.

The strike has so far been marked by no violence of any kind. Pickets have been placed by the striking employees at all the car barns, but these are closed up, and have been left apparently in charge of only a few workmen.

This morning, Vice-Chairman A. B. Ingram of the Ontario Railway Board, held a conference with Rezin Orr, treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railwaymen of America, who informed him he could not advise the men as the international organization was not supporting the men because they had rejected arbitration. Mr. Ingram is later to meet General Manager Fleming. He hopes that the men may be agreeable to resume work under the old scale, while the Ontario Railway board undertakes to settle the dispute. The representatives of the men were unable to state if this would be acceptable.

DISTRICT NO. 2 LEADING

District No. 2 holds first place in the $16,000 prize contest. It is quite evident from the many hundreds of letters received today that each and every candidate has a large circle of friends working in his or her behalf.

Every candidate in the big race is bending every effort to make the most of the special 50,000 extra vote offer. All realize this gives an opportunity to climb into a safe position and thus leave more freedom in the last two weeks of the campaign to complete their canvass.

Friends who have promised their support to some one candidate should take advantage of the extra offer and send in their subscriptions, as, by doing so they are adding a great number of extra votes that would be lost to their favorite candidate. It will take subscriptions to win, and when an extra vote offer is on, every person should rally to the assistance of his candidate, as by doing so you may be the means of adding just the required number of votes that is needed to win one of the big prizes.

WAR OFFICE AND HUN SHIPS AT CONSTANTINOPLE BOMBED BY BRITISH AIR SQUADRON

Successful Attack Carried Out Monday Night On Cruisers in Harbor of Turkish Capital — Turkish War Office Also Suffers Direct Hit.

London, July 11.—An air raid on the enemy fleet off Constantinople was announced in a statement of the British war office today. Bombs were dropped on the Turkish cruiser Yvus Sultan Selim, formerly the German cruiser Goeben. The extent of the damage to the vessel is not given.

London, July 11.—The war office at Constantinople also was attacked and a direct hit was obtained by the British, who returned without casualties.

The announcement follows:

"A report has been received from the vice-admiral in the eastern Mediterranean that on the night of Monday a successful attack was carried out by the Royal Naval Air Service against the Turkish-German fleet lying off Constantinople, in the Golden Horn. When the Goeben, surrounded by warships, including submarines, had been located, an attack was made from a height of 800 feet. Direct hits were obtained on the Goeben and on other enemy ships near her. Big explosions took place on board them, and several fires were observed.

"The war office also was attacked and a direct hit was obtained. The enemy appeared to have been completely surprised, as until the bombs had been dropped no anti-aircraft batteries opened fire. Our force returned safely, without any casualties."

HANNA LAUNCHES A GREAT DRIVE AGAINST NATIONAL FOOD WASTAGE IN HOTELS, RESTAURANTS, HOMES

Ottawa, July 11.—Immediate action on a national scale is being taken by the food controller to prevent food waste in the hotels, restaurants, clubs and homes of the dominion, and to conserve storeable food for export. Telegrams have been sent out to the prime ministers of all the provinces by Hon. W. J. Hanna, asking them to name a representative to act with the food control committee. Such representatives are desired to confer with the committee from time to time as its work proceeds, and attend at harings which affect the interests of their respective provinces.

The committee consists of Mr. Justice Rose, Osgoode Hall (chairman); Miss May U. Watson, MacDonald Institute, uelph; Mr. George Wright, president of the Dominion Hotelkeepers' Association and third vice-president of the American and Canadian Hotelkeepers' Protective Association, and Mr. W. A. Cooper, head of the C. P. R. dining car and restaurant service. The committee which was appointed last Friday met at the food controller's office here yesterday, was in session all day, and met again this morning.

Paris, July 11.—The forthcoming conference of the Allied governments, to be held here, will consider not only the question of the Balkans, but everything regarding the conduct of the war, according to the Excelsior. The various Governments have not yet designated representatives.

SUB BASE DISCOVERED ON THE BRAZILIAN COAST

Rio Janeiro, July 11.—The newspapers announce that the destroyer Matto Grosso has discovered an enemy submarine base near Santos.

SAMOAN ISLANDS SUFFER IN SEVERE EARTHQUAKE

Melbourne, July 11.—A dispatch received here from Suva, Fiji Islands, says damage has been caused in the Samoan Islands by a severe earthquake and tidal wave. The Friendly Islands also have experienced an earthquake.

HOLLWEG MUM ON MEETING OF CROWN COUNCIL

Refuses To Tell the Reichstag Main Committee What Occurred There.

VON LOBELL SEES KAISER

Socialist Leader Tells Wilhelm Germany Must Have Parliamentary Ministry.

Amsterdam, July 11.—Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg declined yesterday to make known to the Reichstag main committee the proceedings in the session of the Crown Council on Monday, regarding which there is much speculation within and without Germany. The committee then decided to adjourn. These events are described as follows in a semi-official statement issued yesterday in Berlin: "The main committee of the Reichstag met at 9 o'clock this morning. Friedrich Ebert (Socialist leader) requested the chancellor, who was present, to give information in regard to what happened in the Crown Council yesterday, on the ground that knowledge of what took place there was necessary for further fruitful debate. The chancellor, confirming the fact that the Crown Council had held a meeting, said he was unable as yet to make a statement in regard to the results of the deliberations. Herr Ebert then moved adjournment of the committee, which was agreed to."

VON LOBELL SEES KAISER.

Copenhagen, July 11.—The Socialist organ Vorwaerts, copies of which have just been received here, devotes blackface type to positive reports in the Reichstag that the Prussian Government decided to introduce a bill in the Diet for universal equal suffrage this autumn, without awaiting for peace.

The Vossische Zeitung announces that the Prussian minister of the interior, Von Loebell, had an audience with the emperor Monday. Reports given under reserve are that Herr von Lobell recommended to the emperor the quickest possible execution of internal reforms, and suggested as a preliminary to a Parliamentary ministry that all imperial secretaries of state and Prussian ministers submit their resignations in order to give the new chancellor a free hand in calling members of the Reichstag to the Cabinet.

The Vossische Zeitung's reserve seems justified in view of Herr von Lobell's known standpoint.

AMERICAN STEEL WORK DESTROYED BY FIRE

Wilmington, Del., July 11.—Practically all of the main portion of the plant of the Wilmington Steel Company was destroyed by fire early today. No estimate of the loss was obtainable. More than 250 men were employed in the section destroyed.

SWEDEN PROTESTS OVER SINKING OF FISH BOATS

Stockholm, July 11.—The Government has instructed the Swedish minister at Berlin to protest against the torpedoing of Swedish fishing boats by German submarines.

FALSE REPORTS.

London, July 11.—On the basis of the official reports from allied war offices, the newspapers declare that the German admission of airplane losses during June is absurdly false. The figures show that 279 German machines were destroyed and driven down out of control.

The German claim of allied losses also is disputed, although the silence of the French war office on the subject of airplane losses prevents exact checking.

PRISONERS AND HEAVY GUNS FALL INTO RUSSIAN HANDS BY THE CAPTURE OF HALICZ

10,000 MEN, 80 CANNON, RUSS PRIZE

Petrograd, July 11. — The Russians have reached the Posiecz - Lesiuvka - Kosmacz line. In the fighting between Sunday and Tuesday in the direction of Dolina the Russians took more than 10,000 prisoners and 80 guns.

Taking of Strategic Key To Galician Capital By Korniloff's Forces Confirmed at Petrograd

Petrograd, July 11.—In addition to capturing Halicz, the Russians took 2,000 prisoners and 30 guns. They also advanced westward to the left bank of the Lomnica river, and pressed forward on the Bogordchan-Zolotvin front. These announcements were made by the war office today.

Petrograd, July 11.—According to a telegram received from the general staff, the pursuit of the enemy in Galicia continues. The capture of Halicz, strategic key to Lemberg, is confirmed, the Russians taking prisoners and more than thirty guns.

TEUTON FRONT BROKEN.

Petrograd, July 10.—General Korniloff's operations in Galicia along a front of twenty miles have broken the Austro-German front between Halicz and the Carpathians, and already the Russian cavalry has pressed forward for a distance of sixteen miles.

From July 2 to 8 inclusive General Korniloff took 14,000 prisoners and 55 guns, of which 12 were heavy pieces.

Austrians Demoralized.

Gen. Korniloff's cavalry and Cossacks are pursuing Gen. Kirbach's retiring army south of Halicz, and have forced the River Lukovitza, which parallels the River Luvka. The western bank of the Luvka dominates the wooded eastern bank, but it is considered unlikely that the demoralized Austrian army will be able to concentrate sufficient troops to prevent a Russian passage of the river and a continuance of the advance in the direction of Dolina, 35 miles west of Stanislau. The co-operation of the 7th and 11th Armies north of Halicz with the 8th Army south of that town has been like clockwork.

The success of the 8th Army, the military critic of the Retch points out, separates the German army of Gen. von Bothmer from the 3rd Austrian army under Gen. Kirbach, and anticipates the evacuation of Halicz, which is not strictly a fortress, but a strong bridgehead protecting the positions of Gen. von Bothmer's army from the east and southeast.

KIPLING SCORCHES WAR BLUNDERERS

London, July 11.—(New York Times Cable).—The Morning Post publishes a six-verse poem by Kipling, entitled "Mesopotamia."

In it he says that "The young, the eager, and the whole-hearted whom we gave," shall not return, and then he asks: "But the men who left them thriftily to die, shall they come with years and honor to the grave?"

"Shall we only threaten and be angry for an hour?" he continues, and after the storm is ended, "shall we find how softly but how swiftly they have sidled back to power?"

The poet concludes by inquiring, "The slothfulness that wasted and the arrogance that slew, shall we leave it unabated in its place?"

Sinn Feiner Election For East Clare Seat In British Commons

Dublin University Professor Will Hold Seat of Late Major Redmond.

London, July 11.—Prof. Edward De Valera, of Dublin University, a Sinn Feiner, has been elected to parliament from East Clare. He received 5,019 votes again 2,035 for Patrick Lynch, the Nationalist candidate. Prof. De Valera is one of the Sinn Feiners arrested at the time of the revolution last year and recently released from prison.

Prof. De Valera will hold the seat in the House of Commons made vacant by the death of Major William Redmond, brother of John Redmond, and for years a prominent member of the Nationalist party in parliament, who was killed at the front last month.

MESOPOTAMIA PROBE ORDERED BY COUNCIL, MEANWHILE ACCUSED ARE OUT OF OFFICE

Bonar Law Announces Inquiry Into Campaign Blunders.

London, July 11.—Andrew Bonar Law, member of the British war council, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that a judicial inquiry would be held on the conduct of the persons impugned in the report of the British commission which investigated the Mesopotamia experition and which was made public in a blue book issued June 26. The court, Mr. Bonar Law said, would be composed of three officers and two persons holding high judicial rank. The case would be presented by law officers of the crown and the proceedings, so far as possible, would be public. All the officers concerned, he said, had ceased to exercise any function in connection with the Government.

The report of the commission which investigated the ill-fated Mesopotamian expedition apportioned chief responsibility for the surrender of Kut-el-Amara by the British on Gen. Sir John Eccles Nixon, formerly in command of the British forces in Mesopotamia, upon the viceroy of India, Lord Hardinge, and upon the commander-in-chief in India, Gen. Sir Beauchamp Duff.

'BLACK HAND' BOMBS KILL AND WRECK AT CHICAGO; DAMAGE MANY BUILDINGS

Chicago, July 11.—Three bomb explosions in widely-separated sections of the south side early today caused the death of one man and the fatal injury of another, damaged a score of buildings and drove dozens of families into the street. Two of the explosions are laid at the door of the "Black Hand," the other to labor trouble, according to the police. The bombs were exploded in buildings with stores on the first floor and apartments above, driving many of the residents into the street in their night clothing.

Silvia O'Connor and his brother James were passing the building at 1900 West 59th street when the explosion occurred and the former was killed instantly and the latter fatally injured. No others were seriously hurt, though many suffered cuts by broken glass.

GERMANS NOT READY FOR BIG OFFENSIVE IN WEST, IS MORAHT'S EXPLANATION

Copenhagen, July 11.—Major Moraht, military correspondent of the Deutsches Tages Zeitung, asks in a press article whether the moment has arrived for an offensive by Germany, and concludes that for the present one is inadvisable. All Germany, he says, longs to hear the charging yell of the German armies in a big drive, but it is doubtful whether the necessary numerical superiority can be concentrated against any particular front to push an offensive through to insure success.

Partial success, Major Moraht says, is costly and useless, and the general staff therefore, is well advised in not attempting a big attack on the western front.

TORPEDO SENT DOWN SHIP OFF IRELAND CARRYING SOLDIERS

Officers and Men Arriving at Quebec Relate Terrible Experience.

Quebec, July 11.—To be at the mercy of an angry sea for eight hours in lifeboats after their ship was torpedoed was the experience of three imperial army officers and about two hundred Tommies who arrived at this port yesterday in an ocean liner. The officers who are among the survivors are Capt. Park of Scotland, Lieut. Ingram and Lieut. Stroud of England. They were passengers on a vessel which was sunk off the northeast coast of Ireland without warning the latter part of June. Forty-one persons were lost. Reports from many of those who survived the attack of the German pirates prove the efficiency of the Huns' espionage in the British Isles.

The vessel left port on the evening of June 22. Thirty-six hours later, at 8 o'clock in the morning, the U-153 sent a torpedo directed at the ship. The lookout spotted the missile, called to the first mate and the steamer veered hard to port, evading the torpedo. At 4 o'clock the same day the submarine shot out another torpedo, with no better results to the murderers. "At the dead of night we were shocked by a great crash," says one of the survivors. "I was literally shot out of my bunk. We took to the boats. There was confusion, but no panic. Two of the lifeboats turned turtle, and a number of the fellows, 41 in all, met watery graves. It was a horrible experience."

RHONDA AND HOOVER WANT FOOD CONTROL MEASURES HURRIED TO SAVE THE SITUATION

U. S. Embargo Good Move for Allies, but Prices Should Be Regulated at Once.

London, July 11.—Lord Rhonda, the food controller, in a statement to the Associated Press on the embargo proclamation of President Wilson, said:

"The comprehensive and effective character of the president's latest action is typical of the way in which the United States has thrown itself heart and soul into the war. It seems to me that the additional pressure which will thereby be brought to bear upon our common enemies should go far towards bringing this struggle to an earlier termination, especially in view of the fact that in applying an embargo on provisions, the president will have the advantage of Mr. Hoover's unequalled knowledge of conditions in the neutral countries.

Food Bill Is Needed.

"The embargo should also, by diverting supplies from neutral destinations, help to solve the food problem of the European allies. But while our difficulties as regards supply are appreciably eased by this embargo, we cannot really effectively deal with the vital and pressing question of price until Congress passes the food bill. So long as there is no control over the principal market, so long obviously must the prices of the Allies' staple food remain variable and, as a rule, dangerously high. I hope soon to announce measures for the control of our own home-grown crops. This should help to equalize distribution and reduce prices. But it will, of course, be infinitessimal as compared with the world-wide effect of the present food discussion in Congress, the result of which we await with natural anxiety."

HOOVER URGES SPEED.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Administration leaders in the Senate, spurred on by a letter from Herbert C. Hoover, the food controller, to President Wilson, declaring that further delay in enacting food legislation threatens serious losses to both farmers and consumers, today sought to hasten action by the agricultural committee in perfecting the Gore substitute for the food control bill under consideration in the Senate. The committee again today worked on the substitute bill, while the Senate continued debate on general features of the measure.

The Senate will vote on the bill July 21 under an agreement reached only after the Democratic leaders had consented to eliminate some of the bill's most drastic features, including the stringent prohibition provisions.

U. S. MAY COMMANDEER CLEVELAND FORGE PLANTS IF STRIKE IS NOT SETTLED

Cleveland, July 10.—Five of Cleveland's largest drop forge plants may be commandeered in the near future by the Government, if a strike called is not settled in time to permit work to continue on work necessary for the United States army and navy. This announcement came from the federal commissioner of conciliation in this district for the department of labor.

CROP PROSPECTS ARE LEADING TOIPC OF DEBATE ON MARKET

Few Farmers 'Stung' by Holding Onto Old Potatoes.

RISE IN SPUDS FEARED

Wholesaler Says Price Will Advance This Week Because of Shortage.

There was a regular fanning bee of farmers and wholesalers in the weigh scales office at the market today, and an Advertiser reporter who happened in picked up a lot of information on the crop situation at the present time.

"I'll have a few early potatoes on the market next week, and help give your business a black eye," stated one farmer to a wholesaler.

"Go to it," replied the produce dealer, as he flipped the ashes off his cigar. "You'll be doing the public a favor. New potatoes are going to be scarce about the end of the week. The public has been buying heavily, and the Virginia growers have not dug a potato all week on account of the low prices. Bring in your potatoes and help keep the price down, for, take it from me, spuds are going up a dollar a barrel at the end of the week."

Farmers Were Net "Stung."

"I wonder if it's true that a lot of farmers are getting stung on old potatoes?" asked James Dean, weigh scales clerk.

"No, I don't think that there were many who hung on too long," replied the wholesale man. "However, there are two dealers in town now who each have a carload of western potatoes, and I imagine they would sell them at any old price, even $1.50 per bag. They didn't arrive in very good shape."

The talk then veered around to new potatoes again, and the consensus of opinion was that the early Irish stuff would be plentiful, of good quality, and that the city people would just about be able to supply themselves from local patches, with a little help from the country. The supply might last until the late spuds were ready for market, but this was doubted, and it was finally decided that there would be a period between the early and late tubers when they would again bring a good price.

Afraid of the Blight.

The early potatoes disposed of satisfactorily, the gathering turned its attention to late varieties. One farmer declared that the Caradoc acreage was not up to its usual standard, but this was disputed. The pessimist then had his say. He stated that if the wet weather continued much longer, blight would spoil the crop, the same as it did two years ago. "You can't tell me," he said. "Things are beginning to look pretty serious, and every one of you know what happened two years ago on account of the rain. If it keeps up, why—good-night potatoes." He admitted, though, that if the crop was harvested successfully, prices might range from a dollar to a dollar and a half a bag.

Good Crop of Oats.

The oat crop was voted as being a good one through the district, and corn, although late, was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Good crops of oats and corn meant cheaper meat for citizens, and better stuff too.

The gathering broke up after it was predicted that there would be but few strawberries on the market tomorrow, with a whole lot of buyers. The cold weather of Tuesday and today would ripen the berries slowly, but the people had the strawberry "bug" and were bound to get them.

SHOWS TRICKS LEARNED FROM FAKIRS WHILE SERVING IN EGYPT

A. R. Murray, son of B. S. Murray, 550 Oxford street, entertained the visitors and members of the St. John the Evangelist Sunday school at Fort Stanley yesterday by a series of sleight-of-hand tricks that were most enjoyable. Mr. Murray, who served for some time in Egypt with the Army Medical Corps, picked up a number of these tricks from fakirs in that country, and he has become exceptionally expert in the use of them. Those privileged to see Mr. Murray perform his tricks declare that he is quite the equal of many professionals who have performed here.

SHIPPERS COMMEND SUGGESTION TO SECURE MORE FREIGHT CARS

The shippers section of the board of trade, at a meeting held last evening, passed a resolution commending the suggestion of the Dominion Railway Commission that the Government purchase rolling stock to handle freights, etc. The members present were of the opinion that this would greatly facilitate the movement of goods, as the present equipment is not sufficient to carry the products of this country.

A general meeting of all shippers will be called shortly to discuss regulation 17, about which there is so much difficulty between railways and shippers.

American Rookies Go Through London; Make Welkin Ring

Carload of Army Men in Mufti Display Old Glory En Route.

A whole carload of American recruits for the army passed through London on the 12:26 noon express from Chicago on their way to a training camp in the Eastern States. There wasn't a single uniform in the whole party, but everybody on the train and at the stations on the way knew all about Uncle Sam's soldiers who were taking their first step towards the defence of the honor of their country and the principles of liberty and justice.

From every window waved not one but half a dozen editions of "Old Glory" and the colors were backed up by the lusty voices of the men, tunefully raised in American national airs, punctuated by occasional cheers. They made it plain to the Canucks along the way that the Sammies were coming to their aid and it was time to cheer up.

HAS TOO MUCH LIQUOR, RANSACKS HOUSE

Liquor acts in different ways on different individuals, but when it leads a person to burglarize his friend's house and carry away the latter's belongings in a tin pail in broad daylight, it is then time for that person to "cut out the booze."

A young railroader, visiting at the home of a friend on Maitland street, had consumed a considerable portion of good whisky provided by the friend.

He then asked to go across the way to use the telephone at the home of W. A. Reid, 470 Maitland street. The latter was absent, but his wife, who was sitting on the veranda, allowed her husband's friend to go in the house to use the telephone. As he was gone some time, she summoned the neighbor with whom the young man had been visiting.

Upon entering the house and going upstairs, it was found that the dresser drawers had been rifled and two rings, a wrist watch, bracelet and a quantity of clothing, in all amounting to $70, had been stolen.

A child, the daughter of a neighbor in the next street, stated she saw a man running down the alley with a pail filled with clothing. Apparently the would-be burglar realized his mistake when he regained his right senses after becoming partially sobered. At any rate, he hustled back to the home with the stolen goods.

In the meantime the police had been notified, but as Mr. Reid declined to prosecute under the circumstances, no arrest was made.

RECKLESS MOTORIST ENDANGERS LIVES

One of the kind of motorists who refuses to recognize the rules of the road took a sharp turn from Clarence street on to Dundas westward about 9:30 o'clock this morning, almost grazing the sidewalk on the wrong side of the street, and making a long, sharp angle in crossing to the north side.

Six or eight boys, on bicycles, with bundles under their arms, evidently bound for a picnic eastward, were caught in the angle, and three or four of them were just missed by the lawless motorist. The youngster who had the narrowest shave retained his presence of mind, but was filled with indignation. "Gee!" he said, "that guy better not get fresh with me, or I'll bat him one on the mug."

But the lawless motorist had dashed serenely on his way to cut more sharp corners on the wrong side, so escaped the dire threat.

"TUNING UP" SON OF HIS NEIGHBOR WITH STRAP COSTS FINE

Peter Peterson Says the Boy Acted "Like Red Squirrel".

THREW STONES AT HIM

But Mother Denies She Gave Man Right To Usurp the Father's Prerogative.

A 7-year-old boy, the son of Mrs. Anne McMurdo, 3 Lansdowne avenue, was the central figure in a police court case today in which Peter Peterson, 18 Lansdowne avenue, was found guilty and fined $5 and costs for having administered a whipping to the youngster.

Mrs. McMurdo, the complainant, testified that Peterson had used a strap with such force on a certain portion of the boy's anatomy that he had been compelled since to take his meals standing up. Her husband, she stated, was overseas, and although she admitted that the boy had a great habit of throwing stones, she had never given Peterson the authority to whip him, as the latter claimed.

Heard Boy's Screams.

Mrs. Elizabeth James, a neighbor, testified that she heard screams at Peterson's house, entered the door, and found Peterson with the child across his knees, while a strapping was being administered on the bared body.

Peterson, in his defence, gave evidence to the effect that he had been granted permission to "tune the boy up a little" by the mother, who claimed she could do nothing with him.

"He tore the paper from the walls, climbed over the scaffold at my house like a red squirrel, called me bad names, threw stones as big as hens' eggs at me, and made life miserable for me in every way," said Peterson.

"He only gave this boy a fatherly spanking," explained W. R. Meredith, who represented Peterson. During the argument of Mr. Meredith, Chief Williams interrupted at a time when he believed counsel had finished.

"I am not through yet, chief.

"All right, then; go ahead, but we don't want to be here all day," replied the chief.

Magistrate Calls Time.

"Why not, chief? You have nothing else to do?" asked Mr. Meredith.

"Time," called the magistrate, fearing hostilities might ensue from the argument.

The fine was then imposed, the magistrate taking the view that Peterson had no right to spank other people's children.

An employee of the department of works was summoned to answer a charge of assault laid by his wife.

Wouldn't Get Breakfast.

It developed that the couple would be married 31 years tomorrow, and it was not the first time that the husband had been called to court to explain similar conduct towards his wife. He denied the assault and said his wife would never get his breakfast.

"He comes home drunk half of the time," said the wife.

"Perhaps I do get a jag on once in a while, but she accuses me of flirting with some women across the street," responded the husband.

"That's all nonsense, your worship. 'I don't care who he flirts with. I am too old a woman to bother my head about his flirtations," retorted the wife.

Finally, after considerable argument, the husband agreed to hand over $8 a week. The case was then adjourned for two weeks, and if conditions are not then satisfactory, an order of separation will be granted.

ELKS IN FINE SHAPE ELECT NEW OFFICERS

One of the largest attended meetings since its inception was that of London Lodge, No. 35, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, held last evening, the special occasion being reorganization and election of new officers, this step having become necessary as a result of the inroads made on the membership through enlistment, removals, and so forth. The nominating committee after a personal canvass as to fitness, attendance and interest submitted the list below, which was unanimously and enthusiastically approved. Notwithstanding these days of stress, and the contribution of a large number of its members for overseas service, London Lodge of Elks possesses among its membership scores of enthusiastic men, business and professional, united not only for social and fraternal reasons, but with an ambition to be of real service to the community, to their fellowmen, everywhere.

REFUSE TO PUT EXEMPTIONS IN COMPULSION ACT

Government Heads Agree That Inequalities May Result.

LEAVE IT TO TRIBUNALS

Suggestion That Government Organize Labor and Fix Wages.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 10.—All day the conscription bill has been under the consideration of Parliament, sitting in committee. The exemption provision has been the only one dealt with. Hon. Arthur Meighen has been in charge of the measure for the Government, and he has steadily resisted demands that the exempted classes shall be more clearly defined, whether they are farmers, fishermen, miners, transportation employees or any others. Mr. Meighen has declared that the Government is going to follow the practice in Britain, and leave to the tribunals to be appointed the making of the regulations for exemptions in general cases and the application of the exemptions in individual cases.

The first proposal of the day was that the bill should be so amended as to declare that the agriculturists as a class were to be exempt from conscription. The reply of the solicitor-general was that agricultural producers undoubtedly should be exempted, and he had no doubt they would be exempted by the tribunals, but it was difficult to make a hard and fast rule, and lay it down in statute law. In regard to exemptions, the Canadian law would be the same as the British law.

Wants Three Men to 100 Acres.

Mr. Proulx then suggested that the bill should provide an allowance of men not to be taken from the country, amounting to three men to each hundred acres. If farmers were taken to the trenches, the food production of the country would be reduced.

Mr. Rainville not only spoke for the specific exemption of farmers, but offered an amendment to that effect. And this was supported by Mr. Girard and Mr. Boulay, the latter asking that the exemption apply to fishermen.

Mr. Bradbury of Manitoba did not see how farmers as a class could be exempted specifically by the bill. Mr. Rainville said that he did not want the farmers exempted as a class, but wanted agriculture declared one of the essential industries for the purpose of the law.

Gen. Sir Sam Hughes declared that the farmers of Canada would not want to be exempted as a class. The declaration was received with cries of "Hear, hear, hear!"

Hon. Charles Marcil wanted to know how there would be a standard fixed that would insure uniformity in the application of the law and the granting of exemptions in all parts of the country.

The reply of Mr. Meighen was that the central board would follow the British practice.

Should Insure Food Supply.

F. F. Pardee held that while there might not be statutory exemptions for any class, there should be something done in the way of insuring, through the regulations, that the food production of the country would not be interfered with.

Mr. Meighen could see no reason why the food-producing requirements of the country could not be safeguarded, and the purpose of the bill carried out at the same time.

J. J. Turriff said he would not like to see the farmers' singled out for exemption. The need for the production of food was so great that it could be regarded as certain that no tribunal would interfere with it.

Levi Thompson held that Parliament, and not judges, should decide upon who should be exempt.

Hon. Frank Oliver complained that Parliament was asked to indorse a bill interfering with the lives of 100,000 men, and the House would have nothing to do with the framing of the regulations.

Left With Tribunals.

Hon. Mr. Meighen declared it would be impossible to declare what each tribunal would do in each case. The bill simply laid down the principles to guide the tribunals in their work.

Mr. Oliver asked what citizen a tribunal might not exempt under the law.

"No man engaged in a non-productive or non-essential industry can be exempted," said Mr. Nickle.

"My answer to that is that the matter rests entirely with the tribunals," said Mr. Oliver.

Mr. Meighen said that a dishonest tribunal could exempt anyone, but he was going to assume that the tribunals would be honest. He knew of no better way of dealing with this matter than by selective draft.

Based on Unfairness.

Mr. Oliver said that the principle of selective draft in the bill was based upon unfairness. The American plan would have been better. It provided for the enumeration and registration of the people, for the apportionment of the numbers of the men to be raised by each state, and for their selection by ballot.

Mr. Meighen could not see the advantage of selecting by ballot when it was probable that among the classes called there would be no more men available than were required by the bill.

Mr. Oliver said that while he believed in compulsion, he believed in its application only if a majority of the people favored it. He wanted some guarantee in the act that the sacrifices that Western Canada had made in sending a very large number of volunteers would be recognized when it came to the application of conscription. He said that the real purpose of the bill was to protect the profiteers of Hamilton and Toronto.

Mr. Nickle declared that neither law nor tribunals could insure absolute equality of application. But that was no reason why the bill should be dropped. Munitions were as necessary as men. Defeat had nearly come at the opening of the war through lack of munitions. The amendment added nothing to the bill, as each application for exemption would have to be tried on its merits.

Bill Has Double Purpose.

Mr. Oliver said that the bill appeared to have the double purpose of finding men for fighting and to protect the home industries. The House had the right to know how much of the bill was for French and how much for Hamilton.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier remarked that there was to be said for the balloting system that under it there was no possibility of favoritism; the Government plan was likely to produce recrimination.

The prime minister said that if the plan of Mr. Oliver were carried out, Parliament itself would have to select the whole of the 100,000 men. It seemed to the Government it was best to appoint an impartial tribunal and lay down general rules for them to follow.

Hon. William Pugsley offered one amendment, providing that hearings before tribunals should be open to the public, and that in applying for exemption the applicant shall state his willingness to continue work at a wage to be fixed by the Government, in the fixing of which regard shall be had to the pay and separation allowance which would be allowed if the man went on active service.

Would Change Commercial System.

Mr. Meighen agreed that the hearings should be open. If the other proposal were adopted it would necessitate radical changes in the whole commercial system of the country.

To Mr. Proulx Mr. Meighen said that the Rainville amendment would not be accepted.

E. W. Nesbitt thought that under the bill the Government should organize labor.

Hon. Mr. Meighen wanted to know what wage Dr. Pugsley would propose for the person who obtained exemption.

Dr. Pugsley said that it should be somewhat in proportion to the pay to soldiers, $2 to $3 a day. Men should not be encouraged to shrink from enlisting because they received high wages at home.

Sir Herbert Ames said that in addition to separation allowance the man at the front was fed and clothed, which at home would cost him $28.60 a month, so that directly or indirectly the soldier received $90.60 a month or $3.10 a day. It was ridiculous to call this pay inadequate.

Dr. Pugsley said that a chauffeur received from $15 to $20 a week, food and clothes, which was about the same as the fighting man.

Dr. Edwards asked if it were possible to calculate in dollars and cents the service of he man at the front.

Mr. Nesbitt said that because the country could not pay the soldier all it owed him there was no reason why he should not be paid as well as was the laboring man at home.

Archie McCoig, of West Kent, said that the average pay of the Ontario farm hand was $500 a year and board. He did not think any man in the House wanted to go to the front for $1.10 a day. Farmers were not worrying about conscription, and those that did not want to go knew they were not wanted to go, but were desired to remain at home and produce food.

Col. Arthurs said he had never heard the complaint that the pay of the soldier was insufficient, but there was a feeling that the pensions might be enlarged.

A. K. McLean asked for the exemption of the only son of a widow as the militia act provided.

Col. Currie said that local tribunals should have only the power to recommend exemptions, and that the final exemptions should be made by the second tribunal. This would get away from favoring relatives and friends. He also favored conscripting labor for the farms.

Consideration of the bill will be continued tomorrow.

COL. EVANTUREL DEAD.

Quebec, July 11.—A well-known figure of this city has disappeared in the person of Col. J. T. Arthur Evanturel, who died last night, aged 70 years, which gave him the distinction of being at the time of his death the oldest officer in Canada on duty.

Deceased was a son of the late Hon. Francois Evanturel, a minister in the MacDonald-Sicotte Government, and a brother of the late Hon. Alfred Evanturel, a former speaker and minister of public works in the Ontario Government. He was also a former aide-de-camp to Lord Minto when he was governor-general of Canada, and a former governor of Kingston Military College.

LONDON CHURCHES' REPRESENTATIVES AT ST. THOMAS RALLY

Big Gathering of Young People in Connection With Alma Summer School.

ST. THOMAS, July 10.—Tonight was the grand rally of the young people's societies of the city and district in connection with the summer school of Alma College. Delegations from the First, Central and Grace Presbyterian Churches, this city, the Alma Presbyterian Church, St. Thomas and Dundas Centre, Wellington Street, Ridout Street and Centennial Methodist Churches, London, together with those from Dutton and Lucan were present.

Rev. J. C. Reid of Strathroy began a series of vesper services, taking as his theme the transforming power of the gospel.

The usual song service, under the leadership of Rev. W. Millson, was the introduction to the meeting. The president, Rev. Osterhout, presided.

Rev. W. A. Bremner led in prayer, after which Rev. A. E. Doan, president of the London Conference of Epworth Leagues, announced the coming fall Epworth League convention to be held in Stratford, at which a large representation from every league is expected.

George Stanley of Lucan was the first to address the session after the two honorary presidents, Dr. Warner and Rev. S. W. Muxworthy, president of the London Conference, had been heard.

Mr. Stanley's subject was missionary in character. Men of vision in all fields of Christian work, Mr. Stanley pointed out, are real missionaries.

Asking the question, "Who is the missionary?" Mr. Stanley answered: "You are, young man, young woman." The saving of the Christian Sabbath from the attacks now being made upon it is missionary work. So is the saving of child-life from the dangers that threaten it. So is the Christian use of money. The missionary's work is in our immediate surroundings as well as in foreign lands. The basic principle of missions is sacrifice. This has been illustrated by Jesus himself and by many heroes of the cross ever since. Mr. Stanley closed his address with a strong appeal to the young people in his audience to consecrate themselves to the true missionary life of service and sacrifice.

Rev. Dr. Crews of Windsor followed with an address on "Some of the Phases of Present-Day Obligations." Human nature has changed but little down through the ages. It is just as cruel today as it ever was. Witness, he said, the sinking of the Lusitania, the murder of Edith Cavelle and the destruction of Louvain. True religion is just the same—God, Christ, the world and its need and service.

Christianity did not prevent the war; will it be successful in the work of restoration after the war is over? was asked. Some blamed Christianity for failure. The mariner's compass does not save every ship, but it saves many.

"The real need of our country is not in hurrahs and slaughter, but in doing the right thing, "said the speaker. "We cannot be truly patriotic unless we are assisting our country to reach its best. We must not only love its virtues but hate its sins. This war is advertising righteousness. The growing sense of revulsion against Germany for breaking her treaty is leading to emphasis on honor. The close relation between love and service must be recognized. People love their country more today because they are serving it more. The same principle holds good in the kingdom of God."

Premier Hearst has informed the executive that he will not be able to attend the summer school session, but the officers have secured Sam Carter, M.P.P., of Guelph, for Friday evening.

JUBILEE SERVICE HELD BY IVAN PRESBYTERIANS

Reading of Honor Roll Interesting Feature of Service Held Sunday.

ILDERTON, July 10.—Owing to Sunday, July 1, being so wet, the jubilee service in the Presbyterian Church, Ivan, was held on Sunday, July 8. An interesting feature of the service was the honor roll of young men who have gone to the front from the congregation. The audience was asked to stand while the pastor read the names: Alfred Johnson, Gerald Colvin, R. Williams, Edgar Williams, members of Guild; Duncan Colvin, George Colvin, Stanley Graham, Wilfred Graham, Will Campbell, sons of members of the congregation. One of these, Duncan Colvin, was killed in the trenches in 1915.

Another interesting feature was a paper by the president of the Bible class on the subject, "What we may do for Canada and the Empire."

The Ivan Young People's Guild will hold (weather permitting) its annual picnic to Springbank on Thursday afternoon.

James D. Campbell, councillor for No. 5 ward, Lobo, has been confined to the house for the past week with appendicitis, and it will be some time before he will be able to attend to his farm and other duties.

J. Marsh, Coldstream Township treasurer, is building a new red pressed brick cottage in the village.

Lobo Council is only building one small bridge this season, the aim being to keep the tax rate down to 3½ mills for roads and bridges, the same rate as last year.

JAIL PHYSICIAN TO FAVOR RELEASE OF WOMAN FROM JAIL

Dr. James D. Wilson Believes Health Would Be Injured.

THIS WILL AID HER CASE

Pttitions Signed by Thousands Soon To Be Presented To Attorney-General.

At an early date the petitions signed by several thousand citizens praying for the release of Miss Margaret Thompson from the county jail will be forwarded to the attorney-general of Ontario.

Those interested in the case are confident that Miss Thompson will be released from the jail at an early date.

The first move to be made by the attorney-general in the case will be to inquire of the jail physician, Dr. Jas. D. Wilson, if Miss Thompson's health is being affected.

Dr. Wilson will then inform the department that continued confinement in jail will in his opinion be detrimental to Miss Thompson's health.

As Miss Thompson is not charged with a crime it is claimed on the best legal authority that the department will then order her release, not caring to assume a deep responsibility should jail life result in permanent injury to her health.

If the attorney-general fails to see the matter in the light that many citizens see it, it is said to be certain that Dr. Wilson's recommendation will be a deciding factor towards Miss Thompson's release.

FRACTURES HIP BY FALL FROM WAGON

Jabez Metcalfe, aged 60, residing at 78 Hale street, fell off a wagon at Rectory street, on the Grand Trunk property, shortly after 12 o'clock today, fracturing his hip. He was taken to Victoria Hospital in the police ambulance, and Dr. Clegg reduced the fracture.

Mr. Metcalfe was unloading some materials from a car for McNeil & Talbot, East London, and when stepping from the car to the wagon, the horse started, throwing him from the rig to the ground. He alighted on his hip, breaking the bones.

Railway men assisted him as much as possible until Dr. Clegg and the ambulance arrived.

MR. GILLEN GOES THROUGH. — U. E. Gillen, superintendent of G. T. R. western lines, was in the city Tuesday night for a few hours, en route from Chicago to Montreal. His official car, No. 2901, was attached to No. 8, leaving here at 12:34 this morning.

A CORRECTION.—It was incorrectly stated in The Advertiser that a London and Lake Erie car nearly struck an Oxford car at Horton street crossing on Monday night. The Oxford car was derailed to prevent it being struck by a London and Port Stanley Railway car.

PICNIC POSTPONED.—The picnic for the Returned Soldiers, which was to have been held at Port Stanley next week has been postponed until Monday, July 24. Suitable arrangements could not be made for the week selected, the London and Port Stanley being unable to accommodate the picnic at that time.

INVITED TO CELEBRATION.—Nassau Lodge, L. O. L., No. 2170, wishes to extend a hearty invitation to the wives of all soldier members of the order, and also the widows of soldier members of the order, to attend the celebration at Springbank tomorrow. All returned soldiers affiliated with the lodge are also asked to be present.

WILL LOOK OVER PORT. — The committee from the Irish Benevolent Society, named the other evening to make arrangements for the annual picnic, will go to Port Stanley this afternoon, to see what arrangements can be made for holding the anual outing there. A proposition in writing will also be considered from the Springbank Amusement Company.

CIVIC WORK HELD UP. — Civic construction work is held up on account of the heavy rains this past week. The river is so high that it is impossible to get gravel out for concrete work so the various gangs must remain idle. The paving work is held up as well as the construction of curbs and gutters. The London Street Railway is also held up for the same reason.

WAS SQUIRE LACEY'S DAUGHTER.—Owing to an error in The Advertiser on Monday, it was stated that the little girl of James Lacey was lost in the flood of 1883. The child was the daughter of Squire Lacey, who died several years ago from heart failure. Squire Lacey was naturally affected deeply, by his daughter's death, but it did not injure his mind and he was in the full possession of his faculties up to the time of his death.

PASS AS MACHINE GUNNERS. — The following officers, N. C. O.'s and men, who attended a Lewis machine gun course at Windsor, Ont., have been successful in the examination, and awarded certificates: Lieut. L. D. Hogan, Color-Sergt. J. P. Thompson, Corporals, C. D. Boles, G. T. McLintock and H. R. McKim, Ptes. R. A. Clark, J. Kirkpatrick, H. Bondy, A. T. Pattenden, E. M. Milne, J. Simpson, H. G. Potter, A. Mason and E. H. Collins.

ADJOURN IN DOG DAYS.—At the the meeting of the city council on Monday evening it will be proposed to adjourn until September. The next meeting will not be held for three weeks in any event, as that time will elapse between Monday evening and the first Monday in August. Many of the aldermen are of the opinion that nothing will be gained by holding regular sessions during the dog days. Any really important work can be handled by the board of control in the interim.

FALLS FROM "TECH" SCHOOL.—While playing yesterday afternoon on the second floor of the Technical School, under course of construction, Gerald Phelan, the 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phelan, 541 King street, fell into the basement, a distance of about 25 feet. He was removed to his home, where he was attended by Dr. Graham. He was slightly injured about the right hip, but this morning was reported to be resting easy, no serious results being anticipated from his fall.

KIDDIES PICNIC.—The tiny tots of the Junior Empress Mission Band spent an enjoyable time, under the auspices of the superintendent, Mrs. McLean, and Misses Helen Bowie, Erma Berrie and Beryl Bell, on the church grounds on Wednesday afternoon. The children would have been taken to Springbank had the weather been promising, but they frollicked around at their imaginary Springbank, and played games until almost bedtime. Tea was served in the schoolroom. Although this is one of the smallest mission bands, it has contributed more to the foreign missions than any other band in the city.

EIGHT CANADIANS ARE TAKEN ON STRENGTH

Eight men were passed as physically fit at the armories yesterday, out of twelve who came before the medical board, and the day's results were considered satisfactory, in view of the fact that all were Canadians, and that none reported from the British recruiting depots in the United States. Today a man reported from Columbus, Ohio, who is a graduate ophthalmologist, and it is thought that his services may prove of sufficient value in the army to warrant his being granted a commission.

Recruiting for forestry units, which was ordered discontinued a couple of weeks ago, has been again resumed, and those who are not fit for service in the front line units, and who do not wish to enter the Army Medical Corps, or the railway construction units, may now go into the forestry units.

Those who passed yesterday were: M. Humphrey, F. Kerr and G. E. Gaurd, Chatham; G. Ferguson, Stratford; L. A. Cole, Woodstock; A. Wyness, A. Knight and S. Shipman, London.

NO WORD IS RECEIVED AS TO HOSPITAL FOR WHICH SITE WAS SOUGHT

No word has been received from the military hospitals commission as to the erection of a 600-bed hospital here, and some of the members of the council are wondering whether the scheme has gone by the boards.

Some weeks ago, a deputation went to Ottawa to meet the commission. Hon. John Lougheed, the chairman, announced that the work of constructing the hospital would be proceeded with at once, in order that it be made ready for the autumn. He asked that the city assist in securing a site. A number of suitable locations were bonded, and Commissioner A. S. Armstrong inspected them. He favored the asylum site.

Since that time not a word has come to London, and Controller J. M. Moore and others are beginning to wonder what has happened.

It was decided this morning to get in touch at once with the member for East Middlesex, S. Frank Glass, M. P., and find out what is being done.

WEDDING BELLS

HILL—GEE.

DORCHESTER, July 10. — The marriage of Alfred Hill and Miss Daisy Gee took place Saturday evening, July 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beauchamp. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harold Sutton, rector of St. Peter's Anglican Church. Mr. and Mrs. Hill will reside on the groom's farm, two miles east of the village.

CUTHBERTSON—BEER.

A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday at the Hamilton Road Presbyterian manse, Hyatt avenue, when Miss Myrtle J. Beer became the bride of P. Cuthbertson of Detroit. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae. The bride and groom were unattended. Mr. Cuthbertson is a well-known railway inspector of Detroit. The young couple, after a brief honeymoon trip and visiting friends, will take up their residence in Detroit.

SUSPECTED CASE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS CAUSE OF WARNING

Medical Officer Warns Parents To Watch for Symptoms.

SEE DOCTOR AT ONCE

Dry, Hot Weather Conducive To Spread of Disease Among Children.

Notwithstanding the fact that there have been no cases of infantile paralysis reported so far this year, Dr. H. W. Hill, medical officer of health, advises parents to watch for the slightest symptoms of the disease in children.

Weather conditions so far this year have been particularly favorable to immunity from the disease. Dry, hot weather is conducive to the spread and propagation of the germ. These conditions accounted in a large degree for the widespread prevalence of the disease last summer.

Dr. Hill was called to examine a suspected case yesterday, but his diagnosis revealed that the germ was not present.

In infantile paralysis the first symptoms are headache, high fever, sore throat and intestinal trouble. Inside of four days these symptoms are followed by paralysis of some portion of the lower limbs.

Parents are requested to watch for the above-mentioned symptoms, and upon their appearance to report at once to Dr. H. W. Hill, who will diagnose the suspected case and ascertain if the dreaded disease is present or not.

ORANGEMEN MARCH TOMORROW, HONORING GLORIOUS TWELFTH

Men From Counties Will Be in Parade.

SPORTS AND ADDRESSES

Procession Will Leave Market Square at 1 o'Clock To Tour Downtown Section.

Tomorrow is the Glorious Twelfth, and London will be the Mecca of a large number of the Orangemen of Western Ontario.

With the thoroughness that has always characterized the local lodges, excellent arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the visitors. Middlesex County will be strongly represented, and it is expected that fully 4,000 Orangemen from Elgin, Oxford, Lambton, and other counties will be on hand.

There will be a monster parade. This will be formed on the Market Square at 12:30, and at 1 o'clock will tour the city. Later the marchers will go to Springbank Park, where a big program of sports will be presented. In addition, there will be addresses by a number of distinguished members of the order.

With good weather, the outing will be one of the biggest events ever staged by the Orangemen in London.

CHANCEY SMITH AND BIG BILL HADDON TAMING THE PIGEONS

Pigeons may be tame in Venice and eat out of tourists' hands, but Chancey Smith, wholesale fruit dealer on the Market Square, is London's original pigeon tamer. Mr. Smith keeps a special sack of peanuts for his friends of the square, and even when the fruit season is in full sway he still has time to provide for a score of birds who coo sweet nothings into his ear.

The pigeons had a late breakfast provided this morning, when they were fed for some fifteen minutes by Mr. Smith and William Haddon, who bought several bags for the pigeon's consumption.

WE'LL GET THE MONEY, SAYS MR. SOMERVILLE

Chairman C. R. Somerville is not worrying about the refusal of Mayor Stevenson to pay Dr. H. W. Hill, medical officer of health, the sum that he is entitled to, namely, $1,000 a year.

At the beginning of the year, when the estimates were being considered, the council slashed the estimates of the board, allowing $2,200 for the salaries of the medical officer and his assistant. Of this, $1,300 was stipulated as the assistant's salary, and Dr. Hill's was cut down to $900, although there is an agreement between the council and the Institute of Public Health to pay $1,000 a year. The money does not go to Dr. Hill personally, but goes to the institute for Dr. Hill's services.

"We will get the money, never fear," said Mr. Somerville. "We do not need the money just at present, but it will be forthcoming when we want it. The agreement is with the institute, and will stand."

BIG MILITARY DAY FIXED FOR JULY 18

July 18 has been definitely decided upon as the day for the big military field day at Queen's Park, when all the soldiers in the district have been invited to take part in the events. The committee is working on the program, and expects to be able to publish a list of the events tomorrow.

TORONTO EXPERT TO EXAMINE PAVEMENT

Professor Marshall of the School of Practical Science, arrived in the city this afternoon, and will make an inspection of the foundation work of the Richmond street pavement, about which Sir Adam Beck made complaints some time ago.

Samples of the kind of concrete in the foundation have been sent to the School of Practical Science for testing, but Mr. Marshall came up to look over the foundation, and made what other tests he figured were necessary.

He was taken in charge by City Engineer Brazier about 2 o'clock, and started his work. He had no comments to make at this time.

It is unfortunate that he cannot make a test of the gravel at this time. The river is so high that he cannot get samples. The board of control is anxious to get his opinion as to the advisability of washing this gravel before it is used for concrete work.

DRINKING FOUNTAIN AT RECTORY STREET AS DRY AS SAHARA

The drinking fountain at the corner of Dundas and Rectory streets has not been turned on.

As the fall will soon be here, it is expected that water will be flowing in time for the early frosts.

Although complaints innumerable have been registered about this, and although two departments at the city hall solemnly announced that the fountain was running, it was as dry today as that well-known Sahara.

The attention of the utilities commission will be again called to the matter today. When the frost is on the pumpkin, then will the fountain be running.

CHANG HSUN IN GERMAN PAY

London, July 11.—The North China Daily News declares it is learned definitely that Gen. Chang Hsun, leader of the Chinese imperial forces, is in the German pay, says a Reuter dispatch from Shanghai.

ALL GARBAGE MUST BE WRAPPED IN PAPER BEFORE GOING IN CAN

City Engineer Brazier explained his rules for handling the garbage department today, and declared that they are in keeping with the practices of other cities.

One rule that caused some discussion was that all garbage should be wrapped in paper before being put into the cans.

"This is the rule in most cities, and I think it a good one," said Mr. Brazier. "In this way cans may be kept perfectly clean, and there will be a great reduction in the output of flies, besides being more convenient to the men. There will be no ill-smelling stuff sticking to the cans, to attract flies, and causing ill-smelling cans. That is the reason it is put in the rules. It can be done very easily, and the results are much greater than would be imagined. A woman could take a moment to wrap the stuff, and save many minutes later on in swatting flies.

"We also make a rule that we do not take garden refuse. That is not garbage, and no other incinerator plant handles it. So far as the tipping question is concerned, no citizens should offer money to these men."

FATHER THAMES ON A SUMMER RAMPAGE, RISES OVER 6 FEET

Terrific Rainstorms Swell the Stream to Unusual Height.

STOP-LOCKS ARE OPENED

Otherwise Flood Would Have Occurred, Say Men at Pumphouse.

As a result of the terrific rainstorm which swept Ingersoll and vicinity Monday, old Daddy Thames has gone on a bust. He is carrying an awful load according to the engineers at the Springbank pumphouse. From 5 o'clock Monday afternoon till 7 o'clock Tuesday morning the river rose five feet and hopped another foot and a half higher last night.

"Fortunately, the stoplocks were out," the engineer at the pumphouse told The Advertiser this afternoon, "otherwise there would have been a flood down here sure. As it is the water is up on the banks higher than it ever was before at this time of the year. All the splashboards are out, and have held well so far.

One of the feature sights at the pumphouse the last few days has been a small flock of young ducks who spend their time playfully dodging floating pieces of timber. The ducks float up to within a few feet of the dam and then paddle carelessly away.

Boating on the Thames is practically a dead issue.

WILL MAKE REPORT ON ALLEGED OVERCHARGE BY UTILITIES BOARD

Controller R. W. Shaw and Ald. F. E. Harley went into the matter of an overcharge made by the utilities commission for street lighting yesterday afternoon, and will make a report this evening on the matter.

It seems that in 1915 an agreement was made for increasing the lights on the streets and on street intersections. The commission agreed to make no charge for these lights. The term of the agreement, as understood, was for three years. The commission states, through Chairman Philip Pocock and General-Manager Buchanan, that the agreement was for one year only. The commission also claims that no charge is being made for the ornamental lighting system around the market square and up Richmond street. This would add $1,000 to the annual charges, it is explained.

Controller Shaw and Ald. Harley are confident that the arrangement was made for three years, and that it is unfair to the city to be charged with the extra amount when the lights were put up at the request of the commission and on the understanding that the city was not to be charged extra for the service.

They will so report this evening, and the matter will be threshed out in committee.

STEAM TURNED ON IN G. T. R. CARS, BUT SNOWPLOWS AREN'T OUT

For the first time in the memory of the oldest Grand Trunk employee steam was turned on in July in the company's trains today.

Passengers sat in early morning trains wrapped in overcoats before the heat from the locomotives was turned into the pipes in the cars. Up to the time of going to press the snowplows had not been ordered up the Huron and Bruce.

MORE DRAFTS TO LEAVE SOON FOR THE EAST

Additional movements of troops from Carling Heights Camp are expected to take place before the end of the week, the next to move being a draft of 50 men from the Service Company, Canadian Engineers, and about 100 men from the 21st Regiment Overseas Company, both of whom are preparing to leave for eastern training points.

BREAKS BOTH WRISTS IN FALL DOWNSTAIRS

While descending the stairs at her residence, 116 Askin stret, this morning, Mrs. Wm. Dexton slipped and fell. She threw out her arms to break the fall, but fell on them, breaking both arms above the wrist. She suffered other painful bruises. Dr. R. Ferguson was called and reduced the fractures.

Unless complications set in Mrs. Dexton will recover.

HERBERT KELCEY DEAD.

New York, July 10.—Herbert Kelcey, an actor, died today at his home at Bayport, L. I., after a long illness. He was born in London, England, October 10, 1856, and came to the United States in 1882. He was a member of Frohman's Lyceum Company, and for years starred with Effie Shannon, his wife, in their own company. Mrs. Kelcey and her mother were with Mr. Kelcey when he died.

COUNCIL MAY REFUSE TO ISSUE BONDS FOR NEW HYDRO BUILDING

May Tell Commissioners To Use Much-Advertised Surplus.

BIG BATTLE IN SIGHT

Refusal To Grant Debentures Would Delay Erection of Block.

A lively row is brewing between the utilities commission and the council.

The commission has presented a request for the $60,000 debentures authorized in the city of London bill at the last session of the Legislature.

The council must give the commission the money, and there is a disposition among the aldermen to refuse the request.

At least, a motion to that effect will be considered by the council on Monday evening.

The aldermen figure that as the commission has a surplus of $100,000, so the members claim at least, there should be no need of the money from the debentures.

It is claimed that the securing of this money is a subterfuge to erect the hydro shop out of surplus earnings.

The commission will strongly oppose any attempt to interfere with the issue of the debentures.

There will be a lively rumpus if the commissioners do not get the money. Such an action would seriously interfere with the building of the hydro shop.

ATTEMPTS TO TAKE LIFE WHEN HE SEES APPROACHING POLICE

Former Essex Painter Drinks Laudanum and Recovery Is Doubtful.

ESSEX, July 10.—Edward Kelly, commonly known as "Red" Kelly, attempted to end his life by drinking laudanum, and little hope is held out for his recovery. He was formerly a painter in Essex and Woodslee, but later went to Detroit. Several days ago he returned. He was found lying in a haymow when an employee of the lumber yards went to feed the horses. The police were notified, and when Kelly saw the officers coming he drank the contents of an ounce bottle of the poison, which had been purchased in Detroit.

Medical assistance was at once secured.

Kelly will give no information regarding his relatives, but the police hear that Kelly has two sisters, Mrs. John Uggens, near Thorold, Ont., and Mrs. W. G. Walton of Niagara Falls, Ont., but repeated efforts have failed to locate them. The police are still in search of someone who might come to Kelly's assistance.

STILL WORK ON BOOKS OF WATERWORKS DEPT.

Auditors Have to Check Kitchener Accounts for Past Five Years.

KITCHENER, July 10.—The city auditors are still busy on the books of the waterworks office. They have discovered what is claimed to be a forgery in the audit check in the ledger, and it will be necessary to go back about five years in order to arrive at the correct amount.

The company which carried the guarantee bond, it is said, will be only liable for the present year, as up to April 1 the books had been audited and found correct.

W. McAllister of Guelph has been added to the staff of the local police force to succeed P. C. Thiel, who has left the city.

The marriage is announced of Miss Frieda Berlet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Berlet, to Charles K. Smith, accountant at the Bank of Hamilton, the event to take place quietly on Tuesday, July 24.

CAMLACHIE, July 10.—A meeting was held in the Methodist Church Sunday morning, the Anglicans and Presbyterians uniting with the Methodist brethren to hear Mr. Thos. Howell of Toronto, honorary secretary of the federation of Young Men's Brotherhood of Canada on behalf of Belgian relief. Almost $500 was raised, a committee was formed of members from each congregation, with Jas. B. Douglas as secretary-treasurer, and it will receive any further contributions. At the Aberarder appointment over $300 was contributed, and about $100 at Oban.

A fierce electric, wind and hail storm swept over this district Monday afternoon, laying low all grain and garden stuff, and filling ditches and creeks. No serious damage was done.

RICH PROFUSION OF ROSES AND PEONIES AT SUMMER SHOW

Gorgeous Display of Blooms Seen at Hyman Hall.

MANY NOTABLE ENTRIES

City Parks Furnish Masterpiece, Flanked by Individuals' Prides.

The flowers that bloom in the heart of summer in London are to be found today in gorgeous array at the rose and peony show under the auspices of the London Horticultural Society in Hyman Hall. This will be continued tomorrow, and is free to the public, the object being to encourage an interest in floriculture, and through this, make London a still more beautiful city.

A masterpiece of artistic achievement is the parks exhibit, arranged by Superintendent Smith, and forming a screen for the high platform on the north side of the hall.

"Philadelphias," which an expert declared to be the right and proper name for what is popularly known as "syringa," has been used as a background, with a base of evergreen. Massed against this are magnificent clusters of peonies, larkspur, calliopsis, and especially roses, grouped with the nicest regard for color effect.

The Hospital Display.

A remarkable exhibit from the Hospital for the Insane occupies the whole of a long table, extending down the west side of the hall. Long spikes of Canterbury bells, digitalis, larkspur and sweet william tower over rich-hued English iris in royal blue and wine color, flame-yellow lilies, peonies and roses.

Two magnificent collections of roses are those exhibited by William McNaughton of Grosvenor street and S. F. Woods. The former has concentrated upon roses in this exhibition, and a number of rare and some quite new varieties are displayed, as well as such old-fashioned favorites as the moss roses, beloved of grandmothers. A French red rose that is attracting special attention because of the velvetiness and rich, dark depth of its coloring, relieved by glints of lighter hue, is called the "Chateau de Clos Cougent." A pinkish yellow is known as the "Willowmere," while the indispensable patriotic touch is furnished by "King George V." and "Her Majesty" (the latter not quite awake in the forenoon).

Mr. Woods' Exhibit.

In addition to fifty varieties of roses which form the border, Mr. Woods has an exhibit of summer flowers which occupies a whole lon gtable. From pure white, roses of every imaginable color and variety are to be found to deep magenta. Next to the magenta, by the way, is placed a royal rose of cream just flushed at the edges with the magenta hue. A novelty is a single rose known as the "Irish Flame."

The bud itself looks like a tiny little flame, and opens out into a single rose of which the droopy petals resemble nothing so much as flames in the dark.

Japanese iris and Japanese single peonies are among the unusual features of this display.

The Burbank Shasta daisies fail to receive all the tribute which is their due, owing to the fact that the uninitiated visitors are mistaking them for plain, every-day, ordinary ox-eye daisies or marguerites, though conceding for them unusual size.

William Moore has a fine general collection of roses, peonies, etc. Mrs. Oram is showing, along with roses and peonies, sweet william, pansies and other old-fashioned favorites.

Some Novelty Flowers.

J. C. Middleton and A. J. Morgan have fine exhibits, and hobnobbing with these are the novelty flowers which W. E. Saunders never fails to produce for a flower show. Among these are lilies, which might pass as orchids, one of them, the "Lily Harrisoni." A dainty spike of pinky bloom boasted the name of "Heuchara." Principal Edward Wyatt of St. George's School has a notable collection of roses from his garden.

Arranged near the entrance are the entries for the cup competition—a pink rose, to which the term "handsome" aptly applies, known as "Mrs. John Laing"; a rich red rose, the "Hugh Dickson," and a heavy, snow-white bloom, which didn't in the least mind being known before the war as "Frau arl Drueski." It is understood that in the meantime this plump lady rose has become a naturalized citizen and prefers being introduced as the "Snow Queen." In any case, the scientific flower growers are very scrupulous about giving her the original title, whatever her origin. They state that you have to give a rose or any other kind of a flower its proper name, even if it happens to be German.

Isabel Hamptons in Charge.

The Isabel Hampton Chapter, I. O. D. E., is in charge of the flower show, and an inviting tea room has been fitted up between the platform and the wall in the northeast corner. Here tea and ice cream are sold at small tables, screened from the remainder of the exhibition hall by a table of flowers which are being offered for sale. Among donors of flowers for the sale table have been Mrs. Becher, "Thornwood," who sent down three beautiful baskets of flowers, and S. F. Wood.

Mesdames Stewart Wilson, Stapleton, George McNeill, G. Wilson, Tighe and George Peters were in charge of the tea room arrangements. It is understood that a quantity of the flowers on exhibition will be donated to the Isabel Hampton Chapter tomorrow afternoon to be sold for the soldiers' comforts fund.

GENERAL MAUDE HAS PRAISE FOR SUPPORT GIVEN HIM IN EAST

Interesting Report on Work in Mesopotamia.

DEFECTS NOT APPARENT

Prompt Response From England, India and Egypt.

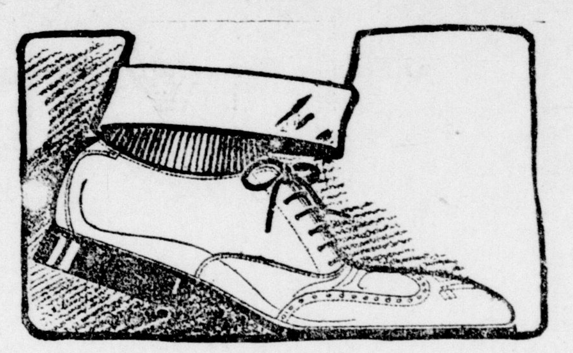

LONDON, July 10.—via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—A dispatch issued by Sir Stanley Maude, commander-in-chief of the Mesopotamia expeditionary forces for seven months, until the 31st of March last, shows that that period was equally divided in preparations and in the operations which led to the fall of Bagdad. He describes how the advance was successfully carried out in the face of most difficult conditions, through the tenacious spirit and gallantry of the British and Indian troops, brilliantly seconded by the navy.

The Mesopotamia commission's recent disclosures attract attention to, and create special interest in General Maude's references to the present water transport and hospital system. He states that the newly formed water transport directorate is so well organized that "an eight-hour day endless chain of river craft passed up and down the river, thereby assuring the maintenance of the troops at the front."

Sir Stanley Maude further says:

"Our well-equipped hospitals were more than adequate to meet all calls, and throughout the evacuation of wounded was carried out on model lines. Arrangements for the comfort and rapid transfer of patients from field units to the hospitals reflect much credit on those concerned."

General Maude thankfully acknowledges the prompt response made to his demands from England, India and Egypt.

HAMILTON TRADE BOARD WANT HIGHER DEMURRAGE ON RAILWAY COAL CARS

Hamilton, July 11.—The Hamilton Board of Trade, unless conditions are remedied at once, will likely start a movement with a view to having the Dominion railway board triple or double car demurrage charges. It is believed here the coal situation is much more serious than is generally known, and that if rolling stock is not kept moving many people will be without coal in the winter.

Hamilton, July 11.—Hamilton is minus its jitneys today. They left almost in a body for Toronto as soon as word was received here of the street railway strike. They were told that Mayor Church had suspended the bylaws regarding traffic in the Queen City so that outside jitney men would be free to operate.

ROOT COMMISSION SAYS RUSSIANS WILL DEVELOP FRESH ENERGY FOR WAR

Petrograd, July 11.—The U. S. commission, headed by Elihu Root, has completed a month's survey of all the phases of the Russian situation and is confident in the belief that the nation will successfully emerge from its internal difficulties and be able to redirect its forces toward the energetic pursuance of the war.

The enthusiastic conclusions of the Americans are not derived alone from consultations with Governmental heads but are based more largely upon the spirit and determination of the people, which has been encountered in public organizations, political and industrial councils and in all the delegations properly representative of the temper of the nation as a whole.

WALL STREET.

New York, July 11—Wall Street, 1:30 p.m.—Unusual activity was manifested during the intermediate session at appreciably higher levels. Steels, shippings and secondary equipments and utilities were the outstanding features at gains of 1 to 3 points. Sinclair Oil was the only marked exception, declining 2½ ½points.

ALL ENEMY ALIENS ARE ORDERED TO KEEP AWAY FROM N. Y. WATERFRONT

New York, July 11.—A further move to protect the waterfront here from enemy allies was made today, when placards warning all Germans to keep off were distributed to all docks and piers in this city and Long Island points. It was said similar notices would be sent to points on the Hudson River and the Connecticut shore before the end of the week. No rule has yet been issued closing the big skyscraper buildings along the harbor front to alien enemies, and it was said no such move was contemplated for the present at least. It was also said the ferries will not be closed to alien enemy class, although the Staten Island ferry was cited as an excellent vantage point for passengers to see the shipping activities of the harbor.

The notice, signed by Thomas F. McCarthy, United States marshal, states that "any enemy alien found on any dock, pier or wharf or employed in any maritime occupation will be at once arrested."

Copenhagen, July 11.—Die Zukunft, Maximilian Harden's publication, now has been suppressed for the remainder of the war, according to the Berlin Tageblatt. A Drop On a Touchy Corn Instant relief! Then corn or callus lifts off with fingers.

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callous without one twinge of pain.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callous. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callous so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callous, but shrivels it up without even irritating the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, as well as painful callouses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. No soreness or smarting. Women should keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn ache twice.

TORONTO BUSINESS MAN GIVES STRONG INDORSEMENT

Weston Representative for Columbia Grafonola Co. Praises Tanlac.

SUFFERED TWELVE YEARS

Fred Hanes Says No Other Medicine Has Ever Given Him Relief.

The remarkable results being obtained from Tanlac, the new medicine that is helping so many people throughout Canada, is further evidenced in the case of Fred Hanes, a well-known businessman, who has the exclusive Weston, Ontario, territory for the Columbia Grafonola. Mr. Hanes resides on the St. John's road, Toronto.

"I suffered for twelve long years with stomach trouble," said Mr. Hanes, "and while I tried all kinds of medicines, nothing reached my case, and instead of improving, I kept going down hill rapidly. I lost my appetite, and the little I forced myself to eat didn't seem to have any taste to it. I never knew what it was to eat any breakfast, a little coffee or tea was all I would take. The least little thing would cause gas to form on my stomach, which resulted in a full, heavy feeling, and would cause pains around my heart, and at times I could hardly get any breath on account of this stuffed-up feeling.

"I was nervous, couldn't sleep good, and would get up in the morning feeling as tired and worn out as I would if I hadn't gone to bed the night before. My tongue was coated, and I had a mean taste in my mouth all the time. During the day I felt so tired and played out I didn't feel at all like working, and just had to force myself to stay on my feet. I was so run-down and debilitated I often said I would give anything I possessed to feel like myself again.

"My wife had heard of the wonderful results Tanlac had accomplished in the United States, and when I learned that the medicine was being sold in Toronto by Tamblyn's, I sent right down for a bottle, and began taking it. I began to feel better after my first few doses. I continued to improve every day as I kept up the treatment, and now I can truthfully say that Tanlac has done me more good than all the other medicines I have taken put together in the past twelve years, and I don't feel like the same man. I have a fine appetite now, relish three square meals every day, and instead of disagreeing with me, my food seems to build me up and strengthen me. I am no longer bothered with gas on my stomach, I sleep good every night, and have plenty of life and energy during the day, and am in better shape to look after my business than I have been in years. I never had any idea any medicine could help me as much as Tanlac has, and I heartily recommend it to anyone suffering as I did."

Hundreds of London people in all walks of life are calling daily, as did Mr. Hanes, at Standard Drug, Limited, agents for Tanlac, to tell of the gratifying results they have obtained from the use of the new medicine.—Advt.

WILL TAX INCOMES, BUT ALL SAVINGS WILL BE UNTOUCHED

Minister of Finance Wishes to Allay Alarm.

WILL ENCOURAGE THRIFT

Legitimate and Established Forms of Taxation To Be Applied.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 10.—Canada is going to have a federal income tax, and there is no possible chance of the Government interfering with savings deposits or any bank deposits for war purposes. The finance minister made this clear to Parliament today.

He said that there had been alarm in some quarters over the recurring proposals for the "conscription of wealth." He said:

"It has been officially drawn to the attention of the Government that the use of the expression 'conscription of wealth' in the debate of Parliament and by public and other bodies outside of Parliament, and by the press in its news reports, has caused a certain uneasiness among those whose savings constitute a vital factor in the business and industrial life of the Dominion, and are so essential to the credit and prosperity upon which our efforts in the continued prosecution of the war must largely depend.

"I desire to say on behalf of the Government that there need exist no apprehension on the part of the public that any action of a detrimental character will at any time be taken with respect to the savings of the Canadian public. On the contrary, it will be the policy of the Government in the future, as in the past, to encourage in every way possible the exercise of thrift and economy resulting in national savings which have enabled Canada to maintain her credit and improve her economic position during the war.

"Any taxation to which it may be necessary for the Government to resort from time to time will be in accordance with legitimate and established forms of taxation sanctioned by the tradition and experience of British self-governing communities. This statement therefore must not be understood as precluding legislation providing for income taxation upon those whose incomes are such as to make it just and equitable that they should contribute a share of the war expenditure of the Dominion."

ASSORTED RUMORS OF CRISIS IN REICHSTAG; SOME SAY HOLLWEG IS ABOUT TO RESIGN

Zimmerman and Helfferich Slated To Go—Reforms Reported Promised.

Copenhagen, July 11.—The debate in the Reichstag main committee yesterday, according to reports received here, was opened by Dr. Gustav Stresemann, National Liberal, with a sharp attack on Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's policy, particularly that of foreign affairs, which he characterized as being based on no definite consistent program. The chancellor retorted by saying he was forced to look to all sides for support because the Reichstag offered him no stable majority. Give him this, and he would be able to develop a consistent program, he said. The Vossische Zeitung, adds that the chancellor expressed readiness and willingness to carry through necessary internal reforms.

A Difficult Situation.

Herr David, Socialist, painted a picture of the difficult internal situation in Germany. He declared the existing dualism between the Government and the people must cease. Thereafter the chancellor again briefly spoke before the committee without reaching any decision.

Afternoon papers yesterday generally assumed that an agreement of all parties except Conservatives and extreme Socialists had been reached by a joint declaration to the Reichstag on peace terms and internal reforms. This, it is said, would contain a reiteration of the chancellor's announcement of August, 1914, that Germany's purpose in the war was not conquest but defence and independence of territorial integrity, expressing a readiness to conclude peace on that basis with a provision rejecting all designs aiming at an economic boycott and continuance of international hostility after the war.

Coalition Ministry.

The declaration, according to report, would also cover the formation of a coalition ministry with representatives of all parties and immediate reform of the Prussian franchise.

The National Liberals, however, at a meeting in the evening rejected the peace part of the resolution, and as the Centre had made the attitude conditional on National Liberal assent, the success of the movement is threatened. The Radicals, on the other hand, declined to concur in that part of the resolution dealing with internal reforms if this were on condition, as Nationals wished, of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's retirement.

The whole matter, therefore, is in doubt again. One positive fact elicited by Herr Erzberger's declaration is that he and other members of the main committee of the Reichstag did not in the course of attacks on the admiralty and Government suggest the abandonment of the submarine campaign.

TWO MINISTERS TO GO?

Copenhagen, July 10—(Delayed).—A dispatch from Berlin to the Cologne Gazette says the retirement of Ministers Helfferich and Zimmerman will be gazetted Tuesday.

The Germania of Berlin declares that Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg in committee accepted the idea of Matthias Erzberger, the Centrist leader, regarding a parliamentary declaration committing Germany to peace on the basis of the chancellor's declaration of August 4, 1914, namely: no annexations. The Tageliz Rundchau, on the contrary, is sure than Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg will retire is the declaration is adopted.

According to the Tageblatt, the crown council is reported to have developed an almost irreconcilable difference of opinion between Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg and the majority of Prussian ministers on questions of internal political reform.

BERNSTORFF MAY BE CALLED.

Copenhagen, July 11.—Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador at Washington, is mentioned in the lobby of the Reichstag as a candidate to succeed Foreign Minister Zimmermann in case of his retirement. The name of Dr. W. S. Solf, colonial secretary, is also mentioned.

Dr Anton Meyer Gerhard, who was Count von Bernstorff's emissary to Emperor William in connection with the Lusitania case, and whose activities in the United States were the subject of much comment, has been promoted to be director of the colonial office.

KAISER WITH HOLLWEG.

Copenhagen, July 10—(Delayed).—According to the Tageblatt, the crown council held in Berlin Monday evening showed that the imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, possesses the emperor's complete confidence. The emperor, after the adjournment of the council, conferred with the chancellor until midnight.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's position, the paper adds, seems also to be more secure with the political parties. The Radicals are said to be standing by the chancellor, while the Centre Socialists attach no importance to a mere change of person and not of system. Political circles believe that the matter will end in a compromise.

WORK OF CANADIAN FORESTRY CORPS AND RY. TROOPS ADMIRED

Sawmills and Machinery, All of Dominion's Product, Are Greatly Admired in France, and Amount of Stuff Turned Out and Railway Tracks Laid Down Is Big Factor in War.

OTTAWA, July 10.—The following reports of the work of the Canadian Forestry Corps and railway construction troops have been received by the Government from general headquarters in France:

There are at present 22 companies of the Canadian Forestry Corps operating in France. The first eight companies arrived between December last and the end of March, and five companies arrived in April, with their full technical equipment, and approximately 60 per cent. of their transport. Eight more companies arrived in the third week of May. It is hoped to employ 56 companies in all by September.

The companies are equipped with Canadian-made saw-milling machinery and tools, and the greatest efficiency and keenness is displayed by all ranks. Operations extend over a large area. All species of lumber are manufactured, including sawn timber, sleepers, trench timber, pit props for roads and mining.

Results Are Large.

The establishment of the companies, including transport, is 190, all ranks. The average production varies according to the nature of the woods. In suitable woods between 1,000 and 1,500 tons of sawn lumber, together with sufficient round timber to bring the output up to 2,000 tons per month, may be expected. On round timber alone, however, a company produces from 4,000 to 6,000 tons per month.

Some of the operations of the corps are being carried out under shell fire, and one unit was recently heavily shelled, fortunately no casualties resulting.

Of the companies, six are employed in the army areas, although their work is greatly handicapped by having to operate in small woods, as a rule devastated by shell fire. The daily output is most satisfactory and wood is delivered direct to armies at very short notice.

Canadian Mills Admired.

Seven companies, including the Canadian Construction Company (colored) are employed in the Jura wood. The Canadian mills in operation in this area have aroused great interest among the French military and civil authorities, who have not hesitated to express their admiration of the mechanical efficiency evidenced in the design and construction of the mills.

Then companies are now working on the lines of communication. Some fine forests have recently been acquired for exploitation in this area.

An advance party has already arrived in the Bordeaux district, and is making necessary arrangements for opening up operations.

All companies are equipped in every detail with Canadian-made sawmills and machinery.

Work of Railway Troops.

The Government has received from general headquarters in France the following summary of the work of the Canadian railway troops for the month of April:

Broad Gauge Lines.

Miles graded	36.25
Miles located	44.75
Miles grade repaired	43.55
Miles track laid	51.50
Miles ballasted	46.45
Miles surfaced	43.67
Average number of miles maintained	60.70
Average number O. R., C.R.T., daily construction	1,597
Average number O.R., C.R.T., daily on maintenance	686
Casualties from shell fire, officers, nil, O.R.	7
Average number of British unskilled labor attached	2,660

In most cases these lines were laid over the remains of old metre gauge lines, which tended to hinder rather than help the work.

Owing to the destruction of the lines by the enemy it was necessary to do a considerable amount of bridge work.

Narrow Gauge Lines.

Miles located	57.58
Miles graded	64.98
Miles grade repaired	25.74
Miles track laid	72.89
Miles ballasted	77.84
Miles surfaced	49.63
Average number of miles maintained	60.06
Average number O.R., C.R.T., daily on construction	2,504
Average number O.R., C.R.T., daily on maintenance	1,258
Casualties from shell fire, officers three, O.R.	75
Average number of British labor attached	3,276

Weather conditions during the beginning of April were bad. In many cases building of narrow gauge railways was carried out under shell and machine gun fire, the former necessitating constant patrolling and repairing.

KAISER SUMMONED HIS CROWN COUNCIL; HOLD LONG SESSION

Conference at Berlin Indicates a Grave Emergency.

London, July 10.—The crown council called by Emperor William was held in Berlin yesterday, according to an Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam today, but no announcement as to what took place at the gathering has been made.

"The German public is very uneasy regarding the absence of news as to the decisions of the crown council which the emperor held yesterday," says the dispatch. "Only in times of greatest stress are such meetings held."

Other advices from the same source say that the meeting of the crown council lasted three hours, being one of the longest on record since July, 1914, when Emperor William signed the mobilization order that preceded the declaration of war.

The ministers of both the empire and the kingdom were in attendance, together with the members of the emperor's military and naval cabinet.

It is believed, says the dispatch, that one of the results of the council will be the introduction of a franchise bill for Prussia granting universal, direct suffrage and the secret ballot.

TO ADVERTISE CANADIAN GOODS IN FRANCE, IS RESOLUTION OF SENATE

OTTAWA, July 10.—In the Senate today a resolution offered by Senator Beaubein, urging the Government to advertise Canadian products in France by means of an exhibition train of sample goods for the purpose of obtaining for Canadian producers a larger share of the French market, especially at the cessation of hostilities, was adopted.

Senators Nicholls, McLennan, Dandurand, Croby, Bostock and Beique spoke in favor of the motion, but Senator McNeil, as a manufacturer, said this was not the time to prepare for foreign trade, as Canadian manufacturers could not get enough workmen to produce for export, and in wages Canada could not compete with Europe.

Sir James Lougheed said, in connection with the motion, that there had been too great tendency in the past to rely on Government aid, but the munitions effort had shown that Canadians, if thrown on their own resources, could respond. He promised to direct the Government's attention to the resolution.

SCOURING OF MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, July 10.—The city council has voted an appropriation of $15,000 to cover an expert inquiry by the bureau of municipal research, of New York, into the organization, methods and working of all the civic departments and services of the corporation of Montreal.

The motion was strongly opposed by Mayor Martin, who declared that it showed that the aldermen were lacking in their own confidence.

STEAMER WANT DOWN.

Ortonville, Minn., July 10.—Seven persons lost their lives when the excursion steamer Muskegon went down on Big Stone Lake, near here, tonight, during a heavy storm.

KOMOKA W. I. MEETING.

KOMOKA, July 10.—The Komoka branch of the Women's Institute will hold its regular meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Percy Seabrook. The roll call will be answered by recipes for war-time cooking. Sewing for the soldiers will follow the regular work.

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Discolored or freckled skin, so common this season, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, which is applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Greasy creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably young and healthy.

Sun, winds and flying dust often cause squinting and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every line, however caused, by using a harmless wash lotion made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.—Advt.

BATTLE OF VIMY IS GLOWING STORY AS TOLD BY OFFICIALS

Detailed Account of Task Performed by Canadians.

MOST IMPORTANT VICTORY

Withdrawal of Germans South of Aisne Rendered the Position Vital.

OTTAWA, July 10.—The following report on the operations of the Canadian Army Corps, containing a detailed description of the capture of Vimy Ridge, has been received by the Government from general headquarters in France:

The attack of the Canadian corps upon the Vimy Ridge was launched at 5:30 a.m., on the 9th of April, 1917, as part of the general British offensive delivered at that hour east of Arras. Possession of the ridge would deprive the enemy of observation into the valleys running southwest from it, and would secure for the British a commanding view of the plains to the north and east.

In view, however, of the recent German withdrawals south of Arras, the right of which rested upon this powerful position, the tactical importance of the Vimy Ridge, already great prior to the enemy's withdrawal, had been considerably increased. The capture of the ridge would imperil the German hold upon the French industrial districts.

A Wonderful Redoubt.

The enemy's defences had been organized on a scale proportionate to the importance of the position. They consisted of an extensive and intricate series of heavily wired trench systems, with numerous fire trenches and communication trenches, deep and elaborate dugouts, caves and tunnels, concrete machine gun and trench mortar emplacements, and cunningly-constructed redoubts, upon all of which the enemy had expended great labor and skill during more than two years of occupation. Along the whole front lay a chain of great craters, the product of constant mining activity.

Accordingly, prior to the Canadian corps' attack the most careful preparations had been made, both with respect to the training of personnel and the accumulation of guns, ammunition and material. The attack itself was only the culminating phase of a long and insistent offensive maintained throughout the winter, which included a large number of successful raids and destructive artillery bombardments.

Four Canadian Divisions.

The front intrusted to the Canadian corps extended from the Arras-Lens road about three-quarters of a mile north of the village of Roclincourt to a point in our old support line about 1,000 yards east of the southern portion of Souchez, a distance of about 7,000 yards. The attacking forces consisted of four Canadian divisions, with one British brigade attached to the right centre Canadian division.

The objectives included the whole of the high ground of the ridge and were deepest on the right, where the division on the right flank of the Canadian corps had to cover a distance of some four thousand yards to reach Farbus Wood. The right centre division with the British brigade attached had almost as far to go. Their objectives included the village of Thelus and the hill to the north, and reached as far as the eastern outskirts of Farbus village. The objectives of the left centre division were less deep, extending for about ½ mile beyond the steep wooded slopes along the eastern edge of the ridge. They included, however, the strongly-defended hill on which lay the ruins of La Folie Farm. The division on the left flank had the least distance to go, but their objectives included Hill 145, the highest and most formidable part of the ridge. The preparatory bombardment gradually increased in intensity as the day of assault approached.

First Objective Carried.

At 5:30 a.m. our guns suddenly opened an intense bombardment, and the infantry assault began. The long line of battalions advanced in good order immediately behind the rolling barrage maintained by our artillery. In spite of the difficult conditions of ground, much of which was reduced by the unfavorable weather of the preceding days to a succession of vast puddles of sticky mud, our first objectives were carried in scheduled time.

On the right and centre this initial success was continued, and the attack developed in strict accordance with the program. The troops re-formed on their first objectives, and at once moved forward and captured their second objectives also. In places the enemy was overpowered at once, and surrendered freely. At other points where he endeavored to hold out, his resistance was rapidly overcome by the dash and energy of the attacking troops.

On the left our troops encountered specially stiff opposition, and as the morning wore on, it became evident that a portion of the German line on the slopes of Hill 145 was still held by the enemy. This section of the German defences was very strong, with numerous underground caves and tunnels, and there is no doubt also that the enemy fought to retain this vital portion of the ridge with greater determination and higher courage than he displayed on most other parts of the front.

Events Develop Rapidly.

Meanwhile, further south, events developed with rapidity and precision. Troops detailed for the attack on the third objectives passed through those who had already completed the capture of the second, and the advance continued. The troops met with little serious opposition from the enemy's infantry. The hostile barrage also was weak, and our losses were not heavy; acts which testified to the effectiveness of our artillery preparations and support, and to the precision of our counter-battery work, aided by our aircraft, as well as to the well-timed, skilful and rapid manoeuvre of our troops.

By midday the right and right centre divisions had captured their third objectives; the left centre division, who had already reached their final objectives, were busily consolidating and pushing out patrols in accordance with their plans. At this time over two thousand German prisoners had already been reported taken.

The advance of the two right divisions and of the attached British brigade to their final objectives also took place in accordance with program. Passing through the wide belts of German wire which fringed the plateau through which our heavy artillery had broken lanes, the advancing battalions came to the steep eastern slopes of the Vimy Ridge, and were the first of the Allied troops since the German reoccupation in 1915 to look down upon the level plains of Douai. At their feet lay the villages of Farbus, Vimy and Petit Vimy, and beyond they could see Bailleul, Willerval and Oppy, Arleux and Mericourt. Here in the woods that fringed the eastern edge of the ridge we captured several batteries of German guns hastily abandoned with their ammunition.

Down Eastern Slope.

In the early afternoon except for the temporary check on the front of the left division, the complete success of the Canadian corps attack was assured, and patrols were pushing down towards the plain. Meanwhile, when ever bodies of the enemy endeavored to assemble for counter-attacks our artillery sought them out and dispersed them.

The situation of the left division alone still give trouble. Progress was made during the day by heavy fighting, and a renewal of the attack in the evening resulted in a considerable gain of ground. At night-fall, however, strong forces of the enemy still held out in the centre of the position and it was decided to postpone a further attack till the afternoon of the following day. This attack took place at 4 p.m. on the 10th of April and was entirely successful. The remainder of Hill 145 was carried, and the capture of the Canadian corps' objective was completed.

Results Stupendous.

To sum up the achievements of the Canadian corps. The whole of the Vimy Ridge, on a length of 7,000 yards and to a maximum depth of four thousand yards had been successfully captured. Many Germans had been killed, and in the principal attacks and subsequent operations a total of 4,081 prisoners, including 87 officers, had been taken, together with 63 guns of all calibres, 124 machine guns and 104 trench mortars. Our own losses were light in proportion to the results achieved.

During the succeeding days the process of pushing forward patrols across the level ground at the foot of the ridge was continued, while our artillery prepared the way for this advance and broke up parties of the enemy whenever seen. In this work the guns captured from the enemy took a useful part.

Pricking the "Pimple."

Meanwhile preparations were put in hand for an attack on a small but powerfully fortified hill, known as "The Pimple," situated just inside the German line south of the Souchez River. The operation was timed to coincide with an attack by the British division on the left of the Canadian corps upon another piece of high ground just north of the river. Its object was to deprive the enemy of observation over the slopes of Hill 145 and to gain for ourselves observation upon the areas in which the enemy would have to concentrate for any counter-attack upon the Vimy Ridge.

At 5 a.m., on the morning of the 12th of April the two battalions, which had so gallantly completed the capture of Hill 145 on the 10th of April, advanced to the assault of the Pimple. In spite of a blinding snowstorm and the muddy slopes by which it was surrounded, our attacking troops reached the German trenches, and after fierce hand-to-hand fighting with the German guards regiment that formed the garrison, captured the hill and its surrounding defences. The enemy's losses in killed were very heavy.

Victory Is Cinched.

The British division north of the Souchez River also captured their objectives, and the loss of these two positions destroyed whatever hope the enemy may have entertained of recapturing Vimy Ridge. Closely followed by our troops he hurriedly withdrew from the ground dominated by the ridge. This retreat, which was the direct and immediate result of the capture of the Vimy Ridge, continued till a wide belt of country from south of Bailleul to south of Loos, and including the villages of Bailleul, Willerval, Vimy, Petit Vimy, Givenchy, and Angres, and the town of Lievin, had passed into the possession of the British troops. In the course of this withdrawal the enemy abandoned powerful defensive positions, together with a number of guns and great quantities of war material of every kind.

His retreat did not stop until he had reached positions beyond the range of immediate observation from the ridge.

DIES IN 110TH YEAR.

Baltimore, July 11.—At the age of 110 years, Mrs. Ann Pouder, the oldest woman in Maryland, died last night at her home in this city. Until the last she retained a clear memory of the many stirring events through which she had lived. She had watched Baltimore grow from a sleepy village and had seen skyscrapers built on lots where she had romped as a girl.

An advertisement by The Bell Telephone Co. to improve two-party line service.

Do not lift the receiver before the ring is finished

Sometimes a subscriber on a two-party line, when called to the telephone, lifts his receiver off the hook before the bell has stopped ringing.

This causes the telephone of the other party on the line to ring also, disturbing him unnecessarily.

For example: when Mr. Brown asks for the number of Mr. Jones on a two-party line, the operator rings only Mr. Jones' telephone. But if Mr. Jones lifts his receiver before the ring is completed, it permits the current to pass to the other side of the line and ring the telephone of Mr. Grey.

You can make two-party line service more satisfactory by lifting the receiver only when the bell has stopped ringing.

Nuxated Iron to Make New 'Age of Beautiful Women and Vigorous Iron Men'

Say Physicians—Quickly Puts Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Most Astonishing Youthful Vitality Into the Veins of Men—It Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Nervous "Run-Down" Folks 100 Per Cent. in Two Weeks' Time.

Opinions of Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City; Dr. Howard James, late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York, and formerly Assistant Physician Brooklyn State Hospital, and Wm. R. Kerr, Former Health Commissioner, City of Chicago.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Since the remarkable discovery of organic iron, Nuxated Iron or "Fer Nuxate," as the French call it, has taken the country by storm. It is conservatively estimated that over three million people annually are taking it in this country alone. Most astonishing results are reported from its use by both physicians and laymen. So much so that doctors predict that we shall soon have a new age of far more beautiful, rosy-cheeked women and vigorous iron men.

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author, when interviewed on this subject, said: "There can be no vigorous iron men without iron. Pallor means anaemia. Anaemia means iron deficiency. The skin of anaemic men and women is pale; the flesh flabby. The muscles lack tone; the brain fags and the memory fails and often they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and melancholy. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks.

"In the most common foods of America, the starches, sugars, table syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soda crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farina, degerminated cornmeal, no longer is iron to be found. Refining processes have removed the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and silly methods of home cookery, by throwing down the waste pipe the water in which our vegetables are cooked, are responsible for another grave iron loss.

"Therefore, if you wish to preserve your youthful vim and vigor to a ripe old age, you must supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron, just as you would use salt when your food has not enough salt."

"Former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr of the city of Chicago says: "I have taken Nuxated Iron myself and experienced its health-giving strength-building effect, and in the interest of public welfare, I feel it my duty to make known the results of its use. I am within past three score years, and want to say that I believe my own great physical activity is largely due today to my personal use of Nuxated Iron. From my own experience with Nuxated Iron, I feel it is such a valuable remedy that it should be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician in this country."

Dr. E. Sauer, a Boston physician who has studied both in this country and in great European medical institutions, said: "I have said a hundred times over, organic iron is the greatest of all strength builders."

"Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of twenty and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact, a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret, he said, was taking iron—Nuxated Iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 he was careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 after taking Nuxated Iron, a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking. Just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, rundown people who were ailing all the while double their strength and endurance and entirely rid themselves of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit.

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

Dr. Howard James, late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York, and formerly Assistant Physician, Brooklyn State Hospital, said: "Nuxated Iron is a most surprising remedy. A patient of mine remarked to me (after having been on a six weeks' course of it) 'SAY, DOCTOR, THAT THERE STUFF IS LIKE MAGIC.' Previous to using Nuxated Iron I had been prescribing the various mineral salts of iron for years, only to meet complaints of discolored teeth, disturbed digestion, tied-up, hardened secretions, etc., when I came across Nuxated Iron, an elegant, ingenious preparation containing organic iron, which has no destructive action on the teeth—no corrosive effect on the stomach, and which is readily assimilated into the blood and quickly makes its presence felt in increased vigor, snap and staying power. It enriches the blood, brings roses to the cheeks of women and is an unfailing source of renewed vitality, endurance and power to men who burn up too rapidly their nervous energy in the strenuous strain of the great business competition of the day."

NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians in such a great variety of cases, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians both in Europe and America. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in nuxated iron, that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron, and increase their strength 100 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Standard Drug Company, Limited, and all good druggists.

MAKERS OF PAPER REFUSED TO SUPPLY FIRM IN ST. THOMAS

Representative of Company Forced to Capitulate.

SOME TALL PROFITEERING

Wide Differences Between the Cost and Price to Overcome War Tax.

OTTAWA, July 10.—Further evidence of some pretty tall profits on sulphite and ground wood with an insight into the way the manufacturers compute the cost, frequently with the use of arbitrary figures, was given at the afternoon session today of the inquiry into the cost and selling prices of these ingredients entering into making of newsprint paper.

Three witnesses were examined, representing the Donnaconna Paper Company, the Laurentide Paper Company and the Beigo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Company. In regard to the Laurentide company it was shown that last year they sold over 23,000 tons of sulphite in the United States at a profit per ton of almost $20 on a cost price per ton of $35. As high as $97 per ton had been received, it was admitted by the company's represenative. In regard to ground wood it was shown that the same firm had sold for $35 a ton, material that had cost $20 and less per ton to produce. And in computing the cost of sulphite it was stated that the war taxes of he last three years amounting to $20,000 in 1914, to $120,000 last year, had been taken into account.

"Striking Difference."

During the afternoon while the figures were being considered, Commissioner Pringle said he couldn't understand why there was such a big difference in the cost and selling figures arrived at by the accountants of the American Federal Trade Commission after a tour of Canadian plants and the higher figures turned in by the Canadian manufacturers in their statements. The commissioner described the difference as "very striking," and H. A. Stewart, K.C., Government counsel, agreed with him, expressing the opinion that it would surprise him much if the American accountants did not succeed in upholding their findings if they came before the commissioner. Mr. Stewart said they had gone very thoroughly into the subject and he suggested to the commissioner that an effort be made to have them come to Ottawa to testify. The commissioner said he would like to have them come. Gordon MacDougall, K.C., of Montreal, who represented some of the manufacturers, interjected the remark that his information was that the chairman of the federal trade commission had resigned in protest against the figures arrived at by the members.

Deny St. Thomas Paper.

One interesting illustration of the determination of Commissioner Pringle to see that the newspapers got a supply of newsprint at the price laid down by the minister of finance was furnished when H. Biermans, president of the Belgo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Company of Shawinigan Falls, appeared to speak in support of the firm's statement of costs. The commissioner taxed him with writing a letter to the Evening Review of Peterborough, declining to supply paper, and also with having similarly declined to supply paper to the Journal of St. Thomas, Ont., and the Gazette of Barrie, all Ontario publications.

It was explained that these papers had been getting the Belgo-Canadian product through selling agencies, but that they had decided to take advantage of the Government rate of $50 a ton and get it f. o. b. the mill. The objection of Mr. Biermans to supply it direct seemed to be because of the small quantities required. But when Commissioner Pringle had informed him that under the order-in-council these publishers were entitled to get the paper, Mr. Biermans capitulated and said he would wire his firm to supply it.

The inquiry continues tomorrow.

BODY OF GORGE VICTIM RECOVERED FROM RAPIDS

NIAGARA FALLS, July 10.—The first body of the victims of the Gorge Route trolley accident of July 1 was recovered last night from the whirlpool rapids, and identified as that of Frank C. Gorska, 22 years of age, whose home is in Chicago. His brother, Stanley, who was with him on the death car and escaped with minor injuries, has remained at the Falls since the accident, and identified the remains, which will be taken to Chicago this afternoon. The body was in excellent condition and fully clothed, with even the tiepin, watch and ring in place, which is very unusual in cases of bodies which have gone through the rapids. A. Cody of this city recovered the body.

TWELVE BATTALIONS OF FOE'S SHOCKERS BEATEN BY FRENCH

Another Attempt at Chemin-des-Dames Is Slaughter.

FRENCH YIELD AT FIRST

A Quickly-Organized Counter-Attack Fills Trenches With Dead Foemen.

FRENCH FRONT IN FRANCE, Monday, July 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The French troops holding the sector of the Chemin-des-Dames, to the south of Filain, although drenched to the skin and mud covered from head to foot, were full of confidence and cheerfulness today when the correspondent went among them. They had just repulsed an attack of the most formidable nature, in which the Germans sustained shocking losses without obtaining more than a temporary foothold in these constantly contested positions.

The sector in question comprises the Pantheon farm, astride the Chemin-des-Dames, and is menaced at all times, because of the domination of it by the ancient Fort-de-Malmalson, which is in the hands of the Germans. Early this morning the Germans opened a most intense bombardment of the French lines, and while the hurricane of shells was still falling a German force, comprising from ten to twelve infantry battalions, made a sudden rush into the French positions.

Yield Before Shock.

A brigade of the French Chasseurs-a-Pied had occupied the sector and was holding the line firmly. The Frenchmen, however, were forced to fall back before the overwhelming numbers which followed on the heels of the German shock units, brought specially from other points of the line to lead the attack.

The Germans apparently considered their success certain, as they brought with them quantities of barbed wire, trench mortars, boxes of grenades and flame-throwers, and everything necessary to the rapid organization of the captured position, which, if held, would give them command of a large section of the Chemin-des-Dames.

They failed, however, to take the French spirit into their reckoning. Immediately after a slight recoil the French chasseurs, aided by engineers and reservists, employed in roadmaking in the rear, organized counter-attacks, and, despite the most desperate resistance, ejected or killed most of the German interlopers, capturing large quantities of their material and re-establishing the line almost entirely.

German Dead Choke Trenches.

Hand-to-hand fighting with grenades and bayonets was still proceeding when the correspondents left this evening. While the shell craters and communication trenches were encumbered with many German dead, many of their wounded were engulfed in the waist-deep mud, caused by the recent extremely heavy rain. The French losses were severe, but nothing to those sustained by the Germans.

Six Frenchmen who were captured and taken to the second German line attacked the sentry who was guarding them, escaped and returned to the French lines. In the course of the fighting a young German who had raised his arms in token of surrender threw two grenades, which he had hidden in the palms of his hands, among his would-be captors as they approached him.

In general the fighting was so desperate throughout the action that few prisoners were taken by either side.

FOE DISPERSED BEFORE REACHING FRENCH LINE.

PARIS, July 10.—The Germans returned to the attack on the Aisne front last night and again met with defeat, the war office reports. A strong assault on the French positions at Hurtebiz Monument and the Dragon was repelled. The attacking waves suffered severely and were unable to reach the French lines. Local attacks at Laffaux Mill, Ailles, Corbeny, Courcy and Auberive were unsuccessful. The French took prisoners.

The statement follows:

"Yesterday evening the enemy's bombardment reached a degree of violence in different sectors of the Aisne front. Local attacks on trenches north of the Laffaux mill and southeast of Ailles were repulsed by our fire. Further east, at about 9:30 p.m., the enemy made a strong attack on our positions at the Hurtebiz monument and the Dragon. His effort was in vain. Unablbe to approach our line, the enemy troops were dispersed, suffering severely.

"Surprise attacks on advanced posts southeast of Corbeny, in the vicinity of Courcy, in the sector of Auberive, and near Caurieres wood, cost the enemy losses and gave him no result. A certain number of prisoners remained in our hands. The night was calm everywhere else."

LIVELY ACTION IN BELGIUM.

The official statement issued by the war office tonight reads:

"West of Froidmont farm an enemy surprise attack on one of our small posts was repulsed. The artillery was quite active in the region of Moronvillers and the sector of Hill 304-Le Mort Homme.

"Belgian communication: 'In the night the enemy attempted to approach our advanced post south of St. Georges, but was repulsed. The artillery activity was quite marked along the front this morning; in the afternoon very lively action occurred from Nieuport as far south as Dixmude. It was less intense near Steenstraete and Hetsas. Yesterday the German artillery shelled various localities behind our front and found some victims among the civilian population.'"

FRENCH ATTACKS REPULSED.

BERLIN, July 10.—The German official statement says:

"Along the Chemin-des-Dames the intensity of the artillery fire increased. Partial attacks by the French south of Courtecon and southeast of Cerny last night were repulsed.

"Nothing important occurred on the front of Duke Albrecht."

"LOG CABIN CAMP LIFE."

The log cabin camps that the Grand Trunk operate in Algonquin Park have become one of the popular features in this Government reserve. To put camps of this kind deep in the heart of the wilderness, and touch the wild life of the forest and lake with a most acceptable bit of civilization in the form of grate fires, hot and cold running water, bath tubs and inside toilet arrangements, is decidedly a feat worthy to be spoken of when summer resorts are mentioned. ANOTHER UNKNOWN BODY TAKEN FROM DETROIT

AMHERSTBURG, July 10.—The body of an unknown man was picked up by Capt. Fred Haines in the Detroit River near here. The remains had evidently been in the water for some time.

Capt. Haines brought the body to local undertaking rooms, where an inquest will be conducted by Coroner Dr. Fred Park.

The work of paving Sandwich street, from the courthouse to the railroad crossing, is well under way. This work, when completed, will make more than a mile of paved road. Joel Craig has been appointed inspector of the work.

UNUSUALLY HEAVY CROPS.

ILDERTON, July 10.—The farmers have been busy cultivating and hoeing for the past week, but the recent heavy rains put a stop to the work for some time. Little hay has been cut as yet, and it will be two weeks later than usual before haying is in full swing.

Fall wheat and spring crops are so heavy that they will probably lodge badly in many places unless dry weather comes now. Hay is so heavy a crop in some fields that it is now badly lodged. The farmers are wishing for a few weeks of fine, dry weather, as the labor problem is acute.

ROWELL CALLS ALL TO DO THEIR PART IN CRISIS' HOUR

Ontario Leader Delivers a Stirring Address at Harrington Anniversary.

STRATFORD, July 10.—N. W. Rowell, Liberal leader in Ontario, was the principal speaker at the 60th anniversary tea at Knox Church, Harrington, on Monday evening, and in a thoughtful address he put the duty of Canada in the present hour clearly before the audience.

"We in Canada have enjoyed fifty years of peace and prosperity," he declared. "Sheltered behind the British navy and army, we have not felt our responsibility to take a man's part in the world's affairs, but this war has forced upon us the fact that we must now take a nation's part. This is just as much Canada's war as it is Britain's war, and we are in it by the will of the Parliament of the Dominion. There is no responsibility resting on England or France that does not rest fully as much on Canada."

Mr. Rowell quoted figures to show that had Canada sent men in the same proportion as Australia, New Zealand and some other colonies, she would have another 200,000 men. Canada, he said, had profited more and suffered less than any of the colonies.

What Is Canada to Do?

"The question today is what is Canada going to do about it?" declared Mr. Rowell. "Is she going to pull down her flag and quit? Not if I know the feeling of Canadians. We may differ in method, and if we do, we should not condemn those who differ from us. If ever there was a time when men should do their duty to God and their country it is now. We need more men; we must have more men, and my own personal opinion is that the only way to get them is by selective draft. We do not like compulsory methods. Scotland and England did not like them, and accepted them only because they were necessary. We must be true to our convictions. It is because all down through history men have been true to their convictions that victories have been won, and I believe victory will come to us only if we stand by them. In the great Armageddon victory is bound to come, because right will triumph, and out of this great travail of bloodshed and destruction will be born a glorious future. Let every one of us in our own sphere play our part so that fifty years hence our children will have cause to thank God for the noble men who in this hour of crisis did their duty."

BRITISH POSITIONS ON FLANDERS COAST HEAVILY BOMBARDED

LONDON, July 10.—The official statement from British headquarters in France, issued tonight, reads:

"Last night we entered enemy trenches in the neighborhood of Nieuport and inflicted casualties on the garrison. Southeast of Havrincourt and east of Monchy-le-Preux (southeast of Arras) hostile raiding parties were driven off.

"We advanced our lines slightly east of Oosttaverne, one mile northeast of Wytschaete. South of the Ypres-Comines Canal we carried out a successful raid. We captured some prisoners.

"The enemy artillery was very active all day against our positions on the coast. Towards evening the fire of his artillery reached a pitch of great intensity. Our artillery is replying vigorously.

"Bad weather again prevented aerial operations by either side yesterday."

FRENCH TAG DAY.

DORCHESTER, July 10. — The local Red Cross Circle is planning for a tag day on Saturday, July 14, to aid the French, who are sorely in need of money for medicine and supplies for their military hospitals. It is in these hospitals that the seriously wounded Canadian boys are temporarily kept until their condition is such that they can with safety be taken to England. Dorchester citizens are asked to respond liberally to this appeal.

MR. ACWORTH'S REAL VIEWS.

"Now, I am no foe of government railways. On the contrary, I believe that in countries with a population less self-reliant than ours, such a policy is necessary. In a country with a bureaucracy as well trained and as well organized as that of Prussia it may even be desirable. But a careful study of the evidence has convinced me that in the long run state control ends in keeping down the best to the level of the worst, and that taking them all for all the private railways of England and the United States have served the public better than the government railways of the continent or of our Australian colonies, and are likely to serve it better in the future."—From a report of a recent address given in England by W. M. Acworth.

SO IT SEEMS that after all Mr. Acworth is in favor of government ownership of railways only where the people lack self-reliance. Is this the reason the Borden administration secured him to report on Canada's railways? And is this the reason he reported, as the Government appeared to wish? In Prussia government-owned railways are desirable, because the people are accustomed to being kicked around by the Government, and in England they are not desirable because the people have common-sense. "Taking them all for all the private railways have served the public better than the government railways and are likely to serve it better in the future," so Mr. Acworth admits at home. In Canada, where the people lack self-reliance, he has another story to tell.

The railway question is expected to come before Parliament after the conscription measure is disposed of. The administration appears to be committed to a policy which will take the railways out of private control, and "in the long run keep down the best to the level of the worst." If the people lack self-reliance this is surely what will happen.

In the meantime English journals are wondering if the Canadian people will tolerate a policy which is little short of confiscatory and which will make British capital timid as to future Canadian investments. "The Canadian railway problem continues to arouse much discussion in financial circles in this country," is comment by Canada, of London, England, "and it is well that it should be known in the Dominion that much criticism has been levelled at the scheme. The financial editor of the Observer, in referring to the subject, considered it 'extremely unlikely that the Canadian Government would deliberately injure its own interests, as it would do if anything approaching a confiscatory policy were adopted,' and said that 'the more the majority report was examined, the more remarkable it appeared to be.'" The writer expresses hope that nothing will be done that would tend to alienate British investors, or imperil their justifiable confidence in the safety of British capital invested in the Dominion.

The majority report of the Government's commission, signed by Mr. Acworth and Sir Henry Drayton, favored Government ownership of all the roads, with the exception of the C.P.R. The minority report, signed by President A. H. Smith of the New York Central Railroad, favored a reorganization of the railways in such a way as to make them self-sustaining.

Are the people of Canada so lacking in self-reliance that they will submit to the pernicious policy recommended in the majority report?

GIVE THEM MANNA.

COULD not airplanes be increasingly used not only for reprisals and destruction of works in Germany, but also for the spread of useful information in that benighted land of kultur? All over darkest Germany, particularly Rhenish Prussia and eastern Prussia, which are near the frontiers, paper bombs of assorted knowledge might be dropped almost as regularly as newspapers and breakfast. These capsules of condensed education would perhaps do much good, especially from now on, when the German mind is growing more receptive to external light as the lines held by the Huns recede.

Photographs of German prisoners in England, of British ports and shipping doing the usual business in spite of all submarine attacks, and of American mobilizations when they come should be of interest to Fritz. Self-damaging statements of all sorts, as they drop from the lips of Germans in authority every now and then, admissions as to whose war this is, who really made it, their designs, foreign and domestic, such stuff as this might be distributed in the greatest possible circulation.

Such a literature would supplement and correct very usefully the native German press. It might even injure the circulation of the native article, as it would be absolutely free of charge to all customers. Bits of moral and religious instruction, social uplift, etc., might advantageously be worked in for the improvement of the enemy's character and temper.

It is true the German officials would do their best to combat this sort of campaign. In Belgium it is strictly prohibited even to pick up any literature dropped from Allied planes. But it must be very difficult to prevent people from doing this, although there is the chance that the police-tamed Huns themselves may need nothing more than the mere official prohibition to keep their hands from the bulletins of the Allies. Let us trust the German women for curiosity enough to persuade their lords and masters, as Eve tempted Adam, to stop, look, touch, read, mark and inwardly digest the fallen fruit of the Tree of Knowledge.

A SAD TALE.

ACCORDING to some Conservative papers, there is a sad state of affairs in Saskatchewan. This is nothing less than the control of the province by pro-Germans and other foreigners. Of course, it would have been otherwise if the Liberals had not won in the recent election. But, alas!

One newspaper heads its report of the election thus: "Pro-German Victory in Saskatchewan," and proceeds: "The results of the election in Pheasant Hills, Saltcoats and Yorkton will probably show that the Conservative candidates have lost their deposits. Government canvassers in Pheasant Hills, English-speaking and foreign alike, used conscription as the leverage. With the foreigners pity can be granted for their ignorance, but for the English-speaking the curs have desecrated the graves of the dead Canadians in Flanders and France."

The Moose Jaw News is not quite so decided in its tone, but it says this: "Regina returned Premier Martin by nearly 900 majority. Still what could you expect of Germantown?"

Another weekly paper carries a big black line as follows: "Saskatchewan's foreign Government returned with big majority on the 26th."

With such complete evidence at hand from the undisputable source of his own newspapers, it appears about time for Hon. Robert Rogers to rise in his righteous patriotism and wipe the west off the map, unless he can induce it to change its politics.

LOSS BY FIRE.

CONSERVATION of resources. The phrase is becoming almost tiresome because of the insistency with which it is brought before the notice of the whole nation, and yet the importance of the subject warrants all the publicity which can be given it, and never more so than in this year.

Periodically statistics are given out regarding the loss Canada and the United States suffer by reason of forest fires, frequently due to carelessness. But there is another fearful annual loss from fire which costs this northern half of America dearly; that is the loss of buildings and contents. The figures covering this are startling in their magnitude, especially those dealing with the United States. The statement of the chairman of the actuarial bureau, given before a recent meeting of the United States National Board of Fire Underwriters, shows that in 1916 the insurance companies paid claims on this kind of fire amounting to $223,487,611. The claims totalled 397,000, or about three fires in every four minutes. As the average loss was approximately $565, the loss for each minute of the year was $424. This does not include loss of buildings or contents where no insurance was carried.

In Canada the total loss for the same kind of blaze, computed from the claims paid, was $13,670,527 in 1915; the figures for 1916 were not available, but were probably in excess of those for the preceding year. This total works out at $26 a minute.

The reason for the much greater loss per head of population in the United States, $2.26, as against $1.75 in Canada, is probably the greater numbers of large cities, where fire is more liable to break out, and does much more damage when once started.

When one tries to picture the destruction of timber, steel, bricks, etc., which is included in the loss of all this property, the result is appalling. Labor is engaged in rebuilding which could be utilized profitably in production of other necessities, and the forests and mines must be depleted to replace their destroyed products.

How can this terrible loss be reduced? Nearly every town or city has its efficient fire department to cope with outbreaks. Sometimes the efficiency of these could be increased by the addition of more men or apparatus, but the expense is too often viewed with alarm by the governing bodies. Perhaps individual care could do more good than anything else, and it may be that in the near future an educational campaign with this as an object will be launched.

SMITH (late head shopwalker at Peter Brown and Robinson's): "Kamerad Department? Thank you—just step this way, please!" From London Opinion.

Chairman Smithers on Proposed Nationalization

Sir,—Mr. Chamberlin, the president of the company, has already issued a statement to the press containing facts and figures which go far to refute the conclusions arrived at by the majority report of the railway commission, a report which undoubtedly was likely to injure the credit and do a great injustice to the Grand Trunk Railway at any time, but infinitely more likely in the midst of a great crisis caused by the most terrible war in history. It has been strongly urged on me by influential people in Canada, not railwaymen, that Mr. Chamberlin's reply appeals to the man of technical knowledge, but that a more general statement as to the position of the Grand Trunk, and what it has done for Canada, is necessary to enable the people at large to judge of the injustice done, however unintentionally, to the Grand Trunk Company.

The Grand Trunk Railway was commenced in 1853, and built by British labor, British engineers and British capital. Every yard of rail, every bit of metal required for the bridges, the locomotive stock and the rolling stock, all came from England. It is almost impossible to realize now the primitive state of things existing at that time or to over-estimate the skill and resource shown by the first directors of the company in overcoming unexpected obstacles entirely out of the company's own resources. Stress is only laid on all this to show how truly the name of the pioneer railroad of Canada, as applied to the Grand Trunk, can be justified. British capital commenced it, British capital built it, and British capital has maintained it until the present day.

The company have had to meet the many and continued improvements that have been introduced in railway management during the last 65 years. Since the present board took office in 1895 every bridge on the system has been rebuilt, including the bridge over the St. Lawrence. The present magnificent structure provides a double-track line and also a line for the Montreal and Southern Counties Railway, and a roadway for vehicular traffic, in place of the single-track tubular bridge built by Robert Stephenson. A new sincle-arch double-track bridge has also been built over the Niagara River to replace the old suspension bridge. The international bridge at Buffalo has also been rebuilt, a portion of it being double-tracked. One thousand one hundred miles of line have been double-tracked, heavier rails have been put down, engines of ever-increasing power have been built, and new and larger passenger and freight cars have been continually provided. The line from Montreal to Toronto and Chicago has been double-tracked, and laid for the greater part with 100-pound rails, thus enabling with the rebuilding of the bridges the most modern and powerful locomotives to be used. The speed, safety and comfort with which travelers are conveyed on this important route will compare favorably with any railway on the continent. A new station has been built at Ottawa, and the Union Station at Toronto, the company's new hotel, its universally acknowledged as a great benefit and improvement to the capital. The company, in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific, is building a new and important station at Toronto. In addition, the innumerable requirements of modern railway management have been assiduously cared for throughout the system.

In the sixty-five years of the Company's existence it has never defaulted on its fixed charges, notwithstanding that in that period a great number of the American railways have several times been in bankruptcy and that in 1895 when the present Board took office, nearly half of the American roads were then in the hands of receivers; it has maintained its standing on the London market, thus being able to finance on its own credit the many and various requirements of and for the people of Canada. That the credit of the Grand Trunk Company stands high in the London market may be gathered from the fact that it was able with the consent of the British Treasury to raise in June, 1915, in the midst of war on unaided Grand Trunk credit the sum of twelve million, five hundred thousand dollars in five hours, and that on the day on which that operation was carried out, the Germans were bombarding Scarboro on the Yorkshire coast, and telegraphic communication was stopped for several hours between London and the North of England. With regard to the criticism as to undue payment of dividends, the Grand Trunk common stock of which over thirty million dollars represents actual cash, has never received a dividend, and its preference stocks have only had their dividends paid intermittently from year to year as the earnings justified.

The increase in Grand Trunk capital raised in London since the present Board came into office amounts to nearly $150,000,000, which was all raised at a little over four per cent. It is not too much to say that if this money had been raised in New York it would have cost at least one per cent per annum more and would have resulted today in a total extra liability for fixed charges of nearly $1,500,000 per annum. The Grand Trunk capital at present amounts in round figures to $430,000,000 practically the whole of which is held in Great Britain.

Over this period of sixty-five years, during which the Grand Trunk Railway has been serving the ever growing needs of Canada, the total assistance received from the Government of Canada has been only $28,000,000 of which about $12,000,000 represents bonuses given by municipalities to aid in the construction of lines subsequently acquired by the Grand Trunk and of which this company really never got the benefit. This compares according to the majority report of the commission with $347,000,000 received by the Canadian Pacific in thirty-five years of which amount $119,000,000 represents the value estimated by the Company of the lands still unsold, and $298,000,000 received by the Canadian Northern in fifteen years, and $114,000,000 received by the Grand Trunk Pacific in fifteen years.

In 1903, Mr. Hays, the then General Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, was anxious to open up connection with the Northwest and proposed to build a line from North Bay to Winnipeg and the Pacific coast. The Government of that day on being approached wished, however, to build a second transcontinental line, taking in Quebec, and proposed that a line should be built from Moncton connecting therewith from Halifax and St. John by the Intercolonial Railway, through Quebec, and the northerly part of Ontario, to Winnipeg, Edmonton and a port on the Pacific coast.

In 1903 and 1904, bills were introduced into Parliament to carry out this project. The Government undertook to build the line from Moncton to Winnipeg, to be called the Transcontinental, and the Grand Trunk Company, with the assistance of the Government, to build the line from Winnipeg to the Pacific coast, to be called the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The Grand Trunk Pacific was to be divided into two portions, the prairie section, extending from Winnipeg to a point 120 miles west of Edmonton; the mountain section, to extend from that point across the Rockies to Prince Rupert on the Pacific. The estimated cost of the prairie section was $20,000 per mile, of which the Government were to guarantee bonds up to $13,000 per mile. They were also to guarantee bonds on the mountain section up to three-fourths of its actual cost, which were to be free of interest to the company for seven years from the date of completion of the line.

The effect of this extensive railway building, in addition to that undertaken by the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian Northern Railway, was to produce a state of great general prosperity and huge speculation in real estate grew up all over the country. This state of prosperity and the speculation consequent on it raised the price of land, labor and materials, and thus the cost of building the Grand Trunk Pacific was increased far beyond the amount estimated when the acts of 1903 and 1904 were passed. The causes of the increase were obviously beyond the control of the company. This increased cost has brought both the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern Railway into financial difficulties, which have been aggravated by the effect on the money markets of the world of the terrible war now raging in Europe. Notwithstanding that the position is at present one of difficulty, it is some satisfaction to remember that all the great lines with one exception, that have opened up new territory to the Pacific on the North American continent, even in times of peace, have always been ahead of requirements, and have passed through periods of financial difficulty. The reassuring fact to remember is the rapidity with which in nearly every case the development of the country has overcome the critical period and justified the assistance given. The Government of the day, some thirty-five years ago, assisted the Canadian Pacific in their vital crisis with conspicuous success. The majority report of the royal commission now proposes that in consideration of the Grand Trunk Pacific being taken over by the Government, the old Grand Trunk, as one of the parties to the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific, should be surrendered to the Government on terms amounting to the semi-confiscation of the rights of British stockholders. In other words, they suggest that the pioneer railway of Canada, which out of its own resources has rendered far more service to Canada than any other railway, should be the only railway to be treated in this unjust way, a way certainly unprecedented in the history of Canada. In addition to having carried the largest traffic in its history during the last year, the Grand Trunk, at the request of the Government, has undertaken considerable orders for munitions, and the work has received high approval. With such a record after nearly three years of war, was it right or just that a report should be issued which must, if it was believed, have seriously hurt the credit of a great company?

Anyone reading the majority commission report will find, so far as the Grand Trunk is concerned, no reference to the fact that we are in the midst of the greatest war in history, that in consequence of the demands of that war, it has been impossible to obtain adequate supplies, coal, engines, rolling stock or rails, and that by common consent Canada has just passed through one of the severest winters in its history. The officials of the company are prepared to substantiate the fact that the congestion on the Grand Trunk Railway was less than on the American railways on the frontier, and on the other Canadian railways, and that notwithstanding the congestion, the company carried in that time the biggest traffic that it has ever carried. As one proof of the difficulty to obtain material, 20,000 tons of rail were due to be delivered to the company in May, 1916, but up to date only 2,500 tons have been delivered, and the company has had to make a special and urgent appeal to the Canadian Government to allow the mills to suspend the manufacture of steel for munitions for the purpose of rolling five thousand or six thousand tons of rail to take care of immediate requirements. Locomotives have been ordered at prices varying from $45,000 to $50,000, or more than double the cost prevailing before the war, and freight and coal cars at an even greater price. It is almost, if not quite impossible, for people who are on the outside of practical railway management to realize the difficulties that have to be continually faced under modern conditions. This was true in pre-war time. It is doubly true today, not only in the financial and other ways I have mentioned, but also in the increasing demands arising from the war, such as the carrying of troops, munitions and war supplies of all kinds, and above all this, the loss of the services of the large number of the company's men who have nobly volunteered for service at the front. Nothing has been more vital in the prosecution of the war than the wonderful work of the railways. Nowhere has more devoted service been given than by the officers and men of the railways in Canada, Great Britain and France. I am sure adverse criticism of railway management at the present time can only be made by those possessing a very imperfect knowledge of the situation which the railways have had to face during nearly three years of unexampled war conditions.

I have tried to make a plain and straightforward statement in defence of the interests which I have the honor to represent. We are all experiencing a time of extraordinary stress and difficulty, and I have omitted many arguments which, while they would have brought more clearly before the people of Canada the strength of the Grand Trunk case, still might have created annoyance or ill-feeling in some quarters, which in the unprecedented conditions now existing in Canada and the world it is a patriotic duty to avoid. I wish here to express my gratitude to the many people in Canada who have expressed their sympathy with the Grand Trunk, and to the great majority of the Canadian press for its sympathetic attitude towards the pioneer railway of Canada. In conclusion, I beg to publicly express to the officers and staff of the Grand Trunk Railway the board's appreciation and my own, of the loyal devotion and work, which they have displayed during a period of many and great difficulties, and I beg respectfully to assure the people of Canada in the name of everyone connected with the Grand Trunk Railway, that we highly appreciate the kindly feeling and sympathy that has been shown to us, and to assure them that our efforts in the future, as in the past, will be to render them every service in our power.

Yours faithfully,
ALFRED W. SMITHERS,
Chairman.

THE CLINGING VINE.
Ruth Jennings.

"You know, Nora, of course, it's none of my business, but you're my sister and I hate to see you simply wilting in this atmosphere. Why, you weren't a bit like this before you were married. I don't see what you can be thinking of—a girl of your type to simply turn into a married clinging vine."

Joceiyn pushed back her hair from her forehead, pulled it out deftly at the side of her ears and poked in a couple of refractory hairpins. She had been visiting the Davisons only two days. It was the first visit since Nora's marriage fourteen months before. When parents in New York and one's family resides in Nebraska, social calls between the two are not frequent. There had been no sign of any change as far as Nora's letters went. At least, they had breathed happiness and contentment. It was this very contentment that Jocelyn could not understand. Nora had gone through the little local college with such high hopes of a career. She had wanted to take a special course in agriculture and forestry and go in for what Jocelyn loved to call "inverted" farming. Instead, she had married Temple Davison, a traveling man handling a line of harvesters for a Chicago firm. After their marriage Temple had been given the New York agency and they had prospered.

"And it would have been a good deal better for you," Jocelyn had told them in her blunt way, "if you had not been so successful. I can't get Nora to walk two blocks without having her complain of being tired. She has to 'phone over for the car even when she does her marketing. Nora, you're positively flabby. If Temple had been poor and you had had to put your shoulder to the wheel and help, it would have done you a world of good."

"But Temple doesn't think it right for a married woman to work if the husband has the means to support her."

"Then," said Jocelyn, promptly, "he should have married the doll type of woman, and not my sister. Nora, do you forget that your grandmother was a pioneer?"

Nora sat in front of her dressing table, in the very daintiest of negligees, her chin, propped on her hands, frowning anxiously at the pretty face that mirrored discontent. She was much smaller in stature than her sister and she had pale blonde curly hair and a delicate, finely featured face. She could not help but be bothered by Jocelyn's arguments, although she kept telling herself that she had only done what Temple had wished. But Jocelyn was getting on so wonderfully in her chosen work that she could not help but envy her her independence. That was what she missed, her own independence. Her whole life turned on the pivot of what was going to please Temple. She measured every standard and rule of life by that, and still within the last few months she had felt there was something lacking in their happiness.

Not that Temple had said anything to her, only when the monthly statements had come in from various stores where she had her accounts, he had seemed worried over them. Of course, it was spring, and she had increased her summer wardrobe with a rather lavish hand. But a man would not understand about that. She thought of the letter she had received from Temple that morning. He had gone to the home office in Chicago for a week.

"I'm afraid that we shall have to go a bit slow this summer, sweetheart; they're cutting me down on my commissions and I hardly think we shall have dividends on either of the stocks this year on account of the war. I hate to ask you to be careful in money matters, but I've really not told you the worst for fear of worrying you, and I know I can swing it alone. Just try to stand it this year, and I'll make it up to you with a bully new car for your birthday."

It suddenly dawned upon her that Temple had never discussed any of his little worries or troubles with her. He had surely tried to make her pathway one of roses, and as Joycelyn talked a curious sense of unfairness dawned on her. She was not naturally indolent, she had loved her studies and ambitions. It was only that she thought she was doing the right thing, doing just exactly what Temple would have wished, in giving up all her own projects to be his wife. She glanced over at the little boudoir desk in the corner. A new batch of bills had come in that very morning, and she had not even opened them, intending to forward them on to Temple. After a few moments she asked quietly:

"What would you do if you were in my place?"

Jocelyn swung around on one heel, eagerly.

"Do?" she repeated. "Start right in where you left off. Don't you know at this time there is the biggest call for many women as well as men to go in for agriculture, for anything that means conservation of supplies. That's what I'm going in for just as soon as I get back home. Since dad died and the place came into our hands Uncle Ted has done as he pleased. I'm of age now, and it's up to us to do as we please, for a change. The real reason why I came on was to get your consent to a scheme I have. I want to run the place myself on a fifty-fifty basis with you. I'm not going to do anything except raise crops on it and put in hogs—"

"Hogs!" repeated Nora, a bit faintly.

"Hogs!" firmly. "There's lots of money in them if they're raised properly, even if they're not romantic."

"I wasn't thinking of that," said Nora. "I'm going back with you to help you run it."

Nora did not write to Temple until she was fairly on her way west. Perhaps he learned more of her real nature from that letter than he had ever known before.

"I love you with all my heart and soul. You know that. But I simply can't bear being the clinging vine, especially now that your own work is slacking up. I know you would never let me do this if I asked your consent, but with the chance that you may be called to the colors any time, I can't bear to sit with idle hands. I've left the apartment as it is, but the Hardings would like to rent it furnished on a lease if you care to do so."

The letter reached Temple just as he was arranging to leave for the East. As he read it a great load of anxiety lifted from his mind. The home office had just told him what his work was liable to be. With a big government order for field tractors on hand, they had offered him the managership of this department. In a way, it would be government service, and Temple had felt the temptation to take it, because it would keep him near Nora. Yet, he had felt almost a subconscious resentment against her. Because she was the clinging, dependent type, his very love fettered him when he wanted most to be free and go with the other men of his old company guard. Now she herself had made the way open for them both. He felt a rush of admiration for her and sudden confidence that he had never known before.

As Nora stepped from the train at her little home station the girl operator came from the telegraph office with a yellow envelope in her hand.

"For you, Mrs. Davidson," she said.

Nora opened it and handed it to Jocelyn with a little proud smile. "I'm with you in anything that you do and wherever you go." Signed, "Temple."

"He'd never have sent that to a clinging vine," said Jocelyn. "That's to his mate standing shoulder to shoulder with him."

A PAGE OF GENERAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

Common Sense Talks For My Pretty Lady

Making a toilet may be the simplest matter in the world. Soap and water and a towel, a brush, comb and nail-cleaner, are the only necessities for leaving one immaculate. But, oh, the little luxuries which may be added thereto, for our body's betterment and our soul's satisfaction! Luxuries do not necessarily mean the expenditure of over-generous sums of money. A little thought of one's comfort and convenience will enable one to evolve many so-called luxuries from prosaic materials at hand.

Of course, a dressing table is the very platitude of luxuries, yet it is surprising how many women get along without its friendly aid. To sit at one's toilet is to conserve a valuable amount of vitality and nerve force, yet it is most inconvenient to attempt dressing one's hair or attending one nails seated before a dresser. One's knees keep one too far away from both implements and mirror. A dressing table is a justifiable luxury, but in a room where every inch of space counts, a satisfactory substitute may be evolved from a braced shelf on the wall, about twenty-seven inches from the floor, with a mirror above it. A glass shelf is, of course, the most sanitary—it is so easily kept clean—but it is rather expensive. A white enamel shelf with a pretty dresser scarf makes a fresh, dainty-looking dressing-table.

With the dressing table that comes out of the shops there is, of course, a little low-backed chair. It slides under the dressing table, yet its back does not stand up above the table-top. The more important reason for its low back, however, is that there is thus nothing to interfere with dressing the hair while seated. The ordinary chair-back is in the way of every movement of the brush, but it may be converted to convenience by sawing off the back even with top of first brace, leaving a back about eight inches high. A coat of paint and enamel will cover the sawed edges satisfactorily.

Your dressing table will, of course, contain powder, cold cream, toilet water, and other of what we might call luxurious necessities. I do not need, in these hygienic days, to warn you against using the old-fashioned powder visible witness of many encounters with the contents of the powder-box. Probably you are converted to the tiny pads of absorbent cotton, thrown away after once using, and keep them in a covered glass jar. For applying cold cream, the cotton is not very satisfactory, however. A popular way, at present, of taking care of this portion of one's toilet, is to use tiny pinked squares of white flannel, kept in a covered glass or china jar. Buy a yard of soft white flannel, cut in three-inch squares, and with a pinking-iron pink the four sides. You can do this rather quickly by folding your yard into convenient thickness, and cutting out your squares with the pinking-iron.

And, speaking of jars, your dressing-table should contain still another—this time filled with soap scraped with a not too sharp knife. Stand your soap on its long narrow edge, and scrape down on the short, narrow edge, until you can scrape no longer. The small solid portion remaining may be put in the soap-shaker for kitchen use. Another good way to prepare soap for shampooing and manicuring is to cut it in small chunks and put through the meat-grinder.

A glass bowl, for manicuring, and a small pitcher are other indispensable dressing-table articles. When you are ready to attend to your nails, bring to your table your little pitcher full of warm water, seat yourself comfortable, put a couple of tablespoonfuls of scraped soap in your manicuring bowl, add your water, stir thoroughly and when dissolved put your white fingers to soak. A liberal drop or two of perfume (the "essential oils"—being the very heavy perfume, not that diluted by spirits) in your soap-jar will make it fragrant for every use—or you may, instead, add the perfume to your manicuring water.

Some women prefer to dissolve the soap in boiling water on the stove, after scraping—a half cake to a quart of water—then to add a couple of drops of perfume, to let stand till cool, and to pour into a jar, where it will jelly. A spoonful of this jelly added to warm water does not, of course, require time for dissolving, and so is excellent for both manicuring and shampooing.

Another luxury for your bedroom is a long, low foot-cushion to place beside your bed. It is a luxurious bit of softness to step out upon while reaching for one's slippers. Such a cushion should be about twenty-four to thirty-six inches long, and fourteen to sixteen inches wide. It should not be stuffed tight, but left soft to step upon. A cushion like this, somewhat shorter than the length of your dressing-table, may be placed beneath the latter, to make the matter of your toilet even more restful.

Your bath is, of course, the most important part of your toilet. There are a thousand ingenious ways of adding to its comfort, daintiness and efficiency. You will find that a sponge and a bowl of slightly perfumed water (just a couple of drops of our precious oils), to be used after the cleansing bath, are indispensable adjuncts to the luxurious toilet. A quick sponge of the entire body with the faintly perfumed water gives one a feeling of luxurious daintiness. For a dry or sluggish skin, polishing the entire body with a dry chamois cloth after the bath has excellent results. Be sure your chamois is made spotlessly clean before and after every using.

Classes by Night.

"Tirahine"—You can take day or night instruction in dressmaking and millinery at the school for a very moderate fee. Many girls who are working through the day take advantage of the evening courses, and thus continue their work of bread-winning. Write Principal Beal, Technical School, London, for full information, or call and see him personally.

First-Class Chaps.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am inclosing the names and addresses of two very lonely lads. One is a soldier in England at present, but soon expects to go to France. He has no parents or friends that I know of, and I try to send him something now and then. The other is a sailor on a mine-sweeper, and has no one to send him parcels. Both are first-class chaps, worthy of help. Yours,

NADINE.

Ans.—It will be a pleasure to give out the names of these "first-class chaps" to any inquirers.

Old Friend, "Balm."

Dear Miss Grey,—We have been waiting to float into the Mail-Box on one of those balmy July days like the weather used to be in times of yore, but alas it's the rain, like the poor, always with us. But as time and tide wait for no man, I'll be Johnny on the Spot right this very day.

I have the monthly fashion books (New Idea) sent to me, and will gladly send them to any invalid who may care for them.

Re the much-discussed dancing subject, my modest opinion is that if one goes in for it as an amusement and recreation, will try and think of the old adage, "To the pure all things are pure," they will find it enjoyable and harmless, but if it is carried to excess in dance hall at a late hour it is then anything in the world but elevating or uplifting.

Dear Miss Grey, I have a commission from a young lady to you for the address of a lonely soldier if you will kindly send one on to me for her.

Will close this time, before you eject me like they used to do in the good old days in the Emerald Isle, when the landlords ran out their tenants when they stayed too long and failed to pay up! With loving greetings to you, Miss Grey, and all our Advertiser Boxites. Always your old friend,

BALM.

Ans.—But, "Balm," you have surely "paid up" in all your kind offers to "Pageites, so need not have any fears of ejection. Whose name am I to send to "Balm" for the magazines? A lonely lad's name has been mailed "Balm" for her young lady. Don't forget to float in now and then; there's sunshine as well as showers, so watch your opportunity.

Cooking a Roast.

"Inexperienced" would like to know how to cook (roast) meat, so that all the substance will not be in the gravy. Do not understand oven (gas), how hot it should be. Also how to make a home preparation called Curline, to keep hair stiff this wet weather.

Ans.—Have you tried searing the meat before roasting This is done by heating the pan until quite hot; with the piece of suet or fat which accompanies the meat, rub the bottom and sides of the pan well, put the meat in, the pan still being hot enough to sear—not scorch. Turn the meat over so both sides may be seared. Add a very little water and cover. If not a regular roasting pan, use a second pan turned over the meat. Have oven fairly hot at first, but after meat begins to cook, and you turn it over, lower the heat considerably, having oven just hot enough to cook steadily, but nothing more. Nothing but experience teaches one the right heat to use. Do not add salt or pepper to the roast until about forty minutes before serving.

Re Munition Work.

Dear Miss Grey,—A cousin of mine, a school teacher by profession, has written me to find out all I can about munition work for women or girls, hours, pay, qualifications, etc. Where are the shops situated? So I am passing her query on to you, hoping you may be able to help me. Also if you could publish this within certain days I would be pleased, as she wants an answer as soon as possible, so she can decide what to do about it.

Now, here is another question. What can a schoolgirl of 15 or 17 years, who is in her second year at high school, and who from certain reasons cannot work all day, do to earn some money in the holidays? She generally has her afternoons free to do as she likes.

I have brown hair, brown eyes and a medium complexion, neither very dark or fair. What are the colors most suitable for me? My sister has brown hair, grey-blue eyes and a medium complexion. What are her most suitable colors?

Can you tell me anything to make my hair grow longer? I have been told that it will not grow very long, as it is curly.

Thanking you in advance, I am,

SHEILA.

Ans.—I believe you cousin's very best plan is to write or communicate with Miss Ethel MacRobert, B.A., at the Government Employment Bureau, corner Dundas and Talbot streets, London, regarding munition work for women. Miss MacRoberts will give all the information she can, I know. As to a way of earning pocket money in half-days, it is not easy to make helpful suggestions. Would you be willing to take a position as waitress in a restaurant or ice cream parlor? It might be possible to secure employment for afternoons. Another idea is to care for young children several hours in the afternoon. Many mothers would be willing to pay well for such care by a reliable young woman. Do either of these

2. Both yourself and your sister should look out in dress for light blues, rose, natural pongee and probably some shades of green.

3. Curly hair is apt to be comparatively short in length. One hesitates to advise anything, as what helps in one case fails in another, but any preparation containing alcohol, quinine, etc., is likely to prove stimulating to the hair roots and tone the scalp, thus promoting growth.

Where Women Can Talk.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have enjoyed reading so many of the letters, it would be impossible to mention the writers of them all, and I have received so much help from the page as well. I think it is grand to have a page where the women can talk over their troubles and get help. Some time about the middle of June someone told us how to can green beans for the winter. Unfortunately I lost the paper. Could you print it again for me

I see where "Bide-a-Wee" wanted a recipe for tarts. Here is how I make mine: One cup of white sugar, one cup currants, one egg, one tablespoon of butter, a little vanilla. This is not cooked first, but put into the tart shells and baked in oven together. Thanking you, Miss Grey, for time and space, I must be off. EMILY.

Ans.—I believe this method, sent by "Cotswold," may be the desired one: To put down green beans for the winter, take the scarlet runners, slice the same as for present use, then take a large crock and put a layer of beans, then salt, and so on till you have enough. These will keep green all winter, and only have to be rinsed good in several waters, or would be too salty. Boil the same as usual.

Glad if you find this department of real help, and hope you will visit us again.

Mighty Like a Rose

By Harrison Chase.

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Ted Gibson sat disconsolately on the terraced lawn sloping to the lake in front of the country club. From the direction of the ballroom came the sound of soft music, and Ted, recognizing the waltz the stringed orchestra was playing, buried his chin in his hands and looked off, unseeing, across the broad expanse of the golf links. The waltz which floated out to him was an old one, as popular waltzes go, but it brought to Ted bitter sweet memories.

Months had passed since he had last heard it. It had been at the junior prom at college, the last dance of a series of the most wonderful dances he had ever known. Sylvia had been there, Sylvia of the laughing eyes and dimpled cheeks.

He had planned to make that prom a turning point in his life. Sylvia had promised to be his guest and had smilingly consented to give him twelve of the twenty-four dances. At the end of the last number on the program Ted had planned to ask Sylvia to marry him.

The affair had started off with every promise of success. They had motored to Kingston in the long, low runabout with just enough room for two. It was a beautiful night, with a full moon casting long shadows over the quiet roads and a touch of spring in the evening air. It was an ideal night for Ted's purpose. He seemed to sense in Sylvia's attitude the kind of answer he wished for.

And then Sylvia had spoken. She didn't say much—only a single sentence—but after the words had fallen from her lips the glory of the night seemed lost.

"Tom Ainsley is going to be at the prom," she had said.

Tom Ainsley! Ted's hand had gripped the wheel more tightly. Ainsley was the name which gossip had linked with that of Sylvia's. For two years, while Ted was away at college, the two had gone about together almost constantly. There had been rumors of an engagement, which Sylvia had ignored, and Ted, returning to Westwood, had taken the girl at her word and had pressed his own suit. A short time later Tom had left for the west, and Ted and the girl to whom rumor said Tom was engaged had been in each other's company continually.

The announcement that Tom was to be present at the prom had filled Ted's heart with vague misgivings. He had felt all along that Tom had a rather intimate place in Sylvia's heart. The fact that Tom had returned to the college town and would meet Sylvia at the dances of dances left him with a feeling of apprehension. For him the remainder of the ride had been without charm.

They had reached the gymnasium just before the first dance. Ted had left Sylvia at the door and had hurried into the smoking room, and when he had returned to the ballroom he had found Sylvia and Tom in earnest conversation. The girl had turned to him with a bright spot in each cheek.

"I've given Tom three of your dances," she had said. "We haven't seen each other for months, and I knew you wouldn't mind."

Ted had nodded.

"Which ones are they?" he had asked. "You might tell me so that I can check them off."

"The third, sixteenth and twenty-third," she had answered.

The orchestra had struck up the first one-step then, and Ted and Sylvia had danced off to the music. But as they swung on the floor Ted had been conscious that the girl had smiled over his shoulder at Tom Ainsley.

During the third dance he had sat in an out-of-the-way corner and watched them. It had seemed to him that Sylvia was especially vivacious, that there was a new light in her eyes, a new note in her laughter. She and Tom had chatted together happily, and when the fourth dance began she had been late.

The evening had worn away. The girl had noticed Ted's rather restrained silence and had chided him about it. But he had refused to respond to the chiding, and finally Sylvia, too, had grown quiet. And then the twenty-third dance had arrived.

"The next dance is the last," Ted had told her just before Tom had come to claim her. "It's 'Mighty Like a Rose,' and that is our dance, you know."

The girl had nodded.

"Yes, that's our dance," she had repeated absently.

But it hadn't turned out to be their dance, after all, for when the music started Sylvia had been walking along one of the shaded campus paths with Tom.

She had seemed sincerely sorry about it.

"I didn't know the dance had begun, Ted," she had explained. "We walked too far, and I'm sorry that I missed it. You believe me, don't you?"

Ted had told her that it hadn't mattered so very much, but during the ride home that night he had not proposed.

That was six months ago, and since the prom Ted and Sylvia had not once been together for more than five minutes at a time. Sylvia had asked him to come to see her, and he had assented, and once when he swallowed his pride and dropped around to the familiar porch, Tom Ainsley had been there, and Ted had not gone again.

Tom and Sylvia had been together quite frequently since that time. To Ted it seemed as if they were always together. In his own heart there was an emptiness which nothing could satisfy.

The yearning to talk with Sylvia came to him with renewed force as he sat on the porch of the Country Club listening to the strains of "Mighty Like a Rose." So he sat, his chin in his hands, looking with unseeing eyes over the rolling green of the golf links. And then a figure suddenly appeared beside him and a soft voice called his name.

He looked up almost unwillingly, for Sylvia was standing so near that he could touch her. He leaped to his feet.

"What are you doing here?" he asked, blandly.

"I was tired of dancing and thought I'd come out to the terrace," she answered.

"Where's Tom?"

"He's in the club. I wanted to be alone."

"Why?"

For a moment Sylvia was silent. When she spoke there was just the hint of an appeal in her voice.

"Sit down and I'll tell you," she said.

They found a vacant bench half hidden in the shadows.

"Do you really want to know why I came here?" Sylvia asked.

"Yes."

"It was because this waltz always reminds me of a man who used to be nice to me," the girl explained. "Once he said that it was our waltz, and then, because I made a mistake and didn't get to the last dance at a junior prom, he didn't want it to be our dance any more."

Ted caught his breath sharply.

"How about you?" he asked.

"I always wanted it to be our dance."

It was rather fortunate that the shadows hid them from the people on the porch of the country club, for Ted Gibson did something he had never dared to do before. He took Sylvia in his arms and kissed her.

And then they went back to the ballroom and danced the last half of the waltz together.

Woven Rag Rugs

Summer is here and with it the usual amount of fancy work for the porch; be it our own, or that of a hotel at seaside or mountain resort. At any rate it behooves us to find something both useful and interesting with which to occupy ourselves. For the person who stays at home it seems that rug making would be a pretty good thing to do, as most every house has a need of one more rug, and if not, we usually have plenty of friends who would welcome such a thing at Christmas time.

The rugs that I have especially in mind are the woven rag rugs, which are very pretty and much less trouble to make than the braided ones.

Like the braided rugs, they can be made of all cotton rags, all woolen ones, or of a mixture of both cotton and woolen. First the rags must be cut in strips, and the width of these strips depends on how heavy you want your rugs to be. An inch strip makes rather a lightweight rug, while about three inches will make quite a heavy one. Judgment has to be used in deciding this, of course, for a heavy cloth must not be cut as wide as a thin cotton one, for there is danger of its being too heavy for the chain when it is woven, and for that reason not wearing well.

If you would like your rug to be a "hit and miss," then all different colored rags can be sewed together; but if you prefer a striped rug, then the colors should be made in separate balls, and the weaver makes the stripes according to the materials you are using. After the rags are all sewed and in balls, the only thing left to do is to send them to a weaver, or a factory where they make these rugs, and state the size you want the finished rug to be. The cost of this weaving is very little (especially if you can find a man or woman in a country town who does this sort of thing), and you will find that you have a rug, very much prettier and heavier than any you can buy.

To keep the balls of crochet cotton in your workbag from unwinding and tangling, try using rubber bands over each ball and see how snug they will lie.

Do you want a crocheted edge in a hurry? Then use a piece of seam beading about half an inch wide and to it crochet a picoted edge just along one edge. The straight edge makes it easy to sew on a garment in a few minutes.

Don't forget that your crochet hook makes an excellent substitute for a bodkin for running ribbons or tapes through a casing. The hook of the needle is caught firmly in the tape and the blunt end of the needle runs through the hem.

Instead of ribbon, make yourself lingerie cords by crocheting a length of chain, and by taking a treble in every other stitch of the chain. Finish with balls or crocheted motifs.

The Cherry Season Is Here

Cherries are ripening, and may be made into jams, jellies, or spiced, preserved or canned. This is the favorite fruit to stock your pantry shelves with, almost every member in the family being fond of cherries.

To can cherries wash the fruit thoroughly, then drain well. Sort the fruit over carefully, removing all blemishes and all soft cherries. Remove the stems and stones. Pack them into sterilized jars and cover with boiling water or a syrup made of sugar and water, using the formula: One cupful sugar, two and one-half cupfuls water. Place in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Cook for five minutes. Place the rubbers and lids in position, partially fasten them, then place the jars in a hot water bath and process for thirty minutes after the boiling starts. Now remove, fasten the tops securely, invert to test for leaks, then label and store in a cool place.

Preserved Cherries—Stem and stone the cherries. Weigh after stoning, allowing one-half pound of sugar to each pound of cherries. To each pound of sugar allow one-half cupful of water. Place in a saucepan and stir until well dissolved. Bring to a boil and cook for five minutes, then add two pounds of prepared cherries. Cook after the boiling point is reached for twelve minutes, then fill into glass jars. Place the rubber and top in position and partially tighten; now place the jars in a hot water bath and process for ten minutes after the boiling starts.

Cherry Jam.—Three-quarters pound sugar, one pound stemmed and stoned cherries. Place in a saucepan and cook until thick. Fill into jelly glasses; allow the jam to cool, and then cover the glasses with parowax. Seal and store in the usual manner for jellies.

Cherry Jelly.—Cherries do not make good jelly, owing to the absence of pectin. This pectin may be added in the form of apples. Peel one large lemon very thin, discarding the peel. Cut peeled lemon in small pieces. Cut a sufficient number of apples in small pieces to measure three cupfuls, then add: Three pounds cherries, one quart water. Place in a saucepan and cook until soft enough to mash; strain in the usual manner for jellies and measure the juice, allowing an equal measure of sugar. Return the juice to the preserving kettle and boil ten minutes. Then add the sugar. Cook until it jellies when tried on a cold saucer, usually about eight or nine minutes. If a thermometer is used, cook until 221 degrees Fahrenheit is reached.

Preserved RASPBERRIES

—Delicious and very Economical

HOW you will miss the fresh fruits next winter. Fruits preserved in tin promise to be unusually scarce on account of the high cost of metals. Every jar of berries that you can preserve at home will be a genuine economy, a real safeguard for you and your family.

Don't let the fact that sugar is slightly higher than in former years prevent you from preserving plentifully. A pound of sugar is enough for three quart jars of fruit. Divide the difference between the present price of sugar and the former price by three, and you will find it is less than a cent a jar. On the other hand the value of the jar of preserves is greater than ever before owing to the increased cost of other sorts of food.

Lantic Sugar

"Pure and Uncolored"

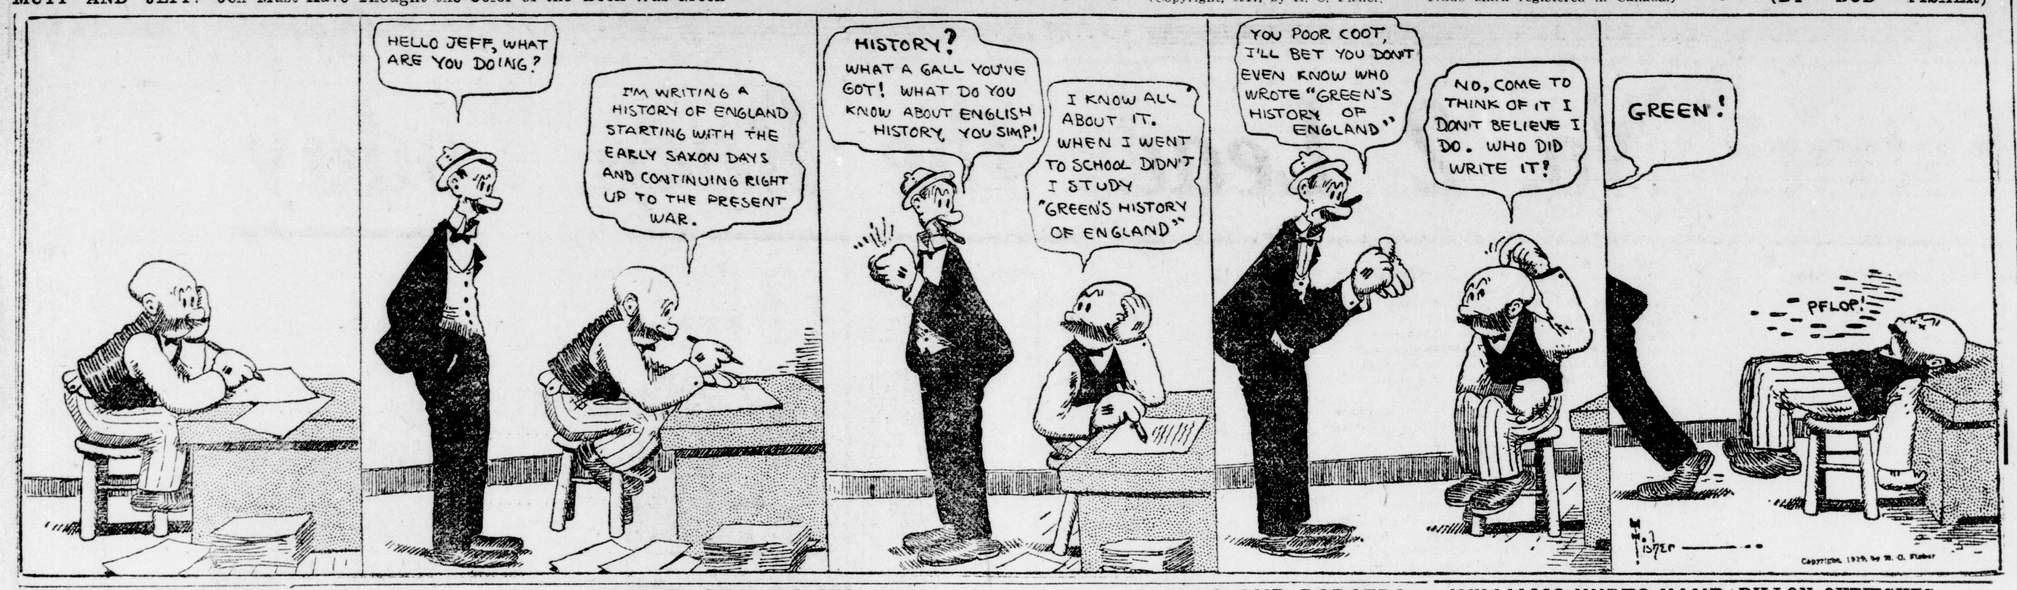

For preserving raspberries and all other fruits buy LANTIC SUGAR. LANTIC is specially advantageous for the early fruits in which the color is hard to preserve as the "FINE" granulation does away with long cooking. The fact that no artificial coloring is used in LANTIC SUGAR commends it to the fastidious housewife.

2 and 5 lb. cartons
10, 20 and 100 lb. sacks.

Preserving labels free: Send a red ball trademark cut from a bag or from the top panel of carton and we will mail you a book of assorted preserving labels, gummed and printed ready to attach to the jar. Address

JUDGE TAYLOR MADE FINE SHOT

SARNIA, July 10. — In a match played on the local golf links recently Judge A. E. Taylor had the distinction of making a hole in one stroke. The shot was made at the fifth hole in a match with Rev. Mr. Henderson of Brantford, and the distance averages 145 yards. The shot was a mashie pitch on the green and the cup was set in the centre of the green. It was played off the new teeing ground, which was initiated on July 1. This is the first time that a golfer has made such a shot on the local links, and the reward for making a hole in one stroke entitles the performer to one year's subscription to the Canadian Golfer.

BROWNS AND YANKS BATTLE 17 INNINGS

New York Finally Wins Out When Baker Scores Peckinpaugh.

ST. LOUIS, July 10.—St. Louis and New York battled for seventeen innings today, a single by Baker in the seventeenth driving in Peckinpaugh with the winning run for the visitors. The score was 7 to 5. Wonderful fielding shut off several runs. In the fourteenth with men on first and second and one out, Aragon hit a hot liner toward left, but Austin leaped into the air, speared the ball with his left hand and touched second for a double play. In the seventeenth, after Marsans singled and Sothoron had sacrificed, Shotton hit a low line drive to centre, but as Marsans was about to score Hendrix raced in, made a shoestring catch and doubled Marsans off second.

In the seventeenth Peckinpaugh walked, Aragon sacrificed, Pipp walked, Baker singled, scoring Peckinpaugh and E. Miller singled, scoring Pipp.

LAST YEAR'S WINNER OF O.B.A. IS BEATEN

Dr. Creelman of Guelph Is Trimmed by Burns of Niagara.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont., July 10.—Today's play in the Ontario Bowling Association annual tournament was interrupted by rain immediately after the commencement of the association competition. Although heavy rain on Monday night soaked the greens it was possible to play this morning on twelve of eighteen, the second round of the trophy competition being staged. Play scheduled for 9 o'clock was not commenced until 11.

Some of the best known rinks in the Province were engaged in this morning's games, and not all of whom survived. F. W. Creelman, of Guelph, last season, was victorious over the Moyer rink of St. Catharines, but Sir John Willison's Canadas lost by one shot to E. R. Stockdale's Granite four.

He won't Repeat.

Dr. Creelman will not repeat his victory of last season because he was beaten by the J. H. Burns rink of Niagara. Although scoring on five ends only, G. M. Begg's Canadas beat the Balmy Beach rink of R. J. Barker.

The Woodstock rink, headed by A. M. Longstreet, administered a crushing defeat to the Kew Beachers, skipped by Lougheed. The net result of the day's play is that many rinks are added to those officially well known already in the trophy "also rans."

Today's scores:

The Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the O. B. A., once well known as the "kickers' meeting," took place in the pavilion tonight and was a record-breaker for speed. In spite of the depressing weather the bowlers were in a jovial humor and the kicks were noticeably absent.

President W. D. Euler of Kitchener presided. Vice-President R. R. Farrow of Ottawa wired his regrets at his inability to be present on account of Parliament being in session. The suggestion that the London system of drawing be adopted in preference to the existing plan, was discussed briefly, but met with little support, and was dropped.

The annual reports were all adopted without discussion. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Honorary patron, E. T. Lightbourn; honorary president, W. D. Euler; president, R. R. Farrow, Ottawa; first vice-president, R. J. W. Barker, Toronto; second vice-president, J. A. Blackman, Toronto; honorary secretary, Geo. Begg, Toronto; auditors, R. J. Kearns and Jas. Rennie.

Representatives to Dominion Lawn Bowling Association—Dr. George Creelman, George Begg and R. R. Farrow.

Continuous rain this afternoon tied up all play. The greens are very wet, but everything possible is being done to permit play in the morning if the weather is fair.

Owing to the unsettled condition of the weather only eight rinks showed up. Competition was keen, and some good games staged.

'WHIRLWIND MACDOWELL' CANADIAN, WINS THE VICTORIA CROSS

Advertiser Illustrations

CAPT. THAIN WENDELL MacDOWELL, D. S. O., Brockville, Toronto University graduate who won the V. C. "for most conspicuous bravery and indomitable resolution in the face of heavy machine gun and shell fire. By his initiative and courage, this officer, with the assistance of two runners, was enabled, in the face of great difficulties, to capture two machine guns, beside two officers and 75 men, although wounded in the hand. He continued for five days to hold the position gained in spite of heavy shell fire until eventually relieved by his battalion."

MacDowell, known to fellow-officers as a "Whirlwind," played rugby for Toronto University, and scored the winning goal in a 100-minute hockey match for Victoria College against Dental College. The University Year Book said prophetically of him: "A man, not of words, but of actions."

WESTERN GOLF GAMES ARE GOING FULL BLAST

Sixteen Survivors Are Left as Result of Day's Play.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Three leading eastern golfers, two international players and one southerner were among the sixteen survivors today of the first match round in the western amateur golf championship playing at the Midlothian Country Club. All the southern contenders except Reuben Bush of New Orleans were eliminated, including Bobby Jones of Atlanta, southern champion, who succumbed to Ned Sawyer of Chicago, 3 and 1.

Donald Edwards of Midlothian, after scoring low medal score of 150 for the 36-hole qualification, defeated Tom Prescott of Atlanta 3 and 1.

Jack May, Argentine champion, bested F. J. Douglass of Chicago 2 and 1, while J. S. Worthington of England eliminated Perry Adair, the young Atlantan by the same margin.

Francis Ouimet, former national amateur and open champion, found a tartar in A. S. McIntyre, a rather inexperienced Chicagoan, but finally succeeded in winning 3 up and one to play.

John G. Anderson, twice runner-up in the national amateur championship, also had trouble in his match with Paul Gardner of Chicago, being two down at one time, but he finally overcame his opponent on the seventeenth hole.

For the first time in a national tournament, stymies were abolished under a new rule of the Western Golf Association. Some of the players liked the plan, while others said it removed some of the element of competition.

Results of the first match round, the winners being matched tomorrow, with the next winners below, follow:

Donald Edwards, Chicago, defeated Tom Prescott, Atlanta, 3 and 1.

J. S. Worthington, England, defeated Percy Adair, Atlanta, 2 and 1.

E. H. Bankard, Chicago, defeated Richard Hickey, Atlanta, 2 and 1.

Jack May, Buenos Aires, defeated Frank Douglass, Chicago 2 and 1.

Paul Barnett, Chicago, defeated Addison Stillwell, Chicago, 3 and 2.

Outfielder George Twoomby, who refused in June to be sent to Louisville by Boston, has agreed to join the Providence club, to which proposition Louisville has consented.

WILLIAMS HURTS HAND EDDIE BRENNAN AND WILSON TO FILL IN

S. P. A. Land Fast Pair for Semi-Windup at Tecumseh Park Friday.

The S. P. A., which is promoting the boxing bouts at Tecumseh Park Friday night received a telegram yesterday from Eddie Williams, flyweight champion of Canada, who was training with Joe Mendott in Buffalo, stating that he had broken his hand while boxing with Mendott and will be unable to appear against Joe Rosner of Cobalt. This was a great disappointment to the S. P. A., and as Rosner and Williams are in a class by themselves, no effort was made to get an opponent for Joseph.

However, the fans will have an opportunity to see Eddie Brennan in action against Jimmie Wilson of Ottawa. Brennan has been training in Hamilton recently, and should be in pretty fair shape.

Zoccano will go ten rounds with Joe Mendott of Port Dalhousie, who knocked the Kid out down in Prince Edward Island a month ago. Tony had two good workouts yesterday, and announced last night he was going to clean up on Joseph or bust. It should be one of the fastest bouts ever pulled off in London, and should attract a good crowd.

WELSH'S OLD BOXING PAL DIES IN BATTLE

London, July 10.—Dai Roberts, the famous Welsh welterweight boxer, has been killed in action in France.

Under the capable instruction of Jim Driscoll he earned great popularity in the roped arena and built up a fine reputation. One of his best performances was to beat Willie Farrell at the National Sporting Club in April, 1913, although Farrell turned the tables twelve months later in a 20-round bout. Roberts assisted Freddie Welsh as sparring partner when the latter was training for his contest with Willie Ritchie at the Olympia when Welsh won the lightweight championship of the world.

ALL IS NOT HARMONY IN CAMP OF BRAVES

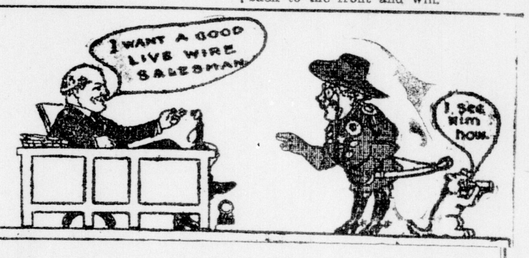

President Haughton and Stallings Not in Accord.

Information from authentic sources strongly tends to confirm frequent statements to the effect that all is not harmony in the Boston National League club. It was an open secret last winter that President Haughton and Manager Stallings were not in accord.

At the time the Chicago club negotiated for the release of Mitchell to manage the Cubs, it was stated that Stallings was anxious to leave the Braves and join the Cubs, but he was prevented by President Haughton. It was stated by the papers that this caused an open breach between the two men. The fact remains that Boston is floundering around seventh place, with little prospect of bettering its position. The team is drawing poorly at home and on the road, and the financial difficulties have increased the burdens of the management.

While Evers still has the title of captain and is supposed to direct the players from orders received from Manager Stallings, as a matter of fact, it is seldom that the manager and captain speak to each other. Evers is fast slipping as a player, and gets in only about half of the games. When not playing he tries to inject some fight into the men from the coaching lines, and invariably is benched for indiscreet remarks. The regularity of defeat has not improved the disposition of Stallings, who, however, has kept within bounds, so far as offending against the league office or umpires is concerned.

In the recent series at home with New York, announcement was made that a collection would be made for the Red Cross by the players going through the stands about the sixth or seventh inning. Boston was leading the Giants in the inning the collection was to be made, and Stalling would not permit the players to stop the game, and the Red Cross did not receive a cent. Stallings is so superstitious that he thought if the players temporarily abandoned the game in the interests of the Red Cross New York would go back to the front and win.

MANY SOLDIERS OF DISTRICT RETURNING WOUNDED FROM FRONT

Cities, Towns and Villages of Western Ontario Welcome Them.

110TH MEN IN LIST

Perth Battalion Has Suffered Heavily in Casualties of Past Few Days.

STRATFORD, July 10.—Casualties among the 110th Battalion men have been heavy of late. Today two more are reported as wounded. They are Pte. Albert Thomas Allan Hammond, a native of Atwood. He is aged 20 years, unmarried, and before enlistment was employed on a farm at Atwood.

Pte. Robert Lindsay Gardner enlisted from Kirkton. He was born at Farquhar in Huron County in 1879. He is married and lived on a farm at Kirkton before enlisting.

MEMBER OF 135TH BACK.

STRATHROY, July 10.—William Hagger, a local boy, who went overseas with "A" Company of the 135th Battalion, was given a hearty welcome last night when he returned to the town. Pte. Hagger lost a leg at the battle of Vimy Ridge.

The Meekison band and a large number met the returned hero at the station and escorted him around the town.

FIVE STRATFORD RECRUITS.

STRATFORD, July 10.—Two more Stratford soldiers returned from overseas today, Ptes. John V. Harding and Frank Taylor. Pte. Harding went with the 71st Battalion and was blown up by a big shell in France. He pays great tribute to the cordial reception tendered the returned men at Quebec.

Pte. Taylor went overseas with the 18th Battalion and was twice wounded in France.

Mrs. Salisbury, Charles street, received word today that her son, Pte. Gilbert Salisbury, who was wounded, is returning to Canada.

HIGHGATE BOY ENLISTS.

HIGHGATE, July 10.—Philip Spear, youngest son of Mrs. William Spear Sen., Highgate, is among the latest Highgate boys to enlist. He has joined the A. M. C., and is training at London.

KITCHENER RECRUIT.

KITCHENER, July 10.—After a lull of about a month, the local recruiting office signed up a man for service Monday. He is Robert William Howard, Kitchener. He has joined the Canadian Army Medical Corps.

LIEUT. ANDREWS RETURNING.

ST. THOMAS, July 10.—A cablegram has been received in the city, stating that Lieut. Warren Andrews was returning to Canada.

Lieut. Andrews was invalided to England after serving four months in France. He is suffering from shell shock. Lieut. Andrews went overseas a year ago with the 91st Battalion. Prior to joining the army he was employed at the Anderson Company.

FIRST PENSION CASES.

KITCHENER, July 10.—Mrs. John Hamm of Doon, and Mrs. Walker of Haysville, are the first claimants for the county pension fund. They are entitled to $500, payable $10 monthly. Their sons, Ptes. Arthur Hamm and F. Walker, members of the 111th Battalion, were killed at the front.

THREE REACH BELGIUM.

HIGHGATE, July 10.—Three Highgate boys, Pte. Charles Murray, Pte. John Teetzel and Pte. L. B. Teetzel, are in Belgium, according to word received by their parents here.

LIEUT. WILTER KILLED.

ST. THOMAS, July 10.—Mrs. J. H. Pinch, Gladstone avenue, this city, has been advised that her nephew, Lieut. Leslie Wilter, formerly of this district, had been killed in action on June 19.

Lieut. Wilter enlisted in the province of Saskatchewan, where he had been living for several years.

SEVENTH ATTEMPT SUCCEEDS.

THAMESVILLE, July 10.—William Sanghem has enlisted in the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve, after trying seven times to be accepted for overseas service.

CORP. BOSWORTH HOME.

TILLSONBURG, July 10.—For some unexplainable reason the local reception committee was not notified of the homecoming of Corp. W. Bosworth, who arrived on the 12 o'clock C.P.R. train today. At Vimy Ridge he received a compound fracture of the left wrist and a terrible wound from a machine gun bullet.

Corp. Bosworth went overseas with "C" Company, 168th Oxfords, and later was transferred to the 38th Battalion and sent to France. He was a popular member of the local company and since his arrival has been interviewed by dozens of anxious members and relatives of boys in the same battalion.

RUSSIA RINGING WITH PRAISE OF HERO KORNILOFF

Victor of Galicia Is Biggest Figure in Muscovite Eye At Present.

HAS AN AMAZING CAREER

Rose From Log Cabin to Command of the Eighteenth Army Corps.

Petrograd, July 11.—Russia is ringing with the name of the latest hero of the war, Lieut.-Gen. L. G. Korniloff, victor of Galicia, whose astonishing feat first proved that the new advance is no mere flash in the pan. Gen. Korniloff is the most daring, chivalrous and scholarly officer in the army. For a romantic rise from humble origin Russian history has only one parallel—that of Michel Vassilievitch Lomonosof, fisherman's son, poet, philosopher, creator of the modern Russian language, in the first half of the eighteenth century.

Comes From Log Cabin.

From lag cabin to general is the literal text of the chronicle of Gen. Korniloff's career. Born 46 years ago, son of a Cossack in Western Siberia, who later reared a large family on a pittance gained as the village clerk, young Korniloff early began rough forest work. At the age of nine he received his first instruction. When barely thirteen he by his own exertions and all-night studies qualified to enter the Siberian Cadets Corps, largely composed of sons of local magnates. Thanks again to his own efforts, this indomitable Siberian pioneer character gained free training at the Michailovak artillery school, where his amazing mathematical faculties brought approval from the authorities, even though he was suspected, with reason, of being a secret revolutionary.

Officer in the Guards.

Next General Korniloff was an officer in the Guards, and being penniless was obliged to serve in Turkestan. In the Japanese war he received the rank of colonel, and was intrusted with a desperate mission—that of covering the retreat from Mukden of one of Gen. Kuropatkin's shattered armies. It was executed with such resolution and skill he was given the St. George Cross. Later he traveled all through Turkestan, the Caucasus and Europe, studying, observing and writing invaluable books on Turkestan and the countries of Central Asia.

Was Taken Prisoner.

Amazing to strangers is his gift for languages, for he speaks not only all European but also Persian, Chinese and every dialect of Central Asia. At the outbreak of the Great War he was in command of the Forty-Eighth Division, once called "Suvoroff's" now "Korniloffs." In Galicia in 1915 he repeated the Mukden feat, covering under an unexampled month-long hail of Austro-German shells wherein his own force broke through the encircling foe, but he himself was wounded and taken prisoner by the Austrians.

The enemy perceived that their generals were so impressed with Gen. Korniloff's accomplishments and noble bearing that the return of his sword showed greater honor to Russia's "Admirable Crichton" than to their own victorious commander. His restless spirit did not long stand captivity. After a daring flight from an Austrian prison camp and astonishing adventures he reached Russia.

At the outbreak of the revolution he was invited to command the troops of Petrograd, implying full confidence in revolutionary Russia. When the disorders arose Gen. Korniloff fearing the necessity of repression, resigned, saying he would sooner shoot the foe than his own countrymen. He took command of the Eighth army, whose brilliant exploit is due primarily to him.

HIGHGATE, July 10.—Miss Luella Broade, who has been engaged in the Highgate High School for the past year, has resigned her position and returned to her home at Wellington.

The first school picnic of the Clearville public school was held last Wednesday afternoon, with a large attendance. The afternoon was devoted to races, baseball and boating.

Miss Edith A. Driver, who was teacher of the Clearville public school the past year, has resigned. She was recently presented by the pupils with a handsome manicure set.

Proverbial Magnanimity of the Race No Longer Apparent to the Observer.

Pte. Fred Young of the Fighting Eighteenth, who got his "blighty" in the early experience of that battalion in France, with his "irrepressible pal," name not given, is still making his wholesome observations of the great war and conditions in old England while he gets his constitution back to form at St. Leonards-on-Sea. Mr. Young who is one of the best known of Londoners, having been a member of the 7th Regiment Band for years, and an agent of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, tells the human side of life in the British Isles.

In his latest letter he reflects the flaming desire for reprisals that has swept the long-suffering British public after they have seen their innocent kindergarten children slain before their eyes.

British Blood Runs Hot.

His observation, "always in good humor," except toward the Hun, are as follows:

St. Leonards-on-Sea, Sussex, England, June 25, 1917.

Dear Friend,—As we have the fullest proof that the Atlantic cable is still in good working order, we figure that you get the news from this part of the world as quickly as we do. But, perhaps, a few details as we see them through actual contact with the people of the British Isles may be of interest to you.

Since we wrote you last we have had personal conversation with people who were in the thick of the recent air raid in London, and from the lips of men and women who have suffered from Hun atrocities we have heard the grim resolves that "Prussianism shall perish." If newspaper reports are correct there is a terrible demand for reprisals going up from the heart of the empire. Britain's blood is sure running hot these days.

If Kaiser Bill is figuring that when his ruthless hordes are cornered, and whining for mercy, the proverbial magnanimity of the British will instantly answer their request, he is barking up the wrong tree. Fiendish murder of English school kiddies as they lisped their every-day lessons has not only locked, bolted and barred the gates of mercy on Hunkind, but has thrown the keys of those gates into the ocean of stern retribution. Even Branting, the chairman of the Stockholm peace conference had to admit that all efforts for "peace" were a fizzle until Kaiser Bill and Prussianism abdicates.

"No Survivors Scured."

One has to live amongst the British people to realize fully how determined every man and woman is to make sacrifice or bear loss in order that righteousness shall prevail. And we felt good as we read that President Wilson had announced that the United States had pledged herself to help restore Belgium to her place amongst the nations. Good old Uncle Sam. We didn't notice anyone in this vicinity shedding any tears as they read that "No survivors were secured" from Zepp L-43, when she fell into the North Sea, neither was there much horror expressed at the awful fate of the crew of the zepp that came down in flames in East Anglia. Preachers may prate all they wish about "Vengeance is mine saith the Lord," but we're awful strong on that verse of Scripture that says a little help is worth a lot of pity. Our irrepressible pal tells us that sympathy without relief is like mustard without beef.

For the past week or so we have been favored with the visit of the "American Band," attached to the 211th Battalion, C. E. F. Their regimental badge is a maple leaf inset with an American eagle, and shield bearing the stars and stripes. Underneath is the motto, "Actu non verba." We are not very strong on Latin phrases, but we figure that it is a short cut for saying that they are proving their faith in the heritage by more than the word of the mouth.

Are You From Dixie?

The bracing air of this area plays a big part in fitting men for further service, and scarcely a day passes but what the streets ring with the martial strains of the band, as they play a bunch of men to the station, bound for their regimental depot. The other morning we saw a long line of the boys carrying their kit bags, headed by the American band, marching blithely to the station. And as the brass instruments blared out the tune "Are You From Dixie?" the men in the ranks vied with each other in answering that question in tune with the band, to admiring crowds on the sidewalk. And one could feel that deep in their hearts the boys were substituting "Canada" for "Dixie, and scarred veterans looking proudly on the boys from hospital windows sang back the refrain, "Yes, I'm From Dixie, Too."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote, "The scarred veteran knows full well the price of glory." That's true enough all right, but as we saw those lads bravely returning to DUTY, knowing that the majority of them bore "scars," we thought of those words in President Wilson's flag day speech "ONCE MORE we shall make good with our lives and fortunes, the great faith to which we are born, and a new glory shall shine in the face of our people."

Yours as ever,

FRED YOUNG.

18TH COMMANDER ASKS FOR CLOSER LINK WITH HOMES

Calls on Western Ontario to Show Pride in Its "Boys."

SARNIA, July 10. — In a letter to A. J. Johnston of this city, Lieut.-Col. L. E. Jones, present commanding officer of the 18th Battalion, asks for local pride in the 18th Battalion and other Western Ontario units now at the front. He also asks for closer co-operation between the citizens at home and the boys at the front, and expressed the opinion that every effort should be put forth to retain the identity of these units.

The following extract is taken from the letter: "And now since the territorial organization of the Canadian Expeditionary Force is an accomplished fact, in theory, at least, the people at home should know and follow the units which represent them in the field."

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT OPENING SESSIONS OF SUMMER SCHOOL

London District Gathering at Alma College Well Under Way.

ST. THOMAS, July 10.—The Alma College summer school opened its tenth season with nearly one hundred students from all parts of Western Ontario in attendance. Informal talks were given by Principal Dr. Warner, Rev. Prudham of Wiarton, Professor Potter of Victoria College, and Rev. J. W. Baird.

Dr. Warner opened the meeting with a warm welcome to the students. The doctor said that one year's work of the summer school was worth the cost of the college and maintaining it. He also pointed out that the summer school is not an Alma College school, but the school of the London conference of the Epworth League.

Dr. Warner declared in concluding that the year just closed was the best since the war began. He said that such a time as this, when many girls must forego an education, it had nevertheless been a banner year in the history of the institution.

Mr. Prudham brought a welcome from the northern summer school, and reviewed the big open meeting at Wiarton on Dominion Day.

Professor Potter of Victoria College brought a hearty welcome from the Bay of Quinte summer school, held in Albert College at Belleville, which had just closed. He gave a brief summary of the results of the work. Professor Potter, who will conduct the Bible study, announced that he had chosen the book of Ezekiel.

Dr. Warner stated that before the school closed he expected at least 160 students would be registered.

FRENCH TAG DAYS WILL BE HELD IN TOWNS OF DISTRICT

Western Ontario Municipalities to Canvass for Allies' Aid.

SARNIA, July 10.—Five thousand dollars is the objective aimed at by the local French Red Cross committee in their canvass of the city on Saturday, July 14. The city has been divided into districts, and the ladies of the committee have organized into teams to canvass their allotted districts.

The urgent needs of the French have been impressed throughout the Empire, and the local committee feels confident that the citizens of Sarnia will subscribe their quota and anticipate an over-subscription. Every corner, every man, woman and child will be visited, according to the statements of the committee, and no efforts will be spared to make the canvass a success.

ELGIN GENEROUS DONATIONS.

ST. THOMAS, July 10.—Eight large bales and two boxes were shipped today by officers of the C. W. C. A. as a result of the June work of the affiliated patriotic organizations in Elgin County.

In addition, $500 was also received for various purposes, such as the Y. M. C. A. work at the front, the naval relief fund, Byron Sanatorium, prisoners of war and British Red Cross.

THE LOCAL MARKET

Strawberries advanced slightly in price today from 11c and 12½c to 12c and 13c wholesale and 14c retail, but few were offered except by the fruit dealers. Today's half-holiday is the big factor in the small sale and the berries will likely be held over until tomorrow when they are expected to be offered in abundance.

Hay is scarce, and advanced from $11.50 to $12 as the maximum value. New hay will be cut by the majority of the farmers the beginning of next week, but until then the demand is likely to greatly exceed the supply.

Gooseberries are not yet of the best quality and few have been offered up to date for that reason. However, some of the choicest of the general poor offerings brought 12½c to 15c per quart.

Beets decreased in price from $1 to 75c per dozen, and three bunches of asparagus can be bought now for 25c, which is slightly lower than previous prices.

Vegetables remained generally firm. New potatoes are stationary at 70c to 75c per peck, the old variety selling at the unchanged price of 50c.

New cabbages are small but solid, and sell at 10c per head.

Green onions call for 5c per bunch, and new carrots bring 10c per quart.

Lettuce is sold at 5c to 7c per head.

Rhubarb sells at 30c per dozen, radishes 5c per bunch, spinach 15c to 20c per peck, cucumbers 12c to 15c each, and turnips at 5c per bunch.

Dairy produce was firm, butter bringing 42c per pound, eggs 35c per dozen retail and 30c to 31c in crate lots wholesale.

Poultry dressed and living remained steady.

Livestock.—Butchers' meats and hides and wool were in fair demand at unchanged values.

Bonds—
Anglo-French 5's.	93½	..	..	..

WALL STREET.

New York, July 11—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Advances of the previous day were generally augmented at the outset of today's trading, all the better known issues rising from fractions to more than a point. The movement was assisted by a moderate demand from interior points, commission houses sharing in the early purchases. Steels, equipments, tobaccos, American Sugar and motors were the principal features. Coppers, shippings and oils also hardened, but rails were dull. A sale of Liberty bonds was reported at 99 49-50. This is the first break in the subscription price since the day the bonds were first traded in on the exchange.

Noon.—In every important instance initial gains were extended on an increase of operations which embraced many inactive specialties. Rails also responded to a broader inquiry, Reading, New York Central, Canadian Pacific and Great Northern leading at advances of 1 to 1½ points. United States Steel changed hands in many large lots at a gain of 1⅛ points, Bethlehem, Crucible and Lackawanna Steels meanwhile rising 1 to 1½ points, and Cast Iron pipe 2 points. Equipments, including moters, added to their advantage with shippings, metals, oils and tobaccos. Bonds were steady with further sales of the Liberty issue at 99 49-50.

HIGHER LEVELS FOR WINNIPEG OCTOBER

Despite Little Trade, Wheat Holds Gain Made on Opening Yesterday.

Winnipeg, July 10.—October wheat today opened and closed 1⅜c higher than yesterday's close, with little trading. July oats opened slightly under yesterday's final quotations, and closed 2⅝c higher, while October closed 2⅜c higher, and December 1⅛c better. July barley closed unchanged from yesterday. July flax closed showing a gain of 5½c, while October closed 1c better, and December, quoted for the first time today, closed 1c down from the opening.

The favorable crop reports did not have a bearish effect on the market as had been expected. Prices indicated that the trade generally took an opposite view.

There was a good demand for cash wheat at from 2c to 4c higher. Oats were also in strong demand at better prices, but there was little offering of either of these grains. There was some bidding for flax on a rising market, but no offerings. Barley buyers were in evidence without any sellers.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $2.30; No. 2 northern, $2.27; No. 3 northern, $2.24; No. 4, $2.12; No. 5, $1.89; No. 6, $1.70; feed, $1.28.

Oats—No. 2 Canadian western, 74⅛c; No. 3 Canadian western, 73⅜c; extra No. 1 feed, 73⅜c; No. 1 feed, 72⅜c; No. 2 feed, 70⅜c.

Barley—No. 3, $1.28; No. 4, $1.23⅓; rejected, $1.12; feed, $1.12.

Flax—No. 1 N. W. C., $2.64¼; No. 2 Canadian western, $2.60⅛; No. 3 Canadian western, $2.45½.

TORONTO.

Toronto, July 10.—Grain quotations are as follows:

Wheat—Ontario, No. 2 winter, $2.30@2.35, outside, according to location; Manitoba, No. 1 northern, $2.45; No. 2 northern, $2.42.

Oats—Canada western, No. 2, 81c; No. 3 Canada western, 78c, at lake ports for immediate shipment.

Corn—American, No. 3 yellow, $1.93, on track, Toronto.

Rye—$2.05.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, July 10.—In sympathy with the strength in the Winnipeg market for oats, prices on spot were stronger and advanced 1¼c per bushel. There was some demand for tough No. 2 C.W. oats and sales of 10,000 bushels were made at 74¼c ex store.

Corn—American No. 2 yellow, $1.75@1.80.

Oats—Canadian Western, No. 2, 81¼c; do., No. 3, 80¼c; extra, No. 1 feed, 80¼c.

LISTED AS PRESUMED DEAD.

GALT, July 10.—Unofficial word has been received here that Pte. "Bud" Tremaine, well-known local hockey player, who went overseas with the machine gun section, had been wounded. Pte. Tremaine in a letter states that he has been in a French hospital for six weeks, and that he is doing well.

NO NEW SEWERS FOR QUEEN'S PARK AT PRESENT TIME

Sewer schemes for the proper care of the sewage in Queen's Park were presented to the board of works last evening in flocks by City Engineer Brazier, the cost running from $625 to $3,500. However, the board decided that this was too much to pay at the present time, and flushers will be installed for use during the fair week. Ald. Moorhead thought that the work had not been properly done in the beginning, with the result that the cost had to be doubled.

Mr. Brazier presented plans for properly fixing up the incinerator, costing from $1,700 to $1,800. This work will be gone on with, as Mr. Brazier considers it a necessity if the institution is to do the work intended.

It was decided to initiate pavements on the Pipe Line road and Stanley street. They will be kept in repair as far as possible this year, and next season will be permanently paved. The question of paving Clarence street will be gone into by Mr. Brazier.

Five plans for a foot bridge connecting Chelsea Green were presented by Mr. Brazier, and all were acceptable to Beattie Bros. and the residents of that suburb. These plans will be forwarded to the London Railway Commission and the Dominion Railway Commission for their approval, and the bridge will be built according to the plan considered most suitable. Debentures will be issued to cover the cost.

It was decided to initiate sewer on Flora, Eva, Elinore, York, Elias and other streets.

A. J. Morgan complained about the sewer charges on Wellington street. The communication was filed.

On the suggestion of Ald. Moorhead, improvements will be made to Lorne avenue.

A great deal of routine business was disposed of.

Photoplay News

WALTHALL'S NEW PLAY GIVES HIM DIFFERENT ROLE.

Great Star Seen in Vivid Portrayal in "The Saint's Adventure"—Mary Charleson Again in Feminine Lead.

Hypocrites, sometimes they are called. Others ascribe their actions to ignorance of purpose. At any rate, there is a brand of so-called charity workers, usually of the ultra-fashionable class, who shout lustily of their benevolence towards the poorer classes. However, these same pseudo charity agents own the most insanitary, dilapidated tenements in the slums, and exact the highest rentals from their wretched occupants.

The cloak of this hypocrisy, or ignorance, if you please, is drawn aside by Henry B. Walthall in his current Essanay drama, "The Saint's Adventure." A phase of misguided charity, which enjoys prevalence not alone in the big cities, but even unto the smallest hamlet, is vividly brought to light. The old adage, "Charity begins at home," is forcibly picturized.

Mr. Walthall is seen as the young rector of an ultra-fashionable church, who resigns when his congregation refuses to remodel its squalid tenement building in the city's slums. Disguised as a workingman, he takes up his life in the slums, to realize his long-cherished dream of bettering living conditions among the poor. A woman there, whose husband had disappeared, by strange coincidence, mistakes him for her husband. The rector does not disillusionize her. He refuses to live with the woman, but enlists her aid in his fight. Mobilizing the voters of the district, he becomes a political power, and forces the church to terms. The tenement is ordered torn down, and a model structure erected. At the moment of his victory, a member of the congregation recognizes and exposes him. But the rector refuses to return to his old life. His heart has been won by the woman of the slums, and he weds her. Together they launch forward into their good work.

"The Saint's Adventure" presents an hour and fifteen minutes of the best entertainment seen on the screen this season.

At the Patricia Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

LION HUNTER, NOT RAT CATCHER, SAYS PASTOR TO CHALLENGE

"I have no intention of taking up the challenge of Lady Jean Hooper and meeting her on a public platform. I am not a rat catcher. I am a lion hunter. I have no more time to waste on spiritualism," was the statement made today by Rev. H. D. Moyer in response to a query from The Advertiser. To this he added: "The subject isn't worth it. Spiritualism is a humbug and a nuisance, and I begrudged spending the time I did on it in preparation of my sermon last Sunday. The fact of the matter is just what I stated in my sermon of last Sunday evening. These spiritualists are flocking in from the States, taking advantage of present war conditions. I have not the faintest idea of accepting the challenge of Lady Jean Hooper."

DR. HILL'S SALARY HAS NOT BEEN PAID FOR THREE MONTHS

Mayor Makes Out Checks That Chairman Won't Sign.

COLON BACILLI IN WATER

Samples Are To Be Taken From All Sources of Supply.

It developed at the meeting of the board of health yesterday afternon that Dr. H. W. Hill, medical officer of health, had not received any salary from the city for three months past. It seems that Mayor Stevenson persists in having his checks made out at the rate of $900 a year, when the agreement calls for $1,000 a year. Chairman C. R. Somerville refuses to sign the checks for the lower sum.

"I will not sign these checks," said Mr. Somerville. "Dr. Hill is entitled to the salary agreed upon, namely, $1,000 a year, and I will sign no checks for any smaller sum. This matter will right itself in time."

There was no discussion of the issue by the other members of the board. It was quite a bit of news to hear that Dr. Hill had not been receiving his stipend.

There was a little brush at the beginning of the meeting between Chairman Somerville and Dr. Hill, on the one hand, and Mayor Stevenson, on the other. His worship accused Dr. Hill of allowing the supply of anti-toxin to get down to three 10,000 units. He called attention to this, and a supply was ordered the next day.

Order By Wire.

"There were 13 units, at least," answered Dr. Hill. "Since you refused to sign orders, we order what we require by wire. We always have a supply on hand sufficient for the needs of the city."

"We never have any trouble about that," said Mr. Somerville. "When we want serum we get it. If you would come to Dr. Hill, and not go to others, you would learn the facts of the case."

Dr. W. J. Wilson, in charge of the veterinary work, reported that he had examined 109 dairies and herds and eight slaughter-houses. All were in good condition. He had found a drove of hogs in Westminster Township affected with hog parasites, and some of them had died from the effects. This fact was reported to the Dominion authorities. The hogs will not be sold in London. The question of milk coming to the city from Sarnia and other points was brought up, and the herds and dairies will be examined by the city if the milk is sold here. Dr. Wilson reported that about one-third of the milk used in the city was pasteurized.

Bacilli in Water.

Owing to the heavy rains of late some of the city water had shown colon bacilli. It was decided to take samples of the water at all the sources, both at Springbank, Horton street and the Foster wells.

The smallpox outbreak will cost the city about $600. This will be charged against the municipalities from which the patients have come. The water was not properly turned off in the smallpox hospital last fall, and a considerable bill for plumbing, amounting to about $50, had to be paid. This will be prevented in the future.

An assistant will be secured for Health Inspector James Lutman. Dr. Harris will assist Dr. Hill for the time being.

Considerable routine business was disposed of.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A REPLY TO REV. MR. MOYER.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I read the Rev. Mr. Moyer's sermon in The Advertiser this evening, and concluded that his utterances relevant to spiritualism were synonymous with a lack of knowledge of the subject in question.

He denounced spiritualism because of frauds, on the part of mediums, brought to light. Good mediums, I have learned, have been known to resort to fraud rather than fail. Nevertheless good seances have been conducted, and on the authority of eminent scientists were perfectly true. Experiments have been made admitting no chance of either fraud or telepathy, and the phenomena could only be accounted for under the spiritistic hypothesis. It is known that mediums sometimes unconsciously resort to fraud and that their sublimal consciousness operates in place of the "real spirit," who, for the time being, had lost the thread of communication. These mistakes are bound to happen, since it is a new study, and communing with the souls of the departed is extremely difficult for the subsequent reasons. By the way, these arguments are the probable reasons advanced by the scientific minds who are studying psychic phenomena.

1. Our life, as compared to the life beyond, is a dream-life. When communing, the spirits must accommodate themselves for the time being to this dream-state, hence the confusion often resulting (not being in their normal condition) e. g., while endeavoring to prove their own identity, describing in others.

2. The shock of death often produces a temporary confusion of the faculties, hence the more or less fragmentary utterances of the spirits, though many are in full possession of their faculties before death and directly after.

3. The spirit often has to learn the workings of the nervous system of the medium in order to operate the instrument of communication (the body of medium) successfully.

As I mentioned in the foregoing paragraph, very little is known of the subject as yet, consequently the results are in proportion.

Some mediums are fakes, but that is surely not a sufficiently just cause for condemning all mediums.

Rev. Moyer says "Studying spiritualistic phenomena takes you away from God." Surely Rev. H. D. Moyer acknowledges the universality of God in this enlightened age. Or is he one who holds fast to the skirts of tradition—original sin, the flood, etc., etc. Granting, for the sake of argument, spiritualism is a crime; even though a crime on the hypothesis of the universality of God, the logical conclusion is God is in the crime spiritualism also. Then why the terrible aversion to its study?

I beg to disagree with Rev. H. D. Moyer that one should refrain from investigating spiritualism since it is a crime. It is great to make the adventure at any cost. Knowledge is never gained without adventure. Risks are attached to all great adventures. Man in his ascent from the brute plane to manhood (self-consciousness plane) waded through perilous adventures greater by far than the most terrific historical revolution. Then why should Rev. Moyer and his kind flunk now? Now if ever is the time to make the bold plunge. I would recommend every minister to study spiritualism carefully and it is bound to appeal to their common sense. Possibly then some of them would muster up enough courage to tell the facts to their congregations I would not charge Rev. Moyer with cowardice, but I would charge him with laziness—unwillingness to simply think. Martin Luther's efforts for freedom would surely have been in vain if we allowed giant fear to bind us from investigation. It is cowardly to say "Let it alone"—either bad or good. And after all what risk is there? To quote Whitman, "Are they not all the seas of God?"

Rev. Moyer, to make good his point, cites instances of people going insane for attempting to investigate spiritualism. It was represented to those people, no doubt, as a mysterious and supernatural phenomenon in some terrible way connected with the devil. The devil gave birth in their minds to horrible imaginings. The church taught all connections with the so-called devil to be terrible. Conscience worked through imagination. Guilty fear took terrible shapes which had their inevitable result in insanity. If on the contrary spiritualism had been shown in its true light as a natural development, they would have set about the study of psychic phenomena in a sane manner.

Spiritualism is Christianity. Why should we not "talk to spirits," "raise from the dead," if Christ was merely a man evolutionized into a god, and we becoming Christs—and again if his sayings are true, "These things ye shall do after me." And surely if Rev. Moyer is a Christian, as I hope, he cannot fail to be obedient to Christ's injunction to his disciples on the seashore, "Go out into the deep and drop your nets." Mr. Moyer says "Spiritualism denies the inspiration of the Bible."

No it does not deny the inspiration of the Bible. I am not using the term "inspiration" in the orthodox sense of the word—gift of infallibility in teaching moral and religious truth—but in its loose sense. The inspiration of all men who write or wrote books or who say sayings is no less inspiration than that of the great poets and mystics who wrote the Bible. All Bibles including the Eastern Bibles, are the result of the development of religious consciousness. Spiritualism is divine whether bad or good, granting sin is divine if God is the universe. I hold this to be Christian docrine. If Rev. Moyer holds to the theory of evolution, he cannot help but see the utter absurdity of one religion for all time.

No, the spirits do not tell anything which is of a special uplifting character, but through these same communications we are proving spiritualism. We owe all our present-day science to the heroic souls who remained fighting against all odds, on the fields of inquiry. And no doubt the total inadequacy of our word-language for a discription of the other side accounts for the seeming inability of the "spirits" to tell us of it.

I am not a spiritualist, but spiritualism is teaching me so much, I cannot forego the study of it. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain always,

SPIRITUALISM.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

We expect our "pastors and masters" to be a little better than ourselves, but instead of forbearance we see a sudden outbreak of ire. The Scotch had the gift of second sight and "there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than mortals dream of." As an outsider I have attended several meetings and there have been no fakes. Some of these so-called Spiritualists have too much conscience to do, as some Methodist (well-to-do) do. That is try to get education and other things free out of the public. Yours truly,

JOHN SMITHERS.

REV. LADY JEAN HOOPER REPLIES TO MR. MOYER.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In answer to an attack on spiritualism by the Rev. H. D. Moyer, I would like to first ask the thinking and scientific people of London, Ontario, to not jump at conclusions at once, but to think before they jump at the right or wrong of the case. First, the reverend gentleman says "he believes emphatically that spiritualism is of the devil." Many people, in fact Washington, if told that there was a machine that took every action of the animal or human body and photographed it so that the scene could be reproduced upon the screen of a moving-picture show, would say, I don't believe it, but being a perfect gentleman (although he was born in a log house) would investigate before he made a sweeping remark that it was of the devil and that the pictures when reproduced, was a devil. After being shown this wonderful power-machine, and the truth in the statement he would acknowldge it. But this reverend gentleman, with all his learning, comes out with a statement he cannot verify, and in the very heading of his sermon acknowledges the truth of what his words deny, "Spiritualism, the Modern Spookology." Spook being, as every school child knows, the German for ghost, or disembodied spirit. Again, the reverend gentleman has his data wrong in saying a man heard the knock. It was three little girls by the name of the Fox sisters at Hydsville, N. Y., between the years of 1840 and 1850. The spirit of a Jew pedlar came and opened the door again between this apartment of the universe and the apartment beyond the vale called death, the little girls asking him to spell out his name and what he wanted. The reverend gentleman says he did not come back for his bones. He had no need for his bones, as a disembodied spirit, but he told them where his body was and who had murdered him. And so, as any good Christian would, they saw that the bones were buried in sacred ground. And here was a proof of the truth of the continuity of life and of consciousness beyond the grave in that the spirit told how and where his body was and the Fox family found it.

Again I would suggest that the reverend gentleman be a little more correct in his statements. He says "Fox and his family inquired." Of whom? The spirit first and the proof of the message in the finding, and the people afterwards that they had found the bones of the skeleton. And again the reverend gentleman misquoted. He says, "they considered it was the body of the medium." The authorities proved it by some threads of clothing. Also this well-informed knocker of the truth misrepresents his knocks as one knock is "No!" two knocks are doubtful and three knocks are "Yes."

Leaving this unhopeful, but natural testimony of the truth of the continuity of life after reath, we will take up another statement about the very wise and reverend gentleman. Again he is off the track, for sleight-of-hand, mesmerism, is no part of true spiritual religion, any more than such utter ignorance in a learned man is the teaching of Christ the Master. If our reverend brother believes in the Bible and the Master, Jesus Christ and the Trinity, he must believe in spiritualism, for keep it and to prove it. For when the Phaeisees attacked him and said, "He hath a devil and worketh by a devil," the Master answered: "If I work by Beelzebub, than Beelzebub is fighting against himself and the works that I do, I do not of myself but the spirit that worketh through me." Dear man and teacher of the Bible, if you would read your Bible as the Master, Christ, wants you to and as a true spiritualist reads it, you would receive the light for the epistle according to St. Paul to the Corinthians, xii., 12 (and they put no new religion), the 28th verse emphatically says, "God has set some in a trench, first apostles, second prophets, third teachers." Verse 4, "Now there are diversities of operations." This is given of the spirit for every man to profit therewith." Verse 10, "To another the working of miracles, to another prophecy, to another discerning of spirits, etc." And yet this man says spiritualism is of the devil. How can he quote the words of David when he does not practice them. With Christ, I say, "Test your spirits of the earth, of the life beyond the vale of death." Are there no frauds in the church? If there were no true dollars there would be no false ones. And even as in the orthodox churches there are men and women who do evil and live evil lives: but do you or anyone else dare to say that that church is of the devil? You who pretend to teach the gospel of Christ, teach a gospel of greater graft than any true minister of true spiritualism. For you must have your churches, your rectories, your salaries, your living provided for, and are afraid to speak to your congregation the truth of the Master, Christ, because you are afraid to lose your money and your home; and are you teaching Christ Jesus only. No. For he manifested, first in a manger, then after his death to Mary Magdalene, and I am sure that the manifestation of the spirit returns whether of preacher, king, peasant or beggar, would come more quickly through the pure magnetism of a true medium, though she may not be thoroughly educated, than through one who persecutes the followers of the Master.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, for the space and will say that if, at any time, the Rev. H. D. Moyer will meet me in a debate, I will be delighted, the arrangements to be made by a committee of newspapermen, and after the expense of the hall rent is paid the collection to be given to the new hospital for returned soldiers or the patriotic fund. The subject to be taken, as taught and proved by the Bible by the Master, Christ.

Yours for truth and harmony,

THE REV. LADY JEAN HOOPER.
Pastor of the Scientific Research School.

AN ANTI-CONSCRIPTION VIEW.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Mr. W. H. Moore of Lambeth, Ont., writing to Monday's Advertiser from Washington, D. C., says in so many words that Americans are surprised at conscription being so unpopular in Canada. I am convinced that true Americans are proud that so many Canadians are against conscription.

The U. S. A. has a population (1910 census) of 101,467,302, and Canada (1911) 7,166,594. Canada has recruited by voluntary enlistment 400,000 men. If the U. S. A. does as well proportionately, she will have to recruit 5,663,348 men.

The U. S. A. has registered 10,000,000 men, but already 5,000,000 have applied for exemption from any kind of military service. It turns out that men over 35 years are not serviceable in the trenches. That leaves approximately 4,000,000. If the physically unfit and the more usefully employed are deducted, the number of available men will still further be decimated. This proves that Canada has raised more troops voluntarily than the U. S. A. will by conscription.

Americans are beginning to realize what a mistake conscription was. Champ Clark, April 25, 1917, in a white heat of indigation, said in Congress: "I protest with all my heart and mind and soul against having the slur of being a conscript being placed upon the men of Missouri. So far as Missourians are concerned, there is precious little difference between a conscript and a convict."

Conscriptionists here in Canada declare that the people of Quebec want conscription, and that they are not represented in Parliament by their members. If this is the case, why is Sir Robert Borden so afraid of consulting the people of Canada on the issue. He knows, as well as he knows he exists, that if the electorate have a chance they will wipe out with the ballot the conscriptionists at Ottawa as clean as dynamite could do it. Respectfully submitted, ONE INTERESTED.

WEATHER INTERFERES WITH CAMP MEETINGS

Affects Attendance at Free Methodist Gathering at Middlemiss.

MIDDLEMISS, July 10.—Weather conditions affected the attendance at the camp meeting held in the picturesque grove of James Milton. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Free Methodist Church and a novel tabernacle, with a seating capacity of 500, was erected. It was a fac-simile of the tabernacle of Biblical lore. Twenty-three other tents were erected.

The services were in charge of Revs. Hill of Bradford, Pa., and Wells of Spring Arbor, Mich. A feature of the meeting was the absence of all musical instruments.

The closing session was attended by 700 people.

FUND DISTRIBUTED AMONG PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS

PETROLEA, July 10.—The 1st of July celebration committee met here tonight, in order to distribute the surplus money derived from the celebration on July 2 among the local patriotic funds. After all expenses were deducted and $240 kept over next year's celebration, the following amounts were distributed: Khaki Club, $300; Women's Patriotic League, $250; soldiers' comforts, $100; Women's Hospital Auxiliary, $59.

STRATHROY METHODISTS WELCOME NEW PASTOR

Reception to Rev. J. C. Reid Held in Basement of Church.

STRATHROY, July 10.—Members of the Front Street Methodist Church held a reception in the basement of the church to welcome the new pastor of the church, Rev. J. C. Reid. Short addresses were delivered of the trustee and quarterly board, interspersed by a musical program. An address of appreciation was given by the pastor.

Mayor Graham presided. Refreshments were served.

Members of the church are looking for a most successful pastorate by Dr. Reid.

Rev. Mr. McLaughlin of the Baptist Church, and Rev. Mr. Armstrong, pastor of the Cairngorm circuit, gave addresses of welcome.

PRESENTATION TO TEACHER.

BRUSSELS, July 10.—Miss Grace Robb was presented with a club-bag and a kindly-worded address in giving up her school near Harriston, after three successful years teaching there.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

KERWOOD, July 10.—The Women's Institute's annual garden party was held on the spacious lawn of Richard Inch's. The grounds were decorated with flags, maple leaves and bunting. Although the fear of rain may have kept some home, a large crowd assembled and listened to a most excellent program. Mr. Emery of Toronto was much enjoyed. Little Grace Jones of London delighted the audience with her fancy dances. Miss McIntosh of Wyoming gave a number of violin selections, and the Kerwood brass band gave a number of selections. Mr. Farrell was chairman. Miss Callahan and Mrs. Lambeth acted as accompanists.

The Red Cross booth did a rushing business until its supply ran out. The proceeds amounted to more than $250.

If you will tell me why you employ one physician, or dentist, or attorney in preference to others, I will tell you why people who are lovers of real music select the Edison Diamond Disc in preference to talking machines. Come in and listen. W. McPhillips, 189 Dundas street, London.
