RIVER CLEANING TO BE DEMAND Court of Inquiry Ordered Into British Miners' Dispute

CLEAN UP NOW, AND DAM LATER

Health Board Chairman Calls for Immediate Campaign on Thames River.

WATER SAMPLES TAKEN

Firemen Are Called Out to Wash Away Dead
Fish.

London's muddy little sewage outlet, which enjoys the gaudy title of River Thames II, will command direct attention of city and provincial departments of health today. Tonight steps will be taken by the city board of health to have the river dredged. On Wednesday, officials of the provincial department of health will come here to make a close survey of river conditions.

Three gallons of murky fluid stood this morning on a table in the city health department. A vigorous shaking of one bottle showed the liquid to be dark red.

"That was taken from the river just below the filter beds," remarked Dr. W. S. Downham, medical officer of health.

Other Samples Worse.

The next bottle was shaken. The fluid was a dense black.

"That was taken from the river just below the filter beds," commented the M. O. H. A third bottle looked something like home-made gin, with some sediment in it.

"A river clean-up must come before any other steps are taken," declared Chairman Downham, this afternoon.

"I'm in favor of a dam, of course, but the river should be cleaned up now. These dirty samples of river water tell a story in themselves, and the analysis which Dr. Downham is making will not be favorable to existing conditions."

"Our plan to dredge the river is gaining ground. It's the best thing I see for the immediate future, and the cost will not be exorbitant."

Favor Dredging.

Ald. L. H. Douglass, M.D., and Ald. John Ashton, health board members, speak strongly in favor of a river clean-up with the aid of dredges.

They do not advocate expensive outlays of civic money until a thorough survey of the river has been made.

It is likely that, following extensive examination made by the health department last week, a motion will be made tonight to have the river dredged.

The fire department was called out yesterday on the complaint of residents at the foot of Dundas street. Dead fish there were rotting close to the shore and residents complained greatly of the odor. Firemen played streams of water on the river banks and washed the fish out into mid-stream.

Auto Accidents and Bathing Mishaps Take Greatest Toll.

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, July 13.—More than three score persons were killed throughout the United States as a result of the heat wave, lightning, automobile, flying, and bathing mishaps and other causes. MIDDLESEX POLICE JOIN MAN HUNT

High Constable and Two Deputies

GUN PLAY PROBABLE

Pair Are Wanted for Robbery
on River Front Opposite Sarnia.

Notified by High Constable Whitting of Sarnia this morning, that the two highjackers who robbed a Port Huron man of $75 on the river front opposite Sarnia on Saturday emerged from the woods around Kettle Point early this morning for food and then dashed back into the protection of the trees. High Constable Whitting left for Kettle Point this afternoon, with two deputies.

The officers are armed to the teeth, for they have been informed by Sarnia police that both men are dangerous and expert shots with revolver and rifle.

Knowing that they are due for a long stretch in the penitentiary if they are caught, the American gunmen are sure to put up a vigorous battle and would have no compunction about shooting to kill if the officers back them into a tight corner, the Sarnia police state.

Both desperadoes made their way to Sarnia on the ferry and amused the passengers on the curious crowd that gathered around them on the ferry.

The police know the exact spot where the men entered the woods near Kettle Point this morning and possess of Lambton and Middlesex police will beat through the bush with great care and with their hands never very far from their revolver butts. It promises to be the greatest man hunt that the Kettle Point district has been mixed up with for years.

Just as easy to hit a man on the heart or the throat as it is to hit two bits," one of the blizzards told the police.

The excitement was intense, for it was apparent that in order to escape from the burning building it would be necessary for many of the inmates to hazard a dangerous jump from the second or third story windows.

Fights Erupt When Jeering Sinn Feiners Clash With Orangemen.

Associated Press Despatch. Glasgow, Scotland, July 13.—Many sore heads were being nursed in the Clyde district today as souvenirs of the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Battle of the Bann were Saturday and Sunday morning.

The local members were augmented by train-load of men surrounding places and a large contingent from Ulster. The ceremonies, in an outlying park in the afternoon passed without disorder but trouble began when the demonstrators, marching back into the city in the evening, encountered bands of jeering Sinn Feiners.

Fighting broke out and continued sporadically all along the route and throughout the night. Bottles, stones and fists were the weapons used. The Sinn Feiners waved flags, which the Orangemen tried to capture. Bandsmen were seen wielding their instruments as weapons in the midst of the struggling mobs.

A large woman who was struggling with a man who was being dragged from a window, was rendered hors de combat when a stone struck her on the face. Many other women were among the fighters, and they took their full share of the injuries.

It was long after midnight before the police, consisting of about 100 men, were able to disperse the demonstrators. The casualties are variously estimated. About 100 persons were treated at the hospitals, none for serious injuries, and many more took their wounds home to nurse. There were at least 50 arrests.

Associated Press Despatch. London, July 13.—Premier Stanley Baldwin formally announced in the house of commons today that the government has decided to establish a court of inquiry regarding the causes of the present dispute in the coal mining industry.

The miners' federation in executive session at Scarborough, has telegraphed to W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, asking further information regarding the court of inquiry, and requesting assurance that the mine owners will withdraw the notice terminating the present working agreement.

Upon Mr. Bridgeman's reply will depend whether the miners will cooperate in the government's inquiry.

MINERS NOTIFIED.

Associated Press Despatch. Scarborough, Eng., July 13.—The miners' federation executive meeting here today received notification from the British government that a court inquiry into the dispute between the coal mine workers and owners would be made.

The government's notification so disrupted the scheduled program of the meeting that it adjourned immediately without making an official announcement. It was learned, however, that while the miners reached no decision regarding acceptance of the proposed court inquiry, many members of the executive believe such an inquiry would form the basis for negotiations with the owners.

Neptune Inn, Quebec, is Destroyed by Fire at Early Hour Today.

Canadian Press Despatch. Quebec, July 13.—Two men are dead as a result of a fire which broke out in the Neptune Inn here at an early hour this morning. The dead are R. Brown, a young Englishman, and Joseph Pickard, a retail lumberman. The former was suffocated in the room, and his dead body was discovered by the firemen after the flames had been subdued. Pickard died in a hospital from the severe injuries he had suffered through jumping from a window.

A number of other inmates were more or less injured. Women and men jumped from windows when all other means of egress had been cut off by the flames.

The fire is said to have broken out in the room of Mr. Pickard, but from what cause one knows. The first alarm was turned in about 4:45 o'clock this morning, and when the firemen arrived on the scene they found the flames well advanced.

NEED $19,000 TO REPAIR SCHOOLS

Inspector and Superintendent of Works See Where Work Is Required.

Members of the board of education met at the city hall this morning, accompanied by Inspector-Administrator Wheable and Capt. W. H. Robinson, superintendent of works, to ascertain what repairs and improvements are necessary, so that these may be carried out during the summer months.

Capt. Robinson has already made a survey of the situation and has recommended repairs and renewals totalling $15,000 for public schools and an additional $4,000 for colleges. In the course of today's tour, the trustees will have an opportunity of seeing for themselves where repairs are needed, and will be able to advise the superintendent as to what work should be proceeded with. The trip, which will occupy the whole day, Chairman S. F. Lawlor is accompanying the trustees on their tour.

At Convenient Centers.

Schools were opened this morning at four centers, and denominational schools were altogether forgotten, the principal object being to locate schools wherever they could be made accessible to the children of a district. Forty-three children attended the opening class at St. Andrew's Union church, 30 were present at Wellington street Baptist, 20 at St. James' Anglican church, and 10 at St. George's.

About fifteen notices were sent to their children to be accompanied by their parents to the opening of the classes, and were enthusiastically as plans were elaborated to have the classes meet every morning except Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. so that children between the ages of five and twelve will have a profitable means of spending their mornings of the long vacation days. There will be plenty of instruction, the daily program including the popular story hour, a story, a manual course in memory work, manual training, and basketry.

A short devotional period will precede each session. There will be no hard grind of study which will deprive the children of the good vacation. All instruction will be given in such a way that it will practically amount to recreation for the young.

BITUMINOUS COAL MAY FILL NEEDS

Bituminous Operators Ready To Meet Pressing Needs.

Canadian Press Despatch. Washington, July 11.—Government officials in touch with the coal situation, and who are watching closely the conference between miners and operators at Atlantic City, predict the negotiations will continue for weeks.

They expect no settlement at the earliest until about August 31, when the present agreement between miners and operators of the hard coal fields expires. Whether a settlement will emerge from the present discussions is uncertain. Soft coal operators declare they are in a position to supply all pressing needs of this country and Canada if a strike should come. They point out that they are working on only a part-time scale now because of a dearth of markets for their product.

DORCHESTER PLANT BURNED TO GROUND

Cheese Factory Destroyed—Bucket Brigade Saves House and Barn.

Special to The Advertiser. Dorchester, July 11.—The Dorchester cheese factory, about half a mile east of the village, on the River Road, owned and operated by Mr. King Clendenning, was completely destroyed by fire, Saturday afternoon. The village fire bell sounded the alarm about 3:15 p.m. In a few minutes nearly two hundred men were on the scene, and with the village fire apparatus and every available bucket, a brigade was quickly in action, and by passing water from the creek, about one hundred yards distant, succeeded in saving the house and barn, although both were on fire several times. Much credit is due those who took part in this work, when it is considered these buildings were less than fifty yards from the burning building, which being of frame construction, threw out an intense heat. The fire is thought to have originated from a spark from the smoke stack falling on the shingle roof. The factory and machine house, valued at five thousand dollars, and insured for three thousand five hundred. Fortunately there was no loss on hand, the shipment having been made earlier in the week.

FLAG HOLDS CENTRE OF STAGE AS ONTARIO ORANGEMEN MEET

Pass Resolution Scoring Plan For Individual Canadian Flag.

WANT UNION JACK

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 12.—Reports from all over Ontario indicate that the twelfth of July celebrations by Orangemen yesterday were attended by the greatest crowds in their history. Favored with good weather every where, the various centres throughout the province where the celebrations were held report record-breaking crowds actually in the parades and in the parks where the gatherings were held. Toronto had 11,577 in the parade and 20,000 were in attendance at the exhibition grounds listening to the speeches and watching the sports. London with 10,000 and Hamilton had huge gatherings. Cornwall reported 12,000 present. Brussels, in Huron county, had 7,000. Parry Sound 6,000, Collingwood 4,000, Long Branch, near Toronto, 6,000, and other districts in proportion.

Practically every gathering passed resolutions protesting against any change in the flag and pledging allegiance to the Union Jack. At many places the Orangemen passed resolutions similar to the following, passed by the gathering at Exhibition park, Toronto: "Resolved, that the Orangemen of Toronto, assembled to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, are absolutely opposed to any change being made in the Union Jack, the officially recognized and only flag of Canada. Our kith and kin in Canada fought and died for the flag. We enjoy civil and religious liberty under its protecting folds. It has stood four-square to the winds of heaven down the centuries. It has made the British empire what it is, then, hands off the Union Jack."

Rev. F. C. Ward-White, Imperial grand chaplain of the Orange Council of the world, and grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of British America, speaking here, said that when an attempt was being made to change the flag that the Protestant population of the country should protest, and he was glad that the Protestants had been so strong that the Dominion government had taken heed and "the disloyalists of the country were driven to their holes."

"The Union Jack, the emblem of might and majesty, the power behind the throne, the symbol of freedom, the glory of Orangemen, the majesty of the British empire, must not be interfered with," he declared. "Who would dare lay irreverent hands on a flag which covered during the war, the bodies of the brave lads who gave up their lives that Canada might live?"

THREE MEN ARE INDICTED IN DANCE HALL DISASTER

Associated Press Despatch. Boston, July 11.—Three men, who were named in secret indictments returned by the grand jury investigating the collapse of the Pickwick club here last Saturday, in which 44 persons lost their lives, were arraigned before Judge Lummus in superior court today. They were George C. Funk, an architect; Timothy J. Barry, president of the club; and Hyman Bloomberg, lessee of the building.

FIVE THOUSAND ENGLISHMEN HOLD GREAT PICNIC AT PORT

All Western Ontario Represented As Big Day Is Held.

SPORTS, MUSIC, EATS

With the banner of St. George and the Union Jack unfurled beneath the oak and maples on Inverness Heights, England's sons and daughters gathered at Port Stanley, Saturday, for the English picnic. The event was held under the joint auspices of St. George's society and the Sons of England Benevolent Society.

More than 5,000 Britisheers from all parts of Western Ontario were present to rejoice in the great traditions of the homeland, and to recall its glorious history. Special trains from London and St. Thomas were crowded with Old Country folk eager to be with friends who meet at least once a year at the English picnic. Motor cars brought hundreds. The heights were crowded. There the men of Sheffield met and talked over old times, while old acquaintances from Devon, from the Shropshire country, from Birmingham and a host of other places, met old friends and new ones.

One Happy Day. It was one of the happiest days in the history of the two societies under whose auspices it was held. Not a cloud marred the sky. The children, hundreds of them, entered into the sports with a zest to be cheered wildly from the seats along the course.

Two marquees were filled with good things to eat. The hospitable English seemed to have within those tents enough ice cream, peanuts and bananas for a dozen picnics. In the afternoon a steady stream of children and grown ups, too, fled into the tents and came out bearing ice cream cones and pop.

And the Baby Show. The baby show saw a large number of charming infants brought by proud mothers for the prizes they knew their babies would surely take. Although the day was hot, very little fretfulness was exhibited by the babies. They smiled and cooed as the judges went the rounds. They were quite at ease. None of them were self-conscious. In fact, a number of them appeared bored over the whole proceedings.

The results were as follows: Boys, under 6 months—Mrs. Tuckwood, 3 Sycamore street, Shelton, 12 Balclava, St. Thomas. Girls, under 6 months—Mrs. O. Bernard, Mrs. Harlow, 508 Oxford street.

Boys, 6 to 12 months—Mrs. Beech, 172 Wharfedale road north; Mrs. Bolt, 80 Locust street, St. Thomas. Girls, 6 to 12 months—Mrs. Zimmell, 582 Maitland street; Mrs. Ashley, 426 Piccadilly street; Mrs. Burnett, 267 Thames street.

Boys, 1 to 2 years—Mrs. Gilmore, 30 Sterling street; Mrs. Webb, 1135 Trafalgar; Mrs. Stone, 721 Princess avenue. Girls, 1 to 2 years—Mrs. Thompson, 5 York street; Mrs. Astles, 28 Carlton avenue; Mrs. Howard, 10 Major street; Mrs. Dryden, 86 Chesley avenue.

Twins—Mr. and Mrs. Smith, 435 Ridout street, girls; Mrs. Jones, 132 Marchmont street, St. Thomas. The entertainment committee had a plentiful supply of novelties and favors for the children. They gave the boys and girls picture cards, fancy spectacles, rulers and puzzles.

In the women's tent there were huge cans of fresh local milk for the babies and restful seats where the tired ones might rest. Clowns Were There. Clowns entertained the children with their antics while members of the sports committee handed out the prizes for 29 race events. These included everything from races for the little tots to a tug-of-war for the men.

There were prizes for the fat men who could run, prizes for bun-eating and prizes for the largest family on the grounds. In the evening there was a dancing competition on the green, where, under the trees, among the fairyland of colored lights, clog-dancing, hornpipes and the old-fashioned waltz brought a great day to a grand conclusion.

In the afternoon, down on the flats, the cricket game, between St. George's and Mitchell drew a large crowd that watched from the natural seats of the hillsides. After the cricket game, Smallman & Ingram's Thistles played the Brownies, champions and runners-up of 1924. They played splendid ball.

During the afternoon and evening the London veterans' band offered a varied program, which included the songs dear to the heart of Englishmen. To these were added the snappy dance tunes of the day.

The Races. The sport events were: Girls, 5 to 7—Dorothy Roberts, Ruth Thorpe, Alberta Huddart. Boys 5 to 6—Russell Trotter, Nelson Webb, George R. McLeod. Girls, 6 to 8—Jean Galbraith, Winnie Mah, Thelma Handley. Boys, 6 to 8—Willie Robinson, Billy Warren, George Sealey, St. Thomas. Girls, 8 to 10—Edith Mayne, Jean Galbraith, Margaret Stein. Boys, 8 to 10—Alfred Herbert, Tom Johnson, Jack McLaren. Girls, under 12—Frances Galbraith, Ruby Bridgeman, Hilda Richardson. Boys, 10 to 12—Tom Johnson, George Atkins, Sydney Benbow. Girls, 10 to 12—Katie Barnes, Hilda Richardson, Katharine Fairweather. Girls, 16 and over—Teddy Jones, Eira Oatridge. Boys, 12 to 16—Alvin Gurney, Tom Johnson, Leslie Norton. Sack race—B. Locke, J. Hunt. Ladies' balloon race—Mrs. Floyd Hunter. Fat man's race—George Potter, Charles Jackson. Married men's race—Mrs. C. Short, Mrs. Roy Vanstone. Short, shoe race—Fred Smith, B. Lackey; men over 50—Tom Williamson, age 61. Locked hands race—W. Morris, F. Morton, A. Raine. Bun-eating contest—Sydney Benbow, Ethel Benbow. Committee men's race—F. Nicholls, H. Lee, J. D. F. Jones. WHITE INDIAN TRIBE DISCOVERED IN BRAZIL

Live Nude and in Primitive State, Returned Explorer Declares.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, July 11.—White Indians who evinced no surprise at seeing a hydroplane or other modern things, although armed with only bows and poison arrows, and living nude in a primitive state, are among the things Dr. Alexander Hamilton Rice has seen in Brazil.

On his return yesterday from his seventh expedition to Brazilian jungles he told about finding the Indians at the headwaters of the Parana River, 75 miles distant from the headwaters of the Orinoco. Their faces were streaked with pigment, but they were undeniably white. The Indians are under-sized, and speak a distinct language of their own. They move in and out between the trees like jaguars without making a sound or causing a rustle among the leaves," Dr. Rice said. "They refuse to eat meat, and subsist entirely on plantains and bananas."

CHINESE ATTACK BRITISH MISSION, Presbyterians Workers at Wukingfu, Including Two Women, Wounded.

Associated Press Despatch. Peking, July 12.—Cantonese soldiers on July 9 forced their way into the English Presbyterian mission at Wukingfu, 50 miles in the interior of Kwangtung, where they beat one missionary and injured him with knives. They also beat two of the women missionaries, cutting them slightly with knives.

The British consul at Swatow, punishment of the guilty persons, and reparation in the form of compensation. The missionaries, after hiding for several hours left Wukingfu, arrived in Swatow in an exhausted condition. Foreigners were ordered to leave, and departed the same day for Swatow.

Reports reaching here say that the situation in Swatow is growing more critical daily. Chinese employed by British and Japanese have gone on strike, and an embargo has been placed on food supplies to the British and Japanese.

DEPUTIES DEFEAT FINANCE MINISTER

Caillaux Opposes Business Turnover Tax Repeal in French House.

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, July 11.—Finance Minister Caillaux was defeated in the Chamber of Deputies by a vote of 261 to 263 when he opposed repeal of the tax on business turnovers.

M. Caillaux stressed France's need for revenue from every source and promised to introduce later a bill for the relief of small retailers, but Socialists and other deputies opposed him.

Paris, July 12.—On a question of confidence on the turnover tax in the budget, the Chamber of Deputies tonight sustained the government, 325 to 245. Premier Painleve supported M. Caillaux as against the Socialists, and a split in the Left cartel seems inevitable.

WESTMINSTER COUNCIL TO CLOSE TWO ROADS

Legal Steps Planned To Force Transfer of Gravel Pit.

Meeting in special session Saturday afternoon at the county building, Westminster township council decided to close portions of two township roads and requested the township solicitor, J. M. McEvoy, K.C., to prepare bylaws to this effect. The roads affected are the second concession westerly around Pond Mills and the portion of the Bostwick line, north of the provincial highway to the intersection of the third concession.

The council was notified that Mr. Wadsworth, from whom a gravel pit was purchased recently near Lambeth, had repented of his bargain and would refuse to carry out his agreement for the sale of one acre for $350.

After some discussion it was decided that Wadsworth should be ordered to close the pit, and if he refused to accept it, that Mr. McEvoy take action to compel him to carry out the agreement he signed for the sale of the pit.

The tender of E. W. Spence for the Highland Park sidewalk was accepted, and work will start next week. Those present at the meeting were Reeve J. S. Cousins, Deputy Reeve Boler and Davis, Councilors J. E. Milne and Grievous, Clerk E. S. Hunt and Road Superintendent J. A. Johnston.

Manley was driving north on Colborne street, and was making the left turn to Dufferin street, and Anstie was proceeding south on Colborne, and also went to make the same turn, resulting in the crash. No injuries resulted.

ORANGEMEN PARADE TO DORCHESTER CHURCH

East Middlesex Lodges Fill United Church To Capacity.

Special to The Advertiser. Dorchester, July 12.—Orange Dorchester witnessed a great celebration today in the church service and parade of Orange lodges of East Middlesex. The United Church here was filled to capacity, and many lodges at the exhibition grounds listening to the speeches and watching the sports. London with 10,000 and Hamilton had huge gatherings. Cornwall reported 12,000 present. Brussels, in Huron county, had 7,000. Parry Sound 6,000, Collingwood 4,000, Long Branch, near Toronto, 6,000, and other districts in proportion.

Practically every gathering passed resolutions protesting against any change in the flag and pledging allegiance to the Union Jack. At many places the Orangemen passed resolutions similar to the following, passed by the gathering at Exhibition park, Toronto: "Resolved, that the Orangemen of Toronto, assembled to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, are absolutely opposed to any change being made in the Union Jack, the officially recognized and only flag of Canada. Our kith and kin in Canada fought and died for the flag. We enjoy civil and religious liberty under its protecting folds. It has stood four-square to the winds of heaven down the centuries. It has made the British empire what it is, then, hands off the Union Jack."

Rev. F. C. Ward-White, Imperial grand chaplain of the Orange Council of the world, and grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of British America, speaking here, said that when an attempt was being made to change the flag that the Protestant population of the country should protest, and he was glad that the Protestants had been so strong that the Dominion government had taken heed and "the disloyalists of the country were driven to their holes."

"The Union Jack, the emblem of might and majesty, the power behind the throne, the symbol of freedom, the glory of Orangemen, the majesty of the British empire, must not be interfered with," he declared. "Who would dare lay irreverent hands on a flag which covered during the war, the bodies of the brave lads who gave up their lives that Canada might live?"

British-Born Entering the States.

The average United States consul in Canada finds that he has become a glorified immigration official since the passing of the quota law by that country, and he has much of his time taken up with matters that formerly did not come under his jurisdiction.

Several cases have happened recently in this district, which takes in seven counties, to show that people here do not understand the working of the regulations, and their lack of knowledge has worked what might appear on the surface to be a hardship.

In one instance, a woman from a neighboring city decided to go and live with relatives in United States, because she was alone here. She was fairly well off, too, and by the time she had disposed of her property, had a neat competence, so there was no danger of her becoming a charge on the state in which she intended to reside. Her friends gathered and made her a farewell presentation, and after she had cleaned up all business and financial matters, and packed her belongings, she came to London to call at the office of the U. S. consul to secure permission to enter United States.

It was not until then that she found that there was no chance at all of her doing so. She had been born in England, and the quota for that country, along with Scotland, Wales and Ulster, is only some 34,000 per year and of this number about 100 are allotted to London, Ont., district, or about 15 to each county, including the cities. It may be a matter of six years before she has an opportunity to go and live with her relatives in United States. It is easy to imagine her feelings when she had to return to the place where she had sold her house, and where friends had presented her with a farewell gift.

The consul in London admits that she would have made an ideal resident for United States or any other country, but he had nothing to do with the making of the law, and in the case of British citizens in Canada he has to get his quota number from the British authorities in London, Eng., they in turn receiving them from Washington.

We mention this because there have been several cases of a somewhat similar nature, and hardship has actually resulted in a number of them because the persons involved were not acquainted with the law. There have been so many changes made in the regulations of various countries that it is advisable that those contemplating a change should become versed in them before making arrangements for a move that may be impossible.

Dictating the Terms.

The American Rubber Association met in New York to decide what could be done to bring down the price of crude rubber, which sold early in 1924 at 20 cents a pound against 97 cents today. One fact that was very apparent even before the meeting was that there was very little they could do about it. The output of crude rubber is in the hands of the British, and there can be small blame attached if they seek to make money out of it.

United States market is so surrounded with a tariff on nearly every article Britain has for sale that there is very little opportunity for the British getting to the U. S. market. That market takes rubber from Britain because it cannot secure it elsewhere, and if Britain were to use her own crude rubber and make tires at home to ship to United States they would be met by a stiff tariff.

There is a parallel plainly marked in the situation—United States through her tariff dictates the terms on which she will do business with Britain, and Britain, by fixing the price of crude rubber, dictates the terms on which she will do business with United States.

Cutting a Man's Wages.

Britain has labor problems enough to keep any nation on edge, and those she is facing right now are considered worthy of being referred to as "serious," "grave" and even "dangerous" by some of the most conservative papers in the old land. Three great industries, coal mining, railways and engineering, all of them basic, and involving hundreds of thousands of employees, are facing the cancellation of existing wage contracts, demands for lower wages and the doing away with the seven hours act and the return to the eight-hour day.

The mine owners claim that cost of production is so high that they are operating at a loss, and cannot compete for foreign business. They ask the miners to work longer hours and to accept less wages, while naturally the miners refuse to be the one class singled out for a reduction of pay, while all things they have to buy with their wages remain at the present level. There has been a serious slump in coal production; this in turn has cut into railway operations, with the result that a number of men have been laid off. The railways have called in their men and explained that there must be further economies in operation, and this is another way of stating that they are asking for a reduction in wages and possibly longer hours.

The Manchester Guardian says: "The call for lessened costs of production at the expense of wages and hours is now becoming insistent from the large industries, and there are serious possibilities in the outlook for the next two months."

The plea for securing lower production costs in industry, or lower operating expenses on railroads through reducing wages is one that is open to question. It can probably be figured out on paper showing that it can be done that way, and, as far as the employer is concerned, what happens? He finds that his purchasing power has diminished; his standard of living has been brought down; his ability to meet his obligations and make some provision for the future has been weakened. He comes very quickly to the point where he is dissatisfied, where he feels that the only aim his employer has is to get out of him as much as he can. He is ready to listen to the agitator, and to be a student at the school where the text is always the same—overthrow the present system and let us take possession of the means of production. Even if the reduced wage does ease one situation for the moment it creates another and a worse one farther on. That is one reason why it is not possible to solve production costs by a reduction of wages, especially when the wages now paid are no more than is necessary to meet the prevailing standard of living costs.

Why Should It Exist?

A strange story comes from Port Colborne of reporters from Buffalo newspapers being chased out when they came over to secure information about the export of liquor from that port by an American fleet to United States.

The reporters wanted information about the business and photographs of the boats. If it is a legitimate business they had a right to secure all this, and if it is not a legitimate business it has no right to exist.

If any of these reporters came to London to get a story with pictures about business here, we don't imagine there would be much trouble. The firms would see to it that they had all the facts and that facilities were provided for taking all the pictures required.

If there is a business in the export of liquor at Port Colborne that will not gladly give publicity about its affairs, then that business has no right to exist, and Canadian law should make that point very plain.

They Know Their Business.

Whole columns have been given over to the squabble between miners and mineowners in the U. S. anthracite fields, and the general public knows very little of what it is all about.

One side asks for a 10 per cent wage reduction, and this is met by the other with demands for an increase to a similar extent. If the idea of sending out so much advance notice is simply to get the people keyed up to the point where they will rush in and pay any old price for coal, then the mine operators are to be congratulated on the way they can get all the papers in the country to do what they want them to do and make no charge for it. Business should become brisk in disposing of their surplus coal holdings.

Note and Comment.

London Kiwanians were told to eat plenty of green stuff during the hot weather. Pasture is fairly good since the recent rains.

Humane inspector gathered in seven dogs the other day, and only one of them had a tag. Dog jewelry is more popular with the inspector than with dog owners.

A new pavement in London was opened by a dance. When the city treasurer sends out notices for the frontage tax the dance is likely to break out again.

The Toronto Globe wants to know why policemen in that city have to wear a strap under their chin in hot weather. Probably because they can't use a hatpin.

London pupils made a creditable showing when 825 of those eligible for entering collegiate work were successful. Passing entrance is an event of some importance to the boy or girl who is facing that problem. It's to be hoped the children can collect all the prizes, trophies and awards that were promised them by hopeful parents.

John D. Rockefeller has sold all his possessions to his son, John D. Jun., and is therefore without a home. At least that is what the records show, but a skeptical public will not be convinced until they see a want ad. like this: "Wanted, by elderly gentleman, front bedroom in home where plain meals are served, not over $7 per week."

Alexander Ferguson of Montreal, aged 32, had been unable to secure employment for some time, but an uncle left him $50,000 in cash, with only one stipulation, that he marry before he can secure the amount. We are not making any comment on this, but merely drawing attention to the stipulation as we don't want the girls of any other district to have a head start in this great sweepstakes event.

Woodstock reports a tourist driver from New York state falling asleep at the wheel of his car and going through a fence before he woke up. He had been driving continuously for thirteen hours without leaving the wheel for more than a moment or two at a time. If he made an average of 25 miles an hour that would be a continuous run of 325 miles, and unless he was in a desperate hurry it was high time he ran into a fence to wake him up to the fact that he wasn't having a holiday at all, but a species of self-inflicted punishment.

EVIDENTLY A DACHSHUND.

Young Woman—"I want that dog shot at once."
Policeman—"I can't shoot him here in this residence district. The bet might go right through him and hit somebody."
Young Woman—"But couldn't you shoot him lengthwise?"

Bein' Brave

If robbers point a gun at me to blow me up from stem to root, I'd be for sayin' to the bird, "Well, for the love of Mike, don't shoot."

I heard a chap just yesterday discussin' how a bank was robbed, and as he spoke his anger grew and burning words just boiled and throbbed, to think how robbers come along and what a stack of kale they got, and drove off in a pink sedan and never one mused up or ehot.

Ah, it was tame, this dude declared, and showed a lack of fire and vim, for none would dare a trick like that and pull that sort of stuff on him.

"If I was workin' in a bank and knew such things might come to pass, I'd make the bandits look so sick they'd think they swallowed poison gas. I'd have a scheme worked out for them, they'd get from me just what I'd give, and that would be a shower of lead to drill 'em like a kitchen sieve."

"If bandits met that kind of stuff they'd quit bandittin' mighty quick, they'd think how someone dumped on them about a half a ton of brick."

And he was talkin' with his hands and wigglin' at his tongue as well, he didn't care who heard him spout, he had a pungent tale to tell.

But I don't put much stock in him and all the shootin' that he'd do, I think he'd be about the same as common folks like me and you. For when your workin' at your job and bandits stand inside the door, we ain't inclined to be as brave as what we might have been before.

I figure if I had a job a-sortin' goodly clumps of cash, and saw a wicked-lookin' gun all primed to ruin my window sash, that I'd just put my hands straight up and holler "kamerad" to the bird, and not be saucy in my way or waste on him one needless word.

For when I looked into that gun I'd think of folks I'd read about, who got a bullet in the ear, another cuttin' off their snout, and I've got lots of things to do and many folks I want to see, before they take my framework out and say a fond farewell to me.

I want to weed my onion patch and eat a mess of new string beans. I want to work among the leeks and don once more my workin' jeans, and clean the chicken coop as well, and whack the big tomato worm. I want to milk the brindle cow and revolute the barnyard churn.

So if a robber come to me I'd shed for him my shirt and boot, and if I spoke at all I'd say, "Now, for the love of Mike, don't shoot."

A FOOLISH MOTHER.

(Margaret Currie, in Montreal Star)
A WOMAN I know who was the eldest of a large family, not too rich, had to work very hard during her girlhood. She cooked, did housework, looked after the younger children, did without many things she wanted and when she married and her daughter was born, she said: "My daughter will have all the things I missed, and so she has never demanded anything of her child."
She lavished the most expensive toys on the child, and every luxury she could give her, with the result that now, at fifteen, the girl is utterly useless in the house, does not even know how to make a cup of tea, and expects that the latest styles in frocks and dresses are remade and turned and made again.

Everyone says "What a selfish, stupid girl," but I say "What a selfish, stupid mother!" She has gratified her own passion for giving at the child's expense. They are not wealthy people and the girl will some day marry without the knowledge of how to manage a house or even of how to tell anyone else what to do.

JEALOUS MOTHER KILLS 2 CHILDREN

Feared She Had Lost Their Love To Another Woman.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sudbury, July 12.—Because they were crying for another woman who had taken her place while she was confined to the hospital, and with whom her husband had run away, Mrs. William Kossak, a Ukrainian woman of about 30 years of age, confessed she shot her two young sons, Johnny and Mike, aged 6 and 4 respectively, through the head with her husband's rifle, a .22 repeater, on Saturday afternoon at Argolis, 234 miles northwest of Sudbury. She was brought to the district jail here today by Constable Keen of the provincial police force.

Demented as the result of her husband's departure with the woman who had taken her place in the home during her absence, Mrs. Kossak is only now beginning to realize the seriousness of her crime. She appeared to be in a dazed condition and had little or nothing to say to Constable Keen in her pathetic note found by the constable on entering the Kossak home tells the motive for the mother's drastic action. "If I shot the children," she reads, "because I didn't want them crying for the other woman."

A Different Room.
The dead bodies of the two children were discovered in separate bedrooms in the upstairs section of the small house, in the mother's bedroom downstairs the walls and a bed post bear the trace of a bullet mark which would indicate that the crazed woman had frightened her children upstairs before committing her terrible act. The body of the youngest child was lying crouched against the wall of the bedroom, as if he had been endeavoring to hide from his mother. In the opposite room the body of the elder boy lay on the floor, the empty cartridge of the bullet which had sent his brother to his death, clutched in his left hand.

Mrs. Kossak had apparently killed the youngest son first, and then proceeded to where John, her first-born, was in the other room. A moment later and he met the same fate as his brother.

Went to Hospital.

William Kossak, the father of the murdered boys, is a section foreman at Argolis, and with his wife had run the boarding-house for the section men. Recently Mrs. Kossak was obliged to go to the hospital for treatment, and another woman, also of foreign extraction, came to take her place. Mrs. Kossak returned to her home and on Thursday last her husband and the other lady are reported to have gone away, leaving her with the two children.

Saturday afternoon the woman, who first made the discovery of the murder, saw Mrs. Kossak emerge from the woods and walk directly into a small lake near the Kossak place. Fully clothed, she swam the breadth of the lake, a distance of 200 feet, and proceeded to her home. This information was conveyed to Constable Keen and the arrest followed.

Detroit, July 12.—All Canadian and American ship wireless stations will go on new wave-lengths at midnight on July 15, in accordance with the decision reached at a recent conference of representatives of the United States department of commerce, the Canadian department of marine and fisheries, the Canadian and American commercial radio companies, steamship companies and others directly interested.

For general public service communications between ship and shore and ship and ship when working with stations other than the nearest station must be on a wave-length of 875 metres or higher. Communication with a distant station will not be permitted if interference with the nearby station results.

The practice of transmitting notes under the prefix Sve or carrying on unofficial conversation must be discontinued.

WHEN WEALTHY AMERICANS RENT AN ENGLISH CASTLE

Often Big Transformation Takes Place In Few Months Sojourn.

BATHROOMS PUT IN Whole Staff of Servants Is Changed To Suit New Tenants.

By EDITH BRAUN. Special To The Advertiser. New York, July 13.—A special class of real estate agents in Europe serves the country and town houses for the purpose of renting them to rich Americans making their annual or bi-annual migration.

Usually photographs and plans of the houses are sent to madame, who talks with her husband. Inquiries are then made as to the direction the house faces, the nearness to water, and footmen, and chauffeurs. Other important matters.

When the estate finally is engaged, the housekeeper goes over first, sometimes with the butler, perhaps with one or two other servants, to open the house and put it in order. She takes the linen and silver in special trucks. The house is given a thorough cleaning. There is nothing more to be done to it when the family arrives.

If the place be in England, the head servants of the American establishment are taken over, the head butler, footmen, and chauffeurs. Other servants are engaged in England. No servant speaking only English is taken along in a castle to make butlers in France and Italy who serve for part time, who have their own special staff of servants making their living as the Americans. The butler, usually speak several languages and they are carried over from the United States. The riding master, too, is taken. He is ordinarily a foreigner. I know of one who is a French count.

Bathrooms installed. In some cases elaborate changes are made in the bathrooms to make them habitable for the Americans. One family had three bathrooms and an electric power plant installed in a castle in Normandy. The owner, who was very happy to have these improvements made at no cost to himself, but I know of instances where improvements in the bathrooms have objected to any modernization of their family seats.

A curious incidental point in connection with the renting of an old English country house is that a few in the village church, reserved for centuries for the lord of the manor, may occupy it during their tenancy.

Arriving at the house the family at once makes a delighted inspection of the premises. Madame quickly assigns rooms to the family and guests. The household is at once transplanted.

Next morning the children are already at their studies with the governess in charge. Guests are being invited for dinner and week-ends, and at times for one and two weeks visits. No cards of announcement are ever sent out informing friends that the family is at home, if the foreign residence is at a country place. However, if a country place in London is engaged for the season, at home cards are sent out.

Four Homes In Nine Months.

The riding master, having secured horses at stables with which he is familiar, brings them to the door each morning at a set hour when the family is in the country. If it is a London or Paris town house that the family is occupying, the riding master waits with the horses at a rendezvous in Rotten Row in London, or in the Bois in Paris.

Usually as soon as the family arrives at the country place a tennis professional is called in, who is coached in a famous club.

These advantages also are enjoyed if a suite is occupied at a hotel. It may be a hotel in London, or Biarritz, Cannes, Nice, or the south of France or San Sebastian.

As many as three houses may be occupied abroad during a season, in various countries. I accompanied one family that had a country seat in England for two months, then a house in Paris, a villa on the Mediterranean and another in Florence, all in nine months.

The journeys to Europe usually take place in the summer, but there are trips for the winter sports too, though the Swiss season is at its height for only six weeks.

JAPANESE GIRL SPEAKS.

Union, July 11.—A very delightful time was spent by the W. M. S. of Port Stanley and Union at a picnic on the beautiful lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Rook Bailey. A very unusual treat was afforded in the presence of Kanamori San of Tokio, Japan.

Mrs. Kanamori has just arrived at the Y. W. C. A. camp at Port Bruce. She will take a two years' course at Macdonald hall, Guelph. Miss H. Davidson of the Y. W. C. A. camp motored over with her.

Miss Kanamori spoke in Japanese, expressing her happiness in coming to this country and of the kindness which she had received. Miss Margaret Armstrong, a missionary to Japan, interpreted for her. She also gave an address on the child life and women of Japan. Picnic lunch was served and a pleasant social time spent.

KOMOKA JUNIOR W. I.

Komoka, July 12.—Komoka Junior Women's Institute held its July meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Dig-neil, Komoka. The meeting opened with Miss Mary Shackleton in the chair. A paper on "The Advantages and Disadvantages of Komoka" was given by Miss Mary Swales, and proved to be very interesting. Another paper, "The Komoka Breeze," was also read, and it was equally interesting and humorous. Miss Royal sang a solo, as also did Miss Frankie March.

The plans for camping took up the remainder of the time.

STARVED HEARTS

By MILDRED BARBOUR.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND THE CHARACTERS.

STEPHEN LANE, wealthy, middle-aged, despot, rules with a tyrant hand his young wife into a loveless marriage, and

BARBARA, who sold herself into a loveless marriage, and MADELONE, his beautiful orphaned niece, whose father's marriage he had opposed some twenty years before, and whose guardianship now devolves upon him. He has already broken up her boy-and-girl affair with a girl.

DUANE FARLEY, and turns him to Barbara for sympathy, with the result that, all unknown to Farley, she falls in love with him, and Lane won't budge.

JULIAN BARTON, Madeleine's real love, abroad, with business ruin as a result, leaving her only the sympathy and friendship of ANN ORDWAY, life-long friend, who has really loved Lane since childhood, but has been unnoticed by him because she isn't beautiful.

CHAPTER XIII.

Lonely Hearts.

It was in vain that Barton pleaded and implored.

MADELONE could be as adamant as Stephen Lane himself. Her love was great enough to make her renunciation possible. She recognized the wisdom of Ann's counsel, and she proved herself stronger than her lover.

Through the dignity of her sacrifice, she passed from girlhood into womanhood. The blood of pioneer stock, the heritage from her Lane ancestors, coursed through her veins and made it possible for her to send her man away, just as that same blood had made the Lane women follow their mates across the desolate, wind-swept plains in generations past.

She was lovely in her renunciation. Her eyes were dark with the consciousness of her pain, but her cheeks flamed with the glow of her sacrifice on the altar of her love.

Barton, unable to resist her beauty, crushed her in his arms, vowing that she should not leave him, or hell, could take her from him.

But in the end she won.

Ann, unable to bear the catastrophe, which she herself had precipitated, had crept away to her bed, and there she sat in darkness. How terrible it had been to perform such a duty! And yet she had been less than a duty! And yet she had been less than a duty!

MADELONE came to her finally, feeling her way through the darkness, and dropping down on her knees, hid her face in the folds of Ann's arm.

"Julian, Julian, go!" Ann asked, finally.

She felt the affirmative motion of Madeleine's head, and said to herself, "I can't see him again. I can't go through it again. I'd weaken. And I mustn't weaken. Nothing must prevent him from going after tomorrow."

After a while Ann said:

"It's very late, long past dinner-time. We've all overlooked. Let's have my maid make a tray for us."

"I couldn't eat," protested Madeleine.

"Just some cold meat and a salad and a little wine," Ann suggested.

"You needn't. When I'll drive you home or would you like to spend the night with me?"

"No," Madeleine got to her feet and wiped her eyes with a scrap of handkerchief. "I'd like to stay, but I'm afraid of what Uncle Stephen would do. He might think I had eloped with Julian and take away that offer before he has a chance to say."

"Stephen, Stephen, how is it that I can still care in spite of this?" thought Ann, as the girl's despairing voice caught at her heartstrings.

It was nearly midnight when Ann's electric rolled up the Lane drive and Madeleine alighted.

"Good night, dear child," Ann leaned out and kissed her tenderly.

"You've been so kind. Ann, it seems terrible, of course, but I can never thank you enough for saving me from a terrible fate. Suppose I had married Julian tonight and irrevocably ruined his career!"

"Don't!" Ann put out an imploring hand. "I feel like the wicked fairy of the old storybook. It's a terrible thing to play fate. I shall carry the responsibility of it to my grave."

The library door was ajar and a light shone from into the dim entrance hall, proving that Stephen Lane was at home. Madeleine sought to slip by unnoticed, but he heard her light footsteps and called her home.

He had been awaiting her homecoming for several hours. Not for a moment had he doubted the outcome of his strategy, but he could not resist witnessing the result of his triumph.

"Yes, Uncle Stephen."

There was no trace of tears on the face she raised to him. He eyes met his steadily and without bitterness.

"You have seen Barton?"

"Yes."

"And what decision have you both reached, that you have had time to think things over?"

Her eyes did not falter.

"The decision was taken out of our hands—Julian sails day after tomorrow."

"Ah!" There was satisfaction in the exclamation.

MADELONE'S eyes still held his with that disquieting gaze.

"You have won, Uncle Stephen. And now, may I go? I am very tired."

"Just a moment. I have been talking with Barton this evening. Her nerves are in a bad way. I think she needs a change. She suggested California, and I see no objection to it. I want you to accompany her. You will be ready next week. I'll have my secretary see to your reservation tomorrow. Good-night."

In the upper hallway, another door stood ajar, and as Madeleine passed, Barbara's soft voice called to her.

From the yearning pity in her face and the sympathetic clasp of her hands, Madeleine knew that Barbara had been told of the fate of Julian Barton.

"I have sent him away," Madeleine whispered. "Oh, Barbara! She burst into tears, and the scented lace of Barbara's negligee.

Barbara's arms drew her close, and the dark head bent down against the blonde one.

Two lonely, aching hearts drew together in a common bond.

With Midsummer Brides

MARDLIN-DAVIS.

A very pretty June wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Anglican church, Saintbury, on Wednesday, June 24, at 5:30 o'clock in the evening, in the presence of a large assembly of friends and relatives, when Mildred Kathleen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Osborne, was united in marriage to Mr. Sylvester Mardlin of London township.

Rev. W. J. Connor, rector of the parish, officiating. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Mervyn Eaton, cousin of the bride.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, was attended by Miss Marjorie Mardlin, sister of the groom; the groom's best man was Gordon Davis, brother of the bride. The bride looked charmingly in salmon color silk, crowned with orange blossoms, while her bridesmaid was beautifully gowned in pink silk, crowned with white satin picture hat. Both carried bouquets of carnations. During the signing of the register, Miss Myrtle Hodgins, accompanied by Mr. Parkinson of London, sang "O Perfect Love."

Mr. Roy Mardlin and Mr. Heber Davis acted as ushers.

After the ceremony the wedding guests, numbering about forty, retired to the home of the bride's parents, where they partook of a sumptuous repast. Do All Women Dress To Please the Men?

The question as to whether a woman dresses up to please men or to please other women used to be a very old one, which are two:

1. Because she knows the psychological importance of dress on the occasion.

2. Because, like the beautiful in music and art, attractive apparel appeals to women of refinement. Among the many other reasons why it is a woman's duty to look her best, may be included the pleasure it gives others, the peace of mind it gives herself, and the laudable desire to grace any occasion at which she is present.

Anything so intimately associated with personality as one's dress is distinctly important—worth serious planning and serious purchasing.

In planning—the advertising news is the most helpful and accurate means of arriving at what is authentic and most desirable in fashion and fabric. When price advantages are offered, the advertising announcements chronicle them.

In purchasing—the merchants of London have placed at your disposal stocks of such beauty and variety—even to the smallest accessory—that you can shop with comfort and satisfaction.

Accept the opportunity and invitation which they cordially extend to you today—every day—in their advertising announcements in The London Advertiser.

WOMEN and THE HOME

WOMEN CRYING FOR MANY TIERS

British Court Frocks Heavily Beaded—Clever Pleating Effects.

By AILEEN LAMONT.
Special to The Advertiser.

New York, July 12.—Women have always gotten a certain satisfaction from tears. Perhaps that is why they are now crying for tiers of chiffon. The gowns are built just like a claspboard house, but one does not have to possess an English cottage style of life in order to wear such a frock with satisfaction.

The cape still continues extremely popular on the summer, but as might be expected by a lexicographer, fashion has put a reef in it. The capes now are shorter than earlier in the season, and many are slit in the center so that the cape really consists of two short wings or drapes, one over each shoulder.

Some of the frocks which were worn at court held by the British monarchs Thursday were so thickly encrusted with beads as to disguise the basic material entirely. One gown of periwinkle chiffon velvet was decorated in the back by strand after strand of priceless pearls suspended from the shoulders of the wearer, but from the shoulders of the frock, according to despatches from London.

It is a maxim of every Parisian dressmaker that no frocks must last too long. The latest handling of pleats insures that. On some of the newest skirts the pleats are worked into designs exactly as petals are worked by furriers. The latter attains the effect with knife and thumb, and the former with a pleating iron. If the petals come out they can only be replaced by the most skillful hand.

In order to show their merriment, many girls now are wearing gaudy metal stockings. If they make many promiscuous acquaintances, the night clubs they are likely to have a gunman escort. At recent sporting events the gray shades of dress were nearly as prominently displayed as flesh and white.

Stratford, July 12.—Following away opportunities to score as the result of their usual poor basing and weakened by the absence of Dan McKenzie, their regular catcher, the Leafs fell easy victims to the London Bards here on Saturday afternoon with a score of 10 to 6. The Londoners gained an early lead when they scored three runs and stole three bases in the first inning. Kerslake started on the mound for the locals, but retired after he had been inspected successfully. HAMPSHIRE BLANK AGAINST ACHENBACH

Mace Fields For Third Win of Series in First Game.

Special to The Advertiser.

Hamilton, July 11.—London's start towards the championship of the second series of the Hamilton-Stratford league was a blank in the first game played here to mark the first quarter of games in the half. Winning the first game on Thursday and Friday, the Clippers turned in an even break on Saturday afternoon, winning the first game by coming down behind, and losing the second all the way from the first inning on.

With the score 5 to 1 against them, Hamilton tallied three in their half of the sixth, fourth and fifth innings. In the seventh, which saw Alton reeling, the Clippers scored three more runs, and singles by Duckworth and Basham, with Riley's sacrifice mixed in between, tallied the winning counter in the ninth. Achenbach pitched the locals completely in the seven-inning game, but he was simply invincible. Kerman's homer in the fourth, with Sandquist, who had singled, and two men got singles and two walked, but not one of the six men who tagged first base reached second. Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, July 12.—Chatham won the first game of the series to settle the championship of the Kent County league here Saturday, emerging as victors by a score of 6 to 5. The game was pitched in a close, hard-fought battle, with Chatham making things hot for Sarnia in the last three innings. Timely hitting by the visitors told the story of the victory, though Sarnia's men, who were in the lead for much of the game, were not able to hold it.

WILLYS-OVERLAND HARMERED DOWN

General Railway Signal Gains.
However, Despite Bear Operations.

New York, July 12.—1:30 p.m.—
Forced liquidation and concerted buying reflected in the establishment of both new low and high prices for the movement. Producers and Refiners dropped five points to the lowest point since 1923, and the preferred yielded
7 to 7 1/2, a new minimum since 1921.
Savage Arms went off 2 1/2 points to 3 1/2,
a new low for this year. Chandler, Chrysler and Maxwell B. were also piled freely, but Mack Trucks went up
3 1/2 points and Thunkin Roller Bearings, Woolworth and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois shares also moved up 1 1/2 to 4 points.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, July 12.—Irregularly developed during the morning when selling pressure was directed against Overland preferred, which was hampered down four points and a few other vulnerable issues. This served to restrain pulp activities although General Railway Signal, which had advanced to ten points before noon, United States (East from Pipe) rallied from 14 1/2 to 15 1/2.
General Electric advanced 1/2 point and American Steel 3/4. Strength of Rock Island, which appeared to be a bad speculation, was a result of the unusually large corn crop. The market was hampered by the heaviness of other Western carriers. United Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, preferred and Chicago and Northwestern all falling back a point or so. The New York and Chicago shares continued to hold selling pressure. Call money renewed at four per cent.
